Plans Grow For Visit By Shriver

Classes will be dismissed Thursday at 10 a.m. for an all-school convocation in Lubbock Municipal Auditorium featuring Sargent Shriver, director of the Peace Corps and special assistant to the President, as speaker.

Current plans call for Shriver, perhaps to be accompanied by Congressman George Mahon, to arrive in Lubbock about midnight April 8. The scheduled breakfast for the Peace Corps director has been canceled, according to Royal Ferguson, Student Council president.

WILL VISIT EARLY

Shriver will come to the Tech campus for a short visit before the talk at 10 a.m. at the auditorium. A press conference will follow the convocation.

AT NOON, THE Student Council is sponsoring a luncheon at the Koko Palace for Shriver. Tickets for this are $1.50 each—available from the Council office before 5 p.m. Wednesday.

Shortly after the luncheon, Shriver will leave to return to Washington.

Ferguson said that the dismissal of classes gives every student the opportunity to take advantage of an excellent opportunity. He said that the Student Council viewed the convocation as one of the high points of Council activity for the school year.

'NON-POLITICAL' TALK

Ferguson went on to say, "I feel that this man has much to offer the students—insight into national issues and ideas." He said that the appearance was not political.

SHRIVER HAS BEEN recently named a special assistant to the President to head the Johnson administration's "War on Poverty." In January of this year, he served as a special representative for the President to deliver greetings to Pope Paul VI and the Patriarch of Constantinople and the heads of state of Turkey, Iran, Afghanistan, Nepal and Thailand.

A brother-in-law of the late President Kennedy, Shriver is often mentioned as a vice presidential possibility for the '64 elections.

KA's Relive 'Old South'

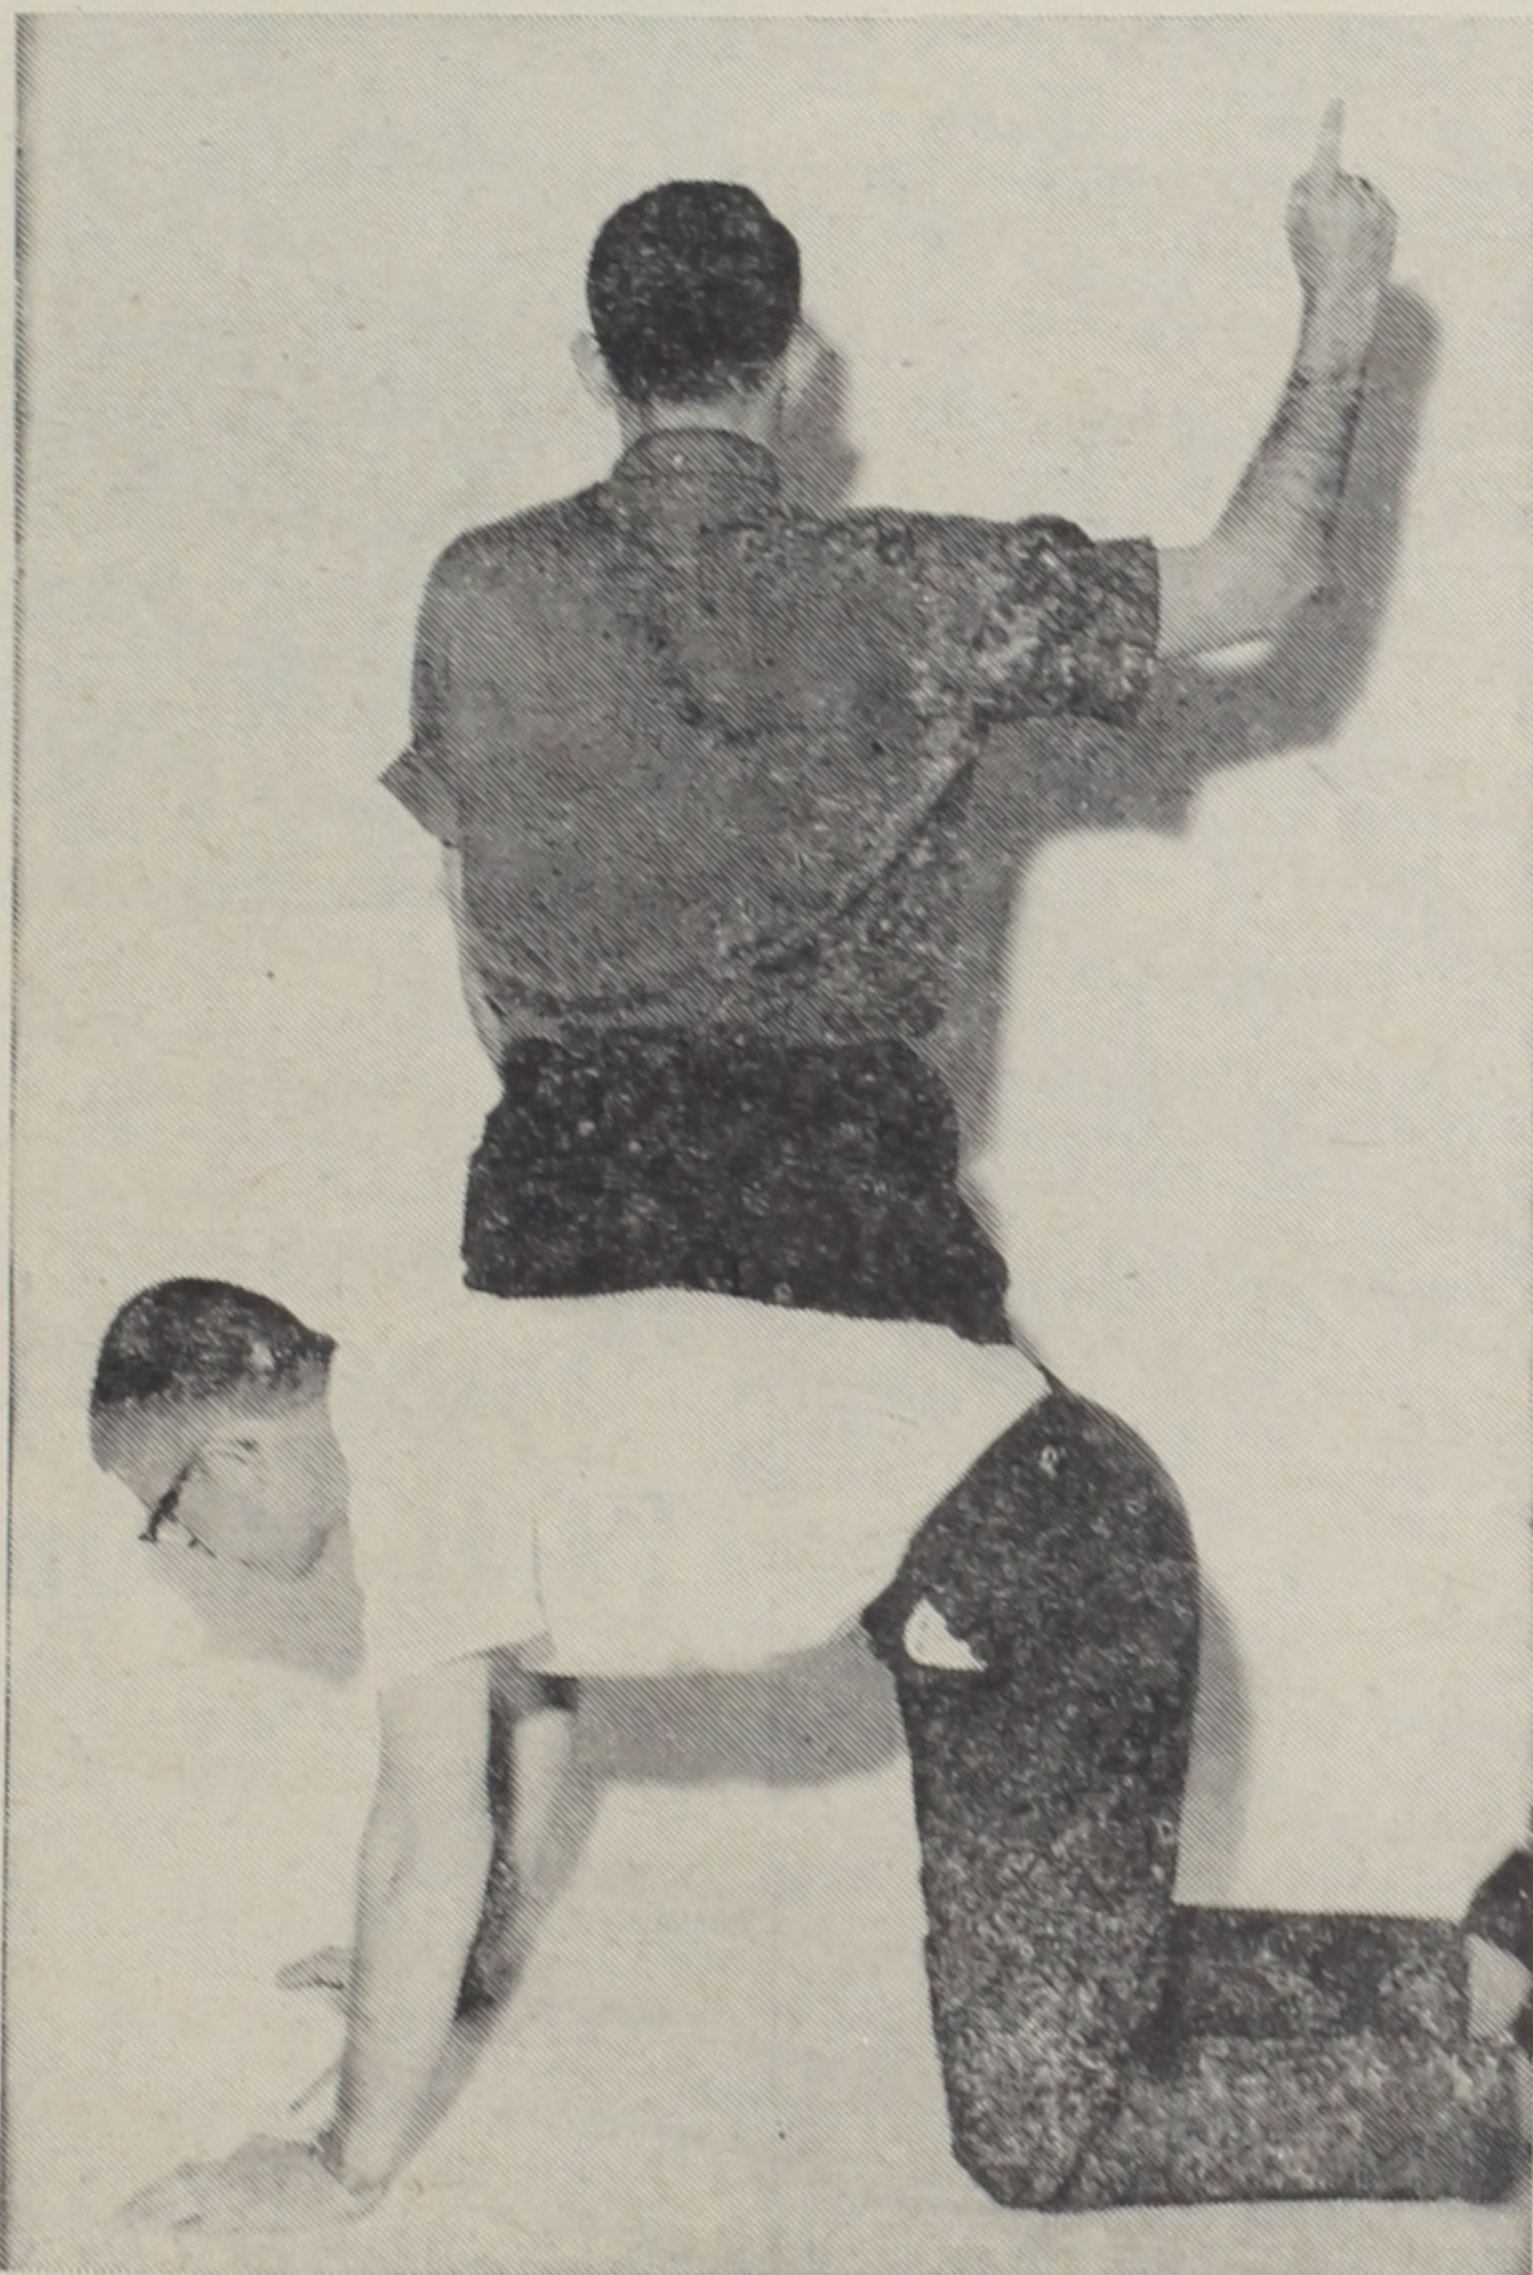

The South will rise again this weekend as Kappa Alpha gets set for its annual Old South weekend.

At noon Friday the Tech group along with other KA chapters over the nation will "secede from the Union." That afternoon invitations for the Saturday night ball will be delivered on horseback by members wearing Rebel uniforms. A parade will travel from the lodge to the girls' dorms.

Friday night members will celebrate at a secession party at the Palm Room.

The Old South weekend will end Saturday night with the Old South Ball at the Hillcrest Country Club at 9 p.m. Girls will wear Southern belle gowns. Actives will come as Southern officers, and pledges, as Southern gentlemen.

Climaxing the evening will be the naming of the Kappa Alpha Rose from six finalists—Lynda Patterson, Ruth Ann Reynolds, Judy Fae Dorsey, Judith Nunn, Donna Lawson and Feralene Suit. The winner will compete for the national title.

LOYAL SUPPORTERS — Although some students may not go so far as this one in supporting their favorite candidates, campaigning for the upcoming election has stirred a great deal of interest in campus politics. The elections are scheduled Friday.

Candidates 'Hit Trail'

By PAM BEST
Toreador Copy Editor

Candidates for Student Council executive positions and cheerleaders hit the campaign trail tonight and Wednesday night in visits to men's and women's dorms.

Presidential candidates Ronnie Botkin and Bill Honey will be allotted five minutes each to present their platform. They will devote five minutes together for an impromptu question and answer session in which they will discuss the various issues of their platforms.

OTHERS TO TALK

Other candidates who will speak tonight and Wednesday are Holly Hunt and Nancy Schoemaker, secretary; Roland Anderson and Garland Weeks, business manager; and Mike Bohn, J. "Jim" Crawford, Cril Payne, Ronnie Siler and "Jick" Walker, cheerleader candidates.

ALSO RUNNING for cheerleader positions are Sandra Cox, Anita Edmiston, Jan Keen, Camella Moore, Betty Newby, Kathy Osthoff, Karen Schroeder and Sondra Stargel.

A rally is planned for Thursday at 7 p.m. Prior to the rally the cheerleaders will set up booths to attract students' attention. These booths may be set up anytime after noon and must close by 6:45 p.m.

During the rally all candidates for executive offices will present speeches to the student body. Cheerleader candidates will be divided into two groups, each group having five minutes to present yells. All candidates for Student Council representatives will be introduced during the rally.

ELECTIONS FRIDAY

Elections will be Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Ballot boxes will be placed in the East Engineering, C&O, Home Ec, Tech Union, Ag and in the East and West foyer of the Ad Bldg.

RUN-OFFS WILL take place the following Wednesday. Only candidates competing for girl cheerleader will be involved in the run-off.

The two candidates for president of the Student Council were contacted by THE DAILY TOREADOR and presented their basic platform ideas.

"There are three areas that I feel are most essential for us to have an effective Student Council," Honey said in expressing his views. "These areas are in communication, evaluation and up-dating of the Student Council and better representation for dorm students and off-campus students. The major part of my campaign will be centered around these ideas," Honey stressed.

Honey feels that the most important single issue of the campaign will be the name change. "I don't see how either candidate can evade the question and avoid taking a definite stand on the issue," he said.

BOTKIN CAMPAIGNS

Ronnie Botkin, the other candidate said that his main objective is in the field of academic change.

'PERSONALLY, THE major objective of my platform is an investigation of the academic program at Texas Tech," Botkin announced. "In conducting this investigation, I hope to offer a solution from the students' point of view in the areas that need strengthening," he added.

In connection with the academic improvement program, Botkin said that he would like to bring in more speakers for the all-school convocation. These speakers will present both sides of major controversial issues in the world, he said.

"The academic improvement program is something that the Student Council has never attempted before," Botkin said.

Astronaut May Star At Show

A major space display—"From Arrowheads to Aerospace" is readying for a seven week run at the West Texas Museum with the strong possibility that one of the nation's top astronauts will appear during the event.

COOP MAY COME

Two of the nation's top space personalities—James Webb, administrator of National Aeronautical and Space Administration and Gordon Cooper, the astronaut who orbited the earth six times — may appear on the campus during the show late this month if schedules can be arranged.

THE SPACE PROGRAM at the museum will be open to the public Sunday. It will feature some of the most modern equipment and displays ever seen under one roof. Government and industry have combined to make it possible.

Already on the scene are several exhibits including "Big Joe" the first Mercury space capsule to pave a sub-orbital path into space and history.

SHOWS BIG JOE

Big Joe, on leave from NASA, will link mechanical arms with electronic marvels including a wide-ranging collection of models, charts, sound equipment and demonstrations.

In the meantime, representatives of four U.S. industries and NASA will be placing last-minute touches on exhibits which will fill the rotunda and one wing of the museum.

Pre-Med Session Slated On Campus

"Adventures in Medicine—The Next 25 Years" is the general theme for the seventh annual Pre-medical Day at Texas Tech Saturday.

Registration will begin at 9 a.m. in the Coronado Ballroom of the Tech Union. The morning program is planned for both high school and college students, and includes Drs. F. C. Pannill of Dallas's Southwestern Medical School, H. A. Goolishian and James H. Granberry, Lubbock dentist.

STUDENTS TO SPEAK

Also scheduled to speak in the morning are two medical students, Wayne Colwell and Joe Ellis Wheeler. They will present informal discussions of their experiences while attending the University of Texas Medical Branch in Galveston.

THE AFTERNOON will be given over entirely to special conferences for college and high school students interested in studying medicine.

Tech's Gamma chapter of Alpha Epsilon Delta, honorary pre-medical society, will be cited by the Pre-Med Society at its annual Awards Dinner on the occasion of the 25th anniversary of its installation at Tech.

As an additional part of the dinner, outstanding pre-medical students from the freshman, sophomore, junior and senior classes will be recognized.

JOINTLY SPONSOR

Alpha Epsilon Delta and the Pre-Med Society jointly sponsor the Premedical Day.

TECH'S PRE-MEDICAL Club was founded in the fall of 1925 by the late Dr. R. A. Studhalter, then head of the biology department. In 1930, Dr. R. C. Goodwin, then head of the chemistry department, became sponsor and remained in this position until the club's affiliation with the national organization of Alpha Epsilon Delta.

The first faculty sponsor of the Gamma chapter of AED was Dr. D. W. Douglass, biology department. Other sponsors have been Dr. M. F. Landwer and Dr. Jesse Q. Dealey, also from the biology department.

The Saturday banquet is open to alumni.

Choir To Give Concert

The Texas Tech Choir under the direction of Gene Kenney will appear in concert in the Tech Union Ballroom at 8 p.m. today.

Proceeds from the concert will help finance a choir trip to the New York World's Fair. The choir has been invited to make two appearances at the Fair on Sunday, May 31, designated as Texas Day.

The 48 voice choir attempts as varied as musical program as possible. The aim of the choir is to acquaint its singers with as much choral literature each year as is possible and feels that its obligation to the public is to allow them to hear some of the great choral literature of our time as well as the past, according to Kenney.

With this goal in mind, the choir will present a varied program of great choral literature in their concert appearance. The program will include selections by the great English composer, William Byrd, the Mass in G by Poulenc, three chansons by Debussy, five songs of nature by Dvorak and American folk songs and spirituals.

Admission will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

Rodeo Queen Contest

Deadline for entries in the 1964 Rodeo Queen Contest is 5 p.m. Thursday.

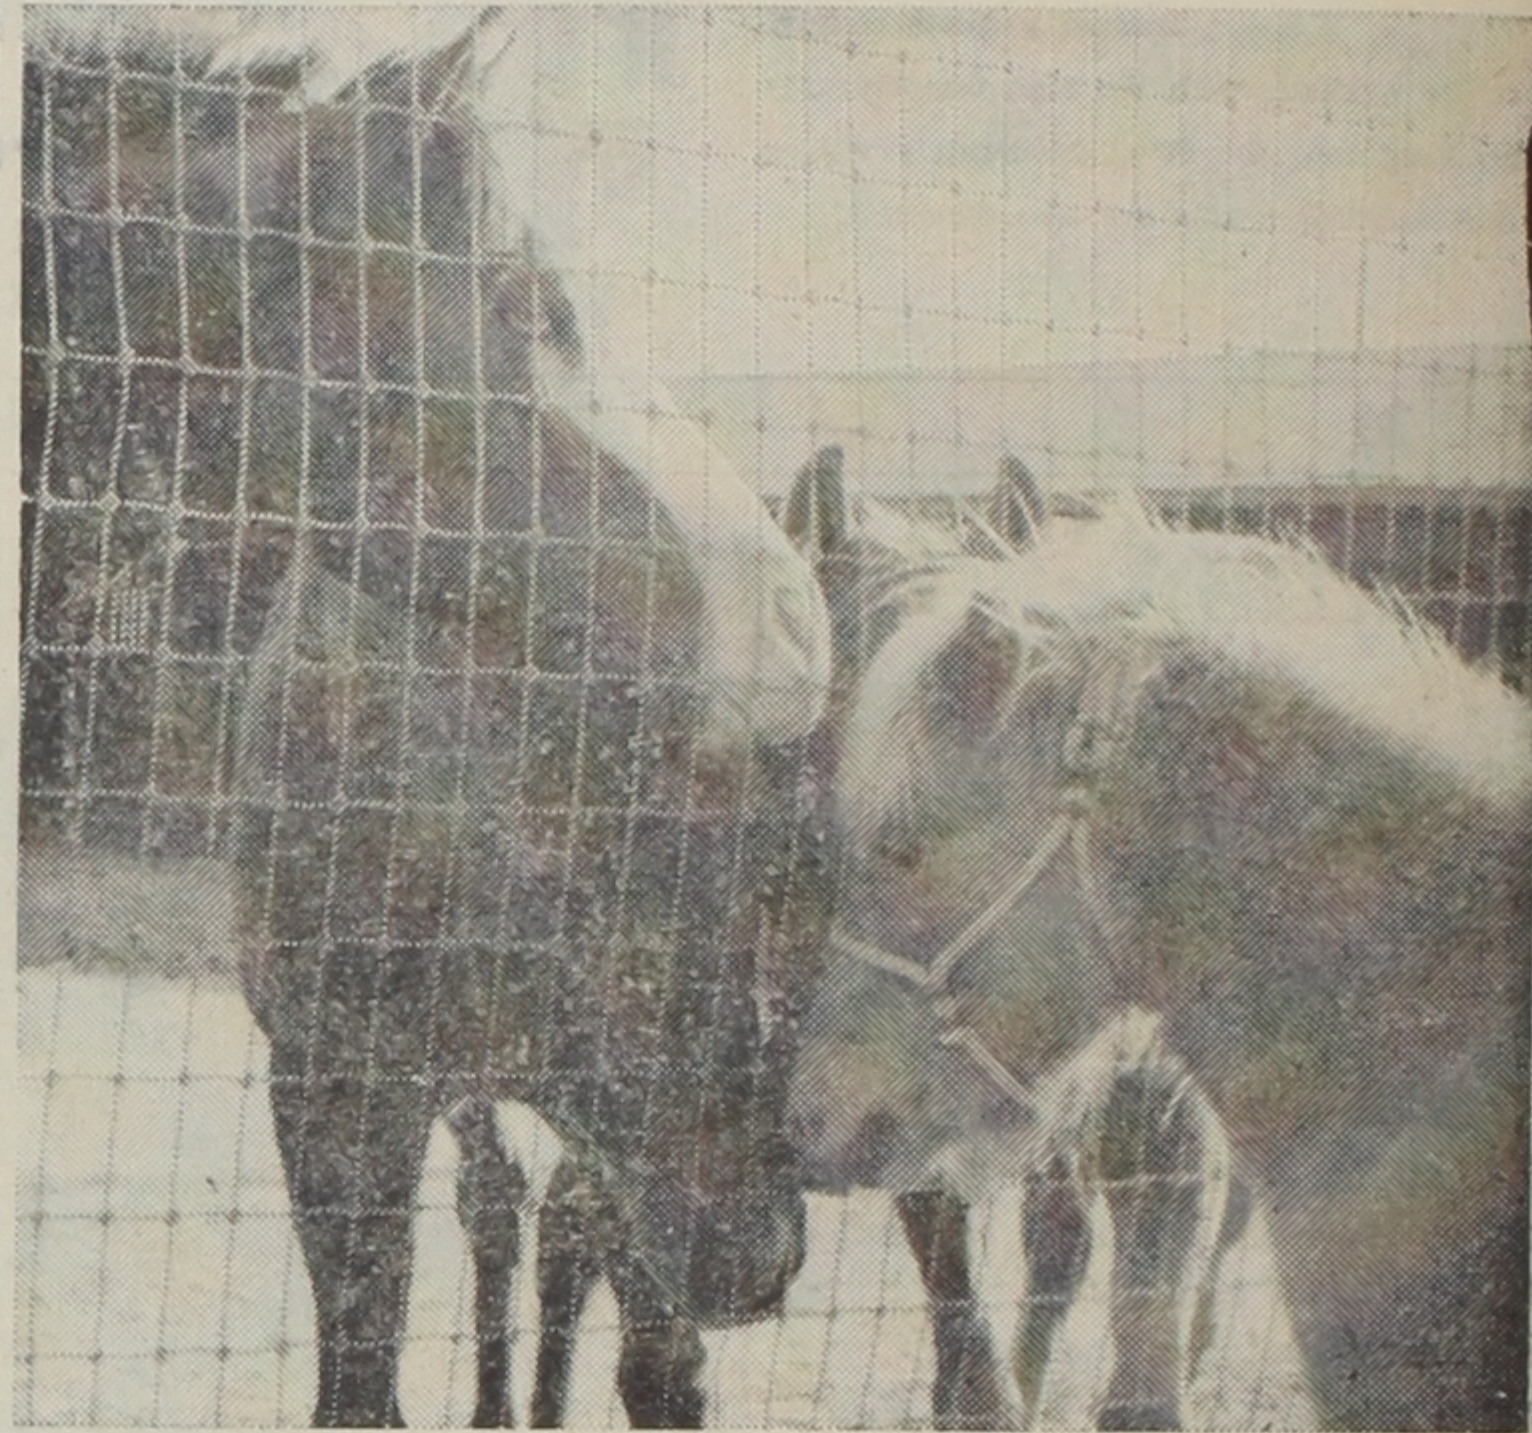

Entries should be sent to Jerry Blocker, queen chairman, at box 4459, Tech Station, or brought to the Tech rodeo office in the southeast corner of the old dairy barn. The entry fee is $3.

There will be two elimination contests, a western wear contest on April 14 and a riding contest on April 16, to narrow the field to five finalists.

Votes will be cast for a penny apiece April 20-25 in the Tech Union for the five finalists.

"We would like to urge all Tech campus organizations to sponsor a Queen contestant for the Tech Rodeo," rodeo chairman Garland Weeks said.

The Queen will ride in the rodeo parade April 30 and will appear in all performances of the rodeo.

Peace Corps Delegate Visits Campus Today

Miss Claudette Sarsfield of the Peace Corps' Office of Public Affairs will be on the Texas Tech campus today to make arrangements for a visit by a Peace Corps team from Washington, D.C., Monday April 13 through April 18.

The team's visit will follow the appearance of Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver here Thursday to speak at an all-college convocation at 10 a.m. in Lubbock Municipal Auditorium.

During their week's stay at Tech the team will supply general information to students and faculty, and also interpret the record number of opportunities for Peace Corps service.

Plans are being made to set up Peace Corps Information Center at a central site on campus to be manned by Peace Corps staff members days and evenings throughout the week.

The Peace Corps team will also administer the non-competitive Placement Tests several times daily during their stay.

Peace Corps applicants must complete questionnaires before taking the test. Questionnaires may be obtained from the Peace Corps liaison officer at Tech, Dr. Sterling H. Fuller, professor of government. Questionnaires are to be presented to the Peace Corps representative at the time the test is given.

Fuller reports that any organization or group wanting to have a Peace Corps representative speak and answer questions may make arrangements by calling him at PO 2-8811, ext. 3129.

Although the special information effort is primarily for college juniors and seniors and graduate students, it is also aimed to provide general information to all interested persons in the community, Fuller said.

The Peace Corps plans to train more than 5,000 volunteers this summer to serve in Africa, Asia and Latin America. Fuller pointed out that a high percentage of Peace Corps volunteers have been coming from Tech and the Lubbock area.

Local Home Is Haven For Girls 'In Trouble'

By CAROLYN MOGRIDGE
Toreador Staff Writer

What happens to a girl "in trouble?"

She may be shuttled through various welfare agencies, sent off to a distant relative, or forced to marry. Most likely, though, she will be placed in a home for unwed mothers.

Such a home is generally thought of as an institution — a combination reform school and hospital. However, there is now a movement toward making the home for unwed mothers less like an institution and more like a home.

A LOCAL EXAMPLE of this movement is the Smithlawn Church of Christ Home, located in a Lubbock residential area. Here the girls live in modern ranch style houses, 12 girls to a house.

Since local girls are often housed at the Smithlawn Home, special care is taken to protect their identity. For her own protection, no girl may answer the house phone, and the girls remain behind closed doors when visitors are in the home.

THE HOUSES are spacious and tastefully furnished and are surrounded by large fenced yards. In each house a small living room at the front serves for entertaining

Tech Receives Summer Grant From Harvard

Harvard University has invited Tech to participate in its cooperative scholarship program during the summer.

Dr. Thomas E. Crooks, director of the Harvard summer school program of Arts and Sciences and Education, has made available one full tuition scholarship or half scholarships for two students. The recipient or recipients of this grant are to be selected by the Tech Scholarship Committee, according to Dr. Ivan L. Little, chairman of the committee.

Application forms may be picked up in the Ad Bldg., room 206. No applications will be considered after May 1.

Since the scholarship is for tuition only (approximately $240), recipients will need money for travel and living expenses. They will be required to take a full load of eight units for credit.

This is the first time Tech has been invited to participate in this program. Each year a small number of selected schools in the South and Southwest are chosen for the program, Dr. Little said.

"Harvard University has extended us a courtesy and a challenge. Adequate student participation may possibly lead to better offers in the future," he added.

guests. (A girl's parents may visit her once a month.) A huge recreation room is furnished with numerous couches and chairs and tables doubling as dining facilities and as a games area.

Four large bedrooms in each house accommodate three girls each. The rooms are carpeted and vary in color schemes and furniture arrangement.

"Experience has proven this three-girl arrangement to be best," said Joe Philips, chairman of the home committee.

"Two girls tend to become sad and discouraged together. Double suicides have even been reported," he continued.

PHILIPS SAID that the home hopes soon to secure the services of a clinical psychologist. David M. Ogilbee, a trained social worker, now works with the home and several other charitable programs.

Planning together is an integral part of the program at the Smithlawn Home, where each week the girls plan a social activity for themselves such as a picnic or a movie.

Daily devotionals take the place of church attendance.

Other activities available to the girls are sewing, crafts and table games. Philips, who lives near the home, often invites them to use his swimming pool.

Philips said that many girls who have come to the home had been thrown out on the streets by their parents, sometimes even in the middle of the night. He said many of these girls had asked permission to return to the home after their pregnancy, having found new friendships and a new way of living there.

Court Acts Wisely In Delaying Redistricting

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This editorial appeared recently in the San Antonio Express.)

Texas gained a reprieve in federal court, delaying until early 1965 the mandatory reconstruction of congressional districts.

The court decision to postpone the effective date of its redistricting order is a victory for Gov. John Connally and Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr, who asked that the court not disrupt the 1964 elections that are already under way.

For many congressional candidates, it will be their final primary and general campaigns in long-established districts whose boundaries are destined to change, due to the steady shift of population from rural to urban areas.

The objective, upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court, is to give Texas voters equal representation. Instead of the widely varying sizes of districts, the new boundaries must be fashioned to serve about 416,000 voters each.

Because the Legislature did not do the job willingly, it will now be forced to act under the threat of having the redistricting done by federal action. It is another example of federal authority having to goad state government into action.

The court decision also eliminates an alternate problem of great magnitude to current candidates for congressional seats. In lieu of redistricting, there were instructions to stage state-wide at-large races for all 23 congressional positions.

Favoring redistricting, but resisting an expensive special session for the purpose, the governor bid for delay until the 1965 legislative term and the court consented, but with a warning to state lawmakers.

The court followed the proper course in ordering redistricting and then in granting time for performing the chore without interruption of the pending elections.

Inflation Plagues U.S.

By KIP GLASSCOCK
Young Republican Columnist

It is sad to see a man who is unable to make enough money to satisfy even his rudimentary needs. It is tragic and repulsive for the rich, through extravagance, to spend themselves into debt and eventual ruin. Today we view this occurrence.

Recent Democrat administrations have accelerated our pace down a road that must inevitably lead to poverty and destruction. Our vehicle is the highest standard of living ever attained. All should deprecate this situation.

Former President Kennedy's 1960 campaign vows included a pledge to solve U.S. balance of payment "crisis." The result: accentuation of the problem.

Our budgets are consistently Red-ink financed. This bungling serves great political advantage. It assuages the masses who vehemently oppose increased taxes; short term advantage is the election of the panderer. It also dooms future generations for SOMEONE MUST REPAY that which is borrowed.

FISCAL DISASTER

The result is fiscal disaster, continued indebtedness, eternal high taxation, and inflation unless additional goods are produced. The typical liberal approach to our dilemma, increased spending and a tax cut, has the typical result; a sickening sweet appeal for the short sighted while one's soul is being mortgaged to greedy failure.

We often view American Embassy's that are stoned, our flag defaced, and various other acts of violence perpetrated against the U.S. We usually counter with a stiff note of protest to the country.

It seems peculiar that we, once the strong, vibrant, young country, are now so weak and obviously short of character. Not since the Eisenhower administration have we shown any real determination, strength or national pride in our dealings overseas.

If we continue to allow Panama, et. al., to coerse our already too weak foreign policy; if we continue to allow in Cuba that which we once vowed would never be tolerated; and if we continue our losing, defensive battle in Viet Nam and any other area of Communist aggression, and eventually withdraw, as we did in Korea, and lose the war; if we continue this blueprint of disaster, all must foresee the eventual internal loss of national character by our citizens and the external loss of respect by citizens and rulers of other countries.

Continuation of the policies of the immediate past and present administrations can guarantee eventual domination of this world by some type of authority far different than our own.

Some of the resentment for the U.S. is generated by envy of the downtrodden for the successful. Much of the resentment is bred by our inept foreign aid policies. The dilemma of our foreign aid grants is that we are forced to either dole out American foreign aid dollars with no strings attached or we attach obligations to its use.

'NO STRINGS' POLICY

The "no strings" policy invites misuse and squandering by the ruler of the "treated" country. Often we find these dollars failing to ever "filter through" to the deprived masses who are far removed from their leaders.

If "strings" are attached we open ourselves for abusive cries of "imperialist" or "colonialist."

We are then damned for attempting to structure the growth and internal development of the country we assist. We lose friends or we squander funds. But alas, it's only $3,400,000,000 each year.

Were I declaring a WAR ON POVERTY I think I should first find some method of successfully allocating $3,400,000,000 that is now failing to serve any constructive purpose. The United States fails to buy friends.

The underdeveloped countries fail to raise their standards of living. The other recipients use their funds to support regional wars. But, what-the-hell, it only $3,400,000,000 and we're rich...

In The Looking Glass

by Gayle Machen Noll

Mores and morality.

This topic is batted around a lot today. And many times the statistics are gathered from college campuses.

How truly representative are newspaper reports of promiscuity among young people? Exaggeration just for sensationalism—or evidence of a moral revolution?

The latest issue of Newsweek magazine probes into the story of "Morals on the Campus." The article deals seriously with today's attitudes of college men and women on sex.

Also, this year's Jan. 4 issue of Time magazine featured a special four-page article on morals in the U.S.

Both these articles remind us that mores, morality and modern living are being analyzed and reanalyzed.

But what about student mores at Texas Tech? What about the problems of sex, cheating, drinking pornography, theft, religious controversy, barbituates?

These controversial topics and how they affect Tech students will be discussed in a 10-part series which will begin Wednesday in THE DAILY TOREADOR.

In the recent Newsweek story, the magazine said, "While the (morals revolution on U.S. campuses) has not yet reached some parts of the intellectual hinterland, many of the nation's oldest, largest and most prominent universities are caught up in a painful struggle over sexual morality. The conflict pits deans against students, parents against children, and boys and girls against their own consciences."

"Despite (some) doubts, chastity remains a virtue for most of today's 4½ million college students; but for a significant—and growing—minority the question has become academic... but... the question of sex on the campus is not just academic. Ultimately, the new morality will have meaning for American society as a whole; today's campus code may be tomorrow's national morality," the magazine added.

"To be sure, the morals revolution on campus did not happen overnight. It has been brewing since Amory Blaine's day at Princeton. But while in the '20's a mother would wonder, 'What should I tell my girl about sex?' today the problem has escalated to, 'Is there anything left to tell her?'"

"Whatever they have not already learned from their peers, today's students can learn from the sex manuals that crowd the racks at almost every college bookstore," Newsweek reported.

But sex is not the only moralistic problem with which Tech and other U.S. college students are confronted. There are many other situations which make us choose what is right or wrong for us as individuals.

Such choices as: Should I try to cheat on that quiz I didn't study for? Can I get by with it? If I do, is it right?

Wonder if Joe would miss that five-spot he left on his desk? Who says that novel is pornography? Seems like a good example of modern writing.

How about a drink, Buddy? Shall I...?

It's Sunday. Church day. But I'm tired. Should I go?

You, as a Tech student must have faced many such problems. You answer such questions every day.

How do your fellow Techs answer these questions? To find out, note the upcoming Toreador series.

It's All In Your Mind, Says 'Captain Newman'

By LANE CROCKETT
Toreador Fine Arts Editor

Psychiatry can be fun if you have the proper attitude, at least according to "Captain Newman, M.D."

This screen adaptation of the best-selling Leo Rosten novel, stars Gregory Peck, Tony Curtis, Angie Dickinson and Bobby Darin.

The film concerns an air force psychiatric ward during WWII. Peck, as the fatherly head of Colfax Mental Ward, gives the usually expected competent performance of a veteran entertainer, neither outstanding nor dull, just straightforward.

The story is unfolded to the audience in sequences of cases concerning mental breakdowns, but to the film's credit, the overall picture is far from depressing.

Of course, there are the distressing cases, such as the one actor Eddie Albert portrays of a mentally disturbed colonel, which eventually ends in suicide.

One wonders, if from time to time it is not just a little out of taste to laugh at broken men, but the feeling is quickly stifled when the men laugh at themselves.

Curtis is wisely cast as a self-styled orderly, Laibowitz, and gets most of the punch lines. Though not a meaty Curtis role, he gives a better performance than some of his past efforts such as "Taras Bulba."

Miss Dickinson, who has recently insured her legs for one million dollars, has ample opportunity to show them off to the audience. Whether she can act or not really doesn't matter as long as she can stand on her own two feet!

Surprise performance comes from actor-singer Bobby Darin. For his performance as Little Jim, Darin has received an academy award nomination for the best actor in a supporting role.

The nomination is a wisely chosen one, as Darin has the opportunity to perform as a near-alcoholic and a disturbed young man in the throes of mental distress. Darin's scene, under the influence of sodium pentathol, is one of the most touching and anguished bits of drama to come out of the Tinseltown in a long while.

The picture shows a side of war, that the American people are not as well acquainted with, as they are with the heroics and battles. This side of war is just as heroic and just as saddening. It gives a certain lift to see these men overcome their illnesses, but also a certain let down when they are cured and once again sent into the holocaust of war.

The film has a distinction of being neither a comedy nor a drama, but rather a pleasing mixture of the two. It's refreshing to see a film that can offer its audience practically anything they could wish.

Farrell Returns Home For Arm Examination

HOUSTON (AP)—Dick Farrell, ace right-handed pitcher for the Houston Colts, has returned to Houston from the Colts' Florida spring training camp for examination and treatment of a sore shoulder.

Farrell, who is scheduled to pitch the Colts' opening home game against Milwaukee April 16, complained Sunday of his arm hurting from his elbow to his shoulder. A few hours later he was aboard a jet enroute to Houston.

Farrell pitched Saturday in an exhibition game against Philadelphia and was bombed for nine runs and seven hits in two innings.

Don Nottebart, another Houston pitcher, was given a clean bill of health and returned to the Colts after undergoing treatment for an ailment similar to Farrell's.

Nottebart could pitch the opening home game assignment if Farrell is not ready.

American League President Joe Cronin predicts Chicago, Baltimore, Minnesota and Detroit will challenge the reign of the Yankees.

the Grandstand Quarterback

By MIKE WALL

As Coach J T King's chargers move into their next to last week of workouts, Frank Broyles Arkansas Razorbacks open their first workouts.

For the first time in five years Broyles will not have the nucleus of a major bowl team returning to help him out. The Hogs will hold only two scrimmages and Broyles has decided to keep all the rest of the practice sessions closed.

Broyles seems to have several problems facing him in addition to that of building a team that will improve on his worst ever won-loss record of 5-5 last year.

Broyles lost one of his most capable assistant coaches in the form of Doug Dickey.

The Arkansas coach will have 23 returning lettermen, but many of these veterans have had only limited one-way experience, and Broyles is doubtful if their experience will be as helpful as at first might seem under the new substitution rule.

If he can manage it, Broyles said that he will return as much as possible to his 1962 three-unit system of play. The team will be divided into a two-way Big Red unit; the defensive Wild Hogs unit similar to Louisiana State's famous Chinese Bandits; and the offensive specialists Tush Hogs.

Broyles says, "We can use help at every position on the team this year. Nothing has been decided." That's about all the encouragement the second semester freshmen need.

EDSEL BUCHANAN

He has been director of intramurals at Tech for the past eight years.

Previously Buchanan was chairman of the National Intramural Association's constitution committee. He has also held various key positions with the Texas Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation and the National College Physical Education Association for Men.

Edsel Buchanan of Lubbock was elected secretary of the National Intramural Association during the organization's 15th annual conference at the University of Denver.

Besides directing the Tech intramural program for men, he is also a professor of health, physical education and recreation. He will serve at the position for one year.

The newly-elected secretary received his bachelor of science and master of arts degrees from the University of Michigan.

Picadors Lose To Odessa

Odessa College ended the Tech Picador five game winning streak yesterday by downing the frosh, 9-6.

The Picadors held a two run lead going into the top of the seventh, but the Odessa batsman got to starting pitcher Eldon Fox for two big runs before he managed to retire the side.

Tech was blanked at the plate in the bottom of the seventh and the game went into extra innings with side-armor Chris Galanos taking over the pitching chores for Fox.

But the Picador batters just couldn't find the range in their half of the inning and it was once again the Odessa team at the plate.

Galanos ran into trouble almost immediately, giving up a single, a home-run and a double before Coach Doug Gibbons replaced him with Danny Davis. The Odessa team managed to rack up one more run in the inning even though Davis didn't give up a hit.

The Raiders appeared to have the game wrapped up going into the big seventh inning. With two outs and a man on first and third, an Odessa player hit a deep fly ball to left field.

Los Angeles Has Pitching, Still Lacks Batting Power

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Editor
VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Don't let their four-game World Series sweep over the New York Yankees fool you. The Los Angeles Dodgers will find it more difficult to win the National League pennant than they did last year.

The team has superb pitching but insignificant punch.

This year the league is tougher. Instead of two or three teams battling them for the pennant, there will be five or six.

"Everyone knows our club is short on power," said Walter Alston, the manager. "But I think we can win again because we've got the pitching. If anything, our pitching is better than it was a year ago and all it did was win for us. Speed and pitching will have to make up for the big punch."

The Dodgers got a break when Frank Howard changed his mind about quitting. Next to Drysdale and Sandy Koufax, and possibly Tommy Davis, Howard is the guy the Dodgers can least afford to lose. He gives them the home run.

THE DODGERS HAVE stood pat, something a championship club is not supposed to do.

Alston explained it this way: "Unless you can make a trade that can help you, there's not much use in making it."

The most impressive looking newcomer is Wes Parker, a first year player, who has captured the fancy of Alston, with his hitting, fielding, running and poise. He plays the outfield and first base.

"I must admit that this kid Parker excites me," said Alston. "I suppose I shouldn't become so optimistic about a youngster, especially one who has had no more than one year in baseball. But up to now he hasn't made a single wrong move."

Alston sees no reason why the Dodgers shouldn't be better. Ron Fairly figures to handle the first base job most of the season but Dick Nen, Parker and Wally Moon can play that position.

JIM GILLIAM probably will open the season at second base. Dick Tracewski and Nate Oliver are other candidates. Ken McMullen will get the first call at third base when he is discharged from the service. In the meantime, rookie Johnny Werhas may open there unless Gilliam is shifted to third. Maury Wills is the shortstop.

Tommy Davis, the left fielder, has led the National League in hitting the last two years. Willie Davis, the center fielder, has the potential, according to Alston, to be a great one. Howard, of course, is the right fielder, with Moon standing in the wings.

John Roseboro, currently ailing, will handle the bulk of the catching. Doug Camilli, will give him a breather now and then.

IT'S THE PITCHING, though, that serves as the Dodgers' beacon light. The big three, Drysdale, Koufax and Johnny Podres, won 58 of the Dodgers' 99 games between them. Ron Perranoski, the superb relief pitcher who appeared in 69 games, won 16 and saved a dozen more.

"Right now, the choice for fourth spot is between Larry Sherry and Bob Miller," Alston said. "Which ever doesn't get it will be the long relief man. Sherry looks like he's over his arm trouble."

"Pete Richert may be the fifth starter. He appears to have improved his curve ball."

Famous Statue Sent To Fair

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — Michelangelo's Pieta sailed Sunday for the New York World's Fair, lashed tight in a steel case on a deck on the liner Cristoforo Colombo.

A round-the-clock guard was posted to watch the art treasure during its voyage to New York, where the Italian passenger vessel is due April 13. The Pieta is outside the Vatican for the first time since Michelangelo sculpted it seven years after Columbus discovered America.

The statue, showing the dead Christ on the lap of His seated mother, is insured for $6 million for the voyage.

Tournament Rained Out

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — A monsoon-like rain flooded the Augusta National course Monday, canceling practice rounds, and the stock of defending champion Jack Nicklaus soared as probable winner of the 28th Masters Golf Tournament.

"Because of his power, Nicklaus has to be a big favorite on this course," said Sam Snead. "If the rain continues and the course is soft, he should make it a run-away."
