

Co-Educational Dorm Proposed

To Official Okay Experiment Subject

By CHARLES RICHARDS
Treador Managing Editor

Texas Tech may have co-educational housing by Nov. 1.

Guy Moore, director of residence halls, last night told a joint meeting of the Men's Residence Council and Women's Residence Council that West Hall may be converted within the next month to a dormitory for both men and women students.

The atmosphere was that of pleasant surprise as both student delegations expressed unanimity for the suggestion. Moore brought the proposition to the students to get an idea of their opinion on the subject, but stressed that so far it is just an idea and still not decided.

The decision is one that will be made by administrative officials, but Lewis N. Jones, dean of men, said the students' feelings in the matter would be heavily considered.

Moore said the co-educational housing was brought up as a possible solution to the dilemma that exists for men students who wished to live in dormitories but can't because there is no more available space.

WEST HALL has a capacity for 313 persons, Moore pointed out, but presently only 193 girls live there. This problem is an unusual one at Tech, but exists this semester, primarily because of the opening of two new women's dormitories.

Under the proposal, West Hall would be co-educational until the end of the fall semester, at which time the women in the dormitory would be moved to other women's dormitories on campus and West turned into an all-men's residence hall. Moore said he felt dropouts, marriages, graduation and other factors would take care of the 193 girls who would be moved.

On the other hand, if dropouts, etc. are not enough to take care of the girls, the "experiment" would probably be carried into the spring semester.

THE EAST half of West Hall would house the men, and the west half, the women. Doors just to the west of the stairs on the second floor and west of the dieticians' apartments on the first floor would be locked when the hall closes, according to Moore.

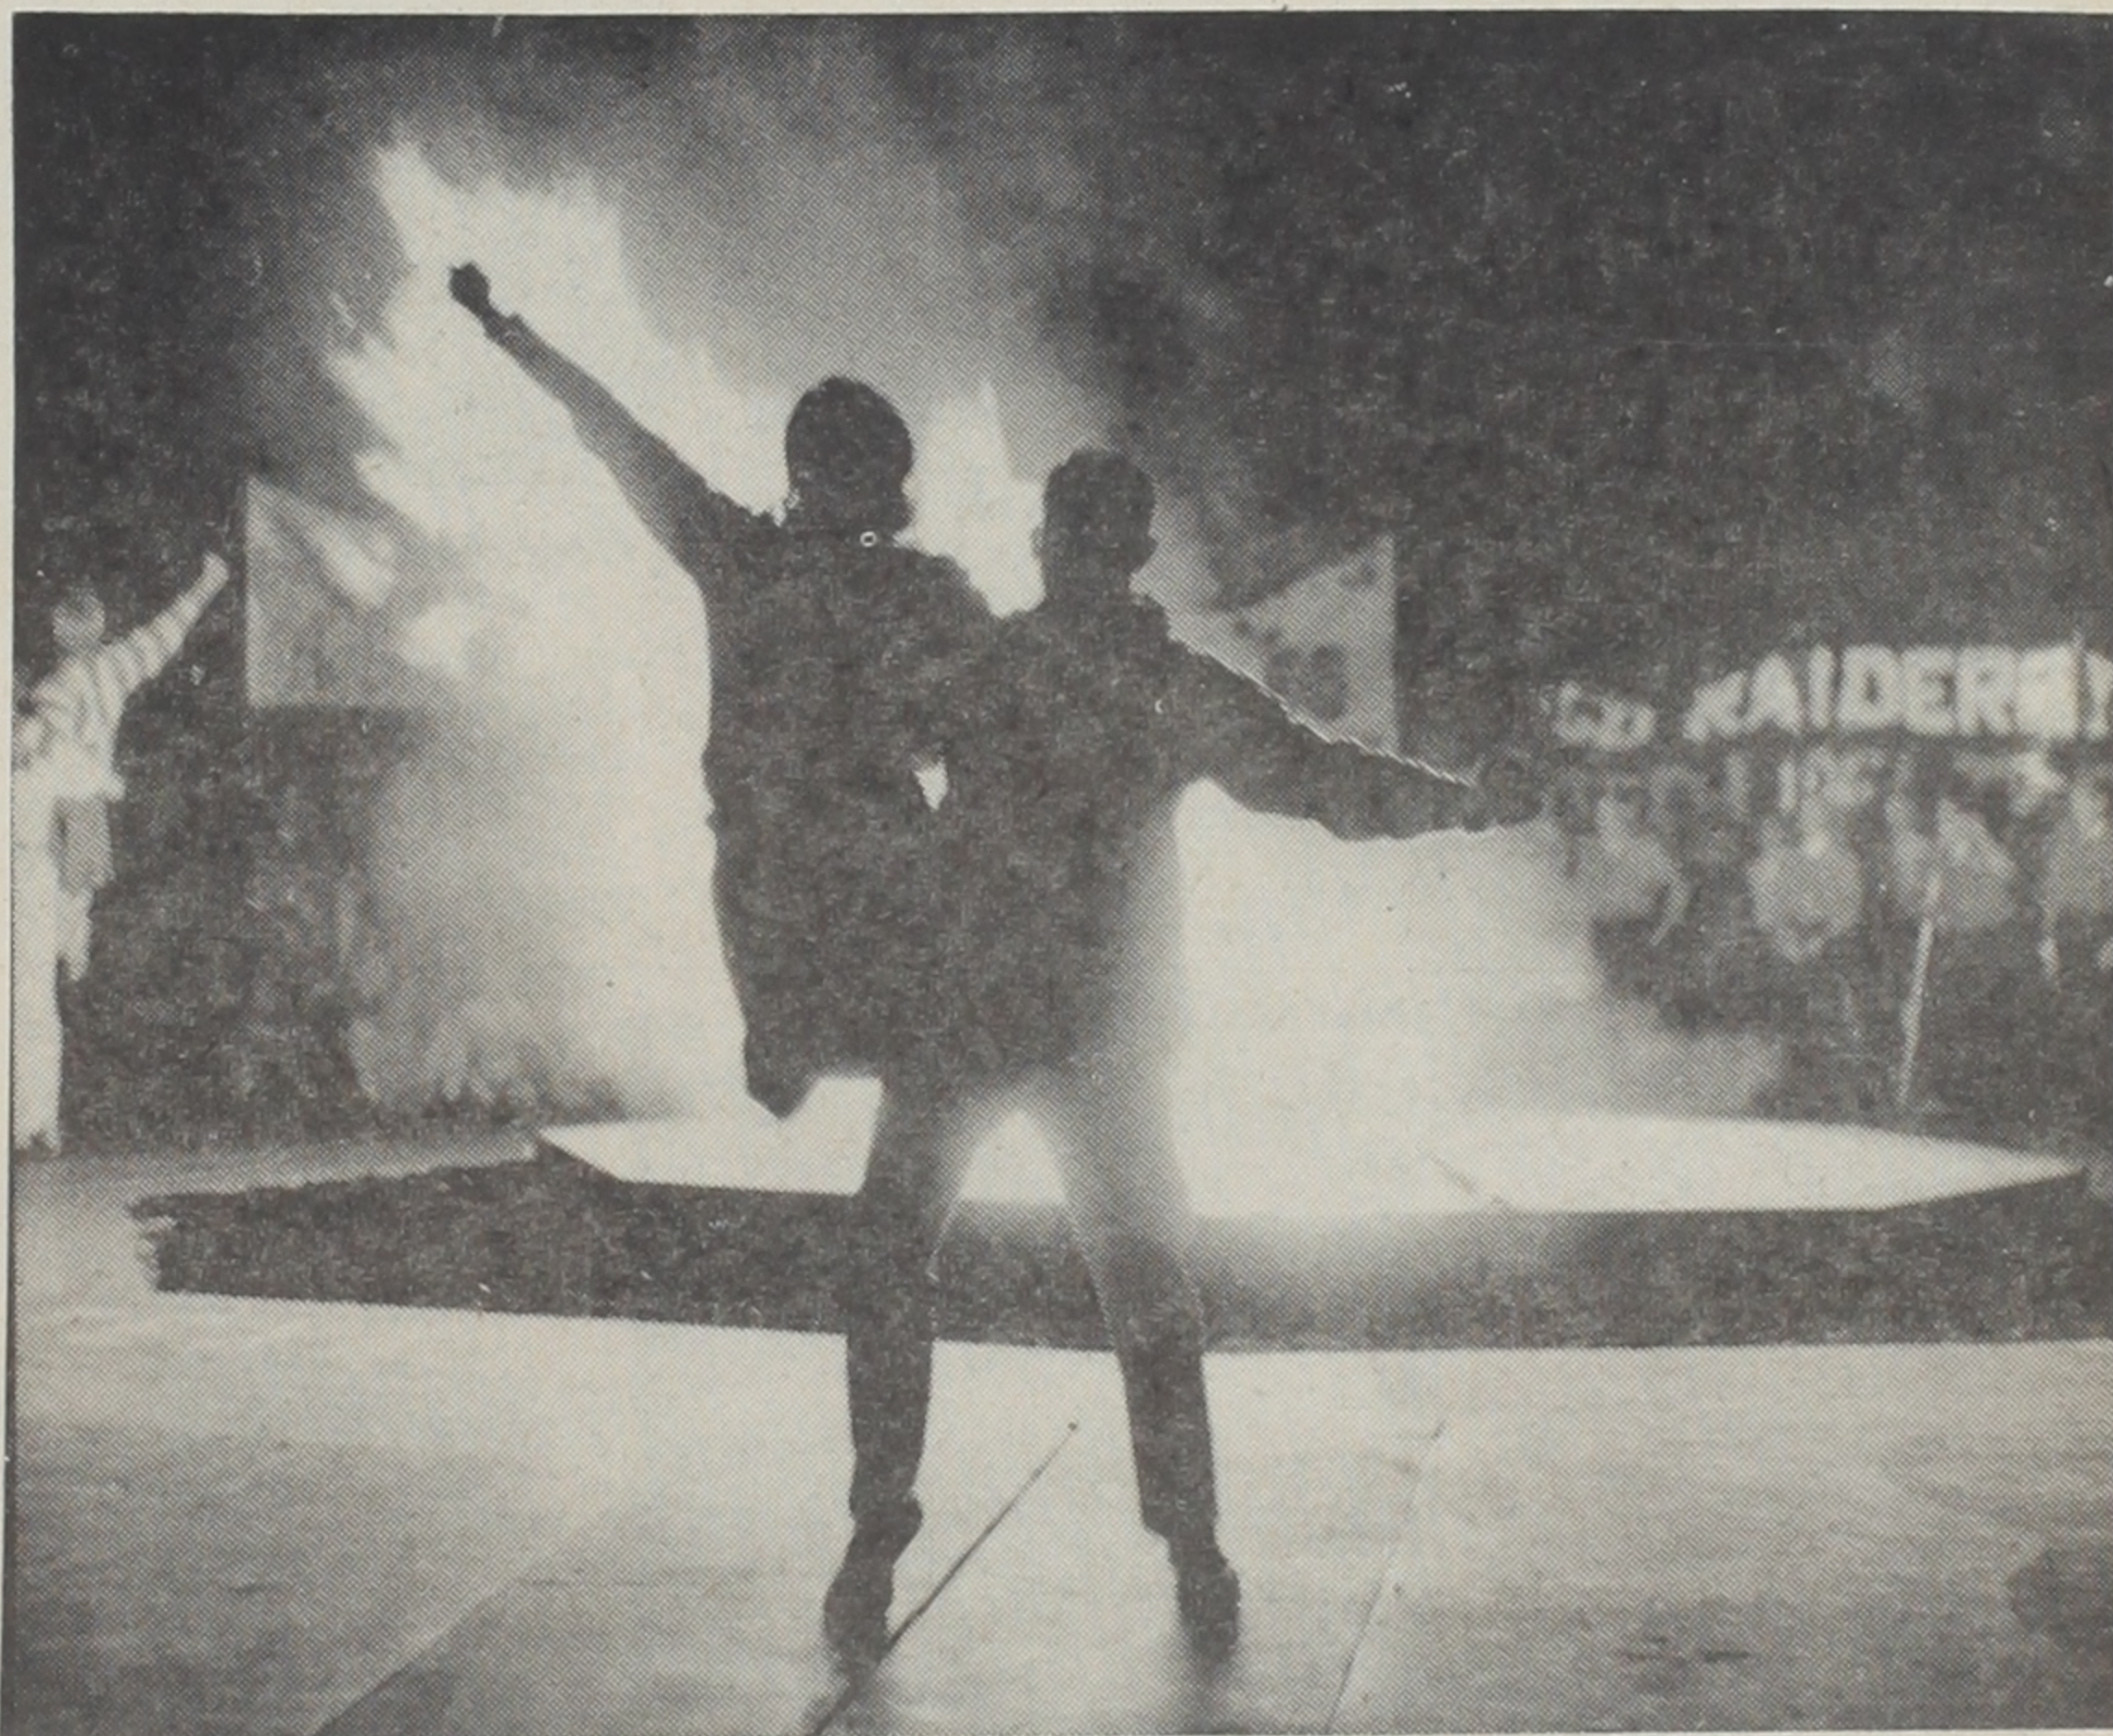

To enable boys to come in and out of the dormitory after hours, another entrance would be built on the west wing, either at the west or north extremity. Boys would be allowed in the lounge only during hours the hall is officially open. A television would be installed somewhere on the west wing for the men's use.

The cafeteria would be for both the men and women—a situation Moore called ideal.

"I THINK young men dress better, eat better and act better when they eat with girls than any other time," Moore said.

Regarding the proposal, Linda Hill, president of the WRC, said it met with the approval of the women, except for possibly a few revisions.

Miss Hill said after the meeting the main suggestions by the women's dormitory representatives were (1) that the second and third-floor doors between the men and women stay locked at all times and (2) that the first-floor door open at 6:30 a. m. and close at 7 p. m.

TECH SPELLOUT — Tech tackles will be honored at tonight's pep rally at the Southwest Conference Circle. The rally, in anticipation for the Tech-TCU football game here Saturday night, will be at 7 p. m. Tech band will play "The Bull Fight Song" in addition to a twirling performance by the twirlers. Coach Berle Huffman will represent the coaching staff as rally speaker. Speaking for the tackles will be Richard Willis.

'Carousel, Colorama' Sets Festival Theme

By JENNIFER JOHNSTON
Treador Staff Writer

"Autumn Carousel and Chrysanthemum Colorama" will be the theme of the 4th annual Fall Horticulture Festival, Saturday and Sunday.

The Festival is sponsored by the Texas Tech Horticulture Club and the department of park administration, horticulture and entomology of the college. Although the event is under the direction of Tech students, anyone interested may enter the competition.

Entries will be received Saturday morning at the entrance of the Plant and Science Bldg. from 8 until 11. Late entries will be accepted for display only. Only one entry per person will be allowed in each class.

Judging will begin at 12:30 p. m. Saturday, and will continue until completed. The exhibit room will be closed until the judging is finished, but will remain open until 10 p. m. Saturday and 8 p. m. Sunday.

Flowers will be judged according to color, size, shape, height, and leaf size, color and gloss. In addition, named varieties in horticulture will be given two additional points over unnamed varieties.

The 12 divisions of the contest are as follows:

- Class 1. Autumn Carousel

—monochromatic arrangement in a Hogarth design. This may be entered by reservation only, and is limited in nationally accredited flower show judges.

- Class 2. Rustling Winds—a horizontal design with the use of driftwood or weathered wood; intermediate class.

- Class 3. Madonna of Autumn—composition of dried materials using a Madonna as an accessory; base permitted.

- Class 4. Falling Leaves—in the Oriental manner, an arrangement in a container on an oriental base.

- Class 5. Music of the Carousel—a composition using a record as a component; mums and other foliage only; novice class.

- Class 6. Ember Skies—the use of bronze flowers on a base; accessories permitted.

- Class 7. Indian Folklore—a dried arrangement using Indian cow as a major material, accessories permitted, intermediate.

- Class 8. Green Days — a mass arrangement of three or more foliage, predominately in green.

- Class 9. Frost and Flame—an arrangement using white and red; base permitted.

- Class 10. Mansion of the Moon—a mass arrangement of white or pale yellow mums with black driftwood.

- Class 11. Bounty and Beauty—an arrangement in the French manner.

- Class 12. Bold as Brass—use of a brass container with chrysanthemums; novice class.

A major feature of the show will be the chrysanthemum trails on display on the west side of Flint St. This exhibit should prove doubly interesting to the people of this area, as Lubbock is one of the country's largest users of chrysanthemums.

Band Wants 200 Twirlers

Attention! all former high school twirlers and majorettes now attending Tech.

The Dad's Day football game between Tech and Baylor Oct. 19, will have a special half-time command presentation featuring 200 twirlers.

Dean Killion, director of Tech bands, needs—wants 200 twirlers.

Girls should leave their names with Mrs. Gracie Wossom in the Band Office of the Music Bldg. this week, if they wish to twirl, at this performance.

Freshmen Compete For Class Offices

Run-offs to fill four major positions on the Freshman Council are today. The run-offs were necessitated by the large turnout in Wednesday's election.

Voting is being conducted by members of the Student Council. Ballot boxes are in the Administration Bldg., the C&O Bldg., Home Economics Bldg., East Engineering Bldg., Agriculture Bldg., and the Student Union.

Competing for freshman class president are Bill Beuck and Mike Jones, and Scott Gilmore and Cheryl Tibbets will meet in the run-off for vice-president.

Jan Barnett, Jane Edwards, and Paula Justiss will be opponents for the secretarial position, and Suzanne Bealle, Georgia Henry, and Gayle Herron will vie for the position of representative to the Assn. of Women Students.

Election Set To Fill Job For AWS

The Assn. of Women Students will elect a new secretary at their next meeting Oct. 23.

Announcement of the election followed the resignation of Mary Gaskin, AWS secretary.

"I didn't want to resign," Miss Gaskin said, "but with the other activities I'm involved in, it would be impossible for me to do as good a job as someone who could devote more time to the office."

The AWS General Council will nominate and elect the new secretary. Any woman belonging to an AWS-represented group and possessing the necessary qualifications is eligible for nomination.

Candidates must have a 2.5 overall and a 2.5 grade-point average for the preceding semester, and must have been enrolled at Tech for at least a semester.

Tom Thomsen wanted challenging work

He found it at Western Electric

T. R. Thomsen, B.S.M.E., University of Nebraska, '58, came to Western Electric for several reasons. Important to him was the fact that our young engineers play vital roles right from the start, working on exciting engineering projects in communications including: electronic switching, thin film circuitry, microwave systems and optical masers.

Western Electric's wide variety of challenging assignments appealed to Tom, as did the idea of advanced study through full-time graduate engineering training, numerous management courses and a company-paid Tuition Refund Plan.

Tom knows, too, that we'll need thousands of experienced engineers for supervisory positions within the next few years. And he's getting the solid experience necessary to qualify. Right now, Tom is developing new and improved inspection and process control techniques to reduce manufacturing costs of telephone switching equipment. Tom is sure that Western Electric is the right place for him. What about you?

If you set the highest standards for yourself, enjoy a challenge, and have the qualifications we're looking for—we want to talk to you! Opportunities for fast-moving careers exist now for electrical, mechanical and industrial engineers, and also for physical science, liberal arts and business majors. For more detailed information, get your copy of the Western Electric Career Opportunities booklet from your Placement Officer. Or write: Western Electric Company, Room 6405, 222 Broadway, New York 38, N. Y. And be sure to arrange for a personal interview when the Bell System recruiting team visits your campus.

Koch Terms Policy Hazy

"A lot of people don't know what Republicanism is—and rightly so. We haven't resolutely stood for anything since Teddy Roosevelt's term," said Charles Koch, past Lubbock County Republican Party chairman.

Koch was speaking to 44 people at the Young Republican noon forum Thursday, on "Historically — What a Republican Stands For."

Koch opened his remarks by pointing out that there were only eight Young Republicans on campus the first time he visited Tech, and now are more than 400. He said that this was "a fine sign of the times." He went on to say that college "campus is where political movements take root and grow."

"If you really want to know what Republicanism is, read Lincoln — not what others said about him, but what he said," Koch added.

He said that the Republican Party, founded in 1854, must steer clear of three groups: extremists, pseudo-humanitarians for complete civil rights and employment and secret organizations. He also said, "Today it's simply federal government versus us."

He compared his view of Republicanism of today with Republicanism of yesterday. "Teddy Roosevelt gave no quarter to any person, race, or nation which even remotely cast a reflection on our country. I pray to God it (this era) is not so far back in history that we may not resurrect it."

"Today we gave food to that person who has sworn to bury us in 1972. I wonder if Mr. K will help us eat after 1972?"

He proposed that "Mr. Eisenhower was intent on building a new party in his own interests, and he failed us. Who, then, can resurrect it for us, — only the people can."

He concluded by quoting Lincoln, "You cannot help men permanently by doing for them what they could and should do for themselves."

Koch, born in New Mexico and graduate of Knox College in Illinois, served as a precinct organizer during the Nixon campaign. He was the county chairman for the GOP in Lubbock during 1961 and 1962. He is presently working in the land and legal department of Pan American Oil Co.

New Women's Dorms Open To Public Sunday

The two new Texas Tech Women's dorms, Nos. 6 and 7, open to visitors from 3-5 p.m. Sunday. Located at 19th and Boston, the dorms, costing $3.4 million, house 808 coeds and incorporate most suggestions for improved facilities recommended by the Women's Residence Council.

Each hall consists of a six-story wing connected to a four-story wing joined by a common lounge, dining hall and kitchen.

The lounge interior includes quarry tile floors, marble columns, patterned stone, walnut paneling and two fountain and pool areas.

At each end of the lounge a balcony is designed as an informal area available to guests, as well as hall residents.

The dining area provides a view into the lounge area and a landscaped view to the south.

According to Carolyn Cates, student president of dorm No. 7, girls will guide visitors through the dorms.

She's Expecting!! Er.. Beauty, That Is

Officials aren't expecting any horsin' around with Tech Beauty this weekend, but the Red Raider mount is expecting — a colt, that is.

In a personal interview with the black mare Thursday, she bashfully revealed to a DAILY TOREADOR reporter that she's in the "family way." The nine-year-old mare, four months along, expects to foal for the fifth time in May.

"The doctors say I'm coming along nicely, even after that ghastly experience last weekend," she blushed, referring to when she was "horsenapped" in hijinks before the Texas Tech-A&M football game Saturday.

The mare, property of the Tech animal husbandry department, was recovered painted and scratched Sunday on a tenant farm near Idalou.

"Idalou's a nice place to visit," she admitted, "but I wouldn't want to live there. I had to stand up all night, you know."

Departments In Arts & Sciences

Just Aren't Technological

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a series of articles in THE DAILY TOREADOR to relate the history of the name-change battle, and with facts prove that our school is a university, but not restricted to being a "technological university.")

Texas Tech has a government department, a history and anthropology department and an English department of which it can be proud.

All three departments were organized when the college was founded in 1923, and all three have grown steadily since then. Doctoral programs have been offered in English and history since 1952, and the department of government offers courses leading to degrees of bachelor of arts and master of arts, and a doctoral program is scheduled to open next year.

A recent intensive study report of Tech by the Southern Assn. stated that Tech's departments of English and history are "especially well developed, are adequately staffed and have clear purposes."

All three are unusually strong in comparison with the same departments in other colleges and universities — technical and non-technical — across the nation.

Government Department

The government department, for example, teaches 3,000 students — 300 of whom are majors — each year. Dr. J. W. Davis, head of the department says Tech has "one of the biggest government departments in the United States," and that the department's number of faculty members has increased from four to 30 since 1938.

Offering such courses as "International Politics," "Jurisprudence," "International Law" and "Far Eastern Governments," the department guides its majors carefully so that they will be well-informed in their field. In addition to specialized courses in the theory and practice of governments, the major must also take several other courses in the liberal arts and in other fields of social studies.

A government major or minor, according to Tech's General Catalog, can be shaped to serve as vocational preparation in any of at least seven different fields.

- ① careers in public administration on the national state or local level
- ② preparation for entry into law school
- ③ training for the foreign service
- ④ the teaching of government or social science
- ⑤ journalistic, radio, or television careers in collecting, evaluating, reporting or commenting upon news of a political nature
- ⑥ research in public affairs for private industrial or commercial firms, labor union, or endowed research institutes
- ⑦ preparation for a political career

History, Anthropology

Tech's history and anthropology department offers equally broad fields of study. A student may major or minor in history in the bachelor of arts degree program and may choose history as a teaching field for certification in the B.A. or B.A. in education programs.

In addition to this, graduate study toward the M.A. and Doctor of Philosophy degrees are offered to students in the Graduate School. The department participates in the Latin American Area Studies Program and offers courses applicable to a major in that field.

Such advanced courses as "The French Revolution and Napoleon," "Seminar in Southwestern History" and "Classical Civilizations: Greece and Rome" are offered in Tech's history department.

"The Archaeology of Mexico," "Peoples and Cultures of Oceania" and "Origins of Social Customs and Institutions" are a few of the courses offered in anthropology.

The history department has 228 majors this year, and boasts 20 faculty members.

English Department

The English department is even larger than the history and government departments, with over 300 students as majors. The department now offers 23 courses for undergraduates, 12 courses for undergraduates and graduates, and 28 courses for graduates only. The curriculum includes freshmen, sophomore, junior and senior honors seminars, a seminar in 19th century American literature and a seminar in 20th century American literature.

English 431H-432H, or the senior honors seminar, includes an oral comprehensive examination and the writing of an honors thesis.

Courses offered by the English department cover all types and ages of literature and are highly specialized on the graduate level.

Not Technological

These three departments are obviously not technological.

Dr. Davis has pointed out that "The concept of a technological university does not contain emphasis on a department of government — this is part of a university concept. Basically, government is part of a liberal arts concept."

He has also said that students from Tech's government department who have gone on to other graduate schools "have at times found it a little difficult to compete for scholarships and fellowships. It's hard for people in other parts of the country to realize that we have a big, strong government department."

The same story is told in the departments of history and English. Graduates from these departments also have had trouble entering graduate schools in other sections of the country.

Spokesmen for the history department have said that Tech's present name has often presented a real problem in the recruitment of new faculty members.

These problems will exist as long as the word "technological" remains in the name of our university.

Such strong and well-developed departments in the field of liberal arts do not belong in the curriculum of a "technological university."

Meet Draws English Profs

Dr. John Guilds, head of the English department, and Mrs. Grace Wellborn, assistant professor of English, are in Denver today and Saturday at a meeting of the Rocky Mountain Modern Language Assn.

Mrs. Wellborn will read a paper "Sources for Hawthorne's Capucin Story" in the American literature session. She gathered material for the paper during a trip to Rome, Italy, last summer where Hawthorne's "The Marble Faun", in which the story appears, is set.

Mrs. Wellborn recently sold another article to The Delphian Quarterly, "King Puck: South Ireland's Only Monarch," for which she also gathered material during a European tour.

Policy Debate Tops GOP, Demo Meet

An informal debate on American foreign policy between members of the Tech Young Democrats and the Young Republicans highlights a meeting of Channing Club at 7:30 p. m. Sunday in the Anniversary Room of the Tech Union.

Keith Strain, Lubbock sophomore, will represent the Republicans, and Michael Read, Amarillo senior, will defend the Democrats' point of view.

The debate will be four five minute speeches by each of the representatives on the following phases of foreign policy: South-east Asia, Central America, Cuba, and Germany.

Questions and discussions from the floor will be permitted between the speeches on each subject and after the speakers have given a final summarization of their positions.

Piggies Outclass Pics, 20-8

By ARTIE SHAW
Toreador Sports Editor

The Arkansas Shoats scored in every way possible as they overpowered Tech's Picadors by a 20-8 count, last night at Lubbock. The Piggies scored on a run, a pass, a field goal, a safety, a two-point conversion and an orthodox

Giant Tackles Square Off

DALLAS (AP) - Tackles seldom are noticed much in a football game and they get all their glory from what the coach tells them each Monday.

But chances are the 75,504 fans who bulge the Cotton Bowl Saturday will see a lot of a couple of guys who play tackle for two of the nation's top teams.

One is Ralph Neely, the 243-pound giant of the Oklahoma line. The other is Scott Appleton, just four pounds lighter, who anchors the Texas line. Oklahoma is ranked first nationally, Texas second.

Neely not only grabs everything that comes in his direction but he operates on a tackle eligible pass play that pays off with points. He has already scored on the play, against Clemson.

Coach Darrell Royal of Texas calls Appleton the finest defensive lineman he ever coached. The big guy also is quite a blocker, and he's serious about football.

He told a game official, who had admitted a mistake, that "we're not playing this game for fun, you know."

The two will be playing opposite each other when Texas and Oklahoma square off at 3 p. m. (EST) Saturday.

point-after kick in downing the punchless Pics.

Halfback Larry Watkins led the Arkansas 11 with 99 yards in 14 carries.

Watkins bulldozed the Shoats to their first touchdown of the game, lugging the football seven times for 44 yards in the initial Arkansas drive. With 9:10 left in the first quarter Watkins scampered over from the 10-yard line, culminating a 59-yard drive.

Pics Push Ahead

The Pics reacted quickly, scoring their only TD of the game with only 11:20 gone in the contest. Danny Ellsworth scampered over from the Shoat five for the score, and a penalty later fullback Doug Young crossed the Arkansas stripe for an 8-7 Pic lead. The big play in the Picador drive was the 17-yard pass from quarterback Guy Griffis to halfback Charles Mitchell.

As the second quarter began, Arkansas' Shoats were on the move once again, before being stopped at the Tech 31. Quarterback Ronnie South tried a field goal from that distance, but it was for naught, as the Pics regained the ball on their own 20. Three plays later, the Tech frosh handed the ball back to the Piggies.

Score On Pass

The running of fullback Mike Jordan and fullback Tommy Sain brought the Arkansas fish their second score, which was culminated by a seven-yard TD toss from quarterback Miles Bramlett to Jordan for the score. Jordan made the two-point conversion from the one and Arkansas went ahead 15-8.

Later in the second quarter, South kicked a 48-yard field goal to send the Shoats into an 18-8 halftime bulge.

The Shoats ran up a powerful 15 first downs in the first half as compared to only eight for the Picadors.

Second Half Defensive

The second half saw a seemingly endless series of punts, as the Pics and Piggies battled defensively for most of the half. A total of nine punts were recorded by the two teams in the second half.

The only scoring came when James Hawthorne and Bill Douglass dropped Griffis in the Tech end zone for an Arkansas safety.

Tech's most serious threat of the second half came when the Steve Herron-guided Pics advanced to the Shoat 20-yard line on the running of fullback Randy Hicks and Herron, and the pass combination of Herron and Walker Nichols. However, that threat ended on the Arkansas 20 with a Pic fumble.

ratfinks, letters and cockleshells

And the anger of the readers grows as the prognostications of this sports editor grow in proportion, and the vehemency in which they are delivered becomes more apparent.

Here is an example of a young man (or lady, whichever the case may be) who was not terribly happy with the predictions I made about the series:

"Shaw, why don't you go out and quietly hang yourself?"

I am wondering only if the fellow who wasted five cents to mail that letter was suggesting I do that or if he was giving me an order because he felt as if he had to order somebody around. Maybe he didn't have the heart to do it in person because he was afraid he would step on my toes. Maybe he is some sort of a sadist and has a definite problem. Whatever it is, mysterious letter writer — you have my deepest regrets that the Dodgers won.

In the cockleshells department, end Jerry Don Balch of the Red Raiders will not be in the lineup Saturday against TCU. Balch, who plays the other end, opposite All-America candidate David Parks, will be out for an undetermined period of time, and certainly out for the TCU contest.

Ironically enough, the big end hurt himself in a one-on-one blocking drill, as the Raiders underwent no actual scrimmage practice Wednesday.

However serious the injury is, it will be a big blow to the Raiders against the Horned Toads. Balch is one of the key men in the firm Texas Tech defensive alignment.

Sophomore Tommy Doyle is expected to replace Balch, bringing to seven the number of sophs in the Tech starting lineup.

they're still talking about it

Meanwhile, the subject of David Parks' diving catch against the Aggies has not died down on the South Plains.

Quarterback Ben Elledge, who threw the aerial said: "You throw 'em to Parks, you always expect him to catch it. Don't give anything to me. When a fella makes a catch like that, you have to give him all the credit."

Coach J T King: "I didn't see how Parks would get that pass, but he just reached out and got it."

A&M Coach Hank Foldberg: "That was a great catch by Parks."

And they'll talk about that one for a long time to come. At least I hope I will.

THIS IS THE THIRD in a series of Toreador Prediction Polls, and involves Artie Shaw, Toreador sports editor; Charlie Richards, Toreador managing editor; and Phil Orman, director of student publications.

As of the first two weeks, the scores are as follows: Shaw, 14-6 (.700); Richards, 13-7 (.650); and Orman, 12-8 (.600). Since there have been no ties, all players have a total of 20 in the won-lost column, with Shaw and Richards tying in the first week on the Tech score and Shaw winning the Tech score in the second game.

JFK Predicts Barry Will Be GOP Candidate

WASHINGTON (AP)—Speaking as an expert on such matters, President Kennedy thinks that Sen. Barry Goldwater can win the 1964 Republican presidential nomination.

Whether the Arizonian does or doesn't, Kennedy told his news conference Wednesday, "We are going to have a hard, close fight in 1964." He added this had been his impression for months.

Kennedy said that on the basis of his own experience in 1959, when he was fighting an uphill battle for the Democratic nomination, he thinks Goldwater can make the grade. Goldwater, of course, says he isn't even running.

"I think it is possible for him to do it," Kennedy said. "But he has a long road to go, recalling the situation in . . . October 1959. I think Sen. Goldwater has a trying seven or eight months ahead which will test his endurance and his perseverance and his agility."

Kennedy rejected an invitation to announce now that he is seeking a second term, a question about which almost no one has any doubt. He said, with a smile, he thinks he can wait longer next year than he did four years ago to announce his intentions.

Kennedy Honors First Astronauts

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Kennedy awarded one of the nation's highest space honors to the seven original astronauts Thursday.

The ceremony of presentation of the Collier Trophy jointly to the seven astronauts took place under bright sunshine in the White House rose garden.

It was the first time all seven astronauts and their wives had been together at the White House since the first astronaut, Alan Shepard, came there to receive an award May 5, 1961.
