

Texas State Vs. Texas Tech

Name Change Views Given At Hearing

By CHARLES RICHARDS
Toreador Managing Editor

An expected conflict between Texas State University and Texas Tech University developed in the public hearing Friday concerning the name change.

The hearing was staged by the Tech Board of Directors to hear different views on the matter, and 13 persons came forth. The hearing began in the President's Office at 1:35 p.m. and ended shortly after 4 p.m. All board members were present except Herbert Allen, newly-appointed member from Houston.

IN ORDER, THOSE coming before the board were Dr. W. B. Gates, representing the Graduate School and TSU; Bronson Havard, THE DAILY TOREADOR, TSU; Dr. Sterling Fuller and Dr. H. A. Spuhler, Faculty Advisory Council, TSU; Royal Furgeson, Student Council, TSU; Bill Collins, ex-students, Texas Tech University; Dr. S. M. Kennedy, ex-student and faculty, TSU.

Also, Elmer Tarbox, former Tech athlete, Texas Tech; G. C. "Mule" Dowell and Jimmy Sexton, Ex-Letterman's Assn., Texas Tech; Wayne Underwood, ex-student and faculty, TSU and TSUAST; and Earl Fuson and Floyd Read, Ex-Students Assn., Texas Tech.

Dr. Gates told the board he felt the school "would gain in the long run on matters of national grants" if the name were changed to Texas State University. He told board members he did not feel the present name helped any aspect of the school but actually harmed several academic areas.

THESE TWO WERE echoed by other advocates of Texas State University, but other points were brought out also.

Havard, giving the TOREADOR's position, said the present name hampered Tech in its competition with other colleges over the state for high school graduates. He said he felt Texas State University would adequately describe the school, and was then asked by board chairman Manuel DeBusk: "Would you say Rice University's teaching specialty would be to teach how to grow rice? Or that Yale teaches its students how to pick locks?"

Dr. Fuller said he felt Tech needed a name which would give it considerable prestige outside of Texas and told the board he felt Texas State was such a name. Dr. Spuhler said, "I'm speaking as an engineer, and you might think it makes no difference to us, but gentlemen, it does. I think you would see a significant difference in grants with Texas State University."

"I'VE BEEN PROUD OF being on this board until now," Wright Armstrong said facetiously, to Fuller in a question-answer period after the talks by Fuller and Spuhler. "I thought we had a great school. To whom do you have to apologize?"

"Texas Tech is not as well known as Cal Tech and M.I.T. (Massachusetts Institute of Technology). If we were and someone smeared us, they would be smearing themselves" by showing their ignorance, member Harold Hinn added.

Fuller answered that he had to apologize and explain the name to his colleagues all over the nation whenever he attended meetings.

FULLER ALSO SAID TECH did not have the same type of program as Cal Tech, M.I.T. or Georgia Tech—chiefly technological in nature—and could not be compared with them on the same plane.

Spuhler summed up his position by saying, "In our circles, one plays the varsity and calls it the varsity. You have a major institution here, and the faculty are quite proud of it. We want to be called the first team."

Furgeson's points were that TSU adequately describes the school and will in no way hinder further development. He brought out results of a recent student body election in which Texas State University received a majority vote.

ALVIN ALLISON, ANOTHER board member, asked Furgeson why the student body had taken one stand several weeks ago and another with the election. He told Furgeson apparently there was not much unity among the student body.

"We submitted that name (Texas State University of Arts, Sciences and Technology) because it would bring the diversified groups together" in a compromise, Furgeson answered. When the board decided on a hearing, he said the Student Council staged a poll to get the students' preferred name.

Bill Collins came before the hearing then to express his opinion as an alumni and voiced his support of Texas Tech University.

"IN MERCHANDISING, YOU change only when things are not working well," Collins said. "When we find merchandise that sells well, we just buy more . . . We don't object to improving a little by tagging on 'university' instead of college."

The chairman of the board then asked Collins if he felt a change in name would increase chance of outside support, stay the same or decrease the support.

"It's entirely possible the name 'university' would help some," Collins said. About TSU, he said "I think we'd lose, and I think we'd be several years getting back where we are now."

Several members of the board applauded when he told them he saw no reason for a name change. "My name is BILL Collins, not William," he said, "but people are always trying to make my name William."

DEAN KENNEDY VIEWED a name change from the aspect that Texas Tech is not very well known outside the state. He said a switch to TSU would probably help this very much. "We're so good we can't afford not to try to be really great," he said.

"We're the only Double T in the nation," Sexton said in his talk. "I think it would be a shame to get rid of it." Sexton said they felt they spoke for "99.9 per cent" of the ex-lettermen when they talked for Texas Tech University.

Dowell said in his travels he'd never had any occasion in which he found persons in other states not familiar with Tech. "They think technological brands us as a pretty fine school," he said.

Underwood, supervisor of Gordon Hall, said he felt even though

Channing Club Hears Talk On Black Muslims

Dr. Donald Fanzo will speak at a meeting of the Channing Club on "The Organization and Activities of the Black Muslims."

Fanzo, teaching assistant in English at Tech, will employ material gathered from interviews in his lecture.

The Muslims profess to be a prophetic religion and predict the downfall of white civilization in America in 1970, according to Le-Roy Cebik, president of the club.

Cebik said that although the Muslims claim to have a connection with classical Islam, they have been silent as to the nature of this connection. He added that the Muslims, although often blamed for extremist activities in areas of racial conflict, generally act only as bystanders and critics.

He described Fanzo's planned lecture as "an objective discussion of the origins and beliefs of the Muslims." He said that Fanzo plans to describe these basic points so that students can achieve a broader understanding of the movement and its objectives.

The meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in the Anniversary Room of the Tech Union and is open to all interested students and faculty members.

Coffee will be served.

Mexican Coeds Visit Tech

"Operation Seniorita" came to Tech Friday as 30 young women from Mexico toured the campus as guests of Texas Tech.

The tour, arranged by Dorothy Garner, assistant dean of women, began when the Lubbock host families brought the girls to the new girls' dorm for a look at the life of a Tech coed.

Next stop on the tour was at the Library where they were welcomed by R. C. Janeway, head librarian. The "Senioritas" then crossed the street to tour Tech Union and meet Student Council officers and the International Relations Committee of Tech Union.

Last stops on campus were at the Home Economics Bldg. and West Texas Museum. At the museum Dr. David Vigness, professor and head of history and anthropology, conducted the tour, placing special emphasis on the Spanish heritage of the South Plains.

"Operation Seniorita" is sponsored as a good will trip by the Lubbock Junior League.

Tech Debaters Attend Meet

Tech debate teams and individual competitors left Thursday for the University of New Mexico speech tournament.

Debaters are Hac Brummett, Lubbock junior; Pat Bailey, Orange sophomore; Sandra Williams, Monahans senior; and Johnette McIlwain, Abilene senior.

Entrants in individual events are Kip Glasscock, Lubbock senior, and Karen Day, Midland junior.

The students were accompanied by James Robbins, speech instructor.

Coeds Listed 'Critical'

A report to the DAILY TOREADOR concerning the condition of Cheryl Terry and Gail Ernestine Scales, Tech coeds injured in a three-car accident over the holidays, confirmed that both are still in critical condition.

Miss Terry had not yet regained consciousness at the time of the report, but physicians attending her say that she has a strong will to live and that she is fighting hard for her life.

Mrs. Kennedy Leaves For Georgetown Home

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy said farewell to the White House domestic staff Friday as she prepared to move out—two weeks, almost to the hour after President John F. Kennedy was slain in Dallas.

The members of the household came in to say goodbye in the long corridor living room of the second-floor family quarters shortly before lunch.

Mrs. Kennedy, dressed in black as she has been for public appearances since the death of her husband, shook hands with the staff.

A spokesman said Mrs. Kennedy would move from the White House with her two children sometime in the afternoon to the house in Georgetown they will occupy. The exact hour of the move was not given.

Name Change...

 exes favored Texas Tech, the majority of ex-students were not well informed enough on the name change to make a good decision.

Board member Harold Hinn then challenged Underwood's claim that students were well informed. Underwood replied that various meetings over campus had been scheduled. In addition, he said students on campus were on hand and close to the situation naturally. Hinn also disagreed that the TOREADOR was an avenue for informing the students, saying "But isn't it true that the TOREADOR is just one person's opinion?"

To that, Underwood said that might be true on the editorial page, but the news carried on other pages gave what he considered an objective account of the facts on both sides of the question.

"I'M FOUR OR five years older than you are," member Charley Matthews said to Underwood, "and I'm going to tell you something I thought of the other day." He told about hearing the name Oklahoma State University and thinking of it immediately as being second to the university. "I don't think we should take a back seat to anyone," he said.

In his talk to the board, Earl Fuson, out-going president of the Ex-Students Assn., said "We are for Texas Tech University or as Mr. DeBusk has stated, Texas Technological University. Two hundred thousand ex-students think their thoughts should be given consideration, and not a small group on campus."

"A CHANGE in name from Texas Tech to Texas State would certainly alienate a great many of the 200,000 former students," incoming Ex-Students Assn. president Floyd Read said. "We are worried about whether some of the exes will be willing to give their money and time if the name of this college were changed."

Read said it would also conflict with another T. S. U.—which he said at one time was called Texas State University for Negroes—Texas Southern University. "Would we become confused with them?"

Traffic Council Has Open House

The Citizen's Traffic Council will sponsor an open house for the Lubbock Police Department and Corporation Court from 2-5 p.m. Dec. 15.

Walt Lindsey, executive secretary of the Traffic Council, said the open house would give citizens "a chance to look at the new city hall and the latest equipment."

Lubbock metermaids will conduct tours and explain how different machines and parts of the police station work.

"We can demonstrate as citizens our appreciation to these devoted public servants by coming to these things and showing our interest," Lindsey said.

REESE RECEIVES FUNDS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate appropriations committee approved Friday a bill financing $1,617,489,000 in military construction.

Included in the bill was a $504,000 allotment to Reese AFB, Lubbock.

It is a $54.5 million increase over the amount approved by the House but $348 million under administration requests.

The Senate committee approved $637,406,000 for family housing, a cut from the $645,171,000 voted by the House.

SKIWEAR was the conversation of this threesome when our photographer visited Jean Neel's Traditional Shop, 1105 College. The Lap-Lander for women, held by Suzan Manning and Sudie Halsey is a striking example of Norwegian design with its fringe border. The all wool pullover comes in ten unusual colors. Slim-fitting pants for men and women may be selected in black or colors and are of rayon-nylon fabric. We are not certain if the mixed expression of Jimmy Gossett hides a desire to be off the job and onto a skislope or he may be thinking that the all nylon parkas and jackets for men are as colorful, good-looking and comfortable fitting as skifashions for women. These Tech students suggest you start your smart path to the skislope with clothes from . . .

A private translation of "The New Testament" ($3.75) is the choice of Peggy Mayhaw and Dorothy Tankersley has used part of the matching gift wraps she purchased to wrap a copy of "Leaves of Gold" ($7.50). On the next visit these coeds may purchase "A Tour of the White House with Mrs. John F. EXCLAIMS Jimmy Martin to Don Roberson: "You mean, I can save more than five bucks on this pair of shoes if I buy today?" Don counters that the savings on slip-on loafers are as great as on wing-tip bluchers. Small wonder that A. C. Sanders, left, cannot get in his sales pitch for the Zero King Channel Coat, exclusive winter suede and Sherpa lining, for warmth without weight. Mike Bohn waits patiently to close his part of the sale, a brushed wool cardigan sweater, and perhaps interest Jimmy in a vested suit or sport coat. Customers may expect such preferred treatment right now for price reductions are in effect throughout the store. These Techsans call the reductions "price persuaders" to prompt holiday gifting to yourself or someone.

WARDS IS ALL AGLOW ABOUT CHRISTMAS...

WARMEST GREETINGS

CAROL BRENT SWEATERS . . . SO MANY STYLES TO CHOOSE HERS FROM, SO EASY TO AFFORD AT WARDS

About that sweater she wants . . . don't think a sweater is a sweater. Come to Wards and find sweaters with such unforgettable designs as fitting butterflies, pretty posies . . . knitted of such angelic stuff as mohair-blends or the new dauntless man-made fibers. (Of course, you'll find classics, too.) And all have Carol Brent labels, exclusive at Wards.
