Being Useful More Important Than Merely Being Good

(Greenville Messenger)

The Messenger is now in its 30th year without a change in editorial direction or business management and we feel safe in saying that no paper in these parts is better understood or that attempts to state its case more clearly to make itself understood than does the Greenville Messenger.

We have never claimed to even approach perfection or to be a worthy example for emulation, nor have we burdened the public with "I told you so" when time proved that the "all wrong" paper was right or whined out a surrender when odds were against us.

As we come up to the celebration of our thirtieth Christmas as editor, publisher and sole owner of this paper, we come with a solicitude for the welfare of the whole people never surpassed at any time during these 30 years. In spite of all errors and blunders we have an increased desire to serve.

Hence, where we have stated our case too bluntly—often true—it has developed no bitterness of spirit, neither are we conscious of having used these columns spitefully to develop or pacify a personal grudge.

Neither have we denied a hearing to those of different opinion. At times we have published such criticisms that were clearly abusive rather than argumentative. Others, no doubt, think just so in the heat of battle.

This prelude we give as a setting for saying that, as we approach the celebration of the birth of the Babe of Bethlehem and attempt to point our readers to the doctrine of Him who said: "Love thy neighbor as thyself" that none may misconstrue the underlying idea that this writer feels that what is needed at the hands, through the heads and hearts of others, is likewise needed of him.

We are told that "the fear of God is the beginning of wisdom" and this we have long accepted in theory but practiced too poorly to lay claims to much wisdom on this score.

Somehow too, we have long felt that the "fear of God" is about the safest way—if not the only way—not to fear men. Our conception of "Godly fear" is fear to do wrong. That not only calls for putting aside fear of man but it is support in by something of a command to meet the issue regardless of the influence or power, when wrong is being inflicted upon human beings.

Webster defines prayer as the "soul's sincere desire" and that prayer, courageously supported, has led men to face death since the doctrine of the Man of Galilee first found root in the hearts of men.

This doctrine of love for humanity develops in the fight for humanity and everyone can learn this simple fact by going forth to serve the cause of human justice and protection.

The boy, who, as a final urge, would risk his own life today to save the life of his own little sister, would tomorrow risk his life to save the other boy's little sister or brother. As a man this is the type who would give their life for their country if need be.

Love for humanity is not a matter of loud shouting or sugary palavering. If that were so many of our office seeking politicians would be caught up in the air just as surely as that God rules on high and that the law of gravitation operates in love attracting.

There are so many sordid things in life and telling a man, face to face, of his sins, with a view to doing him hurt with those who otherwise would be his friend, develops fear. Wrong doing develops fear as naturally as that water seeks its level.

Then again, doing the right, fearing God and not fearing men will not lead you into hero worship on one extreme and uncontrollable or hatred for others in another extreme. Just here is where "wisdom" in the fear of God finds a place.

You who would point to the faults of those who profess to fear God and, maybe, make egregious blunders as compared to what you might or could do. Just hesitate and reflect for a moment while you call to mind the fact that only one perfect Man ever lived upon this earth.

That's why the world recognized the Christ. That's why we celebrate the birth of the Babe of Bethlehem and that's why, after the winter is gone and the trees, shrubs and flowers put on new life, we will celebrate the Resurrection.

If you would get the Christ idea, don't be so foolish as to blur your vision with the faults of others with the blanket of charity you would like to have spread over some of your own faults and then begin to

TRAPPER RODE BEAR TO DEATH IN MAINE WILDS

West Texas cowboys who frequently bulldog or rope deer or pull wildcats out of caves bar-handed have reason to feel a bit discredited at the tale of a trapper's prowess in Maine, John McEachern, the hero of the story, rode a bear two miles and came back with the bruin's skin and twelve pounds of meat ready to be sliced into steaks. It happened in the wilderness near Caulcomogac Lake, near Bangor.

Had the story been told of any other man it might not be believed, but as McEachern once fought a moose with a fence rail and followed a wildcat into a barn where he killed it with a pitchfork, the people up North see nothing surprising in the announcement that he rode the biggest bear ever killed at Caulcomogac and came home unhurt and victorious.

McEachern has a line of traps around the head of the lake, and the other day went out to see what he had caught. He took along his rifle, and not until he was miles from camp did he recall that it was loaded only with duckshot—nine to a shell, which would not more than tickle a bear.

When he came in sight of the first trap he saw a big bear in it. He ran to finish the animal, but another bear, larger than the one in the trap bounded out of the bushes and made straight for him. McEachern let drive with the duckshot. There was a double charge of powder behind it and the old rifle sent McEachern sprawling.

Thereupon the trapper learned just what a charge of duckshot does to a bruin. It brings out the worst side of his nature.

The bear paused momentarily, then furiously renewed its charge.

McEachern then did all he could do. He ran. The bear followed and showed much the greater speed. Then for about ten minutes the man and the bear played tag among the trees, with no advantage on either side until McEachern tripped on a root and fell.

The bear, close up, stumbled on the same root and went half down. McEachern in his excitement lost his footing again as quickly as he had risen and fell across the bear. Before he had time to jump up, the bear was up and away with snarls of rage and surprise. McEachern mechanically held on with both hands gripped firmly into the thick fur of the bear. When the bear tried to turn his head McEachern took a strong hold on the stubby ears to prevent this.

Over ridges and down hollows they went and then they came to a deserted logging road as steep as the roof of a house. Down it the bear headed. It looked like sure death. McEachern thought of his long hunting knife and he fished it out, opening the blade with his teeth. They were now half way down the slope. Raising the knife, McEachern plunged it to the hills in the bear's neck. A fierce snarl, a gushing of blood, and a slight slackening of speed resulted. Another stab and another, and the mad race was over.

Several hours later the trapper stumbled into camp with the bear's skin, and a part of the carcass.

Then he ate two pounds of the bear steak, smoked his pipe and told the story. —Exchange.

Home Economics Club II and III

The Home Economics Club II and III met Tuesday, February 20.

Representatives of Coleman Home Economics, Audrey Campbell, Illa Fay May, Viola Bozeman, and Joe Baker, were present. We also had with us Miss Lula Jo Harvey, who rendered us an interesting reading. Others present were our sponsors, John David Harper and Newman Up-ton.

The president of Coleman Club made a very interesting talk of the proceedings in their club, and invited our sponsors and officers to their next meeting.

A unanimous move was made to join the National Home Economics Association in order to receive pins, which will be awarded to the members having sufficient points.

The officers and sponsors hope to attend the next meeting at Coleman.

CORRECTION

The junior reporter wishes to call to the attention of the readers that the statement that Bess Inez Shield is coming out for basketball was a mistake. Bess Inez is not coming out for basketball but is a very enthusiastic supporter of the event. Also, Ruth Marie Moore's name should be added to the list of those coming out for basketball. Ruth Marie plays forward on the main team.

A stranger to little Richard Dillingham asked: "Sonny, was are you going to be when you grow up?"

Little Richard spoke very solemnly: "When I get through being a preacher for mother and a lawyer for daddy, I am going to be a policeman."

Test runs show that the new engine will give 20 miles per gallon at 45 miles per hour. SAFETY. With the new Ford V-8 you get an all-steel body, safety glass, welded steel-spoke wheels, exceptionally low center of gravity and more braking surface per pound of weight than any other American-made car we know of.

SANTA ANNA LOSES TO VALERA 29-21

Most surprising to the Santa Anna girls team of basketball and the spectators was the final score in the game with Valera at the Coleman armory last Friday night, February 23rd. The Santa Anna team led by a safe margin all through the first half, and when the intermission whistle blew, the score stood 14-10 in its favor. However, staging a sharp comeback during the last few minutes of the second half, Valera managed by several free pitches and a few cleverly thrown goals to conquer Santa Anna 29-21.

The girls are certainly to be complimented upon their clean but hard-fighting play. Too, the captain, Madge Phillips, and coach, Miss Hays, have been very untiring in their efforts to train a worthy team.

The line-up was as follows: Margie Fleming and Ruth Marie Moore, forwards; Louise Thompson and Aletha Beavers, guards; Willie C. Revel, jump center; Madge Phillips, captain and run center; and ZeWilla Box, substitute.

Who's Who in the Junior Class By Junior Reporter

Upon first glance at this demure miss, one involuntarily exclaims—"a writer!" Certainly she does possess the dreamy expression always attributed to composers, and she can write better than the average. However, this is not the ability for which she is best known. She is famed as a declaimer! Besides this, she is industrious and witty; in personal appearance, neat, tall and blond. Who is she?

Dramatic Club Progresses

The Dramatic Club of Santa Anna High School is continuing its work toward future production of plays. Two plays have been ordered, and work is to start as soon as they arrive.

The purpose of this club is to make use of the dramatic talent of the school in furnishing entertainment for the town. Besides encouraging this talent, the club will learn from experience the use of make-up and the management of stage properties.

A large number of young people have entered the club and more are considering such action. It is well to enter now, for as soon as the club has started work, new members will be limited to those who are proved to have talent. An entrance fee will be charged also. Students, if you like dramatic work and plenty of fun, get busy and become a member now!

ORDERLINESS

In Santa Anna High School conditions are found to exist that make teachers remonstrate. "Let's pick up the paper on the floor and straighten our chairs." These conditions are caused by disorderliness.

Why not try to be more orderly, students? It is well worth the effort. In the first place, you will be forming the habit of neatness—a habit which makes for success in future life, more than any other, possibly.

Secondly, disorderliness, such as throwing paper on the floor, making a rocking chair of your seat, is a violation of school spirit. These things detract very much from the appearance of the school. How would you feel, should an inspector visit SAHS sometime when the floor and campus look as though a paper or chair fight has been in progress?

After due consideration of these facts, let's resolve not to throw a single scrap of paper on the floor or disarrange a single chair!

EXAMS ARE OVER

Yes, examinations are finally over, to the joy of some and the despair of others. There were few failures and many, many good grades. Besides, there are two more six week periods that can be used to make up for the slack work of the last one. Best wishes to those who must work harder!

BOYS DEBATE TUESDAY

Tuesday afternoon the boys, Robert Hunter, Russell and Augustus Lightfoot, with Miss Land their director, went to Brownwood for a debate to eliminate one of the boys. Augustus was eliminated, but he will attend the debates as a substitute. Every one hopes success in the future for the team.

There was a very gratifying increase last Sunday in the attendance at Sunday School over the preceding Sunday. Our Sunday School begins now at ten minutes before ten instead of ten o'clock, as formerly. This gives us more time for the lesson study.

Bro. Forrester gave a fine message Sunday night based upon the words of Paul "I have kept the faith." He will be with us again next Sunday night.

On Monday afternoon the aid society had a good attendance and an interesting Bible Study, and a business period in which it was decided the society would foster a remodeling and church improvement campaign during this year. Some money for this purpose has already accumulated. At the close of the meeting Mrs. Clarence Alsop surprised those present by serving delicious cake and hot chocolate. Mrs. Alsop lives eleven miles in the country and never misses a service unless detained by sickness. We would like to admonish the careless ones "Go thou and do likewise."

Whon News

Morning and evening services at the Baptist Church Sunday were conducted by the Life Service Band of Howard Payne.

A basketball game in the Howard Payne Gym at Brownwood last week seemed almost like a Whon game—there were so many old neighbors present. Howard Payne was playing A. C. C., and therefore came out with the small end of the score, but we saw so many old friends that we didn't have time to see the game, anyway.

Joe Cheaney, Yellow Jacket Coach, and Cap Shelton, athletic director, are from Santa Anna and Rockwood, respectively. Bill Marshall, who has preached at Whon a few times, was keeping the door. Bill pretended to be glad to see us, but was hard hearted enough to take our money just like we were total strangers.

W. T. (Trav) Sparkman, Baptist pastor at Whon several years ago was in for the game. Trav is living at Center Point in Mills county, where he teaches school through the week and preaches on Sunday.

Clyde Dean, Rockwood Coach, was at the game. Clyde didn't see us, or at least didn't speak to us. In fact, he seemed so interested in the person he was with that we hadly think he saw very much of the game.

Neewah Turney, Whon's contribution to Howard Payne, was very interested in the success of a certain No. 25 who was filling a forward position on Cheaney's team. Neewah is making good as a basketeer herself, being a member of the Howard Payne girls' squad which is making an unusually good record.

George Hunter is bringing his cattle home after running them for some time on the J. J. McDaniel Ranch near Winchell.

Twinkle McNutt is making plans to take his show steer to the San Angelo show.

M. E. Fry of Brownwood, Brooke Early of Brownwood, and E. H. Gildart of Mississippi were Gill Ranch customers the past week.

Self Culture Club

Guest and Federation day was observed by the Self Culture Club with a social at the home of Mrs. M. A. Edwards on Friday, February 25, to which each member was allowed to invite a friend.

The program committee, Mrs. Blue, Mrs. Etheredge, and Mrs. Thate, had charge of the program and presented Mrs. T. M. Hays, Jr., president of the club, who gave a graphic description of Mark Connally's "The Green Pastures." Mrs. Hays had the privilege recently of seeing this play in Fort Worth and we were indeed glad that it could be re-privileged for those who were not privileged to see it.

Appropriate negro spirituals were sung by the Glee Club Quartet, accompanied by their sponsor, Miss Elsie Lee Harper. Mrs. Barnes delighted us with some of her original poems. Mrs. Roy Rountree of Goldthwaite, first vice president of sixth district, Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, in her charming way, told of "Benefits of Federation." She also introduced some other federation officers from Goldthwaite, Mrs. Lewis Gartin, art chairman, and Mrs. Jacob Saylor, official time keeper, Mrs. Marvin Hodges and Mrs. Harry Allen. President and past president of Art and Civic Club of Goldthwaite. The Santa Anna Club is a pioneer in federation and its members are proud of its record. Liberty Teachers' Entertainment

Last Friday night it seemed as if time had turned backward in its flight and made the grown-ups children again for just one night, as the Liberty teachers entertained the parents of our P. T. A.

There were contests, games and everything for everyone to enjoy. At a late hour delicious fruit punch was served.

Visiting guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ebner Hardy, and Aunt Hardy, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. McGahey, A. L. Jr., and Doris McGahey, Mr. O. B. Yancy and Mr. Larry Sherman. As the guests departed they thanked our teachers who certainly know how to entertain.
