"He Profits Most Who Serves Best"

THE COTTON SAVE THE SOUTH, SAYS TERRELL

Austin, Texas, Aug. 13, 1923.
Farmers, Bankers and Business Men:

The cotton crop of the South is the business barometer of the country very largely the value of the products and the volume of business in all lines. It means prosperity or adversity according to the price received.

The U. S. Government report of the 25th estimates a crop of 3,000,000 bales for the South, a crop of 4,075,000 for Texas. Estimates by the State Department of Agriculture given August 3rd indicate a crop of 3,500,000 bales for the South which will reduce the crop to 11,000,000 bales less than domestic consumption and exports of American cotton.

The cotton has materially deteriorated from drought and insect during the past two weeks, and it is unreasonable to expect that the crop will be as large as estimated, and it may be smaller. The price has advanced nearly $15.00 per bale since the report of the Texas State Department of Agriculture given out August 3rd, a half million bales less than estimated by the government. The statistics of cotton is very and every indication of a 30-cent cotton.

August 1922. I estimated the Texas crop would not exceed 3,000,000 bales and that the crop of the South would not exceed 10,000,000 bales and stated that the price would reach 30 cents, and these estimates were verified by the market. I appealed to the farmers' business interests at that time to market the crop slowly to the benefit of increasing prices, but my appeal fell on deaf ears, and the people of the South lost about $100,000,000 in cotton crop. Conditions are similar now, as the crop is very small, and the consumption is greater than the production.

The Federal Reserve Bank at Austin recently sent out a statement urging to accept notes issued by mortgage on cotton warehouse receipts in order that the local bankers may extend further credit to farmers to market the crop and thereby receive any increase in price. This is a sensible system and should be followed. The banks will finance this in the hands of the farmer, and sell only about one bale per month of the crop, the price will reach

30 cents before the close of the cotton year, unless a financial panic or world war should intervene. Consider the facts before sacrificing the crop. Give the farmer the cost of production and a reasonable profit on his labor and investment, and it will benefit all business and save the South."

BOY HURT

Murrall, small son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Dick, suffered a very painful accident Monday, when a horse he was riding fell with him. When the horse fell the boy fell and rolled in front of the horse, and the horse in some way struck the boy on the head with his foot, inflicting a severe wound. Virgil Fulton was passing near and saw the tragedy when it happened, rescued the boy and rushed him to Dr. Sealy and Lovelady's office where medical aid was rendered before the boy was carried home. At last reports he was resting very nicely and is on the road to recovery.

Sunday school 10 a. m. Preaching 11 a. m. and 8:15 p. m. next Sunday.

Everybody cordially invited to attend all services.

A. M. Pleasant, pastor.

W. E. Hartman, who lives five miles north of town was in Saturday exhibiting a lot of cotton squares and small bolls picked up in his field, and he states an influx of Yellow Jackets sucking Honeydew from the cotton has damaged him for several bales. This is new to the editor. We know Yellow Jackets would sting Oxen and such like back in the little state of Alabama, and cause them run through brush and often spill the driver, but we never knew before they would take to a cotton field in such number as to materially damage the yield. However, in this instance, it is said to be a fact that the Yellow jackets have damaged Mr. Hartman's crop several bales.

The many friends of Brooks Smith of Brownwood will be pleased to note that he has liquidated his outstanding indebtedness sufficient that his bank is now solvent and they have reopened for business. Mr. Smith closed his doors about two years ago, and surrendered to his creditors, and at a meeting of his creditors Mr. Smith himself was elected to continue the business and wind up the affairs as best he could according to his own judgement, and after a two years struggle, he announces that he is ready to re-open for business.

The News will make a sensational and important announcement next week. Several of the merchants are contemplating contracts for regular advertising space for the remainder of the year, and the management of the News hopes to make their advertising so profitable to them they will keep it going throughout the coming year. Watch for our striking and sensational announcements in next week's issue.

Mrs. W. B. Phillips and little son, W. B. Jr., of Glazier, Texas and her sister, Mrs. R. D. Glassey of Higgins, Texas, returned to their homes Monday night after a two weeks visit with their mother, Mrs. W. W. Stephenson of the Longview community.

A delightful swimming party was enjoyed Tuesday afternoon by Emzy Pieratt and family of Lorenza, Curann Pieratt and family, Roger Hunter and family, Ola and Otho Polk and Mae Warren of Lorenza. After a delightful swim water melon was served.

Rev. R. A. Crosby is conducting a meeting at Trickham.

SHOOTING AT WHON

Last Sunday night a call was made by telephone from Whon, stating that a shooting scrape had been indulged in at the tabernacle, just at the close of the night service, which was the closing service of a revival meeting.

Officers or men went to Whon in response to the call, and, if we have been correctly informed made an arrest, but the News has not been able to gather very much reliable data pertaining to the case. It seems that Joe Lovelady was the victim of the shooting and his brother-in-law, a Mr. Hill did the shooting. Mr. Lovelady left and the last reports we have is to the effect that his whereabouts are still unknown. Domestic or family troubles are said to be responsible for confusion. No one seems to know whether Mr. Lovelady was wounded or not.

RURAL AID FROM UNIVERSITY

Austin, Texas, Aug. 11.—An exhibition of material intended to aid teachers in their work with children in rural schools has been collected by Miss Amanda Stoltzfus, lecturer on rural education in the University of Texas Bureau of Extension.

Bulletins on play, material on the study of nature, pictures for the schoolroom, educational publications of all kinds, collections of penny and 5-cent classics, sample of books for children's libraries, toys and games, victrola records, lantern slides, patterns for handwork, agricultural helps and many other kinds of material comprise the collection.

Miss Stoltzfus has been connected with the rural school work of the University Bureau of Extension for several years, and during the entire time has been working on this exhibit.

ARE YOU TRUE TO OUR HOME MERCHANTS?

If our merchants and their sales clerks were not a mighty good-natured bunch of folks, whose rough edges have been worn down by much contact with human nature, they would have reason to get quite grouchy at times. There are some persons who will go, or send, to more or less distant cities and make important purchases of hardware, furniture, etc. Then, when they want some little article in a hurry, and must have it for some pressing need they rush to the home store and demand that it must be supplied to them right away, and sometimes ask that it be charged. They expect their home men to keep stocked up with carloads of goods, yet fail to supply their share of the patronage that would warrant their keeping such a stock. A group of retail stores links up a town with a wonderful system for distributing modern products for home communities. Your home merchant brings to your door the comforts of advanced civilization, where you can examine and see what you want. Are you doing what you should to encourage them? The men who own and conduct the stores of Santa Anna are mostly a loyal force, working to build up this community, helping by paying taxes and providing modern facilities to improve its civic advantages and promote its prosperity. When you deal with them you back up and help them in making Santa Anna a bigger and better town. Think of these things the next time you take your pen in hand to sign a check or P. O. money order to order goods from some place that has no more interest in Santa Anna than they do in Asia, Europe or Africa.

If you do not allow business to fall down you will not have to wait for it to pick up.

If you can't step lively, try running. Standing still never gets you there.

The man who is true to himself is never false to others.

Cecil Verner is enjoying a few days on the Gill ranch this week while taking a vacation.

W. H. Pruitt and family and D. Whitacre and family of Rocko, Texas, were here this week visiting Mrs. Pruitt and Mrs. Whitacre's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jno. L. Dodgen and other relatives.

A delightful hike on the mountain was enjoyed by the following Monday afternoon: Misses Cora Rothermel, Mattie Ella McCreary, Ola Polk, Maurine Pieratt, and Lillie Mae Warren of Lorenza.

Mrs. W. B. Phillips and little son, W. B. Jr., of Glazier, and sister, Miss Jessie Stephenson of the Longview community spent last week with Mrs. Phillips' mother-in-law, Mrs. W. M. Phillips in Brownwood.

Virgil Kelley and family left Thursday for Temple and Bartlett to visit a few days before going to Kirksville, Mo., where Mr. Kelley will enter for the third year in the Osteopathic school.

The editor and family had as their guests Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Smith, son Weldon and little daughter, LaVern of Rising Star. Mr. and Mrs. Smith returned home Sunday leaving the children who remained over to Wednesday.

Tom R. Campbell lost his barn and contents, including a considerable amount of feed, a Ford car and many other things of much value Monday about noon. We have not been informed of the approximate loss, but it amounts to several hundred dollars.

Hon. T. E. Campbell of Nocona, Texas, was here first of the week visiting his son, Tom R. Campbell and family. The elder Mr. Campbell lived here some twenty-five years ago and was editor and publisher of the Santa Anna News, during part of the time he lived here. With Mr. Campbell was his daughter, Mrs. O. M. Allison and family of Nocona and his son, Hiel Campbell and son of Palestine. The party made the trip overland.

Mrs. J. A. Phillips and daughter, Miss Maude, spent last week in Coleman guests of their daughter and sister, Mrs. C. R. McHorse.

Emzy Pieratt and family of Lorenza are visiting relatives and friends here this week.

HOUSES DAMAGED BY WIND STORM AT CROSS PLAINS

Cross Plains, Aug. 20.—A half inch rain accompanied by a small cyclone struck here at 5 o'clock Monday afternoon. The heaviest part of the wind was confined to a narrow strip starting in the north-east of the business district. The entire lumber sheds of the Spencer Lumber company were completely demolished and falling timbers from the demolished sheds were driven through the walls of the B. G. Lindley residence nearby and the roof badly crushed.

Reports state a few other homes were slightly damaged and much timber uprooted in various parts of the town.

The storm appears to have been local, extending but a few miles in any direction. Crops will be greatly benefitted by the rain.

We would rather report a good general rain this week than any other news item we know of, but so far it has been confined to a few local showers.

A TRUTH IN FACT

Any town that does not provide the proper features of entertainment and recreational facilities for its young people and citizens in general, soon wake up to the fact that they are daily and nightly drifting to other nearby towns where such things have been provided.—Merkel Mail.

The truth of that statement cannot be gainsaid and it applies with equal force to homes, where all forms of wholesome amusement should be encouraged. Youth must be served at home, or it will be served elsewhere.—Democrat-Voice.

President Coolidge is another farmer boy who has been elevated to the highest office within the gifts of the people. And, what is more the press of the whole country is a unit in believing that in President Coolidge although he is a New England Republican of the Old Guard variety, the country will have a safe, wise, and capable leader who will so "carry on" that the standing of our country abroad and conditions at home will both show marked improvement. Coolidge is a positive character, one who does not owe his office to any group or faction of his party, but who while a good party man, will be actuated more by what he conceives to be right than by expediency or with a view to furthering his own political fortunes.

If things are not coming your way, turn around and travel in the other direction. You may meet them.

DON'T BLOCK THE ROAD

Since automobile travel is one of the most popular and important diversions of a great majority of people at this time of the year, we feel that one more suggestion along the line of safety for users of the road will not be amiss. We refer to the practice of one autoist stopping along the roadside to visit with a passing motorist or to look at accident, or some other such reason.

Where the road is extra wide, it is not so important a matter where the passing cars stop, but on our paved highways, it takes care to pass one car when it is parked on the highway, let it alone when two are parked almost abreast of each other.

Motorists should bear in mind that although they may want to stop and visit, or pick flowers, or what not, others may want to use the highway for transportation purposes, and care should be taken not to block the road. When a motorist wants to stop and there is already one car parked on the highway in the same vicinity, he should drive ahead a considerable distance so that he will not block the road to general traffic. It takes just a little thought about the rights of others on the highway, and it is believed that a suggestion is sufficient to remedy the evil.

ARE YOU GUILTY?

Some men are worthless parasites, according to general street talk—until they are claimed by the inevitable hand of death, then many will come forth to testify, extolling their virtues and to place flowers upon the grave of the departed one. A strange world indeed this is. While alive one is often reminded of his bad qualities and characteristics, but the worthy traits or attributes are seldom duly appreciated until death, the grim reaper appears, then we have time to think and reflect—it is then that we can see thru the midst of sin and error, and the kindly deed or worthy act looms up before us like a mountain. But why not TRY to see the good in a man while he lives and sojourns with us? And WHY remind a man of his weak points; he knows them better than any one else, and he may be doing his darndest to overcome them. Why not help him along? After a man has gone to his reward, a tear drop shed or a flower plucked, will not be felt or seen by him. Do it now—it might contribute much toward correcting a misguided life and the soul that must spend an eternity some where will not forget.—Cross Plains Review.

Here is something for President Coolidge to look into, if he desires to do the country a signal service. When wheat and corn are ripe and ready for market the price is forced down by the board of trade gamblers in foodstuffs. When the farmer has sold his wheat and his corn, and the gamblers are in control of it, the price goes up again. Some body makes a mint of money out of the fluctuations in price, but it isn't the farmer who raises the wheat and the corn. The profits go into the pockets of the gamblers who manipulate the prices. Mr. Coolidge can do nothing better during his term of office than to launch and conduct a campaign to put an end to gambling in the necessities of life.

Those grasping oil refiners who adopted a "dog in the manger" and voted to close down their refineries for a month rather than reduce the price of gasoline have started something—something they would now like to stop, but apparently can not. The governors of several states have entered the game and are arranging to sell gasoline at greatly reduced prices, securing the gas from independent refineries. The governors would do well to go to even greater lengths. They should establish state-filling stations as permanent institutions, thereby protecting the consumers from gasoline pirates who know only the law of gouge.

The things we don't know often bother us the most. Curiosity is an awful thing to satisfy.

These banks want to see the farmers prosper by getting a reasonable profit on their cotton, and believe the Farm Bureau method is a good one through which to accomplish it.

Did you know that if the cotton crop of Coleman County had been marketed through the Farm Bureau Cotton Association last year it would have brought the producers of this cotton $750,000.00 more than they did receive?

Would this amount deposited in the banks of our county mean anything to our prosperity? Think over Mr. Farmer, Mr. Business Man, Mr. Banker.

When the little accident happens—be as careful as your doctor. He always uses sterile gauze, sterile cotton and sterile bandages.

In case of accident will you be less careful? Strips of old linen or handkerchiefs—nearly always germ laden—will not do.

Great surgeons and great physicians use Bauer & Black products, because they know they are absolutely sterile.

We sell Bauer & Black dressings because we know you too can use them with the assurance of complete safety. Germ life has been made impossible by a double process of sterilization. Each package is marked sterile.

Your home should always be prepared with Bauer & Black adhesive plaster, absorbent cotton, gauze bandages, and picric acid gauze (best for burns). The cost is small. Be prepared for the little accidents and for intelligent first aid until the doctor comes. Be as careful as your doctor.

The News editor does not pose as a prophet, neither do we claim any superior knowledge over other people, but we do have our way of thinking the same as we grant the other fellow, and we believe that a diversified system of farming will prove more satisfactory and profitable than the one or two crop method. A farmer with a well cared for flock of chickens and turkeys and two or three good milk cows on the farm is in much better position to withstand a drouth and an attack of leaf worms, hail, wind-storms and such like than the fellow without such things on the farm.

Sometimes we hear people complain bitterly over conditions that prevail in this country. But complaining is all that a majority of them ever do. Conditions are just what we make them, or allow them to be made. Complaining does no good, because no attention is paid to it. Action would do good, because action produces results. People who are unwilling to act should not complain.
