NAVAL BOARD INVESTIGATES BALLOON TRIP

Will Hold Public Hearings on All Happenings During Trip.

By Associated Press.
ROCKAWAY, N. Y., Jan. 17.—The naval board of inquiry appointed by Secretary of the Navy Daniels met here today to begin an investigation into the balloon flight of Lieutenants Kloor, Farrell and Hinton, which took them for months on a hazardous trip into Canada. Rear Admiral George Washington Kline will be the presiding officer.

In the anticipation of large crowds, as the result of the announcement that the hearing will be public, officers of the Rockaway Point naval air station filled the assembly room with extra seats. It is thought probably that the difficulty between Farrell and Hinton that arose after they reached the railroad at Mattice will be investigated. Farrell accused Hinton of being "a rat," inasmuch as a letter written by Hinton to Mrs. Hinton stated that Farrell had become unamused during the time that they were lost and wanted to be killed and eaten by the writer. This letter was published after the occupants of the lost balloon had pledged each other that they would request that none of their letters be given to the press.

On arrival at the railroad the lost balloonists secured newspapers and the letter was read by Farrell. Farrell held that it was a direct reflection on his honor and courage.

The differences were composed by the intervention of Lieutenant Kloor, and the party traveled amicably from Mattice to New York.

WOMAN IS CASHIER OF DENISON NATIONAL BANK

By Associated Press.
DENISON, Texas, Jan. 17.—For the first time in the history of Denison, there is a woman bank official here. Miss Margaret E. Kelly was elected cashier of the National Bank of Denison at its recent election of directors and officers. Miss Kelly has been an employee of the bank for twenty-five years. She began her career as a stenographer when the bank was a struggling little frontier institution in a small frame building. Her affability and application advanced her. Her knowledge of banking affairs grew with the institution and Miss Kelly now is regarded as one of the most capable bankers in North Texas.

International News Service.
DETROIT, Jan. 17.—A line of about 2,000 Ford Motor company employees stood in line for hours today to receive the first of the bonus money, which totals close to $8,000,000. Officials state the bonus will average $125 per man. Only 2,000 employees will receive their bonus today.

Approximately $250,000 in cash was carried to the Ford offices today by a special detail of private policemen.

COUNTING VOTES

AUSTIN, Jan. 17.—To find out how many votes the new governor of Texas and his lieutenant governor secured in the last election is the task of a joint commission of the senate and house today. Little other business is being transacted.

'Swarm' of Lobbyists Threatens to Overwhelm Congress, Senator Kenyon Says; Many Ex-Congressmen

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Bills to define and punish lobbying were introduced in the senate today by Senators Kenyon of Iowa, Republican, and Overman of North Carolina, Democrat. The Kenyon bill would require all persons seeking to influence legislation in Washington to register with the clerk of both the House and Senate and to state the purpose and nature of his or her activities in support or against any particular measures. Failure to comply with the provision of the bill would be punished by fines varying from $500 to $5,000.

The bill followed a speech made on the floor of the senate Jan. 11 by the senator, in which he declared that: "Washington is swarming with lobbyists of every kind and description." Senator Kenyon said the lumber, oil and other big interests are represented. Even a "social lobby" is maintained, he said.

Complaint is made by Senator Kenyon of the habit now becoming general of former members of Congress, upon retiring from their duties at the capitol, to remain here and practice their lobbying profession as a cloak for lobbying. "The general practice of law in Washington," said Mr. Kenyon, "is becoming synonymous with general lobbying."

"LOST" BALLOONISTS IN CANADA.

This is the first photograph to reach the United States showing the American balloonists after their rescue from death in the Canadian wilderness near James Bay, Ont. The photograph shows them standing at the entrance to the Hudson Bay company's headquarters at Moose Factory, where they were brought by Tom Marks, an Indian trapper and one of the company's guides. This photograph was brought to civilization by S. A. Bradbury, a clerk at the post, who also brought back the first authentic story of the rescue of the lost aeronauts. From left to right the men in the picture are J. L. Gadulet, the company's agent; Lieutenant L. A. Kloor, commander of the balloon; Lieutenant Walter Hinton and Lieutenant Stephen A. Farrell. It was Lieutenant Farrell who is reported to have collapsed and to have tried to kill himself so that his inability to travel might not hold back the others.

NO ORDERS TO LOCK P. O. LOBBY DURING NIGHT

Authorities Here Do Not Fear Bandit Raids; Are Prepared, They Say.
"We have three men on duty here each night, well armed and with instructions to shoot and then ask questions concerning any suspicious actions of anyone," Assistant Postmaster Gray declared this morning. The statement was in answer to a question as to whether the local office would close its lobby at night as a preventive measure against robbery, as is being done in some towns. Gray declared the lobby would not be closed unless so ordered by the postoffice department at Washington.

Gray said that two clerks and the junior stay in the office all night, and one clerk is on duty most of the time, who is cool-headed in an emergency and he was of the opinion that an attempt to rob the Ranger office would be apt to end disastrously for the robbers. However, he doubted that such an attempt would ever be made.

Those offices over the state that have been ordered to close at 7 o'clock, Mr. Gray said, are housed in federal buildings and are under the control of the treasury department and for that reason he did not think the order would be extended to Ranger, which is directed by the postoffice department.

Postoffice lobbies in several Texas towns have been locked nightly since the Friday night raid at Dallas.

Senator Kenyon charged that concerns in the development of Muscle Shoals have been maintaining an extensive lobby in Washington for many years.

"I do not know where this lobbying business is going to stop," he said. "There are proper kinds of lobbies. Nobody wants Congress to be shut off here on the hill and have the people unable to get to the capitol, but it is reaching a point nowadays when Washington is swarming with lobbies of every kind and description—some good lobbies and some bad lobbies. You cannot go to your office, you cannot get through the corridors anywhere, without having some of these lobbyists talking to you about bills in Congress."

"I am not particularly objecting to that, if it is known just exactly what these lobbyists are, and who they represent. There has been testimony before committees of social lobbies in the city of Washington, of gentlemen receiving funds from great interests to use in social lobbying. You can pick up the papers every day and read of dinners and dances and balls given by the lord knows whom—a favorite form of lobbying in this city of Washington."

Senator Kenyon said that the Muscle Shoals scandal furnished the text for Senator Kenyon's outburst against the "swarm" of lobbyists. He said the concerns interested in the Muscle Shoals enterprise have maintained lobbies here for years. He began by re-

"MASTER MIND" OF DALLAS P. O. RAID GIVES UP

Albert Rowan Surrenders when He Hears Police Believe Him Implicated.
By Associated Press.
DALLAS, Jan. 17.—Charges of robbery were filed here today against Albert Rowan, alleged "master mind" who federal officers allege planned the postoffice holdup here Friday. Rowan with his attorneys called at the police station this morning and said that he had heard that the police wanted him and he was anxious to give up. He denied, however, that he was implicated in the postoffice robbery.

Rowan is about 35 years old and is the son of a well known wealthy business man.

International News Service.
DALLAS, Jan. 17.—The son of a prominent Dallas millionaire was the "master mind" of the sensational robbery here late Friday of the Jackson street postoffice substation, police said today. Arrest of the master mind and his three accomplices who escaped is expected hour by hour. Their identities are known to the authorities.

With W. S. Scrivner, admittedly one of the bandits, in jail here, and Rufus J. Clemmons, another accomplice, dead at Fort Worth, search for the others is being made in several Texas cities.

The last recovered Saturday when Scrivner led officers to a grain five miles west of Fort Worth where the mail bags had been thrown just before the car was overturned, amounted to $2,007,000 in mutilated currency and $4,000 in gold currency, leaving but $1,300 unaccounted for.

LACKLAND BROS. FAVOR PET AND POULTRY SHOW

Suggest That Fanciers Form "Poultry and Pet Stock Association."
"A poultry and pet stock association" to be organized is a possibility contained in a suggestion made by Col. Rufus J. Lackland of Lackland Bros., chicken and dog fanciers. The suggestion follows the printing of a story by the Times that a poultry and dog show held some time in the spring would arouse much interest among folks, especially regarding the stocking of fine chickens. Mr. Lackland endorses the move in a letter which reads:

"Editor Ranger Daily Times: We note with interest what you say in regard to a poultry and pet stock show in Ranger and as Ranger is the Mecca for everything else, we see no reason why there should not be one of the most interesting poultry and pet stock shows ever held here this spring of any place pulled off by a business of this kind over the state. We seriously contemplated going to Fort Worth, but after investigation and due consideration of the many advantages of Ranger, finding out the great interest manifested in poultry and pet stock in and around Ranger, we decided that this was the best location in the state.

"Now we make the following motion or suggestion, that we hear from others who are interested along this line and call a meeting of all lovers of poultry and pet stock in and around Ranger, both ladies and gentlemen, and proceed to form a poultry and pet stock association, and take such steps or actions as are necessary to pull off a show in Ranger in the early part of March, of two days' duration and in that manner get together, and we feel sure that next winter we can pull off a show second to none in the state.

"We know from personal examination that there are domiciled in and around Ranger some of the best chickens, some of the best Airdale dogs, some of the best Toy Boston and bull dogs as well as some of the best Persian and Angora cats to be found in the entire state.

"We would like for every man and woman in and around Ranger who is interested in this matter to drop your valuable paper a few lines in regard to the foregoing and do not wait for the other fellow but speak right up.

"We want to say again, we are glad to note the keen interest of the Times has taken in all matters of promoting the best interests of Ranger, the best town in Texas today.

"By Rufus J. Lackland."

VOTERS ASKED TO TURN OUT FOR BOND ELECTION

Lack of Interest Would Hamper City School System, Educators Say.
Next Saturday the question of a complete school system for Ranger will be put up to the people.

Only one thing is lacking—a new high school building with ample space in which all advanced courses can be installed, educators say. To secure the funds for this improvement a bond issue of $250,000 will be submitted to the people next Saturday. It is said by board members and educators that if it fails it will be the fault of the people in not turning out to give it the proper support with their ballots. Both men and women who are legal voters in this election are being appealed to, to make it their self-appointed duty to go to the polls that day and cast a ballot in favor of the issue.

Those who are not legal voters in this election are being appealed to, to make it a personal duty to encourage those who are voters to cast a ballot.

It is said that so vital is the move to the future welfare of the schools that the entire voting strength of the school district should make it a point to vote for the issue.

WAGE CUTS

International News Service.
HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 17.—Wage reductions averaging from 10 to 20 per cent went into effect in the Steelton mills of the Bethlehem Steel company today. The closing of several departments Saturday night resulted in reducing the force from around 8000 men to less than 3000. There was no trouble at any time, all men reporting for work except those laid off.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Jan. 17.—A 22-1/2 per cent decrease in the wages of textile operatives went into effect today in the four mills of the American Woolen mills company. All of the mills were open but were short handed.

EASTLAND FIRE LED TO FINDING OF WHISKY STILL

SPECIAL TO THE TIMES.
EASTLAND, Jan. 17.—Fire, which destroyed the Finley hotel and Cox boarding house here Saturday night at an estimated loss of $30,000, was directly the cause of discovering a whisky still in full operation in a nearby dwelling. The house was leased by Ed Hunt and Andy Ward and they were arrested and placed under bond for operating an illicit still.

The fire started in the hotel, from a gas stove, and completely destroyed the two buildings, which are located near the business district. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

It was while furniture was being carried from the burning buildings and stored in nearby residences that the still was located by a deputy sheriff. He entered the dwelling with an armload of furniture and smelled a strange odor. Upon investigation, the still was found with several gallons of mash. The outfit was in operation at the time.

ELEVEN-YEAR-OLD BOY CHARGED WITH KILLING HUNTING COMPANION

International News Service.
FORT WORTH, Jan. 17.—A charge of murder was filed this morning against 11-year-old George Rodgers, who was with 8-year-old Ernest Champion last Saturday when the latter was shot to death. The Rodgers boy claims that his gun was accidentally discharged while the two were out hunting.

HOBBY DEFENDS HIS USE OF PARDONING POWER

By Associated Press.
AUSTIN, Jan. 17.—During his administration, Governor Hobby granted approximately 2,000 pardons and 200 clemencies were paroled, he advised the legislature today in a message dealing with this phase of his administration. "I have doubtless made mistakes in the exercise of this power," said the governor. "But when the people confer this power upon the governor they know that some mistakes would be made, because no human could unerringly exercise it."

In another message, the governor deals with the penitentiary system. It was shown that the prison system had been operated at a profit and on a cash basis, while $2,194,337 had been paid out for permanent improvements. It was recommended that the government enact a law prohibiting the leasing of state land for cultivation after the termination of the leases now in operation.

TINY TRAVELERS TAGGED JUST LIKE FREIGHT

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 17.—Two pieces of live freight passed through here today en route from Sterling, Okla., to Ramona, Okla.

They were Eva Pearl Ring, 6, and Francis Ring, 4. A tag sewed on their clothing read: "To Ramona, Okla., via Union Pacific to Omaha, via Missouri Pacific to Kansas City, via Santa Fe to destination."

"My mamma is sending us to Uncle Tom at Ramona," Eva explained. "Mamma is coming after us as soon as she gets enough money."

PECOS P. O. BILL BRINGS TO MIND CONGRESSMAN'S PROMISE HERE

Federal Building for Ranger Will Be in First Appropriation Bill, Blanton Said Last Summer After Election.
"The Ranger postoffice is probably the only one in the county of its size that is not housed in a federal building, according to an authority who is acquainted with the situation. He mentioned Denison, Paris, Terrell and other cities that have large government buildings yet their receipts do not total anything like the yearly receipts of the local office.

While discussing the situation it was said that a bill had been introduced to present a $500,000 federal building at Pecos. This, the speaker declared, called to mind the fact that several months ago Thomas L. Blanton, congressman from this district, had promised that when building appropriation bills were passed Ranger was going to get one, or the bill would not.

Continuing, the speaker said that appropriations were being made from time to time for buildings over the country and he believed that this city was sleeping on its rights; that at least Mr. Blanton should be reminded of his promise.

He admired our congressman's stand, he said, in wanting to save money, but he did not approve of the system of saving it in this district and having it spent somewhere else.

LETTER WHICH CHARGES JAPS WITH LAND PLOT

International News Service.
HARTINGEN, Jan. 17.—The Okuma brothers and their families are being permitted to remain here following the "move on" order issued them by the American Legion several weeks ago, while W. A. Wiseman, department of justice agent, and several assistants, are conducting an investigation of an alleged plot of the Japanese government to spend $100,000 for colonizing in Texas.

Details of the alleged plot were contained in a letter received from Garcia Lujan of New Braunfels by the chamber of Commerce. The letter reads: "I worked for a closed real estate firm in San Antonio last year, May to December, one of them a German who got a bunch of tracts of land, close by there, who was selling it to San Francisco firms. He went to get the Japanese government to put up $1,000,000 as half payment on the land and the San Francisco firm was to raise the other half. All was to be used for colonization purposes.

"This is straight information. Don't know if it is correct or not but this may help you to locate other tracts.

"I think the Japs are lying about leaving."

"GARCIA LAMOSA."
The writer of the letter, department of justice officials think, is a Mexican.

TAFT NOW IN BERMUDA FOR TWO MONTHS' STAY

By Associated Press.
HAMPTON, Bermuda, Jan. 17.—Former President William H. Taft, who is here on a two months' rest in this island and frostless land, received a notable welcome on his arrival when the governor of the colony, General Sir James Willcocks, the most decorated man in the British army, went out and boarded the booming ship to personally extend greetings, as did a number of prominent Americans.

"An ex-President of the United States is a very amiable individual," remarked Mr. Taft after the greeting, to which the governor responded: "But not in a British colony."

Colonel A. W. Swain, United States consul, who during the war served notably at Southampton, England, gathered a notable committee to welcome Mr. Taft. Dr. Francis L. Patton, formerly president of Princeton university, was one of the party whom Mr. Taft quickly recognized, as in the case of Gen. Robert Shaw Oliver, former assistant secretary of war of the United States.

Second-Hand Auto Wrecks a Romance That Survived War

Fiance Led Heavily With Right, Landing Terrific Blow on Law.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 17.—A second-hand automobile completely smashed the romance that a war had only strengthened, according to the story told the police by William H. Porter, 24, overseas veteran, and employee of the Moloney Electric company, who was arrested yesterday and held on charges of robbery preferred by Miss Merice Kappen. Miss Kappen, Porter says, is his fiancee.

Porter was taken into custody after Miss Kappen had handed him $231 to count, he says. He gave the money to his brother, Lorenzo Porter, a veteran of the mine-laying service in foreign waters. The brother also is in jail. Police at Central station have all the money but a dollar. That Lorenzo says he spent.

The money taken from Miss Kappen had been drawn, Porter says from the First National bank. He and the young woman were taking it to another institution to open a joint account. At the First National it had been tied up by an attachment proceeding instituted in the court of Justice Andrew Gazzolo by Mrs. William Kappen, the girl's mother. Porter had difficulty in getting it out. After he had paid attorney's fees amounting to $29, he says, it was released when he agreed to put it in another bank as a joint account in the names of Miss Kappen and himself.

Brother Takes Flight.

On the way to the bank, he says, it occurred to him he was being double-crossed. He asked to count the money and when it was given him, gave it to his brother, who skipped out.

"And then," says Porter's written statement to the police, "my fiancée landed heavily with her right and landed a crashing blow on my jaw."

According to Porter, he enlisted in 1917 in the Canadian forces, was gassed at Sayre court in France, invalided to England and then joined an engineering regiment. During the war he says, he and Miss Kappen constantly corresponded. When he came back to St. Louis, he says, he went to see her and the family offered him a home. He stayed a few weeks, he said, and they would accept no money from him. Then he went to room with his brother. Later he returned to the Kappen family, paying $5 a week.

It was decided, he says, that he and the girl would marry—when he had saved up $500.

And then his fiancée's mother, so Porter declares, became ill. Somebody suggested she ought to have an automobile to get around. He bought a second-hand car, paying on it $200 when he had saved up. It was costly. "That car," he said, "cost me $700."

He went to the family with a proposal that unless should be fifty-fifty, he says. They accepted, according to his statement, and soon tired of the agreement. It was an expensive luxury.

Brother Walks Into Law.

So, Porter says, he turned the machine back. There was a quarrel over that. The day before Christmas, he says in his statement, he left the house.

He and the girl, he says, corresponded. They tried to patch things up. Porter says he owed the mother $30 for board and room. He met Miss Kappen and took her to the bank to draw the money. There he learned the mother had attached all he had on the basis of proceedings in the justice court.

MOTHER WOULD SELL TRETTSES TO PROVIDE FOR HER CHILDREN

Mrs. Elizabeth Fitzgerald, of Lynn, Mass., and the beautiful tresses which she has offered for sale to obtain funds with which to provide her four boys with proper food and comforts, Mrs. Fitzgerald, it is said, has received an offer of $300 from hair dealers, but refused, insisting the price must be $500. Although her children are not in actual want Mrs. Fitzgerald declares she will use the money to give them more proper food and comforts and perhaps save part of the money to aid later in their education.

MINCO MINERS PREDICT VICTORY IN FEW WEEKS

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 17.—Strikers in the Mingo coal field are "staying with their cause with hardly a break," said James Riley, president of the West Virginia State Federation of Labor, in a statement made public here. Mr. Riley just returned from a tour of the Williamson district, where he conferred with strike leaders. Mr. Riley declared that he was satisfied that the miners would win the strike within the next few weeks. He added that imported labor at the mines is not satisfactory.

OFFERED TO SELL BODY FOR YEAR TO SAVE FAMILY FROM STARVATION

Robert Firman, able seaman, is waiting for bidders at his home in Chicago who will consent to purchase him, "body and soul," for one year for $2,500. Unable to enlist in either the army or navy during the war and wishing to do his duty for his country, he enlisted in the Merchant Marine. Since that time he has been sailing on both the Great Lakes and the sea. A month ago he returned home after an absence of several months. He had been unable to find permanent employment and was willing to sell himself for one year so that his wife and baby may have a proper home. His offer landed him a $40 per week job next day.

A. & M. STUDENTS DRAW RATION MONEY FROM UNCLE SAM

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Jan. 17.—Uncle Sam was paymaster the past week to the cadets taking the advanced course of the reserve officers' training corps at the Agricultural and Mechanical college of Texas. A total of $12,677.93 was paid to 260 juniors and seniors who selected military training for their last two years in college.

Each one of the number received $48.76, being commutation for rations at the rate of 53 cents a day.

Seniors will continue to receive commutation for rations at the rate of 53 cents a day until graduation. Juniors will receive the same until they enter an advanced R. O. T. C. summer training camp about the middle of June, when they will be fed in cantonment by the government and be paid at the rate of $30 a month. They also will be allowed transportation to and from summer camp at the rate of 5 cents a mile. A separate camp is maintained for each branch of the service in different parts of the country. It is held for six months and every student taking the advanced course must attend the summer following the completion of his junior work. From the time the summer camp breaks up until the cadet completes his senior year he receives commutation at the rate of 53 cents a day.

Freshman and sophomores taking the basic course of the R. O. T. C. receive the same uniform allowance, $30 a year, but are paid no commutation for rations.

JACK 'SWIPED' HIS OWN CAR; BUT THEN 'THE BOYS' ARE PAID TO WORRY

The employees of the Oilbelt Motor company were running around in circles last night. Some bold bandit had entered their store room and had driven away a new 1921 Dodge roadster. The police were notified of the theft and sleuths placed on its trail. That car just had to be found.

It was. This morning the manager of the concern, J. T. Gullahorn, who last night was supposed by his employees to be in New York, came driving it in. Mr. Gullahorn had arrived yesterday evening and being constitutionally opposed to walking, came by the store and "swiped" a car.

Prohi Agent On Trial for Killing Man During Raid

By Associated Press

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 17.—S. Glen Young, federal prohibition enforcement officer went to trial in federal court here today on a murder charge in connection with the shooting of Luka Vukovich at Madison, Nov. 6, last. Vukovich was killed by Young when the latter, accompanied by Walter Cowgill, a Granite City policeman, entered the Vukovich home in search of illicit liquor. Eight bullets were fired into Vukovich's body. Young admits he fired the shots, but asserts Vukovich attacked him, and that he fired in self-defense. Vukovich, a laborer, was 45 years old. A coroner's jury exonerated the federal officer, but State Attorney Streuber conducted an investigation, which resulted in the return of the murder indictment.

The government has rallied to Young's defense. Attorney General Palmer has appointed Robert Patten of Sangamon county to assist United States District Attorney Edward Knotts in defending the prohibition agent. Mr. Streuber will conduct the prosecution.

Prisoners Beat Him.

The case was to have been tried in Madison county, but was removed to the federal court under a law which guarantees government employees federal protection when arrested in the discharge of their duties.

Young was arrested, following his indictment, and placed in jail here, where other prisoners, who ascribed their incarceration to his activities, assaulted him. He was buffeted and drenched with hot water, and finally rescued by prison officials.

A month ago a statutory charge against him was dismissed on the grounds of insufficient evidence. In this case, Emilia Bombardieri, 19 years old, declared Young attacked her while raiding the Bombardieri home at Staouton in search of forbidden liquor. This charge was declared a "frame-up" by Young.

THEFT OF RIG CAUSES BRECK HOUSEHOLDERS TO TREMBLE FOR HOMES

Special to The Times.

BRECKENRIDGE, Jan. 17.—After the arrest of persons for stealing an oil well derrick, Breckenridge citizens with homes in isolated places are wondering if they will return some night and find only a vacant lot. Of a total of seventy-six receipts that have been issued by Assistant Secretary Hammons of the Chamber of Commerce, only seven have been to women. However, Mr. Hammons contends that the men are not making a much greater showing. Seventy poll tax receipts in a city of 20,000 people is not many, he thinks. But it is believed that during the time from now until Jan. 31 they will be paid rapidly.

While it is an off year in state elections the city must elect officers in April and it is thought perhaps other local questions may have to be balloted upon. It is not beyond reason to believe that the question of issuing bonds for a water supply will come up for consideration before the people before another year has passed, it is said.

These questions are important and of that nature it is thought that the tax payment will be heavy before the time limit expires.

MANY SLATED TO LOSE FAT JOBS AT WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—This town of government job holders is making ready for the inaugural. And it is going to be the most spectacular entry of a new President the country has known for many moons.

The grand "slash" in government red tape and personnel, as soon as Warren G. Harding takes over the reins, is the next big event on the calendar.

Pretty war workers, thousands of them, who grace all crevices of government bureaus, soon will be wending their way back to the comfortable firesides they left when they came to Washington to help win the war.

Other thousands, including clerks of various classes, who were taken on the government payroll at the start of the war, in the rush to get war clerical help, are scheduled to thin the ranks of the federal force here.

Maintenance of government bureaus at near war strength, two years after the armistice, is arousing heated outbursts in congress, and the new President and his cabinet will co-operate with congress in establishing greater efficiency and co-ordinating many branches, now loosely directed.

Nearly 90,000 men and women are still holding jobs in government bureaus here, nearly double the pre-war force. The present administration has made no serious effort to bring many of the bureaus back to a peace time basis.

Fully 25,000 employees will be dropped and further reductions will be made gradually. Various bureaus doing the same work in scattered lo-

Quaker Minister Is Grateful to Tanlac

Rev. Parker Moon, Carthage, Missouri.

Nearly everybody in Southwest Missouri either knows or has heard of the Rev. Parker Moon, who for a full half century has devoted his life and talents to Sunday school and organization work for the Society of Friends or Quakers. He resides at 628 Howard avenue, Carthage, Mo.

"Uncle Parker," as he is more familiarly known, came from fine old rugged Quaker stock, and there is not a better known or more highly respected citizen in that part of the state. In referring to his remarkable restoration to health by Tanlac, he said:

"About five years ago I suffered a general breakdown. My principal trouble was nervous indigestion. My appetite was very poor and my food seldom agreed with me, and I had to live on a very restricted diet. I suffered a great deal from headaches and dizzy spells; I had severe pains across the small of my back and was badly constipated most of the time. In fact, I was so weak and rundown I was not able to attend to my duties.

"This condition made me very nervous and I could not sleep at night. Frequently I would lie awake most all night and was in that condition more or less for five years. My physician said he could not do anything for me and suggested a change of climate. I then moved to Texas and went back and forth three times but did not get the relief I had hoped for. Finally, I got so bad off I was not able to get around with any degree of comfort. I was also told I had heart trouble.

"I had read about Tanlac and, as it had been very highly recommended to me, I decided to try it. I got a bottle and had taken only a few doses until I could notice a marked improvement in my condition. I noticed especially that I was not troubled any more with sour stomach after eating, which was a great relief.

"I kept on taking Tanlac until I fully regained my health. My appetite is splendid; I enjoy my meals and I do not find it necessary now to take any laxative medicines of any kind. I can sleep much better and am not nearly so nervous.

"I take great pleasure in recommending Tanlac to anyone who needs a good system builder, or who suffers with stomach trouble. I have recommended Tanlac to a great many of my friends and am pleased to reach others by giving this statement for publication."

Tanlac is sold in Ranger by Phillips Bros. and in Eastland by Butler Drug Co.—Adv.

CLASSICAL MUSIC VIES WITH FUNMAKERS AT VAUDEVILLE HOUSE

The Majestic last night presented a well balanced bill, playing before a packed house throughout the evening. Every act seemed to please the audience and each received their share of applause.

Maletta Bonocini topped the bill. Miss Bonocini proved her artistic ability in every way and the classical music lovers received a rare treat. She was assisted by Harry Simpson at the piano.

Guy Bartlett, Ed Smith and Joe Sherry were the top-notchers in the way of fun makers, they kept the audience in an uproar throughout their limit of actions. The Jack Martin Trio, offering some classy dancing and songs, was well received by the audience. Rainbow and Mohawk, Indians from the southern reservation, in native songs and dances carried you back to the pioneer days of Texas, and Les Arados, acrobats and fun makers, were a good lead-off act.

Expert Says Few People Are Sane; Many 'Squirrels'

By WILLIAM L. MALLABAR International News Service.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—"There are plenty of people who ought to be certified as insane, whose conduct is tolerated. Many people ought to be in asylums who are not there."

These are the views of Sir Robert Ormstrong Jones, the leading mental expert of England, as expressed before Justice Darling during the course of a murder trial in which Sir Robert testified.

Sir Robert's declarations have, of course, created a lot of comment in professional circles, some of the other mental experts agreeing with him and others naturally taking an opposite view.

Dr. Albert Wilson, another famous mental specialist, was in full accord with Sir Robert.

"The nagging wife, the husband full of unreasonable complaints and the spendthrift are none of them sane from a medical point of view," said he. "They are all suffering from paranoia."

Few Are Sane.

"Few are perfectly sane. If all who were really insane were certified there would not be enough people left to take care of them."

"The law is quite wrong and Mr. Justice Darling is three hundred years out of date in his remarks. If the laws were made by physicians it would be more scientific and there would be greater justice."

"The remedy for the prevalence of ill-balanced minds, in my opinion, lies in the application of eugenist selection for marriage and in good bringing up. Large families are also undesirable from the viewpoint of mental stability."

Dr. Bernard Hollander, author of several standard books on mental disorder, also supported Sir Robert. He said:

Many "Nut" Ideas.

"Practically every person has insane ideas and the only persons who can be certified insane are those who react to those ideas. In other words, will power is the key to the problem."

"The man who is addicted to drink or to gambling is in the same category as the man with a tendency to murder. If the subject has not sufficient strength of will to resist the temptation he gives away to his weakness."

Sticet saying is a rarity.

"The old saying that genius is akin to insanity is based on fact. The nerves of a genius are so highly strung and sensitive that they may become easily unbalanced. It is the inventor who fails who most often becomes insane; his sensitive nature cannot stand the disappointment."

"We are surrounded by insane people; a great many of them know the points on which they are unbalanced and guard against them. It is the other way with the asylums."

Ernest Sanger, chairman of the London County Council Asylum committee, who has many hundreds of inmates under his charge, does not fully share the views of Dr. Jones and his fellow experts.

"The matter," he said, "cannot be dismissed offhand by saying that many people ought to be in asylums who are not there."

"We find that home is often the best place for some patients and that if properly treated they recover there more quickly than they would do if detained in our institutions."

Difficult to Classify.

"It is very easily indeed that persons could be improperly certified. The whole treatment of insanity also has been transformed during the past twenty years. We are able to make use of the accumulated experience of the past and every year our medical and nursing staffs become more efficient and able to accomplish more remarkable cures."

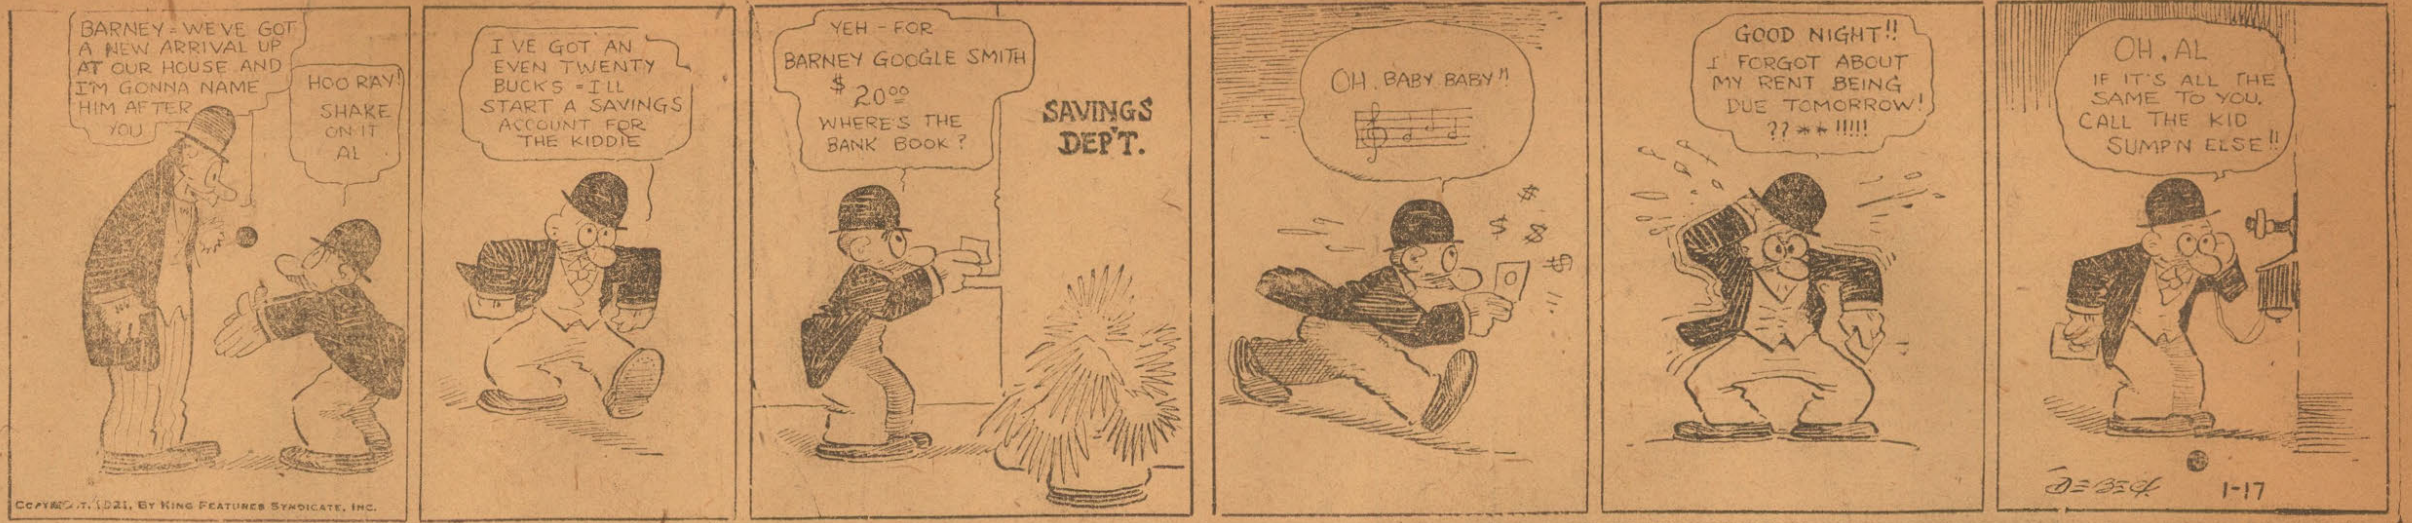

With the leading mental experts, however, declaring that we are all more or less "nutty," it is now up to us to watch our steps or our simple pleasures—such as playing golf or collecting stamps—will be denounced by some mental expert as a symptom of paranoia and we will be hustled away to a nice padded cell.

KANSAS CITY POET AND GIRL FOR WHOM HE DESERTED WIFE

The war romance of Madeleine Babin, petite French girl, and Lee Shippey, poet and writer of Kansas City, which created a sensation some time ago has culminated in the two departing from the United States and going to live in Monterey, Mexico, according to reports from Kansas City. With them is their little son, born out of wedlock. Mrs. Mary Shippey, wife of the writer, who refuses to sever the marriage tie and who offers to bring her up as her own husband's "love" baby, is slowly recovering from nervous prostration. Shippey met his fortune sweetheart when he was billeted in her home in Paris. There the love affair developed. Returning to America, Shippey informed his wife of his Paris romance and asked her to divorce him so that he could wed Mlle. Babin. The wife refused. Later Madeleine arrived in the United States with her mother and sister. They went to Kansas City where Madeleine's baby was born. When Shippey had it christened and acknowledged the baby as his own. Deportation proceedings instituted against the French girl, fell through immigration authorities holding that Madeleine should not be sent home. The couple, it is said, left Kansas City for Monterey several months ago.

Russian Protege of U. S. Admiral Killed Two Reds

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Little Nikolai Snow, one of Admiral Newton A. McCully's seven Russian proteges, killed two members of the Soviet army while in the trenches with General Wrangel, the admiral said with much pride here Wednesday. Nikolai is 10 years of age and his father was killed when Russia sought the Germans.

"Lidmila, one of the girls, was in an orphanage at Yalta in Crimea where she looked after the other children and always met me with a smile," Admiral McCully said in explaining why he adopted so many Russian orphans.

"As for Anastasia, who has neither father nor mother, well, she became friendly. I liked her and she liked me. That is all there was to it."

"Nina is the most capable youngster in the lot. She can knit two pairs of socks while anybody else I ever saw can knit one pair."

"Eugenia, who is 19, is already a very remarkable girl. She was an assistant at the Yalta orphanage, where she first came as a nurse."

"What do they call you?" the admiral was asked.

"They address me as 'Dyadya,' he responded, and when everybody laughed, he explained that while it sounded like "Daddy," it really isn't and is only a term of respect."

When the seven are educated they can serve to Russia if they want to, Admiral McCully said, although he expects them all to become good Americans. Just now their particular affection for the United States is based on the fact that "the boys are warm."

"That is a very natural thought as the weather is frightfully cold in Russia and the orphans slept from seven to a dozen in cramped quarters with very little clothing," declared the admiral. "As it is some of the children are frostbitten and if they were neglected the flesh would drop off the affected parts."

The department of labor gave Admiral McCully permission to bring the children into the country after he had put up $5,000 bond that each would not become a public charge.

It is altogether likely that he will take them to his home at Anderson, S. C., where his mother and niece reside.

Americans Spoil Career of Bogus German Baron

BERLIN, Jan. 17.—Richard Oerthal of Bresden, 26 years old, has contrived by his wit and audacity to throw into complete shadow the notoriety of William Voight, shoemaker, who leaped into fame as an adventurer a dozen years ago by putting on a captain's uniform, forging a military order and marching at the head of a squad of men into the town of Koepenic, where he made the burgomaster prisoner and helped himself to the contents of the town treasury. The police have just exposed Oerthal's career, as that of the most amusing swindler of German official record.

Oerthal seems never to have had a regular occupation. When conscripted for the war he feigned insanity, and was consigned to the Berlin military hospital for observation. He infatuated a nurse, who found means for him to escape, going away with him.

Assuming the names of reputable persons, he wrote to clerks of various towns, asking for copies of birth certificates, thus accumulating a fine assortment of identification papers, among them a triple stamped policeoucher, certifying that the holder was Baron von Eloffstein.

Leading Part in Revolution.

That was his supposed name at the beginning of the German revolution, when his activities led promptly to his appointment as chief of general command by the Soldiers' Council of Defense. Soon after assuming this office, he appeared at the prison camp of Holzminnen, where many French and Belgian soldiers were billeted, and declared himself revolutionary camp commander.

In this new capacity, accompanied by French officers, he presented himself to Marshal Foch, who caused him to remove his red revolutionary arm band and then gave him a letter to General Dupont, head of the French military mission in Berlin, recommending him for employment in connection with the welfare and home transport of prisoners.

Thus certified as a personage of actual high station, the "baron" had the entree at the French embassy and at the Rumanian, Spanish and other legations. He received plenary powers in connection with the transport of prisoners to and from Rumania, and was sent to Bucharest to conduct negotiations regarding exchanges. In Berlin, the doors of all the ministers were open to him. Two automobiles were continually at his command for official or personal use. He was named as high delegate to the International Red Cross.

Travels by Special Train.

When he went to Rumania he traveled officially by special private train, and funds ample to maintain his lofty station were furnished him. He stopped off in Hungary for a sympathetic call upon the interned Field Marshal Mackensen there.

Fate recently overtook him when he was arrested in the American occupied area, charged with complicity in cocaine smuggling. He professed to resent this indignity, producing papers to identify himself as a member of the high commission.

This bluff did not work with the American authorities in Coblenz, to whom he was turned over, and he was soon exposed as a fraud. Then the Americans passed him along to the German police, who now hold him.

New Elixir, Called Aspirinal. Medicated with Latest Scientific Remedies, Used and Endorsed by European and American Army Surgeons to Cut Short a Cold and Prevent Complications.

Every Druggist in U. S. Instructed to Refund Price While you Wait at Counter if Relief Does Not Come Within Two Minutes.

Delightful Taste, Immediate Relief, Quick Warm-Up.

The sensation of the year in the drug trade is Aspirinal, the two-minute cold and cough reliever, authoritatively guaranteed by the laboratories; tested, approved and most enthusiastically endorsed by the highest authorities, and proclaimed by the common people as ten times as quick and effective as whiskey, rock and rye, or any other cold and cough remedy they have ever tried.

All drug stores are now supplied with the wonderful new elixir, so all you have to do to get rid of that cold is to step into the nearest drug store, hand the clerk half a dollar for a bottle of Aspirinal and tell him to serve you two teaspoonfuls with four teaspoonfuls of water in a glass. With your watch in your hand, take the drink at one swallow and call for your money back in two minutes if you cannot feel your cold fading away like a dream within the time limit. Don't be bashful, for all druggists invite you and expect you to try it. Everybody's doing it.

When your cold or cough is relieved, take the remainder of the bottle home to your wife and babies, for Aspirinal is by far the safest and most effective, the easiest to take and the most agreeable cold and cough remedy for infants and children.—Adv.

RUNNING PASSENGER TRAINS.

Railroad figures on the cost of this or that, are inexplicable to persons whose connection with railroads is limited to paying freight bills and passenger tariff and waiting around inadequate stations in order to do so. Perhaps railroad commissions understand them. That is to be presumed from the fact that the commission will permit the Texas & Pacific railroad to take off trains 5 and 6.

However, it would be difficult to convince anyone who rides these trains or hangs around the depot to see them "in" or "out," that these trains do not prosper. Information obtained from a railroad official is that passenger trains can be run for $1.50 per train mile. A train mile is the distance from terminal to terminal. In the case of these trains, it is about 110 miles, which would make the cost of operation $165 per trip. That amount will be paid by fifty-five passengers from Ranger to Fort Worth. It is a safe bet that this train never leaves Ranger without 150 passengers.

Another point that should be taken into consideration is that, even if the T. & P. will still be running a sufficient number of trains, they are very badly distributed throughout the day. Under the present schedules these trains eliminated—one will be unable to obtain a train to the east between 1:26 in the afternoon and 11:35 at night, a matter of ten hours, yet there are two trains to break the fourteen-hour period between 11:35 and 1:26 the next afternoon. Going west, there is no train from about 2 o'clock at night until 1:26 the next afternoon, a matter of about twelve hours, while two trains come during the next twelve.

Railroad service does not consist of giving enough seats for all the passengers at some time or other. Giving proper distribution of trains is equally vital, and, that the T. & P. emphatically does not do with these trains taken off.

If one were told to take four doses of medicine in twelve hours, and should take one at 12, another at 1:30, a third at 3:30, and the fourth at 6, and then skip the next six hours, he would be thought foolish. Yet it is no more so than the passenger service we will be forced to swallow.

THE LURE OF THE CIDER BARREL.

There is a compelling interest in the views taken by the representatives of rural life of the recent opinion of the Attorney-General of the United States in excluding home-made cider from the full provisions of the Volstead prohibition enforcement act. After coming over their expressions, marked strongly by indifference, one is impressed with the suspicion that their resignation to impending evil is altogether too prompt and their voiced opposition entirely too feeble to comport with real virtue.

Then, too, there is something amusingly sly in the seemingly innocent manner in which they spread the news to their brethren of the farms and gardens, producers of the peculiar juices of which the President's legal adviser speaks in his official decision upon the subject of permitting cider to be made free from confiscation.

One, clothed with wisdom, says that it looks very much as if a breach has been made in the wall of real prohibition as distinguished from legal prohibition. There will be more cider, he says, made in this country than ever before. The orchard and the garden are full of other wicked juices which will insist upon turning their sugar into more than one-half of one per cent of alcohol if their owners leave them alone. Tolent objection has been proclaimed to the attorney-general's opinion by the professional prohibitionists, but the outcry from the bal-wicks which provided the votes for drying up the country—the biotic regions—is but a faint murmur.

It seems that these angry leaders are having the same trouble as Moses and Aaron with the emigrants from Egypt who yearned in the desert for the flesh pots of their disgraceful slavery. Only the flesh pots are cider barrels.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

"Tinker Bob" Stories by Carlyle H. Holcomb

NO WATER TO DRINK.

We were telling about the King of the Forest and Mr. Kangaroo Rat. You remember Tinker Bob said he didn't think that any creature could live in the desert land such as this. But you see he didn't know about these little creatures, for they live here all the time.

Now when Mr. Kangaroo Rat found out that it was the King of the Great Forest he was talking to, he was anxious to get away, so he could tell all of his friends, for when they had company they always dressed up. When Tinker put him down he scampered with his companions to their home which was a hole or rather many holes in the ground.

They were not there long, and when they came back there were twice as many and all of them were dressed in their very best. You are wondering what that is? Well, they had a string of cactus thorns about their neck, and they thought they were dressed up. Of course now and then Tinker Bob could see one with a cactus blossom instead of a string of thorns.

"Where do you get those fine decorations?" asked Tinker of the same fellow that he had seen only a moment ago. In a squeaky voice Mr. Rat replied: "These are our very best garments."

Now the confusion that Tinker heard from behind again called his attention, and looking around he saw Lady Duck trying to find out whether she was having a dream or seeing something real. "What's the matter, Lady Duck?" asked Tinker as he saw her stretching her neck. "Quack, quack, I didn't know but what I was asleep and was having a dream. What are all of these creatures doing around here? I didn't suppose anything lived in this place where there is nothing to eat."

"These are very wonderful creatures. They hop around like Kangaroos. Don't you see how they are dressed?" Then Tinker spoke to one of them. "Why don't you come out in the day time instead of the night?"

"We can't stand it out here in the day time, it is too warm and the sun is too bright, so we wait till the sun is gone and it is cool."

"Quack, quack, I can't see how these creatures live out here without any water," said Lady Duck. "Of course she couldn't understand for she would like to live in the water all the time."

"Where do you get water to drink?" asked Tinker.

"Water!" exclaimed one of them. "What is that, I never saw any?" Tinker Bob was surely surprised. "Never saw any water. Don't you ever get thirsty and want to drink?" he thought they didn't understand.

"No, we never get thirsty. Oh look here comes our King with his robe on. He wants to meet you, King of the Forest. We will see what the King has to say."

THE WOMAN WHO SAW

Far Her Masterpieces.

"We certainly raised our father badly," sighed the southern girl. "Sister and I received notice yesterday from the freight office that 'two crates' were being held by them and if they were not removed at once something dreadful would happen. Of course we suspected father."

The Woman had a question mark in each eye. "Where was he taking the expressman, and told him in words of one syllable how to find our place in the village. We have a gay little trinity—living room, bedroom and kitchen—one in all and all in one, where we can hide everything but smells. You know how onions are."

"When we returned from business last evening we found a perspiring Tony, an angry janitor and the huge old secretary that grandfather used to keep his slaves pigeonholed in. In two parts and neither part would go through the door. And if it did the ceiling would have to be raised! That secretary would cover seven-eighths of the rug—it bulges like Irvin Cobb!"

The Woman had had things wished on her so she looked her sympathy. "I don't know how the thing will end," said Miss Dixie dourly. "At present we are bribing the janitor to hide it in the cellar."

"The Woman asked if the Colonel meant it as a joke. "No, indeed! I don't know how come him to send it. Unless," she added a trifle guiltily, "I brought it on when I told him that six had sold a sketch to a daily paper and had got $125 for it. I imagine the old dear wanted her to have plenty of room to develop and become a Fenny Hurst."

Three Aises to the Right. The Mid-Victorian Lady was on the last lap of her Christmas shopping. She had zealously hunted for the cap to match the scarf, the ribbon to match the breakfast jacket and the candles to match the book ends. Each store she had entered and inquired: "Where are the—so and so's?" And in each one the answer had always been glibly: "Three aises to the right."

As a matter of fact she never did find what she wanted at the third aisle to the right, but it was always necessary to go and make sure at any rate. She had come to the conclusion that this was a stock phrase among sales-people, or else an honest effort to give information when they really didn't know where the stuff was, when she made her last quest of the third aisle and emerged triumphantly on Fifth avenue, arms laden with packages and a limp but brave little pocket-book dangling from her wrist. Just as she was about to hail a number 5 bus and slip home to soft slippers and her after shopping "comfy clothes," a matron obviously from the provinces earnestly, stepped her.

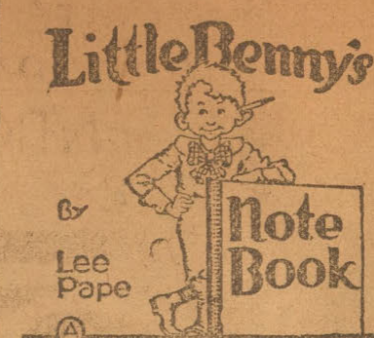

"Can you tell me where Vantins'—"

"Three aises to your right," graciously answered the lady and sailed up the steps of the bus.

Promoted. Before Ben-Aud moved uptown the Woman and a companion made their way to Cheridan square. They were early and found that there was time for sightseeing before the curtain would rise on "Samson's" modest flat.

Sightseeing for the Woman is that sort of window shopping that is done within stores. A bright interior attracted their interest. The shop was filled with brightly displayed and boldly painted china. All styles and types of dishes and vases were displayed, and she learned, in default of a class classification, that all this cheerful agglomeration went under the name of Czechoslovak.

But the Woman thought she detected some familiar shapes among the innumerable collection. There were certain flat objects painted a crude blue, a staring yellow or a violent purple. They had a short rim and three narrow ribs. Surly,

We had company for supper yesterday, being Mr. and Mrs. Heves, and in the afternoon ma made an apple pie and a raisin pie, saying, Now Benny I want to warn you not to ask for a 2nd piece of pie. In any going to cut one pie and there will be just one slice apiece.

Well gosh G. ma, I sed, wat if one of the Heveses wants another piece and you haff to cut the other pie, wat then, ma?

Well in that case you may have another slice, but only in that case, sed ma, and I sed, All rite ma, cut the apple, no, cut the raisin, no the apple, O well I dont know, I think Id rather have the raisin, or maybe the apple, I dont know.

Which she cut the apple, giving every body a slice and the Heveses ate theirs and Mrs. Heves, sed, Perfectly elegant pie, Mrs. Potts. Being a big round lady with chins, and Mr. Heves, sed, Perfectly elegant. Being a little size man with a big size musta-it, and ma sed Im so glad you like it, wont you try a slice of raisin pie? Me thinking, G herryay.

O dear no, I couldnt think of it, sed Mrs. Heves.

We confident think of it, sed Mr. Heves. He thinking, Aw gosh, look. And I waited a minute to see if they would change their minds, which they didnt, and I sed, The raisin pie is even better than the apple pie, Mrs. Heves, you can tell that by jest omy smelling it, do you want me to bring it in and leave you smell it?

O my goodness no, satch an idee, sed Mrs. Heves, and I sed, Would you like to smell it, Mr. Heves? Wich he sed he wouldnt, and I sed, I dont mind getting it if you want to smell it, and ma sed, Never mind, Benny, you nussent annoy Mr. and Mrs. Heves wen they say they dont wish any more pie.

Well I bet they would if they smell it once, I sed, wa saying, never mind.

Are you throo? sed pop, and I said never mind, and pop saying, Drop the subject.

Yes sir, I jest thavet maybe they would enjoy the smell of it even if theyre all full, the small abit fatter, I sed. Yes sir, and pop sed, Then leave the table. Wich I did.

PINK TIGHTS ARE TOO TAME TO SUIT THE THRILL HUNTERS

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—Pink tights that have adorned the graceful figures of girl trapeze performers and bareback riders since Barnum discovered "one" was born every minute have been ruled off the sawdust ring.

E. P. Sherwood, Chicago representative of Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey, confided that "the greatest show on earth" had tabooed the "silk habitments."

"Too tame?" he was asked. "Too tame," he answered. "Don't you know we're up against it to find something to shock the circus ticket buying public these days?"

"The time has passed when staid men would come for miles to see a girl in pink tights and call it diversion. The dear sisters have stolen our stuff so we must find something new, as the public has absorbed all the shocks we can give it."

"It is impossible to interest a public that has been gazing on the styles of women by revealing an attractive human. Diaphanous costumes have taken the kick out of the circus stuff."

"We have given up trying to get a rise out of men who are accustomed to seeing girls promenade down the boulevard with their shocking stockings rolled at the knee, by showing them girls in tights."

Norwood refused to divulge what kind of lack of costume will supplant the tights.

"I'm now studying the laws of the various states to see just how far we may go," he said.

The Harvest Time for Furniture Buyers

Now is the time to buy furniture.

Whether it is feathering the nest for two or replacing some of the pieces mother bought in 1897—now is the opportune moment to go shopping for the choicest values.

January is the month in which to buy furniture, just as April is the month of showers and June is the month of brides, and a dollar can be made to go farther if used in connection with the sales during this month.

The stocks must be "turned over"—the laws of good merchandising demand it—and in these days the "clearance prices" at which furniture is being offered mean that purchases now are real economy and show practical common sense.

It may be an odd chair or table; a bed room suite or a dining room set you desire; you may be refurbishing a room or rooms in some particular period—the chances are that whatever you want you will find it somewhere at a distinct saving.

There is no reduction in quality.

Forward-looking merchants are now making furniture sales a feature of their advertising. They realize the public must know before they can buy, and that progressive people seek the knowledge of what to buy and where to buy through the medium of the advertising columns.

Thoughtful furniture buyers—or buyers of any worth-while merchandise, are among the worth-while readers of this newspaper.

Merchants who are directing their purchases through announcements in these columns are realizing an impetus to business which means added prestige, increased patronage and multiplied profits to them.

Browns' Manager Is 'Busher' Who Staged Come-Back

CLEVELAND, Jan. 17.-Lee Fohl, appointed manager of the St. Louis Browns for 1921 probably is the only "busher" who ever had a chance in a managerial job in the American league who was dropped and then recalled to take the reins of another club in the same circuit. According to Tris Speaker, who relieved Fohl as manager of the Cleveland Americans, the new leader of the Browns is "one of the smartest men and keenest students of baseball I ever met."

Fohl's first experience as an American league manager was in 1915, when he succeeded Joe Birmingham as pilot of the Cleveland team. He did little but experiment that year and then finished in seventh place with a percentage of .363. The club won forty-five games and lost seventy-nine.

The next season the team finished in sixth place, winning seventy-seven and losing the same number of games. Ruth Was Nuts. It was in 1919 that "Babe" Ruth "batted Fohl out of the league." Fohl's resignation came on July 19, 1919, after a game which the locals lost to Boston after having had a four-run lead. With three Red Sox on the bases, and the score 4 to 1, Fohl inserted Fred Combs, a southern boy who had not worked for a month, into the game. Combs made the mistake of trying to fool Ruth with a slow one, and "Babe" hoisted the ball over the screen for a home run, winning the game by one run.

The fans had been "riding" Fohl, and after this incident he decided that it would be foolhardy to continue as manager. Fohl is a great developer of players, among those profiting by his advice being Stanley Coveleskie, Jim Bagby, Bill Wamburgans, Steve O'Neill and Elmer Smith, all members of the Cleveland club. Through Fohl's study of opposition players, it is said he was able to tip off his own players as to the little peculiarities of the pitchers, as to when to expect a curve, fast ball or spitter.

"Sandlot's" Get Chance Fohl expects to take two Cleveland "sandlotters" to St. Louis for trials. They are First Baseman Harry Brunner, and Outfielder Moxie Davis. Fohl's first professional career started with Des Moines in 1903. He failed to make good with Cincinnati in 1904, and during that and the next season he played semi-professional ball in Homestead, Pa., and Youngstown.

JOHNNY WILSON READY TO MEET CHALLENGERS NEW YORK, Jan. 17.-Johnny Wilson, who won the middleweight boxing championship from Mike O'Dowd last May, is now "ready and willing" to grant him a bout or to meet any other "158-pound boxer the public demands," his manager, Marty Killilea, announced today.

This, she submitted, made him incompetent to contract the marriage which he did in 1918.

'Barnyard Golf' Clubs Make Elaborate Pastime of Noble Game of Horseshoe Pitching

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Jan. 17.-Barnyard golf, as the sport of pitching horseshoes has come to be popularly known, thrives in Florida, which always has been the mecca of the enthusiasts of the game in winter. Its supporters are looking forward to the national championship matches to be held here beginning on Washington's birthday, Feb. 22. Champions, ex-champions and would-be champions at present are busy practicing and two dozen or more courts are kept running here from morning till night. The championship matches will attract track pitifiers from all parts of the country.

The horse-shoe pitchers have developed the game to a high degree. The equipment of a first-class park includes a lodge or club house for keeping the horse-shoes, a small hand laundry to wash and dry towels for use of the players during the progress of matches, hydrant of running water for the players to wash their hands after handling the shoes which sing deep into the soft earth about the pegs, a raker to keep the earth smooth about the pegs during the matches, and a small blacksmith shop to keep the shoes and pegs in first-class condition as the game is rough on them.

SIDEWALKS AROUND COOPER SCHOOL TO BE LAID IMMEDIATELY

The work of constructing sidewalks around the campus of the Cooper school and to its entrances will be started as quickly as a contractor can be secured, V. V. Cooper, a member of the school board, said this morning.

The walks would have been built sooner, Mr. Cooper said, but they were waiting for the checks which were disposed of when the new building was entered to be moved. At the time it was thought that they would be moved intact and the walks would have been a hindrance.

The checks, however, were demolished and the lumber used to erect two additional rooms on the high school lot for the use of that school.

AIRMEN'S WIVES WHO DIDN'T WEEP

Brave and courageous women are the wives of Lieutenants Hinton and Farrell, two of the missing navy aviators who are reported on their way home. Both women admitted that not once did they doubt that the balloonists had landed and were safe. They did not shed a tear until they had been informed of their husbands' rescue. "I didn't cry all these days," said Mrs. Hinton. "I had to keep telling myself everything was all right but since I know they are safe and sound I seem just to cry most of the time. Our prayers have been answered." "Yes I've been crying, too," admitted Mrs. Farrell. "I suppose it's because we can watch ourselves when we may be facing trouble and be on our guard, but great joy overwhelms us after the strain of self control." The illustration shows Mrs. Stephen Farrell and her fifteen-year-old daughter, Emily; Lieutenant Farrell and Mrs. alter Hinton.

'REPLACEMENT' BONDS FOR FOURTH LIBERTY LOAN TO BE PERMANENT

By Associated Press
FORT WORTH, Jan. 17.—Holders of Fourth Liberty loan 4 1/2 per cent bonds in Texas are turning in their bonds in large numbers to be exchanged for the new issue of permanent bonds, bankers reported here.

Owners of the bonds deposit them in the banks, receiving a receipt for their bonds. The banks then send the bonds to the Federal Reserve bank at Dallas and receive the permanent bonds for delivery to the owners.

The permanent bonds contain the coupons for every interest date to maturity. All the semi-annual interest coupons on the original bonds have been paid. The interest is next due on April 15 and the exchange must be made before then for the owners to receive the interest promptly, the bankers said, although the interest will not be lost if the exchange is made later.

CATTLE TICKS ON EASTLAND CATTLE, U. S. REPORT SHOWS

FORT WORTH, Jan. 17.—Counties in central and southern Texas are constructing a large number of dipping vats and practically every county in these zones have appropriated funds to carry on the cattle fever tick eradication, beginning March 1, according to Dr. Harry Grafke, inspector in charge of the Texas division of the United States bureau of animal industry.

The government has purchased several small trucks for the inspectors in the tick eradication work as an experimental scheme to cut down the cost of mileage, appropriating funds for the maintenance of the trucks instead of allotting a bureau employe seven cents per mile for privately owned cars. The new plan has proved successful as an economical step.
