

PERSONAL
by John

We, personally, have a difficult time reconciling the trend of this country toward youth. It's not that we are adverse to young people. Quite the contrary. We realize that everybody was young once, the same as they will be old, providing they live long enough. Therefore, youth should be helped the same as the elderly need help.

What we object to is the assertions that because this coming generation is supposedly the best educated generation, they are ready for adult responsibilities at a younger age. This we think contains two fallacies. First is the question of equating education with wisdom, and secondly is the assumption that they want adult responsibilities earlier in life.

We make the flat statement that the amount of book learning is no criterion upon which to base a supposition of maturity and the ability to exercise sound judgement by an individual. We have come across people of great education, in limited areas, who were social and economic babes in the woods. Likewise we have known many persons of very limited formal education who were doing very well from a social and economic standpoint.

We question whether the real majority of the youth want to be considered adults with the attendant legal responsibilities thrust upon them. After all, the exercise of naive youthful minds in dealing with many matters can have very adverse social and economic effects lasting for years. We think most young folks would rather be protected from their mistakes until they have gained more experience in dealing with the hard facts of life.

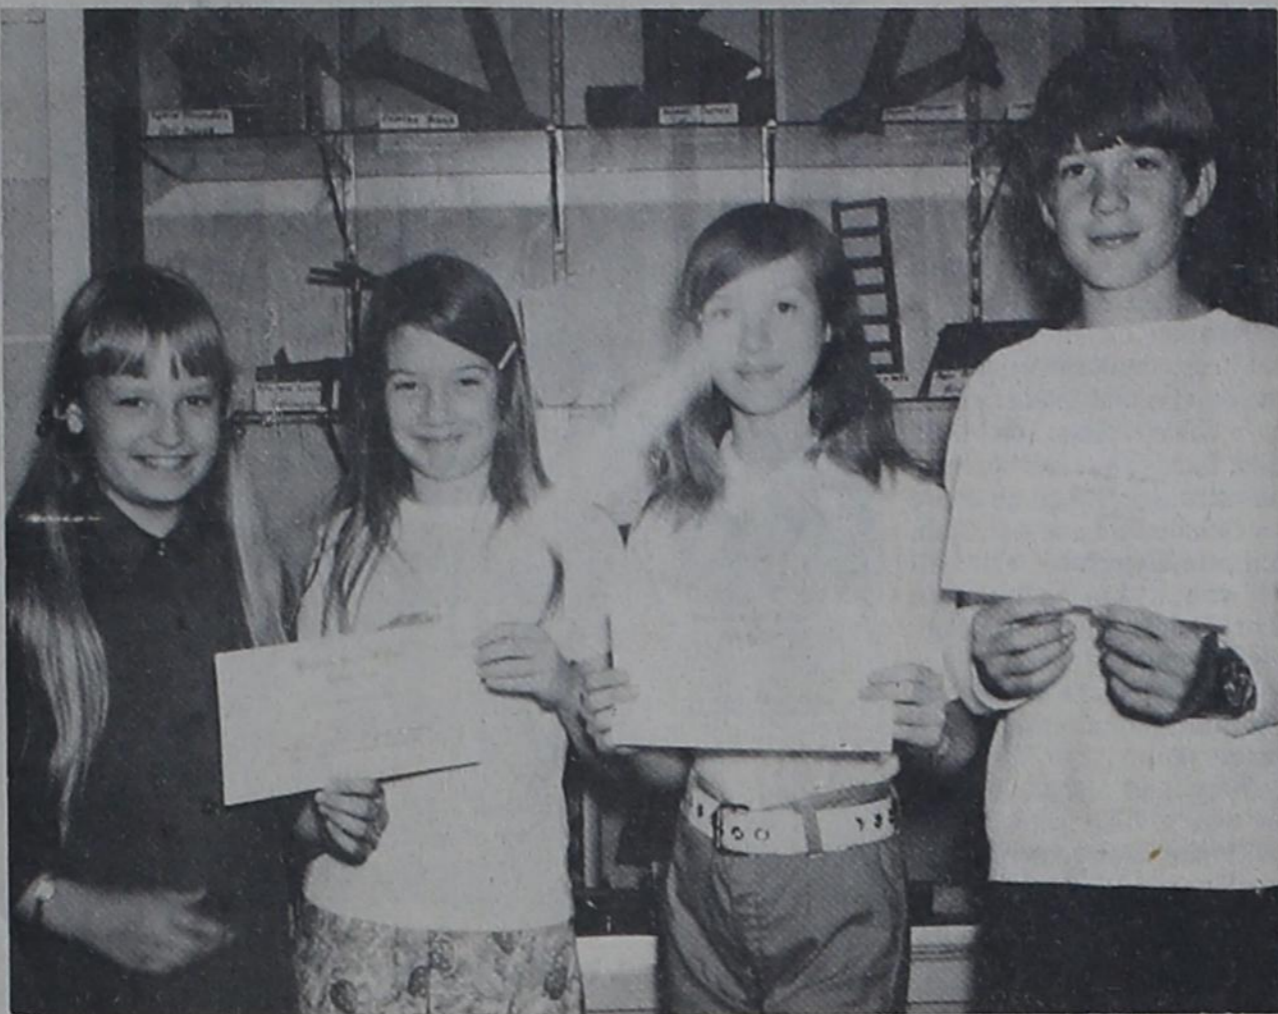

Of course, in contradiction to our backward thinking, the Texas State Senate last week approved a bill that would give the 18-year-olds the rights of an adult. We do not know yet if the House will be similarly hornswoggled by the youth cultists.

The Farwell City Commission in only the second meeting of its new term of office took several significant steps in getting the city business on a sound basis.

The first step was the placing of approximately $81,500 on interest earning certificates of deposit. This will mean about $4,500 additional income to the city in the next year. Probably Farwell has lost enough interest earnings in the past decade to pay for many of the civic improvements now being discussed.

Secondly, the city employees are to be placed under workman's compensation. While it is true from a strict legal standpoint that the city does not need to give its employees this protection, it is only a just and fair thing to do for the persons who work for the town.

We are glad to see these two steps being taken and look forward to many other city goals being realized in the next several months.

Ceiling Meat Prices Displayed In Farwell

Ceiling meat prices went into effect March 29 on orders from the United States government. Evidences of the act can be seen in Farwell grocery stores in the form of ceiling price lists and price tags labeled "ceiling price" below a variety of items which include meat. A host of meat products are included in the price freeze from fresh meat to canned meat and cold cuts. Baby foods were once included in the freeze but have since been released.

According to Benny Haney, co-owner of Capitol Foods in Farwell, fresh beef, pork and lamb and any food with beef, pork and lamb in it are covered by ceiling prices.

The ceiling price listed for each item included in the pamphlet issued by the corporation responsible for putting meat items on the shelves at local markets is the price grocery stores were charging on the cut-off date, March 29.

Since that time Haney and other grocery store owners have been instructed not to charge a price any higher than the one they charged on March 29. Haney noted that the price may be lowered.

The ceiling meat prices don't include imported meat products. The prices just pertain to meat products in the United States.

Besides retail meat products being affected by the freeze, wholesale markets are also under the umbrella of ceiling meat prices. A wholesaler of meat products is also instructed not to charge higher than the prices he was charging March 29. The same condition exists as in retail if the wholesaler wants to lower prices.

Haney said there are suppose to be controls during the freeze which would include a visit from a government employee checking to see whether local grocery stores have complied with the rules of the freeze by posting prices for their customers. Prentice Mills, County Executive Director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office in Farwell, said he thought policing would be done by the Internal Revenue Service from Clovis.

"I would think they would probably check the chain stores instead of smaller, locally-owned businesses, but I still put my signs up," Haney said. The groceryman added that he had no idea how long the freeze would go on. He said that although the signs are up nobody has asked him why or questioned his actions.

"I don't really understand the freeze, and I don't think anybody else does. They've put a ceiling on meat, but the rancher or farmer's doctoring, labor and expense of raising the animals is still going up," stated Haney.

CEILING MEAT PRICES are posted in grocery stores around this country. Kenneth Moore, who works in the meat department at Capitol Foods in Farwell, points to the ceiling meat price lists posted for items in the cold cut section. Ceiling meat prices went into effect March 29 and stores have been instructed to display ceiling meat prices for their customer's information. The freeze includes fresh meat, cold cuts, canned meat products - any food with beef, pork or lamb in it - produced in the United States.

$117,405 Accepted For '73-'74 Budget

A city budget for Texico for 1973-74 was approved Tuesday night during a special called meeting of Texico City Council. The meeting was open to the public, but only Council members and city employees were in attendance.

The $117,405 budget is broken up into several categories, including: General fund - $52,369; Revenue-sharing fund - $16,233; Fire Department fund - $9,880; and Utility fund - $37,432.

The budget will have to be approved by the Department of Finance in Santa Fe before it can be used. Mrs. Clara Wichl, Texico city clerk, said a representative from the Department would be in Texico June 1 at 8 a.m.

Attending the meeting were Mayor Manfred Turnbough, Mrs. Wichl, Commissioners Bill Christian, Wesley Engram, Don Caillouet and Bill Thigpen, Billy Hammit, water superintendent, and Larry Parks of Clovis, representing Eastern Plains Planning Council, who acted as consultant.

City Transfers $81,500 To Deposit Certificates Employees Get Worker's Comp.

The city of Farwell has transferred $81,500 into certificates of deposit which will earn 5 1/2 percent interest from checking accounts earning no interest, it was learned Monday at a regular meeting of Farwell City Commission.

The City Commission also decided to put city employees under worker's compensation and check on liability insurance for city employees.

A resolution was passed to hire an auditor to do a city audit. Parmer County has allocated $750 to the city for rural fire protection, but commissioners decided to meet soon with Commissioner's Court in an effort to raise the amount.

Five comments received from city residents on tear-out ads in a recent issue of the Tribune provided the commissioners with some insight into what the citizens of Farwell are concerned with. The comments dealt with the city's dog problem and paving.

Mrs. Janie Bowery, Farwell city clerk, said, "I would like to see 105 more (written comments) at least." Mrs. Bowery also said as the comments came in she would categorize them to see which subjects most of the residents discussed.

The Commission discussed placing of mobile homes in the city and installing larger water lines to help lower the city's key rate. According to Lee Hutchins, Farwell fire chief, a letter has been sent to the state notifying them of changes which would help lower the key rate some.

Fred Chandler, commissioner, is planning to conduct a survey on traffic controls in the city. He will report to the Commission after he finishes his study. I. W. Quickel met with the Commission to suggest hiring a city marshal. The Commission promised to study the matter.

Letters were sent to Panhandle Regional Planning Commission and Texas Municipal League after the Commission decided to join both organizations. Dues for Texas Municipal League are $100 a year. The meeting began with Mayor Gil Patschke, both commissioners, Jim Berry and Fred Chandler, and the city clerk in attendance. First on the agenda was payment of bills.

Mrs. Bowery read the minutes of the last meeting. They were approved and Mayor Patschke turned to old business before bringing new matters before the Commission.

It was announced that the Commission and Bob Lydick of Clovis had made a survey of the city's paving and decided all unpaved streets needed paving. It was pointed out that although the Commission felt this was the case, no decisions have yet been made.

Lydick, a licensed engineer, suggested that the Commission confer with a lawyer on the possibility of paying for the paving project by selling paving warrants or certificates locally.

The city can't pay more than 90 percent of the paving project, so it should be decided what part the city should pay and leave the rest to the property owner. Lydick also said the extent of paving would need to be decided before anything else is done.

A public hearing was discussed as a next step in deciding how to pay for the proposed paving project. The public hearing would also allow Farwell residents to voice their approval or disapproval of the extent to which the Commission plans to pave city streets. Lydick also suggested that the Commission keep the public informed on the progress made in the paving project and offered a step-by-step outline of items to be taken care of before the project is started.

Mrs. Bowery noted that the city's last paving project was paid for through certificates instead of bonding. It was also stressed that the city would be better off if the paving project could be funded without bonding.

V. C. Venable, city water superintendent, asked the Commission for approval to set 300 feet of two-inch line near the old City Hall building after it was requested by Bill Hagler who recently purchased the property.

The Commission decided to allow Venable to put in the line and let Hagler take responsibility for the rest, which would hook up to his property.

Venable also brought up needed sewer and well fencing and gates for another well. The Commission discussed Venable's requests and told him to seek bids on fencing.

The Commission voted to buy a shredder from Farwell Equipment Co. to be used at the dumpgrounds. A proposal to allow Farwell Fire Department members a minimum water bill was accepted pro-

Portraying Area Homemakers

by Janie Crane

Our Area Homemaker this week, Mrs. Doyle (Doris) Ford of Farwell, is continuously on the go, taking care of her husband and two children and reporting for work as a bookkeeper throughout the week at Security State Bank in Farwell.

Doris, her husband, and two children, Cydney, 10 years old, and Rocky, nine, have lived in their present home for two years. After the couple married in June, 1957, they lived in Farwell for three years before moving to Clovis. They spent six years in Clovis before returning here in 1966.

Our homemaker has worked at the bank for the better part of the last 15 years, taking time out only to have her two children.

Doris and her family moved to the Texico-Farwell area in 1951. She went to school in Texico for four years and finished her last two years of school in Farwell. She graduated in 1957.

Ford moved to Farwell with his family in 1952. He attended Farwell schools and graduated in 1955. After he finished schools he started farming.

Doris' mother, Mrs. O. C. Harriman, is still a Farwell resident. So are Ford's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Ford, and his grandmother, Mrs. Lottie Mitchell.

Both Doris and Doyle enjoy working with service organizations. Doris has been a member of Theta Rho Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority for four years. She was a member of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority in Clovis.

Ford is a member of Farwell Quarterback Club and he coaches Pee Wee League baseball in the summer. All of the family enjoy attending football and basketball games at Farwell and football games at Texas Tech.

Rocky plays on the Piggly Wiggly baseball team in the summer and was on a Little Dribblers farm team this year. He also won district in Story Telling at the UIL Literary Contest this year. He is in the third grade. Cydney, a fourth grader, enjoys Girl Scouting.

When our homemaker can find time, she enjoys playing golf and sewing. She just finished making Cydney an Easter dress. "I don't have a lot of time to apply to either one," she said.

She started playing golf five or six years ago. She also enjoys reading mysteries and books based on the movies and listening to music of all kinds.

As a family, the Fords attend Farwell Church of Christ.

The family likes to take weekend trips whenever possible and enjoys seeing good movies and plays. Doyle and Doris have taken the children to Florida and the couple has been to Jamaica, California, Yellowstone National Park and Colorado.

Doris likes to cook as most homemakers do. Her specialty is spicy foods, Italian and Mexican. The Fords also enjoy cooking outside in the summertime. She has offered to share three recipes with our readers, one of which is her husband's favorite cake recipe.

'Color My World' Theme Of Junior-Senior Banquet

"Color My World" was the theme for the Junior-Senior Banquet honoring Texico High School Senior class Monday in a Clovis restaurant.

Decorations using the banquet theme were a poster on one wall depicting a girl and boy holding hands with a colored world in the background. Jumbo Crayolas at each place and green napkins on which were pictured girls and boys holding hands with "Color My World, Junior-Senior Banquet, 1973" written in white completed the decorations.

Linda Autrey led the invocation. After a meal of chicken fried steak and baked potatoes, Randy Harrison gave the welcome. Gerald Whitener, president of Texico High School Senior class, responded.

Jimmy Joe Robinson, Clovis High School coach, was guest speaker for the evening. Linda Wilson and Steve Osborn read the Senior class will and Kathy Stanley and Marilyn Walters read the Senior class prophecy.

Othena Smith gave the benediction after Curtis Lindley sang the theme song, "Color My World".

Approximately 80-85 persons from the two classes, class sponsors, class parents and administrators were in attendance. Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. A. D. McDonald, superintendent; and Mr. and Mrs. James Pierce, high school principal.

Camille Hobbs Weds G. Carey In Farwell

Camille Hobbs became the bride of Greg R. Carey April 21 in a double ring ceremony at Farwell Church of Christ. Miss Hobbs is the daughter of Mrs. Beulah Hobbs of Farwell and J. R. Hobbs of Lubbock.

The bridegroom's father performed the wedding ceremony before an altar setting of emerald greenery in an archway centered with gold wedding bells and a multi-colored bow. On either side of the altar were graduated sets of 12-branch candelabra holding tall yellow tapers.

Suzi Levy of Midland, cousin of the bride, and Mark Carey of Roswell, brother of the groom, were candlelighters.

A chorus made up of friends of the couple from Texas Tech University and Lubbock Christian College sang special music. After singing the processional, they sang "Evergreen".

Prior to the processional, James Hobbs and Sharan Carey of Roswell, brother and sister of the couple, sang "Let It Be Me". Mark Davies and Dottie Beasley, soloists, sang "Wedding Song" and "The Twelfth of Never". Andrea Denton sang "Whither Thou Goest".

As the couple finished repeating their vows and turned to light the unity candle, Ben King sang "The Lord's Prayer". The recessional, sung by the entire choral group, followed.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Walt Moeller of Laguna Beach, Calif., wore a formal gown of white organza, featuring Venise floral lace trim in the high neckline and molded bodice, with long, lantern sleeves ending in lace-edged flounce. The full skirt with deep, ruffled flounce edged in the lace, descended into a graceful chapel train. Her three-tiered veil of silk illusion was held by a crown of white floral lace. She carried a white Bible covered with a bouquet of multi-colored feathered carnations with white daisies.

Something new was her gown; something blue, the traditional blue garter handmade by a friend, Mrs. Justine Monroe. Something old and borrowed was a copper penny.

Vicki Lynn Hobbs attended her sister as maid of honor. She and the other bridesmaids carried a long-stemmed yellow rose and were attired in sheer, printed floral dotted swiss with a whisper of mint, yellow or apricot under each semi-full, long skirt.

Bridesmaids were Jan Levy of Abilene, Kerri Thomas of Amarillo and Stephanie Arwine of Abilene, cousins of the bride, and Patty McCoy, a friend from Abilene Christian College.

Jennifer and Paul Fogerson, children of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Fogerson of Farwell, were flower girl and ring bearer. Jennifer wore a long dress of printed dotted swiss, lined in yellow and fashioned after the bridesmaids' dresses. Paul was dressed in white and gold. He carried the ring on a white satin pillow.

Ken Johnson of Abilene was best man. Groomsmen were Roger Carey, James Hobbs, Bob Renne and Ken Barnett, all of Lubbock. Ushers were Bryan Bigger and Ben Simms, both of Lubbock.

The bride's mother wore a long, soft lime green polyester crepe dress with white accessories. The mother of the groom was attired in a long dress of mint green double knit featuring a high neckline and short sleeves with white accessories. Both mothers wore white orchid corsages.

Maternal grandmother of the bride, Mrs. W. H. (Lulu) Kistler of Muleshoe, wore a two-piece ensemble of pale blue with muted blue and gold with white accessories and a pink double knit with white blazer and white accessories.

Both the bride and groom are former students of Lubbock Christian College. Mrs. Carey also attended Abilene Christian College for three years. She is currently employed as a teller in a Lubbock bank. Carey is a student agent for a life insurance company in Lubbock. He will continue his studies this summer as a senior finance major at Texas Tech.

Parties honoring the couple began in Lubbock March 6 with a bridal shower and recipe party in the home of Mrs. Sue O'Neill. Mothers of the bridal couple were special guests. In Roswell, the bride was honored with a miscellaneous shower in the home of Mrs. Reagan Sweet with Mesdames Joyce Aduddell, Billie Ekkins, Merle Gill, Jan Mulligan and Margie Sowell co-hosting the affair.

At Farwell Church of Christ March 31, a bridal shower was hosted by Mesdames Loretta Fogerson, Margie Meeks, Ruby Meeks, Beverly Lunsford, Doris Martin, Hattie Coffey and Martha Peoples of Farwell and Evelyn K. Bradshaw of Clovis. The couple's mothers, Sharan Carey, the groom's sister, and Mrs. Kistler, his grandmother, were special guests.

For a wedding trip to Ruidoso, Mrs. Carey wore a three-piece pantsuit of red and pink double knit with white blazer and white accessories.

On The Farm In Parmer County

By R. MACK HEALD
County Agent

The export situation is the key to the longterm outlook for feedgrains.

If export sales continue at or near current volumes, above average prices are anticipated at harvest. However, if the U. S. returns to a low level of export marketing, prices of grains could be sharply reduced.

Massive grain purchases by the Soviet Union beginning last July are having a major impact on the current U. S. grain situation. Soviet wheat imports are projected to be four times that of 1971 and the U. S. will supply most of this trade. U. S. exports of corn, grain sorghum and soybeans are up due to production problems in many foreign countries.

Domestic grain usage has gone up as well. Increase in livestock numbers is the primary cause. Cattle on feed last fall were up 19 percent in the Southwest -- 30 percent in Texas.

Severe cold, wet weather this past winter also brought increased livestock feeding, thus adding to the demand for grain.

What about the supply situation?

Production should reach near record levels in 1973. Nationwide, feedgrain acreage should increase about seven percent. The U. S. Department of Agriculture's decision to reduce the set-aside acres for the feedgrain program has promoted increased plantings.

Grain sorghum acreage in Texas should be up 10 percent over 1972 while soybeans should show a phenomenal 56 percent increase. About 125,000 more acres will be planted to soybeans this year as a result of skyrocketing prices in 1972 and indications ahead. However, except for soybeans, acreages are still expected to be below 1971 levels.

Corn acreage will increase only slightly while the state's winter wheat acreage is reported to be up by about 9 percent.

Elm leaf beetles will soon be feeding actively on leaves of elm trees. This insect is a serious pest of elm trees in West Texas. Feeding from this insect skeletonizes the leaf surface of leaves and premature defoliation of the elm tree. This weakens the trees and makes them more susceptible to tree borers.

The adult beetles are oval and about one-fourth inch long. They are yellowish to olive-green in coloration with a black stripe along each side of the wing covers.

The female beetles are now laying eggs on the back side of leaves in clusters of 5 to 20. The eggs are bottle-shaped and yellowish orange in color. These eggs will hatch in a few days into small worms that are nearly black in coloration and are covered with short black hairs.

To protect the foliage of elm trees from feeding damage of the elm leaf beetle, trees may be sprayed with carbaryl (Sevin) or malathion. Mix and apply sprays according to manufacturer's directions on the LABEL of the chemical container.

Thorough coverage of the trees with the insecticide spray is necessary to obtain satisfactory control of this insect.

To secure additional height and better coverage of the tree, a hose on sprayer may be tied to a fishing pole or other sturdy object and raised up in the air and sprayed on the tree.

Caution should always be exercised when applying insecticides. Practice pesticide safety and read the LABEL instructions before applying.

President Nixon's decision to freeze the retail prices of beef, pork and lamb may have long-reaching effect on future production of farmers and ranchers.

Production costs of farmers and ranchers are continuing to increase. Since there is no freeze on these inputs and the producer knows now that he will not receive any higher prices for his animals, he may just become "fed up" with the whole situation. This could mean a pullback in resources and less expansion. And that's certainly not what is needed at this time.

Just at a time when producers should be expanding their herds to meet the increased consumer demand for red meat, they are caught in a situation that may "choke" some of them out of production or at least cause them to slow down on their expansion.

Possibly this ceiling may stymie many farm and ranch efforts directed to herd expansion. Producers will feel like they're in a dark room, afraid to move. Still others may even react with a "get even" attitude and hold back cattle and calves.

Right now farmers and ranchers need to be enticed to continue to increase production. Higher prices have done this. Unfortunately, expansion takes time. You just don't produce more beef or more pork or lamb overnight.

Some analysts already project a shortage of beef in the second half of this year. This shortage could become more critical in the wake of the ceiling on meat prices.

Consumers will probably see less meat in the grocery case of the future and will be paying more for it, unless livestock producers are given some incentives for profitable production.

REDUCE COTTON DISEASES The two keys to reduce disease losses in cotton are to purchase high quality acid-delinted seed treated with a fungicide and to plant early. Early planting is important where cotton root rot is a problem. Three new cotton varieties -- TAMCOT SP-21, 23 and 37 -- have been developed by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and are multiple disease resistant and can be planted earlier than standard varieties.

TWO MINUTES WITH THE BIBLE

BY CORNELIUS R. STAM, PRES. BEREAN BIBLE SOCIETY CHICAGO, ILLINOIS 60633

POWER PERFECTED IN WEAKNESS

To Paul was committed the greatest revelation of all time. He was divinely commissioned to proclaim the glorious all-sufficiency of Christ's redemptive work, God's offer of salvation by free grace to all who trust in Christ and their heavenly position, blessings and prospect.

Let he should become puffed up by the glory of these great truths, God gave him what he calls "a thorn in the flesh," an aggravating physical infirmity of some sort. "For this thing," he says, "I besought the Lord thrice, that it might depart from me" (11 Cor. 12:8). But the Lord knew better than Paul what was best for him:

"And He said unto me, My grace is sufficient for thee; for My strength is made perfect in weakness" (Ver. 9).

How right God was! Every Christian knows that with brimming health and "good fortune," comes the tendency to forget our need of Him, while infirmity causes us to lean harder and to pray more and this is where our spiritual power lies. Every believer should acknowledge this and say with Paul:

"Most gladly therefore will I rather glory in my infirmities, that the power of Christ may rest upon me. Therefore I take pleasure in infirmities...for when I am weak, then am I strong" (Vers. 9,10).

Infirmities of the flesh are common even to God's choicest saints. What satisfaction there is, then, in just believing God's Word: "My grace is sufficient for thee, for My strength is made perfect in weakness."

Credit Card Theft Topic Of Crime Prevention Article

EDITOR'S NOTE: This third in a series of stories dealing with organized crime in Texas concerns credit card theft and mob infiltration into legitimate business. The Texas Organized Crime Prevention Council, co-chaired by Atty. Gen. John Hill and Col. Wilson E. Speir, Director, Department of Public Safety, compiled the statistics used in this story. This series is part of a public education program developed by the Texas Organized Crime Prevention Council with assistance from the Texas Criminal Justice Council, the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, the Texas Department of Public Safety, the Office of the Attorney General of Texas and local law enforcement agencies.

For quick cash, there's nothing like the great American system of "putting it on plastic." Husbands everywhere are familiar with, "but darling, it didn't cost us anything. I put it on our credit card!"

The "ready credit" way of life has changed family budgets throughout the 50 states. Families of hard-working, honest fathers, and also those of the less-than-honest "god-fathers."

Within recent years organized crime has gained a foothold in the legitimate business world in Texas.

Credit card theft, criminal "monopolies," extortion and stock fraud are beginning to get their share of attention from law enforcement officials at all levels.

The Texas Organized Crime Prevention Council, co-chaired by Atty. Gen. John Hill and Col. Wilson E. Speir, Director of the Department of Public Safety, is mapping an all-out campaign on this relatively new organized crime endeavor in our state.

Credit card companies and innocent merchants are feeling the pinch of organized criminal rings as well as individual operators.

Illinois recently completed an exhaustive three-year investigation into the criminal field. Estimates there are that illicit credit card practices cost companies in that state more than $20 million during the period under study.

One high-rolling crook bragged he "averaged out around $50,000 a year" and boasted various credit card companies would verify he had "beat them out of $30,000 to $40,000 in cash."

There are no corresponding loss figures for Texas available at this time. The Illinois investigation was under a legislative mandate.

But there is no doubt Texas credit card firms are being bilked, as newspaper stories verify almost daily.

In a North Texas City not long ago police officers seized between 500 to 700 credit cards and identity documents which had been stolen.

Credit card theft is an all too frequent occurrence, as court records throughout the state will show.

The underworld price for a credit card ranges from $25 to $100 - depending on its origin.

Cards stolen from the U. S. mails and bank cards go for the top price.

Stolen cards procured by pickpockets, burglars or prostitutes who "roll" a client are in the cheaper price brackets because their loss is more quickly noticed.

These cards usually are good for a buying spree lasting from two days to a week. Typically a thief will either purchase merchandise or sell the card outright.

When a card gets "hot" it often will be left in some public place. Smooth operators pick a neighborhood where the finder usually would not be inclined to turn in the card anyway.

When the unsuspecting -- and dishonest at heart -- finder tries to make a purchase he may not only get caught on his own fraud attempt but may also be left holding the sack for all the previous illegal buys.

Organized crime has eagerly reached into this type of professionalism, adding the aspect of collusion as it refines the process.

One shyster explains "some companies are so interested in giving you credit, they very seldom go into a really thorough check of a card applicant's background."

A credit card obtained through a fraudulent application is considered the "safest" by business crooks.

Merchandise obtained with fraudulent credit cards is especially valuable to the thief's "fence" (dealer in stolen goods).

A "fence" doesn't ask where the goods came from. Television sets, shotguns, clothes -- items such as these make up the bulk of hot merchandise found on the fence's shelves.

Fraudulent credit cards are used to maintain luxury living habits, to gain funds for legal advice and bail bonds.

Stealing and selling a credit card is a common means for a drug addict to obtain funds to support his habit.

Fraudulent -- and legitimate -- credit cards often are used by criminals to do everything from settle a gambling debt to keeping his automobiles running.

Some credit card abuses involved collusion with employees or even the merchants themselves. A store clerk will write a fraudulent sales invoice on a "hot" card then give his cohort half the value of the merchandise which is left on the shelf.

Later, that same crooked employee sells the merchandise to a legitimate purchaser at full value . . . or sells it to an out-of-town friend or gives it to another merchant at a lower price.

Forgetful customers will go off and leave their credit cards at times, opening the door for dishonest employees to haul in the loot.

This is especially true at service stations where such items as tires or batteries can be charged without knowledge of the credit card owner and later sold to a "fence" for cash.

Crooked transactions such as these are punishable under state laws.

Most Texans are credit card holders from one or more major companies. Each of these companies has simple reporting systems for lost or stolen cards. Every card holder should maintain his own file of card numbers separate from the cards themselves so that he will have this information for reporting in case his cards are lost or stolen. Missing cards should be IMMEDIATELY reported to the card issuing company to insure minimum risk to the rightful cardholder.

Less easy to pinpoint and reprimand than credit card abuses are some of the more subtle tactics practiced throughout underworld circles to gain footholds in legitimate business enterprises.

Mob infiltration of the business community appears in many disguises.

According to the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, an industry or firm may serve as a front to camouflage the presence of criminal individuals or syndicate operations.

Specifically, organized crime uses commercial enterprises as sources of reportable income. Business fronts are used to siphon-off profits through legal and illegal means and to clothe the criminal entrepreneur in an aura of semi-respectability.

Such "legitimate fronts" also are used as a dodge to cover tax gimmicks.

Ultimately, of course, the criminal executive is interested in making money just like his honest counterpart. He just goes about it in a different manner utilizing scare tactics and sometimes "muscle."

Two common racketeer schemes involve criminal monopolies and extortion.

A national task force on organized crime points out the difference in the two methods.

A criminal monopoly is a "pure racket" employing strong-arm tactics to keep competition destroyed or scared away to gain business success.

Protection money to the mob once was a way of life -- and still is sometimes -- for small businessmen in the large cities of the East. Fail to pay and you get a brick through the window or your store burns down.

This type of extortion doesn't seek to destroy competition as is the case with criminal monopoly.

There are no indications, said the Organized Crime Prevention Council, the Mafia families are operating as such in the Lone Star State.

However, direct links between "home grown" Texas hoods and the organized underworld do exist.

One particular scheme which has shown up in Texas is the planned bankruptcy fraud.

A corporation will be set up as a going legitimate concern. It promptly buys all sorts of equipment through credit and then quickly takes voluntary bankruptcy.

The illicit gains are converted to cash quickly and the mob has pocket money.

This particular device was one of the favorite methods of supplying "family" members with their every need during the heyday of the Mafia in New York and Chicago over a period of three decades.

The mind-boggling, whirlwind high-finance arena of stock fraud and stock manipulation really doesn't touch the life of the average Texan -- unless he has his life savings invested in a company which is involved.

There is evidence of some link to organized crime in specific cases, but for the most part dishonest businessmen are able to operate because there always are potential investors with ideas of quick wealth.

Where organized crime does directly become involved in corporate swindlings, strong-arm tactics are often employed. It is not unknown for a mobster to actually take over a legitimate business and freeze or scare the owner out.

One classic case came to light in South Texas several months ago where the owner of a small incorporated business became involved in creation of a new conglomerate through a legitimate friend.

A "friend" of his friend convinced him to put his business into the conglomerate "because it will double your profits."

To the lasting regret of the honest businessman, he discovered the conglomerate was mob-controlled. They milked his assets bone-dry, even threatening violence at one point, then walked away.

This short-term exploitation of the small businessman in Texas is not prevalent, but it can happen to anyone unless prospective new partnerships are carefully checked.

Recognition of the enemy is the best weapon against organized crime for the average Texan.

HOW TO CHOOSE A CARPET: Your carpet is one of the most important home furnishing buys you ever will make. Its decorative power alone adds more to a room than any other single purchased element.

Let your own life style determine your selection. Carpet that demands a lot of care is not for the homeowner who couldn't care less, and casual carpet isn't for the elegant-minded. In a nutshell, plush is luxurious, tweeds are rugged and sturdy, shags are gay and casual. Textures and patterns can pick up or set a theme.

Study the traffic patterns in your home to help determine your carpet choice. Heavy traffic areas require sturdy carpet. In light traffic areas you don't need to be so careful. In the hall and other big traffic areas, choose a carpet that will stand up under the strain. Purchase top wear.

Science has come up with some fantastic new fibers in the last few years and every fiber producer has his own brand names. Every fiber has its own personality according to a spokesman for a leading carpet manufacturing company.

Each one will fulfill certain needs. Here are some of the assets of various fibers:

Nylon: strongest of all fibers; easy to clean.

Acrylic: wool-like warmth and softness; strong, resilient, easy to clean.

Polyester: second to nylon in strength; wool-like in appearance; easy to clean.

Olefin: durable, low-moisture absorbency; great for the kitchen, indoor-outdoor carpet; easy to clean.

Wool: the natural fiber, and the oldest known. It sets the standard for all man-made fibers. Soft, resilient, lustrous, resists soil, has excellent wearing qualities. All wool carpets made in America are moth-proof.

ASTROWORLD, U.S.A.: When Astroworld opens its gates each spring in Houston, it opens up a world of pure delight. Magic, fantasy, adventure and the joys of days gone by, plus top notch entertainment united to produce one of the four great amusement centers in the United States. Its 65 acres are packed with over 100 rides and attractions.

The star of this show is Marvel McFey and his gypsy caravan of animal friends. He presides over the 10 separate holiday worlds and opens the park each morning with his magical, musical gypsy wagon.

There has never been a gypsy like this before! His sumptuous costume and those of his friends were designed and produced in California at a cost of $75,000. This cast of Astroworld characters enterprisingly aware of and educated to the fact there is organized crime in the areas of theft, prostitution, narcotics, gambling, illegitimate takeovers of businesses, credit card abuse and all the other by-products of criminal activity.

Col. Speir says "the best defense against organized crime is an educated public, a public unwilling to be victimized."

He urges "recognize organized crime for what it is and what it stands for and then illegally-based criminal operations won't stand a chance in Texas if the tax-paying citizen is willing to strike with us at the economic threshold of mobdom and help us keep our state clean."

tain in the park each day and act as ambassadors of happiness for Astroworld and Astrodome at various civic and charity functions throughout the United States.

While Marvel McFey is adored most by Astroworld's younger guests, the teens and adults particularly enjoy the wide variety of professional shows. All of the entertainers are students, and they put enthusiasm and sparkle as well as professionalism into their acts. The Over the Border Brass Band serenades at the Plaza de Fiesta. The Crystal Palace Review presents their 25-minute show every hour in air conditioned comfort. The Lagoon Pavilion in Modville has hourly shows featuring the best rock sounds and single vocalists with the current hits.

And in other areas of Astroworld the Astroworld Marching Band, the Dixieland Band, the Country Cousins, a hillbilly band, and other shows perform everyday. This is a break into show business for these youngsters besides being a means of paying for their educations; and they give it their best.

The scope of entertainment, excitement, and innumerable delights at Astroworld is staggering and most visitors can not seem to crowd them all into one day. Marvel McFey invites the citizens of the world to take a break from the ordinary and step into his rare world of happiness. He promises good times to remember a lifetime -- a memory of shared fun for the whole family.

Astroworld's weekend schedule is 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. on Saturdays and 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Sundays until June 1, when the daily schedule begins.

SWCD Offers Facts On Food, Beef Prices

Farmer County Soil and Water Conservation District officials have compiled a few facts concerning food and beef prices which they feel are important for county residents to know. Here are the facts they have gathered:

The average person spent 8.2 cents more per day for his food in 1972, compared with 1971. Of that increase, slightly more than half (4.6 cents) was spent for meat.

The average retail price of Choice beef -- the "Cadillac" of food -- increased 9 1/2 cents per pound in 1972 over 1971. Since people eat an average of 3 1/2 ounces of Choice beef per day, the 1972 increase in Choice beef cost the average shopper about 2 cents more per day. Since some of this increased cost went for higher marketing costs, the average shopper paid farmers 1.3 cents per day more for Choice beef in 1972 than in 1971.

There is an extremely strong demand for food. We are eating more than ever before and we are bidding up the price.

We are eating more prepared, convenience foods with more of the kitchen work already completed and built into the food.

On March 1, eight percent more beef cattle were on feed in the major feeding states than a year earlier.

Prices for all consumer items rose by 58 percent between 1952 and 1972; retail food went up 47 percent; housing prices climbed by 64 percent.

The price of medical care increased 123 percent during the same 20-year period.

The Major division of Texico-Farwell Little League will begin its season Monday, May 7, with Tide meeting Worley Grain and Aldridge Insurance coming up against Kelly Green. First game listed will begin at 6 o'clock and second game listed at 8 o'clock in the evening.

Thursday, May 10, Kelly Green and Aldridge are pitted together with Worley and Tide facing each other. Monday, May 14, Worley faces Aldridge and Tide plays Kelly Green.

Texico-Farwell Lions and Rotary clubs will play their seventh annual ballgame Saturday, May 5, at 7:30 p.m. in Texico-Farwell Lions Club ballpark to kick off the Little League season.

The two local clubs have been playing each other since 1967 when the Lions were victorious 26-22. The Lions won again last year, 16-14, and issued a challenge to the Rotary for Saturday night's clash.

Winners of the games during the years have been - 1968,

Rotarians, 25-24, disputed tie, 24-24; 1969, Lions, 13-12, disputed; 1970, Rotarians, 14-11; and 1971, Rotarians, 23-6.

Approximately 75 boys have shown interest in playing ball for four Pee Wee teams, according to Jim Walker, president of Little League. Because of the great amount of interest, Walker and Little League officials are discussing the possibility of adding another Pee Wee League team.

"When we selected the Pee Wee teams, we had so many kids, we're looking at the possibility of organizing a new team," he said.

Pee Wee League has a tentative starting date of May 22 for the 1973 season, but practices for the teams will begin Monday, May 7, Walker says.

Walker urges any boy, 13-15 years of age, interested in playing Senior division ball to contact him or Bill Stone, player agent. He said this was the final call for Senior division players.

At Home In Parmer County

Recycle family clothes -- and create new fashions while saving money.

Sewing notions -- popular recycling tools -- transform old garments into style-conscious wearables. Examples include replacement pockets, zippers, new belt fasteners, trims and iron-on patches.

Some patches, especially designed for jeans, add new dimensions, promising teen approval.

With iron-on patches, follow directions carefully. Success requires the right pressure and heat -- otherwise the patch will fall away after cleaning.

Other renovation techniques turn to sewing machines, and most now feature numerous stitch variations -- valuable in creative mending.

Shrinks -- those brief sweaters -- are one current rage. Homesewers can create them by taking in side seams and hems of old sweaters.

Commercial sweater knits can be cut and sewn without raveling -- hand knits can't.

Sew-on patches and appliques will cover strains or holes in recycled garments. For a unified look, carry these new additions throughout the garment by adding contrasting pockets of the same fabric or color.

Decorative stitching, rick-rack, braid or contrasting band of fabric cover that lengthening line on dresses, skirts or slacks.

In other recycling "face-lifts," appliques reinforce buttonholes and decorative pulls replace plain zippers.

Extend pants wear-life by reinforcing inside hems. For best protection, cut half-moons -- measuring about five inches by one inch deep -- of heavy fabric and add to inside hems.

As for care of a recycled item, consider both garment and added trim or fabric. Both should be compatible -- washable trims on washable garments.

For best results, pre-shrink trim before using -- following the procedure normally used with the garment. This insures a recycled garment as attractive later as when first changed.

Once started, ideas and creativity just seem to flow.

CD Meet Set Thurs.

A meeting of Parmer County Civil Defense unit was to be Thursday, May 3, at Farwell First Baptist Church. The meeting was to organize a Civil Defense unit in Parmer County for the purpose of providing rescue operations during severe weather, radio relay, first aid and communications breakdowns.

James Fritz, a former Civil Defense unit member from northern Indiana, was to be in charge of the meeting. He spent 13 years with a Civil Defense unit in Indiana and eight years as assistant chief. Fritz has discussed the organization with Parmer County Commissioner's Court.

Anyone who is interested in the Civil Defense unit and was not able to attend Thursday night's meeting, is urged to contact James Fritz.

John Daniels, another Farwell resident, who is interested in getting a Civil Defense unit started, said CB'ers (members of Citizens Band two-way radio organization) are particularly needed. He said a Bovina (CB'er) is attempting to round up all CB'ers in the county.
