

FROM THE HOPPER

By Hop Jr.

Probably you are familiar with the irresistible urge that comes upon a person when the telephone happens to ring and he is in the bathtub, eating dinner, or engaged in some other activity that shouldn't be interrupted.

It usually is more than a person can bear to sit and let the telephone ring, going unanswered. "Who knows—it might be something important" is what we always say to ourselves as we drop everything to answer the call.

Of course, it never is important. Or at least as important as we feared it might be. This is a very common ailment of modern man that might well be called "answer-phobia." It simply cannot be resisted.

The good wife has another affliction even worse, however, and there doesn't appear to be much hope for a cure. Her trouble could be described as "openphobia," a disease that infects her whenever a mail train runs.

As many businesses do (and newspapers in particular) we receive dozens of pieces of mail daily which are good for nothing except carrying out in the next day's trash. Since we have learned to recognize the contents, or at least the worthlessness of the contents, by examining the outside of the envelope, and because the pressures of our business cause us always to be in a hurry, we often hastily drop a half dozen mailings into the wastebasket at one time—unopened.

That is one accomplishment that Jeanne has never mastered, however. The urge to rip open and inspect every piece of mail, no matter how worthless may be its contents, is too much for her constitution.

When she gets behind in her work she may allow the mail to pile up three or four feet high (and this is no exaggeration, really) in a corner of the living room, but sooner or later she will find a week-end and catch up on reading it all. Even the newspapers, of which we receive over 50 each week, are scrupulously scored, page-by-page.

As we noted elsewhere in the paper last month, things look favorable for construction of the much-talked-of dam across Running Water Draw in the next year or two.

We noticed a story in Sunday's Clovis paper indicating that a final decision on the site is at hand, and that funds already have been earmarked from state and federal channels for this project.

Hop Graham, originator of this column and publisher of The Tribune for many years, worked hard on this idea continuously from about 1943 until 1952 when illness forced him from his newspaper activity.

Back then, when irrigation was just getting started, and so little was known about our underground reservoirs, he foresaw the value of retaining rainfall on the surface as one means of aiding the recharge of our underground water sands.

And he advocated retention dams for such purposes—in addition to the rather obvious benefits of recreation—even though it was then commonly held that our underground water was "inexhaustible," "comes from a mountain stream," or some other theory that we would all like to believe, but somehow can't support with statistics.

Thinking on our water resources has undergone a great change in just the last two years. There are two major reasons for this:

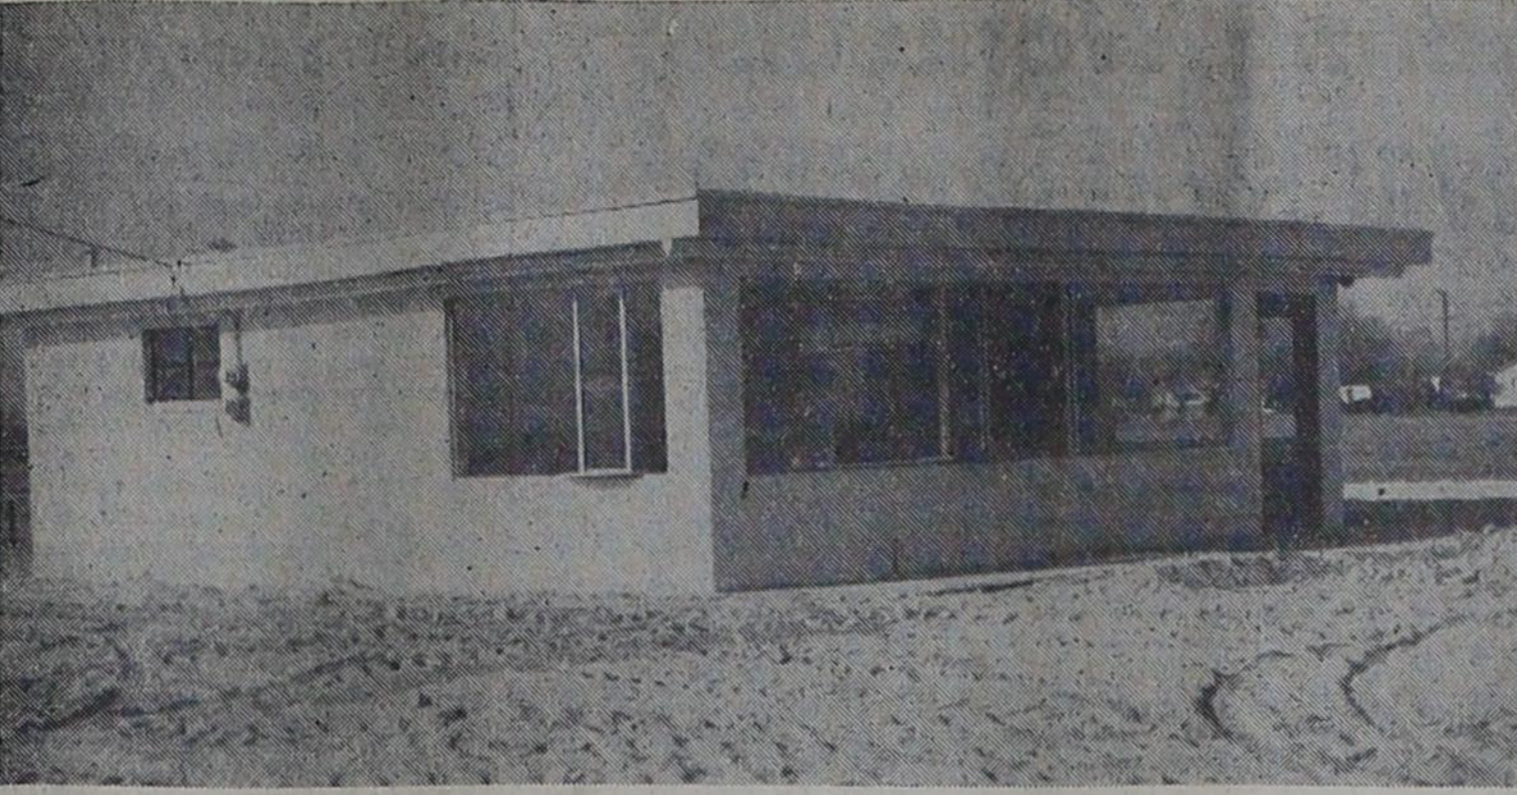

1—The rapid drop in water table in southern and eastern parts of the High Plains, giving every indication that the water supply is coming from storage only.

2—The establishment of the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District, which has taken an inventory of our resources and published, or caused to be published, much material of an educational nature.

We like to go fishing as well as anybody, although we are unfortunate enough to have one of those jobs that ties us down practically 365 days a year. So we look forward to the recreational benefits that should accrue from the completion of this dam.

But we anticipate just as keenly the story of underground water recharge which such a structure may bring into focus. This dam probably will be built about three or four miles west of the Texas-New Mexico line, and there are enough irrigation wells in a south-eastern direction from its proposed site to provide some interesting statistics in future years if observations are properly conducted.

In this issue are the messages of many elevators of the area which represent an expression of appreciation from grain dealers and producers to several legislators and others who helped get the grain sorghum amendment through

Red Cross Canvass Underway Here

The annual drive for funds for the Red Cross started this week in Texico and Farwell. Mrs. Ollie Burton is chairman of the drive in Farwell, and Texico's chairman is Ben Smart.

Canvassing in Farwell began Tuesday afternoon, and Mrs. Burton reports that the success of the drive on that day "was only fair." The drive will continue throughout this month and workers in the communities plan to contact each home for contributions.

Ben Smart reported that work has begun in canvassing the people who live in the country. Plans have been made to make a house-to-house drive tonight (Thursday), from 6 to 8 o'clock.

Working with Mrs. Burton in the Farwell campaign are Mrs. John Armstrong, Mrs. Kirt Crume, Mrs. Jack Spurlin and Mrs. Bill Foster.

Other Texico workers besides Smart include John Adams, Mrs. Claude Dyer, Mrs. Joe Helton, Mrs. Scott Levins, Mrs. Lucy Brown, Mrs. John Hadley, Mrs. Levi Reid and Mrs. B. L. Harding.

BONDS APPROVED

The $175,000 in refunding bonds for expansion of the Lazbuddie School system have been approved by Attorney General John Ben Sheppard.

Work Moves Ahead On Phone Expansion

Tons of new telephone equipment moved into Texico-Farwell this past week as preparations for new facilities moved at an accelerated pace.

C. H. "Tish" Forester, manager of the Clovis exchange, said that all phases of the present Twin City expansion program will be completed by mid-April with the new units in operation on April 21. Forester said also that 400 new lines are being put into operation to take care of the increased demand for telephone service in the area.

Estimated cost for the expansion program has been set at $55,000 with an additional $32,000 to be spent at a later date. The present figure represents expenditures for additional dial equipment in the central office and for lines and cables in the Texico-Farwell area.

Forester also pointed out that in nearly all cases, with the exception of a few isolated ones, telephone subscribers in Texico-Farwell will be furnished the grade of service which they request.

The Western Electric crew began installation of new equipment on March 15. Western Electric is the manufacturing and supply unit of the Bell Telephone System.

New equipment was unloaded in Texico last week in Mountain States Telephone's new expansion program for service to the Twin Cities. Here workers unload boxed parts that will go into the expansion.

Charges Filed After Shooting

Charges of aggravated assault with intent to kill were lodged against Floyd Ancira, 35, Spanish American worker of the Oklahoma Lane community, Monday.

The charges grew out of a shooting in that community in which two Latinos were wounded and Ancira himself was clubbed on the head.

The affair began about 9 or 10 Sunday morning when Ancira and three other Spanish Americans and one white were having a drinking party. In a state of inebriation, the five got into Ancira's car and went for a ride.

The four passengers apparently didn't approve of Ancira's unsteady driving, and so he stopped and ejected them from the car, then drove off. While the others were left on the roadside, Ancira returned to his home and obtained a .22 caliber automatic rifle.

He returned to where the men had been let out, and leveled the gun on them. Two of the companions, seeing that he was intent on firing at them, charged Ancira.

GOC Organizational Meeting Is Tonight

Another organizational meeting of the Ground Observer's Corps is scheduled for tonight (Thursday) at the courthouse in Farwell, reminds Johnnie Williams, coordinator.

Scheduled for 8 o'clock, the meeting will be conducted by Sgt. Bill Swope of Oklahoma City, who is organizing units in this area.

Because of the importance of this type work to the defense effort, Williams is making an appeal to all Texico-Farwell men to come out and help establish a GOC unit here.

Paul Aragon, 30, Bovina, ducked his head as Ancira fired and a bullet struck him near the right temple. Because of the oblique angle from which it was fired, however, it did not penetrate his skull. Instead the bullet traveled along under Aragon's scalp and lodged in the back of his head.

Sheriff Chas. Lovelace observed that a half-inch change in the bullet's course would have meant

Farwell Meeting Set For Farmer's Union

Area farmers, and especially those from New Mexico, are invited to a Farmer's Union meeting in Farwell Monday night, to be at the Legion Hall.

Glenn Phillips, Farwell farmer helping organize a Union local here, reports that seven members signed up at a meeting Monday night of last week, and formal organization of the Farwell local is expected next week.

To be on hand for the session is Richard Alexander of Denton, who is Farmer's Union state secretary. He will report on the national convention in Denver, which is now in progress, and answer questions on Union membership.

A special invitation to New Mexico farmers has been issued because there is no state organization there, emphasizes Phillips.

Free coffee and doughnuts will be passed out at the meeting, which starts at 8 o'clock.

Farwell members now include John McFarland, Bob Hart, Don Williams, Elmer Hargrove, Bert Williams, Rudolph Renner Jr., and Phillips.

Final Rites For Mrs. Williams

Funeral services were held Sunday in Truth or Consequences, N. M., for Mrs. W. W. Williams who died following a heart attack.

Her husband, W. W. Williams, lived south of Texico for several years prior to moving to Truth or Consequences.

Grade Football Loop Formed

Grade school coaches from Bovina, Lazbuddie, Friona and Farwell met at Friona recently to set up a grade school football and basketball league. Coaches from Sudan and Springlake were also invited to attend this meeting as these two schools will be participating in the league event.

Kenneth Field of Friona was elected chairman of the league, and Ed Lehnick, also of Friona, was elected secretary-treasurer of the group.

Some of the motions made and passed at this meeting include the following:

Instead of setting a specific day of the week for a game, the game will be set during a particular week so that the two schools concerned can work out a day and time to fit their schedules.

Eligibility will be the same as the Interscholastic League.

Members of the teams who are 15 years old or older on or before September 1 are ineligible.

Trophies are to be given for both first and second place teams. In the case of a tie, identical trophies will be awarded.

An entrance fee of $3 will be charged and the fee must be paid before the first game.

Some of my friends have solicited me to make the race for Tax Assessor and Collector of Parmer County, so after considering the proposition for nearly three months, I have decided to make the race, subject to the will of the voters in the Democratic Primary in July.

I feel like I can make you a hired hand and will do my best to handle the duties of the office to the best of my ability, and will appreciate any and all help I can get.

"OFFICIAL PUBLICATION OF PARMER COUNTY"

FARWELL, TEXAS

THURSDAY, MARCH 22, 1956

Bulletin!

A continued deficiency in moisture for the 1956 growing season was forecast this morning at 6:49 by J. M. "Indian" Crim of Lazbuddie.

Gathered with his family and neighbors, the Parmer County farmer surveyed a south-south-west wind and predicted fair to poor crops as a result.

Not since 1949 has Crim predicted normal or above normal rainfall. He did say, however, that 1956 will be better than 1955.

One-Fourth Sesame In Parmer County

Interest in sesame seed production is on the increase in Parmer County, according to Robert Parker of the Texas Sesame Seed Growers Association at Paris.

Last year, farmers of the county flocked to plant the "new" crop, and resulted in Parmer County producing one-fourth of the entire sesame seed output in Texas for 1955.

The price of sesame averaged about 10 cents a pound, which means that the 1,000,000 pounds of seed produced here grossed farmers about $100,000.

Reports from farmers after the harvest was completed indicated widely varying results with the oilseed crop. Some farmers pushed production up near 1200 pounds per acre, but others were discouraged with yields of as low as 400 pounds on irrigated land.

A meeting will be called in the county to discuss opportunities for this year on April 9. The hour and place of the meeting will be announced later.

Two Farm Sales To Be Next Week

Two more farm sales have been announced for next week by Dick Doshier and Orval Francis, auction team. They are:

The W. C. Newbrough sale, which will be Monday, March 26, to be held 10 miles north, 5 1/2 west of Bovina; or 10 miles west, 2 miles north and 5 1/2 west of Friona. A 1944 Allis Chalmers tractor heads this list.

Wade Pendergrass will have his sale Wednesday, March 28, at his place nine miles south of Texico-Farwell, and one west on the Moorehead ranch. Five tractors lead off the consignments.

The Newbrough sale will start at 1 p. m., but the Pendergrass auction will begin at 10:30 a. m.

EVERYBODY reads The Tribune.

And take that! Dick Lockhart winces as he receives a sound slap from Theresa Cox. This action takes place in the Texico junior class play, "Mother Is a Freshman," which goes onstage March 23. Lockhart, who plays the part of Professor Michaels, is getting rough treatment from Miss Cox (Abigail Abbott) for giving her a book of love poems as recommended reading.

More Names Added To School Ballots

Several additional candidates' names were placed on school election ballots this week. The election will be Saturday, April 7, announces A. D. Smith, county school superintendent.

W. M. Shirley has been filed for county trustee-at-large, and Matt Jesko has been entered as a candidate for the precinct 4 (Lazbuddie) vacancy on the county school board.

Local school trustee nominees at Lazbuddie are Clarence Mason, Harold Wilson, R. L. Jones, and T. O. Lesly. Mason's and Conrad Nelson's terms expire this year.

In Farwell, five more men are on the ballot for local trustees. They are Dick Gerles, Buck Gregory, John Armstrong, Oscar Hubbard and Billy Joe Foster. Already announced are L. E. Meeks and A. H. Haseloff.

35 Farmers Take Out Tree Orders

Thirty-five farms in Parmer County will be sporting improved farmsteads in the coming years as a result of planting trees, figures from the county agent's office indicate this week.

About 7,000 trees were ordered and distributed through the office, with the bulk of the orders being for red cedars, Ponderosa pines and Chinese elms made up part of the orders, also.

Texico Junior Play Is Tomorrow Night

"Mother Is a Freshman," a three-act comedy will be presented Friday night, March 23, in the school auditorium beginning at 8 p. m. (CST) by the junior class of Texico High School.

Charles Morton Injured in Fall

Charles Morton, six year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morton, received severe head injuries Sunday afternoon when he fell into an open man-hole near the 3-D Drive-In.

The accident occurred about 3:30 p. m. when Charles and his brother, Jimmy, were walking home. Jimmy managed to get Charles out of the hole, and when the boys reached home, Charles was taken to the Clovis hospital for treatment.

He was confined there Sunday night and was released Monday afternoon after doctors found no fractures. Although Charles is staying out of school this week, Mrs. Morton reported Wednesday afternoon that his condition was much improved and that he was having little pain.

The open man-hole was said to have been 12 feet deep.

W. H. Graham Jr., The State Line Tribune Farwell, Texas, Dear Sir:

In the February 2 issue of The Tribune, under the heading of "Farmers Eye Sources of Possible Revenue" you say in part, Parmer County farmers and thousands of others on the High Plains are anxiously casting about for additional farm enterprises that might lead to more income.

In this connection while looking through a seed catalogue which I receive every year from the

Burgess Seed and Plant Co., Galesburg, Michigan, I came across an item which I believe merits our

Social Events of Interest

Happiness Is Topic Of Banquet Speaker

"You receive happiness when you make others happy," Sheridan Lee, Wayland College, Plainview, told the 14 Texico seniors at the annual banquet given Tuesday night in their honor at the Texico Baptist Church.

Lee spoke about happiness and how a person seeks it, keeps it and regains it when it is lost. He explained that some of the things most people claim are necessary for happiness are not really what makes one happy after all. Some of the examples he discussed were security, fun, popularity and no sorrow.

Then Lee elaborated on each of these, pointing out that overcoming and preparing for insecurity is what makes one really happy. "You're bored to death," he told the class, "you're too busy searching for fun." He then reminded them that they could not expect their entire lives to be a picnic and that they must find something worthwhile to do.

"Popularity cannot bring you happiness," Lee said, "for there is not one subject in the whole world which is accepted by all." Lee then pointed out that one should win the approval of God, not of his fellowman.

Lee said that as seniors, they should throw criticism aside and seek to do God's will even though the journey has not been promised to be a smooth one.

"And in seeking God's will," he said, "you must above all, have humility." In closing Lee said, "Love your fellowman, and by making him happy, you will receive happiness."

The basement of the church, where the banquet was staged, was decorated to resemble a circus big top with gaily colored crepe paper forming the top.

The three banquet tables were laid with bright colored cloths and were centered with stuffed circus animals. Programs and menus were printed on elephant cut outs. A circus concession stand, complete with popcorn, peanuts, balloons and crackerjacks, stood in the basement corner.

"Antics of a Circus Clown" was the opening talk given by Allen Kelley, master of ceremonies. "The Opening Act" was given by Rev. C. C. Morgan as he gave the invocation.

Mrs. B. A. Kelley, acting as barker for the night's show, gave a short welcome, and Anita Tharp gave the response.

The main event included the serving of the circus meal by waitresses dressed in gaily colored clown ensembles.

Bill of fare for the evening included ham acrobats, side show, trapeze darlings, center ring, thrills and chills, cotton candy, roll-ups, grease paint and lemonade.

Misses Naomi Hapke, Oneta Autrey and Joyce Gilean were the courtiers, they kept the atmosphere gay and light.

Following the meal, Mrs. Merle Thurman sang "The Happy Wanderer," accompanied by Mrs. W. T. Watson at the piano.

After Dr. Lee's talk, Mrs. C. C. Morgan gave the benediction.

Attending the show under the big top as guests were Anita Tharp, D'Tanis Caldwell, Shirley Doshier, Sue Doolittle, Sue Reid, Doyal Webster, Leon McDaniel, Rex Harris, Bob Spears, Lester McDaniel, Allen Kelley, Pal Stone, Roy Thornton, W. E. Harvey, Paul

A buffet supper preceded the evening's entertainment. A revolving tray of ham and cheese was centered with a purple cabbage which held her d'oeuvres on vari-colored toothpicks. A garlic dip was served with potato chips and corn chips. Relishes and baked beans and buttered French bread, was served with iced tea to complete the meal.

Centerpiece for the serving table was an arrangement of yellow jonquils, the ESA flower, in a silver bowl, with yellow candles on either side of the floral grouping. The table was covered with an organdy cloth over yellow.

Games were played during the evening, and Mrs. Joe Helton, president, made a short talk.

Attending were Mesdames Claud Dyer, Graham, Helton, Elizabeth Kaltwasser, Walter Kaltwasser, Wilfred Quickel, Mitz Walling, Williams, Don Williams, Wilma Liner, Watkins, also Mrs. Calvin Murray, Mrs. Joe Jones and Mrs. John Getz.

THE TRIBUNE'S EDITORIAL COMMENT

Even With Texas Tech Lubbock Needs An Education

The fact that in Lubbock is located one of the Southwest's major educational institutions apparently does not mean that its city developers are endowed with too great an understanding of ground water resources and their behavior in the High Plains.

Some purportedly "authentic information" circulated by an area newspaper recently gave rise to the theory that in reality, residents of the western irrigated High Plains have nothing to be unduly concerned about over Lubbock's announced intention to build a 48-inch line to the sandhills of Bailey County (just south of Parmer County) and pump 40,000,000 gallons of water a day to that ambitious community.

For the most part, or so goes the theory, Lubbock will only be using water that is now consumed and transpired by salt grass which grows in profusion in the sandhills. Lowering the water table to a level below the root zones of these plants will mean that water otherwise lost to this vegetation will become available for human consumption.

The author of this unusual hypothesis, who likely calls Lubbock his home town, probably has no idea how much water 40,000,000 gallons per day is, and how much salt grass such a quantity of water would support. It also appears that he has failed to consider that the plants of which he speaks take up most of their water as it falls on the surface from the skies and percolates to the water table a few feet below. That is to say, lowering the table will not mean the end of the grass or the establishment of any new water reserve of any consequence.

It also is suggested that little or no interference in wells of the irrigated areas out of the sandhills should be expected from this heavy pumping. As is fully shown in every geological or hydrological report ever published by the Texas Board of Water Engineers or our own High Plains District authorities, all irrigated areas on the High Plains are drawing from sands which are of the same origin—the Ogallalas. Their relationship from area to area is closely knitted to such an extent that prolonged pumping from any one area of say, a few miles square, will adversely affect the supply available from all surrounding areas.

That for all practical purposes our irrigation water is coming from storage, and is not replenishable except through surface rainfall or artificial means, is now proved to the satisfaction of all who have ever given thoughtful study to the published facts. Lubbock ought to realize this well, since near that city are located some farms that are drying up because of the depletion of underground water resources.

Hydrologists advise us (Bill Broadhurst, for one), that such permeable areas as the sandhills to the south serve an all-important purpose in providing recharge through quick access of our Ogallala formation for rainfall.

The areas which are benefited from such recharge can scarcely allow such fabrications as the "salt grass theory" to lull the public into thinking that there is nothing ominous about Lubbock's intentions.

No doubt Lubbock will be able to prove to the courts' satisfaction that they have priority over agricultural users, but we ought to at least point out that they are taking water from us to use for their own interests. Water is the foremost natural resource of this part of the Southwest, and cities and farms alike must be educated to a proper understanding of its utilization.

Construction Begins On "Sands" Motel

Construction began Monday morning on the Sands Motel, a 10-unit building that will be located on the north side of Highway 60 in Bovina. Raymond Sudderth, local real estate man, is building the motel.

Dewey Hicks of Amarillo is the contractor. Hicks says the motel will be completed within 75 days.

The building will be L-shaped with a 150-foot front and back and a side 200 feet long. It will be made of pink crest stone with a white marble roof. Included in the building is a two-bedroom private residence that will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Sudderth.

Each of the 10 units will have a private bath with a bathtub and a shower, wall to wall carpeting, and refrigerated air. The roof will have a six feet overhang and a seven feet sidewalk will run in front of the units.

Sudderth, son of Lee H. Sudderth, was raised in Bovina, but lived in Farwell for several years. He moved to Bovina a few months ago. He has been in the real estate business one and one-half years and was a farmer before he got into the real estate business.

Cafe, Too
Foundations for a new and modern cafe adjacent to the motel were slated to be laid this morning (Wednesday). The cafe building is being built by Lee H. Sudderth.

Hubert Ellison of Bovina will be the contractor for the 40 by 70 feet building.

Nita Turrentine, present owner of the Highway Cafe in Bovina, has taken a five year lease on the building.

The building, upon its completion, will be of the same material—pink crest stone and white marble roof

Sandwiches may be decorated with sliced pimento, olives or egg yolks pressed through a sieve. Any combination may be used for the above, and for further decorative effect dark bread may be used for a center slice.

Jack Williams is in a jam. Either he is obligated to buy a horse or his truthfulness will be questioned.

Sharon, his daughter, celebrated her fourth birthday this month. Jack patiently explained that she was supposed to try to "blow out all the candles" on her cake. If she did her wish would come true. So the perky little miss thought and thought, then announced her wish was made. She inhaled deeply, and all the candles were puffed out at once.

Proudly Sharon asked "you know what I wished, daddy?"
"No," commented Jack, still oblivious of his fate.
"I wished you would buy me a horse."

And as long as we are discussing birthdays—Glenda Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Lewis, is also a new member of the four-year-old set.

Her proud grandmother, Mrs. Sam Lewis, tells us that Glenda sang "Happy Birthday" just as loud as any of the other children, at her party last week.

It's getting so we hardly know what to believe any more. We read so many stories, and there are so many scandals. It hasn't been too long since we were so impressed with a story on the work at Girlstown in Whiteface, that we re-printed the story in our paper.

Now the home is about to lose its license to operate, and the charges are many. What the outcome will be, we don't know!

If Mrs. John Benger doesn't send us her recipe for the cake that she took to the Black community meeting two weeks ago, we will be awfully disappointed.

Joe and Irene Jones, who attended the meeting along with our husband, brought the cake home with them, and Irene was kind enough to share with the Grammas.

It was out of this world. Not only was the flavor wonderful—but it was such a pretty cake. We think it was an orange chiffon and it stood so high, and the orange icing was accented by slices of orange centered with chocolate drops.

It looked like some of the color pictures from one of our home magazines.

Our mother-in-law heard this recently: Women should keep their eyes open before they get married, then keep them half closed after marriage.

When Jo Ann Williams gave a party for the Farwell seniors last week, we hear they had a gala time. But good food always helps a party toward success, and Jo Ann confides to us that the group consumed two cases of pop and over 100 sandwiches.

The advance in education in various ways is extraordinary, we'll admit, but one of the most unusual items we've come across recently was a clipping (we believe from Missouri) which was sent to Lillian Aldridge.

The child mentioned in the clipping is Lillian's cousin.

If an experiment now in progress proves satisfactory, illness may no longer prevent a pupil in

Watch Spider Mites, Farmers Are Warned

The brown wheat mite or spider mite is present in noticeable numbers in the wheat fields of the Parmer County area, and should be watched to insure against damage to the crop, warns County Agent Joe Jones this week.

A control measure available to most wheat growers is irrigating, which floods out the insects and generally clears up the infestation. "Farmers who have been putting off watering for one reason or another should consider the advantages of watering immediately to rid their fields of spider mites where present," advises the agent.

The greenbug outlook, which was serious at this time last year, is "nothing to be alarmed about," said Jones, indicating that recent warm weather has encouraged the increase of controlling insects such as ladybugs. Irrigated wheat in Parmer County, which totals about 50,000 acres, is thus in pretty good shape now. The remaining 50,000 of dryland wheat is at best only "hanging on," believes Jones.

Indianian Suggests Proso as Catch Crop attention and perhaps publication. I have clipped the page from the catalogue and am inclosing it together with a letter from them answering a number of questions which I asked them.

The item is White Proso.

In going back over their catalogue I note that it has been in their catalogue for a number of years although I had never noticed it before. Since we have 240 acres dry land near Bovina, we of course have had complete failures and a number of near failures during the last 25 years.

I believe that a number of times a crop of this type would have saved the day a number of times. Since it is possible to plant this after a wheat crop has been written off or even after the wheat has been harvested if moisture is sufficient, it seems that it might add considerable to the income.

And for farmers with irrigation wells where moisture is assured, a double crop is quite possible with wheat and Proso. Of course in this case, more fertilizer should be used so as not to deplete the land. Our tenant is Buck Ellison of Bovina. Should you not care to publish this information I will appreciate very much if you will forward this data to him.

Yours very truly,
C. O. Peek

WHITE PROSO

The description of White Proso in our catalogue is quite complete. Read it carefully. Here are the answers to additional questions asked us.

SOILS—Any type of soil, except very coarse sandy soil will produce a good yield. Proso does best in an alkaline or neutral soil. Of course, the heavier rich loams produce larger crops.

FERTILIZER—A fertilizer high in phosphorus and potash is best. Rate of application should be the same as you use for oats.

MOISTURE—White Proso will produce with less moisture than any other grain crop. It does need moist soil in which to germinate. So try to plant following a rain, even though you may need to wait until the end of the planting season in your area.

PLANTING TIME—The proper time to plant is after all danger of frost is past, or any time that will allow 60 to 65 days before fall frosts. Proso will not tolerate cold weather and grows slowly when weather is cool. Plant between June 1 and July 15 in most areas.

SEED REQUIREMENTS—Seed may be planted with a grain drill set to sow wheat at 1/2 bushel to the acre. This setting will deliver 30 to 35 pounds to the acre. Proso likes a firm seedbed. Best results are obtained when spouts of the drill are lowered. The seed should be covered more than one-half inch deep.

Seed may be sown broadcast and harrowed lightly to cover. White Proso may be sown with alfalfa, where it serves as a nurse-crop and quick grain crop. The alfalfa is sown at the customary rate through the seeder attachment. Follow with cultipacker to improve germination of the alfalfa.

HARVEST—White Proso grows slightly lower than oats, 18 to 30 inches. It is ready to harvest as soon as the upper third or half of the head turns yellow. If harvest is delayed grain will be lost through shattering. It is either cut with a binder or combined. When cut with a binder, it is threshed in a grain separator, except that poultrymen prefer to feed it unthreshed, especially to turkeys, as the seed shells out readily.

Since the leaves and stems are still green when the grain is harvested, the straw makes satisfactory hay for forage, or may be used as ensilage.

FEEDING—For feed to livestock other than poultry, the grain is usually ground. Proso is in most mixtures of bird seed. It is eaten readily by all kinds of livestock, having slightly higher feeding value than oats. It is reported to fatten hogs and cattle as well as corn. It has an approximate protein content of 16%.

the end of Aragon.

Tony Garcia, 28, of Hale Center, also rushing Ancira, ducked his head as Ancira fired, and received a wound in the top of his back, the bullet lodging near a shoulder blade.

He made his way to the gunman, however, and grappled Ancira for the weapon. Wrestling the gun away from its owner, Garcia clubbed Ancira on the head and beat him severely.

Meanwhile, Frank Govan, 30, of Oklahoma Lane, Spanish American, and John Renner, 47, a Friona railroad hand, escaped from the scene.

Garcia and Aragon were treated at the Farwell Clinic, and Ancira was taken to Parmer County Community Hospital in Friona.

Sheriff Lovelace brought the men before Justice of the Peace B. N. Graham where the four passengers were fined a total of $67 for drunkenness and disturbance of the peace, and the charge was filed on Ancira.

JP Graham set Ancira's bond at $2,000 and he is now free after making it. He awaits action of the grand jury April 9.

Progress Is Rapid In Vegetable Group

Progress in "ground work" setting the stage for big-scale commercial vegetable production on the High Plains is rapid, according to Nelson Welch of Friona, who is one of the area businessmen-farmers who helped organize the West Texas Vegetable Council.

Because of the request of the Council, the Extension service has placed personnel in the area and work is going ahead on a marketing survey designed to outline the market possibilities for new vegetable crops.

Ronald Davis of Lazbuddie, who is temporary chairman of the Council, has announced that a meeting of officers of the group will be at Plainview today.

He anticipates a good report following the meeting, and the Council is expected to name permanent officers at this session.

Oops!—Sorry

The Tribune crew didn't find out until too late, but the numbering machine used in the State Line Grocery ad above jammed last week, and many numbers were repeated during the press run.

The highest that the machine counted was 95, and there are about 1700 papers sent to subscribers of the area. On account of the confusion this trouble caused, we apologize.

Evergreen Trees Available Now

Arizona Cypress evergreen trees are now available to farmers who wish to use them for windbreak and landscaping purposes. They may be ordered through the county agent's office, the SCD office in Friona, or Steve Messenger's office, Friona.

A minimum order of 50 trees is required, and the cost will be 30 cents per tree. Because the trees come as potted plants, it is possible to easily keep them until planting time has arrived.

Planting time ordinarily comes in May, but because of the limited number of trees, farmers are urged to order early to insure their orders being filled.

Potato Growers Call For Marketing Meet

A meeting to discuss marketing agreements between potato growers of the High Plains and the USDA will be held this coming week, Joe Jones, county agent, says he has been informed.

Potato marketing agreements work similar to milk marketing agreements: that is, the government does not provide a loan program, but does establish the market price and regulations over quality and grades.

The tentative meeting schedule: Monday, March 26—District court room, Hereford, 7:30 p. m. Tuesday, March 27—Plainview, 7:30 p. m. Wednesday, March 28—Muleshoe, 7:30 p. m.

A representative from the Denver AMS office will be present at the meetings, to explain the marketing agreements and answer questions.

Lubbock Eyes Plains Sandhills for Future Water Supply Needs

By W. H. Graham Jr.

Pointing up the over-all deficiency of convenient water supply resources for all of the Southwest, some developments are now taking shape which may set the stage for a pattern which will be followed by growing High Plains cities for years to come.

The problem with which this article has to do revolves around the need for a rapidly increasing supply of fresh water for municipal needs. Cities such as Lubbock and Amarillo are among some of the fastest growing in the nation, and within the coming years, their needs for more water will become increasingly acute.

In addition to the average city resident's needs for drinking and bathing water, the rising standard of living is bringing on new ways to use more and more water.

City dwellers want more lawns and more parks. They want their cars washed cleaner. They are using more and more water for air conditioning. Automatic home appliances are calling for greater supplies of water.

These and hundreds of other "modern" needs are pushing the few cupfuls each day needed for drinking and bathing water into insignificance.

Economists foresee no leveling off of population trends or water usage trends in the next decade at least, so it is plain to see that the cities have a grave problem.

With only a few streams and rivers of dependable flow available for damming up and development as surface storage reserves, cities have had little choice but to take their needs from the ground—deep wells.

Ten or fifteen years ago water problems for cities the size of Lubbock or Amarillo were not of the immediate kind. True, some people could see far enough ahead to predict the time when something would have to be done, but most city leaders took the position of "We'll cross that bridge when we get to it."

They had other problems more pressing than water, so they postponed action on this worry until recent years.

As time passed and the need for water skyrocketed, drilling of more and more wells and longer and longer pumping hours for city pumps resulted in the inevitable—lowering the water table.

Wells weakened progressively, and it finally became apparent that supplies would have to be brought into the cities from elsewhere. About the only two practical means of securing additional water for the cities of the Plains are (1) development of underground storage in outlying areas, and (2) development of the few streams and rivers available for surface storage use.

The most expedient of these two, because it requires less investment and can be quickly, and usually easily done, is the first alternative.

Lubbock, which sits on the southeastern edge of the great High Plains irrigation district, soon discovered that its own water supply was altogether insufficient for immediate and future needs. The thickness of the water-bearing sands is generally less toward the edges of the irrigation area than toward the center of it. Consequently, Lubbock had less water to start with.

Amarillo, which was in about the same location with respect to the northeastern edge, had an "ace in the hole" in the water-bearing formations north of the Canadian River, which, although lying at a greater depth and requiring more investment for development than most of the sands of the southern High Plains area, were practical fields for municipal use.

Lubbock built water lines to the northeast and developed fields in the Shallowater area, but now—as most everybody realizes—is intent on pushing farther into the heart of the "strong water" part of the Plains.

The great deposits which lie underneath a belt of sandhills running generally east-west from a point south of Melrose, N. M., to a point south of Olton, naturally were eyed by the city.

These sandhills, which are mostly undeveloped for farming because of the extremely loose soil, are at present mostly used for ranching purposes. At most points in the sandhills, water is available at very shallow depths, and because of the great porosity of the soil, large-capacity wells can easily be developed.

Then, too, the sandhills are the only area of the Plains, believe hydrologists, where recharge from rainfall is appreciable. Knowing these facts, Lubbock obtained water rights to 50,000 acres of land south of Texico-Farwell and west of Muleshoe in these sandhills, and now announces its intentions of developing it.

Extension of the pipeline from Shallowater is being sought along Highways 70-84, and from Muleshoe, the line will angle into the hills along a farm-to-market road. Water will flow to Lubbock by gravity, reports indicate.

Fearing the effect of this development, which would probably claim 40,000,000 gallons of water per day, 365 days a year, worried farmers and businessmen in the western High Plains met in Muleshoe last month and organized the Bi-State Water Conservation Association.

They are now waging a "delaying action" against the South Plains city. Leaders of the movement hope to get enough stumbling blocks in front of Lubbock's plans to postpone development of the sites on the western High Plains several years.

In the meantime, a very important development is taking place, and that is the building of a dam on the Canadian River to the north. Voters from Lubbock and several other South Plains cities approved the bonds necessary for the financing of such a project only two weeks ago.

Naturally, the building of a dam and the installation of pipelines and pumping stations from the site will take time, but eventually, it is hoped that the storage on the Canadian River will go a long way toward solving the problem of municipal water on the High Plains.

Lubbock is not the only city, by any means, that is looking for future reserves of water. Littlefield, only 52 miles away from Farwell, last summer was hard pressed to supply needs from its failing wells.

Fields were bought in the same belt of sandhills that Lubbock will use, only the Littlefield deposits are north of that city. Also planning to tap the sandhills is Portales, over in New Mexico, which finds the table under the city dropping at an alarming rate.

What the future holds only time will tell, but it is evident that proper conservation of water supplies by the three big users—agriculture, municipalities and industry—should be a foremost consideration.

After every means has been taken to assure proper conservation methods, then exploitation of our resources, which truly are great, can be sensibly undertaken.

Our underground sands, or "aquifer" as hydrologists refer to it, is almost without peer for holding water. In truth, the High Plains are sitting atop a gigantic "sponge" that is now practically full of water, but which in time will be pumped dry.

Practical ways of getting water back into this acquifer is one field of study that as yet needs much more exploration.

Frank Gotch was one of the greatest wrestlers of all time.

Colorful Assembly Given by Students

Students of Friona High School enjoyed a varied assembly program Monday afternoon sponsored by the local FFA and FHA Chapters.

Charles Kirk acted as master of ceremonies and introduced each participant on the program.

"The Blue Notes," a trio composed of Doris McFarland, Betty Agee, and Linda Gee, opened the talent program with their rendition of "Earth Angel." An accordion solo by Morris Bruns followed.

A 1913 "Flapper" was portrayed by Eugenia Landrum as she did the "Charleston." She appeared in a typical costume of that day with everything from the "lampshade" hat to the long-waisted, loose-fitting, knee-length dress.

"Teenage Prayer" was a vocal solo given by Johnnie Hand, Arlene and Darlene Stowers sang "Boy, I'm in Love." They appeared as love-birds in springtime and were attired in identical dresses of bright orange.

To add more variety, Eva Woolbright presented a reading titled "Feathers." She included in the original talk everything in general, except feathers. Topics widely discussed were dogs and women doctors. She concluded the speech by asking all who were further interested in feathers to send her a self-addressed, stamped envelope and any amount of money up to 75c. "For one dollar," she stated, "I will tell you ALL I know about feathers."

A square-dance number was then witnessed by the audience. Members of the "Eight Squares" who performed were Johnnie Miller, Ira Parr, Jimmy Patton, Joe Carlisle, Pat Cranfill, Phyllis Treider, Janiece Bock, and Sue Cranfill. The girls wore dark skirts and white blouses, while the boys wore dark trousers and white shirts.

"Rock and Roll Waltz" was sung by the Millerette Trio. Their identical costumes featured full gathered skirts with contrasting ruffles overlaid in the skirt backs. They were styled with scooped necklines and long-line waists.

Dick Morrison and Sally Osborn sang a duet, "No, Not Much." They were accompanied by Eva Miller. The "Back Alley Three" rendered some "hot" music when they presented "Just Over the Hilltop."

Welding masks were worn to emphasize the degree of the music. Morris Bruns, pianist, and Gerald Floyd, bass fiddle player, accompanied Cotton Renner as he sang. The atmosphere was again changed when the "Blue Notes" sang "Blueberries." Blue stage lights were cast upon the trio members who were dressed in plaid dresses with blue jumpers flared in the front.

Lester Burnett, banjo, and Gerald Floyd, bass fiddler, closed the program as they played "Blue Devils."

Plans are being completed for the annual spring band concert which will be March 29 in the high school auditorium at 8 p. m. A cordial invitation is extended to all citizens of the community to attend.

Red Cross Drive Gets Slow Start

According to W. A. Foster, Red Cross chairman, the funds for the current drive are coming in rather slowly. Due to the disasters in the east, the national quota has been raised. This week, each school in the county is cooperating in collecting funds for the drive. Anyone who has not contributed and desires to do so is urged to send contributions to the school or to any merchant.

With June

The Senior Scout troop presented a very interesting play at the PTA meeting Thursday night. The grown-ups in the play were so inconsistent it was hilarious. And, at the same time, they could have very easily been any American family we know. Too many of us "preach" one thing to our youngsters and "practice" something else in our everyday living. By our actions, we teach our children, "Don't do as I do, but as I say." It is said that an Englishman once remarked, "These Americans! I can't understand them. They drink tea because it is bitter, put sugar in it to make it sweet, heat it to the boiling point, then put ice in it." Isn't that about the way we do most things?

We pay taxes to provide transportation for our children, so they will not have to walk to school, then pay more taxes to build buildings for physical education classes. We buy all manner of labor saving devices so that we will have more time when we don't know what to do with the time we already have.

Wes Izzard devoted a column to this line of thinking one day recently. After reading it and concentrating on some of the things he says, it really seems a wonder that more of us do not become patients in a psychiatric ward.

Saint Patrick's Day has always been one of our favorite holidays. It is one of the very few days in the year when we don't turn the radio off. We just especially enjoy the Irish music that is carried on the radio stations and never miss an account of the Saint Patrick's Day celebration at Shamrock. One of these years, we are going to spend March 17 in Shamrock. Mr. and Mrs. Russell Massey and David, Harris Dunn, who is here on leave from the army, and Delmer Shirley are some of the Friona people who attended this year. The Masseys and Dunn flew down for a breakfast at the airport and Delmer Shirley was first place winner in the Old Fiddler's Contest.

The caliche trucks are almost as thick on our road this week as the grain trucks are in the fall of the year. They are going back and forth, hauling caliche to town for the new paved streets which are under construction.

Since last October we have been looking forward to spending a day at the Tribune office and meeting everyone connected with putting the paper out. After what we did to them last week, the anticipation isn't nearly as keen and may be even turning to dread. Due to several circumstances beyond our control, a lot of our copy went in at the last minute. We don't know how many had to work overtime or how many previously made plans had to be cancelled, but the paper came out on time—with all the late news we sent in. Now, if we go over there, we will have no way of knowing which persons we caused inconvenience, but each of them will know. Our sincerest apologies go to each of you who had to work over time last Wednesday. Will make every effort not to let it happen again.

Thanks to Miss Jo Phillips, we now have a picture of the Denton County courthouse. Miss Phillips read our column several weeks ago and learned that we wanted a picture. Denton is her home town and she made arrangements for one to be sent to us. We especially wanted the picture for Frank Floyd of Shallowater, who is our father-in-law and was a resident of Denton County prior to 1900. He now has the picture and we appreciate the thoughtfulness of Miss Phillips.

Reports from the Easter Parade indicate that it is no longer necessary for Friona residents to go out of town for any kind of wearing apparel for any member of the family. Several were heard to remark, "If I just had the money

At the laundry a few weeks ago, Mrs. W. J. Nazworth was wearing an apron which we intend to copy. It was made from a towel and was very attractive. Every mother of a small child who doesn't have one of these aprons should be interested in the idea—especially the mothers who do not have electric dish washers. How many steps would be saved if we could eliminate those we take in search of a towel during dishwashing? There are always shoes to be buckled or tied, noses to be cleaned, and countless other dishwashing interruptions which require dry hands before being done. Had never thought before how handy it would be to have an apron-towel tied around one's waist while doing housework.

Anyone who has time for a drive over the countryside should tour the Black Community. Numerous improvements are being made in that community in connection with the Texas Rural Neighborhood Progress Contest. It would be an inspiration to anyone to see the things that are being done to improve the appearance of the community as a whole.

In fact, even the most difficult of driving maneuvers seldom require anything beyond the merest gesture of a hand on the wheel... and the lightest touch of a toe on the accelerator.

And not only is she always at her ease—but at her loveliest as well.

Seldom, indeed, is a woman seen under more flattering circumstances than she is in the "car of cars"—calm, serene and rested... and surrounded by Cadillac's great luxury and beauty.

And how proud and happy she is! For imagine, if you can, the priceless joy of owning and driving a motor car recognized everywhere as the "Standard of the World"!

To any lady reading this advertisement, we offer this simple suggestion. Come in soon... and see for yourself.

And to any gentleman who might be listening in—well, perhaps there is a lady whom you would like to see always at her ease—and at her loveliest—and at her proudest.

The magic formula is waiting for you in our showroom—and we'll be delighted to assist in the transformation at any time.

Melba Burleson was in charge of the program, "Your Accessories and You" for the Hub HD Club which met with Mrs. Clydie Black recently. A very amusing and unusual style show followed, based on the thought, "How Not to Dress." How not to dress for a picnic was styled by Clydie Black. Jinx Snead showed the improper way to dress for church while Judy Bingham portrayed an incorrectly dressed shopper. Lavon Renner styled "party clothes" and Billy Long was attired in clothes which were not at all fitting for housework.

Refreshments were served to the above mentioned women and also Mike Ruzicka and Taleta Mabry. Members and guests will attend a skating party at Clovis, April 5, for their next meeting.

City Planning Board To Discuss Deputy

Parmer County Sheriff Chas. Lovelace told the Bovina city commission Monday night in a called meeting at the city hall that the county commissioners court had agreed to pay $150 a month toward the salary of a combination deputy sheriff and city marshal for Bovina.

The Bovina officials agreed to let the recently-appointed planning board decide if the people of Bovina wanted to create such an office. The planning board will also study the city's financial statement and determine if the city can afford to pay the remainder of the salary.

The city officials agreed at the meeting to have the stripe in the center of downtown North Street re-painted. The no parking signs on each side of the stripe will also be re-painted.

April 1 was the date agreed on

Talent Performs In Music Recitals

The Melodiers Junior Music Club, composed of voice students of the Mattie Mae Swisher Studios of Singing, presented a practice recital in the Bovina School auditorium Wednesday, March 14.

Students who performed in the recital were Kay Hartzog, Dixie Hartzog, Mary Ann McKinney, Jeanne Ivey, Tonya Ivey, Linda Johnston, Linda Willoughby, and Lee Terry. They were accompanied on the piano by Wayne Stevens, Bovina High School band director.

Selections from this recital were presented Saturday, March 17, in the chapel of the Methodist Church in Hereford at the Junior Music Festival. Those attending and participating from Bovina were Mary Ann McKinney, Jeanne Ivey, Tonya Ivey, Linda Johnston, and Linda Willoughby. A pianist from Hereford accompanied the singers. Mrs. Bob Johnston and W. H. Willoughby took the students to Hereford for this festival.

by members of the commission for paying the $10 sewer tie-on fee. After April 1, the fee will be $25.

The planning will meet tonight (Wednesday).

Three applications have been received for the job of city marshal-deputy sheriff, City Secretary Henry Minter says.

Soil Specialist Talks Fertilizer

Dr. W. O. Trogon, soil specialist with Mathieson fertilizers, talked to interested farmers of the area Tuesday night, March 13, in the Bovina American Legion Hall about fertilizers.

The program was arranged by Troy Fuller, manager of Bovina Farm Chemicals.

Dr. Trogon stressed that the primary reason for using fertilizer was "to make money."

"It takes more water than any other one thing to raise a plant," he said.

"What kind of fertilizer to use depends on what kind of crop you plan to grow. Nitrogen makes plants grow bigger and faster and have a darker color, while phosphorus stimulates early root development and is necessary for reproduction. Usually you can judge by last year's crop what kind of fertilizer the soil needs."

He illustrated his point by saying, "If you had a big stalk and little production the year before, chances are you need phosphorus. If you had a small stalk and lots of production, nitrogen should be used."

"Where in the soil (at what depth) to put the fertilizer depends on the type of root system that the plant has."

As advertised, the program was purely educational and no brand names of fertilizers were mentioned in the talk. Trogon works for a fertilizer company but he said, "Our success depends on your (the farmer's) success."

Two Men Remain In Mayor's Race

J. P. Macon, one of the four men appointed by the Bovina City Commission to be a candidate for the mayor of Bovina post, has taken his name from the list of candidates.

Macon verbally submitted his resignation to O. W. Rhinehart, present mayor, and Emmett Tabor, commissioner. The commission accepted the resignation at a March 12 meeting.

This is the second appointed candidate to drop from the race. Allen Cumpton quit the race last week because he felt his new business venture would "require all of my time."

No official reasons were given for Macon's resignation.

The two candidates left in the race are Alvin Glasscock and J. E. Sherrill, Jr.

The election will be held Tuesday, April 3, in the city hall.

The mayor's post was left vacant when Rhinehart resigned so that the offices of the mayor and the commissioners would be staggered and there would be some experience on the commission at all times.

Voters will, of course, be given a space on the ballot to write in the name of any other individual, Henry Minter, city secretary, says.

SUSAN LEVINS

DICK LOCKHART

Boy and Girl State Delegates Chosen

Susan Levins and Dick Lockhart, juniors, have been chosen as Texico's delegates to attend the annual Boy-Girl State sessions to be held this summer. Alternates named were Mikala Faville and Weldon Bell.

They were chosen for outstanding scholarship, leadership, cooperation and participation in school activities. Susan will attend Girls' State on June 10-17 at the University of New Mexico in Albuquerque.

As Boys' State representative, Dick will go to New Mexico Military Institute in Roswell on June 2-9.

Boy-Girl State is sponsored each summer in every state in the union by the American Legion and American Legion Auxiliary. It is dedicated to the purpose of establishing in the youth of today the basic principals of governmental procedures.

Susan is attending Texico school for her tenth year. She has been a majorette in the school band for the past five years, this year serving as drum major. During her high school years, Susan has been selected as Wolverine Beauty, band sweetheart and junior class favorite.

Dick has attended school for 11 years. This year he is president of the following organizations: student council, band and junior class. He is also candidate for most handsome boy and is junior class favorite.

Commenting

With Carolyn

This is your reminder to attend the junior class play tomorrow night, March 23. "Mother Is A Freshman," a three act comedy will be presented in the school auditorium at 8 p. m. CST. Admission will be 25c for students, 50c for adults or the whole family for $1.25. We'll see you THERE.

Have you heard "The Las Vegas Story?" If you haven't, just ask Dickie Adams, Weldon Bell or Dick Lockhart for the latest information on the subject. They should know—after spending the past weekend in Las Vegas, N. M., attending the state student council convention.

Here's a bit of sports-minded humor: The coach, discussing the merits and demerits of his ball team, was heard to say "What this team needs is life!" Said the star player meekly, "Golly coach, don't you think 30 days would be enough!"

It was really a night of entertainment when the Texico girls played three volleyball games with Rosedale last Tuesday night. The big laughs came when Jimmy Starkey's tumbling class put on an exhibition between games. It was really something; especially Rex Harris' performance.

Scene of the week: A junior girl making a last minute dash to shorthand class slipping on an icy sidewalk. Results—a skinned arm and leg. Who was it???—Carolyn

Mumps and Measles Invade Lower Grades

Attendance in the grades from the first through the sixth has been low with the invasion of mumps and measles recently. Those absent because of illness are Judy Tharp, Orvel Branson, Shirley Holmes, James Hudson, Rosie Arnold, Buddy Spence, Alice Martin, Duranna Curtis, Linda Palmateer, Bobby Stewart, Gerald Weatherford, Jerry Wayne Martin, Clyde Holmes, Gwinette Lovett;

Also, Roy Wall, Sharon Kay Brown, Jerry Hudson, Caroline Terry, Kathryn White, Cynthia Spence, Richard Arnold, Sandra Dyer, Lottie Riley, Robert Curtis, Larry Richardson, Sue Martin, Allen Taylor, Kenneth Taylor, Alice Gooch, Mary Ortiz, Gary Webster.

This week the first grade is studying a unit on spring. Students are keeping a daily weather chart using the sun, an umbrella, or a cloud as symbols. They marked St. Patrick's Day, March 17, in green and the first day of spring, March 20, in red. To start this spring off right, the boys and girls used their kites, marbles, and jumping ropes as springtime games.

Mrs. Weisler's first grade group is very sorry to lose Linda Carol Wimberly who moved to California. Sherry Hall has new glasses.

Perfect attendance in the third grade has been recorded by James Roberts, Floyd Morris and Linda Dyer.

Emmitt Autrey is back in school after several days of absence because of the chicken pox.

In the third grade the boys and girls were all ready to try their hands at churning last week when Elizabeth Simpson brought a tiny churn to school. It was the old fashioned type of crock churn, dasher and lid like the one the children had seen the little Dutch girl using in a film on Holland.

Decorations for Easter have been made in several of the grade school classrooms.

Slow Up Here And Show Up There

By Betty Pendergrass

Did you know that 90 percent of the accidents in which people are killed or injured could be prevented? Nine out of every ten accidents are caused by carelessness.

A study made by two University of Nebraska professors, in which they clocked cars by radar, found that drivers in the 16-25 age group have the least regard for speed laws! Surveys like this one have led to the word "teenicide."

Because the teen-agers are definitely in better physical condition, they COULD be better drivers than older people!

Our teen-agers can help wipe out the word "teenicide" by becoming the first generation of good drivers.

Since our school offers a course in driver's education, it would prove to be an advantage to you, if you would include it in your schedule. It has been proven that school-trained drivers have only half as many accidents as untrained drivers.

One way you can contribute personally to safer driving is by remembering these facts. When you drive, darkness is a signal to reduce speed and increase vigilance. Reduced speed is also your best weapon against sand, snow, rain or icy pavements.

Merely being observant of traffic rules alone is not enough to prevent an accident, there is an extra something needed called courtesy.

Remember if you are alert and careful, streets and highways will be a much safer place for children and friends. You will also be safer!

You could remember too that accidents ARE preventable, its up to YOU to prevent them!

Three of the more important causes of accidents are "I didn't think," "I didn't ask," "I didn't see." All three of these are examples of carelessness. They are also excuses which should never be used.

The combined efforts of the custodians and the Ag III boys have put a concrete curb in front of the new school building.

The National Guard sent some representatives over last Monday to give the "pro and con" about its organization and left some literature for the seniors and juniors to read and think about.

Mrs. Anson Bowers made a contribution to the growing library in the form of a box of books. We Thank You. The physics students have had the bug for inventing, but the only one to really get into the swing of things is Leon McDaniel, who first made a small electric motor and then came up with a larger one that runs as "smooth as silk."

Dr. C. B. Wivel of ENMU was at Texico Friday to keep his five student teachers on the ball.

Money Being Raised For Telescope

Eighth graders are having bake sales to raise money to purchase a telescope for their room. From two previous sales, they have netted about $11. Another sale is planned, and as usual, students will bring homemade cakes, candies, and cookies to sell.

In their study of poetry, the members of the class are learning poetry, orations and declamations. They plan to present some type of program in the near future.

While studying Holland in their geography, members of this class secured colored pictures of tulips, windmills, and Dutch children wearing their traditional costumes. These have been added to their booklet on Holland.

The eighth graders are sorry to lose Avis Andrews who checked in her books and moved away last week.

Darlene Boatwright from the seventh grade and Wesley Engram, Harlo Jean Wall, Phyllis Kelley, Joan Tadlock and Mary McDaniel have been absent from school due to illness.

Eva Morgan and Katherine Barnes have withdrawn from the seventh grade leaving this class a total of 30 students.

Health is a new subject for these students, replacing reading.

SENIOR PERSONALITY

Lester McDaniel

A school fixture? No, but he might be thought of as such by many of his friends, for Lester McDaniel has spent 12 long, but eventful years in the Texico School.

Lester, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde McDaniel, was born in Clovis, N. M., on January 6, 1938, the second son in a family of three girls and three boys.

To Lester, finding time to read is a necessity as this is his favorite hobby. When he isn't reading, he enjoys a good football game.

Among his attributes and the one thing that singles him out from others in his class is being a first-class mathematician. Each year he takes the college math test and makes a good rating.

Lester, who likes all his teachers, enjoys sociology best of all his classes. His other classes include physics, vocational agriculture and physical education.

Texico Band Hears Air Force Band

Texico High School band visited in Canyon last Thursday afternoon to hear the U. S. Air Force Band play in the Administration Building Auditorium of West Texas State College.

This was the first time most of the students had heard an Air Force Band.

The concert included several solos by some of the best accordionists, trombonists and harmonica players. Also featured on the program were the "Singing Sergeants" who presented several numbers such as "Oklahoma" and "Cowboy Medley."

Fred Danforth, band and choral director, accompanied the group. About 28 students from Texico attended the concert.
