Texico reunion planned

A gigantic reunion is being planned for former Texico School students and teachers of classes 1965-1977.

The date has been set for Aug. 4 and 5.

On Aug. 4, each class will be on their own and a representative from each class will be in contact to let everyone know what has been planned for that class.

On Aug. 5, there will be two functions planned.

Beginning at 11 a.m. MDT, a "Dutch Treat Picnic" will be held at the Youth Recreation Building at Hillcrest Park in Clovis. This will be for the entire family.

Then "The Big Bash" will get under way at the Clovis Room of the Clovis Holiday Inn at 7 p.m. MDT. There will be entertainment as well as an awards program. This will be for the adults only.

If you are a Texico graduate or former classmate, and you have not been contacted, or if you know someone who needs to be contacted, call Cynthia Chumley at 762-1760 or Cheryl Whitener at 389-5336 or Cynthia Thigpen at 481-9355.

Parmer County Sheriff Rex Williams reports that four arrests have been made so far in solving several burglaries in Farwell and Parmer County. He said the investigation is ongoing and a complete report will be issued when it is completed.

There he stood on the second tee at Farwell Country Club. A quiet man. A slight smile on his face. He was attired in red and black and wearing his traditional Jungle Jim hat.

He stood patiently, waiting for the others in his party of 10 to hit their tee shots on the Par 3 hole. It was a time of calm.

Then it was his turn. He strode confidently to the tee box. A practice swing. Then another.

Next came the moment of truth. Hands firm, he gripped his club. Knees slightly bent, head down, first the backswing, then the thrust forward, powering that little white ball down the fairway.

It bounced once. Then again. Then again, now rolling onto the green. And right at the hole. In it went. A hole in one!

A cheer went out. The man in red and black did a jig. Congratulations were afforded.

Yes, folks, Sunday was just a day like any other — but for Jim Berry, it will be remembered a long time for that ace.

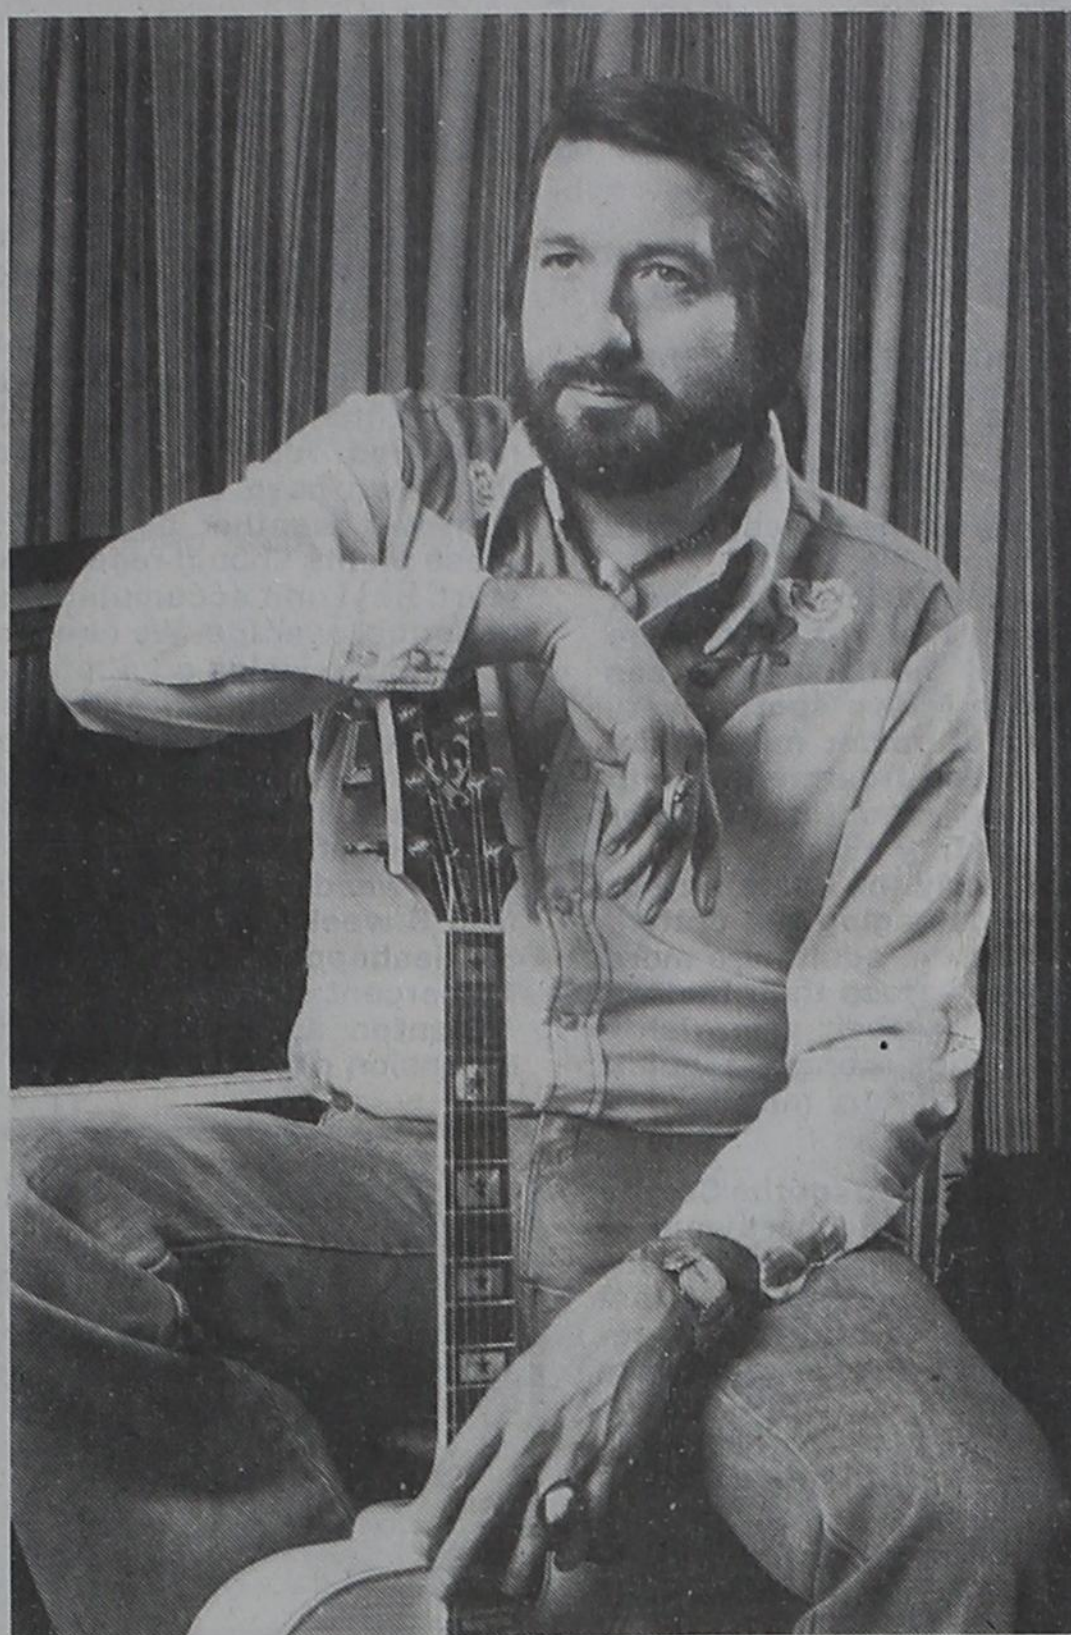

We got a letter from Carthon Phillips, noting that he has sent a letter of the editor of the Austin American Statesman criticizing their editorial endorsing the U.S. Supreme Court decision allowing flag burning.

"The mentality of the Statesman editorial board is best summed up in the cliché 'way out in left field,'" said Phillips, who was in Farwell last Friday. "The Statesman in siding with the 'foggy five' of the Supreme Court and the flag burners gives it the same stigma and the same label — un-American and definitely un-Texan."

I'd like to give a special thanks to Vicki Chilton and Theresa Jupe for their work in helping with the Merchants Giveaway for Border Town Days.

They're helping Debra Looper gather up participants. And they are doing a real fine job.

Well, we have another Yankee in the community. Violet Allen, my mother-in-law, is now living with us.

Charlie Phillips

'Sugartime' Phillips coming

The Farwell Convalescent Center Auxiliary will sponsor a concert at 8 p.m. on July 28 in the Farwell High School Auditorium featuring Charlie "Sugartime" Phillips as part of the Border Town Days celebration.

Phillips is famous to most of the world for his 3 million selling song "Sugartime." But he is famous here because he is a hometown boy. Phillips wrote "Sugartime" while driving a tractor on the family farm near Farwell. He recorded it in the Norman Petty Studios in Clovis with Buddy Holly playing guitar.

Phillips is the son of the late Kate Phillips of Farwell. He attended Farwell High School where he studied music under Irma Jobe who encouraged many students like Phillips who had a natural talent for music.

Since that time, Phillips has become internationally known as a writer and Country/Western singer and has appeared on the Grand Ole Opry, Ozark Jubilee, Louisiana Hayride, the Big D Jamboree and many others.

Phillips has recorded for several major record companies including Columbia, Reprise, and Coral. Some of his other hits are "I Guess I'll Never Learn," "Be My Bride," "Welcome to the Wedding," "Later Tonight," "Souvenirs of Sorrow," "Twenty Fools Ago," "Going Away," "The Wild Side of Houston," and the song sometimes called the "Cowboy National Anthem" — "The Big Ball is in Cowtown".

Phillips and his band, "The Sugartimers," are a top attraction whenever they appear and have a reputation for being one of the top traditional Country and Western/Western swing dance bands in Texas.

Phillips has made his home in Amarillo since 1960 and along with "The Sugartimers," still plays every Saturday night at an Amarillo landmark, The Aviatrix Ballroom.

His hobbies include collecting old cars and skiing. He also is interested in broadcasting, real estate, and farming.

The Farwell High graduate will be joined on the program by Ed Hardage of Texico at Phillips request since Hardage was his inspiration when he was getting started.

He will also be joined by the "Country Strings," a group which includes Joe Hughes, Calvin Rippee, Hurschel Parker, and Charlotte McMurtry. The Country Strings play gospel, and songs in the tradition of Bob Wills and the Sons of the Pioneers.

Profits from the program will be used to furnish and decorate the new sun room addition to the Farwell Convalescent Center.

Tickets for adults are $5 in advance, $6 at the door, and for children under 12 are $2.50. They are available at many local businesses.

Farwell man involved in fatal accident

Clay Roberts, 28, of Farwell was involved in a two-vehicle collision south of Muleshoe Saturday.

Sudan resident Henry Rasko, 50, was killed in the accident. His wife, Georgeann, 50, was transported to West Plains Medical Center in Muleshoe, where she was reported in good condition.

Roberts was taken to Muleshoe hospital, then to Lubbock General Hospital.

Police said Rasko was driving a 1988 Pontiac east on Farm Road 298 when it collided in the intersection with a 1985 GMC pickup truck driven by Roberts. The pickup was southbound on Farm Road 1731.

BTD Committee to meet

The Border Town Days Committee will have its last meeting before this year's celebration Monday at 8 p.m. at Luce's Spur Restaurant.

It is hoped that all persons involved in BTD planning will attend.

Did a tornado strike Texico?

The June 29 storm brought rain and high winds, and a possible tornado to the Twin Cities.

Several people called the Tribune to report that between 11-12 p.m. MDT the wind did some unusual things.

Roger Jesko's back porch wound up in his front yard of his home on South College Street in Texico. So did his family's swing set.

Mrs. Jesko reports that she felt a cold wind and heard the wind howling, so she got out of bed to close the door. Just as she got to the door she saw the porch lift up. The wind had changed to a roaring sound.

She ran to the telephone to warn a neighbor who lives in a mobile home of the danger. While she was on the telephone, all of the electrical appliances in the Jesko home started sputtering and popping.

"I think the electric wire to the house was hit by part of the porch roof or something," Mrs. Jesko guessed.

She quickly turned off the electricity. As she did, part of the back porch fell in.

"The house shook so bad I thought it was going to go," she said.

A few minutes later the wind stopped, and the air became suddenly hot and calm and dry feeling.

Mrs. Jesko and her mother, Myrtle Osborn, were alone at the time of the possible tornado. Neither was hurt.

The next morning Mrs. Jesko noted several strange occurrences around her home. The batteries in the battery charger had blown up, and several appliances were ruined. There were several boards buried into the ground by the wind.

One tree lost a big limb from the middle, but the limbs alongside it were all intact. A heavy metal wind chime from the back porch wound up in the front yard as a twisted mass of metal.

"What I can't figure out is why the wind took the porch, which is part of the house, but left our old tin sheds standing. Why it didn't take the tin shed is beyond me," said Mrs. Jesko.

Mrs. Jesko noted that even the animals did not see this phenomenon coming. She found a dead bird in the yard after the storm, and she did not notice any peculiar behavior from any of the family's animals.

The storm came from the Southwest, but not all of the debris from the wind damage was found in a direct line from the path of the storm. Several items were found in unexpected places around the yard.

The storm also blew down a shed in the Burford's yard and a corn dryer at Floyd Robinson's yard. It also blew some metal pieces off a shed at David Lynn's.

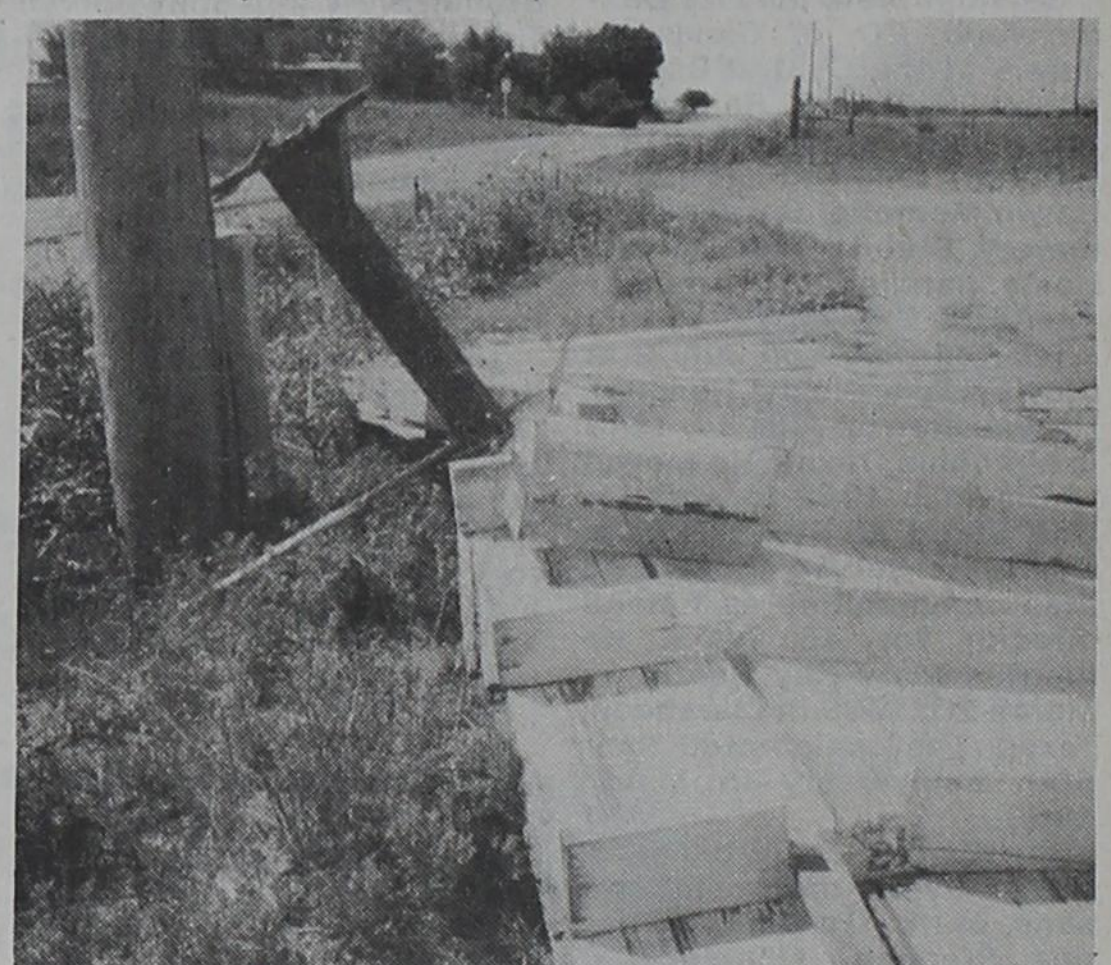

Irene Nichols' shed was blown over the fence and up into a tree on Lamar Street.

Mrs. Karen Krosier reported that her family noticed the storm when she heard the irrigation motors stop at an odd time. When she heard a roaring sound, she gathered the family under a mattress in the hall until everything calmed down.

Alta Jesko shows the bolts that held her back porch to its foundation before last week's storm moved the porch to her front yard.

The roof of the Jesko's back porch knocked down the mailbox in front of their home.

In Farwell, Carl and Rhonda Kirkland report that they were bidding a guest good - night at about the time the storm struck. They were unable to open their front door when the wind roared past. It rocked their Blazer back and forth in the yard for a few minutes. Then the wind died down and a hot, calm wind blew.

"It was the eeriest feeling. It made the hair stand up on the back of your neck," said Mrs. Kirkland.

CRP stats announced

Farmers in the 25 counties represented by Plains Cotton Growers Inc. have contracted to take 1.412 million acres of program crop bases out of production under the 10-year Conservation Reserve Program (CRP).

That's 17.5 percent of the 8.07 million acres that would otherwise be allocated to production and-or other acreage reduction programs for cotton, corn, grain sorghum, wheat, barley and oats, say PCG officials who compiled the totals from figures supplied by ASCS offices.

Covered in the acreage enrolled in the CRP through eight completed sign-up periods, held from early 1986 through February 1989. A ninth sign-up is set for July 17 through Aug. 4.

Cotton accounts for 723,017 acres and over half the CRP acreage on the Plains, which is equal to 15.4 percent of the area's 4.685 million total base cotton acres.

Here are the figures for Parmer and Bailey counties:

Parmer: total acreage, all crop bases, 453,422; acreage, all bases in CRP, 42,351; total acreage, cotton bases, 89,587; acreage, cotton bases in CRP, 7,597.

Bailey: total acreage, all crop bases, 352,451; acreage, all bases in CRP, 86,521; total acreage, cotton bases, 156,963; acreage, cotton bases in CRP, 34,807.

Obituaries

Dana Murrell

Dana Murrell, 23, of Lazbuddie, died June 27 in a two-vehicle accident northeast of Lazbuddie.

Services were held June 30 at Lazbuddie's First Baptist Church with the Rev. Gary Wilcox, pastor, and Rev. Joe Fetheimer, pastor of Cone Christian Fellowship Church, officiating. Burial was in Lazbuddie Cemetery. Ellis Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Murrell was born in Lockney and moved from Lubbock to Lazbuddie in 1986. She was a secretary for Sherley Anderson Grain. She married Barry Murrell in 1986 in Las Vegas, Nev. She was a member of Lazbuddie First Baptist Church.

Surviving are her husband; her mother, Wilma Adams of Marlin; her father, Junior Poole of Lockney; 4 sisters, Doyle Black of Amarillo, Christi Martin of Westchester, Pa., and Gala Poole and Lori Poole, both of Marlin; a brother, Brent Poole of Lockney; and grandparents, Pearl Wright of Plainview and Mr. and Mrs. Sol Barclay of Lockney.

Leonard Walker

Services were held for Leonard Walker, 77, of Lubbock on July 6 at the City of Lubbock Cemetery with Rev. Jimmy McGuire, associate pastor of Bacon Heights Baptist Church, officiating.

Burial was under the direction of Sanders Funeral Home.

Mr. Walker died at 5:25 a.m. on Monday in Lubbock General Hospital after a lengthy illness.

He was born in Vera and had lived in Muleshoe before moving to Lubbock. He was a farmer and a Baptist.

Survivors include a brother, Grady of Lubbock; three sisters, Mildred Autrey of Texico, Doris Lambert of Muleshoe and Helen Redwine of Lubbock.

Dexter Todd

Services were held for Dexter Todd, 70, of Clovis on July 5 at the Central Baptist Church. Rev. H. E. Bergstrom and Royce Denton officiated.

Burial followed at Lawn Haven Memorial Gardens Cemetery. Steed-Todd Funeral Home handled the arrangements.

Mr. Todd died on July 2 at Clovis High Plains Hospital. He was born on Aug. 31, 1918 in Memphis, Texas. He moved to Clovis in 1942 to work for Una Steed at Steed Funeral Home. He served Clovis and area communities as funeral director for 45 years. He married Mary Kay Hardin on March 26, 1939 in Clarendon, Texas. They celebrated their 50th anniversary in March 1989.

Survivors include his wife, Mary Kay, of the home; two sons, Mark, Gunnison, Colo., and Stephen, Albuquerque; one daughter, Suzanne, Fort Worth, Texas; one sister, Lola Dyess, Stratford, Texas; one brother, Hardy Todd, Oklahoma City, Okla.; and four grandchildren.

Memorial contributions may be made to a favorite charity.

Haskell McCurdy

Funeral services were held on July 5 for Haskell W. McCurdy, 72, who died on June 29 at Salt Lake City, Utah following an extended illness.

The services were held at Henderson Funeral Chapel with Bishop John Ricks of the Pocatello LDS 23rd Ward officiating. Burial followed in the Bountiful (Utah) city cemetery.

Mr. McCurdy was born Oct. 22, 1916 at Anna, Texas to Nelson and Ethel Reagan McCurdy. He attended schools in Texas and graduated from high school at Lazbuddie.

He married Melva Brown on Feb. 20, 1951 at Pocatello, Idaho. He was a retired Marine, having served from 1942 - 1964. He was employed as a postal clerk in Pocatello from 1965 until his retirement in 1984.

His hobbies included all types of sports as an observer and a participant. While in the service he played baseball for the U.S. Marines. He was a member of the Portneuf Lodge No. 18 AF & AM, the El Korah Shrine, and the Scottish Rite Bodies. He was an I.S.U. Bengal Booster.

He is survived by his wife, Melva, of 1370 Jane, Pocatello, Idaho, 83201; and by a daughter, Mrs. Roger (Gaylene) Ellis, Pocatello; two nieces and a nephew.

He was preceded in death by his parents and a sister.

Roundup attended

Several local youth attended the Camp Cactus and Coyote Roundup at Camp Summer Life in Taos, N.M. recently. The camp was sponsored by the Hereford Campfire Council.

Local participants included: Brandi, Brett, and Shay Norvell, Tracy Cline, Nic, Preston, and Spencer Ketcherside, Adrian Gonzales, Lee Jupe, Reace, Roslyn, and Ramsey Bennett. Local counselors included Charlie Bowery and Ruth Anne Bennett. Cindy Bowery was the Camp Director.

The local youth were among 90 campers who enjoyed: Outdoor camping skills, horseback riding, fishing, swimming, canoeing, archery, riflery, crafts, Indian Lore, and folk games. The week long activities drew to a close with a Friday night closing ceremony.

Blanton gives updates on corn and cotton

Parmer and Bailey County Extension Agent- Entomologist Mike Blanton sent the following update about local crops.

Corn

Corn in the area ranges from 4 - 7 feet in height and there are several fields beginning to tassel. Spider mites are being found in almost all fields now with the largest infestations being reported near wheat or wheat stubble. When checking for this pest, first look at the underside of the lowest leaves since there is where they begin their colonies.

Damage is normally seen as chlorotic or yellow areas near the midrib of the leaves. When turning the leaf over, there should be apparent webbing throughout the damaged areas with the mites moving about. Although I have spotted very few this season, there are predators of spider mites. Last year there were a few fields that escaped treatment due to the high predator numbers. The two major predators of spider mites are six - spotted thrips and predatory mites.

The six spotted thrips are approximately the same size or a little larger than the thrips we see damaging the cotton, but instead of being the yellowish color the adults are more silvery - white with three black stripes across their bodies. The predatory mites can be identified by their yellowish - orange teardrop shaped bodies and their constant quick zig-zag movement over the leaf. The predatory mite is also slightly smaller than an adult spider mite.

By the way, those producers that have opted for the Comite route of controlling their spider mites should be aware of some recent label changes. They are: 1) do not plant any food or feed crop in rotation within 6 months after last application, unless the crop is a registered use, and 2) re-entry intervals and protective clothing requirements are divided into 3 categories: "when sprays have dried, 48 hours, or 7 days, depending upon the activities to be performed in the field. Be sure to read and follow label directions on all pesticides to be applied.

A few adult western corn rootworms are now being observed in several fields. Symptoms of leaf feeding by these beetles are brown areas that are parchment - like in appearance. This feeding is of no economic concern.

Although there have been few reports of economic damage, now is the time producers need to check for 1st generation Southwestern corn borer (SWCB) larvae feeding in the whorls of their corn. There are a few fields near last year's corn stubble that are showing the possibility of economic losses at harvest time. Before treating for this pest because of damaged whorls, check to make sure a corn borer is what is causing the damage. SWCB larvae are cream colored with raised black spots on each body segment whereas the other whorl feeders are greenish to brown in appearance. The economic threshold for first generation SWCB's is when 10 - 15 % of the plants are infested.

Cotton

Cotton throughout the area still seems to be plagued by several things. Many acres damaged by past storms never recovered. Also, several fields that are still trying to hold their own have a very high percentage of plants affected with wet weather blight. With sunny dry weather most of these plants should recover but they will be off to a very late start. Heat unit accumulations are also once again behind our historical average. We need another long open fall to receive acceptable yields on a large number of acres.

There are still an extremely low number of fleahoppers being found feeding on cotton so hopefully most fields will escape this problem. There is still the potential of having economic infestations by this pest in fields having high numbers of the weed hosts, including silverleaf nightshade (whiteweed), evening primrose, and mintweed. During the first 3 weeks of squaring, the economic threshold is 25 to 30 fleahoppers per 100 terminals combined with less than 75 percent square set.

Blanton asked that anyone who wants to receive the Extension newsletter should call the office at 481-3300.

Gramm wars on drugs

U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm visited Friona June 29 to brief folks on congressional efforts targeting the nation's drug problem.

About 25 people attended the meeting at Friona Police headquarters.

The meeting also was for local law enforcement personnel to tell about their efforts.

Friona Police Chief L.L. Niece said that Hereford and Clovis drug problems include some Friona people. He discussed the drug bust in Clovis last week.

Niece also showed his department's collections of drug paraphernalia and weapons used in the commission of crimes.

State Trooper Trey Ellis discussed the drug bust in Hereford two years ago, which resulted in 87 indictments. He noted the importance of using undercover agents in such projects.

Ellis stressed that alcohol is a drug and a problem all over rural America. He said that within 40 miles of Friona six youths (ages 15-20) were killed in alcohol related accidents the past few years.

Parmer County Sheriff Rex Williams was expected to talk also, but was unavailable due to transporting a prisoner to the Huntsville prison.

Gramm discussed the drug bill passed by Congress last December (funding becomes available this October) and the anti-crime measures being worked on now.

"Too often we have crime without punishment," said Gramm. "In Washington, D.C., last year, we had 44,000 people arrested on felony charges. Only 1,400 went to jail."

He noted statistics that say that of persons committing major felonies, after parole 63 percent are back in prison within 3 years on new felony charges.

Part of the problem, he said, is due to a lack of prison space, with judges looking at the rights of prisoners and ordering their releases under the 8th Amendment ("cruel and unusual punishment").

Gramm said Congress is looking at possibly using the military bases that will be closed this year as prisons. He also wants it mandated that prisoners must work on projects such as street repairs, helping build jails, etc.

More federal prisons will be built and if state prisons run out of space, they can use the federal institutions and pay per diem costs for inmates sent there.

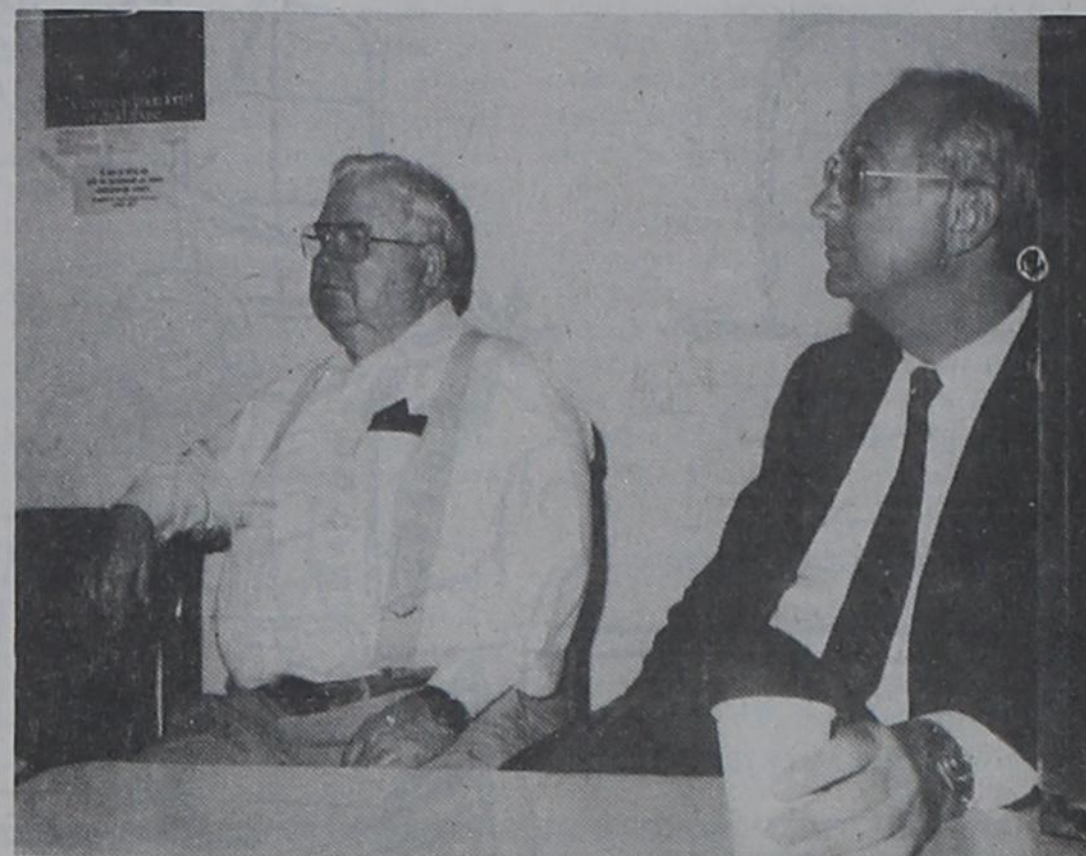

As for drug pushers, Gramm wants mandatory 10-year sentences (no parole) for anyone convicted of selling drugs to minors; mandatory 10-year sentences for persons carrying firearms while participating in a drug deal; and the death penalty for cop killers.

Gramm supported the use of multi-county drug task forces, and their use of undercover officers.

As for reducing crime, he said the focus must be on education. He said there are 23 million drug users in the United States, with 1 million of them addicted. The other 22 million have a choice, he said.

He said that 80 percent of persons arrested on felony charges last year were drug users. "For many persons, just one usage of crack cocaine causes their addiction," he said.

He noted a change in attitude among the public about drugs. He gave as an example the police chief at North Texas State University who instituted searches of stuents' rooms. Gramm said the administration and students supported this, but several years ago the viewpoints might have been the opposite.

Meet the governor

Willebrand back

Jeff Willebrand has returned from his 10 day trip to Orlando, Fla., as the Texico-Farwell Lions Club representative to participate in the Lions Club Band.

Jeff, a senior at Farwell High School, summed up the experience as "fascinating."

He was the only Lions Club representative from the eastern part of New Mexico. He joined the other New Mexico band members in Las Cruces where they had one 8 hour day to practice together before they flew from El Paso, Texas to Orlando, Florida.

"The people at Las Cruces really supported us. The college at Las Cruces let us use their facilities, and we played a concert at the Mesilla Valley Mall," said Jeff.

Each of the 113 Lions Club band members was issued a turquoise shirt and a raspberry shirt to wear with white jeans and silver hats when they played together.

They played some concerts in Miami for Lions and interested people before they arrived at Disney World.

The members of the band were able to enjoy Disney World for 2 days. They practiced there one day, and they played in the afternoon parade the next day. Both days they had some time for enjoying the park.

"It was neat the way people reacted to the band. They cheered us on at Disney World and clapped. We were the only band in the parade that day," said Jeff.

In addition to seeing the sights at the famous theme park, Jeff mentioned several other highlights.

The band members toured Everglades before they returned home. The size and eerie feeling of the swam were impressive. "We drove for 1 1/2 hours and never got out of the Everglades," he said.

Touring Miami, and especially its beaches, was also fun. "The beach was right there in Miami," he explained. The group had a day to soak up the rays before they headed on.

Meeting new people was another highlight of the trip. "I met several kids I'd like to keep in touch with," he said.

Willebrand is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Willebrand of Farwell.

Church burglarized

Texico Marshal Brent Byrum reports that he investigated a burglary at the First Baptist Church of Texico on Saturday night.

The marshal also arrested a Clovis man on Monday on an outstanding warrant for aggravated battery and assault.

Byrum will be enforcing the new seat belt law in New Mexico which went into effect on June 16. It requires that front seat passengers in all vehicles under 10,000 lbs.- including pickup trucks and vans - must wear seat belts.

Rally attended

St. John Lutheran Church youth will attend their Summer Rally in Lubbock this weekend.

The activities will be held at Our Redeemer Lutheran Church. The youth will enjoy a pizza party, swimming, and dancing in addition to devotions and Bible study. They will also get ready for the Denver Youth Rally which will be held later this summer. Members will stay in the homes of members of the Lubbock congregation.

Local youth recently sponsored a rummage sale to help raise money for their activities.

Reflections

Helle Carstens appears in a pensive mood as she reflects upon her year as a Texico-Farwell Rotary Club foreign exchange student here. She received going-away gifts at Wednesday's club meeting and thanked the club for her sponsorship. She said she fully enjoyed her year in America.

Cooking time

SPS will offer a free "kids' cooking school" at the Farwell Community Center.

It runs from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. July 10-12. It's open to all children ages 9-13.

Lessons will be taught on nutrition, cooking and use of appliances, kitchen safety, etc.

Enrollment is limited and reservations are required. Call 481-3619.

Connie Moyers, SPS home economist, and Rochelle White, Parmer County Extension Agent for home economics, are in charge.

Donahey turns 100

There will be a party July 9 from 2:30 to 4 p.m. at the Farwell Convalescent Center for Althea Donahey, who turned 100 years old July 6.

She married John Donahey in Lucien, Okla., on Feb. 9, 1908. She lived in Clovis since World War II.

The party is being hosted by daughter Geraldine and Joe Burford and grandchildren James and Robin, of Pleasant Hill; Kathleen and E. Reese of Amarillo; Patricia and Bobby Peugh of Houston, and Leon and Diane Smith of Pleasant Hill. No gifts are asked.

Mrs. Donahey was mid-wife for part of Curry County and delivered 13 children in this area.

Recipe of Week

The following recipe was one of the prize winning recipes in the 1989 Texas Beef Cookoff sponsored by the Texas Cattle Women.

Dixie Steaks with Spiced Apricots

- 4 - 1/2 lb. beef tenderloin steaks, 1" thick
- 1/2 c. apricot brandy
- 1/3 c. water
- 1 Tbs. olive oil
- 1 Tbs. lemon juice
- Spiced Apricots
- Dixie Sauce
- cilantro sprigs

Pour marinade of brandy, water, olive oil and lemon juice over steaks in a plastic bag. Refrigerate overnight, turning occasionally, if possible.

Prepare Spiced Apricots and refrigerate overnight.

- Spiced Apricots
- 1 can (17 oz. apricot halves, drained - reserve syrup)
- 1 Tbs. light brown sugar
- 3 tsp. cider vinegar
- 1/2 tsp. ground cloves
- 1/4 tsp. ground nutmeg

Combine liquid, sugar, vinegar, cloves and nutmeg and pour over apricots in plastic bag. Refrigerate over night.

On the day you serve, prepare Dixie Sauce, keep warm. Broil steaks 7" - 8" from heat for approximately 15 minutes, or to desired doneness, turning once. Remove to serving plate, drizzle with Dixie Sauce, garnish each with 2 or 3 apricot halves and cilantro. Serves 4.

Dixie Sauce

liquid from spiced apricots (about 3/4 c.)

- 2 tsp. cornstarch
- 1 Tbs. lemon juice
- 2 tsp. Dijon - style mustard
- 2 Tbs. chopped walnuts

In a small saucepan blend cornstarch and 1/4 c. spiced apricot liquid, gradually adding remaining ingredients except walnuts. Cook and stir over medium heat until slightly thickened, then add walnuts.

Bivins wins a victory

AUSTIN - It was the high point of my legislative career to date. It happened while the Senate was meeting as a Committee of the Whole considering the issue of workers' compensation insurance reform.

But let me start at the beginning. The Texas workers' compensation insurance system is in the ditch and in desperate need of major reform. The House of Representatives addressed the issue in House Bill 1 which was voted out of the House in February.

There has been strong division of opinion within the Senate on how to best reform the system. Lt. Governor Hobby referred the matter to a Committee of the Whole Senate and then created a subcommittee chaired by Senator Bob Glasgow. Senator Glasgow along with Representative Richard Smith co-chaired the Joint House/Senate Interim Study Committee on Workers' Compensation Reform.

The seven member subcommittee voted out the reform bill known as the Glasgow bill by the narrow margin of 4 to 3. It soon became apparent that Senator Glasgow's bill would not be able to garner the necessary 21 votes to pass the Senate. This group over the course of 4 or 5 days negotiated a new bill that was far more favorable to labor and the interests of trial lawyers.

Senator Ted Lyon emerged as the principal proponent of the new bill. In an extremely rare development

Lt. Governor Hobby signed on as one of the bill's coauthors. His principal motivation was to get a bill out of the Senate. By lending his name to the bill its passage was virtually assured.

Now back to the Committee of the Whole. Senator Ted Lyon laid out the new Senate bill and a series of some 34 amendments to the bill that the bill's authors favored.

Those of us that favored the more moderate Glasgow bill voted against many of the amendments. Typically, however, the vote ran to 18 to 12 in favor of adopting the amendments. Losing vote after vote made for a long afternoon.

Amendment Number 28 struck from the bill a provision which would have allowed small businesses to purchase workers' compensation insurance policies with a deductible. For example, small businessmen could have conceivably purchased a policy with a $10,000 deductible so that small businessmen could self-insure for the first $10,000 worth of claims and then purchase an umbrella for insurance coverage above that amount. The average workers' compensation claim in Texas is in the neighborhood of $3,000. It does not take a rocket scientist to figure out that this deductible feature could have a dramatic impact on worker's compensation insurance premium rates.

John Smithee and I had worked hard to see that this provision was in the House bill. I had been successful in urging Senator Glasgow to include it in the draft of his bill and up until this moment, it was still in the draft of Senator Lyon's bill.

When Senator Lyon laid out the amendment, I rose to speak in opposition. I urged my colleagues to consider that the deductible provision was the only feature of the 300 page bill that would virtually assure a positive impact on rates. Small businessmen all over Texas are crying for relief from sky-rocketing rates and this measure would address their concern.

Lt. Governor Hobby sits as a voting member of the Committee of the Whole Senate. He had been sitting at Senator Chet Brooks' desk throughout the debate which now had lasted almost 4 hours. To my amazement he rose and asked if I would yield. I thought to myself, "Well, now isn't THIS fair. The Lt. Governor takes on the junior most member of the Senate." Then, to my even greater surprise, Hobby said that he agreed with me because deductibles were one reform likely to produce immediate and tangible relief from rising rates.

When the vote on the amendment was taken the results were 11 in favor and 17 opposed. We had won! Deductibles stayed in the bill.

This was an important victory for farmers, retailers and other small businesses all over Texas. In the overall context of the bill it was a relatively small victory. However, late that afternoon, after many hours of debate, it sure felt good to win one.

Business people challenged

By MONTE HASIE

Chairman, Texas Board of Education

The fact that businesses want to be involved in doing something for education in Texas is one of the most important things we have going. The job of building a first class system of public education is an ongoing one, requiring the attention, talents and resources of educators, political leaders, parents and all citizens who care about their nation's future.

Support for public education today, however, is neither strong nor perpetual. Older Americans, with fixed incomes, are reluctant to pay a greater share for education. Young Texas, remaining single and childless longer, have not yet focused on the needs of public education. Many affluent parents, believing the public education system to have failed, are choosing private schools for their children and have an incentive not to support public education.

Finding that the product turned out by the educational system is inadequate, business has begun to turn its resources to the problems of educating their future work force. We are in this together; if our schools fail to provide large numbers of citizens with the skills required to become productive and law-abiding citizens, the future of our economy will be at risk, as well as the future of our democracy.

There are several steps that need to be taken to create

The Farwell Fire Department had one call last week: On July 4, it responded to a grass fire in Lariat at 10:16 p.m.

Letter To The Editor

a successful educational system. First, maximize every tax dollar currently available. Privatize the non-academic aspects of our public schools - bus management, cafeteria management, maintenance and custodial service - things better accomplished by those whose livelihood depends on their efficiency.

Some areas of vocational training or science and technological training could be better provided by private companies. TEA and educational service centers in all school districts should undergo recurrent management studies. This will assure taxpayers that we are delivering the best possible educational product. The savings from privatization and efficient management could run in excess of $300 million a year, and could significantly impact the quality of education.

Another critical step in re-invigorating public education is to forge even closer ties with the private sector. With the current shortage of math and science teachers, the business sector can help by sharing its employees with the public schools. Along with personnel, private industry must also bring considerable personnel skills, behavioral skills and selling techniques into the schools, using them to excite students about education, selling the thrill of achievement and success.

The private sector could develop academic competitions with the same types of awards and recognitions as those received for sports - letter jackets, scholarships, trips, etc. - to show our society the value of learning.

There are three elements critical to building the educational system of the 21st Century - individuality, flexibility and choice. We live in a large, diverse state where individual freedoms and responsibilities are the cornerstones of our society and body-politic. No single set of rules can possibly fit the needs of every school.

Can any school build its program toward some imaginary, average student? All students, those with exceptional abilities, those of average to modest abilities, and those with learning handicaps, must be encouraged to achieve their highest potentials, and must be given the opportunities and resources to do so. That requires flexible educational programs and choices.

We must also recognize that not all school districts are created equal, and while politicians can demand higher standards be met by local districts, some districts simply cannot afford them. From this point forward, Texans must demand that for what the state mandates, it must pay.

The challenge before Texas is exciting, but it is also deadly serious. If we fail, our state will decline into an economic and social backwater. The challenge to business people throughout the state is to join together in a great and ongoing effort to shape the future by restoring our public schools to the fundamentals mandated by our democracy. This cannot be made an occasional interest. Business people can build programs, fashion legislation, and rally public opinion to achieve this goal. That is the Texas way.

NEED FARM LISTINGS

Here are some tips for home canners

By Rochelle White

The height of food preservation season will soon be upon us. This year homemakers will want to be aware of new research from the USDA-funded Center for Excellence in Home Food Preservation at Penn State University. To insure the safety of home-canned products, these new USDA guidelines should be followed.

To insure your health and specifically to prevent the risk of botulism, low - acid and tomato foods not canned according to the new USDA recommendations should be boiled before eating even if you detect no signs of spoilage. Boil food for 10 minutes at altitudes below 1000 feet. Add an additional minute of boiling time for each additional 1000 feet elevation.

Therefore, if you have a canned low - acid or tomato product, you should boil it for a total of 14 minutes because the elevation of Parmer County is from about 3800- 4100 feet.

There are a variety of changes in the new USDA guidelines. In these new recommendations separate times are given for dial gauge and weighted gauge pressure canners.

Processing times are also given for varying altitudes. This is important because Parmer County is among the high altitude areas. This measure insures more accurate preservation and tremendously lowers the risk of unsafe food products.

It is recommended to sterilize jars if they will be processed less than 10 minutes in the boiling water bath. If processed by pressure canning, jars need not be sterilized before filling.

Jellied Products

In jellied products, the use of paraffin is no longer recommended. Some strains of molds have been found to grow in the paraffin and get into the jelly. These molds were once thought to be harmless, but recent studies have shown otherwise.

All jellied products should be processed in a boiling water canner (previously referred to as the waterbath canner). In general, jellies should be hot - packed in half pint jars and processed for 10 minutes (for our altitude) in the boiling water canner. Specific times for various jellied products are available at the Extension Office.

For those who need to watch their sugar intake, but still enjoy a fruity topping on their toast or biscuits in the morning, the guidelines give instructions and recipes for reduced - sugar fruit spreads. It includes information for using a variety of fruits, how to process them and some new products on the market which make this process possible.

Pickles

Some pickle products may be processed by the low-temperature pasteurization process where the canned pickles are simmered instead of boiled. This gives pickles a better flavor. These directions are available in these new guidelines. Pickling lime is now acknowledged as an acceptable firming agent for pickles. The pickling lime used should be packaged for sale in the grocery stores and not the type found in hardware store for garden use.

Other Canned Goods

Processing times are given for fruits and tomato products in a pressure canner. Although fruit and tomato products may be processed in a boiling water canner, use of a pressure canner will result in higher quality canned tomato products. The varieties of tomatoes grown today have a slightly higher pH making them less acid, so now the USDA classifies them with vegetables instead of with the higher acid fruits.

Also included in the information are recipes for a variety of tomato products including spaghetti sauce, chili salsa, country western ketchup, Mexican tomato sauce, and more.

If you would like to receive a series of educational letters throughout the summer months on the new USDA guidelines, or for more information, please call me at the Parmer County Extension Office (481 -3619).

'Capture' OK'd

The Texas Corn Growers Association said the Texas Department of Agriculture has issued a crisis declaration authorizing the use of Capture miticide on field corn in 20 Texas counties, including Parmer and Bailey.

The declaration was issued after the Environmental Protection Agency informed TDA that it probably wouldn't issue a final ruling on TCGA's request for a Section 18 temporary use of Capture before mid-July - too late to facilitate the proper use of the product by farmers.

Carl King, TCGA president, said the crisis declaration "enables corn producers in these counties to immediately use the miticide in their pesticide management programs."

Banks grass mites and other spider mites have caused problems for regional farm farmers virtually every production year. Through 1987, Azodrin was used extensively to control major mite infestations. But EPA has banned

Azodrin's use on corn.

Dr. Pat Morrison, extension entomologist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in Lubbock, said Capture shouldn't be used in the same manner as Azodrin. For more information, contact the Extension Service.

4-laning topic

A Texas traffic engineer met with the Farwell Chamber of Commerce Tuesday to discuss the upcoming 4-laning of the Amarillo Highway.

The Farwell Chamber is planning a system of signs letting motorists coming from Amarillo know where to turn off to Farwell. It will be like the old "Burma Shave" signs.

The Chamber also requested that the state place lights at the Farwell turnout and this will be looked into.

Also, a billboard will be used to promote Farwell.
