

Bibbi's mine-hunting days are over

Editor's note: Will Anderson, a Farwell resident, is in the U.S. Navy and is stationed at the U.S. Embassy in Islamabad, Pakistan. He has written some articles from life there for the Tribune.

by WILL ANDERSON

In a land of so much sorrow, it is always a delight to find a happy ending. This story is about a happy ending for a very special German Shepherd dog named Bibbi. (Bibbi is Urdu familiar address to a woman of high social standing, and it is pronounced, "Bee-Bee".)

Bibbi's parents were both from Germany, but she was born in Thailand. She was recruited when she was just a puppy by the United Nations to learn the dangerous business of sniffing out land-mines. After her initial training near Bangkok, she was flown to Pakistan with her brother and sister mine-sniffing dogs and reported to her duty station in Peshawar.

The multi-national effort to clear the mines out of Afghanistan has been going on for years. There are estimated to be over 13 million in Afghanistan, and they continue to kill and maim innocent people every day. These dogs learn to very carefully prowl through fields, streets, and houses until they find a mine. They then alert their Afghan handlers, who have been trained to disarm or destroy the weapons.

Bibbi's first days at the UN camp in Peshawar were spent teaching the Afghans about dogs more than anything else. Afghans, like most Moslems, do not like any animal, particularly dogs, but if the mine-clearing teams are to be effective, there must be a bond of trust and affection between man and beast. The Afghans were almost taught basic commands in Thai, which sounds Bibbi understood at the time.

Once the second phase of training was completed, Bibbi and her handlers were ready to go to war. They were transported through the Khyber Pass into war-torn Afghanistan under the protection of mujihadeen warriors to areas that had been taken from the Soviet forces and the Soviet-backed government in Kabul.

Then, slowly and carefully, every square inch of road, every acre of land, every room of every village, had to be searched for mines. Many of Bibbi's brothers and sisters were killed in the effort, but Bibbi survived year after year.

As each area was cleared of mines, the elders of the Afghan tribe which once lived there were brought to their old homes and fields. All the handlers locked arms, and with their dogs, they then walked every road, every field, and into every house to demonstrate that it was safe for the people to come home again. After seven years, no one can count the mines Bibbi has helped to remove from Afghanistan. There is still much to do, with millions of mines remaining, and the mujihadeen fighting and killing each other now the Soviets are gone and the Kabul government has fallen. Meanwhile, millions of Afghan refugees live in squalor in Pakistan and Iran until it is safe to go home.

But Bibbi's mine-hunting days are over. She is already older than most mine-sniffing dogs ever live to be, and her handlers decided to retire her. In most of this part of the world, that would mean abandoning her or killing her outright, but her handlers could not bear the thought of that after all these years.

So Bibbi was brought out of Afghanistan, back through the Khyber Pass, and driven to Pakistan's capital city, Islamabad. She waited nervously in the front garden of the U.S. Embassy while her handlers came to the Marine guard to plead for someone to give her a home. Within 10 minutes, the Marine guard had received 26 phone calls asking to take Bibbi home.

She now lives a life of safety and comfort with Marie Gibson, of the Foreign Service, and her daughters, Jennifer and Ellen. She seems amazed by her change of lifestyle, never quite sure it is going to last. She never barks after her years of nervous mine-hunting, but she is more relaxed and always affectionate to her friends. And everyone in the Embassy is her friend now.

Bibbi will live out her days happily now with the war in Afghanistan on the other side of the border. If she could speak, she would have some stories to tell, I imagine, but as it is, she is content to just be safe and amongst friends, home from the wars at last.

Magazine article profiles Lumbrera

I came across an article about ex-Bovina resident Diane Lumbrera in the February 1992 issue of "Accent West Amarillo" that was really interesting. It was penned by D.L. Wilkerson.

You can obtain a copy of the issue for $2.75 by writing to the magazine at Box 1504, Amarillo, Texas 79105. The article was very lengthy and I'm just going to touch on the highlights here. Or for more information, you can call the magazine at (806) 371-8411.

It's entitled "Medeia's Curse - The Diane Lumbrera Child Murders and a Strange Psychiatric Disorder" - experts are now looking more closely into the unexplained deaths of young children.

As you know, Mrs. Lumbrera faces life sentences, one in Kansas and the others in Texas, for the deaths of six of her own children and a cousin's child.

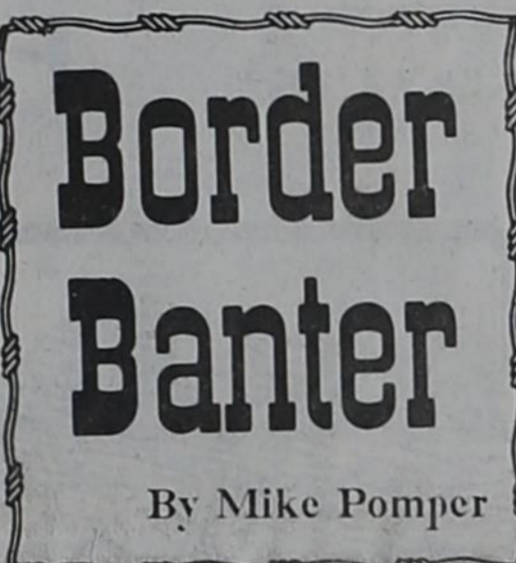

The article notes that information that surfaced during her murder trial in Kansas says she had collected thousands of dollars in insurance benefits as a result of the deaths of her children. The prosecutor described her as a "sympathy junkie" who had killed her 4 year old son so that people would feel sorry for her and give her attention. "No. 1, was to obtain money," he said. "No. 2, to obtain sympathy."

Dr. Eva Vachel testified during the trial about a psychiatric disorder which is sometimes a factor in child abuse cases. She described Munchausen syndrome by proxy, a syndrome in which parents sometimes fake illness or injury to their child or children so that the parent becomes the center of attention and sympathy. However, the judge ruled out reference to this syndrome when no expert witness was presented to testify.

A Lubbock prosecuting attorney, Rebecca Atchley, said she believed Mrs. Lumbrera fit the Munchausen profile "without question." She said she believed the woman knew killing her children was wrong, "but the attention she got was more important."

Cases of Munchausen syndrome by proxy (MSBP) may be bizarre, but they are becoming more well known. The term was first used in 1977 to describe children whose mothers invented false stories of illness about their children and substantiated these stories by fabricating false physical signs.

A variation of Munchausen syndrome sometimes causes people to hurt themselves and subject themselves to medical procedures for the same reason - to gain sympathy.

Both syndromes are named after Baron Karl Von Munchausen, an 18th century cavalry officer who came home from war with embellished tales of his adventures.

The article explains how Mrs. Lumbrera got caught. It occurred after she carried the lifeless body of her 4 year old son into the emergency room of St. Catherine's Hospital in Garden City, Kan., May 1, 1990. Previously, she had lived in Bovina.

At first, no one suspected foul play. But Mrs. Lumbrera began to tell people at St. Catherine's about the previous deaths of her 5 other children in Texas. Suspicions were raised and someone noticed pinkness around the eyes of the little boy, Jose, that indicates pinpoint hemorrhages often seen in a person who has been smothered. An autopsy was then ordered.

The autopsy concluded that Jose died from "asphyxia due to smothering." Mrs. Lumbrera was then arrested.

That's when authorities in Texas began checking into the deaths of her other children who had died between 1976 and 1984, plus the death of Mrs. Lumbrera's cousin's child. All these deaths had been ruled natural by

TCAO finalizes plans for July 4th gala

The Texico Community Activities Organization Monday finalized plans for its Fourth of July Jamboree at KKR Park.

Activities in the park will begin at 1 p.m. mdt. They will culminate with the fireworks display just after dusk, estimated about 8:30 p.m. mdt.

Hot dogs will be sold from 1 p.m. onward, and hamburgers from 4 p.m. Folks are urged to bring picnic lunches.

The TCAO is also trying to set up games for kids during the day, such as a fish pond, horseshoes, and relay races. Musicians are being sought to entertain.

Portions of Griffin, Hereford and Hamlin streets will be Texas physicians when they originally occurred.

The article says that Texas child protection authorities apparently failed to become suspicious of Mrs. Lumbrera, in spite of the fact that a New Mexico physician, Dr. H. M. McClintock, said he reported her to Protective Services when her son Christopher was born and he heard that several other children in the family had died mysterious deaths. Christopher was dead a few months later.

"I feel as if I failed," Dr. McClintock said. "I made an effort to keep the child alive and I was not successful in doing so."

Anyway, Mrs. Lumbrera is now in prison. But attorney Atchley worries about the possibility she may be paroled some day. "When she paroled out, she'll find another way to express her illness. She could walk right in and open a babysitting service in her house."

Folks, next week we will be putting out our Border Town Days buttons at several Twin City businesses.

It's important that you understand why we sell these buttons for $2 donations. Each button is numbered on the back and we will draw one at BTDD and, if you are present, you win $50.

The proceeds from these buttons help pay the expenses from BTDD.

Ask yourself this question: Do you enjoy BTDD? Do you think it's a plus for our community? Do you think we need to keep it going? Do you enjoy the free entertainment?

If you say yes, then you need to buy a button. That's only fair.

closed during the day. Barricades will be set up.

When the fireworks start, State Road 108 will be closed. The fireworks will be shot off on the Paul Skaggs property outside the city limits. Lewis Cooper, Texico fire chief, and Kirk Roberts, deputy marshal, will operate the fireworks.

Roberts reported at Tuesday's Texico City Council meeting that from 11 to 15 police officers will be on hand. Folks are expected from Clovis since that community won't have fireworks this year. But Portales will.

Signs noting that "alcohol isn't allowed" will be put up.

Volunteers are needed to help with the events. To sign up, call Roberts at City Hall.

Rhea VFD gets free pickup

Glen Schueler of Rhea reports the Rhea-Hollene Volunteer Fire Department got a free new pickup truck.

Schueler notes that, "It didn't cost us anything, we just had to do a little paper work."

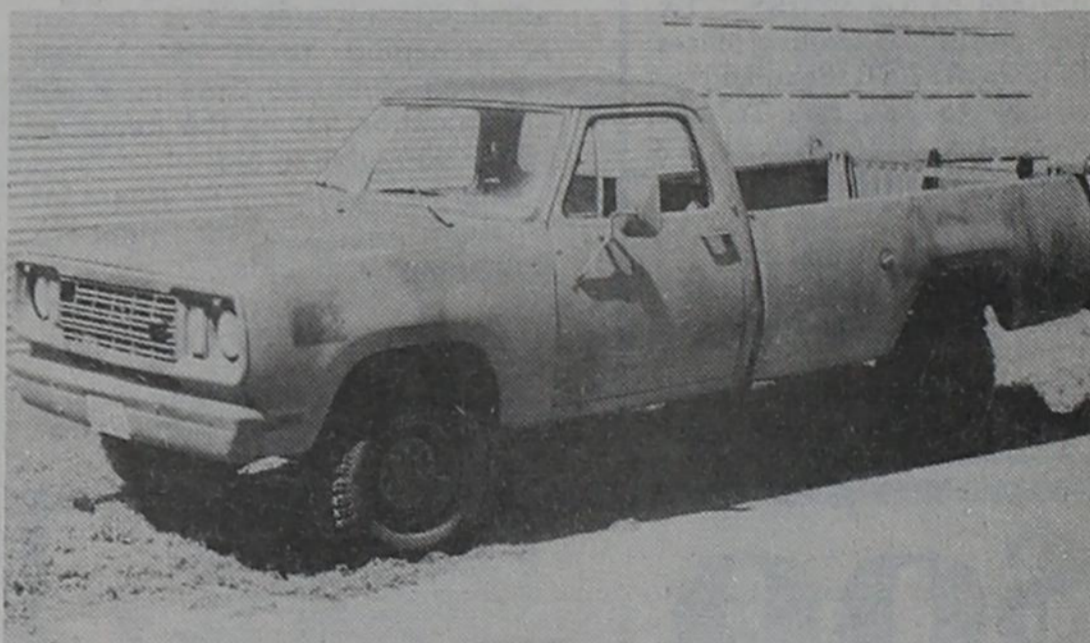

According to Schueler, this is the second time that Rhea has gotten a donation of equipment from the Forest Service. The first time they got a 5,000 gallon trailer truck.

The pickup truck was part of four loads of equipment that came into Amarillo in this shipment.

This information came from the Texas Forest Service:

The Rhea - Hollene Volunteer Fire Department recently bolstered its firefighting arsenal with the acquisition of a 1 ton 4 wheel drive truck, thanks in part to assistance from the Texas Forest System and the Rural Cooperative Fire Protection program.

the cooperative fire program, which is administered by the Texas Forest Service. The department obtained the federal excess property truck free of charge.

Who should mow Texico's alleys?

What to do about property owners and tenants who don't mow their share of the alleys was discussed at Tuesday's Texico City Council meeting.

Councilman Butch Tharp noted that City Ordinance No. 93 states that property owners and tenants are responsible for mowing and maintaining their halves of the alleys.

He noted that it costs the city $580 in mowing per month, which also includes ditches and other areas.

But councilman Oran Jay Autrey rebutted that the cost for the city just mowing the alleys is closer to $175 a month. And he said it's difficult for senior citizens, for example, to do this mowing.

The possibility of fining folks who don't mow their portions of the alleys was suggested.

Tharp asked the council to further discuss the topic in executive session. His motion was approved.

In other business, the council:

- Approved a bid from Appian, Hereford, for $51,310 for the annual street patching.

- Heard that city employee Matt Meeks and others had repaired the four community building tables that had been damaged after the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet. The Chamber will pay for the repairs.

- Heard Texico Fire Chief Lewis Cooper report that the department was planning to get a new pumper. The state will pay for it.

Cooper said the department is looking at seeking a state grant for a unit in the ambulance to help persons who undergo cardiac arrest.

Heard Deputy Marshal Kirk Roberts, who heads the Texico Community Activities Organization, suggest that a new city hall complex be built to include a community center. He suggested seeking a state grant.

Discussed pruning the tree at the southwest corner of KKR Park. In order to keep it alive, it's felt that dead limbs need to be cut off it, but the cost has stopped the city from doing it.

It was suggested that city employees be used to cart off limbs that are pruned, thus cutting the cost.

Nearly 40 million Americans suffer some form of allergy, a chronic sensitivity to one or more foreign substances. In its most common form, allergic rhinitis, the immune system reacts to inhaled particles, usually pollen, dust or animal dander, by producing histamine, which cause sneezing and itchy eyes.

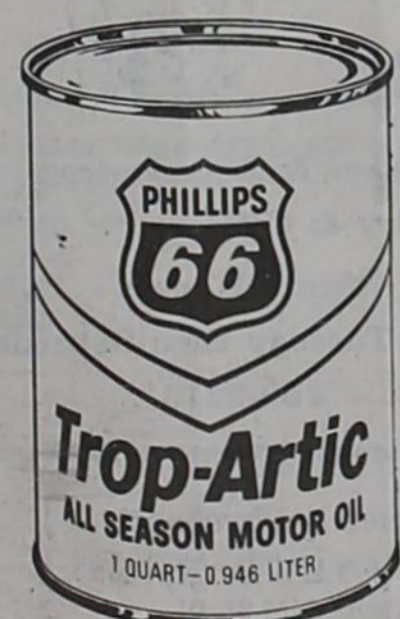

Fortunately most allergies are mild and respond favorably to treatment. Antihistamines, available both over the counter and in prescription form, are used to relieve the symptoms of allergies, often in conjunction with decongestants.

Cotton prices lower than last year

High Plains cotton producers are still wondering what hit them following three weeks of above normal precipitation and below normal temperatures.

According to Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers (PCG) one of the key factors for many producers deciding what to do about recent weather damage is whether or not a deficiency payment can be expected in 1992.

Through 1992's first four months deficiency prospects are much better than they were through the first four months of 1991. Through April the weighted average price received for cotton was 50.78 cents per pound, an incredible 15.62 cents below the weighted average price for cotton during the same period one year ago.

"A combination of factors are currently working together to keep cotton prices considerably lower than last year," notes PCG Executive Vice President Donald Johnson. "One of the biggest appears to be the high level of world cotton stocks following the 1991 crop."

Johnson adds that prices have remained relatively stable even though the High Plains could end up with a large number of cotton acres being shifted into alternate crops or being classified as conserving use (CU) acres under provisions of the 1992 cotton program.

Under the 1992 cotton program producers deciding not to replant cotton or an alternate crop on their failed acres will be eligible for a deficiency payment in 1992. If accepted by ASCS acres designated as prevented planted or CU for pay will be guaranteed a 15-cent final deficiency payment on up to 92-percent of their permitted cotton acreage. Final payments will be reduced by the 6 cent advance payment most producers received at program sign-up.

Preliminary damage estimates indicate that as many as a million acres of cotton destroyed in recent weeks probably will not be replanted. Heavy losses in counties north of Lubbock will probably account for the majority of these losses, even though a significant number of cotton acres were also lost to the south. Many of the southern acres, however, are expected to be replanted if producers can get back in the field in the next three or four days.

"Producers in the southern portions of the High Plains have a better chance to go back with cotton and still make a crop

Combest discusses energy strategy

From Cong. Larry Combest:
Last week's headlines urgently warned, "U.S. Oil Output at Lowest Level in 30 Years." In the 30 days since the House of Representatives tentatively passed a lack-luster energy bill, the drilling rig count measuring the health of the oil industry dropped by almost 2 rigs every day until the count stood at 596. Then years ago, there were more than 4,000 U.S. rigs.

Last week, the Finance Committee in the U.S. Senate set forth a plan to repeal $1.1 billion in alternative minimum taxes that had drained the oil from domestic production. Last week's tentative action may have given producers the heart to go back into the fields. The number of rigs has now inched up to 632 actively searching for oil and natural gas throughout the country. However, those 632 active rigs are but a shadow of the 4,000 that once operated nationwide, and still nowhere near the 866 operating at home just one year ago.

Vultures have been circling the oil fields since the 1980's when the Windfall Profits Tax withered domestic production by as much as 1.5 billion barrels of oil. Not surprisingly during that time, foreign oil imports increased by as much as 16 percent and filled the domestic market we once produced for and sold ourselves.

Current production from U.S. wells now averages 7.06 million barrels a day, but imports outweigh our domestic production with 7.9 million barrels a day- and growing. Every day, one dozen supertankers dock at our ports, pumping in foreign oil that is pulling out $146 million a day from our economy. The trap is that foreign oil is cheaper at the pump, but costly to the 120,813 Texans and 400,000 others who once had jobs in the oil industry.

Congress has repeatedly failed to enact a national energy policy. We have instead increased our dependence on foreign oil imports to where it now claims more than 50 percent of our market. The 1986 Tax Reform Act and other burdensome regulations have taken away incentives from our own small oil producers. While the lowest production in the U.S. in 30 years, we cannot continue to punish that production by heavily taxing a domestic industry that could once again provide U.S. jobs.

Stable oil prices and a fair tax structure can re-open exploration by these wildcatters. Good - paying jobs can come back to the natural gas and oil fields of America. A reasonable approach to oil exploration offshore and in the Arctic National Wildlife Region as well as the use of alternative fuels can wean us from the dangerous dependence on unstable foreign oil supplies.

It is time to reverse the flow of oil and direct our efforts to a truly balanced national energy strategy. We must encourage more domestic production before we are 100 percent dependent on foreign oil. Should another Middle East crisis cut our supply lines, we would be forced to scrape the bottom of an empty barrel.

Disaster loans available here

U. S. Rep. Larry Combest (R-Texas) announced the availability of Small Business Administration disaster loans for qualifying businesses in Parmer County.

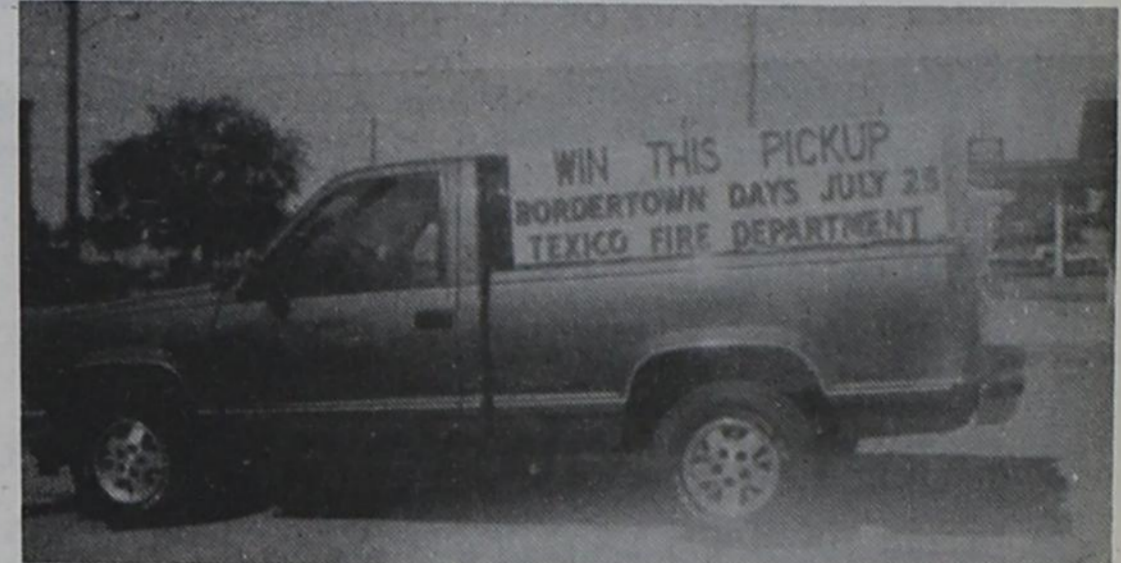

The Economic Injury Disaster Loans help small businesses dependent on agriculture and cooperatives whose sales have dropped substantially due to extreme crop loss suffered by their farming and ranching customers. Nurseries impacted by drought disasters can also apply.

"These SBA disaster loans will provide needed help for many small businesses in our region," said Combest.

They are available only to businesses that are considered small by SBA size standards and do not have credit available elsewhere. Loans are limited to the financial needs of the applicant based on the actual economic injury. Loans may be made for up to $500,000 and may extend to 30 years, depending on repayment ability.

Businesses qualifying have until Feb. 2, 1993, to apply. More information and forms can be obtained by calling SBA toll - free, (800) 473-0477.

Weight Loss Surprises Researchers

WASHINGTON --A nutrition organization was hopeful that a nutritionally complete "hi-tech" food tablet would help erase world hunger problems, until a study revealed that one of the ingredients could cause significant weight loss.

Although other studies and scientists may not agree, researchers in Europe found that the ingredient, a natural plant colloid, actually caused people to lose weight, even though specifically instructed not to alter normal eating patterns, according to one study published in the prestigious British Journal of Nutrition. Researchers in an earlier study had speculated that the weight loss was due to a decrease in the intestinal absorption of calories.

While the project of National Dietary Research, aptly named Food Source One, would not be used to successfully fulfill its original goal, the formula which has since been improved with other natural colloids has been a windfall for some overweight people. A Daytona Beach, Florida woman fighting a weight battle for 12 years used the product on the recommendation of her physician and lost 30 pounds. She stated, "Not only have I lost 30 pounds but my cholesterol has dropped from 232 to 143. I have two closets full of clothes which have not fit me in two years that I can now wear." In a separate report, a telephone interview revealed that a Wilmington, North Carolina pharmacist lost 14 pounds in 3 weeks on the product and was never hungry.

Food Source One tablets are part of National Dietary Research's comprehensive plan to bring a rapid end to obesity in this country. A variety of nutritionally sound diet plans, specially prepared by NDR, accompany each bottle and provide a natural, drug free alternative for confronting the problem of obesity.

Twin Cities, area receive more rain

Showers on the evening of June 18 cooled off the decidedly hot and humid temperatures that we had in the Twin Cities that day.

There were big puddles along the highway in Texico and in Farwell but the folks at Texico schools report that they didn't get much rain.

Fred Chandler reported that he had measured .15" of moisture at Sherley Anderson Pitman elevator in Farwell.

Lonnie McFarland of Lariat reported .55" of moisture fell out at the Shirley Anderson Grain Elevator in Lariat. Some of it came as rain and some came as hail.

"It was some of the biggest hail I'd ever seen," McFarland noted. "I've some as big as golf balls before, but this was a little bigger." Due to the high air temperatures the hail did not stay long. As McFarland noted it stayed, "long enough to run out and get some to put in the freezer."

McFarland said there was also some pea sized hail that hit some crops in the Lariat area.

Shirley Steinbock of Lazbuddie reports that she measured .50" at the Shirley Grain Elevator in Lazbuddie.

Weekend rains brought more moisture.

Walter Curd of Texico measured 1.6" of moisture from the weekend's rains.

Folks at Sherley Anderson Pitman report they measured .8" of moisture Saturday night and .5" of moisture on Sunday.

Frances Lovelace said she got 1" of rain on Saturday night.

Yalonda McFarland said she measured 1.08" of moisture at the Sherley Grain elevator in Lariat from the rain on June 20 and .45" of moisture from the 21st.

Shirley Steinbock reports that she measured 1.5". She said that the rain is "good on the corn," although she noted that the farmers still can't get the wheat out.

Weaver to head Lazbuddie FHA

Barbara Lust, Lazbuddie's home economics teacher and FHA advisor, reports that her students had a very exciting year and worked on some projects that were a little different than in past years.

Her classes participated in most of the same learning activities as in previous years, including holding a week-long nursery school for pre-kindergarten children. The home ec students in Mrs. Lust's "Comprehensive Home Economics" and "Life Management," classes organized and conducted the nursery school program in the school's home ec department, including learning and creative exercises and refreshments for the pre-schoolers. Mrs. Lust said that this fall project is always a special time for her students and for the young children involved.

In addition to the nursery school, the eighth grade home ec students participated in the "flour sack babies," project during the first semester of the year. Mrs. Lust uses this learning activity to teach responsibility.

The Future Homemakers of America members carried out several projects during the year. They had many activities during National FHA Week, including the sale of Valentine keepsakes.

In February, several students accompanied Mrs. Lust to the regional FHA meet in Amarillo. They were: Eva Jo Alcalá, Susan Alcalá, Jerri Cozby, Lisa Galaviz, Raquel Guzman, Christina Perkins, Carmalita Ramos, and Joele Weaver. Mrs. Donna Cozby also attended.

As a new project this year, the "Child Development" class took part in an outside nursery school conducted by Mrs. Jamie Carroll. Mrs. Carroll created the nursery school for several area pre-school children whose parents expressed an interest in providing a special learning experience for their little ones. Mrs. Carroll worked with the children on communication skills, social skills, language development, creativity, and motor skills. She is a certified elementary education teacher with a specialization in learning difficulties and alternative communication and study skills.

Mrs. Lust's classes monitored and helped with the nursery school on one day each week throughout the school year. One time, they planned and carried out the program. Others assisted.

Mrs. Lust said that the nursery school was "a wonderful

Local girls sign up for contest

The Border Town Day Queen Contest Committee held the annual Coke party at the Spur Restaurant June 18 to explain the contest to the contestants.

At least 5 contestants have signed up to participate in the contest, and others may turn in their completed entry forms by 7 p.m. cdt June 25 when the girls next meet at the Texico Community Center for the Sash Party.

At this event, each contestant will design the sash she will wear in the contest.

Parmer designated

U.S. Rep. Larry Combest announced that eligible farmers suffering crop losses of 30 percent or more from 1991 may apply for low-interest emergency disaster loans from the Farmers Home Administration.

Designated counties include Bailey and Parmer counties.

"Last year's weather was brutal on family farmers," said Combest. "Crops were frozen, dried, drowned and pounded by extremes of drought, flood and freezing temperatures and hail during 1991. Unfortunately, while these loans can help producers from last year, the most recent weather devastation will add to the difficult management decision they will make. I recognize the demanding if not seemingly impossible situation for them. This additional FmHA loaning is an opportunity for badly needed credit."

lab experience." She said that it was very interesting to watch how the parenting skills of her students increased as the year went on. She said that parenting skills of her students increased as the year went on. She said that parenting became second nature as the students observed Mrs. Carroll and actively participated by doing things for the children, working with them, and coming up with their own methods of teaching and guiding. Home ec students who participated were: Lori Bradshaw, Jody Copp, Chris Cozby, Raul Franco, Susanna Franco, Lisa Galaviz, Eddie Lueras, Dawnda Magby, and Jodi Morris.

On May 19, Lazbuddie's FHA held the installation of officers for the 1992-93 school year. Mrs. Lust said that the students elected to share office duties next year. The new officers are: president, Joele Weaver (Chairman of Star Events) and Christina Perkins; 1st vice - president ("Power of One" program); Marsha Mendoza and Raquel Guzman; 2nd vice - president, Mario Zamora and Lori McBroom (YES program); 3rd vice-president: Rachelle Rice and Jonas Hernandez; secretary-treasurer, Eva Jo Alcalá and Joni Hernandez; reporter-historian, Regina Jones and parliamentarian, Liz Galaviz.

Mrs. Lust said that the FHA will work on the YES (Youth Exchanging with Seniors) project during the summer. In addition, she will be taking four students to a leadership workshop at Texas Tech on June 4, 5, and 6.

Cut cheese into pieces. Brown ground beef & sausage in a large skillet. Stirring until crumbly; drain well. Stir in Worcestershire sauce. Add cheese, stirring constantly until melted. 1/4 c. sugar
1 pkg. (8 oz.) chopped dates
1 Tbs. cocoa
1 Tbs. cornstarch
3 Tbs. butter or margarine
1/2 c. water
25 small walnut halves (optional)

Crust

1 pkg. (3 oz.) cream cheese, softened
1/2 c. (1 stick) butter or margarine, softened
1 c. Martha White All-Purpose Flour
1/2 c. ground walnuts
