Giant Sorghum Crop in Prospect

The Parmer County area's lusty grain sorghum continued its development at an accelerated pace this week as farmers worked around the clock to keep the mammoth stand of an estimated 180,000 acres supplied with adequate water.

The sun burned on mercilessly day in and day out during the past two weeks—a critical period for the growing crops—and the intense heat was broken by only a scattered shower or two.

Two "sprinklers" netted less than a quarter inch here at Farwell during the past week, aiding little the plight of the parched earth not blessed with the fruit of an irrigation well.

In spite of the intense heat and prolonged dry spell, however, prospects appeared excellent for a bumper grain sorghum crop—perhaps even greater than the memorable one of 1953.

In fact, if no disaster occurs and the fall crop averages around 2500 pounds—believed not to be an unreasonable figure—grain sorghums as a cash crop could mean between $7 and $10 million to Parmer County farmers. That's

Progress Negro Boy Critically Injured When Hit by Train

Freddy Neeley, 19-year-old Negro, is in critical condition at a Muleshoe hospital this week as a result of a tractor-train crash at a crossing near Progress.

Neeley, farm hand for Buddy Weisman, was driving a tractor as it approached the crossing about 11 a. m. Tuesday morning and failed to see an oncoming train.

The engine crashed into the tractor and "broke it into a hundred pieces," according to Ben Smart, a witness to the accident, who happened to be traveling along the highway at the time.

Smart was the first to reach Neeley, who although still conscious was "in pretty rough shape." He suffered a broken arm, broken leg, contusion at the base of the spine, and numerous lacerations.

The victim was living with his uncle, a Negro Baptist pastor, at Progress.

Irrigation Farmers "Having Fits" With Ditch Moss

A large number of area farmers who have irrigation programs are running into a new problem this year: moss in their ditches. The slimy green growth accumulates in the slush pit and spreads down ditches until it chokes irrigation tubes and causes them to break suction.

Many farmers have disgustingly returned to their fields to make a setting to discover that water is "all over the place" because their tubes had been put out of commission by the moss.

Irrigation men in the area have had satisfactory results from two treatments, according to County Agent Joe Jones. Both involve chemical poisons.

The first is copper sulphate, commonly known as bluestone. The second is aromatic solvent. Both seem to function similarly, and since bluestone is readily available from area retailers, it is being used most often.

For an irrigation ditch one-half mile in length, about five to 10 pounds of the chemical is recommended for a treatment. This chemical is suspended into the water in a burlap sack or in some other manner that will result in gradual dissolution. The bag is usually placed in the mouth of the ditch or the slush pit so that the dissolved chemical will flow toward the field.

A good kill of the moss is usually achieved with one application of this method.

Moseley Elected Clerk, M'Donald, Ivy Win Too

Shivers, Brewster, Haley in Runoffs

A new county clerk and a new county commissioner emerged from the smoke of the Parmer County Democratic Primary election last Saturday, in which an unusually large number of voters—over 1500—cast ballots in this "off" election year.

The new county and district clerk is Hugh Moseley of Friona, who championed Graham Thornton of Bovina in a race that went neck and neck for many boxes. Heavy support from the biggest precinct in the county—Friona—tipped the scales in Moseley's favor.

Thornton won out in three precincts, those being Bovina, Farwell, and Lazbuddie. The other five precincts and the absentee vote went for Moseley. The final tally (unofficial) was Thornton 752, Moseley, 877. A third candidate in the race would likely have produced a runoff.

Loyde Brewer, incumbent for that office, was not seeking reelection.

In commissioner's precinct number three, J. H. "Johnny" McDonald squeezed past incumbent Earl Billingsley by a narrow 252-215 vote margin. Oklahoma Lane box voted 63-61 in favor of Billingsley; but the tide was turned at Farwell.

Henry Ivy kept his title as commissioner of precinct four (Lazbuddie), but narrowly missed being pressed into a runoff by his opponents. Ben Foster polled 107, J. O. Cantrell 17.

State Races

By far the most interesting race on a state level was for the Texas governorship. Parmer County waxed hot and cold on their decisions, but came out with a county-wide total of 1097 for Gov. Shivers, 474 for Challenger Yarborough—a margin of over two to one.

Gov. Shivers' main strength appeared at the Farwell box where he carried by about a 5-to-1 margin; at Lakeview, a smaller box, he also piled up a lead of similar proportions.

Bovina is apparently the center of the Yarborough strength in Parmer County. Shivers' lead out his opponent at the box, but not by any substantial count: 144-118.

Ben Ramsey, running for lieutenant governor, and John Shepperd, attorney general, cleaned up as had been expected.

Loveland Grain & Storage To Become Member of Lone Star Elevator Chain Soon

Announcement was made this week that the Lone Star Elevator group will in the near future take over the operation of the Loveland Grain & Storage property on the state line under a lease arrangement.

Bob Brooks, who will manage the elevator as soon as the transfer is made, moved to Farwell recently with his wife, and 1½-year-old son.

The Lone Star Elevator chain is a subsidiary of Burrus Mills of Fort Worth, and Brooks explained that the Texico-Farwell property will become the only "country" elevator in the chain.

According to Brooks, the new management will concentrate on grain handling exclusively. The warehouse on the Loveland property will be moved off, and the retail sales of seed and fertilizer will be discontinued.

"We will be eligible to store grain under the government loan program, and will be able to offer farmers almost unlimited terminal storage," Brooks said.

The Loveland elevator, built only a few years ago, is a concrete structure with a capacity of 300,000 bushels. It is now being emptied of grain in preparation for the transaction which will take place early in August in all probability.

Brooks, a graduate of Eastern New Mexico University in 1952 where he majored in agronomy, comes to the community from San Antonio. He was production manager of the Asgrow Texas Company, a seed firm.

Revival Meeting Begins at Church

A revival meeting at the United Pentecostal Church in Texico began Sunday, and will continue this week, with Miss Dorothy Cates of Portales as evangelist.

Services are scheduled at 8:30 each evening at the church, located two blocks north of the Home Grocery.

TRACTOR UNLIKE CAR, FINDS MACK

In some ways, driving a tractor is more simplified than driving a car, Mack Crawley has discovered. At any rate, it probably is cheaper.

Mack, 12 years old, did quite a bit of tractor riding out in California this summer, and when he got back to Texico his mama introduced him to some of the fundamentals of car driving.

Last week when Mr. and Mrs. Crawley were out of town, Mack decided he'd try his hand at the family automobile. After a short ride into the country, he returned to town.

Getting his car parked had its problems, however, and Mack got panicky and crashed into the Crawley home.

He tells his parents he'll pay for the $20 damages and leave the car alone until he's a little older.

Wendol Christian Injured by Baler

Wendol Christian, Oklahoma Lane farmer, was painfully injured Wednesday of last week, while working on a hay baler. He had crawled under the baler to thread the needle, according to reports here, when the accident occurred.

The needle that carries the wire on the baler, hit him on the back of the head, pushed him into a cog, and a tooth of the cog caught him under the lip on the left side of his face, breaking his cheek bone and his nose, and making deep lacerations. Numerous stitches were required.

He was returned to his home Monday and was feeling fairly well the first of the week. Wendol's father, C. C. Christian was working with him at the time of the accident.

a tidy sum, but farmers aren't figuring on it until it's "in the bag."

Of the 180,000 of sorghums under irrigation, about 20,000 of these are sweet sorghums or ensilage-type crops that will be used for silage when cut.

Not inconsiderable is the dryland acreage, about 50,000 acres, which could—or could not—make it. Right now, it's just sort of "hanging on" and it will be necessary for moisture in substantial amounts to help the dryland if it will produce this year. Soil moisture for all crops is critical at the present time, says County Agent

Fair Directors Set 1954 Date

Directors of Parmer County Fair and Dairy Show met Monday evening at Friona for a steak dinner, and began initial plans for the annual show, which is held at the barns in Friona. Date for the fair has been tentatively set for September 13-15, which is on a Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, to avoid conflict with the Clovis fair. If the Clovis function is not on September 16-18, the local date will probably be changed.

Aim Levelled On Bindweed

A cooperative movement to stem the spread of noxious weeds which each year put a sizeable notch in the pocketbook of every farmer in Parmer County evolved into the "doing" stage in Farwell this week.

About 30 county farmers interested in organizing a one-front warfare against noxious weeds in general and bindweed in particular gathered at the courthouse in Farwell to talk over their problems with the commissioners' court which was in session Monday. The farmers were organized by the county Farm Bureau group which is now taking action on a resolution made in 1953 that some kind of effort be made to organize a fight against the threat of noxious weeds.

The men discussed their problems with the commissioners and enlisted the county's support in the movement, and the commissioners agreed to furnish poison for the county rights-of-

THE TRIBUNE'S EDITORIAL COMMENT

It Was Close This Time, But It Won't Be the Next

Gov. Allan Shivers and Ralph Yarborough, who drew over 1,000,000 voters to the polls Saturday, came out of the contest with something like only 20,000 votes separating them. It is amazing to note that two unknowns as such Cyclone Davis and J. J. Holmes could push these two political gargantuans into a runoff, but such is the case.

We were very much surprised to see the strength of those who chose Yarborough for the next governor. It never ceases to be a cause for wonder to see how many people will fall for wild charges and rash promises of a few men who would put themselves in office by any means at hand.

The voters have a month to reconsider on their choice for the next governor of Texas, and it is fortunate indeed that this time will afford some real investigation into some of the assertions made by candidate Yarborough. In the heat of the campaign just closed, he threw in a bewildering barrage of distorted charges, and no voter could possibly have given enough time to finding the facts for himself.

There is little doubt in our minds but what Gov. Shivers will show his heels to Ralph Yarborough in the run-off, as serious minded Texans will have a chance to do a little thinking for themselves in the meantime.

More Killing To Come

Sources close to the automobile industry predict that in five short years Americans will be buying average-priced cars equipped with 300 horsepower engines. We wish it wasn't so.

There is no car manufactured in the United States today that is not capable of speeds of from 80 to 90 miles per hour. This maximum output is quite sufficient, especially with traffic and the nation's system of highways being what they are. Even in cases of extreme emergency, we see little advantage in having more than 140 or 150 horsepower.

As horsepower increases, so does the average speed of automobiles. It is human nature to drive fast when a car is capable of high speeds with ease. And as speed increases, so does the severity of accidents.

When 300 horsepower cars become a commonplace thing, we believe we'll get out of the car and onto the sidewalk for our transportation.

Crude Stocks at New High But So Are Oil Prices

There are many things in the business-industrial-economic world that we fail to understand. One of them is why prices of oil and petroleum products remains so high, in the face of a mounting surplus of domestic crude stocks.

Only this month the Texas Railroad Commission again reduced the permitted production of this state's oil wells, and it may safely be said that Texas is producing only half of the oil she could if the wells were permitted to pump at capacity.

Officials of the industry are extremely disturbed over the possibility of the administration's "freer trade" policies leading to more competition from oil producing areas of the Near East. America is "floating on a vast sea of oil inventory now," they have said.

If this be true, we cannot help but wonder why the prices of the many, many things produced from petroleum have remained near all-time high levels. We had always labored under the impression that one of the most highly recommended methods of getting rid of unwanted merchandise was to reduce its price. Why isn't this being done in the oil industry?

ly and he gulped a mouthful of tea, then exclaimed "Ug—no sugar." So he proceeded to sugar the concoction, took another sip, and the fireworks began. So we tasted the tea. It was horrible—we couldn't detect exactly what was wrong, but there was an ever so faint coffee taste, blended in with the bitter sensation.

About half a meal later, we were still explaining that we definitely used tea leaves and not coffee grounds—and just couldn't understand it, when our husband had a sudden realization. What kind of container did we use to make the tea? We told him, and the mystery was solved. There had been a small amount of coffee left from breakfast and the boss man had taken only enough of what he thought was tea concentrate to make a luscious-looking glassfull for each of us. The tea container was still untouched.

We maintain that we like coffee but not that weak, and we like tea, but in its natural state.

Then we sat down to eat our apple pie we had purchased at the WSCS bake sale and it was pineapple—but delicious nevertheless.

Sometimes we are fortunate our errors are not even more serious, but a week never passes without our getting a laugh out of things that don't get in the paper.

We took shorthand in high school, but by the time we got around to using it, we had forgotten all the signs and signals, so we have designed our own code. There is one trouble, no one else on the staff can read it.

Like this week, we scribbled out a local on a family being away on business, and anyone who has read my notes knows that "bus" is short for business. But Joann was helping me catch up on some stories, and she deciphered it differently. They went on the bus. Never a dull moment.

If some of you good cooks don't give us some assistance on these favorite recipes, we may have to rely on our own ingenuity, and we would rather have some from the better cooks in the country.

We have a new twist for the baked bean dish that some of you might enjoy. Most of you probably have a favorite baked bean recipe, but if not, you might try this one.

In a deep buttered casserole, put 2 cans of pork and beans, 1/2 cup maple syrup.

Saute in a little butter 2 tbsps. chopped onion and 1 tsp. green pepper. Mix with beans. In same pan, fry enough bacon to put over beans. Arrange on top of casserole. Pour over all, one package cornbread mix, substituting sour milk and pinch of baking soda for liquid suggested on package.

Bake according to directions on cornbread package.

We hope to have some response from some of you local people on the Farm Bureau queen contest. If you remember, last year, Peggy Hardage of Farwell was runner-up for the county title, and since we are to take the entries for Farwell, we are quite interested.

Each businessman, other individual or club wishing to sponsor a candidate, pays the $5 entrance fee. To be eligible, the girl must be the daughter or sister of a Farm Bureau member, single, and 16 years of age by Sept. 1, 1954, and not over 22 by Sept. 1, 1954.

Judging will be based on appearance, poise and personality. The county winner will be allowed $100 to purchase formal attire to be worn at the district contest in September in Amarillo.

Denise Magness of Friona was county winner last year. Since we are supposed to be plugging for Farwell this year, we know the potential for a queen from this part of the county is marvelous.

So we will expect to have about a dozen entries to report to you all next week.

Seven-year-old Tracy Lee McDaniel of Los Angeles, California, arrived safe and sound and on schedule in Amarillo Sunday, on her first plane flight "all by herself." The airline hostess informed her proud greeting committee, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Booth and Mrs. Ralph Humble that Tracy Lee was "the best passenger on the plane."

The young lady will visit the remainder of the summer here.

This was not our week on the food front. Sometimes when we get in too much of a hurry, things really start popping.

Saturday was one of those days. We had been waxing floors, cleaning house and a few other things and at the last minute, volunteered to bake a special order pie for the WSCS bake sale. Miss Overstreet Weds Lt. Ernest Lokey Jr.

Marriage vows for Miss Jane Claire Overstreet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hamlin Yonge Overstreet, and Lieutenant Ernest Franklin Lokey, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest F. Lokey of Farwell, were solemnized Saturday, July 24, 1954, in the chapel of the Travis Park Methodist Church of San Antonio, Texas.

The Reverend Clarence Lokey, uncle of the bridegroom, read the marriage vows before an altar banked with an all-white arrangement of gladioli and chrysanthemums, accented by greenery. Graduated candelabra emphasized the arrangement.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a waltz length wedding gown of Italian silk taffeta of a soft magnolia shade. The semi off-shoulder neckline extended into a center point with an identical effect in both back and front, and a minute shirred inset gave the mock sleeves a flowing line. The pointed bodice was emphasized by the billowing skirt. The elbow length veil of illusion was attached to a Juliet cap, and the bride carried a white orchid atop a white satin Bible, which also featured stephanotis and a shower of white satin streamers.

A reception was held at the St. Anthony Hotel following the ceremony. The serving table was centered with a white floral arrangement in a silver epergne. Mrs. William Q. Boyce of Amarillo, presided at the bridal book; and Mrs. Henry Russell of Dallas and Mrs. Thomas H. Lindsey of Vernon, sister of the bridegroom, served the wedding cake and coffee to the attendants.

SECT'Y. BENSON OUTLINES HIS PROGRAM ON WHEAT

(Because wheat is still an important cash crop in this region, and it is likely to become even more important in the future, we are below printing a detailed account of the USDA's program relative to wheat production—Ed.)

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson June 21 announced preliminary steps in the administration of the 1955 wheat program and also cross-compliance provisions to influence the use of land diverted by wheat and other acreage allotments. The Secretary:

1. Proclaimed a national marketing quota for the 1955 wheat crop, in accordance with legislative provisions.
2. Announced a national wheat acreage allotment of 55 million acres for 1955—the level specified in the controlling legislation under conditions of excessive supply.
3. Set July 23 as the date for a national referendum among wheat growers on acceptance of the proposed marketing quota. (They accepted).

4. Announced that in 1955 wheat growers and others would have to comply with all acreage allotments established for a farm, and that bigger producers—with larger totals of diverted acres—will also have to comply with a "total acreage allotment" in order to be eligible for price support on any crop produced on the farm.

"This action obviously means further controls on farm production and marketing," Secretary Benson said in commenting on the announcements. "I greatly regret this fact. The long-range interests of agriculture and the national economy will best be served when we can have less—and not more—government regulation and control."

"Under present conditions, however, we have no immediate choice. With approximately a two-years' supply of wheat expected to be on hand when this year's crop is harvested, there is no question at all about the requirement for marketing quotas and the establishment of a national wheat acreage allotment at the level prescribed by law. Neither is there any question about the need to require cross-compliance with established acreage allotments. It doesn't make sense to encourage the building of new problems through the unwise shifting of acres from one surplus crop to another.

"Farmers under these regulations have a choice of action. They can approve or disapprove marketing quotas. As for acreage allotments, they can either:

- (1) Comply and get the protection of price supports, or
- (2) Not comply and forego the benefits of price supports and sell their products on the "free" markets.

"The wheat supply situation, which forces us into these control measures, is the result of a decline in exports, failure to invoke acreage controls in 1952, relatively high yields, an outmoded method of computing parity, and long-continued use of rigid price supports. Such supports bring unbalanced production, restricted sales and use, result in waste, and inevitably lead to regimentation and restrictive measures. Variable price support levels adjusted with the supply, can strike at the roots of this surplus problem.

"In the meantime our job is to make the most effective possible use of the controls and measures which are available. We must halt the build-up of surplus and start the trend toward a better balance between supply and demand, using the tools at hand."

Marketing Quotas
This is the second consecutive year in which wheat marketing quotas, as well as acreage allotments, have been required by excessive supplies.

Current estimates are that about 1 billion 900 million bushels of wheat will be available for the 1954-55 marketing year which begins July 1. This is an all time record supply. The "normal supply," used under legislative provisions in making the marketing quota determination for the 1955 crop, was found to be 1 billion 63 million bushels—calculated on the basis of a year's domestic and export disappearance plus a 15 per cent allowance for reserves. When the available supply is 20 percent above this "normal supply" level, the Secretary of Agriculture is required to proclaim marketing quotas. Actually, the available supply for 1954-55 is about 79 percent above the "normal supply".

Acreage Allotments
The controlling legislation includes a formula for determining the size of the national acreage allotment each year. As supplies go up beyond certain levels, the size of the acreage allotment comes down. However, the legislation includes a 55 million acre "floor" below which the national acreage allotment cannot fall. Present supplies are so excessive that the national allotment would be only about 19 million acres if it were not for the minimum provisions.

Last year Congress raised the national wheat acreage allotment minimum to 62 million acres, for the 1954 crop only. This was to prevent the full adjustment from high levels in a single year. Even with the higher minimum in effect, the 1954 national allotment represented a drop of around 16 million acres from 1953. The national wheat acreage allotment of 55 million acres for 1955 will be apportioned among the states on the basis of acreage seeded for the production of wheat during the preceding 10 years, with adjustments for abnormal weather and for trends in plantings. State acreage allotments have been announced. The state allotments are apportioned among counties in much the same manner. County allotments are apportioned among individual farms according to past acreage of wheat, tillable acres, crop rotation practices, type of soil, and slope and lay of the land.

In connection with acreage allotments administration, Secretary Benson also announced June 21, that farmers who seed between 90 and 100 per cent of their 1955 farm wheat acreage allotments will not be penalized for such underseeding in the establishment of any future wheat allotments. This same provision was included in the 1954 wheat allotment program. Past acreage history is one of the major factors in distributing acreage allotments to farms. The provision which is being continued for another year will make it necessary for a producer to plant "right up to his allotment" in order to protect his acreage history. If he does not underseed by more than 10 per cent, the farm will be considered as having the full allotment planted in 1955 for the purposes of future allotment determination. In an effort to prevent the "shifting of surpluses," a producer will be required to comply with all acreage allotments established for his farm in 1955 in order to be eligible for price support on any crop produced on the farm that year.

In addition to the cross-compliance among allotment crops, there will be a further requirement for farms where acreage allotments will call for diversion of more than 10 acres from the production of allotment crops in 1955. In these cases, a "total acreage allotment" will be established for the farm. The total acreage allotment will include all crop acreage allotments established for the farm and the 1953 acreages (or adjusted acreages) of all other crops on the farm except hay, cover crop, green manure crops, pasture, idle cropland and summer fallow.

Producers must keep within the total acreage allotment, when one is established for their farm in order to be eligible for price support on any crop. This requirement, of course, does not apply on the smaller farms where not more than 10 acres are to be diverted from allotment crops.

The cross-compliance and total-acreage compliance requirements are aimed directly at the problem of controlling or influencing the use of acres taken out of allotment crops under production adjustment programs. Past experience has shown conclusively that, without some provision to guide the use of acres which are diverted under acreage allotment programs, these acres are likely to be planted to other crops which need—or would soon need—adjustments themselves.

The program announced June 21 should aid materially in meeting this problem, attaining a more balanced production and bringing supplies more nearly in line with demand. Officials of the Department of Agriculture point out that to insure complete control of diverted acres, producers will have the choice of complying with the allotments and being eligible for price supports, or of exceeding their allotments and foregoing price support privileges. It is felt, however, that the program will have a direct and important effect on the use of diverted acres, without going to the extremes of absolute controls.

The compliance program will lessen the impact of acreage shifts on non basic crops, many of which do not have price support. It will encourage an increase in soil-conserving types of crops, especially on those large farms for which total acreage allotments are established. It will mean a minimum of restrictive controls on the smaller, family-size farm.

Department officials recognize that increase in pasture and hay crops, encouraged under the program, might have some effect eventually on livestock, including dairy cows. They point out, however, that any net increase would probably come slowly.

Details of the allotment compliance program and its application to different crops and different operating situations, will be available in county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Offices as soon as possible. The compliance provisions are being announced early in the year in order to permit full understanding among producers well before planting time for fall-seeded crops, and before additional referenda are held on marketing quota and allotment programs.

A similar but somewhat more limited allotment-compliance program was announced initially by the Department last October 8, but it was later withdrawn because of the fact that some fall-seeded crops were already planted. At that time, it was announced that cross-compliance with all allotments on a farm was felt to be in the interests of sound program administration under the existing laws, and that consideration would be given the establishment of such requirements for full production.

FFA Annual Trip To Begin August 12

Farwell FFA boys met Monday night in a called meeting to plan their seventh annual FFA trip, which has been tentatively set for August 12 through the 17th.

The boys will camp out and will travel in pickups and will go to Lake Brownwood. All registrations for the trip are to be turned in to Robert Morton, FFA instructor, by July 31. Morton estimates that about 15 or 16 FFA boys will go on the trip.

Other plans will be made at the regular meeting August 9.

County Approves Marketing Quotas

Parmer County wheat growers agreed to accept marketing quotas for the 1955 wheat crop in a referendum held Friday in which they voted almost 7-to-1 in favor of the proposal.

A light vote, which was expected, resulted in a total of 259 ballots being cast. Of these, 225 were for, 34 against, marketing quotas. More than twice that many wheat farmers voted in the same election last year.

Nation-wide, wheat farmers accepted the quotas also. A vote of two-thirds of the farmers in favor of the restrictions is necessary before controls are invoked. Over 70 percent of those voting cast affirmative ballots.

NOTES From the Parmer County S C D

By STEVE BAVOUCETT

We have reached the time of the year when it is very easy to tell what kind of a job of irrigation a farmer is doing. The kind of weather we have been having sure makes it show up.

In nearly every field, the crop is suffering to some degree from lack of moisture. In many cases, this is caused by not having enough water to irrigate as often as it should be watered; on the other hand, much of the cause is poor use of the water that is available. It certainly looks bad to pass a field and see the crop suffering from lack of moisture and at the same time see tail water running off the farm. That causes a person to wonder what the dryland farmer would be willing to pay for this waste water if he could use it on his farm.

Tail water is not the only loss of water. Many farmers have rows that are too long. In order to get the water out to the lower end of the rows, it has to stay on the upper end longer than necessary. The results are that the upper end is wet deeper than the roots will go. All water that goes deeper than the root zone is wasted.

Many fields have a good crop at the upper and lower ends with a poor crop in the middle. The poor crop in the middle is probably due to lack of moisture. More than likely, had the water been used properly, there would be a uniform crop throughout the field. In other words, enough water is being wasted at the upper and lower ends of the field to properly irrigate the middle.

There are many types of systems that can be used to conserve our underground water. A few methods are proper length of rows, level rows to prevent loss of rain water and to get uniform distribution of irrigation water, watering when needed and applying the amount of water needed.

If you are interested in analyzing your irrigation system, the Soil Conservation Service will be glad to go over your system and discuss with you the good and bad points.

This can be done by digging a few holes to see where the water is going and finding out how much of the water being applied is actually used by the plants.

The past issue of "Soil and Water" has a good article on the irrigation of the High Plains. It has some good information and is well presented. "Soil and Water" is a monthly magazine published by the Texas Association of Soil Conservation District Supervisors.

FFA Boys Return From Convention

Troy Christian and James Norton, accompanied by Robert "Prof" Morton, FFA instructor for Farwell schools, returned Friday night from the State FFA convention held in San Antonio. Troy is president of the local group for next year and James will serve as vice-president.

About 3000 young farmers were present for the convention, and new state officers were elected for the coming year, and the state FFA sweetheart was also selected. There were 448 young Texans that received the Lone Star Farmer degree during the convention.

One DWI Fined In County Court

Parmer County continued picking up its usual weekly DWI the past week, according to Sheriff Chas. Lovelace. This time it was Floyd Eaton, 41, of Dallas, a construction workman in Bovina.

He was involved in a minor collision early Monday morning between Bovina and Friona as he attempted to pass a truck. Eaton rammed into the second vehicle, inflicting damages amounting to $100. His own car was damaged in the amount of $200.

Sheriff Lovelace picked Eaton up, returned him to Farwell, where he pled guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated. He was tried in Judge A. D. Smith's county court and assessed $150 and costs.

Lions Plan Coming Activities

Plans for the coming year and a review of the past accomplishments of the organization were discussed at the Lions Club meeting last Thursday night.

popularity appeared apparent over opposition.

Sen. Lyndon Johnson, seeking re-election, passed Dudley Dougherty with ease in Parmer County as well as the remainder of the state, 1178 to 283.

Few Brewster emerged a favorite in the race for the state supreme court (place one), but the vote was split between his two opposition candidates, and he was forced into a runoff next month, as was Gov. Shivers.

In Parmer County, Brewster polled more than both opponents, however: 404 to 386.

Likewise, Alan Haley will have to enter the runoff although he beat out the nearest of his three opponents more than a hundred votes in Parmer County: 470-343. Walter Rogers of Pampa exhibited his popularity in Parmer County by soaring past Kemp and Crawford, who together managed to net but 186 votes to his 1070.

WEEDS—

way, "provided that farmers in adjacent fields will make the applications."

This act of cooperation from the county added to intentions already shown by the Santa Fe Railway and the Texas Highway Department. The group has received a letter from the Santa Fe stating that poison is now on order for a program of noxious weed control, and Harold Carpenter, chairman of the FB weed committee, said it appeared likely that full cooperation could be expected from that company.

The Highway Department also has taken concrete steps, and has announced its intention of beginning control along highway rights-of-way that "are adjacent farmers' fields."

The weed committee, composed of Raymond Schueler, Roy Euler, Bruce Parr, Aubra Ellison, J. B. Jennings, and Carpenter, expressed encouragement about the way the program was taking shape. "We are out to organize this thing so that the farmer won't feel like he's in this battle all by himself," said Carpenter. "We know that we won't be able to kill all the noxious weeds in one year—even five or ten, maybe—but if we stir interest right now, it will pay off in big dividends later."

Soil sterilants will be used to control bindweed, which is the pest now being concentrated upon in the county. The Highway Department plans to use salt. What the railroad will use is not yet known, but the county chemical will be Atlacide—a powerful plant poison that renders the soil sterile for several years.

The commissioners agreed to order 1000 pounds of Atlacide for each precinct. The weed committee, which is to meet Friday of this week, will work out matters of distribution for the poison. They hope that it will be possible for farmers to obtain the chemical at a low cost for use in their own fields through group purchasing.

named as new secretary-treasurer of the group, after the resignation of Raymond Euler, who has served in this capacity for several years.

Prize money for the coming year on community booths was set: $25, first place; $20, second; $15, third; and $10, for fourth through eighth places if there are enough entries. J. T. Gee will arrange to have the interior of the north portion of the exhibit building painted, to make ready for the fair.

The suggestion for a quarter horse show in connection with the fair was made, and a committee was selected to study the feasibility of this. C. L. Lillard is chairman, to be assisted by Bill Flippin, Robert Calaway and Pete Buske.

The Modern Study Club of Friona will not sponsor the home arts department this year as they have in the past, and directors are in search of another sponsor. Another decision reached was that Girl Scouts will be in charge of all concession rights in the interest of sanitation, as they have a screened-in place to serve food.

Directors of the fair are Eugene Boggess, Joe Jones, J. T. Gee, Harold Lillard, Raymond Euler, Herma Henson, Floyd Schlenker and Arlin Hartzog.

SORGHUMS—

Joe Jones.

Rain, or the lack of it, is a factor that will affect the irrigated sorghum yield, but more especially involved is the dryland. Without rain, there will be virtually no unirrigated sorghum this year.

More specifically, what is the condition of the major part of the 1954 grain sorghum crop?

"Quite a bit of it is a little bit too early for the kind of weather we have been having lately," is the opinion of Agent Jones. Also, the fact that much sorghum was planted with heavy seeding rates is increasing the watering problem because in some instances it has been difficult for farmers to keep all their sorghums watered properly.

To overcome these obstacles, the agent recommends better watering practices. Here is what he suggests:

1. Cut down the length of runs where practical. It is much better, Jones says, to have short runs, because it will be possible to water properly more of the field quicker. Overwatering near the ditch and in some swaggy spots in the field can largely be avoided in this manner.
2. Avoid overwatering. This ties in with the above recommendation. The county agent says it is wasting needed water when farmers saturate their soil more than two feet in depth, as grain sorghum roots, unlike cotton, spread out. Water that percolates beyond their root zone is of little value.
3. Get back sooner. With shorter runs, it will be possible to return to feed quicker than by any other method. "It's almost impossible to water grain sorghum too often this time of year," stresses the agent, "you'll help that crop more by watering it more often with the proper amounts."

How About Bugs

Some sorghum farmers have become distressed at the increase in plant lice or aphids that have appeared in their fields. However, County Agent Jones says that farmers who are troubled by these insects should "think twice before spraying at this time to control lice."

He gives as the reason for his statement the fact that most of the aphids at the present time are down inside the plant that has not headed out yet. They are rolled up in the sheath.

Consequently, he says, spraying the field is not likely to result in penetration of the plant and a subsequent kill of the lice. On the other hand, beneficial insects in the field are likely to be killed out by spray, and the lice will be left to multiply unchecked by natural enemies.

Of these, the ladybug is one, and she is "showing a pretty good build-up" in most fields. Again, Jones warns farmers to exercise judgement before undertaking control measures against lice this early in the year.

New Planting Methods

Several grain sorghum growers—and their numbers are increasing early—are obtaining good success in their farming programs by making use of staggered planting dates for their sorghum.

That is, they will not plant all their sorghum acreage at once, but will drill varying amounts of the crop in at various times. Thus, the crop will be in staggered stages of maturity, and it will be easier to water the crop at the stage that water is needed most badly.

"By making use of wheat, cotton, and staggered plantings for grain sorghums," notes the agent, "more and more farmers are discovering that they can obtain fuller use of their wells."

HOPPERS—

o'clock and congratulated him on being the new commissioner of this precinct, and it was the first he had heard of it.

Lots of funny things in this election, yes sir.

What happened to the Republicans last Saturday? They didn't so much as have a "poor boy's election" in Parmer county. We understand that the Texas law requires that if the GOP polls as many votes as they did in 1952, they must hold primaries the next election year. How about it, you boys?

Here's great news for you comrades who have yakitty-yak wives. We have found the solution. Saturday afternoon the wife joined with the writer in eating a large quantity of garden fresh, beautiful red tomatoes. They were so good we couldn't resist 'em.

The next morning, she groaned to us through clenched teeth that her tongue had broken out so badly she couldn't stand to talk.

This happy condition lasted but a day, but it was certainly enjoyed by the writer and his son, who lounged around in the silence for 24 glorious hours.

We got a letter Sunday from Jess Osborn complimenting us on our political persuasions, and also for the "plug" we managed to squeeze in for him.

He reiterates, however, that he "will never be a politician." As president of a bank already, we see little need for him to worry about this.

AIN'T IT FUN TO BE SICK!

Young Fry Seldom Voice Objections To Seeing a Doctor when It's Dr. Spring

It's probable that there are very few children in Friona whose faces don't light up at the prospect of a visit to the doctor's office. And the reason is Dr. Paul Spring's tried and true prescription that they are sure to be given.

Dr. Paul, as almost every one calls him, believes that 50 per cent of the success in treating children comes from having them "on your side." A single glance into his office in the Parmer County Community Hospital will tell one what goes first into his unique prescription; for it is a veritable toy shop.

One set of shelves is devoted exclusively to an array of playthings that catches the eyes of adults as well as those of his young patients.

Unusual toys are a hobby with Dr. Paul and whenever he makes a trip he keeps a lookout for any likely additions to his collection. And every so often he just goes toy shopping.

Musical toys and miniature farm implements ("Most of these kids are farmers at heart," he says) are the favorites with his little friends and, of course, there are plenty of balls, an assortment of dolls, and a teddy bear. Sparky, a tiny dog who lived in a little house all his own and came out when the children called to him through the window, has proved the most popular of the present group. Sparky has moved, however, and just his house is left.

Others on the shelf when your reporter called were a squeaky hobo doll made of rubber, two turtles, and a wobbly jeep with a sad expression on its face.

"I have a complete turnover in my collection about every three months," grins Dr. Paul. Naturally, some last longer than others, and they never all wear out at the same time. Some toys are donated to his corner, but he buys many himself, selecting small durable ones that can be easily cleaned.

After putting the child at ease by giving him a toy to play with and chatting with him, Dr. Paul proceeds with the professional part of the visit. When this is finished, the youngster is rewarded with a sucker. Occasionally a small toy or a balloon replaces the suckers, but suckers are the best liked, at least by the children. Dr. Paul fears that they aren't so popular with their mothers.

While he was being interviewed

SECTION II
THE STATE LINE TRIBUNE
"OFFICIAL PUBLICATION OF PARMER COUNTY"
PARMER'S COUNTY-WIDE NEWSPAPER

for this story his nurse brought in a carton of suckers which he calmly emptied into a desk drawer and continued with whatever he was saying. Last year he bought 12,000 suckers and considers that an average year.

It doesn't take long for even the smallest to learn where the suckers are. Susie, his 14-month-old daughter, knows exactly where to find them.

The third ingredient in his singular prescription is sending Christmas cards to all his patients under 10.

"I addressed 10 to 12 hundred—all by hand—last year," he smiled, flexing the fingers of his right hand.

Two-thirds of his training has been in pediatrics and obstetrics, and Dr. Paul confided that he wouldn't care if all his patients were children. He began his practice five years ago and has used his "toy-suckers-Christmas card" prescription ever since.

"And it's paid off beautifully," he beams.

Rebecca Class Has Social

A social for the Rebecca Sunday School Class of the Baptist Church was at the home of Mrs. Jim Southward last Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. C. W. Dixon led the study in the 96 Psalm. Mrs. C. A. Guinn led the prayer.

Refreshments of iced tea and cake were served to Mesdames L. R. Dilger, Elmer Euler, C. W. Dixon, Charlie Rauh, Charlie Turner, A. W. Wood and Judy, Bert Chitwood, Jim Wilson, C. A. Guinn, W. F. Codgill, J. M. Bradley and the hostess, Mrs. Jim Southward.

Mrs. Holmgren Feted by Kiddies

Mrs. Charles Holmgren, who is affectionately known to many children as their "baby sitter," was guest of honor at a birthday party, Saturday morning, in the O. J. Beene home. Hosts for the party were Jay and Ramey Beene.

The serving table was filled with attractively wrapped gifts which were brought by the kiddies, and was centered with a large angel food cake which had the inscription "Happy Birthday Holmgren," and was decorated with blue and pink rosebuds. The cake was a gift of Tommy and Cindy Crump.

Refreshments of pink lemonade and cupcakes were served to the guests. Each cupcake was covered with white frosting, and was centered with the letter "H" in pink.

After the gifts were opened by the honoree, the kiddies dabbled, splashed, and played in plastic pools which were filled with water.

Those attending were Tommy and Cindy Crump; Gib and Greg Beene; Stevan Thornton; Berkeley Smith; Becky Wilson; Celia.

HERE'S HOW . . .

. . . MAKE A SEESAW

A safe, sturdy, portable seesaw is easily made, using 2-inch lumber.
First make two A-frames as shown in the drawing. To avoid angle measurements, a frame pattern may be drawn, full-scale on large paper or on a basement floor. Then the angles are marked off on the lumber.
The frames are joined with 3 pieces of 2 by 6: a cap and two lower connections. These may be nailed with 40-penny nails. All other fastenings are 4-inch carriage bolts, with the smooth heads of the bolts on the inside of the structure.

A 1-inch pipe, 23 inches from the ground level will support the seesaw plank. If threaded at both ends, the pipe may be capped with a flange or collar to prevent slipping. If it is not threaded, holes may be bored for a bolt, used as a cotter pin.

About 30 minutes after the Tribune was off the press last week we read the current issue of the Parmer County Implement Company News, and discovered to our horror that we had give Doris Jane McFarland credit for something her older sister, Gay Ann, had said. We apologize. We have a younger sister, too, and know how we would have felt in a similar situation. We hear, however, that Doris, who helps put out the News now, will take it over when Gay Ann goes to college in the fall.

See by a report from the Lions Club that the new Tail Twister, Lion Steve Bavousett, had a pretty rough time in his attempt to control the bean tossers at their meeting last week.

When we walked into the drug store the other day Sam Williams called out a warning for everyone to run. "Here comes the re-

We pretended to be hurt to the quick, and to make up for that he told us that Buddy Loyd was in Colo., getting rid of those fishing bumps with which he's been afflicted since the first of June. (Sam doesn't know that we're hardened to such remarks that they roll off like water off a duck's back.)

Election returns were the talk of the town this week. Saw Mary Sudderth paying off an election bet and saying that from now on she would bet only on a sure thing. And heard O. J. Beene philosophizing that elections were like the weather. Once they're over, there's not much you can do about them.

Youth Caravan Directs Installation of Officers

One of the highlights of the week during which a Youth Caravan Team, sponsored by the Board of Education of the Methodist Church, worked with the young people of the Bovina Methodist Church with the installation of the Intermediate MYF officers last Thursday night.

Gay Stevenson, Caravan member from Menlo, Iowa, presided and taking office were Kay Hartzog, president; Joy Redden, vice-president; Billy Burnam, secretary; Harry Charles, treasurer; Carol Hammonds, Methodist Youth Fund treasurer; and Nita Beth Estes, pianist. Youth members of the caravan worked with the young people, giving them pointers on how to improve their programs, and at the same time gain ideas for their own programs. This team, one of 45 over the nation, was scheduled to spend a week in Amherst upon leaving Bovina.

The caravan guests included a counsellor, Elizabeth Willis, whose home is in Lubbock, and the four youth members, Dorris Ann Smith, Jackson, Miss., Miss Stevenson, Jim Holladay Jr., Tuscaloosa, Ala., and Robert Russell Jr., Greensboro, N. C.
