

Life is full of mysteries, but one of the strangest of all to us is how a day laborer, whose on-and-off work will probably give him $50 to $60 a week spendable income, gets by any more.

Right at this moment, we could name a half-dozen families where there are from four to six children in the family, and it is not possible for the mother to work.

Somehow or another, these people are getting by on what the breadwinner is able to bring home by sweat and toil. How they ever do it is a wonder to us.

Even though most of these people are without much formal education, perhaps it wouldn't hurt to put them to work somewhere in the affairs of government or business, and illustrate how it's possible to live well on so little.

We don't see how anyone can be proud of the way that either candidate for the Texas governorship is campaigning at the present.

On being brief:
The Lord's Prayer, 56 words; Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, 266 words; the Ten Commandments, 297 words; the Declaration of Independence, 300 words; an OPS order setting the price on a head of cabbage, 26,911 words.

Here's something we dug up from our "ideas for columns" file in the office. It was written by Boston B. Blackwood, and appeared in the November, 1940, issue of the Farmer-Stockman magazine:

Here's The Dirt Farmer

A dirt farmer is a man who starts out with nothing, loses on everything he grows and comes out even at the end of the year. Nobody knows how he does it. He doesn't know himself.

Anyone looking over his farm would think the smartest man in the world would starve trying to tend it. That would be right. The smartest man in the world would starve, but not a dirt farmer.

His wife won't let him starve. She has one basic menu: She cooks whatever she has. In the good years, she serves half a dozen vegetables at each meal. In the lean years, she jumps from poke salad to black-eyed peas.

A real dirt farmer can shape up an axe handle from a persimmon sprout and put it in with a dull pocket knife. He has a serviceable set of harness fashioned from baling wire, feed sacks and a few scraps of leather.

He grows corn for the squirrels and provides cover for quail so the city sportsmen may have something to shoot at in due season. He tries to understand that it makes sense when he is told he must produce more than ever before because farming is a vital war industry and then is denied new tools and has his boy inducted into the army because it isn't.

He is the world's greatest optimist. He believes that the fact he has come this far is proof that he can continue to the end. He buries last year's disappointments with the spring breaking and lives for the future.

His faith is not in himself alone. Jokesters say he consults his almanac before he plants his crops and has his teeth pulled in the dark of the moon so they won't sprout, and perhaps he does sometime.

If any man aspires to the title of dirt farmer, let him measure himself by this standard: He must have worn out two pairs of overalls growing cotton enough for one; he must regularly do half a day's work before the sun comes up and another half-day's work after the sun goes down; he must have the heart to plant in hope, cultivate in faith, and end in failure—and then start all over with greater hope and stronger faith.

This is a dirt farmer. Heaven help the family that depends on him for its support. Heaven help the nation that does not have him to depend on for its support.

Bill Glenn Receives Broken Ankle Sunday

Bill Glenn was reported to be in fair condition at Clovis Memorial Hospital on Wednesday of this week following surgery performed on his left ankle on Tuesday. Glenn received two severe breaks in the ankle Sunday while roping calves.

Physicians say Glenn will be confined to the hospital from two to four more days and that he must remain in bed for two weeks after he is released. At that time another cast will be put on the ankle.

Willie Williams is reported to be in very good condition at the Clovis Memorial Hospital this week. Williams underwent major surgery there last week.

Another School Year Will Soon Be Here

Faculty Complete At Farwell School

Faculty at Farwell Schools for the coming year is complete, following the hiring of three new members the first of this week, announces Jack Williams, superintendent.

A. E. Tatum will fill the high school principal position left vacant by the resignation of George Childress. Coming to Farwell from Alabama, Tatum has been engaged in civil service education work with the Air Corps for the past six years, according to Williams.

Prior to that time, Tatum served as principal for five years in eastern Oklahoma schools. He holds a B. S. degree from Southeastern State College at Durant, Okla.; and an M. A. from Austin College at Sherman.

Hired to fill the third grade position was Mrs. Lenora Tatum, wife of the principal. Mrs. Tatum has five years teaching experience and has a B. S. degree from Southeastern State College.

The third teacher hired by Farwell School this week is Mrs. Winnie Bradley, who will teach Junior High English. Mrs. Bradley has taught for 29 years, of which 21 have been in the Junior High School and Ward School of Plainview, Williams says. She has a B. S. degree from Texas Tech, and an M. S. from Eastern New Mexico University.

Texico City Dads Accept Ordinances

At their monthly meeting Monday night, the city dads of Texico approved two ordinances which had been drawn up by the city attorney, Earl Hartley. Both ordinances had been passed at earlier commission meetings.

One ordinance calls for the vacating of a street and alley on the N. L. Tharp property on the east side of town. The street vacated is the portion of Hamlin avenue from the east side of State street to the state line.

The alley is two blocks in length and runs north and south from the south side of Hutson street to the north boundary of Highway 60.

The above mentioned street and alley have never been opened by the city. Due to being located so near to the state line the street and alley will never be of any use to the city, according to Juanita Autrey, city clerk. However, permanent easement and right-of-way for utility lines have been retained by the city.

The other ordinance read by Hartley was the one on speed limits for the residential area and school zone. A maximum speed of 30 miles per hour was set for the residential area and 15 mph for the school zone. Signs are to be posted signifying the speed limits.

This ordinance does not apply to Highways 60 and 70 which are patrolled by the state. The ordinance states that fines assessed for the violation of this ordinance shall not

ESA Style Show Set

By Jeanne Graham

Fashion, after several years of working hard to look dignified and reserved, has decided to relax this fall with a new feeling of extravagance and even fussiness appearing.

And what changes have been wrought! The old-fashioned girl is back in vogue. But the 1912 influence is getting the 1956 treatment, and the new and the old will be blended to give the public a show of what is to come in the fashions of Texico-Farwell this fall, Friday night, August 17, when the ESA style show is staged.

Tickets are now on sale by members of ESA, and may also be obtained at Fern's in Farwell. The apparel store is the sponsor for the show, ESA is making the presentation, and the kids will reap the benefit.

Funds derived from the show will be used for the annual distribution of treats to Texico-Farwell children, when Santa visits the Twin Cities at Christmas time.

The style show is scheduled at the Farwell School Auditorium Friday night, the 17th, at 8:30 in the evening. Local models have agreed to display the fashions, and Mrs. Clyde Magness is commentator.

She will describe the new look as models parade and show the new styles. Clothing for the younger set, teen-ager, young matron and matron are to be shown.

But the real surprise will be the influence of the 1912 era and the flapper era, and other important times in fashion.

ESA models will show many dresses which were worn many years ago by fashionable women. Included in the collection of antique clothing to be worn is a hand embroidered dress made at the turn of the century, a lovely crepe flapper ensemble, and styles reminiscent of the early

Texico Chamber To Meet Tonight

The Texico Chamber of Commerce will meet tonight (Thursday) in the City Hall at 7:45 p. m., announces Rip Snodgrass, secretary.

All members are urged to attend and asked to bring a prospective member, Snodgrass says. President of the group is Charlie Crume.

Lazbuddie Teams County Champs

By Mrs. Bert Gordon

After slow starts, the Lazbuddie Red Sox and Dodgers came through to win the Parmer County Little League baseball championship. In regular season play the Red Sox and Dodgers were in third and fourth places, trailing the first and second place Pirates and Yankees of Texico-Farwell.

In the first game of the double bill in the playoff, the Red Sox batted their way to a 14-8 victory over the Pirates of Texico-Farwell. Backed up by the fine play of their teammates, David Koelzer and Roy Mack Miller teamed up to pitch the Red Sox to win the chance to play in the finals. Koelzer did a fine job on the hill until the fifth when the Pirates broke loose with four runs. With only one out and two men on base, Coach Williams sent Miller to the mound to stop the rally.

In the second game, it was a pitchers' duel all the way except for the top of the seventh, when the Dodgers pushed across four runs to win the game 7-3. The Dodgers scored three runs in the second to get out in front only to have the Yankees come back with three runs in the fifth to tie it up 3 all.

David Smith, pitching his best game of the season, backed by the fine defensive play of his teammates, put the Dodgers in the finals of the play-off with the Red Sox, who won their game.

After the Dodgers and Red Sox both reached the finals, Coach T. J. Williams, of the Red Sox, and Coach Purl Tippie, of the Dodgers, held a conference with their players and decided to call the two teams co-champions of the League.

Bullock, Brewer Demo Delegates

Wiley Bullock, Lazbuddie, and Loyde Brewer, Friona, will represent Parmer County at the second Democratic State Convention to be held September 11.

They were selected at the county Democratic meeting in Farwell last Saturday by 17 precinct delegates to the convention. No resolutions were adopted at the meeting, and the delegates will go unstructured to the state meeting.

J. E. Foreman Buried in Texico

J. E. Foreman, resident of Texico for the past 16 years, died at his home Sunday evening, August 5, about 9 o'clock after suffering a heart attack.

For the past 13 years, Foreman had been an employee of Sikes Motor Co. in Farwell. When he first came to Texico, Foreman was employed at the J. C. Penny Co. in Clovis.

Foreman was born in 1891 in White County, Ark. He is survived by his wife, Mary Ella Foreman, Texico; one son, Ernest Foreman Jr., Texico; one daughter, Mrs. F. A. Gossett, Clovis; one brother, I. H. Foreman, Amarillo; two sisters, Mrs. Vella Hill, Oklahoma City, and Mrs. Bob Ellis, Clovis; and three grandsons and one granddaughter.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon, August 8, at the Texico Baptist Church with Rev. C. C. Morgan, pastor, officiating. He was assisted by Rev. T. J. Gamble, pastor of the Prince Street Baptist Church of Clovis. Interment was in the Texico Cemetery.

Serving as active pallbearers were J. D. Stone, Bob Wallas, Lee Doshier, Otis Huggins, Cliff Gossett and Willie Joe Carpenter.

Honorary pallbearers were D. J. Brown, Olan Schlueter, Frank Seale, Morgan Billington, Roscoe Burris and O. S. Allred.

Mark Williams Has Severe Foot Injury

Mark Williams, four and one half year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Williams, remained in the hospital in Clovis on Wednesday night of last week after receiving treatment for a severe cut on the bottom of his right heel.

Several stitches were required to close the wound which was inflicted when Mark hit his foot on a coffee can.

Once again, time is drawing near for the start of another school year.

Yep, that's right! Just slightly more than two weeks before students at Texico School will don those new duds for more "school daze," and just three weeks until students on the Texas side do likewise at Farwell.

At Texico, where school starts Monday August 27, one faculty member remains to be hired. The position vacant is in the elementary grades. At Farwell, where classes begin September 3, three new teachers were hired this week to complete the faculty for the coming year.

As preparations are being made for the coming term, both schools find that they will be somewhat overcrowded. The largest number of students will be in the elementary grades, but space will also be a problem in the high schools, according to officials from both sides of the line.

Based on last year's average membership, Farwell School expects close to 500 students, according to Jack Williams, superintendent. One room in the elementary grades will have almost 46 students, Williams says, and practically all will be crowded.

In high school this year, Farwell expects to have about 150 students. The high school was built for 130, Williams says.

In Texico, the number of students is expected to be about the same as last year, according to Paul Frederick, principal, although he said it was hard to tell just what it would be.

It is quite likely that another elementary grade will be divided into two groups for the coming year, thus forcing another grade back into the old building, says Frederick.

As for the high school, classes will be conducted at various spots over the campus, including the ag shop, the home ec cottage, and the basement rooms of the old grade

★ NO GRATITUDE WHATSOEVER

Tuesday afternoon, members of the Texico-Farwell Fire Department made a call to Bagley Service Station No. 1 in Farwell. An auto transport, loaded with Ford Thunderbirds, was aflame.

After being directed to the wrong Bagley station at first the fireboys hurried over to the Bagley station on the Amarillo highway, and the fire was extinguished shortly.

Members of the local department were somewhat disheartened as they left the scene of the fire. They didn't even receive a Thunderbird for their efforts.

Revival to Start At Okla. Lane Methodist

A revival will begin at the Oklahoma Lane Methodist Church on Sunday, August 12, and will continue through Sunday, August 19.

Rev. Clarence Stephens, pastor of the Muleshoe Methodist Church, will be the guest speaker. Melvin Sudderth will lead the singing and David Willard will be organist.

Services will be held daily at 11 a. m. and 8:30 p. m. Prayer groups will meet nightly at 8:15. Everyone is cordially invited to attend all the revival services.

Firemen Give Time For Community

"When you are unable to help yourselves, call us!" is the slogan of the Texico-Farwell Volunteer Fire Department. Although there is a jovial note to the words, there is a serious note, too. Twenty-one men in the Twin Cities donate one night a week to their community, learning the latest methods of fire-fighting and staying on call from their businesses and jobs any time of the day or night a fire should occur.

An impressive record of attendance has been maintained by the volunteers. Names on the fireman roster have changed through the years, but time and energy donated by those in the group, is an old story. According to Otis Huggins, secretary, the Fire Department was organized back in the 1920's.

The unpaid small-town volunteers have a unique average attendance of from 15 to 16 there for practice every week, and it isn't unusual for all 21 members to show up at the same time. That is a pretty good record for a service group, observers feel. Usually, when a fireman is away from the Wednesday night session, he has a justifiable reason.

When the fire alarm rings, none

THE TRIBUNE'S EDITORIAL COMMENT

A Citizen's Right

Recently, a local man was heard to remark that some citizens, not having anything to do with the city government, seemed to think that they knew more about what the city officials were doing than the officials did themselves.

He cited a case where work was being done on a city project. When it was completed, one of the men involved went downtown and became involved in a discussion with a group of individual citizens. Many of the individuals thought they knew more about the project than the person who had been working on it, the local citizen said.

It was somewhat irksome to this man, who thought that people should refrain from speaking out on a subject when they didn't know what they were talking about.

How right this man was. If a person does not have an insight on a subject, he should not try to discuss it.

Nevertheless, a tax-paying citizen of any community has a right to say what he thinks about functions of a city government (also state and federal governments as well). Many times, a citizen may not know what he is talking about, but under our democratic form of government, he has his freedom of speech.

He can say what he pleases about governmental operations, as well as to demand to know just how elected officials are running a city's business. He can also criticize. He can address the City Council if he wishes. There are many times when a citizen will get out of hand in addressing a city council, and steps have to be taken to settle him down, but, he does have that right—to say what he pleases.

City officials and employees are working for the public, and at all times, should be working to the best interests of the people. An official should be willing to discuss any function of governmental operations with a citizen, listen to an irate person's criticism, and condone uncalled-for babbling. If he does not have these capabilities, he has no right holding down a city government job.

A councilman once said, "Listening to an irate citizen's complaint is just one of the privileges of holding a city office."

Local Boy Reports On FFA Convention

Robert Morton, Farwell vocational agriculture instructor, and Morris Reed and Johnny McCuan, Farwell FFA Chapter members, returned recently from the state FFA convention held at the Statler Hilton Hotel in Dallas.

The group arrived in Dallas on the afternoon of July 24 and the convention sessions started Wednesday, July 25. R. L. Thornton, mayor of Dallas, gave the welcoming address at the first general session of the group on Wednesday morning.

Other speakers on the program Wednesday were M. A. Browning, Bob Fleming, Charles Wilson and Joe Moore. Moore, who is from Granville, Tenn., is the Star American Farmer of the United States.

Twelve teams from Chapters represented provided entertainment for the group while vying for honors in the talent contest. Most of the talent teams were musical groups, and voting delegates picked the top five teams on the first day of the meeting.

These five teams played for the entertainment on Thursday, and on Friday, the top team was chosen. The winning team was from Dayton.

The Farm and Ranch Publishing Co. was host for the fun night for the group on Wednesday night. Professional entertainers were on hand for that program.

On Thursday they heard reports from various committees of the state organization, and a national delegate was elected.

Presentation of the National FFA Foundation awards and the Texas FFA awards to judging teams were made Thursday afternoon.

Election of a state president for the coming year was held Friday, and the public speaking contest finals were heard.

New student officers were installed and the election of the sweetheart was held. Gay Chandler of Keller was chosen sweetheart of the group. State proxy for the new year is Kenton Harvey of Azle.

Morris Reed, voting delegate for the Farwell representation, says that the thing that impressed him most about the entire convention was the way the business was conducted. With some 3500 boys attending, Morris thought the quietness and businesslike manner in which their meetings were carried on was remarkable.

In summing up the trip to this year's convention, Morris says he sure hopes he will be able to attend next year's session which is to be held in Fort Worth.

The local group would like to express their appreciation to the Farmer County Farm Bureau which helped defray part of the expenses of the trip.

Roll call was answered by 13 members. Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved and the treasurer's report showed $32.01 on hand.

Dues were paid and the mite box collection was taken. The group voted to pay the expenses for the recent dedication service preparations out of the League treasury. They also made a motion to help with the biennial convention of 1958 if it is voted to be held on the South Plains.

A kitchen shower for the new parish hall kitchen will be held on the social Sunday of the month which will be August 19. A watermelon feast will also be held on that day. The group also voted that four women instead of three will help clean the hall after social meetings.

We like the motto of the Hale Center American: "Where rumors end and truth begins."

One of the hazards of being the parent of energetic boys is never knowing what to expect next. We are now involved in the case of the lost horny toad. We know Ronny had his pet in a small box in the house, but the container is now empty. All of us mourn the loss of the varmint, but mama has different reasons from those expressed by Ronny.

Hope we don't find him, full grown, one of these days.

Stranger: "Well, no. But I'm sure curious—how did the canaries lose their tails?"

Cotton Is Early-- Growers Have Hope For Good Yields

A survey of the cotton crop picture in the Parmer County area this week revealed conditions are looking good to excellent in most cases. As a whole, this is the earliest cotton crop the area has managed in recent years.

County Agent Joe Jones, after checking conditions, reported that although the picture is a pleasant one at the present time, there still are many factors to be considered before the crop will be "in the bag."

"Farmers should begin bearing down now to insure top quality cotton this fall," he said, and emphasized, "The ginners won't be able to deliver better cotton than the farmer takes to him, no matter how good the ginning equipment may be."

This year, owing to the early start of the crop, the possibilities for advantageous use of defoliant are greater than has been true in prior harvest seasons, believes the agent.

De-leafing the crop with chemicals in order that mechanical harvesting can be accomplished may result in farmers being able to deliver cotton with quality this year comparable to hand-picked cotton.

There are three main things which cotton growers need to keep their eyes peeled for between now and the time the bolls begin to open, believes Jones. Those are:

1. Watch for the appearance of cotton bollworms, which can result not only in the knocking off of part of the crop, but the spotting and down-grading of additional cotton.
2. Stop irrigation early enough to insure that the cotton plants will have time to fully mature before the expected freezing date.
3. Gather the cotton when dry and fluffy—don't tramp it into the trailer.

"Last year served as a grim reminder of what can happen when farmers try to gamble with West Texas weather," said Jones. "Sooner or later, all find out that it is costly to try to outguess Mother Nature."

For that reason, the agent suggests that farmers lay off their watering around the middle of August, and look on August 20 as being the latest practical date for irrigation.

Late freezes of 1953 and 1954 caused farmers to believe that it is profitable to water into September. Farmers who did quit watering early looked at their neighbors who may have watered late, and decided they had made a misjudgment.

However, the law of averages more than caught up with many last fall, when the October 5 killing freeze caught considerable cotton in a green, sappy condition, resulting in the loss of thousands of dollars of what otherwise would have been good fiber.

"Gambling by watering late can't pay off, because there isn't enough at stake in extra cotton," believes Jones. "The cotton that will be put on after the last irrigation would have time to make, but in most cases because the plants are already loaded, it will be 'thrown off.'"

On defoliants, they should be applied at least 35 days after the period of maximum flower load. This permits maximum staple length development.

Another way to time the application would be 30 days after cotton quits making "cut out" or when the youngest bolls expected to make cotton are 30 days old. Application should be made two to three weeks prior to intended picking. When 50 percent or more of the bolls are open, it is safe for most defoliants to be applied.

These dates depend, naturally, on the stage of maturity of the cotton, but normally may be expected to be around the last of September into the early part of October, says the county agent.

Have you hung new or freshly laundered white nylon curtains to discover a short time later that they look grayish? Does your plastic upholstery seem to be a constant dust catcher?

If so, here's one reason. Extension home management specialists say friction causes static electricity in synthetic fibers. This charge is slightly negative and dust has a positive charge. Thus, dust that is stirred up in the room, is attracted to them, just as iron is to a magnet.

Most manufacturers are solving this problem by using a permanent anti-static finish. But if you have some nylon curtains or plastics without this special finish, you can eliminate their dust-catching habits.

Simply add a few drops of vinegar to the rinse water when washing synthetic curtains or plastics. The vinegar acts as an anti-static solution and eliminates the attraction for dust.

Most every cook gets caught without a certain ingredient at one time or another. With proper know-how you can make some quick substitutions. Here are some equivalents which may help you out of a difficulty sometime.

For 1 cup butter or margarine, use ¾ cup lard, or ¾ cup oil, or 1 cup hydrogenated fat. Add about ½ teaspoon salt with each, if desired.

For 1 square (ounce) chocolate, substitute 3 or 4 tablespoons cocoa plus ½ tablespoon fat.

You may use 2 egg yolks instead of 1 whole egg for thickening or baking.

In baking, if recipe calls for sweet milk and baking powder, use an equal amount of sour milk plus ½ teaspoon soda per cup. Each half teaspoon soda with 1 cup sour milk takes the place of 2 teaspoons baking powder and 1 cup sweet milk.

If recipe calls for sour milk in baking and you have only sweet milk, add 1 tablespoon vinegar, or 1 tablespoon lemon juice, or 1½ teaspoons cream of tartar to 1 cup sweet milk.

For 1 cup cake flour for baking, substitute ¾ cup all-purpose flour. One tablespoon granulated tapioca or ½ tablespoon cornstarch is equivalent to 1 tablespoon flour when used for thickening.

In baking bread, for 1 cup all-purpose flour, you may substitute up to ½ cup bran, or whole wheat flour, or corn meal plus enough all-purpose flour to fill cup.

Whitfield Resigns As ASC Manager

Jim Whitfield, manager of the Parmer County ASC office since last fall, resigned August 1 and returned to Silverton to take the same position at Briscoe County. Whitfield was ASC manager at Silverton prior to coming to Parmer County.

Prentice Mills, office manager trainee at the Parmer County office, is presently acting manager until a replacement is hired by the county ASC committee.

Applications for the position will be taken for 10 days by the committee. Qualifications for a manager are that he have a farm and business administrative background, Mills says. He must also have at least a year in agriculture, either education or past experience.

The county committee will take applications through August 10, before hiring a replacement. After a new manager is hired, he must also be approved by the state and district committees, according to Mills.

Members of the Parmer County Committee are Joe Magness, chairman, Roy Euler and Jack Smith.

Hal Mayfield To M. C. Contest

Hal Mayfield, assistant farm editor of KGNC, will act as master of ceremonies at the Farm Bureau queen contest in the Friona School auditorium Thursday night, August 16 at 8:30.

Glenda Rickerd, office secretary, who is directing plans for the contest, said that about six girls were expected to be entered this year. Deadline for submitting entries is Monday noon, August 13.

Entries reported Monday morning were Jeannette Hughes, sponsored by Farwell Hardware and Beverly Roberts, sponsored by Bovina Cafe.

Winner in the county contest will receive a check for $100 which may be used for formal outfitting to be worn in the district contest in Lubbock which will be held in September. Other entries will receive token awards.

The district winner will have an expense-paid trip to the state convention in Houston in November, and the state winner will be allowed $500 expenses for herself and matron to attend the National Convention in Miami early in December.

Judges for the county contest will be from other counties, and will be acquainted with none of the entrants, said Mrs. Rickerd.

Entertainment will be provided Thursday night by the Keyboard Club, sponsored by Eva Miller. Don Lewis will sing a solo. Anyone desiring to enter a girl before Monday noon may call at the office in Friona, or call 3521, Friona, collect, said Mrs. Rickerd. A $5 entry fee is charged to defray expenses of the contest.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

OUR SOIL ★ OUR STRENGTH

During the Parmer County SCD supervisors' meeting held in July it was decided that September 16-22 is to be Soil Conservation District Week in Parmer County. The Annual SCD banquet is to be held Thursday night, September 20, 1956. At this banquet the farmer who is selected as the outstanding conservation farmer will be recognized. Make plans now to attend this banquet. Circle September 20 on your calendar now.

More about the conservation of our irrigation water:

Tail water is not the only loss of water. Many farmers have rows that are too long. In order to get the water out to the lower end of the rows, it has to stay on the upper end longer than necessary. The results are that the upper end is wet deeper than the roots will go. All water that goes deeper than the root zone is wasted.

Many fields have a good crop at the upper and lower ends with a poor crop in the middle. The poor crop in the middle is probably due to lack of moisture. More than likely, had the water been used properly, there would be a uniform crop throughout the field. In other words, enough water is being wasted at the upper and lower ends of the field to properly irrigate the middle.

There are many types of systems that can be used to conserve our underground water. A few methods are proper length of rows, level rows, to prevent loss of rain water and to get even distribution of irrigation water, watering when needed, and applying the amount of water needed.

If you are interested in analyzing your irrigation system, the Soil Conservation Service will be glad to go over your system and discuss with you the good and bad points.

NEWS FROM THE FARM BUREAU

By RAYMOND EULER

Farm Bureau activities will be speeded up from now until the end of the year. The queen contest next Thursday night will begin the series of public meetings from which your directors and committees obtain your ideas for local, state and national farm improvement legislation and other action.

In the near future, the resolutions committee will meet to assimilate suggestions already picked up from farmers through the year. These will be formulated into suggested resolutions which every qualified voter in your county Farm Bureau will be urged to discuss pro and con at an open forum type meeting. Suggested corrections will be made, and then late in October, members will vote on the final draft of such resolutions.

There will also be an opportunity for the person who prefers, to make his resolution on the floor, for consideration of the membership. This process is what makes Farm Bureau the true voice of agriculture. We would like to urge you now, to watch the agricultural section of county newspapers for announcements of any meetings that may affect future years of farming operations.

A banquet meeting in the Bovina Restaurant last Tuesday night, attended by directors, committee members, and their wives, was one at which ways and means of getting all farmers to say what they think were discussed. Millard Shivers, State Organization Director, was the speaker.

Since you have been consistently asked to attend any or all directors meetings, which are held regularly on the first Monday night of each month, in the Friona office, we are sure your directors will not be accused of pushing their ideas with your backing as a member, unless they believe you approve.

It seems that our local officials are always in demand for other jobs of service to the citizens. We congratulate our president, Gilbert Kaltwasser, upon his appointment and approval as a member of the FHA committee. We can assure you that he will be an active and conscientious worker at that, too.

We were pleased to have as a visitor last week, Charles Reeve, with whom we started and finished school in Friona. Mrs. Pauline Lovern, office secretary of Deaf Smith County, also visited our office one afternoon the past week to compare filing methods with Mrs. Rickerd.

WEEKLY MOISTURE MAP (Through Monday Night)

Plans Are Mapped For Foundation

Plans were laid out at a meeting in Bovina last Thursday night, which are aimed at encouraging Farmer County farmers and businessmen to support the proposed establishment of a High Plains field station, under direction of the Texas Research Foundation at Renner.

If enough support can be obtained from the irrigated Plains region of Texas, the Foundation hopes to set up a branch of its famous privately-supported research organization to delve into better crops and more efficient uses of those crops, for Plains farmers.

Huey Whitehurst and Dr. Earl Collister of the Foundation were at the meeting last week to explain the proposal. Whitehurst is an assistant to Dr. C. L. Lundell, director of the Foundation, and Dr. Collister is head of plant science there.

Officers for the Parmer County push include Gilbert Kaltwasser, chairman; W. L. Edelman, vice-chairman; Bob Wilson, secretary; and W. H. Graham Jr., publicity.

Other counties on the Plains already organized and in the process of collecting funds to make the establishment possible include Lamb, Bailey, Castro and Hale.

Rep. Jesse Osborn of Muleshoe is the over-all head of the drive on the Plains.

About 35 farmers and businessmen were out Thursday night to hear the men explain that the Foundation is receiving much encouragement throughout the area, and is being asked to explore into more fields of research than had been anticipated.

"If we expand to include all the phases that people seem to want, our budget may go as high as $100,000 a year," said Whitehurst. About $30,000 was the first figure mentioned when talk of the field station began.

He said that one field in which farmers have made many requests concerns the commercial production of vegetables.

Whitehurst emphasized the need for individual support of the plan. "It seems reasonable to think that some of the farmers are going to have to participate in a program to solve some of their own problems," he said.

Substantial contributions have already been pledged from several Plains corporations, and more have been hinted. As yet, the "grass-roots" support of farmers has not been obtained, and it is this endorsement that the Foundation workers are now seeking.

Field stations for the Foundation are not brand new in Texas. Three others now are in operation. Those include establishments at Henderson in East Texas, Corpus Christi in the Coastal Bend, and Abilene in West Texas.

Kaltwasser, in mapping out the work in the county, indicated this week that Parmer County has no quota, but that he is hoping that at least $8,000 yearly can be counted on to help carry on the work at the station.

He compared that amount with the gross farm income of Parmer County, which is about $25,000,000, and pointed out that the introduction of a single new cash crop or the only slight improvement of existing crops could repay this investment many times over for the county.

"This is a way that we can help ourselves a lot by helping this kind of work a little," he said. Renner work is all privately supported. No government agency or aid of any kind is involved.

In reviewing the list of county workers, Kaltwasser says that Sam Aldridge has replaced G. D. Anderson in Farwell, and Bedford Caldwell will be a Bovina worker, rather than Ovid Lawlis as previously announced.

The West Indies are also known as the Antilles.

FFA Boys Report On Convention Trip

FFA boys from Farwell and Bovina gave reports on their trip to the State FFA Convention at the regular Farm Bureau directors' meeting in Friona Monday night.

Roy Crawford, Bovina advisor, introduced the following boys from his chapter: James Stevens, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Stevens; Don Steelman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Steelman; and Duane Rea, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Rea. Duane was the voting delegate from Bovina, and made the main report.

Prof. Morton, Farwell advisor, introduced Morris Reed, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Reed, who served as Farwell's voting delegate. He gave a report on the convention. Dale McCuan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale McCuan, also attended the convention.

All of the boys and their instructors expressed appreciation to Farm Bureau for financial assistance given them to attend the convention. Friona and Lazbuddie chapter received checks from Farm Bureau also, but were not present to report on the trip.

The directors also discussed methods of stimulating interest in local and national elections. No action in this direction was taken, but all present agreed to encourage their neighbors to participate in all elections.

Nominating committee for directors and officers to be elected in the fall was elected, consisting of L. F. Bruns, chairman, Bruce Parr, Jack Morris, T. E. Lovett, and M. T. Glasscock.

Date for the annual Farm Bureau convention was set for September 24, in the Bovina School Auditorium. The date, a month earlier than usual, was selected in the belief that milo harvest may not be so far underway that it would interfere with attendance. Every effort will be made to get every Farm Bureau family out to discuss and vote upon resolutions, officials said.

All proposed resolutions prepared by the resolutions committee, of which H. P. Hamilton is chairman, will be mailed to all members at least a week prior to the convention. Hamilton also expressed hope that any individuals or groups let him know of any suggestions they might have for county resolutions that would interest farmers. Such ideas may be mailed, phoned or brought to the Farm Bureau office, Hamilton said, and the committee will include them in their list of suggested resolutions.

Officers, directors and employees attending the meeting were Gilbert Kaltwasser, Jack Patterson, Roy Grace, Roy V. Miller, Harry Hamilton, J. T. Jones, A. R. McCutchan, L. F. Bruns, E. T. Ford, Aubra Ellison, and Raymond Euler.

THE HAPPY HOMEMAKER

Lucille Latta has been one of our favorite people ever since we first met her. At that time, she was a third grade teacher in the local school.

Later she was our daughter's Brownie leader and we thoroughly enjoyed working with her. One day last week we called and asked for an ice cream recipe which she uses. Several persons had remarked to us that it was the best one they had ever tried.

This morning, Lucille brought it down to us and we are printing it for you to try. Dissolve one package strawberry jello in one cup boiling water. Beat six eggs until very thick and lemon colored. Add 1½ cups sugar and beat until all sugar is thoroughly dissolved. Add one pint cream and one teaspoon vanilla and blend thoroughly.

Then add two cups frozen crushed strawberries and juice. Blend the mixture thoroughly again. Pour into one gallon freezer, finish filling with whole milk, then freeze.

A fellow we know once said, "There is no end to the things a woman can think up to throw together, then call the dish salad." We agree with him right down the line and it is always surprising to learn how different combinations of fruit and vegetables taste in a salad.

He said, "If there is a dish on the table that you don't recognize, just ask someone to pass the combination salad and you can't go wrong." We still agree with him and would like for any of you readers to send us your unusual combination for a salad dish.

How many of you have ever heard of eating fried cucumbers? One homemaker we talked to recently says that if cucumbers are sliced, soaked a few minutes in salt water, then fried like squash that they make a delicious dish. Think we will try it soon.

To scrape the bottom of a pot, use the sharp end of a wooden clothespin for less damage to the pot.

THE PARMER FARMER

Last fall made a believer out of some cotton farmers on the advisability of not watering too late. We talked with one grower east of Farwell last week who swears he's already through. If he is, we bet he'll have to go fishing or turn his back when that broiling late August sun beats down.

Cotton men tell us it's plain torture to sit by and watch the plants wilt and shrivel when they could turn the water in with very little trouble.

Supporting the Renner station which will probably be built on the Plains is something every farmer ought to seriously consider. Yes, of course there are too many "worthy" projects calling for your money now.

But instead of charging off money to the Renner Foundation as a "donation," or "contribution," for good will purposes, it seems to us that farmers ought to regard such expenditures as investments in the future.

The Foundation will be established for the specific purpose of research to help PLAINS FARMERS, not just agriculture in general. If established, this station will make it possible for farmers to take their problems directly to the station for expert study and scientific analysis.

We believe it's a truly wonderful opportunity for the farmers of our area to help themselves.

Floyd Crume of the Soil Conservation Service writes a weekly column for these farm pages. He feels as strongly about water conservation as anyone we have ever known.

Seldom does he supply an article to us that he doesn't push the need for better irrigation practices. We know that some farmers are getting sick and tired of hearing people tell them how to run their business, but we'll back up Floyd 100 percent.

There isn't any way in which the water supply problem can be over-exaggerated. We must deal with the shortages of tomorrow by acting TODAY to conserve the wonderful supply that we now have.

It's difficult indeed to find anyone this summer who will tell us "our water is inexhaustible" as they did a few years—even months—ago.

Some farmers used to scoff at our concern for water wasting, but very few do any more. Just last week we heard someone say that a "deep well on the A. L. Black place east of the Hub community is "breaking suction."

A variety of things could cause this difficulty, but it usually means that the water table drawdown is greater than the capacity of the sands to refill the pumping area.

This is especially significant because in the instance of Black's well, it is located in almost the exact middle of one of the thickest deposits of water-bearing sands on the High Plains.

When even our strong water weakens, it's high time that we do something to conserve this indispensable resource.

Dorris Donaldson Tells of GA Camp

(Editor's note: The following is a report of the junior Girls' Auxiliary camp held recently at Plains Baptist Assembly near Floydada.)

We arrived at camp on Monday, July 16, about 2:30 in the afternoon. After resting awhile, we enjoyed swimming. We then went to the tabernacle to hear Mrs. Robertson, a missionary in Mendoza, Argentina, tell of some of her experiences.

Following supper, we went to the tabernacle for the evening services. Rev. Edwards of Lubbock, was the speaker.

Songleader for the camp was Royce Dowell of Lubbock. Special music in song that evening was presented by Ko-Ko, a Hawaiian who was recently graduated from Wayland College and will return soon to Hawaii as a missionary to her native people.

After the evening services, we had our cabin devotional.

We participated in flag raising services at 6:45 a.m. the next day and heard a devotional on "Christian Living" given by Rebecca Swanner.

After breakfast at 7, we went to the tabernacle for a missionary message by Mrs. Robertson. We swam from 8:30 until 9 when we had a free period for recreation or handicraft. We enjoyed making some leather purses and bracelets.

At 11:30 Rev. Edwards spoke at the morning worship service and we had lunch at 12:30.

At 1 p.m. the girls who were to be in the coronation service went to the tabernacle for rehearsal while the others returned to their cabins. About 3:30 we went swimming again and attended worship services at the tabernacle at 5:30.

After supper we went to the tabernacle again for a wonderful message by Mrs. Robertson followed by the coronation service which was attended by about 2000 persons. Two hundred and twenty-five girls participated in the service.

Cabin devotionals and prayer completed the evening.

The next morning after the flag raising ceremony, Mrs. Franklin Swanner gave a devotional on "The World Is Ours To Enjoy".

Following breakfast, we went to the tabernacle for another missionary message by Mrs. Robertson. We went swimming at 8:30 and back to the tabernacle at 11:30 for a worship service. About 50 girls gave their hearts to Christ during the camp meetings. Many rededicated their lives and some volunteered for special service.

After dinner we packed our bed rolls and left with memories of a wonderful camp meeting.

be less than $5 and not more than $200.

Also at the meeting the commission voted to invest the money now in the recreation fund in First Federal Savings and Loan Association. As interest accrues from the investment, the fund will continue to grow.

The recreation fund is obtained from a state cigarette tax of one cent on each package sold. The state passed the law on July 1, 1955, according to Mrs. Autrey, and the City of Texico received $400 from the tax the first year.

The city plans to let the money accumulate until an adequate amount for worthwhile recreation facilities is obtained. Just what the money will be used for is not known but it will be left up to the discretion of the city commission in future years.

Other business included the purchase of an adding machine and typewriter for the city's use. The low bid, $344.50, from Clovis Printing Company was accepted.

In the absence of Mayor Scotty Levins, Councilman Judge Stone presided at the meeting. Others present were Councilmen Joe Helton and Olan Schlueter; Russell Johnson, water superintendent; T. L. McLeod, town marshal; and Mrs. Autrey.
