Crop --

Meeting Set March 14

Many problems were experienced during 1967 with some insects and diseases of grain, sorghum and other crops in Parmer County. The insects dealing the most misery to milo was the sorghum midge and the Banks Grass mite.

The disease, Maize Dwarf Mosaic Virus, was first identified and was a major problem on the High Plains and Parmer County in 1967.

To bring up-to-date and useful information on the major insects and diseases in Parmer County an educational meeting has been set for Thursday, March 14. The meeting will be held in the Friona State Bank Building and the meeting will start at 7:30 p.m.

Two qualified speakers from the Texas Agricultural Extension Service will discuss these two subjects. Lyndon Almond, Area Entomologist with TAES, will discuss the insect phase. Diseases will be discussed by Dr. Robert Berry, Area Plant Pathologist. Both of these men are headquartered at the Lubbock Experiment Station where they work closely with the Experiment Station personnel.

All farmers, ranchers and agri-business people are invited to attend this meeting.

Explain Crop Insurance Program

Improvements in the All-Risk Federal Crop Insurance program on irrigated grain sorghum in Parmer County for 1968 were announced today.

George W. Clark, FCIC representative from the District Office at Lubbock, says the program has been readjusted to more adequately reflect the demands of farmers and the insurance experience here.

Clark is now in the county for a limited time explaining provisions of the FCIC insurance programs to farmers and taking applications. Insurance also is available on irrigated cotton and wheat.

The All-Risk FCIC insurance plans guarantee farmers an established amount of good quality production based on yield history of the land, amount of risk involved and estimated costs of production. FCIC by Congressional Act is allowed to insure only production costs or the farmers' investment in his crop.

When crop production falls short of the guarantee due to drought, excess heat, flood, too much moisture, insects, disease or any other natural cause, Federal Crop Insurance picks up the tab paying a cash loss sufficient to meet the guarantee.

Our Trip To Washington, D. C.

by James Ensor
(EDITOR'S NOTE)
The following article was written by James Ensor, resident of the Oklahoma Lane Community and a director of the Rural Telephone Coop., after he, his wife, Billie, and two of their children had visited the national capitol late in January and during the first part of February. While in the capitol city, the Ensors not only visited many historic scenes but also made the acquaintance of some of the Nation's leaders in Congress.

After a three-month planning period in which we had spent hours with travel folders mapping out things to see and do in the capitol city, the big day finally arrived.

We caught a jet around 12:30 in Lubbock and 40 minutes later arrived in Dallas, where we were met for a visit by a brother, J. S. Ensor. Following the brief visit, we departed on a non-stop jet to Dulles field, which required about two hours flying time. We flew at an altitude of 37,000 feet at 625 MPH and due to a cloud layer directly under us, it seemed that we were hardly moving.

Shortly after leaving Dallas, I (James) noticed a familiar face and after landing at Dulles, I introduced myself to our senator, John Tower. After shaking hands with me, he was introduced to my wife and son, Dennis, and daughter, Sharon. I thought it was a coincidence that we had been on the same plane with him and able to meet him so easily.

Since Mr. Johnson did not meet us, we took a bus from the airport to the city, 30 miles away. We were to stay at the Mayflower Hotel, where the National Rural Telephone Coop (NRTC) was holding its convention. The lobby was a beehive of activity with people from various rural communities arriving. My eyes almost popped out as I saw two individuals whom I had known from childhood.

Later, glancing through the phone book, I noticed several Ensors listed, and noticed a Joshua D. Ensor among the group; knowing that my father had a half-brother with the name Joshua, and my youngest son being named Josh, I decided to call him. He amazed me by inviting us to come out and spend the night with his family; however we declined but made an appointment for the next morning. He walked up to our table and said "You look like Ensors to me."

There's buried treasure at HemisFair--500 silver dollars worth.

Fred Achtezehn of San Antonio reports that he buried $500 in two sacks in the basement of his business in World War One, and forgot about it until demolition started for the World's Fair.

Achtezehn said he returned to the site of the original Green Tree Restaurant but couldn't remember exactly where he buried it.

His efforts to recover it were to no avail, and workmen demolished the building, pushing the ruins into what was the basement.

There is a happy ending to the story. Achtezehn said he received about 10 times more for the property than the original $7,000 family investment in 1906, and is not too worried about the loss.

Seven of the eleven largest corporations in the country are among the industrial exhibitors at HemisFair '68.

Children's tickets for HemisFair '68 are $1, just one-half the price of adult gate admission.

We visited and discussed our family tree, deciding that we were members of the same Ensor family. We figure that the three Ensor brothers who came from England in 1730 started the "batch of critters." Josh Ensor is an FBI agent and has been for the past 22 1/2 years. He looks a lot like J.S. (my brother) and is almost as handsome as "yours truly." Josh suggested that we take the FBI tour of Washington, D.C.

Our first stop was at the Smithsonian Institute, where we visited the building on history and technology. It was filled with articles from a $100,000, bill, to an old train engine, old cars, tractors, First Ladies' Inaugural gowns, and thousands of items of the past and present.

After about two hours, we decided it would be impossible to see all (even in this one building). From here we went to the monuments (which were pretty close to the institute). First was Washington Memorial some 555 feet tall. It is on a choice location on a 40-acre block. It is visible and pretty at night from great distances. We rode the elevator to the top and took many pictures from that site.

In one direction stood the White House, in another Jefferson Memorial, and in another Lincoln Memorial. Riding down we walked to Lincoln Memorial, about a mile away although it looked much closer. In the memorial is a statue of Abraham Lincoln about 17 feet tall sitting in a chair. On one wall is the Gettysburg Address and opposite on another wall is his Inaugural Address. It is all carved in marble. Feelings and emotions are hard to describe as one reads the words "Four score and seven years ago--"

Billie said as long as one can see a thing, he can surely walk to it; we walked along the lane under the cherry trees with the Washington Monument visible at all times. One could almost see "George" and his hatchet. When we got to the Jefferson Memorial we found that it too was different, with an oval dome and a statue of Jefferson surrounded by his famous writings -- "we hold these truths to be self evident that all men are created equal." It is now that one finds he had honored three men who helped set the stage on our American Heritage. What courage to write and sign the Declaration of Independence. Had our trip ended at this point, it would still have been well-worth the 2000 mile plane ride. On to the Agriculture building where we caught a taxi to Capitol Hill. Here we visited our senator's office where we received passes to the Senate Galleries. At the time we were there only three senators were on the floor, with one discussing civil rights. In the House of Representatives they were having roll call. Later they debated "Truth in Lending" bill. After this visit, we went to the office of our Congressman. They have a subway that goes under the office buildings. Bob Price, our congressman, has a fine office staff, who were cordial and quite helpful.

All those people who had been wagging their umbrellas around all day did not now look so silly as it began to rain and taxis were scarce as hen's teeth. After about an hour we finally found one and got back to our hotel for a hot bath and dry clothes. I have never seen rush hour traffic like this in Farwell.

Sightseeing day number two: Bob Price had arranged a congressional tour of the White House for the group of NRTC directors from Hereford and their families. The White House is the place all of the presidents, with the exception of Washington, has stayed. He chose the site of the capitol and had it all planned before a stone was laid.

Highlights of the White House were antique furniture, actual china used by the presidents, the room where Franklin D. Roosevelt made his fireside chats, and a huge picture of George Washington which was saved by Dolly Madison when the White House was partially burned by the British. In the east room (the largest), Kennedy had lain in state; this is also the room from which Lynda Johnson was married. The state dining room was nice, but not as large as I expected.

Our NRTC convention was beginning back at the Mayflower, so I parted company with my family, as they headed for the wax museum, FBI tour and the National Archives Building where the Declaration of Independence and Constitution is kept.

After a couple of routine speeches by members of the NRTC, Vice-president Hubert Humphrey spoke to us. He was well received as such a high official should be. He said he had spoken on this floor which was filled to capacity both on the floor and the circular balconies, at least 200 times, and had never seen it fuller of friendlier faces. He said that farmers are due more money for their commodity; applause was, of course, present. He also said that rural electricity and rural telephone had done much to modernize America.

At the convention we heard speeches by Secretary of Agriculture Freeman and the Texans present were asked to attend a reception for Congressman Bob Poague, who was speaker for the annual banquet. I had heard much about receptions and cocktail parties in Washington and dreaded the experience; however, I attended to visit, shake hands, and drink (Coke).

I also attended the banquet and enjoyed visiting with Congressman Poague. He quoted figures of the past in regard to rural telephones. Many of us feel that he has helped rural people because it was Bob Poague who pioneered some 30 years ago a bill, R.E.A., which vastly changed rural life. As chairman of the agriculture committee he holds a very powerful office.

Thursday was quite routine with a meeting scheduled with Senator John Tower and another with Congressman Bob Price. Senator Tower was called away and his assistant visited with us, assuring us of his support of the Rural Telephone Bill.

Congressman Price was next on the agenda and for some time questions were fired at him. He praised highly our boys in Vietnam. Since he had just returned from there, he seemed to enjoy discussing the situation there with our group. He said, "morale was high, purpose and dedication strong." He said the main worry of boys in Vietnam is the unpatriotic draft card burners, rioters, and demonstrators at home. "In World War II we didn't have these to worry about!"

We fired questions on the gold reserve, advance payment on wheat, beef import, sugar import, farm surplus products, rural telephone bank bill, government debt, flag abuse, crime riots, tax increase, waste and overspending. He informed us of the difficulty of getting a bill passed and the process it must go through. Congressman Price took us to the Agriculture Committee Room where so much legislation is gone over word for word, changed, amended and rewritten, and upon occasion voted upon.

Thirty-five men serve on the committee with Bob Poague as chairman, Congressman Price is also a member of the Livestock and Grain committee and on the department of oversight which consists of seven members. It was nice meeting with the ones who represent us in Congress and know that their views in many respects agree with ours. We feel that this part of the trip was profitable not only for the Rural Telephone bill, but for the rural people of Parmer County.

The FBI tour was one of the most interesting of the trip. The Library of Congress was a beautiful building. Another tour worth taking in the Bureau of Printing and Engraving where money is made -- real money! Billie, Dennis and Sharon were impressed with Mr. Vernon, tomb of the Unknown Soldier at changing of Guard, Kennedy's grave, the many exhibits of the Smithsonian Institute, the National Art Gallery, Army Medical Museum, and the Iwo Jima Monument -- "pride and patriotism should fill us at these sights."

The capitol dome is quite impressive, with the steps where Lincoln took oath over 100 years ago, even before the dome was completed with the seven and one-half ton, 19 1/2 foot statue on top as a symbol of peace. Last history stop for us was the National Geographic Building after which we took a taxi for Dulles Airport and the flight home.

Heading home we took off in the rain, but ran out of the rain and clouds over Tennessee. At 34,000 feet, the Ohio, Mississippi, Missouri and Red Rivers looked like small creeks. Also at 600 MPH if you don't look quickly they are far behind. Memphis and Little Rock didn't look too big from six miles up. When we crossed the Red River, the air was somehow fresher, for we were back in Texas. Lubbock, at last, but no luggage. About an hour later our luggage arrived on another plane from Dallas, "thank goodness." On to Lariat and the best of all, our family together at home with Sandra, Josh, and Jace along with Granny, making inquiries and the four of us answering at once. I began to ponder about all the places I've seen in my life -- World War II, Navy Days, Vacations. "This we know -- our Nation is not perfect nor our leaders without fault, -- but our heritage is unmatched; our country is worth defending from Communism or inward decay. Let us dare to be a Washington, a Jefferson, Lincoln -- that our Nation will not perish from the earth!"

WASHINGTON HERE WE COME -- James Ensor, his wife, Billie, son Dennis, and daughter Sharon, prepare to board the plane which took them to Washington, D.C., for a sightseeing trip and to attend the NRTC convention. James Ensor is a director of the Rural Telephone Coop.

Sticker Deadline April 15

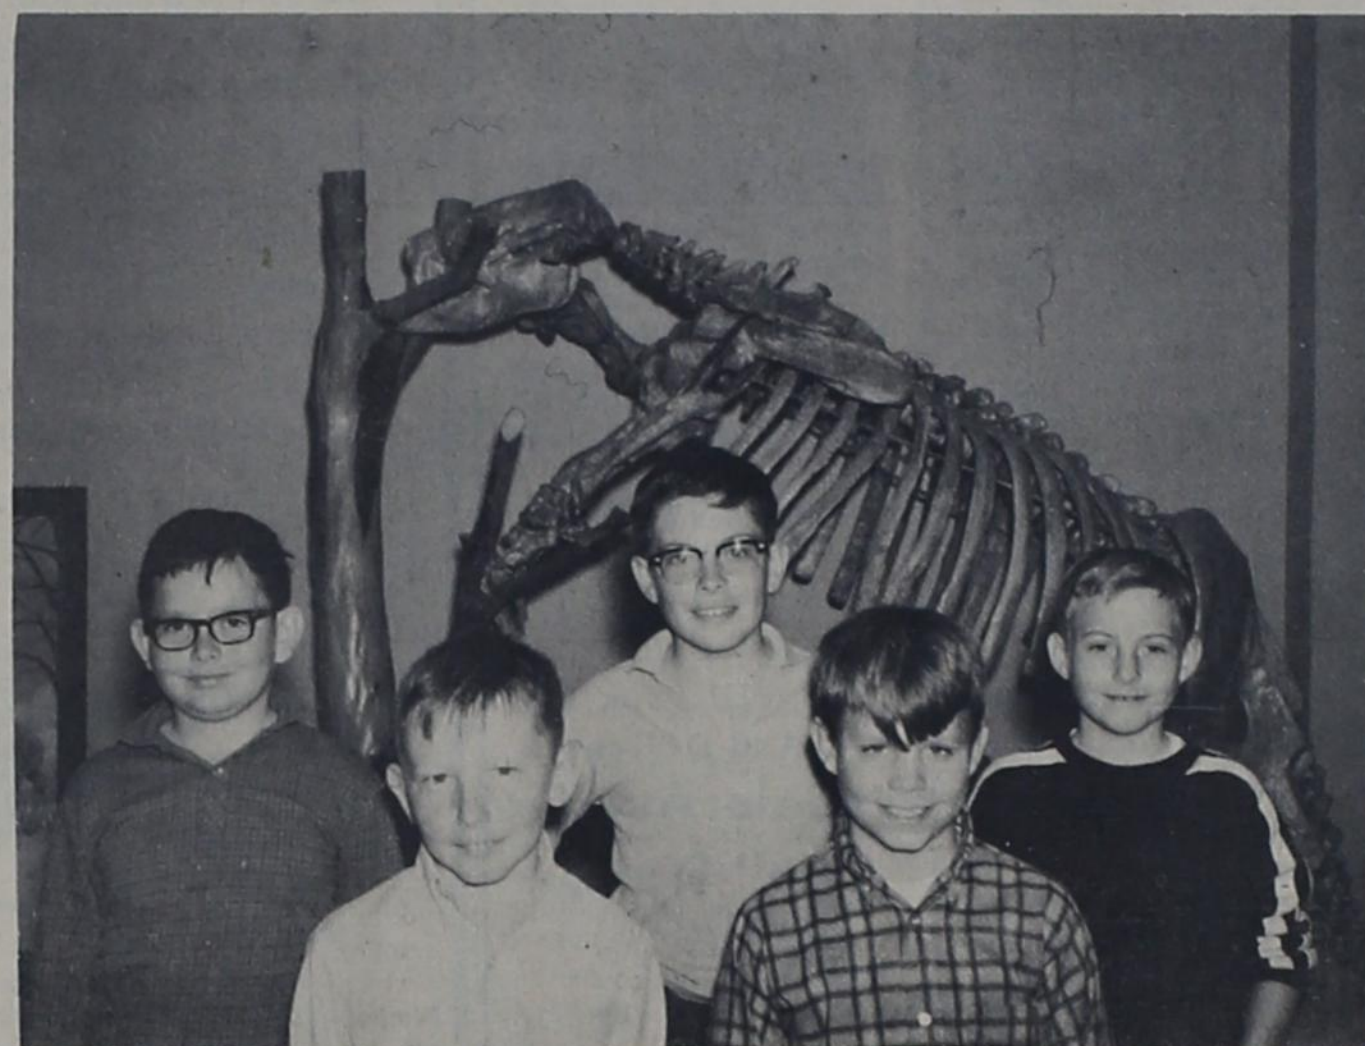

Vehicle owners in Parmer County are reminded that motor inspection deadline is April 15, Edward L. Richards, of the Texas Department of Public Service, said this week.

There are 8,169 vehicles registered in Parmer County and on March 1, only 2,940, or 36 per cent, had been inspected.

Because of a new seat belt regulation, owners are urged to have their vehicles inspected early, Richards said. Because all vehicles manufactured with anchorage for seat belts will be required to have belts installed, this could possibly cause a seat belt shortage at the last minute, thereby keeping some owners from receiving their inspection sticker.

CHAMPION SPELLERS -- Becky Lockmiller, seated, and Diane Looper will represent Texico school in Curry County senior division speldown on April 4. The girls spelled down five eighth grade students and six seventh grade students on Tuesday to win the honor. Winners of the county spell down will enter the regional spelling contest later this year in Amarillo, with winner of that contest to compete in Washington, D.C., in the national contest.

Most automobiles manufactured from 1962 through 1968 have an anchorage for seat belts, although sometimes this is only a threaded hole under the seat, Richards stated.

Inspection stations in Parmer County include Automotive Ignition, Friona Motors, Inc. and Reeve Chevrolet Co. in Friona, and Farwell Automotive in Farwell.

Automobile Overtakes

A one-car turnover about 8 p.m. Monday night of last week resulted in heavy damage to the automobile but the driver, Tommy Sidney Sliger was not injured.

The accident occurred at the curve east of Wilsey switch on Highway 60.

Sliger was charged with DWI in county court last week, and fined $100 and court costs. He received a 60 day jail sentence, with 57 days suspended.

BAD TIRES KILL

In Texas last year defective tires were the leading cause of fatal rural traffic accidents involving vehicle defects. TEXANS FOR TRAFFIC SAFETY urge motorists to keep a careful watch on their tires and hope that vehicle inspection programs will eventually include examination of tires.

An Added Touch of Beauty
Robert Louis Stevenson said:
"The world is so full of a number of things, I'm sure we should all be as happy as kings."
God's world is filled with loveliness, but we need to add our own touch of beauty, so that we might be builders of a better world with Him. Each of us was given talents which would enable us to contribute to the world and mankind something great and lasting and beneficial. May each of us use these talents to the Glory of God. Add a touch of beauty to your life this week by attending church.
EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE
The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Some 300 friends and relatives called at the Farwell First Baptist Church fellowship hall Sunday afternoon between the hours of 2-4 p.m. to honor Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Red, pink, and white was used in table decorations. Centering the table was a floral arrangement featuring red roses, pink carnations and white hydrangea, in a crystal bowl. The tiered anniversary cake, white iced in pink with red rose decorations and topped by the number 60 in red, was served with red punch, mints and nuts. Presiding at the serving table were daughters-in-law of the couple, Mrs. Margaret Curtis, Mrs. Martha Curtis, and Mrs. Ruby Curtis, and granddaughters, Mrs. Wilma Fulgham, Mrs. John Weiman and Mrs. Harold Borden.

Mrs. Fred Curtis, another granddaughter, registered the guests.

1907 settling on a farm adjoining the farm of T. J. Randol near Texico.

Ebb Randol was born in Trent, Tex. and came with his parents the late Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Randol to the area on April 19, 1903 settling four miles southwest of Texico.

He and his future bride, Genevieve, became acquainted by exchanging home made cookies and preserves, brought from Indiana, while walking to school at Locust Grove. They later dated going to various functions in a buggy.

Following their marriage in 1918 they farmed for a few years and then moved to Texico, where Randol was employed by Triplett Bros. In 1926 they moved to Farwell and opened a General Mercantile store. In 1932 they sold the business and in 1933 began a wholesale Candy and School supply business which they operated until 1946.

Mr. Randol began preaching about 1924 but continued in his business until 1947 when he began devoting all of his time to his ministry. He served churches at Farwell, Lariat, Dora, N.M., Hereford, Muleshoe, Melrose, assistant pastor in Clovis, and then again in Farwell. Since retiring he fills pulpits at various places and on occasion holds gospel meetings. He filled the pulpit at the Farwell Church of Christ Sunday evening.

GREENBUGS
Wheat should be closely observed the next two months (March and April) for greenbug buildup and damage.

Greenbugs cause more damage when small grain crops are suffering from deficient moisture in mild winters and cool springs. The greenbug reproduces rapidly at temperatures between 55 and 75 degrees.

The need for applying insecticides depends on the number of greenbugs present, size and vigor, temperature, time of year, moisture conditions and state of growth. Results of experimental tests over the past 10 years indicate that insecticidal applications made on wheat in March and April are the most beneficial. The following information may serve as a guide in determining the need for treatment:

Mo. Plant Height No. of bugs/linear foot
March 4-8 in 200-400
April 6-16 in 300-800

Insecticides recommended for control are: Methyl parathion, parathion and malathion. These are insecticides recommended by Texas A&M University. Malathion is less effective than methyl parathion and parathion.

DON'T BE TAKEN IN

Be on guard this year for "bait and switch," advertising. Thousands of people in America have been subjected to ads for a well-known brand of sewing machine or vacuum cleaner or other product and think at that price it would be a terrific bargain. But when they go into the store, they find it is a "bargain on a string". The advertiser either doesn't have the product at all, or he tries by devious means to shift them to the purchase of high-priced or lesser-known merchandise. He doesn't intend to sell the advertised products!

MONEY MANAGEMENT

Like everything else, principles of wise managing of money has to be learned, or else money will manage you. One of the very worthwhile projects being encouraged for 4-H members is that of Money Management. The label clearance approved by the Texas Department of Agriculture permits application up to 45 days before harvest. No grazing is permitted following application. Di-Syston is a phosphate insecticide having LD50 in the same range as parathion and should be handled with the same care and respect.

ment means "Know how much money you have to use, plan what you want it to do for you and see that it does it."

Mrs. John Christian, a volunteer leader for 4-H is teaching Money Management to eight young 4-H members and they enjoy the project. Those taking the course are: Bruce Kaltwasser, Charla Norton, David Harding, Joe Haseloff, Kelly Head, Conda Lyle Jones, Kent Gast, and Gene Christian.

Some of these members are planning to give a Method Demonstration, showing and teaching some point they learned in their Management project. This is a good educational activity. The County Contest in various subject activities will be held April 13th. Time and place to be announced later.

GOOD CITIZEN -- Timothy Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Morris and a seventh grade student in Farwell Junior High School has been selected "good citizen" in the school for the week March 4-8. "Smiling Timothy" recalls with pleasure some of the basketball games won by the Junior High team to win the district trophy this year.
