Hogs Destroyed In Pork Farm Blaze

SEVERAL HUNDRED PIGS died Wednesday evening as a result of a barn fire on the Superior Pork Farm 3 miles west of Littlefield. A few that were seriously burned were shot by county and city law enforcement officers.

An undetermined amount of damages and loss by fire occurred to the Superior Pork Farm west of Littlefield Wednesday afternoon, when several hundred pigs were burned in two buildings.

According to Fire Chief Leon Durham, his department was notified at 5:30 and fire trucks were on the scene at 5:40. He estimated that the building had been burning nearly an hour before it was noticed and the alarm turned in.

Hundreds of pigs, ranging from very small to full grown, were rescued from the building and wandered aimlessly over the farm grounds. Employees worked late to construct fences to contain the animals, and to keep them from walking into the smoldering debris.

Two fire trucks concentrated on saving a building which stood near the west end of the building that was destroyed, and the fire was contained in the rafters of the north end of that building.

Several animals that were severely burned were shot by Lamb County sheriff's deputies and city police officers.

Of the two trucks that went to the scene, one made a return trip to town for water in the event it was needed, and a truck and tank of water were later taken to the site.

Insurance investigators had not made an official damage estimate at presstime Saturday, while onlookers were guessing as high as $30,000 and less.

Manager of the plant is Jack Barton and company owners include Ray Wimble, Wayland Carroll and James Stewart, all of Lubbock, Dr. Ann West of Dallas and Horace Gilmore of Levelland.

Pair Teaches, Calls Square Dances

By NILAH RODGERS

Cliff Smith's vocation is production foreman of an oil company and his avocation is a square dance caller. Even Smith hardly knows where his job ends and his hobby begins, because he works at his job five days a week and calls or teaches square dancing five nights a week.

"Square dancing and calling square dancing is just great," Smith said in his enthusiastic, kind voice. "I'm so proud to be a part of it. It's my one real love. I wish it was all I did, but I have to work to pay the bills and eat."

Square dancers know that's a very modest statement, because Smith is in demand enough that he could make it big nationally if he wanted to.

The "ding-a-ling caller" as Smith often refers to himself, is already well established as a noted caller and keeps annual engagements throughout the midwest.

Smith and his wife, Mary Ann, have standing engagements all over Texas and points in New Mexico, Oklahoma, and Colorado which takes them 30,000 to 40,000 miles a year.

Smith and his wife say the most wonderful people in the world are square dancers, and the dancers evidently think just as much of their caller. Add an "s" to caller, because the Smiths team up for singing calls. Smith and thousands of dancers call Mary "Booger Red", a natural nick name for the flashy brown-eyed red head. Many square dancers wear pins declaring "I'm a Cliff Smith Fan" and "I'm A Booger Red Fan."

The activity of square dancing is the Smiths' great love. And they say that's because of its wholesomeness. Square dancing is a family type activity. "It's good clean fun," Smith said, "and that's the utmost important thing. There's no drinking and no foul language."

"Some people think of square dancing as a fiddle in one hand and a jug in the other," Booger Red said. "But that's simply not so. In the first place you can't drink and square dance. They don't go together. You've got to have a clear mind to follow calls."

There isn't any social nor recreational sport more fun for the money. A person can square dance to his heart's desire for $2 a month, and that price includes some of the best sandwiches, cookies, cakes and snacks anywhere. Square dance club dues are $8 a quarter. Area clubs have two regular dances a month, and belonging to a club allows members to visit area clubs without charge at any of their regular dances.

A couple can attend big special dances for less than one-half the price of a movie.

"Oh, yes, don't overlook this for the benefit of weight watchers," Mrs. Smith said. "A person uses up 2,600 calories in one night of square dancing. That is if you skip the refreshments and don't eat when you get home."

Besides liking calling and dancing, the Smiths get a great deal of satisfaction from seeing people enjoy themselves and watching the changes it makes in personalities. Bashful people become talkative and outgoing. Some with arthritis would be so stiff they couldn't CLIFF AND MARY ANN Smith started square dancing in 1963 and Smith started calling in 1967 at Colorado City. Smith said he "vapor locked" the first time he got up in front of a crowd. Mary started calling when Smith did to help him out when his voice tired, and they've continued the trend because they like to do things together. They moved to Littlefield in 1968 and Smith has been the club caller for the Littlefield club since then. He calls regularly for the Levelland and a Lubbock club besides many regular engagements over a four-state area.

6,566 Voters Eligible For 1973 Jury Duty

When Lamb County's jury wheel is filled this week, the names of 6,566 prospective jurors go into the drum to provide a fair and impartial list of persons for jury service for the coming year.

Under state laws passed last year, the use of mechanical means of selecting jurors replaces the old jury commission method and very few exemptions and excuses are left for persons who are called.

In the past exemptions were granted to morticians, teachers (except during summers or vacations), preachers, physicians, pharmacists, firemen, nurses, chiropractors, optometrists, attorneys and spouses of practicing attorneys, dentists, veterinarians, railroad companies, members of the National Guard, forestry agents and forest patrolmen, any faith healer, the spouse of any person summoned on the same jury panel, persons over 65, and females with children under 16.

Of all these exemptions, the only unchanged exemptions are for persons over 65. Those over 65 now have the option of claiming their exemption but may select to serve. Women with legal custody of children under the age of 10 years (rather than 16) do not have to serve.

The many other exemptions have been removed. That coupled with mechanized selection means that many persons who have never been called as jurors may be receiving notices for jury duty now.

Not only are the butcher, the baker and the candle stick maker required to report for jury duty when called, but the doctor, the teacher and the preacher are subject to this civic duty.

Between now and the 15th of this month, the tax collector, sheriff, county clerk, and district clerk of the county will meet at the county courthouse and reconstitute the jury wheel, using as the sole and mandatory source all names on the voter registration lists of persons 21 and over from all precincts in the county.

The list of names of registered voters which goes into the wheel this month will be used for all jury panels drawn Jan. 1 through Dec. 31 of next year. Only in the event that additional jurors are needed to fill out the August through December court settings will the reconstituted list be used the remainder of this year.

Two Men Sentenced In District Court

Two persons entered guilty pleas in district court Thursday morning and were sentenced by District Judge Pat Boone Jr.

Tommy Daugherty, 26, waived grand jury proceedings and entered a plea of guilty to a charge of forgery and passing checks totaling $300 in Littlefield on March 18th.

Judge Boone found Daugherty guilty of forging four checks for $75 each on George Nicholson. The checks were cashed at Furr's, Renfro's, Nelson's and Western Auto. The defendant was given three years in the Texas Department of Corrections with the sentence probated.

Daugherty has been in the Lamb County jail since April 30. Ted Sansom represented the defendant.

Oscar Flores, 18, of Olton waived a trial by jury and entered a guilty plea to the Dec. 24 burglary of G. H. Bley's service station in Olton.

Judge Boone found Flores guilty and sentenced him to four years in the state penitentiary, sentence probated for the four-year term.

Flores and two others previously pleaded guilty to burglary charges on the same night in Hale County and have been sentenced for that offense. Andy Stroebel of Olton represented Flores.

District Attorney Jack Young presented evidence for the state.

Council Filing Suits for $70,000 Back Taxes

At their regular meeting Monday night, city councilmen voted to have the city attorney, Ted, file suit for the collection of approximately $70,000 in delinquent taxes. The suit will be filed jointly with the county for collection.

At the end of July, $8,407.08 in delinquent taxes had been collected for the current fiscal year, beginning in October. Of that amount, $259.02 was collected in July.

A total of 249 delinquent tax notices have been mailed this year.

In discussing the delinquent tax situation, councilmen discussed the criteria whereby organizations are exempt from paying city taxes, and the guidelines for the city tax assessor-collector to follow were set up.

Beach Thievery

With the hot muggy days of August hard upon us and the tendency of Texas residents to escape to the beaches and lakes, more than backs may get burned if certain precautions against thieves aren't taken.

Watching the sun beat down, and with a wary eye toward comfort, many water lovers will leave a window down, rather than return to an oven-like car. This can be considered an open invitation to thieves to help themselves not only to valuables in the car—but to the car itself.

Most bathers want as little with them as possible on the sandy shores, so cameras, handbags, clothing, binoculars and even billfolds or car keys are left in the car while the owners soak up the sun.

Families should take as few valuables to the beach as may be necessary. Keep personal property in the trunk of the car, out of sight. The professional thief is deterred only momentarily by a locked glove compartment.

The old "hide-the-car-keys-under-the-seat" trick might seem safe, but it is one of the first places a professional thief will look, and the unsuspecting sunworshiper might return to find more than his valuables missing.

The vacation vehicle, pickups with campers or motorized mobile homes, is also a prime target of the professional thief in the Southwest, and these should be locked when they are left—even for a short time.

Don't let your weekend or vacation be spoiled by the pilferer or professional car thief who thrives on the carelessness of honest people. Hot or not, lock your car or camper at all times and take the keys.

July 1, when he began his ninth year in that office.

City Manager Pat Bradley presented information concerning the exemption of small local governments from wage-price controls. The release stated that the Cost of Living Council has exempted from all economic controls most local governmental units having an average of 60 or fewer employees.

Bradley informed the councilmen that Littlefield would fit in that category.

A new "small business exemption" effective May 2, generally exempts small businesses and small local governments from all price and wage controls except for the health services and construction industries.

Nearly all price adjustments for state and local governments were previously exempted in January, when the Cost of Living Council removed most governmental fees and charges from direct controls.

Governmental units with 60 or fewer employees will remain under wage controls if more than 50 per cent of the employees are affected by a master employment contract covering a total of more than 60 employees. Where less than 50 per cent of the employees are covered by a master contract or jointly negotiated contract involving more than 60 workers, only the wages of the employees covered by the contract will remain subject to controls.

Councilmen discussed renewing the Emergency Employment Act, and the city manager informed them that he did not re-apply for the federally funded project, which provided work for one man in the parks department for 5 1/2 months this past year.

"The administrative costs on the project outweigh the benefits provided," stated Bradley. The project is sponsored by the Department of Labor, and councilmen felt the red tape involved was more than the project was worth.

In other routine business, councilmen: Approved the minutes of the last meeting, approved the payment of bills, and accepted the departmental reports.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

Good Management

"GOOD MANAGEMENT" is an expression used in contrast to "bad management"; however, the word "management" means what we are saying, when we use the term "good management".

The opposite of this is "mismanagement".

"JUDICIOUS USE OF means to accomplish an end" is what we mean by good management.

It may be applied to one's life; to personal finances; to one's self; to a household; to a business; to the use of time; and to most everything else involving human choice or action.

SELF-CONTROL is essential to "good management". This is the trait which will enable us to make the best use of our knowledge and skill, and help us to handle ourselves and what we do in the very best way.

We will be able to avoid all excesses, and apply the discipline which makes "judicious" choices and actions realities.

"FOR WANT OF SELF-RESTRAINT, many men are engaged all their lives in fighting with difficulties of their own making, and rendering success impossible by their own cross-grained ungentleness; while others, who may be much less gifted, make their way and achieve success by simple patience, equanimity, and self-control." —Smiles.

THERE MUST BE forethought in our efforts to apply "good management" to our lives and our actions. Impulsiveness will not help us, but will actually contribute to "mismanagement". Carelessness must also be overcome.

We must learn to do the best we can considering the possible consequences of present decisions and behavior.

REACTION is very common in conduct. It is so much a part of the pattern of many people that they are actually being managed by others.

We are not managing ourselves; we permit what others say and control what we say and do.

GOOD MANAGEMENT requires positive thought and action. This means that we may ignore what is said and done, or we may ignore wisdom and understanding.

Most everything is going wrong to us, if we do not diligently all of the rules of "good management" in our personal behavior, and in our area of our life. Mismanagement will soon give a distressful sense of failure, frustration and futility. We will be increasingly discouraged, and for persons, life becomes an unnecessary heavy burden. We must not let it happen.

WE CAN LEARN "good management". Some of the learning will be trial and error. We will make mistakes, but we will be making significant progress, when we learn lessons revealed by our mistakes.

Other learning can be acquired through the diligent study and application of proven information describing principles of "good management".

WE CAN DO NOTHING about things, but we can manage ourselves and what we say and do.

HONNY GETS

By CORNBALL BLEVINS

I'M STANDIN' BY, and awaitin' further developments in a thing that's been goin' on at our house for the last few weeks.

Seems the Light-of-my-life, and number two son are in some kind of contest. Namely: Can she, and the elements grow grass faster'n the remainin' tax-deduction can mow it?

BELIEVE ME, it's a closer race than you might think. I come in one afternoon, and the mower is at work. As I leave the house next mornin', I hafta dodge the sprinkler. And, on and on.

Add to this that the grass must be carried out to the corner of the back yard, where a supposedly compost heap is bein' built. (Now, just what we're gonna compost, I've no idea. I find I can avoid a lotta trouble by NOT noticin' a lot of things that transpire around here.)

SOMEWHERE IN THE back of my so-called mind is the memory that such things generate heat. And grass, in the proper stage, is combustible. There's that uncertain feelin' that spontaneous combustion could occur in this heap.

But, since I'm NOT noticin' this compost heap, I'm afraid to investigate, lest I get caught NOTICIN' it! If THAT should happen, I just might be called on to become a full partner in the venture, and I betcha that would call for work! —WORRY, WORRY!

Anyway, the Race is on, and so far, I'm gettin' by with just furnishin' the mower and payin' the water bill. But somehow, my curiosity about that compost heap is gettin' keener by the day!

WELL, THEY'RE STILL kickin' that "Amnesty-for-draft-dodgers" around. Even takin' polls, and that sort of thing. Surprisin' thing about it, bein', that it's a pretty close count in some instances.

Course, no one's asked ME about it yet, so my opinion hasn't been counted. Maybe I'm crazier'n I'd thought, for offerin' it free of charge.

Anyway, the question is: Should these fellows be allowed to return to full citizenship of these United States, scott-free, or should they be punished in some ways??

WASN'T THIS ONE of the planks Mr. McGovern used to get himself nominated to Democratic presiden hopeful, or did I have some kinda nightmare?

I recognize that I'm a throwback some medieval age, and that I've got a lot of ideas that possibly come from bein' plain unchristian. Nonetheless, it so square to think that they should suffer some kind of penalty spittin' in the face of our nation!

PERHAPS, IT'S PLAIN of you on my part, to even resent the idea, said deserters might be allowed to go back in and go about business as usual without penalty.

Perhaps my parents, peers, church made a mistake in teaching that I must try to live by the rules, else suffer the consequences. It seems to be as far out of the mainstream philosophy as hard work!

NO, I DON'T ADVOCATE that the hung, not even given long prison terms, but how about just lettin' them go their citizenship, for about two years? Maybe they'd learn to appreciate it, by that time.

Fatalities, Injuries Soar During July

Traffic accidents resulted in 10 deaths, injuries and property damage in rural Lamb County during the month of July than any previous reporting period.

Lamb County's fatalities rose sharply with the death of five persons as a result of these traffic accidents this month, bringing the total deaths to 45 per year from one to six in a one year period.

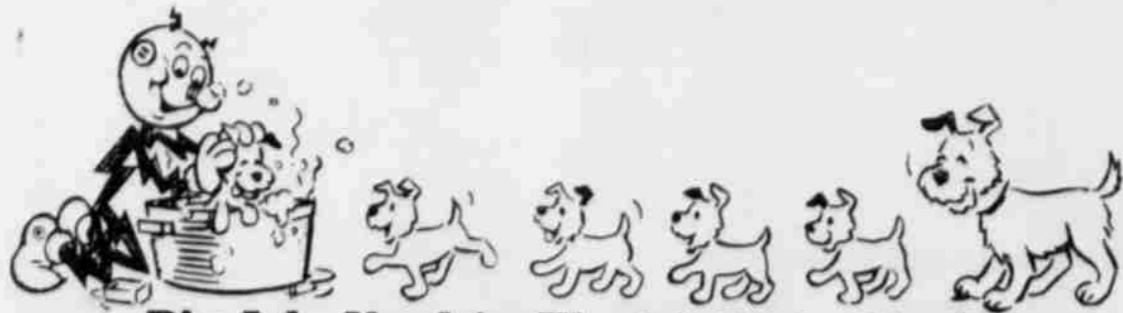

Thirty persons were injured this year through the last day of June. Fifty persons were injured in vehicle accidents in this county during July, with the accident total to 45 persons injured in rural collisions thus far this year.

Highway patrolmen investigated separate accidents in Lamb County this month. Four fatalities were reported here on July 1 just as the July Fourth weekend was getting underway. The four were killed just north of Littlefield city limits on U.S. 385 under perfect driving conditions. This accident involved three vehicles.

The second fatal accident occurred July 7 and involved a car and tractor on a dry paved road with clear visibility.

Of the 15 persons injured, seven were car accidents were involved, one was a car-bicycle mishap, one involved a car and motorcycle, one was a one vehicle turnover, and one was a cyclist collision.

Fifteen of the accidents occurred on paved roads and four were on dirt roads or private drives.

AGE SEWING

Making Men's Pants

MRS. FRANCES JONES

If you can sew, you can make dress pants for a man. There are patterns available with good instructions, but often you will need more help than what you find in the pattern to make a garment with a truly tailored look.

Buy woven or knitted cloth as you prefer, but the knits are more popular today. Ask for the special knits with a hard surface that will not pick badly. However, any knit that is firm enough will do. Knits can be fitted more closely than woven cloth.

Pants have gotten fancier and fancier so have a fling and make some dazzlers. Remember, there is a little work to good tailoring but it is really easy if you follow these instructions carefully.

First, check all measurements and cut-to-fit as nearly as possible. Take body measurements when possible but good results may be obtained by measuring from a pair of pants that fit well.

On the sketch, 1 is the waist size, 2 the hip, 3 the thigh, 4 the knee, 5 the hem, 6 the inseam, 7 the outseam, and 8 the total crotch. The style of the pants will determine 3, 4, and 5.

On the second sketch, 9 is the crotch depth. It is a very important measurement because it must be properly adjusted before you cut the pants.

Later, adjustments are almost impossible and if the crotch depth is too small the pants will bind. If it is too long, the pants will be baggy. You may measure for crotch depth the same way you do in making women's pants but an easier way is to subtract the inseam length from the outseam length and alter the pattern to suit the difference.

Shorten or lengthen the crotch depth in a line from A to B. NOTE: if you change the crotch depth be sure and recheck the total leg length. Alterations in leg length should be made in a line from C to D.

If the pants are a close fitting style there is a special allowance that should be made at 10 and 11 on the front to make what the tailor discreetly calls "dress provisions". This is only on one side, usually the left. Allow 1/2 to 3/4 inch as shown.

The upper back seam should have an extension of about 1 inch past the regular seam allowance for adjustment of waist size. If your pattern does not have this be sure you add it when you cut.

The tailor uses a special pocket twill for the pockets and the waist lining but you may be unable to obtain this cloth unless you have access to a tailor's supply store. Do not worry. Use any firm cloth that is durable and not too heavy.

Sateen (but not drapery lining), broadcloth, or percale are suggestions. Really, the color or design of this cloth does not matter since it will be used inside the garment. Look in your scrap bag and no doubt you will find something you can use.

The pockets and the zipper fly are the only tedious parts to make but do not dread them because they are really easy.

Complete instructions will follow, based on the methods used by tailors. The instructions of most commercial patterns are often inadequate in these parts, and you may end up with pockets and fly that look a little odd. Instructions for making the hip pockets will be given in the next column.

Meet The Minister

The Curtis W. Steen Family

Rev. Curtis W. Steen has served as pastor of the First Church of the Nazarene since February 15, 1970, when he took the reins of his first pastorate.

Rev. Steen drove 383 miles one way from Bethany, Okla. every other weekend to minister to the members of the congregation here, until he moved his wife and two sons to Littlefield June 1 of that year.

Rev. Steen is a native of Hemphill County, Texas and attended high school at Wheeler. He received an Associate Degree in Bible from Bethany Nazarene College at Bethany in 1970, and became an ordained elder in the Church of the Nazarene in 1971.

He has been a licensed minister eight years and had preached for several services and assemblies before accepting his first pastorate here. He is a member of the Littlefield Ministerial Alliance and serves on committees in the West Texas District of Church of the Nazarene Assemblies. He also serves as zone treasurer of the Lubbock Zone for Nazarene ministers, of which Littlefield is associated.

He is a certified welder and taught welding in Oklahoma City one year, was employed in welding for General Electric two years while attending Bethany College. He is currently teaching welding at South Plains College in Levelland, and has taught the course there three semesters.

Mrs. Steen, Joann, met Rev. Steen in Shamrock, and they were married there in February of 1952.

She is a native of Dalhart and graduated from Rosepine High School in Rosepine, La. Besides keeping the family on the go, Joann likes to sew, cook, and play the piano. She particularly likes to try new recipes.

She is a member of the West Tex-Anns, an organization for wives of Nazarene ministers.

The Steens have two sons, Geron, 13, who will be an eighth grader this fall; and Bart, 7, a second grader.

Geron likes to do yard work, play baseball and play the trombone in the band. He played with the Ware-Richey Babe Ruth baseball team this summer.

Bart also likes to play baseball and take care of the family pet, a Bassett Hound. He played baseball this summer with the Pee-wee Roadrunners.

Both of the boys are active in church work, and often sing duets for the services.

TURN ROW COMMENTS

EMIL MACHA

WELL IT LOOKS like the farmers may get to be neighbors again and will not have to worry about drift when he applies insecticides and various chemicals on his crops.

In the past there was always a worry of damaging his neighbor's crops when an application was sprayed for weed or insect control.

LTV Aero space Inc. has helped solve the drift problem. They have come out with a foam that will serve as a sticker and hold the chemicals where the farmers placed them with the minimum amount of drift.

This foam agent can be applied either by ground rigs or airplane. Apparently a conversion kit attached to the conventional spray rigs is all that is necessary.

Reports are that lesser amounts of chemical are required per acre because of the reduction of drift.

AFTER DRIVING AROUND the country it is still my prediction that we will have a better crop yield year this year than last year. In the dry land area west of Littlefield, reports are very favorable for a better crop year. Most of the irrigated crops are good. Cotton is blooming at places and the milo is beginning to head out. This country is beginning to look like it is covered with a green carpet.

WONDER WHAT MOST of the farmers have done with the service manual that was given to them when they bought a new piece of equipment? It seems that after a piece of equipment gets to be two or three years old, the manual becomes obsolete and yet the machinery must function as it did when it was new.

THANKS TO Mother Nature and the advancement in agriculture for control of wind erosion. Remember the good ole days when the sand blew so hard that it was hard to see a light in a coal oil lamp about 10 feet away. Wonder how many people can recall tying ropes from the house to the barn so they could find their way out to milk the cows.

Shower Honors Karen Doty

SUDAN-Karen Doty was honored with a bridal shower Friday night, July 28, at the Needmore Community Center. She is the bride-elect of Billy Wayne Gore.

Guests registered in the couple following refreshments of punch and an assortment of cookies, nuts and mints from crystal appointments. The bride-elect's chosen colors of turquoise and white were used in table decorations. A white lace cloth over pale turquoise covered the table which was centered with a turquoise floral arrangement.

Vaccinating Horses For VEE, Good Insurance

Good insurance to all horses, mules and ponies against the sleeping sickness, equine encephalomyelitis (VEE), which the animals were with last year when the disease reached epidemic proportions in Texas. Vaccination is the surest way to protect not only other equine animals, even though the disease should provide for more than a year," emphasizes Dr. James Armstrong, veterinarian with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "Revaccination is not compulsory but is an extra precaution."

Armstrong notes that the Texas Veterinary Medical Association and Texas Animal Health Commission are also encouraging all equine owners to revaccinate as an added safety measure.

Other reasons for the revaccination effort are that

(1) Texas is a high risk area and the only state where VEE has occurred, and (2) confirmed cases of VEE have already occurred in Mexico this year and the disease appears to be moving northward.

As far as the vaccination of foals and pregnant mares is concerned, Armstrong points out that there has been some change, according to recent hearings at an International Conference on VEE in Kansas City, Missouri.

At the conference it was resolved that foals of immune dams in high risk areas should be vaccinated when three months of age and again when weaned at about six months of age. Unvaccinated pregnant mares in high risk areas should be vaccinated regardless of stage of pregnancy.

In addition to VEE, the veterinarian stresses the need to vaccinate animals against the Eastern and Western strains of equine encephalomyelitis. Once animals are vaccinated for these two strains, a booster shot should be given every year.

Armstrong advises that all vaccinations should be given by a veterinarian. He also encourages horse owners to move their animals as little as possible to reduce the risk of spreading VEE.

The disease will remain a threat until late this fall when cooler weather suppresses mosquito populations. The mosquito is the main carrier to the disease.

NOISE POLLUTION

The increasing concern by all levels of government with the problem of noise pollution is an encouraging sign, according to officials of the Beltone Crusade for Hearing Conservation. They point out that laws and ordinances governing noise levels have been passed by many communities, and that others are considering such legislation.

Olton School System Participating In 'Get Ahead' Program

The feeling of inadequacy comes easily in school—particularly to the child who is culturally different. The bilingual child, whose Spanish is better than his English, can have a tough time.

The Olton school system is among schools throughout the Southwest which are developing scores of new, innovative programs which, in goals, match the Las Cruces, N. M., "Project Get Ahead."

By whatever name they are called, each is designed to help the Mexican American student achieve scholastic success which, in turn, rewards him with a more appealing self-image and helps him strive for new and higher goals.

The Olton system is participating in the pre-vocational and art programs. More than 60 programs which have been community tested in schools in California, Colorado, Nevada, New Mexico, Arizona and Texas are included in a new book published under the auspices of the U.S. Office of Education's Southwest Educational Laboratory in Austin.

Editors are Dr. George W. Smith, who earned his doctorate at Texas Tech University and who now teaches at Pan American University, and Dr. Owen L. Caskey of Texas Tech's education faculty. For Dr. Caskey, who is also associate vice president for Academic Affairs at Texas Tech, this is his seventh publication since 1968 dealing with the special problems of Mexican American students.

The book, "Promising School Practices for Mexican Americans," adds two relatively new dimensions to typical texts on Mexican American education. These are reports on programs for self-concept enhancement and parent involvement.

"One of the most pressing needs for improving the education of Mexican Americans," Dr. Caskey said, "is to make education relevant to the students. A step in that direction is the putting forth of genuine, sincere efforts to involve parents and the community in school affairs."

San Angelo has had success with its "Community Agent Program" which is now in its third year. Piedmont Hills High School in San Jose, Calif., formed a new bond between homes and the school with the help of a fiesta attended by 1,000 persons. Schools in Glendale, Ariz., and Las Cruces, N. M., also have reports in the book indicating promising programs.

Of the damaging self-concept for Mexican American children, the editors point out that how a person views himself is closely related to how he behaves and what he achieves.

"Children from Mexican American homes more often than not enter the first grade with a positive view of themselves," the editors said, but changes occur as the child discovers he is different from his classmates.

"During this time he develops negative attitudes toward himself, which can be psychologically damaging. Add to this the failure he experiences in trying to relate to Anglo-oriented academic thrusts in schools, and the program is compounded," the editors said.

The authors cited 10 essential features which appear to underlie the most promising practices leading to better education for Mexican Americans:

1. Acceptance of Mexican American children without blaming the child or home for being different;

2. Recognition that some of the educational needs of Mexican American students are unique to their cultural group;

3. An effort to build on the strengths of the students' culture as opposed to expecting the student to reject his own background totally in favor of a culture that is foreign to him;

4. Recognition that to be culturally different does not mean to be culturally disadvantaged;

5. Positive recognition of the impact of a person's image of himself on academic and social behavior;

6. Recognition of the positive effects of expecting a high level of performance from the student, the importance of achievement to the student and his need for success experiences;

7. Recognition of the value of giving instruction in both Spanish and English;

8. Recognition of the merits of parent and community involvement in school affairs;

9. Recognition of the importance of relevant education so students see the value of education and its relationship to the lives they want to live;

10. Recognition of the importance of acquainting non-Mexican Americans with the important contributions and beauty of the Mexican American culture.

Other works dealing with Mexican American education authored or co-authored by Caskey include materials developed for workers in the field, social and school agency programs, early concept development, and guidance and counseling projects.

FISH KILL REPORTS SOUGHT FOR STUDY

The Parks and Wildlife Department needs year-long study on the one-year study on the fish kills on the Rio Grande between Dallas and Lake Livingston.

For the study to be effective, the department needs reports on fish kills in stretch of the river.

Anyone seeing a large number of dead fish in Trinity River or its tributaries could aid the study by immediately reporting the fish to his local Game Management Officer.

Research Foundation Schedules Field Day

The 16th Annual Open House at Plains Research has been scheduled for Sunday, August 6, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the research plots and Halfway will be open until 5 p.m.

Dr. T. C. Longnecker, director, also described a number of field day programs. At the conclusion of each of the field tours, these savings bonds will be awarded by drawing and everyone making the tour will be eligible to win.

The field tours will feature four research scientists at two stops to discuss various facets of Foundation research activities and general agricultural conditions.

As in past Field Day and Open House, research facilities will be open for inspection and area agricultural agencies and commercial agricultural businesses will have displays. According to Jack Cloude, in charge of the display areas, more than 30 exhibit spaces have been reserved and that many more are expected.

Entertainment during the day will be provided by area musicians.

One special display will exhibit triticale foods and serve food samples throughout the day.

At the conclusion of activities, a drawing for a color television will be concluded.

Dip Quarantine

A dip movement quarantine order to prevent a spread of psoroptic scabies (cattle scab) went into effect here on Aug. 1 and will remain in effect until further notice.

Movement of possibly exposed animals constitutes a potential threat to the Texas cattle industry as well as other states, so official dipping will be required on all cattle being moved within any of 34 area counties with the exceptions of:

1. Cattle moving direct to slaughter;
2. Cattle moving to slaughter through a livestock market;
3. Cattle moving to a livestock market for sale and dipping prior to release;
4. Cattle released from livestock market to an official dip point with permit;
5. Cattle moving to an official dip point;
6. Cattle officially dipped within the past 7 days, provided accompanied by a dip certificate;
7. Cattle from outside the quarantine area moving through the quarantine area with no stopovers;
8. Cattle moving (same owner) from one premise to another premise within the quarantined area;
9. Cattle from outside the quarantine area moving into the quarantine area for grazing.

Undipped animals leaving the quarantine area and moving outside the quarantine area must be accompanied by an official movement certificate allowing movement to an official dip point for official dipping at destination, exception being animals moving direct to slaughter.

The high risk of creating a continuing source of infection makes it necessary that any undipped cattle from a scabies quarantined area that move through a livestock market outside the quarantined area be dipped at the livestock market together with all other cattle at the livestock market, exception being animals consigned from the sale directly to slaughter prior to release to the country.

PREVENT FARM FIRES PROTECTION NEEDED

Fires, explosions, and burns claimed the lives of 30 Texas farmers and ranchers, or members of their families in 1971, according to the Texas Safety Association. The statewide safety organization reminds that one of the agribusinessman's first priorities should be adequate protection against the dangers of fire.

The Great American Favorite

Regardless of its foreign origin — and the hamburger is supposed to have originated in Hamburg, Germany, in 1891 — there is no question but what it has become as American as the Fourth of July and apple pie.

There are so many variations, perhaps not including those you make yourself, that complete books have been written on the subject.

No matter how you serve your hamburgers, it's important to realize that their finished goodness depends on the beginning, the base from which you build. In other words the bun itself, because no matter what the filling, it misses being a mouth-watering delight if the bun is not all that a good bun should be — fresh, flavorful and high quality.

Many youngsters, cranky in their eating habits, prefer their hamburger with just a meat patty and perhaps a little mustard or catsup, but for those teenagers and adults who are venturesome, there are myriad ways to "build" a hamburger and with some, the more we put in, the better it gets.

They might enjoy only a few additions such as lettuce and tomatoes with mayonnaise or relish or they might go all the way with a slice of cheese, chopped onion or a nice large slice of onion, catsup, lettuce and tomato and dill pickle slices. The result is a concoction so large one wonders how the mouth might get around it, but one that's taste-tingling and practically a meal in itself. Here's a combination you may not have tried:

- CHEESEBURGER TOWERS
 2 pounds ground beef
 1/4 cup fine chopped onion
 1 tablespoon prepared mustard
 1 tablespoon worcestershire sauce
 1 1/2 teaspoons prepared horseradish
 Salt and pepper
 6 slices process American cheese

6 hamburger buns, split and toasted

Combine meat, onion and seasonings; shape into 12 patties a little less than 1/2-inch thick. Cook in lightly greased skilled about 6 minutes, turning once — broil if you prefer. With cookie cutter, cut a 2-inch round from center of each cheese slice.

Place half the meat patties on toasted buns; add cheese slice filling the hole in the cheese with catsup, mustard or barbecue or hamburger relish. Top with remaining meat patties and cheese rounds.

Or try a Smoky Cheeseburger: Prepare 6 meat patties and while they cook combine one 5-ounce jar smoky cheese spread, 1 tablespoon pickle relish and 2 teaspoons prepared mustard; spread on top half of 6 split hamburger buns. Broil 1 to 2 minutes or till cheese bubbles and buns toast. Put buns together with a meat patty in each.

Have you ever considered the versatility of the hamburger bun for other purposes? Split and toasted, it makes a great base for creamed foods or Soppo Joes to be eaten with knife and fork. Because of the shape, what better for a fried egg and ham sandwich? With weiners, clip at one-inch intervals almost through so they will curl up as they cook and they are just right for a bun, with a center which can be filled with sauerkraut for a great taste combination or baked beans with a topping of hot dog relish.

And for individual pizzas, they're perfect. Try this variation:

- PIZZABURGERS
 1 pound ground beef
 1 1/2 cups chopped onions
 1 6-ounce can tomato paste
 1 teaspoon crushed oregano
 1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
 6 hamburger buns, split, toasted and buttered onion rings or sliced Mozzarella cheese, optional
 Cook beef and onions in skillet until beef loses its red color and onions are transparent. Add tomato paste and seasonings. Bring to boil; simmer for 15 minutes. Spoon mixture over bun halves. If desired, slip an onion ring or cheese slice on each bun.

Or make a frankfurter pizza, spreading the toasted bun halves with tomato sauce, adding a touch of oregano, a round of Mozzarella cheese and top with sliced frankfurters which fit the bun halves so well. Run under the broiler until cheese melts and frankfurters brown slightly.

No matter how you serve them, a supply of good hamburger buns fresh from your favorite grocer for planned or unexpected uses can make up into lots of good eating with your own creativity the designer and producer.

Divorce action only way out?

By Abigail Van Buren
 (© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Corp., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: When I was barely 16 I had to be married. George (made up name) was 18. It was a mistake from the start, but I stuck by him because of our kids who are now 8, 9, 11 and 12.

George always ran with other girls. He still never denied him love or affection, but it was like a mess with him. Even he admits he can't help it. They're the worst kind of girls, too. I can't count the times he brought home a social disease.

Two years ago I kicked him out for that reason. I started divorce action. Our oldest daughter became so set she wouldn't eat. She always idolized her father. I don't know why. He hardly ever looked at her. After this girl was practically starving herself to death, a doctor advised me to let George come home. I gave her one more chance.

Last week I kicked him out again for the same reason and this time I made up my mind to go thru with divorce. Abby, I just can't live with this man any longer. Now the same daughter is sick again. She can't keep food on her stomach. She says if I don't take Daddy out she will run away or kill herself.

If anything happens to my daughter, I will never give myself, yet I don't want to spend the rest of my life with a man like George. What should I do?

IN THE MEANTIME
 DEAR IN: Get some professional counseling for your daughter and proceed with your plans. Tell her that her mind is made up, and she will have to be a big girl and accept your decision.

DEAR ABBY: I recently served on jury duty and was shocked at what went on.

One woman said the man must be guilty or he would never have been arrested. Another man urged everyone to vote guilty so we could all go home. Another man urged we should all vote guilty and close the case because court costs are paid for by tax dollars.

The case ended in a 7-to-5 vote of guilty which persuaded one juror to suggest that we make it a unanimous because the judge "got awful upset" over hung jurors. Abby, if any of your readers can tell me that experience was unique, please have them write to me. I would be very interested.

WAITING IN COOLVILLE

DEAR WAITING: All right. Former jurors?

DEAR ABBY: "Disgusted" wanted to keep people going to movies which showed "raw sex."

I am a healthy-minded 23-year-old woman who would know why "disgusted" complains about "raw sex." He's sickening sights of war, shoot 'em-ups, bloody violence, other forms of raw murder don't seem to bother her.

Children, if educated honestly by their parents and sex, will be able to cope with movies containing sex. Children don't learn that sex is a healthy normal part of their lives, they will do their research with dirty books in the back seats of cars.

"Disgusted" needn't worry about blushing. The drive-ins are dark. I am more worried about the drive-ins.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 40-year-old married woman who has been told that I am reasonably attractive. I've been able to handle men who have come on too strong. Now I am stumped!

Would you believe that an 85-year-old man has been bugging me? He is well respected in this community, always greets the women at church with a hug and a thought nothing of it as he seemed to love people so much.

One day he telephoned me and asked me to come to his house to get some fresh vegetables from his garden (he lives alone). I went there, was given the vegetables, then he embraced me and tried to kiss me! I struggled hard to get away from him. He's surprisingly strong for his age. I left as tactfully and quickly as I could, but that really shook me up. I almost told him off, but considered that a man of 85 might not be as responsible as a younger man, and I didn't want to be feelings.

He keeps calling me to come back for more vegetables and I am running out of excuses. He calls so often I can't answer the phone.

Should I keep making up excuses for not going to see him? Or should I tell him the truth and ask him not to call anymore? I don't know how to get out of this situation. Everyone thinks he is such a dear old man, but to me he's just a dirty old man.

DEAR STUMPED: He could be a "sick" old man. Don't be cruel, but do put an end to his calling by telling him firmly, but tactfully that you have decided to return to his home without your husband. He'll get the idea.

DEAR ABBY: This man I will call him Mr. Jones runs a cement contracting business out of his home. I have telephoned him at least a half dozen times trying to give him some business, but each time the child answers the phone, says, "Daddy isn't home," hangs up.

I have no telephone in my home so I must make calls at a pay station which costs me a dime every time I call. Do you think a man should allow his business to be answered by a child who can't take a message? Have you any suggestions for how to reach Mr. Jones?

DEAR FRUSTRATED: You could write him a letter. But unless you have a concrete reason for wanting to do Mr. Jones your business, why don't you try someone else?

CONFIDENTIAL TO "CONSERVATIVE": A Cincinnati put it this way: "We teach communism and advocating it. We teach revolution without advocating it. Why not teach birth control without advocating it?"

Problems? Trust Abby. For a persons reply to Abby, BOX 60700, L. A., CALIF. 90060 and stamped, addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 60700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90060, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Carl G. Clift, a former Lamb County resident, retired on July 21 after 15 years service at White Sands as Chief of the Cooperative Training Program. Mr. and Mrs. Clift reside in El Paso where they will soon celebrate their golden wedding anniversary.

Clift was superintendent of Springlake Schools from 1928 to 1930. In 1930, he was a candidate in the first election for Lamb County superintendent of schools, running against Mrs. E. S. Rowe of Littlefield and L. D. Rochelle of Amherst.

In 1935, Clift became Potter County superintendent of schools at Amarillo and was later appointed as State Deputy Superintendent in charge of 75 high schools, 200 grade schools, and more than 2,000 teachers over a 23 county area of the panhandle. While in Amarillo, he helped organize the original Maverick Club and, from that beginning, Cal Farley's Boys Ranch. He was directly responsible for the establishment of Boys Ranch as an independent school district.

During World War II, Clift served in the Navy as Deputy Commander of the Officer Training Program at the University of Texas. In 1946, he returned to civilian life and accepted a position with the Veterans Administration in Lubbock to eventually become Director of the Education and Training Section of the Vocational Rehabilitation and Education Department. At its peak, this section handled 2,200 veterans. While in Lubbock, Clift also taught at the then newly opened Monterrey High School.

In January of 1957, Mr. Clift accepted the position at White Sands Missile Range, building

COTTON BALE BASE

A lighthouse in England, built on cotton bales, has stood for more than 200 years. When an American ship loaded with cotton from India was wrecked by a storm, the salvaged bales were piled ashore and settled in the soft sand. The combination of seawater, sand, and cotton turned the bales into a mass as solid as granite. Previously, no lighthouse could be built on this shore because of the soft sand.

APPROXIMATELY 346 high school journalism students enrolled in Texas Tech's 15th annual summer journalism workshop.

Attending the yearbook session of the workshop from Anton were Teri Butler, Zoe Butler, Sylvia Luna, Jema Peacock, and Christi Stone. Registration was dominated by the yearbook session with 236 students.

Those attending the newspaper session from Anton were Quinn Martin, Kim Newton and Anita Wright. The session was divided into five staffs, with twelve members in each group dedicated to publishing two newspapers.

The workshop was climaxed Thursday night with an awards banquet. Various awards were awarded to the Anton Annual Staff. The Tech Tac Toe was declared best newspaper. As a staff member of the Tech Tac Toe, Quinn Martin was awarded a plaque for his participation.

ANTON'S INDUSTRIAL Foundation met Monday evening in the school cafeteria. Approximately 20 people attended.

Reports were given on various proposals. Discussion of several possible business prospects was heard. A committee was appointed to make further investigation of these prospects.

The group approved submitting a loan application to Small Business Administration for a business which desired to locate in Anton. The loan application was submitted under the "502 Program".

The "502 Program" is an economic development, not just a loan program. One of the objectives of the program is to help small communities to attract relocating businesses or new businesses. The business will be aided in getting started and their added payrolls will help to stabilize the economy in the community.

At this time several businesses are considering locating in the Anton community. Their final decision will be affected greatly by the amount of interest shown by the people of the community.
