

155,000 BALES PREDICTED

Cotton Prospects Bright

The 1969 cotton crop, which agronomists agree that this year's harvest must go up, and the best unofficial 1970 estimate is even closer, Lamb County can expect to at least equal the '69 production. The exact number of acres of cotton now growing in Lamb County ASCS Office, 155,000 bales of cotton will be harvested in this county this year. This figure would be more than twice the 67,754 bales harvested last year.

is not yet known since the ASCS office had not had time to total the acreage since Monday, the final date for farmers to certify. "The 155,000 acres is the best guess I can come up with right now," Aten said. Despite a dire need for rain over most of the county, especially in dryland areas, cotton crops continue to look good. If the "guess estimated" production is reached, it will be valued at approximately $13,950,000 at $90 per bale. Most of the price support payments, based on projected yields, have already been made. The Lamb County ASCS Office mailed its last big batch of checks out Tuesday and Aten said he thought this office would be through with the payments by Aug. 14, two weeks sooner than the payments started last year.

Sidewalk Sale

Planned Friday

Downtown merchants have so many hot bargains, their specials must be aired out, and the bargains are so high, they're dragging them down to the sidewalks.

Friday has been designated as Sidewalk Sale Day in Littlefield. (In the event of rain, the Sidewalk Sale will be held Saturday).

Several merchants in Littlefield will conduct business from in front of their stores, and at the same time offer many unusual buys—a trait that made Sidewalk Sale Days popular throughout the years.

Merchants who are participating in the sale Friday are: Western Auto, Connell's Office Supply, Cleaners and Men's Wear, Mitchell-Ford, Penney's, Norma's, Newton's Findley Jewelry, A&B Office Supply, McNally Jewelry, Sprouse Reitz Variety, Mode O'Day, The Merry, Moss Shoes, Ware's, Perry's, Pat's Restaurant, Garland Restaurant, C. R. Ann's and Pratt Jewelry.

You'll find ads on the inside pages to describe many of the open air bargains.

Four Jailed, Break-In Probed

Police have jailed four males since Saturday and are investigating and entering case. One was jailed Saturday charged with drunk in public, and one jailed Tuesday morning, with drunk in public. One was still in jail at 11 p.m. Wednesday, for fines and County Farmers Co-op tied police Monday evening that someone had gained entry to their building through a hole in the wall on the south side. Taken in the break-in were a tool cabinet and contents from the northeast wall of the gin. Included in the contents were a new tool box with assorted tools, valued at $150 to $200; one Black and Decker 1/4" standard drill 7010 (U-100-B) Type G, valued at $12; and one impact wrench, valued at $65 to $70.

Jury Favors Defendant

A jury verdict found in favor of the defendant in a collision and personal injuries suit heard by a civil jury in district court here Tuesday with District Judge Pat Boone Jr.

Frank Council, the plaintiff, had brought a suit against Royce McFadden and wife for collision and personal injuries following an accident at a county dirt road intersection which involved Council's hired hand, John Jefferies.

The jury deliberated several hours before coming to conclusions about 8 p.m. that favored the defendant McFadden. The plaintiff was asking for $30,000.

T. V. Murrell was foreman. Other jurors were Mrs. J. C. Smith, Jr., John Vrabel, Mary E. Testerman, Elbert Hyman, Carl Thompson, Fred W. Cook, John W. Amos, Joe Fisher, Olan B. Crump, R. L. Byers Jr., and Lloyd G. Graham. At presstime two more collision and damage suits were set for this session.

Board OK's Crusade's Use Of Auditorium

The auditorium of Littlefield Junior High School has been made available by the school board for a week-long area-wide "Crusade for Christ" Sept. 20-27.

Meeting in a called session Tuesday, the board voted 4-3 to allow use of the auditorium for a week of night meetings.

The decision came after lengthy discussion of whether the event might interfere with school activities and the point that the auditorium ordinarily is not leased for that long a period.

Request for the auditorium came from Rev. R. B. Hall, pastor of the First Baptist Church, who told board members the crusade would be non-denominational in its approach. An outstanding speaker is to be announced for the week-long meeting.

Following discussion of various aspects of the event, they decided to allow use of the auditorium on condition that no advertising material would be placed on or in school property.

Trustees Pat Downs, Bob Rodden, Flannery Newton and Doug Walden favored allowing the crusade to be held for a week in auditorium. E. D. Bingham, Wayne Streeby and Werner Birkelbach were opposed, with their main objection appearing to be the length of time requested.

Birkelbach offered a motion that no meetings be permitted for longer than two days in the future. He yielded to a request that the motion be considered at the next regular board meeting, and it was tabled.

School Bells To Ring Soon

School bells will soon be ringing for hundreds of Littlefield school students, and registration days have been scheduled.

Buses will run and classes begin Wednesday, Aug. 26, but students will register Monday and Tuesday prior to that.

Monday, Aug. 24, seniors and ninth graders will register at 9 a.m. in the high school and junior high school buildings, respectively.

That afternoon, at 1 p.m., juniors and eighth graders will register in their proper buildings.

Tuesday, Aug. 25, at 9 a.m., sophomores and seventh graders go to their respective auditoriums for registration and orientation period.

Registration for Primary, Elementary I and Elementary II students who have never attended Littlefield schools, and who have NOT registered previously, are asked to report to their respective principal's office.

"TOO CLOSE FOR COMFORT" says Chaun Yohner, 8-year-old granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Yohner of Littlefield. The noise-maker insect, a Cicada, perched on her shoulder, but she wasn't too frightened—she kept an eye on it. Chaun is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Yohner, Jr. of Amarillo, and is visiting her grandparents for a few days.

AFTER 32 YEARS Joe F. Krizek Retires From SCS Engineering

By NILAH RODGERS
Leader-News Staff Writer

When Joe Krizek headed toward West Texas 32 years ago, taking Horace Greeley's advice of "go west young man, go west," the west-bound young man almost turned around to retrace his tracks back to his coastal home and the floundering and oystering he enjoyed there.

"I drove and drove and drove," Krizek said, "38 was a dry, windy year, and around Tulla the fence rows were piled up, I darn near turned around and went back. But I'd already quit my job in Houston, so I went on to Hereford."

That was the beginning of Krizek's 32-year West Texas tenure as an agricultural engineer for the Soil Conservation Service, that, except for three years in the Navy during WWII, last until Friday, when Krizek retired.

By the fall of '38, Krizek said he was reconciled. Add to that the fact that he'd "met a gal, too." He and Mrs. Krizek were married here the following year, and the Krizeks have made Littlefield their home for more than 20 years.

Krizek's parents came to the U. S. separately from Czechoslovakia, met and married and raised their family on a farm near Port Lavaca. Krizek speaks with a slight accent he calls "Bohemian -- until they lost their language."

There was plenty of fishing near the family farm, and at nights Krizek often went floundering. With a torch and late a Coleman lantern in one hand, they'd wade out in shallow water and when they saw the flat fish, spear or gig them, and string or sack them.

Oysters were plentiful in season, and these were in shallow water, too, when the tide was low. Before getting into farming, Krizek's dad had worked at a fishery opening oysters, and he could open a gallon of oysters in a matter of minutes.

Now fishing is off limits around Port Lavaca because of mercury pollution, Krizek said.

West Texas farmers were just beginning to venture into irrigation when Krizek started his SCS work. "In 1940, Comer Hall had the only irrigation well near here," Krizek said. "Then when I came back in 1950 there were wells everywhere."

For several years most of Krizek's work involved locating high points for irrigation wells. In the height of

It's Courting Time Again

By JOELLA LOVVORN
News Editor, Leader-News

It's Cicada serenade season again and the late summer evening air around Littlefield and the High Plains area vibrates with the loud, sharp, shrill sound of courtship from the male of the species.

The male Cicada is equipped with two plate like organs on the front part of the lower thorax to make such a racket as to "woo" the female into courtship.

The Cicada (pronounced see-kay-duh) is commonly called "locust" by most area residents. Scientists say the name "locust" is incorrectly applied to this insect, because locusts are really grasshoppers.

Cicadas first make their appearance when they come from the ground in the nymph stage, crawl up a tree trunk, post or building, then "unzip" the nymph covering down the back, and emerge as an adult.

Adults generally live about a week—just long enough to mate and begin another generation of noise-makers.

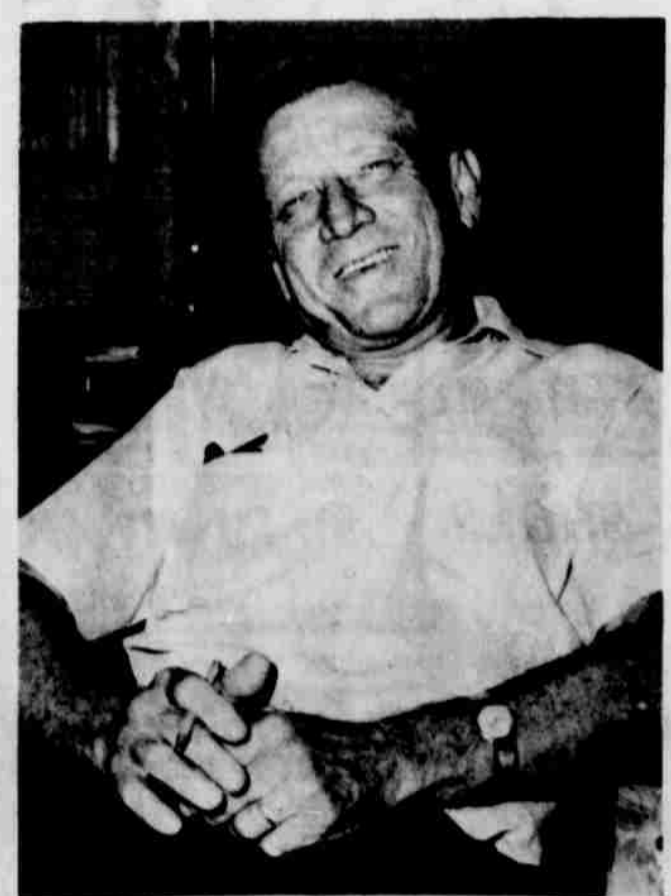

After the adults mate, the females cut slits in young twigs on trees and deposit eggs in them. Within a period of about six weeks, the eggs hatch into wingless, scaly nymphs which fall to the ground, bury themselves and stay until they are mature.

Some Cicadas remain in the ground from 4 to 20 years, depending on the species and the latitude of the country where they are—however it is believed most in this area are the Annual Cicadas.

While in the ground, the nymphs feed on juices from different types of roots.

Then, to come back to where we started, the mature nymphs come out of the ground in the summer time to begin the life cycle all over again.

Some of the 75 species of Cicadas are called harvest-flies because of their late summer appearance; and others are called 17-year locusts, though the different species differ widely in the time they take to become mature nymphs.

JOE KRIZEK completed 32 years as an agricultural engineer with the Soil Conservation Service Friday. He graduated from Texas A&M in 1936 and, after working for a Houston firm two years, moved to West Texas. Except for three years in the Navy as chief petty officer in charge of surveying, all of Krizek's SCS work has been in this area.

LVIN PRICE and Frank Anzeline tote another stack of books to the building at 402 Phelps where the Littlefield Rotary Club is having a big book sale beginning Saturday, Aug. 15, and continuing through the following Saturday, Aug. 22. Anyone who has books to donate may call the Littlefield radio station and a club member will pick up the books, or persons may take books by the collection center at Connell's Office Supply. Text books, hard backs and paper backs are needed.

Little Red Schoolhouse

THE LITTLE RED school house is fast becoming extinct for a variety of reasons. Numbers of students are, however, probably the main reason.

About 59.9 million persons, 3 to 34 years of age, were enrolled in this nation's schools or college in the fall of 1969, according to the current population survey conducted in October 1969 by the Bureau of Census and reported by the National Consumer Finance Association in its July newsletter, FINANCE FACTS.

THE FIGURE represents an increase of 14 per cent over the 52.5 million figure of October 1964 and the survey explains these increases to more 6 to 17 year old compulsory school children and general increases in enrollment rates for other age groups.

The number of college students increased by 60 per cent in a five-year period from 4.6 million in 1964 to 7.4 million in 1969.

Eighteen and 19-year-olds made up a 3.4 million or 50 per cent of that age group in 1969, up from 2.2 million or 42 per cent of the same age group in 1964.

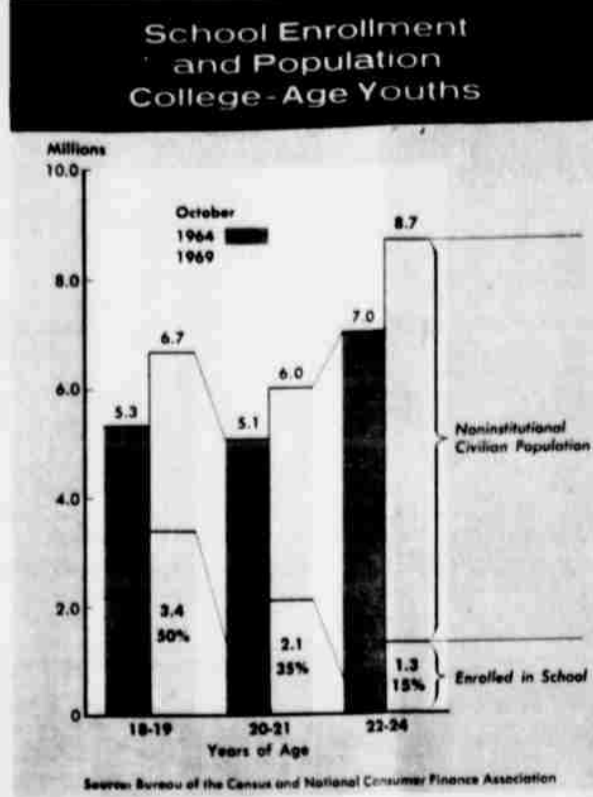

The 20 and 21 age group enrolled numbered 2.1 million or 35 per cent last year, up from 1.4 million or 26 per cent in 1964.

THE 3 TO 4 "lollipop" set had about 800,000 or 10 per cent enrolled in nursery school or kindergarten in 1964.

By 1969, the 3 and 4 year olds enrollment list had increased to 1.2 million or 16 per cent of the age group.

And since the advent of TV and transistorized portable radios... what's a bell?

A WOMAN'S VIEW

The Painter

By PEARL BRANDON

THERE IS THE SAD story of a young man who started out early in life to become an artist. He loved beautiful things and he was talented.

His one trouble was finding something that was worth painting.

AS HE SET OUT on the journey of life he passed many beautiful scenes along the way.

He saw a golden-haired little boy playing with a rolly-polly dog; and one day passed a kindly old woman fishing in a shady brook... once there was a sea-scape that took his breath, but he went on. None of these were grand enough to paint.

THE YEARS PASSED. At last toward the end of his journey he came upon the scene he had been looking for all his life.

A tall, magnificent mountain stood with its base thrust into the sea with the waves beating against the walls and tall peaks were lost in white billowy clouds against a blue, blue sky. Surely this was it!

THE OLD MAN sat down to paint. Alas, his trembling hands were stiff and old from long years of idleness.

Over and over he tried to catch the gorgeous colors of the splendid mountain scene, but it was no use. He had lost his skill.

I WONDER IF we are inclined to be like the painter, miss doing the lovely little scenes in life waiting for our big chance. The little boy and the old woman have made a pretty picture, and her face spoke of many things as she fished in the peaceful stream.

WE NEED the practice of everyday living, so if our big chance comes we will be ready. If it doesn't come we will have had the fun of doing the little things. There is something satisfying about taking the things life has to offer and making the best of it just doing each day what your find to do.

I DON'T LIKE the way the painter ends. I like to think he would have another chance, painting then in something else.

I like what Adelaide Procter in her poem "No Star is Lost":

But still our place is kept
It will wait,
Ready for us to fill it,
Late.

No star is ever lost we once seen:
We always may be what we have been.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

False Security

By BOB WEAR

A FALSE FEELING of security is a serious threat to our existence. We are inclined to this feeling based on the assumption that, since we have always known and enjoyed certain traditional rights and privileges, we will automatically continue to do so.

In any discussion of these, we usually refer to the Constitution or the Bill of Rights.

THIS IS DONE as if such assurance is all we need. Of course, there is consolation in the fact that we have such well-established standards and ideals; however, this may be our danger point.

Written guarantees are not all we need. They, in and of themselves, have no practical value.

WRITTEN GUARANTEES must be given life by right and wise actions of concerned people. For example, the first amendment to the Constitution.

"Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances."

FREEDOM-LOVING PEOPLE are thrilled by these words; however, these rights do not automatically become realities in human experiences.

They are just words unless they are given life and power by knowledgeable and courageous actions of all people involved.

LEGISLATIVE ENACTMENT of laws is essential to the implementation of the guaranteed rights.

The laws must be interpreted by the judiciary, and, then, the executive department of government must decide how to enforce the law, and the rate at which its provisions shall be imposed.

The process is often cumbersome and complicated, but it has been effective throughout our national life.

MUCH DEPENDS upon the integrity of the personnel of the legislative, judicial and executive departments of our government.

The wrong kind of people in these offices of public trust can abridge and perhaps destroy our rights. Therefore our responsibility is obvious.

Taking the blessings of citizenship for granted is false security. We must be intelligently active in the selection of all public officials.

WE MUST BE WELL INFORMED. Even our courage and effort will be in vain if we are not.

In fact, the need for effective and popular ways of developing an informed citizenry is urgent.

In this respect, our destiny is in our own hands, and will be shaped according to our degree of success in meeting our responsibilities.

IT ALL DEPENDS UPON US. The written guarantees of human rights so dear to all of us are just as powerful and meaningful as we make them.

The whole hope of the practical existence of these rights depends upon our integrity, our knowledge, our dedication and our effective action.

"NEITHER DEMOCRACY nor effective representation is possible until each participant in the group devotes a measurable part of his life to furthering its existence." Mumford.

LET US NOT BE AT EASE and satisfied with the assurances given by written guarantees. This is false security.

Let us do all we can to support, protect and strengthen these rights as real and workable guidelines and standards in every-day living for all people.

THE PERSONAL responsibility is great; but the reward is great, too.

Soul Music

WHAT'S THE FUTURE for country and western music? We have to know now.

VTR, Visual Tape Recording, soon will sweep the country. Instead of playing records or tapes of your favorite music, you'll be buying Visual Tape Recordings and playing them through your TV set. You'll see what you hear.

FOR RECORDING companies the investment is astronomical; they need to know what kind of music you will want to hear next year.

Will country music have a future to match its past? No music has been more durable--up to now. If it's new to the new generation, it's not new to those of us who grew up listening to Bob Wills and his Texas Playboys and the Alabama Boys and the dulcet voices of Red Foley and Gene Autry and the cow country ballads of Lulu Belle and Scotty on the Grand Ole Opry and the Chicago Barn Dance.

TO US, these new songs are not new. What's happening is not a renaissance. There has never been a time when what we used to call "hillbilly music" was not somewhere in demand.

Only difference is, now it's "everywhere." Now they guffaw to Hee Haw in New York City.

COUNTRY MUSIC is "pulp music," "formula music." It's "soul music" for white folks.

As New Orleans Southern blacks gave birth to the sad blues and happy Dixieland jazz, Nashville is mecca for importers and exporters of Western-brand laughter and loneliness.

IF THE GIRL who sings country music seems to whine, that's because the tear in her voice is real.

A GREAT PATRIOT of yesterday said, "My country, May she always be right, but right or wrong, my country."

This July Fourth Americans were summoned to patriotic rallies throughout the land to support America. The theme of that statement has been the theme song of rallies.

Yet the Christian realized that the highest demands of patriotism and of Christian conscience reach beyond such blind loyalty.

There is a restlessness of spirit which says that this kind of unquestioning loyalty may be a subtle betrayal. The true patriot should be saying, "My country, right the wrong! My Country."

TO THE QUESTION of what is wrong with old fashioned patriotism, the answer should be, "Nothing, if you make it old fashioned enough." Let us reach back to the ideals and idealism which really founded our country.

The ideals of freedom of reli-

She's seen or been the faithless spouse.

When the man sings of freight trains, funerals and prisons, he's been there.

And when they laugh big belly-bouncing, knee-slapping laughter, it's at themselves or some relation's durn foolishness.

THE BEVERLY HILLBILLIES are today what Amos 'n' Andy used to be. With our increasing hypersensitivity, white hill people are the only people in our culture we dare to laugh at any more.

Theirs is the only "safe" dialect left on radio or TV.

THERE ARE EFFORTS to mongrelize country and western music, and they are doomed.

Nightclub acts and some deejays try from time to time to peddle a mixture loosely defined as "mod country," but then end up with what author Paul Hemphill calls "bland and packaged Glen Campbell."

On early TV the Ozark Jubilee was a smash success until some New York advertising genius decided to spice it up with nightclub act, and the show, diluted, died.

NASHVILLE, preparing to bet fortunes and fame on the future of its best cash crop, should not complicate the refreshing simplicity of Johnny Cash and Dottie West.

The acknowledgment of plain, old-fashioned but everlasting human emotions--of love and loneliness, fear and frivolity.

THESE SONGS speak to the hidden heart of a man.

If nothing else, reassuring him that in his inevitable fears he is not alone.

My Country

By JIMMY R. ALLEN

gious conscience, equality of opportunity for all, the rights of individuals to protection against oppressive political powers, and the responsibility of individuals to support an ordered society in seeking justice constitute the greatest political dream mankind ever dared dream.

PATRIOTISM which keeps its eyes open and is alert to every effort to make the systems sensitive to its own goals and ideals is the need of our day.

Some in our midst have given up hope that the system will work. They feel that the disinherited will always be ignored or exploited. They seek simply to tear the structure down. Those of us who believe in America and its ideals cannot confront these simply with rallies and speeches.

We must face their accusations with honesty and candor. We must then prove that our nation has the

HOMINY GRITS

By CORNBALL BLEDSOE

JUST LOOKED IT UP--That Word ESTABLISHMENT, that is.

It's what is so scornfully used by so many of the younger generation, these times.--Hadn't really taken time to think about it 'til here lately.

But, if it's causing trouble, maybe we'd better look at it.

ESTABLISH--To make steadfast, or firm, or stable.--Hence ESTABLISHMENT must mean:--THAT which is made steadfast, firm and etc.

REVOLT against the "establishment", then, must be revolt against that which is steadfast, firm, and stable.--Sound foolish?

Sometime back, we sat and watched a huge crane methodically destroying a building in a nearby city. It was awe-inspiring, in a way, to see the skill displayed by the operator of that large device of destruction as he reduced that large building to rubble.

AT THIS TIME our newspapers are full of the news of vandalism, bombings, and the like.--This too, is aimed at tearing down of an establishment.

There is a difference! Before the afore-mentioned building was razed, plans had been drawn up, and the money set aside to build something better.--The vandalism that is so rampant, is aimed, solely, at destruction--NOTHING CONSTRUCTIVE to replace it.

MANY YEARS of living, learning, moral fibre to produce the changes which opens doors for all.

FOR INSTANCE, our state of Texas has a problem of gigantic proportions in the thousands of persons who are functionally illiterate. One city in our state (San Antonio) has 180,000 citizens who cannot read and write well enough to get jobs.

The front line soldiers defending patriotism in this confused era are not necessarily the bearded sign carriers with peace slogans, or the hard hat construction workers fighting to raise flags over public buildings, or the crowds listening to patriotic songs and speeches.

They are the persons who are patiently and willingly giving their time and energies to help Americans become equipped to seize opportunities in their society.

IT HAS BEEN especially gratifying to sense the dimension of response to such challenges on the part of churches and church men. An eve of awakening from the lethargy of self absorption may have come. Christian citizens are hearing a battle cry, "My country, right the wrong!"

WHAT IS TRUE of the illiterate experimenting, and construction reconstruction have gone into present way of life.--Many takes and corrections have been added.--It is the best experience and education have able to produce, up to this present time.

I do not advocate that there be no room for IMPROVEMENT, that it's all MORALLY RIGHT. I DO say that amendment and destruction, should be our task. Destruction by itself is wasteful and aimless!

THIS NATION reached its high point of power, riches, and respectability while it was still considered a Christian nation. It is a part of the establishment is being degraded by these things. The present immorality being freely practiced, is also, a part of the revolt against the establishment, whether deliberate, or consciously.

You may have noticed the spoke of the "highest point" in past-tense.--I did it purposefully. WE'RE ON THE SKIDS!--Do we can halt the present trend lawlessness and disrespect for authority of God and His principles we can end up nowhere but in gutter!

THINK IT OVER! Nothing else is steadfast, or stable!--Do I sound like a preacher, or a prophet of doom?--I have a better solution or offer like to hear it!

problem is also true of every barricade in American society. highest patriotism is not to silent nor to stifle critiques decisions of national leaders.

It is to speak out of a posture of loyalty. The loyalty of every Christian is toward God. Out of that sense of loyalty his patriotic spirit is not blind or deaf or dumb. It seeks to act responsibly. It is determined to make our what our slogans say it is.

UNDERLYING this patriotism is a deeper sense of awareness that what makes any great is the caliber of its leadership.

Christians should pray for a true awakening which will lift the atmosphere the Bible speaks of when it says: "Righteousness exalteth a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people."

IN OTHER WORDS, "My country, right the wrong!"

Seedless Watermelons On Market

The eating is as good, but the fun that many small fry have of spitting seeds when eating watermelon, is missing from the seedless watermelon. The melon has no seeds, but small seedcoats are present in the meat of the melon, according to Dr. J. E. Larsen, Texas

A&M University Extension Horticulturist. The seedcoats look very much like a small immature cucumber seed, both in size and color, and are completely edible, he said.

"Most seedless watermelons are of the Tri-X hybrid 313 variety and are dark green with faint, lighter green stripes," he explained. "The melon may occasionally have four or five mature seeds present in the meat, but this is rare."

Seedless watermelons are generally sweeter than other melons, Dr. Larsen said, and urged consumers to try one. Dr. Larsen noted that seedless watermelons should be harvested only in the full ripe stage as there is no after-ripening after the melon is harvested. "The seedless watermelon also has a longer shelf life than do the seeded varieties," Dr. Larsen said.

SAM HOUSTON built this story-and-a-half house at Huntsville in 1847 while he served in the U. S. Senate. The kitchen is housed in the log building on the right. And Houston built another log building in front of the house to serve as his law office.

General Sam Houston Enshrined At Huntsville

HUNTSVILLE—General Sam Houston, who more than any other man gave Texas its independence, is enshrined here on the grounds where he lived his last years.

The shrine is set among tall, old trees on the hills Houston loved.

Here he found his happiest days at the height of a tumultuous career in war and politics.

And it was to these hills and woods he came to find a final quiet before death.

A spring of cool, silver water breaks from beneath the trees near where Houston used to meet with visiting Indian friends and etches its course across the red earth to feed a small pond before it winds under a footbridge and loses itself in the folds of a hill.

The scene is a tranquil one, contrasting with the familiar image of Houston as a bold figure who carved a legend in war and politics.

But out of the shadows cast by the oaks and the sycamores and from the timeless music made by the tiny spring emerges Sam Houston, the gentle husband and father as well as the sturdy frontiersman.

Down one of the grassy slopes is the main building of the shrine, the redbrick Sam Houston Museum with four magnificent white columns in front.

Two of Houston's homes are nearby.

Across a footbridge and surrounded by a white picket fence, just as it was when Houston lived, is the house he built in 1847.

The white, story-and-a-half structure has six rooms divided by an open breezeway, or "dog run," and furnished with pieces from the Houston area.

Two of the eight Houston children were born here. And Houston worked in the log law office nearby.

Writing to a friend about the home, Houston described it as a "bang up place."

Beyond this house is another Houston home, the one in which 117 years ago he died.

The house, built in 1858 to resemble a steamboat, was brought from across town to the site of the shrine.

Houston retired to the steamboat house in 1861 after a session of the legislature removed him from the governor's office when he refused to swear allegiance to the Confederacy.

"I love Texas too well to bring strife and bloodshed upon her," declared the old general.

Brokenhearted, the man who had led Texas' fight for independence and defeated Mexican Dictator-General Santa Anna at San Jacinto took his wife, Margaret, back to Huntsville. He died two years later when a cold turned into pneumonia.

In his long and often stormy career Houston was representative and governor of Tennessee, commander of the tiny Army of the Republic of Texas, president of the republic, senator from Texas and twice governor of the young state.

Once he had dreamed of becoming president of the United States, as was his friend and mentor, Andrew Jackson.

All of these colorful episodes in Houston's life are depicted at the shrine.

The story begins in the museum with a mosaic of the Houston family coat of arms set in the floor of the central room.

Towering over the room is the commanding figure of General Houston. He is pictured standing in the halls of Congress and lying beneath an oak after he was wounded in the leg at the Battle of San Jacinto.

In a case hangs the leopard skin vest he wore to Congress in 1846, shocking some of the more proper residents of Washington.

Other displays speak of the days he spent with the Cherokee Indians who took the giant man from Tennessee into their tribe.

Houston's tender husband is revealed in the letters he sent his young wife, who wrote poetry to him.

Visitors to the shrine may be shown the museum and introduced to General Houston by a woman who had come to know him well.

Mrs. Grace Longino has been its director since 1953 when annual attendance was only about 18,000. Under her enthusiastic direction the shrine today attracts 50,000 visitors a year.

Mrs. Longino, her staff, and the citizens of Huntsville each year celebrate the birthday of Margaret Houston. They dress in costumes of the Houston period and host thousands of visitors to the shrine.

This year, the eleventh of these "birthday parties" is scheduled for April 5 at the Huntsville shrine, situated on Interstate Highway 45, 69 miles north of Houston.

Visitors are escorted over the grounds and told about Houston; they are shown the home where the two children were born, and they are shown the steamboat house where he died with two final words: "Margaret... Texas."

water well drilling Krizek said it wasn't unusual for someone with a "divining rod" to be right along beside him. Water witches with their twigs have about disappeared from the picture during recent years with wells drilled on the decline, locations restricted by the spacing rule, and as the older people get out of business, the younger are less gullible.

As surely as irrigation increased, well water decreased, and Krizek can cite numerous examples of farmers who had strong eight-inch wells a few years ago that have since been replaced with small submersible pumps that pump weak three and four-inch streams.

He sees the eventual salvation of this country in desalinization of ocean water transported cross-country.

Adult Motorists Go To School?

Adult motorists ticketed for moving traffic violations may soon be going to night school to learn better methods of getting from "here" to "there" in an automobile.

Thirty new sets of driver training equipment will be provided to the 20 regional education service centers across the state to teach students by day and adult traffic violators by night, following approval of the plan Monday (July 6) by the State Board of Education.

Funds for the equipment and supplementary educational programs, expected to total $698,100, will be provided by the National Highway Safety Bureau through the Governor's office.

"The new equipment, which will be mobile enough to transfer from one school district to another within the region, will help us concentrate on the classroom phase of instruction," Glenn Peavy, Agency driver education program director, points out.

The multi-media systems will include films designed to put students in simulated hazardous as well as route highway and city driving situations while in the classroom--and then teach them how to make the correct decisions to avoid collision.

Adult drivers may be assigned to special training on the classroom units by city, county, or state courts.

ing south on Westside and slid through the traffic light at the intersection on loose gravel. The right front of the Falcon Ford pickup driven by Gilbert struck the driver's door of the 1970 Chevrolet police car, according to Weldon Parson, highway patrolman called to make the accident report.

Control Smoking The Proven Way

A new organization came into being recently, dedicated to unchaining cigarette smokers from their harmful, costly habit.

If the philosophy of Smoke Watchers could be said to have a cornerstone, it would be: social pressures made you start smoking; social pressures must help you stop.

They believe the subtle but extremely powerful pressures exerted by other people will make you want not to smoke.

A typical Smoke Watchers meeting resembles a Weight Watchers or Alcoholics Anonymous gathering. Each member of the group relates what his experience with tobacco has been, how successful his efforts were the preceding week, and his goals for the following week.

The group comments on his campaign, and makes suggestions for improvement. As the meetings progress, each member finds himself being pushed gently but ever more insistently by the group's will.

A psychological situation develops where each person seeks to win the group's applause. He must keep moving toward success to maintain his social standing.

Smoke Watchers developed a "partner system" that operates in conjunction with the weekly meetings. The partners set up a mutually convenient time for talking to each other once a day.

They discuss their smoking quotas, the problems they have come up with in relation to smoking, especially if one has exceeded his self-imposed limit.

Once in a while, they review each other's reasons for wanting to be a non-smoker. This step reinforces a positive attitude toward the campaign--the idea that it's not "quitting" but moving toward a better life.

Analyzing the particular activity a smoker finds himself involved with when he lights up is an important element in the program. The specific activity is considered a habit and must be attacked as such.

For instance, the early morning coffee cigarette: in order to break this one, some other positive action must be substituted--a change to tea or another drink or munching on a biscuit, roll or cookie with the coffee helps eliminate the semi-reflex movement of lighting up.

To break the telephone cigarette habit, Smoke Watchers suggests doodling on a pad or changing the physical position normally adopted while phoning.

There are 15 common cigarette habits and substitute activities that are sure to lead to breaking the smoking habit.

Once down to the zero line, the smokers organization says the chances of staying off cigarettes is good. The smoking habit has been unlearned. The habit of nonsmoking is impressed forcefully and permanently, making for a habitual nonsmoker.

This nonsmoker has earned years of extra life expectancy, new health, new bounce and a bite, a whole new living experience: a set of gifts that absolutely cannot be priced.

DORIS ASHLEY, LHS trackster, poses with the numerous trophies and ribbons she has won in her career as a runner. She recently broke state Amateur Athletic Federation record in the 100-yard dash, with her

Doris Ashley Breaks Record

Doris Ashley, Littlefield High School track star, competed in the state Texas Amateur Athletic Federation Invitational Meet in Abilene July 15.

While qualifying for the 100-yard dash, she did not let the thought of next week's leg operation effect her performance when she broke the state TAAF record in 11.0.

Later that evening she came back and won the 100-yard dash in 11.4 and placed third in the 220-yard dash in her lifetime best of 26.0.

Her goal is now 10.8 in the 100 and 25.5 in the 220.

She expressed her appreciation to Littlefield citizens in giving her support in this summer's events.
