Plans Complete for Red Cross Roll Call

Annual Membership Drive Starting Nov. 11, Ends Thanksgiving—Solicitors Named

Annual roll call membership drive by Wheeler chapter of the American Red Cross is scheduled to start tomorrow, Armistice Day, and come to a close Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 24, announces Chester Lewis, who last week assumed the duties of roll call chairman for this year.

Again, for the duration of this campaign, the Red Cross comes with an appeal for membership dues to finance its work for the coming year. Fees, in four groups, are: $1.00, annual; $5, contributing; $10, sustaining; $25, supporting. Only 50 cents of any of these sums is remitted to the national organization. The remainder stays within the Wheeler chapter area for local work.

Thus none can charge the organization with taking any appreciable portion of dues out of the community, even though the small percentage sent to national headquarters is used for relief of suffering and hardships or promotion of wholly worthy means of avoiding or alleviating distress to humanity.

Chairman Lewis today announced his list of membership canvassers and the areas they are to cover, as follows:

Wheeler—North Main and east thereof, Mrs. D. A. Hunt and Mrs. John Hood; North Canadian and west thereof, Mrs. J. M. Lawrence and Mrs. Ernest Lee; South Shamrock street, Mrs. W. O. Puett and Mrs. Lonnie Lee; South Main, Mrs. H. E. Nicholson and Mrs. Joe Hyatt; South Canadian, Mrs. George Porter and Mrs. Bronson Green; west part of town, Mrs. Jack Badley and Mrs. H. M. Wiley.

West side of square, H. E. Young, Lonnie Lee; south side of square, Ansel McDowell, Bodie Cole; court house, W. O. Puett and Jim Risner. Methodist Sunday school, Dr. H. E. Nicholson, Baptist Sunday school, Clara Finsterwald, Church of Christ Sunday school, R. H. Forrester; Wheeler public schools, J. L. Gilmore.

Mobeetie—Oliver Elliott and Buck Scribner.

Briscoe—B. S. W. Jones. Allison—John Peeples. Kelton—C. C. Brown. Twitty—M. Braxton.

The chairman requests the various solicitors to see him at the earliest convenience for supplies and be fully prepared to make a prompt and thorough coverage of territory allotted to each individual or team.

Lewis also states that, with the assistance he hopes to receive from the corps of assistants named, he expects to obtain a membership for this chapter of at least 225. Last year's total was 143.

Aged Wheeler Woman Passes Away Friday

Mrs. Smith, Pioneer of Region, Dies After Extended Illness—Funeral Saturday

Mrs. B. J. Smith, 74, pioneer lady of Wheeler passed away Friday afternoon at the Smith home, southwest of town, following a long illness. She had been confined to her bed for seven weeks.

Miss Mattie Hughes was born March 21, 1864, in Georgia and died Friday, Nov. 4, 1938, in Wheeler, Texas, at the age of 74 years, seven months and 13 days.

She was married to Benjamin Jiles Smith about 50 years ago. To this union 10 children were born, all of whom were present for the funeral services except Mrs. E. K. Waters, Houston. Mr. Smith proceeded his wife in death several years ago.

Mrs. Smith was a devout Christian and faithful member of the Church of Christ who took an active part in church and community work as long as she was physically able.

The surviving children are Mrs. O. L. Justice, Merkel; Mrs. W. E. Hanna, Nacogdoches; Mrs. Hiltbrunner, Shamrock; Mrs. E. K. Waters, Houston; Mrs. H. J. Finsterwald, Mobeetie; Miss Dessie Smith, Wheeler; E. H. Smith, Kilgore; Ellis Smith, Wheeler; W. R. Smith, Abilene; and Bonner Smith, Dumas. Also surviving are 29 grandchildren, five great-grandchildren, one brother, James Hughes of Louisiana, and one sister, Mrs. H. P. Hooper, of Temposon, Texas.

Funeral services were held at the local Church of Christ Saturday, with H. P. Cooper, pastor of the Shamrock Church of Christ, leading the song service. S. A. Ribble, former pastor, Shamrock, conducted the funeral, followed by interment in the Wheeler cemetery.

Another Try Tuesday at Fair Association

Few Present Saturday Postpone Organizing to Community Agri. Meet Tuesday Night

Although somewhat disappointed, yet undaunted, by the small attendance Saturday afternoon when it was planned to organize a Wheeler County Fair association, sponsors of the idea this week announced that another try will be made next Tuesday night. That is the date for a regular meeting of the community agricultural association, several members of which are also identified with the fair movement. Time of meeting is 7:30 p. m.

Saturday's decision to postpone action until Tuesday night resulted when a motion by J. M. Lawrence and second by G. W. Mason prevailed without opposition. Only a few persons met at the district court room in response to a notice that an effort to organize at that time had been given.

From the county agent's office it is learned that in addition to the proposition of perfecting a fair association, including election of officers and directors, discussion will be heard on the 1939 farm program and the referendum early in December.

A large attendance is urged at this meeting, which is open to the public, with people of this community in particular being especially invited.

Wheeler Girl Chosen Queen W. T. College

Miss Helen Gilmore Elected from List of 33 Entries Made in Canyon Home-Coming

Miss Helen Gilmore, well-known Wheeler young lady now teaching her first school at Westway in Deaf Smith county, was chosen queen at the West Texas State college annual home-coming, Canyon, Saturday. She was crowned queen of the ex-students in a gay and happy program Saturday night. She was selected from a list of 33 princesses nominated by exes living in various cities and towns.

Miss Gilmore is the daughter of Supt. and Mrs. J. L. Gilmore of the Wheeler schools, where she attended high school before her college work at Canyon. Both Mr. and Mrs. Gilmore are graduates of West Texas State.

Clay Thornton, Amarillo business man, was elected president of the exes for the coming year. Mary Alice Quattlebaum, Canadian, is first vice president.

A news release from the college publicity bureau gives the following account of the week end festivities:

The biggest, most colorful home-coming in the history of West Texas State college is in the books and plans already have been started for an even bigger occasion next year. Hundreds of former students came to the campus Saturday, elected a new president, crowned their queen, thrilled to a gridiron victory, and frolicked at an evening carnival.

The Buffaloes, tied at 7-all early in the fourth quarter, mustered their might and beat Sul Ross Lobos, 16 to 7, on the Canyon field. Blond Ann Pallmeyer of Memphis was crowned football queen.

Cousins Hall was crowded to the corners in the evening as costumed revelers celebrated amid western, Spanish, Oriental and tropical scenes. Two orchestras and a trio provided music. The Dixie Dice dancers of Amarillo and Bob Clark, magician-coach from Sayre, Okla., were special entertainers. Many college students contributed numbers, and more than 500 townspeople worked on various phases of the evening's entertainment.

Mr. and Mrs. Lamar Guthrie of Erick, Okla., came Monday to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lem Guthrie, and to bring Warren Mitchell of Wetumka, Okla., to spend the week here with his brother, Harley Mitchell, and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Guthrie.

Proclaims Nov. 4-11 American Legion Week

Governor James V. Allred, seated, is shown here signing the proclamation of American Legion Week, Nov. 4-11. At his elbow stands Fred E. Young, Texas' American Legion adjutant. The inset shows Vincent Chiodd of Houston, state commander of the American Legion. Young's father, Justice of the Peace E. F. Young lives in Pampa. The document reads in part as follows:

The congress of the United States having enacted a law, approved on May 13, 1938, making "November 11 of each year" a national legal holiday, "dedicated to the cause of world peace," such being a public holiday hereafter "in the same manner as New Year's, Washington's Birthday, Memorial Day, Fourth of July, Labor Day and Christmas," and

The American Legion—an organization composed of American citizens who received an honorable discharge from the armed forces of the United States of America engaged in the World War, whose termination became effective on Nov. 11, 1918—has called upon its membership of approximately one million in 11,458 communities in the United States and abroad to cause to be set aside the week of Nov. 4-11, 1938, as "American Legion Week" in commemoration of the enactment of said law, the signing of the Armistice and the 20th anniversary of the American Legion; I, James V. Allred, Governor of the State of Texas, do hereby accordingly proclaim.

The proclamation also recounts an extended list of public service activities engaged in by the Legion, concluding with its "Peace Through Preparedness" crusade for enduring peace.

Legion Post Planning Armistice Observance

Officers of Wheeler American Legion Post announce a modest local observance of Armistice Day, tomorrow, Nov. 11. On this, its 20th anniversary, Armistice for the first time is a national holiday, although it has been generally observed by ex-service men since 1918.

Assembling at the school grounds about 10:30, a parade headed by Legionnaires followed by school children will march to the court house square, arriving near 11 o'clock, at which time the assembly will stand for one minute in silent tribute to those who fell in the World War, the living heroes and the day.

At the noon hour, an army style dinner for ex-service men, will be served at the Legion hall.

SCHEDULE OF CONSERVATION MEETINGS IN COUNTY GIVEN

The county agent's office, late today, announced the following schedule of meetings for Wheeler county at which the proposed 1939 agricultural conservation program and substitute programs will be discussed and explained. They are:

Mobeetie—Monday night, Nov. 14.
Wheeler—Tuesday, Nov. 15.
Kelton—Wednesday night, Nov. 16.
Bethel—Thursday night, Nov. 17.
Pakan—Friday night, Nov. 18.
Lela—Monday night, Nov. 21.
Plainview, Tuesday night, Nov. 22.
Center—Wednesday night, Nov. 23.

All farmers are urged to attend these meetings and familiarize themselves with the provisions of any program that may be adopted.

WHEELER STORES CLOSING AT 11 O'CLOCK FRIDAY

Those who have shopping to do tomorrow (Friday) are warned that it should be done early in the day, because at 11 o'clock Wheeler stores will close for the remainder of the day. The action is a gesture of respect to the newly-designated national holiday, Armistice Day. It is also likely that a few of them will welcome the opportunity to get ready for the big Wheeler-McLean football contest, starting at 7:30 tomorrow evening.

Exempted from the closing order, signed by practically all other merchants in town, are the drug stores and filling stations, which of necessity must remain open to serve the public.

P.-T. A. Group Elects Officers Tuesday Eve

Misses Emma Lou Milam, Lois Kirby and Winona Adams were co-hostesses to about 60 members and guests of the Parent-Teachers association at the high school gymnasium Tuesday evening.

After an enjoyable musical program, a short business meeting was held to elect officers. Mrs. Dennis Reynolds was elected president and Mrs. C. Bryan Witt, treasurer. Mrs. Floyd Pennington is vice president and Miss Pauline Irons, secretary. The last two officers were chosen previous to Tuesday night.

Mrs. Reynolds and Mrs. R. J. Holt were elected delegates to attend the district P.-T. A. convention at Lubbock, Nov. 15 to 17.

Members of the executive board will meet at the high school building at 3:20 Monday afternoon.

MRS. CORNELIUS SURPRISED—BIRTHDAY DINNER SUNDAY

Mrs. J. D. Cornelius was pleasantly surprised Sunday when relatives and neighbors gathered at her home with a lovely dinner in honor of her birthday, which falls on Nov. 7.

Three guests, Mesdames Compton Pendleton, Harvey Patterson and Charlie Bradshaw, also have birthdays during November.

Attending were Messrs. and Mesdames W. L. Callan, Reuben May and children, Harvey Patterson and children, Charley Bradshaw and children, Chas. May, Ira Passons, Oliver Pendleton, U. B. Trayler, F. E. Barnes, Denver May and children, G. L. Wilson and children, Miss Emily May Lowell, and Carrol Pendleton, Johnny May, W. M. Pendleton, Wheeler, and Mr. and Mrs. Compton Pendleton and children, Pampa.

NEW OFFICIALS IN CHARGE OF LOCAL LEGION AFFAIRS

Elected a short time ago and assuming their duties without formal installation, the following new officials are now directing affairs of the local American Legion Post:

Aaron Williams, commander; L. L. Sides, vice commander; Dr. H. E. Nicholson, finance officer; Dr. Glenn R. Walker, service officer; Dr. V. N. Hall, sergeant-at-arms, and John Barr, chaplain.

There are also a number of other minor officers whose names and positions are not available for publication at the moment.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Anglin made a business trip Monday to Pampa.

Grand Jury Returns 18 Bills Indictment

Findings Reported Wednesday Night Include 7 Misdemeanors and 11 Felonies

Reporting late Wednesday evening, the grand jury operating in connection with the current term of district court, returned 18 bills of indictment. Of these, it was learned, seven are misdemeanor charges all against the same person. The 11 felony counts cover a range of subjects not disclosed and directed against parties whose names have not been released for publication.

Following its first report, the result of labors since convening Monday morning, the grand jury recessed until later in the term.

Court in session since Monday, was occupied with non-jury matters, such as divorce cases, motions and other legal proceedings. Judge W. R. Ewing, presiding, stated yesterday that out of deference to Armistice Day tomorrow, and nothing docketed for Saturday, adjournment would be taken today until next Monday when the first jury week, civil cases, will open.

Put juror names drawn for possible service are:

SECOND WEEK (Nov. 14)—W. F. Long, Carl Wright, C. A. Flynt, Birl Hight, R. L. Harding, H. H. Herd, Frank Fulfer, Gordon Roper, Harold Nash, Jess Crowder, Troy Burgess, H. E. Cole, L. L. Sides, John W. Gilliam, Geo. Kite, Albert Scribner, W. C. Hogan, J. F. Haning, W. H. Morgan, J. L. Smith, Cabot Brannon, Wallace Barrett.

Robert Lee, Sam McMurtry, Paul Stauffer, H. W. Weldon, R. D. Waters, J. S. Standlee, Henry Greenhouse, E. B. Robinson, W. J. Shaffer, W. H. Sewell, W. E. Higdon, L. K. Fields, C. F. Thompson, E. C. Smith, M. L. Johnson, A. A. Holcomb, J. F. Killman and G. L. Dale.

County Sends Several to Hardin-Simmons U.

Ford is Outstanding Football Star and Member of Quartet at Abilene School

Wheeler county is well represented at Hardin-Simmons university, with four young men attending, says a news release just received from there.

W. J. FORD

Enumerated by classes, Wheeler county students are: Neal Davis, junior, Kelton; Bobby Groves, freshman, Magic City; Jack Nichols, freshman, Shamrock, and W. J. Ford, sophomore, Wheeler. The latter has an outstanding football record as the H-SU Cowboy varsity grid team. Last week end he scored once in the 12 to 7 win over the Arizona State College Bulldogs, of Tempe, in a game at Phoenix.

Next week the Cowboys go to Los Angeles for their annual game with Loyola university.

Commenting on the year's prospects at Hardin-Simmons, founded in 1891, Dr. J. D. Sandefer, dean of senior college university heads in Texas who is beginning his 30th year at Abilene, says the freshman class is the largest in the school's history.

The student body enrollment includes undergraduates from 105 Texas counties, 13 states, and the foreign countries of Mexico and Brazil. Taylor county, with Abilene as county seat, leads with 266 students.

Post Office Closed Friday

Because of the holiday tomorrow, Friday, the general delivery window at the post office will be open for only two short periods, states Postmaster C. L. Lewis. The window will be open from 8 to 8:30 and again from 9:30 to 10 o'clock in the forenoon.

Crucial Grid Game Here Friday Night

Momentous Battle Between McLean and Wheeler May Change District Program

Football fans of this region are all agog over tomorrow (Friday) night's football game here between the mighty McLean Tigers and the determined Wheeler Mustangs. Much interest attaches because of the possibilities that a Wheeler victory would develop. The contest will actually be a deciding factor in the conference struggle for supremacy in the northern half of District 3B.

Loss of the game by McLean would produce a triple tie-up, involving the Tigers, Mustangs and Shamrock Irish. The latter two have each lost a game and tomorrow night's battle, as a fitting climax to Armistice Day observance here, may be McLean's Waterloo.

True enough, the Mustangs enter the fray as underdogs, with strong odds against them. But no ball game is won or lost until the final whistle. Every person in Wheeler and vicinity who ever heard of football, even, is backing the Mustangs, which helps a lot. They are playing on their home grounds, which also helps some more. And, finally, there are the "breaks" of the game; those sometimes queer and wholly unexpected things that knock expectations and predictions into a cocked hat.

Of course the "dope" favors the Tigers for a win, but "dope" doesn't mean so much after all. Wheeler has lost one game; McLean is undefeated—so far. Shamrock trimmed Wheeler, 19-6; McLean shellacked Shamrock. Wheeler defeated Lefors, 12-0 in the home corral; McLean apparently experienced little trouble in smearing Lefors, 39-7. And that's that.

The Mustangs will miss the help of Buford Emler, star fullback, who was released from a Shamrock hospital early in the week. He has been suffering from a bad wound in the back, sustained in a fall from a horse two weeks ago. It is highly improbable that Emler will don a uniform tomorrow night. In his absence, some changes in line-up will be made.

Stevens, husky center, goes to the backfield berth. Wright, powerful tackle, takes the center position. Either Adams, 200-pound reserve tackle, or Ford, a new-comer, will fill the tackle slot vacated by Wright.

The entire Mustang squad, with the exception of Emler, is in first-class condition, say reports. Coach Stina Cain and his able assistants, W. J. Murdaugh and W. T. Roach, have kept their charges at a stiff pace during the past two weeks, rounding them into shape for a supreme effort. Customers tomorrow night should be prepared for anything, including a smashing triumph by the Mustangs, who expect to display their merchandise.

Both general admission and reserved seat tickets are on sale at the City Drug and McDowell Drug stores in Wheeler. Early purchases will assure admission and convenient seating accommodations.

Wheeler Young Man and Pampa Girl Wed

Miss Elsie Driver of Pampa and Mr. V. H. Bowerman, Wheeler, were united in marriage Friday evening, Nov. 4, in Shamrock by Rev. S. A. Ribble.

Mrs. Bowerman has spent most of her life in Ada, Okla., where her mother lives. However, she has been making her home in Pampa with an aunt for several months.

Mr. Bowerman is the son of Mrs. J. M. Burgess and has spent a number of years in this county and at Amarillo. He is now employed by John Lewis, local garageman.

The young couple moved the first of the week to the J. A. Callan apartment on South Main street.

The Times joins their many friends in wishing them a long and happy married life.

DAUGHTER OF W. D. BLAIR INJURED IN CAR ACCIDENT

Word has been received by W. D. Blair that his daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Brothers, and little daughter were in a car wreck near Fort Worth either Sunday or Monday night in which a sister-in-law of the couple was killed and her daughter received a broken leg.

While details are lacking, the meagre information at hand states that Mr. and Mrs. Brothers and daughter escaped with minor injuries. The sister-in-law was also named Brothers, the first name or initials not being available at this time.

MORE RECESSION NEEDED

Recession, as used here, does not refer to business conditions. Deep-recession has always been the word for that whether in 1929-30 or in 1936-37, and the further we have gone the deeper we have gotten into the morass of scarcity—of money, employment, commerce, food-stuffs, clothing—everything except taxes, which have steadily mounted.

Yet taxes have not been the only burden. There's the starry-eyed "experiments" of a program of government interference in every field of activity, restrictions and regulations that have aggravated an already perilous situation for the nation and its citizens, some of whom still retain a spark of pioneer independence and pride which makes the thought of "made work" or a role highly objectionable.

Now, at long last, a ray of hope appears in the enshrouding gloom of deep-recession.

President Roosevelt, in a fireside chat last Friday evening, said among other things that "the new deal is keeping its feet on the ground in working out hundreds of current problems and is doing it without attempting to commit the nation to any 'ism' or ideology except democracy, humanity and the civil liberties which form their foundations."

He likened modern industrial and agricultural society to a large factory with its conveyor belts which must be kept moving, a fact realized by dictators and accomplished by them at a terrible price to the individual and his civil liberty.

"The new deal," Roosevelt declared, "has been trying to keep those belts moving without paying such a price."

"It is the new deal that does not wish to run or manage any part of our economic machine which private enterprise can run and keep running. That should be left to individuals, to corporations, to any other form of private management, with profit for those who manage well."

The foregoing pronouncement is apparently at great variance with the program pursued by the administration heretofore. If it can be taken at face value with liberal interpretation it will afford the greatest encouragement to recovery of any proposal since F.D.R. took office.

RIGHT KIND OF REFORM

It is said in some responsible quarters that few legislative bombshells will be exploded in the next congress. Government officials, it is rumored, have at last discovered the danger of proposing one piece of experimental legislation after another and are now more than ever as eager as they were to propose new and extraordinary reforms affecting industry, agriculture and labor.

If that is true, it's time for honest reform. For nothing can so imperil recovery and the attainment of a sound economy as a chaotic and unpredictable policy on the part of the federal government. No man is willing to risk his savings in productive industry when he doesn't know from one day to the next whether a new law, a new tax, or a new administrative decision may destroy them. No man can look forward with optimism.

STILL FIGHTING FOR DEMOCRACY and faith to the future when his government takes an inhumane attitude toward those businesses which employ our workers and produce our national income.

The next congress would be wise to pay more attention to correction or repeal of questionable laws than to passing new ones. It could do the country yeoman service by eliminating such recovery-blocking enactments as the undistributed profits tax and the capital gains tax, and by overhauling the unfair, unworkable Labor Relations act—an act which has perhaps done more than any single piece of legislation to create and maintain industrial strife in this country.

The principal kind of reform needed now is reform of a lot of crackpot legislation passed during the last few years.

CAUSE FOR CONGRATULATIONS

Good citizens of Dentley county and the nation will applaud that self-control exhibited so markedly here Sunday night when under stress of revolution a shocking crime against a respected woman, there was every co-operation with the officers of the law in ferreting out, arresting and holding secure a negro, with no attempt at mob violence.

Law is still supreme among our splendid citizenry.—Clarendon News.

MOST DANGEROUS PLACE

Believe it or not—the most dangerous place you can be in at home! According to the National Safety Council, the principal causes of deaths from home accidents last year were divided as follows: falls, 17,500; burns and explosions, 5,500; poisonings, 1,700; firearms, 800; mechanical suffocation, 1,000; poison gases, 1,100. The grand total was 32,500 deaths—90 out of a 100 of which were unnecessary and could have been easily prevented.

The Red Cross, in company with other safety organizations, has been carrying on a drive to awaken the public to the danger of home accidents, and to show how hazards may be easily removed and avoided. Take a look around your own home. Is there a loose rug at the top of a staircase? It may easily cause a fall that will result in long agony in the hospital, or death. Can unlocked medicine cabinets be reached by children? If so, they are in imminent danger of fatal poisoning by such a common first-aid accessory as iodine. Are guns kept unloaded and out of reach of amateur hands? You can think of many more such vital safety questions. When you do, answer them at once—and not by guesswork but after a rigorous investigation of every room in your home. And once you've eliminated hazards, keep them eliminated. Remember that a home that is safe today may be filled with dangers tomorrow.

Keep safety in mind at all times—if you want to keep your name and the name of your loved ones off the future lists of home accident victims.

CHRONIC DEFICITS

Chronic deficits mean but one thing—insolvency. And whether it concerns an individual, a business or a nation, insolvency denotes ruin, inexorable and final.

The federal government has not balanced its budget for nearly a decade. It has reached the "chronic deficit" stage. The politicians, although they feel that it is dangerous to try to seize any more of the people's wealth in the form of taxes, cannot resist the temptation to spend more and more borrowed public money on the plea that the country is wealthy and need have no fear of a huge debt! Such a plea is utterly false. It is an insult to the intelligence of the American people.

Of course the country is wealthy. If it were not, the squandering of tax-payers' money would have wrecked it long ago. But this wealth admittedly cannot all be confiscated in the form of taxes to pay the debts of government. The extreme limit of this kind of seizure has about been reached—hence government tax income is nearly at the maximum until the day when more wealth is created.

The only alternative is to decrease expenses, if insolvency of the federal government is to be avoided.

"GIVING US THE MOST"

Works Progress Administrator Harry Hopkins has rendered service of incalculable value in the discharge of his special duties, but his political and economic deliverances have appalling implications.

When Hopkins was on a tour of WPA projects in Minnesota he publicly declared that "there is nothing wrong in supporting the political group that will give you the most."

Give you the most of whose money? Of your own, of course.

Billions of federal money have been spent throughout the country, but the national debt is the highest in the nation's history and so are federal taxes. The next congress is, moreover, expected to put more taxes or higher taxes on the people and millions of persons now exempt may be added to the income tax rolls.

Hopkins told his Minnesota audience: "The public is demanding more and more service from its government and should elect candidates who will give it to them."

One of the best ways to realize what it means to elect officials who will "give us the most" is to localize the matter.

If a certain political group in Minnesota or in Arkansas asked for election on the ground that its administration would spend the most money out of the state treasury, or out of a county or a city treasury, everybody would, of course, realize that this group was simply pledging itself to levy higher taxes on the people or to load heavier debt on the state or the county or the city.

There is no difference. The federal administration that "gives you the most" is the one that has got to contract the heaviest public debt and either levy the heaviest taxes or make it necessary for the next administration to levy the taxes needed to pay the debt.—Arkansas Gazette.

Morris Norman, 20-year-old smug, pretentious, Illinois negro in a jail cell in Amarillo, is today awaiting the outcome of an indictment charging him with criminal assault of a Clarendon white woman here last Sunday night. The attack occurred early in the night as the women, Mrs. T. Jones, 67, and her sister, Miss Cora Farris, 46, were returning home from church. Mrs. Jones was allegedly knocked unconscious by the negro who then attacked her sister.—Donley County Leader.

Sunday will be the last day of the two-week revival meeting at the Baptist Church, Rev. S. R. McClung, local pastor, has been assisted by Rev. E. T. Smith, pastor of the Shamrock Baptist church, who has been in charge of the services. Henry Morgan, Abilene, is leading the music during the meeting. Morgan was here in a meeting in 1936.—Ochiltree County Herald.

Reporting a net profit of $196.76, Ernest Medkief, chairman of the Lions Carnival, this week said that the carnival grossed $306.27, and that expenses for the carnival ran to $110.51. The carnival operated three nights, Oct. 27-28-29. Forty per cent of the net proceeds will be given to the band toward purchase of new uniforms, and the remainder of the money will be used to benefit charitable causes from time to time.—Hereford Brand.

A marble shaft was unveiled in Austin Saturday, Oct. 29, a memorial to the pioneers and builders of Texas. The movement was sponsored by the Texas Historical and Biographical Record organization of which E. E. Bailey of Austin is secretary. Names of Panhandle men appearing on the monument include: Charles Goodnight, Mose Wesley Hays, Mark Huseby, W. C. Isaacs, C. T. Herrington, A. J. Long, J. T. Sneed, J. M. Shaw, and Sam Isaacs.—Canadian Record.

Allan Engleman, Pampa, left Tuesday for Dallas where he has accepted employment in the advertising department of the S-W Bell Telephone company. For the past year and a half, Allan has been employed in the advertising department of the Pampa Daily News except for a few months spent in the home office of the chain of papers owned by the Holmes Syndicate at Santa Ana, Calif. The Pampa News and the Clovis Journal are members of the chain.—Tulia Herald.

The men's chorus of the First Baptist church of Miami accepted an invitation to sing at a brotherhood meeting held at the Calvary Baptist church, Pampa, Tuesday evening. Rev. H. B. Jim Stell, butcher boy and weather prophet, gets off some pretty stiff prognostications occasionally. For instance this week Prophet Stell predicted snow before this area would receive an inch rain. And then he laid a wager that freezing weather would prevail between the hours of 12 noon Nov. 12 and the same hour Nov. 13. According to several other wagers the prophet placed we're in for some bad weather soon—or else Jim is.—Quitague Post.

Kenedy county, Texas, is the only one of 699 counties in the seven states in the PWA fifth region that does not have a PWA project. This county is largely devoted to ranching and has a total population of 701. The PWA projects have become an integral part of the community life of most every section. The question that confronts us now is how the change may be made back to normal employment when the federal government decides to close this department.—McLean News.

Henry Wallace, in a recent speech, said that it was no worse to lean upon a golf stick than a shovel. That goes to show what Wallace knows about golf sticks and shovels. Even the youngest caddy on the course knows that one can't lean on a golf stick, and if he could, who would take such chances with a $7.50 club?—Foard County News.

Reports are that the Nellie Kute-man, No. 1 Hedley's oil test well, is drilling between the 3,700 and 4,000 foot level today, with fair hopes of striking oil. Geologists and interested local citizens are watching this test very carefully now, and there is general hopes of rapid development if a fair showing of oil or gas is reached in the Kute-man test.—Clarendon News.

South Wind Car Heater
 MORE HEAT—FASTER! That's what car owners want in these days of modern winter transportation; when driving is no longer just a luxury, but a necessary part of business and personal welfare. The modern motor car should be equipped with the new South Wind Car Heater which operates on a new and different principle—by using small quantities of the excellent motor fuel, gasoline, already at hand. It is under perfect control and safe at all times, because it has its own sealed vacuum combustion chamber. It manufactures its own heat quickly—large volumes of it—dependent of engine temperature or speed. Let us demonstrate this new winter necessity.

Stubble Grazing Is Dangerous

Stubble left on a field when the crop is harvested furnishes protection from wind erosion if not overgrazed. Too much grazing removes the protective cover of vegetation and trampling by livestock pulverizes the soil and permits blowing. Upper picture shows a stubble field being overgrazed. Bottom picture shows an overgrazed field which has suffered soil losses and is becoming hummocked.

Many farmers in the so-called Dust Bowl have a protective stubble on their fields this fall for the first time since the drought period started, reports H. H. Fennell, regional conservator of the Soil Conservation service.

"Aided by generally better rainfall conditions and a more widespread use of soil and moisture conservation practices, these farmers have been able to produce a grain sorghum crop and now have a stubble on their fields which may be expected to afford protection against soil blowing during the period of high winds," Fennell states.

"During the winter of 1935-36, there were 6,086,000 acres in the so-called Dust Bowl which were contributing to dust storms. This winter, the potential 'blow area' has been reduced to about 1,150,000 acres. By wise use of their land, the farmers have been able to make this progress in eliminating wind erosion. Their problem during the approaching period of high winds is to maintain this gain," the conservator declares. "The greatest danger which menaces this gain lies in the overgrazing of these protective stubble fields. During the winter, stubble and stalk fields are an attractive source of forage and in many cases the temptation to use them to the fullest extent is too strong to resist. When too much of the protective cover of vegetation is removed and the surface is pulverized by trampling of livestock, the field becomes a 'blow hazard' which may damage other fields throughout the area."

The maintenance of sufficient crop residue to hold the soil in place against the action of wind and water is an essential part of good farming, it is pointed out.

The question uppermost in the minds of farmers having stubble and stalk fields containing available forage should be "How much of this residue is needed to hold the soil in place?" rather than "How many head of livestock can this forage support?"

The answer to this question varies with local conditions as determined by the amount of stubble or stalks available and the kind of soil.

When the stubble is insufficient because of a poor crop, the safest plan, farmers have learned from experience within recent years, is to keep stock off the field entirely, especially where the soil is sandy. However, when an excess of forage is available it can be utilized economically for livestock provided it is not eaten close enough to expose the soil to blowing.

TO ALL FRIENDS AND FORMER PATRONS:

I wish in this manner to express my sincere appreciation for the patronage given the Walsler Service Station and Grocery while under my management. The long service and pleasant business relations existing with people of the community will not be forgotten. I have disposed of the business to W. A. Purnell, whom I believe is honest and capable and recommend the continued patronage of this new owner by all by former customers.

H. H. WALSLER.

GREETINGS, CUSTOMERS AND FRIENDS:

In taking over the management of the former Walsler Service Station and Grocery, I do not come as a stranger to the community; I am acquainted with many if not all of you. And now in the new capacity as operator of this business, I hope to learn to know you still better. It shall be my constant aim to serve you satisfactorily at all times, and I solicit the opportunity of supplying your wants so far as my facilities permit.

Movie Chatter

By a Rogue

"Man from Music Mountain" News from the Rogue everybody will be glad to hear. Gene Autry our No. 1 cowboy, rides and shoots and fights again in "Man from Music Mountain," a story more modern than most western pictures. The Boulder Dam water and power lines to surrounding communities form a background for this picture. Along with Autry is "Frog" Burnette, and as an added attraction, Polly Jenkins and her Playboys.

"Marie Antoinette" For the preview, Sunday and Monday show we offer the public one of the finest pieces of screen merchandise that has ever been produced. "Marie Antoinette" has an historical setting, but it is not intended as a study of history. It is simply a romantic, melodramatic and tragic love story of a woman—a royal maid who became a queen, but was always a woman who loved and was loved, hated and was hated. This production is truly a frank, honest and moving human document.

The great screen star, Norma Shearer, plays the part of "Marie Antoinette," her true lover is a foreign count (Tyrone Power), but she marries a dull-witted clod who became the King of France.

If you miss this, you will miss one of the greatest productions of moving pictures.

"Boys' Town"

Cold black type alone cannot begin to describe the treat the Rogue has in store for you Wednesday and Thursday. M-G-M has co-starred Hollywood's No. 1 screen star and the academy winner of 1938 in a sensationally true story of juvenile regeneration.

Mickey Rooney, playing the part of Whitey Marsh in "Boys' Town," comes to the place a thoroughly bad yegg sneering at the ideals of "Boys' Town." Spencer Tracy, playing the part of Father Flanagan, the real father of Boys' Town, makes every effort to change Whitey's opinion of law and order—which he finally does in a way that would make you wonder if there ever was a boy who was "all bad."

BROADWAY DARLINGS

Broadway blazed with the brilliance of the season's smartest opening. Myriad lights from the theatre marquee proclaimed the occasion:

Sixth Anniversary Performance
Gwen Marlowe and Ernest Lane
In
"SWEETHEARTS"
A Felix Lehman Production

Gwen Marlowe and Ernest Lane! Their names spelled rapturous romance to millions of theatre-goers. Their elopement and marriage on the opening night of the play had made them the darlings of the theatre world! Six years of playing their "Sweetheart" roles on the stage had not lessened the splendor of their performance. Six years of being sweethearts in reality had not dimmed the fervor of their romance.

Tonight, Manhattan's smart set gathered once again to pay them homage in celebration of their sixth anniversary performance in "Sweethearts."

The evening spelled electrifying glamour and romance to those in front of the footlights, but all was not rosy with the great force that pulled the strings back stage.

Felix Lehman, the producer, was in a dither of despondency. "He's here again," he groaned abysmally to Dink, his press agent.

"Who's here?" demanded Dink. "That Norman Trumpett. That man from the Sam Silver Studios in Hollywood."

His voice grew husky with fear as he expanded on the possible consequences of Trumpett's visit. What had become of all the stars that used to be on Broadway? Trumpett had signed them up for the movies. What would become of Gwen and Ernest if Trumpett ever got his hooks into them? They'd go to Hollywood. After that? The deluge. "Sweethearts" would fold up like a tent.

And what was there to prevent this terrible catastrophe? Nothing! Felix had no contract with Gwen and Ernest. They could leave the show any time at all. They were his very own "kiddies" and theirs was a gentleman's agreement. They had promised to remain with "Sweethearts" as long as the show played to paying business—but they had made that promise six years ago. Maybe they'd forget about it if Trumpett started talking Hollywood at them!

At the moment, Felix's "kiddies" hadn't a thought of Hollywood or anything like it in mind. Gwen was hastily getting into her last act costume.

A note came whizzing under her door.

"Quick—Hannah—" she cried, and Hannah, her dresser, rushed to pick up the note. Gwen seized it with eager hands.

"Darling!" she read. "Six years with you are like six minutes. Six minutes without you are like six years. Ernest."

She kissed the note tenderly before placing it in a cupboard that held countless others like it.

"He sends you one every night after the performance," Hannah observed, shaking her head at the wonder of it.

"After matinee, too," Gwen laughed.

Kay Jordan, her secretary hurried into the room, her hands filled with letters. "What shall I do about these invitations," she asked. "Want to accept any of them?"

"Miss Marlowe regrets," Gwen smiled. "Miss Marlowe already has an engagement for this evening. And it's something pretty special, too. Miss Marlowe wouldn't give it up for the world!" She blew a light kiss at Ernest's picture on her dressing table.

Kay laughed. "I thought so. I just heard the same thing from Miss Marlowe's husband."

The call boy knocked at the door and Gwen hurried out to take her place on stage. At the close of the last act, she ran back and fell into a chair. "I'm dead, Hannah," she groaned. Then—"Quick—get me the old blue dress—"

In record time she was out of her costume, and make-up, and wearing the old blue dress, was knocking at Ernest's door. He flung it open. For an instant they paused taking in the gladsome picture of each other. He—in a worn gray suit. She—in her shabby dress.

"Darling," he murmured and folded her in his arms.

Gwen sighed rapturously. "Remember this dress?" she murmured. "It's six years old today. It was the something blue."

He nodded and pointed to his suit. "The groom, I recall, wore gray."

"It was funny, wasn't it, darling—sneaking out of the last rehearsal to get married?"

"It was a very good way to get married," he answered solemnly. She threw her arms about his neck and kissed him roundly.

"Any complaints, Mrs. Lane?" he asked.

"I certainly have, Mr. Lane."

He drew back in surprise.

"Oh, it's nothing personal," she reassured. "But we never have time to ourselves."

"We certainly don't," he said grimly. "And from now on, beginning tonight, we're going to do something about it."

She clapped her hands. "Where are we going?"

"Where do you think?" he teased. "Angelo's!" she cried. "Oh—wasn't our wedding supper wonderful?"

"Swell!" he beamed. "That's why we're going there tonight."

"Oh, Ernest! Just think of it! We'll be all alone—"

"And nobody will know us—"

"And nobody will ask us to sing—"

"And we won't have to get up—"

"And there won't be crowds of moonstruck women climbing all over you for autographs—"

"My kiddies!" beamed Felix, his eyes wet with gratitude.

Gwen and Ernest sighed. Fled and gone was the beautiful evening they had wanted and planned. Dutifully, they followed Felix back into the theatre and made their way to their dressing rooms.

They emerged, not too long afterward, sleek, slick, glamorous, stunning—the Gwen Marlowe and Ernest Lane whom Broadway loved and cheered. Ernest escorted her gallantly to their car.

"The Mirabeau," he told their chauffeur, wearily. He reached toward the radio. "Shall we see what's going on in the rest of the world?"

She nodded. "Please. Nobody plays the radio as well as you do."

He turned the dial. Out sang "Sweethearts" played by a swing orchestra.

"I think I've heard that number," she observed pleasantly. "Do try another station."

He sighed. The second attempt their paces, broadcasting the entire show, posing for photographs, giving press interviews, signing autographs—in short, playing once again the roles that had become anathema to them: Glamorous Gwen and Thrilling Ernest, the Darlings of Broadway.

In a flash he realized the right tactics to pursue if he hoped for success in signing them up for pictures. The glory of movie fame would never appeal to them. What they wanted was peace and quiet.

The story to tell them should be about Golden California, the land of sunshine, orange ranches, open spaces, leisure and swimming pools.

Norman managed to drive them home in his car. He told them that story in such a way that by the time they arrived at their house, he had all he could do to refrain from reaching for a contract and a fountain pen.

"Oh, thank you so much, Mr. Trumpett," Gwen smiled wearily as she and Ernest alighted from the car.

"And thanks for telling us all about Hollywood," Ernest said.

"It sounds so beautiful!" Gwen sighed. "Well—Good night."

Trumpett bowed. And his face, as he watched them mount the stairs, had on it the look of the cat that swallowed the canary.

Gwen and Ernest quietly turned the key in the lock. As they opened the door of their house a cacophony of sound roared down on them. They looked at each other in dismay.

"They're still up!" wailed Gwen. The door of the drawing room flew open and almost immediately Gwen's mother, her brother and her Cousin Augustus, and Ernest's Aunt Amelia and Uncle Sheridan pounced upon them.

"Come in, dears, come right in," Gwen's mother called.

"But Mother," protested Gwen, "it's too late!"

"Now, now. You mustn't think of us. You know we're never too tired to have a little talk with our children."

For a moment it seemed as if Gwen and Ernest would rebel. Then, with a shrug, they accepted their lot. Cousin Augustus made a leap for the piano, pounding out a march for their entrance. Within five minutes

"They're here!" shouted Felix, and the entire assemblage burst into cheers.

"And there won't be any orchestra playing the songs from 'Sweethearts'—"

"And we'll be alone," she murmured, her head on his shoulder.

"And we'll be together—" he kissed her cheek.

"And it will be quiet," she whispered. "It'll be peaceful—it'll be heaven—"

"And our families won't be anywhere around—"

"Well—then—come on—let's go—"

Hand in hand they all but ran down the corridor leading to the stage door. A sudden voice called out to them!

"Children!"

It was Felix.

"Children!" he called in a voice of liquid sweetness. "Why, where are you going?"

"Out," Ernest announced blandly. "Good night," Gwen amended pleasantly.

"But children!" Felix grew pale. "You can't go out this way. You're supposed to come to the party."

"What party?" Gwen asked flatly.

"My party," explained Felix. "Just one little table at the Mirabeau."

Ernest patted him on the shoulder. "Sorry, old man. But we've got another date."

"Thanks for asking us, Felix," Gwen said sweetly.

"Look—no—listen—" Felix spluttered. "You've—why you've got to come. We've been planning this for weeks."

"We do not got to," Gwen answered firmly. "We've been planning this for a year."

"Look here, Felix," Ernest said firmly. "We're not going to get dragged into anything tonight. I'm putting my foot down."

"And I'm putting mine down, too," Gwen cried.

Felix looked up at them with sad eyes. "You don't have to put them down on my heart, do you?" he asked pitifully.

Gwen threw her arms about him. "Felix! Don't talk like that."

"I'm sorry," His voice broke. "It was just the—the disappointment that was too much for me. I'm an old man—and I don't have many pleasures." He smiled at them bravely. "But don't you mind. Just think of yourselves. Forget about me."

"Oh, Felix!" Gwen's voice throbbed with contrition. "We never forget you."

"No, no," he protested. "Don't think of me. Turn your back on the few old friends who want to share a little of your happiness. They don't matter. Because you're what counts. I'm glad you're being selfish."

"Now, just a minute, there, Felix," cried Ernest. "We never turned a back on an old friend in our lives."

"And you needn't think we're going to start tonight," Gwen amended with asperity.

"Of course, Felix," said Ernest sternly, "if you don't want us to come—all you have to do is tell us."

Gwen shook a finger at him. "Felix Lehman! If you try to keep us from coming, I—I'll put my foot down."

netted a Hawaiian band playing "Sweethearts"—the third "Sweethearts" by a Cuban Rumba orchestra. He snapped off the radio. "It's no use," he muttered. "We can't get away from it!"

"There's no escape," she wailed. "And it'll go on—and on—and on—just like this—unless—" she paused.

"You know, darling—that man from that movie studio in Hollywood—Trumpett—he's in town again. He sent us the sweetest little tree, all full of oranges and things—"

"Did he?" Ernest asked gloomily. "They say they have swell prize fights in Hollywood."

"Oh, what's the use," Gwen sighed. "Can you imagine our families? And what would Felix say?"

Ernest shuddered at the thought. "Felix is a sweet old thing at that," Gwen said tenderly. "We couldn't have disappointed him tonight—" The vision of the evening they had planned and wanted for themselves floated before her. "We really couldn't have," she hurried on. "Felix and you and me and a few old friends—we'll have a lovely time—"

The car stopped and the chauffeur flung open the door. Gwen and Ernest entered the Mirabeau. From the main dining room came the orchestral blare of "Sweethearts."

They glanced at each other in momentary dismay. Then with a shrug, they turned to the main staircase. Their faces flushed with rage as they looked into the dining room below.

A heart-shaped table, centered, took up the entire floor space. Surrounding it, glasses in hand, awaiting their entrance, were a hundred faces they knew well—journalists, society people, critics, publishers, actors from other Broadway hits, and the entire "Sweethearts" company—lock, stock and barrel.

"They're here!" shouted Felix, and the entire assemblage burst into cheers.

Just one table? A quiet little party? A few old friends? Felix had tricked them again! For a moment Gwen and Ernest were of a mind to turn on their heels and run. But the moment passed. With an inward groan of rage, they marched down the stairs, smiling their greeting to all and sundry.

CHAPTER TWO

THE PLOT THICKENS

What Felix actually staged at the Mirabeau was not a gathering of any kind. It was a hoopla affair—a gigantic ballyhoo for "Sweethearts," wired for sound on a coast-to-coast broadcast.

"It's the biggest publicity stunt we've ever pulled!" beamed Dink, press agent of the show.

Kay Jordan, secretary to Gwen and Ernest, glanced at their frozen faces. "It may be your last!" she warned.

Which was exactly the thought of Norman Trumpett as he watched them grit their teeth and go thru

"We don't broadcast tomorrow morning—we broadcast Friday evening," Gwen answered.

Kay turned in exasperation to the family in general. "They didn't give you my message that the broadcast had been changed because of the Fireside Chat Friday evening?"

"We can't broadcast tomorrow—we've got a matinee."

"You're slipping Kay," laughed Ernest. "I've a recording between one and two."

Gwen. "Why not Thursday—or Friday?"

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its busy and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-laxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up at night, leg pain, swelling, feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to get rid of excess poisonous body waste. They are antiseptic to the urinary tract and tend to relieve irritation and the pain it causes. Many grateful people recommend Doan's. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Advertising in The Wheeler Times Does Get Results

When a solicitor goes out from this newspaper office to sell advertising space, much greater assurance prevails if absolute proof of that commodity's effectiveness is available.

The paper itself has sampled the service sold to others to increase their business and found that IT DOES GET RESULTS. A recent instance will illustrate: Due to a combination of circumstances, The Times subscription list had quite a number of patrons who were in arrears—none for any great length of time.

These subscribers whose accounts had become overdue were invited through regular display advertisements—the same as is sold to merchants and others—to inspect the expiration date figures following the address name on their paper. That many of these valued subscribers to The Wheeler Times DO READ ADVERTISING is found in the fact that they renewed their subscriptions, several of them voluntarily mentioning the fact that they had failed to observe their expiration date until the matter was called to their attention through an advertisement.

No, not all those in arrears have responded as yet (although a number have shown their consciousness of the situation by informing the publisher that they will meet the obligation just as soon as possible), but the response has been sufficient to prove that WHEELER TIMES ADVERTISING DOES GET RESULTS.

Besides the results obtained by the paper itself, regular advertisers from time to time report satisfactory results—all of which sums up to this: The Times is the most profitable and result-getting advertising medium available in Wheeler and northern Wheeler County.

Kay menaced the entire family with a look. Each one started to explain at once. Aunt Amelia had arranged for Gwen and Ernest to appear at the Juliet Club Thursday morning—Mrs. Marlowe had promised them for a benefit Thursday afternoon—Friday, Uncle Sheridan arranged for them to play at the Thespians reception—that is, after they'd helped Cousin Augustus award diplomas at Brother's Dramatic School Friday morning.

"It's only this once," soothed Mrs. Marlowe.

"But it isn't this once!" Gwen cried. "You do this all the time. Every single day there's something—" she stopped short. "Oh, alright. You've made the promises and we'll keep them." She rested her weary head on Ernest's shoulder.

Home-Making Hints

Main Dish Meals

Now they're calling it a "main dish" meal.

No, it's not a new fad. It's just a more sincere name for the old favorite "one-dish" meal, that comes with salad and dessert, perhaps a hot roll and always a beverage, just as a matter of course.

It's a modern streamlined meal, planned to perform its task of supplying the family's food needs with the least possible friction. And "friction" applies to disturbance of the pocketbook, as well as strenuous effort in the kitchen.

Nearly every homemaker has her busy day specially.

If it's braised beef or pot-roast with vegetables, she has learned just how long before serving time to add the potatoes, onions and carrots. They always come out tender, yet unbroken with a bright inviting look. If it's shepherd's pie, the golden brown mashed potato covering is without lumps.

If it's corned beef and cabbage, the cabbage emerges from its 10-15 minute cooking period in whole, clear-cut, light green wedges.

The main-dish pattern is simple. First, there is a protein-rich food, usually meat or cheese, or perhaps fish or eggs. Then, there is a starchy food such as potatoes or a cereal in some form, corn or rice, macaroni or noodles.

Frequently one or more succulent vegetables are added, as well as onion, celery, parsley, and green pepper for seasoning. Tomatoes fit nicely into the main-dish pattern, supplying color, flavor, and liquid, as well as valuable vitamin C.

Ideally, the main dish presents a "balanced" meal. But the children should always have their milk, and frequently a crisp raw vegetable salad or a fruit dessert are also needed to round out the balance. The protein food, always found in a true main dish, is necessary for building and repairing body tissues; while starchy foods furnish calories at comparatively low cost. The succulent vegetables supply vitamins and minerals.

BACK TO FORMER DUTIES

County agricultural agents in many counties are relinquishing active administrative duties in connection with the AAA programs and are becoming members of the county AAA committee without vote.

It is believed that the change will occur in about two-thirds of 254 Texas counties by the first of the year. H. H. Williamson, director of the Texas A. and M. College Extension service, has said.

The farm act of 1938 provides that a county agent may either serve as executive secretary of the county AAA committee or become an ex-officio member of the group.

In keeping with the expressed views of the U. S. Department of Agriculture to the effect that farmers should assume a fuller measure of responsibility in the local administration of the AAA, many county agricultural agents are shifting from the position of secretary to that of ex-officio board member.

Administrative responsibility in these cases will be assumed by the AAA assistant, who will perform the duties of the committee secretary in addition to those he has held as treasurer.

"We want county committeemen and farm people to understand that it is our desire to render the greatest possible service to agriculture by building a stronger and more effective extension program and by aiding farmers to make use of the various federal programs in the most effective manner," Williamson said.

"The change in duties will enable our agents to carry a much broader program of work to the farmers in the county." County agricultural agents will continue to head up the AAA programs in the more sparsely settled counties, it was thought, since the employment of AAA assistants there would take a prohibitive cut from farmers' and ranchmen's payments.

"Come darling, let's call it an evening."

As they started out of the room they were stopped in their tracks by violent ringing of the door bell. Kay and the butler rushed to answer it. The doors swung open wide.

"Uncle Orlando!" groaned Ernest. And indeed it was! Uncle Orlando Lane returned from his unsuccessful tour of "Pirates of Penzance" but not alone. He'd come back to roost with his entire company!

Beaming with good-will, Uncle Orlando announced that the road had been unkind to him and his players and so they were all very happy to accept Ernest's and Gwen's hospitality until such time as they could manage the financial coup that would send them out on the road again.

Best Country in the World

In spite of the criticism of our country that we sometimes hear, the United States is the best place in the world to live today.

The liberties of many people in many lands are being curtailed or destroyed by dictators who have the power by simple decree to change the policies of their nations. Our bill of rights guarantees freedom of speech, freedom of worship, and many other individual rights, which neither state nor nation has a right to abridge.

I believe in these principles. I believe that any citizen should have the right to advocate peacefully any change in the policies of our government.

But when any man advocates the use of force, or a torch, or a bomb, or any other violent method of changing the policies or the principles of the United States government, I think he should be handled at once, and if he is not a citizen he should be deported. Any anarchist or any Communist who advocates any such methods should be deported at once.

Freedom of speech is a great tradition in America, but it cannot and should not be used as a cloak for disloyalty. It should not be the garb of protection for anyone who does not believe in the institutions of our land.

Pot Shots at Sport

(By AUBREY WARREN)

Of maximum interest to local fans, here and over the district, is the clash between the Wheeler Mustangs and McLean Tigers on the local gridiron Armistice night. Should the Mustangs win, it would throw the northern half of the district into a three-way tie—Wheeler, McLean and Shamrock with one loss each to their credit.

Coaches Stina Cain, W. J. Murchison and W. T. Roach have been sending the Mustangs through rigid drills for the past two weeks in an effort to whip them into top form. The entire squad is in first-rate shape, with the exception of Buford Emler, who was released from a Shamrock hospital early in the week. Odds are that Emler will not be in the game.

Shamrock takes on Wellington in a non-conference tussle. Wellington, riding the crest of a victory wave, has not been defeated this season and it is the opinion of many that the Shamrock Irishmen will not turn the trick.

McLean drubbed the Lefors Pirates last week in Lefors to the tune of 39-7.

Amarillo's Golden Sandstorm, paced by Bullet Bill Thompson, sided with a close call at Berger Saturday. The Bulldogs led the Sandies, 7-6, for three periods but saw their slim one-point lead vanish late in the final period when a Sandy pass was completed for a score. Amarillo won, 13-7.

Plainview and Amarillo, Pampa and Lubbock clashes are District IA highlights this week.

T. C. U. barely nosed out Notre Dame for first place ranking in the nation this week. In doing so, they took the highly touted seat of the Pittsburgh Panthers, who had occupied the perch for three consecutive weeks. Texas Tech placed 25th in the Associated Press poll.

Picked scores for this week—Pampa 7, Lubbock 21. Amarillo 13, Plainview 7. McLean 21, Wheeler 13.

Payroll, or Dole?

By T. C. RICHARDSON, Secretary
Breeder-Feeder Association

It makes a whale of a difference whether people are on the payroll or on the dole, and it makes just as much difference with livestock.

It may be necessary, sometimes, to go on a "drouth" ration, doling out just enough food or feed to keep life in the animal, but neither man, beast nor fowl goes long on a bare "maintenance ration" without losing something that cannot be regained.

If the ration is unbalanced the body must draw on its reserves for the deficiency elements, resulting in depleted vigor. If the ration is balanced—that is if it contains all the essentials—and is yet too skimpy, the result is worse, for it takes more to regain the loss than to hold normal growth in the first place.

Feed has only one purpose—to be fed. The worst possible disposition to make of it is to peddle it on a cash market for less than cost of production; the next most wasteful use of feed is to dole it out stingily or to feed it in the wrong way to the wrong kind of stock.

It takes a certain amount of feed to keep up normal body functions, and unless more is fed and digested there will be no gains in weight, no eggs, or no milk.

It is especially important at this time to keep turkeys on a full balanced ration until they go to market, and laying hens must have what it takes to produce eggs during the next few months, when the price is best. If all the elements of a good ration are not produced on the farm—and it is seldom that they are—whatever is lacking must be purchased.

The primary purpose of course is to sell home-grown feed to the best advantage, and the ration should be built around the feeds that are available. But it is not possible to get the best returns from one kind of grain alone, from carbohydrate feeds alone, or from any other unbalanced combination.

There is no excuse for haphazard feeding methods when the information can be had from county agents or from bulletins of the agricultural colleges which enable the feeder to work out a ration which uses as much as practicable of home grown feeds, and yet get the best results from their use.

Everyone now knows that a protein supplement makes corn or other carbohydrate grain go farther in pork production, and it is therefore economy to buy whatever is necessary rather than fatten hogs on corn alone.

The same principle applies in every kind of livestock and poultry. Growing and laying mashers are used by every good turkey raiser and egg producer, according to the needs of the fowls. To withhold either quality or quantity in feed is to reduce the profits in the long run, even if at the moment it saves cash outlay.

In these short sketches it is impractical to discuss details, or to lay out rations for general use. Such a variety of feeds is grown in the Southwest that it would take a book to explain their uses with various types of animals and fowls, and for the several purposes of breeding, growing, fattening, and egg or milk production, for which livestock is kept.

Every farmer must decide for himself how to best use his feed, and if he has not already learned how to figure a ration based on what he grows and the kind of livestock he has, he can secure the information by going to the right sources.

The F. F. A. boys and the 4-H club boys are learning these things in their daily work under vocational agriculture teachers and county agents, and they have made proud records in livestock and poultry production, which their fathers may well emulate.

On a Saturday night the manager of a prosperous department store in Philadelphia called into his office all his staff of clerks.

"We are doing a large amount of business," he told them, "but it is possible for us to do more. Many other businesses are running their stores on Sunday and are realizing a profit from it.

"All of you will report to work tomorrow morning just as you do on weekdays."

One clerk in the group objected. Sunday was the Sabbath and he felt he should obey the command of God in the observance of His day, and so told the manager. The manager talked with him further and offered him an increase in salary for the extra work he would do on Sundays.

Still the clerk was strong in his objections and said that he personally would not be at work the following day. Upon such decision, the manager paid him and told him not to report to work at all.

Several months passed, and a large bank in Chicago queried the Philadelphia store keeper to recommend to them a man for a position of trust. The Philadelphian recommended Stephen Jarrard, the man whom he had fired.

"But," objected the bank officials, "You fired him from your employ. Why do you recommend him to us?" "Jarrard went out of my employ because of principle," came the reply. "He has principle, he is a man you can trust."

Everyone admires the man who has principle, regardless of whether that principle is in line or in opposition with their own ideas.

Man in modern society, however, is developing more and more the cursed trait of running with the crowd, of doing that which is popular and that which brings about the least resistance. Leaders are not made that way. The criminal, everyone will admit, became a hardened fugitive from justice because he stood up against society.

Cannot Christian people become leaders and lights for Christ by standing up wholeheartedly for Christ in defiance of an indifferent world order?

MOBEETIE OUTLOOK

News of the Mobeetie Schools compiled by student & faculty members.

Carnival Clears Nice Sum

Everyone who attended the carnival held last Wednesday and sponsored by the Mobeetie schools, expressed the opinion that this was the most successful carnival in the school's history.

This success was due largely to the faithful work of the entire student body and faculty as a whole, the fine support of merchants and business men of surrounding towns and communities and of Mobeetie merchants.

Local merchants contributing to the array of prize awards were: Puckett's Grocery, City Drug Store, Brannon's IGA Grocery, Cicero Smith Lbr. Co., Burke's Grocery, Trimble Barber Shop, Holliday's Cafe, Crump Motor Co., Reed's Cafe, Mobeetie Shoe Shop, Farmer's Equity Station and Smith Bros. Gin. Nearly two score Pampa business concerns were among the contributors. The Wheeler Lions club was also represented and did its part toward the success achieved.

The bingo booth alone cleared $78. It was the booth for which merchants donated prizes.

"The Idaho Kid," a moving picture presented in the study hall of the high school building, cleared $18. It was shown with the school picture machine, purchased less than two months ago.

Other booths and stands, including the Dionne Quintuplets, dart board, fish pond, ringing the coin, rat o' chance, luncheon, etc., functioned equally well in bringing the total cleared to $210, from gross receipts of $306.

The students did their part, along with the business men here and of surrounding towns, in making this carnival the most successful and enjoyable of any for several years. The patronage of the business men was greatly appreciated by the school authorities.

Burch Family Reunion Sunday

Mrs. Alice Burch, who is nearing her 80th birthday, spent a very enjoyable day Sunday in her recently-completed home, about 15 miles northeast of Briscoe. Her only two children, an only brother, nine grandchildren and six great-grandchildren were present at this enjoyable event.

Those present were: W. A. Strickland, brother of the honoree; Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Burch and son, C. W. son and grandson; Mr. and Mrs. Otis Beck, granddaughter, all of Mobeetie; Miss Mittie Beck of Wheeler; Charlie Burch, who is on furlough from an army camp at Ft. Logan, Colo., and Raymond Stoneman of Banning, Calif., grandsons.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Sackett and boys, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Cooper and girls, Mr. and Mrs. Louie Keith and Miss Alice Burch, granddaughters and great-grandchildren, and Francis Flourtry all of Pampa; Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Stoneman and son, G. C., daughter and grandson, with whom Grandma Burch has made her home for some 30 years, and John Stoneman, brother of her only son-in-law.

Pictures were made in the afternoon despite the cold disagreeable day.

A feast was enjoyed and everyone reported a delightful time.

Asking a modern girl for a kiss is like asking an old-time bartender for a glass of sweet milk or a lemonade.

If your temper flares up and boils over because your cold motor won't start, don't blame your car.

Any engine in good mechanical condition will start provided that the gasoline in the tank is "hot" enough. And almost any good mechanic will tell you that high test Phillips 66 Poly Gas is "hotter'n a firecracker!"

Why? Because Phillips is the WORLD'S LARGEST PRODUCER of natural high test gasoline and offers extra high test without a penny of extra price. So try a tankful of this energy-packed, POLYmerized, custom-tailored gasoline.

You tip-toe the burton, and there is no missing... sputtering... or backfiring. What a kick! when your motor rolls over with no gnashing of teeth, purr-r-r-s into instant action, warms up fast. Besides, you save the miles usually wasted by excessive use of the choke with ordinary low-test fuels.

Your first set-to with a cold, balky motor will probably send you searching for a Phillips Gas Station... But why wait until you have starting trouble? Start enjoying faster starting tomorrow morning by getting Phillips 66 Poly Gas to-night, at any Orange and Black 66 Shield.

Authorities connected with the association say the public is not only cordially invited, but is urged to attend this meeting. The second one will be held at Wheeler later in the season, probably some time after the first of the year.

Officers of the association are W. C. Perkins, president; Clyde Brown, vice president, and Naomi King, secretary-treasurer.

Aged Grandfather of Local Folk Succumbs

J. M. Gunter, 86, Passes Away at Son's Home Near Plainview on Last Friday

Known to many people in Wheeler county where he made his home for some time nearly 30 years ago, J. M. Gunter, grandfather of Terrell Gunter and brothers and sister, passed away last Friday at the home of a son, H. L. Gunter, near Plainview, with whom he had lived for several years.

Deceased was born in Washita parish, La., in 1852 and died Nov. 4, 1938, at the age of 86 years. He came to Texas in early life with his parents, settling in Red River county. Later he moved to Erath county, where he met and married Miss Callie Isaacs in 1873.

To this union were born 14 children, eight sons and six daughters, all but one of whom, Lee Gunter, father of the Gunter children here, are still living.

Mrs. J. M. Gunter died 16 years ago, the son, Lee, passing away a month later.

Surviving children are: Mrs. G. P. Rumph, Fort Worth; Mrs. R. L. Hancock, Springfield, Colo.; Miss Emma Gunter, Anadarko, Okla.; Mrs. Marsh Watson and Mrs. J. A. Hope, Plainview, and Mrs. C. W. Johnson, Shamrock. The sons are H. L. Jeff, Cary and Emmet, Plainview; U. C. Olton; C. S. Hereford, and Harley Gunter, Conway. There are also 39 surviving grandchildren and 26 great-grandchildren.

Gunter was engaged in stock farming and moved to Wheeler county some 30 years ago, remaining for about 11 years. He then moved to Plainview, where he resided 19 years, remaining active up to the time of his death.

He was a member of the Baptist church, being converted at the age of 25. He had always lived his convictions, maintained high ideals for his children, and was rated a good neighbor and true friend. He was a member of the Masonic and Odd Fellow orders.

Funeral services were conducted at Plainview Sunday afternoon.

BIRTHS

TIMES WINDOW NOW HAS GENUINE CURIOSITY

Since yesterday The Times has displayed a genuine curio to the younger generation but an object said to be familiar to the older people. It is a pair of cotton "cards," hand operated devices of wood with wire facing and handles, operated by our grandparents to prepare cotton for spinning and other uses. They are shown through the courtesy of H. M. Lesser, who obtained them from Mrs. Thomas. The cards are said to be 125 years old.

Another attraction for the past several days is a beautiful bouquet of autumn flowers, saved after the first light frost and sent to the office by Mrs. Aaron Williams. Consisting of several varieties, the cluster is truly lovely and has elicited many compliments.
