Rev. Will Hogg To Preach Today In Eastland

EVANGELIST IN METHODIST CHURCH PULPIT

Big Crowd Expected Out To Hear Him This Morning and Seating Arrangements Made.

Evangelist Will Hogg, hailed as one of the two greatest evangelists in the United States (the other being Billy Sunday) is to speak in Eastland, in the Methodist church, Sunday morning. The service is scheduled to begin at 10:50 a. m. and it is expected that Mr. Hogg will begin his sermon at 11:10. As a very large number of people are expected out to hear him, special seating arrangements have been in an effort to find a seat for each person attending.

The Methodist church will seat 750 persons easily. Possibly an additional hundred may be cared for by crowding and by providing a few additional seats. It is anticipated these may not be enough to seat all who will wish to hear Mr. Hogg, so those who are most anxious to be in his audience are urged to arrive at the church early.

The Rev. Will Hogg is now conducting a revival meeting in Cisco and attracting hundreds from out of town. It is planned to send a caravan over from Eastland next Tuesday evening, the start being made from the Ranger Methodist church about 7 o'clock. All denominations are to be represented in this caravan and those wishing to go and being without transportation will be taken as guests of those having room in their cars if they will arrive at the church early and make known their wants.

Dallas Warehouse Damaged By Fire, One Fireman Hurt

DALLAS, Sept. 8.—One fireman was seriously hurt and damage estimated at $250,000 was incurred here early today by fire, which gutted the warehouse of the Hawkins Warehouse company.

Most of the loss was confined to groceries and a large stock of sugar stored in the building. Damage to the structure was placed at $10,000.

Italy Tires Of Dirigible Balloon

ROME, Italy, Sept. 8.—The government has decided to abolish the dirigible balloon as a weapon of warfare or a means of commercial transportation, it was announced today.

It was assumed that the decision was due directly to the disaster that befell the dirigible Italia on its recent north pole flight.

PRISON CODDLING

POTTSVILLE, Pa., (U.P.)—The people of America love their criminals too much, in the opinion of Judge Forrest R. Shanahan, of Berks county, and as a result "are threatening to defeat the very purpose of courts in imprisoning lawbreakers."

Judge Shanahan declared that the meals served in the average county jail and state prison are better than those served in the homes of a majority of the working men of the country.

He also cited one instance in which a prison has a radio installed for the use of prisoners in 50 per cent of its cells.

VIRGINIAN VS. BEER

AYLESBURY, Buckinghamshire, (U.P.)—Glyn Franklin Stewart, of Norfolk, Va., had never tasted beer.

He came to Aylesbury, famed for that beverage. He drank some. He went for a motor ride. Next day Stewart appeared before the magistrate on a charge of being drunk in charge of a car. He was fined three dollars.

"Not so bad, I thought I'd be jailed," remarked Stewart as he left the court.

NEXT CAMPAIGN FOR SALVATION ARMY IS NEAR

Chairman of Local Advisory Board Gives Brief Report Of Splendid Work Being Done.

BY MRS. W. K. JACKSON
Soon the time will be approaching for the Annual Appeal or Home Call for the year's up-keep of the Eastland Salvation Army Post.

The chairman of the local advisory board has advised faithfully during the past months with Captain Parham, in charge of both Ranger and Eastland Posts, and can state with fidelity that, at last, Eastland's Salvation Army Post is out of debt and "paying as they go," even though it is suffering right now on account of finances, which have been at a low ebb the past few weeks.

A great deal of relief work of a necessary nature has been given many cases in Eastland, and a reference to the books will show now and where these efforts were expended.

The little room in the rear of the Salvation Army hall was renovated, the interior covered with fresh muslin, and water and lights installed several months ago, and is now occupied by a good woman who has charge of the hall and answers inquiries when Captain Parham is not at the hall. The Salvation Army is in constant service for Eastland, and prepared to respond to any call.

The activities of the post have continued uninterrupted under Captain Parham's quiet but effective management. Each Wednesday evening at 7:15 a street service is held, followed by a prayer-meeting in the hall at eight p. m. Again, each Friday evening services on the street, and in the hall are held on Thursday the War Cry is sold by Lieutenant Morrison, assistant in charge of this station, and her sales are from eighty to eighty-five copies.

Sunday School is open and held at 10:45 a. m., and two jail services are held each Sunday. The general public may not know for care little what the jail services mean, but the inmates could tell you all about it.

Little children attend the Sunday School, whose parents would not send them to any church in town, for many are barefooted, have little or poor clothing and often heads that need attention. The average attendance at Sunday School is twenty. The average street attendance at services is seventy-five, and the inside services averages fifty.

In the band are seven instruments which help to make the earnest music that calls the passerby to the place of prayer.

The local Advisory Board will set the quota necessary for the Eastland post in the near future, and hopes to put the campaign on for funds by the middle or last of October.

Sincere regret was experienced over the departure of two of the most valued and capable members of the advisory board, Mrs. Clair McCormick, who now resides in Breckenridge, and Walter E. Jarrett, treasurer since organization of the local post, who now resides in Abilene.

Oscar Wilson accepted the post of treasurer, and, as he has had previous experience in this work, is not only in sympathy with it, but of great assistance to the post.

The advisory board is composed of Mrs. W. K. Jackson, president; Harold Smith, vice-president; Mrs. W. Z. Outwater, recording secretary; Oscar Wilson, treasurer, and Mrs. Scott W. Key, Mrs. C. U. Connelley, Charles G. Norton, L. J. Lambert, Senator H. P. Brelsford, Marshall McCullough, W. E. Davis and Judge T. J. Cunningham.

IMPERIAL TREASURER OF MASONIC SHRINE DIES

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 8.—William S. Brown, imperial treasurer of the Masonic Shrine of North America, died at his home here today after a lingering illness. He was 79.

Brown was elected imperial treasurer of the Shrine in Denver Colo., 30 years ago and he has held that office consecutively since that time. He was one of the most widely known Masons in the United States.

Miss Volstead And Her Fiance

Miss Laura Volstead, daughter of Ex-Congressman Andrew J. Volstead of Minnesota who introduced the prohibition enforcement act, and Carl J. Lomen of New York, are to be wed in October. Lomen, son of Judge and Mrs. G. J. Lomen of Nome, Alaska, is president of an Alaskan company which raises reindeer on a huge scale. Miss Volstead, a law graduate, is president of the Women's Republican Club at St. Paul.

Eastland Chess Club Is Started

Organization of the Eastland Chess Club was decided upon at a meeting of a few of this city's chess players in the Connelley Hotel last night. Green Hazel was made temporary chairman and named Ted Ferguson, J. M. Perkins and Scott Key a committee to report rules and regulations, which are to be discussed at another meeting to be called in a few days by Mr. Hazel.

It is understood there are a score or more enthusiastic chess players in Eastland. So far, eleven have indicated intention to enroll in the club. They are: Ted Ferguson, O. C. Funderburk, Joseph M. Perkins, Scott W. Key, Carl Springer, Oscar Wilson, Mark M. Norton, Ralph D. Mahon, W. K. Jackson, Green Hazel and Chas. G. Norton.

Piggly Wiggly Has Big Sale Pending

LOUISVILLE Ky., Sept. 8.—Negotiations are under way for the sale of 108 stores owned by the Piggly Wiggly corporation of Louisville to the Kroger Grocery & Baking Co. of Cincinnati, it was announced here today by L. W. Cole, president of the Piggly Wiggly corporation. The sale price probably will be more than $2,000,000.

COTTON CROP FORECAST HAS BEARISH TINT

It Is One Per Cent Higher Than Forecast of Month Ago, With Conditions Little Changed.

By United Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—The condition of the cotton crop on September 1 was 0.63 per cent of normal, indicating a production of 14,430,000 bales of 500 pound gross weight each, compared with a production of 12,955,000 bales last year the agriculture department announced today.

Total abandonment after July 1 was placed at 3.8 of the 46,695,000 acres in cultivation in the United States on July 1, leaving for harvest this season, 44,916,000 acres.

The department estimated an approximate yield of 153.9 pounds of lint cotton per acre, compared with 154.5 pounds per acre in 1927.

Today's production forecast was 14,800,000 bales, or 1 per cent more than the forecast issued a month ago.

Cotton prospects, the report said, are not materially different from what they were a month ago. In the central portions of the cotton belt, except in Louisiana, prospects have improved somewhat, but along portions of the Atlantic coast there has been too much rain and in western Oklahoma the crop has deteriorated as a result of drought.

Texas figures: Acreage for harvest, 17,316,000 acres. Condition of crop, 61 per cent of normal. Estimated production, 5,100,000 bales.

Class B Ships of Air Race Starts
Early Saturday

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Sept. 8.—Lee Schoenbar in a Buhl air sedan started at 7:18 a. m. today inaugurating the 1928 Class B national air race from New York to Los Angeles. Twenty planes were lined up following Schoenbar at one-minute intervals. Hardly had Schoenbar's ship cleared the field and faded into the distance when G. S. Holman of St. Paul started in his Laird biplane.

From the organization effected July 14 in Eastland, the committee has enlarged until virtually all assignments have been by counties. The working plan is to have one geologist in charge of collecting and placing all information upon one map for each county. It is these maps which will be exhibited Nov. 17.

A meeting of the Fort Worth district last week, of which H. B. Fiqua, Gulf Production Company, is chairman, revealed that preliminary map covering all counties in the Fort Worth district will be ready for exhibition in November.

John L. Ferguson, Amarillo Petroleum Corporation, Amarillo, reported that the direction of C. Don Hughes, had made all county assignments and had begun work on the Panhandle district.

Outcrop Tap Planned.
The compilation of an outcrop map of the Permian-Carboniferous exposures in Texas is one of three projects undertaken by the committee, which is under the general direction of Dr. Raymond B. Moore, University of Kansas, Lawrence. A detailed study will be made of the fauna of certain more important horizons and extended as far as possible thru Oklahoma and Kansas, and if possible in Nebraska, Missouri and Iowa; that is, all the states embraced in the Mid-Continent.

The third project is a detailed study of the Pennsylvanian sands and conglomerates, their origin, character and sedimentation, and the Texas Committee as its part expects to obtain a sub-surface geologist to undertake this work.

The cooperation of every geologist and paleontologist is necessary to ensure success, Mr. Plummer added, and the general committee invites correspondence and suggestions.

Pleasant Grove School Is Opened

The Pleasant Grove school opened Monday with good attendance. The opening address was made by Rev. Thompson of Eastland. Quite a crowd of patrons were on hand for the opening exercises. Other appropriate talks were made by Prof. J. M. Allison and two grade teachers.

The teachers are as follows: J. M. Allison, superintendent; Mrs. J. M. Allison, Miss Vickie Stone and Miss Clara Cook.

The youth began running away from home when four years old, staying from one to three days. Albert, who lives in East St. Louis, one time crossed the bridge between his home and St. Louis to "see if he could find Lindbergh," he told police.

of buff terra cotta, done in the new manner. Decorative figures, instead of being raised, are delineated by lines cut into the flat surface of the terra cotta.

Though the treatment proves usually attractive, this is not the only reason for its use. It permits decoration, where the New York building regulations forbid the use of projecting ornaments. Architects are finding it especially adapted for large buildings, below the level of the "setbacks" where projections would overhang the property line.

The simplicity of its construction also reduces building costs. It is predicted that the new style will soon be combined with multi-color treatments in such materials as terra cotta, adding to the beauty of buildings without greatly affecting their cost, and without violation of the strict prohibition of ornaments overhanging the sidewalks.

The Chanin Building, besides being the second tallest in New York City, is the third tallest in the world. Sloan & Robertson of New York are the architects.

Dallas Man Interferes In Quarrel Between Husband and Wife, Now Held For Murder.

By United Press.
DALLAS, Sept. 8.—A charge of murder was filed here today against Clarence Carter, 23, in connection with the fatal shooting of Hugh Martin, 24, in a fight at a party early today.

Two other men and three women all members of the party, were held for questioning by police. Carter was treated at emergency hospital for several stab wounds which he alleged he received while fighting with Martin. Members of the party said the fight was precipitated when Carter interceded after Martin had slapped Mrs. Martin while the party was en route after a supply of home brew.

Air Mail Service
Between Mexico-
U. S. Starts Oct. 1

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—Air mail service between the United States and Mexico will be started October 1, Postmaster General New announced today.

The Mexican government has advised that service between Mexico City and Nueva Laredo will be started on that date, so New has authorized simultaneous extensions of the United States air mail service from San Antonio to Laredo, where it will connect with the Mexican route.

This service will provide direct airmail connection between Mexican cities and the largest eastern cities of the United States, including those in between. It will be the most extensive international airmail service on this continent. Postage rates on all air mail articles to Mexico will be 20 cents for each ounce or fractional ounce.

ROWLAND AND DAKE LEADING AIR RACERS

Arrive At Pecos Almost Neck and Neck, But Former Ahead By Elapsed Time.

Many persons arose early in Eastland Saturday morning to see the passing of the 25 planes on a trans-continental race between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, but most of them appear to have followed a line further to the north. One plane passed over Eastland about 7:30 o'clock and another about 9:30 o'clock and a third was said to have passed about 11 o'clock, but none of these was the leader.

Earl Rowland of Wichita, Kansas, in a Cessna monoplane was leading by elapsed time late Saturday evening, but Robert Dake of Pittsburgh, Pa., in an American Moth, was pressing him close and even arrived at Pecos 25 seconds ahead. Elapsed flying time of Rowland Saturday morning was 14.14, and that of Dale 15.08 and Dale crept up on Rowland during the day only a little. Both flyers appear to be pushing their machines for everything they can get out of them and it is likely to be a close finish.

BEAUTIFYING CITY
How lovely to think of a city of trees, trees that overreach the street and lend their gracious shadow to home and sidewalks.

Trees that bring the birds, trees that one longs to sit under and just enjoy their leafy beauty, and best of all, trees to line the highways and make a lovely way for your motor ride and a restful setting for eyes that are jaded and hearts that are tired.

The Lions Club is starting a campaign to arouse civic interest in Eastland in a tree planting for two to five thousand trees which will be four to six feet in height and which the nursery will bring to the places designated and set in the ground without extra charge.

The handsome Chinese elm has been chosen. Should their plans come to fruition, Eastland will no longer have the dry and bright plains, which stand out without shade or relief, but will be a city of shade trees, such as were the first natural shelter for man.

Only man can move a tree, and transplant it.
"Only God could make a tree."

man Better Homes Committee.

HORSES.
The world knows that Texas ranks first in cotton, cattle and horses.

But we confess that just a day or two ago, we learned of the pre-eminence of this state in another particular.

The United States army buys
25,000 horses a year and approximately half of them come from Texas. San Angelo and Brady are the two principal places that the steeds are obtained. The horses are used in the artillery and the navy. The Texas horses are declared to be unequalled for army duty.

West Texas is a great region for polo horses, too. In the San Angelo Standard recently, an article told of Ben Strickland who owns 400 horses, all pool pony prospects, scattered over six ranches. In the last 12 months he has sold 250 polo ponies, the prices ranging from $250 to $1,000. He recently declined an offer of $18,- 000 for 18 ponies.

ALABAMA ADVERTISES.
A number of large cities have raised big sums for advertising purposes to attract tourists, new citizens and new industries. The idea has been enlarged and now we find that a state has launched an advertising campaign. Alabama appropriated $100,000 for four years of advertising.

Incidentally, the five commissioners, who serve without salary and pay their own expenses, decided that the amount appropriated was inadequate so they donated $20,000 each, thereby doubling the fund.

The results of the expenditure of $200,000 in making the nation better acquainted with the advantages of Alabama will be watched with great interest.

MINERAL WEALTH.
The mining industry provides the bread and butter for a number of states surpassing in value all other industries.

In one southwestern state during 1927 the output of the mines aggregated over $111,000,000, while, in comparison, its crops were valued at but $30,000,000.
Mines paid almost one-half of the state taxes.

The modern trend that is placing mining on a firm economic and financial basis, and is doing away with chaotic production and price fluctuations, means a new era of prosperity for many states. Mineral wealth is the underlying support for our modern civilization and labor-saving conveniences.

Before going out of the game in the middle of August with a sore arm, Pennock had contributed seventeen victories against six losses to the Yankee cause, for an average of .733, while Lefty Grove's fine average of around .750 has done much to keep the Athletics in the race.

Last season Pennock won nineteen games and lost eight, while Grove won twenty and lost thirteen. Pennock allowed the Pittsburgh Pirates only three hits in the third game of the world series to give the Yankees their third consecutive win by the score of 3 to 1.

Grove Cost $105,000
Comie Mack relieved the Philadelphia Athletics' treasury of $105,000 when he purchased Grove from the Baltimore Orioles in the winter of 1924. This sum represented the largest amount ever spent for a pitcher. The terms of the sale by which Grove went to the Athletics called for the money to be paid in annual installments for a period of 11 years. This eased the burden but the cash will be paid just the same.

Pennock has been in the American League for 14 years although he is only 32 years old. Comie Mack also introduced this star left-hander to the ways of the big leagues. Back in 1912 the high school nine of Kennet Square, Pa., had a tall gangling youth as pitcher who was winning games consistently. Following his school days he joined the Kennet Square Independent Club. Philadelphia newspapers began to carry stories of the eighteen-year-old wonder down at Kennet Square. Comie Mack was interested and one day he made a trip to the scene of Herb Pennock's boyhood activities and returned with a signed contract.

Pennock to Boston
It was not until 1914 that Pen-nock became a regular on the Athletic staff. Although a six-footer he was frail looking and weighed only 145 pounds. That year he won eleven and lost four and was a big factor in the Athletics winning the American League Pennant. Following that year, the Philadelphia machine was broken up.

In the spring Pennock was sent to Buffalo but was soon recalled by the Boston Red Sox. In 1916
Boston sent him back to Buffalo, only to bring him back in 1917. In 1923 the New York Yankees exchanged infielder McMillan and Outfielder Skinner and a big wa-of money for the southpaw.

When Lefty Grove came to the Athletics from the Orioles, he had a falling which is common among young twirlers breaking into the big show. He had a world of speed and a lot of stuff but he knew next to nothing about the science of pitching. Comie Mack and Ira Thomas tackled the job of revamping Grove's style. The experiment was successful. Grove is twenty-eight years old. He was born at Longacorn, Md., on March 6, 1900. He broke into professional ball with Martinsburg in the Blue Ridge League in 1920, and early in the season was bought by Baltimore.

Family Menu

BY SISTER MARY
BREAKFAST — Orange juice, cereal, cream, crisp bacon, common toast with apples, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON — Macaroni loaf,
Boston brown bread, shredded cabbage with lemon juice, rolled oats cookies, milk, tea.

DINNER — Fish chowder, scalloped tomatoes and beans, cum-ber and endive salad, rice and pear pudding, milk, coffee.

With the exception of the cum-ber in the dinner, there are no dishes suggested that could not be served to children as young as four years. The cabbage should be very finely shredded and served with plenty of olive oil with the lemon juice.

Rice and Pear Pudding
Four fine ripe pears, 1-2 cup rice, 2 cups milk, 3 eggs, 3-4 cup sugar, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, 2 tablespoons powdered sugar.

Wash rice through many waters and cook in slightly salted boiling water for 20 minutes. Let water cook away as much as possible without burning rice. Beat 2 whole eggs and one yolk until very light.
Add sugar, milk and vanilla and continue beating. Add rice and mix well. Pare pears, cut in halves and remove cores. Arrange cut side up, in a buttered baking dish.
Pour over and around rice custard. Bake in a moderate oven until rice is firm to the touch. It will take about 40 minutes. Beat remaining white of egg until stiff and dry. Beat in powdered sugar.
Cover pudding with this mixture and return to a slow oven to puff and brown the meringue. Serve

Two Hundred Schools Sign For Places In Interscholastic League, 1928 Season

AUSTIN.—Although the closing date for Texas high schools to sign up for participation in Interscholastic League football for 1928 is October 1, two hundred schools have already filed acceptances, according to Roy Bedichek, chief of the University of Texas League Bureau.

"This is the ninth year of the League contests in football," said
Mr. Bedichek, and the early enrollment indicates a total registration which will exceed the number of schools who participated last year. There were 325 schools in the League conferences last year. The championship went to Waco's team, which defeated Abilene in the finals by a score of 21 to 14.

Only one new rule has been added to the football plan, as announced by the League Bureau.
That rule, number 21, refers to the collection of five per cent of the interdistrict receipts by the State Office to maintain a fund for investigating eligibility questions and to supplement printing, salary and office appropriations relating to football. This rule, was approved at the annual state meeting of delegates in May.

Eligibility Rules.
The special eligibility rules refer both to the coach and to the contestants. A football team is not eligible to enter the Interscholastic League whose head coach is not a full-time employee of the school board of the school which the team represents. "Full-time," Mr. Bedichek pointed out, means full-time for the whole scholastic year. As for the contestants, no contestant in football who has change d school systems during the past year is eligible if he was ineligible when he withdrew from the former school. In addition, he must file with the State Office a transfer's certificate from the superintendent or principal of his former school.
One of the conditions of the certificate is that, in the opinion of the superintendent or principal, the parents or guardian of the contestant were not induced to make the move by payment direct or indirect of any valuable consideration for the athletic services of the contestant.

The state is divided into eight Conference A districts and 28 Conference B districts. Any district shall be disqualified in the state race if a team which has won a Conference game with an ineligible player is certified as district champion to the State Office. Such disqualification is to be made only upon presentation of evidence to the state executive committee.

District champions in Conference A shall participate in the final series for State championship according to the schedule
arranged by the state office, Mr.
Bedichek said. Conference B competition shall not exceed further than bi-district championships, with the championship games arranged by the State office.

Interconference or interdistrict games between the participating schools shall not count on a team's percentage, according to the football plan. A defeat by a nonparticipating Texas high school, regardless of size or date, shall eliminate a school from the State race. This rule, however, does not apply to El Paso because of the fact that El Paso cannot participate on account of location.

Practice and Tie Games.
Practice games, that is, games to which no admission is charged and which is not regularly conducted by an official or officials, shall not count on a team's percentage.

In case of tie games, the tie shall be broken by the counting of points made when one team penetrates the other's 20-yard line. This is not a new method of scoring, as the points are to be considered unless the game results in a tie.

Unless both teams agree to the cancellation, a game which is cancelled after the contract has been signed shall be forfeited to the team not at fault. The visiting team always has the right to demand a guarantee sufficient to cover all expenses and in addition 50 per cent of the net gate receipts of the contest. A demand for a flat guarantee which is clearly in excess of expenses shall upon action of the State or District Executive Committee, disqualify the offending team from further participation.

The home team shall furnish a playing field without cost to the visiting school unless mutually agreed otherwise. All officials shall be agreed upon in advance, and outside officials are preferable. The place for playing the game shall be determined on the "home and home" basis, unless some other plan is mutually decided upon—that is, the team that was the visiting team the last time the two teams met may in-

HIGH SCHOOL P. T. A. TO MEET NEXT WEEK

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Eastland High School has announced through their president, Mrs. R. J. Raines, that the first meeting of the new season will be held the day after school opens.

WOMEN'S CLUB SEASON WILL SOON OPEN

After a long and very warm summer, the various clubs along the lines, Parent Teacher Associations and card clubs hail the approaching fall weather with delight, and since the past two pleasant days, are facing the opening of the club season in the immediate future with greater eagerness than would be the case were it September proving as torrid as have some in years gone by.

NEIL FAMILY REUNION IS ENJOYABLE EVENT

A delightful family reunion and outing was held at the City Park, Friday afternoon, when a delicious picnic supper was enjoyed by Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Neil and

eration, introducing the program

of music, to be arranged, and the round table, "The Biennial." The president will introduce the committees. The social hour follows and refreshments will be served. The towns represented in the Federation are Desdemona, Eastland, Cisco, Ranger, Gorman and Rising Star. Twenty clubs form the Federation.

MISS ELIZABETH GARRETT ENTERTAINS AT HOME

Miss Elizabeth Garrett, who will soon say an adieu to her friends, as she leaves next Tuesday for St. Louis for her third year at Principia College, entertained a few close girl chums, with a slumber party, at the family residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Garrett, Thursday night, when a delicious midnight supper sustained the little coterie, through the gab fest of the early morning hours, to a brief snatch of sleep, when they all left for Cisco Lake, at dawn, and had a delightful swim and then motored to the Connellee Hotel for breakfast.

MRS. J. B. LEONARD RETURNS FROM OUTING

Mrs. Joseph B. Leonard returned from a ten days visit and outing with a family party, who motored to Carlsbad, New Mexico, going beyond Pecos to the foot of the Davis Mountains. She also visited the Carlsbad cavern en route home.

MRS. BEAN GIVES DEMONSTRATION DINNER

Mrs. Luther Bean was house hostess to a demonstration or better homes dinner put on by Mr. Hilton, and Mr. Batts, his assistant, who are associated with George Sly, in the missionary effort of teaching women better and

METHODIST JUNIORS HAVE JOLLY PICNIC

The annual Sunday School event of the Junior Department of the Methodist church, the picnic outing, which takes place a week before school opens, was one of the pleasant affairs of last week when the teachers and officers of the department were hostesses, Friday evening, at the City Park. Games were played under the direction of Mmes. Gene Andrews, Herman Hague, and Miss Ruth Mitchell. At the close of a very delightful and vigorous play time, a plate luncheon was served in cafeteria style and arranged on prettily decorated tables. The plate included sandwiches, potato flakes, pickles, cake, fruit, and iced lemonade.

WORKERS CONFERENCE OF CISCO ASSOCIATION

The Women's Auxiliary of the Baptist Church is looking forward to and making ample preparation for the all-day session next Tuesday of the Workers' conference of the Cisco Association, which will be represented by some one hundred and twenty-five visitors from churches in Stephens, Shackelford and Eastland counties.

WOMEN'S CONFERENCE OF CISCO ASSOCIATION

The Women's Auxiliary of the Baptist Church is looking forward to and making ample preparation for the all-day session next Tuesday of the Workers' conference of the Cisco Association, which will be represented by some one hundred and twenty-five visitors from churches in Stephens, Shackelford and Eastland counties.

This will be a great event in local Baptist church circles. At the noon hour a cafeteria plate lunch will be served by a committee representing the Women's Missionary Society circles, Mmes. R. L. Young, P. L. Parker and R. J. Pitts.

The subject of paramount local interest is the Model Business Meeting to be demonstrated in the afternoon by Mrs. W. T. Turner, who will thus fill the hour apportioned the Eastland W. M. S. as their part of the day's program.

METHODIST CHURCH CHOIR HONORS MRS. NORTON
The choir of the Methodist church gathered at the City Park Friday evening for a little outdoor and picnic supper, honoring Mrs. Charles G. Norton, as an appreciation for her assistance in the choir through the summer.

After supper, a handsome gift shower was presented to Mrs. Norton by the Rev. Mr. Singleton on behalf of the choir. When the big gay covered box was opened a stock of handsome silk hose and beautiful handkerchiefs was revealed. Mrs. Norton thanked the donors in a very lovely vein.

LEAVES FORGE TO BUILD NEW MODEL PLANE

Aged Iowa Blacksmith Believes Craft Will Span Ocean in 11 Hours

HANCOCK, Ia.—His forge stands idle and the horseshoes rust on their racks while S. W. Lambert, 74-year-old blacksmith, spends his days building an airplane that he believes will be able to cross the Atlantic in 11 hours. Lambert believes his craft will attain a speed of 300 miles an hour and in addition will be able to hop off from a standing position, "rarin' right up in the air" instead of having to taxi on rubber tires. It will be a cabin-ship with a pilot and four passengers. Lieut. Glen Martin, a Hancock boy and war-time aviator, has consented to conduct test flights this fall.

The past five years of Lambert's life have been devoted to the airplane slowly taking shape in his back yard, from parts whittled and smoothed and adjusted in his combined bedroom, living room and workshop, at the rear of the old blacksmith shop. The shop itself he padlocked, being through with it forever. He enters it only under protest. Its only value, in his eyes, is a storage place for his cherished Hall-Scott motor. With no intermediate auto-tinkering era, Lambert made the jump from horse-shoeing to airplane construction.

"I started working on this airplane as a part-time job," he said. "I just got to thinking that I wanted to do it, and I might as well. And after I got into it, the blacksmithing bothered me so that I shut up shop." As Lambert originated his airplane, he made each individual part different from such parts on all other airplanes, as he had studied them in aviation magazines. He developed a cyclonic propeller, now patented, with a swirl on the end of the blade; a four-purpose stabilizer; an uplifter, to take the place of the conventional landing gear; a different wing shape, different fuselage and tail type and different allerons. In its very line the airplane is Lambert's own idea. No working drawing or blue print aids him. He made a model, but he gave it away as a bird house.

THE HOME OF THE PEOPLE

By Henry W. Grady
I went to Washington the other day, and I stood on the Capitol hill, and my heart beat quick as I looked at the towering marble of my country's capitol, and a mist gathered in my eyes as I thought of its tremendous significance, of the armies and the treasury, and the judges and the president, and the congress and the courts, and all that was gathered there; and I felt that the sun in all its course could not look on a better sight than that majestic home of a republic that has taught the world its best lessons of liberty. And I felt that if honor and wisdom and justice abided therein, the world would at last owe that great house, in which the ark of the covenant of my country is lodged, its final uplifting and regeneration.

But a few days afterwards I went to visit a friend in the country, a modest man, with a quiet country home. It was just a simple, unpretentious house, set about with great trees and circled in meadow and field rich with the promise of harvest; the fragrance of the pine and the hollyhock in the front yard was mingled with the aroma of the orchard and the garden, and the resonant clucking of poultry and the hum of bees. Inside was quiet, cleanliness, thrift and comfort. Outside, there stood my friend the master—a simple, independent, upright man with no mortgage on his roof, no lien on his growing crops—master of his land and master of himself. There was the old father, an aged and trembling man, but happy in the heart and home of his son. And, as he started to enter his home, the hand of the old man went to the young man's shoulder, laying there the unspeakable blessing of an honored and honorable father, and ennobling it with the knighthood of the fifth commandment.

And as we approached the door, the mother came, a happy smile lighting up her face, while with the rich music of her heart she bade her husband and her son welcome to their home. Beyond was the housewife, busy with her domestic affairs, the loving helpmate of her husband. Down the lane came the children after the cows, singing sweetly, as, like the birds, they sought the quiet of their nest.

While I gazed, the vision of the marble Capitol faded; forgotten were its treasuries and its majesties; and I said: "Surely here in the homes of the people lodge at last the strength and the responsibility of this government, the hope and the promise of this Republic."

Abilene's sports writer, it seems, has just "called the roll" and noted the absent ones. As has been pointed out persistently in this column for some weeks past, the Eagles will lose six of the stellar members of the 1927 machine and filling those gaps is a huge task. In Tuesday's Reporter-News, we read: "When the prospects for the 1928 Abilene High school team answered the call of Coach Dewey A. Mayhew, Monday morning at 9 o'clock, little more than a shadow of the powerful team which played through one of the hardest schedules with the loss of but one game in 1927 and finished second to Waco for the state championship, reported to him."

While that phraseology "little more than a shadow" of last year's team is putting it too strong, it is at least in marked contrast to the attitude that has been manifested by our Abilene author heretofore who has blithely discussed the state finals and even the state championship for 1928 as though Walker, Sellers, Andrus, Burger, Christian and Senter could be replaced by the waving of a magic wand.

And here is an optimistic paragraph telling of the opening of practice at Breckenridge: "Many of last year's letter men appeared on the scene Saturday, as well as a host of new faces, and made a promising picture of district champs as they scamped about on their new grass field."

THE STATE OF TEXAS.
To the Sheriff or any Constable of Eastland County—Greeting.
You are hereby commanded to summon Roy L. Rogers, by making publication of this citation once in each week for four consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county and 91st Judicial District to appear at the next regular term of the 91st District Court of Eastland County, Texas, to be held at the Court House thereof, in Eastland, on the first Monday in October, A. D. 1928, the same being the 1st day of October, A. D. 1928, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 1st day of September, A. D. 1928, in a suit numbered on the docket of said Court, No. 13,581, wherein Mary E. Rogers, is Plaintiff, and Roy L. Rogers, is Defendant, and the cause of action being alleged as follows:

Same is a suit for divorce and the care and custody of their minor child, and the Plaintiff alleges, as grounds for the same, the unkind, harsh and tyrannical treatment toward Plaintiff by the Defendant. Herein fail to put before you before said court, on said first day of the next term thereof, this writ, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.
Witness my hand and official seal at my office in Eastland, Texas, this 1st day of September, A. D. 1928.

RECORD-BREAKING MONTHS!

Greatest August in Willys-Overland history—68% gain over last year!

NOW August has added its sweeping plurality to Willys-Overland's impressive total for 1928. Eight consecutive months have broken every record for the corresponding months in all of Willys-Overland's 20-year history.

Last month 68% more people bought Whippet and Willys-Knight cars than in August, 1927—a gain of more than two-thirds!

Experienced motorists are quick to appreciate the superiority of the Whippet Four, with its many engineering advantages never before brought to the light car field;—the Whippet Six, the world's lowest priced Six, with 7-bearing crankshaft and other costly car features;—and the Willys-Knight Six, which now, at the lowest prices in history, brings the unmatched smoothness, silence, power and operating economy of the patented double sleeve-valve engine within easy reach of thousands of new buyers.

ABILENE VS RANGER—1926

By BOYCE HOUSE.
 A poorer day for football could hardly be imagined than the October afternoon in 1926 when Abilene and Ranger met on the Ranger field. It was cool and cloudy, which would have been satisfactory had it not been for the fact that the field was already muddy from earlier rains and, just as the game was beginning, a cold drizzle began to fall and continued almost through the struggle.

But it was such a combat that made every one of the 5,000 forget the weather—forget everything except those two teams that were out there battling on a soggy field, Abilene for the right to preserve an undefeated record, Ranger to remain in the district title chase. For the Bulldogs had already lost to Stephenville and a loss to Abilene would remove Ranger from the race.

That lightning-fast backfield of the Eagles lost no time in getting started. Smith went around right end for a dozen yards. Sellers circled left end for 10 yards. Smith again made a beautiful sweep for 15 yards but Abilene was offside. The interference running was superb and Ranger fans were feeling as gloomy as the climate.

But just then "it happened." Sellers, back for another gallop, fumbled the slippery ball and it went bounding back toward the Eagle goal. "Fireman" Phillips, Ranger end, in hot pursuit, picked up the oval and ran 25 yards before he was brought down, three yards from the goal line. Buster Mills plunged the ball across. He missed the try for point. And the count was: Ranger 6, Abilene 0.

That "break" seemed to have taken the zip out of Abilene's attack and the teams fought in mid-field until near the end of the first quarter. And then came another "break"—this time in the Eagles' favor.

Sellers punted. The ball, near the Ranger goal line, was touched by Buster Mills, so the officials ruled, and when Daniels, Eagle lineman, recovered the pigskin across the goal, Abilene had a touchdown. Ranger fans strenuously contended that Mills himself, that the Bulldog quarterback did not touch the bouncing ball. Anyway, the try for point was successful and the score now stood: Abilene 7, Ranger 6.

Those Field Goals.
 Near the end of the second quarter, Mills hurled a pass to Shipp for 12 yards. To attempt to advance the ball failed. Coach Cherry sent Seth Hubbard in. Another try to run with the ball failed. Then Hubbard murmured a few words in Mills' ear—instructions from the coach. Buster dropped back to try for a field goal.

Two teammates scraped the mud from the heavy, soggy ball. Two other Bulldogs busied themselves in removing the mud from Mills' right shoe, especially around the toe of the shoe.

The half was almost up. The ball was on Abilene's 25-yard line, which means that Buster would have to boot it 35 yards. "Could he do it?" was the question that anxiously formed in every mind. It was Ranger's golden opportunity to take the lead. The ball was snapped back by Cooper, the center. Mills, trying a drop kick, met the ball squarely and set it sailing exactly halfway between the goal posts and above the crossbar by at least three feet while the stunned crowd recovered its breath and cheered madly. Ranger was leading, 9 to 7.

The changeover was made at 7:25. Operated by P. Braslow, own the change.

These gentlemen, in order to more efficiently serve their many customers in this territory, decided upon opening the new Eastland store. It opened with a complete stock of new and up-to-date furniture.

Living room furniture is necessary if fine furnishings are to be the rule in your home; elegant furniture need not be extraordinarily priced. The furniture handled by the Eastland Furniture Exchange is fine in every sense of the word, yet it is durable, quiet in tone, and will fit in with any scheme. These living room suits are richly upholstered in materials of striking design and color. If you are interested in the newest and best do not fail to see them.

A tour of inspection throtes this furniture store will give you much pleasure if you are interested in the newest and best furniture.

In unique dining room sets the Eastland Furniture Exchange has something unusual to show both in design and price, and do not lose sight of the fact that this company offers terms if you do not care to pay all cash.

The store has just received in charming bed-room sets several most admirable suits that cannot but appeal to women who admire things that are artistic and beautiful in furniture.

Go through your rooms and note how many new rugs you need to make your floors more comfortable and attractive and then pay the Eastland Furniture Exchange a visit and select from their assortment the rugs you find necessary. At present they are offering some very attractive prices on rugs.

Included in their stock of rugs is a nice assortment of Armstrong's Quaker felt rugs and yard goods something new in felt base. Another line in which this store takes special pride is the Garland stress gas range stoves. These are strictly built to A. G. standards.

The store, on the west side of the square, is attractively arranged. The proprietors are Mr. and Mrs. D. Hillyer. Mr. Hillyer gives much attention to the store, although his duties as court reporter and attorney reduce the time that he can devote to the business.

The Eagles began fighting desperately. But "Joe" Taylor, Ranger's hard-hitting fullback, pulled an Abilene pass out of the air and was downed on the Eagles' 20-yard line.

Again the Bulldogs took time out while the mud was scraped from the ball and from Mills' shoe and, standing on the 30-yard line, Buster drop-kicked another, barely above the crossbar, to make the score 12-7 in the Bulldogs' favor. A few seconds later, the half ended. The teams fought on rather even terms the second half, neither scoring. Those field goal gave Ranger the victory, inspired the Bulldogs to go on to a pair of victories over Cisco and then defeat Wichita Falls for the championship of West Texas.

THREE SPECIAL TRAINS TO THE ARMY-S. M. U. GO

Expect 1,000 to Make Trip to New York to See Big Game.

DALLAS, Sept. 7.—According to the latest announcement from Bill Heitzelberger, who has charge of arrangements for the special trains running to New York for the S. M. U.-Army football game, Oct. 6, three trains of nine coaches each have already been filled.

Indications now are that 1,000 or more will follow the Mustangs to New York. Arrangements are pending to take the S. M. U. student band on the trip.

PET FARM ABANDONED

KIRKWOOD, Mo.—The St. Louis County Humane Society was called upon for active relief work here when neighbors reported pets of all kinds, ranging from goldfish to burrows, starving to death at the deserted American Pet farm formerly operated by Otto Noble and his wife.

Members of the society called by the sheriff to assist in the case found 200 goldfish and many parrots, dogs and monkeys in the house of the property. Four dogs already had died of starvation.

Neighbors said they had released about 100 canaries before the arrival of the relief party, but were unwilling to assume the responsibility for releasing or caring for the remainder of the pets.

Police are searching for the Nobles.

Champion Eater Tries Comeback

MARYVILLE, Mo., Sept. 7.—The palmy days of Tom Lyle of Parnell, Mo., one-time claimant of the title of champion eater of the world, have passed.

Twenty years ago, Lyle on a visit here, consumed a gallon and a half of ice cream and then devoured a dozen oranges.

But on a recent visit here, was unable to approach his former record. While the thermometer registered 102 in the shade, Lyle pronounced conditions excellent.

Al and Governors Take Tallyho Ride

In this tallyho party there are three governors, a former governor and a candidate for governor, as they enjoyed an outing at Sea Girt, N. J., the other day on "governor's day." Governor Al Smith sits in the front seat, and the others, left to right, are William Dill, democratic candidate for governor of New Jersey; Senator Edward I. Edwards of New Jersey; Governor Albert Ritchie of Maryland and Governor Moore of New Jersey. A few minutes after this picture was taken the horses drawing the tallyho ran away.

Equipped with a big spoon with a long handle Lyle started upon a gallon of ice cream but was able to consume only three-fourths of the container.

Did You Ever Stop To Think?

Riley H. Allen, editor and manager of the Honolulu (Hawaii) Star-Bulletin, says:

That every community in the United States, inland or seaboard, has a direct interest in the great Pacific area.

The countries around the Pacific are steadily buying more automobiles, phonographs, machinery, iron, steel, foodstuffs, clothes, and other commodities from the United States. Business originating in Emporia, Kan., or Detroit, Mich., may travel a route that takes it to Canton, China, or Irkutsk, Siberia.

The Pacific ocean is being spanned by airplane; within seven days a monoplane flew from Oakland, Calif., to Sydney, Australia, via Honolulu on the Island of Oahu, from Kauai direct to Suva, Fiji, thence to Brisbane, thence to Sydney, Australia.

Time and space are being annihilated by man's invention and the great markets of the Orient are being brought to the doors of American manufacturers and distributors.

In brief—wide-awake American citizens should keep their eyes on the Pacific—for the greatest commercial story of this era.

THE WORLD HAS A NEW AND FINER MOTOR CAR

Special Six "400" Sedan
$1345 f. o. b. factory fully equipped

Not since the famous Super-37 crankshaft has Hudson made such an advance in engine design as this motor represents," he said. "The Super-Six principle has for 10 years been the envy of designers and has been as nearly copied as patents permit; and this new motor design will prove equally worthy of imitation, but it is also fully protected by patents. The most interesting features are:

"1. The motor employs unusually high compression for modern power and efficiency, yet avoids 'spark knock,' roughness and other qualities heretofore thought unavoidable with such a motor.

"2. No special or doped fuels are necessary or even desirable; the design of the motor cares for this problem.

"3. Fuel-energy formerly wasted is turned into power. Greater power is developed at all speeds—and particularly at high speeds—yet the motor is described as highly economical.

"4. A degree of smoothness and flexibility is gained which may be compared with that of a steam engine.

"So important does Hudson regard these results that it has applied for and received basic patents on the design and the principles involved.

"Right now we are demonstrating to motorists the superiorities in performance which this wonderful design makes possible. There is just nothing you can ask of an automobile engine in power or performance which a Hudson won't do. Yet it has the fuel economy of a car much lighter and less powerful. I have yet to show this Hudson to a motorist who is not amazed at its possibilities. I make the open statement that Hudson is the best roading car in the American market bar none."

Shoot the Mail Robbers, is Plan

CAMP PERRY, O.—"Bullets for bandits," says Postmaster Lester Quigley of Manville, New Jersey, who hopes to train the employees of his office to kill or maim moron mail robbers molesting Manville mails.

Quigley, a man of distinguished appearance whose snow white goatee and mustache suggests the Kentucky colonel type, is attending the National Rifle and Pistol matches at Camp Perry, Ohio, where he will contend with 3000 other marksmen for shooting honors for the Post Office Department.

Although he has entered the matches as a competitor, Quigley states that his main reason for coming to Camp Perry is to take a course of instruction in marksmanship under regular army officers, so that he will be qualified to act as an instructor for the pistol club which he has organized among the postal employees of the Manville Post Office.

Postmaster Quigley's interest in fire-arms is not new, but when the series of depredations on the mails occurred a couple of years ago, he determined to perfect his pistol shooting so that he could cope with any mail bandit appearing in the Manville sector.

See this special ESSEX chassis display and the costly car way it is built

The most important part of your car—is the part you never see! But now we are especially displaying an Essex chassis to show the costly, fine-quality way it is built.

If you could place it—first, beside a $3,000 make of chassis—and then beside a chassis in the Essex price range—you would have dramatic, visual proof of the fine-car Essex construction, as distinguished from the practice of cars in its price field.

You would find the same steering wheel of hard rubber and steel core in Essex and the $3,000 car. You would find the same Timken tapered wheel bearings, the same roller tappet bearings, the same use of five cross members in the rigid frame. Cars of Essex price class usually economize with mushroom tappet bearings, ordinary roller bearings in the wheels, and three cross members in the frame.

Aside from such self-evident superiorities as its brilliant performance, beauty and quality that you can see and feel in the very upholstery, the wheel you handle and the hardware you touch—please compare with any car—the advantages we have itemized here because they speak for the complete quality way in which the new Essex Super-Six is built—things seen or unseen.

Nash "400's" DAY!

West Side of City
 Out on the edge in the Western part of town, E. H. Jones and W. H. Mullings have new homes which they recently completed and are now occupying as their homes.

In Hillcrest Addition one finds the greatest development in home-building during the past twelve or fifteen months. A little more than a year ago this addition was opened up and lots placed on the market for sale. The way prospective home-builders responded is attested by the many beautiful homes which now adorn this part of town. Ideal in location, coupled with the fact that it is a restricted section, partly accounts for the wonderful growth of Hillcrest. Situated as it is on the Bankhead Highway, and overlooking the city from the west, with ideal building sites and home-like surroundings, it is no wonder that Hillcrest has grown rapidly and has developed into a home section.

Many New Homes
 Some of the finest homes in Eastland are to be found on all sides as one drives up Oaklawn and back on Hillcrest Avenue to the Bankhead Highway. The homes of Frank H. Weaver and Mrs. Fannie Thompson were among the first to be built. In a year's time 19 new homes have been constructed in that addition, all modern, well built and conveniently arranged. Eight of these are brick and stucco. Some of the prominent business and professional men are holding these homes in this addition during the next few months. Three bricks and one frame are being constructed at this time.

Those who own new home in Hillcrest Addition are: Frank H. Weaver, B. L. Brelsford, L. E.

SOCIETY

Work on a rose and white quilt, under the chapter is filling. During the social hour, two pleasing contests occupied attention, one to be answered by the name of authors, and the other a fortune telling game. Mrs. C. M. Hardin was the victor in the literary contest, and was presented the favor, a blue crystal bud vase. The chapter regrets the going of Mrs. N. A. Oliver who, with her family, leaves soon to make their home in Big Spring. She was showered with gifts of lovely kerchiefs, a parting remembrance. The home was prettily decorated with roses and ferns, and refreshments of brick ice cream, and delicious home baked cakes were served. Those present: Misses, C. E. Sikes, W. A. Martin, E. F. Wynne, Wilbert Irons, J. W. Thomas, Ed Bills, H. T. Johnston, S. M. McClendon, Ora B. Jones, Eugene Tucker, W. P. Fuller, G. E. Cross, W. F. Miller, C. M. Hardin, S. C. Everingham, Roy Young, W. Z. SUNBEAM BAND

The Sunbeam Band of the Baptist church will feature a personal service program at their meeting next Saturday morning at 9:30 a. m., on the lawn of the Baptist church. These social meetings are held on the fifth Saturday of the month. They will have two such parties in 1928, one on September 20, and the other December 29.

PYTHIAN SISTERS SCHOOL OF INSTRUCTION

The Pythian Sisters Temples of trawn, Thurber, Minus, Mineral Wells, Graham, Breckenridge, Abilene, Baird Cross Plains and Eastland, will meet for instruction at Breckenridge when the school will be conducted by the Grand Chief, Annie Gordon of Dallas, the first week in November. The session will be held one or two days. Each Temple will exemplify some one department of the work. The Eastland Temple has chosen initiation, as their special line.

RECITAL IN CISCO

The music loving folks of Eastland are extended an invitation by Grover C. Morris of Cisco to attend the Sunday twilight recital in the Presbyterian church of Cisco when students from five towns will be presented in musical program. The Eastland talent will be: Miss Frances Cunningham, whose numbers are "March of the Dwarfs," "Greig," "To Spring," and "Camera," Ostrow-Rebenstein. Miss Nell Little will interpret "Folk Song" and "Walker," Greig, and Bach's "Solsegetto."

Miss Loraine Taylor will present Chopin's "Prelude," and "Scotch Poem," McDowell.

INTERMEDIATE B. Y. P. U. HAS INTERESTING PROGRAM

The program for the Intermediate Baptist Young People's Union will pivot about the subject "Courtesy and the Golden Rule" and be introduced by the leader, George McWilliams. Brief talks will be by:

- "Our Manners Reflected in our Training"—Miss Mona Pritchard. "Our Manners An Index to Character"—Jack Campbell. "Our Manners a Factor in Forming Character"—Estes Burgham. "The Effect of our Manners on Others"—Miss Mayme Armstrong. "Manners Are Contagious"—Miss Ione Raines. "The Best Rule for Good Manners"—Carl Garrett. Junior No. 1 B. Y. P. U. will present the program presented by Group No. 2 led by L. J. Lambert. Miss Maine Jordan is president of the Class and Mrs. J. Raines, director. Subject: "Our Indian Neighbors. Talks by: "Early Days" introduction by L. J. Lambert. "Where the Indians Live Today"—Rachael Pentecost. "What We Owe To The Indians"—Katheryn Lankford. "Native Religion of the Indians"—Rachael Pentecost. "Our Home Mission Board's Work Among the Indians"—Davis Simmons. "The Only Way Church"—L. J. Lambert.

"The Indians and Missions"—Katheryn Lankford.

The program will be given in duplicate by Junior No. 2, Baptist Young People's Union, but in a separate class room with Mrs. John Williams, director. Miss Esther Thompson, leader, will give the introductory remarks.

The balance of the program will be taken in order by Misses Fayette Campbell, Lola Simmons, Rosella Thompson, Jean Kitley and Clifton Stiles.

MRS. C. G. NORTON PLANS MUSICAL ENTERTAINMENT

Mrs. Charles G. Norton will open her home Monday afternoon at two o'clock with a musical party for pupils and their young friends, and at eight o'clock in the evening will entertain with a reception and musical for their parents.

As an addition to other studies which were taken in leading music schools of Boston and New York, Mrs. Norton has recently become affiliated with the Art Publication Society of St. Louis and is an accredited teacher of the Progressive series of music lessons, which includes lessons in the theory, musical history and analysis as well as the technique of piano playing. All teachers of the Progressive Series course provides for class lessons as well as for private lessons, both of which Mrs. Norton is arranging to teach, one day in each week being planned also for Ranger pupils who have requested her to come there where she taught in former years. Mrs. Norton has been a member of the Texas State Music Teacher's Association for more than ten years, and her recognized ability, both as teacher and pianist, have won for her many laurels. The music studio will be in her own home where lessons may be arranged for by appointment. Class lessons in piano playing are a new feature of such training, but have met with great success in the larger cities of the country and are rapidly bringing more music into the homes of a larger number as well as creating a broader interest in music itself, though this is the first time such classes have been planned for Eastland.

YOUNG GIRLS ENJOY CONNELLEE SHOW

Mrs. C. U. Connellee is entertaining her niece, Christine Whitehurst of San Angelo, who is renewing her associations with former high school friends in Eastland.

An informal little gathering of young girls was entertained at the Connellee picture show Friday night by Mrs. Connellee and little daughter, Miss Jane Whitlington Connellee. After the picture, refreshments were served at the Connellee home, and to the merry bunch spent the night with their hostesses. A delicious Southern breakfast was served in their courses Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

Those present: Misses Elizabeth Day, Thelma Brewer, Belva D. Hillyer, Margery Taggart, Margery Hart, Christine Whitehurst and Jane Connellee.

NOTES AND PERSONALS

Miss Frances Hogan leaves next Friday for the College of Industrial Arts, which opens at Denton, September 17. Her parents, Rev. and Mrs. L. R. Hogan, leave for Winters at the same time, accompanied by Mrs. Frances Logan, William Hogan will re-enter college at Waxahachie.

Miss Glenna Gillespie, who was the guest of Miss Ada Martin this week, left for Our Lady of Victory in Fort Worth, yesterday.

Mrs. Allen D. Dabney, her son, Allen D., Jr. and his chum, Winston Castleberry, returned Thursday night from a motor trip to South Texas.

Mrs. Joseph M. Perkins will be home from a summer visit in Massachusetts next Saturday.

Mrs. John Matthews entertained Mr. and Mrs. W. Z. Bates for noon luncheon Thursday, and Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Carlisle were the hosts at six o'clock dinner that evening, inviting Rev. and Mrs. W. T. Turner to meet them. The Bates left for Lockhart Friday. Mr. Bates is superintendent of schools there.

All members and friends are urged to get back to their places of worship and service.

Gas Flares Are Weakening Now

By United Press. CRANE CITY, Texas.—West Texas' greatest night spectacle, the sight of the hundreds of gas flares in the Crane county oil field, is fading. No longer do the flares jerk and leap high in the air and then recede, only to repeat the process, for the great volume of the gas seems to have been dissipated. The workmen regard this with delight, for the gas in the Crane field has taken its toll of men and beasts, and men who did not know that they could run have made rapid progress through the deep sand when the gas, coming in a purple haze out of a new well, being brought in, caused them to run for life. The Crane county gas is an epic among oil field workers. This city is located more than two miles from the main pool, where a mile-long row of storage tanks can be seen. Workers in the gas laden field wear gas masks when pumping or when gauging tanks.

"Home Beautiful" In Hillcrest, Just Completed, Which Awaits Inspection By Visitors Today and Tomorrow

BY MRS. W. K. JACKSON

Here an adjustable seat is a novel feature, one that pulls from a niche in the wall, and upon which one can sit, when adjusting hose and shoes.

And who wouldn't relish a meal prepared in this delightful kitchen? It has cabinets to the ceiling, the long porcelain drain board from end to end of the wall, and the built-in presses and closets below. No unsightly kettles and pans hanging around the walls in this kitchen. And closets, big roomy ones, with the bedroom closets hanging full of lovely sport clothes, street suits, costumes for calling and ball gowns, all displayed by the Boston Store.

And here is the Frigidaire, silently performing its hospitable duty and turning out blocks of tinted ice, to cool the punch that will regale the callers, and freezing the sherbets, that dainty delicacy for hot weathers.

Enjoy the hospitality of the Texas Electric Service Company and become acquainted with the mysteries of the Frigidaire.

Look out, we're going through this gently swinging butler's door, that leads us into the dining room. Notice the doors to all the bedrooms, the handsome work of the Pickering Lumber Company, doors paneled and enameled and that move at a touch; which are good to look at, and have strength and lightness.

And the lovely furnishings in the latest Spanish style, of bedroom and living room, which the Eastland Furniture Exchange knew well how to select to harmonize with the Spanish type of architecture.

Music is entertaining you, the latest instruments furnished by the Eastland Music Company.

When buying plumbing fixtures one naturally thinks price as well as quality. The well informed also thinks style as there is style in plumbing as well as other things that go to make up the modern home.

Those who saw the bathroom in the "Home Beautiful" which was opened for the inspection of the public a week or so ago and the fixtures for which were installed and furnished by the R. P. Crouch Plumbing Company could not help but admire its beauty.

The R. P. Crouch Plumbing Company one of the leading plumbing firms in West Texas is doing the plumbing work for the "Home Beautiful" on 400 South Oaklawn, Hillcrest, which is open for the public's inspection today and tomorrow.

The R. P. Crouch Plumbing company, besides buying in carload lots, which enables them to make very low prices, handle two of the highest quality lines on the market and these facts coupled with the fact that they employed only experienced workmen, has enabled them to build up a big business in Eastland and surrounding territory.

You can have a bathroom—beautiful and charming. Imagine a lavatory with all the grace of line and beauty of fine furniture—the bath with bold sweeping lines and the changeless sparkle of acid-resisting enamel—a uniform fitting design of rich beauty for all the bathroom fixtures. Then add that touch of individuality, color in designs that have the beauty and interest of originality.

As you will notice in the home beautiful, "Standard" plumbing fixtures of a sea green color are used while at the Crouch show rooms other colors, and shades may be seen.

In addition to the new styles in bathroom fixtures the Crouch Plumbing Co. offers improved designs for kitchen and laundry and ask that you consult them regarding plumbing. Their large stock enables them to supply most needs without delay.

Hudson Super-Six Makes Advance In Engine Design

"Something entirely different," is the Hudson Super-Six motor, according to B. D. Hampton, Hudson dealer here, who is conducting a special demonstration campaign. Mr. Hampton tells an interesting and enthusiastic story of Hudson design and construction.

"Not since the introduction of the famous Super-Six balanced crankshaft has Hudson made such an advance in engine design as this motor represents," he said. "The Super-Six principle has for 10 years been the envy of designers and has been as nearly copied as patents permit; and this new motor design will prove equally worthy of imitation. It is also fully protected by patents. The most interesting features are:

1. The motor employs unusually high compression for modern power and efficiency, yet avoids 'spark knock,' roughness and the other qualities heretofore thought unavoidable with such a motor.

2. No special or doped fuels are necessary or even desirable; the design of the motor cares for this problem.

3. Fuel-energy formerly wasted is turned into power. Greater power is developed at all speeds—and particularly at high speeds—yet the motor is described as highly economical.

4. A degree of smoothness and flexibility is gained which may be compared with that of a steam engine.

"So important does Hudson regard these results that it has applied for and received basic patents on the design and the principles involved.

"Right now we are demonstrating to motorists the superiorities in performance which this wonderful design makes possible. There is just nothing you can ask of an automobile engine in power or performance which a Hudson won't do. Yet it has the fuel economy of a car much lighter and less powerful. I have yet to show this Hudson to a motorist who is not amazed at its possibilities. I made the open statement that Hudson is the best roadster car in the American market bar none."

MUCH BUILDING NOW GOING ON IN EASTLAND

New Business and Residence Houses Being Constructed and Many Sections of City Developing.

Eastland is justly proud of her building activities during the past twelve months. Not only has the business district greatly improved by the construction of the new Connelley Hotel, the magnificent courthouse, the two new bricks on the Higginbotham-Bartlett block, West Main; Frank Castleberry's building on North Seaman, the Roberson filling station at Mulberry and West Commerce, the handsome Methodist church on Mulberry, the Horned Frog Filling Station at South Lamar and Olive, and other improvements in all directions, but the residence section has grown in a remarkable way.

Splendid accomplishments are seen in the residence section and a drive out on Dixie street will reveal some of the finest and most beautiful homes to be found in any city.

Along Dixie Street Judge John D. McRae first started the ball to rolling out on Dixie street by building a home that would do credit to Dallas or Fort Worth. Homer Brelsford surprised even the biggest booster in Eastland by building another home on that street that proved to be one of the prettiest home places in the city. Dr. J. H. Caton further adorned that street a little later on by constructing a two-story brick that is a beauty to the eye, and a credit to him and to the city in which he lives.

Out on South Daugherty, Hillen Simmons took that street to himself and has put it on the map. Many new homes are seen as one drives over the paving on this street. In addition to those built by Mr. Simmons for various parties, one will find also a beautiful structure built by Mrs. Milburn McCarty, and also the new home of J. C. Johnson.

On the East Side James Horton has one of the prettiest and most showy places in Connelley Place, recently completed, in which he is now residing. Peter Clements has a new home on Bassett street which he recently completed and has made it a spot of beauty by adorning the yard with flowers and shrubbery.

Joe Driskell has started him an addition in the Nellie Connelley block and has recently completed a duplex on Williams Street, which is just the beginning of a great period of development in that section of town, according to Mr. Driskell. Driskell also recently completed his home on Halbryan street.

Carl Butler has taken an active part in Eastland's building program during the past twelve months and many new duplexes have been constructed by him for Mrs. Duncan.

H. E. Lawrence has also built three new duplexes on White street, and has adorned that part of town very much to his credit as well as partly filling a long-felt need here of more homes for people to live in whose work calls them from place to place.

West Side of City Out on the edge in the Western part of town, E. H. Jones and W. H. Mullings have new homes which they recently completed and are now occupying as their homes.

In Hillcrest Addition one finds the greatest development in home-building during the past twelve or fifteen months. A little more than a year ago this addition was opened up and lots placed on the market for sale. The way prospective home-builders responded is attested by the many beautiful homes which now adorn this part of town. Ideal in location, coupled with the fact that it is a restricted section, partly accounts for the wonderful growth of Hillcrest. Situated as it is on the Bankhead Highway, and overlooking the city from the west, with ideal building sites and home-like surroundings, it is no wonder that Hillcrest has grown rapidly and has developed into a home section.

Many New Homes Some of the finest homes in Eastland are to be found on all sides as one drives up Oaklawn and back on Hillcrest Avenue to the Bankhead Highway. The homes of Frank H. Weaver and Mrs. Fannie Thompson were among the first to be built. In a year's time 19 new homes have been constructed in that addition, all modern, well built and conveniently arranged. Eight of them are brick and stucco. Some of Eastland's prominent business and professional men are holding up and contemplating building new homes in this addition during the next few months. Three bricks and one frame are being constructed at this time.

Those who own new home in Hillcrest Addition are: Frank H. Weaver, B. L. Brelsford, L. E.

Edwards, G. W. Rineman, B. M. Collier, Mary Tabb Thompson, D. L. Kinnaird, Joe Leonard, Bob Hammett, J. S. Grisham, D. H. Behne, Walter N. Hart, A. H. Pritchard and J. O. Wheat.

Hudson and Essex Cars Unchanged

Hudson and Essex cars are being shown in new summer and autumn colors but the Hudson Motor Car Company has announced to its dealers that otherwise the cars will continue unchanged. It is declared that the popularity of these models has given the company the greatest volume of business it has ever had.

Several two-tone color effects are announced as well as Hudson fenders lacquered in colors. Optional wire wheel equipment in contrasting colors is also offered.

"Home Beautiful" Now All Ready For Its Occupants

The furniture with which the "Home Beautiful" 400 South Oaklawn, Hillcrest, which will be opened for inspection Sunday and Monday, was arranged by the Eastland Furniture Exchange.

The Eastland Furniture Exchange is a new business in Eastland, having opened its doors on July 25th, last. It is owned and operated by Col. Brashier and F. P. Brashier of Ranger, who also own the Ranger Furniture Exchange.

These gentlemen, in order to more efficiently serve their many customers in this territory, decided upon opening the Eastland store. It opened with a full and complete stock of new and up-to-date furniture.

Living room furniture is necessary if fine furnishings are to be the rule in your home; but fine furniture need not be exorbitantly priced. The furniture handled by the Eastland Furniture Exchange is fine in every sense of the word, yet it is durable, quiet in tone, and will fit in with any scheme. These living room suits are richly upholstered in materials of striking design and colors. If you are interested in the newest and best do not fail to see them.

A tour of inspection through this furniture store will give you much pleasure if you are at all interested in the newest and best furniture.

In unique dining room sets something unusual to show both in design and price, and do not lose sight of the fact that this company offers terms if you do not care to pay all cash.

The store has just received in charming bed-room sets several most admirable suits that cannot but appeal to women who admire things that are artistic and beautiful in furniture.

Go through your rooms and note how many new rugs you need to make your floors more comfortable and attractive and then pay the Eastland Furniture Exchange a visit and select from their assortment the rugs you find necessary. At present they are offering some very attractive prices on rugs.

Pritchard Builds "Home Beautiful"

"Home Beautiful," 400 South Oaklawn, Hillcrest, which is being opened for inspection Sunday and Monday, was erected by A. H. Pritchard.

Mr. Pritchard and associates, the Crouch Plumbing Company, James A. Smith and J. G. Power, counting "Home Beautiful" have built eleven homes in Eastland during the past twelve months and most of these have been in Hillcrest.

Music To Feature Day and Night In "Home Beautiful"

The Eastland Music Company is furnishing the music for "Home Beautiful," which is located at 400 South Oaklawn street, Hillcrest, and which will be open for inspection by the public Sunday and Monday. For this purpose they are using a Baldwin piano.

A remarkable growth has been undergone by the Eastland Music Store. Opening its doors on January 29, 1926, with a small stock it now has a stock that in range, variety and quality is truly metropolitan. The people of Eastland, quick to appreciate the smiling courtesy and discriminating service given, are patronizing the store in a measure that has enabled it to grow rapidly.

The motto of the store is "Everything Musical," and while of course not everything can be actually carried in stock, the management is always ready to wire once for any instrument desired that is not on hand. Kimball and Warr pianos are featured, though a make of piano can be obtained from the store. The largest Kimball concert grand piano was recently purchased by the store to be presented to the church in Eastland. Records and hand instruments, records, records and sheet music, phonographs and radios are carried.

The store, on the west side of the square, is attractively arranged. The proprietors are Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Hillier. Mr. Hillier has given much attention to the store, although his duties as court reporter and attorney reduce the time that he can devote to the bus-

LOVE FOR TWO

RUTH DEWEY GROVES © 1928 By NEA Service Inc.

WHAT HAPPENED when Ward married Rod she loved him in spite of every-thing. She had not gone away to Lila. If they had not gone away together, Lila and Rod, Bertie Lou still had a chance to let them know how despicable had been their conduct. She would tell Lila what she thought of a girl who would marry for money and then work day and night to emmesh a former lover in a low intrigue.

Lila received her abed. She had sent word at first that she could not see her, but Bertie Lou had told the butler she would not leave until she saw his mistress. Lila inquired, and learned that Cyrus had not yet left for the office. It would not do to have him encounter Bertie Lou. But Lila did not have her caller admitted without a great deal of fear. Bertie Lou could create a lot of trouble if she were so minded. Cyrus would not care to listen to her—he had lost all respect for her, Lila knew.

But Bertie Lou could talk—to the Frasers, for instance. She believed that Bertie Lou still saw Molly now and then—and she might find a way of convincing Cyrus—if she really knew anything.

Lila could hardly believe that Rod had carried the story of her proposal to him to Bertie Lou. But why was Bertie Lou here, at this ungodly hour? Lila glanced at her clock—the time was five minutes of ten.

She threw back the silk covers on her bed and sat up against the lace-trimmed pillows. The room was in semi-darkness with the shades close drawn to keep out the daylight. One, near the bed, was halfway up to admit air. Lila jumped out of bed and hastily pulled it down. She must, she guessed, look a sight. Rage always left its mark on her features, and she had raged through the night. Exhaustion had forced her to bed just before daybreak. But she had not slept.

She was barely back on her pillows, with a soft rose-shaded lamp burning on a stand at the head of her French bed, when Bertie Lou was admitted.

They looked at each other as two duelists might before the clash of blades began. Bertie Lou walked slowly over, as the maid who had shown her up, closed the door behind her, and came close to the bed.

Lila waved her hand toward a chair. "Good morning," she essayed pleasantly, but her voice had a certain jerky quality.

Bertie Lou did not take her eyes from Lila's face, or move toward the chair she indicated.

Her eyes were narrowed to slits and a scornful sneer twisted her lips out of all resemblance to their natural curves. Lila's eyes fell away, and she plucked nervously at the embroidered hem of a sheet. She tried to laugh, a wretched attempt.

"Goodness, what's the matter with you?" she cried, alarmed at her own lack of poise. "Has anything happened?"

"Why ask me?" Bertie Lou retorted with a hard levelness that further disturbed Lila. It also armed her with irritation. She became snappish.

"Why shouldn't I ask you?" she retorted. "You insisted upon seeing me before I was up. You ought to have a good reason."

"Is it reason enough that I've come to tell you what an abominable cheat you are?" Bertie Lou said, her voice held low, but vibrating with suppressed passion.

Lila sat bolt upright. "What—a—?" she gasped.

"You heard me, and you know what I mean," Bertie Lou went on.

Lila turned white. So Rod had told! He must have found out that she had cloaked Bertie Lou with faithfulness out of the fabric of suspicion—that she had no grounds for accusing his wife of a liaison with young Marco Palmer.

"But now that you've got him and it's all over I want to tell you that I wouldn't stoop to hold a man who could fall for you," Bertie Lou said, without waiting for Lila to speak.

The latter felt herself flung from one extreme to another. Now it was doubt. What could Bertie Lou mean? Not really that Rod and she had parted? Lila took courage on the barest chance that this could be Bertie Lou's meanness. She decided to remain silent, lest she divulge too much. Perhaps, after all, Rod had not told Bertie Lou about last night and the scene on the balcony.

"You can tell Rod that he need not have run away like a whipped cur," Bertie Lou continued, growing warmer. "I wouldn't have put out a finger to stop him. I want you both to know that."

"Ever since you began crawling around after him I've given you every chance, because I couldn't love a man who wanted a girl like you, Lila, even if it was only after you'd used every way you knew to make him care for you."

Lila flushed and lost some of her caution. She was sure now that Bertie Lou did not know Rod

Canada Is Biggest Buyers of American-Made Goods Today

WASHINGTON.—"A momentous milestone in the history of our foreign trade" is the characterization applied by Dr. Julius Klein to the fiscal year figures showing Canadian purchases of American merchandise. The vigorous and prosperous Dominion has forged swiftly ahead and has now, for the first time, surpassed all other countries in its purchases of the products of the United States, the director of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce told the radio audience in a talk delivered in his behalf over the National Broadcasting company system.

In the year just before the outbreak of the World War, according to Dr. Klein the United Kingdom, which has long been our foremost market, was buying just a quarter of a billion dollars' worth more of our goods than Canada was taking, $594,000,000 as compared with $344,000,000. But in the twelve months ended June 30 this year our exports to Canada were valued at $862,000,000 while the United Kingdom was second, with purchases amounting to $809,000,000.

Thus our northern neighbor, Dr. Klein pointed out, is more than $50,000,000 in the lead.

"Canada today is prosperous and progressive," Dr. Klein told his audience "it is looking toward the future, and its activities are branching out in a variety of ways." The foreign trade executive mentioned especially the extraordinary activity in the Canadian building trades as being indicative of favorable business conditions north of the border. Buildings are going up, he said, to the value of more than $250,000,000 for a six months period this year—surpassing the previous high mark by 30 percent. The construction statistics for the past four years, Dr. Klein asserted, show Canada to be in the midst of an unparalleled era of growth and development. The largest proportionate increases are in the contracts for hotels, public garages, warehouses, and under the general heading of "industrial construction"—showing, the speaker maintained, that Canada's building program is on a sound basis with reference to the commercial and industrial requirements of the country.

Canada, a country of fewer than 10,000,000 people, now has an annual foreign trade totaling $2,360,000,000, or about $240 per capita, Dr. Klein reminded his hearers—adding that if the United States had such a per capita foreign business as this, our exports and imports would aggregate something like $28,000,000,000, instead of the $9,000,000,000 figure that was actually registered by us in 1927. Even with due allowance for price changes, Canada's commerce has doubled since 1914.

The foreign commerce director stressed the importance of newspaper as a Canadian product "that stands out as a mighty horn in the range of imports from the Dominion." In 1927, he said, we bought nearly $119,000,000 worth of this, forming about a quarter of all our purchases from Canada. The Dominion, sending us several million dollars more of newspaper annually than we ourselves produce in the United States, now furnishes nine-tenths of all the paper of this character, that we import from abroad.

Dr. Klein called special attention to the bumper wheat crop of more than $500,000,000 bushels that is now being harvested in Canada. "The growth in Canadian wheat acreage during the present century has been amazing," he continued. "In 1900 only 3,600,000 acres were devoted to that crop, while in 1928 the wheat area is estimated at nearly 39,000,000 acres—nearly 11 times as much." Isolated farms in northern Alberta, Dr. Klein said, have produced 80 bushels of wheat to the acre, against an average of 17 for Canada as a whole.

"Canada is entering vigorously upon the industrial age, characterized, among other things, by big combinations," Dr. Klein said. He directed attention, also, to the fact that at the beginning of this year American investments in Canada amounted to more than $3,000,000,000—representing nearly a quarter of the total that we now have outstanding in loans and investments abroad. There are more than a thousand American branch plants in the Dominion, the speaker said.

Value of Duplicated Manuscripting Great $500 Ayr to Oil Belt

PHILADELPHIA.—Duplicated literary stocks have jumped in value as have the immortal "Pickwick Papers," according to J. J. Eckel, leading American authority on Dickens. Eckel estimates that the value on the "Pickwick Club" has increased in value $500 a year for the past 32 years.

The Dickensian authority told of the unassuming beginning of the "Pickwick Papers" to the Pennsylvania Library club. He described the plans, in an effort "flop" until Dickens in his serial, injected interest in a character in the fourth installment and saw his failure turn into a tremendous success.

Eckel said the "Pickwick Papers" has been the most popular press book written since 1836, and has never been out of circulation.

The last of his original was disposed of for $16,300 in New York. Richard Phillips, Philadelphia, owns the most valuable of the set. He paid $2,300 for a corrected Part II, and $1,000 for a Part III, reasonably priced in comparison to later sales.

LEWISVILLE.—City tax rate for 1928 reduced 20 cents on $100.

Meditate—

Your Neighbor Will Take Better Care of You Than a Stranger . . .

Consider these things—before you mail your orders out of town. The dollar that you spend out of town is gone forever. The dollar that you spend at home—stays here and works. Whether it goes into civic improvements, via taxes, better schools, churches, streets—or whether it simply goes into more merchandise for your next needs—it circulates at home. Remember your neighbor will take better care of you than a stranger. It is his interest to do so. His future depends on his winning and holding your confidence and friendship—and he's right here to make good any mistakes. When you help the home merchant, the home industry—they in turn help build up your town—thus making greater and better opportunities for you and your children. Spending money at home is putting a mortgage on it to come back to you—spending it away from home is bidding it goodbye. And your home purchase is better, for you can see and measure its value—before you part with your money. Not so "the cat in the bag" you buy from the distant point. Don't mail your order until you have considered these things—and you won't mail it at all. Sikeston, Missouri, Standard.

Little Boys Avert Possible Robbery of El Paso Bank

EL PASO, Sept. 7.—Walter Roundtree, 9, and two of his chums were looking at a collection of rare coins in a window of the First National Bank here.

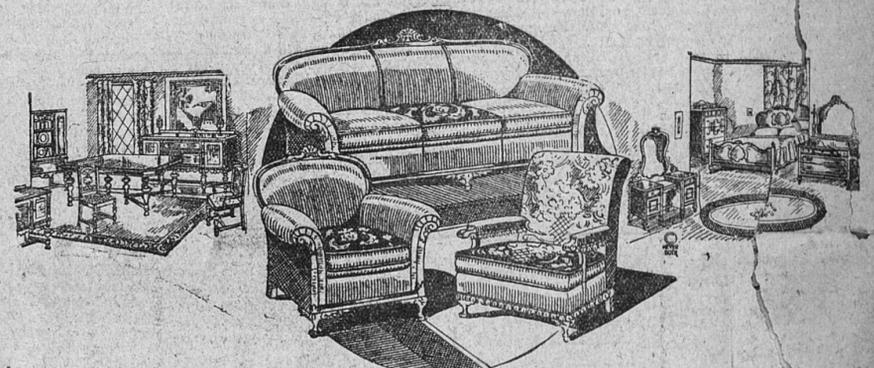

While leaning against the door, it swung open and the boys went inside to get a better look, but finding the bank empty they decided the door had been left unlocked by mistake.

Walter stayed to guard the door while the other two ran for a policeman. The policeman was found and the door was locked.

FORECAST OF FASHIONS

Fashion is such a fleeting thing perhaps it is this quality that makes it so beloved by mankind in general. There is nothing in our makeup that lags for the new. The useful new clothes coming as they do with every season give a new interest in life and as fall they are especially interesting because they seem to bring out all those lovely lines that enhance woman's charms. The coats for fall have a plentiful supply of fur, the cuffs are deep and peaked with the buttons in various positions. One of the most pronounced colors for fall is black, beige remains important and cocoa follows closely, but of all these, black accented with beige, is the one selecting your fall wardrobe, it behooves you to consider the fabrics you choose serious—and it is rather difficult to lose what is new for fall about a little information tucked away in your head. For that reason we want you to follow us as we tip you off to what is in the world of fabrics for 1928. Mrs. Dave Wolf has in New York for the past month and is very capable of giving you the newest fashions of this fall. She has been spending all of her time in the New York shops studying the leading styles and sending them to the Boston Store in Eastland. We are going to tell you all about it, so you will please note the following:

Hipline Feature of Frocks. Perhaps the most outstanding feature of the daytime frock for fall is the snug, swathed hipline. The waistline continues at the level of the hip.

The only resemblance that day frocks bear to each other as to line is a negative one—not a single dress has a high or fitted collar. One run-about frock styled lines has an orange gerie vestee with a soft, round collar—but all the others open in some way—round or shaped, or knotted, or buttoned, or stitched.

A smart almond-green dress with a square cut-out hemline lends to its general appeal the stitched bands that trim the neck line (buttoned on the left) that also trim the open cuffs, also buttoned, and trim the side of the crushed girdle. A skirt is a matter of graceful lines fitting smoothly at the waist.

Many Variations Noted. The smaller the design the better the frock of transparent velvet. They are being worn in rather a modernistic conception of design and in many cases variations are achieved by using tone on tone in a sort of shaded effect. In many cases they simulate tweeds, as their designs are so small, and this treatment is especially noteworthy because it conceals any signs of crushing or creasing.

For the daytime dress, black in stands far and away at the head of the fashion list for fall. It follows very closely and there are many shades of beige that are being shown in semi-colored day models. Satin in all lovely pastel shades that men love so well is extremely important for evening wear.

Tea rose pinks, black, rachel beige are important shades for evening. Chiffon is very important for evening as is also silk or silk net. Lace frocks are very important also in fall evening wear.

Woolen Goods Materials. Tweeds, rough woolsens and adcloths are the principal materials in woolen goods. Sports frock models are being shown in dark yarn weaves for ensembles well as separate coats. In the ensembles these woolsens appear striking pattern and color effects while the coats take to classic tweed in over block or gonal effects, intermediate terms, jumper effects and sometimes diagonal lines.

Effects of the jumper type are sweater-like blouses of knit fabrics, including cashmeres, rous knitted Rodier fabrics, nity lace net effects and plain styled jerseys. It seems that they will go on forever in the girls wear realm of fashion. It will be perfectly safe in seeing this in soft violet shades, purple, beige shades, navy blends of green. Blue is also very important color.

Velvetten Is Favored. One of the surprises in the Paris offerings was the emphasis placed on velvet for fall. Velvetten coats will be extremely smart as separate garments and also as part of ensembles with dresses of other fabrics. The younger set will see to this idea very happily, velvetten has always been one of the favored fabrics, and collars and cuffs of it fur are seen on these coats of velvetten. It is smart this season to use three harmonizing tones in one costume. For instance, in a two-piece light brown jersey frock, with yoke and vestee of brown crepe de chine cut in one piece, patches of crepe de chine in three shades of brown decorate the overblouse on each side of the vestee.

In fashioning the woolen frocks for your fall wardrobe, it is important to remember that the tight hipline is one of the most important fashion features for fall. Sleeves also effect the wrap around treatment to give the tight fit that is so important in woolen fabrics.

And This Is What They Said. One can imagine the conversation thus:

Jean: "Bess, do go and get your new hat and show the girls. I just caught a glimpse of it as you came in. It looked simply stunning on you. And tell us where you found it."

Bess: "Well, I like it ever so much myself." (Gets it and puts it on in front of a glass.)

Rest of the "girls": "Simply adorable; so smart; Suits you better than any other! The lines are exactly right for you!"

Bess: "If you want to know, I found it in that new millinery store that just opened on Main Street. She didn't offer me a lot of small-sized flapper bonnets that I can never get on my head, either. And there were plenty to choose from that I could wear. She is holding a lovely velvet hat for me, one of those you think isn't so much when you have it in your hand, but is simply wonderful on."

At the Stocking Counter.

Let us imagine milady at the stocking counter, about to purchase her hosiery for her sports costume.

She: "Please let me see something in beige for my golf suit."

Salesgirl: "Here are two of the latest arrivals. This silk pair has attractive clox in modern design, while this other pair is lighter weight silk and uses a more delicate design in general."

Directions to New U. of T. Students Should Be Heeded

AUSTIN.—Prospective students intending to enter the University of Texas this fall for the first time have been urged to send in their credentials early, at least by Sept. 15, and failing that, to bring them when they come to register, according to Registrar E. J. Mathews.

"Letters were mailed to prospective students some time ago, asking them to send in their credentials at once," Mr. Mathews said. "Sometimes, additional work in the summer would have made it possible for an applicant to be admitted if he had only known about it in time, and often that enables a student to make a much better schedule in the fall."

"The next best suggestion for new students was to get their credentials into my hands by Sept. 1, and many have complied with that request. If the student cannot send them in before Sept. 15, he should not send them at all, but should bring them with him."

"The poorest way for a new student to come is without the scriptural 'wedding garments,' meaning credits, and yet it is far better to come that way than not at all. It must be remembered in this connection, however, that the student cannot be registered until his

Letters of welcome and suggestions about registration have also been mailed to all students who were enrolled in the university during the past long session and last summer, according to Mr. Mathews.

"Candidates for degrees in the college of arts and sciences in June, 1929, are urged to register early," Mr. Mathews pointed out. "This method will greatly facilitate the registration process and will avoid much of the attendant confusion during the registration period."

"It is also important that students wishing to transfer from one department to another secure a permit from the registrar's office in advance."

Since the university has become so large and many of its regulations so complex, freshmen and new students are urged to attend the series of convocations which are to be held during the first three days of registration, Registrar Mathews added. Programs for these meetings have been prepared with considerable care, in order to give the newcomers as good background of university rules, regulations and traditions as possible.

On Thursday, Sept. 20, two meetings for all freshmen will be held, one Thursday morning and the other Thursday evening. Singing of Texas songs will be led by

Public-Spirited Men Bring Great Game to Oil Belt

Mrs. Eteka Schmidt Lynn. Speakers for the morning program will be the Rev. Lawrence Wharton, pastor of the University Presbyterian church; President Y. H. Benedict; Byron Skeiton of Groom, president of the Students' association; Spurgeon Bell of Austin, president of the University Y. M. C. A.; Marian McDowell of Lockhart, president of the University Y. W. C. A.; and W. L. McGill, president of the Ex-Students' association.

Thursday evening, the new students will be addressed by Dr. C. P. Hardwicke, chief of the university health service; Dr. H. T. Parlin, dean of the college of arts and sciences; and Registrar E. J. Mathews. Following the talks, a faculty reception honoring the newcomers will be held on the campus, under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A.

On Saturday morning, freshmen girls will be addressed by Miss Ruby Terrill, dean of women, who will introduce Miss Anna Hiss, director of physical training for women; Dr. Caroline Crowell, physician for women; Miss Ione Spears, Y. W. C. A. secretary, and members of the staff of the dean of women's office.

Freshmen boys will be addressed by V. L. Moore, dean of student life, who will present to them Clyde Littlefield, head football coach; Arno Nowotny, assistant dean of men; J. A. McCurdy, secretary of the Ex-Students' association; Gail Whitcomb, chairman of the men's honor council; W. A. Smith, Y. M. C. A. secretary, and others.

Two public-spirited citizens and ardent football fans of Breckenridge deserve praise for bringing to the Oil Belt the football classic of West Texas—the battle between Simmons university of Abilene and Texas Christian university of Fort Worth. The game will be played in Breckenridge, on Saturday, Oct. 6.

J. D. Sandefer, Jr., son of the president of Simmons and one of the most successful young oil men of this section, and Milton Daniel, attorney, oil man and former football star and catch, are the men who made it possible for the fans of the Oil Belt to witness the two great elevens in action.

Daniel is a member of the board of trustees of T. C. U. and for two seasons he was football coach of the Horned Frogs. While a member of the University of Texas team, he was unanimous choice as All-Southwestern fullback.

The game will be played on the beautiful Buckaroo field which has been transformed since last season. The gridiron is covered with grass and is surrounded by a magnificent steel stadium with a seating capacity of 8,000. The alumni of the two institutions—Simmons and T. C. U.—are planning to attend the game in great numbers and great interest in the game is being aroused in cities throughout this territory.

Frank Bridges, former Baylor and Olympic club coach, is the mentor of Simmons while Matty Bell who produced such stars as Rags Matthews, Johnny Washmon, Blair Cherry and Tricky Ward, is the veteran coach of T. C. U. While in past seasons, the Horned Frogs would rank as a much superior team to the Cowboys, the southwestern conference machine this year has hit heavily by graduation while Simmons, with a veteran squad reinforced by two former Olympic club players, is actually given an even chance at this time to win the game.

More Money for Farmers' Prizes

DALLAS, Sept. 7.—Prize money for the agricultural exhibits of the State Fair of Texas has been increased from $10,000 to $12,000 for the 1928 show, according to J. A. Moore, superintendent of that department.

More counties have enlisted in the general agricultural move for the show this year and more club boys and girls have worked with a view to displaying results of this year's efforts.

Seventy-five counties of the state are competing in the five-year contest started by the State Fair of Texas in 1926.

READ THE WANT-ADS

Perhaps the most outstanding feature of the daytime frock for fall is the snug, swathed hipline. The waistline continues at the level of the hip.

The only resemblance that day frocks bear to each other as to line is a negative one—not a single dress has a high or fitted collar. One run-about frock styled lines has an orange gerie vestee with a soft, round collar—but all the others open in some way—round or shaped, or knotted, or buttoned, or stitched.

A smart almond-green dress with a square cut-out hemline lends to its general appeal the stitched bands that trim the neck line (buttoned on the left) that also trim the open cuffs, also buttoned, and trim the side of the crushed girdle. A skirt is a matter of graceful lines fitting smoothly at the waist.

Many Variations Noted. The smaller the design the better the frock of transparent velvet. They are being worn in rather a modernistic conception of design and in many cases variations are achieved by using tone on tone in a sort of shaded effect. In many cases they simulate tweeds, as their designs are so small, and this treatment is especially noteworthy because it conceals any signs of crushing or creasing.

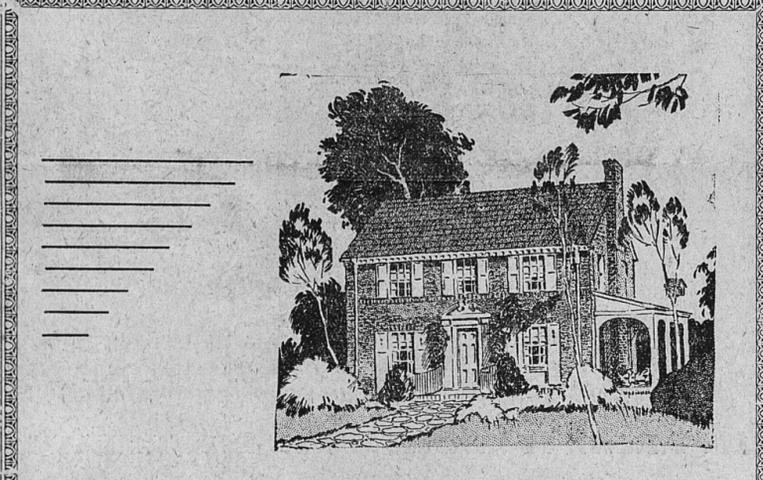

For the daytime dress, black in stands far and away at the head of the fashion list for fall. It follows very closely and there are many shades of beige that are being shown in semi-colored day models. Satin in all lovely pastel shades that men love so well is extremely important for evening wear.

Tea rose pinks, black, rachel beige are important shades for evening. Chiffon is very important for evening as is also silk or silk net. Lace frocks are very important also in fall evening wear.

Woolen Goods Materials. Tweeds, rough woolsens and adcloths are the principal materials in woolen goods. Sports frock models are being shown in dark yarn weaves for ensembles well as separate coats. In the ensembles these woolsens appear striking pattern and color effects while the coats take to classic tweed in over block or gonal effects, intermediate terms, jumper effects and sometimes diagonal lines.

Effects of the jumper type are sweater-like blouses of knit fabrics, including cashmeres, rous knitted Rodier fabrics, nity lace net effects and plain styled jerseys. It seems that they will go on forever in the girls wear realm of fashion. It will be perfectly safe in seeing this in soft violet shades, purple, beige shades, navy blends of green. Blue is also very important color.

Velvetten Is Favored. One of the surprises in the Paris offerings was the emphasis placed on velvet for fall. Velvetten coats will be extremely smart as separate garments and also as part of ensembles with dresses of other fabrics. The younger set will see to this idea very happily, velvetten has always been one of the favored fabrics, and collars and cuffs of it

GERMANY BEGINS TO PAY A GREATER REPARATION

BERLIN. — Germany entered her first standard Dawes year in which she will pay two and a half billion marks in reparations to the allied government.

When the Dawes plan went into operation in September, 1924, the German republic was called on to hand over to the agent general for reparations, S. Parker Gilbert, one billion marks. Every year thereafter approximately a quarter of a billion marks was added until the total of 1,750,000,000 was reached in 1927-28. On Sept. 1, however, Germany made a sudden jump of 750,000,000 marks to the standard payment of two and a half billion. Hereafter, for at least a few decades—unless the situation changes—the Berlin government will pay in reparations at least the standard sum of this year, but perhaps even more if the country prospers.

Today the pessimists and optimists are engaged in their usual polemic. Some cry loudly that Germany will go bankrupt under this unprecedented national burden. Others point to the record of previous years and submit that 65,000,000 hard working Germans will carry the load with ease.

Pessimists were downed. The pessimists have their false prophecies of the past against them. From the very beginning, many serious authorities doubted Germany's capacity to pay. Not only did they doubt but they could, to their own satisfaction, prove every dark prognostication with columns of statistics and rows of principles. Then the Dawes year came to an end and Gilbert calmly reported that Germany had met her reparation obligations punctually and in full.

This occurred year after year. Every summer the critics would argue: "Well, we managed somehow to settle the bill last year but how can we pay a quarter of a billion more?" Time discomfited them again and again.

Now, however, the pessimists feel that they have better ammunition. For today the reparations total goes up not one quarter of a billion marks but three-quarters. "This is too much," they submit. "The load will break our backs." These people will have their answer at the end of this Dawes year and it will probably disprove their contentions once again. More and more, German experts as well as foreigners are accepting the view that the experts' plan is a perfect instrument for the collection of reparations for allied exchequers. If the experience of the last four years has shown that Germany can and does pay regularly, it also has established the principle that Germany settles her reparations debts only because she receives huge loans. Without the many loans from the United States, Germany, most authorities agree, could never have covered each year's Dawes installment. The fact of the matter is that Germany is paying the allies with American money.

Depends on Loans.
As long as enough gold and dollars flow in from New York, the Berlin government will be in a position to bring Gilbert's account with the reichsbank up to the level required by the plan. But if for some possible reason the influx of loans ceases or is seriously diminished, the success of the plan would be seriously endangered. This, today, is the general consensus both here and abroad.

Now just as it may not be wise for an individual to borrow without limit, so a nation can suffer from excessive borrowing. Last year, Gilbert warned against the dangers of such a situation, and German business circles too feel that, apart from all other disadvantages, the mere burden of interest on foreign loans has become a terrible strain on industry and commerce.

Moreover, if the credit situation in the United States developed in such a way as to retard the movement of loans to Germany, the Dawes plan would conceivably be faced by the most serious trial since its inception in 1924.

Severe Test in Prospect.
The Dawes year which begins today will therefore be a severe test of the efficiency and efficiency of the Dawes plan. It should be said that the German government and German financial circles have no wish or intention of making Gilbert's task more onerous than it is. They have co-operated with him and propose to continue to do so. Under the circumstances, failure of the plan to achieve its aim would only be attributable to the insoluble, objective difficulties in the case and would call for an international conference to amend the present scheme for the collection of reparations.

Germany, in other words, sits quietly waiting for test of time to be applied to the plan. If no obstruction occurs, all is well. If a stoppage develops, it will not be Germany's fault. The reich, however, does present one central demand: it wishes to have the allies fix the total of reparations. At present, the sum Germany must pay next year is definitely determined, but how much she will be asked to transfer to Gilbert's account in 1930 or thereafter depends on a variety of circumstances. Moreover, and this is perhaps most important—Germany does not know to this day how many years it will be harassed by the responsibility of paying reparations. Such uncertainty, the Germans maintain, creates an impossible business situation and a trying psychological problem.

In Hollywood's 'Movie' World

United Press Staff Correspondent HOLLYWOOD.—An interesting comparison between the old days and the modern in filmland was given by J. Barney Sherry, who recently completed an important role in "Forgotten Faces," a mystery crook melodrama.

Twenty-three years ago Sherry played the lead in a motion picture made in the old Vitagraph studio atop the Morse building in New York. That picture also was a crook melodrama, "Raffles, the Amateur Cracksman," and it ran the almost unheard-of length of 1,000 feet of film.

"Forgotten Faces" is 7,500 film feet long. "Raffles, the Amateur Cracksman," was one of the three first "story pictures" made and helped establish the vogue of mystery and crook melodrama.

Production of those story pictures was said to have kept the film industry alive, at a time when the public already had begun to tire of snappy episodes depicted on a few feet of film.

Theodore Roberts' well-known cigar deserves its notoriety.

The actor, now with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, claims the world championship for non-stop cigar smoking.

"My record," Roberts said, "is 72 cigars in one scene. It was in 'The Immigrant,' made back in the old days with Valdeska Suratt in the feminine lead. We played the scene straight through with the cigar growing shorter and shorter. At the end I was to die with the butt of the cigar clenched in my teeth.

"What with rehearsals and retakes, I smoked 72 in one day and, believe me, when it was over, I knew I had smoked enough for one day."

Edwin Carewe has announced purchase from George Scarborough, well-known playwright and author, of an original story "Deported" for the next starring vehicle of Dolores del Rio.

The story is of the life of a little Polish girl, who sought happiness in coming to America. Carewe was expected to confer with Joseph Schenck when he meets the United Artists' chief in Paris next month. Schenck is in Europe and Carewe will take Miss Del Rio on a tour of foreign countries in August.

"Rent my used car," is the answer of a number of Hollywood residents. "What I would do if I went broke." Hollywood is paradise for the second hand car, according to Fred Niblo, director.

THERE IS A GOD (By R. L. Taylor)

I sat in a great theatre in the national capital. It was thronged with youth and beauty, old age and wisdom. I saw a man, the image of his God, standing upon the stage, and I heard him speak. His gestures were the perfection of grace, his voice was music, and his language was more beautiful than any I had heard from mortal lips.

He painted picture after picture of the joys and pleasures and sympathies of home. He enthroned love and preached the gospel of humanity like an angel. Then I saw him dip his brush in the ink of mortal blackness and blot out the beautiful pictures he had painted. I saw him stab love dead at his feet, I saw him blot out the stars and the sun, and leave humanity and the universe in eternal blackness and eternal death.

I saw him, like the serpent of old, worm himself into the paradise of human hearts and, by his seductive eloquence and subtle devices and sophistry, inject his fatal venom, under whose blight its flowers faded, its music was hushed, its sunshine was darkened, and its soul was made a desert waste with only the new-made graves of hope and faith.

I saw him, like an erratic, lawless meteor without an orbit, sweep across the intellectual sky, brilliant only in self-consuming fire, generated by friction with the indestructible and eternal truths of God.

Whence and what, if not God, is this mystery we call the human mind? What is it that thinks and feels and knows and acts? Oh, who can deny that divinity stirs within us? The flowers of the field rising from countless graves; the unfolding leaves of the forest, heralding the approach of summer; the orchards and the meadows bursting into bloom, and myriads of winged minstrels filling the world with melody, are the evangelists of the Lord, demonstrating before our very eyes the universal victory of life over death.

God is everywhere and in everything. His majesty is in every bud and blossom and leaf and tree in every rock and hill and vale and mountain; in every spring and rivulet and river. The rustle of His wings is in every zephyr; His might is in every tempest; He dwells in the dark pavilions of every storm-cloud. The lightning is His messenger and the thunder is His voice. His awful tread is in every earthquake and on every angry ocean. The heavens above us teem with His shining witnesses. The universe of solar systems, whose wheeling orbs course the crystal paths of space, proclaim through the dread halls of eternity the glory and honor and dominion of the all-wise, omnipotent and eternal God.

STONEWALL JACKSON (By Moses D. Hoge)

The greatness of Stonewall Jackson was an unconscious greatness. It was the supreme devotion to what he thought was duty. Hence he studied no dramatic effects. When among the mountains, pyramids older than those to which the first Napoleon pointed, he did not remind his men that the centuries were looking down upon them. When on the plains, he drilled no eagles to perch upon his banners, as the third Napoleon is said to have done.

The letter written to his pastor at Lexington the day after the first battle of Manassas gives the keynote to his character. Preceding any accurate account of that event, a crowd had gathered around the postoffice, awaiting with intense interest the opening of the mail. The first letter was handed to the Rev. Dr. White. It was from General Jackson. "Now we shall know all," said his reverent friend. "But he opened the letter to read:

"My dear pastor: In my tent last night, after a fatiguing day's service, I remembered that I had failed to send you my contribution to our colored Sunday school. Enclosed you will find my check for that object. Yours faithfully,

"Thomas J. Jackson." Not a word about a conflict which electrified a nation. Not an allusion to the splendid part he had taken in it! Not a reference to himself beyond the fact that it had been a fatiguing day's service! And yet that was a day ever memorable in his history—memorable in all history—when he received the name destined to supplant the name his parents gave him—Stonewall Jackson.

In the State where all that is mortal of this dead hero sleeps, there is a natural bridge of rock whose massive arch, fashioned with grace by the hand of God, springs lightly toward the sky, spanning a chasm into whose depths the beholder looks down bewildered and awe-struck. But its grandeur is not diminished because tender vines clamber over its gigantic piers or because sweet flowers nestle in its crevices. Nor is the granite strength of Jackson's character weakened because in every throb of his heart there was a pulsation ineffably and exquisitely tender. The hum of bees, the fragrance of clover fields, the streaks of dawn, the dewy brightness of early spring, the mellow glories of mature autumn, all in turn charmed and tranquilized him.

The eye that flashed amid the smoke of battle grew soft in contemplating the beauty of a flower. The ear that thrilled with the thunder of cannonade drank in with innocent delight the song of birds and the prattle of children's voices. The voice whose sharp and ringing tones had so often been heard uttering the command: "Give them the bayonet!" called even from foreign tongues terms of endearment. And the man who filled two hemispheres with his fame was never so happy as when telling the colored children of his Sunday school the story of the Cross.

Henry Bentin was born in Nakel, Posen, Germany, 72 years ago. He moved to Iowa when a child and the family later came to New Orleans.

HEN PLACED UNDER KNIFE

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—"Sassy Sue" is back on the job of laying an egg a day after undergoing a major operation here.

The prize hen, owned by Herbert M. Burns, for a year has been his pride because of the blue ribbons and prize money she has won with her efficiency in egg laying. The hen apparently believed that an egg a day would keep the axe away.

But one day recently, Sue failed to lay her usual egg. The same condition continued for a week and she grew despondent. A poultry specialist decided an immediate operation was necessary.

A. G. Cannon, poultry expert at West Tennessee State Teachers' College, was selected to lay bare the inner life of the hen.

Eight fully developed eggs, four of which had hard shells, were removed from the hen's body. One of the hard-shelled eggs had cracked and caused the trouble.

Now is the time to cease forever the practice of paying tribute in the form of rent.

CHIEF SENDS TOBACCO TO CONVICT THAT HE CAUGHT

(From the Ranger Times)
 Chief of Police Jim Ingram was preparing to make a little more cheery the life of a boy he had sent to the penitentiary—he was going to send the boy a carton of "the makings."
 A few months ago Ingram arrested the young man here after he had tried to sell Whitey Davis, former member of the police department, a car for $50. Ingram investigated the man and his record and found he had stolen a Chrysler roadster at Poyte, traded it to a man for the other car after the roadster had broken down, and brought the new car here. He was taken to Midland where he pleaded his own case and lost. He was given two years in the penitentiary.

Today Ingram received a letter from the boy, who is stationed at Harlem Farm No. 1, Richmond.
 "To date I have seven months of my sentence to my credit," the letter said, "and during this time I have thought considerably of you and Whitey and I have also considered the folly of my offense. I see now that it does not pay in doing wrong. My arrest has opened my eyes to the fact and I now see that the only way is the right way. I have made every effort to keep a clean slate and clear record and I am proud to say that so far it is without a blemish. I am only in hopes that I can keep the remaining 15 months as such. In the meantime I hope you will help me all you are capable of doing. I have planned to return to Ranger where I am sure that with your help I can obtain a job.
 "There are quite a few boys here who are acquainted with you and they all speak well of you.
 "Have been picking cotton for a month or so and we have made 570 bales with about three weeks more to go. So I suppose that in that time we will make that much again.
 "For old times' sake, I wonder if you could oblige me with a carton of Bull Durham. I have no one on the outside to help me so you see my situation being here without a thing.

 "The first time you see my friend Irby Dyer, sheriff of Ward county, tell him I send my best regards and that I am getting along fine.
 "Have you seen the party that the Star car belonged to? Has he traded for any more Chrysler roadsters?"

G. E. Merrick is the discoverer and he wishes he hadn't found it. He's practically certain he'll never make any money out of his process of doing something world renowned scientists have been unable to do.
 Merrick was a convict at Blue Ridge Farm and was one of 18 men, four of whom died, who were injured in an explosion of movie film. He was baldheaded and was badly burned about the head.

Now he displays little tufts of hair coming through the seared spots of his head.
 "But I'd rather have stayed baldheaded," he said.
 Merrick, with Archie Baine, is the last of the injured convicts to remain in the hospital. Baine must have skin grafted on his arm before he can recover.

At this year's session, coaches were present from Texas, Arkansas, Mississippi and Alabama, about 50 being present.

Golfer, Unjinxed, Has Won a String of 17 Big Meets

NEW YORK.—The feeling general among the golfers is that a medalist in any tournament is followed by a jinxing, shadow-treading jinx, who, nine times out of ten, refuses to leave the scene of combat until his victim meets defeat in match play.
 George Voigt, former Bannockburn Country Club ace, of Washington, D. C., and now a member of the North Hills Golf and Country Club of Douglaston, L. I., is one golfer, however, who has defied the jinx during the last three years, and in addition he has compiled a most brilliant record in match play, winning 63 consecutive matches and 17 consecutive tournaments before being stopped recently by George Dawson, of the Westchester-Biltmore Country Club, of Rye, N. Y.

Voigt inserted the thread of winning effort in golf's shuttle in May, 1926, and from that time until a few weeks ago, when he met defeat at Dawson's hands, his looms turned out naught but cloth of the most brilliant hues.
 During the period named above, Voigt, just to show that the jinx stuff is largely a matter of mental attitude, won 10 qualifying medals, and each time won the final round of the tournament a few days later. The gods of golf, who three years ago assigned a jinx to Voigt's precinct, have long since retired the fellow in order to preserve their dignity. They found that in Voigt's case it is a question of a jinx wasted.
 Voigt, while winning 17 consecutive tournaments and 63 matches, as well as 10 qualifying medals, was not allowed to continue on his peaceful golfing way, however. There were those—and there still are—who did not take kindly to the brilliant achievements of the Bannockburn star. His successes caused not a few heartaches throughout several sections of the country, the Washington district especially.
 As a result of this feeling Voigt was accused of exploiting his game for financial reward—which, so they say, is contrary to the sort of department expected of a gentleman golfer—or athlete of any species.

 Not a little of this feeling of antagonism toward Voigt was said to have been due to the fact that he defeated, among other Washington stars, Roland MacKenzie, of the Columbia Club (who plays only with the nicest sort of people), five times out of six attempts.

As all followers of golf in this country are aware, MacKenzie has twice been selected to represent this country in international competition for the Walker Cup, and Voigt has yet to see a single official hand waving him to a seat among the mighty of Walker club choice. The fact that Voigt has defeated MacKenzie five out of six times has rankled in the breasts of many Washingtonians, but, as far as the former's game is concerned, he would seem to have given the matter little attention.

Pyle Got Him

Americans will have a chance to see El Ouaf, the Algerian who outran the world's greatest marathon runners in the Olympic games, if the rumor that he has agreed to come to this country for C. C. Pyle is true. He is said to have accepted an offer of $20,000 for a series of races in this country.

"COATLESS" CAMPAIGN

ROME—A "coatless" campaign started by the students of Rome and sponsored by a section of the press, has met with some unexpected opposition here. Italians have always been sticklers for etiquette in the matter of dress, and the American habit of working in shirt sleeves during the torrid days of summer has never been fully approved.

Some of the devotees of the coatless movement have discovered to their surprise that the city regulations forbid men to enter the street cars carrying their coats on their arms. Several heated protests have followed the injunctions of the trolley car attendants ordering passengers to put on their coats, and a number of those who have refused have been obliged to get off the cars.

The students declare they will make the movement triumph, and have arranged a coatless demonstration as propaganda for the new summer movement.

Big Fight Card For Convention

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 7.—Kid Pancho, San Antonio bantamweight, has been signed to meet Jimmy McDermott, of Terre Haute, in the eight-round semi-windup of the special fight card to be staged at Fort Sam Houston stadium for the American Legion national convention on Oct. 9.

Announcement of the signing was made by First Lieutenant B. N. Jones, assistant athletic director at the fort and promoter of the Legion go.

Sergeant Sammy Baker and Pete August were signed several weeks ago for the main bout. Baker is now the ranking contender for the world's welterweight title, with August rated as third or fourth in the division as a result of his showing recently.
 Arrangements for the other bouts, including a set-to between leading middleweights, are being concluded.

Tickets for the fight went on sale Aug. 20 and the best seats now available are in the fourth row, ringside, Lieutenant James said. He is not absent from the fort on a trip boosting the show, expecting to make stops at Seguin, Cuero, Victoria, Goliad, Corpus Christi, Beeville, Kenedy and Floresville. In addition to these which are already scheduled, James will make several trips before the day of the fight.

Vote on Highways for Brown County, Coming Up Oct. 1

BROWNWOOD, Sept. 7.—For the third time voters of Brown county will go to the polls in a special election Oct. 1 to ballot on a proposed $1,650,000 road bond issue.

The issue has twice been defeated by close majorities. The issue aroused much comment here and a close vote is expected.

The bond issue is being pushed by the Young Men's Good Roads association of the county. Under the leadership of Frey Hayes, local hotel owner, they have secured the endorsement of every civic club in the county for the issue.

Did You Ever Stop To Think?

G. Clifford Jones, editor of the Orange (N. J.) Daily Courier, says:

That advertising begins at home.

It begins when a business man hops out of bed and under the shower. It continues with the dressing and shaving. It is present in the good spirits that the breakfast table of a happy home should engender.

And then the advertising end of his business finds expression in his own attitude about the store or the office, for as he thinks and acts so will his organization react. He thus advertises himself and his business to those he employs.

That kind of advertising is reflected in the way his employees meet his customers. The ready smile; the willingness to take pains; the attitude of service is good advertising.

And then advertising finds expression in his stocks. They must measure up to the expectations engendered by a decent smile and of course they must be properly displayed.

I recall the man who advertised some wares he wanted to get rid of. He didn't tell his department heads about it and they of course didn't tell the sales people. Customers asked for the goods and the salespeople and the department heads knew nothing about them. The customer went out in a huff. She said it was just an old game to get people into the store.

And so I say, advertising begins at home and stocks out in every act connected with the business.

Tough Spot for Barney

The gentlemen who own the Pittsburgh ball club will be in a rather tight place if the ball club should crash through and win the National League pennant, or, not so many days ago, they committed themselves quite definitely to a plan to get a new manager for the 1929 season.

Even if the club should not win the pennant it might not be a popular move with the cash customers to depreciate the manager because much of the sadness of the early days of the season would have been forgotten by the more pleasant memories of the fine last-summer charge the Pirates made.

If Donie Bush should crash his club through to another pennant it would not be evidence of a great big grateful heart if the club owners should give Bush the air. But such things have been done before.

The gentleman who owns the Phillies once rewarded Pat Moran for winning a pennant for him by pinning the little pink slip on his pay check and, more recently, the gentlemen who own the St. Louis club decorated Rogers Hornsby with a fine can after he had produced the first National League pennant ever captured in St. Louis.

He's Sick of Them, Too

But there may be an out for the gentlemen of the Pittsburgh club regardless of what happens between now and Oct. 1. If the Pittsburgh owners are fed up on Busch, he is said to be equally sick of them and it is understood that he told friends in mid-season that he didn't want to linger in Pittsburgh after this season.

The fact that the Pittsburghs lost so many games in the early season was due no doubt to the number of sick and disabled men who had to sit on the bench with their managers. But the owners and some of the customers complained that many games were lost that could have been won if Mr. Bush was a disciple of different baseball tactics. The second guess usually is good. And the exercise of the second guess did make Mr. Bush look wrong on numerous occasions.

If You Had Done—

In wielding the second guess there are things to be considered that are not always considered by the guessers.

Some of the things that have to be considered were mentioned recently when the manager of another major league club was talking over his experiences this season. He is the employer of an old time player who has been recognized in the past for his interference with his managers.

"We always have gotten along fine together," the manager said. "He hasn't interfered with me but he has an annoying way of telling you at the dinner table what you could have done to win the ball game. He still plays the game of his day. He is first, last and always a one-run man. He believes you never make a mistake by playing for one run. These tactics are all right if you can feel secure behind your pitcher and if you could knock off one run in every inning."

Has to Have Plenty
"But with my ball club I never can be sure that a pitcher will have the hazard hanging over me that they will get to the pitcher for three or four runs in the next inning. So when the occasion arises where I can play for one run safely or gamble on two runs or three runs I usually gamble for a brace of them. I'm wrong a lot of times, perhaps, but that's the only way I can see to play the game under the circumstances."

DID YOU KNOW THAT—
Miller Huggins thinks the Giants will cop in the National League. . . . And he said the same thing six weeks ago. . . . And so did Bucky Harris. . . . The hat check girls in the hotels say they know why so many of the ball players went for the college tad of going bareheaded. . . . Duster Mails (yeh, the ball player) wears a mask and rocks the leading lady in "The Desert Song." . . . Bud Taylor also had a sub-mucous resection in California. . . . Marquette University will do its football traveling in a gold-colored private sleeping car. . . . And there's a glass-enclosed and heated press box in the new marquette stadium. . . . All of the new middle western stadia have swell places for the press. . . . The Babe is said to have sacrificed his chance for a new home record. . . . And changed his stance to get little hits to help the team. . . . When rain stopped one early round of the National tennis championships the bosses told the girls they would have to play double-headed the next day. . . . They wanted the tournament to finish on a Saturday to get the big dough. . . . But Helen said, "No double header for me." . . . And that was that.

Washington Letter

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
WASHINGTON—What a grand show it would be if President Coolidge and Secretary of the Treasury Any Mellon were to set out on horseback at the head of a body of troops, to enforce the liquor laws in some wet city like Chicago!

Where Rockford Flyers Landed

Making their way over a 50-mile stretch of icy Greenland waste, the Rockford-to-Greenland flyers, Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, were saved when they found a party of the University of Michigan's Greenland expedition near Mount Evans. The expedition, in the far north seeking the causes of storms and other weather data, took Hassell and Cramer to Mount Evans Observatory. A picture of the Michigan men at work, giving an idea of the kind of "landing field" the Rockford, Ill. flyers had, is shown above, with a map of the region where they landed, and Professor W. H. Hobbs, head of the university expedition, whose radio dispatch told the world of the flyers' safety after hope had practically been abandoned.

That was exactly what President George Washington and Secretary of the Treasury Alexander Hamilton did in 1794, while the nation was engaged for the first time in grappling the prohibition problem.

In one form or another, the demon rum has been so long a national issue as to lend color to the idea sometimes expressed that it will be with us unto the end of time. The Indians became prohibition's first victims when white colonists, deciding that they were too uncivilized to carry their fire-water like gentlemen, cut off their supply. A temperance society was organized in Connecticut as early as 1789.

Liquor became a real national issue in 1791. Then, for the first time, the moral question involved was argued on the floors of Congress and many of the arguments heard in this campaign year were there given birth.

The occasion was the imposition of Hamilton's excise tax of nine cents a gallon on spirituous liquors. This was the first federal internal revenue liquor law. Hamilton's main purpose was to raise money, but he initiated the federal tendency to pick on intoxicating beverages for revenue and friends of the measure were soon promising in its behalf that it would "curb excessive drinking."

And the wets were demanding: "Why deprive the masses of the only luxury they enjoy?" A modification measure was introduced after a while and on April 30, 1792, a New Jersey congressman was insisting that the government was so disgracefully committed to enforcing an unenforceable law that "a sense of national honor demands that it be totally repealed."

Federal tax collectors were as unpopular in distillery territory as federal prohibition agents in wet sections today. One in western Pennsylvania was tarred and feathered; others were mistreated. There were moonshiners, of course, and owners of secret stills who evaded the tax were heroized by the type of citizen who today regards bootleggers as public benefactors.

"It deprives citizens of an inalienable right," one senator complained, raising the personal liberty issue. Newspapers claimed that an aristocratic minority was oppressing the people. Everywhere there were complaints about widespread disrespect for the law.

"The government has enough to do without regulating people's appetites," wrote "Sidney" in the National Gazette of Philadelphia. He complained that the law would require, for enforcement, "exercise of force, arbitrary restrictions and excessive penalties," and insisted that Congress had been "surprised into the measure."

Apparently the south wasn't very dry in the seventeen-nineties. The leather-lunged Congressman James Jackson of Georgia, fiery Jeffersonian, called the tax "odious, unequal, unpopular and oppressive, particularly in the south." In his section, he explained, hot weather made liquor a necessity.

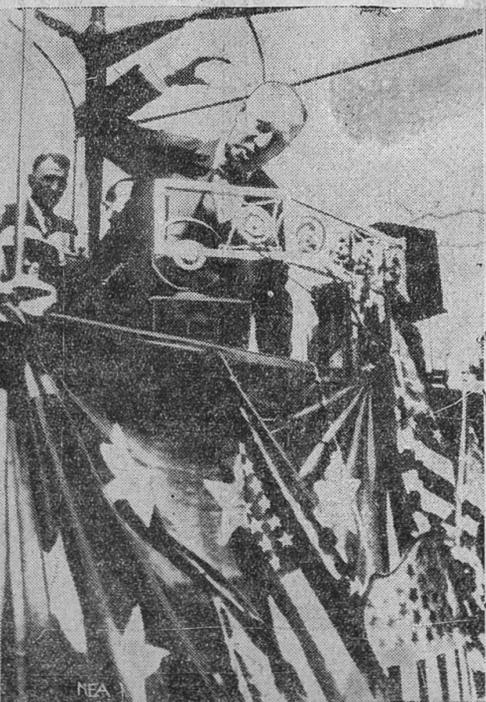

Congressman Josiah Parker of Virginia predicted the reign of "a swarm of harpies, who, under the domination of revenue officers, will range through the country, prying into every man's house and affairs."

The southern people universally condemned the tax, it was claimed, and it was either charged or boasted that the people of North Carolina, for instance, consumed ten times the amount of ardent spirits consumed in Connecticut.

Distilleries lobbied for the bill, of course. James Madison helped it when he announced that a tax on liquor seemed least objectionable. Thomas Jefferson apparently didn't oppose it. It was passed after much debate, including frequent references to state rights.

Now Comes Style in Plumbing

ONE BY ONE AS THE BETTER HOMES OF EASTLAND ARE FINISHED WE DO THE PLUMBING

The past ten years has witnessed an amazing improvement in our home interiors. The American woman, with her talent for decoration and arrangement has worked wonders in living room, bedroom, sun porch and hall. But what of the bathroom? There her gift for color and composition has not had free play. She has been restricted by the lack of materials.

True she could, as in other rooms, create beauty and cheerfulness by color in curtains, rugs, and other furnishings. But in the fixtures and fittings themselves she was limited to designs that were more practical than beautiful.

It was not until "Standard" inaugurated a new period in fine bathroom furniture, with its original designs, that the full benefits of the art of interior decoration could be applied in the bathroom. In our display room at this time may be seen just such fixtures along with many other designs. Our quantity buying make it possible for you to have these fixtures at surprisingly low prices.
