Kennedy Has No Desire For Demo Nomination

By BILL KOSMAN
Associated Press Writer
Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, consistently mentioned as a presidential possibility despite his denials of White House aspirations, says he will not be a delegate to the Democratic National Convention this summer but will be active at the session.

Edward Kennedy

In a surprise development Thursday night, Kennedy said in Boston he felt it would be misleading if he headed a slate of his state's delegates to the national convention in Miami. He said people might think it was to "serve some other purpose."

It had been expected that Kennedy would head Massachusetts' at-large convention delegate slate.

The senator filed an affidavit disavowing his candidacy, a move necessary to remove his name from the April 25 Massachusetts presidential primary ballot.

However, Kennedy said he expects to be "active over the period of the next several weeks and months and at the convention."

As candidates and noncandidates scrambled around many of the nation's 23 primary election states—either entering or withdrawing their names—others carried on their politicking unabashedly.

Democrat George Wallace ran head-on into party stalwart Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey after launching what the Alabama governor called a people's campaign in the Florida presidential primary.

"I defeated Wallace in this state in 1968 and hope to do as

2 Deaths Linked To Flu

MUSKOGEE, Okla. (AP)—Former Oklahoma Highway Commissioner G. Nat Irish's death Tuesday and the death Thursday of a prominent eastern Oklahoma dentist have been linked to a flu epidemic sweeping the Muskogee area, medical authorities confirmed today.

Four schools have been closed in Muskogee. County and school officials are watching high, but fluctuating, absentee rates for signs others might have to close.

A second outbreak of the disease cut attendance so much at Drummond, near Enid, that school was closed.

Supt. Jack Fenimore said only 50 of the 260 children normally bused to school arrived Thursday.

Classes had been canceled Wednesday because of the outbreak but officials had hoped to reopen Thursday.

Other Muskogee schools remained open despite some absentee rates as high as 20 percent.

Dr. Harvey Randall, Muskogee County medical examiner, confirmed that Irish, 72, a Muskogee man who was named to the Oklahoma Highway Commission in 1963 by then Gov. Dewey Bartlett, died Tuesday of "staphylococcal pneumonia on top of influenza."

Randall said he suspects the death of Dr. Sikes J. Bias, 50, a dentist with offices here and in Tulsa, also was linked to influenza. He said there would be an autopsy.

It was not known what types of influenza are involved in the outbreaks. State health officials said there have been no documented cases of Type A2 Hong Kong flu in Oklahoma.

There are probably thousands of cases of flu in Muskogee, Randall said.

All 275 beds at Muskogee General Hospital were occupied and many of the patients had the flu, he said.

Porum, Gore and Warner schools were closed Tuesday because of the spreading infection, and Hillsdale schools, on the south edge of Muskogee, were closed Thursday.

Hong Kong Flu Back In U.S.

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—The bug is back. And, "if you just feel like hell, you've probably got the flu," says a spokesman for the National Center for Disease Control in Atlanta.

Hong Kong flu, which killed 27,900 persons the last time it toured the United States in 1968-69, has returned, the center says.

The first signs of a flu epidemic appeared several weeks ago and a nationwide survey conducted by the center revealed that Hong Kong flu has been diagnosed in 22 states, the District of Columbia and New York City.

attorneys will deal with the matter."

Chester C. Davis, attorney for Rosemont and the general counsel for the Hughes Tool Co., said in the suit that Hughes sold Rosemont sole rights to his life story for $10 in 1965.

Rosemont, which Davis said is "engaged in the business of acquiring and developing literary and dramatic properties," tried unsuccessfully in 1966 to enjoin Random House from distributing a Hughes biography by John Keats.

Rejecting Rosemont's claim of exclusive rights, state Supreme Court Justice Harry B. Frank said in that case that Hughes was a public figure and "the law affords his privacy little protection."

well again," Humphrey, of Minnesota, told a Jacksonville audience Thursday while pushing his own campaign for the state's March 14 contest.

A dozen candidates are listed on the Florida primary ballot.

Meanwhile, Sen. Vance Hartke of Indiana accused the news media of slighting his bid for the Democratic presidential nomination. "I'm only an underdog with you people," Hartke said at a New York news conference. He predicted he will win the New Hampshire primary.

On a three-day campaign swing through Wisconsin, Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington maintained he offers the best hope of luring disenchanted Democrats back into the fold and of defeating President Nixon in November. Jackson is expected to compete for Wisconsin's national convention delegates in a crowded Democratic field.

George Wallace's Entry Into Primary Attacked

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien has attacked Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace's entry into his party's Florida presidential primary, contending "a vote for George Wallace is a vote for Richard Nixon."

O'Brien said in a statement: "No one, including George Wallace, seriously believes Gov. Wallace to be legitimately contending for the Democratic presidential nomination."

But the Democratic party leader said today the Wallace candidacy is more "than a mere publicity campaign for a man who is certain to be a third-party candidate for the presidency."

Democrats should be aware that a Wallace candidacy plays directly into the hands of John Mitchell as he develops the only re-election strategy remaining to Richard Nixon," O'Brien said. He contended Nixon can't win a two-party race and that his only hope is a three-way contest including Wallace.

The O'Brien statement followed Wallace's formal entrance into the March 14 Florida Democratic primary, and is the first public word from top Democratic officials on a problem that has been concerning them for some time.

They fear that a Wallace candidacy in Democratic primaries, given the large number of party presidential hopefuls, could make a shambles of the process before the Alabama governor returns to the American Independent party label on which he ran in 1968 when he captured five Southern states.

In Florida, for example, several polls show the Alabama governor either leading or tied for the lead in the Democratic primary, and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, already is saying the primary may have little value.

In response to a question, O'Brien said that, in considering what to do about the Alabama governor, "There was no attempt to develop strategy to block Wallace in the primaries."

O'Brien said his position against a Wallace entry is in accord with the provision adopted by the national committee that delegates certified by state Democratic parties for the national convention be bona-fide Democrats who will support only the Democratic nominee. The provision applies only to delegates and could be used as a basis for challenge at the convention to any pro-Wallace delegates.

He said he had never met with or talked to Irving, Irving replied that the voice was an imposter's.

In a joint statement after the suit was filed, McGraw-Hill and Time Inc. said: "We have not yet received any papers, but we have complete confidence that our legal position is unassailable. Our

New State Rules Limit Insurance Cancellations

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Texans who fear arbitrary cancellation or non-renewal of their car or house insurance were granted at least some protection Thursday by the State Insurance Board.

The board issued new rules, effective Feb. 1, sharply limiting the right of a company to cancel a policy. And it required 30 days notice to a policyholder if a company decides not to renew his coverage.

The rules fall short of what three legislators advocated at a Dec. 8 board hearing, and criticism is likely to follow.

Under the rules, an insurance company cannot cancel a family automobile policy which has been in effect 60 days except for non-payment of premium or suspension of one's driver's license or car registration.

A homeowners, fire or other building policy could be cancelled after 60 days only for non-payment of premiums, an increase in hazard or a determination by the board that continuing the policy might violate the Texas Insurance Code.

The rule did not specify how continuing such a policy would violate the code.

Once an automobile policy has been in effect 60 days an insurance company must continue it in force for a year.

And before the company can refuse to renew an automobile policy, it must give the customer 30 days' notice.

Non-renewal of an auto policy merely because of the driver's age is forbidden by the rules.

Companies cannot cancel any policy out of a desire to withdraw from an area or a given line of insurance.

At the Dec. 8 hearing, Sen. Mike McKool of Dallas, a recurring critic of insurance companies, urged the board to prohibit non-renewals "except for just cause."

Sen. Oscar Mauzy of Dallas and Rep. Charles Tupper of Dallas made similar pleas.

But the board placed no limits on non-renewals other than the 30-day notice requirement and the age rule.

A board source said state law did not permit the board to go farther than that on non-renewals.

"Under the law, we could not require a company to issue an insurance policy," he said.

GIs In South Vietnam Expected To Be Cut To 45,000 By April

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon's latest Vietnam troop-withdrawal order sets the stage for what could be an April announcement to pull back another 35,000 to 45,000 troops, declare the war over and place remaining GIs in an advisory role.

Nixon announced Thursday that 70,000 more troops will be withdrawn by May 1, leaving the United States with the residual force of 25,000 to 35,000 men indicated by the President two weeks ago.

Thursday's announcement, covering February, March and April withdrawals, will reduce the U.S. commitment in Vietnam to 60,000 men on May 1. And the President said he will make another pullout announcement before that date.

This is likely to come in mid-April, leaving 35,000 men to withdraw before reaching this summer's planned residual force level. That level is expected to be maintained until U.S. prisoners are freed by the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong.

This would be in keeping with the troop-withdrawal plan drawn up by the administration in early 1969. Although administration officials dropped hints from time to time that the President was reviewing the plan and might delay further withdrawal decisions as a means of keeping the enemy guessing, there has been little deviation from the original plan.

Under the phaseout program, the residual force would revert to an advisory role to assist the South Vietnamese, as was done before the big U.S. buildup began in 1965.

And, to enhance the idea that the ground war is over for the Americans, the U.S. Military Assistance Command, Vietnam (MACV), would be downgraded to an assistance group.

This would give the President an opportunity to bring home Gen. Creighton Abrams, U.S. commander in Vietnam for the past five years, and, perhaps move Abrams in as Army chief of staff when Gen. William C. Westmoreland completes his four-year tour in June.

Fears that the remaining U.S. troops would be bereft of virtually any ground fighting power were downplayed Thursday by Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird. Although Laird indicated he to launch several "spectaculars" in the coming months, the secretary expressed confidence in the South Vietnamese army's ability to defend itself.

Added insurance also is provided by the American air shield, most of which is based in neighboring Thailand and aboard Navy carriers in the Gulf of Tonkin. But even with the United States out of the air and ground combat in South Vietnam, U.S. Air Force and Navy planes will continue to pound North Vietnamese supply lines over Laos and to assist friendly forces in Laos and Cambodia.

Nixon said in a televised interview Jan. 2, his goal is to end the American involvement in Vietnam before the November election.

Red Missiles Threatening U.S. Planes

SAIGON (AP)—North Vietnam stepped up its challenge to U.S. air superiority in Indochina today by moving mobile surface-to-air missile launchers to within a few miles of the demilitarized zone, threatening American planes flying across South Vietnam.

Two new aerial engagements were reported near South Vietnam's borders. In one, an F-105 fighter escorting Navy bombers fired a Shrike missile at a missile launching site this morning within three miles of the coast just above the DMZ. The U.S. Command said it was believed that the SAM site was destroyed.

It was the closest air action to South Vietnam's borders in nearly a year and the sixth so-called protective reaction strike inside North Vietnam this year.

U.S. military sources said the North Vietnamese apparently are trying to harass American planes as they cross the northern part of South Vietnam to attack the supply trails in Laos.

In the second incident, an Air Force OV10 observation plane directing air strikes against the Ho Chi Minh trail in southern Laos was the target of an enemy missile while over the area of Sepone, 25 miles west of the Vietnamese borders. The pilot evaded the missile.

"The missile was fired through an overcast," the U.S. Command said, and the pilots were unable to pinpoint the launching site for a retaliatory attack.

In the ground war, North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces kept up their intensified attacks on South Vietnamese outposts for the fourth day.

The South Vietnamese command reported 24 more enemy attacks for a four-day total of 110, the highest in more than three months. Most of the action was in the central highlands, on the central coastal plain and in the Mekong Delta.

The South Vietnamese suffered their worst setback in Kien Hoa Province in the delta, where nine government militiamen were killed and 19 wounded.

Living Cost Unit Proposes Wage Control Exemptions

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Cost of Living Council has proposed that persons making less than $1.90 an hour be exempted from wage controls, Pay Board sources say.

The sources say the board has asked the council for more information. The council sought the Pay Board's comments on the idea even though board approval is not required.

The proposal surfaced as the wage panel voted 14 to 0 to approve procedures under which all pay raises last during the wage freeze will be paid retroactively unless specifically stopped by the board.

Under these procedures the board will approve automatic payment of many raises up to 7 per cent, but will take a look at several raises above that amount and all raises in pay units of more than 5,000 persons, no matter how small the increase.

On the matter of exemptions, the Cost of Living

Council earlier had lifted federal wage restraints from all persons making less than the federal minimum wage, which is $1.30 for agricultural workers, $1.60 for others.

However, Congress has ordered that President Nixon also exempt anyone belonging to the "working poor," a term without any precise definition. Various sources said the council, which retains authority over exemptions from wage and price controls, proposed that the line be drawn at $1.90 an hour.

Labor members of the board were reported pushing for a much higher figure, but apparently without much hope of success.

Council spokesmen declined to comment on the matter.

Pay Board chairman George H. Boldt abstained from voting on the retroactive pay release, but afterward "congratulated his colleagues on their unanimity of purpose and their prompt action," a news release said.

Snow To End By Nightfall; Mercury May Drop To Zero

Flitting snow began dusting Pampa and the Panhandle around 7 o'clock this morning and continued through the forenoon hours.

The weather forecasters said snow should be ending by nightfall with only a 30 per cent chance of any measurable accumulation.

The mercury, after a high of 34 in Pampa yesterday, dropped to 15 above at 6 a.m. and had leveled off at 10 degrees at 10 a.m. today. Today's high is expected to be in the mid-teens.

Continued cold was in the forecast for tonight with a low near zero before morning. Partly cloudy skies for Saturday held the promise of a little warming trend with a high in the low 30s.

Early morning temperatures plummeted as low as 14 degrees at Dalhart, where snow was falling, and Amarillo, where it was foggy. There also was snow in neighboring areas of Oklahoma.

Low clouds accompanied the snow pushing into the Panhandle behind the latest surge of Canadian air. Except for some clouds lingering in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, the rest of the state was clear.

By early morning, the forward edge of this cold front had pushed as far south as Shamrock and Dalhart.

Readings at other places in the freezing zone included Lubbock and Midland 17 degrees, Wichita Falls 19, Abilene and Childress 20, Big Spring and Wink 22, Mineral Wells 25, San Angelo 27, Dallas, Fort Worth, Texarkana and Tyler 30 and Waco 31.

Thermometers registered in the 30s and 40s elsewhere except deep in South Texas, where it was still 61 at Brownsville. Mostly fair and colder weather was predicted for all sections.

Amarillo Family Dies In Plane Crash

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP)—A plane crash near Tradewinds Airport in Amarillo killed three persons, including a well-known real estate man today.

The dead were identified as Royce Darrell Gaut, 46, Amarillo real estate dealer; his wife, Janie; and their daughter, Meg, 11.

They were en route to Waco where Mrs. Gaut was studying for a degree.

The crash occurred about 7:30 a.m. while a thick fog engulfed the area.

A preliminary investigation indicated the plane had taken off and apparently was circling in an effort to return to the airport.

The light plane crashed about a quarter of a mile from the field, flipped over several times and burst into flames.

FBI Hunting California Psychologist

STANFORD, Calif. (AP)—Old acquaintances recall Dr. Ronald Kaufman, named as the man who planted bombs in nine banks last summer, as a quiet, bright student, who, opposed violence as a way of solving problems such as civil rights and ending the war in Vietnam.

The FBI says the 33-year-old psychologist should be "considered armed and dangerous," but those who remember him here and in Chicago described him as gentle, thoughtful, nice, clean, quiet, sensitive, intelligent, intense and brilliant.

A nationwide hunt is under way for Kaufman, charged by the FBI with 12 counts in connection with bombs found in safe deposit boxes of three San Francisco banks. FBI spokesmen said Kaufman was identified through fingerprints found on components of bombs taken from nine banks in San Francisco, Chicago and New York. An official said further charges probably would be filed in the New York and Chicago incidents.

Notes directing police to the bombs said they were part of a new strategy to force changes in U.S. policies.

Bob Beyers, Stanford University information director who went to Mississippi in 1964 with Kaufman to do civil rights work, said: "He was quiet and soft-spoken and very bright."

"He wasn't the type to be out in front in any student demonstrations. He wasn't a student leader, and I don't think he had a very wide circle of friends."

Friends in Chicago said that during the 1968 Democratic National Convention, Hoffman stayed with Kaufman, Paul Krassner, editor and publisher of the Realist, described Kaufman as "a very generous guy, a genial host."

Others told the Chicago Daily News that Kaufman often tried to talk Hoffman out of things he thought were "too wild," drove him around in his car, fetched him sandwiches and generally looked out for him. Some called Kaufman "Abbie's Jewish Momma," Krassner said.

Hughes' Book Dispute Now Moves Into Court

NEW YORK (AP)—The dispute over the authenticity of a purported autobiography of billionaire industrialist Howard Hughes has moved into court with the filing of a suit to bar publication of the book.

Rosemont Enterprises, a Nevada publishing company, claimed in Manhattan Supreme Court on Thursday that it has exclusive rights to Hughes' life story. Justice Samuel M. Gold set a hearing for Wednesday.

He directed the defendants to show why they should not be enjoined from publishing the material and ordered them to produce in court all relevant documents, writings and recordings.

Named as defendants were McGraw-Hill Publishing Co.,

Time, Inc., which plans to publish excerpts in Life magazine; Dell Publishing Co., which has paperback rights, and the author, Clifford Irving.

Irving says he prepared the book in collaboration with the reclusive Hughes. Last week, in a long-distance telephone interview with seven newsmen, a man identifying himself as Hughes called the work a fraud.

He said he had never met with or talked to Irving, Irving replied that the voice was an imposter's.

In a joint statement after the suit was filed, McGraw-Hill and Time Inc. said: "We have not yet received any papers, but we have complete confidence that our legal position is unassailable. Our

Movie To Be Filmed At Austin About Former Football Player

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A movie about Freddie Steinmark, the spunky defensive back who died of cancer after his Texas Longhorns won the 1969 national championship, will be filmed here.

Martin Jurow, who produced "Breakfast at Tiffany's," told a news conference Thursday the picture will include footage of games played by that team.

Steinmark died at the age of 21 on June 6, 1971, a year and a half after his left leg was amputated at the hip. The surgery followed by only six days the Longhorns' successful defense of their No. 1 ranking with a 15-14 victory over Arkansas at Fayetteville. Jurow said he was encouraged to do the film by the reception given "Brian's Song," a recent television special on Chicago Bears running back Brian Piccolo, who also died of cancer.

Randy Matson Party Held For Releasing His Book

"It's kind of a funny feeling to have book written about you, and it's really a funny feeling when you start reading about yourself."

These were the words of Randy Matson, a native of Pampa, who holds the world record in shot put, during an autograph party Thursday evening at The Gift Box in Pampa in observance of the release of a book about his life and career, "The Randy Matson Story," written by Carlton Stowers.

Matson stated he was "real happy" about the book and felt it would be of greatest interest to those who are interested in track and field and who follow it closely.

"I thought it would be good to get more people exposed to track and field," he added.

However, according to Mrs. O. C. Stewart, Gift Box owner, she feels the book is of importance "to motivate

Scientist Believes Smoking May Not Affect Unborn Baby

By BILL STOCKTON
AP Science Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — A University of California scientist who made a study involving 5,077 women has concluded tentatively that cigarette smoking might not interfere with development of an unborn child, as is widely suspected.

The conclusions of Dr. Jacob Yerushalmy of the university's school of public health at Berkeley sharply contradict results of more than 30 scientific studies in the last 15 years that linked smoking to lower birthweight babies. Such conclusions have been a powerful argument of antismoking forces.

Yerushalmy's research on the women who bore 8,671 babies was supported by the National Institutes of Health. He describes it in an article appearing today in the American Journal of Obstetrics and Gynecology. A nonsmoker, he thinks his study raises important questions that must be answered before smoking's harmful effects on the fetus are accepted as a foregone conclusion.

"Because of the important implications of these findings not only to the question of smoking and prematurity but also to the other aspects of the problem of smoking and health, the conclusions must be considered tentative," he wrote in the article.

Jurow said he probably would change the title. "It's probably personal. I'm not particularly fond of the title, 'I Play To Win.'"

Jurow also produced "The Great Race," "The Pink Panther" and "The Hanging Tree." He is a former 20th Century Fox executive who now heads Masters Film Co. in Dallas.

young people to stick to their goals and to mount obstacles to achieve them."

Author Carlton Stowers, unable to be present for the autograph event, is a former sportswriter for the Amarillo Daily News, the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal and the Dallas Morning News.

Matson, who knew Stowers when he was in Amarillo, said work on the book began in late 1969 or early 1970. He explained Stowers spent quite a bit of time with him in Houston, Canyon and Pampa, also interviewing people who knew Matson or were connected with him in each place, especially his hometown of Pampa.

Matson's world-record throw measures 71 feet 5 1/2 inches, with no one yet equalling 70 feet. At present he is preparing for his first indoor meet of the season Saturday in Albuquerque, N. M. Matson explained this season is of importance since it the "Olympic year," with the world-wide games scheduled for this summer in Munich, Germany.

Working out six days a week regularly, Matson's training includes lifting weights and making about 25 hard throws each day.

The findings however, make a strong case for the need to investigate the problem on much larger samples of births and to include for study many more variables.

The women in Yerushalmy's study were patients at Kaiser Hospital in Oakland between 1960-67. He studied women in four classes: those who never smoked, those who gave birth to children and began smoking later, those who smoked throughout their pregnancies and haven't stopped.

Judge Cain To Address TAP Meeting

Gray County Judge Dan Cain will be the speaker when the Gray County Tax Payers Association meets Monday night. Judge Cain will speak on taxes at the local (or area) level.

A part of the program will be a film narrated by Ezra Taft Benson, a former secretary of Agriculture. "Man, Freedom and Government" will be shown. The film deals with the constitution and taxation at the federal level.

Following Judge Cain's address, he will field questions from the audience in an informal forum.

Adobe Walls Scouts Meet Tonight

Scouts and scouters of the Adobe Walls Council meet tonight for the annual banquet at Coronado Inn. The affair begins at 6:30 p.m. with an annual business meeting followed by the dinner.

Principal speaker will be Cmdr. Thomas J. Keane, the father of Sea Scouting out of which has grown the present Explorer program for scouting. Beaver awards, scouting's highest honor for adults, will be bestowed on a number of council friends.

Board members and other officers will be named at the business meeting preceding the banquet.

Pampa Schools Close, Marking Semester End

Pampa schools are closed today marking the end of the semester—but few students were happy about it at press time.

Cold wind, blowing snow flurries, ten-degree temperature reading and a chill factor guaranteed to put icicles on the worst swear-word one could say about the weather do not a happy holiday make!

For teachers it is not even a holiday—just a change of pace. Empty classrooms give opportunity for an "in-service" day for teachers and administrators to review the past semester and bring the next into perspective. Classes will resume their normal schedules Monday.

Asia Subcontinent's New Look

The brief India-Pakistan war has drastically altered the political geography and power balance in a key world area. After a quarter of a century of toe-to-toe confrontation with a Pakistan on both its eastern and western frontiers, India emerges as the overwhelmingly dominant power between a weakened West Pakistan and newly independent East Pakistan, now a friendly client state but potentially a problem. Bangladesh, about the size territorially of Arkansas or Wisconsin but with a population as large as Germany's, may encourage separatist tendencies among the millions of Bengalis in India.

Accused Hijacker Is Flop At Just About Everything

DALLAS (AP) — The drug-crazed man who seized a Braniff jetliner over Texas Wednesday and then held its crew of seven hostage for hours upon the ground was a flop at just about everything he ever tried. A self-described born loser, 22-year-old Billy Eugene Hurst saw his bid at hijacking fail like all his other ventures. He sits now in jail on air piracy charges which could result in a death sentence. When Hurst demanded that the captured crew fly him to South America, he didn't know that one of the engines had been tampered with to cause hours of delay to a takeoff. When he asked for—and got—a .357 Magnum pistol, he didn't know that the revolver had been rigged so it couldn't be fired. Nor did he know that the $1 million in cash he demanded was still in the Republic National Bank in downtown Dallas and never even reached Love Field. So he was bound to lose. But for nearly seven drama-packed hours, Hurst held the airline and law at bay. His biggest adventure started at 2:40 p.m. as Braniff Flight 38 was winging its way across blue Texas skies from Houston to Dallas enroute to Kansas City and Minneapolis with 94 passengers aboard. Hurst handed a stewardess a note, demanding to speak with the captain. The first officer came back to talk with him. Hurst said he had a bomb. He wanted to be flown to South America and dropped by parachute. FBC and other federal agencies were alerted when the hijacked plane touched down at Love Field in Dallas. The passengers, many not even aware of what was going on, were allowed to leave. Alternately elated and depressed, jumpy and calm. Then for nearly seven hours Hurst held the plane crew at pistol-point, while about 50 law officers watched from a respectful distance. At times he bragged about his intelligence, telling the captive crew: "I've got an IQ of 138." Nobody laughed.

Voluntary Enlistments Fall Below Objectives

WASHINGTON (AP) — Voluntary enlistments fell below the armed services objectives during the last half of 1971, a time when the draft was taking very few men. This could spell trouble for Nixon administration hopes of ending the draft and changing to an all-volunteer force by mid-1973. The coming months should indicate whether about $3 billion in new military pay boosts will attract enough additional volunteers. These boosts became effective too late to have any significant impact on recruitment totals in 1971. Pentagon figures show that the services recruited 195,300 new men in the July-December period, about 17,000 fewer than their objective. Selective Service calls totaled only 10,000 during that same six-month span, so there was only light draft pressure on young men to enlist in the service of their choice. Some senior military officers and congressional critics of the concept contend an all-volunteer force is an impractical goal, that more money and improvements in the quality of service life will not do the trick. The Navy led the way toward improving military life by relaxing rules on hair and dress, eliminating make-work practices and otherwise updating conditions under which sailors live and work. Yet the Navy scored poorest among the services in recruiting during the last half of 1971. Its goal was 53,700 men, but the Navy signed up only 44,600. The Army, which also has stressed reform from old ways, failed by 6,300 to meet its objective of 82,600. The Army implied this was because it emphasized improvements in the number of high school graduates and upper mental groups. The Marine Corps, which has refused to budge from its traditional tough training and standards, did better than both the Army and the Navy. It missed its recruiting goal by only 1,200 men, signing on 26,700 volunteers. The Air Force did best. It came within 300 of its

Bombs That Have 'Eyes'

WASHINGTON (AP) — With a television camera in its nose and a steering system in its tail, the Air Force's "smart bomb" strikes its target in Indochina 10 times more often than a conventional bomb. That judgment was offered by pilots now stationed at the Pentagon after duty in Vietnam and experience with the two types of smart bombs first introduced in Southeast Asia four years ago. The other type relies on a laser beam to lock the bomb onto its target. Pilots say the tenfold increase in accuracy curtails the number of repeat sorties to bomb targets missed the first time around and thus reduces the risk to pilot and plane. Specific figures are classified, but reports after the laser-guided bombs were first introduced in Vietnam said more than 70 per cent of nearly 1,000 dropped found their mark. Contrary to some reports, smart bombs are unable to zoom around hillsides or crawl around corners, but they are able to knock out such difficult targets as narrow road intersections, bridges, dams, tunnels and supply caches which often defy destruction with conventional bombs or air-torpedo missiles. Essentially, smart bombs are conventional iron bombs of 750, 1,000 or 2,000 pounds equipped with either a laser guidance kit or electro-optical (TV) kit. They differ from missiles in that they have no propulsion system other than gravity and the speed of release. With the laser-guided bomb, the forward air controller spots the target with a laser beam, an intense narrow cone of light. Reflected radar radiation off the target is picked up by a second plane which dives into attack, locks onto the target electronically and pitches its bomb onto the laser beam. A guidance seeker on the bomb nose rides the beam home. Pilots armed with the electro-optical or TV guided bomb pick up the target on a five-inch television screen in their cockpit. Air Force officials estimated that smart bombs accounted for less than one per cent of the 800,000 tons of aerial munitions dropped in Indochina in 1971.

Rep. Price Addresses MU Students

The young people of today have before them a phase of life which has often been overlooked, that of examining this nation and its people, "not from the standpoint of what is wrong, but what is right." Congressman Bob Price said today in Wichita Falls. Speaking to Midwestern University students, Price challenged the students "to identify that which is good and durable in America, that which is worth preserving, that which is worth making great sacrifices to protect." "When you assume the managerial responsibility for this nation you are certain to be confounded as much by the successes of our system as its failures. You are likely to be dismayed that our national institutions, which have been criticized for being so resistant to change, in fact have permitted and even have accommodated more changes than you will be able to deal with in an orderly society," he added. Price predicted that in the year 2000, Americans will be mining and farming the oceans and will have colonies on the moon. "You will conduct your lives across a greater expanse of territory; yet, one of your severest problems will be dealing with the estimated 64 billion human beings who will inhabit the earth." "Of all the challenges before you, of all the adventures which you more than any other generation can expect, will be your great struggle to mature and grow as a human being. Individual issues may temporarily divide us, but we will unite because of the continued existence of special opportunity and compelling responsibility which faces us in our churches, schools, and local, state, and national governments."

Tourists: Singapore Applies Anti-Hippie Ban On Long Hair

SINGAPORE (AP) — Tourists complained bitterly today that Singapore authorities are applying the island nation's anti-hippie ban on long hair to them, prompting one foreign embassy to seek an official explanation from the immigration department. One wealthy Australian tourist told newsmen today he had been given two days to get a haircut, but planned instead to leave the island and tell his friends to avoid Singapore. A spokesman for the Australian High Commission said inquiries were being made to Singapore's controller of immigration, but added: "We cannot protest, no matter how unpalatable this might be. We can inform Canberra so that travel agents can be aware of the policy." The government has long discouraged long hair, saying it is a symbol of the "Western hippie drug culture." By its definition, long hair on men reaches over the collar or the ears, and below the shoulders of women. Long-haired visitors who can't prove financial resources have been banned from the island for months.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces can he develop to his utmost capability.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Hidden Diplomacy

It is not so much the secrecy surrounding national policy making that is disturbing, nor even the fact that the public is sometimes deliberately deceived about decisions made in its name—though this is disturbing enough.

It is when decisions turn out to have been monumentally and appallingly wrong that revelations of the high-level deception and duplicity involved in their formulation arouse the innate distrust of concentrated political power which Americans have inherited from the Founding Fathers.

This was true of the Pentagon Papers, which detailed America's calculated involvement in Vietnam.

It is true now with the "Anderson papers"—records of meetings of members of the National Security Council which were slipped to columnist Jack Anderson and which relate how President Nixon ordered the adoption of a pro-Pakistan, anti-India stance by the United States during the conflict between those two countries.

To be sure, Pakistan is an official ally India is—or was—at best the kind of friend who makes one rather appreciate his enemies.

But what is hard to accept is that the President apparently let his admiration for the fighting qualities of the Pakistanis close his eyes to the atrocities committed by them against the rebelling Bengalis in East Pakistan.

It is one thing for the President to read his Kipling too well. It is quite another to have held the nation to silence in the face of one of the greatest immoralities committed since Hitler tried to exterminate the Jews.

So little was to be gained by this policy, so much to be lost. As one Indian professor at an American university said at the time India launched the war:

The United States could have backed the right side. It could have backed the winning side, or it could have backed the Indian side. It chose to do none of these.

Correction. The United States, if by that term is meant the people of the United States, did none of these things. The people were not even consulted.

Attack On Free Press

The other day, we recoiled at the suggestion that the politicians might want to set educational standards and license members of the news media.

If anyone doubts that politicians if given such power would use it to destroy the free press, let them examine the recent expulsion of the Central News Agency of China from the United Nations.

The eviction of the Central News Agency came on a signed order of Secretary General U Thant at the insistence of the government of Communist China.

The Human Rights Declaration which the U. N. is supposed to honor demands the freedom to seek receive and impart information and ideas through any media and regardless of frontiers.

The U. N. rules include a statement that "The Press and other existing agencies of information be given the fullest possible direct access" to the world body.

However because the Communist Chinese objected to a news agency of Taiwan being in the U. N. press quarters, the Taiwan newsmen were told by a written order and telephone call that they were expelled and would they please vacate the office that same evening.

Other members of the U. N. press corps and other organizations of newsmen including the National Press Club in Washington protested the expulsion. They were outraged.

But they will continue reporting often glorifying the misdeeds of the U. N. and within a short time, the world will be allowed to forget that one more blow has been struck against the freedom of people to be informed by an unfettered press.

BRUCE BIOSSAT Politicians' Way--- Promise Anything

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Are too many Americans "setting it up" so that almost no high public officeholder can satisfy them?

Read the demands, or complaints, of voters interviewed in surveys and you find a good proportion pulling all the stops.

A fairly typical comment: "He (Muskie, Humphrey, Lindsay, Jackson, etc.) won't do. He hasn't come up yet with a believable plan to end all war, wipe out poverty, rebuild the cities, provide full and effective health care, improve social security and obliterate racism."

More than once in these columns I have tried to lay it on politicians—especially the more ardent liberals—for over-promising. They are big with the sweeping arm gestures that take in the universe.

Not only are the promises monumental, but the money needed to bring them to fulfillment is nearly beyond sensible calculation.

The larger dimension is, of course, that they think people want to hear these incredible pledges. And, sad to say, many of them do.

Again, then, such people are fixing it so government is bound to fail. There is no way, no way at all, for even the most remarkable president in our history to do much more than chip away with an ice pick at the solid glacier of our accumulated difficulties.

We used to hear often in the 1950s and 1960s that we were in the Age of Rising Expectations. It seemed a wise and proper and cheerful thing to say. Why should not all peoples aspire to betterment? Why should we not kindle their hopes?

But some of our public figures have taken this past reasonableness. Both at home and abroad, we are into the Age of Inflated Expectations. The world's poor have been led to believe that they can be lifted to planes of affluence in a few quick strokes of effort. In our own land, the disadvantaged have come to feel there need be no waiting for even the grandest dreams.

Where does it begin, with the overpromisers or the overexpecters? You can argue, as some do, that America is itself an overpromise—that the ease of its great riches has always led millions to expect much more, than even they could deliver in human satisfactions.

Probably some politicians, at least, have taken their cue from this. They have bespoken the glory of the dream, convinced obviously that this was what many Americans wanted to hear. The corollary, inevitably, was that bad news limited promises, ordinary visions could not be offered.

As a people, we should by now have seen the folly in this course. Dreams, like everything else, have their price. Things gained too easily at the outset cost much more later. America's resources are running thin. The social burdens of pollution and ravaged land are mounting.

Some of this seems to be dawning on us. But full awareness has not taken hold. Dreamers still abound, reinforced by some young folk who heighten the fantasy that nothing need be waited for.

Yet our leaders are supposed to be our wise guides. If they are overpromisers, as some of them surely are, then they are cruel deceivers. THEY must know better.

On the threshold of 1972, America still is rich in the substance of good living. Its people have great qualities. But there needs to be less fanciful dreaming and more hard effort, more payment on the high price of great dreams.

H.L. Hunt Writes

Constructive citizens can find inspiration in remembering that our infant Republic won the right to exist only after living through the darkest days of the bitter winter of 1777-78. When so many wonder if the fight is worth the effort and if our Republic can be saved, we have only to remember that deadly winter—Washington's patriots spent at Valley Forge.

The fires of Freedom, newly kindled by the first people on earth who really believed that mankind could live without a king or keeper, were burning their lowest. When a tyrannical King George III tried to destroy the freedoms which colonists thought rightfully belonged to all English subjects, the colonial militia fired the shot "heard round the world" at the battles of Lexington and Concord, April 19, 1775.

By the time of the Declaration of Independence, July 4, 1776, the 113 colonies had given up ever having the right to elect representatives to Parliament, which levied the taxes, or getting the king to restore the right of local self-government, which he had taken away. The desperate struggle for existence by the colonists was looking like a lost cause by the time of the winter at Valley Forge. Short of food and arms and without proper medical knowledge, the soldiers of General Washington could have given up right then.

Stronger hearts prevailed. The patriots did not give up. When the night was coldest and the hour darkest, General Washington counseled: "Put none but Americans on guard tonight." He knew that real patriots would never surrender. We can do no less today.

Question Box

QUESTION: In reading Article III, Sections 1 and 2 of the Constitution, there is no mention of the authority of Supreme Court justices other than the court, en bloc. There seems to be an increasing activity by individual justices wherein in the form of moratorium-like processes. Mr. Justice Douglas has been very active in those solo acts and, true to form, has arbitrarily suspended drafts in the Los Angeles, Calif., area. When and by what authority did justices first use this power? —S.D.

ANSWER: No final decisions have been made by individual justices. For the purpose of dividing the work of the court, the nation has been divided into regions or districts, over which each justice has been granted authority by the court's own rules to grant interim orders, pending a decision by the entire court either to hear or not hear a case. That is what happened in the California draft cases, in which Douglas ordered staying of the draft in the area pending a court decision. The individual justice's action in staying a proceeding is somewhat similar to a lower court's granting a preliminary injunction, pending a hearing.

S.D. is correct that Douglas has been particularly active in granting such preliminary orders. He has granted them in some instances in the district supposedly under another another justice's authority. Sometimes he has taken the action after the justice in charge of the district has refused to intervene. It has been reported that some of the justices have resented Douglas' actions.

There is nothing basically wrong with individual justices having authority to grant stays pending decisions by the entire court. However, in Douglas' case, he frequently has shown a disregard for the court's own rules and precedents in his stepping into other justices' district and even in his rulings. He can hardly be in a position to demand respect for his rulings if he disregards the rules under which he is supposed to be guided.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The World Almanac notes that the idea of consumer representation at high levels of government received a major boost in 1962, when President John F. Kennedy, in a special consumer message, set out four basic consumer rights—right to a safety; right to be informed; right to choose; right to be heard.

Egypt's Fears Unfounded: No Planes Yet to Israel

By ROBERTS ALLEN

WASHINGTON — Those Egyptian howls of outrage about the U.S. selling more combat planes to Israel are a clearcut case of "yelling before being hurt."

Not only has Israel gotten no additional aircraft, but there isn't the slightest indication when any will be forthcoming.

All that has happened is a vague and nebulous "agreement in principle" between President Nixon and Premier Golda Meir that Israel will be allowed to buy an unspecified number of F-4 Phantom supersonic fighter-bombers and smaller subsonic A-4 Skyhawks at some indefinite time in the future.

And that's all—despite the recent rash of headlines, "Israel To Get More Jet Fighters."

At the most, it will be many months before new Phantoms and/or Skyhawks join the Israeli air force. Israel wants to buy 50 to 60 of the big powerful Phantoms and 90 to 100 of the slower but highly maneuverable Skyhawk attack fighters.

The money is available for acquiring these planes. One of the last things Congress did before quitting shortly before Christmas was to vote $300 million in credits to Israel for this purpose. But negotiating the actual sale (how many aircraft, price and rate of delivery per month) is in the hands of the Administration and not Congress.

And so far, the State Department, in charge of the matter, has done absolutely nothing.

Further, if Secretary William Rogers has his way, it will be a long time before anything is done. He has long been dragging his feet on providing Israel with more arms to offset Russia's steady flow of weapons to the Arabs.

He balked at doing that even when U.S. aerial photos proved indisputably Russia was installing powerful anti-aircraft missile batteries along the Suez Canal—in direct violation of the cease-fire agreement.

Overruling Rogers But this time there is an all-important difference.

1972 is an election year, with President Nixon already busily running for a second term. Selling more combat planes and other urgently sought armaments to Israel is a red-hot political issue—with widespread support among Republicans as well as Democrats.

Undue State Department stalling would be certain to evoke strident Democratic attacks against the Administration.

So regardless of Roger's personal opposition, there will be a definite sales agreement before too long. But still very much up in the air is the extent and nature of this understanding.

Significantly, Rogers' assistants are privately talking about selling the Israelis 18 or so Phantoms and around 25 Skyhawks—far less than Israel wants, and for which Congress voted $300 million in credits. It goes without saying a chintzy offer of this kind would be highly unsatisfactory to both Israel and its many bipartisan Congressional backers.

It is also safe to predict that Rogers directly, and the Administration indirectly, would be assailed with furious vehemence.

What happens next remains to be seen.

It's obvious Egypt's hypocritical denunciations are prompted by the hope of deterring or further delaying a sale agreement.

Ordinarily, that strategy might work with Rogers. It doesn't take much to dissuade him from approving the sale of weapons to Israel. But this time, the intensifying election battle is undercutting him—and whether he likes it or not, more combat planes and other arms will be sold to Israel starting sometime this year.

Battle Flashes

In Premier Golda Meir's talk with President Nixon, she was flatly unyielding on one point. While earnestly voicing willingness to compromise on other major items, she asserted Israel would under no circumstances permit either Egyptian or Soviet troops to cross the Suez Canal following an Israeli withdrawal from the waterway. Mrs. Meir declared Israel is willing to pull back her troops from the Canal, but is unalterably opposed to allowing Arab forces to return to the Sinai.

Israel has started production of a solid-fuel missile capable of delivering a 1,500-lb. warhead more than 300 miles. Designated "Jericho," the new weapon could carry a nuclear warhead—although there is no known evidence Israel has them. Output of the Jericho is running at the rate of three to six a month.

Russia now has around 18,000 combat troops, technicians and military advisers in Egypt, and an estimated 7,500 in Iraq and Syria. In the latter two countries, most of the Soviet personnel are missile, aircraft and communications specialists.

France's latest nuclear bastion is located on the Albion Plateau, north of Marseilles. That's where France's strategic nuclear-tipped missile batteries are concentrated. With the Mirage-A bombers, carrying thermocuclear bombs, these batteries constitute France's major nuclear armaments. Also nearing completion is France's atomic submarine—the first of five to be put into operation.

There is increasing evidence Red China is moving to counter Russian influence in the Middle East. Western diplomats stationed in that area report growing signs of that in virtually every Arab country, particularly in Syria, Iraq and Lebanon. Another significant indication was the little-noticed speech of Chiao Kuan-hua, top Peking delegate to the United Nations.

TELEPHONE GROWTH—during the past decade, the Southwestern Bell has registered a 17 per cent of telephone growth in the Pampa area. Gary Stevens, manager of local office, said that "in November, 71,127 calls were dialed here on an average business day."

Over 15,000 Telephones In Service As Of Dec. 1

More than 15,500 telephones were in service in Pampa as of December 1, a healthy increase of 17 per cent during the last decade. Gary Stevens, manager for Southwestern Bell, said today.

Telephone growth is considered a good indicator of overall economic growth, Stevens said. "The addition of 2,268 phones in the last 10 years shows that Pampa is on the grow."

Stevens said Pampa residents are using their phones more, too. "In November, 71,127 calls were dialed here on an average business day."

Looking to the future, Stevens said local telephone projects scheduled here this year include additional long distance calling facilities to serve Pampa and surrounding communities.

New buried cable to serve rural areas southwest of the city is also planned along with cable linking Pampa and Canadian. A new repeater hut to amplify telephone transmission will also be completed here in 1972.

Three switchboard positions were added here in 1971 along with dial equipment to provide 400 new phone numbers to meet future growth.

"Growth and expansion are likely to continue for the city's communications system," Stevens said. "Telephone engineers predict that Pampa will have 18,000 telephones in service by the end of 1975."

He added that a record $150 million construction budget has been set for Southwestern Bell's San Antonio Area, of which Pampa is a part. The 1972 budget includes expenses for central office equipment, buildings and additional plant facilities, such as telephone cable, in an area covering approximately the western two-thirds of Texas.

Cardiologist Says 'Common Sense' Could Help Prevent Heart Ailment

HOUSTON (AP) — A prominent Washington cardiologist says heart disease, the nation's major killer, could be prevented in large numbers with old-fashioned common sense.

Dr. W. Proctor Harvey says there is no magical medicine or one-shot preventive measure to keep heart disease from taking some toll but he believes many American hearts could be kept healthy if their owners followed a continuing, not costly but concerned regimen every day of their adult life.

Harvey, the 1969-70 president of the American Heart Association, likened heart disease to a multi-tiled floor that needs each and every square to be whole. He said in a sense each of these tiles represents a possible cause or aggravation to heart diseases, with various rather it's the combination of several factors, usually over a period of years that gets people in trouble. Harvey is director of the cardiology division of Georgetown University Hospital and professor of medicine at Georgetown University School of Medicine. One "common sense" suggestion mentioned by Harvey pertains to dental procedures being done on anyone with a heart murmur or history of a congenital cardiovascular problem. Harvey shared his personal philosophy for coping with the tensions of society. "Everyone, no matter what the financial ability, owes it to himself to have some type of outlet," he said, "instead of taking drugs or drinking too much, it's far better to engage in something we enjoy to relieve our stresses."

Pay Board Approves Pay Raise

WASHINGTON (AP) — A sharply split Pay Board Thursday said it will allow unions to stretch out over two years a 12 per cent raise it rejected last week for 100,000 aerospace workers, a union source said.

The board also approved retroactive payment of the raise, if and when unions and management revise their rejected wage packages, the source said.

The board passed a resolution that the source said will approve an 8 per cent raise in the first year of any revised contracts, and allow the remaining 4 per cent to be added to the second year.

Pay Board spokesmen said the vote was 9-2, with the five labor members abstaining and two business members, Virgil Day and Robert Bassett, in the minority.

The two unions involved, the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists and the United Auto Workers, already have said they will ignore any guidelines.

Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — There is an old tradition on Wall Street, where you can't be sure of anything, that it is unwise to ignore contrary opinion. When the herd instinct is strongest, keep an eye on the maverick. He might know something.

Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith hardly can be called a maverick—not when it is a herd in itself, the biggest underwriter, the biggest seller of stocks, mutual funds, government bonds and commodities. But its thinking is contrary to that of much of the brokerage community.

It doesn't believe the small investor is leaving the market, it does believe that brokers can make money on small orders. It doesn't believe the Dow Jones Industrial Average is as significant as the street makes it out to be.

In a luncheon with AP executives, Donald Regan, chairman of the international brokerage house that made more than $40 million on gross revenue of $473 million in 1970, gave his views on these controversial aspects of the marketplace. Figures contradict the notion that the small investor is leaving, Regan said. The percentage of activity by individual investors might be smaller, he said, but this is largely because of the growth in institutional volume.

If you go back to 1960 when average daily volume was 3 million you'll find that 65 per cent was in individual trades. That meant about 2 million shares a day. Now only 40 per cent of volume is by individuals but, Regan noted, it is based on 15.4 million transactions a day.

The number of shareholders also has taken a sharp rise to 32 million and seems destined to approach 50 million by 1980, and these totals do not include those who invest through mutual funds.

But, he was asked, don't the odd-lot figures show that small orders during the past year were hardly on the sell side? Regan was asked if he thought the Dow Jones Industrial Average would reach 1,000 points.

"I don't think the Dow is indicative of the state of the market," he said. "Were International Business Machines in the average it would be at about 1,500 today."

Bon Voyage wreath went to funeral

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Now I know that I have truly seen everything! My husband and I have owned and operated a small florist shop for the last 15 years, and I have encountered some unusual situations. But the one I had yesterday beats them all.

Two middle-aged women came into the shop together and asked what I had to offer in the way of a "Bon Voyage" wreath, so I showed them what I had in my catalog. I asked if a man or a woman was going abroad, and one of the women replied, angrily: "It is for my sister's FUNERAL!"

I must have shown my amazement because she then added: "If you were a true Christian you would consider death as the beginning of a long, happy trip."

Abby, I do consider myself a Christian, and I refused to sell that woman a "Bon Voyage" wreath for her sister's funeral.

When my husband came in, I told him what had happened and he laughed and said: "You should have sold it to her."

I was very much upset by my husband's response as I have always considered death to be a very solemn occasion. Maybe you or some of your readers could tell me what they would have done.

SHOCKED IN ALBUQUERQUE

DEAR SHOCKED: I vote with your husband. How one views death is a highly personal matter. If the woman wanted to wish her deceased sister a happy trip, I'd have sold her a "Bon Voyage" wreath.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been friends with another couple for a number of years. We are in each other's homes frequently. Lately the woman has been doing something that I find very annoying. After we arrive at her home, by invitation, she picks up her latest knitting or needlepoint project and starts working away, stopping occasionally to count stitches, consult the instructions, and to admire her handiwork.

She does join in the conversation, but rather half-heartedly, as though she feels obligated to make a token comment now and then.

I think she is being somewhat rude. Am I right or wrong?

BUGGED

DEAR BUGGED: Right. She is making a statement: "The company isn't sufficiently fascinating to warrant my total attention."

Don't let the annoyance build up. Tell her. But don't you use a needle.

DEAR ABBY: My wife just had a hysterectomy. Does that mean it is the end of her sex life? She is only 34.

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: Absolutely not! In fact, it could very well be the beginning of a better sex life because she no longer has to worry about becoming pregnant.

DEAR ABBY: The ink is still drying on my final divorce papers, and already the neighbors and acquaintances are nosing around as to "why" we got the divorce, and "what happened?"

It wasn't over "another woman," or "another man," and since I am the one who instigated the divorce, I am getting the "what happened?" question from all sides.

I would really rather not offer any explanations because I feel it's nobody's business. How can I tactfully put this message across?

SANDY

DEAR SANDY: Simply say: "If you will forgive me for not answering, I will forgive you for asking."

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90009. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Holiday activities have kept many Girl Scout troops busy during the last month. A number of troops participated in the Christmas parade and were busy making decorations, tray favors and candy to take to the local hospitals, convalescent home and the Day Nursery.

Troop 77 made cookies and decorations in the home of their leader Mrs. J.W. Gist. These were delivered to East Ridge Lodge when the troop was there to sing carols. This active troop also decorated a float and were in the parade.

Cadet Troop 61 held an overnight Christmas party at the Girl Scout Little House. They made peanut brittle, seafoam candy and pulled taffy. Part of the evening was spent making tray favors for both hospitals and the Day Nursery. Attending were Connie Jones, Carol Craig, Rita Parsley, Nita Parsley, Kim Snider, Debbie Cook, Martha Hilton, Penny Miser, Treasa Shaw, Jolene Black, Peggy Lowrie, Lori Taylor, Kathy Keel. Leaders are Mrs. Wayne Jones, Mrs. Robert Craig and Mrs. Vinson Shaw.

Junior Troop 90 spent an overnight at the Girl Scout Little House. The girls cleaned the yard, cooked their meals and, on Saturday, made Christmas decorations. Friday evening, Mr. Curt Beck helped the girls with their requirements for the Observer badge with an interesting presentation on the constellations. Members of the Court of Honor Sherri Free, Diana Helm, Sharla Helton, Alice Kirby, Beverly Scott, Sarah Stallings, and Leigh Ann Szemela, held a Court of Awards. Other members attending were Kelle Andrews, Ann Beck, Kathy Belanger, Vonda Fellers, DeAnn Gray, Lyssa Malone, Jenifer Suttle, Mrs. Roger Helm. Leader is Mrs. Jack Scott. Cheryl Birkes has been publishing a Troop newspaper that all the troop members enjoy.

New Brownies were welcomed into Troop 119 during their Investiture Ceremony. Melinda Bichsel, Ezy Martinez, Marcy Parker, Peggy Stolfa and Bobbie Wagner knocked the big oak tree and were led to the pond in the magic forest by Asst. Leader Mrs. G.A. Leger. Mrs. Frank Stolfa leader, and experienced Brownies, Jackie Hilton, Lizzie Lauer, Lisa McAndrew, Dawn Marchak, Sherry Smith, Chris Stolfa, Megann Walsh and Hazel Willis, helped find the Brownies. They each said the Brownie Promise and received their pins. The entire troop received the Brownie World Association pin.

December was Troop 119's birthday month and they held a combination Christmas-birthday party complete with cake and one candle. Nia White, PAT for the troop, led the girls caroling. The second year Brownies received their one-year stars.

Cadet Troop 41 spent a day in Amarillo shopping. Mr. and Mrs. Norman Allen helped with the transportation. The troop also held an overnight during the holidays and exchanged gifts and made taffy. The troop recently completed its "My Government" badge with the assistance of State Rep. Phil Cates and a tour of the County Court House. Troop members are Mollie Jackson, Deborah Lawley, Dreka Weatherly, Jill Atchly, Sandra Vance and Pam Allen. Leader is Mrs. E.B. Jackson.

Adults working with or interested in Girl Scouting are urged to obtain their tickets for the annual Council meeting to be held Jan. 28. Tickets are available at the Girl Scout office or from any board member.

Junior-Cadet Troop 87 made decoupage pictures as Christmas gifts for their parents. The leader, Mrs. N.G. Kadingo, was assisted in this project by Mrs. Billy Joe Hagerman. Other December meetings were spent on requirements for the Prints badge and the Art-in-the-Round badge. The Cadette patrol is working on the Challenge of Social Dependability. As part of this challenge, the patrol planned and carried out the troop's Christmas party. Assisting with the meetings is Miss Terry Cox.

Cadet members are Suzan Davis, Kim Hagerman, Cammy Holder, Erin O'Connor, Connie Thompson and Susanne Walsh.

Your birthday today: Progress comes in abrupt exciting episodes this year, according to your preparations, alertness, and persistence. Emphasis inclines to drift toward material gain—which by and large thrives now for you. Today's natives seldom go along with mass movements or popular opinions, but instead stick to their own views.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Later on you'll be ever so proud if you keep your temper and a sharp tongue under control today. Group activity provokes rivalry.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Check for a false alarm or even a hoax before you respond to a bizarre story. Bring a sense of humor to tensions and excitements.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Seek well authenticated counsel on anything that troubles or puzzles you. Associates are quite willing to volunteer reckless advice or to squabble—but stay out of it.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Review your budgets and plans, cut where needed—some items are almost certain to be out of hand.

cially if you're selling an idea or throwing your weight around.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Make no promises without consulting all who have to do anything to substantiate them. Due care around mechanical equipment is a must.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Tidy up promptly and check to prevent minor mishaps. Try not to add to the general atmosphere of confusion.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Take care not to misuse mechanical or electrical equipment. If you must travel, start early to avoid haste and rush hours.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Perhaps because of your recent activity, you are more than likely going to have to pick up the neglected or scattered debris of several people's programs.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Strive for calm as those dear to you fret over things they cannot do or facts they have just learned.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Your views lead you to impetuous expression and may precipitate considerable lively discussion.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Take yourself away from the center of the stage. Mind your own affairs diligently, leave schemes and quarrels to others.

Cowboys, Dolphins Set Pre-game Chapel Rites

BY RAY BAXTER
The Dallas Cowboys and the Miami Dolphins, after following different regimens to hone players razor sharp for Super Bowl play, have a final session before each game that is strikingly similar—and gives an even keener sense of competition not all fans can spot.

Both conduct chapel service preceding all "away" games and some 35 players and coaches will attend. What is more, more than a dozen pro teams observe such ceremonies with at least 150 players involved.

These devotional movements have grown out of player membership in the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. For the "sandlot stars" who may think such spiritual sessions "sissy" the story of Roger Staubach should do a lot of mind-changing.

A Heisman Trophy winner who came to the Cowboys via Navy, Staubach saw Baltimore edge the Cowboys out of a Super Bowl victory last year from the bench. He decided then he did not want to be the "pokes number two" quarterback next season.

However, a third of that "next season" had been played before Coach Tom Landry decided he did not want him (Staubach) to be "El Segundo." The two-quarterback system was written into history as a noble attempt—nothing more—and discussed in less laudible terms by fans who figured Craig Morton would get the nod.

With Staubach in the saddle Dallas took nine in a row including their sixth Eastern Division and play-off victories over Minnesota and San Francisco. The 29-year old star adds one more ingredient to the team play that gave Dallas the second shot at the Super Bowl: it centers around those chapel services preceding the games.

In addition to Staubach and Coach Landry the cowboys have eight members and coaches members of FCA.

Dolphin FCA-ers include Norm Evans, Mike (Captain Crunch) Kolen, Tim Foley, Howard Twilley, Larry Seiple and head defensive coach Bill Arnsparger.

Satubach, much in demand as an off-season speaker summed up the general philosophy of all recently when he told a crowd of 8,500:

"God has given us fantastic field position. I personally find it awfully satisfying to resolve my life around Jesus Christ."

Missionary Coming To Bethel Assembly

Missionary Ralph Hagemeier will be at the Bethel Assembly of God Church, January 16, 1972 in the morning worship service.

Mr. Hagemeier, with his wife, Shirley, and daughters, Stephanie, 9, and Melody, 7, have returned from Tanzania, East Africa, where they served as missionaries four years. They plan to go for another four year term this year.

In Tanzania, Hagemeier served as assistant superintendent of the National church organization as well as chairman of the missionary fellowship of the Assemblies of God.

The Hagemeiers were engaged in a variety of works while in Tanzania. He taught in the two Bible Schools in the north and south as well as having monthly Bible courses for one week in the central plains of Tanzania where they lived.

Also there were youth camps, church building, establishing a church in Dodoma, assisting the local presbyter and committeemen in their work, and building a classroom for more training.

Mrs. Hagemeier prepared Sunday School quarterlies, tracts, and Bible School books on the Varti-typer.

Hagemeier will be showing slides of their work in Tanzania as well as some others of the country, animals, and nature.

Rev. and Mrs. Hagemeier are both graduates of Southwestern Assemblies of God college at Waxahachie. After graduating in 1962 they entered pastoral ministry four years in West Columbia, and Anton, Texas before preparing to leave for ministry in Africa.

Hagemeier has worked with youth in America and reports that also in Tanzania many young men and women have been changed by Christ and are being used in outstanding ways as they work to develop the Church in that country.

Visitors will feel a very warm welcome in this missionary presentation.

Lutheran Series Continues

Stephen, A Faithful Servant of God," is the Sunday sermon subject for the Rev. Mel Herring, pastor, Zion Lutheran Church, at 11 a.m.

It will be another in his series on some of the great personalities of the Bible. In addition, Holy Communion will be celebrated during this worship service. Mrs. Harris Brinson, organist, will provide the music.

The schedule for the week includes a meeting of the board of elders at 7:30 p.m. Monday to begin a training series based on the course, "Elders at Work." Second-Year Junior Confirmation Class will meet at 4 p.m. Tuesday and the First-Year Confirmation Class will convene at 4 p.m. Thursday.

Jan. 15, members and counselors of the junior and senior Lutheran Youth Fellowship will participate in the Mid-Winter Rally and Social in conjunction with St. Paul Lutheran Church, Canyon. Activities are from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. at West Texas State University athletic center.

WALTER CARDWELL

Disciples Leader To Speak

Walter D. Cardwell, leader in the ministries of the Christian Church, will be the guest speaker at the 10:50 a.m. worship service for "Women's Day" at First Christian Church.

Cardwell is director of interpretation for the division of overseas ministries of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) and serves in the field of area assistance helping the administration where there is special need. Presently, he is serving in this capacity for Africa where he has had many years of experience.

He is a former missionary to the Congo Republic; served in the office which was formerly resources and interpretation and in the department of evangelism of the United Christian Missionary Society before assuming his present post.

During the 15 years he served in the Congo, Cardwell was engaged in evangelism and made many trips into the "back country" to meet with groups of Christians and give guidance to the Congolese pastors. For a time there, he served as mission secretary and representative to the Congo Protestant Council.

Cardwell will arrive in Pampa Friday and will be entertained at a covered dish meal at 7 p.m. by two Sunday school classes of the church. Saturday morning he will breakfast with the Christian Men's Fellowship, meet with the young people of Zone A and be entertained at dinner by two more Sunday school classes.

At 7 p.m. Saturday he will speak to members of congregations of all Zone A churches. A nursery will be provided.

The Rev. Ralph T. Palmer is minister of First Christian Church, 18th and Nelson Streets.

"To Know" Is Presbyterian Sermon Topic

Rev. Martin Hager, First Presbyterian Church pastor, will use "I Want to Know" as the topic for his sermon at both the 8:30 and 11 a.m. worship services Sunday. Scripture readings will be taken from Exodus and Matthew.

Ruling Elder Wilbur R. Whitsell, Jr. will assist at both worship services.

The chancel choir under the direction of Mrs. Carol Mackey will present the morning anthem, "Donnie Jones, church organist, will present prelude and postlude selections as well as the offertory.

The Wednesday morning Bible study group will meet at 9 a.m. in the home of Mrs. J.E. Gibson, 501 Linda Drive. The program will be by Miss Madge Rusk, Elder-Deacon "Calling" will be Wednesday at 7 p.m. in the West Room of the church.

Choir rehearsal is each Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

Science To Examine 'Life'

How is life actually sustained? This is a question to be examined Sunday at Christian Science church services.

"Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God," a passage from Matthew reads in the Bible Lesson-Sermon on "Life."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, this citation will be read: "Whatever is governed by God, is never for an instant deprived of the light and might of intelligence and Life."

NO NEED TO RUN AWAY
Be generous to one another, tender-hearted, forgiving one another as God in Christ forgave you. Ephesians 4:32 (N.E.B.)

Whenever his father mowed the lawn, Johnny watched carefully. But his father warned him, "I don't want you ever to use this lawn mower unless I'm around to watch you."

Later one spring afternoon Johnny's parents went shopping while he stayed home. He felt grown-up, and thought, "I don't need Dad to help or watch me. I can cut the lawn by myself." So he went out and started the lawn mower.

At first everything went well. But suddenly the lawn mower dropped into the tulip bed and chewed through the beautiful tulips. In fear Johnny ran and hid in his favorite hiding place. He felt so guilty he almost got sick.

For a number of hours he stayed in hiding though he knew he was missing supper. As it grew dark he heard his father calling, "Johnny, where are you?" he cried "I didn't mean to ruin Mother's flowers." Tears streamed down his cheeks.

"Johnny, why did you hide from me?" his father asked. "Don't you know I love you no matter what you've done? You can always come to me for help."

His father led him home by the hand and gave him supper. At bedtime his father gave him a big hug and said, "I told you not to use the lawn mower because I didn't want you to get hurt. Well, you did get hurt. That's why I came looking for you—not to punish you but to help you and forgive you."

Some fathers may not be that loving. But our Father in heaven is. He sent Jesus to die on the cross to purchase our forgiveness and show us how much He loves us sinners. No matter what wrong we've done, He invites us to come to Him for help and forgiveness. Let's think it over. It is silly to run away from God when we feel guilty. Rather, we should go to Him and ask Him for forgiveness for Jesus' sake.

This is the message of the Gospel of Jesus Christ. It's the message of the Church waiting to be shared with you each Sunday. And it's the message and power we have to share with one another day after day. "Son, daughter, be of good cheer. Your sins are forgiven."

Reverend T.L. Vs. Little Napoleon

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
NEW ORLEANS (AP) — They call Dallas' Tom Landry "the Reverend T.L." Miami's Don Shula is "Little Napoleon."

Landry is a tall, slender man of 47, partially bald. Graying at the temples, almost completely humorless, so soft-spoken one has to turn his hearing aid on high to get the message.

He could be mistaken for a bank clerk or a church deacon, the latter of which he probably is.

Shula is built like a fire hydrant. A one-time defensive back, at 42 he looks capable of going out on the field and Landry, a Texan by birth, education and commitment, is swapping jolts with the behemoths he coaches. He speaks in a strong, authoritative voice, laughs and kids a lot and enjoys a reputation among his peers of being a "man's man."

Shula's chief worry this week preceding the super bowl has been an expanding waistline.

There are sharp physical and personality differences but in coaching philosophy there are many parallels between the pair who must radiate the thought waves in pro football's big championship game Sunday.

Both are strong on organization and dedication, sticklers for detail and hard work. Landry is a cold computer, criticized by some as being too intellectual for his muscled pupils. Shula is the inspirer—not in the Knute Rockne blood and tears tradition—but a man capable of exhorting others to super effort.

Shula, brown-haired, square-jawed and apparently lacking in guile, considers himself a disciple of the Paul Brown-Weeb Ewbank school, which stresses play execution and avoidance of errors.

Shula played seven years in the NFL with the Browns, Colts and Redskins, and coached at Virginia and Kentucky before entering the pro coaching field in 1960.

He broke in as an assistant with the Detroit Lions, then moved to Baltimore where he had a 71-23-4 record over a seven-year span, four times being named NFL "Coach of the Year."

At Miami two years ago he took a Dolphin team that had won only three games the season before and proceeded to produce 10-4 and 10-3-1 marks that led to this year's Super Bowl.

Shula treats his charges as adults but demands of each of them as much as he puts into the effort himself.

However, he has maintained a relaxed attitude and sense of humor that apparently has paid dividends.

Alex Karras, former Detroit Lion turned newsmen, threw an off-beat barb at the Miami coach. "Between Csonka and Kiick," he asked, "who has the prettiest broads?"

Shula didn't blink an eye. "Both are straight arrows," he replied.

rounding out his 22nd year in the professional coaching field. He has been at the helm of the Cowboys since their birth in 1960. His career record is 88-726.

The last five years he has brought the Cowboys into the playoffs only to have them fall short of the big title. This has produced natural charges of "choke-ups" and "can't win the big ones."

If such charges have cut into the bowels of the quiet Texan, the bitterness has not come to the surface.

"This man has more patience than any individual I've ever known," said a Dallas associate. "Look at all the things he's had to go through. The crowds booing Don Meredith and Craig Morton. The criticism of his multiple offense. The Lance Rentzel case. Morton's hypnosis hangup last year in Miami. Duane Thomas' refusal to communicate. It's been enough to kill a lesser man."

Landry's patience must stem from his religious roots. He is active in the National Association of Christian Athletes. He has taken major roles in Billy Graham's crusades.

Landry aligns himself with the school of the late Vince Lombardi, who put heavy stress on fundamentals, yet his play book of multiple offenses and sophisticated defenses is said to be heavy enough to choke an Einstein.

Unlike Shula, who let Bob Griese run the team on the field, Landry insists on shutting all Dallas plays from the sidelines to quarterback Roger Staubach.

His coaching is low key but players have come to dread the post-game Tuesday movies. "He has a way of really cutting you down for mistakes," said one player.

Sam Blair of the Dallas Morning News, who has written a book on the Cowboys, contends that stubbornness has been one of Landry's failings.

"The Cowboys should have been winning from the first of the season," Blair says. "Landry should have installed Staubach at quarterback from the start. But he has his ten commandments chiseled in marble and one of the commandments is: 'Thou shalt have experience.'"

Beau's Boundaries

By Steve Bohlander
Pampa News-Sports Editor

A splotch of envy registers in a rival camp media today as the Pampa Harvesters look second place in district to Palo Duro with a torrid 13-4 record.

The Harvesters ranked 8th in state, by the same publication seem to have been forgotten as the headline read Bi-District Preview Due Tonight. The banner was referring to the clash between the Palo Duro Dons, 13-4 and the Plainview Bulldogs, 19-4.

The Harvesters will be the upcoming District champions in the eyes of this sportscaster, barring some unprecedented disaster or miracle on the behalf of an Amarillo school and by rights should be the Bi-District champs as well.

Perhaps it would be best for the boastful Amarillo bunch to reflect at the season marks...Pampa is tagging along with a 17 and 2 season mark. This is nothing to sneeze at, especially when the coach says the team should have won all of their encounters.

The Dons may be tough but being from Amarillo has its disadvantages when it comes to basketball. If the Dons are going to capture the District title race without a whimper from other foes in the league they'll have to do better in the scoring department as presently two Pampa youths lead the district mark in the number one and two positions, Richard Bunton and Mike Edgar.

Other league leaders from Pampa find Edgar ahead of the dog pack in rebounding and Gary Haynes topping the mark in field goal percentages (.558).

The Dons do have a good record but when are they going to start playing some competition. Pampa has defeated third-ranked Lawton, Oklahoma, and this in the red land territory. Tomorrow night the Lawton crew will invade the Panhandle to attempt to counter the defeat but the Harvesters are ready for the battle on the backboards.

Not wanting to put my foot where my mouth is as some sportswriters usually do before a season is over (I'm still eating crow from the Tulsa-Arkansas mess) I feel safe in saying the Harvesters are prepared to overpower, outplay and defeat anything the Amarillo High Schools can throw at us.

Pampa Fans should agree with me on this issue and in the future it would be the logical action to respect the champions, the A-H-M-M-M defending 1971 District 3-A-A-A-A champions, the Pampa Harvesters and coaching staff.

But with best wishes to the Palo Duro team in their match with the Plainview Bulldogs tonight, as Pampa has defeated the defending Bi-District team twice this year. Maybe when district competition starts the Dons will be able to give the Heavy Harvies some competition in order to keep the championship edge sharp for Bi-District and Regional contention.

Game time for the Harvesters tomorrow night is 8 p.m. with the Shockers playing at 6 p.m. and the Sophomores battling at 4:30 p.m.

The Shockers, after a slow start, have finally "Came Together" and won six of their last seven games for a 7 and 6 season mark. Make plans to attend the game and support the Hustlin' Harvesters at home and on the road.

Sunday Kickoff Football Ultimate

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW ORLEANS (AP) — "This is the ultimate—it's not just another game," says Dallas Coach Tom Landry.

For the Cowboys and Miami Dolphins, the ultimate—the kickoff for Super Bowl VI—arrives Sunday in Tulane Stadium at 2:30 p.m. EST, with national television coverage by CBS.

"You try to convince yourself that this is just one more game. You try to say you've got to look at it the way you look at any other one," says Landry.

"But you just can't, no matter how much you try. Let's face it, this is what it's all about. This is what 26 teams are shooting for at the start of the season."

For the Dolphins, a relatively young squad which has rocketed from an also-ran to the ultimate in just two seasons, it's a new experience.

For the Cowboys, it's just one more championship—and another chance to shake the not-wholly-deserved image of "blowing the big ones."

Dallas, which went into last year's Super Bowl as the favorite, then lost to the Baltimore Colts 16-13, are the odds-makers' pregame pick again, this time by a touchdown.

But that doesn't please Landry, who says it can work against the favorite.

"Perhaps being favored can hurt a bit. It can make a team overconfident, can make them let up just a bit—although I don't think that'll happen in our case."

"Conversely," he said, "being the underdog can cause a team to play over its head. I just don't want either, if any, it'll have an effect of us."

Miami Coach Don Shula Agrees with Landry's assessment.

"I don't pay attention to odds. No team is going to lose to you. You have to go out and win. They certainly should be the favorites."

In the past three Super Bowls, the odds have had no relation to the outcome: Each time the underdog has come out on top.

Sunday's clash features two clubs with both solidly steady and potentially explosive offenses. On defense, too, they're remarkably similar, although the odds-makers say it is defense which gives Dallas the edge.

At quarterback, each has a relatively young but highly polished performer.

For the Cowboys, it's Roger Staubach, a third-year player from Navy who won the starting role from Craig Morton in midseason and, with Landry shutting in the plays from the bench, has taken Dallas to nine successive victories.

For the Dolphins, it's Bob Griese, a five-year veteran from Purdue, who calls his own game.

And, in each case, it's the respective conferences' top-rated passers who will be barking out the signals. Staubach led the NFC with completions on 126 of 211 attempts for a 59.7 percentage, 15 touchdowns and only four interceptions. Griese headed the AFC, hitting on 145 of 263 passes for a 55.1 percentage and 19 touchdowns with nine passes picked off.

Each has a target for the bomb. Griese will be aiming his at Paul Warfield, only the conference's No. 9 receiver with 43 catches—but they amounted to a 23.2 yards-per-catch average and 11 touchdowns, each category tops in the league.

Bob Hayes is the Cowboys' long-ball threat. He made 35 receptions for a 24 yards-per-catch average and eight touchdowns, including the NFC's longest-aerial-scoring play of the year, an 85-yarder.

On the ground, the Dolphins rely almost exclusively on Larry Csonka and Jim Kiick—and they don't need much more.

Csonka, the AFC's No. 2 rusher, ripped around and through the opposition for 1,051 yards and seven touchdowns and Kiick, ninth in the conference, added 738 yards and three touchdowns.

The Cowboys have more diversity in the backfield. Duane Thomas, the No. 7 rusher in the NFC, piled up 793 yards and a league-high 11 touchdowns on the ground.

Calvin Hill, who may see limited action Sunday due to a knee injury, and Walt Garrison, shared much of the rest of the running. Hill getting 468 yards and Garrison, technically Dallas' No. 3 runner, getting 429.

And Staubach was No. 4. The rugged quarterback scrambled 41 times for 343 yards.

In addition to Warfield, Griese threw heavily to Kiick coming out of the backfield and to wide receiver Howard Twilley and tight end Marv Fleming.

Staubach, who also goes to his backs quite a bit, will also be looking for wide receiver Lance Alworth and tight ends Billy Truax and Mike Ditka, the latter two operating as Landry's signal-carrying service.

On defense, the Cowboys and Dolphins finished second overall in their respective conferences. Dallas' Domsday Defense was the best in the NFC against the rush but ninth against the pass while Miami was fourth in stopping both the ground and aerial game.

The edge the Cowboys would appear to have comes with experience. They've got an average of 8½ years on defense, some five more than the Dolphins, who will be starting five second-year men. Middle line-backer Nick Buoniconti, a 10-year veteran, is the man around whom Miami has built its defense.

One of the Cowboys' biggest

Pro Roundup

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
What a relief! It wasn't a long losing streak, and it was on the road away from the home fans, but the Utah Stars are glad it's over.

The Stars got dumped by Kentucky, Indiana and New York before bouncing the Virginia Squires 128-119 Thursday night.

Lombardi Trophy Will Be Awarded
HOUSTON (AP) — Fomer Green Bay guard Jerry Kramer will look on with both admiration and envy tonight when United Nations Ambassador George Bush presents the second annual Vince Lombardi Award to one of four finalists.

Kramer was an all-pro five times when he played under Lombardi at Green Bay but the honor of being a winner of the annual award for the nation's outstanding lineman is one he would have liked most.

"If there ever was an award I'd like to have been associated with or won, it would be this one," said Kramer, who will be a featured guest for the second annual presentation, named for Lombardi, who died of cancer in September 1970.

The 1971 winner will be chosen from four finalists selected by a 56-man selection committee of collegiate coaches and sports writers.

The finalists are Rich Glover and Larry Jacobson of national champion Nebraska, Ron Estay of Louisiana State and Walt Patulski of Notre Dame.

"I'd like to have won it myself," Kramer said of the 45-pound granite trophy, symbolic of self-discipline. "It would have meant everything to me because I knew what he stood for."

Ohio State's Jim Stillwagon won the first Lombardi trophy.

Texas League To Field 8 Teams In '72

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The Texas League will field eight baseball teams next season with the American League Milwaukee Brewers' decision to base a club here.

The Brewers will replace the Chicago Cubs team, which is moving to Midland, it was announced Thursday.

Texas League president Bobby Bragan said the 1972 league will include San Antonio, Amarillo, Midland and El Paso in the western division. The eastern division will include Memphis, Little Rock, Shreveport and Alexandria.

The league had seven teams last year as part of the Dixie Association but will operate as a separate entity in the 1972 season.

There had been some speculation that Lubbock would be chosen over San Antonio.

Devaney Thinking About Retirement
HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — Bob Devaney, who as head coach of Nebraska has won two consecutive national football championships, says he may retire. If he does, he'll do so without ever being chosen Coach of the Year.

Shortly after a vote Thursday of the American Football Coaches Association chose Paul "Bear" Bryant of Alabama and Harold "Tubby" Raymond of Delaware as coaches of the year in their divisions, Devaney said he is considering stepping down from his coaching post of 10 years.

"I've been thinking about it after each of the last three seasons," he said. "I'm going back home and make a decision within a couple of weeks."

"It's a lot better. I guess, to step out when you're at the top than when you're losing. At least nobody's nudging me now."

Frazier Favored In Saturday Bout

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Heavyweight champion Joe Frazier will enter many homes Saturday night via television. Most fight followers feel the visit will be a short one.

Talk about Frazier's scheduled 15-round title fight with Terry Daniels Saturday night concerns not who will win but how quickly will Frazier win.

The champion is such an overwhelming favorite that Las Vegas bookmakers did not establish a betting line.

As for Frazier, the only prediction he will make is that the Dallas Cowboys will beat the Miami Dolphins in Sunday's Super Bowl football game.

"I'm not taking him any lighter than any other fighter," Frazier said of Daniels.

"I'm just not a guy that's coming here to make a buck," said Daniels who lost three of 10 fights in 1971, one of them a four-round knockout by Jack O'Halloran. Doug Lord, Daniels' manager, said Daniels fought O'Halloran with injured ribs.

"The way Frazier comes in

Woman's Lib Strikes Blow For Baseball

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New York's highest court has struck out the New York-Pennsylvania Baseball League and the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues in their efforts to keep a lady umpire out of professional baseball.

The league and the national association, after earlier being told to drop minimum height and weight standards for umpires, contended Mrs. Gera had not attended an approved school and that her conduct was not appropriate.

The decision does not guarantee Mrs. Gera a job now, however. The baseball organizations could take the case into federal courts.

Nicklaus Wants Five Out Of Six Victories

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — "Well, we'll just see if we can make it five out of six, and then six out of seven."

Jack Nicklaus, winner of four of his last five starts, had just fired a brilliant six-under par 66 for a three-stroke lead in the first round of the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am golf tournament Thursday and was looking ahead to the weekend.

"Sure, I'd like to keep it going, but it's not going to happen," the powerful Golden Bear said, then grinned.

"How many did (Byron) Nelson win in a row? Eleven? Well, if I won 10 I'd want to win 20, but it's not going to happen."

Nicklaus, making his first start of the season, had seven birdies, missed six other times from 12 feet or less and was threatening to run off and hide from the rest of the field until he suffered his only lapse on the 18th hole.

A six-iron second shot hit the branch of a tree and the ball dropped straight down. He chipped poorly and two-putted for his only bogey.

That reduced his four-stroke lead to three over 1971 PGA Player of the Year Lee Trevino, tied for second at 69 with Paul Moran and Larry Mowry.

The group of seven at 70 included England's Tony

Pro Bowl Adds Two

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Running backs Duane Thomas of the Dallas Cowboys and Marv Hubbard of the Oakland Raiders were named Thursday to replace injured players in the National Football League's Pro Bowl Jan. 23 at the Coliseum.

Thomas will replace Willie Ellison of the Los Angeles Rams, who will undergo knee surgery early next week, on the National Football Conference squad.

Gov. Reagan Considered As Potential National Candidates

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Ronald Reagan cocked his head at a slight angle, gazed out at an audience of 1,000 of California's most influential business and industrial leaders, and began talking about his administration.

Five years ago, our state budget was second in size to the Federal government's," the Republican chief executive said. "Today, we are fourth— behind the federal government, New York State and New York City."

Five years ago, there were 102,456 full-time Civil Service employees on the state payroll. When we ended the fiscal year in June there were 101,399 or 1,066 fewer than when we started."

When novice politician Ronald Reagan ran for governor in 1966, he pledged to bring business-like economy and efficiency to state government and these were the type of statistics that impressed that audience at the annual Sacramento Host Breakfast last September.

The litany went on: $800 million in spending bills vetoed, lower mental hospital population, fewer parolees returning to prison, 1,000 more miles of freeway, 970 highway safety projects, 40 anticrime bills, welfare reform, environmental protection.

Reagan's lips tightened and his voice continued in a sterner tone.

"There were plenty of doomcriers charging that the state was moving backward. Services declining. California's great promise and progress grinding to a halt," Reagan said.

But he insisted. "This was not at the cost of reduced service."

After five years in office there are perceptible streaks of gray in the former actor's swept-back dark hair. The creases in his face are deeper and the skin beneath his chin isn't quite as tight as when he was seen by millions each week as host of the television series Death Valley Days.

At 60, Reagan is near a turning point in his successful political career. Pledged to serve only two terms as governor, he must decide whether to run for the U.S. Senate in 1974 or find some other role in public life. Or, he could retire to his 77-acre ranch in Riverside County southeast of Los Angeles.

Reagan's popularity with the voters, as measured in opinion polls, has declined. In June 1967 the California Poll said 41 per cent of those sampled rated him as doing a "good" job. Last September that fell to 28 per cent.

Public employees were unhappy over not getting any pay raise in his last budget. Higher education leaders still feud with Reagan over his tight budgets. And his efforts to cut back welfare spending have angered the poor, minority groups and the elderly.

But crowds still flock around when the governor appears in public. He is in demand as a speaker nationwide and there persists occasional talk among Republican conservatives about him as a potential national candidate.

Reagan rides to work in a black Lincoln limousine driven by a plain-clothes highway patrol officer and arrives about 9 a.m. Aides escort him from the Capitol basement garage to his first-floor office by a private, key-operated elevator.

Once inside his complex of offices, which house a staff of 100 at a cost of more than $1 million a year, Reagan is a virtual captive behind bullet-proof glass. The hall doors from his private study are always locked.

His day is taken up with Cabinet meetings, staff discussions, visits from legislators and an occasional public appearance.

Reagan normally holds Tuesday news conferences during legislative sessions, but they were less frequent last year after he was asked about a rumor that he did not have to pay any state income tax for 1970. The governor's office distributed a memo confirming the report, "because of business reverses."

Reagan, believed to be a millionaire because of investments before he became governor, earns $49,000 a year from his state salary. He refused to disclose anything else about his financial holdings, contending that is part of his private life and has no influence on his service as governor.

Between 5 p.m. and 6 p.m., Reagan is driven two miles to the $175,000 white Tudor-style Reagan home in east Sacramento. The state pays the $15,000 a year rent.

Religious Songs Of 18th Century To Be Heard At Woodville Meeting

WOODVILLE, Tex. (AP) — The Tex-La Neches Valley Singing Convention members are tuning up their vocal cords for the Friday through Sunday session here. What some singers may not know is that such meetings are the offshoot of singing schools of the 18th Century.

Two or three week singing schools were quite common during the summer months in the 1700s. The schools used religious songs for practice and at the conclusion of the course the students were presented in recital to demonstrate to family and friends the progress they had made in singing and song leading.

However, the religious songs of that century and the gospel music to be heard at the convention here are as far apart in mood and tempo as today's rock and yesterday's popular songs.

Modern gospel songs at the conventions are fast in tempo, even bouncy, and if the listener couldn't distinguish the words he might mistake it for country and western.

While many gospel singers are accompanied on the old standby, the piano, some use electronic aids such as amplifiers and electric guitars. And the battery of microphones which feed the public address systems were unheard of a few short years ago.

Tex-La Neches Valley is a two-state organization which meets each January in Woodville. As many as 5,000 people have heard the four sessions which begin on Friday night, continue through Saturday afternoon and night, and most of the day on Sunday.

It is one of more than 1,000 gospel singing organizations, most of them calling themselves "conventions," which are spread from the Southern United States into Canada.

Some are countywide, others statewide, and some are regional groups.

County and community gospel singing groups will meet once a month on Saturday night with an occasional Sunday session with dinner "on the grounds" at noon—a custom practiced especially in the South.

None of the singers, not even the quartets or trios which have become better known, receive any pay. Many of them hope to make enough of a name for themselves to advance to professional ranks. They will travel hundreds of miles to participate in a large singing convention, paying their own expenses.

Some have made records and albums which they push at the convention and others are sponsored by gospel music publishers who allow them a cut from sales of song books and sheet music. Even so all of them usually have to dig into their own pockets for a major part of their expenses.

There is no admission charge and the singers pay nothing to participate. Yet nearly all of them take up a collection with which to pay rent on the auditorium and other expenses of putting the convention together. Civic groups often will sponsor a convention to induce it to meet in its town. The Chamber of Commerce sponsors the Tex-La Neches Valley Singing Convention in Woodville.

Much of the popularity of the new gospel music can be attributed in large measure to Virgil O. Stamps and J.R. Baxter who began publishing gospel song books in 1926 as Startups-Baxter Music Co. of Dallas. The firm, now headed by Mrs. J.R. Baxter, remains one of the largest publishers of gospel song books.

The Stamps Quartet appeared all over the south in the 30s and 40s and gave great momentum to the new style of gospel singing. Since that time the company has had other quartets by the same name but without the late V.O. Stamps and his brothers.

At the conventions here, many of the singers have been teenagers. The Tex-La Neches Valley schedules a youth session on the Saturday afternoons of a convention. The youth groups also are put on the programs of the regular sessions.

One of the popular events is the quartets concert Friday night. The regular sessions on Saturday night and Sunday have "class singing" and "song leading," both with singing schools origins, interspersed with performances by the quartets and special groups.

Many of the groups who come to sing are family affairs with father, mother, sons and daughters making up a quartet or trio. Among these are the Harris Family Singers of Lufkin, the Shaw Family from Baton Rouge, the Holleys of Houston, and the Conn family of Dallas.

Television And Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — Judging from the goings-on Wednesday night, the television networks can hardly bear the prospect of a few months without football dominating their screens. There were two specials, both designed for laughter, but there was a hint of sadness about the seasonal departure of the game.

The premiere of ABC's "Comedy Hour" was a "Friar's Roast" with New York Jet star Joe Namath as object of the jokes. It was only half-way through when CBS presented its "Super Comedy Bowl," ablaze with stars and football players, much of it directing attention to Sunday's Super Bowl which CBS will broadcast.

The ABC Friar's Roast was identical, except for the gags, with NBC Friar's Roasts of past seasons when they appeared as part of the bygone "Music Hall" series.

The set up is a speaker's dais with the celebrities lined up to come on in turn. The television version is a lauded adaptation of a real stag event held by a show business organization. Both kinds are totally dedicated to insulting the honored guest.

While a 60-minute barrage of derogatory remarks can become tiresome, the speakers Wednesday turned in with few exceptions witty and merry monologues—even to a viewer with only mild interest in football or in Joe Namath as athlete, businessman, movie actor or swinger.

Buddy Hackett, as "roast-master" was sly and rowdy in his introductions of speakers who ranged from California Gov. Ronald Reagan to Howard Cosell, ABC sportscaster. While the speakers' lines were bright and amusing, they built gradually. There were few one-or two-liners such as that of Namath's teammate Emerson Booser who remarked that he flew from New York to Los Angeles to see Joe because "I so rarely get to see you." The line presupposed that every viewer knew that Joe's injuries had prevented him from playing most of the past two seasons—and probably everyone did.

An occasional show of this type is an interesting change. However, the format can not be used often without becoming predictable and repetitious.

"The Super Comedy Bowl" stars included two who were also prominent on the ABC program—Burt Reynolds and Tony Curtis. The hour's sketch material was not as bright as the stars who played in them and a lot of the jokes were pretty much inside.

Worry Clinic

By-GEORGE W. CRANE,
PH. D., M. D.

Sharon is puzzled by the strange alteration in her husband's behavior. He used to bolt his food and stick to meat and potatoes. Now he is a connoisseur and preoccupied with culinary recipes: Do you readers know what this means? Memorize this case!

CASE S-571: Sharon G., aged 39, is worried. "Dr. Crane," she began, "what is wrong with my husband?"

"He used to be interested only in steak and potatoes. He sneered at my fancy salads and other attempts at culinary appetizers."

"For he grumbled that 'Food is food' and also argued that we wives spend too much time conjuring up exotic dishes."

"But after he passed the age of 40, he suddenly began to take a great interest in rose wine and French cuisine."

"In fact, he began to cook special dishes, just as a hobby."

"Now, he spends more time in the kitchen than I do!"

"And can recite the names of all the fancy restaurants in our area, as well as tell what they are especially noted for!"

"What would change a stodgy eater into such a connoisseur of food?"

WIVES, BEWARE
Bluntly, my answer to Sharon was a surprise.

"Sharon," I said, "you have apparently quit serving him adequate cheesecake in the boudoir!"

"Wives, if your husbands begin to talk about various restaurant menus and seem to prefer gastric to erotic calories take care!"

"For this is one of the common symptoms of a man whose libido is waning."

"Virile young men usually regard all steaks or hamburgers as about alike!"

"So when men become connoisseurs of exotic menu items and smack their lips over rare wines, they are on the toboggan that leads to impotence!"

"Except for professional chefs whose salary depends on fancy menus, it is usually a feminine hobby to concoct new recipes."

"It is the wife who thus scallops the edges of the grapefruit, drops a marachino cherry atop dessert or adds a sprig of parsley to give more color to the dinner plate."

"A virile male's primary interest is boudoir cheesecake: not fancy dining room frills."

So when he begins to shift toward the dining room type of calories, you know that he is rapidly drifting toward the female category!

As such, he is becoming a neuter in the erotic realm.

This same excessive interest in garnishing menu items is also typical of the "female" partner in homosexual affairs!

For that "female" partner has more of the true feminine masochistic outlook on life.

The male, whether in heterosexual unions or homosexual alliances, is more sadistic.

So send for my booklet "How to Prevent Platonic Marriage," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane, Hopkins Bldg., Mellot, Indiana 47558, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Today In History

Today is Friday, Jan. 14, the 14th day of 1972. There are 352 days left in the year.

On this date:

In 1809, England and Spain formed an alliance against Napoleon Bonaparte.

In 1814, Denmark ceded Norway to Sweden.

In 1914, Henry Ford's first assembly line went into operation, vastly reducing the time it took to produce a car.

In 1942, forces under Gen. Douglas MacArthur were resisting Japanese attacks in the Pacific war battle of Bataan in the Philippines.

In 1943, President Franklin D. Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill began a wartime conference in Casablanca, Morocco.

In 1953, the Parliament in Yugoslavia elected Premier Tito president by a vote of 568 to one.

Ten years ago: At least 36 Algerians and Europeans were killed in disorders and terrorist acts in Algeria's major cities.

Five years ago: U.S. troops were sweeping through the so-called Iron Triangle in the biggest American operation so far in South Vietnam.

One year ago: The homes of British Cabinet ministers were being watched by extra guards after two crude bombs exploded in the home of the minister of employment, Robert Carr.

There Is Long List Of Deductible Taxes

By RAY DECRANE

Certain tax and interest payments are deductible on their income tax return for those taxpayers who itemize their deductions.

This chapter in the series on the preparation of your annual tax return will be devoted to those taxes and interest items which constitute legal deductions.

The most common in the list of deductible taxes are real estate, gasoline, state sales tax and personal property taxes.

Charts prepared by Internal Revenue Service list the allowable gasoline tax and sales tax.

Depending upon the number of nonbusiness miles driven and the per gallon gasoline tax in your state, the charts will determine your gas tax allowance. Don't forget to consider the operation of either a second or third car in the family if you are buying the gas for it.

Where you claim higher than normal gasoline tax because of the operation of a second or third car make note of this fact on your return.

The sales tax charts for your state will show the allowable deduction for sales tax depending upon your income and the number in your family.

Don't ignore the footnotes to the state charts. These frequently show how you can claim a larger allowance to compensate for a local tax that has been imposed in addition to the state tax.

In addition to the sales tax shown on the chart, you may additionally charge the actual tax on the purchase of an automobile, boat, airplane or mobile home. You can also take the added sales tax on the purchase of building materials for a new home if the taxes are separately stated and passed on to you. This would be most common to handymen who buy the materials and build their own home.

If you can prove you actually paid more state sales tax than the chart allows you take the higher amount, but be prepared to prove your claim.

Any interest paid for the use of money of a nonbusiness nature is fully deductible. This will generally include interest on a home mortgage, home improvement loan, car purchase, interest on notes to a bank, savings and loan or a credit union.

Interest paid to a broker for a margin account is also deductible. So, too, is the prepayment penalty on a mortgage paid off before maturity.

Carrying charges on installment purchases generally include a service and insurance charge in addition to the interest. To determine the allowable interest multiply the average monthly unpaid balance by six per cent.

Interest may also be claimed on the interest charged on the use of bank credit cards, provided that no part of the charge is for service charges, loan fees or a credit investigation.

Interest paid to Internal Revenue for late payment on a tax return is deductible. But the penalty for late payment of a bill is not deductible.

Cut Your Own Taxes

Depending upon the number of nonbusiness miles driven and the per gallon gasoline tax in your state, the charts will determine your gas tax allowance. Don't forget to consider the operation of either a second or third car in the family if you are buying the gas for it.

Where you claim higher than normal gasoline tax because of the operation of a second or third car make note of this fact on your return.

Nation's Biggest Airport To Provide Facilities For Handicapped

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — The biggest air facility in the country — the new $500 million Dallas-Fort Worth airport — will be built with special conveniences for the handicapped.

Airport deputy executive director Jack Downey said the regional facility will be the first in the nation to include barrierfree constructions as an aid to the handicapped.

Downey said construction plans include installations that will permit freedom of movement for wheelchair confined persons or those on crutches.

The project, he added, is the result of the cooperation of the committee of the Dallas Area

Rehabilitation Association which worked with airport designers to eliminate hazards.

The two groups streamlined curbs, doorways and other traditionally irksome structures. The regional facility probably will be the first airport in the country to display the international symbol designating it as barrier free for handicapped, said Mrs. Margaret Dyerly, chairman of the architectural barriers committee of the Dallas rehabilitation organization.

Airport parking will be directly in front of the airplane gates, reserving spaces near the entrance for handicapped persons.
