Firms Hit By Burglars

Burglars entered two local beer wholesale establishments last night and peeled the safe in one firm and ransacked the office of the other.

The door was peeled from the safe in the Jack B. Perry and Co. office at 213 E. Tyng. The entry to the building was made by breaking the glass in the door to the office and turning the lock from the inside.

The safe was ransacked and the cash box was empty when an employee of the firm went into the office this morning. An undetermined amount of money and checks was taken in the burglary.

The owner of the firm was out of town and the exact amount of money taken was not known. Officers reported that the amount may not be known until the owner returns and an audit of the books can be made.

Also entered last night was the Eagle Distributing Co. at 222 E. Atchison. Entry to this firm was gained by breaking the hasp on the sliding door at the east end of the building. Officers investigating the burglary reported that the office was ransacked and approximately $50 in cash was taken.

Several bottles of beer were also taken by the burglars but the empty bottles were found on the south side of the building.

Eisenhower Planning To Boost Federal Spending

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower plans to boost federal spending to the second highest peacetime level in history. His new budget could run as high as $72 billion.

Republican congressional leaders agreed today after a day-long White House briefing that the massive spending anticipated by the President rules out any chance for general across-the-board tax relief in the new year.

The GOP leaders emerged from the White House Monday night with somewhat differing ideas on the exact size of the new budget. Mr. Eisenhower will send to Congress next month for the fiscal year starting next July 1.

One key Republican said Mr. Eisenhower told them rising costs of defense and foreign military aid would push the total to about $70 billion or more. Another said the total could reach $72 billion, depending on the size of foreign aid and whether the United States finances oil shipments to Europe as a result of the Middle East crisis.

Exceeds Previous Spending
Either spending figure would exceed all previous peacetime spending except in the 1952-53 fiscal year when federal outlays soared to $74.3 billion. During this 12-month period the government was operated half of the time by Mr. Eisenhower and half of the time by former President Truman.

Estimates of spending in the current fiscal year forecast at $65.8 billion by the administration last January — already have been revised upward to $69.1 billion and may have to be changed again.

New Year's Traffic Deaths In Let-Up

United Press tabulations showed 301 traffic fatalities at 10 a. m. east, since the holiday count began at 6 p. m. Friday. There were 75 miscellaneous deaths, 31 fire deaths and four persons have been killed in plane crashes, for an overall accident toll of 411.

On the basis of the National Safety Council's estimate of 490 traffic deaths for the New Year's holiday, 69 lives have been saved, figuratively. The 490 prediction would call for 370 fatalities, 69 more than the U. P. figures, at 10 a. m.

"On the basis of the early figures, we are gratified," said Ned H. Dearborn, council president. "They indicate the nation has passed through the dangerous new year's eve festivities with a fatality rate still below the estimate."

Dearborn was especially pleased at reports of a decline in drunk driving arrests in some cities. "We hope this means drivers are realizing they can't mix gasoline and alcohol and live," he said.

The United Press made a special survey on drunk driving arrests. Los Angeles had the most—109—during New Year's Eve. But there seemed to be fewer cases than usual in other cities. In Denver, there were only two drunk drivers jailed. San Francisco had 10 arrests, Philadelphia seven.

Chicago 20, Dallas eight and Washington only two. Kansas City police made 26 drunk driving arrests, and said the total was "lighter than some Saturday nights."

Woman Dies In Apartment Blaze

An autopsy was ordered this morning in the death of Mrs. Viola Phillips Sleeper who was found dead in the fire-gutted garage apartment at the rear of 720 N. Gray early this morning.

The fire in the apartment was reported to the fire department at 6:10 this morning and Mrs. Sleeper's body was found on the floor in the kitchen.

Coroner Bill Graham was called to hold an inquest. As a result of the inquest Graham ordered an autopsy performed to determine the exact cause of death.

Late this morning the results of the autopsy had not been revealed. Officials investigating Mrs. Sleeper's death reported that she and her husband, Lowell Eugene Sleeper, had moved into the apartment yesterday, apparently moving to Pampa from Nashville, Kans.

The officers reported that Sleeper said he was not at the apartment at the time of the fire and was not located until sometime this morning.

The exact cause of the fire is unknown at this time and the officers reported that the investigation would continue until the cause of Mrs. Sleeper's death was known. (See AUTOPSY, Page 3)

President Is Boosting The Ike Doctrine

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower sought to convince Democratic leaders today that Congress must speedily approve his plans for using American force, if necessary, to block Soviet penetration of the Middle East.

A grim New Year's Day session was in prospect at the White House, as the President called in key Democrats and Republicans to discuss his new "Eisenhower Doctrine."

Despite advance indications of stiff congressional opposition, officials said Mr. Eisenhower considers the proposed resolution so important as a "warning to Russia" that he is determined to fight for its speedy adoption.

The "Eisenhower Doctrine" designed to throw a shield of American power around the Middle East calls for (1) stand-by authority to use American troops there; and (2) large-scale economic aid totaling perhaps $400 million.

Plan To Flexible
Officials emphasized that the plan in its present form is "flexible" and details won't be shaped until after today's meeting and possibly not until further action is received from nations abroad.

Democratic leaders declined to commit themselves in advance. Their support is vital if the plan is to have any hope of being adopted by the Democratic Congress.

Hungary Mourns Its Rebel Dead On New Year's

BUDAPEST (UP)—Hungary observed a "black" New Year's eve in mourning for its rebel dead. Ranking American, British and French diplomats boycotted a New Year reception tendered by the Soviet-sponsored government of Premier Janos Kadar.

Occasional gunfire echoed in Budapest's cold, deserted streets. At one hotel, where many had booked rooms for the night to evade the 10 p. m. curfew, some 200 persons observed a somber New Year's eve by turning out the lights and solemnly singing the Hungarian national anthem.

Western newsmen who toured the city ran into some patrols but found them extremely friendly despite the curfew violation.

One Hungarian apologized to visitors for the "poorest New Year Hungary has ever seen."

In an interview with Radio Moscow on the last day of the old year, Armed Forces Minister Ferenc Muehlich admitted that "remnants" of Freedom Fighters were holding out "in outlying areas and in the forests."

The fighting was believed centered in the region between Suez and Vesaprem, north of Lake Balaton.

Bulgarian Sees Peace Hope In 1957

LONDON (UP)—Russian Premier Nikolai Bulganin ushered in the new year with a prediction that peace will score "new successes" in 1957 despite "aggressive plans of international reaction."

Bulgarian answered questions submitted to him by the editor in chief of the Polish radio.

"What in your opinion should 1957 bring to mankind," Bulganin replied.

"The aggressive circles of some Western countries and their propaganda are making considerable efforts to fill people with pessimism and lack of confidence as regards prospects for the preservation and consolidation of peace, to make them believe in the fatal inevitability of an armaments race and war."

Eight County Officials Sworn In

Eight county officials were sworn in this morning, by District Judge Lewis Goodrich, seven of them in the County Court House and one of them in Worley Hospital.

Sworn in at Worley was Sheriff Rufe Jordan who has been suffering from pneumonia. The other seven were two commissioners, J. M. McCracken and Arlie Carpenter, C. F. Clendenen, constable at Lefors; J. D. Fish, constable at McLean; Don Cain, county attorney; D. R. Henry, justice of the peace and Jack Back, county tax collector and assessor.

The eight were elected to four-year terms to their respective offices this year.

Phone Firm Ups Building Program

DALLAS (UP)—Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. has announced it will spend more than $115 million in Texas this year for its largest building program in its history in the state.

R. A. Goodson, general manager for Texas, said this sum all most equals one year's payroll for its some 26,000 employees. The program includes new equipment and buildings to take care of telephone needs of the rapidly growing state.

The 1957 program will follow one of the best years in the utility's history in Texas, Goodson said. The company has just finished spending nearly $111 million on construction in 1956.

The violent death toll in Texas since the long Christmas-New Year's holiday count began at 12:01 a. m. Dec. 31 may not reach the predicted figure of 208 lives, it appeared today.

The Department of Public Safety said its death toll, through 9 a. m. today stood at 171 lives of which 89 were charged to traffic. The predicted traffic death toll was 115.

There have been 17 deaths by suicide or homicide during the holiday period and 35 accidental deaths including drownings and fires.

Whites Mount New Opposition To Bus Integration

Whites mounted new opposition to the racial bus integration movement in the South today with a warning that the changes in social customs might inflame more violence.

A White Citizens Council of Tallahassee, Fla., urged Gov. Leroy Collins to use his new emergency powers to nip a bus integration movement spreading in that city.

The council warned the Negroes' "arrogant attitude toward constituted lawful authority... may result in open violence and bloodshed."

A Negro's home was blasted by dynamite in Birmingham, Ala., Monday night during a rally of 600 Negroes to whip up new interest in a hitherto thwarted bus integration drive in that city.

Authorities in Montgomery, Ala., announced a decision made in an emergency session Monday night to add a score of police officers to the local force to meet possible violence.

Three outbreaks of sniping in Montgomery have struck four bases in that city during its nine days of integration under an injunction stemming from a U.S. Supreme Court integration decision.

The Tallahassee council voted 72-30 at its meeting Monday night to seek intervention by Collins and to urge white residents to give their segregationist city council stronger backing.

Bomb Threats, Explosion Swamp Police

NEW YORK (UP)—Two telephone bomb threats and explosion early today kicked off the new year for hurried police in their search for the "mad bomber."

The telephone threats, to a doctor's office and the Hotel Statler, both proved to be unfounded. Police found no trace of one of the bomber's infernal devices in either place.

An explosion, believed to have been caused by a hand grenade, shattered a window in the apartment of Joseph Tittman in upper Manhattan. He was not injured. A second unexploded "grenade" was found lying in the street.

The "grenades" proved to be practice bombs used to simulate explosions in Army infiltration courses. The devices are similar in shape, size and explosive force to high-powered fire crackers.

Police said the two devices apparently had been thrown from a passing automobile by pranksters.

Bomb squad members have investigated more than 130 bomb scares since Christmas Eve when the "mad bomber's" last lethal calling card was found in the public library at Fifth Avenue and 42nd Street, Monday and Monday night they checked the Empire State Building, Radio City Music Hall, Macy's department store, several other theaters, the Port Authority terminal and St. Vincent's Hospital.

Police Commissioner Stephen P. Kennedy warned Monday that hoaxers would be arrested and dealt with "firmly." He said they were hampering the search for the psychopath who has left 22 live bombs in public places since 1949. Fifteen persons have been injured by 22 of the bombs which exploded. There have been no fatalities.

The boy had since been awaiting transfer to Boys Ranch which was pending until accommodations could be arranged for him.

It is the county's hope that more donations will be forthcoming to make his life in Boys Ranch a happy and fruitful one. County Judge Bruce Parker said today.

Suit Filed In Court

Two suits were filed in 31st District Court this morning against the Keller Trucking Company of Pampa to the amount of $158,000 in connection with the injury of one and the death of another as a result of an accident Dec. 9, 1956 on Highway 70.

In the case of T. S. Butcher vs. E. M. Keller, the plaintiff is asking $75,000 damages plus $5,000 for hospital care.

In his petition, the plaintiff alleges that while riding as a passenger in a car belonging to David McPherson, last Dec. 9, while traveling in a westerly direction on Highway 70, a piece of machinery on a large trailer-truck owned by the defendant slipped, blocking the right hand side of the road for McPherson. As the two cars met, the machinery completely tore off the top of the auto in which the plaintiff was riding causing him serious and permanent injuries to the head and brain.

As a result of these injuries, the report continues, Butcher has been since that time. The petition further declares that he will be totally and permanently incapacitated to work and earn money throughout the balance of his life.

In the second suit, that of O. L. Butcher vs. E. M. Keller, the plaintiff is suing for $100,000 plus $2,000 funeral expenses brought about by the death of his wife, Hattie May Butcher who was killed in the same accident.

The President gets reaction today of Democratic congressional leaders to his foreign policy program, including plans for blocking Soviet expansion in the Middle East, Democratic and Republican leaders were called to the White House at 2 p.m. EST.

The GOP briefing Monday was for the most part restricted to the domestic side of the President's program.

The Republicans warned the President Monday he would need a "great deal of bipartisan cooperation" to achieve a "good balancing average" on his legislative program.

Will Press Civil Rights
Highlights of Monday's talks: —Mr. Eisenhower and GOP leaders agreed to press for passage of the same four-point civil rights program the administration maneuvered through the House last year, only to have it die in the Senate. Martin said the House would pass it as the first order of business this year, and Senate Leader William F. Knowland (Calif.) said it stands a good chance to the Senate despite the threat of a Southern filibuster.

—The President will ask again for increased postal rates. Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield outlined an idea of hiking rates for first class mail from three cents to five and hauling the long-distance part of it by air at no extra charge.

Much of the rest of the program has been proposed before. This includes amendments to the Taft-Hartley labor law, withdrawal for Hawaii and part of Alaska, lowering the voting age to 18 years, aid for areas of chronic business distress, and a four-year program of federal aid for school construction.

Luxury For A Small Girl Comes From Her Own Glamour Aids Like Mommy's

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

How often have you heard, "Mommy, please let me try your lipstick?"

Starched petticoats and frilly party dresses make little girls aware that they are pretty. And, of course, on occasion they all want to be grown-up. But, unfortunately, this desire to be dainty is usually spasmodic and quickly forgotten in energetic play.

It's true, though, that sweet little rolls around sooner than we expect, and sound training in cleanliness, skin health, hand care and grooming habits is a gift every parent can give her child — and one that will bear fruit for a lifetime.

Little girls don't appreciate be-

MATURE PARENT

Billy's mother had been thinking of sending him to the local nursery school, and one of his young lady workers came to visit.

She was a pretty, very enthusiastic young lady. Soon her interest in Billy intoxicated him. The close attention she gave to his new fire truck so stimulated him that he could not let her get away. When she and his mother started discussing the school tuition, he protested by running around the sofa they sat on. As he'd pass his mother, he'd pause to give her an angry shove and yell, "Wooooo. You're a Woo Zoo! You're a stinky mean old stinky Woo Zoo..."

Remembering that the modern child is permitted free expression, Billy's mother tried to ignore his aggressiveness. But being denounced as a stinky Woo Zoo before her guest embarrassed her horribly.

All she could think of was that the nursery school's young lady would go back and tell it she was the disrespected parent of a spoiled child. So in no time at all she was saying she guessed she couldn't afford the experience for Billy though this was not true and he could have used it most profitably.

A child's right to express a bad opinion of us must always be balanced by our right to disagree with it. Unless we retain this right for ourselves, his freedom of expression is just chaos — and frightens instead of pleasing him.

This is because we are Billy's supreme trust. We establish a safe haven for him — food, shelter, warmth, the difference between good and evil, innocence and harm. When anger betrays him into attacking us as foolish and unreliable, he doesn't want us to accept this judgment.

Deeper than his need to attack us is his need to believe us a trustworthy person capable of protecting him properly. So, though we allow him to voice his bad opinion of us, we make it clear we don't share it by saying cheerfully, "If you want to call me a stinky Woo Zoo, just go outside and do it. I am not one — and don't intend to listen to such talk."

The old view was that parents' judgments of children must never be questioned. The new one — that children must be allowed to criticize us indefinitely — was reaction to the old one. It has proved nearly as destructive.

Now parent education is trying frantically to repair the damage it did by insisting that "free expression" was a children's monopoly. But many of us still feel that we should be "seen and not heard" when Billy expresses his stern moral judgments of us.

AROUND THE WORLD

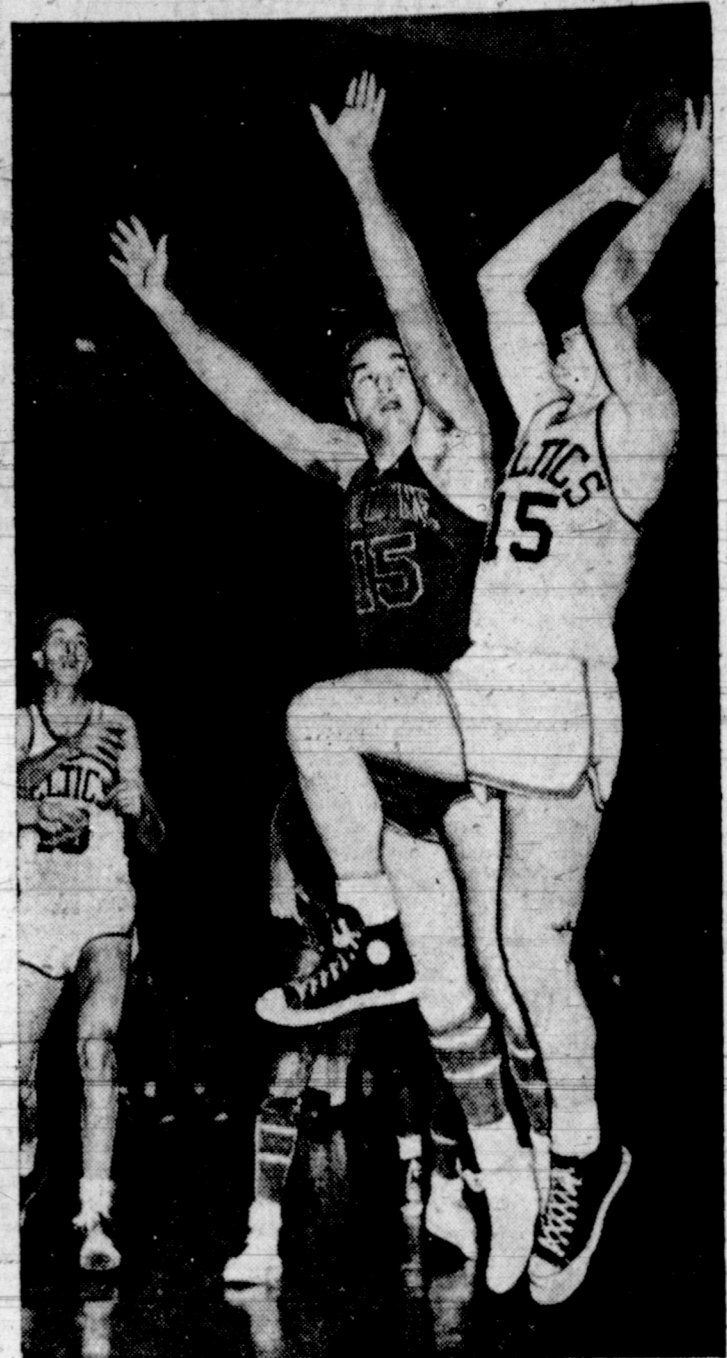

FUN IN THE SNOW—After a heavy snowfall, a lot of youngsters in St. Louis, Mo., got out their sleds and made the most of their opportunity. Although the storm caused considerable damage, it also afforded some people a lot of fun.

WET HOLIDAY—When this little tot dived into the pool at a swimming school in Hollywood, she found a pleasant surprise. A tiny Christmas tree, surrounded by gifts, rested at the pool's bottom and she just couldn't resist trying out a sleek tricycle—for a second or two.

HAPPY FUTURE—Former Brooklyn Dodgers' star Jackie Robinson is shown in the trophy room of his home in Stamford, Conn., after he was traded to the New York Giants for pitcher Dick Littlefield and an estimated $30,000 in cash. The 36-year-old star will play for New York next season, on first base for the first time since he played that in 1947.

FOUL PLAY—Tom Heinsohn (15) of the Celtics goes up for a two-handed shot against Fort Wayne as Alex Hannum (15) of the Pistons defends in the opener of an NBA double-header in Madison Square Garden. Hannum fouled Heinsohn on the play. The high-flying Bostonians won, 113-97.

THIS IS GOLF?—Looking like participants in a mechanized version of hare and hounds are these golfers on the famed course at Augusta, Ga. It seems that wheels have replaced walking even in the peripatetic game of golf.

TRYOUT—A big moment in the life of this little Polish girl in Warsaw is the fitting of her first skis. She's watching intently as her mother outfits her in a local ski shop. Christmas in snowy Poland is the right time for any new sports equipment for winter.

WINSOME WINNER—Posing with her trophy, lovely Lynn Freyse, of Tucson, Ariz., displays the stately shape in Phoenix that won her top honors in the Miss Arizona 1957 contest. The Phoenix parade of beauties is the first in the country to choose for the 1957 Miss America contest.

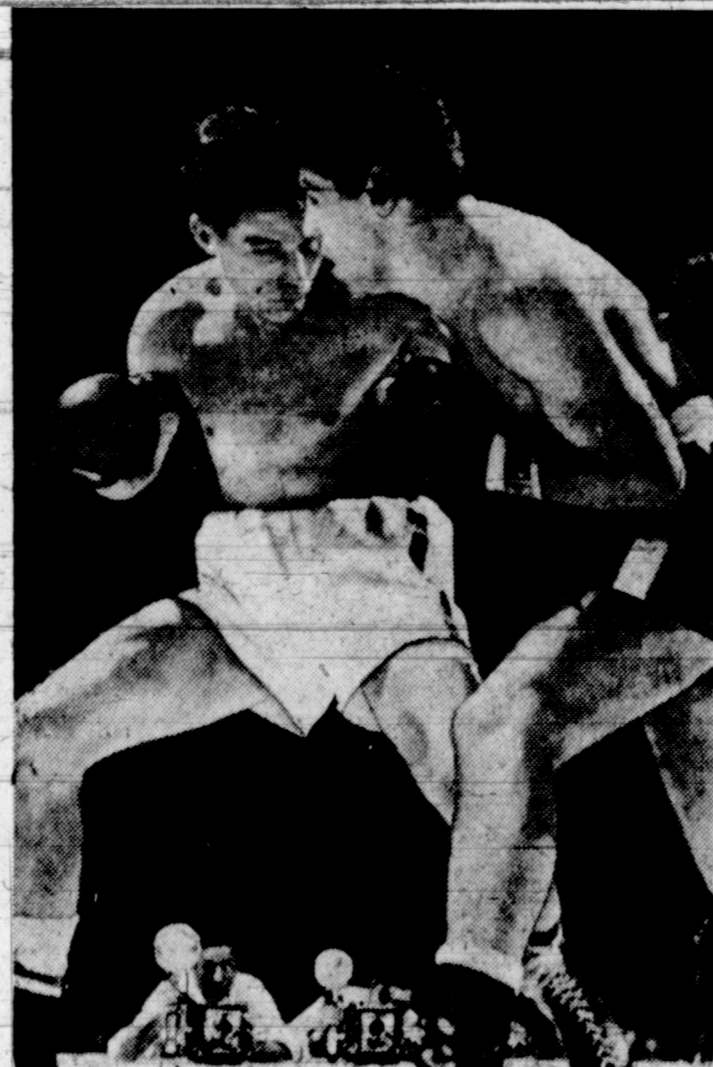

A TIME TO RELAX—Actor Errol Flynn looks intent enough for something mighty good to be on the other end of that fishing line, as lovely Italian actress Rosanna Rory encourages him. The object of Flynn's gaze was a four-foot dolphin putting up a fight in Cuban waters where Flynn and Rosanna are making a movie.

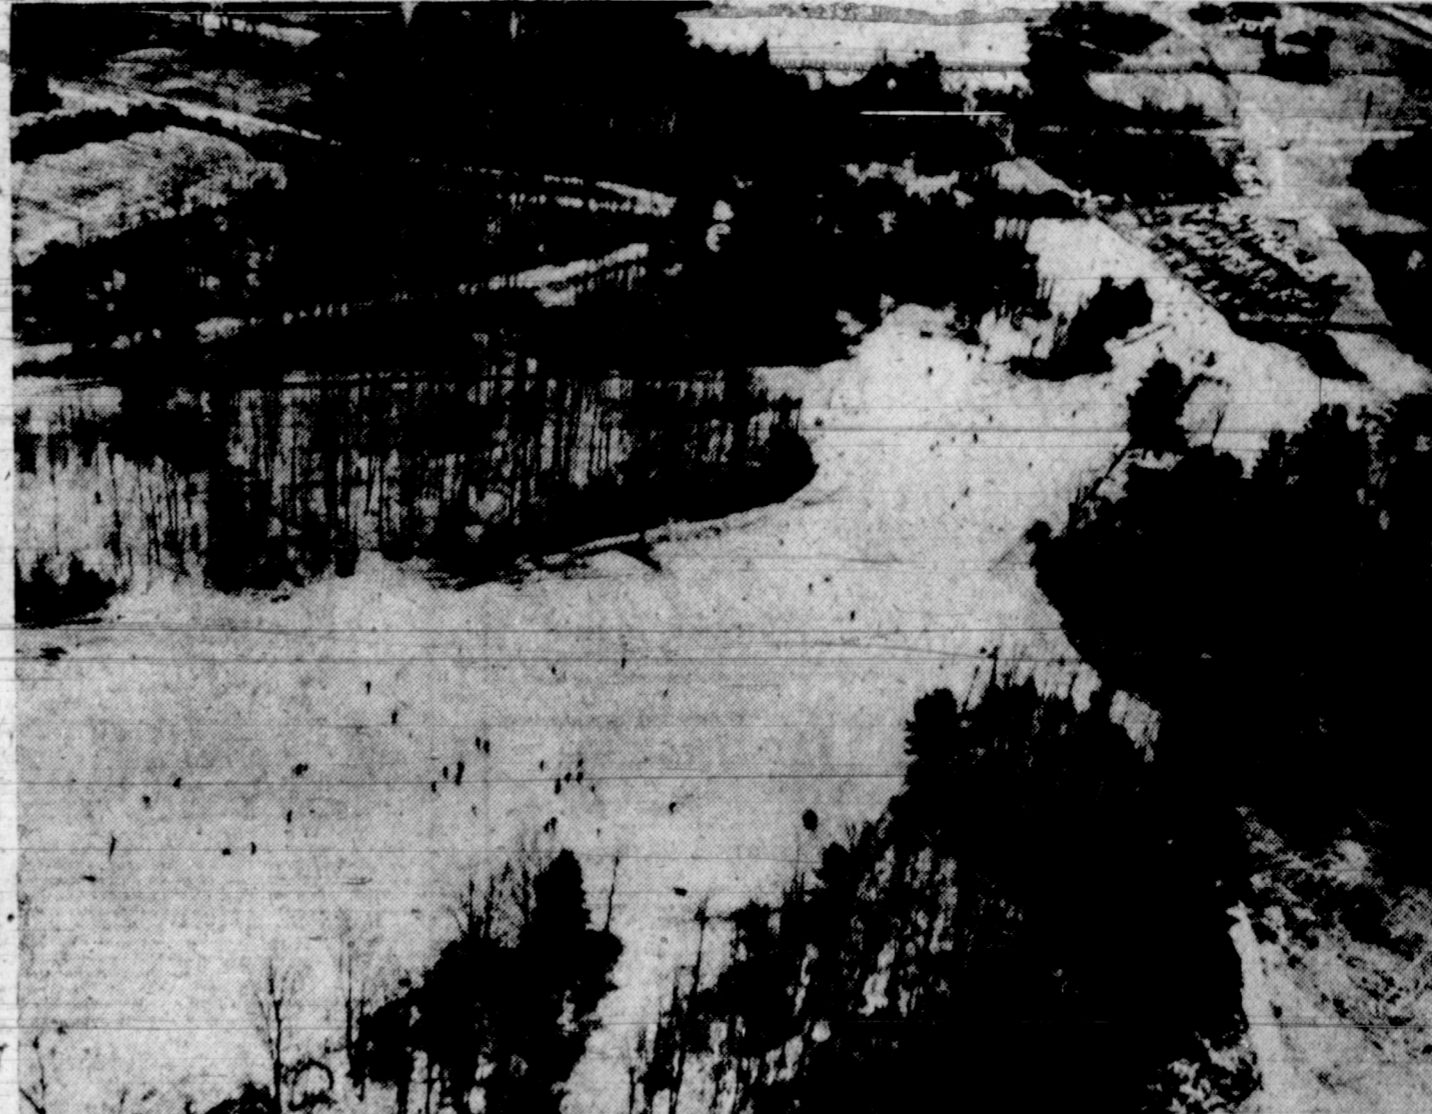

FOR THE BEACH—Inspired by the outfits worn by surfboys in Hawaii, these longer swimming pants are making a big splash on California beaches. University of California student Ralph Thomas is shown in San Francisco wearing the calf-length pants for body surfing and surfboarding. They protect against bruises and gravel cuts.

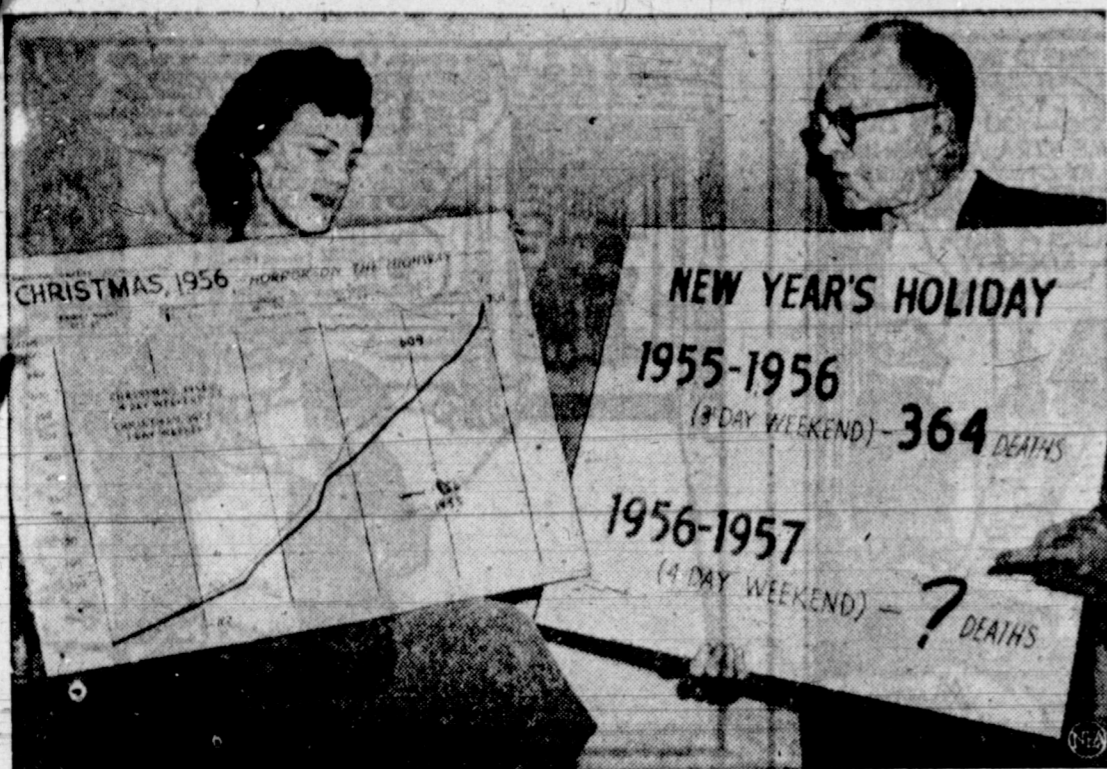

MODEL PLAYER—Notre Dame All-American Paul Hornung strikes a "model pose" behind the Heisman Trophy which was formally presented to him in New York. Hornung, who starred throughout the season with the Irish, topped runner-up Johnny Majors by 72 points to win the award. The 21-year-old senior from Louisville, Ky., was named winner of the trophy as the top collegiate football player.

TOO CLOSE FOR COMFORT—Featherweights Paul Jergenson, left, of Port Arthur, Texas, and Carmelo Costa, of Brooklyn, swap punches during their scheduled 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden. Costa, a 7-5 favorite, won a unanimous decision over the Texan.

WINTER MAGIC—The white blanket dotted by skiers is a tribute to the ingenuity of man. The snow for skiing wasn't heaven-sent; it was spread by a snow machine near Pittsfield, Mass. Despite the fact that the surrounding area was devoid of snow, the slope was converted into a skiing area within 48 hours with the man-made snow.

DEATH ON THE UP AND UP—Dramatic presentation of the rising tide of holiday traffic deaths is given by these charts displayed in Chicago by Paul Jones, of the National Safety Council and Secretary Dolores Olander. Her chart shows toll for 1955 and 1956 Christmas weekends. Jones' graph shows highway deaths from the previous New Year weekend.

NO BOMBING, THIS—It looks like the aftermath of a blockbuster bombing raid, but this scene in Miami Beach, Fla., results from the work of professional house-wreckers. The rubble marks the fate of the once-proud McFadden-D'auville Hotel, a landmark for 30 years. Built at a cost of $508,000, the hotel spanned 500 feet of valuable ocean frontage. The late Bernard McFadden, eccentric publisher of magazines, was one of the original owners.

OUTLOOK FOR 1957

'Greatest' Advances Predicted In Peaceful Use Of Atomic Energy

By LEWIS L. STRAUSS

The coming year should witness the greatest advances yet made in peaceful uses of atomic energy. This will be true around the world.

A Glance Back At TV During 1956

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (UP)—This column is a personal glance back on TV, 1956.

It is a list of highlights, but since it is a personal list, it is colored, of course, by personal biases. I have forsaken "categories," preferring instead to ramble through the months past, during which I watched TV some 28 to 30 hours each week.

If I had to single out the one show that provided TV at its "purest" in 1956, the palm would have to go to a prizefight—the Floyd-Patterson "Hurricane" Jackson bout carried by NBC-TV on June 8.

The 12-rounder was hardly a polished essay in the sweet science, but it was TV stripped down to its cleanest. The arena of the event was limited, the action continuous and dramatic, the whole geared perfectly to the single watcher in his room at home.

It was the sort of thing TV does best—a simple, sustained action happening "in the now."

For excellence over the year, I would have to cast a big vote for the Sid Caesar Hour. Caesar's skits sometimes run to tiresome lengths and so do "bits" within the skits, but there is always a sense of real anticipation about a Caesar show—each one has flavor, wit, originality.

Again in the comedy line, a vote for Ernie Kovacs. His third best mimic on TV, he brought commercial has inspired wackiness. So was his "Nairobi Trio." A vote, too, for the "home movies" of Herb Shriner, all of which struck a winning note in energy derived from atomic fission will become a reality. The full-scale (65,000 kilowatt) central station atomic plant at Shippingport, Pa., will be supplying commercial power to the Pittsburgh area. Smaller (pilot) plants at the Argonne laboratory, the Oak Ridge laboratory and the Army package power plant at Fort Belvoir, Va., will begin delivering electrical energy to their own localities.

The year is also expected to see great progress in the design and commencement of large-scale power plants, either partially or wholly financed by private investment, in New England, the Great Lakes region, the New York City area, the Great Plains and at several other points where the plans are now coming into final focus.

We believe that the Congress will surely provide the insurance protection for the pioneer ventures in atomic power development which was overwhelmingly endorsed by the congressional joint committee on atomic energy last year but which did not reach a floor vote in the concluding days of the last session of Congress.

Elsewhere in the world the outlook also is for growing activity. The prime event of 1956 was the adoption of the statute for the International Atomic Energy Agency proposed three years ago by President Eisenhower's historic address to the United Nations. We shall take our full part in the development of the agency's programs and operations in 1957. We shall continue to develop likewise our co-operation with individual nations under agreements for co-operation pursuant to the Atomic Energy Act.

The rate of discovery in basic nuclear science has been accelerating in recent years—as witness the burst in 1956 of new knowledge about the particles of the atom. The new year could well prove no less fruitful.

It is certain that more investigators and more firms and institutes at home and abroad will make use of more radioisotopes for more benign purposes in 1957 than in any previous year. The furnishing of these extraordinary tools has grown steadily as one of our functions.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31 (UP)—Strong winds Saturday blew the star off the top of the 65-foot national community Christmas tree in the ellipse south of the White House.

The tree, adorned with 5,500 gaily-colored light bulbs, swayed sharply in the high winds. The huge star fell when a gust snapped off the top of the tree. The tree was lighted by President Eisenhower in a Christmas ceremony Dec. 20. It is the centerpiece of the Pageant of Peace performed during the holiday season. The tree was shipped in from Alamogordo, N.M.

TOKYO, Dec. 31 (UP)—One of Japan's biggest fireworks factories blew up Saturday. One person was killed and three injured in the explosion.

Fireworks stored for New Year celebrations went up with a roar at the Marutama factory located about five miles from the Tachikawa U.S. Air Force Base. It took firemen three hours to extinguish the flames. Four buildings were destroyed.

Police said most of the 43 workers had gone home for the day, keeping the casualty toll down.

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, Dec. 31 (UP)—A series of earthquakes rocked New Zealand's East Coast Saturday. There was some property damage but no casualties.

Chimneys crashed by the dozen and many windows were shattered in Gisborne, a community of 20,000 persons.

The center of the tremors was placed in the sea bed near White Island, 50 miles offshore in the Bay of Plenty.

Power Pulses Through

Power will be pulsing from the sodium reactor experiment in southern California, and the General Electric Company's prototype plant in northern California will be feeding into the western commercial grids.

The year is also expected to see great progress in the design and commencement of large-scale power plants, either partially or wholly financed by private investment, in New England, the Great Lakes region, the New York City area, the Great Plains and at several other points where the plans are now coming into final focus.

Pasadena's Champion Float Builder Is Quiet Grandmother

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Hollywood Writer

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—When the floats rolled by TV cameras today in the Pasadena Tournament of Roses parade, you may have spotted a quiet, gray-haired grandmother sitting on a street corner.

Although Mrs. Isabelle Coleman looks as if she should be home knitting on the front porch, she's Pasadena's champion float-builder for the famous parade.

For more than 50 years she's designed and "produced" the mammoth displays of flowers, and every year since 1910 her floats have won at least one prize. This year she has six floats in the parade, and in view of the estimated 60 million TV viewers for the event, she's a major TV "scenery" builder.

The advent of TV to the Rose parade has altered the floats.

"This year some of my clients wanted their floats designed with TV in mind," Mrs. Coleman said as she watched college students glue carnations onto one float before the parade began.

"That means strong colors—red, yellow, blue—and definite outlines. Otherwise in the long shots you can't see what the float represents."

"But other clients ignore TV and want their floats made of expensive flowers, which are the pastels—orchids, roses, and so on."

Her float for the city of Long Beach features a white swan which Mrs. Coleman thinks will catch the TV cameras. Another Coleman float consists of three 30-foot wide "flowers" made of hundreds of blossoms. Its pastel col-

Here's The News That Will Make Headlines

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

United Press correspondents around the world look ahead at the news that will make the headlines.

Vienna hears that a high-ranking Hungarian delegation will go to Moscow this week. Puppet Premier Janos Kadar may lead it. The reason: To get a briefing on what lies ahead for the country, politically and economically. After two months of industrial paralysis, Hungary needs immediate aid to stave off chaos. The Russians may offer some political concessions in an attempt to appease the still-rebellious workers. It's possible that Kadar will be told he'd better quit. There is still talk that "Titoist" leader Imre Nagy might be restored as premier.

Maybe Fred Hall, lame duck Republican governor of Kansas, may get a sub-cabinet job in the Interior Department. That is, if the two Kansas senators agree. The White House has asked them if they would approve an appointment for Hall. Hall failed to win re-election this year. Hall has been feuding with Sen. Frank Carlson. Bill Carlson is likely to leave the decision to his colleague Sen. Andrew Schoepel. Schoepel may or may not regard Hall as a possible contender for his Senate seat in 1960.

Japan Look for new Japanese Premier Tanzan Ishibashi to name a minister of state in charge of defense, which he now holds himself. Ishibashi favors business executive Juichi Tsumihama. But he may choose Adm. Kichisaburo Nomura, who was ambassador to Washington at the time of Pearl Harbor. Nomura's handicap: Japanese leaders shy away from the thought of returning to the pre-war custom of naming military men as chiefs of the defense departments.

GI Loans Despite hard money trends, there is no prospect for an early boost in interest rates on GI loans. The administration will ask Congress to increase the rate on home loans to ex-servicemen. But Rep. Olin E. Teague (D-Tex.), chairman of the House Veterans Committee, intends to sidetrack the proposal.

Slight Thaw Improvement is predicted in relations between West Germany and Russia. They've been long near the breaking point. The thaw started last week in talks between Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and Soviet Ambassador Andrei Gromyko. Shirov flew to Moscow to report. More talks are expected. One thing the Kremlin would like is the removal of Defense Minister Franz-Josef Strauss. The Russians say he's "dangerous."

War Crime British Prime Minister Anthony Eden is pondering whether to bring a war crimes charge against Egypt for the death of Lt. Anthony Moorhouse, who was suffocated in a closet after being kidnapped by Egyptian guerrillas. To bring the accusation successfully, under the Geneva Convention on treatment

The 'Abominable Snowman' Hunt To Get Started

CALCUTTA UP—An American expedition to track down the "Abominable snowman" in the Himalayas will start in the next few weeks.

The group is led by 31-year-old Irishman Peter Byrne who arrived here Monday from Sydney.

The expedition is sponsored by the San Antonio (Tex.) Zoological Society and financed by American oil magnate Tom Slick.

The party which includes Miss Cathy McLean, an American research scholar, is trying to enlist the services of famed Everest conqueror Sherpa Tensing and his daughters.

Byrne did reconnaissance of the Himalayan area last February to get information for the coming expedition and the legendary "animal that walks like a man."

ors may be lost in TV. But everybody tells me this will win a prize."

Mrs. Coleman starts in June to design her floats. The clients approve her sketches. Then she hires workmen to construct the outline in chicken wire and metal rods over special body-less automobiles in a huge quonset hut that is her workroom. Three days before the parade, students begin to glue on the millions of blossoms.

"But the flower don't die unused," she added. "After the parade the spectators strip the floats and take home the blossoms."

Since the rose parade has been shown on TV, viewers write Mrs. Coleman their suggestions for floats. Last year one man suggested she reconstruct Yellowstone Park, complete with geyser.

"Now you know you can't put a geyser on a float," she sighed.

PALS—This scene of domestic tranquility is at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Grenier of East Hartford, Conn., where the family cat gazes with benevolence at his tiny playmate, "Chippy," the chipmunk. Domesticated on a diet of milk, water and an apple a day, Chippy has foregone the pleasures of wild life for his feline friend.
