U.S. Military Justice Is Vindicated-Nugent

FORT SILL, Okla. -UP- Maj. Ambrose Nugent said Tuesday his acquittal on "collaboration" charges was a "vindication of American military justice" and he plans to resume his Army career as an artillery officer.

The silver-haired, 45-year-old regular Army major, who has been accused of aiding the Communists while a prisoner in North Korea, was swamped with congratulatory telegrams and telephone calls Tuesday.

Local townspeople who had followed the seven-week court martial joined in praising the court's decision.

"It was a very popular decision here," said John Claiborn of the Lawton Constitution Press. "I love the Army. I want to stay with it," Nugent said Tuesday. "I want to take a leave and get some dental work done, then I plan to resume my Army career as an artilleryman."

Nugent expressed hope that his German wife, who is still in Europe, will be able to come to this country soon. "I appreciate the faith and confidence individuals all over the country have given," he said. "I have tried to be a soldier and a good officer."

Nugent was defended by two Army attorneys in the long trial. "The only thing I can say now is that military justice is vindicated," the graying grandfather from Merrill, Wis., said after the decision Monday. "I absolutely had a fair trial."

The board of two colonels and seven lieutenant colonels deliberated two hours, seven minutes before deciding the tall, gaunt soldier did not give undue aid to his captors while a prisoner of war some 23 months in Korea.

Conviction could have meant life imprisonment and dishonorable discharge. Court martial rules require a two-thirds vote of the board to decide his innocence. He was the fifth former American POW court-martialed on collaboration charges, but the first one acquitted.

Monday's verdict was handed down seven weeks to the day after his trial opened Jan. 24. The original charges included 13 specifications but four of them were thrown out after the Army closed its case with 18 days of prosecution witnesses.

Nugent never doubted the outcome of the trial. "To tell you the truth, I don't feel much different after my acquittal than before. I have always had such confidence I would be acquitted. I have felt quite confident throughout the trial."

The major was accused of signing a surrender appeal to troops writing and signing propaganda articles denouncing the Korean war after the Army closed its case.

Meanwhile, Chairman Dennis Chavez (D-N.M.) of the full Public Works committee announced hearings will be held on highway needs in all nine regions of the Bureau of Public Roads. Regional headquarters of the bureau are located in Albany, N.Y.; Hagerstown, Md.; Atlanta; Chicago; Kansas City; Fort Worth, Tex.; San Francisco; Portland, Ore.; and Denver, Colo.

Gore also issued a table which shows (in the first column) the percentage allocation to various states of the existing authorization for federal highway aid. The percentage is applied (in the second column) to the additional $29 billion state and local governments would have to raise under the administration bill for roads and streets other than interstate. Second column figures are in millions of dollars.

The allocations include:

Arkansas	1.48	430
Missouri	2.79	810
New Mexico	1.29	374
Oklahoma	1.91	564
Texas	6.00	1,735

Another bill being considered by the subcommittee is one sponsored by Gore calling for a total expenditure of $1.1 billion annually in federal funds for primary, secondary and urban roads with states to match funds on a 50-50 basis. This bill also would increase funds for interstate roads from $175 million to $500 million annually. This would be on a two-thirds to one-third matching basis.

The subcommittee is considering an administration bill calling for the expenditure in the next 10 years by state and local governments of $29 billion more than their present spending for roads and streets outside the interstate highway system. The measure also calls for $25 billion in federal spending on interstate roads, but states would be required to put up no more matching funds than under present law.

Settled out of court were the cases of J. E. Strange vs. Alice Short Smith; Ray O. Lester vs. Gulf Casualty Co. and Glenn G. Fry vs. Texas Employers Insurance Association.

The case of Larry Q. Kelly vs. Texas Employers Insurance Association today was in the process of being reset and the case of Kate W. Morgan vs. Ercy Cubine and Citizens Bank and Trust Co. was passed and not reset.

Red Attack On Matsu Is Believed Imminent

Senator Tells Of Vet Fee

Wants To Help In Land Probe

AUSTIN - UP - State Sen. Gus Strauss told a Senate investigating committee Tuesday that as an attorney he received $11,500 in fees for handling certain veterans land board transactions, some of which are under scrutiny.

"I have come here voluntarily today to give you this information in the hope that it might be of assistance to you in your investigations, and I assure you of my desire to co-operate with this committee at any and all times with regards to every detail with which I am acquainted," the Hallettsville lawmaker said.

Meantime, committee members excused T. J. McLarty, a key figure in the burgeoning land scandal, from any questioning after Attorney General John Ben Shepperd expressed belief any testimony by McLarty might jeopardize later prosecution.

Sen. Dorsey Hardeman, chairman of the committee, thanked Strauss for his "appearance and his frankness."

Sen. Jimmy Phillips of Angleton expressed "the hope and the wish expressed in the past had, in the future will be, as frank as Senator Strauss in coming before this committee."

Strauss said on four occasions he represented Ralph Slocum, of San Antonio, whose name entered previous Senate and House committee testimony.

"As a result of this representation I collected fees of $500, $1,500, and $750 on two occasions. In each instance the fee paid to me was less than 1 per cent of the sale price of the land was involved," he said.

Employed by Rio Grande Firm Strauss, reading a prepared statement, said "I also was employed as an attorney by the Rio Grande Corp. and was paid a fee of $8,000 for such services. This was less than 2 per cent of the sale price of their land. This employment covered a period of many months."

McLarty's name was linked in previous testimony before both House and Senate committees with the Rio Grande Corp., a land development enterprise.

Prior to the committee ruling on McLarty's testimony, his lawyer, Austin attorney Everett Looney protested there was nothing voluntary about his client's appearance.

B. R. Sheffield Not Hiding; Is In Chicago

FORT WORTH - UP - B. R. Sheffield, sought on veterans land scandal indictments, is not a fugitive, is in Chicago on important business and "he'll be back here before the end of the week and we'll go right down to Austin and make his bond," his attorney said Tuesday.

The lawyer, Hal S. Lattimore, said he told the Department of Public Safety last Saturday and the Austin district attorney's office two weeks ago where Sheffield was.

Sheffield, a six-foot-two Brady land promoter who drives a Cadillac, was named in 20 secret indictments handed up Friday by a Travis county grand jury, all in connection with irregularities in state's scandalized $100 million veterans land program.

One indictment jointly named Sheffield and former Texas Land Commissioner Bascom Giles who helped create the veterans land program and administered it until his resignation as commissioner of the General Land Office and chairman of the Veterans Land Board last Jan. 1, the day he was to start his ninth consecutive term of office.

This indictment accused Sheffield and Giles of conspiring to steal $83,500 in state money paid for 400 acres of Dimmitt county land.

COMBINATION FOR MARRIAGE SOMETIMES HARD TO FIND

County Clerk Charlie Thut will have to learn the new combination on the safe door that serves as the entrance to his courthouse office.

Sunday night there was a couple who had gone to New Mexico to get married, but had been turned down because of their ages. So they - along with their parents - got hold of Thut and asked him to make out a marriage license for them.

He worked on his office door till 11:30 p. m. Sunday - to no avail.

So the couple had to wait till Monday morning when Thut finally found someone who knew the combination.

Equipment Bids Asked

The Pampa City Commission today set March 29 as the bid-opening date for a new ditching machine and decided to hold the April 5 water improvement bond letting in the old Pampa Public Library in the basement of City Hall.

The new ditching machine was included in the proposal for $200,000 worth of water improvement bonds which the City of Pampa approved Feb. 26. Bids on the machine will be opened in the City Commission Room during the regular meeting.

During today's meeting City Mgr. Fred Brook read a letter from Ben C. Armstrong, president of the Texas Association of Assessing Officers, in which he announced that City Tax Collector Aubrey Jones had been selected to teach the association classes this summer on land appraisals. Jones was head of the association in 1951 and 1952.

In other action, the commission paid monthly bills totaling $34,245.13; okayed a $42.35 retainer on curb-and-gutter work for W. R. Colville Amarillo; approved the sewer and water contracts for the new Jarvis-Some Addition, and passed on the ballot order for the April 5 city election.

Drawings were held Monday afternoon for places on the ballot from Ben C. Armstrong, president of the Texas Association of Assessing Officers, in which he announced that City Tax Collector Aubrey Jones had been selected to teach the association classes this summer on land appraisals. Jones was head of the association in 1951 and 1952.

Situation In Saigon Tense

SAIGON, Indo-China - UP - The government Tuesday stationed armored cars around the residence of Premier Ngo Dinh Diem whose powers are threatened by a new coalition of religious sects.

Informed sources said the new coalition posed the greatest threats to Diem's regime since he weathered the crisis over control of free Viet Nam's national army last fall.

Tension mounted in Saigon and the armored cars moved into alert positions in the gardens of Diem's residence. The atmosphere in the refugee-swollen city reflected uneasiness in high quarters. The religious sects, each with its own private army, were the CAO DAI, HOA HAO and Binh Xuyen.

Last week they suddenly put an end to their private wars and united to demand the formation of a national union front to set up a "strong and honest democratic government."

The statement was regarded as a challenge to Diem who rules on a personal mandate from the Emperor Bao Dai, Viet Nam chief of state. South Viet Nam has no parliament.

Dulles returned Sunday from two weeks in Asia where he helped organize the Southeast Asia pact and set in motion the U. S. Nationalist China defense treaty.

Dispatches from London said British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, who also attended the eight-nation defense meeting held in Bangkok, returned greatly disturbed over U. S.-British disagreement on ways to meet Red aggression in Asia and to obtain a cease-fire on Formosa.

George Talked to Dulles But Chairman Walter F. George (D-Ga.) of the Senate Foreign Relations committee said he talked with Dulles Monday and that the secretary of state "indicated that there was no basic misunderstanding, although the British have slightly different interests in that area."

He said Dulles "seemed to think that there was some exaggeration about differences in viewpoint" between the U. S. and Britain.

Senate Republican leader William F. Knowland (Calif.) said in a radio interview Monday night he is confident the administration would refuse to hand over Quemoy and the Matsu to the Chinese Reds in return for a Formosan cease-fire.

Officials said Dulles returned to this country more determined than ever that the United States must remain firm against further Communist aggression on the free territories of Asia.

Nationalists Build Up Island Defense

TAIPEI, Formosa - UP - Official quarters said Monday the Chinese Nationalists were rushing heavy American artillery and reserve ammunition to Matsu Island where an all-out Communist attack appeared imminent.

Naval sources reported Monday the Nationalists were increasing the size of the garrison on the tiny rocky outpost barely 20 miles off the mainland to some 40,000 men to counter a major Communist buildup along the "invasion coast."

There was no report of fighting in the tense Formosa Strait Tuesday. Military sources reported only routine patrol action to check Communist troop movements and threats. The Reds fired 18 rounds of artillery at Quemoy Monday.

Despite the lull on the 150-mile off-shore island line from Matsu south to Quemoy both sides gave all indications a major battle for Matsu was in the making. Each told of huge air-sea maneuvers carried out by the other and of massive reinforcements.

Neither the U. S. Navy nor the Nationalists would comment on reports by Radio Peiping that the Nationalists joined with the United States to stage impressive exercises in the Formosa Straits. The broadcast said U. S. carriers from the Philippines took part and that Adm. Felix Stump, U. S. naval chief in the Pacific, watched.

The Nationalists reported the Communists carried out their greatest yet combined maneuvers off Hainan Island near Hong Kong. The Nationalists said more than 80 Red ships and a good portion of the Chinese Communist air force took part.

Grand Jury Indicts Four

The Gray County Grand Jury Monday returned four indictments, one of them for Fred C. Williams, charged with murder with malice aforethought.

The others were for Clint Sanders, charged with forgery and passing a forged instrument Dec. 28; Manuel Crawford charged with forgery April 14; and J. A. Josey, charged with swindling with a worthless check Sept. 15.

It appears that Dusty Miller, Amarillo criminal lawyer, will represent Williams in the murder case. According to the sheriff's office, Miller picked up Williams' $5,000 appearance bond last week. However there has been no statement from Williams' family about the retaining of Miller as defense attorney.

Dist. Judge Lewis M. Goodrich Monday set Williams' bond after indictment at $5,000. Late this morning Williams had not made that bond, but he was expected to later in the day.

Williams' indictment reads that Williams did "voluntarily and with malice aforethought kill Oran J. Payne by stabbing him with a dagger."

Man Convicted In Wife Beating

Delmer Bramblet was sentenced to 30 days in jail Monday afternoon by County Judge Bruce Parker after he pleaded guilty to charges of aggravated assault.

Bramblet was charged with striking his wife, Bertha, during an argument in the driveway of their home, west of town.

According to Mrs. Bramblet, who signed the complaint, the affair took place Sunday.

Mrs. Bramblet was treated at Highland General Hospital for a slight brain concussion, bruises and lacerations.

Demo Farm Repeal Plan Is Complicated

WASHINGTON - UP - A Democratic-led drive to repeal the administration's flexible farm support program was complicated Tuesday by a Republican congressman's demand for higher price guarantees for dairy farmers.

Rep. August H. Andresen (R-Minn.) proposed that the House Agriculture committee approve a hike in dairy supports as an amendment to the Democrats' bill to restore rigid high supports for basic field crops.

Andresen is second-ranking Republican on the committee. He announced his move as the committee went behind closed doors to begin voting on the Democratic measure to require mandatory price supports of 90 per cent of parity for 1955, 1956 and 1957 crops of wheat, corn, peanuts, rice and cotton.

A second important amendment pending before the committee would call for a national referendum of wheat growers to determine whether a new two-price plan should be used for bolstering their income, starting with the 1956 crop.

The plan, sponsored by Rep. Clifford R. Hope (Kan.), senior Republican on the committee, would provide farmers with a high price guarantee for wheat consumed domestically as food, but would allow little, or no, government support on wheat exported or consumed as livestock feed.

Know What? Marlon Brando Is Taking Singing Lessons!

By ALINE MOSBY
HOLLYWOOD — UP — Marlon Brando, a four-time Oscar nominee for heavy dramas, is taking singing lessons with the hope of becoming a "real singer." Every day the actor, famed for torn-shirt, and-singing roles practices the scales for his first musical comedy part in the movie version of the Broadway hit, "Guys and Dolls." "It's a big relief," admitted Brando after a coaching session at Goldwyn studio. "I got so tired of playing those parts where you get up at seven and slap somebody across the face with an alligator."

"I'm sick of playing a naughty boy. Is this picture the mood to be lighter. I think there'll be legs shaking, too."

Brando studies with a maestro from MGM who, as the actor says, "gave Jane Powell a voice and taught Howard Keel."

"I'd never sung before, never seriously, strictly bathtub style," Brando went on. "I'd like to be able to really sing. I've always thought it would be fun. Classical? Perhaps."

"A lot of musicals you don't need a voice to sing anyway," Walter Huston was in musicals and, he said, lapsing into Brando-ese, "he couldn't sing his way out of a wet piece of Kleenex. Performance is the thing."

One of the torn-shirt films Brando has tried of, "On the Waterfront," won him an Academy Award nomination, and he is a hot favorite to pick up an Oscar March 30. But Brando observed casually "everybody talks about it like you

MOONCUSSING
PROVINCETOWN, Mass. — UP — "Mooncussing" was once an active means of livelihood in this historic Cape Cod town. The term was given to the practice of hanging out false lights on moonless nights and thus causing ships to run aground on the beaches around Provincetown. The "mooncussers" would then strip the vessel of whatever valuables he could find.

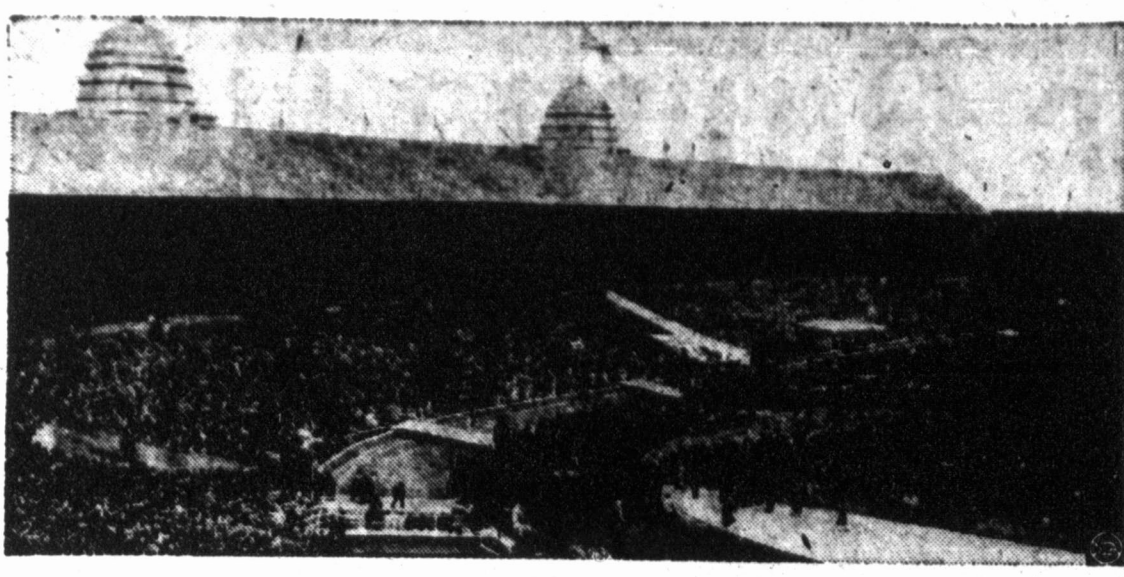

Will you lend me that extra ten I need for the dance. Mom? If I asked Dad, it might be bad for his gut—and me, too!

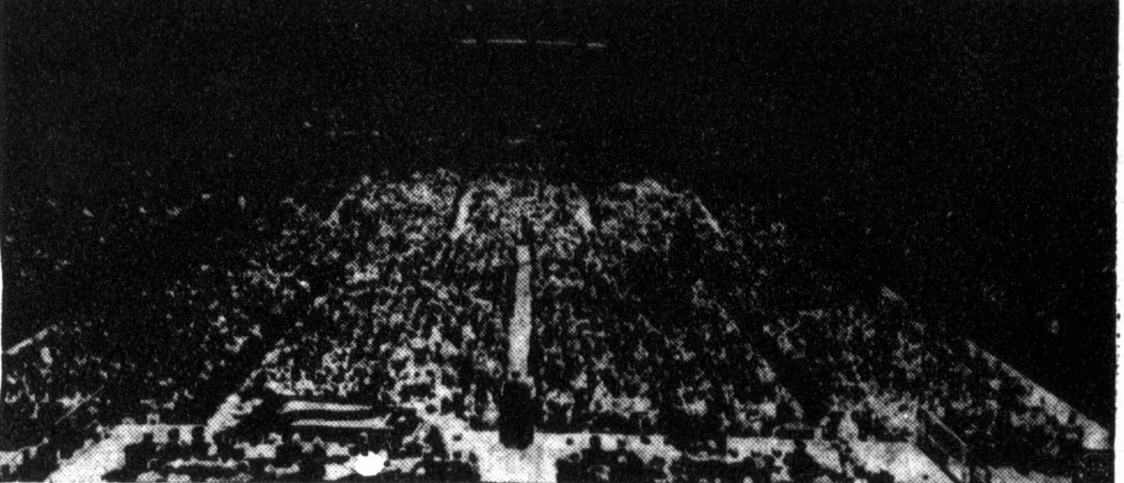

Bermuda Bound Liner Empty
NEW YORK — UP — The British luxury liner Queen of Bermuda sailed for that vacation island Sunday but its spacious decks were deserted. The vessel was manned only by a skeleton crew and its officers. Most of its 400 crew members remained in New York as a strike which forced the P&O Bermuda line to cancel the ship's passenger service.

LONDON'S TURNOUT for Graham at Wembley Stadium was his all-time high—120,000.

ONE NIGHT STAND in New York's Madison Square Garden gave Graham a big send-off for Europe.

and his "team" follow up all converts — he is generally looked on with favor by most churches and ministers. His aim seems to be a genuine desire to help in the "religious renaissance" he thinks is necessary for the world. Graham is a 36-year-old North Carolina farm boy, who grew up in a strong religious atmosphere. After a moderately wild adolescence, he was "saved" by a traveling revivalist, Mordecai Ham. He polished his selling technique by peddling brushes, studied preaching, and gave his first sermon in a desolate Tampa, Fla., mission.

His career has been onward and upward ever since, from that mission through smaller churches, smaller evangelical circuits to his present position of eminence in his field.

He himself profits little from his work. He draws a salary — generally placed at around $15,000 a year — from the parent organization, the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association, which has its home office at Minneapolis. This association takes in about $2,000,000 a year in contributions and collections. Graham scrupulously turns only one collection in a week over to the association on his extended stays in a city; the rest stays there.

Out of that $2,000,000 fund, the salaries of his entire team must be paid; time bought on 800 radio stations of ABC and CBS for his weekly program (this alone costs some $25,000 a week); and the other expenses met. He says they operate at a virtual non-profit basis.

He lives well, but not luxuriously, with his wife and four children he lives in a big house in Montreat, N. C. — he calls it a "little mountain community" — but lately hasn't spent much time there. Mostly, he's off on tours, like the European swing. His schedule is set well into 1956.

"Money isn't his aim, souls are. Who can place a monetary value on just one soul coming to Christ?" Billy Graham asks. "Even if it costs a million dollars, it's cheap."

Economics Prof Says Another Market Crash Could Happen

WASHINGTON — UP — A Harvard economics professor urged Congress Tuesday to keep a careful check on the current stock market boom. He warned that a crash like that of 1929 "can happen again."

Prof. John K. Galbraith told the Senate Banking committee that economic and market conditions now are quite different in many ways from those of 1929. But he said there also are some "interesting and possibly disturbing" resemblances.

He recommended that the government act quickly to curb speculation in stocks if the market takes another sharp upturn. He said the Federal Reserve Board should raise margin requirements in such an event to 100 per cent, putting stock trades on a fully cash basis.

The board recently raised margins from 50 to 60 per cent. He said both the government and financial interests also should warn the public clearly about "the danger of runaway speculation." He said the public still has a "considerable capacity for self-delusion" about the stock market. "If speculative tendencies persist, more drastic measures involving the tax power should be contemplated," Galbraith said.

SOVIET NAVY
Rep. Carl Vinson (D-Ga.) warned that Russia is building a major naval force. He said that in the event of an atomic stalemate, Russia's naval might will increase her ability to fight "small wars" like the Korean conflict. Navy witnesses told Vinson's House Armed Services committee Monday that the Russians are outstripping the United States in building combat vessels.

MATUŠOV
Sen. James O. Eastland (D-Miss.) said the investigation of turnover witness Harvey Matušov may end this week without further testimony from the confessed liar. Eastland's internal security subcommittee went ahead Monday with questioning friends of Matušov, an admitted ex-Communist. These included author-publisher Albert E. Kahn and free-lance writer Herb Tank.

Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.), chairman of the subcommittee and sponsor of the legislation, charged that what the administration billed last week as improvements in the government's personnel security program were really only "patch-work changes."

FARM PRICES
The House Agriculture committee scheduled a closed-door session to begin voting on a Democratic-sponsored bill to scrap the administration's flexible farm price support program and restore rigid high supports at 80 per cent of parity. Rep. August H. Anderson (R-Minn.) complicated the Democratic move with a last-minute proposed amendment to hike dairy supports.

Ex-Red Matusow Confesses He Lied In New Mexico Case

EL PASO—UP—Ex-Communist Harvey Matusow confessed under oath Monday that he lied in 1954 when he testified, also under oath, that New Mexico labor leader Clinton Jencks had told him he was a Communist and was going to enroll in the party in the West.

Jencks, an international representative of the Independent Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union (I.M.S.W.U.), was convicted in January, 1954, of falsifying a non-Communist affidavit with the National Labor Relations Board.

He was sentenced to five years in prison. Matusow, who testified in many trials involving communists and later admitted that he perjured himself, testified against Jencks, who is now trying to get a new trial. Matusow testified Monday in a hearing on Jencks' request for a new trial.

Harry L. Bigbee of Santa Fe, N. M., a former assistant attorney general in New Mexico, read over a transcript of the 1954 trial record and asked Matusow whether his answers were true or false.

In most cases, Matusow would say "partly true and partly false" and then try to make clear what he meant. In general, he testified that he knew Jencks but Jencks had never admitted to him he was a Communist or discussed communism with him.

He admitted the falsehood of these statements he made in Jencks' trial:

1. That Jencks received a lapel pin from the Mexican miners' union and discussed with the Mexican miners the feasibility of letting their contract run out at the same time of the contract of the American miners.

2. That Jencks ever told him: "We need more active Communists out here."

3. That Jencks ever discussed with him a "do day" when all the Communists in the United States were supposed to rise up. The exact date of "do day" was never disclosed.

Bigbee asked who thought up the idea of "do day."

"I, as a member of the American Newspaper Guild, initiated 'do day' back East with rank and file newspapermen to secure our objectives," Matusow replied.

The government issued subpoenas for John L. Clark of Denver, president of the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union, and for Maurice Travis, who resigned as secretary-treasurer of the union about a month ago. Clark is now supposed to be in Spokane, Wash., arranging for a convention.

Travis has been indicted in Denver on a charge of falsifying a statement that he is not a Communist.

In addition to Bigbee, J. T. Hanfelt of Albuquerque, a former governor of New Mexico; E. B. Ehrlich of El Paso, and Nathan Witt of Chicago, a special lawyer for the union, are representing Jencks. David H. Harris, Brandon Al-

Rogers Attacks Hoover Vet Report

Cong. Walter Rogers vehemently attacks the Hoover Commission's report on closing the Amarillo Veterans Hospital.

In his weekly newsletter he says that if this recent report is any indication of what is to be expected from the commission from here in, "it is my recommendation that the Hoover Commission be closed, rather than the veterans' hospitals."

He feels the report shows how quickly the nation's debt to the veteran can be forgotten. Apparently the commission, according to Rogers, arrived at a mathematical answer to the veterans problem, and were unaware that in this case "we are dealing with human beings," which can only be solved by the human equation.

"This report reflects a cold-blooded attempt to justify the closing of some of the veterans hospitals on a strictly fact-and-figures basis without regard to the human beings involved."

Human beings, Rogers points out, are expendable according to the philosophy of the dictators, and can be disposed of when they no longer are able to produce. Dictators placed efficiency first and last.

"It must be remembered," Rogers says, "that it was the veterans of this country, many of whom are patients in these veterans hospitals, who destroyed these dictators, and protected and preserved the freedoms and the human dignities that we in America so dearly love."

Rogers is discussing the omnibus health bill proposed by the administration, says that the Hoover Commission before it decides on

Solon Insists U.S. Boycott Is In Offing

WASHINGTON—UP—Rep. Thor Tollefson (R-Wash.) charged Monday that foreign nations are threatening to boycott purchase of American farm surpluses in an effort to scuttle a U.S. effort to strengthen its merchant fleet.

Tollefson, senior Republican on the House Merchant Marine committee, made the complaint in a prepared House speech.

He said he spoke out because recent committee hearings had convinced him some administration officials are "being influenced by pressure from foreign nations."

He said these foreign nations are trying to persuade officials and farm congressmen to scuttle a law which requires that 50 per cent of all government-sponsored cargoes be carried in American flag ships.

They have linked their attack, he said, to the government's three-year program for disposing of $1 billion worth of farm surpluses abroad. Under the program $300 million would be given away and $700 million worth would be sold for foreign currency.

Tollefson quoted a published report that a group of European nations have reached an understanding they will "buy no surplus American farm products" if the 50-50 shipping rule is applied.

Santa Fe District Plans For A 'Big' Training Course

The Santa Fe District of the Adobe Walls Area Council which comprises 4 1/2 counties surrounding Pampa is planning one of the biggest training events ever attempted in this part of the country.

The big kick-off day for this super-practical training course will be March 19. It will begin at 2 p.m. and last until 4 p.m. when the giant treasure hunt for more than $200 in prizes will begin.

The treasure hunt will consist of a search through Pampa stores participating in the Pampa Scouters and Merchants Day event.

Each person attending the courses will be given one-half of a card and that half will fit another half card somewhere in the stores of Pampa which are participating. When the complete card is brought in, they will receive a prize.

At a meeting of the Pampa merchants activities committee last week, the plan was presented by Don Cain, district chairman of the Santa Fe District. Working with Cain in the promotion of the prizes is Guy Harris, the Pampa Office Supply. Already, a long-play record from Melody Manor, a beautiful waltz-length sleeping gown from Gilbert's for some lucky den-mother, a samsonite card table from Texas Furniture and a man's jacket from J. C. Penney's have been added to the list of some 30 prizes which will be given. More prizes will be added next week.

Ambassador Tours Texas

GLIFTON, Tex.—UP—Norway's ambassador to the United States, Wilhelm M. Morgenstierne, toured this Central Texas area Monday, the principal Norwegian descent region in the state.

Morgenstierne will be honored at a reception Monday night at the high school, then attend a private dinner at the home of Conrad Bronstad.

During the day, he planned to visit several communities in Bosque county and place a wreath on the grave of Kleeng Pierson, who started the Norwegian Immigration to the United States in 1825. Pierson is buried at the small town of Norse.

The envoy Sunday received an honorary doctor of laws degree at Baylor University in Waco. Morgenstierne spoke briefly, mostly about the United Nations.

"We joined the UN in the hope it would protect us against future aggression," he said. "There was one thing that stood in the way of peace and human understanding—aggression of communism."

"Communism is reaction and reaction means going backwards," he added. Morgenstierne said he believed the United Nations organization is getting stronger. He also said he believed there were no more peace-loving nations than the United States and Norway.

Meditations for LENT

BY DR. J. CARTER SWAIM
Written for NEA Service

Lent is a season of cross-bearing. Jesus declared, "he who does not take his cross and follow me is not worthy of me" (Mark 10:38, RSV). Note that Christ's cross is something voluntary, something that must be taken up. We bear it, not because it is inevitable or inescapable, but because it is involved in our faithful acceptance of Christ's way of life. People sometimes speak of chronic pain, financial reverse or a wayward child as a cross that must be borne. To be sure, the Christian may endure these with courage and fortitude and make others wonder at the secret sources that sustain his life. These, however, are not crosses, and may not have anything to do with whether we are Christians or not. They are a part of our human mortality.

The cross is something extra. It is something which we carry, not because we cannot escape it, but because we shoulder it willingly and deliberately.

Muriel Lester, brought up to a life of ease, found she could not go on worshipping "the Eastern Carpenter in white Sunday clothes" whom the churches had placed in a stained glass window. For her, being a Christian meant doing something about the conditions under which the Joiners' Union lived! The Japanese Christian Kagawa gave up an assured position with the government that he might work among the laboring people of Japan, a task which eventually brought him into disfavor with the government. This is what it means to take up the cross.

Practical Poetry

NEW BEDFORD, Mass.—UP—The power of the press was ably demonstrated to Tallop Lee, 22-year-old Korean student at New Bedford Institute of Textiles and Technology. Too shy to speak to a girl who used to take the same bus every morning, Tallop wrote a poem, "To My Lady," and sent it to the local paper. The paper arranged a meeting between the two. Jacqueline Bessett is now Mrs. Lee.

Red Propaganda Mill Works 24 Hours A Day -- Formby

EDITORS NOTE: Marshall Formby, Texas highway commissioner and co-owner of four radio stations, is visiting Europe and the Middle East on a fact-finding tour with a group of American newspaper and radio executives. During his three-day stay in Vienna, Formby made a special survey of the propaganda war that rages between Russia and the West in this divided city. His report on the situation follows.

By MARSHALL FORMBY
Written for the United Press

VIENNA — UP—The propaganda mills manned by expert Russian hands grind away 24 hours daily here in this Austrian nation, so strategically located among the world powers.

By radio, through newspapers, by use of store windows, through books and information centers, and even through Russian-owned stores selling goods far below ordinary Austrian prices, the Reds are striving to get their message through—that their way of life is supreme and that the West has nothing but hardships to offer.

While the U.S. government is spending a total of $2.7 million this year in information services in Austria, the Russians are estimated to be spending at least $20 million to hammer home their propaganda here.

Publish 3 Newspapers
The Reds print three daily newspapers in Vienna alone and have other newspapers in the Russian zone of Austria. The papers have large circulations and are read not only by Austrians in the Red zone, but in the American, British and French zones.

Although the Reds do not have their own radio station, they use 17 hours each week on the Austrian national radio. News casts, of course, are colored to show up Russia in a better light than the democracies.

Newsmen here in Vienna tell me these Red papers are extremely dull and it is doubtful if they do much good. They tell me that much of the large circulation is due to the fact that workers in Soviet-run enterprises are forced to subscribe to them. As to their real effect, officials here pointed out to me that in the last election the Communists got less than 5 per cent of the vote and got less votes than there are registered Communist members.

Very little music is offered listeners, although worker songs and some folk music is featured. One of our editors on this tour was impressed with an atomic display in one of the store windows in the Russian sector of Vienna. Huge pictures showed the explosion of the atomic bomb on Japanese cities by the Americans. Another poster in the same window showed the Russians using atomic energy for healing and for generating power.

Political Broadcasts
The 17 hours used up each week on the Austrian radio are largely devoted to political broadcasts with some Communist style entertainment thrown in. Some programs are broadcast direct from East Germany and from Moscow.

Russia has about 200 Red-owned and operated stores in the Russian sector of this capital. These stores, called "kaufhauses," undersell other Vienna stores by wide margins and in many instances are enjoying a "land-office" business.

"I made the most thrilling discovery today. Imagine! Our scales weigh three pounds heavy!"

Counties Call Women Jurors

By UNITED PRESS
The first women to be called for grand jury service in history of Bexar and of Nolan counties were empaneled Monday.

Five women were named to a Nolan county grand jury which will consider 20 new cases and several old ones in the March term of 32nd District court, Judge A. S. Maizey presiding.

Three San Antonio women were empaneled on a new March term Bexar county grand jury. They were Mrs. Allison B. Peery, wife of an architect; Mrs. H. P. Drought, wife of a prominent San Antonio attorney; and Mrs. Sturge Steiner, whose husband is an oil company executive.

Bexar county now has two grand juries in session. The old jury was granted a 90-day extension to complete its investigation of alleged frauds in the veterans land program.

Their own shipment of tabs did not arrive before the deadline, and their bicycles were among the few vehicles in the city which did not display them according to law.

Ohio River Flood Slowed By Winter

By UNITED PRESS
Ohio River flood waters, slowed down by a late winter cold wave, were expected Tuesday to leave 10,000 to 12,000 persons in need of aid through a four-state area.

The rising river appeared to have done its worst in Ohio and West Virginia. But icy flood waters still threatened down-river Ohio and Kentucky communities and the weather bureau warned of possible major floods in Indiana.

Thousands of persons were already homeless in the four states. They sought shelter in Red Cross headquarters, public buildings, and private homes. In Indiana, Legionnaires, Boy Scouts, National Guardsmen and church groups helped evacuate families from threatened homes.

Aid from Red Cross
The American Red Cross met the threat by rushing 21 disaster specialists into the four states. Special regional disaster headquarters were set up at flood-threatened Ashland, Ky., and Red Cross chapters from Huntington, W. Va., to the Mississippi River were alerted.

The Red Cross said, 1,600 families have already suffered damage to homes or property in the four states area and it expects 10,000 to 12,000 persons to register for rehabilitation assistance before the flood waters subside.

In Ohio, the swollen river was still rising from Gallipolis to Portsmouth at the rate of .05 feet an hour.

A flood crest of 62.5 feet, 11.5 feet above flood stage, was expected at Ashland, Ky., early Tuesday and the river was expected to crest later at Portsmouth at 60.5 feet, 10.5 feet above flood stage.

Cross Expected at Cincinnati
In Cincinnati, where the muddy waters lapped at riverside buildings, the river was expected to crest nine feet above flood stage at 61 feet by Thursday.

The sapping of the flood's strength could be largely credited to the surprise March cold wave which still gripped the nation's northeast Tuesday.

The cold snap froze runoff waters which might have swelled the Ohio's crest and dropped temperatures 15 to 30 degrees in southeast Atlantic States.

What Would A Senator Know Of Watermelon's Love Life?

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
WASHINGTON — UP— What's new in Washington?

A senator got a request the other day which turned out to be hard to answer. The senator is working on it though. The request was from a constituent who wanted to know everything there is to know about the love life of the watermelon.

The Pan-American union has two unofficial "special cops," both Cubans. Somehow they managed to borrow or rent uniforms that look just like those worn by district police. They had their lady folks stitch patches on their sleeves which say Pan-American union.

They do not, however, carry guns. As a matter of fact, the Cubans are night switchboard operators. If they need a cop, they have to call one.

Rep. Robert D. Harrison (R-Neb.) observes in his news letter that some enterprising historian once figured out that between 1498 B.C. and 1861 A.D. there were only 227 years of peace.

The remaining 3,150 years were frightful — spent in war.

The ratio of war years to peace is over 14 to 1. "We haven't done much to improve on that record in the last century," the gentleman from Nebraska says.

Hearings Resume In Veteran Land Deals

AUSTIN — UP—The Senate investigation committee resumed its inquiry into the scandalized $100 million veterans land program Tuesday and the big question was whether or not the star witness would appear.

He is T. J. McLarty of Denver, formerly of Cuero, against whom a DeWitt county grand jury last week returned 21 criminal indictments stemming from veterans land dealings.

McLarty was summoned to appear at 8 a.m. in Austin.

"I trust Mr. McLarty will not subject himself to possible contempt of the Senate investigating committee and hope he will not invoke his constitutional immunity with regard to testimony," said Sen. Jimmy Phillips, a member of the committee.

Looney Seeks Postponement
Austin Attorney Everett Looney, representing McLarty, sought to postpone his client's scheduled appearance before the Senate group on ground McLarty also had been summoned to appear two hours later before a Kleberg county grand jury.

But in Kleberg county, 165th District Attorney Sam I. Jones, on request of Phillips, temporarily waived the grand jury summons. He said he didn't want to stand in the way of the Senate inquiry.

McLarty also had been scheduled to appear Thursday before a House committee that is conducting a separate inquiry into the land-loan veterans program. But this appearance was indefinitely postponed Monday.

Rep. Joe Burkett Jr., of Kerrville, chairman of the House committee, said its Thursday hearing would not be held because members needed time to prepare their preliminary report. It is supposed to be submitted to the full House of Representatives a week from Tuesday.

Request Made
Looney has asked both House and Senate committees for the privilege of calling witnesses and subpoenaing evidence, but so far neither Burkett nor Sen. Dorsey Hardeman of San Angelo, chairman of the Senate committee, has answered the request.

At an earlier hearing by the Senate group, however, Hardeman squelched an attempt by Looney to participate in proceedings by reminding him he was attending a committee hearing and was not involved "in a trial."

Phillips said if Looney's request to call 15 witnesses is granted, he will walk out.

In another land scandal development, Attorney General John Ben Shepperd announced Monday he was opening a "branch office" at Carrizo Springs to aid in prosecution of Veterans Land Board cases. Shepperd said "full-time assistants" had been assigned to Cuero and Brady and that during next week he will "personally check on progress of investigations" at Carrizo Springs, Uvalde, Kingsville, San Antonio and Cuero.

Legion Head Says U.S. Must Go Alone

AUSTIN—UP—Seaborn Collins, United Nations. However, he added, "the history of the past 19 years has shown when the chips are down" that "when the chips are down we have to defend ourselves and ourselves only." Collins said the United States will have to defend itself without reliance upon the United Nations. "We are citizens of the United States, not of the world. If this be nationalistic, then I'm proud to be nationalistic," Collins told cheering members of the House of Representatives chamber. Collins said the American Legion called for establishment of the fore Pearl Harbor, when they opposed rapid disarmament after World War II, and when they urged a buildup of forces before the Korean war. "History has vindicated the American Legion," Collins said. Collins said the United States must answer two questions — "Is our preparation adequate to meet the threat of the next 50 years or more," and is the national defense adequate to protect citizens abroad. "The American Legion's answer is no," Collins told the Texas lawmakers.

Civilian Reserve Necessary "It is necessary to build up a strong civilian reserve," he said. Collins pointed out that 800,000 veterans of World War II "had to serve in the Korean war," despite the fact there were more than 2 million eligible men who had not been in the service at all. "It's not right to call just one out of four," he said. Collins said they policy of "containment" and of "massive retaliation" had both failed. He said President Eisenhower showed this nation was not reliant upon the United Nations when the United States placed a line around Formosa as a forward area of defense. "We urge that a line be drawn around the rest of the free world," Collins added. Mamie to Open Garden Show WASHINGTON—UP—Mrs. Eisenhower will open the Capital Flower and Garden Show here on Thursday. House Okays Bill To Raise Operator's Fee

By O. B. LLOYD JR. AUSTIN—UP—Legislation doubling the driver's license fee in Texas to provide funds for additional highway patrolmen was approved Monday by the House and sent to the Senate. The measure, sponsored by Rep. Robert W. Baker of Houston, gained a vote of 107-35. The proposal would boost operator's license fees from the present $1, payable every two years, to $2. Red Propaganda Mill Works 24 Hours A Day -- Formby

EDITORS NOTE: Marshall Formby, Texas highway commissioner and co-owner of four radio stations, is visiting Europe and the Middle East on a fact-finding tour with a group of American newspaper and radio executives. During his three-day stay in Vienna, Formby made a special survey of the propaganda war that rages in this divided city. His report on the situation follows.

By MARSHALL FORMBY
Written for the United Press
VIENNA—UP—The propaganda mills manned by expert Russian hands grind away 24 hours daily here in this Austrian nation, so strategically located among the world powers.

By radio, through newspapers, by use of store windows, through books and information centers, and even through Russian-owned stores selling goods far below ordinary Austrian prices, the Reds are striving to get their message through—that their way of life is supreme and that the West has nothing but hardships to offer.

While the U.S. government is spending a total of $2.7 million this year in information services in Austria, the Russians are estimated to be spending at least $26 million to hammer home their propaganda here.

Publish 3 Newspapers
The Reds print three daily newspapers in Vienna alone and have other newspapers in the Russian zone of Austria. The papers have large circulations and are read not only by Austrians in the Red zone, but in the American, British and French zones.

Although the Reds do not have their own radio station, they use 17 hours each week on the Austrian national radio. News casts, of course, are colored to show up Russia in a better light than the democracies.

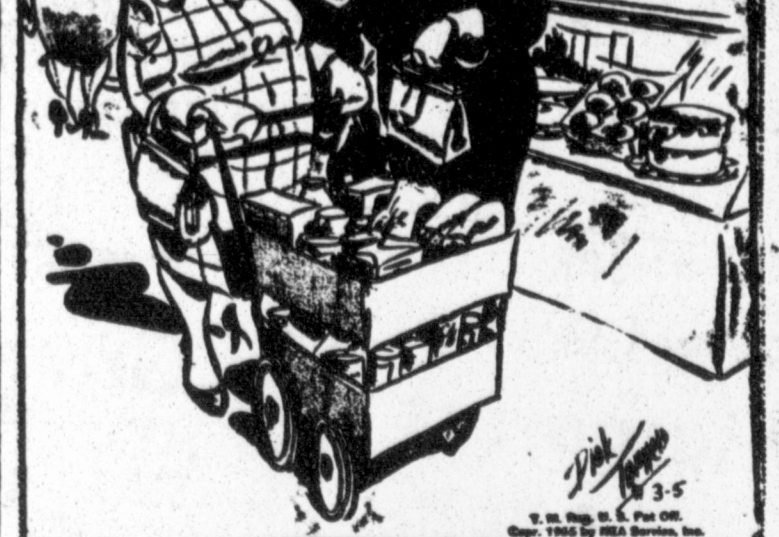

Good Luck!

Newsmen here in Vienna tell me these Red papers are extremely dull and it is doubtful if they do much good. They tell me that much of the large circulation is due to the fact that workers in Soviet-run enterprises are forced to subscribe to them. As to their real effect, officials here pointed out to me that in the last election the Communist got less than 5 per cent of the vote and got less votes than there are registered Communist members.

Political Broadcasts
The 17 hours used up each week on the Austrian radio are largely devoted to political broadcasts, with some Communist style entertainment thrown in. Some programs are broadcast direct from East Germany and from Moscow.

Very little music is offered listeners, although worker songs and some folk music is featured. One of our editors on this tour was impressed with an atomic display in one of the store windows in the Russian sector of Vienna. Huge pictures showed the explosion of the atomic bomb on Japanese cities by the Americans.

Another poster in the same window showed the Russians using atomic energy for healing and for generating power. Russia has about 200 Red-owned and operated stores in the Russian sector of this capital. These stores, called "kaufhauses," undersell other Vienna stores by wide margins and in many instances are enjoying a "land-office" business.

Counties Call Women Jurors

By UNITED PRESS
The first women to be called for grand jury service in history of Bexar and of Nolan counties were empaneled Monday.

Five women were named to a Nolan county grand jury which will consider 20 new cases and several old ones in the March term of 32nd District court, Judge A. S. Mauzey presiding.

Three San Antonio women were empaneled on a new March term Bexar county grand jury. They were Mrs. Allison B. Peery, wife of an architect; Mrs. H. P. Drought, wife of a prominent San Antonio attorney, and Mrs. Sturge Steiner, whose husband is an oil company executive.

Bexar county now has two grand juries in session. The old jury was granted a 90-day extension to complete its investigation of alleged frauds in the veterans land program.

District Inactivity
SPOKANE, Wash. — UP — Motorcycle police officers here did not join state patrolmen in cracking down on motorists for failing to display 1955 license tabs after the deadline for purchasing them without penalty had passed. Their own shipment of tabs did not arrive before the deadline, and their cycles were among the few vehicles in the city which did not display them according to law.

Dan Thomas, Walt Disney Win 'Emmys'

HOLLYWOOD — UP—Comedian Danny Thomas and producer Walt Disney, a newcomer to television, won double "Emmy" awards Monday night at the seventh annual presentation of the Television Academy trophies.

A surprised Thomas, whooping "who, me?" was called to the stage of the Moulin Rouge restaurant in Hollywood to be handed a gold statuette as the best series actor on the home screens for 1954.

He got another Emmy, for the best comedy series award, "Make Room for Daddy."

Disney, already holder of 22 movie Oscars, added an Emmy for "Disneyland" as the best variety show. "Operation Undersea," one of the Disneyland shows, also won an Emmy for the best individual program of the year.

Loretta Young was honored as best series actress for her dramatic program.

George Gobel, a new star to the TV screens, shyly clutched his Emmy and said nothing when he was honored as the most outstanding new personality.

The best "single performance" awards went to Robert Cummings for "12 Angry Men" on "Studio One" and Judith Anderson for "MacBeth" on the "Hallmark" program.

Ohio River Flood Slowed By Winter

By UNITED PRESS
Ohio River flood waters, slowed down by a late winter cold wave, were expected Tuesday to leave 10,000 to 12,000 persons in need of aid through a four-state area.

The rising river appeared to have done its worst in Ohio and West Virginia. But icy flood waters still threatened down-river Ohio and Kentucky communities and the weather bureau warned of possible major floods in Indiana. Thousands of persons were already homeless in the four states. They sought shelter in Red Cross headquarters, public buildings, and private homes. In Indiana, Legionnaires, Boy Scouts, National Guardsmen and church groups helped evacuate families from threatened homes.

Aid from Red Cross
The American Red Cross met the threat by rushing 21 disaster specialists into the four states. Special regional disaster headquarters were set up at flood-threatened Ashland, Ky., and Red Cross chapters from Huntington, W. Va., to the Mississippi River were alerted.

The Red Cross said, 1,600 families have already suffered damage to homes or property in the four states area and it expects 10,000 to 12,000 persons to register for rehabilitation assistance before the flood waters subside.

In Ohio, the swollen river was still rising from Gallipolis to Portsmouth at the rate of .05 feet an hour. A flood crest of 62.5 feet, 11.5 feet above flood stage, was expected at Ashland, Ky., early Tuesday and the river was expected to crest later at Portsmouth at 60.5 feet, 10.5 feet above flood stage.

Crest Expected at Cincinnati
In Cincinnati, where the muddy waters lapped at riverside buildings, the river was expected to crest nine feet above flood stage at 61 feet by Thursday.

The sapping of the flood's strength could be largely credited to the surprise March cold wave which still gripped the nation's northeast Tuesday. The cold snap froze runoff waters which might have swelled the Ohio's crest and dropped temperatures 15 to 30 degrees in southeast Atlantic States.

What Would A Senator Know Of Watermelon's Love Life?

The Pan-American union has two unofficial "special cops," both Cubans. Somehow they managed to borrow or rent uniforms that look just like those worn by district police. They had their lady folks stitch patches on their sleeves which say Pan-American union. They do not, however, carry guns. As a matter of fact, the Cubans are night switchboard operators. If they need a cop, they have to call one.

Hearings Resume In Veteran Land Deals

AUSTIN — UP—The Senate investigation committee resumed its inquiry into the scandalized $100 million veterans land program Tuesday and the big question was whether or not the star witness would appear.

He is T. J. McLarty of Denver, formerly of Cuero, against whom a DeWitt county grand jury last week returned 21 criminal indictments stemming from veterans land dealings.

McLarty was summoned to appear at 8 a.m. in Austin. "I trust Mr. McLarty will not subject himself to possible contempt of the Senate investigating committee and hope he will not invoke his constitutional immunity with regard to testimony," said Sen. Jimmy Phillips, a member of the committee.

Looney Seeks Postponement
Austin Attorney Everett Looney, representing McLarty, sought to postpone his client's scheduled appearance before the Senate group on ground McLarty also had been summoned to appear two hours later before a Kieberg county grand jury.

But in Kieberg county, 108th District Attorney Sam L. Jones, on request of Phillips, temporarily waived the grand jury summons. He said he didn't want to stand in the way of the Senate inquiry.

McLarty also had been scheduled to appear Thursday before a House committee that is conducting a separate inquiry into the land-loan veterans program. But this appearance was indefinitely postponed Monday.

Request Made
Looney has asked both House and Senate committees for the privilege of calling witnesses and subpoenaing evidence, but so far neither Burkett nor Sen. Dorsey Hardeman of San Angelo, chairman of the Senate committee, has answered the request.

At an earlier hearing by the Senate group, however, Hardeman squelched an attempt by Looney to participate in proceedings by reminding him he was attending a committee hearing and was not involved "in a trial."

Phillips said if Looney's request to call 15 witnesses is granted, he will walk out.

In another land scandal development, Attorney General John Ben Shepperd announced Monday he was opening a "branch office" at Carrizo Springs to aid in prosecution of Veterans Land Board cases. Shepperd said "full-time assistants" had been assigned to Cuero and Brady and that during next week he will "personally check on progress of investigations" at Carrizo Springs, Uvalde, Kingville, San Antonio and Cuero.

AUSTIN —UP— Seaborn Collins, United Nations. However, he added, "the history of the past 10 years has shown when the chips are down" the United States and ourselves only will have to defend itself without "Faith in America." Collins said the United States must be citizens of the United States, not of the world. Collins said the American Legion called for supported establishment of the fore Pearl Harbor, when they op-

House Okays Bill To Raise Operator's Fee

AUSTIN —UP— Legislation doubling the driver's license fee in Texas to provide funds for additional highway patrolmen was approved Monday by the House and sent to the Senate.

The measure, sponsored by Rep. Robert W. Baker of Houston, gained a vote of 107-36. The proposal would boost operator's license fees from the present $1, payable every two years, to $2.

Baker told the House it was "humanly impossible" for each highway patrolman to patrol properly 200 miles of highways.

Jane Talk

By JANE KADINGO

Pampa News Women's Editor

THEY'VE DONE IT AGAIN — these fashion designers. Now they are going to have us wear burlap. However, it is not suggested you make your own from any old sack. The burlap has to be especially processed and the make-it-yourself kind might be embarrassing if you're caught in a rainstorm. No — it doesn't shrink. There's another reason. I'll let Elizabeth Toomey explain the rest.

NEW YORK — UP — Hard-up heroes of historical fiction met a social crisis by tearing down the velvet draperies and stitching them into ball gowns, and a broke belle today might do the same thing with the old burlap bags (gunny sacks, if you will).

Designers who are helping to boost this feed bag fabric into high fashion staged an all-burlap fashion show here recently with the help of the consul general of Pakistan, who wore a chartruese vest with his grey suit for the occasion. Pakistan produces approximately 75 per cent of the world's jute supply, from which burlap is woven, which explains why the Pakistan house here opened its doors for the fashion show.

The two dozen outfits began with Bermuda shorts of slate blue burlap and ended with a candy pink burlap evening gown set off by a white mink jacket.

Color is important when you make clothes from burlap. Sack-colored burlap, unless it is cleverly designed, is too reminiscent of the sack.

Egg Demonstration Given To Members Of Worthwhile Club

Worthwhile Home Demonstration Club met recently in the home of Mrs. Robert M. Barrett, 322 Tignor.

During the business session, led by Mrs. J. L. Carlton, president, members volunteered to help sell cake mixes and flour in the local stores.

The program was a demonstration on preparing egg dishes, given by Miss Helen Dunlap, County HD agent. Eggs have a lot of body building food value and should be served to growing children every day, she advised. Boiling an egg destroys its food value, she pointed out. Eggs should be brought to a boil and left covered for 25 minutes.

Following the program, eggs boiled and sliced in white sauce, prepared during the demonstration were served.

Next meeting will be Mar. 18, with Mrs. Roy Tinsley, attending were Mmes. Noah Cude, J. L. Carlton, R. F. McCallip, Rex McKay, W. G. Kinzer, Kay Robertson, Marion Roberts, P. G. Turner, E. L. Yeargan, Roy Tinsley and Robert Barrett.

Every time we go to Los Angeles we hurry to the House of Murphy's restaurant on South San Vicente Boulevard to eat old-fashioned chicken pie with Mother Murphy's dumplings. In our judgment it's the best in the world and we've eaten chicken pie, or what too often passes for it, in practically every city in the world.

On our recent visit to the House of Murphy we asked for the recipe, believing you folks would like it, too.

House of Murphy Old-Fashioned Chicken Pot Pie, Mother's Dumplings (Serves 4)
Four-pound stewing hen, 2 quarts chicken stock, 1/2 pound butter or margarine, 1 cup flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 carrots, 4 potatoes, cooked in jackets, 4 stalks celery, 12 pearl onions, pinch pepper.

Boil hen in 2 quarts of water until tender. Take out and cool; save stock for gravy. Remove meat from bones and cut in strips 1/2 inch wide.

To Make Sauce: Melt butter in saucepan, add flour and stir. Then add chicken stock and seasoning. Let cook for 25 minutes.

To Prepare Vegetables: Put carrots, potatoes, celery and onions in small amount of water and cook until just tender.

To Make Dumplings: Blend together: 2 cups sifted flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon finely chopped parsley, 1 tablespoon baking powder, dash white pepper. Stir in: 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine and 2 beaten eggs. Slowly stir in: 2-3 cup milk. When blended, drop by 12 heaping tablespoonfuls into large saucepan containing hot chicken stock, about an inch deep. Cover saucepan and cook over low heat 10 to 12 minutes.

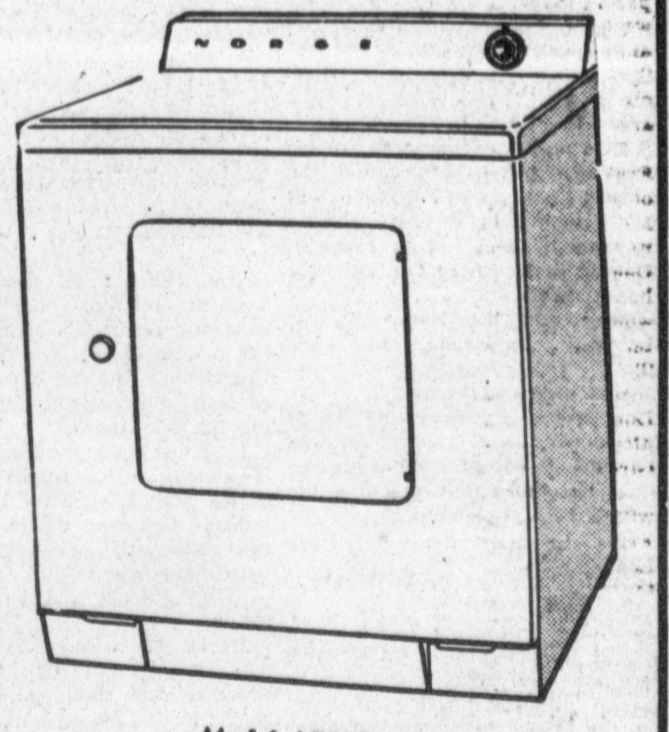

To Combine Casserole: Pour half of sauce in bottom of large deep skillet or flameproof casserole. Lay all of chicken meat over sauce. Spread all cooked vegetables over meat. Pour remaining sauce over vegetables. Top with cooked dumplings. Place over low heat until hot and serve immediately.

Inquest Slated In Gray Case

GREEN RIVER, Wyo. —UP— Authorities here scheduled an inquest Wednesday at which they hope to learn what led a seemingly quiet ranchhand, who had assumed the identity of an ex-convict, to suddenly turn vicious killer Friday.

The ranchhand, identified by his employer as Charles Billings, 25, alias Melvin Henry Gray, killed two men last Friday, wounded two others and kidnaped a 17-year-old boy before he himself was shot down in a house where he held a woman and two babies as hostages.

Rancher Dean Binning of Pine-dale and his wife viewed the killer's body Saturday and identified him as a man they knew as Melvin Henry Gray. They were acquainted with the man's sister, who told officers her brother, Charles Billings, took Gray's name some time ago but she could give no reason for it.

Officers said they discounted the possibility that Billings took the name by "coincidence." They feared Billings might also have done away with Gray before taking his name.

Retrial For Jelke Underway

NEW YORK—UP—The retrial of ole heir Minot (Mickey) Frazier Jelke on compulsory prostitution charges began in criminal court Monday with selection of a blue ribbon jury.

The former social registerite, some 25 pounds lighter than he was at his first trial two years ago and more serious, arrived in court 10 minutes early. Jelke was nattily attired in black gabardine topcoat, black suit, white shirt and pearl gray tie.

The pint-sized former playboy posed willingly for photographers outside the courtroom door, but had no comment to make on the case.

There were almost 200 prospective jurors and members of the press when court convened at 10:45 a. m.

Most of the men and some 20 women on the jury panel for this repeat performance appeared in their 40s or older.

The defense has indicated it will not object to women on the trial jury, as was the case at the first trial when one bachelor and 11 married men heard the testimony.

CIO Says Ike To Consider Minimum

WASHINGTON—UP—AFL and CIO leaders said Monday that President Eisenhower gave them "no promises" but pledged consideration of their request for a federal $1.25 minimum wage.

A joint AFL-CIO delegation called on Mr. Eisenhower to enlist his aid in their minimum wage drive. Spokesman Arthur J. Goldberg, general counsel of the CIO, said later the President said he would give "all the consideration he can" to their case, but he made no promises.

The President has recommended a hike from the present 75 cents an hour minimum to 90 cents. The labor leaders said he told them his administration would be guided by the facts.

The union leaders said that five years have elapsed since the last minimum wage increase. They said they told the President the increase would mean "no substantial increases on consumer prices" and have no adverse effect on employment.

Margaret To Be Married?

LONDON—UP—The London Daily Mirror said Monday Group Capt. Peter Townsend has been expecting a public announcement concerning himself and Princess Margaret.

The Mirror carried over for the second day press reports the princess was deciding now whether to renounce her rights to the British throne to marry the handsome, divorced war hero.

All the papers which wrote about the never-confirmed romance said Margaret's love for the handsome Townsend had survived a two-year separation.

A high Buckingham Palace source told the United Press if the report is true it will shock the royal family because Margaret has given the impression the romance was dead.

Mexican Boat Stuck

PORT ISABEL, Tex., March 8—UP—A towline break has delayed efforts to free a 200-foot Mexican banana boat that ran aground on Padre Island, the Coast Guard said Monday.

Chief Warrant Officer Stanley Thoroughman said a Coast Guard cutter and a beach rescue crew are standing by, although the vessel, the Mercurio, appeared in no immediate danger.

He said the Mercurio remained where it ran aground Monday, about 10 miles north of the Coast Guard station on the south end of Padre Island.

A crew of about 20 men remained aboard the Mercurio through the night, Thoroughman said. The boat ran aground in heavy fog while on its way to Brownsville with a cargo of bananas.

A tugboat from Brownsville, the Mohawk, tried to pull the Mercurio free during the night. Thoroughman said the towing line snapped about 2 a. m. and the Mohawk had to return to Brownsville.

YOU KNOW, I don't believe there's another city in the state of Texas that backs its high school athletic teams as does the city of Pampa.

The turnout yesterday for the "Welcome Home Harvesters" ceremony was amazing when you consider the circumstances. It didn't, of course, match the crowds that turned out for the occasions the past two years when the Harvesters won the state title, but there wasn't too much difference.

I imagine the Harvesters were the only losing team in the state tournament this year that was welcomed home by a special ceremony that was arranged by the Pampa Chamber of Commerce Sports Committee yesterday.

Sudan Places 2 On All-State Tourney

AUSTIN—UP—All-state tournament basketball teams chosen by the Texas Sports Writers Association in Classes AA, A and B were dominated by Seminole and Atlanta in AA, Buna in A and Big Sandy in the B conference.

Champion Seminole placed two men on the Class AA mythical high school squad, as did Atlanta: Guards Johnny Speer and Edwin Young of the Seminole Indians and Atlanta's center John E. Fite and forward Johnny Haynes.

Forward Bobby Caruthers from the runnerup San Marcos team rounded out the sports writers' Class AA tournament choices.

A six-man Class A team included three players from the champion Buna squad. They were center James Mellard, forward Delman Rogers and guard Jack Swearingen. Others were forward Charles Lynch and center Leon (Poddy) Hill of Sudan and guard Wayne Williams from the runnerup Dickinson club.

In Class B, Big Sandy forward Joe Thomas was the only unanimous choice in any of the three classes. He and teammate Oscar Williams, Don Leturgion of Medina, Kenneth King of Avoca and Don Lyles of Maud made up the all-tournament Class B team.

Bonnie Watson Wins All-Gal Mat Match

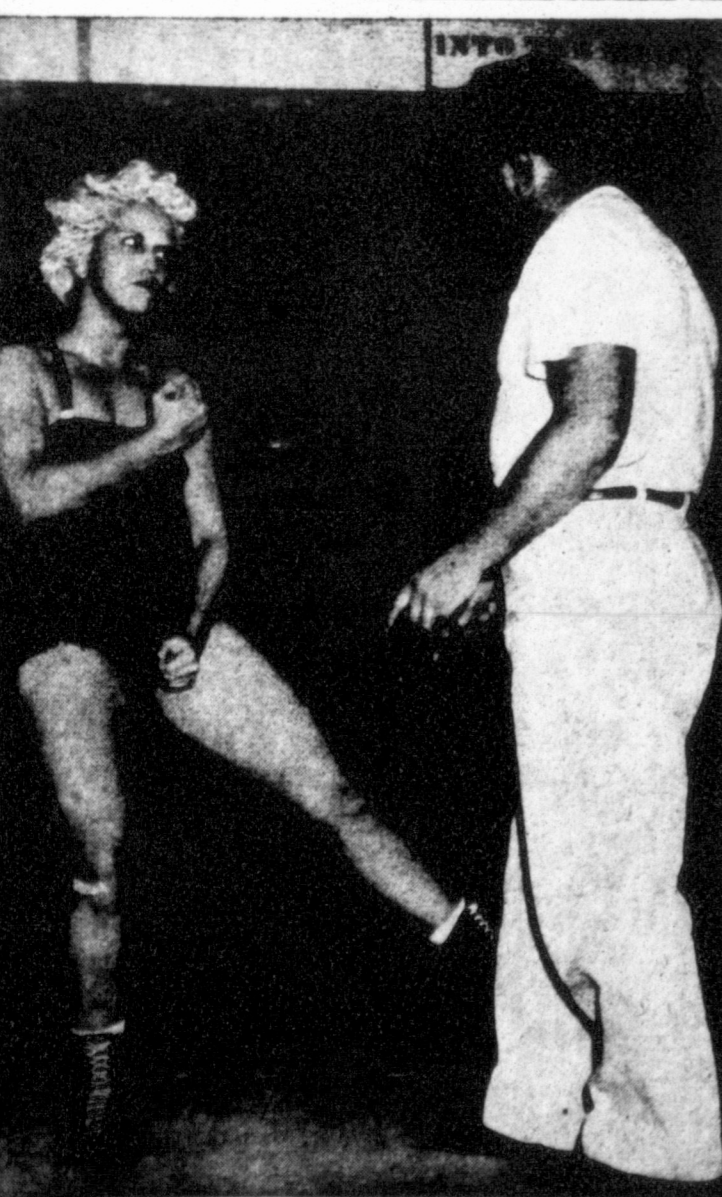

Bonnie Watson started and finished strong last night to capture the all-lady wrestling match from Ida Mae Martinez at the Top o' Texas Sportsman's Club arena before an overflow crowd.

Miss Watson won the first fall and after losing the second fall, she came back to capture the third fall for the match.

The win earned Miss Watson the right to challenge Olga Zapeda for the Southwestern Lady Wrestling Championship here next week.

The villains, Roy Shire and Bob Wallace, won two falls out of three from Bob Parks and Herb Cummings in a tag team match that was a co-feature of last night's show with the gal match.

In the preliminary, Dory Funk won by disqualification from Frankie Morelli.

LISTEN HERE—Bonnie Watson, one of the top lady wrestlers in the southwest, displays anger in the above photo when she protests a decision handed down by referee Maurice LaChapelle after losing second fall to Ida Mae Martinez here last night. Miss Watson came back to win the third and deciding fall, however, to gain the right to challenge the Southwestern Lady champ, Olga Zapeda, here next week. (News Photo)

Dons Favored Over Buffs In NCAA Tilt

By UNITED PRESS

Defending champion LaSalle and national champion San Francisco are rated the top favorites Tuesday night as 16 teams open play at four widely-separated sites in the NCAA Basketball tournament.

LaSalle, surprise winner of the crown last year, begins its title defense by meeting West Virginia in a triple-header at New York's Madison Square Garden, while San Francisco, hailed the nation's best during the regular season, opens with a game against West Texas State at San Francisco's Cow Palace.

In addition, there will be a double-header at Lexington, Ky., and a single game at El Reno, Okla. In this preliminary round play, Tuesday night's winners join eight other teams which drew byes in the first-round games at four other sites on Friday night.

Here is how Tuesday night's NCAA program looks. (With worst records in parentheses).

AT NEW YORK
Canisius (16-6) vs. Williams (17-1).

AT LEXINGTON, KY.
Penn State (17-8) vs. Memphis State (17-4).

AT EL RENO, OKLA.
Bradley (7-19) vs. Oklahoma City (9-17).

AT SAN FRANCISCO
San Francisco (23-1) vs. West Texas State (14-6).

AT EL PASO, TEXAS
Idaho State (18-7) vs. Seattle (20-5).

Only one berth in the 24-team tournament remains unfilled—that to end in a three-way tie by beating Brown, 58-39, in the last regular-season game. Columbia and Pennsylvania, which tied with Princeton, met immediately afterward in a playoff, with Columbia winning, 73-71. Columbia and Princeton now will meet in another playoff Wednesday night at New Brunswick, N. J., for the NCAA berth.

San Francisco enters the tourney with a 21-game winning streak and the best defensive average of any team in the nation. The Dons rank a strong favorite over a West Texas State team that tied for the Border conference title with Texas Tech and entered the tourney by a flip of the coin.

Tuesday night's winners will create the following pairings for Friday night's games:

AT PHILADELPHIA
Ivy League champions vs. LaSalle-West Virginia winner.

AT EVANSTON, ILL.
Kentucky vs. Miami-Marquette winner.

AT MANHATTAN, KAN.
Southern Methodist vs. Oklahoma City-Bradley winner.

AT CORVALLIS, ORE.
Oregon State vs. Idaho State-Seattle winner.

AT EL PASO, TEXAS
Utah vs. San Francisco-West Texas State winner.

Friday night winners will meet each other Saturday night at the same site. On Friday, March 18, at Kansas City, the Philadelphia winner will meet the Evanston winner for the Eastern title, and the Manhattan winner will meet the Corvallis winner for the Western title. Then the Eastern and Western champions will meet at Kansas City, Saturday, March 19, for the national championship.

Seitz hopes to pick up two pitchers, an infielder and an outfielder at Shreveport. But if Hairston and Gaines continue to hold out, then the Oilers will be seeking an additional pitcher and outfielder.

Bo Captures 3-Way Playoff

BATON ROUGE, La.—UP—Smiling Francis (Bo) Winger, who took $2,500 top prize money in the Baton Rouge Open, said Tuesday "that first round 31 gave me the confidence I needed, and luck rode with me the rest of the way."

Winger had a five-under-par 31 on the first round, and ended up six under to win the $12,500 tournament in a playoff with Jimmy Clark of Laguna Beach, Calif., and Billy Maxwell, Odessa, Tex.

"The 12th hole helped a lot," the 22-year-old Oklahoma City pro added. "And I knew I was in when the ball went where it was supposed to on the 15th."

It was the first tournament win for Winger since he turned pro in 1952. His card showed a 31-25-66, while Clark was 34-26-70 and Maxwell 36-25-71.

Clark got $1,500 for second place and Maxwell, who took the amateur title in 1951, got $1,100 for third.

The three had tied with 10-under-par 278 after the regulation 72 holes of the tournament. They were expected to continue along the PGA Gold Dust Trail when it picks up at St. Petersburg, Fla., a week from Thursday.

Fans Welcome PHS 5 Home From Austin

Several hundred fans were on hand yesterday to welcome the Hustlin' Harvesters home from the state basketball tournament held last week in Austin.

The Harvesters arrived via bus at about 3:30 and were escorted to downtown Pampa where a pep rally was held in their honor in front of LaNora Theater.

City dignitaries were on hand to make short speeches during the welcoming ceremony. The Harvester band was also on hand.

Making speeches were Knox Kinard, superintendent of Pampa schools; Floyd Watson, president of the Chamber of Commerce and City Manager Fred Brook. Brook was representing Mayor Tom Rose who was out of town.

Coach Clifton McNeely of the Harvesters was called to the mike to address the crowd. McNeely said: "We certainly didn't expect anything like this after losing two ballgames down the way to the state tournament. I'm sure this ceremony will mean more to the boys than the past two years when we came home as the state champions."

McNeely also thanked the Pampa fans for the giant telegram that was sent to wish the Green and Gold luck in the tournament.

The Sports Committee of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, headed by Art Aftergut, presented the wives of Coaches McNeely and Terry Culey with flowers.

Following the welcome home ceremony which was climaxed with the band playing the school song, the Harvesters were treated to a steak dinner by the Chamber of Commerce.

Dons Rated No. 1 In Final Cage Poll

NEW YORK.—UP—San Francisco's defensive-minded Dons, who rose from obscurity to fame this season and surprised a lot of "experts" in the process, Tuesday were acclaimed the United Press National College Basketball champions for the 1954-55 season.

Coach Phil Woolpert's Dons, posessors of a remarkable 32-1 record that earned them a berth in the NCAA tournament, were the No. 1 choice of 28 members of the 35-man United Press board of coaches in the final ratings of the campaign.

Kentucky's Southeastern Conference champions ranked second, 62 points behind San Francisco, while LaSalle, which opens its quest for a second straight NCAA championship Tuesday night, was third. LaSalle was picked by the coaches before the start of the season as the "best bet" for the national championship. The other top 10 in order were Utah, Iowa, North Carolina State, Duquesne, Oregon State, Marquette and Dayton.

The West Coast Dons' prospects were regarded so lightly before the start of the campaign that not a single coach mentioned them in the pre-season sizeup of the race. But Woolpert's men, led by all-America center Bill Russell, fooled a host of basketball authorities.

Dons Lose Third Game
San Francisco lost the third game of the season, Dec. 11, by a 47-40 score to UCLA and then it ran off a string of 21 consecutive victories that is still "alive." In the process, the Dons beat UCLA in a return game, won the all-college tournament at Oklahoma City during Christmas vacation, and compiled the best defensive record in the nation.

Iowa, the Big Ten champion; Oregon State, which beat UCLA two straight games for the right to represent the Pacific Coast Conference in the NCAA tournament; and Dayton all finished strong in the final week's ratings.

San Francisco starts play in the NCAA tournament Tuesday night against West Texas State at San Francisco. In addition to the top three teams, Utah, Iowa, Oregon State and Marquette also are in the NCAA tournament. Duquesne and Dayton are entered in the National Invitation Tournament in New York.

Top Ten Vary
The top 10 teams thus was made up of three from the Midwest, two each from the East, South and Pacific Coast and one from the Rockies.

AROUND THE WORLD

MONEY MILE—Pretty Stanford University coeds lined pennies in the school quadrangle, in Palo Alto, Calif., to launch a "Penny Mile" campaign for fun-raising purposes. They were hoping to benefit the World University Service, the Red Cross and the Free University of Berlin with what they took in.

AND THE DRIVER SURVIVED—Fred Coates, 30, of Dearborn, Mich., lived to walk away from this wreck in which his trailer skidded on an icy road near North Royalton, O. It crashed through a guard rail and fell down an embankment, landing on top of the cab with its load of 33,000 pounds of steel. Doctors said Coates escaped with a sore back and slight cuts.

IT'S IN THE BAG—Guy Lombardo, left, and singer Lauritz Melchior had something to make music about in New York. Band leader Lombardo, producer of the musical spectacle, "Arabian Nights," had just signed Melchior to star in it for the second year. The outdoor show will play at Jones Beach.

ANOTHER HONOR—President Dwight D. Eisenhower is shown receiving the Gold Heart, highest award of the American Heart Association from Dr. E. Cowles Andrus, right, General Mark Clark, National Chairman of the Association, looked on as the President received it at the White House.

NOT WHAT IT SEEMS—That cat really isn't the monster it appears as it covers the roof of a wine shop in the village of "Bekanscott," in Beaconsfield, England. The town is an authentic miniature that spreads over two full acres of Lilliputian landscape. Everything looks so authentic, even the cat seems to be confused about the distance from its perch to the sidewalk where it's preparing to jump.

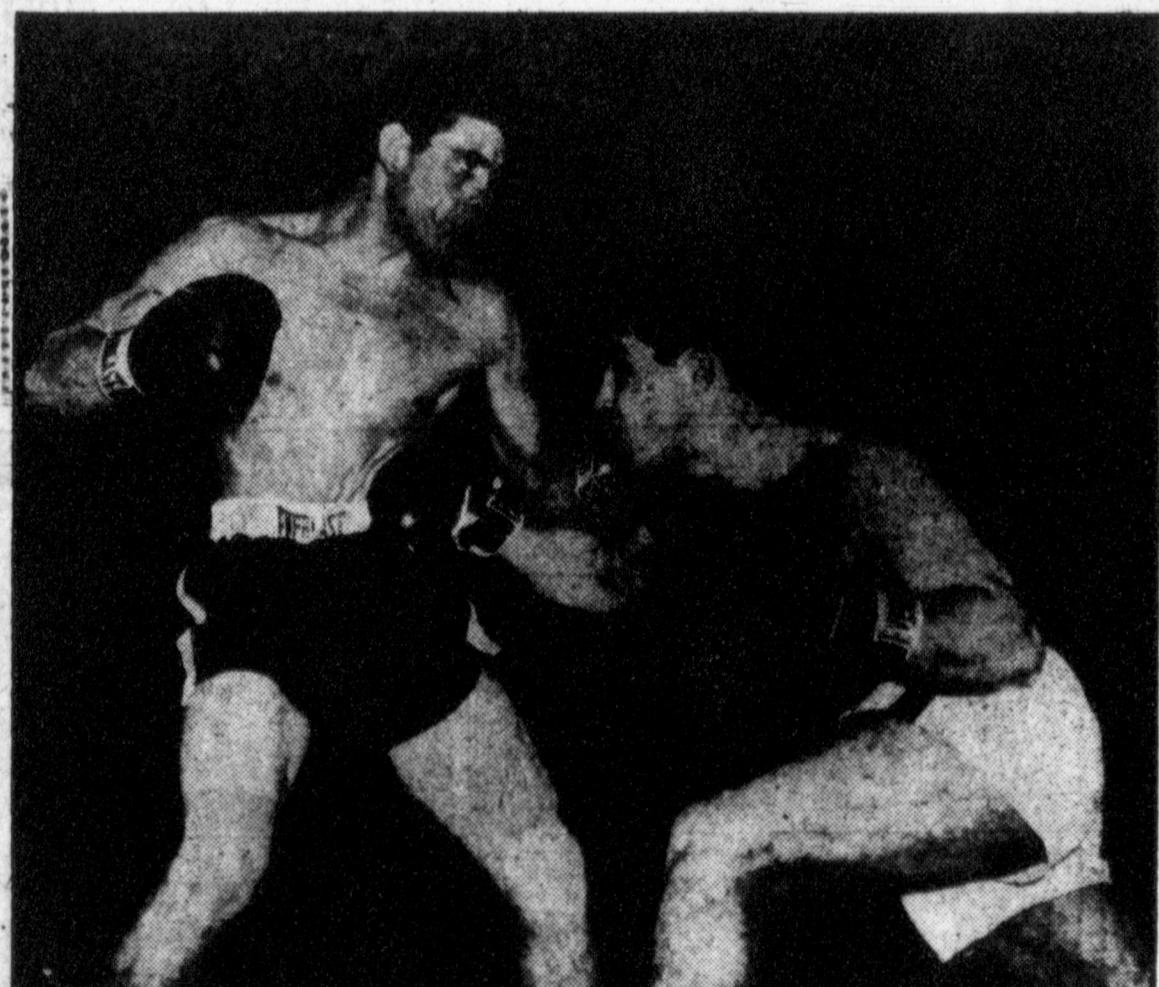

IN MEMORY—Delores Kiple, a secretary in Miami Beach, is holding some name signs for apartments. They're all in honor of the names given to hurricanes last year by the weather bureau, so it would seem that something useful came from those violent storms after all.

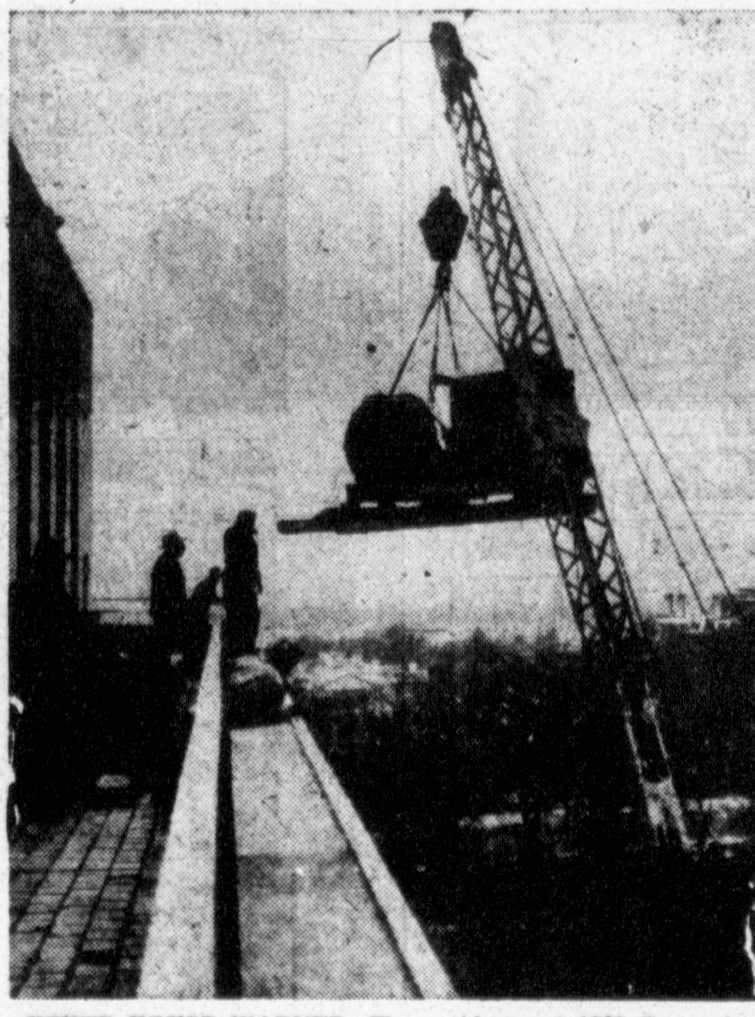

GUEST OF HONOR—At a party honoring singer Lisa Kirk at the Plaza Hotel in New York, Barbara Small, right, of Kansas City, Mo., and James F. Murphy, Newark, N. J. were among the guests to congratulate her. The popular Lisa combines night club work with TV, radio, stage and recordings.

SNOW SPORTS—Two lively wallabies enjoy an after-storm frolic in the snow at London's Whipsnade Zoo. Small second cousins of the kangaroo, the animals find the drifts no obstacle with their strong, spring-like hind legs to give them a soaring ski-jump.

LEATHER EXCHANGE—Rinzi Nocero, of Brooklyn, right, trades a powerful right to the body of Argentina's Rafael Merentino for a left to the face during their 10-round bout in Manhattan. Middleweight Merentino made his U.S. debut a success when he scored a TKO over Rinzi at the end of the eighth round.

WHITE HOUSE WARNER—The residents of 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue in Washington, D. C., won't be caught unawares in case of an air raid. This 6000-pound warning siren was installed on the RFD Building nearby after Civil Defense officials found the area a dead spot in the capital's siren network.

NEW RIOT SQUAD TECHNIQUE—Wearing gas masks and carrying riot batons at the horizontal, trainees of a Civil Disturbance Unit are advancing through a smoke screen at Ft. Belvoir, Va. The men are actually policemen and the batons they hold are longer and lighter than a "billy," and are used for pushing unruly mobs rather than for bludgeoning.

FERN DAWSON. Jesse Stroup, sold one day that you have the Bruce Coplin, Calvin Jones, Gordon Hallenbeck, they're all in the news this week... No, none of them has been jailed. None is about to get any great award, as far as is known... And none probably even realizes why he or she is in the news... But it's very simple... This week is the Girl Scout Week, National Want Ad Week, National Save Your Vision Week and National Television Servicemen's Week. Fern's with the Scouts, Jesse and Bruce with the paper's want ad department, Calvin is an eye doctor and Gordon is the guy who fiddles around in back of your TV set and makes the wires work right... Of course, there are others, too, who are concerned with these "special weeks"... But no one Gnashings knows has anything to do with the other "week" this week... For it's also National Peanut Week... Unless it's Paul West who sells the things in his movies.

THE KIDS. The real young ones are always the ones to provide the real show... Take Monday's dedication of the armory... There was the band, the speeches, the running-up of the flag... And then there was the kids. One of them was doing a first-class job on a bottle of milk. Another was looking up the aisle, sniffling with a well-used hanky drooping down toward the floor. A third, of course was bawling her head off... And then there was a fourth. There's always a fourth. A fourth, that is, who was doing just what any adult would like to do at a public function... She was sleeping.

THERE'S SOMETHING wrong with that Pampa Oilers season ticket sign out at the corner of Russell and Kingsmill... You look at the horses, add up how much each one represents, then look at the total over on the right, and you're confused... One's more than the other, lots more... And what's more, those horses are changing position too often... How come you have more ducats

Ousted Priest Has An Answer

NEW YORK.—UP—The Rev. Georges Bissonette said Monday his unexplained expulsion from the Soviet Union may have been in retaliation to the United States for its refusal to renew the temporary visa of a Russian Orthodox archbishop.

The Roman Catholic priest said that "most diplomats and correspondents in Moscow" felt his expulsion resulted from American refusal to renew the visa of Russian Orthodox Archbishop Boris, who left the United States 10 days ago.

He said there was no other apparent reason for the Russians' sudden order for him to leave the country.

Father Bissonette arrived here by plane from Stockholm and talked with newsmen shortly after clearing customs inspection. He appeared healthy and fit and at times seemed embarrassed by all the attention.

He told newsmen he was taken completely by surprise by the expulsion order because as recently as last November he had been boasted by Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev as "a sympathetic and intelligent man."

truthful about it, there were relatively few people who could tell you about it first-hand... Sure, there were a lot of high school kids in the middle of Cuyler St. And there were some adults lined along the sidewalks... And when Jo Tooley and her cheerleaders swung into action, there was plenty of noise, all right... But it was certainly not the crowd that should have greeted the two-time Texas basketball champs. Just like last year, and the year before, they're a bunch of Pampa kids who were one of the top four teams in the state in their district—good enough to go to Austin... So they didn't win state for the third straight year. So what?... Maybe Cliff McNeely, the coach, had the right idea when he said maybe the team got more out of the trip this year than they did the times before... There's a lot to that.

Loyalty Hearings Stated. WASHINGTON—UP—Hearings into the Administration's loyalty program were scheduled to begin Tuesday by a Senate Government Operations subcommittee. The program includes seven new rules laid down by President Eisenhower.

Top Tax Official Gives Return Hints

Editor's Note: This is the first of a special series of five dispatches by the top federal tax official to help taxpayers make out their 1954 returns.

By T. COLEMAN ANDREWS
Commissioner of Internal Revenue
WASHINGTON—UP—It is time for millions of U. S. citizens and residents to file a federal income tax return for 1954.

This year there are new benefits for almost everyone, enacted by Congress last year when it gave the federal tax code a complete overhaul.

The Internal Revenue Service has compiled a list of questions that taxpayers are asking about the law as it stands now, with particular emphasis on the changes which have been made since last year's filing period.

By answering the most-asked questions here, I hope to save many of you the trouble of waiting in line to have your problems solved by our staff of taxpayer assistants.

Without doubt, the most frequently asked question is: "When do I get my refund?"

That is one thing the new law did not change. The answer is: Just as soon as we can check your return and mail your check; it may take a few weeks; but sometimes it can be a matter of months.

File Return Early
The best advice, if you want your refund in a hurry, is to file your return early. The Internal Revenue Service is handling almost 60 million personal income tax returns this spring, plus more than twice that amount on other taxes, so the later you file, the bigger the pile of returns to be processed ahead of yours. It's "first come, first served."

Before we get to the other questions, I would like to mention the most conspicuous change in the new law: The deadline for filing your return is now April 15, or one month later than in past years. It is still better for us and for you if you file early, however.

The basic fact of what must file a return is unchanged from last year. If you are a citizen or resident of the United States, under 65 years old, and your gross income was $600 or more in 1954, you must file. For most wage and salary workers, gross income is the same as the total of their wages and salaries.

If you were 65 or older on Dec. 31, you are not required to file a return unless your gross income was $1,200 or more.

Even though you are not required to file a return under the rules outlined above, it is in your interest to file if you had income from which your employer withheld taxes during the year. You may be eligible for a refund.

The questions we hear most frequently on the new law involve the allowances for sickness and injury, for children who earn money on their own, for child care expenses, for dividends, for retirement income, and, for the new "head of household" and surviving widow or widower classifications.

Old questions which, reappear most often are those which pertain to the rules for husband and wife filing their returns jointly or separately, and the relative advantages of each method; exemptions allowed for dependents; deductions allowed for such things as insurance and union or club dues; and property losses in storms, such as last year's hurricanes Carol, Edna and Hazel.

Which Tax Form
I shall answer the questions on major new changes in the law first, then the recurring questions.

At this point, it might be well to handle one more substantial inquiry: Which tax form should I use?

There are three to choose from: form 1040A, short form 1040 and long form 1040.

One taxpayer asks: "When will we get a return the ordinary taxpayer can make out without help from others?"

The new form 1040A is our answer. It is a seven-by-three inch card-check size—which is brief and relatively simple to fill out. Almost half the individual income tax returns filed this year will be 1040A's.

You may use 1040A if your income last year was less than $5,000 and if it was in the form of wages and salary from which your employer or employers withheld income taxes each payday, except that the total amount may include not more than $100 in other wages, or dividends or interest, from which taxes have not been withheld.

Ike Creates WWII Society

WASHINGTON.—UP—President Eisenhower Monday created the "Society of Remagen Bridge" on the 10th anniversary of the dramatic American crossing of the Rhine River during World War II.

He presented certificates of membership to the 11 living men of the 13 who received the Distinguished Service Crosses for the operation.

"It wasn't the biggest battle of all times," the President told the men at the White House, "but it represents the dash, ingenuity, and readiness to seize opportunity that characterize the American soldier."

Mr. Eisenhower said he prepared certificates for membership in the society as "my own little personal thank you."

While the veterans were being honored, an Army captain in Atlanta, Ga., complained that the men who really took the bridge had not been invited to the ceremonies. The officer, Capt. William McMaster, said he commanded Company C of the Ninth Armored Division which took the bridge during the Remagen action. He said the men honored Monday moved across the bridge after his company secured it.

"George wants you and Ernest to come over—they're having a noisy party upstairs and we won't get to bed early anyway!"
