

Domestic violence numbers alarming

By MARTHA TOLES FROST
City Editor

On an average night last year, 1,104 women and children sought refuge in shelters across Texas because home was not a safe place.

Within the city limits of Muleshoe alone there were 32 reported cases of domestic violence last year.

At the request of the organization, Gov. George Bush has proclaimed Oct 1-7 as PTA Violence Awareness and Prevention Week in Texas. The PTA is the largest child advocacy organization in the state.

According to the U.S. Surgeon General, battering is the No. 1 crime and cause of injury to women in the United States.

And 70 percent of men who abuse their female partners also abuse their children, according to K. Yilo and M. Bogard, authors of "On the Relationship Between Wife Beating and Child Abuse," written in 1988.

Leaving abusive relationships does not guarantee safety for battered women and their children. Research by Evan Stark and Anne Flitcraft found that abusive men often escalate violence to "recapture"

Are you battered?

Anyone can be battered regardless of income, education or race. Battered women share some of the following feelings:

- Isolation — He is jealous of your other relationships. As you feel you have nowhere else to turn, you become more dependent on him.
- Guilt — If only you would "act right" he says he wouldn't have to hit you.
- Helplessness — You need his permission for everything. He must know where you have been and to whom you have talked.
- Fear — You live in fear of what will happen next battered women and children.

Stark and Flitcraft documented that as many as 75 percent of visits to medical emergency rooms by these women occur after they have separated from the violent partner.

But more women are reporting domestic violence than ever before, according to Cissie

Robinson, secretary at the Muleshoe Police Department.

It is her duty to type the hauntingly similar reports of women and children who are able to relate what happened.

It isn't as simple as it appears to escape the violence, Robinson said.

Women often must leave their homes with nothing but the clothes they are wearing. Taking their children with them, these women sometimes have no job to support their families and believe they have nowhere safe to hide.

Emergency farm loan applications being accepted

Applications for emergency farm loan for losses caused by hail, high winds, and drought are being accepted at the Rural Economic and Community Development (RECD) office located at 115 E. Ave. D., Muleshoe, TX, RECD County Supervisor Joyce M. Thompson said today.

Bailey County is one of four in Texas recently named by Secretary of Agriculture Dan Glickman as eligible for loans to cover part of actual production losses resulting from the hail, high winds, and drought.

Thompson said farmers may be eligible for loans of up to 80 percent of their actual losses or the operating loan needed to continue in business or $500,000, whichever is less. For farmers unable to obtain credit from private commercial lenders, the interest is 3.75 percent.

"As a general rule, a farmer must have suffered at least a 30 percent loss of production to be eligible for an RECD emergency loan," Thompson said. Farmers participating in the Federal Crop Insurance Program will have to figure in proceeds from those programs in determining their loss.

Applications for loans under this emergency designation will be accepted until April 24, 1996 but farmers should apply as soon as possible. Delays in applying could create backlogs in processing and possible over into the new farming season," Thompson said.

RECD is a credit agency of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. It is authorized to provide disaster emergency loans to recognized farmers who work at and rely on farming for a living. Eligibility is extended to individual farmers who are U.S. citizens and to farming partnerships, corporations or cooperatives in which U.S. citizens hold a majority interest.

The Snack Shack, a Muleshoe institution for more than four decades, suffered minor damages in an early morning fire Tuesday.

The Snack Shack, located across from the high school, provides students with an alternative to cafeteria food.

Copeland says he hopes to reopen in two months.

An election of district director to serve in Zone 3 of the Blackwater Valley Soil and Water Conservation District will be held at the Needmore Cafe.

The election will be held at 8 a.m. on Oct. 5, according to Johnny Furgeson, chairman of the district board. After the director election, there will be a short program on cotton insects given by Brent Baugh, extension entomologist for Parmer and Bailey Counties.

Also there will be a display set up by MUR-TEX Co. on fiberglass livestock tanks. This display will be on the Needmore Gin Yard.

State law states that to vote in a SWCD director election, a person must own agricultural land in Bailey County, live in Bailey County and be 18 years of age.

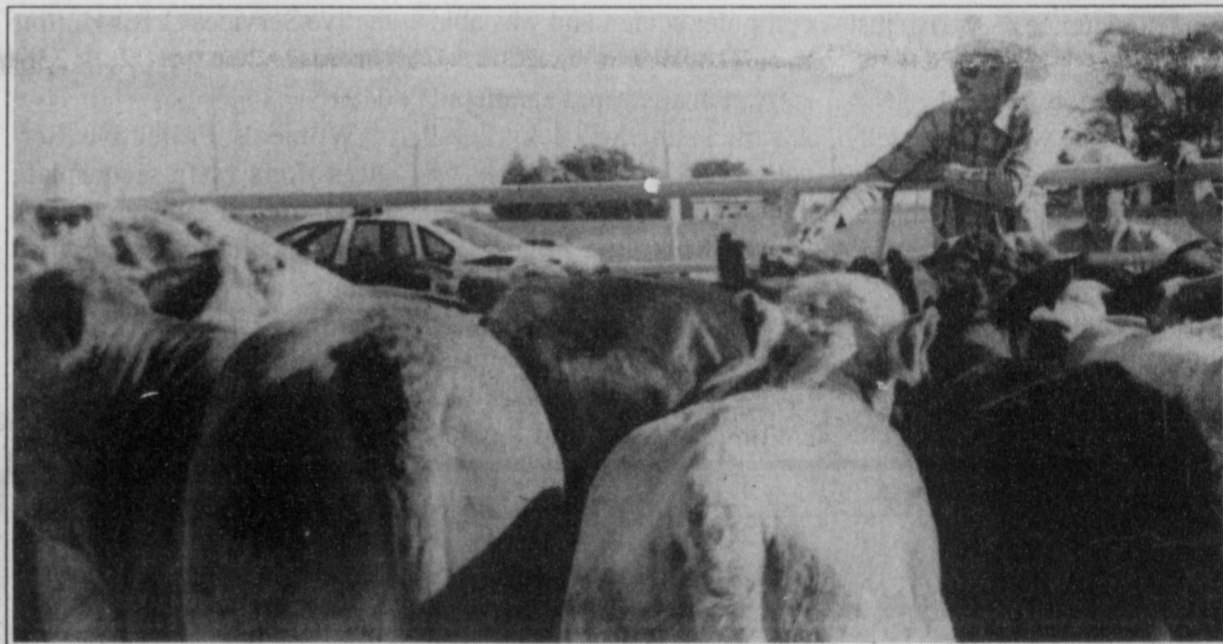

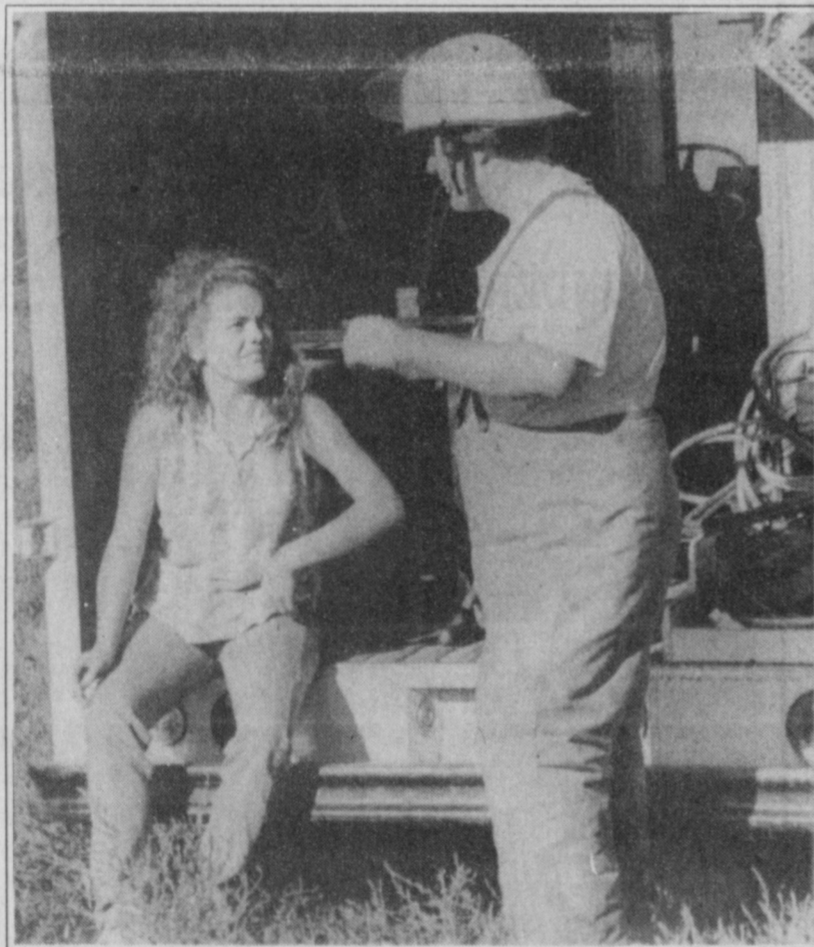

Qualifications for district director are as follows:

1. Must own land in the zone represented.
2. Be 18 years old and actively engaged in farming or ranching.
3. Must live in Bailey County.

Directors serve four year terms of office.

Present director of Zone 3 is Sharon Dale from the Needmore Community.

The purpose of Blackwater Valley SWCD, with headquarters in Muleshoe, is to promote sound soil and water conservation programs on farms and ranches within the district.

Roosevelt bully on Mules, 31-27

By RICK WHITE
Managing Editor

LUBBOCK — After a seesaw first half that featured seven touchdowns, it looked like whichever team had the ball last would win.

But Lubbock Roosevelt decided to take its fate into its own hands—almost literally—in the second half.

Behind a relentless running game and a ball-hawking defense, the Eagles hogged the ball most of the second half and pulled away for a 37-21 win over Muleshoe here Friday night.

Roosevelt (2-2) rushed for 104 yards in the second half, most of them between the tackles, and forced three turnovers. But more importantly, kept ball out of Daniel Garbarino's hands.

Garbarino was a one-man wrecking crew in the first half, turning a pair of short passes into long touchdowns in the first quarter as Muleshoe took a 21-12 lead.

Garbarino caught three passes for 139 yards in the first half, reaping the benefits of a coaching adjustment that kept him away from the double coverage that has dogged him all year. Normally a split end, Garbarino was moved around the Mules' one-back set.

But after Garbarino's 67-yard catch and run with two-and-a-half minutes left in the first quarter, the Mules' offense went flat.

"When our offense was playing well, our defense wasn't," Muleshoe head coach Randy Adair said. "And when the defense starting playing better, our offense ran out of gas."

After gaining 184 yards in the first half, Muleshoe (0-4) gained just 77 yards in the second half and couldn't get the ball to Garbarino.

Roosevelt actually started to gain an advantage at the outset of the second quarter when the off-tackle assaults of Justin Talley (83 yards and a touchdown) started opening up other options for the Eagles.

"They never really stopped us off-tackle all night," Roosevelt head coach Jim Tubbs said.

The Eagles parlayed Muleshoe's aggressiveness and the fleet feet of Kevin Davis into a pair of second-quarter

District governor makes official Muleshoe Rotary visit

The Muleshoe Rotary Club welcomed Doyle Moore, District Governor, to its weekly meeting, Tuesday at the Bailey County Civic Center.

The Muleshoe visit was the 32nd club Doyle has visited during his term in office. He will make 22 more visits to complete his tour.

President Mike McDearmon opened the meeting by asking Curtis Shelburne to provide the invocation and lead the group in the pledge of allegiance.

McDearmon introduced James Williams of the Farwell

Rotary Club as a visiting Rotarian. Doris Doyle, wife of Governor Doyle, was present at the meeting and is also a Rotarian in Amarillo.

Additional guests included Julie Cage, wife of J.D. Cage; Wanda Hooten, wife of Lary Hooten; Brenda McDearmon, wife of Mike McDearmon; Vicki Moraw, wife of Charles Moraw; Rhonda Myers, wife of Thurman Myers; and Diane Nieman, wife of George Nieman.

McDearmon reported that Jerry Hicks is in the hospital recovering from appendectomy surgery and should be going home soon.

Bill Moore reported that Curtis Shelburne had made the final nominee list for Rural Pastor of the Year. The Rotarians wish Curtis good luck and hope the selection committee selects him, as he is very deserving.

District Governor Moore presented a motivational talk concerning what it means to be a Rotarian and how each can fulfill the obligations made.

He discussed the current Rotary International president Herb Brown's motto: "Act with Integrity, Serve with Love, Work for Peace." The motto for the year in many ways represents the Rotary way of life as envisioned by its founder, Paul Harris, and the members that carry on the tradition.

Doyle discussed membership as an area he is emphasizing. Worldwide membership is growing at about 1.2 percent; most is coming from new club organizations. The implication is that established clubs need to work harder to bring in new people.

Doyle then discussed Rotary Foundation efforts currently underway, including the Polio Plus effort, and encouraged all to consider joining the Paul Harris Foundation.

The discussion then turned to community efforts and the impact that a Rotary club can have in its town. The Muleshoe club was praised for efforts in the recent team roping and was challenged to look for other opportunities.

Bill Moore was selected as the Polio Plus winner for the week and led all in recitation of the Four Way Test.

Friena's Reed captures Week 4 football contest

Thomas Reed of Friena was one of the few survivors of a brutal week in the Muleshoe Journal Power Points football contest for Week 4.

Reed, of 602 Arrah in Friena, totaled 116 points to win the local contest going away. He receives $10 cash and a gift certificate from Leal's Restaurant.

Reed was the high scorer in a week that saw both Texas and Texas A&M lose big road games at Notre Dame and Colorado, as well as the San Francisco 49ers falling to heavy underdog Detroit in the pro ranks. Many contestants used the 49ers as one of their higher-point suffered the consequences of the upset of the week.

Of 45 local contestants, just four finished with 100 points or more and many contestants slumped into the mid-70's including a low of 70.

The statewide battle for $1,000 saw a pair of contestants tie with 129 of 136 possible points: Mike Watkins of Garland and James Stabler of Lubbock. Watkins emerged from the tie-breaker as the grand prize winner with a guess of 38 points in the Houston Oilers' game. His total was closer to the actual 68-point total than Stabler, who picked 31.

Watkins, a day manager at a Wylie convenience store and a father of two, said he participated in "at least four fantasy football leagues, so I keep pretty well versed on the stats and everything. But I just went with my gut instinct. It was really a rough week."

Second in the Muleshoe contest was Sharli Crawford of Lazbuddie, who had 104 points. Third went to Liz Torres of Muleshoe with 103. Crawford wins $7.50, while Torres receives $5 for her efforts.

In the honorable mention category, Bill James of Muleshoe was the fourth and final local contestant to score over 100 points with a 102-point total.

Violence

Continued from page 1 leaving gradually, taking necessities that won't be noticed as missing to a safe place. Often a woman must leave while her husband is asleep in order to avoid a violent confrontation as she leaves.

Many women and children are threatened with the same kind of violence they have just survived if they report it to the police or try to leave.

"But more women are willing to say, 'This isn't the way things are supposed to be. There are laws to protect me,'" Robinson says.

If there are visible signs of abuse, the state can become the complainant.

Help is available at the local police office or by calling 911. Muleshoe Police Department's Head Dispatcher Mary Soto said she recently received a 911 call. She heard a woman in the background, but a man said there was "no emergency."

Since Muleshoe has enhanced 911, Soto saw the address and phone number on her computer screen and was able to call back.

A man answered again, but a woman in the background called out for help, saying, "I called you!"

The Muleshoe Police Department was able to help the woman and arrest the man.

Muleshoe Police Officer Jay Livingston said women and children who come to the police department after a domestic violence incident are usually confused—and often have visible signs of abuse.

Soto said an officer can request that a domestic violence offender be held 24 hours so the woman can get away safely.

Help is also available in Lubbock. The Women's Protective Services Crisis Hotline for Muleshoe is (800) 736-6491.

Women's Protective Services offers a safe, secure place for victims of family violence and their children. The services offered are free and include 24-hour crisis hotline and emergency transportation.

If you have been assaulted by a family member or fear you may be in danger from a family member, you may also call Family Violence Legal Line at (800) 374-HOPE.

To ask about a special family violence service of the Women's Advocacy Project, Inc., call (800) 777-FAIR.

Lt. Gov. Pritchard visits Muleshoe Kiwanis Club

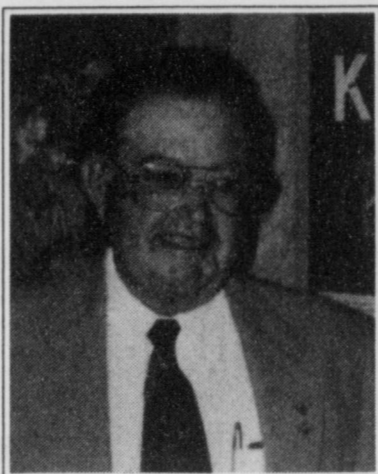

The Muleshoe Kiwanis Club met Sept. 22. The meeting was called to order by the vice president Bryan Morris. The pledge was led by Flavio Garcia and the prayer was given by Hugh Young. The friendship coin was passed from Joe Flores to Clay Kidd who just happened to be in the right place at the right time.

Morris recognized guests: Robert Shafer, Jaime Bohler and Lt. Governor D.A.

Pritchard and his wife, Inez.

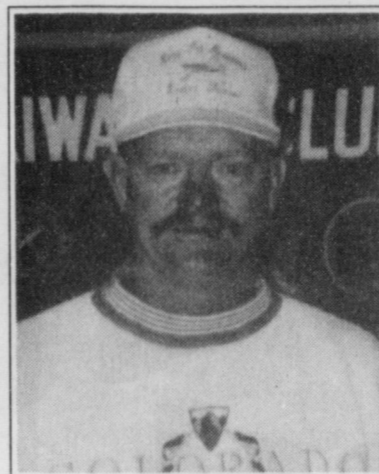

The club's financial budget for 1995-96 was discussed and passed. It was announced that the annual installation banquet was held Saturday at the facilities at Five Area Telephone.

D.A. Pritchard, the Lt. Governor for division 33, gave a report of Kiwanis on things to come and the future of the organization. He thanked the members in attendance for being at the meeting.

D.A. Pritchard

Shafer, president of the Muleshoe Heritage Foundation Center, discussed plans for the center and progress in fundraising to meet needs for the future. He said a lot of work has gone into the center and there is still a lot of work ahead in restoring the old buildings.

Lena Ruthardt honored with 80th birthday party

An 80th birthday party was given in honor of Lena Ruthardt by her children Marie Ruthardt and Ray Ruthardt of Muleshoe, Floyd Ruthardt of Plains, TX, and Brenda Trusty of Hobbs, N.M. at the Heritage Center on Sept. 24th.

A birthday cake decorated red and white and strawberry punch was served by grand daughter-in-laws Kelli Ruthardt, Roylyn Ruthardt and Lorna Ruthardt.

Lena was born Sept. 21,

1915 in Lamar County, TX. She is the daughter of John and Addie Gordon. Lena and Floyd moved to Muleshoe from Whiteface in 1959. Floyd died June 14, 1994.

Lena has ten grandchildren and 16 great grandchildren.

Friends and family of the area were in attendance. She received many cards and telephone calls from grandchildren and other family members unable to attend.

Laz Young Homemakers install officers for '95-96

A new and exciting year has begun for the Lazbuddie Young Homemakers. September has already brought several activities and projects.

On Sept. 5, the new officers for the 1995-96 school year were installed. They are president Terrie Smith, vice president Amy Barnes, secretary Sherry Nichols, treasurer LeShae Mason, and Sharli Crawford as reporter/historian.

The annual membership tea was held on Sept. 19. Tiffany Hicks, Donna Bradshaw, Lucy Anderson and Laurie Turner were welcomed as new members in the organization. In addition, Sharon Bridges and Kim Branscum showed the group how to make painted chocolate suckers.

The young Homemakers also conducted a book fair at the Lazbuddie School library Sept. 20-21. It was quite successful, and the Lazbuddie School received many books as a result.

Johnson is HECE student of the month

Mendy Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kelvin Johnson, has been named Home Economics Cooperative Education (HECE) Star Student of the Month.

Mendy received this honor based on her participation in the group's activities, her performance in class, and her ability and skills on her job.

Mendy works through the HECE program at the Muleshoe Area Healthcare Center. She is presently working toward becoming a certified Nurse's Aid at the Center. Terry Brown serves as her supervisor.

Mendy is a 16-year-old junior at Muleshoe High School. She has been a member of FHA and is presently a member of the HERO organization. She has been involved in athletics, participating both in cross country track and basketball.

When asked about her favorite subject in school, Mendy answered, HECE. "The class allows me to learn about skills in getting and keeping a job. In addition, Mrs. Johnson allows us to put into practice new ideas that we discuss and learn about in class," Mendy added.

Mendy admits that she has learned many things at the nursing home, but probably the most important thing she has learned is patience. Mendy says that the residents make her feel special and she looks forward to going to work everyday.

After graduation Mendy's plans are to continue in this career by attending college and becoming a registered nurse.

First Assembly of God to host blood drive Oct. 5

Muleshoe will sponsor a blood drive from 10:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 5 at the First Assembly of God. Anyone who brings a first time donor with them will receive a United Blood Service T-shirt.

When human blood transfusions were first performed in the 1800s, the donor and the recipient were side by side. There was no typing, no testing, no interim procedure.

Modern innovations in blood transfusion therapy have now changed all that.

More than 90 percent of all people who live to age 72 will need blood during their lives. Blood is needed for surgeries, for patients being treated for leukemia or other cancers, or for a mother experiencing a difficult delivery.

While most of us will receive blood, only a few will donate it. Approximately five

ON THE EDGE OF COMMON SENSE

The frog, the beaver and the magpie found a magic bucket. It was full of water because it rained every day.

They punched 3 small holes in the bottom of the bucket and shared the water.

The beaver used his water to grow corn for all three of them to eat. But when he wasn't using it he plugged his hole.

The frog used his water to soak in. He sat under his hole all day and all night.

The magpie used his water to look at. Seeing it flow out the hole made him happy. He wanted to be happy all the time.

Then one day it didn't rain. The beaver worried that if they ran out of water the corn would die. He asked the frog to plug his hole to help save water.

"I can't," said the frog, "without water my skin would crinkle up and I would die."

The beaver asked the magpie to plug his hole till it rained again.

"I can't," said the magpie, "my heart would break if I couldn't see my water running."

Then it rained and nobody worried.

"Let me build a bigger rim on the bucket," suggested the beaver. "Then we can save more water in case we have another dry spell."

"I don't think so," said the frog. "You might think since you built it you were better than us."

"No way," said the magpie. "You'd mess up the beauty of this magic bucket. I like it just the way it is."

So there they sat beneath the bucket until the next time it didn't rain. The beaver's corn died, the frog shriveled up and the magpie flew away.

The farmers in Tulelake, northern California want to increase the capacity of their Klamath River irrigation dam that sustains the local economy.

The native Indians want to insure adequate water flow to keep their ceremonial fish alive.

The "environmentalists" wish there had never been a dam in the first place.

The farmers would like to increase the dam's ability to store water, but the frog and the magpie say, "NO WAY!"

Without irrigation the Tulelake area would support no agriculture, no beavers. It would return to juniper and sage brush.

"Who wants that?" you ask. Bruce Babbitt, the Indians and "environmentalists."

And they will . . . till they run out of corn.

Take a Second Look

On your first look, you may think that this little girl is riding a rocking horse, but look again. It is not a rocking horse but a little donkey.

About animals now, and children. Donkeys were one of the first animals to be tamed by man, and are gentle animals when they are not practicing the quality of being stubborn.

The quality of gentleness somehow reminds us of our Saviour, the Wonderful One.

Parents, teach your children about Jesus, who admonishes us to let the little children come unto Him. Our Lord would remind us that the little ones are precious to the Father. We invite you to take the children to church this week.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.
