LIGHTNING DESTROYS HOUSE—Shown above is what is left of a house approximately 12 1/2 miles northeast of Pampa which was hit by lightning yesterday afternoon. The house was completely damaged. It was being lived in by "Shorty" Miller family, according to reports received by The News this morning. The house belonged to John Bell of Pampa and was leased, with ranch land, to Emmett LeFors. Miller works for LeFors. (News Photo)

Weather Is Violent Over Panhandle

By UNITED PRESS
Tornadoes, howling winds, hail and violent rainstorms lashed a long strip of Texas from the Panhandle to the Austin area Wednesday.

Several tornadoes were reported in the Austin area, and either twisters or funnel clouds played around Amarillo.

High winds caused extensive damage at Hutto, northeast of Austin. Two men were injured in Dallas when a section of roof hit them after it was ripped off by high winds.

Heavy damage was reported at Taylor, near Austin, and Georgetown was without power temporarily. The San Gabriel and Colorado rivers were on the rise again.

Winds of 75 to 80 miles an hour blew the Hutto gin away and unroofed five business buildings. Plate glass was blown from stores at Taylor and water caused extensive damage.

Falling debris broke a gas main at Hutto, and Roy Finn said the roof of his barn three miles west of Taylor was ripped off.

Residents in east Fort Worth reported seeing a tornado and Mrs. Clyde Philyaw, who lives in that area, said her 13-month-old grandson was blown from his bed and slammed against a wall. The child was uninjured, but all the windows in the house were smashed.

A house trailer was blown over on U.S. 81 between Georgetown and Round Rock and high winds and rain damaged the Johnson county courthouse.

Trees were blown across the highway six miles south of Georgetown, and a blinding rain and high winds smashed into Austin.

A twister destroyed a barn, garage and outbuilding near Joshua in Johnson county south of Fort Worth.

Robert Samuel of Honey Grove, a Fannin county deputy sheriff and an officer in the 49th Armored Division of the National Guard, was hurrying to get small airplanes out of an area exposed to the storm on encampment at North Fort Hood. He walked into the whirling propeller of an L-19 and was killed.

Ranch Home Burns; Hit By Lightning

A house on a ranch located 12 miles northeast of Pampa burned to the ground yesterday afternoon after it was hit by lightning.

The house, occupied by Shorty Miller, is owned by John Bell of Pampa and is leased to Emmett LeFors.

Mrs. Miller reported that she was at home when the lightning struck the house and attempted to obtain help in both a car and a pickup but couldn't make it because of the muddy roads.

The lightning, which struck the house, was part of the thunderstorm which moved over the area yesterday afternoon and resulted in one tornado funnel being spotted southeast of Skellytown at about 1:45 yesterday afternoon.

Boyd Moore, who lives in the Cabot Camp south of Skellytown, told The News yesterday that he was on his front porch when he saw the funnel about four or five miles southwest of the camp above open range land. He reported that upon seeing the funnel, those at home in the camp went to a storm cellar and he did not know if it struck the ground.

The funnel was also seen by an oil well service crew working four miles south of Pampa. Bill Kuehl, 111 N. Warren, reported that while he and Elmo Hudgins were working on a well, Kuehl stated that they watched the funnel for several minutes. The funnel, he reported, came down out of the clouds and the spout of the funnel moved back and forth several times before the funnel moved back into the cloud.

It is not believed that the funnel touched the ground in the rough range land.

The clouds moving over the area left a total of 18 of an inch of rain in Pampa. This brings the total amount of moisture recorded by The News rain gauge since the first of the year to 16.34 inches.

Stassen Back In London With Orders

By DONALD J. GONZALES
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—Disarmament Adviser Harold E. Stassen leaves for London today with instructions to avoid upsetting America's allies and take it easy on private disarmament talks with the Russians.

Because of Allied displeasure over some of Stassen's behind-the-scenes talks with the Russians, diplomats said the new American disarmament plan will not be presented at the London disarmament conference for many days.

On his latest visit here, Stassen has held a series of talks with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. He planned to leave Washington this afternoon and New York later in the day.

There was evidence the administration summoned Stassen home from London last week end to smooth out ruffled Allied feelings over his disarmament strategy.

France and some other allies were reported upset when they heard Stassen had given a more elaborate outline of the U.S. disarmament plan to the Russians than he gave this country's European allies.

Some officials explained Stassen talked at length with Soviet disarmament delegate Valerian Zorin to allay any Soviet idea that delays in the negotiations meant the United States was losing interest.

Dulles, during several conferences with Stassen this week, advised him to deal more closely with the Allies in the future and engage only in "informal" talks with the Russians without referring to possible inclusion of a European area in any air-ground inspection zone. Dulles has said publicly it is up to the Europeans to decide whether their territory should be included in a "first-step" disarmament plan.

In any informal talks with the Russians in London Stassen presumably would talk about problems involved in cutting American-Soviet armed strength as part of a first-step agreement. Officials said there is much work to be done in the "conventional arms" field that would not involve any European air-ground inspection zone.

Pampans Hurt In Accident Are 'Improving'

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Waters, prominent Pampa residents, who were in a car collision Sunday night near Nashville, Tenn., were reported improved today.

Waters suffered face and head injuries, broken ribs and a badly bruised hip. Plastic surgery is being performed.

Mrs. Waters suffered face abrasions, broken nose and broken ribs.

Mrs. Waters, driving in a rain Sunday night, ran into two parked cars. The Waters automobile was totally demolished.

They are in the Mid-State Baptist Hospital at Nashville.

SAINT TO SINNER

NEW YORK (UP)—Opera basso Jerome Hines, who sang hymns in Madison Square Garden Tuesday night prior to Billy Graham's sermon, asked the audience to forgive him for the role he will sing in Cuba next week. Hines will play Mephistopheles in "Faust."

Governor Daniel Signs Bill On Traffic Safety Into Law

AUSTIN (UP)—Gov. Price Daniel Wednesday signed into law a traffic safety bill that authorizes the establishment of a Texas traffic safety council.

The law became effective immediately and Daniel called the first meeting of the council's executive committee on Friday.

"This bill establishes the framework for a state-wide drive to reduce the human slaughter on our highways," Daniel said. "In my opinion, it is one of the most important measures passed by the Legislature."

The council is to be comprised of representatives of state and local traffic agencies and representatives of public and private traffic safety organizations. It is authorized to accept private contributions to supplement state funds to be available Sept. 1.

Daniel said the Friday meeting for the immediate program of the council and particularly to launch a drive to reduce traffic deaths during the approaching Fourth of July holidays.

The council's executive committee is composed of Daniel as chairman; Col. Homer Garrison Jr., director of the Department of Public Safety, vice chairman; State Highway Engineer DeWitt C. Greer; Attorney General Will Wilson; Dr. J. W. Edgar, commissioner of education; and John Winters, director of the Department of Public Welfare. (Adv.)

Red China Warns About Aggression

By WILLIAM GALBRAITH
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—Communist China today followed up its charges that U. S. planes "invaded" China with a warning that "further aggression" will be met with the full might of the Chinese armed forces.

The U. S. Navy said Red Chinese coastal batteries opened up Wednesday on an American carrier plane flying eight miles outside the Chinese mainland. Peiping called the incident a planned attack aimed at preventing the "peaceful liberation" of Formosa.

The State Department declined any comment pending outcome of a Navy investigation into the incident, but it was believed the investigation would lead to a protest to the Peiping government.

Promises Retaliation

The Peiping Peoples Daily, official organ of the Chinese Communist government, renewed and amplified its angry charges today.

The editorial was broadcast by Peiping Radio, chief propaganda outlet for Red China.

"The Chinese people do not threaten nor do they invade other countries nor will they allow their country to be threatened or invaded," it said. "If the American aggressors dare to invade China our armed forces will deal them smashing blows."

"Yesterday's incident was aimed at creating tension in the Far East and preventing the peaceful liberation of Taiwan, Formosa, China, territorial land, sea and air are inviolable. The American aggressors will have to face all the consequences of their provocative acts."

Claims Two Planes

In Taipei, Rear Adm. Lu Hsiu-tai, a Nationalist military spokesman, said the Communists opened fire on Chinese planes an hour and a half before the shot at the American plane, but that the Nationalist aircraft escaped damage. Peiping claimed two Nationalist planes shot down and one U.S. plane damaged.

"All our planes returned undamaged," Lu said.

The incident, latest in a series of U.S.-Communist Chinese skirmishes in the Formosa Straits area, occurred early Wednesday morning. The Navy said Communist anti-aircraft batteries hit and slightly damaged the plane, but no crew members were injured.

The plane was on a routine training flight. It apparently wandered off course in hazy weather. But the Navy insisted it was no closer than eight miles to the Red Chinese shore.

The Navy did not identify either the type of plane or its crew members. It said only that the plane was based aboard the 35-100-ton aircraft carrier Hornet patrolling the Formosa Straits.

Grand Jury List Chosen

The list of persons selected for Grand Jurors for the June term of the 31st District Court of Gray County was announced today.

A total of 16 residents of Gray County were chosen and of these 12 will be chosen to serve on the new Grand Jury.

Bill Waters, district attorney, reported this morning that it is not known whether the Grand Jury will be impaneled Monday or Tuesday and that it would be determined tomorrow when he can contact Judge Lewis M. Goodrich.

Those selected for the Grand Jury are: Claude O. Nichols, LeFors; Clyde J. Magee and Leo Gibson, both of McLean; R. J. Bruce of Alamo; Paul M. Brown, Henry Maple, Ed Anderson, Roy S. Bourland, V. S. Hobbs, Ewert R. Duncan, Bob Andis, R. F. Kuhn, Bill Clements, J. Wade Duncan, A. J. Beagle and Clinton Evans, all of Pampa.

Man Fined On Check Charge

A Pampa man, Don Holton, pleaded guilty in county court yesterday afternoon to a charge of swindling with worthless check.

He was fined $1 and court costs and made restitution of the check. Holton gave a $2 check to Bill's Service Station, 1045 W. Brown, Aug. 26, 1956.

Scouts Will Attend Big Jamboree

About 120 boys from 14 scout troops in the Adobe Walls Council will soon attend the national Boy Scout Jamboree held each year at Valley Forge, Pa., Executive Scout Director Yorris Harris predicted.

The Jamboree, held each year at Valley Forge, will begin July 11.

Harris said that about 105 scouts had already put in for reservations and that they had a place for 14 more. These applications must be in by June 15.

Six of those attending the Jamboree will leave immediately afterward to go to England for the International Scout Jubilee.

These six will tour Europe before returning to Texas: W. O. Kindy, scout leader of Guymon, Okla.; Bill and Fred Neslage, explorer scouts of Pampa; Don Curry, Pampa; Harold Smith, Panhandle; and Paul Clark Beisenherz, also of Pampa, are slated for the trip.

Accompanying the boys to the Valley Forge camp will be Harris, the District Scout Executive Dale Stone, and Walter Elliott, a volunteer from LeFors who will serve on the regional staff.

The scouts will entrain July 6 and plan to arrive July 9.

Harris' district, the Adobe Walls Council, includes 15 Panhandle and South Plains counties.

Recently 30 new scout units have been formed in Pampa bringing Boy Scout and Cub Scout troops to a total of 42 here.

At the present several Pampa scouts are attending the scout camp at Lake Marvin near Canadian.

Decision On Lake Delayed

In a joint meeting yesterday, the city commissioners and county commissioners decided to delay a decision on the acquiring of Lake McClellan pending a report from Tillman Witt, civil defense administrator.

According to Gray County Judge Bruce Parker, Witt was in this area yesterday and surveyed the damage to the spillway at the lake. He said there was a possibility of getting some federal aid for repair to the damages on the grounds that the spillway, in its present condition, might endanger health and lives.

Therefore, the commissioners decided not to take further action until Witt's report was complete.

The United States Government has offered to give Lake McClellan to Pampa if the city will repair the damage to the spillway. And recently, the city has been weighing the repair cost against the lake's ultimate value.

Witt's report is expected to be completed within two or three weeks.

Nothing else except routine business was transacted in the regular county commissioners meeting, according to Judge Parker.

The county commissioners accompanied a Bureau of Public Roads representative on an inspection tour of bridge damages in the county following the meeting.

Man Dies After Fall

SHAMROCK—Clyde Newsome, 68-year-old Shamrock man, died of broken neck and fractured skull at 10:15 last night as a result of a fall from a pole in front of his store.

Mr. Newsome had climbed a pole by Gordon's Old-Fashioned Freeze for repair work when the accident occurred. He died in the North Texas Hospital in Amarillo. Funeral services are pending.

Mr. Newsome came to Shamrock in 1957 from Hereford. He is a former resident of Wellington and Wheeler.

Survivors include his wife, the former Alice May of Wheeler; three daughters, Mrs. Laveta Love and Mrs. Mary Watson of Tulsa; and Mildred Newsome of Stillwater, Okla.; five brothers, and two sisters.

Mr. Newsome was a member of the Baptist Church in Shamrock.

Two Injured In Collision Last Night

Two persons were injured when a '56 Cadillac and a '54 DeSoto collided at the intersection of Duncan and 18th at 8:32 last night.

Ruth Gilliland, a passenger in the Cadillac, and Sherry Hood, a passenger in the DeSoto, were taken to Highland General Hospital following the collision and overnight stay in the hospital this morning. Hospital attendants reported that the condition of both was satisfactory but the extent of their injuries was not disclosed.

The '56 Cadillac, driven by Howard A. Gilliland, 215 N. Somerville, encountered damages estimated at $800 and the DeSoto, driven by Jackie Fern Yates, 430 N. Davis, met with damages estimated at $900.

The only other collision reported to the police department yesterday occurred at 3:05 p.m. at the intersection of Browning and Yeager. A '55 Ford, driven by A. A. Reger Ray, 128 S. Wells, and a '50 Ford, driven by Raymond R. Hawkins, 425 Hughes, were in collision. Damages to the '55 Ford were estimated at $100 and the '50 Ford encountered damages estimated at $200.

Swimming Pool Work Underway

Work on the new swimming pool to be constructed south of Carver School on S. Gray began this morning.

The pool is being constructed by J. W. Marsh of Amarillo after being awarded the contract by the City Commission after submitting the low bid on June 4.

The pool will cost the city $26,907, the bid price, and will be paid for from funds obtained from bonds voted for the purpose in last year's bond election.

Board Finds Airman Died Of 'Drowning'

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (UP)—A medical investigating board has ruled that a young paratrooper who dangled helplessly for three hours outside a flying troop carrier plane was "drowned" in the plane's prop wash.

The board of Army and Air Force doctors said Pfc. Wayne H. Flugum, 23, of Leland, Iowa, was unable to breathe because of the motion of the flowing air.

Flugum remained conscious for more than an hour and a half but died when crewmen of the C123 troop carrier were unable to pull him back into the plane.

Another board of investigation is seeking to determine how Flugum became tangled in dangling static lines as he and 35 other paratroopers leaped from the plane Tuesday over Ft. Bragg's Salerno drop zone.

The nylon static line which automatically opens a paratrooper's parachute became tangled with others. The plane's crew and apparently Flugum's fellow jumpers were unaware of the accident until all the jumpers were clear.

The pilot slowed the plane, feathered the propeller on one engine and maneuvered in an attempt to get the suspended paratrooper in a position to be pulled to safety. Three other crewmen threw him a rope and then pulled him as high as they could.

At one time, Flugum was almost within three feet of safety but the would-be rescuers were unable to hold on against the tug of the winds which eventually claimed his life.

Girard Blames Pressure Says US Military Authorities Want Japanese Trial

By LEE NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—American soldier William S. Girard said in an interview in Japan today U.S. military authorities have put pressure on him to stand trial in a Japanese court for trying a Japanese woman on an Army firing range.

But Girard flatly denied reports from Washington and his home town of Ottawa, Ill., that he said his personal attorney counsel in Japan also had argued that trial in a Japanese court would be an easy way out.

Girard, 21, a specialist 3-c, is accused of killing Mrs. Naka Sakai while guarding a military firing range near Tokyo. She was struck in the back by an empty cartridge fired from a grenade launcher on Girard's rifle.

The Japanese have charged that Girard enticed Mrs. Sakai, who was trying to pick up empty shells to sell for scrap, to within firing distance and then fired the fatal shot. Girard claimed he died was accidental.

An agreement to turn Girard over to a Japanese court for trial on manslaughter charges touched off an international controversy and his lawyers worked long past midnight in Washington today in an attempt to bring him back to the United States for a review of his case.

Reports that Girard claimed the Army and Maj. Stanley F. Levin, his Army adviser, were putting pressure on him were made in Washington by a spokesman for his attorney, Earl Carroll, and in Ottawa by the soldier's brother, Louis.

"Bill Girard told his brother he had been advised by his Army-appointed adviser, Major Levin that he should go before a Japanese court because if he didn't he would get a very stiff sentence from the United States under an Army court-martial," John Griffin, Carroll's spokesman, said in Washington.

Makes Tape Recording
Louis Girard said he talked to his brother by telephone Wednesday and that the soldier distinctly answered "yes" to a question about whether Levin was attempting to persuade him to face a Japanese court.

Furthermore, Louis Girard said, he made a tape recording of the transatlantic telephone conversation to prove the statements.

But Girard later told the United Press in Japan that Levin had not tried to lure him into a Japanese court.

"Major Levin has been a good friend to me and I can't think of anyone else who could do a better job or take his place," Girard told a U.P. reporter.

Levin also denied he tried to put pressure on Girard.

Investigation Pushed
Confusion over what Girard had said arose amid these developments:

—Rep. Omar Burleson (D-Tex.), chairman of a House Foreign Affairs Committee, said he would call in Defense Department counsel Robert Dechert and officials of the State Department in an investigation of the Girard case. Burleson said he would question Dechert as soon as possible about his reported statements that evidence gathered by the U.S. government made it "appear" Girard enticed Mrs. Sakai.

Eye-Witness Account Of Shooting Involving Soldier

Editor's Note: Only two persons witnessed the fatal shooting of Mrs. Naka Sakai on a U.S. firing range at Somagahara, Japan, last Jan. 30. A key issue in the case has been whether William Girard scattered empty cartridge shells to entice the woman scrap metal scavenger before shooting her. Soldier Victor Nickel, of Inster, Mich., has refused public comment on the charge. Hidetsugu Onozeki, Mrs. Sakai's companion, has given the United Press his version of the incident.

By HIDEZUGU ONOZEKI
As Told to United Press
SOMAGAHARA, Japan (UPI)—There were about 70 or 80 villagers at the firing range that day, watching the American soldiers conduct an exercise. Mrs. Sakai and I were among them.

"First the soldiers fired live ammunition. Then they divided into two groups—one group went up the hill and the other stayed below and loaded their guns with blank ammunition for an attack on the group on the hill.

When the exercise was over, the soldiers lay down to rest and (the villagers) moved toward them to see if they would give us some empty shells to sell for scrap.

"Some of the soldiers got up and shouted at us. 'Get out of here.' Spoke to Woman

All the villagers started to run away. But Mrs. Sakai and I were a little way apart from the group, so we were behind the others.

Mrs. Sakai and I were about 10 yards from two soldiers by a machine gun. One of them (the man I later identified as Girard when Army officers took me to Camp Whittington) held up about 10 small cartridges.

He said to Mrs. Sakai, 'Mamasan koko takusan brass' (woman, here is much brass), and threw the shell casings on the other side of a shallow trench. Mrs. Sakai and I ran to pick them up.

Then Girard threw some more shells but these went into the trench and Mrs. Sakai went in to get them.

I was about to run over to the trench to help Mrs. Sakai when I saw Girard pointing his rifle at me. It looked very dangerous but I thought he was joking.

Two Shots Fired
Anyway, I started to run away down the hill when I heard a shot and something went by my left foot. My back was to Girard.

When I turned around I saw him crouched down and putting another empty cartridge into his gun (Girard's gun was equipped with a grenade launcher.)

Girard stood up and came closer to the trench where Mrs. Sakai was. He shouted, 'Get out of here, get out of here.'

Just then Mrs. Sakai started to climb out of the trench. There was another shot and I saw Mrs. Sakai fall forward on her face with her arms spread out. She moaned but didn't say anything. I was standing about eight yards from where she fell.

Girard ran up to her. He looked frightened. He leaned over and put his hand on Mrs. Sakai's back and shook her, but she didn't move.

Girard turned to me and called out, 'Papasan,' motioning me to come.

I talked to Mrs. Sakai and touched her back. 'Obasan, obasan,' I said, but she didn't answer and I knew she was dead.

Girard made gestures for me to put Mrs. Sakai on my back and carry her away. Mrs. Sakai was 'daijobu' (O.K.), Girard told me.

Then he looked again at Mrs. Sakai's face and touched her. His face looked scared. 'Obasan is dead,' I told him in Japanese.

First Aid Too Late
Some of the villagers came back and we moved Mrs. Sakai to some flat ground and laid her on the ground face up.

Girard had gone away but he returned soon with another soldier who had a first aid kit.

The other soldier opened Mrs. Sakai's clothing and touched her over the heart. Then he cleaned the dirt from her mouth and tied her mouth shut with a bandage.

Japanese police and some other soldiers, including officers, arrived then. Girard was driven away in a jeep.

I knew Mrs. Sakai only as a neighbor and to say hello to. There was no particular reason for my being with her on that day.

Since she was killed, I have been back to the firing range twice. About 300 villagers go every day. But I don't want to go back again.

UP TO SNUFF
MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—The rising cost of living is going to force the public to pay more to sneeze. The U.S. Tobacco Co. and George W. Helme Co. announced today they are raising their wholesale prices on snuff.

"I've just had a record dedicated to me on the radio—it's from Ralphie and Sam to the girls at Central High!"

Mayflower Arrives In The New World

By JAMES WHELAN
PROVINCETOWN, Mass., June 13 (UP)—The Mayflower II, with the aid of the Coast Guard, arrived in new world Wednesday to win a ghostly trans-Atlantic race with her predecessor.

"We thank God for no accidents, good weather and a good crew," said the Mayflower's skipper, Capt. Alan Villiers, after the 92-foot replica pilgrim ship tied up at a buoy in Provincetown harbor. Customs and health officials promptly boarded the vessel prior to re-enactment of the signing of the Mayflower compact later today.

Newsmen were not allowed aboard but Villiers told United Press via ship-to-shore telephone the Mayflower was "lucky" to complete the 5,400-mile voyage.

Glad Trip's Over
Asked if he was happy to reach American shores, he replied, "you're darned right I am."

Villiers said the Mayflower would sail at 2 a.m. (est) Thursday for Plymouth for a recreation of the original landing of the pilgrims 336 years ago at Plymouth Rock. It is about 25 miles across Massachusetts Bay to Plymouth where Villier hopes to take advantage of the midday tide.

The tiny bark was towed by the Coast Guard tug Yankton as it entered the harbor after a 53-day voyage across the Atlantic from England.

Requests Tow
Villiers "reluctantly" requested tow as the vessel rounded the tip of Cape Cod in squally seas and a strong head wind.

"It (the tow) was the only thing I could do," he said. "There was no future trying to sail into dead head winds."

Godfrey's Beach Yields Treasure

MIAMI BEACH UP—Arthur Godfrey's oceanfront property has yielded a $100,000 "hidden treasure" of stolen bonds and jewelry which police said two convicts had buried in the sand.

Detectives using a rough map drawn by the convicts now confined in Mobile, Ala., on robbery convictions led detectives Wednesday to three strong boxes buried together in a shallow hole covered with sand.

Officers said Godfrey knew nothing about the cache on his property.

Former Ziegfeld Star, Peggy Joyce, Dies of Throat Cancer

NEW YORK UP—Peggy Hopkins Joyce, former Broadway showgirl whose six marriages made her an international celebrity, died Wednesday night of throat cancer.

Andrew C. Meyer, her sixth husband, was at her bedside in the Memorial Center for cancer and allied diseases.

The blonde, blue-eyed beauty was born Marguerite Upton, 64 years ago in Farmville, Va. Her father was a barber.

Although she was one of Florenz Ziegfeld's "Glorified American Girls" and also appeared in Earl Carroll's "Vanities," it was her matrimonial ventures during the 1920s and 1930s that brought her international publicity.

Miss Joyce ran away from school at the age of 16 to marry Everett Archer of Denver in 1910. Her first marriage was annulled six months later.

Her next matrimonial venture was with Washington attorney Sherburne Hopkins, from whom she later was divorced.

During a stage appearance in Chicago she met James Stanley Joyce, a wealthy lumberman.

They were married in 1920 and divorced a year later. Joyce gave his wife her financial start with a reported $600,000 divorce settlement, jewelry and stock in his lumber company that assured her a $1,500-a-month income for life.

In 1924, she married her fourth husband, Count Gusta Morner, of Sweden. They divorced in 1928, after which she wrote:

"All men are failures. You can't live with 'em and you can't live without 'em...you never know a man until you marry him, and then you wish you didn't."

She did not marry again for 17 years. Miss Joyce's fifth marriage was to Anthony Easton, a British-born engineer, in 1945.

"You can say this is the last marriage," she said at the time. It too ended in divorce.

Senators Predict Victory For $3.6 Million Aid Bill

WASHINGTON UP—Opponents whetted their economy axes today, but Senate leaders predicted the $3,600,000 foreign aid bill will win Senate approval.

Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif.), the GOP leader, predicted the measure would be sent to the House about as it was drafted by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Debate was to be resumed this morning.

Senate Democratic Leader (Lyn)ndon B. Johnson (Tex.) said it would be "dangerous" to make "meat-axe" cuts in the foreign aid program before the House studied it and before Senate and House appropriation committees have heard the case.

The leadership statements hinted at real efforts to trim the program will come when Congress is asked to supply money for it. The present bill merely authorizes a program of a certain size. The cash must be provided later, and reductions are possible.

Knowland has consistently favored a somewhat smaller aid program. Johnson said today he expects the authorization bill will be cut somewhat by appropriations committees.

Nevertheless, Sen. Russell B. Long (D-La.) announced he will propose four amendments to the authorization bill. They would cut the aid program for the coming year to the size proposed by the Foreign Relations Committee for the following year.

S. P. Britt Rites Set For Friday

WHEELER — S. P. Britt, prominent rancher, died at his home near Wheeler at 10:55 p.m. yesterday at the age of 89.

Mr. Britt, born Dec. 12, 1867 in Norcross, Ga., came to Texas when he was 15.

Funeral services are scheduled for 3 p.m. Friday in the Wheeler First Methodist Church with the Rev. Carlton Thomason officiating. Interment will be immediately afterwards in the Shamrock cemetery. Clay Funeral Home of Shamrock is in charge.

He graduated from Huntsville Normal Teachers College in 1885 and by studying at home he managed to pass the Texas bar exam shortly thereafter.

Later, Mr. Britt opened up a law office in Vernon, and then bought a ranch between Childress and Paducah. He was instrumental in establishing the City National Bank in Childress.

In 1894 he married Janet Edgerly. Mrs. Britt preceded him in death in 1948.

Mr. Britt came to Wheeler County in 1913 and purchased the Meadow Ranch where he has lived since.

Survivors include two sons, Tom of Wheeler and Buck of Clayton, N.M.; one daughter, Mrs. E. K. Caperton of Shamrock; 6 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

CoC Committee Polling Members

Members of the Merchants Activities Committee of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce decided in a meeting yesterday to send a questionnaire to local businessmen in order to select summer store hours.

The meeting was held in the Chamber of Commerce office.

The committee decided to hold up a decision pending results of the poll.

The two times under consideration are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. or from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Charles Cook heads the committee.

Mrs. Carter Rites Set

Funeral services for Mrs. Odesa Carter, 48, 547 Oklahoma, who died at 11:30 yesterday morning in Highland General Hospital, will be held at 3:30 p.m. Monday in the Church of God in Christ, 402 Oklahoma.

Mrs. Carter had lived in Pampa for the past 16 years, moving here from Paducah, and was a member of the Church of God in Christ.

She is survived by her husband, Lovie of Pampa; two daughters, Sarah Carter and Julian Conley, both of Pampa; one son, Edward Butler of Kansas City, Mo.; two step-daughters, Mary Davis and Marie Daughton, both of California; and two step-sons, Robert Lee Carter and Lovie Carter Jr., both of Pampa.

Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery under the direction of Duengel-Carmichael Funeral Home.

British Newsmen Urges Queen To Relax On Trip

LONDON UP—A British newsmen advised Queen Elizabeth to relax royal protocol and really get to know "those friendly Americans" on her visit to the United States next fall.

The advice came from the London Daily Mail's New York correspondent Don Iddon, now home on vacation. His first dispatch after arriving from New York several days ago told his readers what a horrible place the United States is for a Briton to live in.

His story today was headlined: "U. S. Tour Must Not Be Muddled: The Barriers Should Be Let Down A Little."

He said the Queen and Prince Philip are going to have to learn how casually friendly Americans are. They'll love it if their royal advisers will only relax the barriers and let them mix with the people, he said.

Steelworkers Plan Wage Increase

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United Steelworkers Union says it plans to increase wage and fringe benefits for 200,000 workers in steel fabricating plants to at least the level of those for basic steel workers.

It also said only a two-year contract would be agreed to in this year's negotiations covering workers in 1,200 steel fabricating plants. The purpose, it said, is to have all the union's wage contracts expire in 1959 when the three-year contracts covering basic steel workers expire.

The declaration was made Wednesday by the union's 170-man Wage Policy Committee.

Basic steel wage contracts provided a 20-cent hourly increase in wages and other benefits last year, followed by 12.5 cent raise this year and 13.1 cent next year.

Basic steel workers also received a three-cent hourly cost of living pay increase in January and are scheduled to get at least another four cents an hour July 1.

The steelworkers' average hourly pay now is $2.57, exclusive of the recent cost of living hike.

Lemming Migrations

Scientists cannot fully explain the periodic suicide migrations of the lemmings in the Arctic, but they generally agree that when lemmings exhaust their food, they either starve on land or go out to sea to drown. A popular theory is that they are driven by some ancient instinct toward some mysterious land they once inhabited.

2 Fire Alarms Reported Here

Two alarms were received by the local fire department yesterday.

The first of the alarms resulted when a car caught fire in the 1100 block of Alcock at 5:50 p.m. Firemen answering the alarm reported that the fire was limited to electrical wiring and that only light damage resulted. The owner of the car or the type of car was not reported.

A hot-box on a freight car of the Santa Fe Railroad resulted in the other alarm which was received at 11:05 p.m. No damage resulted from the hot-box, which was discovered near the 900 block of Ripley.

Suit Filed In District Court

A compensation suit, filed in district court this morning, asked for $25 per week for 401 consecutive weeks.

The case, N. R. Peoples vs. Fidelity and Casualty Insurance Co., was the result of an accident allegedly sustained by Peoples while working for the Producers Grain Corp.

The accident occurred Feb. 23, 1957.

Mufflers Installed On Fire Trucks

Mufflers were installed this morning on the two Boardman pumps at Central Fire Station.

Previously the pumps have not been equipped with mufflers and Fire Chief Ernest Winborne reported that attempts have been in progress for some time to obtain the mufflers.

With the new mufflers, the two pumps will not make as much noise, Winborne stated.

Pampa Youth In Warm Springs Foundation

GONZALES — Eighteen-year-old Clarence Townsend of Pampa is one of the many accident victims now undergoing rehabilitation treatment at Gonzales Warm Springs Rehabilitation Foundation.

"A truck hit the rear of the car I was in and as a result of the accident, I'm paralyzed from the waist down," said young Townsend. The youth said the accident occurred last September. He came to Warm Springs on April 1.

"I've learned how to get in and out of a car, and I can do a swing through walk with the aid of crutches and long leg braces," explained Clarence.

He is also attending the Foundation school to catch up on his studies.

"Dr. Bert Levine, clinical psychologist, is giving me a battery of tests to determine what field of occupation I should enter," said Townsend. "I think I'd like to be a draftsman."

Police Elect State Prexy

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (UP) — Pasadena, Tex., Police Chief A.J. Shamerhorn was elected president of the Texas Police Association at its convention here Wednesday.

The 300 delegates to the meeting which ended Wednesday chose Tyler for next year's convention.

Other officers elected included: First vice president, C. C. Daniel, Wichita Falls police chief; 2nd vice president, Hoyt Curry, Plainview director of public safety; 3rd vice president, R. T. Runyon, Corpus Christi police chief; 4th vice president, Jess Carrier, Odessa police chief; 5th vice president, Glenn McLaughlin, chief of the Bureau of Identification and Records of the Department of Public Safety at Austin.

Brownsville Police Chief Gus Krause was elected sergeant-at-arms and Paul Ashenhaus, Dallas police inspector, was elected secretary-treasurer.

McLean's Summer Sports Program To Begin June 17

(Special to The News) — The summer recreation program will begin here June 17 and is under the direction of Dale Parvin, grade school principal.

Each morning from 9 to 10 a.m. Monday through Friday there will be tumbling classes in the gym with different age groups for each day. The schedule is: Monday, boys 8-11; Tuesday, girls 8-11; Wednesday, boys 12-14; Thursday, girls 12-14 and Friday games for all school age children.

Monday through Friday mornings from 10 to 11 there will be games for all school age children in the gym or city park. Some games to be played are basketball, ping pong, volleyball, dodge ball, shuffleboard, etc.

Younger children are invited to meet in the park each morning Monday through Friday from 9 until 11 for a story hour and games under the direction of Miss Margie Watson.

Also from 3 until 5 p.m. each day there will be games for all school age children in the city park. Some games to be played are: tennis, softball, washers, horseshoes, kickball, etc.

Wednesday night from 5:30 to 7 is swim night at Windom's pool. There will be a life guard on duty, but a qualified instructor for non-swimmers has not been engaged.

Monday Tuesday, Thursday and Friday nights from 6 until 8 is softball time. Providing enough interest is shown, there will be a little league type of program. If not, unscheduled games will be played.

Probe Of Potter Tavern Operators Set

AMARILLO (UP) — The Potter County Grand Jury Wednesday called in operators of highway beer taverns and their attorney in an investigation of alleged threats to other tavern operators.

The grand jury began its investigation on the heels of a controversy arising from a Sunday beer law, planned for the county by the commissioners court.

Under a special law passed by the last Legislature, the Potter county commissioners were empowered to outlaw the sale of beer in the county on Sundays. A city ordinance prohibits Sunday sales within the city limits of Amarillo.

The law was passed as the result of an editorial campaign by the Amarillo Globe-Times and its editor, Tommy Thompson. It affects only Potter and two other counties.

Because of the city law, persons wanting to drink beer on Sunday must drive to taverns outside the city limits. Some 53 of these establishments thrive along the highways leading into the city.

Eighteen of the tavern owners banded together, chipped in $100 each and hired attorney Bryon Singleton to see if he could attack the law as illegal after the commissioners said all Sunday beer sales in the county would be stopped effective Sept. 15.

L. D. Hall, one of the tavern owners, said 43 of the 53 beer halls would be put out of business if the heavy Sunday traffic is stopped.

Thompson, in his editorial campaign, claimed the taverns created a drunk driving hazard.

Singleton was one of a number of persons called before the grand jury Wednesday. He declined comment after the closed-door conference.

Other sources said the investigation centered around alleged threats made to some of the tavern owners because they wouldn't put up any money in the Sunday beer sale fight.

British Queen Is Officially 31 Today

LONDON (UP) — Queen Elizabeth officially turned 31 years of age today with a brilliant state ceremony marking the end of her throne.

Wearing a colonel's army uniform and sitting erect on her horse, Elizabeth paraded before an estimated 250,000 persons in the glorious "trooping of the colors." It was her last full-dress function before her visit this fall to the United States and Canada.

Hours before the colorful ceremony, thousands of persons crowded the sidewalks outside of Buckingham Palace along the mall to the Admiralty Arch and the Horse Guards parade grounds.

The Queen actually turned 31 last April 21. But June is the month of good weather in London, so officially every ruler's birthday falls in June.

Britain and the commonwealth celebrated the Queen's birthday with a visible feeling of the "young queen" is now very growing up. To Britons who were thinking about her as "Lilibet," the Little Princess, six years ago, it seemed almost a shock to realize she now is 31, a tested, seasoned ruler and happy mother.

Soldier Is Sentenced

HONOLULU (UP) — Pvt. Ross T. Earlywine, 21, of Cleveland, Tex., was sentenced to 10 years at hard labor Monday after pleading guilty to a series of charges.

Honolulu police arrested him in April for passing $750 in bad checks while posing as a film producer and promising several young island women movie contracts.

Military authorities then learned he had been AWOL from Fort Carson, Colo., since shortly after he enlisted in December, 1956.

While awaiting court martial, Earlywine fled from Schofield barracks. He was recaptured several days later.

In addition to the prison term, Earlywine was given a dishonorable discharge and ordered to forfeit all pay and allowances.

His sentence is subject to review by the commander of the 25th Army division and Pentagon.

Air Mishaps Blamed On Procedures

WASHINGTON (UP) — An airline pilot complained today that over complicated emergency procedures may be causing crashes instead of preventing them.

Veteran United Airlines Capt. Warren Leroy said that when an airliner is in danger, its crew is required to follow confusing, long and sometimes contradictory rules laid down by the government and airlines.

Leroy tartly suggested that "we are letting the emergency procedures interfere with the emergencies," he added.

"There are 30 pages of emergency procedures in the DC-6 manual alone. There are 425 words for a cabin heater fire.

Youths Charged In Federal Court

EL PASO (UP) — Five youths, ranging in age from 15 to 20, were arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Henry Clifton Wednesday after several months of trouble between civilian boys and young Fort Bliss soldiers.

The five were arrested for allegedly attacking soldiers on the unfenced Fort Bliss military reservation.

Released on $25,000 bond each pending a preliminary hearing Friday on assault charges were Robert Jones, 19, Sam Guido III, 19, John T. Hanson, 20, and Larry Appleby, 19. The 15-year-old whose name was withheld by officials was released on his own recognizance.

White Student Enters An All-Negro College

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UP) — A young engineering student began classes today as the first white student to enter a state-supported Negro college in the South.

Rodney Jaye Miller, 23, enrolled at North Carolina Agricultural and Technical College as a special summer student. His enrollment ended several months of indecision after he first announced his intention of going to a Negro college.

"We're just waiting for the fireworks to start now," his wife told United Press. "We don't know what to expect but we are doing what we feel is right."

Miller hopes to make up credits to allow him to re-enter North Carolina State College at Raleigh in September.

College President Warmoth T. Gibbs said Miller would be "just another student."

Mrs. Miller said, "Everybody seems to think this is a move for integration. But it's not. We are just trying to do what's best for Rodney and going to A&T College appears to be what's best."

Two other applications from white students for admission to the school are still pending.

It is utterly impossible to make a better Bourbon whiskey than Old Charter...

Suppose we don't try to put in words what happens with your first taste of this great whiskey. Instead—imagine you have started with the finest Kentucky whiskey ever made. Then you have waited for 7 full years to ripen it slowly, perfectly—Then recall the finest-tasting whiskey you have ever known and imagine one silkier, mellow and smoother. Do these things—and then taste Old Charter.

Tick, tock... tick, tock... the whiskey that didn't watch the clock... seven long years!

Walter Rogers Says

The Incorrectly Named
'Civil Rights' Legislation

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE 18TH DISTRICT:

CIVIL RIGHTS
The Congress is now debating the commonly, but in my opinion, incorrectly named "Civil Rights" bill. It is a stark tragedy that every individual, who has the great privilege of being an American citizen, cannot enjoy the opportunity of hearing the full-dress debate on this subject. They would soon realize that the sinister purpose behind this bill is not to provide additional rights nor to guarantee any present rights against loss. On the contrary, the bill destroys rights now enjoyed by the individual under the Constitution.

In the first instance, it creates another commission or bureau, if you please, to further add to the confused bureaucratic maze of complexities in the Executive Branch of the government, with which the people are already sorely overburdened. It does not set up any qualifications whatever for the members, yet vests the Commission with wide quasi-judicial, if not full judicial powers.

It would also have the power to appoint all the personnel it could get appropriations to pay. It could use the services of voluntary and uncompensated personnel, but it would be authorized to pay traveling and subsistence expenses for these voluntary snappers. Subsidies alone could be claimed at $12 a day without any specific accounting. You can see the making of a virtual Gestapo in the United States of America by these provisions.

In the second place, the Act has been very cleverly worded so that the right of trial by jury in criminal contempt proceedings is destroyed, without letting the average reader of the Act realize what is being done.

In the third place, it denies the individual the right to say what proceeding he will follow in asserting his claimed rights, and leaves this decision, insofar as injunction proceedings are concerned, solely within the discretion of the Attorney General of the United States.

There is much that could be said about other rights which are damaged or lost under this Act, but time and space available here will not permit. I do say that this is a matter of the utmost importance to every citizen of the United States, and particularly in the South, because the adoption of this legislation could open the door for a return to the carpetbagger days immediately following the Civil War.

The Act itself is recognized by many of its supporters as being designed for the purpose of punishing the South. This was made most obvious in the testimony of the National Director of Americans for Democratic Action (ADA), Edward D. Hollander, when he appeared before the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce. I asked Hollander if it was not a fact that his organization supported centralized control in the federal government. He denied this, and I asked him how he explained the ADA's position on the so-called Civil Rights matter and other similar legislation. He did considerable talking about federal and local responsibility, but let the cat out of the bag when he said the following:

"And, if there were some way you knew whereby the Southern states could guarantee to all of the citizens the right to vote without discrimination, we would think that it would be wonderful — if the federal Civil Rights Law were unnecessary."

"Until the states of this country have demonstrated their ability to guarantee these constitutional rights to their citizens, then it seems to us the federal government, under the Constitution, must assume the obligation by default."

In other words, Hollander inadvertently admitted that the entire Civil Rights controversy grows out of a gross misunderstanding and violently false assumption on the part of a bunch of Northern "dogooders" who are bent on punishing the Southern states.

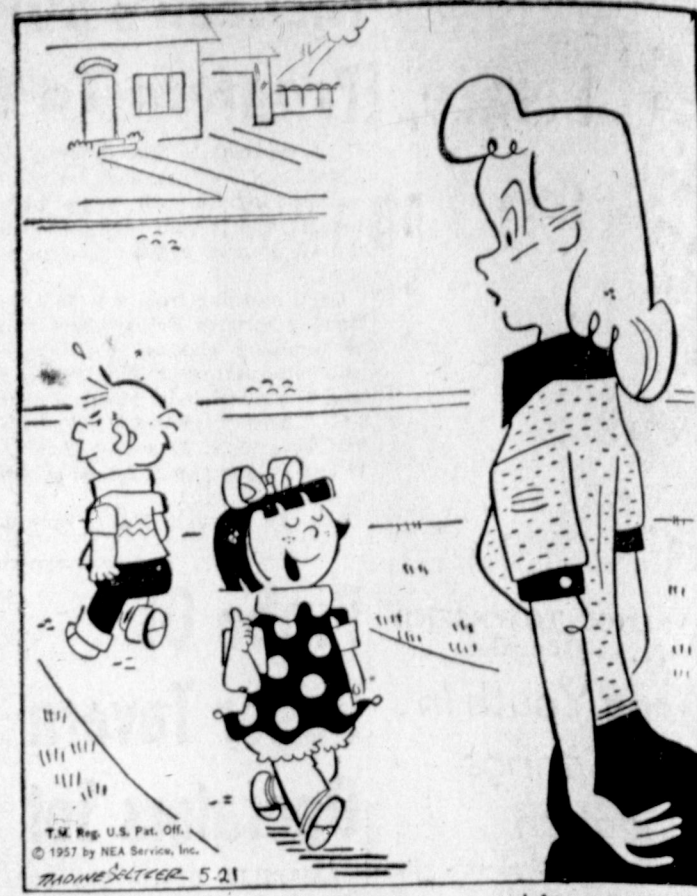

Hollander's testimony reflects that the philosophy of the ADA (a group composed of 40 thousand members) support the sovereign power of the states only so long as that power is exercised in complete conformity with the beliefs of the ADA. When any state transgresses the thoughts and beliefs of the ADA, the federal centralized control must come into play. Frankly, I can think of no sillier philosophy in the history of mankind.

Incidentally, Hollander admitted that he had never been in business for himself and knew nothing of the difficulties of meeting a payroll or the rent in such capacity. Substantially all of his working years have been in government employment.

GIRARD CASE
The decision of this government to turn an American soldier over to the Japanese for trial in a Japanese court has brought a deluge of protests to the National Capital. As the matter now stands, the people of this country have not received sufficient information through news sources to justify their minds the placing of this boy on the sacrificial altar of international appeasement.

It can be said that all the information made available to the press has been published. The question is whether or not the State Department is withholding information by which they would or could justify the delivery of this boy into the hands of the Japanese authorities. Unless there are ample and sufficient facts upon which to justify such action, the decision to turn the boy over to the Japanese should be immediately rescinded. As for me, I can think of no rea-

IT'S THE LAW
in Texas

Your Child and the Doctor
It's a good idea to give written consent for necessary medical care if your child leaves home for a visit or a camping trip, or if you plan to be away for any length of time.

For example, a summer camp nurse may bring a boy into a hospital with an acute case of appendicitis. But the doctor may well hesitate to go ahead and operate without the parents' consent.

Is the doctor arbitrary, and is such permission just a legal technicality? No, he is well within his rights, though he may give first aid—but only for emergency treatment where a child's health or life may be at stake. He is likely to put off follow-up care until he can reach the child's parents. A relative or baby sitter generally cannot grant consent for a child's treatment.

Even an adult must request treatment and grant consent to medical care on his own before a doctor can give it to him. Children cannot do this.

By going to your doctor you show your willingness and consent to accept his treatment. Your consent is assumed also when you ask for a house call by the doctor, or if as a result of an accident you come to a hospital for emergency treatment. If you are unconscious, the doctor may well give you emergency care, yet later he should get your consent to further treatment.

Minors cannot consent to medical treatment, and except in dire emergencies their parents or guardians must give it for them.

The consent should not be broadly or loosely phrased, but should be as specific as circumstances permit.

The principal reason for having the consent in writing is to avoid

Liberace, Elvis 'Fouled Up' Interesting Clothes For Men

By ALINE MOSBY
 United Press Staff Correspondent
 HOLLYWOOD (UP)—A young New York designer who made Jayne Mansfield's neckline famous accuses Liberace and Elvis Presley of fouling up his campaign to get men into more interesting clothes.

"Liberace and Elvis have set men's fashions back 20 years," fumed Elgee Bovee, at 22 one of the country's top designers.

"When you try to get men wear more interesting clothes they're afraid of appearing feminine. Liberace's frilly shirts with gobs of lace kill men's wear. He looks like a ruffled layer cake."

Bovee unveiled his first collection of clothes for men when he popped out here to arrange new wardrobes for Jayne. Her studio, he explained in an aside, told him he'd better raise her neckline.

"Jayne doesn't like this — she says what will all her nice newspaper photographer friends say? She doesn't want to let them down. But the studio says the neckline goes up," said the energetic Bovee.

"But, anyway, back to the men's clothes —

"I'd like to see some of those sloppy slobbs like Marlon Brando get into more attractive clothes. Most of these new clothes I designed for myself (he gets an award in Chicago June 20 as one of the country's best-dressed executives). I had so many requests for copies that I'm manufacturing my clothes for national distribution."

Bovee's ideas — revolutionary for men's wear — include evening shirts decorated with crocheted edges (but not frilly); and Sunday shirts of fancy white-on-white fabric. He also hopes men will buy his bright red velvet dinner jackets, wool jersey suits (lined to prevent itching), black satin tuxedos with matching shoes, broadcloth coats with fur collars, ties copied after a bullfighter's and even fur hats.

"Men wear fur hats in Europe — why not here?" demanded Bovee.

So far the designer has noted "some resistance" from stores that retail his creations. But he has a happy customer in Fernando Lamas. Even Jayne's boy friend, muscle king Mickey Hargitay, goes for Elgee's evening ties that consist of satin ribbon criss-crossed but not tied into a bow.

"I'm also starting coordinated wardrobes for men and women," the designer said. "When a woman goes to a party in a blue satin dress her escort should wear a blue satin tie. I'm creating a wardrobe like that for a Cary Grant movie."

Liquor Laws Still Loaded With Hangovers

By WARD CANNEL
NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (NEA) — The train from New York to Bloxi, 1800 miles, is comfortable, scenic and slow. So you settle into the club car and order a drink.
"I'm sorry," says the waiter. "No alcohol until New Jersey." And there begins an excursion into the wildly various, often confusing, costly and sometimes dangerous liquor laws of the United States.

The railroad beverage licenses must conform to state laws. And unless it is Sunday, you can have a drink in New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware. Unless it is a holiday, you can drink in Maryland.

About five hours out of New York you can order beer only because it is Virginia law. The same is true of North Carolina. But in South Carolina, you can drink whiskey. In Georgia, it's beer only. In Alabama, whiskey again.

And at the Mississippi border the waiter says:
"The bar is closing. This is a dry state."
Dry? And you're going to spend week here.
"Don't worry," the waiter says. "That's just the law. You'll be able to get plenty to drink here."

In the labyrinth of American liquor laws, Mississippi paints the picture of organized confusion better than almost any other area.

According to the Licensed Beverage Industries, Inc., the state is legally dry, but liquor is so plentiful that the state treasury annually reaps about one million dollars in black market taxes on the heavy bootlegged whiskey traffic from neighboring states.

But while most states are dry, some communities and counties have local option on how they will or will not drink. Today, more than 16 per cent of the nation lives in dry areas — where whiskey cannot be sold.

The result is a flourishing bootleg business or, if the area is large enough, a moonshine industry. In 1956, for example, police in a west Texas dry county discovered local drinkers getting sick on a beverage made of quinine, bay rum and tea leaves.

Somewhere between wet and dry laws stand the vagaries of local or state codes. Mostly, drinkers must be over 21. But in New York 18 separates the men from the boys. In North Carolina, it's 17, if he's married. Other areas measure drinking by sunrise, sunset, bottle size, availability of food and so on. It takes a thick book or a good memory to keep a drinking man within the law.

But drinking laws are only part of the picture. A costly consideration is the advertising specifications. Not only in newspaper advertising of spirits (with or without bottles, glasses, persons, etc.), but also magazine advertising which must meet the strictest legal requirements.

"In television," according to Robert F. Jamieson of CBS sales, "it's a real headache and a costly one. We don't take any whiskey advertising by tacit agreement. Not that it's illegal. But it could be costly to prove that in terms of viewers."

Jamieson said that there was considerable trouble with beer commercials. Some areas won't allow any athlete shown holding a bottle. Some areas won't even allow the bottle. This is costly. It means different visual sales as the program moves across the network.

Somewhere in this maze are the vintners, brewers and distillers themselves. According to LBI spokesmen, their members are in favor of uniform liquor laws. But active campaigning is another matter.

For the most part, the LBI said work is limited to the actual local option battles. In the agitation before a vote, distilled spirits agents are often sent to the locality to give professional aid and encouragement to the wets.

After 1,473 local contests last year, the wets had added 108,904 to their number.

Meanwhile, the LBI is also fighting a rising moonshine industry in the nation. Based on federal and local reports, the industry figures about 20,000 stills are seized each year, with the quality and number of machines growing.

"These raids," according to one expert, "are made in both wet and dry areas. There seems to be the fastest growth of moonshining in large cities."

The reason, according to the LBI, is not only dry legislation, but also "federal taxes that are too high."

Deputy Sheriff Walks Into Prop

NORTH FORT HOOD, Tex. (UP) — A 23-year-old Fannin county deputy sheriff, who was a pilot in the aviation section of the 49th Armored Division, was killed instantly yesterday when he walked into the propeller of an airplane.

The victim, 2nd Lt. Robert Samuel Gaudin of Honey Grove, Tex., had been flown from North Fort Hood to a bivouac area several miles away to fly out several light airplanes caught in a sudden rainstorm.

In his excitement and haste to get the airplanes out of the storm, Gaudin jumped out of the L-19 airplane and walked into the propeller. He was nearly decapitated. He is survived by his widow, Olivia Ann. The couple had no children.

Dad Definitely Deserves Dinner Designed To Delight On His Day

Mark a large red circle on the calendar around the date, Sunday, June 16, for on this day Dad reigns as King of Kings.

This is his day to spend as he chooses... to relax, take life easy, and above all to enjoy the honors showered upon him by the family. Make this Father's Day, a truly memorable one for Dad by preparing a special dinner that's designed to please him. Here's a menu that Dad is certain to enjoy and to cherish as a fond memory of Father's Day 1957: Baked boneless rolled ham, candied coconut yams, buttered green peas, a colorful crisp salad, coffee and fresh strawberries topped with sour cream and brown sugar.

Mom will find this menu suits her too. It's easy to prepare and to serve especially with a boneless ham that's packed in transparent cellulose casings. There's no bone or skin involved with this ham and its cooking time is short. In addition this boneless ham is easy to carve, as its slices are always uniform in size.

The hams are available both pre-cooked and uncooked, and weighing from 6 to 14 pounds. To bake the uncooked variety, place ham in a shallow baking pan in a pre-heated 325 degree F. oven. Do not add water and don't cover. Insert a roast meat thermometer through side into center of thickest part of ham, and roast approximately 22 to 25 minutes per pound, or until internal temperature on meat thermometer registers 150 degrees F.

Remove casing after cooking ham by slitting lengthwise with the tip of a knife and slipping off.

As an added treat for Dad, be certain to allow enough ham for his special late snack treat. A ham sandwich!

Entertaining For Brides-To-Be Can Be Elaborately Simple

Not only are blossoms busting out all over but everyone — but everyone — has decided on a June wedding! Entertaining for today's bride - elect is no simple matter. Her days are scheduled and programmed sometimes weeks in advance so impromptu parties by her nearest and dearest friends can not always be managed. But after a mutually agreeable date, time, place and type of party have been settled with the bride - elect and her mother the rest of the arrangements need not be complicated. Careful planning and advance preparation make it possible to serve fairly elaborate foods with ease and assurance. Such a menu is this one chosen for a bridal shower luncheon.

- Baked Avocados With Chicken Salad
- Ripe Olives Potato Chips
- Sweet Pickles Radish Roses
- Butterhorn Rolls
- Meringue Shells With Ice Cream and Fresh Fruit

As you can see, this menu is simple — and requires little cooking and last minute preparation. Truly, it's a pleasure to prepare and a joy to serve.

- BAKED AVOCADOS WITH CHICKEN SALAD
- 3 ripe avocados
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 2 cups diced cooked chicken
- 1 cup finely cut celery
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1/2 cup mayonnaise
- 1 1/2 cups corn flakes
- 1 tablespoon melted butter or margarine

Cut each avocado in half lengthwise, remove seed and pare. Brush with lemon juice. Combine chicken, celery, salt, pepper and mayonnaise; spoon lightly into avocado shells. Crush corn flakes slightly; mix with melted butter. Sprinkle over chicken. Place shells in greased shallow pan. Bake in slow oven (325 degrees F.) about 15 minutes, or until heated thoroughly. Serve at once. Yield, 6 servings.

Slimming Salads Low In Calories

For chubbies on slimming diets, salads sans dressing are the general rule. But if munching on plain carrot sticks and lettuce wedges begins to pall, some other way must be found to add palatability to these essential vitamin rich foods.

When that day arrives, here's a molded salad that answers the problem. Dressing actually is superfluous. The salad is a nicely seasoned blend of vegetables, much on the order of the old-time perfection salad, with the addition of filling cottage cheese. According to nutritionists at Meadow Gold Dairies, one serving contains no more than 85 calories.

- SLIM TRIM SALAD (Eight Servings)
- 1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin
- 1/4 cup cold water
- 1 cup hot water
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1/4 cup teaspoon salt
- 1/4 cup vinegar
- 1 cup diced celery
- 1/2 cup cooked green beans
- 1/2 cup grated raw carrots
- 1/4 cup chopped green pepper
- 1/4 cup sliced radishes
- 1/4 teaspoon grated onion
- 1 cup creamed cottage cheese

Soften gelatin in cold water; dissolve in hot water. Stir in sugar, salt and vinegar. Chill until partially thickened. Add rest of ingredients and mix lightly. Spoon gelatin into 8 oiled individual molds. Chill until firm. Unmold on crisp salad greens.

Fudge Mallow Is One-Dish Sundae

Fudgy - rich, marshmallow-smooth, luscious as a marshmallow - fudge sundae... what more could ice cream offer? Much, much more...

It's creamier - textured than most refrigerator ice creams... easier to make, too... thanks to whipped Pet Evaporated Milk. Homogenized, double - rich, whipped Pet Milk helps prevent the formation of large ice crystals, helps keep ice cream and frozen desserts super - smooth without stirring, whipping, or re - mixing as they freeze!

And more... whipped Pet Milk makes these desserts delicious. Try this recipe, and see!

- FUDGE MALLOW ICE CREAM
- 1/2 cup semi - sweet chocolate pieces
- 8 large marshmallows, cut up
- 1/2 cup Pet Evaporated Milk
- 1/4 cup water
- 2-3 cup Pet Evaporated Milk

Summer Time Is Bunburger Time

SMOKY BUNBURGERS (Makes 6 servings)

- 2-3 cup (small can) undiluted evaporated milk
- 1 egg
- 1 1/2 pounds ground beef
- 1/2 cup fine cracker crumbs
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- 1/4 cup finely chopped onion
- 1/2 cup finely chopped green pepper
- 6 hamburger buns, split in half
- 1 6-ounce package hickory-smoked cheese food, softened

Combine evaporated milk, egg, beef, cracker crumbs, salt, pepper, mustard, onion and green pepper. Blend together until well - mixed. Form meat mixture into 12 thin patties (about 1-3 cup each). Spread hamburger bun halves with and broil right on the bun.

Patio Tomatoes Can Be "Fixed Ahead" Avoiding Last - Minute Kitchen Fuss

Half the fun of patio parties or family grills is good food — with no last-minute kitchen fuss or clean-up. The chicken, burgers, or steaks can be readied early for putting on the grill when the coals are "just right," so why not use the same "fix-ahead" plan for the trimmings?

Rosy, in-season tomatoes — filled with a tasty "Converted" Rice stuffing and wrapped in foil for easy handling — are the perfect meat accompaniment. They're especially nutritious because the rice has most of the natural whole-grain vitamins sealed right into the grains. They can be prepared hours ahead of time and refrigerated until grilling.

To complete the meal, wrap a favorite bread in foil for a quick warm-up. Place colorful vegetable relishes to crisp — and check the supply of cool melon or fruit. Then, enjoy the pre-eating hour with friends and family!

PATIO TOMATOES

- 4 large tomatoes
- 1 cup uncooked rice
- 1 1/2 cups grated cheese
- 6 slices chopped crisp bacon
- 1/4 cup chopped onion
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- Dash pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon ground thyme, optional
- 2 tablespoons minced parsley or celery tops cheese. Place each patty on hamburger bun half covering completely. Place Bunburgers on broiler pan. Broil 5-7 inches from heat for 5 to 7 minutes (or to taste).

Summer's not here officially until June 21, but as far as most of us are concerned, unofficially, Summer's here! As the weather becomes warmer you and your family probably spend more and more time living and playing in the sun... this includes many a meal eaten in the out-of-doors. Here are some recipe suggestions from Carnation Company that are ideal for "dining out" on any occasion from backyard barbecues to patio parties. These Bunburgers combine interestingly seasoned ground beef with evaporated milk, to keep the meat moist and juicy.

Cut stem ends off tomatoes. Scoop out pulp and save for soup or sauce. Salt inside of tomatoes and invert to drain. Cook "Converted" Rice by directions on carton and cool. Sauté onion until tender in bacon drippings. Combine bacon, onion, cheese, and other seasonings with cooked rice. Pack mixture in tomatoes and place in centers of 12" foil squares (heavy duty or 2 thicknesses regular). (If tomatoes do not hold all of rice mixture, make a separate "foil packet" for the hungriest in the crowd). Gather foil ends and twist slightly. Place on hot grill, allowing about 25 minutes for tomatoes to soften and rice to heat thoroughly. To serve, roll foil ends back, forming "cups" for the tomatoes. Makes 6 servings.

Hamburgers Sport Fancy New Toppings

Every year, ground beef has a major role to play in the picnic months of June, July and August. Because of their ease to pack up and travel, hamburgers have become the piece de resistance of the American picnic table.

Except for possible variations in ingredients and toppings, from all outward appearances, hamburgers are just plain hamburgers. Yet they remain in the spotlight on the popularity poll of picnic entrees.

Reba Staggs, well known meat expert, mentions a perfect way to vary hamburgers... these hamburgers will be a special treat for a back porch eat-out.

The fancy addition is a broiled topping. You have your choice of two.

HAMBURGERS WITH BROILED TOPPING

- 1 1/2 pounds ground beef
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- Combine ground beef, salt and pepper and form 6 round patties. Place on broiler rack so that the patties are about 3 inches from the heat. Broil on one side until nicely browned, about 10 minutes. Turn, broil second side about 5 minutes. Spread patties with desired topping and broil about 2 more minutes. Yield: 6 patties.
- Roquefort Topping: Mix together 6 teaspoons Roquefort cheese and 6 teaspoons chopped onion and top each patty with mixture. Finish broiling.
- Spanish Topping: Spread about 2 teaspoons of chili sauce on each patty and top with sliced, stuffed olives. Finish broiling.

Folger's Has New Coffee On Market

A superior new Instant Coffee is now being introduced in Pampa by the Folger Coffee Company, one of the nation's leading coffee producers, well known for its "Mountain Grown" coffee. It was announced here today by R. E. Atha, President.

The new Instant represents an important technical advance, according to Atha. Theme of the advertising campaign announcing the new Instant is "The Instant Taste is Gone." The new Folger Instant — distinguishable on local retail shelves by its copper - foil label with a diamond design — has the rich full - bodied flavor of the finest coffee, he said.

"The new Folger Instant is an idea we have been striving to achieve for some time," Atha disclosed. "We believe it will enjoy an enthusiastic response here not only because of the fine flavor but also because of the great convenience of instant coffee."

Atha noted that coffee consumption in the United States reached a new all - time high last year and he predicted this total would go still higher in 1957, as the country's most popular beverage. Instant coffee now comprises 31 per cent of all coffee consumed in the home, reflecting a steady climb in popularity since its introduction during the past World War II years. By 1951, instant's percentage of coffee consumed in the home was 7 per cent. In 1953 the figure had risen to 13 per cent, rose to 17 per cent in 1954 and 24 per cent in 1955.

Atha estimated one - fifth of the total coffee sold in the Pampa area is instant, an increase of about 20 per cent in just the last year, and predicted a continuing growth of instant coffee usage.

Folger's new Instant is now readily obtainable in outlets throughout this area, he said.

By GAYNOR MADDOX

NEA Food and Markets Editor. A lovely wedding party on a limited budget — that's a problem for many parents of the bride. But it can be solved happily for both the excited bride and her well - wishing, if somewhat harassed, mother and father.

Here is one delicious and festive solution, a home wedding buffet menu for 25 guests that cost about $40.

- WEDDING BUFFET (25 Guests)
- Wedding fruit cup $ 2.97
- Chicken almondine in timbale cases 7.35
- Tossed avocado and fresh orange salad 2.55
- Buttered little hot rolls 1.80
- Coffee 1.12
- Cream and sugar .75
- Individual ice cream molds 12.50
- Bride's cake (homemade) 4.06
- Mints 1.20
- Fresh fruit reception punch 6.00

WEDDING FRUIT CUP (12 servings)

Arrange 2 cups fresh pineapple wedges, 2 cups sliced fresh strawberries and 2 cups fresh orange sections in layers in sherbet glass. Combine 1 cup fresh orange juice, 1/4 cup fresh strawberry puree, 1/4 cup Kirsch or fresh lemon juice and 1/2 cup sugar. Pour over fruit. Top each glass with a whole unpeppared strawberry and a sprig of fresh mint. (Double recipe for 25 guests.)

CREAM CHICKEN ALMONDINE IN TIMBALE CASES (6 servings)

Melt 1/4 cup butter or margarine in a saucepan. Add 1 teaspoon fresh lemon juice and 1 cup sliced mushrooms. Sauté until tender (3 to 4 minutes). Add another tablespoon butter or margarine and 1/4 cup flour and mix until well blended.

Stir in 1 cup each, milk and chicken stock. Cook until medium thickness. Add 1/2 cup cooked fresh peas and 1/4 cup slivered blanched almonds (toasted). 1/4 teaspoon salt and 1/4 teaspoon ground white pepper. (If desired, just before serving, stir in 1/4 cup sherry or 2 teaspoons sherry extract). Serve in

For Your Spring Sweet Tooth!

If you're searching for something sweet... something extra special... and something EASY to make, here's the recipe! A coconut versatile "no-cook" confection, with a "gourmet" touch — guaranteed to lure guests to the candy dish... to delight a convalescent friend... to serve admirably as a TV snack, or a bridge game refreshment. Call it a cookie! Call it a candy! Whatever the name, there's one thing that remains the same every time you make up a batch — and that's the unflinching fresh coconut flavor of this delicious confection.

- Coconut Chocolate Dreams
- 1-1/2 cups fine vanilla wafer crumbs
- 1 cup Angel Flake Coconut
- 2-1/2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
- 1 cup finely chopped nuts
- 1/2 cup instant cocoa mix
- 1/2 cup muscatel or sherry wine
- 2 tablespoons light corn syrup

Combine vanilla wafer crumbs, coconut, 3 cups of the sugar, the nuts, and instant cocoa mix in bowl. Mix well. Add wine and corn syrup and mix until all ingredients are moistened. Let stand about 10 minutes. Shape into balls and roll in remaining sugar. Or form into two 12-inch rolls, roll in remaining sugar, and cut in 1/2-inch slices. Serve as either candies or cookies. Makes about 50 balls or slices.

The young housewife has it one up on the career girl: she can take care of her good looks during the day. She can remove make-up and let cream soften her skin as she does household tasks. She can plait her hair for twenty minutes during the day and look radiant when her husband comes home at night. We show her here (left) applying a four-purpose cream that cleanses, softens, tones the skin and acts as a make-up base. Then (center), she uses that modern make-up aid, pressed powder in a compact. It's quick to put on and its velvety look is lasting. This particular pressed powder contains lanolin. The pretty girl (right) that her husband comes home to each night.

CAMP OPEN HOUSE

Brownie Scouts, who have been attending Day Camp at Camp Mel Davis this week, extend an invitation to their parents to attend Open House at the camp site on Friday evening at 7 p.m. The camp-fire ceremony will begin at seven with the entire camp taking part in the program. Sing-songs and skits about the things they have learned during the week will comprise the program. Brownies will remain for an overnight. Camp Mel Davis is located five miles east of Lefors. Parents and friends of scouting are cordially invited to attend the Open House.

Housewife Has Daytime For Beauty, So She Can Look Pretty At Nightfall

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor.
If you are a housewife and mother, you've probably felt an occasional tug of envy as you've watched your chic neighbor leave for the office, just minutes behind her husband. Just once in a while, you think it would be nice to be a working wife, able to get away from the monotony of household chores, to be closely aware of what's new in fashion and equipped with interesting anecdotes to exchange with your husband across the dinner table.

Well, you can be sure that your working neighbor would, on many a day, give her all to be in your shoes. Have you realized how much simpler it is for you to spare the necessary time for looking pretty? When your husband comes home from work, he can be greeted by a wife who has dressed unhurriedly and looks lovely just for him. How glamorous do you think a working girl feels after an eight-hour day, shopping for food on the way home and facing the task of cooking dinner? Chances are she's gotten into something comfortable after her day at the office, and her husband rarely gets to see the chic outfit you observed when she left for work in the morning.

When you've sent your man off after a good breakfast, you can set your hair, leaving it in pin-curls while you do your cleaning. Vaseline can be applied to your brows and lashes so that they will be luxuriant and well-groomed. Before you sit down for your second cup of coffee, give yourself a facial. There is one cream which is claimed by its makers to do the work of four creams in one. First, it cleanses, then it soft-

If you plan your household chores and your children's schedule carefully, you can be free early enough to bathe, slip into a pretty dress and carefully apply your make-up before the man in your life gets home. Avail yourself of one of the pretty mirrored compacts of pressed powder. Keep it on a handy shelf, so that when you hear the key in the front door, you can do a quick job of touching up. Don't envy the working wife. Count your blessings instead. You have the advantage. You can take care of your appearance throughout the day. You can bask in the smile of a man who comes home to a well-ordered house, an exquisitely set dinner table — and a wife who looks radiant and pretty.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Fred's parents had read that children need self-confidence. So they wanted to give it to him along with summer camps, vitamins and other advantages of modern childhood. They began to tell him that everything he did was "wonderful." If he failed in reading, his father rushed to his teacher to protest his unusual intelligence. If he brought home a fairly made wallet from craft class, it was remarkable, too. If he did a careless job of raking leaves, nobody dared to suggest it was less than wonderful. Unfortunately, this treatment didn't produce self-confidence in Fred. In fact, it turned out to be quite as destructive as though everything he did had been called "terrible." Trained to expect only wonders from himself, Fred grew up in terror of disappointing other people. In high school, a teacher's criticism could make him boil with rage. He had to avoid joining any athletic teams to avoid the awful possibility that he might let his teammates down. Unable to respect any small achievement he could make, he was at the same time suspicious of being able to produce the wonderful kind. Finally, he chose the only alternative his training had left to him — he just stopped trying to achieve anything. He is now undergoing psychoanalysis to try to discover the source of his failure. Contrary to widely held belief, we do not develop a child's self-confidence by telling him that everything he does is wonderful and perfect. Such praise is unrealistic. All it does is to infect the child with such grandiose ambition for more wonderful achievements that he cannot accept his un-wonderful ones as good. His self-confidence doesn't grow out of such cruel praise masquerading as "encouragement." It grows from our respect for what

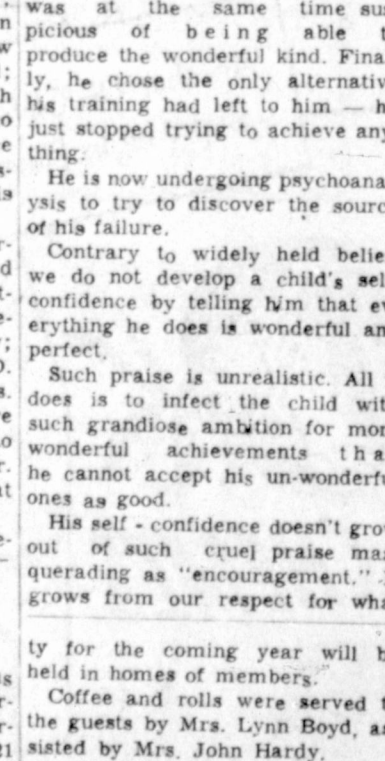

Mrs. Hummer Is Guest Of Honor

(Special to The News)
PERRYTON — Mrs. David Hummer was guest of honor at a bridal shower recently in the home of Mrs. Robert Lemon. Co-hostesses were Mmes. Bill Tregellas, Dean Slaughter, Arthur Morgan, and Ann Jennings. Mrs. Lemon received the guests. Mrs. Martin Duke, sister-in-law of the honoree, presided at the guest book. The honoree and her mother-in-law, Mrs. D. D. Hummer, were presented with corsages. The table was covered with a white linen cut - work cloth over arrangement of pink carnations with pink candles centered the table. Mrs. D. D. Hummer presided at the punch service. Approximately 75 guests called or sent gifts during the afternoon. He does as worthy, but still unwonderful, still capable of development.

Fashion Father A Fun Felt Gift

Father's Day should be a day of fun and relaxation and what better gift could be had than a fun day gift?
Sewing authorities at American Felt Company suggest that "golf club mitts," "tee bag," and "tee caddy" would make a perfect fun day gift for father and are simple to make in fact.
The "golf club mitts" are made with a cone shaped pattern, caught in the middle with elastic and numbered with contrasting felt.
The "tee caddy" is made by sewing contrasting colored felt in loops to a 7" base with slits for a belt. The "tee bag," also made of felt, with gaily colored appliques in a golf motif, needs only a shoe string to draw it closed.

Tevis-Goolsby Rites In Clayton

(Special to The News)
PERRYTON — Miss Angie Nell Tevis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Tevis, was married to Robert Edward Goolsby, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Goolsby of Winnsboro on May 27 at 12 o'clock in Clayton, N.M. Clara Harvey read the marriage ceremony.
The bride wore a blue linen sheath dress with white accessories. Her corsage was of roses.
Following the ceremony, the couple drove to Santa Fe, where they spent several days before returning to Perryton.
Mrs. Goolsby was graduated from Perryton High School. Mr. Goolsby graduated from Ft. Hancock High School and served with the armed forces in Korea. He is employed by Mid-Western Drilling Co.
Mr. and Mrs. Goolsby have established a home at 701 1/2 S. Harvard, Perryton.

Bridge Club Tells Weekly Winners

Pampa Duplicate Bridge Club met Monday evening in the Episcopal Parish House for its weekly meeting of play with Mmes. Earl O'Brient and Haskell Maguire taking first; Mmes. E. A. Herriman and Ivan Noblitt, second. Tying for third were Mrs. Dorothy Cruise, Mrs. L. P. Cruise, Mr. and Mrs. Quentin Williams.
Mrs. Cruise, sister of Mrs. Burns, was a visitor for the evening.
The club cordially invites players to attend their weekly meeting at any time.

RUTH MILLET The Franks Feted On Golden Date

(Special to The News)
SHAMROCK — Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Franks were honored on their golden wedding anniversary on June 2 by their children in the family home on North Main St.

Hosts were Rev. and Mrs. E. Franks, Chandler; Rev. and Mrs. R. L. Franks, Las Cruces, N.M.; Messrs. and Mmes. E. E. Balcome, Sayre, Okla.; O. B. Franks, Granite, Okla.; Joe Miller, W. H. Franks, Newell Williams, all of Pasadena; E. R. Franks, Shamrock.
Their son, O. B. Franks, who is in the bakery business, baked the three-tiered wedding cake and topped it with a miniature bride and bridegroom figurine. The gold numeral "50" completed the centerpiece. Sons of the couple greeted the guests; the daughters and daughters-in-law registered the guests and served the table.

Mr. and Mrs. Franks are both in good health and enjoy their church activities in the Assembly of God Church, where they are members. They have two sons, who are in the ministry.
Friends called from the hours of two to five. Approximately 100 guests registered.

Is Graham's Crusade a Success?

A UNITED PRESS EXTRA (Graham—Second of a series) Editor's Note: This is the second of four special reports by the United Press on the progress of Billy Graham's New York crusade.

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—Is Billy Graham's New York crusade a "success"?

The answer depends on what measuring stick you use. If you expected the crusade to produce an overnight transformation in the morals and manners of Babylon-on-the-Hudson, you will be disappointed.

There seem to be just as many bars on 52nd Street, just as many drunks wandering along Times Square, just as many near-naked girls cavorting in the night clubs, just as much avarice in the canyons of Wall Street, as there was before Billy Graham came to town.

There is one immediately detectable difference: Religion has become a topic of conversation. It is by no means the only, or even the main, topic. But you do hear people talking about the crusade, sometimes jestingly, sometimes very earnestly, in places where the name of Jesus Christ has not been spoken except in blasphemy for many years.

Statistically Successful
In purely statistical terms, the meetings which began May 13 in Madison Square Garden have been the most successful Graham has ever conducted. Attendance data has averaged 17,800 nightly, close to the seating capacity of the Garden. On several evenings, the crowd has been so great that 2,000 or more had to be turned away.

The number of people coming forward to make "decisions for Christ"—Graham calls them "converts"—rather than "converts" has averaged 578 each night and on occasion has approached 1,000.

The response is doubly impressive when you take into account the fact that only about 8 per cent of the city's residents are Protestants. His mail—which runs a more than 1,000 letters a day—indicates that a sizeable number of Catholics and Jews are attending his meetings. And a spokesman for the Graham team said there have been "many" Catholics and Jews among those who have come forward to make "decisions."

The sharpest criticism of the Graham crusade comes from other Protestants, who dislike the methods of highly-organized evangelism and doubt the value of mass conversions in a revival atmosphere.

The Christian Century, an old and respected magazine with a wide circulation among Protestant clergymen of all major denominations, has asserted in editorials that "there is something horrifying in this monstrous juggernaut rolling over every sensitivity to its sure triumph."

Others, like theologian Reinhold Niebuhr and Dean Francis B. Sayre of Washington Episcopal Cathedral, have accused Graham of stressing personal reform at the expense of social reform, of failing to put enough emphasis on the "collective sins" of society such as racial discrimination.

Come Under Fire
Graham has also come under fire from extreme fundamentalists, who protest his refusal to steer converts to strictly "evangelical" churches; from theological liberals who boggle at his insistence on taking quite literally what the Bible says about sin and salvation, heaven and hell; and from middle-of-the-road Protestant pastors who worry about the disillusionment or despair that may come to "inquirers" who discover that instantaneous conversion at a revival meeting is only the first step in a long process of growth in grace which must continue throughout a Christian's life.

I asked Graham about these criticisms and misgivings during a long private interview in his hotel suite. He declined to talk about some of the sharper, more personal attacks.

"There are enough divisions among Christians already," he said. "I decided a long time ago that I wouldn't answer some of these things. I don't believe the Lord called me to add to the controversies in His family."

Quotes John Wesley
I told him some people felt his preaching depended too heavily on an appeal to fear. Had he ever thought that he might dwell less on the wrath and judgment of God, and more on His love and mercy?

In reply he quoted his predecessor in evangelism, John Wesley: "Before I can preach grace, I must preach law and judgment."

Graham said he tries in every sermon to cut through the shell of "self-righteousness" which keeps men from "recognizing their need of salvation." He does not shy away from the doctrine of eternal punishment of the unrepentant, ungodly as it may be to the modern mind, because:

"Only when we see ourselves as sinners under judgment are we ready to accept the forgiveness, the reconciling love of God which is offered to us in Christ."

(Next—What happens to Billy Graham's "converts"?)

Jacoby On Bridge

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

South's opening two bid was unsmooth and the eventual game contract should have been defeated. Bad discarding by West put his partner on the spot and South would up with the marbles.

The king of clubs lead was won by the ace. South entered dummy with the king of diamonds, led a spade and finessed the jack. West won with the queen, cashed the king of clubs and continued with the jack.

South ruffed and started to run trumps. On the third trump lead East discarded the seven of hearts. On the fourth lead West dropped the nine of hearts and East played the jack.

East had counted declarer's hand and marked him with seven spades, two clubs and at least two diamonds. East also decided that declarer might hold four diamonds and no hearts.

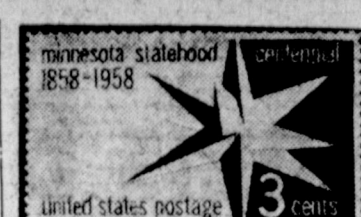

The fifth trump was led and West dropped another heart. Now East was sure of the diamond situation. After all, West could have no possible use for either the eight or ten of diamonds and should have discarded one or both of them to show where they were. Hence the jack.

STAR STAMP—This striking design, featuring the North Star, has been named the winner of the Minnesota Statehood Centennial stamp competition. Designed by Paul Konsterlie of St. Paul, Minn., the stamp will be issued during the weekend of Statehood Day in May, 1958.

East let the queen of hearts go. The last trump was led and West dropped his last low heart. He was going to hold on to those two useless diamonds come earthquake or high water.

East let a diamond go now but the damage had been done. South played his deuce of hearts, dropping the king and ace together, got in with the ace of diamonds and made the contract with the ten of hearts.

INDIAN GUIDE?—A favorite play spot for children in Royal Oak, Mich., is this crooked old tree which may be one of the few living relics left by the Indians who roamed the area 200 years ago. Some residents believe that the oak tree, now so warped it resembles a prehistoric animal with a yawning mouth, is a so-called Indian guide tree. Legend states that the Indians bent young saplings to mark turns in trails. A similarly bent tree near Brighton, Mich., and another near Sandusky, Ohio, were believed to be the last ones left.

The young housewife has it one up on the career girl: she can take care of her good looks during the day. She can remove make-up and let cream soften her skin as she does household tasks. She can pincurl her hair for twenty minutes during the day and look radiant when her husband comes home at night. We show her here (left) applying a four-purpose cream that cleanses, softens, tones the skin and acts as a make-up base. Then (center), she uses that modern make-up aid, pressed powder in a compact. It's quick to put on and its velvety adhesion is lasting. This particular pressed powder contains lanolin. Housewife Has Daytime For Beauty, So She Can Look Pretty At Nightfall

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

If you are a housewife and a mother, you've probably felt an occasional tug of envy as you've watched your chic neighbor leave for the office, just minutes behind her husband. Just once in a while, you think it would be nice to be a working wife, able to get away from the monotony of household chores, to be closely aware of what's new in fashion and equipped with interesting anecdotes to exchange with your husband across the dinner table.

Well, you can be sure that your working neighbor would, on many a day, give her all to be in your shoes. Have you realized how much simpler it is for you to spare the necessary time for looking pretty? When your husband comes home from work, he can be greeted by a wife who has dressed unhurriedly and looks lovely just for him. How glamorous do you think a working girl feels after an eight-hour day, shopping for food on the way home and facing the task of cooking dinner? Chances are she's gotten into something comfortable after her day at the office, and her husband rarely gets to see the chic outfit you observed when she left for work in the morning. When you've sent your man off after a good breakfast, you can set your hair, leaving it in pin-curls while you do your cleaning. Vaseline can be applied to your brows and lashes so that they will be lustrous and well-groomed. Before you sit down for your second cup of coffee, give yourself a facial. There is one cream which is claimed by its makers to do the work of four creams in one. First, it cleanses, then it softens. It helps refine the pores and provides a perfect base for powder. And it takes only a minute of your time to use. If you plan your household chores and your children's schedule carefully, you can be free early enough to bathe, slip into a pretty dress and carefully apply your make-up before the man in your life gets home. Avail yourself of one of the pretty mirrored compacts of pressed powder. Keep it on a handy shelf, so that when you hear the key in the front door, you can do a quick job of touching up. Don't envy the working wife. Count your blessings instead. You have the advantage. You can take care of your appearance throughout the day. You can bank in the smile of a man who comes home to a well-ordered house, an exquisitely set dinner table — and a wife who looks radiant and pretty.

Fashion Father A Fun Felt Gift

Father's Day should be a day of fun and relaxation and what better gift could be had than a fun day gift? Sewing authorities at American Felt Company suggest that "golf club mitts," "a tee bag," and "tee caddy" would make a perfect fun day gift for father and are simple to make in felt. The "golf club mitts" are made with a cone shaped pattern, caught in the middle with elastic and numbered with contrasting felt. The "tee caddy" is made by sewing contrasting colored felt in loops to a 7" base with a slit for a belt. The "tee bag," also made of felt with gaily colored appliques in a golf motif, needs only a shoe string to draw it closed.

Tevis-Goolsby Rites In Clayton

(Special to The News)
PERRYTON — Miss Angie Nell Tevis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Tevis, was married to Robert Edward Goolsby, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Goolsby of Winnsboro on May 27 at 12 o'clock in Clayton, N.M. Clara Harvey read the marriage ceremony. The bride wore a blue linen sheath dress with white accessories. Her corsage was of roses. Following the ceremony, the couple drove to Santa Fe, where they spent several days before returning to Perryton. Mrs. Goolsby was graduated from Perryton High School. Mr. Goolsby graduated from Ft. Hancock High School and served with the armed forces in Korea. He is employed by Mid-Western Drilling Co.

Bridge Club Tells Weekly Winners

Pampa Duplicate Bridge Club met Monday evening in the Episcopal Parish House for its weekly meeting of play with Mmes. Earl O'Brien and Haskell Maguire taking first; Mmes. E. A. Herriman and Ivan Noblitt, second. Tying for third were Mrs. Dorothy Cruise, Mrs. L. P. Cruise, Mr. and Mrs. Quentin Williams. Mrs. Cruise, sister of Mrs. Burns, was a visitor for the evening. The club cordially invites players to attend their weekly meeting at any time.

RUTH MILLET The Franks Feted On Golden Date

(Special to The News)
SHAMROCK — Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Franks were honored on their golden wedding anniversary on June 2 by their children in the family home on North Main St. A wife writes: "For two or three years my husband has seemed dissatisfied and he hasn't been easy to get along with. But I thought he was working too hard and that things would straighten out in time, so I didn't worry about it. Now I discover that he thinks he is in love with a girl who started working in his office six months ago! I don't want a divorce because I still love my husband. But how can I go on living with a man who is in love with someone else?" It's too bad you didn't start worrying about your husband's obvious dissatisfaction before another woman saw her chance to convince him that she alone in all the world really understands him. By just hoping that everything would work itself out you left your husband an easy mark for any woman who had no scruples about trying to break up your home. So far you've made it easy for the other woman. But you don't need to continue to make it easy for her by meekly getting a divorce and, in effect, saying, "He's all yours."

Instead of doing that, be sure your husband knows how much you love him and how much your marriage means to you. Then sit tight. But instead of just hoping that things will work out, try to figure out why your husband grew dissatisfied with your marriage. You can't afford just to blame him or to feel outraged and bitter. You've got to figure out where you've failed. Then try to be the kind of wife your husband needs. It may not be too late if you love your husband enough to forget your pride and hurt and to shoulder part of the blame for what has happened.

Mr. and Mrs. Franks are both in good health and enjoy their church activities in the Assembly of God Church, where they are members. They have two sons, who are in the ministry. Friends called from the hours of two to five. Approximately 100 guests registered.

Is Graham's Crusade a Success?

A UNITED PRESS EXTRA (Graham—Second of a series) Editor's Note: This is the second of four special reports by the United Press on the progress of Billy Graham's New York crusade.

By LOUIS CASSELS United Press Staff Correspondent NEW YORK (UP)—Is Billy Graham's New York crusade a "success"?

The answer depends on what measuring stick you use. If you expected the crusade to produce an overnight transformation in the morals and manners of Babylon-on-the-Hudson, you will be disappointed.

There seem to be just as many bars on 52nd Street, just as many drunks wandering along Times Square, just as many near-naked girls cavorting in the night clubs, just as much avarice in the canyons of Wall Street, as there was before Billy Graham came to town.

There is one immediately detectable difference: Religion has become a topic of conversation. It is by no means the only, or even the main, topic. But you do hear people talking about the crusade, sometimes jestingly, sometimes very earnestly, in places where the name of Jesus Christ has not been spoken except in blasphemy for many years.

Statistically Successful In purely statistical terms, the meetings which began May 15 in Madison Square Garden have been the most successful Graham has ever conducted. Attendance to date has averaged 17,800 nightly, close to the seating capacity of the Garden. On several evenings, the crowd has been so great that 2,000 or more had to be turned away.

The number of people coming forward to make "decisions for Christ"—Graham calls them "inquirers" rather than "converts"—has averaged 578 each night and on occasion has approached 1,000.

The response is doubly impressive when you take into account the fact that only about 8 per cent of the city's residents are Protestants. His mail—which runs a more than 1,000 letters a day—indicates that a sizeable number of Catholics and Jews are attending his meetings. And a spokesman for the Graham team said there have been "many" Catholics and Jews among those who have come forward to make "decisions."

The sharpest criticism of the Graham crusade comes from other Protestants, who dislike the methods of highly-organized evangelism and doubt the value of mass conversions in a revival atmosphere.

The Christian Century, an old and respected magazine with a wide circulation among Protestant clergymen of all major denominations, has asserted in editorials that "there is something horrifying in this monstrous juggernaut rolling over every sensitivity to its sure triumph."

Others, like theologian Reinhold Niebuhr and Dean Francis B. Sayre of Washington Episcopal Cathedral, have accused Graham of stressing personal reform at the expense of social reform, of failing to put enough emphasis on the "collective sins" of society such as racial discrimination.

Come Under Fire Graham has also come under fire from extreme fundamentalists, who protest his refusal to steer converts to strictly "evangelical" churches; from theological liberals who boggle at his insistence on taking quite literally what the Bible says about sin and salvation, heaven and hell; and from middle-of-the-road Protestant pastors who worry about the disillusionment or despair that may come to "inquirers" who discover that instantaneous conversion at a revival meeting is only the first step in a long process of growth in grace which must continue throughout a Christian's life.

I asked Graham about these criticisms and misgivings during a long private interview in his hotel suite. He declined to talk about some of the sharper, more personal attacks.

"There are enough divisions among Christians already," he said. "I decided a long time ago that I wouldn't answer some of these things. I don't believe the Lord called me to add to the controversies in His family."

Quotes John Wesley I told him some people felt his preaching depended too heavily on an appeal to fear. Had he ever thought that he might dwell less on the wrath and judgment of God, and more on His love and mercy?

In reply, he quoted his predecessor in evangelism, John Wesley: "Before I can preach grace, I must preach law and judgment." Graham said he tries in every sermon to cut through the shell of "self-righteousness" which keeps men from "recognizing their need of salvation." He does not shy away from the doctrine of eternal punishment of the unrepentant, unconvertible as it may be to the modern mind, because:

"Only when we see ourselves as sinners under judgment are we ready to accept the forgiveness, the reconciling love of God which is offered to us in Christ."

Jacoby On Bridge

By OSWALD JACOBY Written for NEA Service South's opening two bid was un-sound and the eventual game contract should have been defeated.

Bad discarding by West put his partner on the spot and South would up with the marbles.

The king of clubs lead was won by the ace. South entered dummy with the king of diamonds, led a spade and finessed the jack. West won with the queen, cashed the king of clubs and continued with the jack.

South ruffed and started to run trumps. On the third trump lead East discarded the seven of hearts. On the fourth lead West dropped the nine of hearts and East played the jack.

East had counted declarer's hand and marked him with seven spades, two clubs and at least two diamonds. East also decided that declarer might hold four diamonds and no hearts.

The fifth trump was led and West dropped another heart. Now East was sure of the diamond situation. After all, West could have no possible use for either the eight or ten of diamonds and should have discarded one or both of them to show where they were. Hence

INDIAN GUIDE?—A favorite play spot for children in Royal Oak, Mich., is this crooked old tree which may be one of the few living relics left by the Indians who roamed the area 200 years ago. Some residents believe that the oak tree, now so warped it resembles a prehistoric animal with a yawning mouth, is a so-called Indian guide tree. Legend states that the Indians bent young saplings to mark turns in trails. A similarly bent tree near Brighton, Mich., and another near Sandusky, Ohio, were believed to be the last ones left.

Stan Leads In All-Star NL Voting

NEW YORK (UP)—Stan (The Man) Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals, who has played in 13 major league All-Star games, leads the National League voting today in the first poll results announced by Commissioner Ford C. Frick's office.

Musial, who set a National League record by playing his 823rd consecutive game Wednesday night, has attracted a total of 12,485 votes for first base in the first tally of ballots from all sections of the country.

Besides Musial, the only 1956 starters who lead in the early voting for this year's game at St. Louis, July 9, are left fielder Frank Robinson and catcher Ed Bailey, both of the Cincinnati Redlegs. Musial started last year's game as a right fielder.

The closest voting thus far is at shortstop, where Al Dark of the Cardinals has polled 4,241 votes to 3,848 for Roy McMillan of the Redlegs. McMillan won the starting assignment in 1956.

Willie Mays of the New York Giants is runner-up to Musial in popularity with 11,807 votes for center field.

In the first cumulative vote the leaders at each position are: Musial, 1B; Red Schoendienst, 2B; Dark, SS; Robinson, LF; Mays, CF; Hank Aaron, Braves, RF; Bailey, C.

The early American League balloting will be announced later in the day. Voting is being conducted by various newspapers and radio and television stations throughout the country. Balloting for the teams closes at midnight, June 27.

Victims in their first two pre-season games, the Rebels have scheduled three more warmers for the week end, announced Deck Woldt, manager of the team.

The Rebels will meet Childress there Friday 14 at 8:15 p.m. Saturday night Berger will come to Pampa for a tilt in Oiler Park at 8:15 Sunday afternoon the Rebels play again in Oiler Park when they meet Childress in two 7-inning games.

Tonight the Rebels will practice at 6:15 in Oiler Park in preparation for the week-end play.

A complete schedule for regular district play is in progress. Playing in the district with Pampa will be Berger, Childress and Amarillo.

Also in progress is a book being prepared by Lester Jones, Legion commander, which will carry schedules for all Rebel home games.

In the game last Saturday night the Rebels downed the Amarillo Chiefs 13-12 in a home game. Sunday Pampa journeyed to Amarillo and scored a second victory over the Chiefs 6-4. The Chiefs are last year's Texas Legion champions.

All Oiler box seat tickets are honored at Rebel home games.

Virgil Akins of St. Louis, encouraged by his unanimous decision over Walter Byars, asked today for a shot at the top contender.

"I deserve a fight with Tony DeMarco," said lanky Virgil. "DeMarco could get only a split decision over Byars last month."

Akins' harder punching at long range beat Stubby Byars of Boston before 8,000 in their TV 10-rounder at the City Arena Wednesday night. It was the sixth consecutive victory for 148-pound Virgil, rated fourth among contenders.

Byars, 144, suffered his second straight defeat. The ninth-ranking contender lost to top-ranked champion DeMarco of Boston on May 24.

Many of the fans thought 29-year-old Akins didn't deserve the decision. They booed the verdict after rooting throughout for little 24-year-old Walter, the 123 underdog. But the three ring officials favored Akins on the 10-point-most scoring: 98-93, 99-96 and 96-94. The United Press agreed, 96-94.

Funk, Plechas Headline Wrestling Card For Monday

Dory Funk, one of Panhandle's most popular wrestlers, will pair off with Bulldog Plechas in the main event next Monday evening when the Pampa Shrine Club sponsors the weekly wrestling show at the Sportman's Club. Funk and the Bulldog will go two out of three falls with a one hour limit.

In the semifinals Bob Geigel will grapple Ivan Kola in two out of three falls with a 45 minute limit.

The first event will pit Dizzy Davis against Tommy Phelps in a 20 minute one fall match.

Admission for the evening is $1.50 for ringside; $1.25 for reserved seats; 90 cents for general admission adult; and 50 cents for general admission children. Matches will begin at 8:30.

In last week's matches Funk opposed Iron Mike DeBiase in a fray that ended outside the ring in a double disqualification. Each man had one fall to his credit when disqualified. In the first event Sonny Myers and Tommy Schultz battled to a 20 minute draw. The semifinal went to Don Curtis over Ivan Kola in a three fall match.

Victors in their first two pre-season games, the Rebels have scheduled three more warmers for the week end, announced Deck Woldt, manager of the team.

The Rebels will meet Childress there Friday 14 at 8:15 p.m. Saturday night Berger will come to Pampa for a tilt in Oiler Park at 8:15 Sunday afternoon the Rebels play again in Oiler Park when they meet Childress in two 7-inning games.

Tonight the Rebels will practice at 6:15 in Oiler Park in preparation for the week-end play.

A complete schedule for regular district play is in progress. Playing in the district with Pampa will be Berger, Childress and Amarillo.

Also in progress is a book being prepared by Lester Jones, Legion commander, which will carry schedules for all Rebel home games.

In the game last Saturday night the Rebels downed the Amarillo Chiefs 13-12 in a home game. Sunday Pampa journeyed to Amarillo and scored a second victory over the Chiefs 6-4. The Chiefs are last year's Texas Legion champions.

All Oiler box seat tickets are honored at Rebel home games.

Virgil Akins of St. Louis, encouraged by his unanimous decision over Walter Byars, asked today for a shot at the top contender.

"I deserve a fight with Tony DeMarco," said lanky Virgil. "DeMarco could get only a split decision over Byars last month."

Akins' harder punching at long range beat Stubby Byars of Boston before 8,000 in their TV 10-rounder at the City Arena Wednesday night. It was the sixth consecutive victory for 148-pound Virgil, rated fourth among contenders.

Byars, 144, suffered his second straight defeat. The ninth-ranking contender lost to top-ranked champion DeMarco of Boston on May 24.

Many of the fans thought 29-year-old Akins didn't deserve the decision. They booed the verdict after rooting throughout for little 24-year-old Walter, the 123 underdog. But the three ring officials favored Akins on the 10-point-most scoring: 98-93, 99-96 and 96-94. The United Press agreed, 96-94.

Top O' Texan Develops Pill To Boost Stamina In Athletics

Dr. Floyd S. Ulrich, chemist for the Celanese Corporation of America, Pampa plant, has developed a stamina pill that may prove, according to Bill Carroll, assistant track coach for the University of Oklahoma, to be "the greatest advancement in the field of athletics today."

Ulrich is working with Ralph Tate, football and track coach of Durant, Okla., High School, in projecting the product into use as an athletic energy builder.

Commercially the pill is marketed as "Stim-O-Stam," produced by the Durotox Company.

In testing the pill, Ulrich stated that it showed "remarkable results in aiding tired athletes."

According to Ulrich, the pill replaces phosphate in the body which is used in the conversion of sugar in the blood into energy. The average daily requirement for phosphate is .88 gram. Athletic endeavor increases the requirement and each pill is roughly equal to 26 percent of the daily requirement.

Introduction of the pill coincided with the American Medical Association's decision to investigate the use of stimulant drugs such as amphetamine in pepping up athletes. This investigation is to be conducted on the grounds that such use might cause drug addiction among high school and college athletes.

The Phosphate pill developed by Ulrich is definitely not a stimulant but merely replaces a needed body food, Ulrich pointed out.

A letter from Dr. C. A. Gallagher, an Oklahoma City MD, stated he was also ample support for such younger men as Australia's Peter Thomson, three-time British Open champion; Masters' champion Doug Ford and PGA titlist Jackie Burke.

While some of the youngsters like Dow Finsterwald, Gene Littler, Arnold Palmer and Jay Hebert figured to outstrip many of the veterans of the tee, Sarazen pointed out that the prize money might well be won or lost on the greens.

"It's going to take a man who can putt fast greens," he said. "Demaret was eight feet from the pin on the ninth hole and couldn't get down in two."

Sox Stretch AL Lead With 7-6 Victory Over Yanks

By MILTON RICHMAN United Press Sports Writer

Del Ennis, on the trading block only a week ago, is swinging in his old rhythmic style again and he could be the man to produce a possible pennant melody for the streaking St. Louis Cardinals.

The slugging Ennis paced the Cards to their eighth straight victory Wednesday night when he blasted a three-run homer off Robin Roberts of the Phillies in a 4-0 triumph that moved St. Louis within one game of the National League lead.

Thanks, in part, to Ennis' recent performances, the first five N.L. clubs are so closely bunched today that they all could squeeze through an eye of the same needle. Cincinnati still leads by half a game over both Brooklyn and Milwaukee while St. Louis and Philadelphia are both one game out.

Musial Sets Record: Larry Jackson of the Cardinals scattered nine hits to register his eighth victory as Stan (The Man) Musial set a league record for consecutive games played at 823.

Brooklyn defeated Milwaukee, 11-9; Pittsburgh beat Cincinnati, 4-3, in 10 innings, and the Giants edged the Cubs, 4-3, in other N.L. games.

The White Sox increased their American League lead to five games with a 7-6 victory over the Yankees the Indians licked the Red Sox, 6-1. Detroit beat Baltimore, 4-2, and Washington took the nightcap of a two-night twin bill, 3-2, after Kansas City won the opener, 5-3.

Charley Neal drove in four runs with a triple and a homer as the Dodgers ended their four-game losing slide at the expense of the Braves. Neal's two-run triple climaxed a six-run second inning and his two-run homer in the fourth proved the margin of victory. Frank Torre, Ed Mathews and Hank Aaron homered for the Braves.

Gene Freese singled home Dee Fondy in the 10th inning with the run that gave the Pirates their games.

Mays 'Steals' Show: Willie Mays was the whole show in the Giants' win over the Cubs. He slammed his 11th homer with two on in the sixth to tie the score, then stole third base in the ninth and continued home when Cub catcher Cal Neeman threw wild into left field.

The White Sox had to call on relievers Paul LaPalme and Dixie Howell to check a ninth-inning rally after Mickey Mantle blasted a two-run homer, his second of the game and 18th of the season. Mantle had four hits in five trips to boost his batting average to .378.

Walt Dropp and Jim Rivera hit homers for Chicago while Bill Skowron and Hank Bauer connected for the Yanks.

Moss! In Start: Cleveland's bullpen ace Don Moss! hurried his first complete game of the season to beat Boston. Moss scattered nine hits and struck out six while the Indians capitalized on Bob Porterfield's error and balk to wrap up the contest with a five-run second inning.

The Tigers got to Oriole starter Art Cecorelli for three runs in the first inning. J. W. Porter supplying the big blow with a two-run homer.

Rocky Bridges' sacrifice fly with the bases loaded in the ninth helped reliever Tru Clevenger to his fifth straight victory as the Senators won the nightcap from the Athletics. In the opener, Kansas City rode to victory on homers by Lou Skizas, Gus Zernial and Hal Smith.

Frank Stranahan Faces More Pressure Than Any Entry In Open

By OSCAR FRALEY United Press Sports Writer

TOLEDO, Ohio (UP)—The most lonesome man in the world teed off today in the first round of the U.S. Open golf championship.

That would be Frankie Stranahan. And to look at him, you have to figure he has everything—health, wealth and the use of the gods.

But this is the sternest test ever faced by the kid from Toledo. A good golfer, Frank Stranahan. And, whether you listen to the stories of his harum-scurum growing up, or not, a fine fellow. He has a beautiful wife, a fortune in the bank and a bouncing 2-year-old son. He is, you might say, a man with everything.

Played At 12
Yet Frank Stranahan grew up within five miles of the Inverness course where they started the Open today. At the tender age of 12 he played his first round over these rolling acres. That's a matter of some 22 years ago, this muscular blond being 34 now.

His father is the wealthy and influential R. A. Stranahan, founder of the Champion spark plug empire. R. A., as the old man is known, was the Ohio senior champion and, for many years, the president of this same Inverness club. Frank's step-brother, Jim Lewis, was the district champion. The club pro at that time, a man named Byron Nelson, was the Ohio Open champion.

All of this instilled in young Frank, at an early age, the desire to be a champion golfer.

It was an ambition inspired and fostered by his dad, for R. A. was a man who never considered or accepted defeat. He battled mightily in the business bazaars and at the legal bar, to build and protect his empire. From a lean start, he founded a gigantic industrial empire.

So it stood to reason that when young Frankie showed an early interest in golf, R. A. decided that his son was going to be a champion.

Won Amateur Twice
He was, and is. Frank won the British Amateur twice, and a lot of other tournaments. But, despite all his wealth, he decided several years ago to make his own way in life and turn professional.

"If I'm going to spend my life in golf," he said, "then I must make a living out of it."

It horrified the family, one of the Toledo 400.

Yet it is to Frankie's credit that he wasn't swayed. Still, as they teed off today in the Open, over a course which heard his baby wails, the handsome blond man is on a terrific spot. Everybody in the area knows him and expects great things of him. They figure that if he is ever going to be worth a pinch of snuff he has to win this time around on a course which he has known from childhood.

France Forms New Policy In Africa

By CHARLES M. McCANN
Foreign News Correspondent
United Press Staff

France has taken another major step in its new long-range African policy by creating a new cabinet post—"Minister for Sahara." It means that one minister is to be given responsibility for a vast area of the Sahara Desert which some day may rival the Middle East as a source of oil, the life-blood of modern industry. Maurice Bouges-Maunoury, who today is confirmed as premier in the French National Assembly, included the post in his list of cabinet members. For years, France has quietly been exploring the natural resources of its Sahara Desert region. This region comprises more than 1,600,000 square miles—more than half the area of the continental United States—in southern Algeria and the northern parts of French West Africa and French Equatorial Africa. Proved resources include oil, coal, natural gas, iron, copper, manganese and tin. If France can keep this territory, its importance is obvious. The oil alone would give France a great measure of independence, if not complete independence, of Middle Eastern production. Oil exploration has been conducted by big private companies and the government, working together, since 1947. It was not until early this year, however, that the real potential value of the oil resources became generally known. New Company Formed It was announced in January that the Sahara could fill all of France's need for oil within 15 years. French banking interests announced in March the formation of a "French Company of the Sahara"—Compagnie Francaise Du Sahara—to start exploitation of oil and other mineral resources. Drilling for the commercial production of oil in the southern Algerian part of the Sahara region was started in May. The fact that France is going into mineral exploitation in a big way indicates its determination to hang on at all costs to the territory involved, including Algeria where revolt has reached a new peak of savagery. At the same time, French leaders are trying to insure that French West Africa and French Equatorial Africa will be contented parts of the French Union, as the empire now is called.

He Had A Ticket Anyway, Judge!

HOUSTON (UP)—Traffic Judge Wallace P. Kelly asked George Willis, 24, Tuesday if he had a license. He was charged with having none. "Yes, sir," Willis, a Negro said, criticized and otherwise disturb the operator of the car. Back seat drivers must carry this license on person or otherwise must keep quiet while vehicle is in motion. Willis said he got the "license" been licensed to irritate, annoy, in a barber shop. He can't read.

'New' Lana Turner Is Tracing Hollywood Stage

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Hollywood has a new Lana Turner. Lanning her days as a sweater queen and wife are over, the glamorous queen has turned producer and sharp business lady and is playing the mother of a teen-ager in a movie. Lana sat down today for her first full-fledged interview since her fourth marriage, to a shouldered Lex Barker, ended in separation. Her views on her personal future: "The way I feel now, I'll never marry again, but, of course, you never know what the future brings. I just try to live day by day."

On being a movie sex symbol: "I can't remember when I last wore a sweater in a movie. Those days are over; I hope I've grown out of that. I can't compete with Jayne Mansfield and those others any more."

Instead, Lana, as beautiful and sparkling as ever in her new penthouse apartment in suburban Westwood, has taken on a new dimension in her life. Like Marilyn Monroe, she's now in business and formed her own production company, Lanturn Productions. Her goal is to act less.

"I've bought six stories," the actress, wearing a black knit dress and red scarf over her hair, explained.

"Now I'm talking about casting and percentages—don't know which way it is! I'm learning a lot about this business—I have a whole new set of muscles working," she grinned, and pointed to her head.

"One day I hope to be able to stay in the movie business but let somebody else be in the movies. I would just act now and then when the right story came along."

Her first production will be "Another Time, Another Place," filmed in England. But before that Lana for the first time plays a New England mother with a teenage daughter in the movie version of the best-selling book, "Peyton Place."

She put her foot down on aging suggestions from 20th Century-Fox studio, she added firmly.

"She's not supposed to be prim or dowdy. She's supposed to be the most attractive women in that town—just inhibited and frustrated, a woman who holds herself back until one man opens the gates, and then look out!"

"If I'd had my own daughter younger she'd be 18 now, too. The mother of a teenage daughter doesn't have to look matronly."

The New Lana, however, still did an old-fashioned Lana-type scene in her first picture at Universal-International studio that

Pipeline Firms Probe Requested

WASHINGTON (UP)—The staff of the Senate anti-trust subcommittee has recommended that the Justice Department investigate to determine whether control of U. S. pipelines by major oil companies warrants anti-trust action. The staff report was presented to the subcommittee, which conducted lengthy hearings on the petroleum industry and its actions in the Middle East oil crisis.

The staff had scarcely a kind word to say about the oil industry, calling it "a kind of sacred white cow in American industry" which shapes State Department policies for its own benefit. The report said oil has been more successful than any other industry, in gaining immunity from anti-trust laws.

The 44-page report said major oil companies wield vast power over the industry through their control of 90 per cent of the pipelines. It urged the Justice Department to investigate the control of common carrier pipelines and the interest of major oil firms in trucking companies.

It also urged investigation of the use of controlled pipelines to deny competitive markets and sources to independent crude oil producers and refiners, crude oil price discrimination against producers and pipeline proration.

she just finished. "The Lady Takes a Flyer." She and Jeff Chandler do what she calls "the most sizzling love scenes since Garbo and Gilbert, and the first bathtub scene in which the man sits on the edge of the tub."

"Of course, I wore a bathing suit but it looks as if I have nothing on but a big sponge," she laughed.

SKY SENTINEL—A "flying saucer" to sweep the skies is mounted atop the new radar plane now in preproduction planning for the U.S. Navy by Lockheed Aircraft Corporation's California division. Its design is revealed for the first time in this photo of a model. The new sky sentinel is intended to expand the U.S. aerial-warning system. Similar to the Lockheed 1649A Starliner, but with a radar "parasol" and twin-fin tail, this successor to the current flying radar stations will be equipped with two turbojets, in wingtip pods, in addition to its four prop-jet engines.

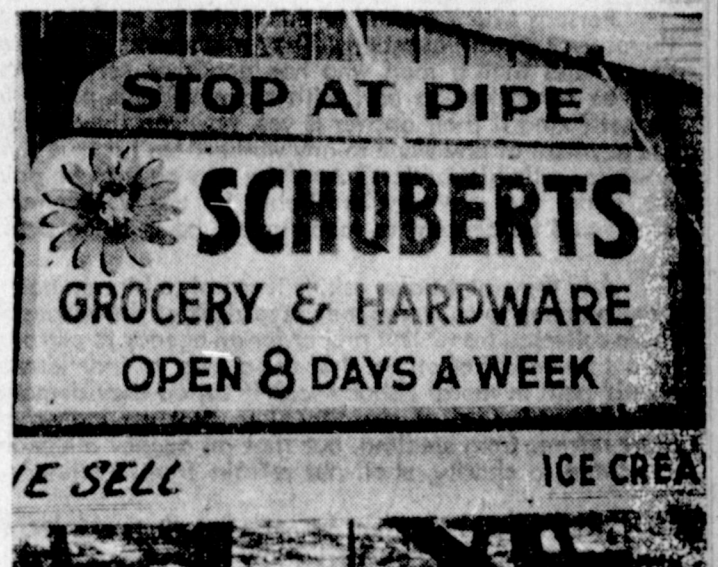

WORLD'S LARGEST WORLD—A "world" full of gas dwarfs spectators at Savannah, Ga., where the globe, said to be the world's largest, does duty as a gas storage tank for Savannah homes. The sphere is made of steel, measures 60 feet across 189 feet around the equator, and stores 600,000 cubic feet of gas for the South Atlantic Gas Co. DIDN'T EXERCISE CAUTION—A truck driver delivering a full load of dirt, and apparently paying too little attention to the warning sign, provides some welcome entertainment for the youngsters at recess at Grant School, in Casper, Wyo. The driver, unaware that the ground had been softened by several days of light rain, got too close to the edge of an excavation and his dump truck got dumped into an open trench.

CENTER OF STORM—The decision of the U.S. government to turn William S. Girard, 21, above, over to the Japanese for trial on manslaughter charges has stirred up a storm of protest in Congress. Girard, an Army Specialist 3/C from Ottawa, Ill., is charged with killing a woman while on duty at a firing range in Japan.

PIPE THIS!—Eight days a week is correct, says Harold Schubert, owner of a hardware and grocery store in Pipe, Wis. Schubert, who boldly advertises his impossible schedule on nearby highway billboards, maintains that he works in his store more than 100 hours a week. That divides into more than 8 working days of 12 hours each, which he figures should be enough for any man. The signs have brought him some new customers and lured many curious tourists into visiting the tiny village, boasting a population of 52.

CURB-SHAVER—Women who daub on lipstick in public may now share the view with men buzzing their bristles as they wait for the bus. Reporter Jack Warfel adds to the general confusion at a main intersection in downtown Cleveland, Ohio, as he stops at the curb to shave. Passersby couldn't figure out how he was doing it, but if they followed that white wire down to his pocket they'd have the answer. An importation from Nuernberg, West Germany, the electric shaver.

A HOME AWAY FROM HOME—Bedded down for the night is this baby Tasmania gray kangaroo, peering from the man-made pouch arranged for it at the San Diego Zoo Hospital. The little one was denied readmittance to its mother's pouch after jumping out for its first exploration of the kangaroo enclosure at the zoo. To keep the baby alive, the zoo veterinarian made this improvised pouch from a baby blanket backed by a heating pad to provide the required warmth. The youngster is doing fine in its unusual "home," coming out for bottle feedings then hopping back in for long snoozes.

HELEN'S PAL—Paying a visit to a deaf-and-dumb school in Stockholm, Sweden, famed American Helen Keller is obviously delighted by this pigeon's decision to perch on her hat. The pigeon accompanied Miss Keller wherever she went during her visit to the school. But, alas, when Miss Keller decided to leave, the pigeon, lacking a visa, had to be removed.

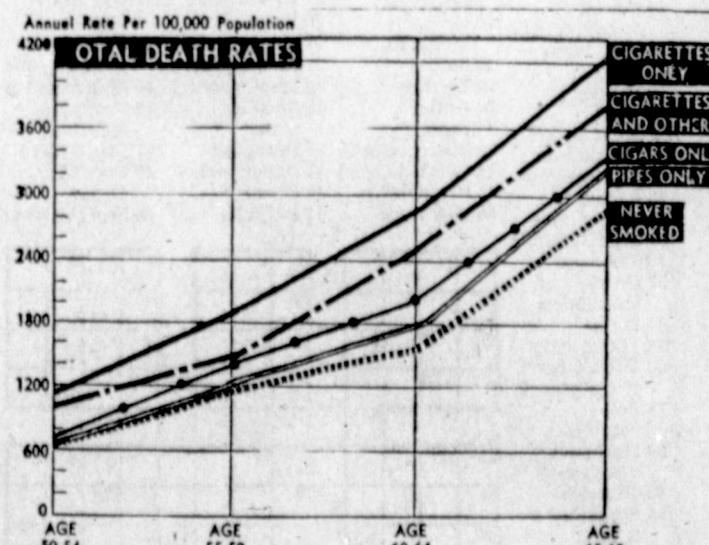

BASEMENT BUILT—While a group of neighborhood youngsters watches, James Curtis drives out of the cellar of his Oakland, N. J., home. Curtis built his sleek sports car in his basement over a three-year period. To put the car on the road, Curtis had to obtain a building permit and a bulldozer to dig down to the cellar and cut a hole in the wall. Riding with Curtis on the car's "shakedown cruise," are his wife and their children, Eileen and James.

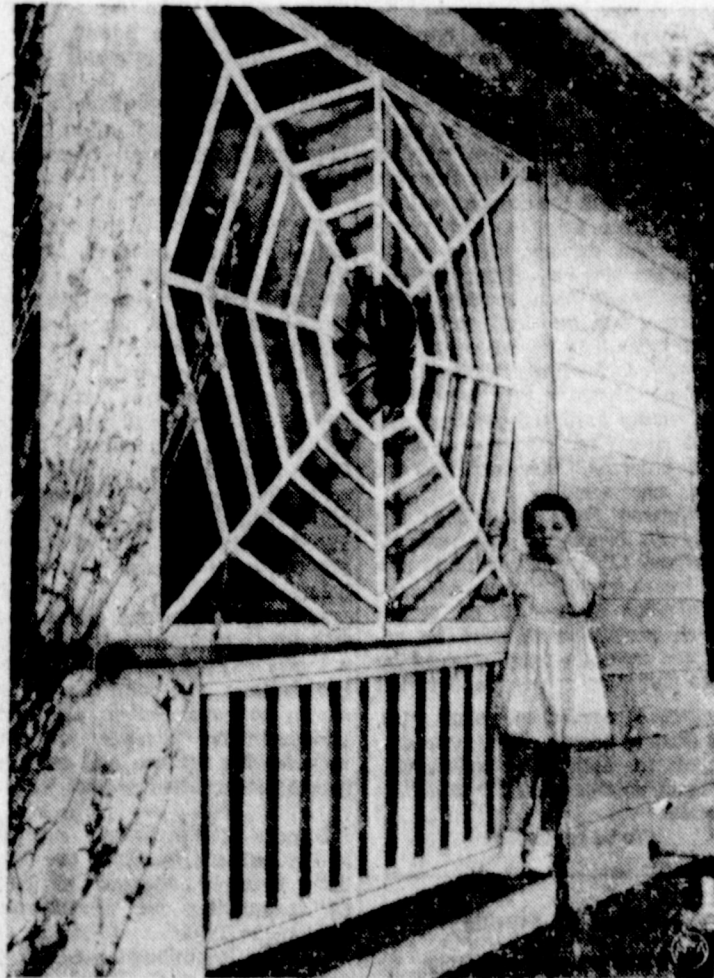

PROMOTED—Lt. Gen. Thomas Power, above, has been named to succeed Gen. Curtis LeMay as commander of the Strategic Air Command, the nation's intercontinental bomber force. LeMay is scheduled to become Vice Chief of Staff of the Air Force this August. Power will be made a full general in his new post.

BEATS WALKING—Patrolling store aisles by the mile, day in and day out, isn't an easy job, as any floorwalker will tell you. Herb Cohen found this out a few weeks after he opened his two-block-long Gee Williker's Store in Monroeville, Pa. Feeling that his daily chore was making him more tired than a man of 32 should get, he purchased a scooter, the type used on golf courses. Now before the store opens, Cohen (on scooter) whizzes from counter to counter inspecting things to see that everything is shipshape.

CANCER AND SMOKING—Newschart affords a graphic illustration of the important data gathered by the American Cancer Society in a four-year statistical study to determine the relationship between lung cancer and smoking. The study, released at the annual meeting of the American Medical Association in New York, indicated there was a spectacular relationship between the habit and lung cancer. As revealed in this chart, which shows total death rates per 100,000 man-years by type of smoking (lifetime history) and by age at start of study for each of the four age groups checked, the highest death rate was that for men with a history of regular cigarette smoking only. Men who never smoked had the lowest rate.

QUICK, HENRY, THE FLIT!—Little Miss Muffet had nothing on Cynthia Burton, of Salina, Kan., who gasps in amazement at the giant spider on the lattice of the porch of her uncle's home. Only difference is that this spider won't really frighten Miss Burton away. Lattice and 18-inch spider were made by Cynthia's uncle, Orla Bradford.

WEAR THAT STEAK BONE!—Some folks see a pot of soup or food for the dog in a bone, but Walter J. LaVoy, instructor in home art at Pennsylvania State University, sees a bone as a striking piece of jewelry. Steak and other beef bones are best for this purpose because they are more solid, says LaVoy, who saws away at a steak bone, left, and displays the finished product, a pair of earrings, at right. A skilled and original jewelry designer, LaVoy sandpapers the bone after sawing it into the desired shapes and designs, then rubs a little oil pigment into it to give it the color of old ivory. His friends who wear his jewelry take great pleasure in startling their friends by such remarks as "These earrings are from a T-bone steak."

Profit Vs. Theft

There seems to be a school of somewhat moribund thought that profits are wrong and consequently an evil thing. Persons who lean toward this socialist conclusion have a strange standard for their convictions.

Almost universally, such persons hold that theft is quite proper although it must be admitted that many of them do not recognize theft when it occurs. They seem to feel that, as Marx put it, "a dollar of profit is merely an unpaid wage." And additionally, that the use of force to collect money (theft) is justifiable provided only that the plunder collected is used in a manner which they personally feel is meritorious.

Persons who succumb to this sophistry ought to ask themselves certain questions. They might ask is it moral to demand that a man who has goods or services for sale be compelled to part with them without profit to himself? And if their answer is yes, how can they justify the payment of any wage to any worker? Isn't it true that a worker sells his services? And if a service is to be paid for, is not that payment profitable for the worker, else why would he consent to labor unless he is to be paid?

And they might also ask, is it moral to hire an agency of coercion to collect money regardless of the wishes of those collected from? Is it proper for an agency to perform an act on behalf of others that the others, as individuals, should hold in moral abhorrence? If so, do they demand a double standard of morality, i.e., that an individual must refrain from stealing, but that an agency allegedly dedicated to charity, shall not refrain from stealing?

Would they hold that an act of theft is charity, if only the product of that theft is given to others? And if so, how would they define true charity, where a gift is given gladly and without violence? Does charity begin with the gift, or does it begin with the will to give?

Strangely enough, the followers of this school of reasoning in the main support themselves from the sweat of others. Their livelihood is provided either by the force and coercion of government or the force and coercion of unions.

Thus, they hold it entirely proper that an agency, either government or a union, shall use force on their behalf to give them a living, taking the money from toilers who labor long and painfully for their own livelihood. Yet, they hold it to be improper for a person to sell either his product or his services in such a manner that persons freely purchase them and in the purchase pay enough that the transaction is profitable both for the purchaser and the seller.

Such idiotic reasoning contains within it the gravest contradiction. Yet there is a whole swarm of mental mendicants who subscribe to the theory. And in such subscription they eschew the American tradition of freedom and free enterprise, and support the European and Asiatic conception of dependence upon a power monopoly.

The fact is that no business or enterprise, be it only the business of working for a living, can sustain itself without profit. All who labor, whether they work with head, with hands or with tools, must be paid. And they must be paid in a measure which will be sufficient so that they will willingly do what they must do in order to obtain that payment. Such payment must contain profit. Otherwise it is niggardly but, in fact, a robbery.

Now we hear it said that captains of industry are villains. Whereas those who will not lift their hands in gainful employment, but subsist on the wealth of others wrested from them by guile and greed, are the salt of the earth. Never was falsehood so monstrously sustained.

The oddest part of it all is that the thieves and mendicants among us parade their villainy as though it were a virtue. If their endeavors lose money, they are supposedly great crusades conducted for a principle. Whereas in fact they are the meanest of pretenses and exist only by violence for purposes of violence.

Those in this day of arbitrary unionism and confiscatory taxation who still manage to eke out a margin over costs, are veritable heroes. They succeed. The others fail and take great credit for their failures.

The Doctor Says

By EDGAR P. JORDAN, M. D.

Ulcerative colitis is a disease in which there is an inflamed and ulcerous condition of the large colon, or bowel. It can affect parts of the colon or almost all of it. (This section of the intestine is about five feet long.) There are several varieties.

When acute, all the signs of a severe infection are present. The cause of ulcerative colitis, however, is still uncertain. A good many different kinds of germs have been found, but so far no one of them seems to be entirely responsible. Other possible causes have been considered, including allergy, disturbed nervous control and deficiencies of nutrition.

Ulcerative colitis occurs everywhere. However, it does seem to be less common in warmer parts of the United States. The disease is just about as common in men as in women. Most cases begin before the age of 40.

The usual first symptom is the appearance of bloody mucus on the outside of the stool. Sometimes it starts with severe diarrhea, often accompanied by blood. Pain in the abdomen is common, though it may not be severe. Fever may or may not be present.

As a rule, medical treatment is tried first. It has been stated that in one form of the disease, not more than five or 10 out of 100 will need surgery. However, in other forms, surgery should not be too long delayed if medical treatment does not bring good results speedily.

Treatment includes rest, diet nursing care, blood transfusions and in some cases the administration of drugs or hormones. Blood transfusions may be particularly important since patients with ulcerative colitis usually lose a good deal of blood and may need several during acute stages of the disease.

Drug treatment in many cases includes one or more of the sulfa drugs, penicillin or aureomycin, and in some cases ACTH or cortisone. Indeed, ACTH, cortisone or one of their relatives often bring about dramatic improvement, though this does not always last.

Victims of ulcerative colitis who do not respond well to medical treatment may need surgery.

Religion And Evolutionary Progress IV.

I am continuing to quote from an address made by H. Bayard Phillips in an Evening Forum of the Arlington Street Church in Boston.

The subject he is discussing is "Religion and Evolutionary Progress." He continues in this manner:

"Since this development is determined by natural law it then seems, as previously stated, that nothing we can do will change the final result. We thus appear to have reached an impasse. We have described religion as man's effort to promote progress and now conclude that progress will take the same course regardless of what we do. From this difficulty there is, however, a possible escape.

"While the end may be determined, the speed with which it will be approached is not fixed. By additional effort we can therefore greatly change the rate of advance. With a little change of pace in the Middle Ages, for example, George Washington might have had electric power and antibiotics, and we might already have conquered cancer and visited the moon.

"But when we attempt to make detailed changes even in the rate of progress we are faced with a serious difficulty. We do not know what constitutes progress. A change we make involves entry into the unknown and the results of such change are often not logically determined by anything previously known. If we appeal to different authorities they advise different procedures and we have no way of knowing who is right and who is wrong. Increasing even the rate of progress by intentional effort thus appears also impossible.

"This difficulty is, however, only apparent. The impossibility of predicting concrete results indicates merely that we should not attempt to control the direction of advance, but should only try to establish conditions under which advance will occur. The situation is like that of the farmer who knows nothing about the complex chemistry of plant growth but merely tries to establish conditions favorable to growth. Or like the scientist who wishes to advance knowledge in his particular field. He has no idea what the future of that field will be. He merely engages in activities which he believes will result in advance. So those interested in promoting progress need not know what constitutes progress. It will be sufficient if they establish conditions which will lead to progress.

"It is interesting to note that for ages the great religions have been promoting progress in this way. They have done this through their moral codes. These codes were not handed down in finished form. Each of them embodies rules of successful living developed through thousands of years in a tribe compelled by its existence to be constantly more advanced than its neighbors. I have sometimes wondered how much of our social system will exist 100,000 years from now. I believe the part most certain to persist is the moral code. For this is merely a recipe for success in social living, and the societies which then exist will have succeeded.

"The effect of the moral code on progress is obvious. Thou shalt not kill (murder). Unnecessary killing reduces the number of workers available to carry on the advance and compels all others to waste time in self protection. Thou shalt not steal. Stealing transfers resources from places where they are more productively used, and the prevention of stealing wastes effort which would otherwise be available for production. Thou shalt not bear false witness. Efficient co-operation is only possible when the word of all participants can be accepted. We are adjured to love and not to hate. Love promotes useful co-operation whereas hate wastes time and effort through useless opposition.

"Since religion thus provides conditions favorable to progress, it seems that one primarily interested in progress might merely give support to one of the great religions and let nature take its course. The objection to this procedure is that the conventional religions stress only the ethical phase of human conduct. Other conditions are also needed for progress. The people of a country may cooperate in the friendliest fashion and there may be no crime, but through lack of sanitation and inferior technology they may work grievously hard and yet have neither energy nor resources to make any progress. Other conditions are thus necessary.

"Among these conditions are liberty, education, and material welfare. Liberty is needed to permit each individual to do his best. Education is needed to permit each generation to start its advance from the level attained by the preceding generation. Material welfare is needed to permit part at least of human effort to be devoted to activities undertaken without consideration for material results."

Eisenhower School Program Receives Serious Setback

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower's ambitious program for Federal financing of school construction has suffered a severe setback from an unexpected quarter — namely, Senate Democrats professedly sympathetic toward his liberal use of money for social and educational projects.

The flank attack was delivered by Senator Warren G. Magnuson, of Washington, when he quietly introduced a bill for Federal financing of television teaching in the 48 states, also in Alaska and Hawaii. His extreme and unpublicized proposal has frightened both commercial TV interests and advocates of using this method of instruction in the public schools.

Under Magnuson's measure, the government would allocate $50,000,000 to aid the states in purchasing equipment. In introducing the bill, he said that he felt it necessary for the Government to assume a bold initiative in this field because of a lack of action at the local level.

Although perhaps unintentionally, Magnuson has handed a new and powerful argument to opponents of the Administration's program. Besides the indirect influence which Ike's school building project would exert on education, the Senator's scheme might permit Washington bureaucrats to control the curricula of the nation's schools.

It is axiomatic that when Uncle Sam passes out money for a kind of program — bridges, highways, power plants, health, education, relief — he always tends or tries to dominate the end use of these funds. He attaches weights and effective strings. The bureaucrats cannot resist any opportunity to appropriate power.

The Magnuson proposal will be especially offensive to Southern members, now engaged in a battle to prevent implementation of the Supreme Court's anti-segregation decision.

The background of the Magnuson bill also arouses concern. Although he is Chairman of the Senate Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, he did not consult the membership about his idea for a Federal TV program.

The measure was written by Gerald W. Ziegel, the staff director of the Senate Democratic Policy Committee, instead of by Magnuson's indirect influence which bill-drafting. The Democratic Policy Committee is headed by Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas.

Although Magnuson asked for immediate committee hearings and a "very early Senate vote" on his proposition, his committee has shown no eagerness to acquiesce. Prospects for passage are dark, both for his scheme and for Ike's school construction project.

Despite their apparent coyness, two prominent Senators are now listed by their colleagues as avowed candidates for Presidential nominations in 1960.

On the Republican side, it is Senator William F. Knowland of California. He will offer himself as a conservative, although not a reactionary, against any champion of "modern Republicanism." Vice President Nixon seems cast for that role.

Although Senator Knowland opposes the President on several foreign questions, he tops most Senators in support of Ike's domestic program.

The accepted Democratic candidate is Senator John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts. No Senator competes with him in the number of public appearances and speeches. He cannot accept half the in-making — sometimes twice a day. He cannot accept half the invitations he receives from all sections of the country. His itineraries appear designed to make him better known outside his native New England.

English Coffee Will Last As Long As An England

By HENRY MCLEMORE

LONDON — The old expression, "There'll Always Be An England" undoubtedly is true, and I am glad of it. With reservations, that is.

As long as there is an England, you see, there will always be English coffee, and that is a prospect as dismal as the coffee. Almost, that is.

Nothing could be quite as dismal as English coffee. Think of the most dismal things you can — a triple feature with the Bowery Boys, a cocker spaniel being bathed, a pickle factory foreman with mumps — and you still will not have equaled what is brewed and sold for coffee on this tight little isle.

Progress has passed it by. It hasn't taken a forward step in a quarter of a century. I first tasted the stuff in 1934 at a refreshment booth in the infield at Epsom Downs. It was ghastly, having the taste (that cupful, at least) of a finely balanced mixture of cough syrup, aged rain water, eucalyptus leaves, and the scrapings from an 18th century snuff box.

I last tasted English coffee about an hour ago in a tidy little restaurant just off Piccadilly Circus. It was worse, if possible, than the cup I had had 23 years earlier. It didn't have exactly the same flavor, but the net result to the taste buds was the same.

This last cup had a flavor even more exotic than the one at Epsom Downs. I couldn't swear to what the "coffee" was made of, but after seven or eight sips I am willing to swear that the base was charred feathers. Feathers from what bird, I would not know, but it had a sort of salty flavor, so if I had to guess I'd guess the feathers came from a sea gull or a pelican — or a tired albatross.

While the feathers predominated, there were other flavors. I detected the taste of heavily waxed paper, a haunting suggestion of an old chenille bedspread, and the merest hint of indelible pencil lead.

I asked the waitress, as honest-faced as I ever saw, where the restaurant got its coffee.

"A man leaves it," she said. "I find it outside the door once a week."

"Have you told Scotland Yard?" I asked. "Have they a man on the case?"

"Oh, you Americans," she said. "But I wasn't joking. The man who leaves that coffee is up to no good. He has mischief in his heart."

It is only a step, and a short one. But after all these years, England, from leaving that coffee to leaving poison that will leave the customers doubled up like something out of Agatha Christie.

I have no idea why England refuses to take an interest in good coffee. There must be quite a few thousands of Englishmen odd enough to prefer coffee to tea. Also, England makes a tremendous effort to lure American tourists to its shores, and surely the tourist bureau people must have heard that Americans are coffee drinkers, and rather particular about the kind they get. You'd think they'd buy some American blends and put in a few percolators.

It could be revenge for the Revolution, I suppose, but I can't imagine a country holding a grudge since 1776.

There is a possibility no Englishman has ever tasted good coffee, and that they think what they serve is pretty good stuff. I suppose if you drank quinine and hot water long enough you'd finally develop a liking for the stuff.

The CRACKER BARREL

Don Jarrell, of the Omaha World-Herald reports that William M. Miller, the Doorkeeper of the House of Representatives, gets a salary of $16,500 a year, which is almost more than the door is worth. Mr. Miller's little domain, in the vast Washington bureaucracy totals between 250 and 300 persons including Secretary to the Doorkeeper, Janitor - Messenger, Majority Manager of Telephones, Assistant Majority Manager of Telephones, Majority Chief Page, Special Employee (? ? ?), Chief Doorman in the Gallery, Chief Doorman on the House Floor, Chief Janitor, Minority Chief Page, and Supervisor of the Pages' Cloak Room.

Under this bright array of executives, there are 38 more doormen. These poor fellows have no title at all.

Mr. Miller is affectionately known to his colleagues by the not inappropriate nickname of "Fish-bait." As one of the taxpayers who finances all this, I think it's cute. But not very.

Julius La Rosa To Get TV Show This Saturday

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—Julius La Rosa, who got the gate four years ago and the girl one year ago, gets the show this Saturday.
La Rosa, the singer who bounced to fame after Arthur Godfrey, bounced him in 1953, tackled his biggest assignment this week-end when he leans in as summer pinchhitter for Perry Como on NBC-TV.
"I was on for Perry four weeks last summer," said La Rosa as he sipped on a root beer. "But this summer, I've got the show right through till Sept. 7.
Not Changing
"But we're not going to change the show much. It'll be pretty much as it is now—a variety show with the emphasis on singing. We are going to use a lot of big bands though, Count Basie and, I think, Ralph Marterie and Buddy Morrow."

La Rosa celebrated his first wedding anniversary April 2. His wife, Rory, is a former secretary to Perry Como.
"I got the right one," grinned La Rosa. "It probably sounds typical of a man who's only been married a year, but my wife to me is such a beautiful person."
"And she's changed me. Oh, man, how I've changed. I used to be a kind of happy-go-lucky guy who didn't care at all about the future. My agent even had to put me on an allowance after I'd made it."
Real Ball
"You know how it is—a guy out of the Navy who never had more than 15 bucks in his pocket and then all of a sudden here I was a guy who could buy anything I wanted. Man, I had a real ball."

"Now, it's all different. I even look inside the bankbook. I'm really concerned about building a future. Me—the guy who didn't care one way or the other whether things went right or not."
La Rosa's new concern about security has changed his attitude toward music, too. He hasn't had a hit record in quite a spell—his last big ones were "Eh Cumpari" and "Doman!" of several seasons back.

Ike Pulls Coolidge's Trick; Throws A Breakfast Party

A UNITED PRESS EXTRA
By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower picked one right out of the Coolidge bag of tricks today when he joined a platoon of House Republicans at a White House breakfast.

It will be a Coolidge trick, however, minus some of the Coolidge trimmings such as scavenging dogs. Way back there in the boom time 1920s, President Coolidge's breakfasts were frequent, famous and positive puzzlers to his guests. Rarely did they ever learn why they were invited.

Eisenhower, recovered from his stomach upset, is having the House Republicans in to make friends and influence people. Congressional Republicans have been complaining that they have had too little contact with the President. The breakfasts are to mend presidential political fences.

Calvin Was Lonesome
Not so the Coolidge breakfasts. Ike Hoover indicates in his memoirs that Coolidge played breakfast host mostly because he was lonesome and wanted to talk. We used to write of Coolidge as "silent Cal" but it was a misnomer. Coolidge was the talky type.

Hoover for 42 years was chief White House usher. On retirement, he wrote that Coolidge used the breakfast technique more than presidents who preceded him. Ike Hoover believed Coolidge's enthusiasm for White House entertaining largely was grounded on knowledge that Congress shortly before had authorized a White House entertainment expense account.

Coolidge always had mixed parties, Republicans and Democrats, and could charge costs off to official entertainment. Eisenhower had only Republicans today and, presumably, must pick up the tab for a one-party affair.

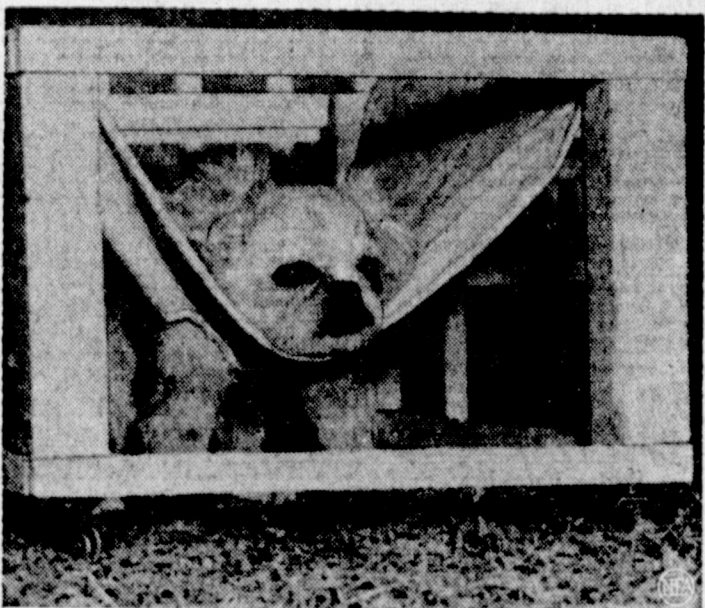

A Simple Diversion
"They were simply one of his diversions," Ike Hoover wrote of the Coolidge breakfasts. "He would have one whenever the notion presented itself and many times on very short notice. Often we had to seek guests at midnight. "Generally he would ask members of both parties and the meal was charged to 'official entertaining.' Many of the Democrats and even some of the Republicans would hesitate about accepting. They did not like the early hour, eight o'clock.

"With few exceptions the breakfasts seemed to have little objective. In fact, we frequently heard a guest inquire upon leaving: 'Why did he have us here?' The question would go unanswered." If there is a lesson in all of this for Eisenhower, it may be that the breakfast hour should accommodate itself to the habits of congressional politicians rather than to the early rising custom of a military man or a New England politician.

And the President should mix some among his guests. Coolidge did not do that. The old timers here recall that Coolidge's suddenly summoned breakfast huddles caused much news excitement and speculation at the time. But they really did not amount to much.

Cadillac

Greatness Is Never Achieved Suddenly!

It has long been true, in the affairs of men, that only time can confirm the gift of greatness.
Artist, statesman, writer, craftsman—each must await the years for the maturity of his talent and for the verdict of his judges.
And as it is in the affairs of men, so it is in the world of commerce. Nothing great was ever created suddenly—whether the product be that of an individual or of an organization.
Here, most certainly, is the very genesis of the unique position which Cadillac currently occupies in the hearts and minds of the world's motorists.
Since the first Cadillac car made its appearance more than fifty-five years ago, it has always been created to a single objective: to make it as fine a motor car as it is possible to produce.
And, without question, the mission and the accomplishment have been one and the same.

The goodness of Cadillac has, in fact, been so apparent over that lengthy span that the Cadillac name stands today as an accepted synonym for quality wherever highways exist.
The pretenders have come—and they have gone. For time is an exacting taskmaster—and only the principles that have created the great Cadillac car and only the devotion that has given it being have been equal to the challenge.
Never has this fact been more deeply etched in the public consciousness than it is during the present automotive year.
If you have yet to take the wheel of a 1957 Cadillac, you should hesitate no longer to visit your authorized Cadillac dealer.
Waiting for you in his showroom is proof beyond doubt that Cadillac is—in fact as in reputation—the Standard of the World!
