Bids Set For June 18 On Underpass

Bids on the construction of the Hobart Street underpass, and related projects will be opened at 9 a. m. on June 18 at the office of the Texas Highway Department in Austin, according to a notice received by G. K. Reading, resident engineer.

In addition to the construction of the underpass on Hobart at the Santa Fe Railroad crossing, the work includes the paving of Price Road between Highways 60 and 152. This road will be known as Farm-to-Market Road 750 when the work is completed.

Also scheduled in the project is the paving of 6.5 miles of Highway 70. This project starts at Wilkes and goes south on the Clarendon highway.

The total project calls for paving of 1,386 miles of highway, including the Highway 70 work and paving Hobart from Wilks to Alocok and Alocok from Hobart to Faulkner. The paving includes the widening of the street.

"We congratulate motorists and traffic law agencies on holding the long week end toll down to below what is expected for a non-holiday week end at this time of year," Safety Council spokesman Paul Jones said.

California had the worst traffic record with 33 killed, Texas was next with 31, Ohio 25, Pennsylvania 23, Georgia 21, Illinois 20, Michigan 17 and Indiana 16.

Other severe accidents occurred in a rash of airplane accidents. Earlier, a father and his two young daughters were killed in a Nebraska plane wreck.

Rev. Ed Hall Is Transferred To Muleshoe

Rev. Ed Hall, pastor of the St. Paul Methodist Church here, has been named pastor of the First Methodist Church at Muleshoe.

The appointment was made at the Northwest Texas Methodist Conference last week at Amarillo.

Named to succeed Rev. Hall here was Dr. Hurlin Watkins, who will come here from Denver, Colo.

Rev. Hall has taken an active role in the civic and religious life of Pampa. He was chairman of the March of Dimes this past year and has also been active in other phases of community life.

Rev. Hall said this morning, "I have certainly enjoyed my stay here. I really think that this is the very best town we have ever lived in. It's small enough to be able to know everybody and big enough to accomplish large projects and acquire what you need without going out of town."

"I sure want to express my appreciation to all the people of this community who have helped me in my work here. The appreciation goes to people of all faiths and denominations. We have made many valued friends here and shall not forget them soon."

His replacement, Dr. Watkins, comes here from Denver, Colo. He has served as a pastor in the Northwest Texas Conference at the First Methodist Church in Lubbock and the First Methodist in Lockney and the last two years has been director of religious education of one of the churches in Denver while attending Iliff School of Theology. He is married and has one boy, 13, and a girl, 6. He will be receiving his Doctor of Theology degree Thursday night and will arrive here Friday. He will preach his first service here Sunday morning. The church is planning a reception Sunday evening at 7 p. m. for Dr. Watkins and his family in Fellowship Hall.

Other appointments of note in the Top O' Texas include: Allison Briscoe, T. M. McBrayer; Booker, Robert Oglesby; Canadian, James E. Price; Darrout, R. O. Browder; Follett, Norman W. Griggaby; Higgins, George E. Tyson; Kelton, A. N. Motes; Lefors, Wesley Daniel; Lela Circuit, O. C. Evans; McLean-Alanreed, Jack Riley; Miami, J. V. Patterson; Mobette, Bruce Matthews; Perryton, E. Duane Bruce; Shamrock, Jim H. Sharp; Wheeler, Carlton Thomson; Wheeler Circuit, to be supplied; Groom, C. R. Hankins; Panhandle, James T. Carter; and White Deer, J. Marvin Menefee.

No changes were made at the other Pampa churches. Rev. Woodrow Adcock will return to the First Methodist Church; and Rev. Oland M. Butler to the Harrah Methodist.

Floods Continuing Havoc From Week End Storms

Budget Cuts Will Not Help Taxpayers

WASHINGTON (UP)—The taxpayers got another reminder today that many of the cuts Congress is making in President Eisenhower's budget are paper reductions and are not going to produce any real savings.

The Council of State Chambers of Commerce said in a report that as much as 40 per cent of the budget reductions made by the House fall into this category.

It also said that even if the congressional economy drive succeeds in shaving 5 billion dollars from Eisenhower's budget request for $72,800,000,000 "a worthwhile tax reduction" may be out of the question.

And the council saw no possibility that the 5 billion goal will be reached unless the House cuts one billion from the last three money bills still to be considered and kills such Eisenhower programs as federal school aid and aid for depressed areas.

The council's report came amid these other developments in the budget battle: Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland said he thinks the Senate will uphold the President's request to restore part of the $2,500,000,000 cut by the House in the military budget.

Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson said he is certain the Senate appropriations committee will not be "stampeded by pressures to appropriate more or spend less."

Johnson predicted Congress will not make any "meat-ax" cuts in the $3,865,000,000 foreign aid program. But he also said it will not grant any long-range "blank checks" for spending.

Knowland agreed that "strings" will be attached to any long-term loan program for economic aid.

Republican National Chairman Meade M. Alcorn, defending Eisenhower, said the people of America had been unfortunate enough to have had Adlai Stevenson elected as president. We would have a budget of over $5 billion.

He married Elaine Pena of Corpus Christi on June 2, 1956. He is survived by his wife, Elaine of Shamrock; his father, A. R. Turo Garcia of Corpus Christi; three brothers, Manuel of Alice, Jimmy and Carmelo, both of Corpus Christi; and three sisters, Miss Josephine Garcia of Shamrock, Mrs. Linda Mayo and Miss Irene Garcia, both of Robstown.

Funeral services are pending at the Clay Funeral Home.

Other congressional developments: Foreign Aid—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee planned further closed-door hearings on President Eisenhower's $3,865,000,000 foreign aid program.

Lunch—President Eisenhower planned to attend a harmony luncheon on Capitol Hill with House Republicans, House GOP Leader Joseph W. Martin (Mass.) hosted the $1.19 chicken and potato salad lunch to try to improve relations between the White House and Congress.

Oil—Sen. Frank Carlson (R-Kan.), Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) and Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.) headed for the White House to make a personal appeal to President Eisenhower for action to cut down imports of foreign oil. Carlson said oil imports now account for almost 19 per cent of domestic consumption and are "headed up" still further.

Burns Result In Shamrock Man's Death

(Special To The News)
SHAMROCK — Francisco Garcia, 35-year-old farm worker on the Willie Knoll farm south of Shamrock, died at 11:30 last night at the Shamrock Hospital as the result of burns which covered approximately 90 per cent of his body.

Knoll reported that Garcia's wife came to his house shortly after 8 a. m. yesterday and reported that her husband was burned. They went to a small lake behind the brooder house where Garcia had been and found only his clothes, Knoll reported.

He said he saw Garcia running through a field and caught up with him in a car. Garcia was taken to the hospital in Shamrock.

Sheriff John Rainey of Collingsworth County and John T. P. Wheeler County deputy sheriff, investigated and reported that apparently Garcia had set his clothes on fire after spraying himself with gasoline. They reported that scratches were found on the wall of the brooder house where Garcia had apparently struck the matches used in setting his clothes on fire.

Garcia was born in Hebronville, Texas, on March 9, 1922, and had moved to Shamrock four years ago.

He married Elaine Pena of Corpus Christi on June 2, 1956. He is survived by his wife, Elaine of Shamrock; his father, A. R. Turo Garcia of Corpus Christi; three brothers, Manuel of Alice, Jimmy and Carmelo, both of Corpus Christi; and three sisters, Miss Josephine Garcia of Shamrock, Mrs. Linda Mayo and Miss Irene Garcia, both of Robstown.

Funeral services are pending at the Clay Funeral Home.

Carlson said oil imports now account for almost 19 per cent of domestic consumption and are "headed up" still further.

CRIME—Sen. John Marshall Butler (R-Md.) said he has suggested to President Eisenhower that a conference of federal, state and local law enforcement officials be called to coordinate action for fighting the dangerous increase in major crimes.

Tax Hearings Are Called A Success

A "successful session" was reported by Vernon Hobbs, chairman of the City of Pampa's Tax Valuation Board, this morning following the termination of hearings which have been conducted the last few weeks.

A total of 25 persons appeared before the board and each case was settled. Approximately 14 complaints were settled. A substantial increase in values over last year was evident this morning, however, the exact figures have not yet been released. Their release is pending checking and final okay.

Hobbs said the tax department's records were in "excellent condition" and felt that Pampa has "one of the best tax systems in the state for our size."

"Everybody was very congenial," Hobbs concluded. City Tax Assessor - Collector Aubrey Jones remarked that cooperation from residents of Pampa has "been wonderful," as pertains to their individual relations with the tax department.

Jones also released the figures of the 1956 tax collections, which show that 93.45 per cent of the assessed taxes were paid on time, leaving 6.55 per cent of the taxes as of now delinquent.

Only 62 per cent difference in 1956 and 1955 tax collections was reported. Tax collections for 1955 were 94.07 per cent, collected at this time year. All taxes not paid by June 1 each year become delinquent.

Two new appointments in the traffic department of Southwestern Bell Telephone Company's Pampa office have been announced. G. G. Harwell, district traffic superintendent, Amarillo, has announced that Miss Joy Park has been named assistant chief operator and Mrs. Bernice Garner relief night chief operator.

Miss Park, a native of Ada, Oklahoma, began her telephone career there as a student operator in 1947. She transferred to Pampa in 1950. She has served in various positions and has relief night chief operator before her promotion.

Mrs. Garner also joined the telephone company in 1947 as a student operator. She served in Shamrock and came to Pampa in 1949. In her new appointment, she will take the position formerly held by Miss Park. Mrs. Garner lives at 211 N. Starkweather. Miss Park resides at 937 S. Sumner.

Court Sets Bond For Local Man
Modesto Sepeda Madrid, 43, of 912 S. Faulkner, was released on $1,000 bond after pleading not guilty in County Court this morning to a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Madrid was arrested by city police after being involved in a collision early Sunday morning with a car driven by A. N. Hunt of Pampa.

Forecasters Predict Let-Up In Texas Thunderstorms

DALLAS (UP)—A week end of downpours threatened new floods in the Colorado River today. But at the same time, forecasters promised an easing of the cloudbursts that have pounded Texas relentlessly for two months.

They continued through the week end, heavily damaging highway and rail bridges and drowning two more persons Sunday.

So much water poured into sprawling Lake Texoma that Army engineers had to flood Red River below the Texoma dam to make room in the lake for the additional water.

Colorado Flooding
Forecasters said flood water in the Colorado River will mean a stage of 26 feet at Wharton Tuesday and minor flooding of lowlands below Columbus to the gulf for 24 hours.

Fort Worth got another scare Sunday when a storm sent the Trinity River and Big Fossil Creek out of their banks. But the water receded overnight with minor damage.

Forecasters predicted light to moderate rain in scattered thunderstorms for the eastern half of Texas through Saturday. For the western half it predicted light to locally moderate rain in widely scattered showers and local thunderstorms.

Two Airmen Drown
Airman 1st Class James Gobsler of Shenandoah, Iowa, and Airman 3rd Class Lawrence Gallagher, Springfield, Ohio, both 21, were lost Sunday when they waded out into Cibola Creek, 13 miles north of San Antonio.

They wanted to see how deep it was. Two hundred ground searchers and observers in helicopters found the body of one man today a half mile downstream from where they went wading. There was no immediate indication which one it was.

Numerous tornadoes were sighted Sunday in the Dallas - Fort Worth area, around Seguin, in Galveston county and in the Sherman area.

Two were known to have touched ground. One of these was at Sherman and no damage was reported. The other ripped roofs from two buildings in Texas City and made a waterspout in Galveston Bay.

Indirectly, the turbulent weather could be blamed for almost a score of deaths among the state's 31 traffic fatalities during the Memorial Day holiday week end. In addition, two Arlington youths were killed by lightning and another victim was crushed while trying to repair a flood threatened railroad bridge near Estelino on the Red River.

The turgid Red, normally a placid stream only a few yards wide, knocked out two other rail bridges connecting Texas and Oklahoma Sunday—a Frisco bridge north of Quanah and a Santa Fe bridge north of Chillicothe. The Quanah, Acme and Pacific Railroad also lost a bridge near Roaring Springs in Motley county.

Bridges Washed Out
The Pease River, a tributary of the Red, kayoed the QA&P bridge and also knocked out four spans of SH 70-bridge at the same spot. The Pease also wrecked seven spans of U. S. 70 between Matador and Paducah, 11 spans of a bridge on U. S. 283 between Paducah and Childress, and five spans on SH 283 between Crowell and Quanah.

Registration for the summer recreation and swimming program for beginners, intermediates, and adult beginners began today in the City Commissioner's room from 1 until 3:30 p. m. for those who wish to take classes beginning June 17. Tuesday afternoon, 1:30 until 3:30 in the City Commissioner's office, registrations will be taken for classes to begin July 1. Registration for classes to begin July 15 will be held Wednesday, same time, same place.

Parents must accompany children, when they register. Age limit is six years and up.

Clouds Give Pampa .18 Inch Of Rain
A total of .18 of an inch of rain was recorded by the rain gauge atop the News Building as rains continued to fall in this part of the Texas Panhandle.

This brings to a total .52 inch of rain since late Friday night and 15.76 for the year. A report from Shamrock showed a total of 1.20 inches of rain in that city since 7 a. m., Saturday.

In spite of the heavy rainfall, the city of Pampa has been spared much of the destruction and inconvenience being experienced throughout many other areas in the state.

Heaviest hit month in inches of rainfall this year was May with a recorded total of 5.06 inches. April followed next with a total of 4.75, and in March there were 4.02 inches recorded.

This month may see a continuation of the upward trend with the .52 inch recorded already with only three days gone in the month. Weather forecasters reported the probability of continued showers throughout the week.

No serious damage was reported in the Pampa area and the major inconvenience was in the thickening of already heavy mud in alleys and roads in and around the city.

Scientists Test Animals For Radiation

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UP)—Scientists today examined scores of mice, pigs and monkeys exposed to radiation in the Atomic Energy Commission's latest A-test at the Nevada proving grounds.

They hoped their study would lead to the development of a practical shield to protect humans from the "prompt" radiation which flares out when a nuclear device is detonated.

The animals were anesthetized and placed at varying distances behind various types of shields before Sunday's test of a "small" nuclear device blasted off atop a 300-foot steel tower.

"Dosimeters" were surgically inserted into the bodies of some of the animals to count internal as well as external dosages of radiation.

The "shot" Sunday was the second in the AEC's spring-summer series, the most extensive ever staged by any nation. It was detonated after three 24-hour delays at the test site 75 miles northwest of here.

His kick of 2,000 tons of TNT was the second smallest in the history of tests on continental United States.

Skellytown Boy Gets Scholarship

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UP)—Seven boys and girls have won scholarships in the 14th annual nationwide competition for Bausch and Lomb science scholarships at the University of Rochester. It was announced today.

A Bausch and Lomb award went to John C. Parsons of Skellytown, Tex., a senior at White Deer high school.

Nine other finalists also were awarded other major scholarships. The Bausch and Lomb Optical Co., sponsor of the science awards, annually appropriates $9,000 for its scholarship competition.

Her portable hair dryer will allow her to get pin curls brushed out fast. Lucite back brush (upper right) does a good job of cleaning up that hard-

There's a luxury note in plastic pillow filled with sponge-rubber (lower right) that comes in many colors and clings to end of tub by means of suction cups.

A Beauty Shower For Bride-To-Be Features Gifts Of Good Grooming

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor
If you are planning to give a bridal shower for a close friend, chances are you're losing sleep trying to figure out how you can make it just a little out of the ordinary.

She's probably received enough lingerie and household appliances to last several years, and a stack of linens, tall enough to hide behind. Of course these gifts are useful, but if you'd like to do something just a trifle different, why not give your favorite bride a "beauty shower"?

It will be difficult for her to perform her regular beauty routine after she is married, for she'll want to look her best at all times for her new husband.

There are a number of items that will help her cut down the time she must devote to beauty and enable her to be attractive while she goes through the preliminary steps to glamor. And there's no doubt that any of these products would make a welcome shower gift.

As the shower hostess, you might set the stage by selecting as your gift a combination bathroom vanity table and clothes hamper. Since the hamper opens with a door at the front, it will be an excellent container for the other shower gifts. Attractively trimmed, it will give a festive air to the occasion.

No girl minds running around in pin curls in front of her family. But she'll certainly want to get her hair set over quickly if her pin-curl audience is her new husband. And for that reason, she'll greet with joy a portable hair dryer. Many of the new home dryers cut short the entire process to just about 30 minutes.

There are a host of aids for home shampoos that would make useful gifts—eye goggles with clear plastic shampoo caps that can double for make-up jobs, even a shampoo tray.

The working bride will love to relax in a warm, sudsy bath if the tub is outfitted with a sectional bath tray which will hold her manicuring set, face creams, and even magazines. Most of these trays come with a large detachable mirror.

Another excellent gift could be a plastic strip of roomy pouches, shaped like an elongated shoe bag, filled with gay-colored rubber sponges, a rubber backwasher, etc. This is a handy gadget to hang near the shower nozzle.

There are any number of delightful beauty aids, both pretty and utilitarian, which can be obtained for a "beauty shower." And there isn't a bride-to-be who won't be charmed and pleased with the thought you have given to make her shower an unusual one.

Ike Is 'Lame Duck' President; Faces Trouble In Congress

By LYLE C. WILSON United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON (UP) — Events are spelling out for President Eisenhower what it means to be a lame duck Chief Executive. He and his successors are barred by the Constitution from a third term. What it means is this: That the most widely supported President ever put in office by the voters is losing control of his party seven months after his triumphant reelection.

Isolating Freedom

Nearly everyone speaks up in favor of freedom. Liberals, communists, rightists and libertarians, all hold to the view that freedom is important. Does this mean that there is a basic agreement in the divergent philosophies? Or is it rather, as Lincoln put it, that "in using the same word we do not all mean the same thing?" Since opinions between communists and libertarians are opposite, it must be that Lincoln's observation holds. What then is meant by freedom?

Perhaps, in order to understand the word fully, we might be wise to delineate just what freedom does NOT mean. In the treatment of a disease germ, scientists have learned that they must first isolate the germ. If it can be discovered just what the germ is not, then ways and means may be found of treating it when, by the process of elimination, it is learned what the germ is.

There are five major fallacies respecting freedom.

1. The belief that freedom has to do with escaping payment.
2. The belief that freedom means that the individual can do as he pleases with the persons or property of others.
3. The belief that freedom means that the individual can defy natural law (i.e. that he can fly like a bird or avoid the law of gravity).
4. The belief that freedom means that a person can enter into a contract voluntarily and avoid fulfillment of the contract.
5. The belief that freedom means that if a person performs harmful acts to others he can escape reprisals or that he can otherwise escape responsibilities.

The degree to which these harmful and unrealistic beliefs clutter the minds of some is appalling.

First, of course, there is no such thing as escaping payment. While it is true that someone may himself avoid paying for something, the truth is that there is nothing free. Someone, somewhere, sometime must pay for everything. Freedom has nothing to do with a free lunch.

Secondly, the individual who feels that he can, in freedom, use the persons or property of others, has already abandoned freedom. He is exercising a license which is universally unjust and inexcusable.

The third point is covered by noting that man is a being who operates within well defined natural laws. Freedom for man has nothing to do with freedom for birds or thistle-down. What we are concerned with is man's freedom, not miracles or phenomenon.

In the fourth place, a contract which is freely entered upon, however wise or foolish the contract may be, entails the fulfillment of the contract by all parties to it. Freedom can only exist if voluntary agreements are voluntarily met. There can be no freedom for anyone, if one party to a contract feels that he can avoid the obligation he has assumed under that contract.

And, finally, freedom is not the same thing as escaping either responsibilities or the natural results of our own misdeeds. Indeed, if freedom manifests it will most quickly manifest at these points.

What, then, is freedom? Freedom is an atmosphere of honor and integrity, wherein we are free to do as we please, subject only to our willingness to let others do as they please. The Golden Rule is the embodiment of freedom. It entails freedom of choice, freedom of action, and the inescapable necessity of being individually responsible for our own choices and actions.

There is no such thing as freedom in the plural. Freedom is an individual matter, indivisible by circumstances, persons or conditions. When a person presumes to remove some one's freedom from another person, he has in point of fact removed that person's freedom in a total sense. Freedom is total, not segmented.

Thus, while so many speak up for freedom, the word as used divergently has altogether different meanings to some than it does to others. What is needed is a widespread willingness to understand the meaning of freedom in a true sense. Then those who misuse the term will fail in their purpose of confusing and misleading others.

The Doctor Says

By EDGAR P. JORDAN, M. D.

Most human cases of rabies or hydrophobia have been acquired from the bites of infected or rabid dogs, but the virus which causes rabies has also been found in foxes, cattle, skunks, cats, horses, squirrels, sheep and other creatures.

As a matter of fact there have been several cases of rabid bats biting humans in the past few years.

With this wide distribution of the rabies virus and because the preventive treatment of a person who has been bitten is not without risks (though much less dangerous than not to be treated at all) we cannot afford to let up on preventive measures or to ignore bites or scratches which might possibly have been made by an infected animal.

The origin of our modern efforts to combat rabies occurred in a Paris hospital December 10, 1880. A child was admitted to the hospital on that date with muscular systems, restlessness, shuddering at the least breath of air, convulsions and terrific thirst accompanied by complete inability to swallow. This child victim of rabies died by suffocation from muscles 24 hours later.

Shocked by this and other tragic deaths from dog or wolf bites, principally in children, the famous French scientist Louis Pasteur collected some of the mucus from this child about four hours after death. He mixed this with water and injected it into some rabbits. The rabbits died in less than 26 hours. The saliva from these animals was again collected and injected into other rabbits with similar results.

Lengthy work in the laboratory and with animals followed. Finally Pasteur developed a vaccine which he thought might be effective.

Several years later a nine-year-old boy from Alsace, who had been bitten by a rabid dog, was brought to the hospital. He had suffered 14 bites and was in great pain. All agreed that he was doomed to a horrible death if nothing could be done. Consequently, this boy, Joseph Meister, got the vaccine. He lived.

Since that time much work has been done on the vaccine. The fact that someone can be bitten by a rabid animal and given the vaccine after the bite in time to prevent the disease with slight risk means that it is essential to examine any animal biting a person.

The attack on rabies also includes elimination of the disease

Reader Speaks Out For Union Labor—My Answer

I am continuing to reproduce a letter from Mrs. C. E. Dillon of Monahans, Texas, attempting to defend labor unions. She writes:

"You continually refer to religious reasons why labor unions are so 'evil' as you put it. Here are a few quotations from some pretty qualified religious leaders on that subject. The Presbyterian Church U. S. A. in 1944 declared and I quote, 'The labor union affords a constructive outlook for an individual's resentment against injustice and for his demand for fair play. At their best, labor unions have been a primary agent of democracy.' end quote.

"Here is another statement made by Catholic Bishops of the U. S. (The Church and Social Order). 'Labor can have no effective voice as long as it is unorganized. To protect its rights it must be free to bargain collectively through its own chosen representatives. If labor, when unorganized, is dissatisfied, the only alternative is to cease work and thus undergo the great hardships which follow unemployment.'

"Is this what you would have?" The above statements are unethical, un-Christian because they do not give a bill of particulars as to how the worker is being treated unjustly or unfairly by the employer. It tends to create ill will and not goodwill.

Will Mrs. Dillon or any other believer in labor unions tell how an employer is treating an employe unfairly and unjustly when he is benefiting his employe more than any other employer can benefit him at that time and place or than he can benefit himself?

The Catholic Bishop is very vague as to what he means by "effective voice." Does he mean that ownership does not give the owner the right to manage his property? Why should the man who has not saved and sacrificed to acquire tools have the right to manage the tools of the man who has saved and sacrificed? Why would a man save and sacrifice to accumulate tools if the non-saver or man without creative ability is to have the right to manage these tools? The person who believes that the worker should have the right to manage the tools that he did not create cannot tell the difference between his ideas of man's rights in private property, other than degrees, than those of Karl Marx or Joseph Stalin or Harry Bridges or Walter Reuther or Dave Beck. Let them try.

We can prove most anything by quoting some person like the above who never raised the wages of anyone due to their own creative ability.

I quoted in a previous article the statement made by the great preacher, Henry Ward Beecher, that: "Organized labor is the worst form of despotism ever devised by the human mind." This is not so because Beecher said it but because of the extortion used by all labor unions.

I am continuing to quote Mrs. Dillon's letter:

"As an employer, you might be sitting right where you are now, while millions of American working men would be literally 'standing in soup lines,' should men like yourself be allowed to dictate the manner in which the present day labor movement should be handled."

My Answer
I know well enough that I am not wise enough to set wages or working conditions. Nor do I think the majority is wise enough to set wages or working conditions. That is the communist philosophy that someone is wise enough to plan the lives of others. I am unalterably opposed to such power.

It is my contention that nobody knows how high wages can be. They ought to be just as high as they possibly can be so that they will have full employment and an ever-increasing wage due to better and more tools and more know-how. And the only way to establish this kind of a wage is to let all workers not just union members - nor the employers or the government - help determine what wages should be.

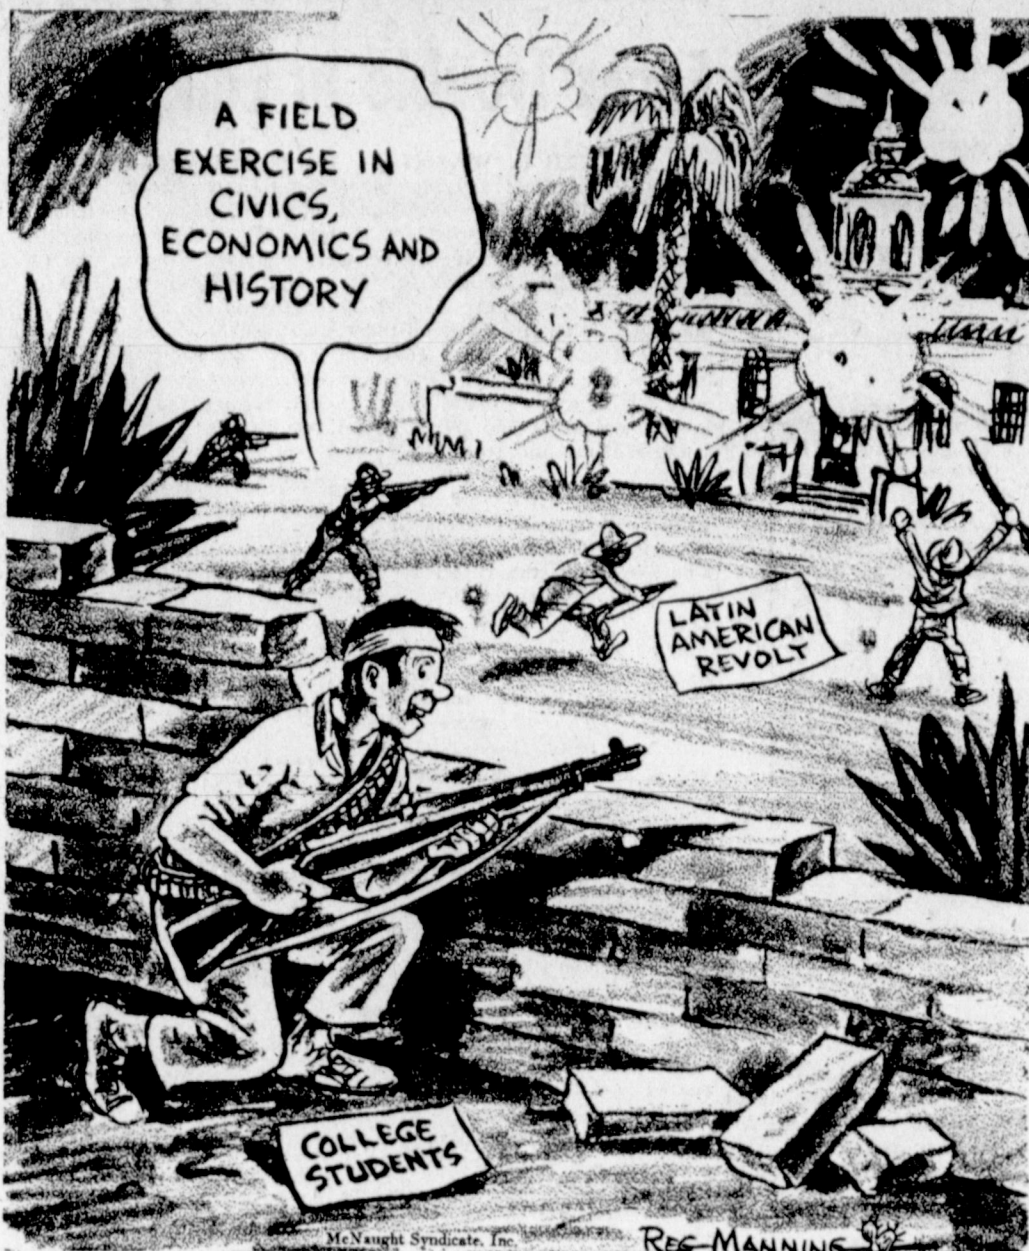

If any individual feels he is not competent to make his own bargain, I want him to have the right to employ any individual or any group to make a bargain for him, so long as he gives every other individual the same right to select his own agent or make an individual bargain himself. This labor unions absolutely refuse to permit. They insist that they must have the exclusive right to make a bargain for those who do not want them to represent them. This is a form of slavery which retards production, causes long periods of unemployment, inflated dollars and great injustice. That's the reason I oppose the tactics used by all labor unions I know of.

Insofar as possible in those animals which carry it, foxes should be trapped where rabies is common, since they may give it to dogs. Dogs should be vaccinated against rabies.

However, the identification of rabies in bats and knowledge that they can and do bite human beings has introduced a new and additional possible hazard. The horrible nature of the disease and the complete ineffectiveness of treatment, once symptoms have developed, makes the application of all our present knowledge absolutely essential.

BETTY KNOWLES HUNT

A BIG HEART
Americans are frequently soft-headed, and currently soft-muscled, but few would deny that they are also wonderfully soft-hearted. Consider the little boy in the well. Benny Hooper, a little unknown blue-eyed lad of seven was given headline billing in the press and on every broadcast across this vast nation for nearly twenty-four hours. He's budget-battle, international affairs, Dave Beck's tongue-tied evasions, the western floods—all took a sudden back seat, to the life and death story of a little boy nobody knew, whom hundreds of volunteer workers were desperately trying to extricate from the bottom of a sandy well over in Long Island, New York.

Why did it matter so much to so many? Was it just one little boy among millions. Accidents happen every day in the year, and catastrophe, suffering and sorrow are an inescapable part of life. In our own family, one of our daughters was seriously ill at the time, and we have enough personal worry to more than occupy our hearts and minds. Why then did we, like millions of other Americans, pray for little Benny Hooper and his parents? Why did we tune in every broadcast, and feel sick and sad when each new set-back was reported? Even our invalid daughter completely forgot herself as she asked over and over again: "Isn't it time for the news yet, Mom? Mom? They've reached him by now!" The old girls rushed in from High School with just one question: "Have they reached Benny Hooper yet?" And when I told them the discouraging reports, their faces registered a personal anguish, as if this child were someone they knew and loved.

At night, when the rescue announcement finally came over the air, the newscaster began his broadcast like this: "Tonight's big story, in fact, tonight's only story is that Benny Hooper has been rescued alive!" And then he devoted his entire broadcast to the rescue story, just as if nothing else of importance had happened in this wide world all day long.

They said it was a miracle, and who wants to dispute it? The boy might have been hurt in the fall. The oxygen tube might not have remained close enough to his nose and mouth all those hours. His jacket might not have become looped over his head and protected his face from the falling sand. The final break through might never have been possible if the unique equipment had not been available, or it might have been accomplished a few minutes or hours too late. Some of the volunteer workers might have been injured or killed. The list of "might's" is almost endless, but none of them happened, and it all adds up to a pretty wonderful miracle.

The happy ending sent a thrill of awe and jubilation across the nation. A mysterious feeling of goodness and joy filled fast-beating hearts throughout America. It made a frightening world seem a little less frightening, and everyone's personal burdens and worries a little lighter. It made humanity in general seem a lot more human and inspiring than it seems on ordinary days, and it made God seem suddenly very near and understanding.

Benny Hooper was just one little boy in dreadful danger, but for twenty-four hours he was everybody's little boy. Benny's parents were just one boy's parents, but for twenty-four hours, their ghostly fear and heartache were shared by millions of other parents, and their fervent prayers were aug-

OUTSTANDING EXCEPTION

(Industrial News Review)
Most individuals and groups are all for economy in government, so long as it is confined to someone else's interests. When it comes home to them, they often rise up in wrath. So it is pleasant to record an outstanding exception to this rule.

The exception is provided by the Committee of American Steamship Lines, which is made up of 14 American-flag lines operating under subsidy contracts with the government. Actually, those subsidies are differential payments. They are designed to help make up the tremendous difference in costs between building and operating ships in this country as against the costs in other maritime nations with which we must compete.

The steamship lines in question have been vigorously carrying on a huge ship replacement program which everyone agrees is vital to the future of our merchant marine. Now, however, as part of the general economy drive, the Senate has under consideration a House recommendation that $91,500,000 in ship construction funds be eliminated from the Maritime Administration budget for the 1958 Administration budget for the fiscal year. The chairman of the Committee of American Steamship Lines has written a letter about that to the chairman of the Senate Subcommittee on Commerce Appropriations, here, in part, is what he said: "This simply means that in the interest of economy some parts of the ship construction and replacement programs will be temporarily delayed. If this delay serves the National need for economy, we cannot in conscience oppose it."

The country needs more of that attitude and recognition of the principle it upholds.

ECONOMY DRIVE STALLING?

(N. Y. Daily News)
All of us are used to seeing the Senate restore budget cuts made by the House. But now the House has taken to restoring cuts made by itself in President Eisenhower's peace-time record of $7.8 billion budget. We'd say this is a cue for everybody who has written a "Cut This Drunken Waste" letter or postcard to his Senators and Congressmen to take time out to write another, or two or three, stating that he wasn't kidding and won't forget.

Labor Issue Expected To Be Minimized In Next Election

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The current series of scandals within several great unions is expected to minimize the importance of the labor issue in American politics. Indeed, the adverse public reaction may tend to eliminate it altogether on a national scale along with such moribund questions as prohibition and the tariff.

It may mark the end of a turbulent era of ballot-box cooperation between politicians and even more respectable bosses than Dave Beck. This prospect is especially imminent because, as thousands of letters to the McClellan Committee reveal, union members and their families have been disillusioned completely concerning the integrity and intelligence of so many of their leaders.

Nor will the AFL-CIO's belated ousting of Beck absolve the top organization from suspicion. They have known for years of Beck's questionable activities, but they made no effort to discipline him until he was exposed at grimly televised hearings on Capitol Hill.

The Beck denouement has had a chain reaction within many labor organizations. It has encouraged members of other unions — the textile, bakery, utilities, etc. — to demand an investigation of their officers.

This is doubtful if the rank and file will ever again respond to the hierarchy's political exhortations, which have favored the Democrats for the last 24 years.

In fact, the process of desertion began in 1952, when they reacted to AFL-CIO endorsement of Stevenson by voting for President Eisenhower, and it continued in even larger volume with his 1956 reelection.

Several unknown political factors account for the AFL-CIO's prompt condemnation and expulsion until after Teamsters' September convention. Liberal and pro-labor Members of Congress warned George L. Meany, AFL-CIO president, he must bounce Beck in order to preserve a minimum of labor support on Capitol Hill.

They pointed out that they could not afford to vote even against extreme punitive legislation unless the bigwigs met Senator McClellan's challenge to "clean their own house." Among the Congressional critics have been such labor sympathizers as Senator John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts and Senator Irvin M. Ives of New York.

As a result of these friendly tips, the bosses court-marshaled the Seattle manipulator of union funds. They will also accept meekly the legislation they have hitherto opposed, including publicity and regulation of the hundreds of millions of dollars which they hold in trust.

They will even amend their constitution so as to make it more possible for individual unions and members to force their bosses to behave. They will supplant a czaristic and close-mouthed system with democratic processes, albeit reluctantly.

These scandals and the Beck expose is not an exclusive affair, have taught a lesson to labor leaders everywhere. Instead of mixing into politics and tangling with politicians, as they have done since 1932, they may limit their activities to strictly union business and problems. In view of their present legislative status, they need no backroom tie-ups.

Labor is definitely on the defensive on Capitol Hill and in every State Legislature. Under such circumstances, the smartest strategy may be to beat a retreat from the political field lest it suffer more severe reversals.

Answers Questions From The Home Readers

By HENRY McLEMORE

LONDON—Almost since the day of the feather ball and the biff, I have dreamed of getting my golf score down below an unhandsome 120.

One season, by doing practically nothing else but play golf, seeking out short, flat, untrapped courses, engaging only caddies who see, engaging only caddies who see, could not count, and always played by myself, I did lower my average score to 119.

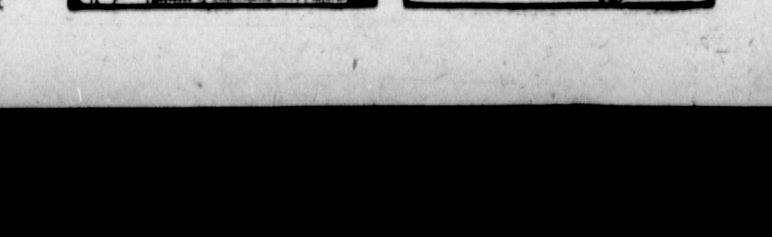

But the next year I was back to 120, and there I have stayed. You can imagine my excitement when word reached me here that Ben Hogan had published a series of articles which, if studied carefully, would enable any man to shoot in the seventies. That would mean more than 40 strokes off my game. I would mean that I could come out of the woods and the rough and walk the fairway like other men. It would so lift my game that a foursome of ladies would not have to ask to play through me, and I would not have a handicap like a bank statement.

Straight away, I bought the series. All five of them. I practically ran to the hotel from the news stand, turned on the reading light, and started studying feverishly.

The lessons are profusely illustrated, but at the outset I was so busy reading the text that I didn't notice them. I wish I never had. Because the minute I looked at the drawings — some of them in black and white, some like medical charts, with the veins and muscles exposed — I knew I had wasted my money.

All of the illustrations are of Hogan, and beautifully done. But the more I looked at them, the more I knew I wasn't anything like Hogan in build. To make absolutely certain, I got up and dressed just as Hogan is dressed in one illustration.

He is wearing shorts, a tee shirt, short socks, and shoes. He is a small but superbly proportioned man. I am small, too, but not superbly proportioned. Where his calves bulged, mine either were sunk in or drooped. His chest and stomach were hard as the top of a cook stove, mine more the texture of rice pudding. In the medical diagrams of Hogan, his veins were round and long and red. I couldn't look at my veins very well, but I knew from instinct they were not.

Rookie Pitcher Shines as Phillies Sweep Bums

Dick Farrell Picks Up His Third Win Of The Season

By FRED DOWN
United Press Sports Writer

Add Dick Farrell to Jack Sanford and Don Cardwell, and the dark-horse Philadelphia Phillies are getting the best rookie pitcher in the National League has seen since Jim Turner and Lou Fette each won 20 games for the Boston Braves back in 1937.

Farrell, a 6-foot, 8-inch right hander from Brookline, Mass., picked up his third victory of the season Sunday when the Phillies beat the Brooklyn Dodgers, 5-3, and moved to within two games of the first-place Cincinnati Redlegs. It was the Phillies' third straight over the Dodgers and their 11th victory in their last 15 games.

The Redlegs clobbered the Chicago Cubs, 6-4, for their seventh straight win over the Bruins but then lost the nightcap, 4-2, to the three-hit pitching of Bob Rush and Don Elston. The third-place Milwaukee Braves downed the St. Louis Cardinals, 3-1, and the Pittsburgh Pirates swept the New York Giants, 3-2 and 2-0, in the other National League games.

Chisox, Yanks Both Split
The Chicago White Sox split their double-header with the Detroit Tigers, winning, 4-1, after a 3-1 defeat to retain their five-game lead in the American League. The second-place New York Yankees bounced back from a 3-2 loss to down the Baltimore Orioles, 4-1, the Kansas City Athletics whipped the Cleveland Indians, 8-2, and the Boston Red Sox scored a 5-3 victory over the Washington Senators in other A.L. activity.

Farrell, who yielded only three hits in the last five innings after taking over for Bob Miller, now has a 3-1 record. He, Sanford and Cardwell have combined for a 12-3 mark so far this year and have transformed a team that the experts said was headed for the second division into a dangerous pennant threat. Farrell and Stan Lopata homered for the Phillies.

Gallant Man, the little Kentucky-bred colt who lost the Kentucky Derby to Calumet's Iron Liesge by a nose, carried Willie Shoemaker to a two-and-a-half length victory over Promised Land in the Peter Pan Handicap Saturday at Belmont.

Barbizon, Calumet's chief hope in the Belmont because Iron Liesge and Gen. Duke are sidelined with injuries, finished eighth in a field of 10 Saturday in the Kent Stakes at Delaware Park. Lucky Dip, a French-bred colt who is eligible for the Belmont, won the mile-and-a-half race by a length and a quarter over Inswepit, also a Belmont nominee.

Saturday was a bad day for Calumet. Bardstown, its crack handicap horse, was the 1-5 choice in the $33,600 Camden Handicap at Garden State but lost the mile-and-a-half test to Third Brother by four lengths.

In other feature races Saturday, Eddie Schmidt defeated Family Album by three-quarters of a length in the Golden State Breeders Handicap at Hollywood Park.

Gallant Man Boosts Stock In Belmont

By UNITED PRESS
Gallant Man boosted his Belmont Stakes stock during the week end but Barbizon's poor showing dampened Calumet Farm hopes for victory in the June 15 racing classic.

Clovis, Ballinger In Crucial Series In S'Western League

By UNITED PRESS
Clovis takes a two and a half game lead into its crucial two-game series with Ballinger tonight in the Southwestern League.

The Redlegs drubbed El Paso twice 9-5 and 13-3, while Ballinger was splitting a pair with Hobbs, losing the first 4-1 and winning the second 9-6. The other two games, Carlsbad at San Angelo and Midland at Plainview, were postponed due to wet grounds.

Chico Alvarez poked his 18th and 19th homers for the Redlegs, one in each game and both of them for two runs.

Clovis was out in the first game 16-14, pouring on the steam in the seventh and eighth with three runs each time for the victory.

However, the Redlegs picked up 16 hits of their own in the second game while Pete Carrillo was scattering seven El Paso hits.

Paul Dubowski slammed a solo homer for the Texans in the last game.

Hobbs shot off to a two-run lead in the first inning of the opener against Ballinger, scoring on a walk, error and John Spicuzza's triple. Jim Waldrip spaced five hits for the victory.

Hobbs picked up 10 hits in the Westerners' eight in the second game, but the Sports left 10 men stranded. Ballinger scored four in the first on three hits, one a two-run double by Ken Jones, an error and a pair of wild pitches.

Stubby Greer slapped a solo homer for the Westerners.

Qualifying For National Open Starts

By UNITED PRESS
A total of 1,892 golfers will be bucking odds of more than 13:1 today when qualifying rounds for the National Open championship are staged at 24 sites across the nation.

A field of 162 will compete in the championship proper at Toledo, Ohio, June 13-15. Nineteen players, including defending champion Cary Middlecoff, are exempt from qualifying, and Jimmy Makalena earned the right to represent Hawaii during qualifying play at Honolulu, May 27.

That left 142 berths up for grabs today, which means only 121 will get a chance to match their skill against the likes of Middlecoff, Ben Hogan and Ed Furgol in the championship.

As former champions, Hogan, Furgol, Jack Fleck and Julius Boros also are exempt from qualifying.

Great Britain defeated Yola Ramirez and Maria Reyes of Mexico to win the women's doubles title at the French International Tennis Tournament.

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y. — Sam Sneed overtook Doug Ford in the final round to close with an aggregate of plus 41 points in winning the Palm Beach Round Robin golf tournament for the fifth time.

LANGHORNE, Pa. — Johnny Thomson set a new world record as he drove his D.A. Lubricant Special around the 100-mile dirt oval of the Langhorne Speedway in 59:57.14 in the United States Auto Club's national championship.

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. — Fay Crocker won the fifth annual Triangle Round Robin golf tournament with a total score of 81 points, five more than runner-up Mickey Wright.

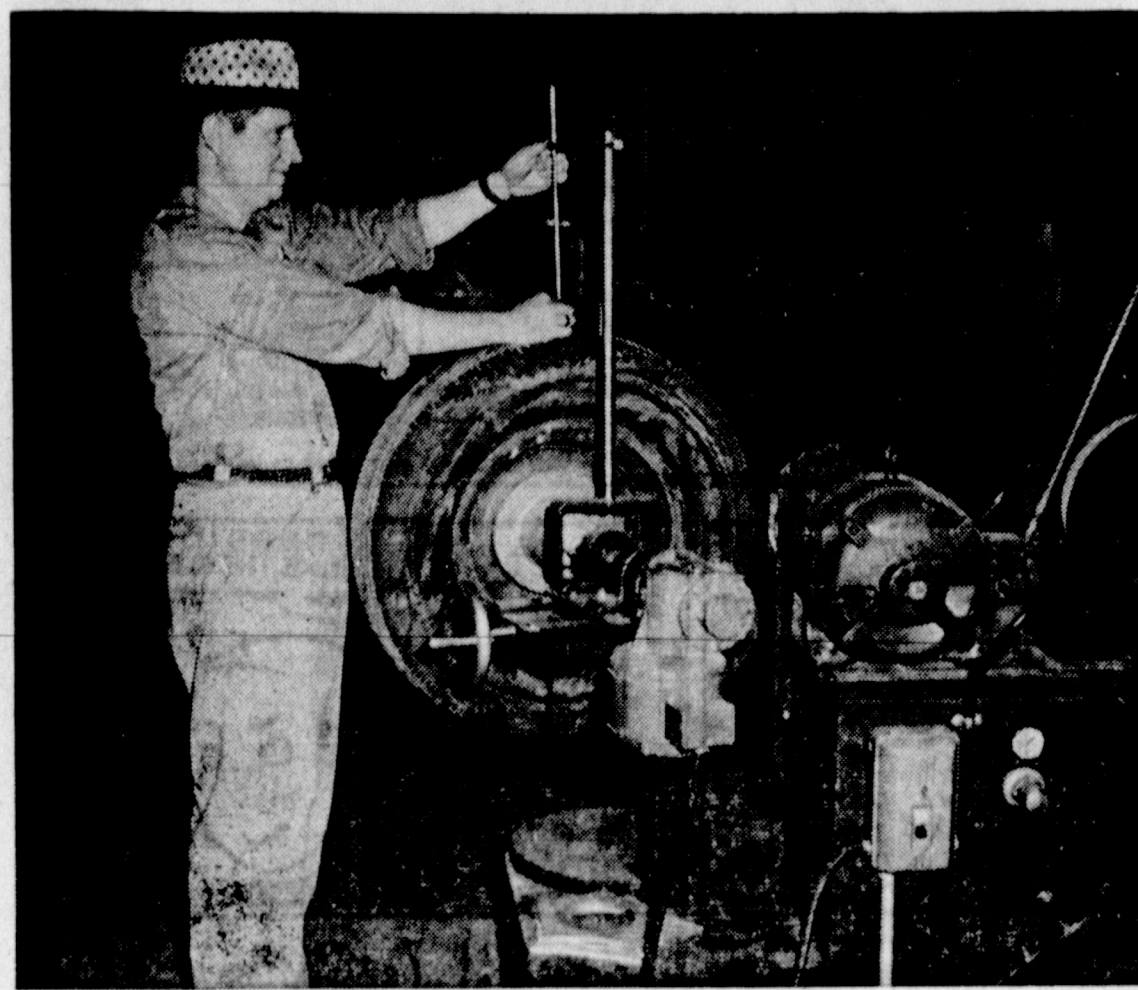

STOCKTON, Calif. — Don Bowen, University of California middle distance star, ran the mile in 3:58.7 to become the first American to break the four-minute barrier.

Hall & Pinson Puts More Fun In Your Summer Motoring

FOR A BETTER AUTOMOBILE RIDE—Leymond Hall, owner and operator of Hall and Pinson Tire Co., 700 W. Foster, MO 4-3521, adjusts the Tru-O-Matic Truing Machine to prolong the life of a tire. Just one adjustment and this machine makes a tire perfectly round, and shapes the crown of the tire perfectly—all in only 5 minutes! Tire truing and wheel balancing is a specialty at Hall & Pinson. These processes give you a better automobile ride, add mileage to your tires, and cut automobile repair bills because irregular spots on your tires cause vibration damage. Drive in today—have your tires checked in only a minute or two. 700 W. Foster, MO 4-3521.

Summer motoring on vacation trips and on week end jaunts is a lot of fun, and it's even more fun when your tires are perfectly round and free of the slip, shimmy and shake.

Hall & Pinson Tire Co., 700 W. Foster, MO 4-3521, in a very few minutes makes your tires perfectly round and perfectly balanced.

Truing, Balancing Pay

For a moment think of your car. How often have you noticed excess vibration, shimmy or tire slip? Those conditions cause excess vibration, bounce, shimmy, driver fatigue, unnecessary repair bills.

Tire truing and wheel balancing from a perfect team at Hall & Pinson and save for you:

1. Longer tire mileage by thousands of miles.
2. Lower car repair bills because tire truing and wheel balancing eliminate front end damage due to excessive vibration and shimmy.
3. Less driver fatigue because of easier, smoother driving.
4. More driving pleasure because your ride is smoother.
5. More safety.

Tire truing — making tires perfectly round — is another great step toward the perfect automobile ride because no amount of wheel balancing can produce a smooth, vibration-free ride if the wheels are out-of-round.

Few Minutes

The reason this team of tire-truing and wheel-balancing takes only a few minutes at Hall & Pinson Tire Co. is this: the use of the Tru-O-Matic Tire Truing Machine and the Alemite Electronic Wheel Balancer.

On the Alemite Wheel Balancer you see yourself when your wheels are balanced because the balance registers on the dial!

Vibration Free Ride

For the smooth, vibration free ride you enjoy most your tires must be perfectly round and your wheels balanced. You realize the importance of this when you realize:

Eight out of ten tires that have been driven more than 2,000 miles are out-of-round, although the same tires were within 125th of an inch of roundness when they left the factory.

Your tires stretch as the molecules of rubber align themselves with the stresses of the tire, causing high spots and dished out areas in the tread. These irregularities vary from 1-64th of an inch to 3-16ths of an inch on passenger

CARE is providing, at the cost to contributors of one dollar each, a school kit especially prepared for Chinese children in Hong Kong whose parents, refugees from Communist China, are too poor to buy them the materials they need. THE BALD BOY

Chapter Eleven

Anyone Ever See a Mink With a Bald Spot?

By ELMER WHEELER

Raising fur-bearing animals is big business. So is raising hair on a baldy. Why, then, shouldn't a study of how raisers breed animals for thick pelts be of value to a guy losing his head pelt?

I read up on the subject. It seems fur raising specialists long ago discovered that proper feeding of the animal puts thicker and finer hair on it, and it brings more money on the market.

A real good mink brings some $35,000. I'd perhaps get 10 cents for my head pelt at the dime store. Davey Crockett fur pieces get $1.50.

I didn't even get a glance from an Oklahoma Indian the time I went to Tulsa to speak for the sales club there. I was insulted.

Animals, I found out, are fed scientific food. I've seen chickens fed various colors that made the eggs repeat the colors of green, yellow, red.

Animals are fed clean, wholesome foods packed with wheat germs, rolled oats, ground apples. None are fed dried bread made entirely of unfortified white flour. Ask Peter J. Michael.

They are fed raw meat, fish, ground bone, tomatoes, carrots and milk. No wonder mink costs so much. They are fed well.

It seems the raisers don't cook foods. Too much loss in vitamins and minerals, they say.

It is a well-known fact that children in the South who ate overly cooked foods, while the servants' children got the "pot liquor," had more ailments than the servants' children who lopped up the vitamins and minerals cooked out of the foods the rich kids got.

I instructed my wife to cook faster. Use those fancy fast pressure cookers that kept the juices (the wines of life) inside the foods so they'd get inside me.

I wasn't planning on selling my head pelt. Just to get it back if possible by proper inside nourishment, not outside rubbing.

One raiser told me that if he left out just one vitamin or mineral, the fur was abnormal.

So I made sure of getting a full daily round of vitamins and minerals, by purchasing a food supplement that contained my minimum requirement.

I realized, of course, from the raisers' statements that nothing can replace nature's own food direct from the ground, but like a guy carries insurance, it was okay to insure yourself of not missing anything by eating supplements.

Heck, if I took such great care in buying my sheep dog his dog food, why not take as much care in my own foods?

Even a monkey gets scientific food fed to him at the zoo.

You never saw a bald-headed Eskimo, did you? He doesn't eat our highly refined foods.

On the other hand, look at the bald-headed Asiatics. They diet on polished rice. No Marine ever could grab one by the hair and pull him out of a foxhole.

"A good mink brings $35,000. I'd get 10 cents for my head pelt."

A Dr. Weston Price found in his trip around the world to study tooth decay of various peoples, that natives with no tooth decay got holes in their teeth the year they strayed into a white man's settlement and began to consume his refined foods.

On analyzing the diet of these natives, the doctor found their foods were loaded with vitamins and minerals, often 10 times in excess of their daily needs.

Good hair men, I'm advised, look at your teeth and gums, and if their condition is bad, they know the same causes are affecting your hair and it needs immediate nutritional correction.

Circulation to the scalp, that tightly drawn skin, is needed and my doc told me, too, that bleeding gums and teeth can steal the blood from the head and cause the hair to be lacking in needed blood.

How rare is a bald-headed Indian in our own country? He needed hair for scalping purposes! They tell the story of a Crow Indian named Chief Long Hair who had 25 feet of the lush stuff. When a bald-headed white man greeted the chief with, "Me wearum feathers on my head to keep my wig warm."

NEXT: Exercise your hair.
