STILL DEFIANT — Arkansas Governor Orval E. Faubus is still defiant today after a federal judge has denied a delay in integration of Central High School in Little Rock. The governor has stationed National Guard troops around the school to halt efforts by Negroes to enter. He told newsmen that he issued the order to "maintain peace and order."

Faubus Continues Defiance

Negroes Repulsed At School In Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UP)—Six Negroes were repulsed today at the doors of North Little Rock High School not far from another school that was kept segregated with the troops of Gov. Orval E. Faubus.

At the main trouble spot up until today, it was relatively quiet this morning as white pupils entered under the watchful eyes of National Guardsmen. No Negroes appeared and the onlookers began dispersing as school bells clanged and boys and girls tried to get their thoughts on algebra and English.

Negroes made two attempts to gain entrance to the North Little Rock school. The first was stopped by Principal George E. Miller who asked the Negroes to come back later for an office conference. Integration had been scheduled at the school but was postponed by order of the school board.

On the second try, however, the Negroes were followed by a howling crowd and were brought up short at the school door by a white man who barred their way. He identified himself as L. E. Stroud, Stocky and wearing a wide-brimmed felt hat, Stroud stood with legs spread and firmly planted at the door of the building and said:

"I've got a kid here, and I'm not going to let my kid go to school with any black Negro."

The crowd, jostling and pushing, jeered the Negroes back down the stairs. One Negro said he was struck.

Plainclothesmen, either National Guardsmen or working for the guard, apparently were reporting developments at the school to Gen. Sherman T. Clinger, head of the troops.

The fresh incident was expected to add grave new doubts to the Eisenhower administration — that the Arkansas dilemma might be settled amicably.

The mayor of Little Rock called Faubus' position "sedition" and of the caliber of events that touched off the Civil War.

The North Little Rock Negroes, all 17 and 18 years old boys, were accompanied by four ministers. They were followed up the steps of the school by a large crowd of white students and adults who jeered their every step.

At the top of the steps the white shoulder walk through which the crowd formed a shoulder to shoulder wall through which the Negroes could not pass. One of the ministers, the Rev. J. H. Gibson, said they would probably ask for police protection to make a fresh attempt at entrance.

Integration Postponed
The North Little Rock school was to have been integrated this week by school board plan but the board postponed the transition because of the trouble in neighboring Little Rock.

At the main center of action in the critical controversy — Little Rock's Central High School — the governor sent in fresh National Guard reinforcements.

All was quiet at the Central High area prior to the opening of school although a tense atmosphere prevailed.

Risk Is Great
The governor risked punishing retaliation from the government but President Eisenhower and Attorney General Herbert Brownell were moving cautiously and slowly in hopes that something would happen to break off the first case in the integration controversy wherein a governor has displayed outright revolt.

North Little Rock police stationed at the school, immediately stepped in and broke up a fight (See FAUBUS, Page 2)

Arrive Today Arms Flown To Jordan To Bolster U.S. Allies

By MURRAY BROWN
United Press Staff Correspondent

A fleet of U.S. military transports flew arms to Jordan today in a dramatic move to back up President Eisenhower's pledge to bolster America's Middle East allies against the threat of Soviet-inspired aggression.

The air ferry brought angry reactions in Moscow, Damascus and Cairo. Communist propaganda mills ground out an almost endless stream of invectives, accusing the United States of plotting "aggression" against leftist Syria. Similar charges were made in Damascus where the Syrian cabinet met into emergency session to discuss the situation.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UP)—Negroes mixed with whites in the first grade here today while picketing segregationists paced the sidewalks and police kept a watchful eye over proceedings.

NEW YORK (UP)—The foreign editor of the Daily Worker today severed his Red ties because of the U.S. Communist Party's subservience to Soviet foreign policy.

Hurricane 'Carrie' Continues Buildup

MIAMI (UP)—Hurricane Carrie, a potential killer storm with 150-mile-an-hour winds, continued to build up far out in the Atlantic today as its sister storm Debbie sloshed rain squalls over the Carolinas and Virginia.

Carrie—by far the biggest tropical storm of the season—churned steadily on a west-northwest course, some 2,100 miles southeast of Miami, but posed no immediate threat to any land points.

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Eisenhower administration is moving cautiously in the Little Rock, Ark., school segregation struggle in hopes of avoiding a head-on collision with Arkansas Gov. Orval E. Faubus, highly-placed sources said today.

THEY OUGHT TO BE IN A MUSEUM—And they are. It was moving day for the Cleveland (Ohio) Museum of Natural History and these characters got out for a breath of fresh air and wound up in front of the lens of an enterprising cameraman. The "thing," at left, is Terry the Pterodactyl, perched over the entrance of the new museum. He—or maybe it's she—is one of a pair of the flying reptiles at the $900,000

Peeking Pierre, right, is the noisiest of the museum inhabitants. The prehistoric swimming reptile, called a plesiosaur, sticks his head out of a window to see what's doing out on the 11-acre grounds of the museum.

New Flow Of Funds Sought For Home Mortgage Market

By EDWARD COWAN

United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Sept. 7 (UP)—A private financial group here is working out details of a plan to open the tap on a flow of new funds into the home mortgage market.

Basically, the National Savings and Loan League idea is to get pension and welfare funds to invest in mortgages through a financial intermediary—a new corporation whose capital stock would be bought by savings and loans associations.

The corporation would sell debentures to the pension funds and would buy real estate mortgages from the savings associations. By this indirect means, the pension funds' swelling cash bags could be partly emptied into the residential mortgage market—a type of investment the funds have shied away from because they aren't equipped for the mechanics of mortgage buying and servicing.

Tapping this reservoir of potential mortgage money, some sources say, could make a difference of 100,000 or more housing starts a year.

One of the many problems involved in putting the scheme across is that the Federal Savings and Loan Association would need congressional authority to buy stock in the new corporation. State associations would in many cases also have to obtain similar permission from their respective legislatures.

Will Congress and state lawmakers liberalize the rules governing the associations' investments? Some congressmen feel that such liberalization should be allowed only if it will mean more money for government-backed, low-interest mortgages for the "little guy."

Buy Conventional Mortgages
But the National League proposal—which it hopes will be introduced at the next session of Congress—is for the new corporation to buy "conventional" mortgages at the "going rate." It is doubtful that pension and trust funds could be enticed into buying the new corporation's debentures unless they paid a higher return than government-backed mortgages presumably would yield.

Top rate for mortgages guaranteed by the Veterans Administration is 4 1/2 per cent. For federal housing administration-insured loans it is 5 1/4 per cent. An official of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board also takes a dim view of the chances for congressional approval of the new venture. Even with the board's recommendation, he told the United Press, "I don't think Congress

Whales Give Off Sounds 'Heard' By Other Whales

By DELOS SMITH
United Press Science Editor
NEW YORK (UP)—Science now

has some pretty solid proof that whales give off sounds intended to be meaningful to other whales. The proof is in the form of recordings of "conversations" among female sperm whales and their joint mate.

All were transmitted under water, which is not surprising because whales are poorly equipped for hearing anything transmitted through the air. Their ears are relatively tiny and are inside the head, and the ears are covered by thick layers of wax.

Supports Old Theory
Yet it is well known that sounds are picked up by whales with obvious interest. For instance, a small splash in the ocean usually will produce an immediate reaction.

The sperm whale recordings tended to support the idea that there is no such thing as a mammal which is incapable of making sounds meaningful to its fellows. The giraffe was long thought to be one such, but recent evidence indicates that giraffes vocalize, though infrequently.

R. H. Backus, of the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution, Woods Hole, Mass., recorded the sperm whale sounds while in an institution vessel 200 miles south of Cape Cod, L. V. Worthington, in another institution vessel, heard them off the North Carolina coast through the ship's echo-sounding radar.

Built-in Radar
Worthington saw five whales loitering on the surface. Sperm whales go about in groups of females accompanied by a male. The first sound, as the ship approached, were muffled smashes—the smashes about half a second apart, he heard "a grad-

"FAR FROM THE MADDING CROWD"—That's what this planned transportation system is intended to do for the person making his way about a crowded center of a city. This artist's conception shows what a "Carveyor" would look like under a Washington, D.C., street. The small passenger cars travel on flat conveyor belts. The passenger boarding a car merely steps onto a loading belt going 1 1/2 m.p.h., same speed as the cars. After loading, the cars, which never stop, pick up to 15 m.p.h. Developed by the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. and Stephens-Adamson Mfg. Co., the system is designed to ease the transportation problem in crowded city centers.

Ever Hear Of Mary Hosford? Don't Worry, You Will Soon

By VERNON SCOTT

United Press Hollywood Writer
HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Ask the man in the street, "who is Mary Hosford?" And the odds are 100 to 1 you'll draw a blank stare.

But she's the most talked-about newcomer in Hollywood and soon will be as highly publicized as Marilyn Monroe, despite the fact that she's a 31-year-old matron.

Before the year is out Mary Hosford will have become a movie star and authoress. And to put the trimming on the cake, she will also announce her marriage to one of the country's richest socialites.

The picture is "The Missouri Traveler." The book's entitled "The Mary Hosford Cook Book." The millionaire is industrialist-sportsman C. V. Whitney—who also produced the film in which she stars.

Mary, who proudly admits she's 31 and the mother of four youngsters (all under 9), is forming her own company, Mary Hosford Enterprises Inc.

"I've never been so happy, or so busy, in my life," says Mary, her blue eyes sparkling.

"But then I've never led a dull life, and my reactions to all these wonderful things won't throw me." "It might be different if I were 18 years old. However, I've had time to weigh the values of life and hope to take any future successes gracefully."

A Phoenix housewife a year ago, Mary also sold real estate. Last summer she encountered Whitney at a supper club. The meeting changed her life forever. He was looking for a leading lady for his film. And Mary, a petite five-foot, three-inch tall and weighing 105 pounds, fitted the bill.

Mary's show business was limited to a gossip program on a Phoenix TV station and Little theater work at the University of Iowa. She also was a disc jockey in Kansas City during World War II.

"Now I have a contract with Mr. Whitney for one picture a year," she smiled. "I'll never make movies for anyone else."

Currently ensconced in a 14-room Bel-Air mansion, Mary does most of the family cooking. Her book, which she described as "an autogastrology," is loaded with tasty recipes she has gathered during her travels all over the globe, and features autobiographical sketches of herself and family life as a child in the Mid-West.

By the time Mary's book is published, her movie released and her marriage announced, busy Miss Hosford's name will be well-known indeed, to the man in the street.

Olivia went on to say that many French women indulge in yogi. She was introduced to the cult by her husband, French journalist Pierre Galante.

She has adapted herself to Paris-

"Twice a week I spend 45 minutes with Madame Vidal. She is my yogi instructor," the brown-eyed actress said. "I asked her to recommend a yogi for me over here, but she didn't know any reliable ones in Hollywood."

"I've lived in Paris for the past four years. In that time I made three pictures and one baby (Gisele, age 13 months). I doubt if I will ever come back to live in Hollywood. You might say I'm giving it up for a man—my husband."

Women's Society Of Christian Service Begins Study Of Ecumenical Movement

CIRCLE ONE
Mrs. Clarence presided over the meeting of Circle 1 in the home of Mrs. W. E. Jarvis. Mrs. Bob McCoy, president of the WSCS, announced the council of Church Women will have a meeting on Sept. 20 in the Lamar Christian Church at 2:30 p.m. Members are requested to take used nursery books, toys, crayolas and other articles for the Carver Nursery.

Mrs. E. S. Williams conducted the study on "The Social Witness of the Local Church in the Ecumenical Movement." The key question to the study is, do we care for humanity? Mrs. Williams stated that the purpose of the new study is to discover what is the duty of every Christian man and woman as related to the Ecumenical movement. "The World Council of Churches" was the subject discussed by Mrs. Melvin Stephens. Mrs. W. L. Rowntree's topic was "World Federation of Methodist Women."

In 1948, 1952 and 1956 there were meetings of the World Council of Churches with 40 to 50 countries represented. Leaders from these countries met to discuss the problems of each and how to accept responsibility; how to earn the money to carry on their work. These and many other vital and interesting points were brought out in the program.

The meeting was closed with the reading of "Litany for Modern Man" and a prayer.

CIRCLE TWO
Circle 2 starts new study, "The Social Witness of the Local Church in the Ecumenical Movement," when they met in the home of Mrs. Thelma Bray, Sept. 4 at 9:30 a.m. Mrs. G. F. Branson, study leader directed the study. The next meeting will be with Mrs. R. C. Martin, 1230 Christine, on Sept. 18 at 9:30 a.m.

The following 12 members were present: Mmes. Joe Donaldson, Dale Stone, Thurman Cline, Paul Bowers, G. F. Branson, Thelma Bray, Jack Graham, R. C. Martin, Ralph Thomas, Chester Thompson, and W. A. Waggoner.

CIRCLE THREE
Circle Three met in the backyard of the home of Mrs. Fred Hart on Sept. 4 at 9:30. Home-made doughnuts and coffee were served by Mmes. Hart and Vernez Malone.

Appreciation was expressed to Mrs. J. L. Bain for representing the circle in the United Church Women's rummage sale for the colored nursery.

Mrs. Aubrey Steele gave the background for the study, "The Social Witness of the Local Church in the Ecumenical Movement," and introduced the book, "In Ever Place A Voice."

Mrs. Don Cain led the devotional and the meeting was closed with prayer and group singing, "Into My Heart."

CIRCLE FOUR
Circle 4 opened its meeting in the home of Mrs. Price Doster, Sept. 4, with a prayer by Mrs. Tom Cook. Announcements were made by the chairman, Mrs. Price Doster. A new study, "In Ever Place A Voice" was introduced by the study leader, Mrs. G. F. Branson. A short discussion period was held after the study. Mrs. Joe Weaver gave the devotional, "The Light of the World," which was taken from the scriptures of John 8, 2 Corinthians; and Matthew. The next study leader will be Mrs. E. S. Williams. Circle 4 will meet with Mrs. H. F. Barnhart, 509 N. Frost, on Sept. 18.

The meeting was closed with prayer by Mrs. John Sweet.

Refreshments were served to the following members and two guests, Mmes. Charles Wooley, C. J. Dodd, Robert Lawrence, H. F. Barnhart, R. D. Morris, Joe Weaver, R. E. Hamm, V. N. Osborne, Tom Cook, W. Mrs. Fred Cary announced that the United Church Women would meet Sept. 20 in the Lamar Christian Church. Each member was asked to bring a small toy.

After the business, Mrs. E. S. Williams led the first lesson of the study, "The Social Witness of the Local Church in the Ecumenical Movement."

Members present were Mmes. W. E. Abernathy, H. E. Carlson, Fred Cary, W. R. Ewing, H. B. Howse, J. E. Kirchner, R. W. Lane, A. L. Lawson, M. V. McArthur, H. V. McCorkle, George Nelson, J. W. Shelton, A. C. Stealy, W. C. Scott and H. R. Thompson.

CIRCLE SIX

Mrs. James Smathers, chairman, conducted the business meeting. An interesting article from the Methodist Woman was given by Mrs. Bill Orr.

A film, "Day of Wonder" was shown by Mrs. W. W. Adcock. The session was dismissed by the group repeating the Lord's Prayer in unison.

Refreshments were served to sixteen members, three new members and one guest. The next meeting will be Sept. 9 in the church parlor with Mmes. E. C. Juenger and J. D. Kenworthy as hostesses.

Manners Makes Friends
It may amuse you to speculate out loud on "why he ever married her" or "what she sees in him" but it isn't very kind. And kindness is, after all, the very basis of good manners.

It's natural to wonder about others' romances, perhaps. But don't wonder out loud.

World Missions Is Topic For WSCS

The Women's Society of Christian Service of St. Paul Methodist Church met at ten o'clock on Tuesday morning in the Fellowship Hall of the church.

An organ prelude by Mrs. Charles Norton opened the meeting, followed by prayer. Special music was given by Mmes. W. J. Fletcher and W. O. Eiger, who sang a duet. Devotionals were given by Mrs. Joe Autry, using St. Matthew 28:18-20 for scripture reference.

COOK'S NOOK
Baked Beans, Sardines Make Delicious Maine Lunch Fare
By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor
PORT CLYDE, Me.—This is one of the most beautiful fishing spots along the Maine coast.

Sammy Zwickler was our host. Although a newcomer to Maine, he has done much for the sardine industry by his willingness to try out new methods and new products.

We watched thousands of silver herring being pumped out of a sardine boat, followed them through cleaning and trimming, watched nimble-fingered women pack them evenly in cans, saw oil added and then steamed in a giant retort.

This Port Clyde plant is just one of about 40 along the coast from Portland to Eastport. The Indians were the first Maine herring fishermen. Today nearly 300,000,000 worth of these plump, tender sardines are shipped all over the world.

Zwickler packs his in various oils, mustard sauce and tomato sauce. While he supervised the packing of a large military order, he taught us how he enjoys them best.

SAM ZWICKER'S SARDINE SANDWICH—(4 sandwiches)
Two cans Maine sardines, 8 slices pumpernickel bread, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1 teaspoon powdered mustard, 1 small cucumber, scored and sliced thin; 1 Italian onion, sliced.

SARDINE AND BAKED BEAN SANDWICH—(4 sandwiches)
Two cups cold New England style baked beans, 2 cans Maine sardines, sliced onion, 4 slices buttered oatmeal bread, catsup. Make sandwiches of buttered bread, cold baked beans, drained sardines and onion slices. Add catsup if beans are dry.

TOMORROW'S DINNER: New England clam chowder, pilot biscuit, sardine and baked bean sandwiches with onion rings, sliced beefsteak tomatoes, blueberry pie, cheese, coffee, tea, milk.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin Gerald Harris, Recently Wed, To Make Pampa Home

Mr. and Mrs. Austin Gerald Harris will live in Pampa following their marriage at 10 a.m. Friday in the College Church of Christ Chapel in Abilene.

The double-ring ceremony was read before an improvised altar of commodore palms, centered with an arrangement of white chrysanthemums and pom-poms. R. C. Bell, professor emeritus of Abilene Christian College, officiated.

Mrs. Harris, the former Mary Louise Odle, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Odle of Gordonville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Austin M. Harris of Big Spring.

An a cappella group from Abilene Christian College sang under the direction of Dr. Leonard Dur-

RUTH MILLETT

"We seem to have so little in common now that the children are grown."

If young wives only knew how often that admission crops up in letters to this column from middle-aged wives, it might make them see what a mistake it is for a woman to "live for her children."

A young wife doesn't use the old-fashioned term, "living for her children," when she falls into the habit of always putting them first.

But that is exactly what she is doing — living for her children and through her children, being first a mother and then a wife.

And the years pass by and one day — sooner than she can ever realize it will happen — the children are grown and gone from home. There is no one left but husband and wife.

And because about all that she has thought, talked, or planned for through the years has concerned the children, the couple find they have little left in common.

And who does the wife blame for that sad and depressing state of affairs? Herself?

No, she blames her husband. Somehow she had always expected that when she finally got around to having time for him he would be eager and ready to begin to build a new kind of life with her.

Instead she finds that he has grown accustomed to going his own way, finding companionship away from home.

The wife who is too preoccupied with her children almost always finds that her husband is too busy to bother with being a companion to her once the children are grown.

Although nuts of the buckeye contain poisonous toxins, Indians learned to make them edible by repeated boiling.

Ike Vetoes 2 Postal Pay Increase Bills

By RUTHERFORD POATS, United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Sept. 7 (UP)—President Eisenhower today vetoed an inflationary two bills to raise the pay of more than 1,500,000 postal and Civil Service employees. The raises would have cost the federal government 817 million dollars a year, according to administration estimates. Eisenhower announced he was killing the bills by pocket veto because they would spur inflation and might force him to ask for another increase in the federal debt limit — now 275 billion dollars. Passed By Heavy Margins Congress passed the bills by heavy margins shortly before adjournment. One would have given 500,000 postal employees a pay increase averaging 12½ per cent, including a flat $546 annually to all field service employees except rural carriers. The other would have given an 11 per cent pay raise to one million federal civil service workers. Eisenhower said the govern-

Klansmen Confess Mutilation Of Negro

By PAUL PHILLIPS, United Press Staff Correspondent
BIRMINGHAM, Sept. 7 (UP)—Two Ku Klux Klansmen confessed today that they and four others did a cruel job of butchery, using razor blades and turpentine, on a feeble-minded Negro they chose at random "to scare hell out of." They said they went out looking for the first Negro they could find after a Klan meeting. They dragged back a Negro named Judge Aaron to their little block meeting house with a dirt floor and there, by lamp light, emasculated him "100 per cent." Three klansmen in all were held, including the exalted cyclops of a local "klavern," one of the many loosely organized Klan chapters that have sprung up in the south since school integration began. Wore Gaudy Robe The cyclops, Joe P. Fritchett, 51, according to the statements of the other two, wore a robe with gaudy red trim at the time Aaron was seized and mutilated. Fritchett, who refused to make a statement, John N. Griffin, 38, and William J. Miller, 28, all were held under $5,000 bail on a charge of mayhem. The crime carries up to 20 years imprisonment in Alabama. Aaron is in fair condition at the Veterans Administration hospital where he was taken after police found him in agony by a roadside early last Tuesday. Seek Other Klansmen Police were seeking three other klansmen, who had not been publicly identified, for the fiendish attack on the 34-year-old part-time painter whose only offense was his color. His family said Aaron had been treated at a mental hospital and had the mind of a four-year-old. There was no possible connection between Aaron and the integration movement in Birmingham, where eight Negro families are seeking to enroll their children in white schools, police said. Officers could only go along with the suspects' explanation of a motive—they wanted to "scare hell out of" a Negro.

Yet you pay less than half the price of new tires. Many are nearly new. They are guaranteed like new. Will run like new. You select your tires from one of the largest stocks in the Panhandle. Always remember: all Hall & Pinson Tires are safe, clean, inspected and guaranteed. Tire Truing, Wheel Balancing Tire service here includes repairs and the tire truing and wheel balancing that increase the service of your tires for coffee. This tire truing and wheel balancing team brings you: 1. Longer tire mileage by thousands of miles. 2. Lower car repairs because truing and balancing eliminate front end damage due to excessive vibration and shimmy. 3. Less driving fatigue because of easier driving. 4. More driving pleasure and smoother riding. 5. More safety. Research proves that 8 out of 10 tires that have been driven more than 2,000 miles are out-of-round, although the same tires were within .125th of an inch of roundness when they left the factory. Tire irregularities cause immediate, excessive tire wear around the high spots, a condition that increases vibration, shortens both car and tire life, and increases driver fatigue. Seat Cover Headquarters Hall & Pinson Tire Co. is your Seat Cover Headquarters. Here is the largest stock of seat covers in the entire Panhandle and one of the 10 longest in the State of Texas. This stock of famous Arthur Fulmer Seat Covers includes a variety to fit just about all makes and models of cars, and offers literally hundreds of designs and colors in the special order department. Seat Covers prolong the life and beauty of your car. They protect in true "decorator fashion." There are color coordinates, luxurious plastic trim panels, decorative patterns. These seat covers have the hidden seams, double stitching reinforcement at all points of strain. Arthur Fulmer Seat Covers are available in all price ranges: stardust, imperial, supreme, cologne and monarch lines. Let Hall & Pinson experts install your seat covers. Leymond Hall, owner and operator of Hall & Pinson, insists that only trained men install seat covers so that you will get all the wear that the manufacturer built into your covers. Drive in to Hall & Pinson, 700 W. Foster, MO 4-3521, for your tires, for tire and wheel balancing, for seat covers, for complete automotive service.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

South's jump to three hearts was quite an overbid but I have seen lots worse game contracts brought home successfully.

West opened the four of spades and East played the eight. South won with the jack and led a low heart to dummy's king.

At this point East became clairvoyant. He played the three of hearts just as if he had no problem in the world.

A second heart was now led from dummy and East played the nine. No one can blame South for going wrong right here. East could have a perfectly sound opening bid without the ace of hearts so South played the ten from his own troops in support of any civil right whatever.

Committed is precisely what it did, although the administration would not concede that to be a fact. The civil rights bill was the President's personal project, however, even though he said he did not understand some of it.

The bill was submitted by Eisenhower's attorney general to the Congress. And written into it by a specific authorization for the use of the land and sea forces against whomsoever denied a civil right.

Little Rock is remote from the sea. Perhaps, however, the battle of Central High School between the Arkansas National Guard and the U.S. Army was narrowly averted.

A Desperately Normal Summer!

By DOC QUIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—These are the fleet and shrinking days that tie up the tag end of summer. It's a time for stock-taking, a summing up of the hot and heavy months behind us. Was it a normal summer? Yes, desperately so.

In Singapore, a 51-year-old Indian barber invited 400 guests to a Hindu ear-boring ceremony for a cat which had strolled into his house one rainy night. In repayment for the luck he said she had brought him in prosperous business and lottery winnings, he bought her $65 gold earrings.

In Greenwich Village, New York, old-timers mourned the passing of Joe Gould, who years ago told his biographer why he was the last of the Bohemians: "Some are dead, some are in the booby hatch, and some are in the advertising business." To the funeral, a friend brought some of Gould's poems, including:

I would like to bury the hatchet. But I fear I would make it dull. Or at least I would badly scratch it.

If I buried it in your skull. In London, Britons were made merrier when a newspaper decided to give away the living ultimate in a circulation contest—a man. The prize was Retired Maj. Edgar East's three aces were left to set the contract.

If East had played his ace of hearts on the king, South would have made his contract. He would have been unable to get to dummy to finesse against the jack and wily nilly would have had to lay down the queen, whereupon the jack would have fallen.

I called East's play clairvoyant because he had no way of knowing that South was going to play the trump right back. For all East could tell South might have needed that entry to dummy for a club or diamond lead and East's duck might have cost him the game instead of saving it for him.

I do want to give East one great credit. He did not double four hearts with his three aces and king. If he had done so I am sure that South would have played East for all three aces and wrapped up his contract.

Christopher Charles Elkins Powell, 49, said the winners so far have made no complaints. Among things he was guaranteed willing to do: "Ask for a raise for you... give the neighbors a piece of your mind... propose for you..."

In California, a man paid $1,500 to see one performance of the opera "The Trojans" with his wife. The performance was in London, England. They flew both ways. "I really wanted to see it," explained Allen Taylor, of Millbrae, Calif.

Gone To Waste
In Atlanta, Ga., a young lady was named "Miss Cottonwaste of 1957," a title which may open the way for a "Miss Slagpile" in Pittsburgh and a "Miss Sawdust" in the lumbermill country.

In Roghudi, a tiny town at the tip of the Italian boot, civic life ground to a standstill one rare June day. The amorous mayor, 40, having been spurned by the pretty schoolteacher, 28, kidnapped her. The police chief gave chase into the mountains. City government took a holiday.

Two flagpole sitters sat simultaneously on 50-foot poles over Montreal; an electric-motor-driven vibrating bed, for muscle-relaxing, was announced in Wayneboro, Va.; Mohawk Indian chiefs took over a 15-mile-square patch of land along Schoharie Creek at Fort Hunter, N. Y., in the name of the nation, declaring a 1784 treaty gave it to them.

Late in August, a Columbia University scientist announced at a Stanford, Calif., meeting that by genetic tinkering he had created bacteria monsters capable of reproduction. And in Glendale, Calif., this month a furrier was found marketing shrunken mink heads for lapel and handbag ornaments. A normal summer—prepping us for easier autumn.

ROSES REPLACE TICKETS
BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UP)—Some two-dozen motorists were naturally apprehensive when city policemen J. H. Askew ordered them to pull over to the curb during the Labor Day weekend. However, their frowns changed to smiles when Askew presented them each with a dozen red roses in reward for "careful and courteous driving."

GUARD AGAINST FLU
VATICAN CITY (UP)—Health officials have clamped precautionary controls on tourists, pilgrims and Vatican guards and workers to prevent the spreading of Asian flu in the papal state. Groups of tourists and pilgrims, known to have come from areas where the disease has been prevalent to the Vatican.

NEW YORK (UP)—The Sanitation Department today had a whale of a clean-up problem on its hands. The department was trying to figure out how to get rid of a 30-foot dead whale that was washed ashore at Rockaway Point, Queens, Tuesday.

Administration Unprepared For Emergency In Arkansas

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—The Eisenhower administration was not ready for the Arkansas school integration emergency.

The boss left for a Rhode Island vacation. White House staff chief Sherman Adams is off to a New Hampshire speaking engagement. Democrats will be asking: Who was keeping the store?

Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr., was on the job Thursday but without any immediate strategy or policy to pursue. The battle of headlines had been favoring Arkansas Gov. Orval E. Faubus who doubtless planned it that way. Eisenhower's vacation began at a lively pace. By telephone, he was prodding the Justice Department for action. There was a feeling around town that Brownell was stalling for time or a policy inspiration.

Stalling Looked Good
Events in Little Rock, Ark., made a stalling strategy look pretty good. The Negro students against whom Faubus imposed a National Guard lockout made no attempt Thursday to enter Central High School. That diverted a lot of heat from everyone, especially Brownell.

If the Justice Department actually was stalling or, as is likely, had no plans prepared for such an emergency, it must act soon. Something must give somewhere if the Eisenhower administration is to obtain for the Republican Party maximum political advantage from its overall effort in behalf of Negro voters.

'Confidential' Tipster Won't Be In Trial

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 7 (UP)—William L. Ritzel, prosecutor in the Confidential magazine criminal libel trial, said today that he had information from official sources that actress Francesca De Scaffa was in Ensenada, Lower California, several days ago.

Ritzel said Miss De Scaffa, ex-wife of actor Bruce Cabot and sought as an alleged tipster for magazine stories about Hollywood stars' misconduct, would not be involved in the present trial under any circumstances.

The trial, in recess until Tuesday because of the illness of a juror, is in the final argument stage. Testimony has been completed.

"We wouldn't use her in the trial and never intended to even if she were taken into custody," Ritzel said. "She's a defendant along with Harrison and in the same indictment with the Meades. We want to prosecute her and Harrison and will as soon as we can."

Robert Harrison is publisher of Confidential magazine and its sister publication, Whisper. They are accused of criminal libel and publishing obscenity. Margaret Meade, niece of Harrison and her husband, Fred Meade, operate Hollywood Research, Inc., identified as Confidential's West Coast smug-gathering unit.
