Carry Big Stick

US To Soften Mideast Stand

By DONALD J. GONZALES
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States today placed its military and political strength behind a policy of speaking softly and carrying a big stick in the Middle East.

Officials said this country has important strategic reasons for seeking a cooling-off of the crisis provoked by pro-Soviet forces in Syria. By playing for time and moderation in the Middle East crisis the United States hopes to:—Keep the situation in Syria flexible by not formally writing Syria off as a Soviet satellite. This would allow Syria, if it chooses, to ease its tightened links with Moscow.

Avoid Pressure Action
—Avoid any action which might put pressure on the United States to intervene in Syria with armed force.

Undercut Soviet propaganda attributing "war plans" against Syria to the United States.

—Assure Israel that the speed-up delivery of previously programmed arms to Jordan, Saudi Arabia, Lebanon and Iraq does not jeopardize Israel's security.

The new American approach to the Syrian crisis is in sharp contrast to tactics followed by the Eisenhower administration only a few days ago.

Alarm Bell Sounds
A series of administration actions and statements sounded the alarm bell. Official statements voiced "deep concern" and outlined the possibility of American intervention under the Eisenhower Doctrine or within the United Nations.

President Eisenhower, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Henderson met at the White House last Saturday in extraordinary session. Arms deliveries to Syria's Arab neighbors were accelerated with great fanfare.

The new and more moderate approach may be tied to the faster arms deliveries to Jordan and other Arab countries.

Three Tech Students Get Scholarships

LUBBOCK — Three Texas Tech students will benefit from Inez Carter Scholarships totaling $600 this academic year.

Each of the scholarships is for $200. Dr. S. M. Kennedy, assistant dean of arts and sciences, said in announcing the 1957-58 grants on behalf of the Tech committee on scholarships and awards.

The three Tech students earning the scholarships are:

Norma Jean Dellman of Star Route 3, Pampa, who will be a freshman in business administration at Tech this fall. A 1957 graduate of Pampa High School, Miss Dellman was in the top 25 percent of her class and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Dellman.

Mrs. Jaunice Sims Evans of Mobeetle who is a senior math student. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Sims and was a recipient of the award last year.

A junior student from Wheeler, Thomas E. Haddock Jr., who will use the scholarship in continuing his studies in agriculture education. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Haddock.

The scholarships are provided by Mrs. Inez Carter of Pampa and are awarded to undergraduate students in any major at Tech. Preference is given to students residing in Gray County and any of the eight counties bordering it.

Negro Receives Execution Stay

AUSTIN (UP) — Marshall Lamkin, a Luling Negro scheduled to die early this morning for murder, received a 30-day stay of execution from Gov. Price Daniel Tuesday night.

Daniel took the action on recommendation of the Board of Pardons and Paroles following a telegram from Caldwell County Attorney Tom Moore reporting "hitherto undisclosed information" in the case.

The action came six hours before Lamkin was scheduled to die in the electric chair at Huntsville state penitentiary.

It sets Lamkin's execution date back to Oct. 11. Lamkin, described as an "humble, ignorant Negro shoeshine boy" by his lawyer cousin Kenneth Lamkin, was convicted of the murder of Ernest Webb Jr., owner of the building in which Lamkin shined shoes.

Ex-Veterinary Tangles With 'Masked Bandit'

Charles A. (Doc) Wedgeworth, Mobeetle, came out second best when he ran smack-dab into a ring-tail tooter Tuesday.

Hearing a ruckus in the henhouse the night-before, he rushed to investigate. Sure enough a masked bandit had been on the prowl, but the alarmed "squawks" of Wedgeworth's guinea scared old man coon so bad he jumped through a screen window in his hasty departure.

Doc gave up the chase for the night, but the next morning he loosed his man-eating blood hound "King."

"Old King circled the chicken house a couple of times and then yodeled off on the trail," Doc said.

Not to be left out, Doc jumped on a tractor and, with his wife throwing it in road gear, he kept in hot pursuit, 22 rifle ready.

Old King finally holed the masked monster up, and Doc invaded the scene. But the fight got thick when Mr. Coon, (a good 45 pounds Doc says) jumped out and grabbed a hunk of the surprised ex-veterinary's leg. It happened so fast, that Doc forgot to shoot, and he was afraid to move.

"But old King had more sense than I did. He ran up and snarled real big and finally the coon let loose of me and he nabbed him. If he'd grabbed him sooner, it'd a chewed my leg off," said the Doc.

Trace Of Rain For Pampa

A cold front swept into the Texas Panhandle during the night, bringing light rains and lower temperatures to the north portion of the state and a trace of rain to Pampa.

Temperatures one to three degrees below normal were predicted through the end of the week for most of the state in the weather bureau's five-day extended forecast.

The cold front extended from Gage, Okla. to Amarillo, Tex. to Clovis, N. M., at 6 a.m. Wednesday, but it was moving slowly. Cloudy skies and light rains were reported north of the front.

Scattered showers also fell in West Texas from 35 miles southwest of San Angelo to 25 miles southwest of Lubbock. The rains with the cold front were expected to be confined to West Texas and the Panhandle.

Cooler weather in the Panhandle and South Plains was in prospect. Minimum temperatures during the early morning ranged from 57 at Dalhart and Lufkin to 79 at Galveston. The high Tuesday was 104 at Presidio.

Work On Underpass To Start

The local Texas Highway Engineers office announced today that the first equipment for the Hobart Street underpass project will be moved in tomorrow and work would probably begin Monday.

Ivan Dement, Amarillo, contractor, and the Austin Bridge Co. are jointly working on the project.

The first work that will be done is to build a drainage structure. It is to be a large culvert with a storm sewer at one end and an open channel at the other.

The drain will start near the underpass and come out in the open channel in the draw just north of Montagu street near the St. Paul Methodist church. Senior resident Engineer G. K. Reading said today that Montagu Street, between Banks and Faulkner will be blocked off soon for about three weeks to a month while construction is taking place.

Buckler street will be blocked off later in that area.

22 RATTLESNAKES WITH ONE SHOT—Charlie Gatlin, who lives six miles southeast of Laketon, is shown with a mother snake, left, that had 21 unborn baby rattlesnakes, center, inside which he killed about one-half mile from his house Monday. On the way to a phone yesterday to call The News he killed the two snakes on the left. (News Photo)

Courthouse Is Real Cool

With the icy winds whistling down from the north, it appeared that Old Man Winter had caught the Gray County Courthouse with its doors down today.

After tearing down the ancient revolving doors to the three entrances, workmen from the Pampa Glass and Paint Co. were just in the process of putting up steel frames this morning when the chilly blast came up unexpectedly. The new storm doors will be made of aluminum and glass.

Chimpanzee Is Suing Garroway, Associates

By ALBIN KREBS
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP) — Television champ J. Fred Muggs claimed Tuesday that Dave Garroway and two associates tried to make a monkey of him to the tune of $500,000.

Garroway, announcer Jack Leacock and an associate named Jac Hein had conspired to wreck his well-paid career, J. Fred charged, and he was plenty peeved about it.

"In 40 years, I never saw anything like this, McGovern said. It was all right there in the papers, Muggs indicated. The suit charged Garroway and his associates didn't renew Muggs' $1,775-a-week contract five months ago. See CHIMPANZEE, Page 3

The Rebels will enter into Legion play again next season. They were coached by Joe Fortin and managed by Deck Wolft.

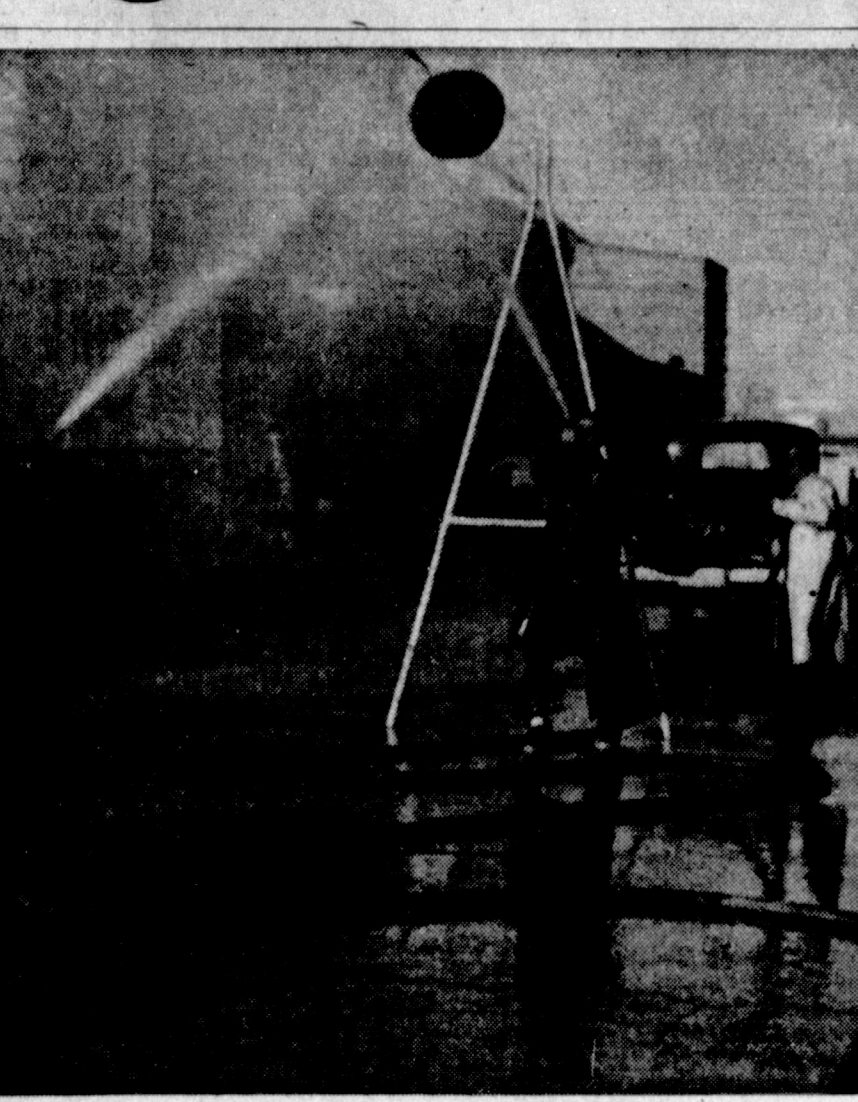

Gray County Farmer Kills 39 Rattlers

A resident of Gray County goes in for killing rattlesnakes in a big way.

Charlie Gatlin, who lives six miles southeast of Laketon, managed to kill 22 rattlesnakes with one shot Monday afternoon.

It seems that Charlie shot at a snake about one-half mile from his house and when the shot hit the middle of the snake, a total of 21 unborn baby rattlesnakes came out.

Gatlin reported that he had been watching for the hole of the snake for several days and Monday he spotted the snake crawling from a bush. He said he shot the snake from about 10 feet.

FIREMEN AT PLAY—Firemen attending the semi-annual convention of the Panhandle Firemen's Association here yesterday did not spend all of their time at business. Included in the day's activities were pumper races and water polo. Shown above is the team from Dalhart, left, as it beat the team from Canadian, right, for first place in the water polo event. 129 Firemen In Attendance At Convention

A total of 129 firemen from 32 Panhandle towns attended the semi-annual convention of the Panhandle Firemen's Association yesterday in Pampa.

The local firemen have attempted to obtain the convention for the past eight years. Fire Chief Ernest Winborne reported, and the efforts were climaxed yesterday in what was termed by many of the visiting firemen as "a most successful convention."

In a business session yesterday the firemen decided to hold the next convention at Dimmitt next May.

The local firemen were hosts at a barbecue in Central Park at noon with over 300 firemen, their wives and other guests being fed by the Pampa Shrine Club.

Late in the afternoon the firemen demonstrated the new 85-foot aerial ladder on the request of many of the visiting fire chiefs. The demonstration took place on E. Tyng, near the intersection with Gillespie.

Following the demonstration of the aerial truck, teams from 10 towns entered in pumper races. The team from Canadian took first place with a time of 22.7 seconds. Miami's team was second with 24.2 seconds and the team from Dimmitt was third with 26.3 seconds. A team composed of Pampa's rookie firemen set the pattern in hooking up the pumper to the fireplug and the hose and nozzle and made a time of 24 seconds. The time was not counted as the team was not entered in the race.

Following the pumper race, ten teams entered in the water polo event. In this activity two-man teams attempted to move a metal ball along an overhead wire with the pressure from fire hoses. The team to move the ball to the other teams end of the wire is declared the winner.

In hard fought battles the team from Dalhart beat the team from Canadian for first place. In an earlier battle the Dalhart team beat the Memphis team and dropped Memphis to third place.

The day's activities were concluded with a Firemen's Ball at the National Guard Armory last night.

Plans To Turn To People Of Arkansas

By AL KUETTNER
United Press Staff Writer
LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UP)—Gov. Orval Faubus ignored a federal injunction subpoena today and turned to the people of Arkansas for guidance on whether Negroes should enter all-white Central High School.

Faubus said he would appear on a statewide radio hookup of more than 40 stations during which he will submit to telephone questions about his defiance of the law with troops.

Home front reaction could help him decide whether to give up or to resist an injunction against further use of the guard to keep nine Negroes out of Central High.

Faubus made it clear, however, he will leave at least a token force of troops at the school for the present, regardless of the injunction action taken against him late Tuesday.

Crackdown On Kasper
His decision to continue his defiance of the federal courts and the U.S. Justice Department came amid these developments on the integration scene:

Nashville — A quick police crackdown on segregation leader John Kasper and Nashville hoodlums gave authorities hope there would be no more violence such as the dynamiting of a school where integration of first-graders began this week.

Birmingham — The Rev. F. L. Shuttlesworth, beaten by white men when he tried to take Negro children to a white school, abandoned his integration plans temporarily.

Washington — Sen. Richard L. Neuberger (D-Ore.) said he will introduce soon after Congress reconvenes in January a bill barring use of National Guardsmen as "the personal army or storm troop unit of a governor."

Policy of Patience
Newport — President Eisenhower apparently was sticking to his policy of patience in the handling of the Little Rock dispute.

Washington — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) called on Eisenhower to set up the newly authorized federal civil rights commission immediately. It would investigate civil rights complaints and possibly recommend any needed legislation.

Washington — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles expressed concern over the effect the Arkansas school fight would have on U.S. international relations.

Police Are Investigating Burglary Here

A burglary of Utility Oil and Supply Company, 501 W. Brown, was reported to the police department at 6:25 this morning.

The burglary was discovered by Max Molberg, an employee of the firm, after he opened the office this morning.

The burglary was investigated by Lt. Dennis Roan of the police department who reported that entry was obtained to the building through a window located on the south side of the office.

This was the same window used in the recent safe burglary at the firm. Roan reported that apparently the putty on the window was still soft and the burglars last night scraped the putty from the window, removed the window pane and entered the office. After completion of the burglary, the burglars left through a door and replaced the window pane, Roan said.

Evidence indicated that the burglars used a screwdriver to pry open the cigarette machine. Between $15 and $20 in quarters and nickels were taken from the machine, according to Roan.

A total of 64 pennies were taken from the cash drawer, also, the officer reported. He stated that there was no evidence that a nny other items were taken and that apparently the contents of the office were not prowled.

Roan was continuing the investigation late this morning in an attempt to obtain additional clues.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Mrs. Muriel Lawrence is on vacation. In her absence, noted psychiatrist Eric Fromm discusses six frequently asked questions on child-parent relationship. His answers are condensed from his book, "Man For Himself," published by Rinehart and Co.)

Q. Is being an "unselfish" mother better than being a "selfish" one?
A. It is easier to understand selfishness by comparing it with greediness for others, as we find it, for instance, in an over-solicitous, dominating mother. While she conscientiously believes that she is particularly fond of her child, she has actually a deeply repressed hostility toward the object of her concern. She is over-concerned not because she loves the child too much, but because she has to compensate for her lack of capacity to love him at all. This theory of the nature of selfishness is borne out by psycho-analytic experience with neurotic "unselfishness." Not only is unselfishness not felt as a "symptom"; it is often the one redeeming character trait on which such people pride themselves. The "unselfish" person "does not want anything for himself"; he "lives only for others." It is proud that he does not consider himself important.

The nature of unselfishness becomes particularly apparent in the effect the "unselfish" mother has on her children. She believes that by her unselfishness her children will experience what it means to be loved and to learn, in turn, what it means to love. The effect, however, does not at all correspond to her expectations. The children do not show the happiness of persons who are convinced they are loved; they are anxious, tense, afraid of the mother's disapproval and anxious to live up to her expectations. Altogether, the effect of the "unselfish" mother is not too different from that of the selfish one; indeed, it is often worse because the mother's unselfishness prevents the children from criticizing her. They are put under the obligation not to disappoint her; they are taught, under the mask of virtue, dislike for life. If one has a chance to study the effect of a mother with genuine self-love, one can see that there is nothing more conducive to giving a child the experience of what love, joy and happiness are than being loved by a mother who loves herself.

When a telephone man drives, safety comes first!

One of the first things telephone people learn is that no job is so urgent it can't be done safely. The remarkable safe driving records made by telephone men is proof they've learned that lesson well.

It's too bad that safety records are often thought of as dull and not newsworthy while a major accident makes front page headlines. The greatest human drama is in the accidents that don't happen—the accidents that good safety habits prevent from happening!

truck fleet, but it must be excellent. It is nothing short of inspiring to see an entire corps of drivers display the courtesy and friendliness that is habitual with telephone company drivers."

BEST IN NATION
With thanks for such praise, we'd like to confirm the editor's feeling that the safety record in the telephone business must be excellent. It's among the best in the country. The National Safety Council's award of honor—its highest award—was again presented to Southwestern Bell for its safety performance in 1956. Scores of state and local safety awards also were earned, including many presented to telephone people as individuals. But more important than the awards for safety are the results. When you consider that Southwestern Bell vehicles logged some 72 million miles last year, it's easy to see how the public benefits. Telephone company safe driving practices are a major protection of life and property—a way of working that's summed up in the slogan: No job is so urgent it can't be done safely.

ADD EXTRA VALUE
Safety behind the wheel is, of course, the form of telephone company safety most apparent and closest to the public. But telephone safety behind the scenes is a very real and constant thing, too. Motor vehicles get regular inspections, are kept in top condition. Tools, equipment and methods are constantly being studied to improve the safety factor, designed to reduce accidents.

Telephone service shows its value in many ways. Not the least of its value is the thoughtful way telephone people bring it to you—safely, with always a sincere regard for life and property.

Harvesters Enter Last Practices Before Grid Opener Friday Night

The Pampa Harvesters go into their last hard day of practice today in preparation for the season opener Friday night against Austin High of El Paso.

A rough game is expected, with the El Paso team having ten starters from last year returning for the new season. In 1956 the Harvesters downed Austin 28-13 to hold to a perfect record against the El Paso team.

Head coach Jack Lockett is beginning the 1957 season with only two offensive starters and three defensive regulars returning from his last year's squad. The team has progressed since they began workouts last week, however, and though young in experience will field an able squad. Weight average for the '57 Harvesters is 157 pounds per man on the line and 150 per man in the backfield. Though small, the Pampa backfield has gained more speed. They will run off the split T formation, with probable backfield starters being Robert Langford, fullback; Don Bigham, left halfback; Jess Ingie, right halfback; and Gary Wilhelm, quarterback.

Game time Friday night is 8 p.m.

Field Open In Finals Of Amateur Golf

By LEO H. PETERSEN

United Press Sports Editor

BROOKLINE, Mass. (UP)—Billy Joe Patton watched discomsolately from the sidelines today and it was anybody's ball game in the U.S. Amateur golf championship.

Setting an upset tempo which means this 57th annual event is completely wide open, college boy Ward Wettlaufer knocked off Patton on the first extra hole Tuesday and now there is no solid favorite among the 64 survivors who will battle it out in the third and fourth rounds at The Country Club today.

There will be only 16 left when they get done firing in these two rounds and nobody is making any claims.

Because along with Patton, former champion Ted Bishop and ex-British amateur king Bob Sweeney also were blasted out in a second round which saw the oldest and youngest players in the field come through with triumphs.

Old Chick Advances

Chick Evans, 67, white-haired and the winner of this championship before most of its competitors were born, still was alive after a 4 and 2 win over Lloyd Piltzer of Waukegan, Ill., who was born three years after Evans first won this title in 1916.

And the baby of the field, 17-year-old Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, proved he was no golfing infant by spanking Doug Sewell, a British Walker Cupper, 2 and 1.

Also left in the running were former champions Willie Turnesa, Dick Chapman and Charley Coe; four members of the British Walker Cup team—Guy Wolstenholme, Alan Thirwall, Alan Russell and Reid Jack; Billy Campbell, Joe Campbell, Rex Baxter, Hillman Robbins, Dr. Frank Taylor and Chuck Kocsis.

Wettlaufer, the 21-year-old Hamilton, N.Y., college senior, was on the brink of defeat before he upset Patton. He was one down, go to the 18th and when his second was on the fringe of the green, 18 feet from the cup, and Patton put his second on, it looked like curtains. But the kid calmly knocked the ball in the cup for a winning birdie to even the match.

Then on the first extra hole, Patton, using his driver instead of an iron as he did starting out the match, faded the ball to the right and was short with his approach. He chipped on weakly and two-putted for a bogey. Wettlaufer, down the middle, spanked the ball to the green, just missed his birdie putt and flipped in the winning par four.

Today in the third round, Wettlaufer meets another 21-year-old golfer, Eddie Meyerson of Los Angeles, a 3 and 2 second-round victor over 18-year-old Don Esig of Indianapolis.

Bishop, who won the title in 1946, was put out by Frank Bostock, a 35-year-old Phoenix, Ariz. dude rancher who only took up the game four years ago, 2 up, Sweeney fell before Robert Beirne of Riverton, N.J., 5 and 4.

Evans' third-round opponent is Alfred Sams of Macon, Ga., who beat Mark McCormack of Lima, Ohio, 3 and 2, in the second round.

Bostock runs a dude ranch at Scottsdale, Ariz., and has bought up a ghost town at Silverton, Colo., which he is in the process of restoring for the tourist trade and as a movie location site.

"Each trip between those two places takes about 10 hours and one speeding ticket," he grins.

But chunky Frank doesn't consider his golf a grinning matter. "Actually, it's an honor to be playing with these fellows," he explained seriously. "I'm not that good, being only the second alternate from my district. I'm really a hacker or, to make it sound better, a mere duffer."

Yet, his determination can't help shining through.

Eyes Semi-Pro Football

Not only that, but this year, at 35, he's been working out to play with the Phoenix Suns, a newly organized semi-pro football team.

In between his golf and football,

QB Club Has First Meeting

The Pampa Quarterback Club held its first meeting of the 1957 season last night beginning at 7:30 in the auditorium of the Sam Houston School.

President Warren Fatheree presided over the meeting, discussing prospects for the new year, membership and dues. Attending the meeting were 34 members, with more expected to join in next week's meeting.

Officers for the new year will be elected in the meeting next Tuesday, also to begin at 7:30. Dues for membership are $2.50.

After the group finished discussing the business, Humble's film, "1956 SW Conference Highlights" was shown to the group.

Rockerfeller Tries To Keep Dodgers Home

NEW YORK (UP)—Nelson A. Rockerfeller pledged today he will do "all in my power" to keep the Brooklyn Dodgers in New York but warned he is bucking "a mighty attractive offer by Los Angeles."

Even as other financial bidders began throwing in the towel at his entrance into the Dodger picture, Rockerfeller told the United Press he wished he "had made more progress toward keeping the Dodgers in New York" since his initial conferences with Brooklyn owner Walter O'Malley last month.

"I'm going to keep trying, though," said the 49-year-old grandson of John D. Rockerfeller Sr., who was one of America's three known billionaires.

Although Rockerfeller would not venture to say what his chances were of influencing the Dodgers to stay, other bidders for the club apparently considered them quite good.

"I simply am not in Mr. Rockerfeller's league," declared Los Angeles financier Elliott Evans, who offered $5,000,000 for the Dodgers last Sunday. "My offer hasn't been refused yet but I think with every delay the odds go more in Brooklyn's favor of remaining here."

Mayor Norris Poulson of Los Angeles, who once was confident the Dodgers would be playing in his city next year, wasn't quite so sure now that Rockerfeller is attempting to keep them here.

"With Mr. Rockerfeller in the picture, our chances don't look too good," he said. "There's a limit to how much government can spend."

Approximately 1,000 persons enjoyed a boiled shrimp-catfish fillet "feed" yesterday at the Pampa Country Club as guests of Rodman Supply, General Supply and Magco-bar.

The big affair was sponsored for the second year here by the three oil field firms and drew oil company executives from all over the Southwest.

Bo Winger, famous golf star, played a nine-hole exhibition match shortly before the meal was served and also conducted a golf clinic for all interested.

Playing in the exhibition with Winger were M. L. Hall, local Magco-bar engineer; J. D. Treadgill, Texas Company; and Hart Warren, local golf pro.

The gigantic affair drew nine plane-loads of visiting executives to Pampa from such oil centers as Midland, Odessa, Fort Worth, Dallas, Tulsa, Okla., and Oklahoma City, Okla.

Four "cooks" were imported from Louisiana to prepare the shrimp and catfish. They were Sonny Harris, vice president for Mud Supply, Magco-bar dealers on the Gulf, from Lafayette, La.; Nick Lanza, division manager for Mud Supply; his brother, Charles Lanza, both from Lafayette; and L. D. Jones, division salesman for Magco-bar from New Orleans, La.

Visiting executives included K. L. Byerly of Houston, assistant to the president of Magco-bar; Paul Larsen, Magco-bar division salesman from Fort Worth; E. G. Rodman, chairman of the board of Rodman Supply, Odessa; L. R. French Jr., president of Rodman Supply, Odessa; and W. D. Nowell, vice president of Rodman Supply, Odessa.

C. "Stu" Youngblood is general manager of the General Supply firm in Pampa.

Club course, he decided to break the marathon low average record. So the blue-eyed Bostock played from 4:35 a.m. until 5 p.m., averaged 74 for 144 holes, used only nine balls on his 32-mile trek, sometimes ran between shots to average each round in one hour and 30 minutes, wore out five caddies—and quit "because one of my feet was getting a bit tender."

Only 142 pounds, Bostock actually is an athletic marvel. In high school he set an Arizona state record by running the 440 in 56 seconds flat. He was No. 1 in tennis his freshman year at Arizona State (Tempe), a halfback on the football team, college lightweight boxing champ, track star and state low board AAU diving champion.

Bostock Broke 80's Six Months After Beginning Game Of Golf

By OSCAR FRALEY

United Press Sports Writer

BROOKLINE, Mass. (UP)—Frank Bostock, an admitted "hacker" who reached the third round of the U.S. Amateur golf championship by knocking off former champion Ted Bishop, is a lesson in determination.

Less than four years ago, this rugged little man from Phoenix, Ariz., listened doubtfully as several friends discussed the devilish intricacies and frightful hopelessness of the game of golf. Finally, although he had never handled a club, he had heard enough.

"I'll bet," he said in his quiet voice, "that I can break 80 within six months."

A Sizable Bet

A "quite sizable" bet was offered and accepted. Well within the six-month deadline, the five-foot, five-inch Bostock fired a 77 to pick up the chips.

Roberts Drops 20th Of Year In Loss To Cardinals

By FRED DOWN

United Press Sports Writer

The once - great reputation of Robin Roberts was little more than a memory today when he entered the 20-game circle — the wrong one.

The durable Philadelphia right-hander, who won 20 or more games from 1950 through 1956, was tagged with his 20th loss of the year Tuesday night when the St. Louis Cardinals kept pace with the Milwaukee Braves by beating the Phillies, 4-3, in 14 innings. The Braves retained their 5 1/2 - game lead with a 4-3 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Roberts, who took over in the 11th inning with the score tied, 3-3, shut out the Cardinals for three innings. But the Redbirds flied the base on singles by pitcher Lindy McDaniel and Joe Cunningham plus an intentional walk to Eddie Miksis, an Boyer followed with a single that broke up the long contest.

McDaniel Receives Win

McDaniel, who took over in the 13th inning, received credit for his 14th win of the campaign compared to eight defeats.

The Braves, with Hank Aaron back hitting second and Johnny Logan back at shortstop, snatched the Pirates as Lew Burdette chalked up his 15th win. Aaron blasted his 40th homer and Ed Mathews walloped his 31st to tie the club mark of 182 homers in a season set in 1955. Burdette singled and scored on singles by Red Schoendienst and Mathews in the seventh for the run that proved decisive.

The Chicago Cubs romped over the Brooklyn Dodgers, 9-2, and the Cincinnati Redlegs whipped the New York Giants, 4-1. In other NL games while the Boston Red Sox knocked the Chicago White Sox six games behind the New York Yankees, with a 7-4 triumph in the only American League game played.

Banks Belts Two

Ernie Banks smashed his 35th and 36th homers and drove in four runs to lead a 13-hit Cub attack that brought Dick Drott his 14th triumph. Drott yielded seven hits and seven walks but left 10 Dodgers stranded. Sandy Koufax suffered his fourth loss for the fabled NL champion.

Brooks Lawrence's two-run hit pitching and Joe Taylor's three-run homer were the big blows for the Redlegs, who dealt Johnny Antonelli his 15th defeat. Lawrence also contributed a single to a Cincinnati seventh-inning rally as he gained his 15th victory of the season.

The Red Sox used three relief pitchers to shut down a three-run White Sox rally in the ninth and preserve Tom Brewer's 16th win. The Red Sox scored five runs in the third inning, climaxed by Jim Piersall's 17th homer, to open up a 7-1 lead which Brewer protected until the ninth.

Rain caused three postponements Tuesday. Games between the Yankees and Indians, Senators and Tigers and Orioles and Athletics were washed out.

Attending were 48 boys from the team, along with coaches Jack Lockett, Edwin Lyon, Weldon Trice, Gene Chance, Norman Phillips, Deck Woldt and Eural Ramsey.

A total of 90 persons were at the dinner, with 50 men from the Brotherhood also attending.

For the program, Chaplain Rex Thompson of Amarillo Air Force Base spoke to the group.

The Harvesters moved through 30 pounds of fried chicken and 24 dozen rolls in the process of the evening. Rev. T. O. Uphaw, pastor, stated that the Church enjoyed having the boys and that the dinner was given to show their appreciation to the team and to let them know they were well-backed for the new season.

Coach Lockett said that he thought the dinner was a wonderful gesture on the part of the Church.

Area games scheduled to be played Friday night are Lefors at Shamrock; Perryton at Canadian; McLean at Wheeler; White Deer at Clarendon; Groom at Surrency; and Panhandle at Childress.

Boredom

We hear it on every hand. The trouble with life in the 20th century is that there is so much boredom! Imagine that! Young people, middleaged people, elderly folks spend a great deal of their time being bored. How can this be possible?

Never since the days of Roman circuses has so much entertainment been made available to so many persons at such a low cost. How could anyone be bored? Wait a minute. If we check the writings of the historians contemporary to the fall of that ancient empire, we discover that boredom played a large part then in the public attitude. People in Rome, circa 300 A. D. to 400 A. D. were bored, too.

What is boredom? There are many definitions. Webster defines the term as the condition which ensues when one is wearied by tedious repetition or dullness. And iteration means repetition. So it appears that whatever it is that induces boredom, it is up to come from much repetition. It's the same old thing repeated endlessly without variation. Is that the kind of a world we live in?

Quite frankly, it isn't. We live in a dynamic world. Changes are constantly occurring. And even the entertainment we have strives with remarkable perseverance to be new and sparkling and different. We have moving picture shows and television shows and radio shows. We have the legitimate theatre and concerts and ballet and art exhibits and hobbies, and we have great highways and beautiful vehicles and places to picnic, and sports and games and a thousand things. Yet, so many are bored. What is wrong with us?

If anything is wrong, and something seems to be, the error can hardly exist in simple repetition. There are so many different things to do that repetition is hardly an essential. Perhaps there is something besides this which causes boredom.

To our mind, the only people we find who are ever bored, are people with great paucity of mind and soul. They are people raised up through our government school system in such fashion that even as mature persons they are empty. There are no inner riches for them to conjure with. They cannot entertain themselves. Professionals must be hired to keep them amused, entertained and stimulated. Apparently they have nothing to think about within their own minds. They dread a moment's inactivity. They must be on the go, seeking, looking, yearning for something to do. What they find is passivity in watching someone else do something. We have, in large measure, become a nation of spectators. We don't do anything ourselves, we just watch others perform. And this, of course, is deadly.

Boredom comes swiftly to those who cannot or will not lift even a mental finger.

We would like to suggest one small possible remedy. Why not read a good book? The wealth of thought and feeling contained between the covers of great and classic tomes is available to anyone with a pair of eyes. And we are not suggesting perusal of the runny books, current novels and snallow treatises written by men and women whose major goal is popularity and sales. We are suggesting association with great books and great ideas, and not just association with verbiage.

Today, the current outpouring from our book presses is too much patterned after the mass entertainment concept. A modern novel can be read and afterwards the reader will find that he may have difficulty in retaining any part of what he has read, saving only the plot. If the reader will instead go over something of true and lasting value, he will find that what he has read will stick to his mental ribs. His mind will have ideas which in turn, will cause other ideas to come. Instead of finding himself alone in his own house, he will discover that his house is peopled with worthy thoughts which can be explored, digested and developed. And in the process, boredom vanishes.

To our mind on improvement over the Webster definition of boredom, would contain the phrase: mental vacuum. And we would sum it up this way. If you are bored, stop looking to others for relief. Instead, recognize your own potential and fill your mind with ideas. Then, you will never be bored.

The Doctor Says

By EDGAR P. JORDAN, M. D.

TODAY'S DOCTOR AIDED BY MANY NEW TESTS, METHODS

During the past 50 years a great many new methods have been developed for examining the human body, its organs and functions.

The simple methods which have long been used involve the doctor's own senses. They include what the doctor can see, feel, feel by pounding (most commonly over the chest) and hear through the stethoscope.

Up these time-tested methods of physical examination have been added many special tests. One of the most important of these is the X-ray.

Practically no one tries to set a bone unless an X-ray has been made. The X-ray helps to make a diagnosis of tuberculosis. It is used in the study of ulcers and other disorders of the intestinal tract.

The physical examination today is not complete unless the blood pressure has been taken and samples of blood and urine obtained.

At least three tests of the blood are always applied: counting the white and red cells and testing the iron in the blood for anemia. Minimum tests of the urine include examination for pus, sugar (diabetes) and abnormal protein (usually Bright's disease). In addition, both blood and urine often are subjected to many special tests.

The modern physician has available a great many ingenious instruments and special tests. These include the electrocardiogram for the study of the heart, and basal metabolism for study of the thyroid.

The fact that there are so many new tests has introduced a new and complicated problem. If one wants a complete routine yearly examination, how should one go about it, as H.L. inquiries?

It would be expensive and involve the special skills of a large number of physicians to make every known test on the human body. What to include, therefore, is a problem about which there is still considerable dispute in medical circles.

Probably the most practical solution is to go regularly to a skilled and experienced general physician or specialist in internal medicine. Rely on his judgment as to what should be included in the way of special tests.

In the absence of symptoms pointing to the need for some special examinations, he will probably give some tests each year. Others will be given only at intervals of two or three years.

Reader Wants Collectivism Defined

A reader writes me as follows: "Mr. R. C. Hoiles: 'What's all this hooley about Collectivism? Only the hermit does not believe in Collectivism. As I see it, whenever two people strive together, there is Collectivism. The Democratic Party and the Republican Party, and the Baptist Church, and the savage Indian family in the wigwag, and the Freedom Newspapers all practice Collectivism. Perhaps this man or that man does not like my particular form of Collectivism, but when they use the term without a descriptive word that includes all forms of group effort. Man would still be using a stick for a weapon without Collectivism. No, he would not exist at all. The human race could not reproduce without Collectivism.'

"Perhaps we do not believe in Dave Beck's form of Collectivism, or Al Capone's, or the YMCA's, or the Holy Rollers' form of Collectivism, but for any man to say that he does not believe in Collectivism then he must believe in Hermitism.

"Perhaps it is I who am mixed up in my semantics. I wish you would explain in an editorial just what YOU mean when you use the word. I wait for your paper every day, and most of the time, take your side of the discussion.

"And please do not quote from the Bible in your explanation. Make it so a Heathen can get it. For instance, I do not believe it is correct logic to use 'Slaughterer Power, or—the 'Collective Slaughter Power of Government' to take a dollar away from you to gratify my desire to indulge in a 'free' swimming pool. (Although I do not acquire in a lot of such Collectivism because I have an 'Unalienable Desire' to live forgetting all about the 'Unalienable Right'.)

"Do not use my name. I have a family and acquaintances that I desire to live with a while longer. They do not like the term 'Slaughterer Power.' They much prefer 'Coerce,' it is more dignified, learned and academic."

-My Answer: The Difference

When I use the word 'collectivism,' I mean 'Use of initiated force to get what one wants.' In other words, collectivism is getting things by injuring someone else rather than benefiting another person, and by benefiting another person, I mean this other person believes he is benefited and will not trade on a voluntary basis unless he so believes.

Collectivism is a form of socialism or communism. If I remember correctly, the expression formerly was used as state socialism or state communism or state collectivism as opposed to voluntary socialism. Since state has a monopoly on the use of aggressive force, no one should object to socialism or communism if it is voluntary.

Individuals have a right to combine voluntarily to share the fruits of their labor if they so see fit. It has been tried many times and it has never worked.

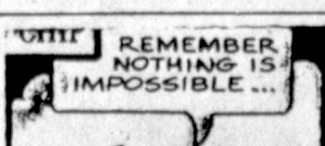

Examples of Collectivism

Most persons are collectivists and do not even know it. Social Security is a collectivist activity. It is involuntary. Government schools are a collectivist activity. Men are forced to pay for schools whether they want to use them or not. Subsidies and protective tariffs are a form of collectivism. In fact, taxation is a form of collectivism. It is giving the agents of the state the right to use a tax pistol to make people pay for something they do not believe benefits them and they do not want to use.

Drafting soldiers is a form of collectivism. Slavery was a form of collectivism. Labor unions are a form of collectivism. They would not be if it was a voluntary joining together and they did not enter into an agreement to strike and picket if the employer did not pay wages they arbitrarily demand.

When people satisfy their wants by benefiting another, we have voluntarism—the very opposite of collectivism.

Would that more people believed in voluntarism rather than collectivism. If more people believed and practiced voluntarism, undoubtedly our standard of living would be one-half higher and we would not be in almost continuous wars. Besides this, men would develop spiritually and mentally to a much greater degree than it is possible for them to develop under collectivism.

Such material in this case, would apprise the people of the nasty quality of a whole tangle of ingrate renegades. I find it hard to understand, however, why individuals who say they truly knew Stern can say they never had a suspicion.

Alfred and Martha Stern are notoriously bad actors. One exploit alone in New York soon after the war planned a red flag on his name morgue in the country. In that job, Stern financed and personally led a "march" on Albany with a housing emergency for his pretext and, with his henchmen, "occupied" the legislative chambers. This was an ineffective but pointed denunciation of Communist contempt for the sovereignty of the state, which then justified the insult by letting Stern get away with it.

The female is the daughter of a vicious old fraud named William Dodd, who served pre-war as Roosevelt's ambassador in Berlin. He did a fine job for Soviet Russia and strove constantly to get this country into the war on Russia's side. When he came home he ran down a Negro girl four years old at Hanover Courthouse, Va., dragging her "58 steps" according to the cops who paced it off soon afterward. Then he raced away without even pausing to see whether he had killed her. He tried to square this brutal job with a $25 check to the poor family, but finally paid a $250 fine on a plea of guilty. He claimed that he had spent $1,100 on medical and hospital bills for the child. Dodd's title to vote was nullified, but the Governor of Virginia restored it a few months later.

Hank To Hire Guide After 2-Day Wander

By HENRY McLEMORE

ROME — One of my favorite few other tourists have ever laid eyes on.

Who but the Lovettas will return to the United States with the memory of a branch office of the Bank of Rome indelibly stamped on their memories? I led them past it thirty times yesterday looking for the Tevi Fountain. We never did get to the gountain, but we became familiar with a large and flourishing hardware store we kept coming face-to-face with, and came to know every line and detail of a handsome stucco building that houses what must be one of the most progressive meat-packing firms in all Italy.

I suppose my sister's impatience at having been in Rome two days without having seen St. Peter's or the Tiber River is understandable, and that Bob is justified in saying that there must be something more exciting than Fiat repair shops to see in Rome.

Still, my sister has known me for a long time, and wouldn't you think that she would have a known better than to accept me as a guide without so much as putting up a fight? She knows perfectly well that I have little or no sense of direction, and that when I was a boy I was always getting lost on the way to school. She should remember that, even if she doesn't, because she was the one who used to have to come and straighten me out.

The more I think of what's happening, the more I think it's Bepie's fault. I wish they'd go ahead and dismiss me and hire a regular guide. I'd like to go along with them then, because I haven't seen much of Rome myself.

I hear that lots of it is real pretty, and awfully old.

Truman's assertion that he was tricky. In fact, friends and political advisers now worry lest he err on the side of seriousness and solemnity, or a Dewey-like "stiffness."

Although Senator William F. Knowland, a possible 1960 rival, performed publicly as White House manager of the Civil Rights Bill, Nixon backstaged an even more intensive fight for the more extreme measure, and against any compromise.

When certain Republican National Committee Members counseled inaction so that the issue could be tossed into the 1958 Congressional contests, Nixon suggested that President Eisenhower reject this partisan advice. Ike did. In spite of warnings from Secretary Dulles and Minority Leader Knowland that it might block action on important foreign aid legislation, Nixon insisted on ruling against the Senate provisions which permit filibusters. Nixon's anti-filibuster decision was overturned by a 55-38 vote, but it added the pro-Civil Rights faction. And it did not endanger adoption of Eisenhower's Middle East Doctrine.

Nixon Makes Strong Bid For Negro Vote

Truman's assertion that he was tricky. In fact, friends and political advisers now worry lest he err on the side of seriousness and solemnity, or a Dewey-like "stiffness."

Although Senator William F. Knowland, a possible 1960 rival, performed publicly as White House manager of the Civil Rights Bill, Nixon backstaged an even more intensive fight for the more extreme measure, and against any compromise.

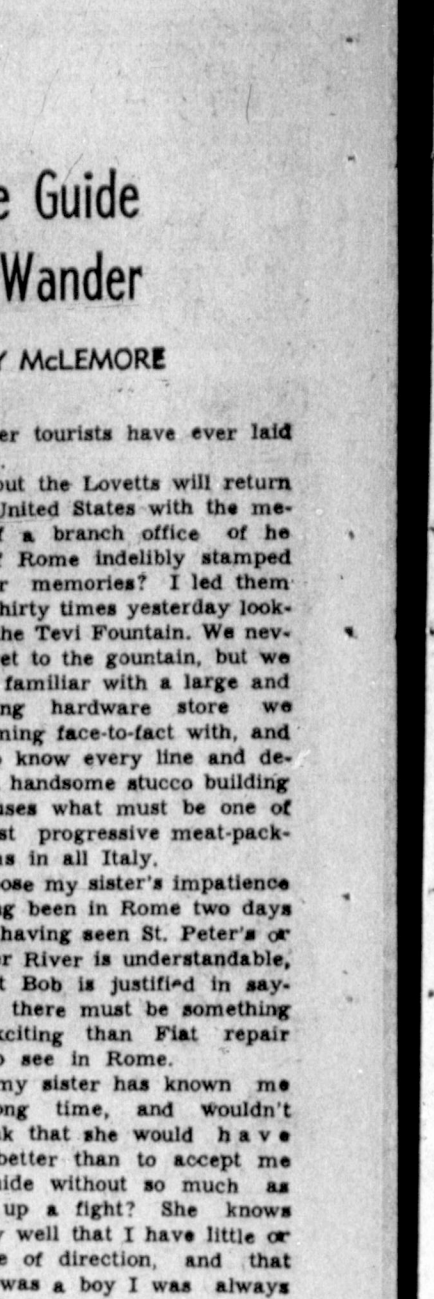

When certain Republican National Committee Members counseled inaction so that the issue could be tossed into the 1958 Congressional contests, Nixon suggested that President Eisenhower reject this partisan advice. Ike did. In spite of warnings from Secretary Dulles and Minority Leader Knowland that it might block action on important foreign aid legislation, Nixon insisted on ruling against the Senate provisions which permit filibusters. Nixon's anti-filibuster decision was overturned by a 55-38 vote, but it added the pro-Civil Rights faction. And it did not endanger adoption of Eisenhower's Middle East Doctrine.

It is significant that Nixon chose Houston to announce that he was an honorary member of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. And when several prominent Republicans avoided the Reverend Martin Luther King, Nixon appeared and was photographed with the leader of the bus boycott in Montgomery, Ala.

NIXON INVITED NEGROES TO NEW HOME — Moreover, Negroes were present at the first social affair in Nixon's new $70,000 home in the exclusive Wesley Heights section of Washington, where there is a covenant against their ownership of property. They included editors and reporters of Afro-American newspapers who journeyed with him to Ghana, where Nixon represented the President at the birth of this new Negro republic.

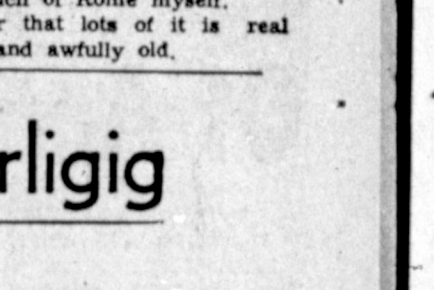

As a result, glowing articles and photographs of the Vice President have been published in almost every Negro newspaper and maga-

Russia May Have Helped Adenauer

Foreign News Commentary
By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

Soviet Russia probably has made it certain that Chancellor Konrad Adenauer will win easily in next Sunday's West German national election.
The tough old chancellor has been gaining strength in recent months. Political experts have been predicting that Adenauer would win. The chief question was whether his Christian Democratic Party would win a majority of the 497 seats in the Bundestag, the controlling house of the West German Parliament.

They appear to be convinced that they would have nothing to gain by giving up West Germany's alliance with the United States and the other NATO powers in the hope that Russia would voluntarily loosen its grip on East Germany.

Undoubtedly the West Germans share the belief of Western leaders that Russia's grip on its Communist satellites is inevitably slipping, however gradually, and that some day the East European Red bloc will fall to pieces.
The latest predictions from West Germany are that Adenauer may carry nine of the ten West German states, leaving the Socialists a possible majority only in Hesse.
Adenauer's Christian Democrats held 253 of the 497 seats in the outgoing Parliament. He had the support of the 32 German Party-Free People's Party bloc. The Socialists had 153 seats.
Several months ago the Adenauer coalition lost the support of the Free Democratic Party, which held 37 seats. Adenauer is trying to win them back. He seems to have a good chance of doing so. If he does, the chief question in the election probably will be the size of Adenauer's majority.

Local Churches Asked To Aid In Unity Quest

OBERLIN, Ohio (UP)—Protestant and orthodox leaders have called on "every local church and congregation" to take up the quest for Christian unity.

The appeal was made in a "message to the churches" presented for adoption at the final session of an eight-day unity conference attended by representatives of 47 U.S. and Canadian denominations.
It said the Oberlin conference, first of its kind ever held in North America, disclosed unexpected solidarity "among Christians of the varied inheritance" on many points of doctrine.

But the conference acknowledged there are still important differences that must be resolved before unity in spirit can be translated into any kind of organizational unity.
The churches unanimously adopted a resolution urging the National Council of Churches and the U.S. Conference for the World Council of Churches — sponsoring bodies for the Oberlin talks — to set up permanent machinery to guide local churches in this continuing study of issues and attitudes that bar the way to union.

AROUND THE WORLD IN...
DOVER, England (UP)—Three men and a dog left here Sunday in a 12-ton yawl on a voyage they hope will take them around the world in the next four years.
Bernard Yendall, 27, said he and his two crewmembers aboard the 29-year-old "Maryann" have only enough supplies to last a few weeks. They plan to take jobs at ports of call to make their way.
