Israel's Demand For Guarantees Renewed

Agreement Of Withdrawal Appears Falling Apart

By BRUCE W. MUNN
UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., March 2 (UP)— Israel Saturday renewed demands for security guarantees before withdrawing troops from the Gaza Strip and the Egyptian coast of the Gulf of Aqaba. The withdrawal agreement announced Friday appeared to be falling apart.

Israel was angered by what it considered failure of the United States to provide guarantees that the strip never will return to Egyptian control and that the gulf shall be kept open to Israeli shipping.

A U.S. spokesman here said the United States "would stand pat" on the statement by U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge that the Israeli agreement to withdraw was "unconditional."

New Developments
These were the developments: JERUSALEM: The Israeli cabinet met in emergency Sabbath session with Premier David Ben-Gurion who faced opposition both from his own Mapai party as well as opposition parties on grounds he showed "dishonesty" in negotiating for guarantees. The cabinet reportedly was awaiting a clarifying letter from President Eisenhower.

LONDON: In a message to the editor of the London Sunday Dispatch Ben-Gurion again insisted on stiff guarantees and charged that Israel's quarrel now was "not against an enemy but against a friend—the government of the United States."

WASHINGTON: Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles held urgent consultations on Israel's plans for troop withdrawal. The meeting at Dulles' home was so secret the State Department refused to confirm it was underway.

New Arab Victory
CAIRO: The Egyptian state radio proclaimed that the Israeli withdrawal announcement was a "new Arab victory over Zionism." It insisted that withdrawal would have to be unconditional. The Israeli government was demanding clarification of the United States stand, particularly the Lodge announcement and Dulles' statement to Arab delegations Friday that the U. S. made no "promises" to Israel.

Dulles was understood to be urging an "immediate" withdrawal of troops in his latest talk with Eban.

Ben-Gurion himself was faced with a government crisis over the issue. Leftist Mapam and Adnut Avoda party leaders accused him of selling Israel's hard-won gains for a "mess of pottage." The rightist Herut party denounced him for turning a victory into a defeat and announced it would demand a vote of no-confidence in the 70-year-old premier in parliament on Monday.

Senate Heeds Ike's Appeal

By WARREN DUFFEE
WASHINGTON, March 2 (UP)— The Senate heeded a last minute appeal from President Eisenhower Saturday and voted to retain the $200 million foreign aid provisions in his anti-Communist Middle East doctrine.

The roll call vote was 88 to 28. Only five Republicans voted with 23 Democrats for the proposal. It was defeated by a combination of 20 Democrats and 38 Republicans.

The vote was on an amendment by Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) to kill the provision.

Approval Next Week
This gave the President a hard-fought victory and cleared the way for Senate approval early next week of the entire resolution. The measure is designed to block communist penetration into the Middle East — by use of U.S. armed forces if necessary.

A few hours before the showdown vote, Mr. Eisenhower sent the Senate a letter saying that scuttling of the provision would "gravely impair" U.S. effort to prevent Red domination of the area.

He also said it would have the "deplorable" effect of suggesting to the rest of the world "that our country wants to wage peace in terms of war."

Senate Republican leader William F. Knowland read the letter to the Senate in a last minute drive to win as decisive a victory for the administration as possible. Administration forces were confident, even before Mr. Eisenhower's last minute intervention, that Russell's proposal would be voted down despite its support of a bloc of Southern Democrats and economy-minded Republicans.

The Senate was called into an unusual Saturday session in a drive by Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson to get a final vote on the resolution by Tuesday night.

The other main provision of the two-pronged resolution declares the United States is ready to use armed forces if necessary to prevent Communist penetration of the Middle East.

The showdown vote on the aid provision was the biggest obstacle in the resolution's path. The few outspoken opponents of the entire resolution conceded that the Senate finally would approve it by a large majority.

Directed at Two Dangers
The aid provision would permit Mr. Eisenhower to spend $200 million of already appropriated funds in the Middle East if he sees fit.

Cub Pack 21 Holds Banquet
Cub Scout Pack 21 held their Blue and Gold Banquet Friday night in the cafeteria of the Baker School with about 130 members and parents present.

H. A. Duggett, juvenile officer, was the guest speaker and presentations were made to adult leaders and scouts for meritorious service in conjunction with the various activities of the Pack.

An announcement was made during this banquet that there will soon be openings for from 10 to 15 boys in Pack 21.

Whittaker Named To Top Court

By PATRICIA WIGGINS
WASHINGTON, March 2 (UP)— President Eisenhower Saturday named Federal Judge Charles Evans Whittaker of Kansas City, a Republican and long-time acquaintance of former President Truman, to the Supreme Court.

Whittaker is now a judge on the U. S. Court of Appeals for the Eighth Circuit in Kansas City. He will succeed Associate Justice Stanley F. Reed, who retired last Monday. He is 66.

His selection makes the new political lineup of the court stand at five Democrats and four Republicans. Before Reed retired, it was six Democrats and three Republicans.

Whittaker is the fourth man to be named to the high court by Mr. Eisenhower. The President previously had appointed two Republicans and a Democrat. All have been judges on lower federal or state courts with the exception of Chief Justice Earl Warren, former governor of California.

Initial Reaction Favorable
Whittaker's nomination must be approved by the Senate before he can take his seat.

Initial congressional reaction to his nomination was favorable. Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) said he was "glad" that Mr. Eisenhower had "shown his appreciation for Missouri."

"Mr. Whittaker is highly thought of by all Missourians, especially his colleagues in the bar," Symington said.

Sen. Frank Carlson (R-Kan.), called it "an outstanding appointment." He said Whittaker has "a great judicial background and will be a great honor and credit to the Supreme Court."

The White House announced Whittaker's appointment Saturday morning soon after the jurist conferred with the President.

Whittaker, talking later with reporters, said Mr. Eisenhower told him that he felt "my long and active experience as a trial lawyer, then as a trial judge, and my experience as an appellate judge admirably qualifies me as a Supreme Court justice."

HST Former Schoolmate
Whittaker has long impressed Mr. Eisenhower. His nomination to the Supreme Court was the third judicial appointment the President has given him in less than three years.

In July, 1954, Mr. Eisenhower named him to the U. S. District Court for Western Missouri. Last June 5, the President appointed him to his present post on the Eighth U. S. Court of Appeals, which embraces Minnesota, Iowa, Arkansas, Missouri, Nebraska, North and South Dakota.

Whittaker told newsmen he'd known former President Truman in Missouri "for many years." He said they were schoolmates at the University of Kansas City law school in the early 1920s. Mr. Truman was one class behind him.

Red Cross Board To Meet Tuesday
The Red Cross Board will meet Tuesday morning in Johnson's Cafe at 7 o'clock with Miss Edith Kral, home nursing chairman, in charge of the program.

The speaker for this meeting will be Miss Loretta Roberts, national Red Cross nursing representative.

Read at this meeting will be an official statement from Governor Price Daniel proclaiming this as American Red Cross Month throughout the state of Texas. In his proclamation, the governor states in part that we annually suffer more natural disasters than any other one of our sister states. The relief and rehabilitation of victims of these disasters depends greatly upon the effectiveness of (See RED CROSS, Page 3)

Inquiry Of Legislative Bribery Progresses

AUSTIN, March 2 (UP)— A veteran Houston lawmaker swore before a House committee Saturday that he never told anyone that "they could talk to Jim Cox with money."

The committee was investigating allegations of a $5,000 bribe offer that led to a criminal indictment against Rep. James E. Cox of Conroe. If convicted he faces a two to 10 year prison sentence.

Cox was indicted following allegations by Dr. Howard Harmon, president of the Texas Naturopathic Physicians Association, that Cox consented to accept a $5,000 bribe to withdraw the naturopath bill that Cox had introduced.

Cox, who smoked a cigaret while sitting at his regular desk in the House chamber Saturday during the committee investigation, maintained that he only "pretended" to accept the bribe as part of a plan to expose "crooked lobbyists."

New Ruling Prohibits Boycotts
By MAUREEN GOTHLIN
WASHINGTON, March 2 (UP)— The National Labor Relations Board Saturday reversed long-standing policy and ruled that government agencies are entitled to Taft-Hartley law protection from secondary boycotts.

By a 3 to 1 vote, the board held that it has authority to prohibit unions from conducting secondary boycotts aimed at forcing federal, state or local government agencies to stop doing business with chosen contractors, and vice versa.

Its significance is emphasized by the large amount of public construction underway and planned, particularly in highways and schools. Secondary boycotts, banned by the Taft-Hartley Act, are most prevalent in the construction and trucking industries.

Rule On Delaware Case
The board made the ruling in a case involving a boycott conducted in early 1955 by a local of the AFL-CIO International Brotherhood of Electrical workers at the construction site of the New Castle County, Del., airport passenger terminal.

Under policy set in 1949 the board held that Congress did not extend protection from secondary boycotts, an unfair labor practice, to government agencies. This ruling was based in part on the fact that unions cannot bring unfair labor practice charges against government agencies.

A secondary boycott generally occurs when a union, in the course of a dispute with one employer, induces employees of another firm to strike with the aim of forcing the second firm to stop doing business with the first. In other words, it is illegal for a union to use such "secondary pressure" to win its dispute with the original employer.

Can't Use Pressure
The Taft-Hartley Act states that such pressure may not be used to "stop doing business with any other employer or 'any other person.'"

Board Chairman Boyd Leedom and two other Eisenhower-appointed ruled Saturday that the term "person" includes government agencies. The act specifically exempts government agencies as "employers" under the act.

For this reason unions cannot bring unfair labor practice charges against government agencies.

Board member Abe Murdock, the only Democratic hold-over member, dissented. He said the decision would upset the "scheme of correlative rights" granted employers, employees and unions under the act.

Public School Week Observed In Pampa

Public Schools Week, which has been designated by Governor Price Daniel to be observed in Texas on the week of March 4 through 9, will be recognized in the Pampa School System primarily through visitations made by parents and other interested persons.

The Pampa High School will not have any special observance this week and will hold off its activities in this regard until Monday, March 11, the time of the annual Education, Business and Industry Day here in Pampa.

EBI Day Set Here

For the past four years, Pampa has conducted a Business, Industry, Education Day (BIE Day), at which time the public school teachers in Pampa were the guests of business and professional people.

Although this program has proved, according to chamber officials, very popular among both teachers and business people, the procedure has been reversed this year in such a way as will make the business people of the community the guests of the teachers.

The day set for this observance, which will be known this year not as Business, Industry and Education day, but Education, Business and Industry Day, has been set as March 11, and the tentative program set up at a recent meeting between officials of the school board and members of the Pampa chamber of commerce is as follows:

The day will commence at 10 a.m. with a general assembly program in all the schools. (The business people will have already made their choice of school.) At 10:45 business people will go with the teachers assigned to them and attend his or her class observing the work of the instructor.

At noon the businessmen will be guests of their assigned teachers for lunch where they will have the opportunity to discuss daily routines. Following lunch, the businessmen will return to classes with assigned teachers for another period of observation.

The day's observance will then conclude at 2 o'clock at which time the business men and women will return to their respective places of business.

Two Judgments Rendered Here

Two judgments, one in the case of William J. Smith vs. the G. and G. Fishing Magnets Inc. and the other in the case of Mildred Virginia Morris vs. Claude Ridens, were passed down in 31st District Court Friday afternoon by Judge Lewis B. Goodrich.

In the first case, William J. Smith was awarded $17,435.75 together with interest at a rate of six per cent per annum and all court costs.

Mildred Virginia Morris who was suing on behalf of herself and her children received an aggregate sum of $6,333.34. For herself she was awarded $4,833.34, for her children, Charles Leroy, Doyle and Ted Morris, all minors, were awarded $1,500 each. This case was the result of an accident in which the car which Mrs. Morris was riding with her husband, children and a friend was hit in the rear by a car driven by Claude Ridens of Canadian, resulting in the death of her husband.

Only one other case was brought up and it was dismissed. This was the case of J. W. Sartor vs. the West Texas Construction Co.

Mayor Signs Proclamation

A memorandum was received in Pampa from the office of Governor Price Daniel last week setting aside the week of March 4 through 9 as Public School Week in Texas, and asking that citizens throughout the state visit their public schools at this time to find out more about their operation, and to get better acquainted with their school administrators and teachers.

"The governor of Texas," it read, "has officially designated the week of March 4-9, 1957, as Public School Week."

The memorandum was added to by Mayor Lynn Boyd, who later signed a proclamation further adding that "Public School Week in Texas has become an outstanding annual event, having been observed during the past six years with ever increasing interest and participation of school patrons and parents throughout Texas, and with tangible evidence that the people are whole heartedly taking advantage of this special opportunity to see for themselves that Texas is a better place to live in."

Welcome Rain Makes Return Trip To Top O' Texas Area

Pampa was blanketed with a little more of that precious stuff known as rain which is appreciated more in no other region than the Top O' Texas.

The rain, which slipped into a lazy drizzle early yesterday afternoon starting off by a heating of thunder and heavy showers which lasted through most of the night. The rain gauge atop The News building showed a drop of 1.20 inches as of late last night with the mist still at work.

Visibility once again, as week before last, was falling rapidly. The weather was attributed to a low pressure disturbance in the southwest which moved into the upper Rio Grande Valley of Texas dumping rain on the plains as well as adjacent areas.

Large Central and East Texas area was warned of severe thunderstorms between 2 and 6 p.m. The area was 60 miles either side of a line from 60 miles southwest of Waco to 30 miles south of Lufkin.

The area included Waco, Temple, Huntsville and Lufkin. The band of thunderstorms was followed by a mass of cooler air that brought a light afternoon snow in 34-degree weather to Dalhart.

The cooler air was pushing southward over the northern quarter of the state while the south remained warm and humid. The weather bureau said the

Pioneer Of The Panhandle To Celebrate Her Birthday Monday

By DORIS WILSON
Pampa News Women's Editor
A lovely lady and a colorful pioneer in the Texas Panhandle, Mrs. Perry LeFors, 311 N. Frost, will quietly observe her 89th birthday on March 4. Mrs. LeFors, who came to the United States in 1882 as Miss Emma Lang with her sister, Anna and brother-in-law, Henry Thut, was born in Rhindefelden, Switzerland which is located at the foot of the Alps and is called Switzerland's most beautiful city.

They lived first in Frankfort, Ky., but after two years, Miss Lang came on to the Panhandle with her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Thut, and was joined later by her other sister, Lena and husband, Alex Schneider Sr., who is the founder of the Schneider Hotel.

Enroute to the Travis Leach camp on the North Fork of Red River, they made an over-night stop at the Diamond F Ranch. It was here that Miss Lang met her future husband, Perry LeFors, a ranch foreman.

Miss Lang was a lovely Swiss girl with a flawless, fair complexion, which needed no help with make-up. She was an asset to this far-west area and was courted by the cavalry officers, who were stationed at Fort Elliott for the purpose of protecting the white people from the Indians.

Three years after their meeting, Perry LeFors and Emma Lang were married in the Huseby Hotel in Mobeetie. The wedding was the season's social event "to which all the cowboys and people in the surrounding area were invited." Her trousseau, especially ordered from Kansas City, was a dress of cashmere with a panner bordered in double rows of lace. The graceful folds of the dress and panner were held out by a bustle.

A champagne reception was held following the ceremony, and the guests danced all night. Another honeymoon couple staying at the hotel at the same time were Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Hobart, who had come from Vermont.

Mr. and Mrs. LeFors made their first home in Mobeetie, where they were prominent in the social life of the community and interested in a theatrical group organized there. They were acquainted with many noted men who lived in Mobeetie, which was the capital of the Panhandle at that time. Among them were Judge J. N. Browning, who afterwards became lieutenant-governor of the state; Judge Newton Willis and family, who lived just across the street, and Charlie Goodnight, who was a frequent visitor in their home.

Emma, as she likes to be called by her friends, children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren, was schooled in the fine arts of homemaking, cooking, handiwork, and art. And when the children came along, their home was the gathering place for wading parties, horseback riding, croquet, and baseball with Emma furnishing her famous Swiss pastries and cake for all their friends. She would prepare large feasts from the family recipes, which she had brought from Switzerland.

In 1909, tragedy struck the happy and complete LeFors home, when typhoid fever, which raged through the county, took the lives of Mr. LeFors and their four daughters, Mava, Ersa, Freda, and Eva.

In 1918, Emma with her young daughter, Moleta, who is now Mrs. J. H. Eastland of Beaumont, moved to Pampa. They visited for a time in California, where Moleta completed her high school education. In 1928, they returned to Pampa, where Emma was instrumental in organizing the Christian Science Church, which met in her home for several years.

Emma's immediate family consists of Mrs. A. H. Doucette, 211 N. Frost and Mrs. J. H. Eastland, Beaumont, Tex., her two daughters; Albert P. Doucette, LeFors Doucette, both of Amarillo; Bertou Doucette, Mrs. Walter E. Biery, Tulsa, Okla.; who are her grandchildren; Bob Ray Biery, Tulsa, Avril, John, and Bobby Doucette, great-grandchildren; Nieces and nephews are Mrs. Margaret Rainouard and Mrs. C. P. Buckley, Mrs. Charles Westphal, Charley Thut, who is the county clerk, Mrs. LeFors has a sister-in-law, Mrs. Joseph Hobbs, who lives in Venice, Calif.

Her philosophy for a long life is: "Keep your hands and mind filled with labor and love, your heart with charity, and faith in God."

The key to Emma's happy and worthwhile life might have been what her husband said to her about the Panhandle upon their first meeting, and which is still applicable today, "first learn to love the people, and then you will love the country."

White Warns Texas Farmers

AUSTIN (UP) — Agriculture Commissioner John White said that Texas farmers should guard against attempts to fleece them "with fantastically high prices" for questionable grass seed.

He said some varieties of Sudan Johnson grass hybrids are being offered for sale that are inferior and not suited for the purpose for which they are advertised.

White said farmers should consider any seed of this type "with extreme caution," and suggested they contact their county agent, the Texas Agriculture Extension Service or the Texas Department of Agriculture seed division if in doubt as to the value of the product.

Franco Makes Step Toward Restoring Bourbon Monarchy

By CHARLES M. McCANN
Foreign News Commentary
United Press Staff Correspondent
Generalissimo Francisco Franco appears to have moved another step toward restoring the Bourbon monarchy in Spain.

He seems also to have moved a step toward giving up some of the sweeping power he has held for more than 20 years.

These developments seem indicated by Franco's drastic reshuffling of his cabinet, the first since July, 1951.

The representation of men who favor the restoration of the monarchy is a little stronger in the new cabinet.

And Franco has provided for the appointment of a prime minister at some future time.

There is every indication, however, that Franco, now 64, intends to stay in office for the foreseeable future.

Franco is now his country's "caudillo"—leader—of the empire, chief of the state, commander in chief of the armed forces, prime minister and head of the falange political party.

Dictator Since 1936
He has wielded dictatorial power ever since he was named chief of state on October 1, 1936, two months after the outbreak of the civil war, as leader of the nationalist rebellion against the left-winged Republican government.

King Alfonso XIII had been overthrown in 1931 when the Republicans won an overwhelming victory in a national election. Alfonso died in Rome in 1941.

The civil war ended in 1939. Franco remained head man. On March 31, 1947, he announced that Spain was to become a monarchy again. He appointed a regency council which, in the event of his own incapacitation or death, would name a king.

Nominally, the heir to the throne would be Alfonso's son, Don Juan, who lives in exile in Portugal, Spain's next-door neighbor on the Iberian Peninsula. But Franco has been grooming Juan's son, Don Juan Carlos, for the throne.

Franco and Don Juan met in 1954. They agreed that Juan Carlos, now 19, should go to Spain to complete his education—an education pointed toward his eventual assumption of the throne.

Gets Military Training
Juan Carlos is studying now at the Zaragoza Military Academy. He is being coached by special tutors in problems of statehood and government under Franco's still be the real power.

There may be a serious clash at some future time if Franco decides that the time for a monarchy has come—or if something happens to him which makes the restoration an immediate issue. Army leaders are strongly monarchistic. A lot of army men do not like the Falange.

But for the present, Franco seems to be in no hurry to make any change in the governmental system.

His first step, when he gets ready, is likely to be the appointment of a prime minister who would take over some of his heavy burdens of government while leaving him head of state.

Later he is to attend the naval and air force academies.

Local Janitor Needs Many Skills To Keep Offices In Top Shape

By FRED M. PARKER
Pampa News Staff Writer
Have you ever wondered about the amount of time and the various things a person must know in keeping a large building or groups of offices clean?

All of the various duties of what most people refer to as janitors are staggering when they are fully studied.

A man that has the responsibility of keeping the largest groups of offices in town clean is T. L. Oliphant, the janitor of over three floors of offices which the Cabot Companies have in the Hughes Building.

Cabot has all of the second, fifth and sixth floors of the Hughes building, a print shop in the basement and the auditorium. This involves over 75 offices that Oliphant must keep clean.

He is assisted in this tremendous task by four high school boys that work between 5 and 8:30 each evening, Monday through Friday.

Oliphant begins his day's work at 5 p.m. and finishes it when most of us are in bed.

In performing the duties of keeping the offices clean, Oliphant uses the well-known broom and mop. In addition to these two tools of the trade he uses buffing machines, trash carts, waxes and special cleaning agents.

He reported that all of the ash trays, trash baskets and other containers which contain items to be thrown away are emptied into the special trash carts at the close of business each day. These carts are constructed so that they can be moved about in the offices and the operation can be carried out in one continuous circuit through a floor.

While disposing of the trash each night Oliphant checks it to make sure that some important document or set of records has not accidentally fallen into the trash containers. If this happens he removes the item and sees that it gets back to the proper place. This does not happen often but it is a big responsibility to see that nothing is thrown away that shouldn't be.

Oliphant starts on the bottom floor of the offices and moves upward until he reaches the top. All of the floors are swept each night and mopped when required.

He reported that all of the floors are waxed each week and that once a month all of the wax is removed from the tile floors and new wax is applied.

One item picked up that should be of interest to housewives is in regard to keeping the wax from building up around the walls and becoming discolored. Oliphant reported that about six inches along the walls is only waxed occasionally and that this area is not waxed in the weekly waxing. He reported that this area is buffed when the other parts of the floors are waxed to maintain the luster.

He also reported that unused corners and other parts of the rooms which have little "traffic" are also lightly waxed.

The evenness of the wax on the floors in the Cabot offices and the high luster of the floors indicate that this practice is a sound one and saves considerable time in maintaining the floors in top condition.

When the floors become too badly smudged from various reasons a liquid cleaner is applied and the area buffed with steel wool. This removes the smudge which has become ground into the tile floors, Oliphant reported, and restores the tile to its original color. He stated that this problem only arises in certain offices.

All of the desks in the many offices are also waxed and polished to maintain the finish and these are dusted every night. Oliphant reported that some offices, where certain type of work is carried out, require more time and work than others to keep them in top condition.

Keeping the rest rooms and dripping fountains on each floor clean and sanitary is another important duty. These must be cleaned each day and must be kept spotless.

A little item that most people don't think about, but one that Oliphant feels is important, is dusting the walls. If this is not done, he feels, it allows the dust and other smudges to accumulate and causes the walls to have to be repainted more often.

There are many other items that a janitor must think about if he is to keep a building or group of offices clean. One of these is keeping the waste baskets clean. Ash trays are emptied into these baskets and occasionally a liquid is allowed to get in them, causing a mixture that must be scrubbed out. Also other little items, not usually encountered, keep cropping up and must be attended to.

With the many duties and things needed to be taken care of each night, Oliphant must organize his, and the four boys', work so that no time is lost and the work is completed as efficiently as possible. This is a task in itself and calls for organization of the types of jobs which are similar for the most efficient accomplishment of the cleaning jobs.

This tells of some of the problems encountered by one man in keeping one type of building clean but it basically applies to every one involved in the cleaning and maintenance of offices and public buildings. Each type of business has special problems in cleaning but they are all basically the same.

The job of being a janitor is one that is highly specialized and calls for many types of knowledge and skills.

Union Demonstrators Try To Gain Forceful Entry

INDIANAPOLIS, March 2 (UP)—Nuisy union demonstrators threatened to force their way into Indiana Gov. Harold W. Handley's office Saturday because he refused to veto a controversial "right to work" bill.

Balked at gaining entrance to Handley's office, where he had conferred with union leaders, some voices of the estimated 5,000 man crowd were heard calling for a "march" on the governor's home.

It never materialized, however, and the labor union members withdrew from the statehouse where they had milled through its corridors for several hours.

No Further Trouble Seen — Statehouse officials said they expected no further disturbances. The crowd descended on the Hoosier statehouse to demand that Handley veto a measure which would forbid the firing of any worker who refused to join a union.

"Pick 'rd pgh: Handley, how ever, said he would veto" — Gov. Harold W. Handley Saturday refused to veto a controversial "right to work" bill; and noisy union demonstrators threatened to break into the governor's office and march on the Indiana executive mansion.

A crowd of about 5,000 union members descended on the Hoosier statehouse to demand that the Governor veto the measure which would forbid the firing of any worker who refused to join a union.

Handley, however, said he would veto the bill—passed on a narrow margin by the Legislature—to become law without his signature. He revealed his decision in a conference with nine leaders of the Indiana State Federation of Labor and the United Mine Workers.

Carl H. Mullen, ISFL president, informed the crowd of Handley's refusal and the demonstrators broke out into choruses of boos. Handley, meanwhile, slipped out of the statehouse through a rear exit without running into the throng.

Crowd Searches For Governor — After hearing Mullen, the crowd pressed tightly around the entrance to Handley's office, shouting "break down the door." Banging on the executive office door, the angry crowd pushed it part way open only to be confronted by two state policemen.

Maj. Paul T. Beverford, executive assistant to the state police superintendent, told the throng that Handley had left. They didn't appear to believe him, and accepted his invitation to permit two demonstrators to inspect the executive offices.

After the inspection apparently satisfied the crowd the governor was gone, one man shouted "let's go out to his house." The governor's mansion is located about 40 blocks from the state house in an exclusive residential section.

AGREEMENT

Continued from Page 1 in his guarantee negotiations with the United States, was firming fast behind the Jan. 23 parliament resolution insisting on no withdrawal without stringent guarantees that the UN or Israel shall administer the Gaza Strip and that Israeli shipping shall have access to the Gulf of Aqaba.

Meanwhile, UN emergency force commander Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns of Canada flew from Cairo to Tel Aviv to discuss the replacement of Israeli troops with his international force. But a meeting between Burns and Israeli commander Moshe Dayan scheduled for Saturday was abruptly postponed until Sunday at Israel's request.

Ben-Gurion himself was reported in Jerusalem to be "not satisfied" with the terms under which there would be a withdrawal.

In his letter to Editor Charles Eade of the Sunday Dispatch, the Israeli Premier, who won a vote of confidence 72-29 on his Mideast policy only last Tuesday, again insisted on two basic demands: "The Egyptians must never again be allowed to set up their coastal garrisons at the tip of the Sinai Peninsula" (on the Gulf of Aqaba).

The second guarantee we require is that on no account will the Egyptians be allowed to return to the Gaza Strip.

And he appealed to the American people's sense of "fair play" to help Israel achieve its goals.

He said the Portland racketeer will testify on the amount of money he had received from his own gambling and after-hours places, and alleged arrangements to split the "take" of these and other places with Maloney and McLaughlin.

Elkins, a grim-faced underworld veteran with cold blue eyes and wavy hair, testified this week that he was asked for $2,000 a week for District Attorney Langley and gambler Maloney. He balked at testifying publicly whether he actually paid the money, saying he could be prosecuted for bribery on the basis of his answer. However, he later said he made payments for a few months early in 1955.

Elkins said he was also asked to pick up "protection" payments from other illegal places, but he did not do this.

Senator McClellan Charges Teamster-Racketeering Links

WASHINGTON, March (UP)—Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) said Saturday evidence before his Senate Labor Rackets Investigating committee "conclusively links" high Teamster union officials with racketeers.

McClellan, in an interview, stressed that documents produced by his investigators show that the Western Conference of Teamsters paid air travel and hotel bills of Thomas E. Maloney, a portly Seattle gambler who often listed himself as a Teamster union organizer.

Racketeer James B. Elkins of Portland, Ore., has charged that West Coast Teamster Boss Frank W. Brewster sent Maloney and Joseph P. McLaughlin, another Seattle gambler and close friend of Brewster, to take over Portland's gambling and vice operations after election of a union-backed district attorney.

McClellan said the fact that the union paid Maloney's bills is "very strong supporting evidence." Conclusive Evidence He said that when the union-paid bills are connected with testimony that union pickets were used to force tavern owners to use the pinball machines of a company organized by McLaughlin, "it shows rather conclusively the tie-up with officials of the union."

The chairman also said "evidence that the Teamsters union switched its support" to Democratic District Attorney William M. Langley "is another strong circumstance that—taken together with other evidence that has not been presented yet—will pretty well establish the pattern that was being followed and the objectives those labor leaders sought to achieve."

Langley, Maloney, McLaughlin, Elkins and others have been indicted in Portland. Elkins will resume testimony Monday, Chief Committee Council, Robert F. Kennedy said Elkins will continue his testimony when hearings resume Tuesday—this time to tell of alleged attempts by union-backed racketeers to take over Portland's gambling and after-hours bootlegging joints and open up more of the same.

He said the Portland racketeer will testify on the amount of money he had received from his own gambling and after-hours places, and alleged arrangements to split the "take" of these and other places with Maloney and McLaughlin.

Nixon's African Visit Helps US Influence

LONDON, March 2 (UP)—U.S. Vice President Richard M. Nixon's current visit to Africa was seen here Saturday as testimony to America's growing influence on the dark continent.

Nixon will tour eight countries in northern and western Africa, and in each one plans to confer with leaders on subjects of mutual interest with the United States.

Among those subjects would be possible economic and military aid from the United States, and military bases already established in some of the countries.

With the expansion of American influence, observers here saw a concurrent decrease of Soviet advances in both Africa and the Middle East countries.

The observers pointed out that many of the African countries Nixon will visit on his tour—Morocco, the Gold Coast, Liberia, Uganda, Ethiopia, Sudan, Libya and Tunisia—border on the Middle East which the United States plans to enter in a big way through the Eisenhower Doctrine.

Designed to Fill Vacuum The observers believe the Doctrine was designed to fill the vacuum created by the decline of British influence in the Middle East after the Suez affair.

Now they believe the American influence will spread outwardly into the African nations. It is already noticeable in Ethiopia and Sudan.

Sudan, which lies directly south of Egypt, has accepted U.S. aid to build roads, railways and airroads. Sudanese Prime Minister Abdulla-Khail has said he plans to ask Nixon for military equipment also.

Ethiopia Draws Close Ethiopia has drawn closer to the United States, which has agreed to help the country build a navy. A submarine chaser presently is waiting in Germany to be sent to Ethiopia, as soon as the Suez Canal is opened. Emperor Haile Selassie also is looking for U.S. military aid for the 25,000-man Ethiopian Army.

Morocco, where the United States has air bases, openly wants ties with the West, and Libya also is coming more and more into the western picture.

Among the middle east countries, several are leaning towards the United States. Jordan is seeking American aid and its monarch King Hussein, is loudly condemning the Communist advances to further this cause. Lebanon has begun to accept U.S. arms and Iraq is already receiving large quantities.

King Saud Visits Nasser Saudi Arabia's King Saud returned from his visit to the U.S. to tell Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser, Jordan's King Hussein and Syria's President Shukri al Kuwail that the U.S. wants a " rapprochement with the Arab people."

Observers here also see the beginning of a new Arab and Moslem lineup in North Africa. Many of the old dynastic feuds are disappearing and rulers of various countries are seeking new alliances.

International Personage To Grace The Pampa Stage

By BOB PEREZ
Pampa News Staff Writer

"Spain," says Madame Antonia Morales, "is the only country in the world that has so varied and completely different a dance, not only from that of other countries, but among the very provinces and regions themselves."

It was the same Madame Morales speaking of whom the Monthly Arts, a Paris magazine said: "The secret of Antonia Morales is her endless novelty. Her art has so many different facets: of Hamburg, Germany claimed she is a theater herself. Her dances, folk songs and guitar make her an unusual personality."

And it was the same Madame Morales who will give a concert here in Pampa within the next month. Madame Morales, who has recently returned to the United States from a European tour and who expects to conduct a similar tour of performances throughout the country within a very short while, does not quite know what to say about her citizenship. "I am, and I'm sure, a citizen of the United States. Although I have spent most of my life in Spain, and there is where I have learned all I know, I have spent most of my time traveling throughout the world, returning to Spain mainly to keep abreast of the dances." To this she adds: "When I say returning to study the dances, I do not mean that they change as often as they do in other countries. This, I think, is the true beauty of Spanish dances of Spanish culture, and of Spain in general... its unchanging nature. These dances that I perform have not changed at all. They are songs which are felt primarily in the heart, and transmitted into one's whole being."

"I might add here," she says, "that the Spanish dance is not one for children. There are dances that are good for children, and the Spanish dances which we generally think of as being 'typically' Spanish, is not one of them. I am speaking primarily of the Flamenco. There are very many dances which the young people may indulge in such as the 'jotas,' and the 'Sevillanas,' but the 'Flamenco,' that which requires much fervor and feeling, is not one of them."

What does this widely traveled dancer think of this part of the great Southwest? "Well," she comments, "I find that people here are much warmer than anywhere else in the United States that I have been. And when I say 'here,' I mean Texas. I would like, I think, to come to Texas to live. Perhaps I would open up a dancing studio somewhere. I find, too, that the appreciation of art is a very live thing in this part of the country. It has not grown stale as in many places."

Madame Morales was interviewed in the dance studio of Miss Jeanne Willingham, whose guest she has been for the past week, and who will sponsor her when she returns shortly for her concert. The two met in Hollywood, Calif., several years ago, and have been in constant touch with one another since. She came here expressly to see Miss Willingham on her way back to California from Europe, where she will stay for a while before returning to Spain where she hopes to make a picture. Before returning to Spain, however, she is scheduled to give several performances throughout the States including five in "Jacob's Pillow" a yearly festival of song and dance in Lee, Mass.

Of her coming performance here in Pampa, she warned: "When my dances are seen, the viewer should place himself in Spain. Many performers change the style of their dances to suit the uninitiated. My dances, however, are authentic. They have not been changed one bit. They have the same meaning and feeling which they had when they were first danced, and I would never think of changing them. Other dances can be changed to suit the listener, but not the Spanish dance. I would like to keep this tradition alive. This is why I would like to give clinics to explain the different regions and their dances."

Antonía has been here for the past week and she has, in that time, been an observer and temporary instructor in Spanish dances.

"The children here are very talented," she said, "and I find that they pick up much more in less time than most children of other regions. It is only a matter of keeping their enthusiasm alive."

Antonía Morales started out at a very young age in the study of music. "I did not take up the dance right away because of one of those Spanish customs which made it impossible for me to, but I had always loved music and the rhythmic beat that accompanied it. For this reason, as soon as I was able, I started dancing." And dance, she said, clear around the globe, leaving nothing but praise in the mouths and minds of all who have seen her.

It is this same Madame Antonía Morales who is visiting Pampa and who will give a performance here in the near future. She has devoted her entire life to the dance, and it is in this regard that one Carmelita Maracci once said: "Of Antonía Morales, I have the kind of real enthusiasm which makes it a pleasure to recall her genuine ability as a dancer — her incomparable taste — her real comprehension of Spain and above all, her love for her chosen field."

Reclaimed Water Seen As Source For Valuable Livestock Feed

(Editor's Note: This is the seventh of a series of articles by a noted research scientist on water problems of the Southwest.)

In the third article of this series it was shown how communities could sell the water in sewage to industry for enough to recover a substantial part of the cost of treating the sewage.

It was there pointed out that the solid sludge resulting from treatment could also be sold. But it is only good as a low-grade fertilizer and returns only a fraction of the cost of sewage treatment.

If a farmer buys this sludge and puts it on his field he may then grow, let us say, corn or oats which he can use for animal feed. The oat plants have used the materials from the sludge and added to them through their own growth processes to produce a protein material much more valuable than the sludge.

Researchers have now developed a way to do this right in the sewage treatment works!

Thus, it seems likely that, soon we will have sewage treatment works that not only produce purified water, but also yield a high quality stock feed worth four times as much as the water.

Like the farmers, the researchers accomplish this transformation by means of plants — but not corn or oats. The plants they use are microscopic plants called algae — each organism consisting of a single living cell. Many of the algae are green and are well known as the green scum formed in ponds and lakes.

Being plants, algae take simple materials such as carbon dioxide, water and ammonia — and from these using sunlight as a source of energy, build up complex materials like carbohydrates, fats and proteins. In the course of this they give off oxygen.

simple materials like carbon dioxide. Bacteria which are one-celled animals do this, just as do pigs and chickens and human beings.

Now, bacteria are the organisms which do the work of sewage treatment. They take the noxious organic compounds of sewage and, using oxygen, consume them to produce carbon dioxide. These simple materials pass off as gases and there is left, as sludge, only the dead bodies of the bacteria that have completed their lifetime work. Getting the oxygen to the working bacteria is one of the major functions of a sewage treatment works.

This costs money. It is done by trickling the sewage over rocks or tile in specially constructed tanks called trickling filters, or by forcing air to bubble up through a tank of the liquid. These structures are expensive to build and take power to operate.

Instead of this, the new process puts both bacteria and algae into the same sewage pond. The bacteria consume the sewage organic matter and produce carbon dioxide, ammonia, and other simple compounds. These are used by the algae in photosynthesis to produce proteins, fats, and other plant substances in the algae cells. The oxygen given off during this process forms the supply for the bacterial clean-up of the sewage.

The whole job is done in an inexpensive shallow tank. Many of the details have been worked out by five years of experimenting, mostly in California. Such details include the depth of the tank (depends on the intensity of the sunlight — about 8-12 inches at San Francisco, deeper farther south), the period of retention in the tank and the amount of mixing required.

With all this work, it still looked doubtful that the process would be economic because algae form a slimy mass difficult to separate from the liquid. After trying several other methods it has recently been discovered that the algae slime can be coagulated with alum.

a treatment used in water purification.

In fact, the coagulating algae drags down with it all traces of colloidal material present and produces a very sparkling water.

After removing further water on a filter, the pasty algae mass is dried rapidly, to preserve the feed value, on a heated rotating drum from which it is scraped off in flakes.

The flakes contain 50 per cent protein, 5 per cent carbohydrate, 15 per cent fats, and 20 per cent ash. That is equivalent in these components to a half and half mixture of cottonseed or soybean meal and meat scraps or tankage — a high grade feedstuff.

Chick-feeding studies show the flakes as good as fishmeal, and rat-feeding studies show them as a protein source equal or superior to skim milk or soybean protein. Algae surpassed other sources in promoting growth of the young and in increasing the appetite and feed intake.

How about costs? Figures are not proven by large scale studies yet, but the pilot-plant results are as follows:

It will cost $80-$100 per million gallons for treatment, harvesting, and drying. The yield under the sunlight conditions at San Francisco is about one-half ton per million gallons in winter and one and one-half tons in summer. It would be higher farther south.

The value of the product is $60-$90 per ton wholesale. If we take the midrange of these figures, the cost would be $90 and the returns $75.

But the million gallons of water could be sold for at least $20 (2 cents per thousand gallons), and thus the total return would be $95. Best of all, by so treating sewage, you eliminate the cost of the conventional sewage treatment which is $40-$80 per million gallons.

100,000 population; the algae process would cost $450,000 per year. The feed and water product would sell for $475,000. And the city could use for other purposes the $200,000 it now spends for sewage treatment.

You can't go out and buy one of these plants tomorrow. Continued research and development work will improve the above figures. And it must be tested for various climatic conditions.

Furthermore, the consulting engineers in whose hands lies the design of our sewage treatment plant must learn the merits of the new process before they can switch to it from the conventional design, tried and true for over 30 years.

Finally, the process must pass the rigorous standards set up by the state health departments for the protection of the public health. All this takes time, for men cannot change large scale practices overnight.

But research shows the way, and economics can give them a push!

'Water' And 'Magic' Are Speech Topics At Twentieth Century Culture Club Meet

Contents of "The Magic Barrel" were revealed by Messrs. Paul Buchanan and B. Bentley with Mrs. Warren Hasse presenting "Water, Our Number One Problem," at the recent meeting of the Twentieth Century Culture Club in the home of Mrs. L. J. Zachry, 1310 Williston.

Mr. Buchanan, plant superintendent and Mr. Bentley, plant chemist of Dorchester Corporation were introduced by Mrs. J. R. Donaldson.

Mr. Buchanan pointed out that the group would see many products from the natural resources of water and oil made by the many industries in this area. Mr. Bentley explained the miracles within the magic barrel are visible due to the invisible chemicals within. He displayed many articles of clothing made from nylon and dacron which were moth and mildew resistant and told of the value of using nylon, which is stronger than iron for unbreakable pipes and gears, which are being used today in watches and household mixers and require no oiling.

Mr. Bentley discussed the use of plastic for all types of bottles and containers, as well as for ropes used by the United States Coast Guard for lifelines. The use of plastic for window screens and safety windows has proven very beneficial. He pointed out the uses of carbon black in paints and inks, and concluded the program by making synthetic rubber for all the members to examine.

Mrs. Warren Hasse's talk was on "Water, Our Number One Problem." She stated that in the part of this century a barrel of water would generally provide the daily needs of an average family, today we need 12 barrels per day for the average family.

In discussing rainfall, Mrs. Hasse stated that the average annual rainfall in Texas yields 360 million acre-feet of water, of which more

RUTH MILLET

If you don't want to be a widow better see to it that your husband doesn't get bored.

That's something wives should be able to figure out for themselves from a recent statement of Dr. Edward L. Bortz, Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia.

The doctor didn't actually tell women that. What he said was: "The major dilemma of today's young man of 65 is that he becomes old because he is bored."

But any woman knows that a wife has a great deal to do with whether or not her husband gets bored with living.

A man isn't likely to get bored if his wife isn't willing to settle down to a dull, routine existence.

To keep a man from slipping into boredom a woman should begin to make things happen when the couple is still young.

She should always be full of some bright dream for the future. She should be an enthusiastic supporter of his ideas, instead of a wet blanket. She should be willing to take an occasional chance.

She shouldn't be disinterested when he asks her to go fishing with him or to accompany him on a business trip. She should reflect his interest when he gets enthusiastic over anything from hi-fi to setting up a home workshop.

Perhaps, instead of talking about the day when he can retire and loaf, she should be talking of the day when they can do some of the things they've always wanted to do but haven't had time for.

Above all, she should see to it that, even though her husband has to work hard to support the family, he never settles down to a treadmill existence.

He won't if she widens their circle of friends and encourages him in hobbies and outside interests.

It's important that she shares his interests when he wants her to and leaves him free to develop some interests on his own. By her own enthusiasm she must get him to share some of her activities.

Why let a husband grow old from boredom if you can keep him young by keeping him happily busy enjoying today and planning for tomorrow?

If you ask to use a business telephone to make a personal call, be sure to keep your conversation brief. It isn't right to tie up a business line while you carry on a length conversation.

Any call you really have to make can be limited to a few sentences with the explanation, "I'm using a business line."

"YOU" and YOUR HOME
by Jack Foster

CAREFREE ELEGANCE

To be completely satisfying, a room must make a psychological as well as a physical contribution to the well being of its occupants. This means that as well as providing comfort and convenience around the calendar, it must be emotionally satisfying, fulfilling the human need for beauty of color, line and form. And it must afford freedom from worry about upkeep and wear.

Today's home makers have inherited the wealth of all the creative design of all ages. What you personally do with this inheritance is the way you translate its beauty, its what makes your home an expression of you, stamps it with the imprint of your personality.

The room sketched above is truly a room for today. Casual elegance is the keynote here. The fine sectional sofa curved around the corner forms the room's focal point and provides abundant seating space. Note the absence of visual confusion. The walls, draperies, and wall-to-wall carpet and the furnishings blend well, yet each stands on its own feet decoratively.

The room has a northern exposure so a warm pinkish beige was chosen as the basic color. Wide expanses of draperies, a shade deeper than the walls and floor, give a sense of shelter and soften the effect of the smooth, plain walls.

Whether your home is modern or traditional, large or small, formal or casual, we have the furnishings for it here. Graceful designs, exquisite fabrics and superb workmanship. Price, with us, is always commensurate with quality. So make your store, always.

4-H Club Activities Build Future Leaders

This week, beginning yesterday, has been designated as National 4-H Club Week. President Eisenhower has proclaimed that the period between March 2 and 9 be so observed and Governor Price Daniel met with representatives of the Texas 4-H Council recently and signed the proclamation of 4-H Club Week in Texas.

System. County extension agents in 254 counties work with 4-H members, their parents, adult leaders and friends of 4-H to develop the future leaders of our state.

Many people do not understand the meaning of 4-H Club work, such as, who conducts 4-H work, how 4-H Clubs function and many other activities associated with 4-H.

Over 20 million boys and girls have participated in the 4-H program since it was started.

Any boy or girl between 10 and 21 may join by agreeing to follow 4-H ideals and standards. The main requirement is a willingness to "learn by doing," which is the club slogan, and "to make the best better," which is the club motto.

"Heads" — To learn the value of science through applying the latest scientific knowledge to farming and homemaking projects.

In Texas, 4-H Club work is directed by members of the Agricultural Extension Service which is a part of the Texas A&M College Club work in 4-H grew out of a situation and a need in rural America. It had its roots in many places, and many persons guided the movement in its formative years.

Fort Worth Grain

FORT WORTH (UP—USDA) — Weekly grain:

All cash grains, except wheat. Lost ground in the Southwest this week, the Agricultural Marketing Service said.

Based on bulk carlots at Texas common points, net changes from February 21 through March 1 went like this: Wheat closed 2 3/4¢ per bushel higher; milo 4¢ per cwt. lower; white corn 2¢ per bushel lower; oats 1 1/4¢ lower; yellow corn, 1 to 1 1/4¢ lower and barley steady to 1¢ lower.

Although export business was off slightly, wheat met good demand, closing Friday at $2.53 1/2 to $2.59 1/2. This was the highest wheat has been since last November.

Weakness in milo was due largely to the lack of demand for heavy offerings and partly to the lower trend on other feed grains. No. 2 yellow milo finished at $2.29-2.34 per 100 pounds.

Corn prices gave ground under pressure of slow demand for fairly heavy offerings, with No. 2 white corn closing at $1.89 1/2 to 1.91 1/2 and No. 2 yellow corn at $1.59 1/2 to $1.61 1/4.

Oats declined in sympathy with corn and other feed grains, winding up at 97 1/2 to 99 1/2 on No. 2 white offerings.

No. 2 barley finished at $1.50 to 1.52, with very little demand for light offerings.

Oklahoma country elevator prices went up 3¢ per bushel on wheat. It closed Friday from $2.06 per bushel at Guyton and Hooker to $2.15 at Frederick ... the highest since May 1955.

Milo, selling from $1.97 per cwt. at Guyton to $2.32 at Ada, Oklahoma, was mostly steady for the week.

U. S. Farmer Has A Large Stake In The Export Trade

By GAYLORD P. GODWIN

WASHINGTON, March 2 (UP)—The farmer has a large stake in export trade.

In 1956 one out of every 10 acres he harvested produced for export. About nine cents of every dollar of cash farm receipts came from the portion of crops sold overseas. For some of the important export crops, his share was much more. Exports brought him 41 cents per dollar of wheat income, 37 cents of tobacco, 33 cents of rice, and 18 cents of cotton.

U.S. agricultural exports in the calendar year 1956 were valued at more than $4 billion. This represented a value increase of 30 per cent over 1955 and a volume increase of about 30 per cent. Exports in 1956 nearly equaled the two peak years—the boom year of 1927 and the Korean war year of 1952. Many U.S. commodities set new export records.

Third Increase in 3 Years

The increase in exports was the third in as many years. Stronger foreign demand reflected greater economic activity, rising population, liberalized import policies, increased dollar receipts, and sizable shortages in the importing countries.

The best customers were the United Kingdom and Japan, followed by Canada, West Germany and The Netherlands. These countries took nearly half of all U.S. farm exports. Latin America, Asia, and Africa—the least developed areas of the world—have increased their imports significantly since World War II and now constitute a vast potential market.

The foreign agricultural service—the Agricultural Department agency charged with handling export problems—reports the United States is striving constantly to improve trade relations and thus increase exports.

Use Several Methods

Among the ways used are: 1. Government programs, mostly under the agricultural trade development and assistance act of 1954 (known popularly as the 480 program), accounted for two-fifths of the exports in 1956. The programs encompass sales for foreign currencies, barter transactions, loans and credits, grants for emergency foreign relief, and donations to private charities for the needy overseas. There are special pricing programs for some commodities.

2. International trade fairs; a new and highly successful market promotion activity, have enabled 3.5 million persons abroad to see and sample products from U.S. farms and factories. The United States participated in several trade fairs last year and already has announced it will have big market-promotion displays at fairs this year. The first such overseas event will be the international agricultural fair in Verona, Italy, March 10-19. The exhibit will feature the use of high protein feed concentrates, demonstrating to poultry raisers of Western Europe how more meat and more eggs can be obtained in less time and at less cost through use of such feeds.

3. The United States has some "super salesmen" abroad. These are agricultural attaches in 56 posts covering 167 countries. They report, advise, and negotiate in the interests of U.S. agriculture.

GRAY COUNTY Soil Conservation District News

By JACK G. DOUGLAS

Work Unit Conservationist The old saying "you can't have your cake and eat it, too," applies to most things which we do. Harvesting perennial grasses is one of the rare exceptions to the rule. Some of our ranchers fail to recognize the possibilities in modifying this rule to their benefit. Many of them seem to believe that they must either keep their cake (grass in this case) to beautify the countryside, or they must let their stock harvest it. And since they are not interested primarily in landscape art, they choose instead to harvest the grass.

Fortunately, such a difficult choice is not necessary. Let's modify the rule and say, "keep part of it and eat part of it." Which brings us to the choice that is necessary. How much of each shall it be? Most researchers and ranchers who have really studied the problem say, "eat about half of it and keep about half." And there are some very good reasons for the figures coming out that way. The answer lies in the way grasses grow. Nature installed in the green leaves of grass an ingenious little device that takes carbon dioxide gas out of the air and, with sunlight supplying the energy, builds more grass leaves and stems. Water and other materials coming into the plant through the roots are also used in these new tissues. Part of the food thus manufactured in the leaves is sent down into the roots where it is stored for future use. The first leaves of spring are made from this food that was stored up last year. As soon as the new shoots come out they begin to manufacture their own food and to build other shoots and leaves. The first thing you know grass is growing all over the place.

What happens when a cow nips off a leaf? That part of the factory shuts down until repairs are made and the leaf is growing again. What happens when all the leaves are nipped off? Why, the whole plant shuts down for repairs. Then some of the reserve food from the roots must be used to help get it into production again. When all the foliage is removed and kept off all year by livestock, the plant is not able to replace the eaten portion and drains the food reserve trying to stay alive. The following year the grass is slow getting started because the storehouse in the roots is empty. If this treatment is kept up indefinitely the grass plant has no choice but to close up shop for good. Now in this case you have eaten yourself out of house and home. Let's say, though, that you keep an eye on things and let your stock remove only half of the grass. Operating at half capacity the plant works vigorously to replace the eaten portion. Little or no reserve food is needed. The plant stays healthy and growing, and it actually expands. The half that you can harvest grows larger and larger. The root system goes deeper to better water and mineral supplies. Grass comes out early and strong in the Spring; More and more rainfall gets into the ground. Next thing you know you are in business.

Good And Bad Of The Week's News

Foreign News Commentary By CHARLES M. McCANN United Press Staff Correspondent

The week's good and bad news on the international balance sheet:

The serious situation caused by Israel's refusal to withdraw from two Egyptian areas which it seized in its invasion last October appeared to be nearing solution.

Announcement was expected at any time that Israel had agreed to American proposals under which it would withdraw from the positions it held in the Gaza Strip and on the Gulf of Aqaba Coast.

The remaining question was whether the solution would be acceptable, in its present form, to President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt.

Chiefs of state of four Arab nations embroiled with Israel met in Cairo. They called for Israel's unconditional withdrawal.

President Eisenhower and French Premier Guy Mollet conferred in Washington. They found themselves in agreement on most of the problems which concern the Big Three Western Allies.

President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles had tried for more than two weeks to get Israel to withdraw from the Gaza Strip and the coast of the Agaba Gulf. The alternative to withdrawal was action by the United Nations against Israel.

Faced with the possibility of economic penalties, in which the United States might take part, the Israelis agreed in principle to withdraw. Under the United States proposals, it was hoped that Israeli shipping might be permitted free passage through the Gulf of Aqaba and that guarantees would be obtained to stop Egyptian guerrilla raids on Israel from the Gaza area.

President Nasser, King Saud of Saudi Arabia, King Hussein of Jordan and President Shukri Al-Kuwatly of Syria met for three days in Baghdad from a visit to Washington, explained to his fellow leaders the aims of the Eisenhower Doctrine under which United States forces would be used if necessary to combat any Communist aggression against the Arab countries.

No announcement was made whether Saudi had any success in convincing his fellow leaders that the United States was acting in good faith. Cairo dispatches indicated that Nasser and Kuwatly remained suspicious.

President Eisenhower and Premier Mollet completed the first stage of restoring high-level allied meetings. The second stage will come when British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and the President meet in Bermuda on March 21.

A PACK AT A PUFF—Here's the answer to any chain smoker who wants to smoke up a pack of 20 cigarets at once, as demonstrated in Chicago by French comedian Robert Clary. He found the gadget during a visit to the $250,000 antique pipe exhibit in the Windy City.

Dean Martin Makes Debut As Single In Las Vegas

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Hollywood Writer
HOLLYWOOD, (UP)—Dean Martin makes his nightclub debut as a single in Las Vegas Wednesday and, though he's expecting to be a little nervous, "I've never been happier in my life."
Except for one TV appearance last year, Dean makes his first public bow without ex-partner Jerry Lewis when he opens at the Sands Hotel.
"It's terrible to get into a rut but now I'm out of it and on my way to better things," the singer said between rehearsals at his Beverly Hills home.
"Some of Jerry's friends have told me they don't think I can make it. Well, I think I can. I have incentive now. This is a challenge. I can hardly wait to begin the show."
Jerry added dancing, singing and pathos-type comedy to his new act, additions that brought mixed reactions from critics used to seeing him as a clown. Martin will "just get up and sing as I've always done."
"It was tougher on Jerry when he started as a single," Martin said. "The audience isn't waiting to go into hysterics over me. They're expecting to hear me sing. I'll have a little patter, I'll do some special songs and a soft snore dance."
"I'm just going to have a ball up there for 40 minutes. I'm not doing anything different than I did before when Jerry and I had the act."
Dean already has proved to the movie industry he can stand alone. Critics were enthusiastic at previews of his first solo movie, "10,000 Bedrooms," to be released in March.

WAR AND PEACE — Audrey Hepburn and Mel Ferrer, as Tolstoy's immortal Natasha and Prince Andrei, Join Henry Fonda to portray the top starring roles in the mammoth Vista Vision, Technicolor production of "War and Peace," opening today at the LaNora Theatre. The filmization of Tolstoy's monumental novel of Napoleon's invasion of Russia was directed by King Vidor.

No High-Living Actress She; Her Budget Totals $127.50

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Hollywood Writer
HOLLYWOOD, (UP)—In these days of high-priced living, it's sensational to discover actress Jeanne Baird who lives in Hollywood on the magnificent budget of $127.50 a month.

Jeanne, a charming brunette, acts in such filmed TV dramas as "Private Secretary," "Wyatt Earp" and "Four Star Playhouse." Once she was picked by A TV Guide as one of the five most promising TV actresses, along with Peggy King and Vera Miles.

Fans might visualize Jeanne as living in a plushy apartment with gold-threaded sofas and a mink-filled closet. Many an actress lives that way but spends herself right out of show business into a job as a carhop or a one-way ticket back home.

When Jeanne moved here five years ago from Santa Barbara, Calif., she reasoned that a freelance actress must have a low overhead to survive one of the world's toughest businesses. So, although recognition and more jobs are coming her way, she lives in an apartment the size of a streetcar with the rent of $28 a month.

Her apartment used to be a porch for the house next door. The living room barely holds two people and the bedroom isn't much larger. The bathroom is so small the plumbing fixtures overlap each other.

But Jeanne tastefully decorated and furnished the place for $150, including a studio couch, chairs, bookcase and chest. She painted the bathroom black and the old-fashioned icebox orange and repapered the kitchen with menus borrowed from fancy movietown restaurants.

Her other monthly expenses: $20 for gas, etc., for her 1955 convertible (you need a car to work in Hollywood); $45 for food (she hunts specials); $5 to feed her long-haired orange cat, Rusty; $12 for insurance; $5 for utilities and $12.50 for a telephone message service (in case she's not home when casting directors call her).

"I could economize more on food if I accepted dates to get free meals the way many actresses do, but that's hypocritical," adds Jeanne. "I've always been practical."

Dapper Jimmy Demaret Leads Baton Rouge

BATON ROUGE, La., March 2 (UP)—Dapper Jimmy Demaret, shooting a steady, two-under-par 70, took over the lead at the three-quarter mark of the $15,000 Baton Rouge Open tournament Saturday. His 54 hole total was 207 shots.

Consistent Peter Thompson, from Melbourne, Australia, put his 57 of Saturday with two early round 71's to take second place at 209.

Old-timer Lloyd Mangrum, Apple Valley, Calif., trudged in with an even par 72 to deadlock with first day leader Shelley Mayfield, Westbury N.Y., at 210.

No one has been able to hold the lead for more than a day in this 6th annual Baton Rouge tournament, but golf's old-guard seems to be pushing the younger crowd to the rear.

Gardner Dickinson, Panama City, Fla. is the only newcomer within striking distance at 212.

One stroke behind Dickinson is Ed Griffiths, Youngstown, Ohio, who turned in the day's best round, a hot 66.

Demaret, playing in the next to last threesome, birdied the first and eighth holes on the front nine. He bogied the 340-yard 8th hole and made the turn in 35 strokes.

His back nine was almost a repeat performance, as he birdied the 10th hole, bogied the short 12th and took another bird on the 17th, to make the back side in one under.

Thompson, smiling but methodical, has ground out three sub-par rounds and is only two strokes behind the leading Kiamasha Lake, N.Y., professional.

The Australian attracted one of Saturday's largest galleries and was only one stroke off this year's top score for the course.

Sauer Giving It Rookie Try For Comeback

By BILL McFARLAND PHOENIX, Ariz., March 2 (UP)—Hammerin' Hank Sauer, almost 35, is giving it the old rookie try this spring hoping for a comeback for a brand new boss.

Like Wee Bobby Shantz in the American League, Hank never was quite the same after winning a 1952 most valuable player award as an outfielder for the Chicago Cubs.

The Cubs traded him to the St. Louis Cardinals last year and the Cardinals eventually sold him to the Giants.

"I think this deal was a good break for me," said the erstwhile home run king. "I know I've got a good season ahead of me. I feel confident I still can hit the ball hard."

Can Still Drill Ball And in early drilling sessions with the Giants, he has proved he can drill the ball with all his old vigor—but the question is, for how long?

He's a big man, towering nearly six feet, four inches and weighing over 200 pounds. He has been chasing flyballs in the outfield or stretching for throws as a first baseman for 21 years of professional baseball and seven sturdy legs like his will haul a load only so far.

"He's certainly eager," said Manager Bill Rigney, "and he's in great shape. The main thing he can do for us is to give the club some punch early in the season, and if we get off to a good start, maybe we can give him some rest."

"If possible, I'd like to play him in spurts."

Best Shot Is Left Field Since the Giants lost two young outfielders—Jackie Brandt and rookie Willie Kirkland—to military service, Hank probably will get a better shot at left field than he would have ordinarily.

Even so, the big guy represents right-handed pinch-hitting power. He knows National League pitching and has enough know-how to swing for those easy-to-reach fences near the foul lines in the Polo Grounds.

Texas U. Team Trims Records

HOUSTON, Tex., March 2 (UP)—The University of Texas smashed five meet records and tied another today in running away from Houston University and Texas A&M in a triangular track meet.

Texas had 105 points to Houston's 48 and Texas A&M's 19. Longhorn sprint star Bobby Whilden broke records in the 220 with a time of 20.7 and his 9.5 100 led a record. The 100 was so close the fifth finisher had a time of 9.7.

Alvin Ashley highjumped 6-5 for another record, Wally Wilson set a 440 record with a time of 48.4, Ed Southern's 14.3 in the 120 high hurdles was a record as was a 204 foot, 10 inch javelin toss by Bruce Parker.

The Australian attracted one of Saturday's largest galleries and was only one stroke off this year's top score for the course.

Stretch - Running Sir William Wins The Santa Anita Derby

By ALEX KAHN ARCADIA, Calif., March 2 (UP)—Stretch-running Sir William, a State of Washington bred colt with a tremendous kick at the finish, raced to a neck victory Saturday in the $143,000 Santa Anita Derby.

Far out of the contention for nearly a mile of the mile and a furlong race, Sir William nailed Swirling Abbey in the final few hundred yards and after the pair raced head and head for several strides he finally lunged to his close victory.

Round Table, flown here from Florida, and made a supplementary entry in the race, was third after having raced with the early pace set by Buford most of the way. Sir William's time over a slow track was 1:54 1-5.

The race was an exciting demonstration of both early speed and closing courage as Buford who had captured two stakes at the meeting cut out a blistering pace and opened a lead of two lengths only to fade when the real racing began.

The heavily-favored Prince Khalid had been declared from the race shortly after noon when it was disclosed he rapped himself, tripping and the injury failed to respond to treatment. That left the Derby a wide open race.

But the game Washington horse proved all he needed was a little more distance after having finished second two weeks ago in the San Felipe stakes at a mile and a sixteenth.

Sent off at odds of 6 to 1 by the crowd of 56,000, largest of the meeting, Sir William returned $11.80, $7.70 and $3.10 across the board. Swirling Abbey returned $11.70 and $3.90 and Round Table, as part of a four-horse entry, paid $2.20 to show.

At the start of the rich stakes Buford shot out as though jet propelled and by the time he hit the turn he was a length and a half in front. Royal Academy was second and Round Table third with Swirling Abbey fourth and Sir William allowed to plod along in the rear division by jockey Henry Moreno in the early stages.

The horses kept virtually their same positions down the back stretch but as they hit the stretch turn Sir William was moving on the inside and closing ground fast.

When they straightened out in the stretch the leaders were Round Table and Swirling Abbey but Sir William was closing rapidly and responding to the whip with every stride.

It was a horse race down the stretch as Moreno drove Sir William closer and closer to the lead but Swirling Abbey and Round Table did not quit but had to be beaten by the winner. At the finish the margin was a little more than a head over Swirling Abbey who was barely a nose in front of Round Table. The rest of the 13-horse field was well back and it was a three-horse race at the finish.

Manhattan Musclemans Wins Shotout

By OSCAR FRALEY NEW YORK, March 2 (UP)—Burlly Ken Bantum, Manhattan's Olympic muscleman, opened the 10th annual IC-4A games by winning the shotput with a toss of 55 feet, 7 1-4 inches Saturday night before 8,000 fans at Madison Square Garden.

Bantum, who has been tossing 58 feet consistently as he chased the absent World Champion Parry O'Brien, failed in his hopes to erase the 56 foot, 6 inch mark established by Georgetown's Al Bionis in 1941. Dick Allman of Cornell was second and Ed Cooke of Maryland third.

Ron Delany of Villanova, the Olympic 1500-meter champion, who has won 12 straight indoor miles, meanwhile was withdrawn from his specialty in a surprise move which, it was hoped, would pile up points and provide Villanova with its first IC-4A championship.

Delany led the qualifiers in the 1,000-yard run, which he was favored to win, and also was to run in the two-mile event, 35 minutes after the 1,000-yard final.

In two afternoon events, Mike Herman of New York University took the broad jump with a leap of 23 feet, 6 1-2 inches and Dartmouth's George Bibby captured the 45-pound weight with a heave of 50 feet, 5 1-4 inches.

Herman won the broad jump on the first of two leaps because he pulled a muscle shortly thereafter in the quarter-finals of the 60-yard high hurdles. Second, only one and three quarter inches behind him, was Ira Davis, LaSalle's hop-step-and-jumper, with Cornell's John King third.

Ed Bagdonas, a second-string guard on the Army football team, was second in the weight throw with favored Dick Knorr of Princeton, recovering from a throat ailment, a disappointed third.

Training Camp Roundup

By UNITED PRESS VERO BEACH, Fla., March 2 (UP)—Big Don Newcombe, 27, game winner for the Dodgers and the National League's most valuable player last season, threw his first batting practice of the spring Saturday without a trace of arm trouble which he said bothered him in the last World Series.

Newcombe threw with an easy motion as he pitched to batters for about 15 minutes in a broiling sun. He did not try to throw his fastball, concentrating instead on curves and control.

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 2 (UP)—The Phillies are going as far as they can with rookie Ed Bouchee at first base this season. Manager Mayo Smith said Saturday.

Marv Blaylock, who alternated with catcher Stan Lopata at first last season, will try to make the grade in right field unless Bouchee fails.

Hand blisters from too much batting practice, particularly against the pitching machine, presented the only problem for trainer Frank Wiechec. Richie Ashburn, star center fielder, was one of those sporting tape on his left hand.

SARASOTA, Fla., March 2 (UP)—Left-hander Parnell took his first workout Saturday since a January elbow operation and pronounced himself fit and ready for a good season.

The 10-year veteran of the Boston Red Sox laughed at stories he was washed up.

"I've got a good many years left," he said. "I throw today and my arm felt fine. I'll take it easy. It's not too easy, and be ready when the season starts."

"They had me washed up four years ago," Parnell said, "and am still here, am I not?"

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 2 (UP)—Right-handed pitcher Joe Trimble became the first casualty in the Pittsburgh Pirates camp Saturday when he suffered a severe injury to his right knee that may keep him sidelined for many weeks.

Trimble, who has a case history of an ailing right knee, complained of stiffness Friday and team 'apped the knee and removed physician Dr. Joseph Finegold some fluid. The knee failed to respond. Trimble was hospitalized and X-rays taken.

Bobby Bragan took the loss of Trimble philosophically. "We couldn't count on him too much because we didn't know how sound his arm was," the Buc manager commented. "But a sound Trimble could have been our fourth starting pitcher."

TAMPA, Fla., March 2 (UP)—Manager Birdie Tebbets of Cincinnati's pennant-hunting Redlegs is so pleased with the progress his squad has made in three days of training in ideal weather he said Saturday he plans a practice game Tuesday.

"We have no one in camp whose weight is a problem so we can devote full time each day to working out muscular kinks and getting ready to play baseball," Birdie said.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 2 (UP)—Sam Jones, the great curve ball pitcher with a control problem, pitched in batting practice Saturday for the first time this spring and pitching coach Bill Posedel of the St. Louis Cardinals said he believed he had detected a mannerism that might have contributed to Sam's wildness.

Other schools can come near this record?"

So what happened? In the same mail, Princeton discloses that three of its athletes have won Rhodes scholarships. And how many other schools can come near this record?"

Mickey Mantle had a great season in winning the triple crown but his .3531 championship batting average in 1956 boosted him no higher than fifth place among the nine American League "hit-time 300 hitters."

Before last season, Mantle was not even in the group with an overall mark of .298. Now he follows Ted Williams, the leader with a career mark of .348; teammate Bill Skowron at .319; Harvey Kuenn of Detroit at .313 and Al Kaline of Detroit at .311. Others back of Mantle's .308 are Minnie Miñoso, Chicago, .307; George Kell, Baltimore, .307; Billy Goodman, Boston, .306 and Country Slaughter, New York, .303.

Florida Horse In Handicap Victory

NEW ORLEANS, March 2 (UP)—The trip from Florida for Sammy Boulimets and Kingmaker was not in vain Saturday as the invaders teamed up to score a smashing one and one-quarter length triumph in the $50,000 New Orleans Handicap before a crowd of 17,433 at the fair grounds.

Kingmaker, owned by the Happy Hill Farm, was rated beautifully by Boulimets. He was kept just off the pace in the early run and was hustled into contention near the top of the stretch as the pace-setters fell back.

Boulimets moved him in front near the top of the stretch and the four-year-old Princequillo gelding easily held back Full Flight's closing bid to pick up the winner's share of $42,000. Full Flight, off poorly in the mile and one-eighth event, finished up a straining neck before Speed Rouser, the light weight, who in turn was only a nose in front of Platan at the wire.

The time for the middle distance event, the richest race run at the fair grounds, was 1:50 1-5 and Kingmaker returned $11.80, $6.00 and $4.60. He carried 115 pounds compared to Speed Rouser's 123. Full Flight returned $9.00 and $6.80, while Speed Rouser paid $4.80. Admiral Vee, the 19 to 10 favorite, finished last in the field of eight.

The victory was Kingmaker's second of the year in three trips to the post. In his only loss he finished a neck behind the winner. Honey Bird got the program off with an upset $29.00 victory and Pica Son, also overlooked, scored at $14.40 in the second. The combination was worth $346.40 at the $2 daily double window.

Leftie Golf Meet Set

DALLAS, March 2 (UP)—The national Left-Handed Golfers Association tournament has been set for the DAC Country Club here June 18-21, association president Manuel DeBusk said Saturday.

Between 200 and 250 southpaw swingers are expected to compete in this year's affair.

Harry Shoemaker of Signal Mountain, Tenn., won last year's tournament at Hickory, N. C.

Big State All-Conference Team

Only two seniors appeared on the all-Big State conference basketball team selected Saturday by the coaches.

Hannes Cone of champion East Texas Baptist and John Kloza of St. Mary's were the only two seniors and were two of the three unanimous choices. Bill Mundy, a Texas Wesleyan sophomore, was the third unanimous choice.

Also selected were Cecil Ghorntley of Southwestern and Joe Beck of St. Edwards. Cone is from Jacksonville, Tex., Ghorntley from Golden Acres, Tex., Munday from Sanger, Tex., Kloza of Milwaukee, Wis., and Beck is from Indiana-

White Deer, McLean Girls Vie For Bi-District Title Next Tuesday

Two teams who have lost only six games this season between them meet Tuesday night to decide the bi-district representative to the girls' regional basketball tournament next week end.

The White Deer Does, who have rolled up 26 victories while losing only three will meet the McLean Tigrettes who post a 17-3 mark. The game will be played Tuesday night at McLean. Game time is 7:30. Admissions is 75 cents and 50 cents.

White Deer won the District 1-A girls' title although the Does had to beat Stinnett in two playoff games before wrapping it up. The Does' only losses were to Claude in the first game of the season and to Stinnett in district play, and to McLean.

McLean has lost to Class AA Wellington, to Canadian in District 2-A action and to the White Deer sextet. Later, the Does avenged their loss to the Tigrettes, beating them by three points. McLean's victory over White Deer was by two points.

The Does are paced by Mary Ann (Pukey) Freeman, an all-district forward last year and a sure bet for honors this season. She has scored over 700 points this season. Another top forward on the White Deer team is Nancy McConnell who has dumped in over 500 points. Marilyn Kotara, the other regular forward, has also done quite well this season, scoring around 300 points. Both McConnell and Kotara were honorable mention all-district last year.

Starting guards for White Deer are Frances Cantrell, Joy Kotara and Alice Norris. Other members of the team are Lou Ellen Howard, Sherry Heffner, Sandra Ulrich, Vivian Riggins, Carolyn Baker, Joyce Chapin and Kathy Bennett. The Does are coached by Bob Moore. In his third season at White Deer, Jack Riley, ending his first year as coach of the Tigrettes, has produced a high-scoring team this season. The McLean team has amassed 1,122 points for a 56-point average. They have held opposition to 903 points, a 45-point average.

Wheeler Falls To Knox City, 50-48

CANYON — The Wheeler Mustangs, after leading throughout most of the contest, fell to Knox City here Friday, 50-48, in the class B regional championship tournament.

Bums Sign Sandy

VERO BEACH, Fla., March 2 (UP)—Outfielder Sandy Amoros, a perennial holdout, won his salary battle with the Brooklyn Dodgers Saturday and signed his 1957 contract. He was the last Dodger to sign.

The little Cuban was asking for $10,500 and the club's original offer was $10,000. After the signing Buzzy Bavosi, Amoros said conference with vice president through his interpreter, Roy Campa-won the regional title last fall. And many of those football players played Friday night in basketball uniforms.

Wheeler led throughout most of the game. They were ahead 12-10 at the end of the first quarter, 23-18 at half, and 30 to 27 at the third quarter whistle.

Fouls hurt the Mustang cause late in the game as their tallest players began fouling out. This, added to the phenomenal scoring spree embarked on by Knox City's Bobby Driver, was fatal to Wheeler's hopes. Driver tallied 37 points in the contest. In addition, he was the only Knox City player to score until three minutes before the half.

PROFESSOR ROY SHIRES
... and manager Bobby Wallace

Colorful Wrestling Attraction Monday

Roy Shires, more widely known as the Professor, meets another colorful wrestler in the bulky form of Don Curtis in the semifinals of the Pampa Shrine Club's wrestling program Monday night at the Sportsman Club.

The semifinals will be for the best-of-three falls with a 45-minute time limit. Shires wrestled here last year in this area and he, along with his manager Bobby Wallace, were real crowd-pleasers. Curtis has made one appearance here and made a fine showing.

The main event has Ray Gunkel and Dizzy Davis going against the Great Bolo and Leo Newman in a one-hour, best-of-three falls contest. Gunkel has been here once before and he's regarded as one of the top young wrestlers of the nation. He recently lost to world champion Lou Thesz for the title.

Gunkel takes on Bolo, the masked meany, in the opening match, scheduled for 20 minutes and one fall.

Admission is $1.50 for ringside seats, $1.25 for reserved bleachers, 90 cents for general admission and 50 cents for children. Tickets are on sale at Modern Pharmacy.

Two Are Tied In Women's Open

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 2 (UP)—Betsy Rawls and Betty Dodd, playing their shots consistently, tied for first today in the second round of the $5,000 Jacksonville Women's Open.

Ten other top women professionals were bunched within three strokes of the lead in one of the tightest races in the history of this 72-hole tournament.

Miss Rawls, of Spartanburg, S. C., fired a three over men's par 75 while Miss Dodd, of Louisville, Ky., carded a 74. Both wound up with 36-hole totals of 148.

The first round leader, Ruth Jessen of Seattle, Wash., ballooned five strokes over her first day's even par effort to drop into a three-way tie for second at 149 with Kathy Cornelius of Lake Worth, Fla., and Louise Sugga of Sea Island, Ga.

Spring Training Finds Big Names Missing

By LEO H. PETERSEN
TAMPA, Fla., March 2 (UP)—

Many a famous baseball name is missing from the training lists this spring including four that made brilliant baseball history.

Bob Feller... Jackie Robinson... Phil Rizzuto... Al Rosen... They're the most noted of the stars who retired to other fields but there are a score or more who quit with less fan fare or dropped into the minor leagues with scarcely a ripple of attention.

The group includes deposed managers Bucky Harris, Marty Marion and Stan Hack as well as aging players like Dale Mitchell, who struck out as the 27th Dodger retired by Don Larsen in that perfectly pitched World Series game last fall. Mitchell, a lifetime .300 hitter, quit to enter business.

Rizzuto was the first of the headline players to bow out but he'll still be with the Yankees for whom he had starred at shortstop since 1941. Lili Phil now is a Yankee broadcaster.

Feller, 21 years at Cleveland, left a major league strike out record and a mark of three no-hitters when he stepped out to devote his full time to business. Rosen, ex-home run king and 1953 most valuable player in the American League, also moved off the Cleveland roster to enter a brokerage firm.

Robinson, most controversial figure of all, went out as he'd played—in a blaze of publicity. First of his race to play in the majors, once an MVP winner and once league batting champ with Brooklyn, Jackie quit for a business career after the Brooks traded him to the New York Giants.

Others on Missing Roster

They'll be missed but so will many others.

Jumbo Jim Konstanty, herculean reliever and the league's most valuable player with the Phillies in 1950, has moved on after a career that included a stint with the Yankees.

Pitcher Paul Minner, up with Brooklyn, then the Cubs, suffered a back injury that put him out of baseball. Joe Black, the one-time Dodger star, failed in his comeback with Cincinnati and no longer is in the majors.

Age finally caught up with catchers Clyde McCullough and Walker Cooper, though Big Cooper turned up as a coach for the Cardinals. Bruce Edwards, Larry Jansen, Walt Masterson and Monte Irvin failed in comeback attempts last season and are among the missing.

Some May Be Back

George Munger, who tried it again with the Pirates last year, went back to pitching in the minors. Howie Pollet, who tired with the White Sox and later in the National League last season, no longer is on a major league roster.

Joe Astroth, Wally Westlake, Chet Nichols and Frank Smith have dropped out since last spring. So has hard-luck Hoot Evers, one-time Detroit star, who usually finds a baseball job most every spring.

But there's one thing about the old-timers. Unless they've quit the game for good, you're likely to see some of their names in the majors again when some of the morning-gloory rookies begin to fade in the late spring.

Banquet Is Held For Miami Teams

(Special to The News)
MIAMI — The Miami High School Mother's Club entertained the basketball girls and boys with a banquet Friday night in Fellowship Hall of the First Methodist Church.

The colors red, white and blue were carried out in the table decorations. White table cloths with red and blue place mats were used. Favors were miniature red, white and blue hats filled with peppermint candy. Place cards, which also served as programs, were red hatchets with names written in white ink.

The centerpiece used was a white basketball flanked by a pair of basketball shoes filled with red, white and blue flowers.

Donald Stobaugh, high school principal, acted as master of ceremonies. Frank Odum, superintendent, gave the invocation. The highlight of the evening was the crowning of the basketball queen and king, Miss Jennie Hosier and Johnnie Lopez, both seniors. A toast was given in their honor.

After a meal of baked ham, scalloped potatoes, green beans, salad, hot rolls, cake and ice cream, Miss Jackie Jackson recognized the senior players.

Jennie Hosier, captain of the girls' team, presented Coach Steve Scott with a gift and Johnnie Lopez, captain of the boys team, also presented Scott with a gift.

Mrs. Joe Cunningham, president of the Mother's Club, gave the Benediction.

Present for the affair were Messrs. and Mrs. Steve Scott, Donald Stobaugh, Joe Cunningham, Misses Denise Burnett, Kathryn Ann Harris, Margaret Lopez, Jennie Mathers, Sammie Jo Bowers, Lela Looper, Jennie Hosier, Caroline Hodges, Darlene Harris, Mary Hosier, Jackie Jackson, Beverly

Bobby Shantz Has One Beef About Trade

By MILTON RICHMAN
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 2 (UP)—

Little Bobby Shantz, peddled from a loser to a winner, had only one beef about the deal Saturday — "The Athletics never sent my shoes and glove over here to me."

The 144-pound southpaw, who is hoping to win a berth on the Yankees' pitching staff, winced as he slowly removed a pair of spikes Whitey Ford had lent him for a workout.

"They're a little too small for me," he said, rubbing the small toe on his right foot. "I can't understand what's the matter with those people over at West Palm Beach (Kansas City's training site). I wired them to send me my shoes and glove but I haven't heard a word from them."

Ticked Over Trade
Not that Shantz is complaining too much, though. He's tickled over the trade even if the Athletics did forget to throw in his spikes and mitt in the deal.

"There's a lot more life in this clubhouse," he said, looking around him where most of the Yankee players were either jawing good-naturedly with each other or indulging in the typical hi-jinks that precede the post-workout shower.

Shantz, the American League's most valuable player in 1952 when he won 24 games for the Philadelphia A's, was more or less a forgotten figure with Kansas City last season, starting only two games all year and finishing the season with a 2-7 record.

Bobby Feels Can Go Nine
The Yankees presumably obtained Shantz for relief duty, on the theory that he "can only go for three or four innings," but bantam sized Bobby still feels he can go nine.

"I'll do whatever they want me to do," he said, "and I'm not telling that man" — pointing toward Casey Stengel's office — "how to run his business, but I feel I can start, relieve or do anything."

"There isn't a thing wrong with my arm or my side," he added. "The side is what bothered me last year, not my arm. Right now, my arm feels better than it ever did."

NCAA TV Plans Okayed By Members

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 2 (UP)—Member colleges and universities of the National Collegiate Athletic Association have voted overwhelmingly in favor of the football television plan recommended by the 1957 NCAA television committee.

Walter Byers, NCAA executive director, said the association's membership approved the TV plan for next fall by a vote of 206 to 4.

The plan is identical in most of its basic features to the plans which have controlled the telecasting of college football the past two seasons. It provides for a national game-of-the-week on nine dates with four Saturdays to be devoted to district telecasting. A single game will be telecast on seven of the national dates; two games will be telecast on two of the national dates with the network to be divided between these two games.

Panhandle Outdoor Life

By S. V. WHITEHORN

High School Coach Weldon Chapman has stated many times, "It's not what you do, it's how you do it." In the game that counts, but it is not what you do, it is how you do it. Months of preparation before the game.

Coach Chapman was a successful coach and there is a great amount of wisdom in these words, not only for everyday life but for life policies also. Almost anyone's success or failure in reference to a day's quail hunting is judged to the ground use of the line area. On good bird years, there has in the past provided a sufficient amount of bob-white in the low places. How long will nature continue to provide the abundance of birds? Each year the hunting pressure grows stronger, while the carrying capacity of all in the Panhandle is growing weaker.

Of course, in the next few years an average hunter will not notice such difference but in the next twenty years there could be a considerable amount of difference in the amount of hunting pleasure the sporting public enjoys. The difference is up to the game managers, we have any, in these parts.

What we do this week, month or year will not have the effect as what we do in the next year, or five or ten years. "We need long range planning plus plenty of activity," said a friend of mine not long ago. The surface hasn't been scratched when it comes to wildlife management in this part of the state.

Well, what's all the advantage of an average hunter or rancher might think? There is not a great deal of monetary advantage for the average rancher today but there will be twenty years from now. In a score of years from now there will be hundreds of hunters in the field that are not present at this writing. The hunter of forty-five and fifty will be sixty-five and seventy at that date. No rancher will completely turn his ranch into a game farm and forget the cattle that daily graze the pastures. However, this is not at all necessary in order to make the average ranch a game haven.

Just fencing off a few wild plum thickets plus a small amount of other game management practices will greatly increase the carrying capacity of any ranch.

Several years back Hap Johnson, popular Panhandle rancher, commented on a certain amount of work that was performed on the Johnson ranch near Alameda in the McClellan lake country. Johnson stated there were a certain number of 'bird patches,' fenced plum thickets, on the ranch and everytime he neared one of the patches there would be a covey of birds encountered. That's game management practice on display. It will work if tried.

Not many years back, a Hemphill county rancher was beefing about the deer destroying a small maize field year in and year out. "Why don't you take out a shooting preserve (five dollars) and charge hunters for the privilege of hunting the bucks," he was asked. He did and a few years later a relative was heard to remark, "I have a cousin that made $1,000 from his hunting rights this year." He had turned a liability into an asset. The rancher today is interested in the increase of the deer instead of dead deer.

Have you ever noticed a frightened crow light on a fence post? Usually the bird will have barely alighted until his wings will contain so much energy that they are almost in constant motion, just flipping with action, even though the crow wants to sit still. With the slightest sound, the black ball of feathers will be in full flight.

So are some hunters like a group of teenagers I contacted a few years ago. These boys were deer hunting and searching for a place to hunt. They were steaming up the dirt county road and swung to a stop where I flagged them. They had a stripdown or nowadays what is called a sand or river buggy, all loaded with cooking utensils plus red rods, guns and so forth. "Where is Smokehouse Creek," one of the party quickly asked. I pointed out and gave directions to the location and almost before I had explained, one of the youthful hunters asked, "Are there many deer over there?" Not wanting to dampen the hunter's spirits, I remarked that there was some deer on the creek. (There were a few old does in the draw plus maybe a buck). Almost before the questioner had gotten the words out of his mouth another of the party asked, "Are they bringing the bucks out very fast?" What would you do in a situation like that? Tell the boys that they might as well go home? Evidently the four-some thought as soon as they reached Smokehouse Creek the deer would run over them. Probably in the ten days of hunting there was not more than one buck killed in the whole area.

Is the average hunter similar to this group? Wait until the season opens and then hope to kill game. These boys probably didn't have the opportunity to use up some of their surplus energy toward improving the habitat of the Panhandle game birds and animals. If those that did would cash in on the opportunities the reward would be handsome. Cedar posts and galvanized wire when properly utilized will last for more than a score of years and go a great distance toward providing key cover for bob-white quail. Game management practices are so many that it would be too lengthy to go into them in the short amount of space that is contained in this column.

Any farmer, rancher or game manager can have for free the information that has been collected over scores of years by wild life technicians. If you don't think so, contact your district Game Warden and see what kind of cooperation is at your disposal.

TORONTO (UP)—Right wing Jerry James of the Toronto Maple Leafs National Hockey League club, who played professional football with the Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Canadian Western Conference last year, revealed today he has received an offer to play with the New York football Giants. James, who has signed a two-year contract with the Maple Leafs, refused to say if he would accept the Giants' offer.

Shockers Regarded By Some As Best In History

By JACK COLLINS
Pampa News Sports Editor

The Pampa Shockers, regarded by all who saw them play as the finest aggregation of B-team players in the history of the school, put away their suits this week and began thinking about next season on the Harvester team.

Coach Terry Culley's team closed out last week in the Hobbs, N.M., B-team tournament to put a finish to a great year. Although the Shockers lost in the finals of the meet to host Hobbs, it was only the second loss of the year for the Pampans.

In grinding to their 30 victories in 32 games, the Shockers rolled up an amazing offensive average and their defense was among the best in the area. Pampa's other loss was to Gruver in the Perryton tournament.

The Shockers scored 2,366 points this year for a 73.9 points per game average. They held the opposition to 1,428 points for a 44.6 average. All five starters scored more than 300 points each. The highest scoring games were both against Phillips, winning 100-52 and 100-64.

On the team this year were

Coyle Winborn, Charles Minor, Mack Dayne, Robert Murray, Bobby Gindorf, Russell Hollis, Karl Kitto, Paul Brown, Keith Yager, Robert Sidwell, Alton Thygeson and Don McGuire. All are sophomores except Thygeson, a transfer student who was not eligible on the Harvester team this year.

Top scorer of the group was Winborn, a 6-3 forward, who made 459 points on 182 field goals and 95 free throws, an average of 14.34 per game. He was followed by Minor with 426, Layne with 403, Murray with 380 and Gindorf with 320. Layne has the most free throws—127. He was followed by Minor, Winborn, Murray and Gindorf. Murray was the top free throw percentage shooter. The 5-10 guard made 94 of 118 for a mark of 80 per cent. Gindorf, a 6-2½ forward, made 73 per cent on 92 of the 126 attempts. Layne, a 6-4½ center, made 67 per cent on 127 of 190.

Victories this year were Childress (5), Vernon (2), Phillips (2),

Portales, Clovis (2), Canadian, Wichita Falls (2), Shamrock (2), Kelton, Amarillo Yannigans (2), Palo Duro Bees (2), Monterey (2), Plainview (2), Quanah, Borger, Carlsbad, and Highlands of Albuquerque.

Several fans have said that this year's team is the best all-around team in years. The squad has no individual star, as shown by the close scoring among the five starters. When one player did not perform as well as in previous games, another player took his place in the spotlight. As a result, all of the players who saw most of the service came through when needed the most.

The statistics:

Rocky To Join Nightclub Troupe

MIAMI BEACH, March 2 (UP)—Former heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano announced Saturday he will turn song and dance man and join the nightclub troupe of Jimmy Durante.

Marciano, vacationing here at the Fontainebleau Hotel, said he and Durante will begin rehearsals in New York March 11 and that the show will open in Chicago's Ches Patee nightclub March 19.

Durante is currently appearing in Havana and confirmed by telephone the agreement with Marciano.

The ex-champ said Durante had prepared special songs and dances for him. He said no contract had been signed and that his performance would be "on a trial basis."

ARCADIA, Calif. (UP)—Jockey Ralph Neves, who had contracted to ride Prince Khalid in Saturday's $100,000 Santa Anita Derby, Thursday was suspended by the Santa Anita stewards for five days for careless riding on Dur De Fer Wednesday in the C. J. Fitzgerald Handicap.

MIAMI (UP)—Willie Hartack, the nation's leading rider the last two years, booted his 1957 victory total to 55 at Hialeah Park Thursday when he booted home three winners.

Bold Ruler Captures Flamingo

By FRANK EDGE JR.

MIAMI, March 2 (UP)—Bold Ruler proved he may become as great as half brother Nashua Saturday by winning the $131,400 Flamingo Stakes in track record time under a whipping drive by jockey Eddie Arcaro.

A roaring crowd of 34,682 cheered the finish as jockey champion Bill Hartack tried vainly to catch Bold Ruler with a tremendous stretch surge on Gen. Duke, the Calumet Farm's colt who beat the Wheatley Stables star in the Everglades Stakes two weeks ago.

But Bold Ruler and Arcaro were not to be denied this time with 2:04.20 waiting for the winner. Arcaro applied the whip vigorously an eighth of a mile from the finish and Bold Ruler laid back his ears, stretched out his already long stride and held the lead for the victory.

Just Shy of World Mark

The barrel-bodied son of Nasrullah, who also sired Nashua, ran the mile and one-eighth in 1:47 flat, knocking one-fifth of a second off the Hialeah track record set by the speedy Spartaco Valor. This time was only two-fifths of a second slower than the world record set by Noor in California.

At the wire, Bold Ruler was in front of Gen. Duke by the length of his classic-formed neck. Gen. Duke's running mate, Iron Liege, was third two and three-quarter lengths farther back. Then it was 12 lengths back to the remainder of the seven-horse field.

Mister Jive finished fourth, followed by Federal Hill, One-Eyed King and Missie.

As the favorite of the largest crowd of the Hialeah season, Bold Ruler returned $3.00, $2.20 and $2.40 for a $2.00 ticket across the board. The Calumet entry of Gen. Duke and Iron Liege, bet very heavily in the place pool, returned $2.20 and $2.80 for place.

Was Tired Horse

Although Bold Ruler was a tired

horse at the end of the race, the victory was his — his ninth in 13 starts.

The Flamingo win will make Bold Ruler a heavy favorite for the Kentucky Derby. His trainer, octogenarian Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, missed capturing the derby with the mighty Nashua in 1955, but now can pin his hopes on this up and coming son of Nasrullah whom he has labored every bit as good and maybe better than the millionaire Nashua at this stage of training.

After the race, Arcaro said Bold Ruler "could have gone another eighth of a mile and beat that other horse (Gen. Duke)."

The famed stakes rider disclosed that Bold Ruler "definitely started propping (stiffening his front legs) and pulling up," but he said the horse "rated much kinder from me this afternoon."

Commenting on Gen. Duke's effort, Hartack said, "he is my horse" for the Kentucky Derby. "I had no trouble," he said. "We ran the way we planned."

If you want to get the most out of your part scores you must vary your bidding methods substantially. The next few articles will illustrate these variations.
East held 13 points and a balanced hand opposite his partner's spade opening. With the 60 part score, he responded with merely one no-trump instead of the two no-trump he would have bid with no score.
These are correct tactics. You will miss an occasional slam with this bid, but just look what East picked up this time.
South happened to be a gallant defender. As he did not like the idea of letting East make game at one no-trump, he put his neck in the wringer with a two diamond bid.

West passed. He felt East would know what to do and East did. He doubted.
West opened the ten of diamonds. It is usually good practice to lead trumps any time your partner has doubled a low contract while sitting in front of declarer.
South won the trick and led the nine of clubs. This fell to East's jack. East led a second trump and South won that trick also. Another club lead put East in again. He took his two high trumps and led the jack of spades. This took care of South's king and all he could save from the wreckage was his one remaining trump.
He was down 900, while East and West still had their part score.

Peg O' Pampa

IT FLOWS ON and on... each day filled with activities... both social and worthwhile... of benefit to ourselves, our families and our community... usually Peg manages to keep up and in the running with all that is going on... but this week she went into a rare period of hibernation... and finds, alas... and also rare... she is without words... without chatter... to fill this column!... well, almost!... The more Peg thinks about it... the more she thinks of... the more she realizes how much she notices at times... and how much she remembers from conversations during which people unwittingly pass on information Peg can use... this constant watching... and listening... can become quite a habit... but a good one... since it is only the nice things Peg manages to remember to pass on to you all... Peg just can't close her opening paragraph without her weekly commentary on the weather... seems this week has been making quite an effort to make up for the sloppy weather of last week... although Peg hasn't heard anyone complain about the moisture we received... in fact, all comments have been along the vein of wishing for more... It really was a pleasant change, although Peg spent the week repairing the damage to home and raiment... Well, on to the business of the day.

That best portion of a good man's life,
His little, nameless, unremembered acts
Of kindness and of love.

... William Wordsworth

THIS WEEK is the first of a new month... a month which starts us all thinking of spring, which officially, calendar-wise begins March 20... and spring brings thoughts of love and marriage... and marriage brings to Peg's mind many wonderful Pampa couples... couples you always seem to think of together... as one unit... a couple of which neither the wife nor the husband seems to overshadow or stand out from the other... such as... tall and dignified Martin Luderman and lovely Marge... quiet Dovey and John Schofield, always willing to pitch in and help with community events... cute Bunny and handsome Max Hukill... small and friendly Shirley and Gene Lunsford... that chic and charming couple, Leah and Bunny Behrman... tall, blond Betty and tall dark Smiley Henderson... always smiling and pleasant Mim and Newt Secrest... good-looking Eloise and Deck Woldt... lovely Hilda and handsome Ray Duncan... There are many, many, more, Peg knows... and she'll probably think of them all after this goes to print... but for the time, those happened to come to her mind... How many can you think of? Getting back to March... in case you want to mark your calendars... here are some of the month's "important days": 6—Ash Wednesday... 8—World Day of Prayer... 10—Girl Scout Week... 12—Girl Scout Birthday... 17—St. Patrick's Day (rally round, all you Irishmen)... and 20—First Day of Spring (although it is always hard to believe)... Happy springtime, you all.

Grumblers are commonly an idle set. Having no disposition to work themselves, they spend their time in whining and complaining both about their own affairs and those of their neighbors.

(M. Henry)

THE COMING tablesetting contest... being sponsored by Beta Sigma Phi... has stirred Peg's imagination... about the possibilities for original ideas... at least, she hasn't seen any of these during the year she has been attending... of course, some may not be practical... but it's fun to exercise those waves held captive in the old cranium... such as a beachcomber's table... complete with seaside setting... exotic "fish" and fish nets... starfish... seashells... seashells and the like... of course, it would probably necessitate a flying trip to the coast... in one direction or another... but it's an idea... Or how about a hobo buffet... carefully arranged on a tree stump... complete with old tin cans... garbage pail nearby... and other items commonly found along the alleyways of a town... research via an interview with some "carefree traveler" of the nation's byways might prove helpful in this case... Not so unusual, but not used as far as Peg knows... would be a baseball setting to herald the coming season... with unlimited possibilities for creativity... or a Fairyland or candyland kiddie birthday party... complete with lovely and sparkling fairy... bright candy canes... sugarpilums and the like... And you might create a bird-watcher's party table... with bird identification books as favors... and miniature or live birds (caged) for a centerpiece... Or a "beside the pool" repast... complete with canopied table decorated with fins, bathing caps... colorful beach balls... bright beach robes and anything else that might come to mind... Why don't you try the exercise... to see what you can come up with... especially those of you who will be decorating for the event.

Had we not faults of our own, we should take less pleasure in complaining of others.

Francis de S. Fenelon

HAVE YOU EVER PLAYED "druthers"... you know, I'd druther be a carefree bird high overhead than what I am... or I'd druther do this than that... it's fun to play when you're down in the dumps... even though you know you'll end up druther being yourself than anyone... Here're a few of Peg's druthers, if she could have a little of the characteristics of this person and a little of the talents of that person... such as Mrs. Al Metz's intelligence and knowledge of legislative practices... Ted Hick's graciousness... Maxine Rose's clothes and her ability to wear them so well... Adrienne Foster's wholehearted enthusiasm for everything she undertakes... Ethel May Clay's quiet dignity and dependableness... Kathryn Steele's willingness to help out with so many things in so many ways for the benefit of others and the community... Jane Hoover's dedication to home and family... Claudine Vail's artistic ability... Maxine Etheridge's chic appearance at all times... Elaine Ledbetter's enthusiasm, knowledge and ability with photography.

Just as you are pleased at finding faults, you are displeased at finding perfections.

(Johann Kaspar Lavater)

WASN'T IT WONDERFUL that we won the basketball game Tuesday?... It should put us all in a good mood... so with this happy thought, Peg will sail along... to come rippling back on next week's wave.

GRACE FRIEND

Dear Grace,
In reading F.R.'s letter, it has made me curious about just how many such lonely people there are in our town who have the same problem and just don't quite know how to start over.
I am a young woman of 25 and would greatly appreciate knowing another woman about my own age who has been left alone to start over. Someone to talk in an occasional movie or have lunch with. As I am not working it is hard to meet anyone and the few girls I do know are either happily married or unmarried and younger than myself. I believe it is important to have a friend who has the same loneliness, heartache and unhappiness to conquer.

GET OUT
Everyone tells me "If I were you I would go out, enjoy life and try to start over." That's fine but what's the fun of going by yourself? It takes a lot of rehabilitation after a divorce and I've been waiting for someone to organize a club for such people. Such a club where divorced people could gather and enjoy games, dancing, talking, etc. Even teach the ones to dance who don't know how.

With spring and summer coming, think of all the things we could do. I myself enjoy hiking, picnics, dancing, movies, and skating but who wants to do all these things alone?
I can't possibly go to work because I am left with three little girls to raise and I live with my parents. We moved here from another state before I was married so have no former schoolmates or friends to become re-acquainted with.

It will be a few years before I can go back to work but if I stay home every night until then I will be such a dried up old bird I probably wouldn't even know how to have a good time. I love my children, they are my first concern, however, I owe it to myself to start over if possible.

READY MADE FAMILY

Men companions seem to be impossible because even my 22 year old brother says "Who would want a ready made family?" Well, no doubt there are a few men in this town with children who have lost their wives either by death or divorce who feel, "Yes, who would want a ready made family?" I know the men are just as despondent as the women. That's why I feel if a club for such people could be organized, say from 20 to 35 or thereabouts, people who have had the same unhappiness could get together and let their hair down occasionally. They would change from being lonely, despondent people into fun and life-loving ones again.

I'll bet there are lots of such cases here in our town and they all think about it and no one does anything. Well actually I guess its left up to us to do it and I'm ready to start the ball rolling but where would I start?
What do you think about all this?
Just Wonderin'

Dear Just Wonderin'
If anyone is interested in joining you in organizing such a club, I'll be happy to forward their letters.

In the meantime join the YWCA and take advantage of their wonderful program for young women. There must be a dozen groups sponsored by the YWCA which would suit you. They even have nurseries for small children while the mothers attend daytime classes and clubs.
You may not meet many men this way but you are sure to make women friends who will enjoy doing things with you.

Canasta Club Meets With Mrs. Parsons

(Special to The News)
CANADIAN — The H. H. Canasta Club met recently with Mrs. Jack Parsons.
Members attending were Mmes. Coy, Holman, Virginia Whipple, Glen Riley, R. T. Smith, R. E. George and R. C. Yeager.

Communism Will Be Lecturer's Subject

Miss Helen Poe, noted Dallas lecturer, will appear in Pampa, Tuesday, Mar. 5, at 8 p.m., in the High School Auditorium.
The material for the lecture, "Yugoslavia, Showcase of Communism," was acquired on a recent trip to Europe when Miss Poe spent some time in the countries behind the Iron curtain.
The lecture will mark Miss Poe's second appearance in Pampa. At her first engagement here last October, she was enthusiastically received by a large audience of Pampa club women.
Miss Poe's popularity as a lecturer, inspirational speaker, and book reviewer has spread over a wide area. She occupies a unique position on the lecture platform, as she is in demand by both men and women's groups.

A graduate of Southern Methodist University, she has continued her education through graduate work at Columbia University and The Juillard School of Music in New York City and, also, through extensive world travel.
Her travel talks are equally exciting to those who may match her experiences and to those who must remain at home. Her penetrating observation of people and places is informing and entertaining.

In the early spring Miss Poe plans to make a trip to the Far East and will continue on a journey around the world.

The lecture is being sponsored by the members of Beta Delta Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, an international teachers' sorority. The money raised will be placed in a scholarship fund to be awarded to an outstanding senior girl who plans to become a teacher.
The price of admission is fifty cents. Tickets may be obtained from any Delta Kappa Gamma member or at the door before the talk Tuesday night.

MISS HELEN POE

Coffee Fetes New WSCS Members

New and prospective members of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist Church were honored with a coffee fete in the church parlor Wednesday morning.
Guests were registered by Mrs. W. C. Puryear.
Mrs. Bob McCoy, president, welcomed the group after which new members and guests were introduced.
In a "get-acquainted" contest, Mrs. Harold Wright was presented with a gift for listing the largest number of ladies present. Group singing was followed by vocal selections by Mmes. Marion Holman and Roy Johnson.
Coffee, sweet rolls, and pineapple chunks were served from a beautifully appointed table carrying out the St. Patrick's motif. Mrs. McCoy presided at the coffee service. Eighty-five ladies were registered.

TC Cotillion Sees Travelogue Films

The Twentieth Century Cotillion met Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Kenneth Meaders. Mrs. Kaye Keller, guest speaker, presented a program on Germany.

Mrs. Keller spent a year in Germany with her husband while he was in the Army, stationed at Camp Barracks, 7th F.A. Bn. On a trip to Wurzburg, Mrs. Keller took pictures of the Pope's palace and the Main river as well as the Castle of Wurzburg, which was built in the 4th century. The club was shown pictures of chimney sweeps and Rotenburgh which is the oldest walled city in Europe.

Mrs. Keller showed a picture of the Leaning Tower. "The mortar for this tower was made with wine, and might be the reason it leans," Mrs. Keller and her husband visited Nuremberg, which was Hitler's favorite city, and Garmish, which is located in southern Germany in the Alps. The Kellers also went to the Zuppits which are 10,000 feet high, and the Castle of King Ludwig at Linderhoff.

Mrs. Robert Ward from Crane Texas, was a guest.

Mrs. Lee Moore Jr. led the business session. The club voted to enter the Beta Sigma Phi table setting contest.

Members present were Mmes. Kenneth McGuire, Robert Boyd, Charles Brauchle, Thelma Bray, Jim Campbell, Lee Moore Jr., Ralph McKinney, Bob Price, Martin Stubbe, and the hostess, Mrs. Meaders.

Latest Spring Fashions Modelled For Auxiliary

By DORIS WILSON
Women's News Editor

The Top O' Texas Medical Auxiliary held a fashion show at its dinner meeting given this week in the Country Club.
The dinner was given in the main dining-room of the club with the tables decorated with centerpiece of ladies' accessories, including pink-beaded purses, gloves and handkerchiefs. The focal point was a pink chapeau, which resembled a pink frosted cake with marshmallow icing.

After dinner, the ladies adjourned to the lounge, where Mrs. Raymond W. Laycock presented a paper on Public Relations as concerned with doctors' wives. Mrs. Laycock explained that public relations is the interpretations of an organization's policy for the purpose of creating, developing, and sustaining the favorable interest, goodwill and active cooperation of the general public. She said, "Every doctor's wife can contribute to the profession's over-all public relations program through daily contacts with others."

"Keep informed on medical legislation, so you can correctly inform others. Talk wisely and often about the things you believe in," Mrs. Laycock quoted Mrs. James H. Allen, Utah State Women's Auxiliary president, who said, "Being a doctor's wife is both an art and a career. Our program is one of education and cooperation, education of ourselves, cooperation with our community. We should ask ourselves, are we courteous? are we thoughtful? are we interested in others? are we willing to do more than our share in volunteer work? are we informed in the needs of our community? can we intelligently discuss civic problems? Do we use common sense and always exhibit good manners? Do we remember to do that "extra something" that always earns us friends?" Mrs. Laycock ended with the quotation, "As the Greeks said, Know yourself; the Romans, Be yourself; the Christians, Give yourself." Mrs. J. F. Elder auxiliary president, introduced Mrs. N. J. Ellis, who acted as narrator for the fashion show. The latest in spring fashions for morning, afternoon, and after-five occasions were modelled by Mmes. Kirk Duncan, Marvin Jones, Bob Price, Clifford Braly, Bill Kuehl, Bill Coffey, and N. J. Ellis. Apparel for the fashion show was provided by the women's shops in Pampa; Behrman's Shoppe, Bentley's, Gibber's Ladies Shop, Leslie's Dress Shop, Allen's Jacqueline Shoes, and Smith's Quality Shoes.

Out-of-town Auxiliary guests were Mmes. Rush Perryton, Canadian; G. M. Kingle, Perryton; Mahlon Ingham, Rex Prewitt, W. C. Barksdale, Clarence Brindley, Joe Knowles, and Joe Braiter, all of Borger.

Local members attending were Mmes. J. Foster Elder, George Hrdlicka, W. W. Brooks, Henry Hamra, M. McDaniel, Raymond Laycock, Joe Gates, Edward S. Williams, Joe R. Donaldson, Walter Bertinot, Richard Falkenstein, Walter Purviance, N. J. Ellis, and Carl Lang.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Mrs. T. is the working mother of three children, the oldest of whom is Emmy, 14. As office manager of a law firm, she makes enough money to pay another woman to clean her house, do her shopping, give her children lunch and prepare dinner for cooking.
When she gets home, she puts dinner on the stove and then serves it. After it's eaten, she says to her family, "Whew — I'm tired to-night!" — and retires to the living room, leaving the dishes to Emmy.
They get left a long time before Emmy gets around to them. When she finally does, it's usually after her mother has said, "I'd be ashamed if I were you! What do you want me to do after working all day — come home and wash the dishes as well as cook your dinner?"

This question arouses still more resistance in Emmy. I can quite understand why. She has been given no say whatever in her mother's decision to exhaust herself in the service of lawyers instead of her family.
Her feeling is, "Why should I have to do the dishes alone every night because Mommy prefers a job to housework? Other girls' mothers help with the dishes. Why do I have to be different from other girls because Mommy likes being different from other mothers?"
If you are a working mother, you will be intelligent to recognize the fact that Emmy has to point out the offspring of working mothers tend to be more ordinarily resistant to doing home chores. Though their mothers may have the most reasonable — sounding motives for choosing work outside the home over work inside it, they have nevertheless made their choice and declared their preference.
They have devaluated home chores in comparison with money-making. Children sense that this devaluation has taken place — and with its example before them day in day out, naturally begin to resist home chores, too.
If you're a working mother, you're behaving like an ostrich if you do not register this as natural — and take steps to remedy it.

The first step is, of course, toward that kitchen where the dishes are waiting to be done. We lead the way to the chore instead of sending Emmy out to it alone. Instead of demanding that she avoid the housework that we avoid, we share it with her — and to Emmy as washer, become the drying and putting-away partner.
Our contempt for housework is always reflected in children's resistance to it.

Baby is bound to have a tantrum now and then, simply because he's acquiring his own sense of being a person. He may also feel frustrated in his own small world. When Baby has a tantrum, try to go about your business casually, as if the whole thing weren't important. But don't let him feel he can be rude and get away with it. Don't be afraid to let him know that you have your rights in the same sense that he has his.

Marketing Story Is Talk for DD Club

The Pampa Desk and Derrick Club held its monthly meeting Monday, Feb. 25, at 7:30 p.m. in the Beacon Supply Company, 734 S. Cuyler.
After a short business session conducted by Mrs. Foster White, president, Mr. Sharon Haralson introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Price Jones, assistant manager of the marketing division of the Amarillo district for Magnolia Oil Company. The title of Mr. Jones' talk was "Story of Marketing." He used sketches to explain how petroleum products are distributed and their movements from the refinery to the dealer such as by pipeline, tanks, barges, rail and trucks and the cost of each form of transportation.
He explained in detail how the organization is set up for marketing and the many duties and responsibilities of the large personnel that is required to market the many petroleum products and by-products and how important the advertising department is in the final sale to the public today. He gave a demonstration of how fuel burns in the motor of a car.
Complimentary gifts of hand lotion were given the members from Mr. Jones.
A drawing was held for the white and green centerpiece which was won by Mrs. Bernice Hollars.
A social hour was held with the hostesses, Mmes. Nadine Godfrey, L. N. Atchison and Bernice Hollars serving cake and coffee, nuts and mints from a green and white table using the St. Patrick's theme. Members present were Mmes. M. Q. Wilson, Erma Jean Knight, Nadine Godfrey, Gladys Howard, Mary Kolb, Ann Wall, Harry Cook,

Predictions of things in Pampa's future.

"Our Town" now stands at approximately 23,000 tax exemptions. I sincerely predict that within the first six months of 1957 we will have a rather sudden influx of people and money. If it does not come a reality within the first six months, then we will have assurance that before-mentioned influx is on its way.

That's good news here's some more. And this is purely guess-work plus some favorable circumstances and the law of averages. Top of Texas farmers will have a bumper crop this year.

Another prediction. We will not have a prohibition election.

Still another. Republican Senatorial candidate Thad Hutcheson will not carry Pampa.

And another. Pampa's Harvester basketballers will bring home the state championship.

And if these predictions fall to ring true, I promise to get a GI haircut and that is serious where I'm concerned.

You may have noticed on page one today, a story informing you that a clinic on "Special Highway Permits" is going to be held here Friday, March 15. The clinic is primarily for truckers. As background information, did you know that the chamber of commerce issues around 300 overweight and overlength permits to truckers each month? There's a lot of shipping going on around here. An A-1 panel has been rounded up and should result in less violations and better understanding as far as truckers' permits are concerned.

How often have you heard someone say, "There's just no good eating place around here," or "We just don't have enough good eating places." Perhaps those who say it have plenty of right to. In any case, I think it's good for our community, just like all the rest of Texas, to want, expect and even demand the very best.

And now it looks like we may get just that, the very best. The "human relations" clinic for Pampa restaurants, cafes, dining rooms and fountains has one outstanding purpose. To give better service. It's planned for March 12 and 13. Looks like "eating out" is going to become more fun than ever in Pampa.

Loyse Caldwell, Jim Poole, Neil Johnson and Johnny Gikas are "pushing" the project.

FRED M. PARKER, staff writer

March came in like a lamb instead of coming in like it usually does, like a lion.

Just as the ground was getting dry following the moisture of week before last, along comes a balmy spring day which develops in to one with plenty of clouds and some of the rarest of commodities in this area, rain.

A day of this type on the first day of March in this part of the country is unusual. It usually means another day of dust coming in from Oklahoma.

The question in everyone's mind is, how will the month continue? Will there be enough moisture throughout the month to keep down the dust? This will only be known when the month is over.

Farmers and ranchers throughout the Top of Texas are rejoicing at the moisture. Crops planted in dry soil have germinated and show signs of producing a crop. The only thing needed now is plenty of moisture to keep the plants growing.

If enough moisture falls this spring to produce a crop it will increase the prosperity of the area and some of those that put land in the Soil Bank will probably be kicking themselves.

One thing for sure, as dry as it was last fall none of us could be sure that it would rain again in this area. No one can be blamed for being pessimistic after so many years without adequate moisture.

There is an old saying in the Panhandle that only two types of people try to forecast the weather here, one is a newcomer and the other is a fool.

DORIS WILSON, women's editor

PAMPA 'H DALLINGS. ... did you know that Mrs. Inez Carter is the only female member of the local Junior Chamber of Commerce?

... that Altrusa members must call their fellow-members by first names; a fine is assessed if one is heard calling the other "Mrs." or "Miss" ... that an adoption meeting in Amarillo recently ... that at the recent style fashion show held by the Top of Texas Medical Auxiliary and the Top of Texas Medical dinner meeting given at the same time in the local Country Club, there were no fashions modelled nor after-dinner speeches, until the final score of the Harvester - Fort Worth "Poly" basketball game was learned.

... ears were glued to the radio, the wonderful dinner was of secondary interest; there was a "cute" "impromptu" fashion show held in the main dining room, too!

In talking with Mrs. John Holt Jr. and Mrs. Marian Osborne the other day, both were so enthused over the new Girl Scout trailer that had just arrived. Now the Scouts can just stow their gear and food in the trailer for a camping trip

In Egypt, linen was the only fabric priests were permitted to wear. The wool from Angora rabbits is harvested every 10 to 12 months. The average yield of wool from an Angora rabbit is about 12 or more ounces a year.

Drying is the oldest form of fruit preservation. Fiber flax is processed in the United States only in the Willamette valley of Oregon.

Linen is a textile of great antiquity, and some that was manufactured 10,000 years ago has been found in Switzerland.

Navy Family Within the city limits of Eureka Springs, Ark., are 42 springs. Sugarcane furnishes nearly 75 per cent of the world's supply of sucrose.

Tobacco is grown in 54 countries. The average rainfall in Texas ranges from more than 55 inches in the extreme east to less than 10 inches in the west.

BOB PEREZ, staff writer

There is a current push on by a few of the local youths of Pampa for the establishment of a hot rod club. Notice I say "establish." The club itself is already a reality, however, but it needs the backing of the entire community if it is to be long lived and kept from snuffing out.

There are many reasons why a hot rod club would be a benefit to Pampa, however, for lack of space and time, I won't bring them in right now. I refuse to call it primarily a teen agers club, for, although I am not mechanically inclined myself, I have seen many other areas where "hot rod" clubs have sprung up only to be taken over with enthusiasm by the adults like a father who has just bought his little boy a set of trains.

The name of this club is "Las Ruedas." It had originally been named Las Ruedas, which means "the wheels," but as a result of constant misspelling in correspondence, it was finally accepted as Las Ruedas.

The boys who belong to this club are presently looking for a suitable place to hold their races so that they will not have to pay too much money and still have a decent and safe place to run their mechanical creations.

It think it would be a pretty nice gesture if we, who have recently worried about the juvenile "problem" in the community would get behind these fellows and really help them in the promulgation of this club.

The club, as I have previously said, is already organized. It has to be established; and by that I mean accepted and urged on by the community.

Ruth Millett

"Woman learns how to hate in proportion to the rate she forgets how to charm."

"Who said that? Never mind. It doesn't really matter. What matters is that you remember it. It will save you much senseless anger. And it is sure to make a more charming woman of you."

Petty anger rarely does anything for a woman but make her face hard, her voice harsh, her words cutting, and her actions often regrettable.

But charm can win a woman most of the things she wants out of life. Charm helps her make and keep friends. It makes her everyday business dealings more pleasant. It often gives her a decided advantage over the woman who wears a chip on her shoulder.

Charm helps a woman to influence her family. Charm often helps a mother-in-law to win the love and respect of her daughter-in-law. It allows a daughter-in-law to stay in the good graces of a mother-in-law, even while gently but firmly refusing to let the mother-in-law interfere in the way she runs her own home.

Charm helps women avoid quarrels and smooth over the unpleasantness of others. Charm makes it easy for her to influence others to do as she wishes. But if a woman isn't willing to put charm to work for her—then she is bound to grow angry often. Her lack of charm is sure to turn people against her. It will make her ambitions more difficult to achieve and complicate almost everything she tries to accomplish.

When a woman chooses to go through life without trying to charm, she meets so many frustrations that anger soon becomes a habit. Next time you find yourself growing angry at another person, repeat those words: "Woman learns how to hate in proportion to the rate she forgets how to charm."

The next time you do a pork roast, stud it with cloves of garlic. Make shallow pockets for them with a sharp knife and remove them before serving. You'll find they give the roast a delightful flavor.

Skin Needs Lotion To Prevent Drying

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Many a girl has become adept at skiing and skating because the man in her life loves outdoor winter sports. And once she's discovered that exercise in fresh, cold air is far more invigorating than crouching over a radiator hour after hour, she's a fan, too.

Whether you're skiing or skating, you want to look good at it. You'll need special clothes, well fitted and trim.

And while hours in the cold air will make you feel wonderful, they'll also be rough on your skin. If you take a tumble and your skin gets wet, you're more likely than ever to have a chapped face or hands.

To keep your skin from roughening in the winter cold, make regular use of a lubricating lotion. There's one made by a famed beauty house that's petal-pink creamy and nongreasy. It's intended for face, hands and all over use after showering or bathing.

This lotion will serve you well, too, if you're headed south for a late winter or early spring vacation. It's meant to soothe your skin after a day of wind, sun and water.

Salt and pepper
1 tablespoon Vinegar

¾ cup Tomato Ketchup
1 tablespoon sugar
Dash tabasco sauce
Heat oven to 350 degrees F. (moderate). Saute chicken in shortening until brown on all sides. Season with salt and pepper. Remove to baking pan. Combine vinegar and remaining ingredients; pour over chicken. Bake 50-60 minutes or until tender, basting frequently with sauce in pan. Makes 4 servings.

The girl who loves skiing and skating feels alive and looks well during the winter months. But she needs to protect her skin from the drying and chapping effects of wind and snow. This girl is using a pink lotion to smooth her skin.

GOVERNOR—Mrs. Edith DeBusk, Dallas, Ninth District Governor of Altrusa International, Inc. was guest speaker at the club's International Banquet held in the City Club Room.

Altrusa Club's Ninth District Governor Dinner Guest And Speaker At Meeting

By DORIS WILSON
Women's News Editor

Altrusians were privileged to have as their dinner guest and speaker, Mrs. Edith DeBusk of Dallas, ninth district governor of Altrusa International, Inc., at the Monday evening meeting in the City Club Room. Amarillo and Borger Altrusians were special guests of the club.

Miss Jay Flanagan, program chairman, presented Mrs. E. M. Keller, chairman of the International Affairs committee, who introduced the speaker.

Mrs. DeBusk, who is a practicing attorney associated with her husband in the firm of Debusk and Debusk, presented the topic "Personalities and Project," in which she outlined the outstanding accomplishments of professional world.

Among the list of names of well-known women mentioned were Molly Pfeiffer, Clara Barton, Jane Addams, and Helen Keller. Lesser known women, whose contributions were of equal importance were Mary Chilton, who was the first woman to set foot on North American soil from the Mayflower; Anne Bradstreet, who was much criticized early in the 1600's for devoting so much time to writing poetry; Beva Lockwood, America's first woman candidate for the office of president of the USA; Ann Royal, first society reporter, who had a column in a Washington paper, entitled, "The Huntress"; women of affairs and richest woman in the world in her time, Hettie Green; Amelia Earheart, first woman to fly around the world.

Mrs. DeBusk cited some of the accomplishments of Altrusa Clubs in the district, who are living up to their motto, "It is not enough to be good, you must be good for something."

Preceding the dinner, Mrs. May Foreman Carr played dinner music at the piano, while the guests assembled for dinner, and accom-

Point Your Hairline Into Widow's Peak

The three-point glamor program a star-to-be follows when she arrives in Hollywood for her screen debut are these: She wears a cinch to take in three or four inches at her waist. She drives a Jaguar. She points her hairline into a widow's peak.

Max Factor says the waistline cinch and Jaguar can speak for themselves, but that he's willing to speak for the widow's peak. It can do for a face, he claims, what a platinum setting can do for a diamond.

The trick, he says, is to corral all fine fuzz growing at the center of your hairline and darken it with eyelash make-up. If your hair can take a dark accent, use a black or dark brown color; if it's on the blonde or light brown side, use a thinner color from a lighter brown shade of eyelash make-up.

Let the application dry, then spray the made-up peak with a hair lacquer, so as to hold all the fine wilful hairs in place.

Don't warn Factor, try with your own eager hands to pluck a heavy hairline into a shapely widow's peak. It can be done, but it's a pro's job, says Factor. A pro needs to create a widow's peak to conform to the shape of your face and the height of your forehead.

If, however, a few strays ruin an otherwise perfect peak, Factor is all for tweezing out these mavericks.

INTERNATIONAL—Miss Vada Waldron, center, Baptist missionary to Argentina, was guest speaker at the International Banquet given by the B&PW Club in the City Club Room. Mrs. Frances Foster, right, district nine director of B&PW Clubs, shown with Mrs. Mattie Crowson, left, local president, was a special guest.

When snow and slush break track records across the kitchen floor most homemakers look for ways to cut the time and effort involved in keeping the floor presentable. In letters I receive from other homemakers complaints multiply about floors that look soiled, spotted, streaked or discolored even though they get regular care.

There's a tendency for us to blame the products used. Washing and waxing compounds do vary, but before we lay all the blame on them, it's well to investigate our own methods.

Recently I had an enlightening lesson on floor care from Mrs. Leticia Bush, Johnson's consumer education director, and her technical service associates. It has resulted in some changes in my own methods — with visible improvement.

These experts say that one of the most important prerequisites for an effective wax finish is proper rinsing of the scrubbed floor. Regardless of the detergent or cleaner used, rinse the residue away completely with clear water before you apply wax.

Failure to flush away the residue can weaken the water-resistant of self-polishing waxes. Or it can cause the wax surface to remain tacky or streaked and unevenly polished.

A common fault is applying too much wax too frequently and failing to remove the build-up of coats of wax periodically. Multiple coats of wax have a yellowing effect on the floor, the experts explained. And in this over-age film there is usually dirt trapped, which adds to the discoloration.

To remove a build-up probably will require a scrubbing with commercial floor cleaner diluted according to directions on the can. For high-resin self-polishing waxes, you may want to add a quarter of a cup of ammonia to the solution for greater efficiency.

When you re-wax, apply a thin film and go particularly easy in the nontraffic areas near the baseboards.

Another important factor in preserving the good appearance of the floor is daily use of a dry dust mop, broom or vacuum cleaner to remove loose surface dirt. It is usually gritty and tends to abrade the wax film.

First be scraped with a dull knife. Scrubbing is a familiar find in my household. Before waxing, scrub the stain or spot with a small amount of commercial floor cleaner diluted in water. Deposits of food, gum, tar or the like should be removed.

Spots that don't respond to normal removal of the excess, then treated with scouring powder, steel wool or dry cleaning fluid (depending on the stain and the type of flooring).

The experts advise not to use dry cleaning fluid on asphalt or rubber tile. Chlorine bleaches are not usually recommended for use on resilient flooring, especially older surfaces which may have become porous and could be affected by loss of color.

The success of removing spots and "touching up" a damp-mopped floor to avoid an overall cleaning and waxing job depends in part on the kind of wax you're using. Some of the new liquid self-polishing waxes don't have the hard gloss finish of a high-resin self-polishing wax and can be used more easily for touchups, I was told.

International Motif Is B&PW Theme

The Business and Professional Women's Club held its International Banquet in the City Club Room with two special guests attending: Mrs. Frances Foster of Perryton, District Nine director of B&PW Clubs and Miss Vada Waldron, Baptist missionary to Argentina, who was the evening's speaker.

Invocation was given by Mrs. Lorene Locke. Welcome was extended to members and guests by the B&PW Club president, Mrs. Mattie Crowson.

Following the banquet, Mrs. Wiley A. York, introduced Miss Waldron, who gave an interesting talk on her 19 years of missionary service in the Argentine. She stated that they are white people with an intense desire to come to the United States. "Living standards are so much higher in the United States that when they are able to come to this country, they are able to accumulate enough to go home and purchase their own homes and even buy a car."

Miss Waldron works in a Goodwill Center in the South American city and said that there were only three missionaries available to take care of three states. She plans to return there soon.

An invitation was extended by Mrs. Foster from the Perryton B&PW Club to attend its annual national security banquet April 18. The Borger Club also extended an invitation to the local club to attend its social meeting Feb. 28.

SENIOR CENTER—Shown here are Senior Citizens in a weekly meeting held each Thursday at 2:30 p. m. in the Lovett Memorial Library. The Club is sponsored by the Altrusa Club, whose president is Mrs. Jack Foster. When needed, transportation is furnished to and from the Center by Red Cross Grey Ladies. Other Civic clubs assist Altrusa by providing a wide variety of programs. Birthdays are celebrated monthly, and usually there are "42" and canasta sessions, following the programs. A three-month vacation every five years? Yep, that's an idea suggested by President David J. McDonald of the United Steelworkers for use as a brake against machines replacing men in the age of automation.

But could the average family survive a three-month vacation? Remember, we Americans work awfully hard vacationing.

We come home from a two-week vacation worn out. We've been making time on the highways, traveling heavy instead of light so that packing and unpacking the car becomes a dreaded chore. We've had exercise we aren't used to. We've been trying to keep the kids in the back seat reasonably happy and quiet. There's been arguing over where and when to eat and where and when to stop for the night.

After two weeks of it, most of us are delighted to be home. Mama washer (keeping a family clean while traveling is a major problem). The family is glad to get back to Mama's cooking.

The truth is that Mama usually heaves a sigh of relief when Papa goes back to work. She isn't used to sharing every minute of the day with him and having him make all the decisions.

Of course, a three-month vacation doesn't mean a family would have to spend it away from home. back to Mama's cooking.

But the prospect of having an idle man around the house that long isn't one that is going to appeal to many housewives. Usually while Papa is loafing, Mama is working harder than ever.

If the three-month vacation idea is ever adopted, somebody is going to have to teach us how to enjoy a long vacation.

Right now we're having difficulties with two weeks off with pay. A three-month vacation, unless we are taught how to relax and enjoy it, would be a killer.

A good habit to form is the one of leaving your kitchen spotless each night. Nothing is more discouraging than walking into a messy kitchen in the morning, especially if it's complete with a sinkful of last night's dishes.

Brantly Laycock of White Deer spoke in behalf of all future teachers as he drew a word picture of teaching as a career from the viewpoint of a high school senior.

Mrs. Quentin Williams traced events which led to her return to the teaching profession.

Miss Mary Dean Dozier introduced future teachers, their sponsors, and other guests.

Mrs. McHenry Lane reminded members of the appearance of Mrs. Helen Poe, nationally known lecturer, who will speak Mar. 5 in the high school auditorium at 8 p.m. Her subject will be "Yugoslavia, Showcase of Communism."

Mrs. Alton Moore explained the Beta Delta scholarship, its requirements and benefits. Proceeds from the sale of tickets for Mrs. Poe's lecture will be used in the scholarship fund.

Education

When you simplify, the only problem in the world is one of the human relations. As hermits we would have to get along with ourselves. As members of a community we must get along with others. How to do so while maintaining our freedom and independence, and without committing trespass, is the old, old problem.

and Aristotle, set up private and independent tutorage. But when Pericles ordained a government school, the die was cast and it wasn't long before the Romans overthrew the Grecian political bosses.

As we trace education back to its roots we discover that education was primarily given by parents to their children. In China, this practice was extended in pre-Confucian days to a point where prominent families each ran their own school and not only their sons, but the sons of friends and neighbors benefited by attending.

Currently in this nation, the road is being paved for mass decay. Concerning education, there is a whole forest of fallacies which are generally believed. Some of them are: "Government education is free"; "private instruction costs too much"; "money cures all education problems"; "force can be relied upon to bring good human relations"; "There are many more."

THE NATION'S PRESS

ALL GOVERNMENT'S CHILLER

The Wall Street Journal. All the new nationalizations of the mammoth 1958 Federal budget, few are more curious than the argument that it is really simpler than previous budgets—measured, that is, in terms of the total national economy.

through deficit financing. The resulting inflation would be "checked" by direct wage and price controls. Thus the road to the wholly regimented economy.

Mr. Keyserling carries it far indeed. He observes more in sorrow than in anger that "the total new Federal budget will come to only an estimated 16.1 per cent of total national production, thus continuing an uninterrupted downward trend in every year since fiscal 1953, when the ratio was 20.8 per cent."

It is beyond comprehension how any man who believes in the ideologies as set forth in the Declaration of Independence can believe that United Nations is the world's best hope for peace. How can the United Nations, giving one out of four nations in the Security Council the right to veto any voluntary act against aggressive force, promote peace and good-will throughout the world? Peace cannot be promoted under such a charter.

Well, let's see. The first thing about this theory is that it abandons all control over Federal spending. Thrift and prudence go out the window and in come all manner of harebrained and extravagant projects, with their companion of expanding bureaucracy and waste.

The best and only way to promote peace is to have individuals and nations live by the Golden Rule and the Ten Commandments. Let the United States set an example of living by these moral laws.

But suppose the Government operated on this basis and decided it should spend 25 per cent or 30 per cent or 50 per cent of the national income, and then suppose the income suddenly shrinks (it can happen).

There is nothing much farther from these great moral principles than the United Nations. This is true in spite of what the President of the United States proclaims.

That would not face this school of economists, which believes that as it is the economy is growing rapidly and should be more widely expanded by Government deficit drafts. In the event of an economic downturn, the Government would simply spend more working people to be regarded as children—that is, dependents incapable of taking care of their own money? This blatant paternalism overlooks the fact that it is those people who produce the prosperity the Government feeds on, and not the other way around.

That the advocates of the managed economy should concoct this notion of measuring the budget against total national income is not, of course, surprising. The disturbing question is whether the Eisenhower Administration has also now taken leave of its budgetary senses.

Now about those children. Since when are the nation's 65 million working people to be regarded as children—that is, dependents incapable of taking care of their own money? This blatant paternalism overlooks the fact that it is those people who produce the prosperity the Government feeds on, and not the other way around.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

Mr. President What United Nations Principles World's Best Hope For Peace?

In President Eisenhower's radio talk on United Nations and the Middle East, he closed with these two paragraphs: "It is an issue which can be solved if only we will apply the principles of the United Nations."

It did not specify the principles that were the world's best hope for peace. Was it because the representatives of the General Assembly of the 79 members of the United Nations, who are appointed by governments who have secured their power by aggressive force, have equal voting power with nations attempting to operate under a constitution and have 1,000 times more citizens?

Was it because 5 per cent of the world's population in the General Assembly can carry the day against the other 95 per cent? Was it because 10 per cent could claim 23 of the majority of the Assembly?

Or was it because one-half of the world is represented by four delegates and the other one-half by 75 delegates?

Or was it because all the 79 members of the General Assembly get their support for the United Nations by the use of aggressive force or the threats of same? In other words, is it reasonable to believe that peace can be the fruits of an organization based on the use of aggressive force? If that be true, then St. Paul's statement was incorrect when he said, "Be not deceived, God is not mocked. Whatsoever a man sows, that so he shall also reap."

I would like to know what principle the United Nations is based on. The United States is based on the principle that all men have certain inalienable rights, among these: Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Happiness. That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among men, deriving their JUST powers from the consent of the governed.

But the United Nations is based on the theory that those in control of a government have a right to force others to help pay for anything the bureaucracy thinks they should pay for. The United Nations is based on the fallacy of collectivism, of socialism, of the belief that might makes right.

But unionization of the South progressed very little, in fact is now perhaps receding in the South. According to the AFL-CIO's own estimates, they have only organized from 15 to 20 percent of the Southern workers as compared with 40 to 50 percent of the workers in the North and Far West. These are liberal estimates.

Unionization in the South is currently losing ground mainly because of support by the national labor unions of racial integration. It has been pointed out to Southern workers the AFL-CIO took $75,000 of the dues paid to it by its members (many of whom are Southerners and opposed to integration) and contributed this money to the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Some few local unions have pulled out of their national organizations on account of the segregation question, some attempts have been made toward organizing a Southern Federation of Labor, and many local union leaders have pointedly told the national organizations that if it comes to a showdown between affiliation with the national union and segregation, they will take segregation. Many Southern union members are also members of the White Citizens Councils dedicated to preserve segregation; even a leader of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan is a dues-paying union member.

The rank and file of the union members in the South are simply not going along with the national unions on the question of integration because they feel that the national unions are thereby attempting to destroy a "Southern way of life." This same feeling, of course, applies to workers generally, and it has accordingly more or less stopped unionization in the South in its tracks.

But this trouble over the question of integration is only a current and possibly a passing aspect of unionization in the South. There are other reasons why unionization is not popular among Southern workers.

Labor leaders try to blame much of their failure in organizing the South on the tactics used by Southern employers. They say that employers in the South argue their side of the case just as vigorously as the unions argue theirs—and the labor bosses don't seem to think this is "fair." It is true that Southern employers generally have not "given in" to demands for unionization as have those in other parts of the country—but that is all to their credit. Certainly there is nothing "unfair" and it is entirely legal under the Taft-Hartley Act—about each side presenting its case just as clearly as possible.

But this trouble over the question of integration is only a current and possibly a passing aspect of unionization in the South. There are other reasons why unionization is not popular among Southern workers.

Unionization Runs Into Trouble In Southern States

By Thurman, Sensing

The national labor unions have, always had, are having and for the foreseeable future will continue to have trouble organizing the workers in the Southern states.

Not that they haven't tried hard enough. It was only a few years ago that "Operation Dixie" was inaugurated by these unions, and one high-ranking union leader said they were determined to organize the South even if blood had to flow in the streets in order for them to gain their ends.

But underlying all this comparative failure of unionization in the South is a more fundamental reason than anything yet mentioned—basic conservatism of the rank and file of Southern people, their adherence to the principles of self-reliance and individual freedom on which our form of government was originally based.

That this is definitely, true is fully illustrated by the fact that all the Southern states, with the exception of Louisiana—which has switched back and forth a couple of times and will perhaps switch again—have Right to Work Laws. These laws specify that workers shall not be denied employment because of membership or non-membership in a labor union.

The people of the South, as evidenced by their state laws, recognize that compulsory unionism in any form is slavery, and a complete denial of a right inherent to a free man in a free nation. The national labor leaders would destroy this right. The South will not go along.

National Whirligig Wilson Had Not Invented Own House Before Charges

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The plain-spoken but thoughtless Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson had obviously not taken inventory of his own "glasshouse" when he charged that the politically powerful National Guard's training program provided a safe haven for "draft lodgers."

In many post offices and public buildings throughout the country, his United States Army Reserve has planted posters, pamphlets and postcards telling youngsters and their parents how they can escape the draft by joining that organization.

This propaganda deliberately offsets Wilson's efforts to encourage enlistment in the regular military forces, or to sign up with the National Guard.

The poster asks: "Interested in draft deferment?" Then, it urges those interested to contact the nearest U.S. Army Reserve headquarters. In a box behind the poster are four-page pamphlets with the heading: "End draft worries! Plan for the future! Join the new six-month training program."

Attached to the pamphlet is a postcard, addressed to the local Army Reserve office and saying: "My parents and I would like to learn more about this new plan. Telephone us at - - - or send a spokesman."

The great advantage in joining the Army Reserve, according to its literature, is that it furnishes an "opportunity to plan for your future," and here are a few pertinent paragraphs from the pamphlet:

"The inevitable question, 'When will I be drafted?' will no longer concern you because you are a draft-proof. ('Draft-proof' is italicized — Ed. note.) You can make firm plans for your education, job, marriage and family — and set your sights now on the income you want."

"You can fulfill your legal obligations — and your patriotic duty — by serving only six months ('Six months' italicized — Ed. note) in a training camp instead of the two years ('Two years' italicized — Ed. note) required of draftees. And you will be paid for all duty performed. . . . And this training will continue among your friends and neighbors when you return to your home town Reserve unit."

"Without the draft threat hanging over your head, you're a better man who says what he thinks even when it puts him in opposition to the 'powers that be.' As Senate Minority Leader, he has refused to be a mere robot mouthpiece for the Administration. When his convictions run counter to those of the President, he stands up and says so bluntly."

This past week, Bill Knowland has been running true to form. The Eisenhower Administration has told Israel that the U.S. may support U.N. sanctions against her if she does not remove her troops from Sinai and Gaza. Up spoke Knowland: It would be "immoral" and "unsupportable" to "punish Israel while Russia disregards U.N. resolutions on Hungary with impunity." When the President was later questioned at a press conference on this point, he replied that the U.N. is "committed to the support of the U.N."

Back on the Senate floor, he still stuck to his opposition guns and made his convictions clearer: "A double standard of international morality is growing like a cancer at the heart of the U.N. . . . Nations which failed to show the slightest interest in applying either moral or economic sanctions against the Soviet Union, which has failed to respect any of the ten resolutions passed on the Hungarian issue, now urge sanctions against Israel which has at least partially conformed to the U.N. resolution."

On this point of defiance of the U. N., Knowland is right! The U.N. record is studded with previous defiances which have gone unpunished despite the U.N.'s clear power in the Charter to dole it out. The Korean situation is a prime example. The U.N. itself is a party to the armistice agreement there, an agreement which has been arrogantly and openly violated ever since the day it was signed by the Communists. Yet the U.N. has not lifted a finger to enforce the terms of its own signature. It has received mountains of factual reports from its own U.N. commission in Korea, which it apparently just buries away somewhere and ignores.

Or take Kashmir! How many resolutions in how many years has the U.N. passed demanding that troops be withdrawn from this disputed area, and that the people of Kashmir, under U.N. supervision, be allowed to choose freely whether they wish to join ter prospect for the employer who also plans for the future when he hires you." After the six-month training period, the Wilson invitation continues, there are only the following obligations for the Army Reserve graduate: "A one-night-a-week meeting in your local Reserve center. A two-week training camp course each year (generally in the summer) until a seven-and-a-half-year period of Reserve duty is terminated." It is considered interesting that the weekly assembly is described as a mere "meeting" in a "center," and not on a training field. Nor is there any mention of a study session of tremendously complicated postwar weapons, or even a "squad" rig drill. The suggestion is that it will be a sort of social get-together, as was true of National Guard meetings not so many years ago.

It is also regarded as significant that the two-week mobilizations will be held "generally in summer," when there will be no opportunity to test the performance of weapons and other equipment in cold or inclement weather, such as American troops had to endure and conquer in both World Wars and in Korea, and which would be an even more severe hardship and obstacle to victory in World War III.

Have they forgotten that it was the snows of Russia, which smashed Napoleon's Grand Army, and that that loss led directly to his defeat in the "battle of the nations" at Leipzig and, eventually to his collapse at Waterloo? Secretary Wilson should bone up on his history.

Pakistan or India? But India's Nehru has stubbornly defied every U.N. resolution on Kashmir, has kept his troops there, has refused to allow a free election, and now plans to "absorb" Kashmir by fiat. The U.N. has never voted sanctions against India for this defiance.

Egypt also defied the U.N. on the matter of allowing Israeli ships through the Suez Canal, and this defiance also went unpunished. As for the Soviet Union, her history in the U.N. has been one long series of contemptuous defiances, without a shred of retaliation or reprimand. Hungary is only the latest.

This is not to say that Israel is not wrong, as this columnist thinks she both was in her invasion of Egypt, and is now in keeping her troops there. But the U.N. has never seemed to care a hoot in the past whether its resolutions were complied with or not, so why single out Israel for punishment? Is Israel more guilty than Russia, or India? Does the U.N. have a single standard of rules for everyone, or, as Knowland says, does it operate on a "double standard" of morality?

In this age of "conformity," it is encouraging to hear someone stand up and say "No." Senator Knowland is also saying "No" on other matters, such as the Administration's invitation to Communist Dictator Tito to be our guest, and to the proposal that we offer economic aid to Communist Poland. From the grassroots letters now going to Washington, it appears that a majority of Americans are supporting these loud "Noes" of the Senator, and are grateful to him for his public dissents.

This citizen will worry less about Washington's role in the world as long as some of our Senators and Congressmen retain the courage and guts to stand by their convictions, rather than abdicate to Executive power!

...with JAMES C. INGBRETTEN President, Spiritual Mobilization John A. Kennedy, editor and publisher of the Sioux Falls (S.D.) Argus-Leader, testifying before a House education subcommittee, following a recent tour of Russia, reportedly said: "History teaches that the battle of Waterloo was won on the playing fields of Eton. It occurs to me that the battle of survival of the West might be lost in the high schools of America."

I don't know just what Mr. Kennedy had in mind when he made this statement. But I think there is truth in it. To the extent that our high schools turn out undisciplined, uneducated, irreverent graduates, the outlook is "dark."

Personally, I do not fear what some call our "big bad" Russia in technical and scientific studies. What I fear is our lag behind God in morals, spiritual discipline, and perception of truth in all fields. And I believe the faculty of a school is even more important than its formal curriculum.

Do you know your children's high school principal and their teachers? It might be a good idea to get acquainted with them and find out what kind of people they are. For they are in important ways, shaping your children's lives. And it is upon the lives of today's children that the "survival of the West" will depend tomorrow.

Hush-Hush Investigation Of Oil Industry To Start Monday

WASHINGTON, March 2 (AP)—A federal grand jury in Alexandria, Va., opens a hush hush investigation of the oil industry Monday.

Purpose of the inquiry is so shrouded in secrecy the Justice Department won't discuss it except to admit it will be directed by attorney Horace L. Flurry of the anti-trust division.

But when Federal Judge Albert V. Bryan called the jury at Flurry's request on Feb. 8 he said it would look into possible anti-trust violations in pricing, marketing and distribution practices. He said it would involve corporations, companies, associations and individuals from coast to coast.

So far as can be learned, charges of industry collusion in recent general price increases in crude oil, gasoline and other products will be ignored unless it develops they were part of an industry-wide pattern.

Also, contrary to published reports, the Justice Department will not present the jury a transcript of testimony taken by a joint Senate Anti-Trust and Public Lands subcommittee which is still investigating the price rises.

A subcommittee source answered "no" when asked if the department had requested a transcript. Available data indicate the reasons for the inquiry pre-date the price jumps which began Jan. 7 when Humble Oil and Refining Co., subsidiary of Standard Oil Company (of New Jersey) raised crude prices 35 cents a barrel.

Look at Price Hikes
Victor R. Hansen, assistant attorney general in charge of the anti-trust division, emphasized that point himself when he testified before the subcommittee on Feb. 20. He conceded the price hikes were under close scrutiny for possible anti-trust implications but said:

"Let me emphasize that current investigations by the department have not stemmed solely from the recent price rise. Long before that our concern with the status of this industry led to an investigation of the major oil companies."

Hansen may have given a clue to the investigations last Dec. 9 in a speech to the New Mexico Oil and Gas Association. He said: "The anti-trust laws are designed to preserve the competitive system. We reject restrictive cartels and regulations... our goal is to promote free markets in which all business—large and small—can prosper."

He then listed pending anti-trust actions against big oil companies involving alleged exclusive pricing arrangements, conspiracy to suppress competition, and monopolistic distribution methods. He concluded with a plea for industry co-operation in observance and enforcement of the anti-trust laws and invited complaints on possible violations.
