Biggest Rains Since 1949 Hit West Texas

The biggest rains since 1949 — up to an unofficial 10 inches at some points — set off West Texas floods that were reported today to have invaded homes in at least three places.

The floods washed across highways two feet deep and undercut bridges that collapsed across the streams they spanned. For the most part, these were reported to be small bridges on farm roads.

The skies were clearing today, most of the flood waters had drained away and farmers and ranchers were smiling.

"It's the most rain we've had around here since 1949, and 1950 was the year the drought started," Fisher County Judge Bruce McCain said in Roby.

"I expect it's the most rain we have ever had in February."

Reports Of 10 Inches

Official McCain said he had unofficial reports of rainfall up to 10 inches in the western part of Fisher county. It washed out small bridges and broke terraces. McCain said he had a report that flooded Negro houses around Sylvester and houses in the southeast corner of Roby were flooded and McCain said he had a report that A. D. Sumner's home between Roby and Rotan was flooded.

Clear Fork River flooded in Sylvester. It was Cottonwood Creek and Salt Creek around Roby. McCain said that in the case of his own home, it was mostly terraces that broke.

Other rainfall reports from West Texas over a 48-hour period included:

- Albany 4.75 inches, Anson 4.75, Breckenridge 4.22, Claytonville 6 inches, all Thursday, Hawley 5.9 inches.

Nobody Complaining

"I haven't heard anybody around here complain for two days," Phil Keener (station KDDW) of Stamford said. Stamford has had a total of 3.07 inches this year.

The worst flooding "evidently" was at Sylvester, where the Clear Fork of the Brazos spread out for a mile. The Fork crested there at 2 a.m. and started dropping. Two families forced out of their homes were expected to return today.

The crest, at last report, hadn't reached the town of Lueders, where one family was reported to have been removed from a threatened home. Lueders is about 25 miles north of Abilene.

Abilene, which got a total of 1.45 inches in two days, was not believed to be in any danger.

Washington Talks Wind Up With Historic Agreement

By DONALD J. GONZALES
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower and King Saud of Saudi Arabia wind up their Washington talks today with an historic pledge to work for peace and stability in the Middle East.

Mr. Eisenhower invited the 55-year-old king to the White House for a final meeting. Saud leaves Saturday morning aboard Mr. Eisenhower's plane for a trip to Spain and Egypt before returning home.

American and Saudi Arabian diplomats hailed the Eisenhower-Saud talk as a major step toward stabilizing the trouble-ridden Middle East. They counted the talks a big boost for the Eisenhower Doctrine—the President's plan to protect the Middle East with U.S. military forces if necessary and to assist the area with military and economic aid.

During the conferences, officials said, the President and the king had:

- Agreed in principle on renewing the American lease on the strategic air base at Dhahran, Saudi Arabia. The old five-year lease ran out last June 15 and had not been renewed.
- Agreed in principle on grants of military aid to Saudi Arabia to carry out the "defense" of the Dhahran air-base. This equipment is expected to include jet planes, tanks, and other heavy equipment.
- Agreed on the need to cooperate toward "peace and stability" in the Middle East in every possible way. This means that Saud is willing to explain to other Arab leaders what he has learned here about what he has termed the "good and worthy proposals" in the President's Middle East plan now before Congress.

Emergency Runoff Bill Hearing Set

By O. B. LLOYD JR.
United Press Staff Correspondent
AUSTIN (UP) — The Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections will hold a public hearing Monday on the "emergency" bill which would provide a run-off in the special U.S. Senate election April 2.

The measure, authored by Rep. Joe Pool of Dallas, was submitted Thursday as emergency legislation by Gov. Price Daniel, who urged the upper chamber to act upon the House-approved bill "without delay."

Sen. Grady Hazlewood of Amarillo is sponsoring the bill in the Senate.

The measure, described as "changing the rules in the middle of the game" by Republican candidate Thad Hutcheson, calls for a run-off if no candidate receives more than 50 per cent of the vote.

Emergency Tag Speeds Bill

Hutcheson is the only Republican in the race for the Senate post vacated by Gov. Daniel.

With the emergency tag, the bill can take effect in time for the April 2 election with two-thirds (21 votes) approval in the 31-member Senate. Otherwise, it would require a four-fifths majority, or four more votes.

The committee will also hear a bill Monday night which would cancel the runoff proposal. This measure, by Sen. Charles Herring of Austin, would leave interim appointee William Blakley of Dallas in office.

Twirp Season Begins In PHS Today

Convention was thrown out the window and the distaff community of Pampa High School took over the reins for the next eight days in the annual observation of Twirp Season.

The season was started off with the sound of first bell this morning when the girls observed their Sadie Hawkins Day privileges and tagged the man of their choice with a twirp badge. Twirp, incidentally stands for "The Woman Is Requested to Pay." And the girls must do just that.

"In order to qualify, however, the girls must first obtain a 'Twirp License' from representatives of the Student Council, which sponsors the affair."

They must then observe the following rules which appear on the licenses:

1. All girls must have a twirp license.
2. Girls caught without a twirp license on a date or with a boy at any time will be fined $1.
3. The girls shall defray all expenses on a date.
4. Girls must not have more than one date at a time.
5. The girls must furnish transportation.

Committee Seeks New Oil Testimony

By NEIL MACNEIL
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP) — The House Commerce committee today sought to call Assistant Interior Secretary Felix E. Wormser to testify on the administration gag on talking about oil and gas price increases.

Committee Chairman Owen Harris (D-Ark.) said he hoped to do so next week after it resumes its oil hearings.

Harris said administration officials have "a lot of clarifying to do" on their oil policies — particularly the "amazing" gag instructions.

Hugh Stewart, director of the Interior Department's office of oil, revealed the gag instructions late Thursday when he flatly refused to say whether the recent price hikes were justified.

Stewart told the committee that Wormser and Secretary of Interior Fred A. Seaton had given him the policy line. However, Stewart indicated the decision had come from the White House.

Stewart also denied that he said in previous testimony that American companies have been forcing Europeans to accept "tie-in" sales of unwanted gasoline to get desperately needed fuel oil shipments which have been lagging.

He said he had heard "rumors" that this was going on. But he said he had no first-hand information about it and could name no companies or even how many might be involved.

Under questioning, he said he did not have time nor adequate staff to investigate the "rumors." He added that he had not reported the "rumors" to the Justice Department's anti-trust division because he did not believe it was "any of my business."

A check of the transcript of Stewart's previous testimony on "tie-in" sales showed no mention of the word "rumors."

Six First Aid Instructors Finish Course

Six new Red Cross first aid instructors have been authorized to teach in the local chapter.

The new instructors completed the first aid course taught here by James Hamilton, Red Cross field representative, last night.

The new authorized instructors are Dwight L. Day and Dan Lewis, local policeman; Paul Skidmore, fireman; John Gikas, local businessman; Sam Cook, oil well driller; and Roy K. Russell head of Celanese safety department.

Two instructors took an instructor review. They were Elder C. Herbert Lowe and Alvin Lewis of White Deer. Six persons from Borger also took the first aid course here.

Skidmore has agreed to teach a class in first aid in Miami for benefit of the community. A letter of request was received by the local Red Cross chapter and Skidmore will start the classes as soon as a date is set.

Mrs. Libby Shottwell, local Red Cross executive secretary, said that other Pampans interested in taking first aid courses should contact her office and possibly other classes could be set up.

Vandalism Attributed To Local Youth

A local youth, 16, was responsible for the vandalism of Oilier Park during the past week, H. A. Doggett, juvenile officer, reported this morning.

Doggett stated that the youth was responsible for tearing up the doors on the buildings at the base ball park and for the breaking of a window on the west side of the office.

The juvenile officer is still working on the case but reported that he knows of two other boys and two girls who have been in the buildings and who took some of the items which were stolen.

All of the items which were known to be stolen have been returned to the baseball club and the parents of the boys and girls are checking to see if any other items can be located, Doggett stated.

He warned all local youths to refrain from playing around the ball park. He reported that appropriate action would be taken if anyone else is caught inside the fence of the ball park.

Doggett concluded by warning parents to tell their children not to play near any building when the building was unoccupied.

'Doctrine' Delayed

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Eisenhower Doctrine today appeared fated to remain in committee in the Senate at least another week.

The Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees had hoped to end their joint hearings on the doctrine by tonight. But lengthy questioning of diplomatic services Chairman Richard B. Russell said he thought it "highly probable" the committees now could finish the hearings and send the doctrine to the Senate floor by the end of next week. However, several other senators were much less optimistic.

The House has already overwhelmingly passed the doctrine that would authorize President Eisenhower to use troops if necessary and economic aid to stem the tide of Communism in the Middle East.

The President has asked Congress to approve the doctrine with all possible speed.

Other congressional news:

- Crashes — The House Commerce Committee resumed its hearings on last week's fatal plane crashes at New York City and Pocomo, Calif. The committee summoned Civil Aeronautics Administrator James T. Fyfe and Chairman J. R. Durfee of the Civil Aeronautics Board for questioning.
- Railway — The nation's powerful 21 railway labor unions—1,100,000 workers strong — want Congress to cut their income taxes. The unions have opened a drive to get Congress to exempt from income taxes all railway workers' contributions to union retirement funds. The drive is a threat to the administration's balanced budget.
- Civil Rights — Southerners may make a new move to prolong further the already extended House subcommittee hearings on civil rights bills. Civil rights advocates hope to end the hearings next week, House Rep. William M.

When Union President Travels 'For Health,' Members Foot Bills

By MAUREN GOTHLIN
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP) — When Dave Beck, president of the giant Teamsters Union, travels "for health," members of his union foot the bill.

Beck is now travelling overseas. He began his current trip shortly after notifying a Senate committee investigating labor racketeering on Jan. 18 that he could not appear as a witness for reasons of health.

At that time, Beck had just returned from Europe to his Seattle, Wash., home. He told the senators that his doctor said he needed a rest.

Three days later, Beck and his wife flew to Miami Beach, Fla., for a meeting of his union's executive board and an AFL-CIO Executive Council meeting.

This week they were in Nassau, taking what Beck called a vacation. They left there Thursday for London, via Bermuda.

The newly formed Senate Racketeering Investigating Committee was upset to learn that Beck was out of the country and planned to call him as a witness whenever he re-enters the United States. Committee Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) said union spokesmen promised him Beck would return and submit to questioning.

Here is what the Teamsters cop-

stitution, approved at the 1952 union convention where Beck was elected president, has to say on the subject of his travels and health:

"The general president, for the purpose of promoting the interests and welfare of the international (union) and the making of organizations and institutions, and for the purposes of conserving his health, may in his discretion travel in this country or abroad and may take periodic rests.

"The general executive board shall provide for all expenses of the general president when per-

HOUSTON (UP) — A 45-year-old "blind" auto mechanic today faced nine months in prison on his fifth drunk driving conviction in 10 years.

A district court jury Thursday found George Kingston, who has drawn a state pension as a blind man for several years, guilty of drunk driving last May 6.

District Judge Ed Duggan, in imposing sentence, told Kingston that "just in case you get a driver's license it is suspended, too."

That was after Kingston told the court he hasn't had a driver's license for about five years.

Kingston already has served four jail terms for drunk driving. Kingston said he was born blind but regained partial sight when he was 13 years old. He denied being drunk while driving. He said it was his faulty vision.

Mystery Sniper Is Caught In Detroit

DETROIT (UP) — A young factory worker who terrorized four suburbs with wild rifle fire Thursday night told police today he was Detroit's long sought mystery sniper.

Gary A. Taylor, 21, wounded two young women with .22 caliber fire and shot at seven other girls during a three-hour spree before police captured him in nearby Royal Oak.

Taylor was unable to explain his actions.

"I don't know what it was," Taylor said. "I just had an urge to shoot at women."

Oakland County Assistant Prosecutor William Lang said Taylor told him he was the mysterious sniper police had been seeking since Dec. 22 when a young woman was shot in the back while walking home with a friend. She recovered.

Since the Dec. 22 shooting, the sniper has fired at women standing at bus stops and at walking women. Until Thursday night, however, he had struck nobody again.

Tigers In Viet Nam Devour 42

SAIGON (UP) — Hungry tigers have killed 42 persons since September in the high plains of west central Viet Nam, employees of the U.S. Information Agency reported today.

The combatants used sticks, rocks and car chains in the melee. Policemen struggled with the teenagers for about 45 minutes before firemen quelled the disturbance with a stream of water.

Bankruptcy Threat Hits ICT Insurance

AUSTIN (UP) — The president of the ICT Insurance Co. today pledged every effort to raise sufficient capital to salvage the "labor-owned" Dallas firm from the threat of bankruptcy.

The stock fire and casualty company, not to be confused with the ICT Life Insurance Co., was put temporarily out of business Thursday by court order pending hearing by the State Insurance Commission on allegations it is in the red $4,460,234.

The commission charged the company owes its policyholders $2,115,015 on claims and $2,665,781 as unearned premium reserves.

James G. Cage, president and chairman of the board of the ICT Insurance Co., issued a statement in Austin expressing regret that the commission named the firm in a show cause order.

"I feel that in all fairness it should be made clear to the public, the stockholders and the policyholders that the present management took over operation of the company only a year ago, on Jan. 28, 1956," he said.

It was endorsed by the State Federation of Labor (AFL) at its state convention in Galveston in 1951, and stock was widely sold to unions, union locals and union members.

The company has used the figure of around 15,000 stockholders. Not all were labor union members, but many were and some (See BANKRUPTCY, Page 3)

New Yorkers Amused At Rome Dispatch

NEW YORK (UP) — One of the most arresting and to a New Yorker, funniest — pieces of intelligence to reach these shores recently is a dispatch from Rome, Italy, about the Eternal City's eternal traffic problems. A Rome traffic expert, Prof. Alberto De Rossi, after a study-visit to the United States, is quoted as saying that the only thing that could really solve the problem would be (no gasping, now, please) replacing all Roman pedestrians with Americans. The good professor, in a lecture at the Rome Auto Club, discussed his countrymen's love of walking leisurely across busy streets. He said American traffic control systems would help a lot in Rome but: "A very important element, on which we unfortunately cannot count, is the discipline of American pedestrians." Two Conclusions These statements led to two conclusions about this Roman expert's visit to America. (1) He didn't have time to look around him, or (2) Someone mercifully blindfolded him while here so he wouldn't contract the screaming horrors at what he saw. While granting that the general pattern in America is for the pedestrian to be pretty well behaved, let's admit that New York is an island entire to its peculiar pedestrian self. New York is the place in which the word pedestrian connotes a headstrong ball of fire. He has a fine disdain for those two-ton hunks of metal hurtling down the street. Wouldn't Last Long The New York pedestrian is the nearest thing to a free soul you can find. In Rome, they may walk leisurely across streets. In New York, it is common to see a pedestrian saunter out against the lights into a stream of traffic and lift his hand in a command that it halt. Man and boy reporter, I have visited numerous climes and gawked on many streets. An opinion based on that gawking is that a practicing New York pedestrian would be dead or maimed in five minutes if he were suddenly transported to Cleveland, Chicago, Honolulu, or Tokyo. Red China Change In Attitude Seen

Foreign News Commentary By CHARLES M. McCANN United Press Staff Correspondent Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-lai apparently has given up hope that he might make some sort of diplomatic deal with the United States. Chou has indicated several times in recent weeks that he believed the Eisenhower administration might be induced to open negotiations that would lead to recognition of his Peiping Red regime. But at a press conference in Colombo, Ceylon, Tuesday Chou spoke with some bitterness of continued American "hostility."

Commenting on statements by President Eisenhower that the imprisonment of 10 American civilians in China was an obstacle to better relations Chou said: "Why should we always listen to the words of the President of the United States?"

This was a decided change from several statements Chou has made during his long tour of East Asia, which is just now coming to an end. He has said that the time had come to establish better Chinese-American relations and has offered to meet Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. He has said that the Red Chinese might release the American civilians they hold "without imposing any conditions."

But Chou now has returned to the demand that, as a price for the Americans, the United States must send back to Red China 38 Chinese who, he alleges, are "illegally" held. Actually, it is a fact that none of these Chinese wants to go to Communist China. There are 23 of them, not 33. All are serving prison terms for common crimes. All were offered repatriation to China, Twenty-one said they would rather stay in jail. Two said they would like to go to Formosa, seat of the Chinese Nationalist government. They are to be sent there.

A New Condition Chou now has injected a new condition into the American prisoner situation. Dulles said in Washington Tuesday that the Red Chinese had offered to free the Americans if Dulles would permit American newsmen to visit Communist China. Dulles said he had refused to make such a deal.

Chou's outburst in Ceylon may have been due to a feeling that his big tour of East Asia has not amounted to much. He started out in November and resumed it after a visit to Russia, Poland and Hungary to help the Soviet government to establish a new line of policy toward the Communist satellite countries.

Chou seems to have accomplished little except to make propaganda speeches.

CHICAGO: The mother of Patricia and Barbara Grimes, whose bodies were found in a roadside ditch, begging Chicago to "never give up" the search for her daughters' murderer: "You must help solve this, not only for me but also to make it safe for all the children in the city."

'The Great Man' Is Really Cross Section Of Many

By ALINE MOSBY United Press Hollywood Writer HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Hollywood's busiest guessing game these days: "Who is 'the great man'?" "We absolutely had nobody in mind when we made that motion picture," announced producer Aaron Rosenberg in his office today with the manner of a man who often has to have an answer ready for that question.

Rosenberg, with director-star Jose Ferrer, turned out the film, "The Great Man", from the best-selling book by Al Morgan. It's the first intriguing film to be released this year.

"The Great Man" tells about a television idol who has a folksy, lovable approach that has endeared him to millions. When he dies, a lowly disc jockey, played by Ferrer, has to produce a program about the celebrated star. In the course of looking into the great man's life, Ferrer finds out the idol was a miserable, unhappy cuss who was difficult to work for and loved no one. As in the case of "Citizen Kane" and "The Barefoot Contessa", persons who've seen the picture have been speculating in fan letters, columns and conversation as to the real-life model of the main character.

"People always ask me that leading question," sighed Rosenberg. "They say, 'Is it Berle, or Godfrey, or Jackie Gleason, but honestly we didn't have any specific character in mind. I guess you could say "The Great Man" is a cross section of many people in television. It could be many people you see on your television set."

any great personality and find startling things that have happened to him that the audience never knows about. People apparently are curious to see the movie because they identify various persons with it." So far the producer at Universal International studio has heard only from one entertainer. "I don't know whether Berle was kidding or serious."

LOW BACK PAINS MAY INDICATE FEMALE TROUBLE. CORRECT THEM.

The adult female (without low back aches and attending disorders of the female cycle) are rare indeed.

Also rare is the sweet feminine thing that can correct the two. Who would think that low backache would indicate female trouble inside?

After many hundred of such cases, we, at least, are certainly aware of the intimate relationship between the two.

The low back and leg nerves that come out of the spinal column at the belt area just above the hips divide into two main branches. They make a "Y" like a super highway. The irritated nerves forming one leg of the "Y" causes the muscular pains you so frequently suffer in the low back and down in your legs. The irritated nerves, the other part of the "Y" causes the cramps and other more serious disorders of the lower pelvic area. We must remember that cysts, tumors and the like must have a cause. Cysts don't just happen. Your "control factor" must be out of step before your organs begin to act up. Your "control factor" is your central nervous system.

Consider this case from our clinic files — the control factor had a definite hitch in it. But — a repairable hitch for the Miller Chiropractic Clinic, because we knew what to repair. A single working girl, thirty one years old, had been ir-

In that state of mind we met her when she came to Miller Chiropractic Clinic.

Our spinal analysis indicated nerve wave interference in the spine. A possible cause of functional trouble. X-Rays of the area disclosed a subluxation of a vertebra which was repairable. She recalled several falls that could have wrenched her back and this vertebra from its normal position. Adjustments were begun. Thespians In Program For Lions

The program at the noon meeting of the Pampa Lions Club yesterday was provided by the Thespians from Pampa High School. The group provided the club with three short skits on "Boy Meets Girl," a pantomime "I'm Learning My Latin" and one on teaching a girl friend to play golf. Students of the high school who participated in the program were: Ed Ethridge Jr., Buzzy Hoover, Davy Smith, Miss Carolyn Ford, Miss Rose Smith, Miss Carol Rose Miller and Miss Cynthia Duncan. Dwight Davis, instructor of the Dale Carnegie course being sponsored by the Jaycees, spoke briefly to the members of the club about the course and invited them to attend the demonstration meeting at 7:30 tonight at Johnson's Cafe. Miss Carolyn Ford was introduced to the members as the club sweetheart for the month of February. She was indoctrinated in the usual Lions fashion by Henry Gruben, tall twister. Boss Lion Calvin Whitley informed the club of the progress being made on the Lions-Minaret that will be held on March 7 and 8 in the auditorium at the Junior High School. He reported that the second rehearsal from the minaret will be held at 8 p.m. Monday in the chorus room in the basement of the Senior High School. New members of the club introduced at yesterday's meeting were Elmer Fite, owner of Fite Food Market, and E. H. Flood, owner of Pampa Milk Company.

The company, launched in 1951, bought out another company and placed its operation under Ben-Jack Cage, through Ben-Jack & Co. This management contract continued until January of 1956 when James G. Cage, identified as a "distant cousin" of Ben-Jack Cage, assumed active management of the firm. Blames Previous Management The company, through its affiliation with the ICT Insurance Co., was at one time financially interested in the Lone Star Boat Co., as well as the ARA Manufacturing Co., producers of automotive air-conditioning equipment. However, the corporate relationship between the ICT Insurance Co. and the ICT Corp. have been divorced, a spokesman for James G. Cage said. The present head of the ICT Insurance Co., blamed previous management for the firm's present financial plight and charged "prior mismanagement and the heavy load of bad business written by previous management have put us in an extremely critical condition." District Judge Charles O. Betts Thursday issued a temporary restraining order barring the company from doing business. He acted on the request of the insurance commission. The restraining order holds the company from disposing of any of its money, stocks, bonds, assets, funds, drafts, policies, accounts receivable or other property pending the hearing. It was sought by Attorney General Will Wilson at the request of the commission. The order also restrains 11 banks in Texas, Arkansas and California from disposing of any ICT assets on deposit with them. The commission said three examiners representing 25 states reported Tuesday the ICT Insurance Company had been insolvent since last Sept. 30. The commission alleged that as of Sept. 30 the company's capital was $1.5 million, resulting in an unassigned deficit surplus of $4,460,243, and a deficit surplus as regards policyholders of $2,960,243. "Since Sept. 30, 1956, there has been no substantial change in the status of the company, the commission said.

John Yentes Found Dead Yesterday

John Yentes, 73, was found dead yesterday at 4:30 p.m. under a house he owned on the rear of the lot at 1055 S. Barnes. A neighbor reported that Mr. Yentes had started early yesterday morning that he was going to work on the small house and that he had borrowed an electric drill from a nearby firm. According to the neighbor, it was noticed late yesterday afternoon that Mr. Yentes was not moving and upon checking reported to the police station that the house had fallen on him. When the officers and an ambulance arrived at the scene it was determined that Mr. Yentes was dead but that the house had not fallen on him. Coroner Bill Gramham was called to the scene and he reported this morning that he had not returned a verdict as to the cause of death but that apparently he had died as the result of a heart attack. Mr. Yentes was born in Huntington County, Ind., and moved to Pampa from Wabash County, Ind., in 1932. He and his brother Charles ran a wrecking yard in Pampa from 1932 to 1940 and since that time he has been in the rental business. Survivors include one brother, Charles of Odessa; three sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Michel of Bippus, Ind., Mrs. Lula Burton and Mrs. Bessie Dieringer, both of Huntington, Ind. Funeral services are pending at Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral Home.

Lightweight Fabric Are Spring Trends

By GAILLE DUGAS
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YOUR — (NEA) — The beautifully tailored daytime dress takes to lightweight, supple fabrics this spring.

This carries out the increasing trend to lightweight fabrics for spring clothes of every kind: dresses, suits, capes, coats and separates. Our changing climate, our excellent heating in both homes and offices and our own liking for fabrics that contribute warmth without weight account for this change from the heavy fabrics of seasons back. Travel, too, is a factor in the demand for fashions that can survive more than one season's wear in a year and more than one climate in the same space of time.

We show here two spring fashions that both make use of a lightweight orlon - and - wool fabric. In one case, the fabric is imported, the design is from a famed American designer and the dress is elegantly expensive. The other is an American design for petite women and is moderately priced.

Sophisticated shirt dress (left) for petite women is from Andrew Arkin. It has bloused bodice and sleeves in contrast to slim skirt. Imported fabric is used (right) by Pauline Triguere for daytime dress with double - peplum effect over a very slender skirt.

RUTH MILLET

Midwinter is the season of the year when the homemaker is most likely to become bored with her job and feel she is in a slump.

Why not snap out of it? It isn't hard to put a little more enthusiasm into your job.

How about those recipes you have been clipping out of newspapers and magazines and borrowing from friends, but never seem to get around to trying?

Pull a few of those out of their hideaway and try them out on your family. You'll find the job of cooking three meals a day a lot more fun if you'll pep it up with some new ideas.

How about those couples you've been meaning to entertain, especially those interesting newcomers or new acquaintances you've thought you would like to know better, but have never done anything about?

Why not make the first gesture toward friendship now instead of putting it off until you forget all about them? Nothing stirs up home life more than new friends.

With the holidays past and summer still off in the future, there's no better time for starting a home improvement project. If you choose one that interests the whole family, so much the better. What you do with your family for the betterment of your home is always more important than what you do for them.

Feel over weight, or lazy or less physically active than you should be at your age?

Then why not join an exercise class, or work out an exercise program for yourself at home, or start walking every day? If you do, you'll soon work yourself out of your winter slump.

It's easy to succumb to the winter doldrums — especially if you're stay-at-home housewife. But it isn't difficult to work yourself free, not if you'll start today instead of gazing dispiritedly, "I don't know what's the matter with me. I just seem to be bogged down in routine."

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Gary was balancing himself on the sofa arm when his mother came into the living room. As he expected her to applaud his skill at him crying "Can't I take my eyes off you a minute?" Swept from his glorious, commanding height on the sofa arm, he was overcome with bitterness at her interference in his life. Launching a kick at her, he flung himself into a tantrum.

His mother said, "You're angry with Mommy. You hate her. That's all right. All little children sometimes get angry with their Mommy."

But this child-guidance formula, guaranteed to soothe Gary, didn't make him madder. Losing all patience, he launched another kick at the interfering creature who wasn't satisfied with telling him what to do but had to tell him how he felt as well.

An angry child is quieted not by what we say but by the feeling behind what we say. If we truly feel it is all right for Gary to resent us, he is comforted to hear us say so.

He is relieved to know that, though anger has betrayed him into trying to kick us out of his life, we intend to remain in it and take care of him. He is inexpressibly soothed to learn that his anger doesn't impress us.

But when, like Gary, he feels we are afraid of it, the child-guidance incantation can serve us no better than the sorcerer's magic served the apprentice in the fairy-tale.

Inexperienced parents usually feel a little scared of their youngster's anger. When this is true, let them not lie — and pretend they feel it is quite "all right."

Instead of telling Gary what he feels, let them tell him what they feel. Let them say, "I don't want to hurt you. No matter how you kick and scream, you are safe as a little nut in its shell with me."

To make a child believe that his anger at us is innocent and quite all right, we have to first acknowledge our own family angers. It means that behind our rages at our own parents, our own brothers and sisters — the very feelings of which we felt most ashamed and were punished for — we have discovered not badness at all, but fear of betrayal, of being abandoned.

It is the tenderness we have been able to feel toward our own childhood anger that we give to the anger of our youngster.

A sterile, gleaming kitchen is not a cozy sight to behold, no matter what the architect declares. Make yours livable with the addition of some green plants, gleaming copper pans and a collection of wooden spoons in a rack. A spice rack helps, but it isn't enough in itself. Add some cute curtains on brass rings for the final touch.

DEAL DELAYED—An attempt by the Red Cross to purchase a home for its new national president, retired NATO chief Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, has been given a setback. The $70,000 residence, shown above, is in the exclusive Spring Valley section of Washington. The real estate developer of the community has filed suit to prevent the sale, citing one of 14 restrictive covenants governing sale of Spring Valley property. If the deal goes through, the house will be purchased from a special fund, established in 1919 by 50 friends of the Red Cross.

Curfew Law Proposed By Solon

AUSTIN (UP)—Sen. Searcy Bracwell today introduced a bill allowing cities to impose rigid curfew laws to keep young thugs off the streets at night.

"I think the situation is perhaps worse in some cities than in others. If the juvenile delinquency situation gets out of hand in any particular city, the city commission ought to have authority to impose a curfew as a measure to combat it," Bracwell said.

The Houston lawmaker said he offered his measure at the request of Baytown authorities, who expressed doubt they had legal power to write such an ordinance under present law.

Bracwell's bill would be statewide in application, but allow each city the right to determine when or if a curfew should be imposed.

City authorities would also determine the penalty.

"I feel most of the citizens are alarmed about the increase in juvenile delinquency, particularly in the cities. This is brought about in many cases by gangs of hoodlums in the streets," Bracwell said.

"It is not fair to the law-abiding young citizens who are reflected on by small bands of young thugs who sometimes are out on the streets late at night," he added.

Similar legislation is before the House for consideration.

WASHINGTON: Marion B. Folsom, secretary of health, education and welfare, asking that Congress make up its mind and either approve or drop a school construction bill this year.

"If we keep holding out hope, we'll be holding back construction. If we are not going to have federal legislation, we ought to know it now."

The opening bid of three no-trump is rare, because it shows a count of 25 to 27 points, a balanced distribution and stoppers in all suits. You seldom get this kind of hand, but it's good to know how to handle it when it does come along.

South made the right bid in this case, and North was happy to pass. You usually expect a bad result when you pick up as bad a hand as North's, but in this case North could hope for a profit because of the tremendous strength shown by South's opening bid.

West opened the four of clubs, and South had to make the key play at the first trick. He had to play a low club from dummy and win with the king in his own hand. It would have been poor play to put up the ten of clubs and let dummy win the first trick.

The point is that South was sure of three club tricks whether or not he won the first trick in the dummy. If he took the first trick in the dummy, he would never get back there; but if he took the first trick in his own hand, he could win a later club trick with the jack or ten.

Small Town Man Rockets Into Top Platter Business

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Hollywood Writer

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Any man who can parlay a record shop in a Tennessee town into a $3 million Hollywood recording company that hires Tab Hunter and Marlene Dietrich deserves to be called the young genius of the year.

Four years ago, Randy Wood was selling records in Gallatin, Tenn. For laughs he made a few recordings on the side.

Today, Dot records, the company that grew out of that experiment, is installed in fancy offices on the corner of Vine St. and Sunset Blvd. It was the largest single record seller in 1956—passing up giants such as Victor and Columbia.

Dot's 75 artists, including Pat Boone and Gale Storm helped the fledgling company gross $6 million last year. Today, Wood, his wife and three children live in a plush Beverly Hills home and attend swank Hollywood parties.

"Sometimes I have to pinch myself to make sure it's all true," Wood smiled as he sat in his handsome office.

Wood, from Morrison (pop. 368), Tenn., went to Middle Tennessee State College and planned to be an electrical engineer. In 1946, he opened a radio and appliance business in Gallatin and worked into a mail order record business.

After one of his experimental records became a hit ("The Hilltoppers singing "Trying"), the ambitious, driving Wood went into record-making fulltime. His neighbors in Gallatin must have been stunned by his rapid success. Next thing they knew Wood was hiring Gale Storm (My daughter heard her sing on TV") and Pat Boone ("He came to Tennessee to ask for a job. I hired him without even hearing him sing because he had sincerity").

Seven months ago he got tired of traveling around the country to the major markets and moved the business to Hollywood.

He has a knack for luring film stars, who seldom if ever sing, into his fold. He signed Chariton Heston to make records and got Miss Dietrich on the dotted line after meeting her on an airplane. A Chicago disc jockey suggested he sign Tab Hunter. Wood talked Tab into recording "Young Love" after five singing lessons. During the seven weeks since the record's release it's sold two million copies. "Everybody—even movie stars—wants a hit record more than a hit movie or TV show," says Wood. "They get a thrill out of it."

Peculiar Attitude

Without a doubt, Soviet relations with the world are at a low point. For a number of years a great many people in this nation, both public and un-official capacities, have hoped and waited for a day when there would be a general revulsion at the Kremlin. It came with a vengeance last October, when increasing Russian aid to Egypt provided one of the published causes for Israeli action in the Sinai peninsula. But it showed up in sharp focus when the Hungarian freedom fighters in Budapest took up arms against the Russian sponsored government and died fighting in the streets in numbers up to and beyond 25,000 persons. This last was an action all could understand.

Opposition to communist control moved from the level of debate into the arena of blood. And when it did, the world saw the communist menace with all disguises missing. It should have been, and in the main it was a salutary glimpse.

But there is a strange proclivity in the hallowed marble halls of our federal bureaucracy in Washington to make every effort to deal with the status quo. There seems to be a widespread hope in State and in the general administration that nothing too serious will happen to the communist government of Moscow. Mr. Walter Lippman, who frequently voices ideas which later on become official foreign policy, said this in an edition of the Washington Post which went on the streets on Oct. 28 last, in the midst of the Hungarian conflict: "In the interests of peace and of freedom — freedom both from despotism and from anarchy — we must hope that, for a time, the uprising in the satellite or that will be stabilized at Tlatelco." It is not in our own interests that the movement in Eastern Europe should go so far that no accommodation with Russia is possible.

Now this is a very curious pronouncement. Mr. Lippman made it clear that communism, Tito type, is in the American interest. He was apparently moved to hope that the uprising against Russian tyranny would accomplish nothing which could not conceivably be

Texas Senate Race

The Republicans are mad because the Legislature is about to snatch the rug out from under their boy Thad Hutchison. Mr. Hutchison might be elected U. S. Senator if there is no run-off. Presumably, the Democratic multitude would split up the vote and the incumbents would be able to show their main into office.

Like the Great already has ordered Thad into GHQ for a briefing. Presumably, he has ordered him to take Texas. Thad has a real job cut out for him, run-off or no run-off. It's doubtful there are enough Incumbents to snatch the election away from contenders more serious than Stevenson and Kefauver were in Texas.

There is some weeping at the bar about the bad form of permitting a man to go to the Senate without a majority vote. Lord, we've sent men to the White House without a majority vote, and if the principle persists that a majority in the ballot box determines right from wrong, we've headed for even more trouble than we're in already.

To be sure the prospect of Senator Yarborough would be dreary. But, he could probably vote 100 per cent for the program which the President has handed to Congress.

The Original Meaning
Of Laissez Faire

Since the World Council of Churches of Christ and many modern textbooks and pseudo-economists have criticized laissez faire, it might be well to quote how Bela Hubbard, in his "Political and Economic Structures," explains the original meaning of laissez faire. He puts it this way: "LAISSEZ FAIRE. The term 'laissez faire' has so often been used in connection with free enterprise economy, that its meaning, origin and significance should be clearly understood. The term in its original form, 'laissez faire' is derived from the Latin 'laxare' equals 'relax' plus 'facere' equals 'do.' The French derivation is 'laissez' equals 'let, permit' plus 'faire' equals 'do.' Subsequent usage employed the second person plural imperative of the verb 'laisser,' and the term as commonly expressed today is 'laissez faire.' As originally defined, it meant: 'A letting alone; a general non-interference with individual freedom of action; the let-alone principle or policy in government and political economy.'

The term originated in France, and was probably first used by the French statesman and author Rene Louis Voyer d'Argeon, about 1754. As first used in France, it designated the principle of political economy which would leave industry, and trade absolutely free from taxation or restriction by government except so far as required by public peace and order. It was subsequently extended, by usage in England and America, to include noninterference by controlling authority with any voluntary exercise of individual will.

The philosophical basis of the original French doctrine of laissez faire was a recognition of the existence of natural laws, such as supply and demand, which governed the intricate processes of the economy of nations. The laissez faire doctrine probably marked the earliest clear recognition, at least in recent centuries, of the superiority of a free economy over the several types of planned economy which had prevailed under autocratic governments since the beginning of recorded history. Laissez faire may be regarded as the "Magna Charta" of the modern free enterprise economy.

The author hammers away that individual liberty is necessary, if we are to have a free competitive capitalist economy; that individual liberty must be antecedent to the birth of a free enterprise economy on a permanent basis. He gives an example, that "the steam engine was invented by the Marquis of Worcester in England about 1650, and independently in France by Papin, about 1690. The first workable steam engine was patented, built, and operated by James Watt in 1769. Although it was not until 1831 that magnetic induction was discovered (by Faraday), Watt had described his battery in 1800. Frictional static electricity was discovered by Thales in the sixth century B. C., and the modern science of electricity originated with Gilbert in England, 1600."

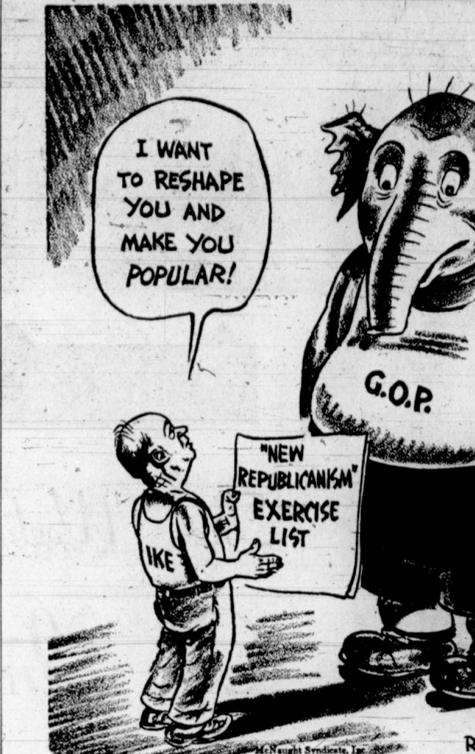

With very few exceptions, the peoples of Europe do not now enjoy, and never have enjoyed, the blessings of individual freedom. It follows from this that the modern free enterprise economy, untrammelled development of the competitive capitalist economy. The tendency of this economy to spread into Europe from England and America was in large part prevented by the autocratic forms of government under which most Europeans have been ruled.

The trend, thus far in the twentieth century, is toward a return to even more autocratic types of government, with accompanying loss in individual liberty. The tendency of governments to seek more power is not a recent phenomenon. It is as old as, and probably older than, recorded history. The only force that has ever opposed the trend to autocracy is the will of individuals to be free. The spirit of individualism, weak or absent, autocratic government power increases, and men become wards or servants of the state.

The spirit of individualism, in recent centuries, has been strong only in England, America, and a few smaller countries. This spirit has deteriorated in England, and has shown marked signs of deterioration in the United States. This process of being helped by modern socialist intellectuals who are promoting the counter-revolution. They have succeeded in the two decades, in greatly increasing power of the federal government; in encouraging governmental paternalism; advocating a world-wide super-government; deprecating the free enterprise system; disparaging national patriotism; and, by subtle and very skillful methods which they have introduced into our schools, they are destroying the spirit of individualism in our children. In short, they are the counter-revolutionaries; the real reactionaries of the twentieth century.

A Sunday School teacher had been telling a class of little boys about crowns of glory and heavenly reward for good people. "Teacher (at close of lesson) — Now tell me, who will get the biggest crown?" There was silence for a while, then Johnny answered confidently: "Johnnie. The one that's got the biggest head!"

Emmett Is Following Some Big Clowns Into Brooklyn

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The engagement of Emmett Kelly, formerly of Ringlings Circus, to fill the office of jester for the Brooklyn ballclub whittles much too fine a point. The deftness boys of long ago and the bumps of more recent date were natural buffoons and undeniably winsome. Mr. Kelly's sadness is artificial, artful and professional. And though he was heartrending, faltering in his grotesque rags with two buckets of water at the terrible fire in the elephant tent in Cleveland, that was not a deliberate "act." He is, after all, a professional funny man as distinguished from the funny professional men of Brooklyn, long ago.

It is a vain regret that when he had the privilege of picking my assignments in sports, I did not more often throw in with the Brooklynians under Wilbert Robinson, called Uncle Wilbert by the late Bill McGeehan, a literary humorist whose delicate parodies on Shakespeare occurred unexpectedly and much too seldom.

Robbie and McGeehan drank Georgia jump steady, a special blend of mule tincture with rub-stuff, usually purveyed in mason jars offering the advantage that the spillings drained into the ears. They were wordless companions and they retired into long communions at a hunting and drinking camp called Dover Hall in Georgia hard by Haddock, the home of a great gentleman and a master of picturesque, unprintable metaphor who had coached football just after the war with Spain and drove the Boston Braves from 8th to a pennant in 1914. George Stallings was at home on a bench with a smelly crew in the uncouth arena but he eschewed the slightest vulgarity in the presence of a waitress and stood to reprove it in others.

I did make a few journeys with the Dodgers, and though it is not easy to depict in the words which I command the comedy which endeared them to their public, neither can Emmett Kelly's adventures convey his charm in serious harangue.

Garry Schumaker, a junior baseball writer, inherited McGeehan's berth in Uncle Wilbert's heart and Bill died suddenly at Dover Hall. Robbie enfolded this kid and Garry seemed to have plenary authority with the pantaloons. One day in Brooklyn when McGeehan was there with his Giants and the Dodgers were at bat in the ninth with the ballgame on base and two out, I noticed Babe Herman, kneeling on his bat and waiting for his turn. He was making crazy gestures at someone upstairs. My eyes caught Garry beside me, gesturing back with his fingers and carrying on mute repartee with Herman. I asked: "What are you fellows up to?" Garry said, "Oh that is a goofy eyetalian game we play on the road. You try to guess how many fingers the other guy is going to put up. We are not very mental so we do not play hearts or old maid so we play this game." The hitter hit and Herman, with a parting throw of his fingers at Garry, went to the plate and won the ball game. "McGraw would kill a guy doing that," I said.

Women Can Be In Politics Even Without An Office

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Besides giving this sedate and staid capital its most enjoyable giggle in many a day, Mrs. Charles E. Wilson has demonstrated — again — what a force women can be in national politics and government, even though they hold no office save that of wife and housekeeper. There was more than wifely piety, however, behind her praise of her husband's record as Defense Secretary, her deprecation of Secretary Dulles' performance and telling off of Ike for rebuking her "Charlie." She expressed what many distasteful officialdom feel, but do not dare to blurt out to the press.

Her understandable remarks were both comical and cleansing, like a rush of fresh air into an overstuffed, overheated and mid-Victorian parlour. Like her, many officials and their helpmates fret over Ike's repeated failures to defend his Cabinet members against Democratic diatribes on Capitol Hill. Many question Ike's contention that Dulles is "the greatest Secretary of State in our time." His far-reaching overseas commitments impose a tremendous and wearisome burden on Secretary Wilson's Pentagon personnel. In fact, many regard the atmosphere at Presidential and diplomatic levees as a bit smug and sanctimonious.

Many wives, as well as their husbands, would prefer to return to their home towns and friends. Washington holds no unique glamour for them, since most were social and civic dowagers back home, and their husbands were economic bosses and outside their factories and offices. Moreover, most of the Eisenhower wives are elderly and reserved home bodies. To them the daily round of formal teas, receptions and dinners are a bore and a chore.

Response From Skiing Articles Was Gratifying

By HENRY McLEMORE

BAD TOLZ — Those of you with memories worth shooting will recall the series of columns I did from Garmisch-Partenkirchen on skiing, in which I described the method I used to advance from beginner to master skier in three days. The response to these articles was most gratifying. Letters came from everywhere, including sections of the country where it hasn't snowed in fifty years. Nearly all of them asked that I do the same for ice skating that I had done for skiing, namely, outline a method by which even the timid, the hesitant, and the clumsy could learn to cut figure eights, waltz, and jump barrels.

"Why not?" I asked myself. So, before you could say Hans Brinker, I was down here at Bad Tolz in Bavaria, where I purchased a week's membership in the city's Eisklub. The Klub isn't in a building. It is right outdoors, with the rink at the foot of a snow-covered Bavarian Alp. There is a small grandstand, and if I do say so myself, it was well fitted the second day I appeared on the ice.

I rented boots and skates. Never having been on ice skates before, I thought this was the wise thing to do in order to ensure a snug fit and a keen blade. I was a bit surprised to find that the boot and the blade came together. I was glad to find that no key was needed, as I always used to lose my roller skate key. I still remember putting my skates on my Sunday shoes long ago, and how I lost the key and had to wear the skates into Sunday School class. Let me say at the outset that while the techniques of skiing and ice skating are dissimilar, the end results are very much the same. You continually land on the same end if you are not careful. The very first thing a beginner at skating must do is familiarize himself with the rink. The best way to do this — and I urge you to believe me — is to walk around its borders. And when walking be sure to hang on to the wooden fence which was put there for that purpose. Don't hurry this familiarization lesson. You'll be tempted, of course, to let go of barrier, and try your new self wings on the open ice, but don't do it. You'll regret it if you do. I had only walked around half a dozen times when I attempted a sally onto the ice, and the next thing I knew I had tumbled into the middle of a hockey game at the other end of the rink, and narrowly escaped being used as a puck. If you have the time I advise walking around the rink, with a good stout grip on the fence, for a full day. Once you feel at home in your surroundings, though, throw caution to the winds. Do not move onto the ice with hesitant, mincing steps. Don't look like a sissy. Select a skating feat you have admired and envied, and try it. The ice is no harder to the bold than to the cautious. Get your nasty falls out of the way in a hurry. As I had always admired backward leaps, I tried that. I faced the fence, lined up my skates, yelled "Look Out!" and shoved off as hard as I could. As soon as I felt myself skimming really well, I tried to jump backwards, just as I would had I been on the ground, wearing plain shoes. Grandstand told me later that the result was spectacular. Not only did I go backwards, but I did a flip. This flip proved to me that I was learning fast, and that my methods were sound. How many skaters can do a backward flip, even counting the professional skaters? Surprisingly few, I imagine. Having mastered acrobatics, I plan to advance to waltzing. I practiced this last night — not on skates, but in the bathtub. I got in the tub, rubbed my feet with butter, and tried to alimb my way out, while Mary whistled "The Blue Danube" from the living room.

REMEMBER ALL THE FUSS we made over the matter of beating Borger in the "Points For Polio" campaign in connection with the March of Dimes? Well, Borger didn't even bother to contest Pampa.

It was learned this week that Borger school board decided to sponsor the Points for Polio in competition with Pampa because they were afraid it would put too much pressure on the team in trying to score. They said at their main goal was to beat Pampa and they were not going to let anything else stand in their way.

As it turned out, Pampa stomped the Bulldogs 81-62, and the local March of Dimes came out about $1,200 to the good. Borger set on both counts. One Borger fan, a football fan, and a March of Dimes booster, said that he wished Borger had gone ahead and pledged. "I believe the pledging helped Pampa. Just look, they went out and beat us by the biggest score since the two teams began playing. The (Borger) boys might have had a bigger incentive to win."

TWO BIG ATHLETIC events are scheduled the next four days to benefit the polio fund. All proceeds from the amateur boxing matches at the community building tonight will go to the March of Dimes and much of the profit from Monday night's wrestling program will go in that direction.

Advance ticket sales for the boxing matches tonight are going slow and the sponsoring Optimist Club members fear that the fans are not interested. Wouldn't you like to see from 15 to 18 outstanding bouts and at the same time help the March of Dimes? Whether or not you're a wres-

Don Clark Named USC Grid Coach

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Penalty-ridden University of Southern California has turned to a member of its own staff to assume the role of head football coach after having vainly sought a name coach. The school Thursday night named line coach Don Clark, a member of the coaching staff for the past six years, as the replacement for Jess Hill, who takes over as athletic director next fall.

Shockers, Shamrock Vie Tonight

The Pampa Shockers will be seeking their second victory this season over the Shamrock Irishmen here tonight. The Shockers beat the lass AA Shamrock team 71-58 earlier this season. The Pampa squad has won 24 of 15 games this season. Their only loss has been to Gruber in the Perryton tournament. Following the Shamrock game, the Shockers take on the Childress B team at Childress Saturday night. On Feb. 21-22-23 the Shockers will enter the Hobbes, N.M., tournament to close out their 1956-57 campaign.

Hank Aaron Reaches Terms; Spahn Only Braves' Holdout

By UNITED PRESS
Hammering Hank Aaron of 100 per cent raise, happily settled for a 50 per cent one today that will pay him about $77,000 for swinging his big bat this year.

A Thursday night telephone call from General Manager John Quinn in Milwaukee to Aaron at his home in Mobile, Ala., settled the whole business.

Aaron, who led the National League in batting with a .328 mark last year and hit 28 home runs, had been seeking double the estimated $18,000 he received last season. Quinn had been negotiating with the 23-year-old outfielder over the phone two weeks.

"I'm definitely not disappointed," Aaron said after his talk with Quinn. "How did I do? Fairly well. I wouldn't want to discuss the contract but I'm very happy about it. The Braves are a great bunch and I'm glad to be with them."

Spahn Still Out
Aaron's acceptance of terms left southpaw Warren Spahn as the Braves' leading player still unsigned.

The Cleveland Indians announced the signing of outfielders Dave Pope and Bob Usher and pitcher Cal McLish. Pope hit .302 at Indianapolis. Usher .350 at San Diego and McLish had a 2-4

Youth Program Has Fine Start

Kiwanis Club officials termed the first night of their youth basketball program a success after more than 180 youngsters had turned out for the opening night last night.

Four gyms scattered over Pampa were opened to boys from the fourth to the seventh grade. Coaches and players from Pampa High School and Pampa Junior High joined with Kiwanis officials to get the program underway.

The biggest turnout was at Pampa High School where 63 boys worked out in the girls' gymnasium under the direction of Coach Clifton McNeely and Shockers Bobby Gindorf, Mack Layne, Coyle Winborn and Karl Kitto.

Approximately 55 youngsters worked under McNeely, Bill Brown, Tommy Gindorf, Larry Cruise, Don McGuire and Robert Sidwell at Harvester Fieldhouse.

Lamar School had over 45 boys working under the direction of Daryl Ammons, Robert Murray, Keith Yeager, Bud Beazler and Alex Swann. The smallest turnout was at Baker School where between 15 and 20 youngsters drilled under the guidance of Coach Terry Culley, Jerry Pope and Charles Minor. The Baker turnout was small because of the fact that the announcement of the basketball program was not made to the student body.

Program director Art Aftergut expressed hopes that the program will grow each week and the youngsters' interests in it will be kept alive.

McNeely, who looks upon the program as a stepping stone toward better Harvester teams in the future, said he planned to use more gyms, possibly Sam Houston and Woodrow Wilson, and divide the players into grade groups with the older boys to work out at Harvester Fieldhouse.

The program was opened by teaching the boys the fundamentals of the game—dribbling, passing, shooting, jumping, pivoting and rebounding. Saturday mornings will be spent the same way with some scrimmages added. The boys will meet from 9:30 to 12 Saturday morning and each Thursday night from 6:30 to 8:30.

SC's Wallace Misses Chance For Lead

By JOHN GRIFFIN
United Press Sports Writer

Basketball's hero today was jump-shooting Grady Wallace, who had a chance to pass both Chet (The Jet) Forte and Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain in the national scoring derby and passed it up.

The six-foot, five-inch South Carolina star needed 39 points going into Thursday night's game against Wake Forest to pass Chamberlain's 34 and 34 to pass runner-up Chamberlain of Kansas. He settled for 26 as South Carolina upset Wake Forest, 55-49, to end the Deacons' seven-game winning streak.

Wallace could have done it. At least, he had a good chance, for he already had notched 24 points with 10 minutes left in the game. But South Carolina was out in front in the game at Columbia, S.C., and elected to play a slow-down game to preserve its lead. Giving up his chance for the national acclaim that the No. 1 spot would have meant, Wallace took only one more shot in the game and that just three seconds before the final buzzer, tipping in a basket to make his final total for the night 26 points.

Has 29.4 Average
Wallace, a 21-year-old junior from Max Creek, Ky., who was the nation's leading junior college scorer last year with Peinville, Ky., Junior College, thus saw his scoring average drop from 29.6 points per game to 29.4. He stays in third place behind Forte's 30.1 and Chamberlain's 29.8.

The loss was only the second in the last 17 games for Wake Forest, the nation's 18th-ranked team which hadn't been beaten since bowing to national leader North Carolina. The Deacons, led by Jim Gilley's 17 points, tallied only five baskets during the second half.

Gary Thomason, Iowa State's five-10 All-America candidate, also had a big night as he scored 31 points to pace the nation's 10th-ranked team to a 92-71 victory over Drake. The win gave Iowa State a 14-4 record.

Another All-America candidate, The 12-member committee agreed upon the plan in principle after a three day meeting and only the details of the language remain to be worked out, NCAA Executive Director Walter Byers said.

He said that the committee expected to complete the work on the language by mail this week and that the plan would be mailed to the NCAA membership for approval not later than Feb. 18.

Gary Thomason, Iowa State's five-10 All-America candidate, also had a big night as he scored 31 points to pace the nation's 10th-ranked team to a 92-71 victory over Drake. The win gave Iowa State a 14-4 record.

Another All-America candidate, The 12-member committee agreed upon the plan in principle after a three day meeting and only the details of the language remain to be worked out, NCAA Executive Director Walter Byers said.

He said that the committee expected to complete the work on the language by mail this week and that the plan would be mailed to the NCAA membership for approval not later than Feb. 18.

Two thirds of the membership voting must favor the plan before it becomes effective.

Three types of plans were under consideration, one for a complete national program, the second for regional combinations, and the third for basic rules to be established with each school then handling its own video in accordance with the rules.

Hot Rod Hundley of West Virginia, didn't fare so well. Hoping to put on a good performance in Madison Square Garden, Hundley was held to eight points as West Virginia downed New York U., 83-77. Lloyd Sharrar took over the scoring role and took top honors with 26 points.

St. Johns Beats GW
In other leading games Thursday night: St. John's of New York squeaked to a 63-62 victory over George Washington on Duck Duckett's two late free throws despite 32 points by the Colonial's Gene Guarrilla; Jack McCarthy's 21 points led Notre Dame to a 78-64 victory over Portland; soph Dale Moore had 29 points and soph Larry Wood 24 to pace Eastern Kentucky to a 90-66 win over Toledo; Dartmouth drubbed Vermont, 81-69; Pittsburgh edged Westminster (Pa.), 71-69; and Utah downed Montana, 84-70.

The national spotlight swings tonight to the Pacific Coast Conference where co-leaders California and UCLA each will risk its perfect 6-0 league record. UCLA, the nation's No. 3 team, will visit Washington and 12th-ranked California visits Oregon State, each the first of a two-game series. Kentucky, the No. 3 team, will still lead the Southeast Conference even if it is upset by Mississippi.

Syracuse, ranked 17th, will play host to Holy Cross in a top independent game.

Two strokes off the pace going into the second round were Phoenix Open winner Bill Casper Jr., Bonita, Calif.; former National

Open champion Julius Boros, Mid Pines, N. C., and Doug Ford, Los Angeles Open victor from Mahopac, N. Y., all with cards of 66.

Just behind them, with 67, were Johnny Bulla, Phoenix; Johnny Pott, Shreveport, La.; Bob Inman, Detroit; Paul McGuire, Shaker Heights, Ohio; Bill Trombley, Dallas, Tex.; and Milton Marusic, Webster Groves, Mo.

Wrestlers and fans will aid the March of Dimes campaign at the Top of Texas Sportsman Club Monday night on the Pampa Shrine Club's weekly mat card.

Pies will be auctioned off to anyone wishing to bid for them and the highest bidder may toss them into the faces of the wrestlers and fans, provided they are willing to be hit for the March of Dimes.

Texan Howie Johnson Takes Lead In Tucson Golf Meet

TUCSON, Ariz. (UP)—A big fel- low with heart trouble, who took up the nerve-racking game of golf, carried a one-stroke lead into today's second round of the Tucson Open, where a horde of professionals unleashed a flock of birdies to shatter par opening day.

Howie Johnson, 31, six-foot, two-inch, 205-pounder from Houston, Tex., shot a six-under-par 64 on the 6,434-yard, easy putting, El Rio Country Club course in the opening round Thursday.

That was one stroke better than 65's posted by Frank Stranahan, former amateur star from Toledo, Ohio, and Joe Zakarian, Escondido, Calif.

Two strokes off the pace going into the second round were Phoenix Open winner Bill Casper Jr., Bonita, Calif.; former National

Open champion Julius Boros, Mid Pines, N. C., and Doug Ford, Los Angeles Open victor from Mahopac, N. Y., all with cards of 66.

Just behind them, with 67, were Johnny Bulla, Phoenix; Johnny Pott, Shreveport, La.; Bob Inman, Detroit; Paul McGuire, Shaker Heights, Ohio; Bill Trombley, Dallas, Tex.; and Milton Marusic, Webster Groves, Mo.

Pies will be auctioned off to anyone wishing to bid for them and the highest bidder may toss them into the faces of the wrestlers and fans, provided they are willing to be hit for the March of Dimes.

The Shriners are giving one-half of the gate receipts and all of the money raised from the auction to the March of Dimes fund. Every bid counts and will be collected on the spot by the Shriners.

Fans will see three big matches plus added entertainment and pie tossing. Anyone wishing to wrestle, referee or perform may do so by bidding. Persons wishing to appear on the program will be given the chance.

The wrestling card has Dory Funk meeting the Great Ho in the main event, Duke Keomuka going against Rip Rogers in the semifinal and Tommy Phelps battling Leo Newman. Dirty Davis will be the referee.

Tickets are on sale at Modern Pharmacy. Admission is $1.50 for ringside seats, $1.25 for reserved seats, 90 cents for adult general admission and 50 cents for children.

Backstairs Scenes At White House

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Writer
WASHINGTON (UP)—Backstairs at the White House: President Eisenhower confided to former President Herbert Hoover this week that playing golf in the rain recently at Augusta, Ga., left him stiff and creaky at the joints.

Members of the King's party do not smoke in his immediate presence out of deference to his dislike of tobacco and the use thereof. It was interesting at the banquet to see that Arabs seated near the King were not smoking during dinner, but those seated some distance away from him at the end of the U-shaped banquet table were puffing away contentedly.

It was at the state dinner given by King Saud of Saudi Arabia for President Eisenhower at the Mayflower Hotel. As the entree was served, waiters fanned out through the banquet hall placing gold-banded glasses of a white liquid in front of the Arab guests, none of the Western guests.

When the President was in Georgia last weekend, David A. Ward, president of the North Augusta Municipal Republican Club, telephoned the temporary White House switchboard to inform the Eisenhower staff that a letter from his group to the President was on the way, asking an expression of presidential encouragement.

Legislation May Be 'Needed' If Firms Don't Cut Oil Prices

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) said today legislation may be necessary if oil companies don't cut back recent price increases. Kefauver said the government "could have used economic pressures to prevent price increases."

The Republicans, for the first time in area history, have put up against the Democrats a slate of candidates for mayor and City Council in the upcoming municipal election.

No Job Security? WASHINGTON (UP)—Rep. Charles H. Brown (D-Mo.), who unseated a veteran Republican congressman in a heavily Republican district last November, declined to yield the floor to a colleague during a House debate Wednesday.

GARDEN GROVE, Calif. (UP)—Women passing the Garden Grove Firehouse complained that firemen have been sounding off with loud wolf whistles.

CANADIAN — Donations to the Hemphill County March of Dimes totaled $728.72, Mrs. Jennie Deaton, local chairman for the drive, reported. The county-wide goal was $700 this year.

WHERE'S THAT $530 COMING FROM? Well, man, we sure have a pile of it down here we're just itching to hand out to someone like you — and we hand out plenty! Why do people like us like they do? Maybe it's because every man at S.I.C. has had to have a Joan himself, sometime in his life to bail out of a jam. And LOOK: $25.53 a month (24 months) repays that S.I.C. $530 loan. Subject to usual credit requirements, naturally. Quick! Private! With a SMILE. Drop by and SOS-SIC

What, No Chaser? CHICAGO (UP)—A free bar will be opened in the heart of Chicago's liquor-laden Skid Row. But the only libation dispensed at the bar will be milk — distributed by the Pure Milk Association.
