

'Should Be Prosecuted,' Solon Says

Demands Summerfield Resign

By HELEN THOMAS
WASHINGTON, April 13 (UP)—Rep. John Lesinski (D-Mich.), a member of the House Post Office Committee, demanded today that Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield resign for halting Saturday mail deliveries and making other cutbacks in postal service.

Furthermore, Lesinski said, Summerfield should be prosecuted under the anti-deficiency law, which is designed to punish government officials who so mishandle their agencies' money that acute shortages result. Summerfield ordered the service cutback on grounds that his department has nearly run out of money and Congress has not yet voted it more.

The maximum penalty on conviction under the anti-deficiency law is a $5,000 fine and two years of imprisonment.

Makes Good on Threat
Lesinski's was the second demand by a member of the Post Office Committee for Summerfield's resignation and prosecution. A similar one was made on Tuesday by Rep. Charles O. Porter (D-Ore.).

Meanwhile, Summerfield made good on his threat to halt regular mail deliveries today and follow this up with other postal service cutbacks Monday because Congress failed to give his department an extra 47 million dollars in operating funds.

Across the nation, post offices closed and letter carriers failed to make their appointed rounds. Only a trickle of mail, most of its special delivery letters, got through.

Blast Summerfield
Chairman Clarence Cannon of the House Appropriations Committee charged that Summerfield "had no justification whatever" for cutting postal services.

He told the United Press the Post Office Department actually has $449,180,000 in "cash on hand" to keep running until July 1 when it will get its annual appropriation for the new fiscal year.

And since the appropriations committee has voted the department an extra 41 million dollars, casation for (Summerfield) taking Cannon said, "there was no occasion for (Summerfield) taking this unprecedented step."

Summerfield has insisted that he cannot count on actually getting the extra funds, however, until both House and Senate approve the committee action.

Makes Report Public
In another development, Cannon made public a report from Comptroller General Joseph Campbell stating that it was really Budget Director Percival Brundage who violated the anti-deficiency law by incorrectly apportioning funds to the Post Office Department during the current fiscal year.

Brundage admitted earlier that he did this because of a misunderstanding on his part of federal bookkeeping laws.

Campbell added, however, that the Post Office Department failed to follow "the spirit and purpose" of the anti-deficiency law, even though it did not technically violate it.

But he said the penal provisions do not apply to the post fund mix-up in either instances.

Summerfield ordered the Saturday shutdown and other service curtailments to keep his department from running out of money.

BOOSTERS FROM SPEARMAN VISIT
A good-will delegation from Spearman was received in Pampa yesterday at 11 a.m. as police cars went to the outskirts of the city to escort the caravan of cars in.

Upon arriving in front of the LaRoux Theater the group put on a brief bit of entertainment in the promotion of the annual rodeo and celebration held in that city.

Following the entertainment, the group and their hosts, the public relations committee of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, went to Johnson's Cafe where they discussed the forthcoming event in Spearman over coffee and cake.

Another group of home town boosters is expected here on May 2. It will be from Raton, N.M.

Whiteard
Trial Starts Tomorrow
The selection of a jury in the trial of James Whiteard of Phoenix will begin in Wheeler tomorrow morning, according to Bill Waters, district attorney.

The trial is a result of the December 1 gun battle near Shamrock in which Whiteard and his brother were sought by over 200 officers and volunteers in an all-night search centered in a four-square-mile area.

When located, Whiteard was nearly frozen and his half-brother was dead. He is charged with the murder of his half-brother, Junior B. Myers, with the murder of Victor Lee Stephens, 19, a Shamrock youth who volunteered to help in the search.

Whiteard is also charged with assault with intent to murder charges in connection with the shooting at Luke Henley, Wheeler County deputy sheriff, and M. N. Nix, Shamrock patrolman, when the officers set up a roadblock for the two fugitives.

Tomorrow's trial will be on the charge of killing Victor Stephens.

Freeze Smacks Area Friday
Temperatures in the Panhandle dropped to an alarming 20 degrees and under Friday morning to dispel the idea in the minds of many that Spring had finally arrived.

The temperature Friday was accompanied by a freezing drizzle which was reported to have caused heavy damage to early spring crops and shrubbery and hampered travel throughout the area. In addition, it caused some disturbances to telephone companies.

The cold spell continued on through yesterday morning with the temperature raising slightly to high 41 degrees in the mid-afternoon sun.

The weather outlook for today was mostly cloudy with occasional light rain and continued cold through tomorrow. The low for Pampa was predicted at 25 with a high of 45 degrees.

Pampans In Rush To Get Cars Inspected

Motor vehicle inspection stations in Pampa were scenes of long lines of vehicles yesterday waiting to be inspected and for a new inspection sticker to be placed on the windshield as tomorrow's deadline for inspection nears.

Practically all of the garages in Pampa that are authorized state inspection stations reported yesterday they were swamped by car owners seeking inspections for their cars. One garage reported that the line extended into the street throughout most of the morning.

No report of the number of vehicles in Gray County that remain to be inspected was available late yesterday but reports from the Department of Public Safety indicated that almost 15 per cent of the vehicles in Texas have not been inspected.

Col. Homer Garrison Jr., director of public safety, reminded all Texas motorists yesterday that tomorrow is the last day to obtain the inspection stickers and that the law will be enforced beginning Tuesday.

Texas Motor Vehicle Laws specify that all drivers of vehicles registered in Texas, operating a vehicle after tomorrow night without displaying a 1957 inspection sticker shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and subject to a fine of not less than $1 or more than $200.

Garrison reported yesterday that the law is designed to minimize mechanical defects in automobiles that could cause accidents. He stated that "because of more concern and closer inspections of motor vehicle defects, the number of fatal traffic accidents resulting from this cause last year was again held to a minimum."

In 1956, before the law was passed, 21 per cent of the rural fatal accidents in Texas involved a vehicle with a mechanical defect. Garrison said. That figure was reduced to five per cent both in 1955 and 1956.

Teachers Will Compromise On Pay Raise

By O. R. LLOYD JR.
AUSTIN, April 13 (UP)—A top spokesman for the Texas State Teachers Association said today the group will compromise their bid for 67-million dollars in pay raises — if necessary.

Charles Tennyson, executive secretary of the TSTA, told United Press, "we are still for the full increase. . . . We consider the bill very conservative. . . . It is inadequate in the amount requested. But we are reasonable and practical. We are aware of the situation facing the Legislature."

Gov. Price Daniel told newsmen at a conference yesterday he did not know whether a compromise at a lower figure would be acceptable to the teachers.

Tennyson said it would. "Price has been very generous in his attitude all the way through. I'd tell him the same thing I'm saying to you," he said.

The governor expressed hope teachers could get a pay raise without the necessity of a new tax bill — or a special session.

He pointed out approval of two bills before the Legislature would raise the amount available for pay raises to about $60 million dollars.

Tennyson said he would be glad to tell the governor the same thing. "The governor expressed hope teachers could get a pay raise without the necessity of a new tax bill — or a special session."

Two Measures
The governor's hopes for additional funds revolved around two measures now under legislative consideration.

WEATHER
The forecast for today was for cloudy to partly cloudy skies and warm. The low this morning was expected to be 25 degrees, and the high today 45 degrees.

Says Leaders Would Start A New War

By DANIEL F. GILMORE
LONDON, April 13 (UP)—Russia's world-wide propaganda machine centered its attention on the United States and Austria today. It charged U. S. leaders are "on the path to unleashing a new war."

Radio Moscow denounced neutral Austria as a "transit base for Fascist pogrom-makers" because it provided a haven for refugees fleeing Soviet terror in Hungary.

In Moscow itself, Norwegian Ambassador E. Brodland delivered a note to Soviet Premier N. S. Bulganin advising him in "friendly but firm terms" that Norway's defense arrangements are none of Russia's business.

The note, Norwegian Premier Einar Gerhardsen's reply to Soviet threats to "annihilate" his country with H-bombs in any new war, notified Bulganin that Norway cannot be frightened out of the Atlantic pact.

Gerhardsen's reply was the first formal reaction there has been to Russia's attempts to intimidate America's European allies. Denmark is drafting a similar note, but it will not be sent until sometime next week.

The United States countered the Soviet note.

Two Youths Admit Car Thefts

Two 14-year-old boys from Oklahoma City admitted stealing two cars, one in Oklahoma City and one in Berger, after being stopped by local officers about noon Friday.

The youths stopped a 1957 Buick in the two youths were driving when officers in Carson County reported that the car had stopped for gasoline in White Deer and had driven off without paying for the gas.

Upon checking the car, the officers learned that it was owned by B. A. Nix of Berger and that it had been stolen earlier Friday.

The youths were turned over to the Berger Police Department and questioning of the two boys revealed that a Chevrolet the boys had stolen from a used car lot in Oklahoma City had been abandoned near Skellytown.

Hutchinson County deputy sheriffs and local highway patrolmen checked the car, abandoned on a mile east of Skellytown, and learned that the motor had been burned up.

Late yesterday no action had been taken by the Berger officers but it was reported that the FBI had been notified because the youths took a stolen car across state lines.

Annual CoC Membership Drive Kicks Off Tomorrow

The annual membership drive of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce will get underway tomorrow with a luncheon to be held in the Palm Room of the City Hall at noon.

The campaign, which is slated to be a brief but intense one, will be headed by Calvin Whatley, assisted by Paul Crouch and E. L. Henderson, both division leaders.

Whatley, in an address to captains of the campaign, told those present that the success of chamber operations depended largely on the amount of funds which it could raise in this membership drive.

Immediately following the luncheon tomorrow, 50 members will call on new business and professional people who have moved into the city since this time last year as well as extending an invitation to other local people who have not been members of the chamber to take out membership.

Team captains for the drive are Dudley Steele, Jake Osborne, Gordon Lyons, Elmer Fite, Ed Myatt, Warren Hasse, Joe Tooley, Joe Fischer, Paul West and Evert Carmon. Each captain will be assisted by four workers.

It is something in which we can take the lead better than other people who are not as well acquainted with the chamber's program of work.

Prizes will be awarded workers in the campaign drive for team and individual leadership. Each member of the drive attending the kick-off luncheon will be awarded ten points. Ten additional points will be added for red cards, (persons who have been members in the past but who have not paid dues this year), and fifteen for green cards, (new members).

Two points for each additional dollar on all membership sales above the amount suggested on the card (ten dollars) will be given to the drive member.

Upon completion of the drive, team prizes will be awarded as well as individual prizes.

The team having the largest number of points will be given a week end of fishing, as preferred, with expenses paid up to $25 per man.

Individual prizes for first, second and third place will be an Easter hat, a sport shirt and a pair of neck ties, in that order. Similar prizes will be given to team captains whose teams being in the highest number of points. Division leaders with the highest number of points will receive an "ice cold" watermelon to be awarded on July 4.

E. O. Wedgeworth, manager of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, pointed out yesterday that although most chamber of commerce membership dues are handled through the mail, it is necessary to conduct a round-up drive each year at this time to assure that all those who should be contacted are given an opportunity to become members of the chamber.

Prizes will be awarded to the team having the largest number of points will be given a week end of fishing, as preferred, with expenses paid up to $25 per man.

TEAM CAPTAINS—Leaders in the membership drive of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce scheduled to get underway tomorrow noon, are shown above at Friday's meeting during which time those present drew cards with names of persons whom they will contact during the campaign. They are, clockwise around the table, Paul Crouch, Charley Robison (back from table), Ed Myatt, Jake Osborne, Dudley Steele, Elmer Fite, Gordon Lyons (hidden), Joe Tooley, Joe Fischer, Paul West, E. L. Henderson (standing), Warren Hasse, Evert Carmon and Calvin Whatley. The drive will be a short but emphatic one ending at noon, April 20.

Library Gets New Books

Among the 30 new books received at the Lovett Memorial Library late this week are two works, one by Andy Adams and the other by Joseph Watterson which have received considerable notice and favorable reviews.

Adams' book is "Why The Chisholm Trail Forks." Adams is remembered chiefly as the author of "The Log of A Cowboy," which authorities agree is one of the finer books written about life on the range. In this book Wilson M. Hudson has gathered together these tales of the trail and camp into one volume that should delight the hearts of all readers who are interested in the old West and the men who made it.

Every aspect of range life is touched upon in these tales, each told by an Andy Adams character but all derived by the author from the many hundreds of nights he himself spent under the Western stars listening to the talk of the men as they sat around the fire.

In an illuminating introduction the editor places Andy Adams' stories in their proper historical and literary perspective.

The second book mentioned above is an architectural study by Joseph Watterson called "Architecture: Five Thousand Years of Building."

The reader is told in a simple and straightforward manner of ancient buildings of Egypt, Greece and Rome, the splendors of the Byzantine, the struggling growth of the Romanesque, and the glories of the Gothic.

The renaissance style is followed from its origins in fifteenth-century Italy through France and Western Europe to England where it is explored in more detail as it becomes the basis for American colonial architecture. As he traces the development of American architecture from the early seventeenth century through the first half of the twentieth century, the author presents a clear picture of its many phases and fashions, and the sources of its many forms, paving the way for an understanding of the problems of contemporary architects in their efforts to find new forms with which to express the needs and the ideals of today.

Unpretentious and highly informative, "Architecture" is a spirited survey of our architectural heritage from its beginnings down to the present day.

Mrs. Lillian Snow, librarian of the Lovett Memorial Library has reported that many additional books will be ordered within the very near future.

Note FDR's Death It apparently was this announcement that inspired Russia's anti-American propaganda blast, although the ostensible occasion was the 12th anniversary yesterday of President Roosevelt's death.

"Today, when Washington policy makers treat ex-Nazi generals as long-lost friends, when the USA places atomic weapons in the hands of yesterday's war criminals, the disturbing question arises: On whose side are you Americans? Whom do you support and whom are you against?" the broadcast said.

'Almost Fabulous' Promoter Eyes The Panhandle

(HOUSTON, April 13 (UP)—Col. Odie R. Seagraves, an almost fabulous promoter who has made and lost two fortunes in oil and who is now under indictment in Pittsburg, Pa., wants to try for a third fortune in the Texas Panhandle.

Seagraves, 70, has a deal with H. C. Cockburn and Thomas O. Payne of Houston to drill 12 wells to 3,000 feet in the Panhandle. He also has a 2 million-acre concession in Honduras and Guatemala.

But Seagraves will have to wait until the indictment against him, for allegedly stealing Gulf Oil Corp. exploration maps, is settled and until he recovers from a gallstone ailment.

A Houston Press reporter telephoned Seagraves at his home in Greenwood, Conn. Cockburn and Payne confirmed the deal.

"Odie and I have 12 wells out in the Panhandle," Payne said. "We're just waiting for him (Seagraves) to get out there and begin operations."

Cockburn said he was in a deal with Seagraves and "some other associates" on the Central American concession and was just waiting on Seagraves.

'Goon Squad' Violence To Be Unfolded In Rackets Probe

By JOHN A. GOLDSMITH, United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON, April 13 (UP)—The Senate Labor Rackets Committee will unfold a case study of coercion and "goon squad" violence in public hearings next week on the Scranton, Pa., area Chairman John L. McClellan disclosed today.

Briefing newsmen on the committee's forthcoming hearings, the Arkansas Democrat said the series "involves conspiracy between officials of different unions, violence and coercion that deprived members of their union rights."

"The use of threat and violence would appear to be very prominent in this," he said.

Involve Dozen Witnesses

He estimated the Scranton phase of the committee's much publicized hearings will take three or four days and involve 12 to 15 witnesses. It is understood to involve use of violence by union officials to force their way into construction jobs and to discipline balking members.

McClellan said "there also has been evidence of violence in other areas" in which the committee is investigating.

Committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy said the "activities of a goon squad" are at the center of the picture which the committee plans to present starting Tuesday.

Use of Violence

The goon squad operations, McClellan said, involve the use of violence against management groups as well as labor union members.

He said one aspect of the case "will present a very grave question of ethics." He said union officials who have been convicted in court of "offenses that should disqualify them for holding office" are still in their posts exercising as great or greater control than before their convictions.

(Continued From Page 1) consideration. Enactment of one proposal would add an estimated 9-million dollars over the next two fiscal years by boosting tuition fees at state supported colleges and universities. The other would boost available revenue by an estimated 11-million dollars by transferring 1 per cent of the permanent school fund to the available school fund.

However, Calvert said today he saw no chance of this.

"Nothing has happened so far that would cause us to change (the estimate) either way. I don't contemplate any change," Calvert said.

The teacher pay situation ran around Thursday when the House summarily knocked down — on a test vote — a proposed tax bill endorsed by the governor. The measure, sponsored by Rep. Tom Joseph of Waco, would have levied a new tax on dedicated reserves of natural gas.

The governor said he interpreted the House action — where all revenue-raising bills must originate — as indicating a "strong feeling" against a tax bill at this session.

Since the burden of providing the money rests with the lower chamber, some observers predicted the Senate might pass the teacher pay bill calling for the full 67 million dollar wage boost.

Cranford's Wife Seeks Divorce

John Max Cranford of Pampa, who is charged with the robbery of the Follett National Bank, is being sued for divorce by his wife, Joyce.

The suit was filed in the 31st District Court by Mrs. Cranford.

As a result of the suit, Cranford appeared in court Friday afternoon to seek custody of the children, but Judge Lewis M. Goodrich awarded temporary custody of the children to Mrs. Cranford provided she remains in Pampa.

Cranford is out on a $5,000 bond pending his trial in Federal Court in Amarillo in connection with the March 4 robbery of the Follett bank.

ACCIDENTS

(Continued From Page 1) occurred at 9:46 a.m. on Cuyler, 10 feet south of Francis. Clarence Edward Hollis, 621 Lowry, driving a '48 Ford panel, was in collision with Thomas J. Burch, 705 N. Banks, driving a '49 Chevrolet. Damage to the vehicles were estimated at $35 each.

No collisions were reported with in the city limits since the last one reported Friday morning, according to reports from the police department late yesterday.

DEMANDS

Mail Building up The shutdown began to create a heavy backlog of mail in the post offices of larger cities. This resulted because even though post office windows were closed the lobbies remained open for depositing letters and collecting mail in drop boxes.

If the backlog is heavy enough, mail that normally would be delivered on Saturday will be delayed in reaching its destination in some cases for perhaps up to several days.

The Saturday shutdown came at a time when an extra volume of mail is dumped on post offices anyway — federal income tax returns mailed at the last minute in order to meet the midnight-Monday deadline for filing.

Taxpayers in no trouble Taxpayers will be in no trouble provided their returns are post-marked Monday. It won't matter if the returns are late being delivered to the tax collector.

The shutdown affected most of the nation's 38,000 post offices. The only ones remaining open were the fourth class, largely rural offices which usually are run by storekeepers.

Beginning Monday, these other cutbacks will go into effect: Post office windows will be kept open only 8-12 hours a day, Monday through Friday. Each local postmaster will determine his window schedule to accommodate his community's needs.

Mail deliveries in downtown business areas will be cut to two a day.

One Case Tried In Court Friday

H. H. Lassiter of Stinnett was fined $25 plus costs in County Court Friday afternoon after pleading guilty to a charge of driving while license suspended.

The cut in post office service by Postmaster General Summerfield did not stop all mail deliveries in the Top of Texas.

The men who operate the star routes are on a contract to deliver the mail and are not regular post office employees. As such, no changes were made in their contracts and schedules.

Reputation Of South Is Bitter Pill To Swallow

EDITORS: This is the third of four dispatches on segregation.

By AL KUEITNER, United Press Staff Correspondent ATLANTA (UP)—One of the bitter pills of all for the South to swallow in its painful struggle with the race problem is the reputation of a land of violence.

There is no denying that there has been disorder — Negro homes dynamited and shot at, churches blasted to splinters, beatings, riots and threatened mob rule.

The fact is, however, that this sort of thing leaves most white southerners horrified.

Law-abiding southerners are ready to hang responsibility for much of the troubles on outsiders and particularly on a 27-year-old New York bookseller named John Frederick Kasper.

Kasper is getting the blame for exploiting a family fight where tempers were already short and nerves ragged. He is being called demagogue by those who hate racial integration as deeply as he professes to abhor it. But mainly he has the label of an "outside agitator" — and right now that breed is mighty unpopular in Dixie.

"If John Kasper had never come here, we wouldn't have Negroes in our schools," Citizens' Council leader W. H. Hill said bitterly at Clinton, Tenn.

Kasper was a stranger one from the day he set foot in Clinton last fall. School officials there were going quietly, although with dislike, into implementing the federal court orders to integrate the high school.

Breathed Fire Within a few days Kasper, the unknown, and a confederate from Alabama, Asa (Ace) Carter, had tongue-lashed fire into the people. It took the National Guard to restore order.

MAKING X-RAY TUBE—Malcolm Brown Jr. is shown as he checked parts of a new x-ray tube he is making for his homemade x-ray machine. As a result of the first tube he made he won an all-expense paid trip to the National Science Fair at Los Angeles next month. The trip was awarded to this high school senior at Canyon recently when he placed first in the boys division of the Amarillo Regional Science Fair. (News Photo)

Wins Trip To Los Angeles

High School Senior Makes Successful X-Ray Machine

By FRED M. PARKER
Pampa News Staff Writer

How are x-rays made and how does an x-ray machine work? One person in Pampa, a high school senior, knows the answers to these questions because he has successfully constructed an x-ray machine and has made x-rays with the machine.

Malcolm Brown Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. R. Malcolm Brown, 1919 Charles, recently entered his homemade x-ray machine in the Amarillo Regional Science Fair and won an all-expense paid trip to Los Angeles next month to enter his machine in the National Science Fair. He received the trip as the result of taking first place honors in the boy's division of the regional fair.

Malcolm reported that he first became interested in building an x-ray machine last November when he entered the Westinghouse Science Talent Search, but that he had not undertaken the work until about two and one-half months ago. He reported that the first task he tackled was the obtaining of a high voltage power source. The only transformer that he knew of that produced the necessary power was the type used in neon signs so he contacted a local neon sign company and acquired four transformers that were shorted in one end. By connecting these transformers in series he was able to produce the effect of two new transformers at the savings of several hundred dollars.

With the power supply problem licked Malcolm then started trying to find information on how to build the x-ray tube. He wrote a letter to General Electric asking for specifications and instructions on how to construct the tube. In about a week a carton arrived from GE and contained a completed tube, valued at approximately $250, which the firm told him it hoped he could use.

Using this tube Malcolm was successful in completing the making of the machine. He made several x-rays but was not satisfied that he had not made the entire machine.

As an illustration of the ingenuity used in making the machine, when he needed a transformer to supply filament current, he "borrowed" a model train transformer belonging to his brother.

After making successful x-rays with the commercial tube, Malcolm decided to build his own x-ray tube. The necessary equipment was not available at the high school so he contacted the Celanese plant and secured the help of Bill Felter. With Felter providing advice and help on the difficult problems, Malcolm was able to make a "Röntgen tube." This is the type of tube first used in x-ray machines and took approximately 10 hours for Malcolm to finish.

This tube worked and he entered it in the science fair at Canyon in which he won the trip to Los Angeles.

But Malcolm was still not satisfied with his machine and decided to rebuild it and make more of the parts. He also decided to build another x-ray tube, a more modern one called a "cold cathode gas tube."

At the present time he is making the various parts needed in the tube and Thursday afternoon he machined and polished the cones and reflector needed in the tube.

He is also in the process of doubling the power produced by the machine and is constructing his own transformer to accomplish this increase. He is in the process of winding a coil to work in the transformer.

When the new tube and changes in the machine are completed he will test it out and will then crate it and ship it to Los Angeles about May 1. He will leave by plane on May 8 and will demonstrate his machine from May 9 to 12.

In addition to displaying the machine he will have a progress report on the construction, including pictures and a schematic diagram of the circuits. He will also have x-rays produced by the machine.

Malcolm used the x-ray room at the Pampa Clinic for checking the machine and for developing negatives. He did this because the rays produced by the machine are hazardous and the room at the clinic is constructed to limit the rays and the darkroom facilities are needed to develop each x-ray as adjustments are made in the machine.

Malcolm's interest in electronics began approximately two years ago when he built his own hi-fi set. He built the entire set and has since rebuilt it to satisfy more critical demands he has made of it.

His interest in electronics developed next along the lines of radio and he became an amateur radio operator. He has built all of his own equipment and at the present time is in the process of building a new transmitter.

Another of his activities that help to prepare him for the construction of the x-ray machine is his part time job. He works as an assistant to the laboratory technician at the Pampa Clinic. Working with the x-ray machine at the clinic

STAFF NOTES

JOEL R. COMBS, managing editor

It's tornado time in Texas again. Dad-gum it. Every year about this time we Top of Texans start scrutinizing the skies when there is a severe weather warning out. I got to thinking about this the other day and set out to learn just what protection residents of Pampa have when storm clouds are threatening.

It developed that, more or less un-caught by the public eye, there have been quite extensive plans made to be called into operation in case of a disaster such as a tornado. The plans, however, may also be put into effect in case of some other type of disaster, such as enemy attack, flood or, as has already been experienced, a blizzard.

During the blizzard last month, many of these plans were utilized. For instance, the city gassed up National Guard rescue trucks, the county fed rescue workers, a central communications and operational headquarters was utilized, etc.

Now back to tornadoes. Pampa officials are notified when the Amarillo weather bureau suspects there is a possibility of a tornado hitting in our area.

When that warning comes, sheriff's department automobiles and the fire chief's station wagon are dispatched to spots ranging from one to four or five miles out of town in any direction. They watch the clouds. Meanwhile, radio stations KFDY and KPAT and the Amarillo TV stations keep you informed as to the progress of the storm, what is developing, how

DORIS WILSON, women's editor

At 3:25 p.m. on April 9, 1957, it was made crystal-clear to me how ordinarily conscientious citizens can cause a horrible accident.

It was at this hour that I was driving north on Hobart Street for a 3:30 picture appointment with a group of Brownies in the Highland General Hospital. As I drove along, I thought about the three more picture appointments after that one; what should I fix for dinner; were the brocade slippers we were having dyed for a wedding the right shade; could I get the shoulder-length glove to match accordingly; various other nagging details cluttered up my mind. In fact, I was thinking of everything but the direct business at hand, that of driving a car.

In one split second, it seemed, I passed a patrol car and a school zone area. The sound of the patrol siren jarred me into the immediate present. Still etched in my mind's eye were the patrol car in the corner of my right eye, and the 15 mph school sign in the left eye.

He couldn't mean me! Not me! Why, in my over 20 years of driving, I had never been involved in even a minor traffic violation or accident. But he did mean me. A glance in the rear vision mirror

FRED M. PARKER, staff writer

The number of accidents occurring within the city limits of Pampa is reaching serious proportions. During the first three months of this year—the average number of accidents has increased by 11 over the average number for a month in 1956.

Of course there are more vehicles upon the streets of Pampa but even one accident is too many if it results in the injury or death of a person.

Three violations, according to officers investigating local accidents, result in the majority of accidents within the city limits. These violations are following too closely, failure to grant right-of-way and improper starting from a parked position.

It might be well to review what the Texas Motor Vehicle Laws state in regard to these three regulations. In Sec. 61 of Art. 6 of these laws it states, in reference to following too closely, "The driver of a motor vehicle shall not follow another vehicle more closely than is reasonable and prudent, having due regard for the speed of such vehicles and the traffic upon and the conditions of the highway."

In other words we should not drive any closer to the car ahead of us than the distance it would take us to stop.

On the matter of right-of-way there are several laws that state when a driver should yield the right-of-way. These include yielding when entering a roadway with through traffic, when entering a highway from a driveway, when turning left at an intersection and when entering an intersection that another car has already entered.

Improper starting from a parked position is a serious problem in Pampa. In general the laws state that when starting from a parked position, either parallel or indented, the driver shall wait until all approaching traffic has passed. This means that when we base from the curb we should not do so unless it does not constitute a traffic hazard. If we have an accident while backing we will be held responsible.

In general if we all slow down and stop when in doubt we may not be the next person taken to the hospital as a result of an accident.

BOB PEREZ, staff writer

I have found that the easiest way to lose weight is one to which we all subscribe at one time or another. And yet the funny part is that most people are too preoccupied to notice it and usually wind up in the cellar of utter despair with tortuous dieting and slenderizing treatments which in the end do nothing but add to the waistline and the deflation of the bank account.

In fact, I think that I should like someday to open a slenderizing salon of my own in Pampa in which I would put this new-found light to work for me. The formula would be plainly marked above the entrance. It would read: "Lose weight through worrying."

I have seen it more than once, and no one can convince me that it isn't easier to shed a few unproductive pounds by the simple method of worrying.

"Hah!" you say, "that's what he says! I've got nothing but worries and I still find myself on the incline instead of the decline." Well, the answer to this is quite simple. You just haven't been worrying enough.

The purpose of my salon would be to remind you of your troubles constantly and to magnify them in your mind in such a way that you won't be feeling as hungry as you did before and your stomach will

This Week In Manhattan

By GAY PAULEY
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP) — This week in Manhattan:

It looks as if each nation is out to out-do the other in the World Trade Fair which opens next week in Manhattan.

This week, some of the countries participating in the first post-war World Fair in America described some of the more fabulous items chosen to represent their industries, arts and crafts.

Britain for example is sending a coat, made of vicuna cloth, lined with diadem mink, and billed (at $3,500) as the most expensive girl's coat ever made.

Egypt is retaliating with a jewelry display, a "priceless" collection which the revolutionary government confiscated from ex-King Farouk.

The collection includes a solid gold antique hand mirror encrusted with assorted diamonds, rubies and sapphires; a pair of earrings set with 145-carat emerald; a cigarette holder with a 40-carat emerald; a gold enameled antique ash tray ornamented with emeralds, rubies and sapphires; a ring mounted with 145-carat star ruby; and a gold dagger "as long as your forearm" inlaid with pearls, rubies and sapphires.

DICK COLLINS, sports editor

Nobody asked me, but did you know?

That citizens in the United States use between 23 and 24 pounds of soap and detergents per person each year?

That a plant uses about 1,000 pounds of water to produce one pound of food?

That Columbus gave the name of Indians to the natives of America?

That a mirage is a species of dream, even though the viewer is awake?

That in 1956, 11 times as much money was spent for chewing gum in the United States as for the fight against cancer?

That automobile manufacturers use beeswax for wire insulation, adhesives and lubricants?

That first minting of United States pennies in their present size was in 1859?

That the only bears in Africa are the Atlas bears?

That peas are known and used as food by the Chinese as early as 2000 B.C.?

That persons born in the Virgin Islands are citizens of the United States?

That dogs are color blind, living in a world of black, white and shades of gray?

That the Basenji dog of Africa cannot bark, though they can make a whining sound?

That President Harding was the first president to pay income taxes?

That the real name of Jack Benny is Benjamin Kubelsky?

That April Fools' Day originated in France in 1564 when the reformed calendar was adopted, confusing everybody?

Race Incidents And Problems Are Not Confined To The South

By EVERETT R. IRWIN
United Press Staff Correspondent
CHICAGO (UP)—Here in the nation's second largest city, a 17-year-old, honor student recently was beaten to death by white youths who said they were "out to get a Negro."

In Boston, a Negro who defended his white girl friend against jeers of "white trash" was kicked to death. Five white men were arrested.

In New York, the huge Negro population is mainly concentrated in Harlem and many school districts are gerrymandered so that Negro children are kept away from white.

BRUSSELS (UP)—Sandor Tharos, the Hungarian refugee who holds three world track records, will marry his Hungarian sweetheart here Sunday. Tharos, who came here as a refugee last December, has been earning his living with Belgian clubs as a training advisor.

WASHINGTON (UP)—Lou Brissie, former Philadelphia Athletics and Cleveland Indians pitcher and present commissioner of the American Legion baseball program, leaves May 1 on a two-month visit to Australia to teach baseball. He is going under the State Department's international educational exchange program.

CLEVELAND (UP)—Next Tuesday's scheduled Rory Calhoun-Joey Giardello middleweight bout at the Cleveland Arena has been cancelled because of a cut sustained by Giardello while in training for the bout. An old cut on Giardello's cheek reopened during a recent workout and has not healed.

CHARLOTTE, N.M. (UP)—Outfielder Bobby Clemente, who hit .311 for the Pittsburgh Pirates last season, left the team Thursday night to have his ailing back examined in Pittsburgh. Clemente, who has been complaining of a bad back since spring training started, says his injury is more serious than anybody believes and it "may be some time before I'm ready to play."

MIAMI (UP)—Leo (Nature Boy) Goss, 78-year-old recluse, was sentenced to a month in city jail Thursday because boat enthusiasts complained about the way he used a fishnet on his island retreat. Judge M. M. Goldman said the fishnet, which Goss wore draped haphazardly around his waist, was inadequate clothing.

More than 250 different types of soil are found in Texas.

Race incidents and problems are by no means confined to the South.

The difference—and it's a big one—is that the non-South has a policy of integration whereas the South has a policy of segregation.

Stream From South
For the past 15 years, more and more Negroes have left the South in search of brighter opportunities and integrated living conditions. By bus, train and jolopy they stream into Chicago 2,000 per month. Today two persons in 10 are Negro. They made up 11 per cent of New York's population, 15 per cent in Cleveland, 20 per cent in Detroit.

It is nothing like the 50 to 85 per cent Negro population of some southern communities but it is giving the northern cities some very real social, economic and civil rights problems.

Edwin C. Berry, director of the Chicago Urban League, said recently that 23 schools on the South Side "Black Belt" are "as segregated as those in Talmadgeland" of Georgia.

New York has made great steps in integration of theaters, parks, playgrounds and churches but segregation in private housing projects is commonplace.

Although Cleveland, with an 80 per cent rise in Negroes in 10 years, has one of the best records in race relations, an estimated 98 per cent of them still are grouped in one central area.

Detroit is a leader in equalizing job opportunities and today the Motor City uses only job fitness as a measuring rod for hiring personnel in department stores and in clerical, secretarial and engineering work.

One significant thing is that public and social agencies in the North put their best foot forward on the race issue, emphasizing what is being done to improve relations. But cities such as Chicago and New York cannot hide the dangerous situation of Negro and white gangs with a high crime and narcotic rate.

NOT A TEXAN—Despite his 353 pounds and ability to polish off more than four dozen eggs, Albert Cote hails not from Texas but Maine. The 41-year-old state representative challenges all comers to an egg-eating contest any time before Easter Sunday, April 21—with Maine eggs, of course.

VETERAN OPERATOR—Mrs. Lillie Mae Fowler, left, chief operator for local office of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company is shown above as she carries out her part in assuring the continuance of good telephone service. Mrs. Fowler has been with the telephone company for 26 years, having started with them in 1928 when the company was located on the second floor of the First National Bank Building. (News Photo)

The Unusual Is Most Common In A Telephone Operator's Routine

By BOB PEREZ
Pampa News Staff Writer

A telephone operator's job has more facets than would meet the eye. Sooner or later in the life of every switchboard operator she will encounter everything from the swain who falls in love with the "voice with a smile," to the emergency-call in which she will try to locate someone who must be located in order to save a life.

One of the persons most familiar with this line of work in Pampa is the chief operator for the local office of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company. She is Mrs. Lillie Mae Fowler, and she started working as a telephone operator in 1928 when the staff here was very small and the company had its offices above the First National Bank.

Fewer people speak better of their jobs than do telephone operators, and Mrs. Fowler is no exception. In trying to pinpoint any outstanding happenings during her job, years of service, Mrs. Fowler admitted that every day brings about something in the line of the unusual. This, she pointed out, was what makes the job of a telephone operator so interesting.

Working conditions are not what they used to be, she said. When she first came to work for the telephone company certain hours had to be met and maintained. If a person came in five minutes late, those five minutes would have to be made up at the end of the normal working day. On one occasion, Mrs. Fowler says, a flat tire caused her to be 30 minutes late. Those 30 minutes, of course, were worked out at the end of the day.

As chief operator of the local telephone company office, Mrs. Fowler is responsible to see that good telephone service is given. The chief operator is also a mother confessor for many of the girls who will at one time or another come to her with their problems and to ask questions about their job.

During the recent snow storm, which Mrs. Fowler says was just about the worst she could remember in the way of hampering telephone service in this area, she walked a total of 12 blocks through impossible winds so that she might relieve some of her girls who had been working for long hours throughout the night under limited conditions.

The telephone operator must be more than a voice with a smile, she must also have the patience and understanding that goes along with that smile. Her customers' problems must be her problems. In some instances, the operator must be ready to send out a messenger to try and locate a person. Service is her job and most people will have to agree that the telephone operator, in most cases, goes far out of her way to give that service.

Many eulogies have been written about the postman and others who come hail or rain or sleet or storms supposedly carry on their tedious task of accommodating a waiting public. In no small way is Mrs. Fowler and her group of girls who man the switchboards around the clock equally deserving of that praise.

Portugal Is Fair Land Of Greenery

Editor's Note: Doc Quigg is on a swing through Europe, over which some 700,000 American tourists are expected to ramble this summer. His tour of places, some off-beat, some on-beat, takes him on short stops through Portugal, Spain, the French Rivera, Rome, Paris and England.

By DOC QUIGG

United Press Staff Correspondent LISBON (UP) — The greenery in this fair land of Portugal is enough to make a Kelly blush for shame. The grasslands and shrubbery have a glow that seems almost dye-injected, and in all the land there is scarcely a sign of a TV aerial twigged on a rooftop. Blessed are they that live in Portugal. The radio burdens the airwaves, but it has very few singing commercials.

Government Heir To Millions From Supreme Court Ruling

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE
WASHINGTON, April 13 (UP)—The government fell heir to potential oil millions this week when the supreme court ruled it owns the mineral rights in all government-grant railroad land.

The decision was against the Union Pacific which wanted to drill for oil on its 400 foot wide government-granted right of way in Wyoming. But it applies to all railroads whose rights of way are land grants under a law enacted in 1862. This means thousands of acres.

Department of Interior lawyers told the United Press the Bureau of Land Management is free to lease the lands for mineral exploration but before any attempted leasing they will draft ground rules for Secretary Fred A. Seaton.

Slant Drill
They said the decision poses many problems. High on the list is the fact that the railroads retain surface rights which they can use to deny access to their lands even though the government leases the mineral rights.

But this does not preclude the government from leasing public lands adjoining the right of way and authorizing the lessees to "slant drill" into the right of way for oil, natural gas, or other minerals. Off-set drilling also is now legal.

On the same premise a private land-owner could lease his land for slant or off-set drilling if the drifter also held the government's mineral rights. And carrying it further, the railroads themselves could drill if they acquired the mineral rights or they could lease their lands for that purpose.

Mutual Benefit
"We will study the full significance of the decision before making any recommendations," one of the interior lawyers said. "One thing is certain, however. We now have full authority to lease the mineral rights in any government-grant right of way."

Best guess is that the lawyers will recommend a policy under which the railroads and the government might cooperate for their mutual profit.

Harvester Golf Team Wins Regional Crown

LUBBOCK — The Pampa Harvesters, accustomed to the strong winds and freezing temperatures, found the pair of golfers' nemesis in their liking here Saturday as they won their second straight Class AA regional golf championship.

Captain Weldon Trice's Harvesters finished six strokes ahead of Monahan to capture the championship and advance to the state tournament in Austin. Pampa finished the 36 holes of medal play on the Lubbock Country Club course with a total of 659 strokes. Pampa's quartet, Burt Watkins, Melvin Chisum, Les Howard and Bill McLeod braved the sleet, rain and cold for two days to post on the winning total. Monahan had 685 and Odessa finished third with 687.

Borger, the other District 3-AAA representative and the runner-up of the district meet, placed fourth in the regional meet with 668 strokes followed by Brownfield with 684, Hereford with 686, Lamesa 707, Abilene 717 and Levelland 724.

Watkins paced the Pampa team with a 34-hole total of 156. He had rounds of 71-78-154 for third place in the meet. Medalist was Ed Moore of Odessa with rounds of 71-73 and Vance Moxom of Borger with second with a 157 total. Chisum had rounds of 91-81-172 and McLeod had an 85-87-172.

Borger's scorers included Moxom with a 152, Elgin Seaman with 161, Don Langley with 176 and David Houck with 178. Par for the Lubbock Country Club course is 72.

The tournament was played by summer rules with golfers playing the Big field of golfers in the two divisions played in 30 degree temperature Friday and Saturday warmed to 40 degrees.

Shamrock's Irish won the Class A title by posting a total of 682 to outdistance by over 30 strokes their nearest rival, Crane. Shamrock B won fourth place with a total of 806. Shooting for the Irish were Tommy Ryan, 82-77-159; John Shackelford, 87-79-166; Domy Dodgen, 87-90-177; and Johnny Sanders, 91-89-180.

The victory for Pampa was the fourth straight in tournament play. The Harvesters started their string by winning the West Texas Relays at Odessa followed by the District 3-AAA meet, the Amarillo Relays and the Regional meet. Last year the Harvesters placed third in the state tournament.

STATE MEET BOUND—The Pampa Harvesters will be going to the state golf tournament again this year for the second straight year. Pampa won the regional title in Lubbock Saturday. Members of the team are, left to right, Burt Watkins, Bill McLeod, Melvin Chisum and Les Howard. (News Photo)

THE PROFESSIONAL BASEBALL MANAGERS' GROUP is a close-knit one, as attested by the Pampa Oilers' Allen Cross. Two weeks ago Manager Cross had less than one-half dozen players under contract and the prospects for acquiring more help looked grim unless the major league clubs came through with their promise to supply players.

Many of those players would have been cast-offs that could not make the grades with other farm clubs and they would have been sent here and to other Southwestern League points to gain added experience so they could try and make the grade next season.

But now, Cross is swamped with calls everyday from the major league groups as well as top minor league systems offering him player help and with the promise that the players sent would be able to make it in Class B ball.

Several weeks ago the Oilers board of directors gave Cross the okay to go ahead and get him a ball club together the best he saw fit, just as long as he stayed within the Southwestern League's salary limit of $4,600.

Since that time Cross has 21 players on the hook and his biggest problem now is to trim the squad down to 16 men by deadline time. Of that group he must have only six veterans, seven limited service and three rookies.

NDS players, those who have recently been discharged from the armed services, do not count on the player's limit.

The Oilers have received player help from Cincinnati, Milwaukee, Shreveport and Tulsa. Toronto, Cleveland and other big organizations have offered aid. The greatest help has come from the Redlegs when the Oilers acquired five players from them, despite the fact that Cincinnati has a working agreement with Ohio.

Most of the 21 players are expected to be here the first of the week. The Oilers have been working with only nine players since training opened Wednesday. Many of the players had winter jobs; they could not leave until Friday or Saturday.

DESPITE SOME WILD but true fishing tales involving Lake Childress the past two weeks, Joel Combs and I are of the opinion that all of the fish in the lake must have been caught on opening day.

It was reported that over 1,500 fish, mostly bass, were caught in the lake on opening day, April 1. The lake had been closed for several years and had been restocked with bass and crappie. Although almost everyone caught his limit on Monday, only limited catches were reported the remainder of the week which leads us to believe that

Dover, a former Welsh minner, was knocked out in the first round in what has been termed the Buenos Aires "fiasco."

Mel Parnell Is Disabled

BOSTON, April 13 (UP)—Pitcher Mel Parnell, throwing at only half speed since an operation on his arm last January, will be placed on the disabled list next Wednesday, the Boston Red Sox announced today.

The 34-year-old slender veteran from New Orleans, La., last summer became the first Red Sox pitcher in 33 years to pitch a no-hit game when he blanked the Chicago White Sox.

The Red Sox said it would decide on Parnell's future after his name remains on the disabled list for at least 30 days. His new status will leave the Red Sox with a squad of 30, one more than the maximum allowed.

NEW YORK, April 13 (UP)—Major league baseball, beset by Congressional attack and embarrassed by its own loose talk for six months, is set today to give the game back to the players amid the fervent "amens" of the 16 million fans who annually pay the freight.

President Eisenhower will throw out the first ball of the new season at Griffith Stadium Monday and then the Baltimore Orioles and Washington Senators officially get things rolling. A crowd of about 27,000 is expected in the nation's capitol with another 250,000 fans turning out Tuesday for opening in eight other cities.

Early forecasts indicate the weatherman will cooperate in most places to help give the fans some "live baseball" after the long winter of spats—with congressmen and at sportswriters, the Marines, etc.

Harvesters To Meet Sandie '9' Tuesday

The District 3-AAAA baseball schedule last week fell victim to an April cold spell which caused cancellation of six games.

Coach Deck Wold's Pampa Harvesters had a Friday game cancelled while Amarillo, Palo Duro, Monterey, Borger and Plainview each had two games postponed. Lubbock was forced to call off one game.

The Harvesters were scheduled to meet the Monterey Plainviewers here Friday afternoon at Oiler Park but the freezing drizzle that hit the Panhandle cancelled the contest. Monterey had a game scheduled with Amarillo Saturday only to have it postponed.

Most of the postponed games will have to be played as doubleheaders later in the schedule. The Harvesters will meet Monterey in a twin bill at Lubbock on April 27 with Pampa serving as the home team in one of the two contests.

Pampa's next district game is scheduled for Tuesday when the Harvesters play the Sandies at Amarillo. Pampa, Amarillo and Palo Duro are currently deadlocked for first place in 3-AAAA with 1-0 records. Pampa edged Borger 11-10 last Tuesday to open the conference race while Amarillo blasted Plainview 20-1 and Palo Duro stopped Lubbock 6-2.

ABILENE, Tex., April 13 (UP)—A triangular track meet between Abilene Christian College, Baylor and Texas Christian University was cancelled today.

Temperatures dropped below freezing and freezing drizzle fell over the area last night and today.

IT'S BASEBALL TIME

Baltimore, Chicago at Cleveland and Detroit at Kansas City in the American League. In the National League, it will be Brooklyn at Philadelphia (at night), New York at Pittsburgh, St. Louis at Cincinnati and Milwaukee at Chicago.

Tuesday's openers also mark the debuts of three rookies managers—the Cubs' Bob Scheffing, the Tigers' Jack Tighe and the Indians' Kerby Farrell. In addition, there'll be the unusual sight of Al Lopez in White Sox flames after seven years of frustration with the Indians.

OPENING DAY SCHEDULES

American League
Baltimore at Washington (Monday), Detroit at Kansas City, Chicago at Cleveland, Washington at New York, Boston at Baltimore (Tuesday).

National League

league presidents Will Harridge and Warren Giles are predicting close races in both circuits but most observers expect only the National League race will be close.

This sentiment is reflected by both the professional odds-makers and the nation's baseball writers. The Yankees are top-heavy 2-5 picks with the bookmakers and were the choice of 126 of 132 baseball writers who participated in the United Press' annual pre-season poll. In the National League, the Braves are favored by the odds-makers at 5-6 with the Dodgers listed at "even money" and the Redlegs at 3-1. In the United Press poll, the Braves were picked by 42 and the Redlegs by 24. Three writers chose the Cardinals and there were single votes for the Pirates and Giants.

Financially, the impending campaign is viewed as certain to be another profitable one in which about 16 million fans—what Frank calls "the normal post-war successful year"—turning out for the 616 scheduled games. A pre-season United Press survey established the fact that two-thirds of the clubs' advance ticket sales have shown an increase.

A Boston Red Sox rookie, Al (Bull) Schroll, who hit 66 homers in the minors last year say he got so nervous each time he went to the plate that he lifted his hand when the pitcher started his windup to his cap.

Joe Fortin, former Pampa Oiler first baseman and now an insurance salesman, has recently returned from a Florida vacation and he reports that the Kansas City Athletics should be one of the teams to watch in the American League this year. He must be talking about second place because everyone knows that the Yankees have been conceded the pennant.

Area Cinder Men Shine Barrett, Cooper Place In Regional Meet At Lubbock

LUBBOCK — Pampa's two entries in the Region One track and field meet here Saturday — Dick Barrett and Earl Cooper — each placed in their events to give the Harvesters three points.

The Class AA division team title went to Abilene with 27 points while Odessa had 18. Canyon won the Class A crown with 26 points followed by McCamey with 21½. Stinnett took the Class B title with 20 points.

Barrett won fourth place in the 100-yard hurdles while Cooper placed third in the discus. Only the two top places in each event are eligible to compete in the state tournament in Austin.

Six records were broken in the meet. Cold weather halted preliminary rounds Friday, forcing the meet into a one-day affair.

Ford, Boros Take Greensboro Lead

By DON MARTIN
GREENSBORO, N.C., April 13 (UP)—Masters Champ Doug Ford of Mahopac, N.Y., curled in a 12-foot eagle putt on the 18th green today to tie half-way leader Julius Boros of Mid-Pines, N.C., at the three-quarter mark of the $15,000 Greater Greensboro Golf Open.

Boros overtook Ford on the 18th green today, but he parred the rest of the way out to make the turn in 34, one under regulation on drawn-out Sedgewick Resort country club.

The winter circuit's leading money winner shot regulation par all the way coming home except on the 18th, when he smashed a three-iron 19 feet from the pin on the long par five.

reminiscent of Bobby Locke, sank an 18-foot putt for a birdie on two, and a five-footer on five for another birdie to make the turn two-under. He bogeyed the 15th when he "feathered" a four-iron over the green.

But he came home with a rousing birdie on 18 for a 68.

Marty Furgol of Lenoir, Ill., day, blew to a 176 today, including a par on 14, but birdied 15 with 16th when he knocked his tee shot an eight-footer, only to bogey the over the green. He birdied the 18th for a 71 and a tie with Ford.

Leonard made the turn two under, picking up birdies on five and six. He birdied the 10th, bogeyed the 11th, then added another birdie on 18 for a 67.

Celtics Edge Hawks For NBA Crown

BOSTON, April 13 (UP)—Rookie Frank Ramsey, with 10 overtime points, and freshman Tommy Heinsohn with a total of 37 points, gave the Boston Celtics their first National Basketball Association championship in 11 years today with a double overtime 125-123 victory over the St. Louis Hawks in the decisive seventh playoff game.

After the thrilling playoff game ended at 103-at at the regulation time, Ramsey went into action and scored seven of his team's points in the first five-minute overtime.

Heinsohn scored six points early in the second extra period to put Boston out in front 121-120 with two minutes remaining. The former Holy Cross great fouled out on the next play and received a tremendous ovation by the capacity 13,909 crowd.

Hawk guard Med Park sank a free throw with 17 seconds remaining to bring the count to the eventual final score.

The tremendous showing by Heinsohn and Ramsey somewhat overshadowed a brilliant game-inning leading scoring of 39 points by Bob Pettit of St. Louis. The former Louisiana State ace, a St. Louis mainstay throughout the seven games, topped all scorers during the title battle with a total of 211 points.

The Cards got all their runs and seven of their eight hits off loser Alex Kellner who went five innings.

Legislation To Protect Pro Athletes Goes To Congress Monday

By ERNEST BARCELA
WASHINGTON, April 13 (UP)—Legislation guaranteeing professional baseball, football, hockey and basketball players the right to form player unions and bargain collectively will be introduced in Congress Monday.

The measure would put "purely business aspects" of the four sports under the anti-trust laws but exempt aspects directly concerned with sports.

The "purely business" aspects would include such items as radio and television contracts and operation of concessions. Exempted would be, to nullify the Feb. 25 Supreme Court decision which specifically brought pro football under the anti-trust laws but continued baseball's exemption.

Keating's bill is a direct outgrowth of that decision and the furor resulting from a statement made in a United Press interview by C. Leo Deorsy of the Washington Baseball Club's board of directors that "baseball is a business—and a big business." Deorsy criticized the football ruling, saying football and baseball should be treated alike.

As to the player union and collective bargaining provision, Keating said: "The players guilds and other means by which the performers organize for their own benefit often missed, is that they are unique businesses with unique practices, which should not be subject to the same laws as ordinary commercial enterprises."

Sports Writers Pick Yankees, Braves

By FRED DOWN
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UP)—It'll be the New York Yankees in an American League "sweep" and the Milwaukee Braves in another close National League battle according to a United Press poll of 132 baseball writers.

Three writers picked the Chicago White Sox to win the first pennant since 1919; two chose the Detroit Tigers and one picked the Cleveland Indians.

Braves No. 1
In the National League, the Braves were the No. 1 choice of 61 writers while the Brooklyn Dodgers received 42 first-place votes and the Cincinnati Redlegs got 24. There were three first-place votes for the dark-horse St. Louis Cardinals and one each for the Pittsburgh Pirates and New York Giants.

The Tigers received one less vote than the White Sox for first place in the American League but a cross section of the balloting made them the choice to finish second. Manager Jack Tighe's team, which finished fifth in 1956, received 70 votes for second place, 35 for third and 17 for fourth. The Indians and White Sox, meanwhile, both received votes for positions from first to sixth with the former out-ballooting Chicago, 80-50, in second- and third-place votes. As a result, the Indians were the composite choice for third with the White Sox relegated to fourth.

The National League balloting reflected the wide-open aspect of the impending race with no team receiving a majority of the first-place votes. The Braves' total was 46.2 per cent, the defending champion Dodgers' 31.9 and the Redlegs' 18.2 per cent.

Boxing Men Picking Tony Over Archie

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UP)—Fearless Fraley's facts and figures: A surprising number of smart boxing men think that young Tony Anthony is almost a cinch to defeat Archie Moore for the light heavyweight title when they meet, probably at Detroit June 7.

Jimmy Becham of Philadelphia in their 10-round middleweight bout from Miami on national television next Friday night. The odds sound right considering that Becham is noted mostly for his poetry recitations while training in the gym.

These sources, which have no financial interest in Anthony, predicted he would flatten Chuck Spelcer—which he did—and they insist that within a year he will be battling Floyd Patterson for the heavyweight title. They tout him as potentially one of the best boxers since Joe Louis and think that the 22-year-old Anthony will grow into a solid 185-pounder by next summer.

All eyes will be on Bob Williams of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., at Notre Dame, Saturday. He'll quarterback the fighting Irish football varsity in its annual spring game against the "old-timers." How well he replaces Paul Hornung will tell much about Notre Dame's prospects for next season. The heaviest man in the line in front of Williams will be 215-pound Bronko Nagurski Jr.

Sixteen-year-old Archie San Romani Jr., whose pop was the world's number two miler 20 years ago, will run the mile for Wichita in the Kansas Interscholastic Relays next Friday. The youngster, who has been clocked in 4:33, has been trained by his dad since he was a third grader. Former Masters champion Claude Harmon, getting ready to shoot for a berth in the U.S. Open, recalls with a chuckle that his caddy had a comforting thought when Claude failed to qualify last year.

And if he goes anything like his old man, they'll be happy, too.

Where is a good place to go fishing? Bob Addington was asked the other day and he didn't take long to answer. He said that he and Frank Addington but a few seconds to state that Lake Childress is one of the hottest places in the country at this time. That is, it was for the first few days until the cold weather hit. Bob said that the lake is a bit smaller than Lake McClellan and located some six miles west of Childress. He also stated that boats and a channel cat plus a good amount of crappie, Mr. Addington also said that trotlines, dagg and stink bait are not permissible and that the fishing hours close at 11 p.m. Evidently, the lake is city owned and the rules, where they don't conflict with state laws, are set by the city of Childress.

The fish are also in excellent condition from the report of Addington's Western Store, Frank Addington said that Les Jones and Pampa easily caught his limit and some of the bass appeared three inches in width across the back. The lake limit is 15 fish altogether with not more than six of these being bass.

PAKISTAN SENDS ADDED BIRD STOCK
From far away across the rolling blue waters of the Atlantic Ocean there arrived a shipment of Seesees partridges which were recently released in the Palo Duro Canyon, southeast of Amarillo. The Director of Wildlife Restoration of the Texas Game and Fish Commission stated that there were 120 of these birds recently released and there is another shipment on the way.

These game birds, which come from the drier parts of West Pakistan, are being tested in the rugged areas of the Palo Duro Canyon. The original shipment of 68 Seesees was turned loose last spring.

The assistant director said that few reports have been received about the first release but a said project personnel were unable to locate the birds. A. S. Jackson, the project personnel, stated that shortly after the first release, the grounds were checked and that a few birds were heard calling. After the bird made the call the bird investigators would make a hasty walk in the general direction only to see the bird fly into the air a few feet, like a dog in high oats getting up to where he could see out, then the bird would disappear only to reappear some 200 to 300 yards away in the same manner.

Tiger Jones In Victory Over Vejar

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UP)—Ralph (Tiger) Jones, who has taken to boxing's Gypsy trail, Saturday set out to get ready for his third middleweight bout in 30 days.

The powerful fifth-ranked contender, tired of waiting for a shot at the title, figures he'll keep trim as he did Friday night in a 10-round televised victory over the surprisingly heavier but less powerful Chico Vejar.

Jones, who was favored at 13-5, said Vejar was a "good fighter—good enough to make the odds-makers look ridiculous."

Next on the agenda for the 29-year-old Jones, of Yonkers, N.Y., is an April 25 fight with Joey Gray of Flint, Mich. Jones out-pointed Arthur King in Toronto, March 25 and so the Gray fight will be his third in 30 days.

ROCKY COLUMBO... wrestles here Monday night

Columbo To Team With Rip Monday
Although Rocky Columbo has never appeared in the Pampa ring before, the big, handsome wrestler has already become the talk of local ring fans after his sensational showings in area wrestling rings.

Columbo is scheduled to team up with Rip Rogers to meet Roy (Professor) Shires and Frenchie Guimet in the main event tag team match on the Monday night card at the Sportsman Club. The bout is slated for two of three falls with a one-hour time limit.

Rogers and Columbo will be the crowd's favorites when they step into the ring Monday night. Last week Shires and his valet-manager got tossed around in the ring after the main event tag team bout, much to the fans' delight.

Shires was teamed with Tommy O'Toole, but Guimet stepped in to offer assistance and he was tossed out of the ring.

The semifinal match has another new face, Juan Garcia, going against Tommy Phelps in a two-of-three falls bout with a 45-minute time limit. Shires meets Columbo in the 20-minute, one-fall opener.

BUNDESWEHR IS WUNDERBAR—Uniformed members of a "welcome committee" greet one of the first draftees to swell West Germany's infant army as he arrives at Wetzlar, West Germany. Some 10,000 draftees will be added to the ranks of the volunteer force of 80,000 men initially. Hoped-for goal: a 100,000-man army within a year and, eventually, an army that is 500,000 strong.

Moslem Call To Prayer Heard In Washington

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, April 12 (UP)—The wailing sound of a Muzmin's voice calling Washington Moslems to prayer is the newest tourist attraction in this city of famous sights.

The sing-song sound over a loud-speaker in the minaret of a mosque is issued five times a day. It goes like this: "La ilah illa Allah, Muhammad rasulu Allah" (There is no God but Allah, and Mohammed is his prophet).

The prayer calls were heard for the first time this month, at the start of the Moslem holy season of Ramadan. They will continue year-round in the future, as a regular part of worship at the Islamic center now nearing completion on fashionable Massachusetts Avenue.

Emphasizes Fact
Construction of this beautiful white mosque in the heart of the U.S. capital has brought home to American Christians a fact which their missionaries in Asia have been reporting, with mounting concern, for the past several years.

The major Asian religions, after centuries of decline and decadence, are showing vigorous signs of life.

The strong spirit of nationalism pride sweeping Asia has sparked a resurgence of loyalty to "native" faiths, such as Mohammedanism, Buddhism and Hinduism. And it has raised formidable new barriers to the further spread of Christianity, which many Asians

General Motors Is Rolling Up Sleeves

By JIM KLOCKENKEMPER
DETROIT, April 13 (UP)—General Motors Corp., encouraged by stepped-up spring sales, is rolling up its sleeves to gain back market losses to Chrysler and Ford.

Ford and Chrysler, with sweeping, imaginative new styling captured the public fancy and pocket-book in the first months after the introduction of 1957 models.

But trade reports indicate GM has decided this has gone far enough. The world's largest manufacturer is now calling on its sales organization, advertising and public relations arms to sell the country on merits of Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobile and Buick. Cadillac sales have held about steady with last year.

Sales Contests
Automotive news reports top-level General Motors executives have mapped "one of the biggest advertising campaigns ever launched" for the spring and summer months.

All four lower-price range GM divisions are already conducting sales contests for dealers. Two of them have consumer contests underway.

Wards' Automotive Reports stated, "It is expected that competitive market pressures on Chrysler Corp. will intensify steadily in the spring and summer months, particularly by GM Corp."

The Big Three companies, Studebaker-Packard and American Motors all have announced sales upturns in March, heralding the hoped-for spring buying surge.

Weather a Factor?
Studebaker-Packard said March sales were up 25 per cent over February. American Motors said Rambler sales hit a 20-month high.

When last year's rosy forecast failed to materialize in the spring, such auto executives as GM president Harlow Curtice at first believed it might be the dreary 1956 spring weather. The weather across the country has been tornadoes. But sales increases scarcely better this year, with freakish snow storms and deadly

The sales races promise to be interesting, with Chevrolet already narrowing Ford's early lead for the No. 1 spot, Pontiac and Mercury showing gains in February and March registration figures and Chrysler Corp. achieving its 18-plus per cent goal of the market.

Home Mortgage Money May Be Getting A Little 'Looser'

By ROBERT F. COLL
WASHINGTON, April 13 (UP)—There are increasing signs throughout the nation that lending institutions are loosening their purse strings a little on home mortgage money.

But the "tight money" situation apparently still has the man with the modest income choked off from obtaining a mortgage.

Essentially the problem of obtaining a mortgage in today's strict market narrows down to how much you can pay for a home—the more you spend the easier your mortgage problems.

Man in the Middle
The man in the middle is the modest income buyer, who is not likely to feel any softness in the mortgage market until the end of this year or early in 1958.

In addition to the price range of the buyer, there are certain specific conditions in scattered localities across the nation that have kept mortgage money circulating even through the height of the credit squeeze.

As usual, the hardest areas in which to obtain mortgages are the South and the West. The easiest remains the Northeast.

Perhaps the biggest factor in the slight easing in the mortgage market in some areas is the recent attitude of businessmen toward borrowing.

There is ample evidence that business has put on the brakes in borrowing, partly due to spiraling interest rates. Some businessmen probably have heard so much talk of tight money that they simply have not sought loans.

Waning Enthusiasm
Whatever the cause of the waning enthusiasm, it cannot be pinned on any slowdown in the booming economy over the first three months of the year.

Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks reported recently that business activity climbed to a new high during the quarter, although he did single out housing as a weak spot in an otherwise rosy picture.

The main indications of easing in home buying credit are shrinking discount rates in some areas and a growing supply of money to lend in banks and similar institutions.

Discounts—sometimes called points—normally are arranged through the builder. He will ask a bank to handle a mortgage for a prospective buyer.

Discount Rate
If the lender agrees, it can charge a discount rate based on a percentage of the original loan. It then receives its normal interest rate on the remainder until the loan is paid off.

For example, a builder with a $10,000 house approaches a lending institution charging a five per cent discount. The discount is deducted at once, and the builder receives $9,500 for his house.

The buyer assumes the mortgage of $9,500 on which he pays his normal rate of interest for 20 years, or whatever the length of the mortgage.

Discounts have been running as high as 10 per cent in some areas. But there are mounting indications that these steep rates are a thing of the past.

When this leveling off will benefit the prospective home buyer is a matter of speculation. But barring a reversal of present economic conditions, an easing should be felt by the end of this year.

Fort Worth Grain

FORT WORTH (UP-USDA)—Weekly grain: Except for barley, southwest cash grain prices showed little change this week, the Agricultural Marketing Service reported.

From Friday through Friday, barley lost 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 cents per bu. and yellow corn was down 1-2 cent, but white corn and milo sold 1 cent higher and wheat and oats gained 3-4 cent.

Although elevator stocks are fairly well cleaned up and winter wheat production is expected to increase, prices strengthened as a result of active export demand. No. 1 hard wheat closed Friday at $2.47 1/2 to $2.53 1/2 per bu., basis bulk carlots at Texas common points.

Milo supplies became a little tighter and demand was more active, with No. 2 yellow offerings bringing $2.29 to $2.34 per cwt. at the close.

Demand for other grains was light and trading remained drab, with trends usually following those in the Midwest. Based on No. 2 grades at Texas common points, white corn was quoted at $1.88 1/4 to $1.90 1/4 per bu. Friday, yellow corn at $1.56 3/4 to $1.58 3/4, barley at $1.46 to $1.49, and white oats at 97 1/4 to 99 1/4 cents per bushel.

Wheat prices were 1 cent higher at most Oklahoma country elevators this week, but dropped 3 cents at Frederick. Closing sales ranged from $2.02 per bu. at Guyton and Hooker to $2.08 at Bilo, Edmond, Hennessey, Kingfisher and Vici.

Oklahoma country milo prices were down 1 cent per cwt. in Guyton and 10 cents lower in Clinton, with the closing range on No. 2 yellow offerings $1.95 to $2.00 Friday.

SIGNS OF SPRING . . . and there have been many this week with its balmy breezes and mild temperatures . . . in fact, Peg has had a terrific case of spring fever . . . and her house shows it . . . nothing done, as she has been spending most of her time outside basking in the sun and breathing in the fresh spring air . . . ah, life! . . . each spring seems to bring a fresh outlook on life . . . and beginning of something new . . . Other signs of spring . . . the youngsters and adults swinging along the streets in light spring cottons . . . a robin, busily hopping across the yard . . . a tiny, baby bird, huddled frightened in the corner of a downtown store . . . the lovely pink blossoms of the blooming peach trees . . . and the gorgeous white blossoms of the apple trees . . . all against a setting of roses in bloom . . . more boy-girl combinations in front of the junior high school, instead of the boys in one group and the girls in the other . . . and so many, many people industriously working in their gardens and their yards . . . it doesn't seem too long ago that we were all digging out of the snow . . . but Peg really believes Spring is here to stay this time.

The world awards its prizes to men of firmness and self-reliance. (Anonymous)

And the size of the crowd at the tea is testimony of how much she is thought of by her friends . . . the City Club Room was packed . . . couldn't have gotten many more persons in . . . mingling among the crowd were Louise McCrery and Virginia Jolly, both in bright red straw hats . . . very springish . . . Johnny Sypert, in a blue print, did such a good job with all of the arrangements . . . saw Adrienne Foster looking lovely all in navy blue, with some gorgeous long-strand beads adding just the right touch . . . Peg just loved the yellowish punch . . . foaming and bubbling in the punch bowls . . . in fact, during the program . . . Dr. Neely Joe Ellis' sigh-provoking songs . . . and Rev. Ronald Hubbard's interesting talk . . . you could hear the punch bubbling in accompaniment . . . Peg was really thrilled over the whole affair . . . and so was Ruth, who looked so nice in a royal-blue gown . . . it was nice to see her pretty daughters again . . . and Harvey was just beaming with pride . . . Peg thinks Beta Sigma Phi is to be complimented on giving this honor to these deserving women each year.

After the woman-of-the-year tea Sunday, Peg spent a pleasant afternoon listening to the cancer radiothon over KPDN . . . Paul Brown and Fred Neslage did a bang-up job . . . Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Myatt have returned from a trip to Virginia and a tour of the Southern states . . . and came back raving about how beautiful that part of the country was at this time of year! . . . Speaking of the Myatts, Peg sure enjoyed the father-daughter number Ed and Marilyn presented at the Lions Club Minstrel . . . Hoard Leah and Bunny Behrman had a house guest from California recently . . . Carl and Mary Hills are full of talk about their new home . . . Bea Goodnight is thrilled to pieces over the marvelous portraits of her son and daughter that Elaine Ledbetter painted.

The consciousness of having done a splendid action is itself sufficient reward. (Cicero)

THERE WILL BE PARADE NEXT WEEK . . . that once-a-year Easter parade, when everyone from the oldest to the youngest member of the family dons his finest and newest spring clothes . . . Peg just loves it, because everyone looks so pleased with the world . . . and so bright and colorful after the drab winter finery . . . But we mustn't let it take away the religious significance of the day.

As ever, PEG

Parent Education Plans Homes Tour

HOME OF MR. AND MRS. CRAWFORD ATKINSON, 2011 Mary Ellen.

Sophisticated Early-American, designed strictly with the modern approach, this home is bright pink brick with a lively accent of two shades of blue on the wood insets. A hospitable house intended for lots of living within, it features warm wood tones. The color blue flows throughout, possibly as a background for Mrs. Atkinson's blue eyes. Copper, gold and cherry provide the color notes. The kitchen shows the last word in custom designed barbecue equipment.

MRS. CRAWFORD ATKINSON

A special event will be provided many Pampanos on Saturday, May 4, when five outstanding homes shown on this page will be opened to visitors for the benefit of certain Pampa youngsters, who have, to date, received little organized attention . . . the handicapped. Lest the term "handicapped" cast a stigma or prove embarrassing, the word, "exceptional" is the new term being used to designate all children, who for one reason or another, have to be "excepted" or excluded from most normal activities in which children participate. All further writings concerning this project will refer to them as "exceptional" children. Parent Education Club is sponsoring the first Tour of Beautiful Homes, and the community-minded hostesses pictured here are showing their residences in order that funds may be raised to make a beginning for what could become a far-reaching project.

There has been found, in Pampa, a need for special equipment with which to help the exceptional child in learning the skills, which most children take for granted. He requires more devices and teaching aids than other children; recording equipment for youngsters with speech defects and hearing loss; books in Braille; relief maps and charts for blind children; special devices to develop motor skills in spastics; the list can keep on and on.

Funds raised from the Tour of Beautiful Homes will make a start on acquiring some of this equipment, which will be placed for the time being in Lovett Memorial Library. From here, it may be checked out for use with classes of exceptional children, for use of shut-ins at home, or may be used in the library by small groups of mothers for the training of their children.

The tour of Beautiful Homes is confined to the club women of Pampa and their guests.

Floral arrangements in all home displayed will be through the courtesy of Roberta's Flowers.

MRS. J. C. DANIEL

HOME OF MR. AND MRS. J. C. DANIELS, North of City

Without doubt Pampa's most unusual home, the Daniels' residence provides all the excitement one can find in fine modern architecture. Its exterior features indirect sky-light with glare removed by the artful use of overhangs. Metal sculptures are combined with areas of stone and glass to create an especially stunning entrance. A feeling of spaciousness keynotes the interior, which contains an outstanding collection of contemporary paintings by Maurice Bernson, a New York artist-friend of the Daniels, who formerly lived in this area.

HOME OF MR. AND MRS. L. L. GARREN, 2120 Charles

Here is a home at its homiest. For all-around eye-appeal and charm, the all-pink exterior of the Early-American Garren home strikes a responsive chord in every passerby. Designed by the owners, who are relative newcomers to Pampa, this house makes the visitor welcome with a den-kitchen that comes straight out of a picture book. Yellows, greens, and browns are much in evidence.

MRS. JOHN HINES

HOME OF MR. AND MRS. JOHNNY E. HINES, 1821 Charles

A fine example of Norman French architecture in pink brick with a trim of a warm French blue on grill-work and wood, this beautiful home gives the visitor an effect of quiet elegance and taste for all its wealth of handsome furniture and accessories. It seems always to reflect faithfully the personalities of its owners and consistently brings forth superlatives from the visitor.

HOME OF MR. AND MRS. L. R. MILLER, 1700 N. Russell

Here is the ranchhouse in its most elegant form. Roomy and spacious, the Miller home is built into a basic U-shape in the Cliff May tradition. The exterior is of cream-white stone with a pale grey-green trim. The interior is primarily French provincial and deftly employs fine wood and prints against soft greens and blues. The total effect is one of great warmth and decorative perfection. Famous for food and hospitality, the Miller barbecue-and-dining-kitchen is an especial treat, reflecting again the couple's attention to the ultimate in detail.

"Outstanding American Woman" Topic Mrs. Stowers Presents For TC Club

Twentieth Century Club met Tuesday in the home of Mrs. G. F. Branson, 2125 Christine. The president, Mrs. V. J. Jamieson conducted the business meeting. The pledge of allegiance to the flag was led by Mrs. Ronald Hubbard. The meditation was given by Mrs. Lloyd Hicks.

She also reported that Mrs. Raymond Harrah of Pampa Twentieth Century Club is now an honorary life member of Texas Federation Women's Clubs, such honor being conferred on those who have served the district in an official capacity for 25 years.

The club voted to give a $6 donation to Care for Korean orphans, and $5 to the Cancer Fund. A leader of the program for the day, Mrs. Dick Stowers, introduced the subject, "Outstanding American Women of Today." She stated that to be an American woman today is indeed a great challenge. "The first steps in freedom for women were exciting and thrilling she said. "But, women soon found that with this new found freedom came many additional duties and responsibilities. Although one third of those employed today are women, deep in her heart every woman knows the home is her real place."

She continued, "The paradox of the American woman is that she is educated and trained but when she marries and has a home she usually finds very little use for this training." Mrs. Walter Pung introduced several speakers who gave short sketches of the lives of successful American women, and asked the club members to guess their identity. They were: Mary Martin, by Mrs. V. J. Jamieson; Frances Knight, by Mrs. W. R. Campbell; Grandma Moses, by Mrs. Robert Sanford; Tina Albright, by Mrs. Fred Neilage; Mollie Farnish, by Mrs. F. M. Culbertson; Bernice House, by Mrs. J. W. Gordon; Ella Fitzgerald, by Mrs. E. L. Campbell and Olive Ann Beach, by Mrs. Ronald Hubbard. Eighteen members were present.

Spaghetti should not be broken up in order to get it into a pan. Put in a handful at a time and curl it around the inside of the pan. And it will taste better if you slightly (very slightly) undercook it. This is the Italian method.

GRACE FRIEND

Dear Grace Friend,
I am writing my opinion on all those human beings who might read this. I have had it said to me many times that the Pearl Harbor tragedy had been planned by our president Roosevelt and every time I hear a poor ignorant fool, narrow minded fools say such a ridiculous thing it make me boil hopping mad all over.

Yes it was planned by the Japs but not by our president and the bombing of Pearl Harbor. There is nothing that will excuse those that were over there from being on the alert at all times. When war was going on although we hadn't got into it yet until that happened they were all of them too busy having a good time and drinking and anyone who says such a thing to me again I am going to tell them straight to their teeth that no one would make such a remark but a dirty low down Communist would say such a thing.

NARROW MINDED
I wonder if these narrow minded ignorant fools could hear themselves say such a thing. How ridiculous it sounds to right minded people. If they would stop and think twice how it sounds to other people. Most of these remarks has been said to me by republicans and if republicans are all so narrow minded and plain silly fools, I thank God I am not a republican. We have never had a more clean morale and just and upright president in office then our president Roosevelt was and I don't think we will ever have another in office again that will measure up to his standards and principles. I am afraid that the next person who says that to me it will make me so mad that I will try to knock all their teeth down their throats. They must be out of their minds to say such a thing and I guess there are just as many silly fools who would believe such a tale.

If they only knew how they sound to others, how down right silly they are. I do hope you will print this as I want people to know how one person feels about such remarks. No one but a Communist would say a thing like that about president Roosevelt. Japan and Germany was trouble makers for centuries and they are now, since the war, getting paid back for the miseries they dealt out to others.

LOW AS SNAKE
Shame on to anyone here in America who will let themselves get as low as a snake to become a Communist. How God have mercy on their rotten souls surely these Communists that is here in America which I have been told are a lot of them here in this county, surely they know that they will fall flat like Japan and Germany has, and I hope by almighty God that those who reads this will hang their heads in shame if they have any. I just can't understand why people who is suppose to have brains and believe in just and honorable principles would let themselves fall for such tripe. To my opinion none but the narrow minded fools would fall for such stuff.

I have nothing but contempt and scorn for them and these should be treated like a poisonous snake if they believe and continue to believe in such stuff and it is up to every true and honest American to stamp these kind out of existence.

Mrs. M. J. S.
Dear Mrs. S.
Rear Admiral Robert A. Theobald, U. S. N. Ret., in a book titled "The Final Secret of Pearl Harbor" with the subtitle, "The Washington Contribution to the Japanese Attack," published by Dennis-Adair has made considerable light on how the United States got into the war against Japan.

It is a carefully documented defense of Admiral Kimmel, the naval commander at Pearl Harbor, and it piles up a great deal of evidence that points to the assumption that not only President Roosevelt but General Marshall and Admiral Stark deliberately left Pearl Harbor open to a surprise attack by Japan.

While the U. S. had machines which could decode the most secret of Japan's codes anent preparations for war and while the machines had been sent to various parts of the world, none was sent to Hawaii so that the commanders there would have had an opportunity to draw their own conclusions regarding possible attack.

Many historians of World War II are of the same opinion.

"Spring Party" Given Young Married Class

The married Young People's Sunday School department of the Central Baptist Church was entertained with a "Spring Party" recently.

Harry Crawford, minister of music and education, sang, "It Took A Miracle," followed by a film on "Creation."

Mrs. Curtis Liles superintendent of the department, led in the games; the highlight of which was the making and modelling of ladies spring hats.

Refreshments of ribbon sandwiches, mixed nuts, punch, cake and coffee were served to 34 members.

The coolness of flowing strands of chalk white spheres alternating with golden links presents a picture of allure for resort and Summer wear. Napier has dramatized the earrings with a golden motif that is repeated at the sides of the adjustable necklace in a look of Continental design.

Beauty Salons Can Not Restore Sleep

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

No beauty salon and no make-up, however good, can repair the damages caused by lost sleep. Sufficient rest alone is enough to make the difference between a haggard girl and a girl who glows. Photographic models are very careful to get their necessary rest; since they know that the camera is cruel about picking up the slightest flaw.

Your mirror can be as merciless. Gradually, as time passes, the accumulation of lines and fine wrinkles produced by a lack of rest cannot be wiped out by any cream known.

In order to insure sound sleep, make sure that your bedroom is not overheated. It's a good idea to air it well before you retire, opening the windows to admit cold air. If you're restless, try reading yourself to sleep.

Once a week, at least, try to get yourself into bed by 9 p.m. You might make this an evening devoted to beauty chores (shampoo, manicure and facial). But have the lights out early.

Make Friends Manners

If you have planned to go somewhere with a friend, don't change your mind at the last moment without a really adequate reason. A person who can't be counted on to do as he says he will isn't a very valuable friend.

And you must be valuable to your friends to keep them over a long period of time.

Middle-aged wives and mothers who have never held down a job sometimes feel inferior to high-powered career women.

They needn't. It takes just as much brains, skill and know-how to be a successful homemaker as to be a successful career woman.

A letter from a middle-aged woman who reached the top in her profession before marrying and giving up her career makes this point perfectly clear.

She writes: "I never dreamed there would be so much to learn when I married and retired from my profession.

"I've loaded myself down with cookbooks, books on gardening, decorating, etc.

"Maybe in time I'll learn how to cook, keep house, grow flowers, entertain easily, look after a husband, shop economically, etc., but it is going to take a lot of concentrated work.

"Right now I envy women my age who seem to be able to do easily and well the things I am struggling to learn to do."

The average housewife never really stops to count up all the skills she has acquired and all the knowledge she has gained through years of homemaking.

"Anyone can keep house," she tells herself, not realizing how much trial and error, how much thought and study, how much experience and hard work have made her job seem easy to her.

A homemaker might find it difficult to enter the business world. But so does a businesswoman who has never kept house find it difficult to be suddenly faced with the job of homemaker.

TABU AMBUSH 20 CARATS EMIR
PLATINE VOODOO LAVENDER

Blackheads seem to plague nearly all women in some degree, from teen-agers on up. They can be controlled in many ways.

First, there's the matter of diet. Avoid rich, oily and excessively fatty foods. Have a sensible, well-balanced diet with emphasis on meat, green salads, cheese, milk, eggs, poultry, fresh vegetables and fruit.

Next comes cleanliness. Wash your face thoroughly in soap and water. Change the water and use clear water to rinse.

There are preparations designed to open the pores and lift out the blackheads. Most of these come in cream form which is left on several minutes. Rinse it off with hot water and close the pores with a cleansing lotion such as astringent.

Mature women are the chief offenders in the matter of sitting gracelessly. Most of them tend to plump down in a chair or on a bus or stretcher with knees apart and dress stretched tautly over the knees. This only serves to emphasize plump legs and a middle-aged look.

Best way to get a notion of the way you should look is to place a straight chair in front of a full-length mirror and practice. First sit as you usually do. You may get an unpleasant surprise.

Then try sitting with knees together and, if you like, feet crossed at the ankles. But don't just plant your feet flatly on the floor because this, too, is ungraceful.

Color and eye appeal are important to the success of any dinner. The white meat of chicken, mashed potatoes and cauliflower together present no eye appeal at all. Paprika and greens like parsley can do wonders to whet appetites for such meals.

Handbags that are not in use should be stuffed with tissue paper, wrapped in tissue paper and stored away in boxes in a closet.

Altrusa Club Plans Joint Meeting With Borger And Amarillo Clubs

The Altrusa Club met in Monday noon session for luncheon in the Pampa Hotel. Luncheon music was played by Mrs. May Foreman Carr as the members assembled. Tables were decorated in an Easter motif with colorfully-dyed styrofoam eggs marking each member's place.

The speakers' table was centered with a large Easter basket filled with candy eggs and flowers, which later was awarded to Mrs. Inez Carter, who had the winning-numbered egg.

Mrs. Jack P. Foster, president, presided during the business meeting and introduced Miss Judy Neale, Altrusa Girl for March, who, in turn, presented Miss Beth Spencer, who has been chosen Altrusa Girl for April.

Miss Spencer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Myron R. Spencer. She is a member of the National Honor Society, a Capella choir; secretary of the senior chapter of Tri-Hi-Y; president of the Young Women's Auxiliary; group chairman of her Sunday School class. Miss Spencer plans to attend Rice or Texas Tech, majoring in business administration or designing.

The group sang "Auld Lang Syne". The Council of Clubs report was given by Mrs. Vernon Hobbs, who reported on the Parent Education Club's project of a tour of five Pampa homes to be conducted on May 4.

Pampa Altrusa Views, prepared by Mrs. N. G. Kadango and Miss Ola Gregory, were distributed to the members.

It was announced that the Twentieth Century Cotillion will be hosted to the Senior Citizens Club meeting on April 11 in Lovett Memorial Library.

The Pampa Altrusa Club will meet in joint session with the Borger and Amarillo clubs in Amarillo on April 25 in the YWCA, 12th and Jackson. Guest speaker will be Gretchen Vanderschmidt.

MISS BETH SPENCER

Immediate past International president.

Members voted to accept the gift of the road-sign from the Citizens Bank and Trust Company. The Altrusa Information committee will take care of the arrangements for placement of the sign.

Mrs. Dorothy Tooley was appointed card chairman. Mrs. Lorena Locke, information chairman, presented an interesting program, which she illustrated with a capably hand drawn map of the state of Texas, showing the location of Altrusa Clubs in District 19. She pointed out that there are 36 in the district; 30 of which are in Texas; the remaining six are located in Mexico and Guatemala.

An Easter benediction was offered by Mrs. Lillian Snow to conclude the program.

Hot To Rid Skin Of Dry Feeling

By ALICIA HART NEA Beauty Editor

At the beginning of spring, your skin is likely to feel dry and crackly. Reasons for this include: overheated apartments, houses, restaurants and stores. Another reason is the impact of cold air and wind on your face.

To rid yourself of that dry feeling, you need patience and persistence. Use lukewarm water and lots of soap when you wash your face; change the water and rinse with clear water. Use a rich cream or moisture lotion at night. Before you make up your face in the morning, use a cleansing lotion that's right for your skin (normal or oily) and allow five minutes after its use before you start making up. This gives a chance for normal oils to return to the skin. Never skip your skin care because you're too tired or too rushed. It takes just a few minutes and it's these few minutes that count in the way your skin looks.

Many of the stories about make-ing your nylon stockings wear longer are merely old wives' tales. For instance, washing your nylons before you wear them the first time simply makes more work for you. It won't increase the wear. Putting them in the refrigerator to chill them before you wear them is cold nylons, not longer wear. Another popular notion is that the present nylons don't give the wear that nylons did before the last war. There's a good reason for this: the old nylons were far heavier than the nylons we wear today. We wear sheer stockings for business and shopping. For dress, we wear exceptionally sheer stockings.

Often we wear sandal stockings that are lovely to look at but are not reinforced. Naturally, such stockings won't wear like iron. But they do make legs look pretty and that, after all, is what we want.

When the veins stand out on the back of your hands, it means that you're tired. To get rid of that puffy look, hold your hands up and shake them briskly. And when you use hand lotion, put it on as if

Manners Make Friends

Once you are over an illness, forget it — at least conversationally. You can be sure few persons, if any, will be interested in a detailed account of it, although they will be sorry you had such a bad time.

Always try to find something cheerful to talk about instead of something depressing.

Remember to use lotion after you've had your hands immersed in water for any reason. And if one application of lotion seems to disappear quickly, use another.

No one can convince stylists that dresses of this type, by Jacques Heim, become museum pieces because expense makes them impractical.

High Fashion Feeling Low-Down

By ROSETTE HARGROVE
NEA Staff Correspondent
PARIS (NEA) — Everybody knows that women's way of dressing the world over, is governed by the style trends which twice yearly are presented by the big-name Paris designers.

But behind the scenes of the luxurious salons of the Avenue Matignon and the Faubourg Saint Honore a grim battle has been waged since the end of World War II between the ideals of art and stern economic.

In plain words this means that as a business proposition a dress-making house is no longer the potential gold mine it was in the roaring 1920's when designers like Poiret, Chanel, Vionnet, the Calot sisters and others ruled the world of fashion.

Today the heavy burden of taxes, social security, high production and overhead costs leave a relatively small margin of profit which anyway is strictly controlled by the state.

Recently a French businessman quipped that the haute couture was a "grande dame" who lived beyond her income and did not realize her hour had struck. The fact remains that since liberation no less than 9 famous names have disappeared from the fashion world — Lelong, Molyneux, Rochas, Piguet, Worth, Paquin, Dormoy, Schiaparelli and only a few weeks ago, after 37 years in the business, Germaine Lecomte.

All nine had started in the good old days when taxes were negligible and society women (and others) from every country in the world came to Paris to buy their clothes. Their number has dwindled considerably. It was estimated recently that there were only a few thousand women in the entire world who could afford to dress in the haute couture exclusively with prices ranging roughly from $500 to $2,500 for a simple little dress or a grand ball gown.

Because a dressmaking house depends on the inspiration of a mere handful of people — Dior, for example, designs all his models, makes hundreds of sketches before starting on a collection — it is difficult if not impossible to run it on strictly business lines.

Nobody has yet been able to convince a couturier that he need not show such a great number of lavish evening creations which are in effect nothing more than museum pieces. No businessman will ever understand wastage which happens in the process of creating a collection (cost — from $30,000 to $300,000) when a creator will think nothing of discarding 30 models out of say 150.

But there a creator's inevitable retort is that you cannot produce a unique creation on an assembly line as you would an automobile.

duck, Warren Hase, E. E. Sheldhamer, J. R. Stroble, Rufe Jordan and Edward R. Eaton.

Mme. Lecomte, explaining why she quit, declared: "When I made a sale of one million francs, 860,000 were already absorbed by taxes and various expenses. Because the haute couture is considered a luxury industry, we are taxed higher than any other. Yet it is to our and its corollary industries that France owes some of her prestige in the world."

Still bristling with energy, Mme. Lecomte reminisced about the old days when she dressed queens and princes, leaders of the international as well as France's social sets and theatrical and movie stars.

"But the most extraordinary clients of all were the South Americans," she recalled. "In the days before air travel they would arrive at the Ritz in Paris followed by an army of secretaries, personal maids, valets and butlers. They thought nothing of ordering anywhere from 30 to 40 dresses, plus 10 for each of their daughters. They spent millions of francs and would return with a hundred trunks chock-full of clothes, hats, furs, shoes and accessories."

The war and post-war currency restrictions in many countries spelled the end of that fabulous era.

The mood of the woman of today who can afford to dress at a big-name designer has also changed. While her mother dressed at Paquin or Worth, very often she prefers to spread her custom among several houses and will sometimes experiment with an unknown.

This does not prevent pessimists from declaring that one reason why high fashion is in a bad way is because of the publicity which surrounds the presentation of a collection and the premature revelation by way of sketches and photographs of any one season's trends in the world press.

Another basic trade difficulty lies with the copying of the newest ideas by foreign style pirates, thus defrauding the couturiers of their rights — for the good reason that they have no copyrights.

THERE'S AN ELECTRIC HEATING METHOD FOR EVERY HOME NEED!

Electric Heating is CLEAN, MODERN, AND SAFE!

Now, instantaneous, comfortable heating — of course, it's electric! Whether you are building your new home, remodeling or adding a room to your present home, you can use electric heating. The advantages you have with your electric working appliances are also yours with electric heating. Electric heating is the cleanest form of heating known. Now is the time to solve your heating problems for next winter and years to come. For information, without obligation, see your Public Service Company manager.

- * CEILING HEATING UNIT WITH CIRCULATING FAN

Ceiling heating units are ideal for bathrooms, hallways or kitchens. They can be used as the main heat source or as auxiliary heating. A flip of the switch gives you heat where you want it and, if desired, a controlling thermostat can be added for automatic operation.
- * RADIANT-CONVECTION WALL HEATERS

This type of electric heating you've seen many times either in portable heaters or in wall-mounted units. Such electric heating units are inexpensive, can be thermostatically controlled and are easily installed. One answer to the problem of heating a room added on.
- * RADIANT GLASS, METAL or CERAMIC PANELS

Nearest thing to the warmth of the sun's natural heat rays is electric radiant heat. Heating coils are imbedded in a heat conducting material which, through radiation, warms your family, floors, furniture. These units, mounted on wall, near floor, come in various sizes, up to 50 1/2 inches long.
- * HEAT LAMPS

Heat lamps are used where quick spot heating is desired — over work benches, in garages, working on the family car, etc. A heat lamp can be inserted in place of a regular lighting bulb, or it can be installed permanently in bathroom ceilings, etc.

- * YOUR PRESENT HOME
- * THAT ROOM YOU'RE ADDING ON
- * YOUR NEW HOME
- * BASEBOARD HEATING UNITS

Electric baseboard heating is completely inconspicuous since it can be painted to match or contrast with wall colors. In practically all homes the heating requirement is met by installation along outside walls only. Furniture can be placed anywhere without interfering with your heating.
- * EMBEDDED CEILING CABLES OR PANELS

As in all electric heating your furnace is miles away (at the electric power plant). You turn on a switch and get completely clean electric heat. Continuous coils are run back and forth across entire ceiling area and then covered with plaster or texture paint material. Heating system is completely out of sight.
- * THE AMAZING NEW HEAT PUMP

Here's the amazing "heat pump" which uses the principle employed in your electric refrigerator to "pump" heat to you in winter and cool air in the summer. It's a combination central unit which costs approximately the same as the central heating and cooling units in conventional use. No matter the outside weather, the "heat pump" adjusts immediately to give you the weather you want inside your home.

Representative Gov.

Our forefathers fought a war with their king in order to establish a policy that there would be no taxation without representation. The war was successful. It established the principle of representative government of these shores.

But time has passed. And the principle of representative government has fallen upon evil ways. Now that we are older, and albeit a little wiser in the ways of representative government, we have learned to our sorrow that representation is in itself no cure for tyranny.

These two voters have the same representative. How can the representative vote in a manner pleasing to both his constituents? He simply cannot.

Now if you will multiply this situation by every issue extant, and then multiply that result by the number of voters within the district, you will have a faint idea of the confusion and the self-deceit practiced by Americans as they rely on representation to solve their problems.

So what occurs? The representative, if he is conscientious, endeavors to find where a majority of his constituents stand on a given issue. But this requires a clerk to tabulate the incoming mail.

Further, however the majority moves in a given issue, it must be that the representative will violate the trust placed in him by a minority. Remember, he is supposed to represent both the pros and the cons on every issue.

And as you run down the issues and check to discover majority opinions in each case, you will find that there is little consistency among voters and that before you are done, every representative will have betrayed virtually everyone at one time or another.

Truthfully, no one can speak altogether for you. You are an individual entitled to individual opinions in every case. And while a person who pretends to speak for you in one area may fulfill himself once, it is entirely likely that before he is done, he will betray you somewhere else.

We would be inclined to pity them in their dilemma were it not that it is self-induced in every case. No one has yet been compelled to hold public office. On the contrary, the office is sought with great energy and an expenditure of both time and money, many times entirely out of proportion to the earnings possible on a legal basis within the office.

Now, on the other hand, if a legislator, which is to say a representative, ignores the opinions of his constituents and endeavors to follow the wisdom of his own conscience in every case, then he is simply frankly stopped being a representative. He is simply substituting his own will for the wills of the persons who elected him.

How can this matter be resolved? The truth is that it cannot. So long as you depend upon representatives of yours to do your bidding, so long will you be hoodwinked, fooled and gulled. The only possible answer is for you to stop depending on your representative and depend upon yourself.

But this is impractical as we all know. How could you have a government in which all persons directly participated? You cannot find a meeting place that will hold 168 million persons.

So, in the end we must see that mankind comes to grief through this business of representation. But since it is only in the area where some men attempt to run the affairs of other men, that representation is practiced, it must also be apparent that if every man will concentrate simply on minding his own business, representation in this area would never be needed or practiced. What concerns us individually and personally must never be made the business of others. We require no one to speak for us here. All we require is that we be left alone.

There are, in short, only two kinds of government. There is the kind that PRETENDS to speak for the people, which it cannot do. Then there is the kind that abandons the pretense. One of these governments is bad, the other is worse.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES
Special Report:
Social Gospel—1957

In the last issue I was quoting from an article by John M. Payne in "Faith and Freedom" on how the National Council of Churches of Christ in America had been advocating various forms of socialism. I continue to quote:

"Mr. Layman, until a moment ago comfortably lounging at the end of the pew, looks about, troubled. 'What's going on here?'"

"The social actionists, long wary of what might befall them if their congregations woke up, responded with vigor. 'It's not true,' they shouted. 'We're not radicals. We are prophets.'"

"It happened to the Methodists, the Presbyterians and the Congregationalists among others. And a parallel battle raged within the FCC's successor, the National Council of Churches, itself."

"Mr. J. Howard Pew, prominent Philadelphia philanthropist, in 1950 agreed to head a committee of 200 prominent Christian laymen whose task, in part, was to understand the new National Council, morally and financially, in its formative years."

"Right away, the laymen faced problems of status and authority. Complaining further were the radical statements of the various NCC agencies in the social and political sphere. The most articulate, and probably farthest left, was the Department of the Church and Economic Life."

"That department came up, in 1954, with a document called 'Christian Principles and Assumptions for Economic Life.'"

"It told Protestants what, in the economic sphere, was 'Christian.'"

"Members of the Lay Committee took a long look at this statement and decided that it looked more nearly Socialist than Christian. (They didn't equate them.) In an almost unanimous vote, they protested and asked that their own 'affirmation'—a ringing declaration for freedom—be considered along with the controversial 'Principles and Assumptions.' (Shortly thereafter, the Lay Committee's life was terminated. See books listed on page 21 for complete story.)"

"The present P's and A's may be said to represent fairly the National Council of Churches' position today. Here are the high points: 'First of all, the NCC says 'no particular economic system is ordained of God.' Something very much like this idea underlay the 1958 Amsterdam disavowal of both communism and capitalism; it keys Social Action thought. But who can argue with it, literally? The Scripture certainly never reports Christ as saying 'I prefer capitalism to other economic systems.'"

"But let's look at this P. & A. statement, so widely accepted by theologians, so important to NCC thinking. 'The 'no particular system' argument begs the real question: In the light of what Jesus intended men should be, what economic system comes closest?'"

"If he declared that we should be free; that we are responsible as individuals for what we do, doesn't that pretty effectively rule out socialism? In fact, every planned state? Does it leave room for anything but a free market? As often as not, this 'restrained system' argument is used as a base for reasoning that a good bit of socialism is necessary."

"A Split Personality" "A defender of P. & A. will answer, 'Nonsense! The 1951 statement even goes so far as to criticize socialism.'"

"So it does, and it pays its respects to private ownership too, conceding that applied to many forms of property it stimulates production and protects freedom. But P. & A. doesn't really endorse the free market. Rather, it says '...the weight of evidence shows that some use of government in relation to economic activities is essential...'"

"The fact is that poor P. & A. is hopelessly schizophrenic. It wants to be popular by giving lip service to 'free enterprise' without giving up its basic ideology. So it endorses a lot of old-fashioned socialism without calling it by name."

"After 30 years of FCC and NCC in the field of Social Action, the balance of official Protestant church council beliefs run like this: Private enterprise is fine, but we can't relax economic and social safeguards or we'll have depression and unemployment. For this economic stability, we must look to government. Furthermore, we do not want great contrasts between rich and poor, so government must take a firm hand to guarantee minimum living standards to every one."

"Lead, Don't Lobby" "There is something else, too. The General Board of the National Council recently has greatly tightened its procedures. So it is harder today than it was two years ago for anyone to declare that he speaks for NCC, or for 35 million Protestants. As evidence of its new caution, the General Board of N.C.C. last spring declined to take a stand on right-to-work laws. But even this was used by the unions to imply simply that the NCC opposed the right-to-work laws."

"Probably most Christians approve NCC's new moderation. For half a century, the Federal and National Council have put most of the weight of their growing influence on the side of socialism. They turn toward the middle is bringing many a sigh of relief."

"But let's hope they don't make moderation their by-word. For what is needed is leadership—" away from the semi-socialism in which they have helped bring us. Today there's room for prophets on the side of freedom."

"But a word of caution. Lead, please, don't lobby." (To be continued)

People Alone Do Not Mean Prosperity
By Thurman Sensing

Time and again in recent weeks and months we have read articles and heard discussions to the effect that the prosperity of the United States is more or less assured for the next two or three decades at least by the enormous population growth we are experiencing in this country.

Those who make such predictions are certainly assuming a lot of things, because if they read history or if they will just look around them in the present world, they will realize that there is no relationship between population and prosperity. If the largest population meant the highest standard of living, then India and China would lead the world in a big way; just the opposite is the actual case. Under certain conditions, the greater the population, the lower the standard of living.

It's Up To You
By HOWARD E. KERSHNER, L. H. D.

A.F.L. - C.I.O.'s Collective Bargaining Report tells us that "wage and benefit increases negotiated in the first half of 1956 have been markedly larger in most instances than in 1955."

In good conscience and with a sense of fairness to others as well as self-interest, wage increases should be limited to increases in efficiency and output.

It would be even better if wages could remain the same and increased efficiency be reflected in lower prices for all. That would distribute the benefits more equitably among our whole population.

The report sums up some of the major increases by industries, as follows: Aircraft - 11-plus cents an hour; Men's Apparel - 12 1/2 cents; Cement - 18 cents; Glass - 15 cents; Oil - 16 cents; Paper - 12-13 cents; Retail - 13 cents; Rubber - 6.2 cents; Shipbuilding - 18 cents; Steel - 10 1/2 cents; Telegraph - 13 cents.

The above figures refer only to wages. If fringe benefits were added, they would probably be doubled. For instance, the above figure for steel is 10 1/2 cents while the bulletin states that "the value of wage and other gains for the first year (steel) alone is 20.3 cents."

It is always a matter of satisfaction to know that any diligent and competent worker is earning more money, but when the increase in money wages and fringe benefits exceeds the increase in output, it can only result in higher prices, and another round in the spiral that is destroying the value of the dollar.

Organized labor is strong in numbers and in ability to exert pressure. It may succeed for some time as it has up to now in advancing the wages of its members faster than the resulting price rises. In doing so, however, it is only benefiting its own members at the expense of their fellow citizens. The unorganized group is taking the rap in the form of lower living standards in order that the strong pressure groups may enjoy better living standards. The advantage, however, can be only temporary as the wage-price spiral, eroding our dollar as it does, will eventually bring hard times upon us all, organized and unorganized alike.

BETTY KNOWLES HUNT

SPEAK FOR YOURSELF!

As a lifelong Congregationalist, I was most interested in reading the published letter of Mr. Ray Gibbons (Council for Social Action of the Congregational Christian Churches) to Representative Gordon H. Scherer in Congress, asking whether the Un-American Activities Committee of the House of Representatives was planning to make another investigation of the Fund for the Republic, and threatening "vigorous action" if this were the case.

Since my interest was paralleled by an even greater indignation, I sent the following letter to Mr. Gibbons: Council for Social Action of the Congregational Christian Churches, New York City 30, New York. Dear Mr. Gibbons:

Your letter to Representative Gordon H. Scherer, which has been published in several newspapers has recently come to my attention.

I note that you refer to "religious agencies", and state that "a number of representatives of these agencies are prepared to release a joint statement to the press and to take vigorous action with their large constituencies, if necessary."

May I please inquire, sir, just what you mean by "vigorous action", and just whom you include in those "large constituencies"?

This is vitally important to me since I am a member of the Winnetka Congregational Church, and as a Congregationalist, I am wondering if by any remote chance you consider yourself my representative, or are including me in your "large constituency" estimate?

If so, you could not be more mistaken! You do not represent me, nor can you speak for me, or write letters for me, or threaten Congressmen for me, or take "vigorous action" for me. You may take any of these actions for yourself personally, but you have no right whatsoever to take them on behalf of any other Congregationalist whose permission you have not received, and whose views you have never bothered to ascertain.

It so happens that my views are quite the opposite of yours in this matter, and this is to inform you that if you have included me in your "large constituency", I order you forthwith to include me out of it! I also insist that the next time you feel desirous of "speaking for others", that you first obtain their permission in writing, and not be so arrogant as to assume that you have "rights" which you do not have in fact.

The historical tradition of Congregationalism was the sacred right of each and every individual to speak, think and act for himself, as well as to be wholly accountable for himself. You would seem to have forgotten the very heart of the religion which you claim on your letterhead to espouse.

Regretfully yours, Betty Knowles Hunt

The Communists say Americans have lost their nerve. But some of them have plenty of gall. Lewis W. Griggs, Otto G. Bell, and William A. Clowar are three Korean veterans who refused repatriation and chose to remain in Red China at the time of the armistice. After remaining there 18 months, they decided to come home. Now they are suing the government for back pay and allowances covering the period that elapsed between their capture and their dishonorable discharge. The sum comes to $15,000 and if they win it will come from the pockets of the American taxpayer. Apparently during their period of indoctrination, they were taught that any gouge on the United States treasury has a chance of getting by.

BID FOR A SMILE

Man—I hear you never take your wife out. Friend—That's right—I make it a point never to run around with married women.

Our population has grown from 150 million in 1950 to approximately 170 million in 1957. It is estimated that the population will reach 200 million by 1967 and perhaps pass 225 million by 1975. If we are going to assure prosperity for all these people, we had better begin thinking about cutting taxes so that the billions of dollars we are now spending on such things as foreign aid and welfare state benefits and bureaucratic administration—all of which are entirely unproductive and add nothing to the standard of living—can then be spent on investment in new factories and new machinery and new products and thereby provide productive jobs for all who will be needing them. Only in this way can prosperity be maintained.

Sincerely, R. J. Thornthorn, 7051 Thornthorn Ave., Anaheim, Calif.

Articles for this column are preferred to be 300 words or less in length. However, longer articles may be printed.

Sometime ago there were articles in the paper about the things County Judge Bruce Parker was going to do on the juvenile problem and problems concerning children and their parents of this community. I believe his mouth is bigger than his actions.

Recently, there were five boys, ages seven-teen to twenty-one, out looking for trouble. I believe the old saying goes that if you look for trouble you can find it. The five boys mentioned above jumped on and beat up on three smaller boys, ages fourteen, fifteen, and sixteen. Now they had really done something. Don't you think?

The paper carried an article that "the case of five boys involved in the recent beating up of three younger boys here in Pampa last Thursday evening was still under consideration and that no charges had been filed at this time." The mothers of the younger boys had spent the entire afternoon the day before trying to sign papers and they were told that it wasn't necessary, that Sheriff Rufe Jordan had taken care of it. And before the ink got dry on this very edition the county attorney and the attorney for the older boys called a hearing in the Justice of Peace Court and two boys pleaded guilty and were fined $25 and court costs and one pleaded not guilty. Two a twenty-one year old boy was released, because they did not get out of the car and fight.

This is not the first time this sort of thing has occurred. And it is no wonder it continues to occur when the parents say, "Oh, they will get out of it alright." And then laugh it off as if it were a joke, and hire lawyers for their defense. They don't seem to realize they have failed as parents. They haven't made men out of their boys at all.

I can't believe that boys that have been taught any religious faith at all could bring such a humiliating thing to their families and community. I guess the Good Lord blessed us after all—in the fact that we are childless and don't have to raise a child in a community that doesn't seem to be able to cope with these growing situations.

Mrs. Kay Smith, Pampa, Texas

Editor: In his defense of so-called "federal aid to education," President Eisenhower is reported to have said that such federal aid does not mean federal control. Now it is a much-repeated truth that ANY so-called federal aid is, and can ONLY be, the forcible collection of money from the people and giving PART of it back to them. It is impossible to give back more than PART of what is taken, because there is an expense involved in collecting and distributing money. Nowhere except from the people can money to cover any federal expense be gotten. So-called "federal aid" is, therefore, another of the many confusing and deceiving terms being used today. Only those who are duped who give little thought to the meaning of a term or word, as compared to the act which it is intended to describe.

The only way in which federal aid to education can be reasonably argued as being such that the federal government does "aid" those (states) having less by giving them what it takes from them PLUS some of what it takes from those (states) which HAD more. This is forcible distribution of wealth—a true communist doctrine. Unless people agree that so-called "federal aid," if it IS aid to anyone, is both a pro-communist and an anti-American act, how can it be explained as being anything other than federal control?

Just how does how-much-to-give there is in Eisenhower's reported remark that federal aid to education does not mean federal control, suppose one school used such "aid" to buy candy, toys and other gifts to be given as prizes to those students who did best memorize, write essays on, and give talks on the American Constitution and Bill of Rights.

Suppose another used its money to hire such speakers as Dan A. Manion, Bracken Lee, Sen. Jenner, Dan Smoot and Joe McCarthy to explain to the students the unfairness of income-tax, the foolishness of foreign aid except to friendly countries in an emergency, and the unreasonableness of allowing the use of force to gain demands not required by law.

What if another used its aid to have explained that the United Nations is a foreign government on American soil, and among other unfairnesses related to it the American school children's parents provide most of the money for its support. And another school spent all it got on picnics, parties and similar entertainment. Who, including Eisenhower, would say that the federal government would not interfere in such case with federal controls?

If, thru law, the government prohibits certain uses to be made of its so-called "aid," or if it prohibits schools from refusing to make certain uses of all or even PART of its "federal control," so-called "federal aid to education" is federal control, and appears to be ONLY federal control. The "handing" of people's money is only a confusing and deceiving act used as an excuse to control—seemingly an excuse to bring the people nearer total slavery.

Sincerely, R. J. Thornthorn, 7051 Thornthorn Ave., Anaheim, Calif.

Billy Davis Named Gray Co. Conservation Rancher

The Gray County Soil Conservation District has chosen Billy R. Davis, born and raised in Gray County, as the best conservation rancher in the district for 1957.

Davis manages and operates a total of 25,568 acres. About half of this he leases and the remainder he owns.

He is a very active young rancher, who besides taking care of his ranch, has found time to join many organizations concerning his business and some that do not. Some of the organizations that he belongs to are: American Hereford Breeders Association, Top of Texas Hereford Breeders Association, Southwest Texas Cattle Raisers Association, American National Wildlife Refuge, Texas Game Refuge, American Meat Research Association, Texas Meat Association, and he is a delegate to the State Water Control Board. He has also been a member of the Pampa Jaycees.

Davis got off to an early start in conservation work. His father started a program of building dams for livestock water and erosion control back in the mid-1930's. Davis's father also recognized the necessity for proper use of his range and and of the need for deferred grazing in his ranching operations. Davis took over the management of the ranch after the death of his father in 1946.

In 1950 Davis became a district cooperator with the Gray County Soil Conservation District, and has worked very close with the district in getting conservation on the ground. Davis has been instrumental in getting a number of other farmers and ranchers to become district cooperators and then in getting conservation applied on their land.

Davis is a strong believer in proper use of his range. He has studied and knows the native grasses found on his range. He also knows a number of the introduced grasses and the value of each. As the dry years have come on, Davis has reduced his stocking rate accordingly and despite the long drought he still has the better quality grasses and a very good cover over his entire ranch. Davis believes it takes a good cover to make proper use of the little moisture that falls. To get proper use and better grazing distribution over the ranch, he has made it a practice to build a dam or two every year to get more livestock water in the places where water is needed. Some of these dams also serve for erosion control. He has also drilled a number of wells and put windmills to get better grazing distribution. He plans to continue to build dams and to place windmills where needed. He does work to improve his range each year.

He has carried on a good program of deferred grazing every year. He sees the need for resting part of his pasture each year to keep up the vigor of his grasses and to keep plenty of litter on the ground. The ranch is fenced into pastures small enough so that parts of it can be easily rested each year.

Davis has retired several old fields from cultivation and has seeded them back to grass. On these fields he tried some of the introduced grasses, but he prefers to use the native grasses. Some of these fields have been seeded since the drought began. He has also seeded over some bare spots and some burned over spots and now has a cover and a stand of grass on them.

He has also fitted wildlife into his conservation plan. He is a member of the American National Wildlife Refuge and of the Texas Game Refuge and has signs prominently displayed, showing his association with these organizations. He has engaged to provide plenty of food and cover on his ranch which is essential to wildlife. Wildlife is protected on his place from hunters. Quail, dove, and prairie chicken can be found over the range.

At the time Davis took over the management of the ranch, there were a number of prairie dogs, but with the aid of the county agent, he has practically eliminated the prairie dog situation. Davis has handled his leased land the same as he has his own. Where there has been the need for a windmill, a dam, or an old field needed to be seeded back to grass, Davis has never hesitated but has gone on ahead with these measures on the leased land just the same as if it had been his own. He figures that it pays to use good conservation practices on any land, even though it may not belong to him.

Davis graduated from New Mexico Military College and then served as a pilot in the Air Force during World War II.

Texas Broiler Market Report

AUSTIN (UP) — Texas' commercial broiler markets closed the week under a general price decline that developed under the pressure of competitive out-of-state offerings, the State Department of Agriculture reported Saturday.

The markets in Texas opened the week's trade steady and held until late trade when the decline developed. At the close Friday, all areas were about steady on the lower price levels, with only slight declines anticipated during the weekend, the department reported.

Closing prices were mostly one-cent lower in South Texas, and unchanged to one-half cent down in East Texas and the Waco-Corpus area. The Bureau of Agricultural Economics reported a total of 1,963,000 broiler chicks were placed on Texas farms during the week ending April 6. This was off 4 per cent from placements for the previous week, and down 9 per cent from the corresponding week last year.

GRAY COUNTY Soil Conservation District News

By JACK DOUGLAS
Work Unit Conservationist

Remember the song that was so popular a year or so ago — "It's Later Than You Think?" Well in many ways it is later than you think, and for sure, it's time for us to stop and take inventory of our resources in the way of our soil, plants, and water.

Any successful businessman will tell you that an inventory every so often is necessary for him to stay in business. As farming is one of the biggest businesses in the world it follows that we as farmers should be the first to complete that inventory.

In the past, too few farmers stopped to do this. That is one reason we have the great amount of erosion we have today. Did you know that every year over five billion tons of topsoil is washed and blown from our farms? Did you know that every year over one billion tons of topsoil washes down the Mississippi River alone. If this soil that washed down this one river was put into 10-ton trucks and they were parked bumper to bumper they would stretch from the northern most tip of Alaska to the southern most tip of South America. Now let us stop to realize that it takes nature from 300 to 1,000 years to build one inch of topsoil, depending upon the parent material. We all know that the topsoil is where our "dollars" come from. When we think about this erosion, it no longer puzzles us why some of our yields have been decreasing.

At the present time we have about 170 million people in the United States. In 1975, not even 20 short years away, it is estimated that our population will have increased to 221 million. Right now there is less than 3 acres to produce food for each person. In 1975, this will have decreased to about 2 acres for each person.

Now with our population ever increasing and our fertile farms ever decreasing when will our abundant America cease to be the land of plenty?

This is not a problem that will be in the future. It is with us now. Our sons and daughters are the ones who will have to live with our mistakes of today — our mistakes of soil erosion.

Some of you have heard the story of the small community in which there lived an old gentleman that some people regarded to be the smartest person in the world. One day a couple of small boys who doubted this claim decided to see for themselves if this was true. One of them said "I know where there is a nest that has a small bird in it. Let's get the bird and cup it in our hands where the old man can't tell what it is. Then we will ask the old man what we have in our hands. I know he can't tell us but if he does we will ask him if the bird is alive or dead. If he says it is alive, we can squeeze it to death and if he says the bird is dead we will show him it is alive. That way we know he won't be the smartest person in the world." — This plan was carried out and as the boys approached the old man one of them asked, "Old man what is this we have in our hand?" The old man saw a tiny blue feather sticking out and said "Well son, that's a bird you have in your hand". The boys were very surprised and then asked "Well is that bird alive or dead?" The old gentleman immediately saw through their plan and answered, "Sonny, in your hand you hold a way of life. With that life you can either make it useful and productive or crush it and make it forever worthless."

is this we have in our hand? The old man saw a tiny blue feather sticking out and said "Well son, that's a bird you have in your hand". The boys were very surprised and then asked "Well is that bird alive or dead?" The old gentleman immediately saw through their plan and answered, "Sonny, in your hand you hold a way of life. With that life you can either make it useful and productive or crush it and make it forever worthless."

This is our position of today. In our hands as farmers we hold the very future of the world. Are we going to make this way of life useful and productive or forever worthless. There are many people available today to help work out the problems of soil erosion. Among these persons and agencies are the Soil Conservation Service technicians assisting the Gray County Soil Conservation District. You are urged to take advantage of this technical service.

Too Much
OGDEN, Utah (UP) — While recovering from frostbite which cost him both his legs, Isaac Bell confided to reporters a weakness for chocolate pies. After eating all of one and part of another, Bell confessed, he stored 15 more donated chocolate pies in a deep freeze until his craving returns.

Newspaper Prices Rising
NEW YORK (UP) — Three hundred and seventy-nine of the nation's 1,738 daily English language newspapers are now selling for more than a nickel, the American Newspaper Publishers Association reported Wednesday.
