A report by Ralph Milliron, engineer making a survey of the damage for the city and county, that was presented this morning to the City Commission and County Commissioners Court stated that the present spillway should be abandoned and a new spillway constructed to handle the necessary amount of water. The cost of construction of the new spillway was estimated at $370,000 by Milliron. (News Aerial Photo)

Milliron stated that it was his opinion that the only solution to the problem was the building of the new spillway. He stated that the old spillway could be reconstructed but that it would not handle enough water to take care of a large flood from rainfall in the 157 square mile water shed of the lake.

GM Called On Carpet By House Today

By FRANK ELEAZER
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—House investigators called today for action to recover some of the allegedly excess profits of General Motors made building 598 F84 jet fighters for the Air Force.

Chairman F. Edward Hebert (D-La.) of an armed services investigating subcommittee demanded also that disciplinary action be taken by the Air Force against employees who approved the GM contract.

The Hebert subcommittee made public Monday a General Accounting Office report on what the GAO called "unreasonably high prices" paid GM under the contract. The report said GM chalked up a profit of $32,940,500 on a $208,988,000 portion of the 376,848-900 contract whereas a profit of only $18,181,300 had been "contemplated."

The GAO, sometimes called the "Congress' watchdog of the Treasury," said GM refused to let government auditors see its books in completed defense contracts. Hebert has offered to issue a subpoena to let the GAO auditors see the books.

General Motors, in a statement issued Monday night, denied any wrongdoing and said it has completed the contract "to the satisfaction of the Air Force over two years ago."

It said its profits on the contract was 11.3 per cent of sales before taxes and 5.4 per cent after taxes. "This," it said, "is a reasonable rate of profit and substantially below the rate realized by GM in its commercial business."

It said details of the contract

Extensive Search For Sadistic Killer

EL SEGUNDO, Calif. (UP)—Shotgun-armed police today were conducting a house-to-house search for a sadistic killer who shot down two policemen after rapping a 15-year-old girl in a lovers' lane.

More than 100 officers set up road blocks and established a cordon around 100 residential blocks in the nearby seaside community of Manhattan Beach.

Police concentrated their search in the Manhattan Beach area Monday after Mrs. Camille Wilson reported a husky, blond man came to her door and told her he had been injured in a traffic accident. She said he told her, "If you want to be a good Samaritan you can get me a glass of water."

Mrs. Wilson said the man fled after she became scared and shut the door in his face.

Officers believed it was the same man who early Monday shot and killed officers Milton Curtis, 25, and Richard A. Phillips, 29, when they stopped him for a traffic violation. The suspect earlier had held up four teen-agers and fled in their car.

The teen-agers were parked in the lonely lovers' lane area when the man approached on foot and demanded they get out of the car. The suspect bound two of the boys and raped one of the girls before departing.

The killer abandoned the stolen car only four blocks from the scene of the slayings. Officers believed he fled on foot into the beach area and might have taken refuge in one of the thousands of resort homes in Manhattan Beach.

REPAIRS (Continued From Page One) second and the earthen overflow dike system would only handle 7,000 cubic feet of water a second.

He explained that studies made by the Soil Conservation Service in 1942 predicted the failure of the present spillway and that the new spillway was designed then to handle 34,000 cubic feet of water a second. This is more than any flood, since the dam has been built, has resulted in the spillway having to handle, he said. This would also eliminate the use of the present flood gates.

18 Hours

He reported that it took 18 hours for the flood gates to lower the lake five feet.

After hearing the report by Milliron, R. K. Parsley, city commissioner of Ward 3, stated, "I believe that this question should be put to a vote of the people."

In reply to a question by Robert D. Olson, city commissioner of Ward 4, Milliron reported that under present standards the old spillway was poorly engineered and that the new spillway should be constructed.

Milliron also stated that an additional $3,000 should be spent, using either plan on the spillway problem, to build an earthen dam across the stream from the north that intersects McClellan Creek below the spillway. He reported this dam was needed to slow down floods from this stream that have helped to cause the present damage to the spillway and the dam.

No Action Taken

No action was taken by the commission this morning on the question of the lake.

No comments were available from members of the county commission and one commissioner indicated that they would need time to study the proposals of the engineer.

Causes given by Milliron of the failure of the present spillway were: the small capacity of the spillway which results in the topping of the walls by the water, a slab section probably fell first from uplifting which caused the earth below to wash out and in turn collapsing the adjoining slabs, damage resulting from the water from the stream from the north and the jack of a stilling basin at the end of the spillway which allow flood waters to scour and wash the foundation area at the end of the spillway with the probability of undermining the structure.

The new spillway proposed today would eliminate these hazards, Milliron stated.

City Commission Action

In other business today, the City Commission approved the setting of August 13 as the date for opening bids on the purchase of 3,000 feet of fire hose by the city. The hose, 2,000 feet of 2 1/2 inch and 1,000 feet of 1 1/2 inch, will be used by the fire department to equip new fire trucks and to replace hose currently in use. The bids will be opened at 10 a.m.

The date for accepting bids on water pipe and sewer tile was set for August 7, by the commission. This date is on Wednesday but due to the emergency in obtaining the pipe and that the bid must be advertised for 14 days, the commissioners decided not to wait until the following Tuesday and will hold the meeting on Wednesday of that week.

The commissioners learned that construction of the city swimming pool in Crawford would take another 10 days. The construction, which was to have been finished this week, has been delayed. The construction of the concrete walls of the pool is currently in progress.

Perryton To Raise Budget

(Special to The News) PERRYTON — The preliminary budget for Perryton was presented to the city council Tuesday night, and was approximately $34,000 more than last year.

The $346,000 budget will be studied by council members, revised, and then filed with the city clerk on Aug. 6. Public hearing will be held on Sept. 3.

The increase will be spread generally over city operations, with no particular area primarily responsible for the additional amount requested.

Budget for the fiscal year which ends Sept. 30, was $312,000.

Mail Order Catalogs Displayed In Poland

By GAY PAULEY
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—Mail order catalogs, frozen orange juice and corn-on-the-cob were the leading attractions among the "Americans" displayed at the international trade fair in Poznan, Poland. So says Barbara Sampson, a home economist and the only American woman helping with the U. S. exhibit at the recent 15-day event.

It was the first time the United States has participated in a trade fair behind the Iron Curtain. Miss Sampson said the results were a lot of new friends for the United States.

"The people knew they couldn't buy most of the things we showed," she said. But no one seemed to resent this.

"While the fair was on, the eating establishments in Poznan were closed to all but foreigners. So the Poles just brought their lunches or dinners. One man told me he would be glad when the fair was over so there would be more in the shops for Poznan residents.

"But he wasn't griping. After all, to the Polish, what are two weeks in 20 years of doing without!"

Crowd Like Wheat
Miss Sampson said "We don't have crowds in this country like we had at Poznan.

"Eighteen thousand people an hour moved through the U. S. pavilion," she said. "But they didn't push or shove. I kept thinking of the sway of a giant wheat field."

She said that in all, 1,680,000 persons visited the U. S. exhibits. Miss Sampson, a home economist with General Foods, supervised the foods exhibits set against a supermarket-montage. She said the stress was on frozen foods—264 varieties were displayed—because these are things typical of our kitchens and unknown in Poland.

In the early morning and late afternoon when the crowds thinned, visitors could stop to talk and taste. "There was much smacking of lips over orange juice," said she. "The frozen corn on the cob amazed them; to most Europeans, corn is animal food."

Girls Learn Fast
She trained 11 Polish girls, all students at the University of Poznan, to help her with the food demonstrations. Most of the cooking was done with electrical appliances, which, like the hundreds of cases of foods, were shipped from the states.

"The girls had never seen a ro-tisserie," she said. "But it wasn't long before they were running electric toasters, skilllets and waffle irons expertly. The electric can opener was such a hit with the visitors we just kept it going, even though it was grinding around an empty can half the time. It got 10 years' wear in two weeks."

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UP)—Lots of money moved over the counters of two taverns here Saturday but it was strictly "no sale." Federal revenue agents scooped the money from the tills to meet tax liens.

Socialized Hair? It's Inevitable

By WARD CANNEL
NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (NEA)—The whole trouble with eavesdropping is that nothing is what you thought it was. Like this middle-aged gent at the coffee counter confiding to his friend in a heavy Russian accent:

"Socialized hair is inevitable." Well, it turns out he's not a spy and like that. Instead, he's a respectable hair stylist named Bernard Guro with a big following of fashionable ladies, and in a rather surprised tone he explained.

"What I said was if America ever turns to socialized medicine, socialized hair is inevitable."

That, of course, made it crystal clear sort of.

"Listen," Guro said testily, "I don't know who you are, but do you know how many women have a real psychological problem with baldness and thin hair?"

The answer, according to one of the world's leading hair-piece companies, is between three and four million women who have a serious hair problem, and another 10,000,000 borderline women who must use clever hair styles to cover up otherwise-visible scalp.

The firm with these statistics is the 125-year-old Joseph Fleischer, Inc., whose fourth generation hair heir, Paul Fleischer, said:

"There's nothing funny about it. Women with severe hair problems are often shamed into becoming recluses. Once in a while we even hear about a suicide case directly traceable to baldness."

While science has not yet been able to link baldness directly with controllable factors, Fleischer said, heredity, advancing age and tension all play a part. Certain illnesses, too, take their toll in hair.

On the other hand, he said, many women have a normal number of hairs—about 150,000—but the diameter of each may be very small, giving the appearance of baldness.

"After all," Fleischer said, "thick, lustrous hair is an important part of giving a woman a sense of beauty. You never see thin-haired movie stars, because if they're thin-haired, they wear a necessity hair piece."

Fleischer's firm makes five kinds of problem-pieces: regular; three kinds of deluxe; and a "masterpiece." A woman can spend from $50 to well over $200—depending on the quality of hair, kind of hairline, type of workmanship in the piece.

The best quality of hair, according to experts in the industry, comes from the Piedmonte section of Italy where the Teutonic and Latin strains have joined in a suitable climate to produce good textured hair with a uniform color or from root to tip.

Fleischer, for example, makes a yearly trip to the Piedmonte to buy hair. "They know I'll come and so they wait for me."

"They" are, either peasants whose hair grows at the rate of six inches per year, or novitiates

Communism Thrown For Big Loss In Tibet

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent
COMMUNISM has been thrown for a big loss in Tibet. The Chinese Reds who invaded the little Himalayan country in 1950 have confessed that it is not ready for the Marxist way of life. Consequently, the Peiping government is withdrawing most if not all of its occupation troops and many of its civilian personnel.

Tibet will remain under Chinese sovereignty. But Tibetan troops are replacing Red troops in the cities and Tibetan officials are administering the country's internal affairs.

Forced Invasion
China always has claimed sovereignty over Tibet, nestled 15,000 feet up in the Himalayan Mountains. But the Manchus and the Nationalists who succeeded them never moved to exert the control they claimed.

The Chinese Communists finally got around to asserting their claim to sovereignty in October, 1950. To the dismay of "neutralist" Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India, the Communists invaded Tibet in force.

They announced that they intended to inaugurate in Tibet a "golden era," with all the blessings of communism.

After some determined opposition, largely by hastily-organized guerrilla bands, the Reds overran the country and occupied Lhasa, the capital.

Persistent Uprisings
But there were persistent uprisings in the provinces. In the cities officials did everything they could to make the invaders aware that they were unwelcome.

Gray hair can be either drab or beautiful. Its appearance depends on the care and the styling given it. This youthful, prematurely gray woman (left) has her hair cut in an easy-to-keep style with forward movement. And to give it color and life, she uses a smoky-toned rinse. The mature woman with a good deal of white in her hair (center) may have a yellowish cast to contend with. She solves her problem by using a rinse that lends a white, iridescent look to her hair. Her hairstyle moves upward and away from her face to provide life for her features. The chic woman with gray hair (right) likes a rinse that gives her hair a true silvery cast, and a hairdo that directs the eye upward, away from the lines of the throat.

Women Who Swing Along With Years Will Have Envable, Distinct Charm

By ALICIA HART, NEA Beauty Editor
 The mature woman who constantly strives to look younger often succeeds only in destroying the charm and grace that should rightfully be hers.
 Youth cannot be recaptured once it's gone, and the woman who accepts her age, and the poise and dignity that grow with it, will find that looking lovelier is far more satisfying than looking younger.
 Certainly, there are women who look better if they tint their graying hair. But for some of us, it's wiser to concentrate on making gray hair exquisite instead of attempting to conceal it. It's true that gray hair requires more care than other shades, but when that care is taken, the result is most rewarding.
 There are a few basic precepts in hair styling that should be followed by all of us who are approaching or past middle age, and the first and foremost rule is to keep it smooth and simple. A preponderance of curls is unattractive.
 The hair should be styled to give lift to the face, and the temple line is the point at which it should move back and upward for the lifting effect.
 The wise mature woman will wear her hair at a short to medium length. Short hair gives a lifting look, whereas long hair droops and tends to give an aging line.
 When a woman chooses to remain gray, she should make the most of her gray hair by using a rinse to make it come alive. One famous manufacturer of hair colorings makes available four different shades to enhance gray hair, ranging from silver through the blue and black tints.
 Though gray hair is striking and distinctive, it must be guarded against yellowing. Excessive exposure to sunlight has a yellowing effect. If, however, it has been exposed to too much sun and become an ugly yellow, there is a rinse which is guaranteed by the maker to eliminate the unattractive discoloration.
 No beauty asset is lovelier than well-kept gray hair. So if you're not absolutely sure that you'll look better by tinting your locks as they turn gray, take advantage of the many products available to enhance the beauty of the silver coiffure. Remember that maturity brings with it its own loveliness, while an imitation of youth simply evokes pity.
 The woman who swings along with the years will have a charm savored by many. Since she hasn't called attention to her age by protesting too much, rarely will anyone wonder exactly how old she is.

SWEET CORN on the cob is one of the pleasures food lovers look eagerly forward to and can enjoy in June and July.

COOK'S NOOK

'Corn As High As Elephant's Eye' Will Be True This Month And Next

By GAYNOR MADDOX
 "The corn is as high as an elephant's eye."
 That's the way the song from Oklahoma runs. It will be true all this month and next.
 Certainly fresh corn, sweet and succulent, is one of nature's greatest blessings in the summertime. On the cob, or with kernels cut off for use in chowder, fritters, puddings or fondues, it is everybody's favorite.
 Fresh corn should be cooked soon after brought. If there is a delay, keep in the refrigerator. In cool, the sugar content which gives it its fine quality will not turn to starch, as it may if the corn is kept in a warmer spot.
FRESH CORN ON THE COB
 Husk fresh corn and remove silks. Place in a saucepan containing 1 inch boiling water and 1 tea-

RUTH MILLET

A recent issue of one of those magazines designed to make young men feel older and old men feel younger carries an article on separate vacations for husbands and wives.

The male author takes the stand that men have been benepiced in to family vacations and they ought to demand separate vacations.

I venture to say there are as many wives as husbands who would like a separate vacation, if the wife got an equal break with the husband.
 That is, if the husband would keep the children while the wife goes away for two weeks and if she would keep the children while he got away from it all.
 The trouble is, when most husbands speak of separate vacations what they mean is that they will go off by themselves. Mama can take the kids and go somewhere for a couple of weeks.
 That's not much of a vacation for Mama. So no wonder most women don't fall for the idea.
 It's a safe bet the separate vacation idea would be given up after one summer's try if Papa had to take the kids along with him, or stay home with them while Mama went gallivanting off on her own.
 So maybe the men better not start any serious talk about separate vacations until they are as free as her husband, spending as much money as his vacation costs and completely shuffling off all feeling of responsibility for home and family while she is away.
 Any husband who is willing to make separate vacations a fair and equal arrangement probably won't meet with any resistance from his wife.
 He might even be shocked by her quick answer: "Okay, it's a deal. But I'd better go first, because I think you'll need a vacation when you get through with your turn at running the house and riding herd on the kids."

TOMORROW'S DINNER: Scaloped salmon and green pepper; parsley boiled new potatoes, corn on the cob, enriched bread, butter or margarine, sliced beefsteak tomatoes, blackberry tarts, coffee, tea, milk.

Senate Not Alone In 'Rights' Fight

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—For the record it should be noted that the United States Senate is not the only political forum in which a Negroes to equality and integration.

It may surprise some persons, including the embattled southern Democratic senators here, to learn that the other forum in which such a dispute prevails is the General Welfare Committee of the Municipal Council of the City of New York. Strange, but true.

Brando May Have Fallen For, Like Him, An Offbeat

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Hollywood Writer
HOLLYWOOD (UP)—The current light in Marlon Brando's eye is a 22-year-old beautiful Indian actress named Anna Kashfi who's an offbeat as he is.

Anna, under contract to MGM, finally is getting into top gear in her career in Columbia's "Cowboy" after a long illness. But although her films during her one and a half years here have been few, she achieved local fame as the girl most likely to permanently snare the heart of Hollywood's No. 1 bachelor.

Brando, now in Europe working in "The Young Lions" and, also dates Rita Moreno and other assorted beauties, but one close friend insists he is more serious about Anna and "he's talked of marrying her."

Native of India, The black-haired Miss Kashfi, born in Darjeeling, India, refuses to discuss Brando. But she does confess she is not one of those starlets who concentrates night and day on a full-time career.

In fact, she became an actress by accident. She was visiting London with her engineer father when

Drama Unfolds As Woman Regains Life

By DELOS SMITH
United Press Science Editor
NEW YORK (UP)—A drama of two lives—one within the other—began when a 30-foot log rolled off a passing truck. It hurtled a 22-year-old woman head-first into a wall.

Hers was the external life, and she seemed dead when picked up and carried to a hospital. Unconsciousness was deep and complete. All reflexes were gone, including the swallowing one.

Clearly her brain had been severely damaged, although there was no injury below the head. But the central nervous system was knocked out. Most immediately alarming, its heat-retulating center was not functioning.

Her temperature was 105.5 degrees and rising. She was packed in ice-bags and bathed with icewater for seven days. Body temperature was brought down and held between 86 and 93 degrees which, of course, is considerably below normal.

Nerves Damaged

The heat retulating center came back. Muscles began showing spasm, and she groaned and moved if touched. So the nervous system was reviving but she remained deeply unconscious—and she was fed by stomach tube.

One month after injury, the nervous system began functioning all cockeyed, as you'd expect of any badly damaged complex thing. For 15 days, while still unconscious, she "scrambled and slithered about the bed, pulling and biting at the sheets until they were in ribbons. Every few minutes during the day and often through the night, she would let off a piercing wailing scream."

Gradually this diminished. "At times she would react favorably by gesture to the quietly spoken voice, when some kind of understanding or recognition would come into her eyes." Four months after the injury, she was muttering in the voice of a very little

A considerable part of the pressure on Congress to enact the pending civil rights bill without any softening of its provisions comes from New York City and similar great urban areas outside the South. Even so, New York's General Welfare Committee has been troubled since last May 21 by a simple proposal. The proposal would make it unlawful to discriminate for reasons of race, color, religion, national origin or ancestry in the rental or sale of dwelling space. The proposed ordinance is intended to open to Negroes dwelling units evidently now closed to them by reason of such discrimination.

Opposition Strong

Newspapers and individuals which long have championed such a civil rights project as now confronts the Senate have been less enthusiastic about the anti-discrimination project in their home town. The real estate boards of all five boroughs of New York City vigorously opposed the proposed ordinance.

After public hearings in mid-June, the project was sent back to committee. The main contention against the proposition was 3 to 1 at City Hall. Some councilmen said their mail was 4 to 1 against. What happens next is anybody's guess.

The ordinance already has been substantially amended. It originally provided fines up to $500 for discrimination in the sale or rental of housing units. Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-N.Y.) was among those staunch advocates of the civil rights bill now pending in the Senate who urged modification of the New York proposition to eliminate certain punitive provisions.

The $500 fine provision has been abandoned.

Javits opposed the fine provision. He urged, instead, resort to "mediation, conciliation and technical assistance, with court injunctions as the primary enforcement medium to back it up."

Charles Abrams, head of the New York State Commission against Discrimination, took the same stand. The New York Times reported the Javits-Abrams action in this language:

Softening Amendments

"Two champions of civil rights called yesterday (July 7) for amendments to soften proposed city legislation to outlaw discrimination in private housing."

If, indeed, the proposal was to soften, then Javits' position toward the civil rights legislation pending in the Senate is substantially different. He opposes any softening there.

The committee also amended the bill to eliminate all cooperative apartments. As introduced last May, the bill exempted only one and two-family houses except girl, "I love my mummy."

Healthy Child Born

Five months after the injury, she recognized her husband. Her legs were still paralyzed, and her mind was hardly functioning. But despite all that had happened to her, the other life which was within her, had been going on apparently undisturbed.

This life came into the world six and a half months after the injury, when she gave birth to "a healthy and perfectly formed boy."

"This wonder of life has greatly interested medical scientists. It occurred in an English hospital and was described in a technical journal by the doctors who were in charge, G. F. Rowbotham and Kathleen Bell.

"They said: "No doubt the patterns of the future are laid down at the moment when the mother's ovum and the father's spermatozoon unite and are little influenced by the mother's nervous system during growth. The mother affords shelter and nutrition. Any fault or disease in the maternal nutrient can, of course, very seriously affect the child. The effect, however, of injury to the head or indeed the other parts of the mother's body are not passed on to the child."

Grapplers Wreck Dressing Room In Unscheduled Fray

Dory Fink and Iron Mike DeBlase tangled in a locker room fray last night during the wrestling at Sportsman Club. The fracas, held without benefit of referee or mat, occurred between falls of the semi-final match. It began over a difference of opinion and ended with broken furniture and shattered window panes. No official winner was announced. In other matches last night, John Tollas won over Major Flett with an airplane spin and a body press in the first event, one fall match. In the second event, a two out of three fall match, Dory Fink took the first fall over Tokyo Joe in 5 minutes and 8 seconds with a spinning toe hold. Joe took the second in 8 minutes with a body press. The third fall never materialized as the men carried the battle outside the ring, and the match was called with no winner. The main event went to Iron Mike over Thor Hagen, with Mike taking the first fall in 12 minutes, 24 seconds on a Boston Crab hold. Hagen took the second in a rapid 28 seconds with a body press, and Mike returned to take the third fall and match victory in 1 minute, 48 seconds with a body press. The matches are held each Monday evening in Sportsman Club at 8:30, sponsored by the Pampa Shrine Club.

Orange Bowl Forced To Drop ACC Ties

By STAN TAIT
United Press Sports Writer
MIAMI (UP) — Officials of the Orange Bowl football game disclosed today that pressure from television networks for more attractive games prompted them to drop their bowl tie-up with the Atlantic Coast Conference. The Bowl Committee announced Monday it has renewed its bowl agreement with the Big Eight (the old Big Seven) from 1959 through 1961. But a similar pact with the ACC will be dropped after the game next Jan. 1.

Orioles Need Music For Morale Boosting

BALTIMORE (UP)—The Baltimore Orioles have decided to say it with music and one fan already has suggested, "Open The Door, Richards" as a possible morale booster. Oriole officials feel that a team song might spur the club on to greater heights. The darkhorse entry so far is an oldtime song by E. L. White entitled, "Don't Kill The Birds."

Indians, Austin Take Doubles

By UNITED PRESS
Oklahoma City and Austin scored doubleheader sweeps in the Texas League Monday night. The Indians bounced San Antonio 3-1 and 10-2, while Austin, reversing a double loss to Tulsa Sunday night, whipped the Oilers 5-3 and 8-2. Dallas bashed Shreveport 11-1 and Houston kept pace with a 5-0 victory over Fort Worth. No changes. The sites remain the same tonight, with Shreveport at Dallas, Houston at Fort Worth, Austin at Tulsa and San Antonio at Oklahoma City. Wait Derucki poled a solo homer to give Shreveport an early lead but Dallas came roaring back with 10 hits, including a seven-run seventh inning, highlighted by Dick Gettler's homer. Shreveport committed three errors. Howard Nunn, forging his fifth shutout of the season, turned back Fort Worth on two hits as Houston supported him with a 15-hit attack. Nelson Burbrink picked up two singles and a double for the Buffs. Jack Thomas came on in relief to save Ted Wills' five hitter in the opener for Oklahoma City. He set down San Antonio with the tying and leading runs on second and third with one out. Thomas came in with the score tied in the ninth and won it when the Indians scored six runs in the sixth. Austin rallied for three runs in the ninth inning to take the first game room Tulsa and took the second game behind Mike Lemish's seven-hit.

Monday it has renewed its bowl agreement with the Big Eight (the old Big Seven) from 1959 through 1961. But a similar pact with the ACC will be dropped after the game next Jan. 1.

The committee also disclosed a clause in the new pact that might permit perennial power Oklahoma to appear in the bowl as often as three times in the next four years. The committee had been under strong local pressure to end the "closed shop" selection of teams and open the door for local favorites Miami, Florida, and Florida State. But then the pressure came, too, from the television outlets. OBC President Joe H. Adams and former chairman Van Kuesse row said the networks were looking for a bigger audience.

"The television people wanted us to have a game with an inter-sectional angle," Kuesse row explained. "With a Big Eight champion as the host team, we have a wide choice from the Southeastern and Atlantic Coast conferences. Army, Navy and an outstanding eastern team."

The Sooners are eligible to return next year under an old agreement. In the new pact, the bowl got the Big Eight to agree to permit the conference champ to repeat again in 1959 because "it is the silver anniversary of the bowl."

Spokesmen for the ACC took the news with calmness and an I-told-you-so attitude. Conference President Geary Epley of Maryland said, "We knew they were considering it, so it is no great surprise. I'm sorry it happened because the ACC put the Orange Bowl on top."

But he admitted, "Personally, I think the ACC will not be better off. Teams of bowl games take pressure off the school administrators."

Acc Commissioner James H. Weaver said at Greensboro, N.C. He wasn't surprised at the action. "We have had only the very best of relations with the Orange Bowl and our friends in the Big Eight, and I am certain that these will continue," he said.

"There is no reason to get excited about not having any definite bowl alignment. The Southeastern Conference does pretty well without a bowl alignment. And there is nothing in the new contract to keep us from going to the Orange Bowl if we have the team."

From Newsboy To Owner Of The Booming Ruidoso Downs

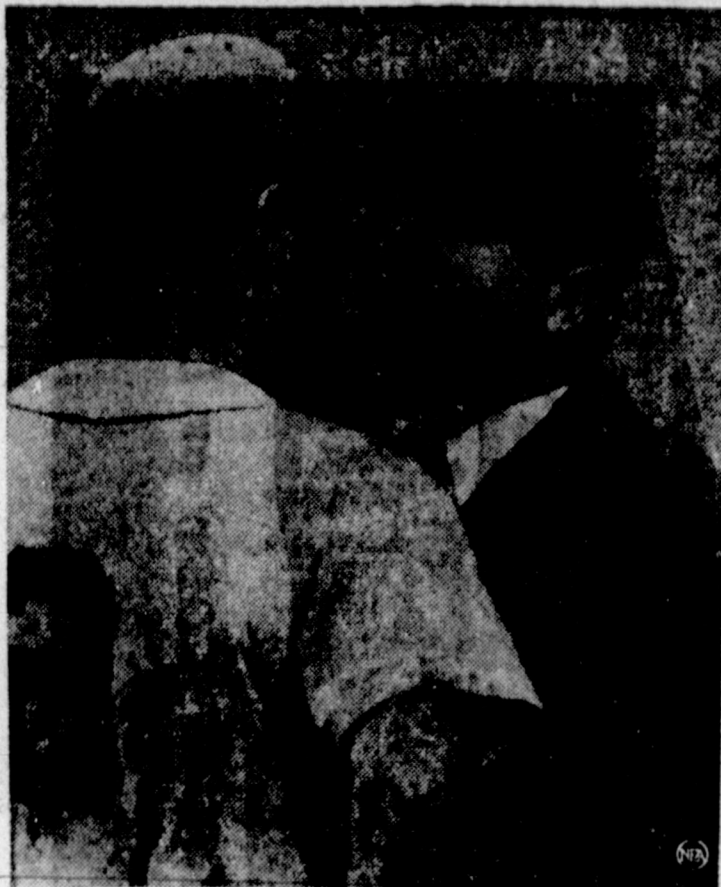

By ED FITE
United Press Sports Writer
RUIDOSO, N. M. (UP) — The legendary lure of printer's ink which is supposed to infiltrate a man's blood upon the slightest exposure lost out early in his chance to shape the life of Gene Hensley. Hensley, the effervescent mardom of Ruidoso Downs, one of the fastest growing horse racing plants in the nation, gained his first business experience selling newspapers like so many other youngsters of his time. He exposed himself even more to the smell of ink by becoming an apprentice pressman in his home town of Henryetta, Okla. But he didn't like it and moved on to other fields.

He migrated to Phoenix, Ariz., became a truck driver and then found his niche as he turned to selling—a field in which his high school sophomore peak of formal education proved no real handicap. Hensley became the top liquor salesman in Arizona and built up a business of his own so profitable that when he sold it he was able to go into the cattle business on a major scale.

But he dropped the cattle business in 1952 after he and a group of friends became intrigued with Ruidoso Downs, a rundown plant in the minor resort town miles and miles — even by western standards — from any populated area. Resort Center. IN FOUR SHORT YEARS, Hensley who had never had any race track experience, literally pulled the downs up by the bootstraps into a highly profitable operation and the mountainous Ruidoso region has grown as a resort center at the same pace.

The track, nestled in a picturesque setting among the tall pines of the 7,000-foot southern Rockies, can't come close yet to matching the crowd and mutual play of the nation's major tracks. "But potential here seems unlimited," Hensley said. "We've got 900 horses quartered here now and more and more of the better thoroughbreds are showing up. "We're taking it slow and building up our purses as a lure. Only last Saturday we had a $13,000 feature race — a purse that compares favorably with many of the more publicized tracks."

Jockey Club. Hensley has put the great percentage of the track's profits back into improvements, notably a jockey club that combines western hospitality with race track atmosphere. He bustles about everywhere clad in his boots, blue jeans, denim shirt and straw cowboy hat, a sharp contrast to the trimly tailored racing fans, most of whom he can call by first names. He's done so well he's been offered lucrative jobs by larger tracks. But the 44-year-old Hensley turned them down. "I'm happy here," Hensley said. "I'm really a salesman, and that's what I'm doing — trying to sell Ruidoso and the downs to the nation."

UMP BLASTS BACK—Frank House ran up to John Rice and had only started to enter his beef when the umpire made it clear that the Detroit catcher was called out at first base.

Hard Going
The administration is having a rough time trying to find another industrialist to take over as defense secretary when Charles E. Wilson quits. Main trouble: He'd have to give up his stock holdings, as Wilson did. And it would be just for a three-year lame-duck term. All indications are that steel magnate Clarence N. Randall turned down an offer of the job last week. The betting is that someone already in the Eisenhower official family will get it. Mentioned are Deputy Defense Secretary Donald Quarles; Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, head of the Red Cross; Secretary of Interior Fred Seaton and Army Secretary Wilber M. Brucker.

Inside Buckingham Palace
Buckingham Palace hopes that the London newspapers will drop the report that Princess Margaret may marry Lord Patrick Beresford, her present steady date. As of now, apparently, she doesn't intend to. But she is romantic-minded and an avid newspaper reader. Palace feeling is that if the reports keep up, she may convince herself she's in love again. An inside source says that is what really happened when the newspapers kept insisting she was in love with divorced air force hero Peter Townsend.

Time Of Decision
The course of the civil rights bill may be determined by a series of Senate votes expected early this week. If controversial Part III is knocked out, there will be a better chance of passing the bill and avoiding an all-out filibuster. The bill then would be limited largely to protecting Negro voting rights. But you can expect civil rights backers to try again to stiffen it if that happens.

CLEVELAND, Ohio — W. Kenneth Davis, director of the Atomic Energy Commission's Reactor Development Division, on Russia's "grandiose" nuclear plans:
"It would be silly indeed to let unsupported and irrational claims as to (Soviet) capabilities distort and warp sound U.S. policies and programs."

NEWARK, N.J. — Gov. Robert B. Meyner, pooh-poohing the possibility of running in 1960 as vice president on a Democratic presidential ticket headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren, a Republican:
"My concern right now is to be re-elected governor of New Jersey."

LONG BEACH — Lovely, young Gladys Zender of Peru, reigning supreme as Miss Universe after nearly being disqualified on a technicality:
"I am very, very grateful for the understanding shown by the other contestants and my other friends in Long Beach."

FUCHU, Japan — Airman 3C Donald Wheeler of Cortez, Colo., on charges he disobeyed orders to get a "white sidewall" haircut:
"I do not want to look like a shaved jackass."

It looks as if Secretary of State John Foster Dulles will finally give permission for some American reporters to visit Communist China. But Washington sources say he will hold the line firmly there. He expects a flood of applications from missionaries, educators and others for passports. The word is that Dulles will reject them, and is trying to figure out how to frame the rejection without rousing too much resentment.

Travelers returning from Albania report that for some reason Czechs are replacing the approximately 5,000 Russian technicians in that tiny Communist satellite. But the Russians presumably still man what is reported to be a

Question Mark Over Tax Cut Prospects Next Year

By VINCENT J. BURKE
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—A $1,645,000,000 federal surplus for fiscal 1957 left a big question mark today over prospects for a tax cut next year.

Administration officials and lawmakers found both good news and bad in the final figures on federal income and outgo for the fiscal year. The good news is that the administration is expected to have a surplus of $1,645,000,000 over the administration January estimate.

The bad news: Total spending at $69,344,000,000 rose even faster, exceeding the January estimates by $444,000,000.

Moreover, administration officials acknowledged that spending would have gone much higher except for some lucky circumstances. For one thing, the British government decided for the time being not to draw any of a $400,000,000 loan which the administration had figured the Treasury would have to pay out last spring.

Be sure to compare the latest figures. The Big M gives you more. Here's how Mercury beats its competition in 8 big ways.

- ★ WIDEST CAR IN ITS FIELD—The Big M is over 6½ feet wide. Only America's three most expensive cars can match it—at a cost of at least $2,000* more!
- ★ LOWEST CAR IN ITS FIELD—The Big M is built closer to the ground than other cars. It's scarcely more than 4½ feet high—and without loss of headroom!
- ★ MORE ROOM INSIDE—To match the Monterey's hip room and rear seat leg room you have to pay $1,000* more!
- ★ HIGHEST STANDARD COMPRESSION—It would cost you over $500* more to match Mercury's standard compression (9.75 to 1) in any other car.
- ★ BIGGEST BRAKES—You'd have to pay over $130* more to match the Monterey's giant brake size in any other car. Mercury actually has bigger brakes than most of the highest priced cars.
- ★ MOST ADVANCED ROAD LIGHTING—You would have to pay over $130* more to get any other car with a real 4-beam headlamp system.
- ★ MOST NEW FEATURES—No other car at any price offers you any of these Big M dream-car features: Merc-O-Matic Keyboard Control, Floating Ride, power seat that "remembers," and Power-Booster Fan in Montclair series.

★ MOST ADVANCED STYLING—When you step into a Mercury you step out of the ordinary. Mercury's exclusive Dream-Car Design is shared with no other car. And this is a step that can save you money. Why not stop in and get all the money-saving figures today!
