Vanguard Rocket Explodes On Ground

Rockets Group To Tell The 'Inside Story'

WASHINGTON (UP)—Senators investigating "goon squad" violence along some southern highways promised today to air an inside story as told by the former bookkeeper of a teamsters union local.

Robert F. Kennedy, chief counsel of the Senate Rackets Committee, announced Mrs. Lola Jeanette Freels would testify today. He said "she is expected to cooperate with the committee."

The committee was moving into the second day of hearings on labor violence. Centered in Tennessee and spread to other states with the rolling stock of interstate trucking companies.

Kennedy said Mrs. Freels "has some first hand information on some of the violence on which we had testimony yesterday." He identified her as former bookkeeper of Teamsters Local 621 in Knoxville, Tenn.

John T. Reynolds, an investigator for the Tennessee Bureau of Investigation, was slated to precede Mrs. Freels on the witness stand. Reynolds was named in Thursday's testimony as a participant in some investigations of labor violence.

Kennedy said the committee wanted to ask Reynolds about some of the incidents and also about "the vigor with which this kind of investigation is conducted by his department."

Senator John McClellan launched the series of hearings Thursday with charges that some law enforcement officials failed to conduct a proper investigation into some of 173 "acts of violence" between 1953 and 1957 which are under committee scrutiny.

Kennedy said Eugene Evans, a Teamster member who was assaulted in Knoxville after objecting to the conduct of union meetings, would also be among today's witnesses.

Reynolds will be asked about 20 shootings on June 12, 1955, in which gunfire from passing cars hit trucks owned by the B & S Motor Lines, Kennedy said. Paul Andrews, president, testified Thursday his firm suffered no less than 38 such acts of violence.

The 38, including 19 shootings, two bombings, one slugging and 16 "springs"—in which sugar or syrup was placed in truck gas tanks—were typical of the incidents described in the first day of testimony.

Two first day witnesses were non-union drivers who were victims of shootings along the highways.

US Holding Back On Big 'Jump Into Space'

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States is holding back on any big "jump into space" until it has produced an adequate arsenal of long-range ballistic missiles.

Deputy Assistant Defense Secretary William M. Holaday said flatly this country has the "hardware"—presumably ballistic missiles—to launch large earth satellites any time it wanted.

But the missiles director emphasized this would have to take a back seat to the stockpiling of long-range missiles.

Holaday told a meeting of the American Rocket Society in New York Thursday night that right now "satellites are not as militarily useful as a working dependable ballistic missile weapon system would be."

"When we are assured of an adequate intermediate range ballistic missile capability and an inter-continental ballistic missile system and stockpile of missiles, then we intend to jump into space. To do so beforehand would be like trying to lock the front door and to let the back door stay open," he said.

The United States is attempting again today to fire a six-inch test satellite into a globe-circling orbit. The Soviet Union — presumably with the aid of ballistic missile power—has sent up a 1,120-pound Sputnik.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.) accused the Defense Department of handing the Russians another propaganda victory by its "stupidity" in announcing the hour by hour failure Wednesday to launch the first American "moon."

In other missile-satellite developments: —George S. Trimble, vice president of the Martin Co. which built the satellite-launching Vanguard rocket, predicted the first attempt to orbit a U.S. satellite would fail. —Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler said the Truman administration produced all of the 11 operational missiles now in this country's arsenal. He said the "failures" in the U.S. missile program rest with President Eisenhower.

—Rear Adm. Hyman G. Rickover urged speedy construction of a fleet of "underwater satellites"—atom-powered submarines capable of launching ballistic missiles while surfaced or submerged. He said the Russians have a sub fleet five times as large as this

FINISHING TOUCHES

The final work on the installation of the mail boxes on the island on Foster, in front of the Post Office, was in progress yesterday as the above picture was taken. J. C. Chennault, left, and O. Z. Kunkle, employees of the street department, were installing steel barriers at either end of the island. The barriers will be painted white and will be striped with red reflecting tape, they stated. The installation work is the final part of the widening of Foster and Ballard near the Post Office. (News Photo)

US Space Effort Fresh Failure In

By WILLIAM TUCKER
CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UP)—A satellite-carrying U.S. rocket exploded on the ground today in a fresh failure of American efforts to meet Russia's spunk challenge.

The Defense Department announced its personnel and scientists at the scene escaped injury.

The defense department also said it probably will be made to launch a test satellite.

The Army, also in the mooncarrion effort, is getting ready to own attempt to launch a satellite but it is not ready to fire.

The Vanguard, a thing of beauty on its launching stand, toppled into the water just before it exploded — an inglorious end to a magnificent endeavor.

An orange ball of flame and billowing black smoke engulfed the gleaming silver Vanguard Navy missile at the moment it was fired—10:45 a.m. c.s.t.

The rocket blew up on its launch's stand.

Dr. John P. Hagen, chief of the satellite project, said in Washington through a spokesman that the trouble developed two seconds after the Vanguard rocket was fired.

Loss of Pressure
The spokesman said there was a "loss of chamber pressure in the first stage" of the three-stage 72-foot rocket.

"Then the rocket fell back on the stand, toppled over toward the water—that is toward the east—and exploded," the spokesman said.

Fire followed the explosion of the Vanguard but did not last long.

In non-technical language, what happened — according to the Defense Department — was that the power failed which hurled the rocket into space. Early diagnosis put the blame in the rocket's first stage.

Hagen quoted J. Paul Walsh, deputy Vanguard director at Canaveral as being "naturally very disappointed."

This reporter could hear the dramatic last portion of the countdown preceding the firing — 19-18-17....

All Was Tense
They got down to one second. All was tense in the public information office at Patrick Air Force Base.

Maj. Kenneth Grine was on the phone. He got to zero. Nothing happened. Then there was a pause. It was only seconds but seemed like hours.

The announcer at the cape on the phone said "all personnel stand by."

Then the news was broken that the rocket had failed.

Finally they passed around a little card with these words on it: "Exploded — no injuries."

But by then everybody knew. It was written on the face of the man on the phone.

Defense officials began explaining the failure in Washington.

"The percentages in this business go against you," a spokesman said. "We've had three beautiful shots in earlier tests."

The previous tests were of the separate stages of the three-stage Vanguard during the past year.

Officials had indicated Thursday they would try to get the slender rocket into the air shortly after 7 a.m., since weather conditions shortly after sunrise are usually the best of the day.

About two hours before the countdown began a small missile, believed to be the Air Force's Snark, roared over the Atlantic tracking range, leaving what apparently was a booster charge (See VANGUARD, Page 2)

Search For Blast Victims Continuing

VILLA RICA, Ga. (UP)—Civil Defense crews resumed their search at dawn today for victims of a booming gas explosion that leveled five buildings Thursday in the heart of this small textile town.

When exhausted workers were ordered away from the scene Thursday night to get some rest, Civil Defense officials had counted 16 victims. Only 12 bodies had been identified, however. Fourteen persons were hospitalized.

The blast, followed by fire, came in mid-morning Thursday, when the town's business section was crowded with shoppers. Investigators said it apparently was caused by a leaking gas line in a drug store on the main street.

The drug store is a favorite eating place of textile workers, one resident told United Press, and the blast occurred about 30 minutes before the store would have been filled with customers.

National Guardsmen patrolled the blast area during the night to prevent looting and the section was roped off to keep away hundreds of persons who flocked in to watch the search.

One of the last bodies recovered Thursday was that of Bobby Roberts, 12, found in a dentist chair which had been buried in the rubble.

Police Join In Drive Against Accidents

The Pampa Police Department has joined law enforcement agencies throughout the nation in the campaign to "Back the Attack on Traffic Accidents" during the month of December.

December was chosen for the campaign because it is usually the high point of the year for traffic accidents, according to Jim Conner, chief of police.

In making the announcement of the local participation in the campaign, Conner listed several resolutions for "drivers and walkers" to make and keep. He stated, "If we would all keep them it would be a much safer community to live in."

Those listed for drivers were: come to a complete stop at all stop signs; follow other vehicles at a safe distance; don't drive a motor vehicle after drinking; stay alert; don't allow preoccupation with holiday concerns to divert your attention as driving is a full time job; slow down in bad weather and adjust your driving to conditions at all times.

Yield the right-of-way to pedestrians in crosswalks, do not pass a car that has stopped to permit a pedestrian to cross; and stay on your side of the road at intersections, grade crossings, no passing zones and on hills and curves.

Resolutions for the pedestrians were: obey traffic signals and signs; cross at intersections or marked crosswalks only; look left and right for traffic while crossing; watch for turning cars and keep alert all the way across a street; never walk into the street from sidewalk and you must walk on the left facing traffic.

Wait on the sidewalk, not in the street, for the green light or for a gap in traffic if the intersection has no traffic signal; and while crossing streets, don't obscure your view with packages, an umbrella or a hat.

API Officer Installation Tomorrow

Officers of the Panhandle Chapter of the American Petroleum Institute will be elected and installed at a banquet tomorrow night at the Bona Vista cafeteria, located west of Borger.

The banquet, scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m., is expected to be attended by over 400 members and guests, according to M. F. Ludeman of Pampa, secretary of the chapter.

Cliffin Aiken, an Odessa businessman, will be the principle speaker at the banquet, which is to be attended by Congressman Walter Rogers of Pampa.

The mayors of Borger, Amarillo and Pampa are also expected to attend the meeting, along with other city officials, Ludeman stated.

Stevenson Blasts Ike Administration

LONDON (UP)—Adlai E. Stevenson told Britons today the Eisenhower administration has "sacrificed truth" and "the respect and confidence of our friends abroad" for political advantage.

Stevenson made the statement in a special article written for the London News-Chronicle in his role as titular head of the Democratic Party. The piece was an explanation of his decision not to accept President Eisenhower's invitation to attend the top level Paris NATO sessions later this month.

Stevenson said he would "go before Congress" to call for an "open handed" billion dollar foreign aid program. He did not say when.

Atkinson Honored At Lions Party

Crawford Atkinson was presented a Lifetime Membership Plaque of the Lions Club Crippled Children's Association for his contributions in recent years, last night at the Annual Ladies Night Christmas Party of the Pampa Lions Club.

Homer Craig, president of the club, made the presentation and acted as master of ceremonies of the event.

Entertainment was presented by a group of students from Pampa High School under the direction of Billy Hassell. The Maxine Milliron Trio, along with an octet from the Pampa High School A Capella Choir, presented "The Night Before Christmas," a Christmas cantata.

Some 225 Lions Club members and their wives attended the affair which was held in the Banquet Room of the First Methodist Church.

Man Fined On Driving Charge

One case of driving while intoxicated was handled in Gray County Court this morning. Hubert Hanley Skains pleaded guilty to the charge which was filed in Gray County Court yesterday and was fined $125 and costs and sentenced to three days in jail.

Skains was observed by the arresting police officers in the 100 block of W. Brown, Wednesday, Dec. 4, at 7 p.m.

Ike May Attend NATO Meeting

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Writer
GETTYSBURG, Pa. (UP)—President Eisenhower was at his farm today for a long restful week and before his doctors determine definitely whether he can attend the NATO summit conference in Paris.

The lucky hitchhiker picked up Thursday was Jerry Bewick, an airman second class from Brandywine, Md., who was returning to his Syracuse, N.Y., Air Force Base after a visit home.

Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said Thursday that Eisenhower was not back on a full schedule despite his activities of the past few days. But he said the President's doctors reported Wednesday that "everything was fine" in his recovery from a slight stroke Nov. 25.

In Washington, authoritative sources said the President has decided to attend the critical Dec. 14-18 Paris session barring a last-minute veto from his medical advisers or another setback.

The doctors were expected to give their final decision about the middle of next week. But tentative plans already were being laid for Eisenhower to fly to Paris, probably a week from Saturday, the sources in Washington said.

The Chief Executive arrived at his rambling farm home here Thursday, Enroute from Washington, the presidential motorcade halted to pick up a young serviceman thumbing his way back to his base.

The President planned a slow, easy day today with nothing scheduled.

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower, who arrived after a lunch engagement in Washington, probably will return to the White House Sunday or Monday.

First Of New Street Lights Turned On

Residents who were near the 100 block of E. Foster last night saw the effect of the new street lighting in Pampa.

Four of the new type street lights were installed and connected yesterday by workmen of Southwestern Public Service Company and were turned on last night for the first time.

Gordon Lyons, district manager of the utility company, stated that the lights were turned on in front of the Post Office because the old-type lights had been removed in widening the street.

He said that installation work on the lights to be installed on Cuyler, from Browning to Brown, will continue as rapidly as possible and should be completed sometime during the first part of next week.

"We have most of the lights up on Cuyler, south of the underpass," Lyons said. "It is our plan to complete the installation of the lights as soon as possible," he continued.

He explained that the Christmas decorations are installed on the present lights and that the old lights will probably be used until after the decorations are removed, as well as the new ones being put into operation as soon as completed.

The new lights are color-corrected, 50,000 lumen, lights and will increase the lighting on the streets where they are installed. The old lights are scheduled to be re-located in the various city parks where lighting is not now installed, according to city officials.

PR Course May Be Returned

The Public Relations Course which has been in progress in Pampa, closed last night with a statement from the instructor, E. A. Willeford, member of the faculty of the University of Texas, that it was the second largest class that he has taught in the state of Texas in 11 years of experience.

Some 149 persons were enrolled in the classes held for city employees with 86 enrolled in the classes held for the general public.

Willeford stated that he was extremely pleased with the interest and attendance in Pampa and that the people realized the need for such training.

Mayor Lynn Boyd reported that "It was wonderful, the course and the interest shown."

Due to popular demand, plans are being prepared to have Willeford back for a return engagement in April. The interest is strong in Pampa and officials feel that another course of this nature would result in even larger enrollment and benefits.

PAMPA SCOUT LEADERS

James McCune, E. E. Shelhamer, and Don Cain, left to right, all Pampans, were installed last night as 1958 officers in the Adobe Wall Area Council, Boy Scouts of America. They are shown here looking over the 1958 budget. Dr. James P. Cornette, president of West Texas State College, was principal speaker at the banquet and Robert M. "SAND TRAP" FOR INTERCONTINENTAL MISSILES—This is an artist's conception of a method of destroying enemy hydrogen missiles in flight, just suggested by Dr. Ralph E. Lapp, noted nuclear physics authority. The scheme makes use of "sand shrapnel"—tiny pellets a fraction of an inch in diameter. Hitting an intercontinental missile traveling thousands of miles an hour, the "sand" could do devastating damage. Dr. Lapp suggested that radars and electronic calculators would get a "fix" on the ICBM's trajectory some 10 minutes before its arrival time. Word would be flashed to defense units near all possible targets. Rockets carrying the sand shrapnel and atomic dispersal charges would be fired at once. At the proper height, the rockets would explode, scattering the particles in vast swarms like pellets from a giant shotgun and tearing the enemy missile to pieces.

Church Council Offers Program

ST. LOUIS (UP)—The National Council of Churches today offered the nation a Christian program for dealing with the international perils of the space age and the domestic problem of racial tension.

The program was spelled out in a series of resolutions adopted by 2,000 delegates to the council's triennial general assembly.

The six-day assembly concludes today.

Here's what the church leaders had to say about major current issues:

Nuclear - space missiles. Christians view the dawning era of space vehicles "with both hope and concern." Their hope stems from the sure faith that "in this new era, God is still sovereign, Lord of men and nations."

Their concern is that man may use the "awesome" powers now in his grasp for self-destruction.

Segregation: "Racial segregation, both in the churches and in society, is a violation of the Gospel of love and human brotherhood." Churches "must do far more" to eliminate racial barriers from their own life and to lead their communities in peaceful obedience to the mandate of the Supreme Court.

In a related action, the delegates voted to hold future general assembly meetings only in cities where Negro members can be assured they will not encounter any discrimination in public facilities. Although St. Louis hotels are reported they were refused service non-segregated, Negro delegates reported they were refused service in some local restaurants and by some cab drivers.

Union racketeers: The "appalling corruption" which Senate investigators have recently brought to light in some unions and also "in some management practices" calls for federal legislation "to correct the specific abuses revealed." This legislation "should be drawn in a spirit of fairness" with care taken not to impair "a strong democratic labor movement."

Sharing America's prosperity: This "richly endowed" nation has a heavy moral obligation to help other countries raise their living standards, through "long-term" economic and technical aid, and also by lowering tariff barriers to stimulate a major expansion of world trade.

The United States should also contribute more generously, through the United Nations, to the aid of refugees stranded in Europe, the Near East and Far East.

Grand Jury Convenes

The Grand Jury of the 31st District Court in Gray County convened at 10 this morning to consider evidence in five cases pending in the court.

Bill Waters, district attorney, stated this morning that cases to be presented to the Grand Jury included, three charges of forgery one charge of burglary and one charge of driving while intoxicated second offense, a felony.

Poage Says U.S. Losing Prestige

WACO, Tex. (UP)—U.S. Rep. W. R. Poage charged Thursday that the United States lost more prestige advertising its first satellite which failed to go up than by space.

"We ought to keep our mouths shut until we do something, then let the people of the world look up in the sky and see for themselves," Poage said.

Tire And Wheel Are Stolen

The theft of a tire and wheel within a twenty-minute period from the Humble Service Station at Francis and Hobart was reported to the police department at 11:20 last night.

Jim Conner, chief of police, stated that the report of the theft disclosed that the tire, a 7.50 by 14, white side-wall, was taken shortly before the report last night after being repaired.

Teamster Boot By AFL-CIO Due Today

By WILLIAM J. EATON
United Press Staff Correspondent
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UP)—The AFL-CIO decides today on booting out the 1,500,000-member Teamsters Union, scarred by scandal and criminal charges against its top leadership.

There was little hope that the federation's largest affiliate would escape expulsion—stiffest penalty organized labor can assess.

The AFL-CIO convention was expected to settle the issue with a roll-call vote on an ouster order expected from an appeals committee which heard Teamsters' protests.

The union, rocked by corruption charges made before the Senate Rackets Committee throughout the year, planned a final plea for mercy to the 1,200 delegates.

About two thirds of the 13,800,000 votes—cast by membership strength of AFL-CIO unions—were needed to put the Teamsters outside the house of labor.

The Teamsters were denied a vote at the convention after being suspended by the AFL-CIO Executive Council on the advice of its five-man Ethical Practices Committee.

AFL-CIO President George Meany led the fight against the Teamsters and said he favored expulsion unless President-elect James R. Hoffa stepped down from national office in the union.

One of Hoffa's closest advisers, Teamsters official Harold J. Gibbons of St. Louis, arrived here on the eve of the vote. Gibbons said Hoffa was "considering" visiting the convention city tonight.

Hoffa Now On Trial
Hoffa, now on trial on wire-tapping charges in New York, was the major target of AFL-CIO charges against the giant truck union.

The stocky, 44-year-old Detroit labor leader was accused of fronting for racketeers and helping himself to union funds. A federal court ruling blocks him from succeeding retiring president Dave Beck until a trial of charges that he rigged his election.

Union leaders were reported to have told Meany they would regrettably vote for expulsion after the AFL-CIO chief urged "no compromise with evil."

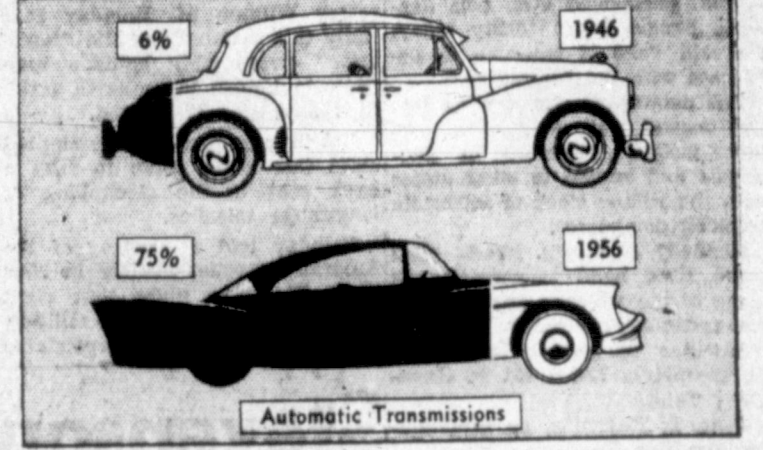

Support for the Teamsters came only in the form of a resolution passed unanimously by the 19 unions of the Building Trades Department. But presidents of many of these craft unions said it was merely a "sympathy" gesture and not binding on the expulsion vote.

JUNIOR CHAMP—Pete Secondino, 23, and his wife, Sue, 19, of Terre Haute, Ind., display their 1,000-pound Hereford steer, "Honeymoon," after the steer won the Junior Grand Champion title at the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago. Exhibitors will compete for $100,000 in cash premiums and coveted silver trophies and blue ribbons in the week-long exposition.

IT'S EASIER—Production of autos with automatic transmissions increased by 69 per cent in the 10-year period between 1946 and 1956, according to the American Automobile Association. While their elders seem to enjoy the simplified driving afforded by an automatic transmission, high school students still like to shift for themselves. Statistics show that 85 per cent of all cars sold to high school students have standard transmissions.

Deadline for parents and wives of service men to send records is Dec. 10.

To date, only two appointments have been made through the Pampa Chapter to travel to Amarillo for cutting and sending records to military men overseas.

Crews spent most of Thursday making readjustments on the rocket and catching up on their rest. A new disconnector valve on the liquid oxygen fuel line was installed to replace one that caused most of the trouble Wednesday.

The abbreviated countdown was possible because certain steps in the assembly did not have to be repeated this time. One of the major items during the current countdown is refueling the rocket's second stage with liquid oxygen pumped in, at a temperature of 297 degrees below zero Fahrenheit.

A total of 104 persons were injured in the 188 accidents investigated by the 42 officers of the district during October, Blackwell stated. Property damages in the October accidents amounted to approximately $144,467, he stated.

The principal causes of the accidents, listed by Blackwell according to the opinions of the investigating officers, were: speeding; driving while drinking; failure to grant right-of-way; and wrong side of road, not passing.

UN May Take 'Middle-Road' With Algeria

UNITED NATIONS (UP)—The United Nations appeared to be ready today to adopt a middle-road course on Algeria as suggested by the United States.

Western observers expected that a compromise resolution, embodying essentially the ideas of a draft introduced Thursday by Latin countries of Europe and South America, would be submitted to the main political committee today.

The Latin resolution—sponsored by Argentina, Brazil, Cuba, the Dominican Republic, Italy, Peru and Spain—would "express again the hope that a peaceful, democratic and just solution will be found" for the three-year-old guerrilla war against France in Algeria.

Television Channel Swim

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—The channel swim—Mike Wallace hopes to unpack a test program in his projected series, "The Great Men," on his regular ABC-TV show Dec. 28. The trial run would feature Wallace in an interview with Socrates. The go-ahead hangs on the okay of Paul Muni who's been asked to play the Greek philosopher.

Lynn Dollar, who stepped out as girl guide on "The $64,000 Question" to await the arrival of her first baby, will have it delivered by Dr. Francis Salvatore, the obstetrician who won $32,000 on the show in the food and cooking category. Dr. Salvatore also married in Mrs. Hal March's baby this year.

Como Goes West
All four of the singers on "Your Hit Parade" had their options renewed this week, but musical director Don Walker (he replaced Raymond Scott) got the gate... Perry Como is talking about moving his NBC-TV show to the West Coast for two weeks in February.

Judy Lewis, daughter of Loretta Young, is one of the candidates for the title role in "Kitty Foyle," new CBS-TV afternoon that uncorks on Jan. 13... Ed Gardner, the "Archie" of "Duffy's Tavern," is working on a NBC radio series that would involve his 9-year-old, Stevie.

ABC-TV is just about set for a musical chairs bit—it wants to move "Walter Winchell File" to the "Patrice Munsel" spot which would move to the "Date With The Angels" spot which would move to Winchell's spot.

Vivica Lindfors and Eva la Gallienne will join the cast of "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," CBS-TV spec set for Jan. 21... "Omnibus," which has done James Agee's "Abe Lincoln" three times, is considering a fourth run of the 90-minute film for Feb. 9 show.

Offspring To Sing
Leon Janey of CBS-TV's "Edge of Night" is leaving the afternoon

series for a Broadway play, "A Shadow of My Enemy"... Frank Sinatra is going to present his daughter, Nancy, and Bing Crosby's son, Lindsay, as a singing team on one of his future ABC-TV entries.

Glenn Ford, who'll narrate CBS-TV's public service film, "A Day Called X" this Sunday, worked on the show for scale—$80... Orson Welles, heading for a fat contract with ABC-TV, has notified CBS-TV that he's pulling out of its "Shower of Stars" show for Jan. 9.

Marion Stafford gets the job as replacement for Pat White as pirate girl on NBC-TV's "Treasure Hunt"—Pat's expecting her second treasure in June... Bill Demarest was offered a permanent job on the "Danny Thomas Show" as father-in-law, but said no thanks.

And Jim Backus of ABC knows one married couple who divide the family pay envelope equally each Friday—he takes the outside and she takes the inside.

It's THAT time of year again! Thanksgiving is over; Santa's Day Parade has come and gone; the nativity scene in the City Park with its inspiring message will soon be erected. Christmas carols ring out from the down-town street corners as shoppers wind their way in and out of the festively decorated stores.

But what of that Christmas shopper, who is frantically searching for the "just right" gift with an original twist and can't find a thing? Here are a few suggestions from the Consumer Service of Johnson's Wax Co. that might be just what you are looking for. These ideas will probably stimulate some of your own.

Dramatic Driftwood can provide the base for a beautiful planter for that person on your list, who loves in-door gardening. Rub wood with Paste Wax, applying a thin coat each time and polishing thoroughly until you have built up a beautiful finish. Attach half a coconut or a tin can to back of the wood and fill it with dirt and plants.

For that hostess who likes modern things, you can disguise a lettuce washer by dipping it in black paint. When dry fill with bright yellow lemons and shiny green leaves. It is a guaranteed conversation piece.

For that gift for Mother, who not glanzior her dressing table.

Christmas Ideas At HD Club Meet

(Special to The News) SKELLYTOWN — Home Demonstration Club met recently in the home of Mrs. Gertrude Huckins with Mrs. W. S. Berry, president, in charge of the business meeting. The program for the day was given by Mrs. Janie Fletcher, Carson County Home Demonstration agent, who gave a demonstration on making Christmas bells from tin can tops. Bulletins were distributed to the club members on making home made candy and, also, bulletins on making Christmas gifts at home. Mrs. Fletcher showed slides on the "Day Lily", and gave the names of a variety of lilies that grow well in this part of the country.

New officers to be installed in January are: Mrs. Cecil Shipley, president; Mrs. R. C. Heaton, vice president; Mrs. Gerold Huckins, secretary-treasurer; and Mrs. Joe Chapin, parliamentarian.

Attending were Meses. Guy McKenney, R. C. Heaton, George Porter, E. E. Crawford, Joe Chapin, W. I. Colley, Clarence Hoskins, W. E. Ogle, Gerald Huckins, W. S. Berry, Elizabeth Tinsley and Mrs. Janie Fletcher.

Gift a miniature tin loaf pan with gold paint and use household cement to bedeck it with beads, sequins, and fancy buttons to be used for her dressing table accessories. The earring tray could be made from a tiny tin muffin pan, gold-painted with the muffin indentations lined with velvet. The makings are in the dime store toy department.

For Dad's gift, make a useful item for his car. Use road maps to cover a sturdy gift box filled with a car cleaner-polish, creamy clean-up wax for the plastic or leather upholstery and a can of chrome cleaner. Include a yard of cheesecloth or a special car polishing cloth. For a really special gift, add a whisk broom, sponge, chamois, windshield frost scraper, flashlight, etc.

A gift suggestion for those proud grandparents would be a scrapbook labeled "My Grandchildren" and filled with snapshots of all the youngsters. Have each one write or print a message in white ink next to his picture. The tiny ones can sign their X, or make a hand or foot print.

Maybe Junior, who likes to-do-things-himself, would like a piece of pegboard to match his room. Attach hooks and hang-up toy carpenter tools, hammer, pliers, screwdriver, tape measure, and, also, include a work apron with many pockets. And for your favorite little girl, her doll's clothes will travel in style in an old hat box. Cover with pretty wall paper and gift wrapping. Or use adhesive-backed plastic (Con-Tact) in a gay color.

Any of these gifts will be even more exciting to create because they will include a priceless ingredient . . . your own imagination.

FRIDAY

2:00—Gray County Home Demonstration Club, Christmas Party, St. Matthew's Episcopal Parson, 272

8:00—Order of the Eastern Star, Masonic Hall, W. Browning.

The short evening gown to beige chiffon with full, rippling skirt is one of the prettiest styles a woman can have in her wardrobe. And one of the most useful.

Easy walking skirts, gathered or pleated, come in brilliant plaids and tweeds for winter wear.

The combination of silk and nylon in a chiffon blouse is a happy one. For fall, it can be had as an overblouse with cowl neckline and drawstring waistline.

OPEN HOUSE—The Pampa Art Club, which is sponsoring the Art Exhibit now on display in the Lovett Memorial Library, will hold Open House on Sunday afternoon, between the hours of three and five in the Library. This will be the last opportunity for local citizens to view the works of local and area artists. The exhibit, which is identical to the ones held in New York City and throughout the east, will be dismantled after the Sunday showing. Mr. and Mrs. R. C. O'Keefe, 1109 Charles, are viewing one of the paintings. (News Photo)

RUTH MILLETT

It's no hardship for a woman: To have another woman ask her for advice. It's so much easier to solve another woman's problems, from decorating a room to managing a husband, than it is to solve one's own.

To go along when another woman wants to buy a new outfit, it's the cheapest way of having the fun of a shopping expedition without having to face the bills that follow.

To buy a gift for another woman. All she has to do is find something she would like to have herself. Whether right or wrong, she at least has the comforting assurance that since she likes it, another woman is bound to. What is really tough is shopping for a gift for a man.

To have a lone man as an unexpected dinner guest. She knows a man won't notice that the curtains aren't freshly laundered or that her meal is too simple if it is well cooked and filling. But a hostess who is not prepared for company isn't nearly so at ease when she welcomes an unexpected woman guest.

To be turned loose in a strange city for a few hours or even a day, unless it's Sunday or a holiday, when all the stores are closed.

To be told a choice bit of gossip and asked not to tell a soul. Either she is the kind of woman who can keep a secret, or she's the kind who can't and won't. But if she is the latter it won't bother her conscience to break her word. She will just figure that she is living up to her part of the bargain when she says, "I promised not to tell a soul, but I knew if I told you it wouldn't go any further."

To return an article she has bought. Women wouldn't buy so much if they didn't always mentally cross their fingers when they say "I'll take it," knowing if they get home and change their minds they can always return what they have bought.

Packaging Can Match Charm Of Gifts When Used With Clever Showmanship

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

Use showmanship to present Christmas gifts from your kitchen. They'll be remembered after the holiday treats have been gobbled up.

Too often we spend time and effort concocting delicious cookies, cakes or candies and then wrap them in any old container, and that doesn't do justice to our creations.

For ideas for reusable containers, look at the inexpensive array of glass, ceramic and wood or wicker items, in novelty and department stores. Or make your own.

Put your extra-special holiday cake on a handsome pedestal. The new, inexpensive, milk glass cake plates, faithful reproductions of antiques, are worthy of your product, especially when cake and plate are tied in shimmering, clear cellophane and brightened with bows and baubles.

For a family with youngsters, a batch of favorite cookies adds up to a greater surprise when they arrive in a fat cookie jar. A decorative cookie jar also makes a good container for homemade, salty, or cheese-flavored snacks.

When the gift list is long and cooking time is short, you can stretch the supply of homemade candies by mixing them with commercial hard candies.

Decorated glass casseroles, small wicker baskets or wooden bowls are ideal to hold gifts of homemade treats for the holiday bride or hostess. Show off your fanciest cookies on a cellulose-wrapped glass plate, lined server, or one of the new, low-priced earthenware plates decorated with holiday motifs.

Tiny ceramic or glass jam pots look more festive than a jelly jar in which to carry a token gift or a favored preserve to a neighbor.

You can also make attractive containers that won't be so long-lasting but will cost very little.

Mrs. Jim Whatley Feted With Party

Mrs. Jimmy Whatley, nee Joy Heffey, was honored Saturday afternoon with a bridal shower in the home of Mrs. Earnest Blake. Co-hostesses were Meses. Ace Henderson, Amos Reeves, Roy Reeves, J. B. Henderson, Billy Cantrell, Grover Lamb, Ed. Shaffner, Earnest Lancaster, Jim Gray, and Omega Grogan.

Mrs. Blake received the guests, assisted by Mrs. Billy Heffey, mother of the bride; Mrs. Whatley, the honoree; and Mrs. Cecil Bradley of Pampa, mother of the bridegroom. Miss Vanell Whatley, sister of the bridegroom, registered guests.

The table was laid with a white linen cut-work cloth and centered with white mums flanked with lighted blue tapers entwined with white flowers. A silver coffee service was used and alternating were Mrs. Ollesby of Borger and Miss Connie Blake.

Guests called from the hours of three to five p.m.

Useful, decorative and not too expensive, glass and ceramic containers make ideal packaging units for various delicacies given as Christmas gifts.

The ever-popular coffee tin, for example, can be painted white and decorated with provincial decals or gilded and dressed with a red felt poinsettia glued to its top.

If you don't have felt scraps for cut-outs, you can buy packets of them in the dime store in a variety of designs.

You'll never recognize a cigar box after it's covered with striped, self-adhesive plastic shelf paper or plastic. Use it as a server for sweets or snacks.

I've been saving clear plastic ice cream and cottage cheese containers to fix up for one of the simplest and most popular gifts I make, home-salted and flavored nuts.

The containers are quickly decorated with colored plastic tapes applied in a Christmas tree design to the side and the top (to cover brand names) and a gilded pine cone glued to the top completes the package.

Manners Makes Friends

If friends entertain you when you are stopping at a hotel in their city, be sure to write a thank-you note when you return home.

There is no excuse for neglecting to write such notes, for it only takes a few minutes.

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

Rev. J. B. CALDWELL
Pastor, Pentecostal Holiness Church

PRAYER

POWER FOR ANY AGE OR PEOPLE

The Apostle Peter tells us, in I Peter 5:7, to cast all our care upon God, for "He Careth for you." God then, is interested. He hears our prayers. He listens while we implore His guidance or His aid. We pray, not to stone or brass, without eyes to see or ears to hear, but to the God of the universe, who rules all and who "Careth for you."

We pray because we are in need. It is the only way of reaching God's throne and making our request known. We are weak, but God is strong. We must have help. There is no one else anywhere to whom we may turn. God is all and in all. We Pray to Him for help and He gives us help.

Not that we should pray only when we are in need, that is expecting more of God than we give ourselves. It is unfair. We should pray to God at other times, thanking Him for His love, His blessings, and for His son. Prayer brings us to God. When distress or trouble lays a heavy hand on us—Prayer will bring our Petition to God—Who will never fail us.

To be effectual, Prayer must be fervent, and the person who prays must be right with God. We pray for many things. But if there is any reason we need to pray, it is the need for divine guidance, and the light of God strewn on our pathway. In the world of everyday difficulties, of misunderstandings, sorrow, cruelty, and wrong, we certainly need God's guiding hand. Now, I pray every hour, sometimes audibly, but oftener the words are unspoken. Prayer keeps one in tune with God.

Christ could not have lived His human life without Prayer. Prayer brought Him the transfiguration on the Mount. Prayer carried Him through Gethsemane.

Prayer will take you and I over every trail and through every heart-ache.

Boxers Meet Air Force Team Tomorrow Night In Home Bouts

Top Ringmen In Panhandle To Face Rugged Dyess Squad

Fists will fly in a big way tomorrow night as the Pampa Optimist Club boxers clash with the Dyess Air Force Base team in Recreation Park's Bull Barn at 8. Boasting some of the best fighters among service teams in the state, the Dyess team is expected to be one of the top teams engaged during the season. On hand to tangle with the AF boxers will be some of the top ringmen of Pampa and the Panhandle.

Fighting for the first time this season will be Gary Wilhelm, who is scheduled to meet John Richardson in the 140 pound division. Wilhelm ranked as runner-up last year in the state Golden Gloves tourney held in Fort Worth. Also highlighting the night will be Bobby Wilhelm, slated to meet Manual Florz at 158 pounds. Florz is one of the AF team's top men on the card, and Wilhelm ranks among the outstanding fighters of the state. In last week's matches with Clovis, N.M., he scored a knockout in 1'20" of the first round.

In the 140 pound division, Jim Murray is scheduled to meet Pancho Verde of the Dyess team. Murray considerably improved his standing last week when he won a decision over Austin White of Plainview, who has ranked in past seasons among the top fighters of the South Plains area.

Charles Snyder, one of the Panhandle's top boxers at 150 pounds, is scheduled to meet Jesse Nurse, another of the outstanding men of the Air Force. Snyder scored a TKO in the first matches held in Hereford and came through with a decision in the recent home bouts. Another of Pampa's undefeated boxers of the season will see action tomorrow night as Jesse Ring tangles with David Harris at 155 pounds.

Logart Favored Over Ortega

CLEVELAND, O. (UP)— Cuban welterweight Isaac Logart was an early 8 and 7 to 5 favorite today to maintain his No. 1 contender's seat against Gaspar Ortega of Mexico in a scheduled 12-round nationally televised bout here tonight.

Ortega, currently rated fourth among the 147-pound claimants, planned no change in strategy which won split-decisions over Logart in two of their previous three engagements.

He has 11 KO's in his record of 42 wins, nine losses and one draw.

Logart has 51 wins — with only seven losses and five draws.

Tonight's bout is the first in a series of elimination matches to determine who will win the vacant crown abandoned by Carmen Basilio.

Major League Clubs Increase Trading For 1958 Seasons

By JACK CUDDY
United Press Sports Writer

If there can be an over-emphasis on pitching, the Indians had it for several seasons with their "big four," but in Lane's first trade since he shifted on Nov. 12 from general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals to a similar post with Cleveland, he hinted loudly his desire for a better balance between pitching and fast, aggressive play.

Lane became Cleveland's general manager on Nov. 12, to succeed Hank Greenberg, Greenberg was at that post in early 1951 when Lane (of the White Sox) got Minoso from the Indians in a three-club deal that sent pitcher Lou Brissie and outfielder Paul Lehner to the Indians. Neither Brissie nor Lehner set any marbles on fire.

In his first deal, Lane sent Early Wynn, Cleveland's veteran right-hander, to the Chicago White Sox along with outfielder Al Smith. And the Indians got Minoso and utility infielder Fred Hatfield.

Fits Bragan's Demands

Wynn is approaching 38. Minoso — a versatile performer who can play well at almost any post in the outfield or infield — is 35. And Minnie is the type of player most wanted by both Lane and the Indians' new field manager, Bobby Bragan — fast and aggressive.

But Minoso — stocky, muscular and lightning fast — became a star field and did very well at bat although he is not a long-ball hitter. He played third base, first base, short stop and the outfield. His aggressiveness at the plate — his growling and attempts to steal a portion of the plate from the hurler — got him knocked down many times, but it also made him difficult to pitch to.

They hope Minoso will be the spark for a live, hustling club that can attract fans to Cleveland's huge Municipal Stadium — where 2,600,000 watched games in 1948 — but only 720,000 last season. Of course, winning games also will help attract the customers.

That's the Lane technique. He makes deals that boost his clubs at the turnstiles as well as in the standings. Frank gained the reputation of an astute trader while serving as general manager of the White Sox, from near the end of 1948 to the close of 1955. And he bogged the Chisox from a second-division outfit to a contender.

Jack-of-All-Trades

Minnie had a lifetime major league batting average of .307 at the start of the 1957 season, during which he hit .309, although he hit only 12 home runs in '57, he drove in 103 runs.

Cleveland certainly could have made good use of Minoso during the seven seasons he played at Chicago. Minnie's prowess in a Chisox uniform gradually impressed baseball men with the fact Greenberg doubtless made the worst deal of his career when he let Minoso go in '51, and Lane doubtless made a genuine David Harum triumph.

Harvesters Play Home Opener Tonight To Meet Undefeated Team In Clash With Elk City

The Pampa Harvesters will meet an undefeated team tonight in their first home game of the 1957 season as they clash with Elk City, Okla., in Harvesters Field House at 8.

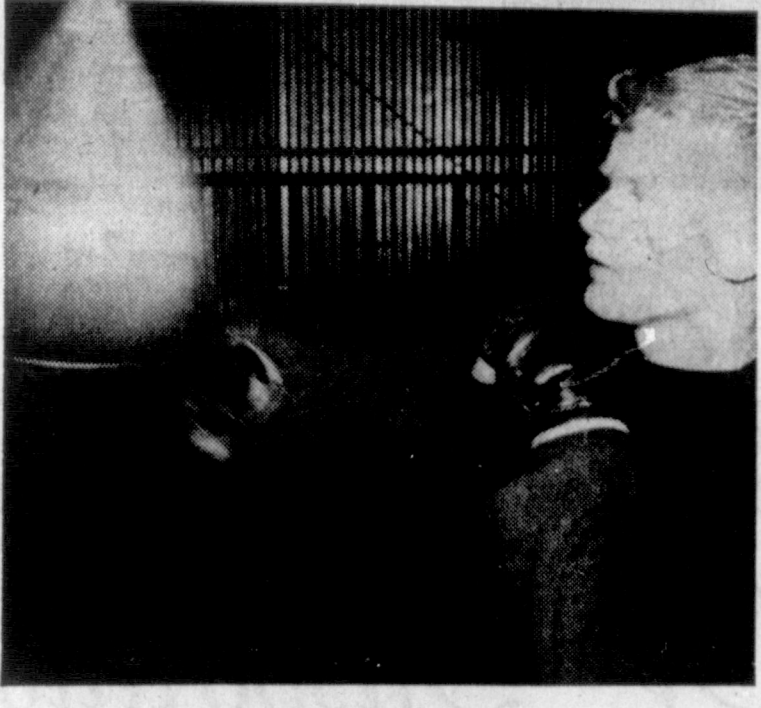

Having played two games for the season, the Elks defeated Lindsey, Okla., in their opener and then edged by Altus in a 49-46 overtime tilt.

Coached by Gary Blevens, the Elks are defending a district championship title, having lost out in the regional playoffs in 1956. They were defeated by Guymon, Okla., who went on to win the state Class "A" title. The Elks record in 1956 was 25-7.

Also playing a home opener will be the sophomore Shockers, who will meet the Elk City "B" team at 6:30. The Shockers are undefeated this season, having scored victories over Claude, Childers and Phillips.

Following tonight's game, the Harvesters will play in Vernon tomorrow night and will return Dec. 10, to meet Vernon here and to host Hobbs, N.M. Dec. 13 and 14. Probable starters for tonight's game are:

Top College Teams Take Early Win In '57 Basketball Openers

By FRANK LITSKY
United Press Sports Writer

Basketball players from Minnesota wore red faces and those from North Carolina wore red body bruises today but each team had a victory to soothe its ills.

Minnesota nosed out Iowa State, 67-66, Thursday night at Minneapolis although Iowa State's Lyle Frahm and John Crawford continually stole the ball from the bewildered Gophers. North Carolina State whipped Wake Forest, 62-51, at Winston-Salem, N.C., in a game marked by hot tempers and brutal backboard bumping in the second half.

A full-court press helped Iowa State tie Minnesota in the second half before sophomore guard Marv Miller went to work. Miller scored 13 points in the half and for the night to keep it safe for Minnesota. Frahm scored 21 points.

North Carolina State's tight zone, 49 per cent shooting average and backboard control provided its victory in the first game of the Atlantic Coast Conference season, although Wake Forest fought mightily for the rebounds. There were several slips under the boards, and Dave Budd of Wake Forest was almost kayoed when he hit the floor head first. Bob MacGillivray led the North Carolina State scorers with 20 points. Mississippi State broke its own scoring record by doubling the opposition's score in a 114-57 victory over Howard College of Alabama.

Top O' Texas Basketball: Invitational Meet Hits Second Round

Two teams remained in the ranks of the undefeated after three games last night in the Top of Texas Invitational Basketball Tourney.

The Red-Mix team rolled to a decisive 87-68 victory in the evening's opener and Amarillo Air Force Base drubbed Magnolia, 65-27, in the second.

Bringing up the losers bracket, Perryton defeated PhilNack, 51-49, and Holmes downed Magnolia, 87-57. Perryton dropped to the losers bracket in the first round by falling to Red-Mix, and then defeated Halliburton to stay in the running.

Winners of both divisions will be determined tonight and the championship game will take place tomorrow night at 7. All games are played in the junior high gymnasium.

Leading off tonight will be Red-Mix opposing Amarillo Air Force Base at 6:30, for the winner's champs, and Perryton will battle Holmes at 8 for the first game in the loser's division. The night cap, slated for 9:30, will pit the loser of the first game against the winner of the second to determine the finale tomorrow night.

Since the tourney is double elimination, should the winner of the bracket be defeated tomorrow night in the first tilt, a second playoff game will be held at 9 to determine the championship team.

The Top of Texas tournament is an annual affair, featuring the top teams of the area. All persons are invited to attend the games.

The draw for student tickets, also $6, will be held Monday and Tuesday for the New Year's Day classic.

Where Is Whizzer White

Whatever Happened To... BYRON (WHIZZER) WHITE
By UNITED PRESS

In the days when Colorado was struggling for football recognition, Byron (Whizzer) White provided a tremendous boost by winning All-America honors in 1937 and setting a national rushing record of 1,121 yards in '38. He was brilliant in the class room, too, and became a Rhodes scholar. Later, he played three seasons in the tough National Football League with Pittsburgh and Detroit, winning more acclaim.

Whatever happened to Whizzer White? Today he's a successful attorney in Denver, married and the father of a 10-year-old future half-back.

Sandie-Eagle Tilt Highlights Week End Of Eliminations

By UNITED PRESS

Eight games today and tonight will fill exactly half the Texas schoolboy football semifinals brackets, but the piece de resistance won't be served up until tomorrow.

That's when powerful Amarillo, rated the state's No. 1 Class AAAA power, and second-ranked Abilene bump heads at Amarillo in a game that's expected to furnish the ultimate 1957 champion.

Amarillo will be favored slightly to put an end to Abilene's 48-game winning streak and at the same time break the three-year Eagles have held on the state championship.

Both teams are undefeated and untied and Amarillo hasn't really had a tough contest while running up 456 points in 11 games and limiting the opposition to 36. Abilene had a tough go against S. Angelo in the mud, but won all its others handily and has rolled up 389 points to 53.

The winner will go against the victor of the other north bracket quarterfinal between Highland Park and Wichita Falls, rated seventh, plays at Cleburne in the other quarterfinals.

In Class AA, there are two games tonight, Terrell vs. Bonham at Commerce and Brady vs. Bellville at Georgetown. Tomorrow, McCamey plays at Seymour and tomorrow night, Mercedes is at West Columbia.

Ralls and Sundown kickoff the Class A quarterfinals at Lubbock this afternoon. Tonight, Albany and White Oak meet at Denton, Mart and Garrison at Mexia and Pearsall and Jourdan at Devine.

Week Of Decision On Pro-Grid Scene

Written for the United Press
NEW YORK (UP)— This is a week of decision in professional football. When the action winds up on three fronts — at Pittsburgh, Detroit and San Francisco, the championship of both divisions of the National League could be settled. Or there could be a grand old mixup with five teams, the Baltimore Colts, San Francisco 49'ers, and Detroit Lions tied in the West, and the New York Giants still vying with the Cleveland Browns for the Eastern section honors.

In San Francisco, Detroit and New York win, all five of the afore mentioned elevens will still be battling for the playoff loot. If San Francisco and the Browns win, the 49'ers will be tied with the Colts in the West, and the Browns will be champions of the East. If the Colts win and the Browns lose, Baltimore and the Browns will be champions, and meet in the playoff for the title.

There's a lot of ifs and ands and buts about this weekend among the pros. While no one expects it, a defeat for the Giants at Pittsburgh Saturday afternoon would automatically give the title to Cleveland, but that just isn't in the cards.

Here are this observer's picks for this weekend:

Saturday: The New York Giants over the Steelers at Forbes Field and 27-17.

Sunday: At Detroit, the Cleveland Browns will defeat the Lions by a 31-28 score. At San Francisco, the 49'ers will take the Baltimore Colts 24-21. At Los Angeles, the Rams will win from the Green Bay Packers 35-28 in a razzle dazle. At Washington, the Redskins will be too good for the Eagles, beating them 21-14. At Chicago, the oldest rivalry in pro football will be resumed and the Chicago Bears will win from the Cardinals at Comiskey Park, 35-24.

College football sings its swan song this weekend with three games. At Dallas, Texas, Notre Dame will conclude a fine season, winding up with Southern Methodist. At Miami, Fla., Pitt Panthers will beat Miami 19-12. Both contests will be played in bowl stadiums, the N.D.-SMU game in the Cotton Bowl, and the Pitt-Miami struggle in the Orange Bowl. That winds up college play until the post season affairs.

New Officers Elected

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UP)— Walter Donovan of Garden State Park, E. E. Dale Shaffer of Detroit and Robert Strub of Santa Anita have been elected to the board of directors of the Thoroughbred Racing Associations. They replaced retiring directors Carleton F. Burke of Santa Anita, Ben Lindheimer of Arlington Park and Eugene Mori of Hialeah Park.

Haney Strengthens Pitching Staff For The New Season

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UP)— Exuberant Fred Haney foresees another world championship for Milwaukee next year, and no one can argue much today in the face of a pitching staff that now includes Lew Burdette, Warren Spahn and big Bob Rush, too. "Happy? That ain't the word," grinned the little Milwaukee manager after acquiring Rush from the Cubs Thursday night in a five-player deal.

Along with the right-handed Rush, the Braves obtained another right-handed pitcher, Don Kaiser, plus outfielder Ed Haas.

To get those three, the Braves gave up southpaw Taylor Phillips and catcher Sam Taylor.

Some baseball men seemed to feel the Cubs were short-changed by General Manager John Holand, who swung the Chicago end of the deal, didn't think so.

Meanwhile the epoch-making minor league convention ended here today after one of the stormiest weeks in the history of baseball — and the prospects of more turbulence to come.

Seixas, Mulloy Team For Davis Cup Finals

ADELAIDE, Australia (UP)— Vic Seixas of Philadelphia and his 44-year-old gray-haired sidekick, Gardner Mulloy of Denver, Colo., teamed up today to lead the United States Davis Cup tennis team into the inter-zone final.

Playing under overcast skies at the Memorial Drive Courts, the cagey Yanks whipped Felicissimo Ampon and Reymundo Deyro of the Philippines, 6-1, 6-3, 6-2, to give the U.S. squad an insurmountable 3-0 lead in their best-of-five semi-final series.

The win earned the Americans a berth opposite Belgium, the European champions, in the inter-zone final at Brisbane next week.

The winner of the U.S.-Belgium series will play defending champion Australia in the challenge round at Melbourne, Dec. 28-29.

Seixas, a 34-year-old cup veteran, and Herb Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., got the Americans off flying Thursday by winning their opening singles matches in straight sets.

Then Seixas came back today to team with Mulloy and together the Filipinos, reducing Saturday's concluding singles matches to the status of exhibitions.

What About When The Wave Of Future Hits Men's Clothing?

By DOC QUIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (UP)—Gentlemen, let us now begin thinking what manner of men we will appear to be when the wave of the future hits the men's clothing industry. Will men's duds turn eerie? Will there be push-button clothing, with built-in heating, air-conditioning, and—well, we might as well think big—shower baths? Will we let the Russians get a big jump on us in such fluids as, say, non-fitch fabrics, self-sealing pockets, shine-resisting pants seats, and other such sure-to-come improvements?

Our scouts have fetched in reliable reports that a radical fringe of the clothing industry already is speculating that the time will come when you will step out of your shower in the morning and your wife will spray that day's clothing onto you with anaerobic bomb containing chemical clothing compounds.

A Duds Disintegrator
The scouts did not say how you get the stuff off at night, but it is to be presumed that ways will be found. Perhaps every home will be equipped with a duds disintegrator closet into which you step and—poof!—you're undressed.

In search of an authoritative voice in the male raiment field, we corralled Robert Asher, a big men's pants man from Massachusetts, vice president of the Asher Company of Fitchburg. He de-

The Paris No One Sings About

By ROBERT MUSEL
United Press Staff Correspondent

PARIS (UP)—There is a Paris no one sings about, the Paris of the Paris of the stiletto, the gun, the garrote.

It is a Paris the tourist rarely sees — yet it is not so far from the perfumed precincts of the Arc de Triomphe.

In their happy thousands, the visitors goggle at the nudes of Pigeon, explore the saucers of the famed restaurants, stand awed before the slowly circling perfection of Venus de Milo in the Louvre.

They count the murdered and wounded here in the hundreds. One responsible newspaper estimated 2,750 casualties in Paris and a few other areas of France — an average of nine a day this year!

So far the murder victims are overwhelmingly Algerians. About 550 of them have been strangled, knifed or shot to death. Nine Europeans have been killed, but mostly as innocent bystanders.

In a sense, they are casualties of the bigger conflict in Algeria where French forces are trying to wipe out a rebellion.

There are more than 300,000 Algerians in France, most of whom live in or near Paris. Most are unskilled laborers. Few speak French. They crowd shabby hotels, frequent Moslem cafes.

They can enter France at will

Tax Reminder
Taxpayers making quarterly payments on individual estimated income tax should mark Wednesday, Jan. 15, as their deadline, according to Willey E. Davis of the Internal Revenue Service.

Jan. 15 is deadline day for paying the final installment on Mr. Taxpayer's estimated tax for 1957. Also, it is the last chance to amend a prior declaration of estimated tax return to avoid possible penalties for under estimation.

BATHING IS THE THING

Postmaster Starts 'Mail Early' Drive

Predicting that the Christmas mail this year will set an all time record, even exceeding the 2,665,318 pieces of mail handled here in 1956, Postmaster O. K. Gaylor announced his 1957 "Mail Early For Christmas" Campaign today.

With Christmas just around the corner, the Postmaster reminds us, "It's later than you think!". Most folks have a tendency to wait until December rolls around before they give their Christmas mailing plans a thought!

The Postmaster further suggested that right now is the time to take the following steps: Check your Christmas card lists very carefully — make sure that each address includes the full name, street and number, city, zone and state.

He said, also, that it is a good idea to stock up on heavy wrapping paper, sturdy corrugated cartons, strong cord, and paper adhesive tape for use in securely packing and wrapping your Christmas gifts. If you'd like to include your Christmas card or letter inside your gift package, add the appropriate First Class mail postage to the postage for the package itself; thus, insuring simultaneous arrival of your gift and greeting.

To help you plan your early Christmas mailing, the Postmaster suggested that you secure from the Post Office Pamphlet No. 2, which tells all about Packaging and Wrapping Parcels for Mailing, and Pamphlet No. 3, giving full details on Domestic Postage Rates and Fees. Be sure to stock up on plenty of stamps at the same time.

Also, ask for free labels, reading, "All For Local Delivery" and "All For Out of Town Delivery," so that you can speed arrival of your Christmas cards by sorting and tying them in two separate bundles with the addresses all facing one way.

Keep in mind that only Christmas cards carrying First Class postage, may include a personal message. Nothing more than a signature is authorized on cards mailed at the two cent Third Class rate; and be sure your return address is on every Christmas card envelope — this is socially correct, and helps both you and your friends to keep your mailing lists up-to-date.

The Postmaster says he is completing advance preparations to handle the Christmas rush with extra mail clerks, carriers, and expanded facilities all around. So, now, it is really up to you!

It's important to plan your Christmas mailings so that those Christmas cards and gifts for most distant points are mailed first. Try to get all of your out-of-town cards and gifts into the Post Office before Dec. 10, and those for nearby points should be mailed by Dec. 15.

Vodka, Vodka, who's got the Vodka?

Well, at present there are well over 100 brands of vodka. And if vodka drinkers act somewhat puzzled when exposed to this imposing array—it's to be understood. However, out of all of these vodkas, only one vodka qualifies as the vodka.

And that's Gordon's Vodka—proud product of the supreme distilling standards behind famous Gordon's quality. Each precious drop is imbued with the specialized skill and care that it could get only from Gordon's—the distiller famed for over 188 years as the producer of the world's finest gin.

'For America News'

To our desk today has come a new publication. It is called "For America News" and is apparently going to be the house organ of the national organization of "For America." From the format and the published intentions contained in the issue we have, it would appear that "For America" is launching a newspaper of the right with its principal target, the repeal of income tax.

There are items in the sheet by J. Bracken Lee, former governor of Utah; the honorable Howard Buffet, former congressman from Nebraska; Herbert Hoover, former president of the United States; General Douglas MacArthur, former general of the armies; and T. Coleman Andrews, former head of the department of internal revenue. There are also items by Senator Harry F. Byrd, presently a senator from Virginia, Congressman Clare E. Hoffman, and Justice M. T. Phelps of the Arizona Supreme Court. All of these stories inveigh against the income tax.

This is a goodly aggregation of talent. But it is important that we take note of the fact that the main attractions are provided by persons FORMERLY in government and now no longer there. Without in the least meaning to tarnish the reputations of the men still holding office, we would like to go on record as saying that the fact of FORMER relation to us is mighty impressive. For in our lives and times, we have come to see that men who will not compromise, who state the facts as they see them, who are fearless and forthright before all enemies foreign or domestic, are the very ones purged in one manner or another by the present trends of our political demagoguery.

Let us see. Here is Lee, purged by the voters of Utah because he held to a program of reduced taxes, economy and individual freedom.

Here is Buffet, purged by the voters of Nebraska for the same reason.

Here is Hoover, purged by the voters of the United States following a vicious smear campaign.

Here is Andrews, purged by his own hand, because he could no longer stomach the injustices, inequities and violence of the income tax.

And here, finally, is General MacArthur, purged by Harry Truman.

Yet, each man, perhaps by virtue of purge, is a larger and more enduring figure today than he was at the time of the purge. It is curious. Yet it is a fact that the true worth of a man is nearly always discernible under fire. And when the chips were down, here are five who refused to double deal, to play their principles false, or to kowtow to political expediency. They stand out today, not because they hold office but rather because they no longer hold office. They are larger men than the offices which once held them. "For America News" is to be congratulated for having attracted men of such calibre to its initial effort.

We are constrained, however, to utter a word of caution. The publication of a newspaper is no mean or paltry undertaking. Still, it does not have to fail for want of financial support. It will succeed or fail in the final analysis simply on the basis of the job it proves capable of doing.

We wish "For America News" every success. However, for it to succeed, it is going to have to present a more varied menu than its first issue contains. We are heartily in favor of its selected target. If it can serve as a constant voice in opposition to the income tax, it can also be a powerful tool for economy, sound business, decency and public reform within the government. Further, it can provide a sounding board for true libertarian thinking.

Go to it, "For America." Let's see what you can do.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. Haller

Price Vs. Wage Inflation

Since I had several articles challenging Walter Reuther's contention that unemployment is due to wages not increasing as rapidly as he thinks they should, some statistics issued by the Economic Research Department, Chamber of Commerce of the United States in its "Economic Intelligence" Bulletin is very interesting. This bulletin reports:

"A surprising number of people believe that prices rise faster than wages. Even during the recent period of upward price pressures, wages in manufacturing have risen even faster as shown by the accompanying tabulation:

Table with columns: Year, Consumer Price Index, Avg. Hourly Earnings in Manufacturing. Rows for 1954, 1955, 1956, 1957 (Apr. to Sep.).

"Taking a longer period into view—from 1914 to 1957—the Consumer Price Index rose from 42.9 to 121.0 or by about 180 per cent, but average hourly earnings in manufacturing jumped from 22c to $2.07, or roughly 840 per cent, as can be calculated from the next table:

Table with columns: Year, Consumer Price Index, Avg. Hourly Earnings in Manufacturing. Rows for 1914, 1919, 1920, 1929, 1939, 1949, 1957.

"Breaking down this long period into shorter periods, we find that from 1914 to 1919 the Consumer Price Index rose by 72 per cent while hourly earnings in manufacturing increased by 114 per cent. From 1919 to 1929 the Consumer Price Index went down by almost 1 per cent while average hourly earnings nevertheless rose nearly 19 per cent.

"From 1929 to 1939, the Consumer Price Index declined by 19 per cent while average hourly earnings jumped by 22 per cent. In the period 1939 to 1957, the Consumer Price Index increased by 70 per cent while average hourly earnings increased by 227.0 per cent. Since 1939, hourly earnings of retail employees increased 210 per cent and those of construction workers 216 per cent. If the growth in fringe benefits were added to wages, the favorable picture would be further improved. Yet, it is amazing how the view persists that prices outpace incomes.

"Furthermore, since the index generally does not reflect the improvements in the quality, durability and serviceability of products, it therefore understates the rise in real incomes.

"These facts are important to appreciate the progress we are constantly making—but they should not obscure our concern for holding down the general level of prices. For the minority living on fixed incomes, general price inflation is pure loss. In many other ways, inflation takes its toll. But let us start by realizing that we are and have been scoring net gains in real income."

"Of course these statistics mainly cover manufacturing wages. But wages of domestics have gone up more rapidly than the employees' in manufacturing where unions are more in control.

"These figures certainly explode the theory that unemployment is due to wages not being high enough to buy back what the workers produce. Of course the workers do not produce the whole. The workers would produce practically nothing—in fact, most of them would starve—if it were not for the tools that enable them to produce so much more. Nor would the tools be of any value if there were not workers to operate the tools.

"If all the product goes to the workers and is all consumed, our standard of living would be stationary or go down as the population increases. It is only because population increases and tools increase and labor is divided on a free-market basis that our standard of living—our real wages—and our general well-being are improved.

Demos Angry Over Ike Budget Move

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON.—The Administration has suddenly switched its Sputnik budget policy. It will put it up to a Democratic Congress to effect the economies needed to catch up with Russia's military and scientific superiority.

President Eisenhower's original idea was to submit to the Rayburn-Johnson Congress a fairly liberal budget from $72 billion to $75 billion. As he then said, cutting this figure so as to provide at least $40 billion for defense and expanded Sputnik research, would be the "hardest and most distasteful task" before the legislators.

Democrats on Capitol Hill reacted violently and angrily to this maneuver. They noted that it was the President's Constitutional duty to say where reductions should be made. Any worthwhile economy, of course, will antagonize large groups of voters, especially farmers, veterans, labor and free-wheeling liberals.

CUT IN PROJECTS.—Largely as a result of this critical report, the Administration itself will undertake what President Eisenhower described as the "hardest and most distasteful task."

He will send to Congress a tight budget, calling for appropriations of about $71 billion, with about $2 billion cut from normal and popular projects—programs which now provide financial benefits for millions of voters. The savings would be devoted and diverted to closing the military gap between the United States and Russia.

DEMOCRATS ON SPOT.—It would then be up to a Democratic Congress to approve or to disapprove the Administration's domestic and defense proposals. If the Democrats accept the proposed cuts, it will share with the Republicans the responsibility for alienating many important and influential elements of the electorate.

But if the House and Senate Democrats provide funds for a Sputnik defense and for all the other popular and vote-getting projects, they will be accused in the 1958 and 1960 political campaigns of extravagance and financial irresponsibility.

KENNEDY'S PROPOSAL.—Senator John F. Kennedy was severely criticized for his Senate speech proposing that the United States use its influence to arrange an amicable settlement between France and the Algerian rebels. His suggestion was denounced by the State Department and the French Foreign Office as another example of "unwarranted American meddling."

At this time, it was regarded as federal government to the states, to spend as they please on the public schools.

The nation already spends $9.4 billion a year on public education, of which Uncle Sam puts up $300 million.

All we can think of to say is that when braasier and more nearly impossible demands are made on the taxpayers, the Teachers' Lobby and its affiliates will make them.

The Doctor Says

By Edwin J. Jordan, M. D.

wise move to have postponed the tonsillectomy. But it also appears that it should not be postponed longer than necessary. There is certainly a chance that the bad tonsils have contributed to the running ears. One cannot count on the removal of tonsils clearing up the ear difficulty, but it should help. Probably the ears will have to be treated after the tonsillectomy, as well as before.

It should be remembered that these are general remarks and that Mrs. C. should obtain the specific advice on the care of her eight-year-old daughter from the physician in charge who alone can know all the facts.

There are some recognized reasons for not taking out the tonsils. Among these are the presence of acute inflammation, tuberculosis of the lungs and several blood disorders or diabetes.

The reasons in favor of taking out tonsils are not always so clear cut. Frequent attacks of acute tonsillitis is one. Difficulty in swallowing, breathing or talking caused by enlarged tonsils is another. Catarrh or other infections of the middle ear are usually reason enough to remove them also.

If there is reason to believe that chronic infection of the tonsils is causing Bright's disease, arthritis or other difficulties in the body, they are also better out.

Even though removal of the tonsils is an operation probably done more often than any other, it is not something to dash into without good reason. In many youngsters there has done a lot of good, but there are many factors to take into account in each case.

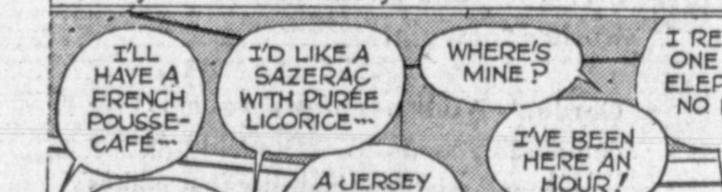

Furthermore, even this operation is not entirely without risk, though the risk is very slight, and there is no use doing it unless there is a good chance that it will improve the health.

Whether to take the tonsils out or leave them in is a question faced each year by thousands of parents and physicians. Each time the problem is a little different.

For example, Mrs. S. C. writes that her eight-year-old girl has been advised to have her tonsils removed, but that this was postponed because the child had chicken pox and measles. Lately, the mother writes, the youngster's ears seem to be running and she wonders if the bad tonsils could be responsible.

Mac's French And An Egg Order For Poodle

By HENRY MCELORE

VALENCE.—If you ever happen to spend the night at the Hotel Des Voyageurs, 30 Avenue de La Gare, here in Valence, and are accompanied by a poodle puppy, heed these words:

Don't order a plain scrambled egg for the poodle's dinner. Better he go hungry than you go crazy.

The waiters at Hotel Des Voyageurs do not (1) speak a word of English, (2) pay any attention to sign language, or (3) believe a poodle eats scrambled eggs.

I ordered Charlie a scrambled egg and set off a chain reaction that lasted better than an hour. The first thing that happened was that I got a plate of ham and eggs, sunny-side up. I ate this rather than cause a disturbance.

Again I ordered a scrambled egg. This time I showed him Charlie's tin traveling dish, broke an imaginary egg in it, and stirred it vigorously.

The waiter cried, "Oul! Oul!" and disappeared with Charlie's plate. Ten minutes later he came back with two poached eggs and an order of green peas in it. When he placed the eggs and peas in front of me, and gave me another set of knives and forks, I realized that the waiter had yet to catch on that I was trying to get the dog something to eat.

I decided to storm the kitchen itself, on the chance that the chef spoke a little English, or could understand the gyrations I was making with my hands.

I picked up Charlie, went into the kitchen, and stood face to face with the chef.

I shook the poodle in his face, pointed to Charlie's mouth, drew an egg on a piece of paper, and then "scrambled" the egg with the pencil.

For a moment he looked at me as if I were crazy, and then a great light dawned. His eyes brightened, his face broke into a smile, and he cried "Oul! Oul! Un omelette! Un omelette! Oul, monsieur."

I decided not to argue about an omelette. That was close enough to scrambled eggs.

After I had left the kitchen the waiter must have talked with the chef—the same waiter somehow managed to come to the conclusion that I wanted green peas—because when the omelette was served it was a green pea one.

"Charlie," I said, "you are going to have to eat a green pea omelette or nothing at all."

He loved it. I had forgotten all about his being a French poodle. I could have avoided all the trouble by ordering him crepes suzette or pot au feu or a cup of potage du jour.

Better still, I should have allowed Charlie to order for himself. He certainly speaks better French than I do. Either I was taught a French that is now obsolete or my accent is the most unique in all the world.

The French don't even understand me when I say "dollar," so you can easily imagine how atrociously I pronounce the language.

Fair Enough

American Press Is Losing Its Courage

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK.—Eleanor Roosevelt is still barnstorming around a country which her husband's evil regime degraded from the moral standards of a proud and decent nation and knowingly betrayed to the Soviet enemy.

Some publishers say they have to show respect for her "womanhood." But her intervention opened our doors to Earl Browder's wife and Hanns Eisler. And the patriot Robert Stripling was hounded even in the Army for opposing a commission in Naval Intelligence for her friend Joe Lash, who refused to tell the Dies Committee the truth about his associates in the Red front Youth Congress.

When are we, of the press, going to expose all over again to citizens who were children or away at war or, as Harry Hopkins put it, too damned dumb to understand, the perfidy of that horrible regime which prevailed right down through the persecution of Joe McCarthy and the recent award of a N.Y. State scholarship to Doctor Irving Peress?

I discussed political matters recently with a thoroughly qualified medical doctor who was a boy when these crimes were committed by Eleanor Roosevelt's husband, by Harry Hopkins, by the Harvard "apparatus" which Whitaker Chambers described and many Congressional committees have confirmed. How would he know that Felix Frankfurter was the sponsor of Alger Hiss? And that Hiss groveled in his entreaties to the House Committee not to make him name this wily adventurer? Do you know that yourself? Yet Frankfurter recently enjoyed a great salute of adulation on his 75th birthday. In all this stuff, the press said not a single word about the activities which Senator Jim Eastland and Counselor Robert Morris disclosed in their search of the terrible Morgenthau diaries. To conceal truth is no less evil than to publish lies, but our press gave this fellow a favorable report. So this fine young American doctor can't trust the press to tell him the whole truth and he must go ignorant and handicapped. Why must we continue to foist such creatures on an unsuspecting people?

James A. Linen, the publisher of "Time," could have been working under my by-line when he wrote recently: "No cranny of public or private life is safe from the curiosity of the U.S. Press—except the U.S. press. Publishers treat other publishers as fellow club members, whose foibles, and achievements, may be whispered but are not to be bruited about in public print." That is especially true of the "foibles, and achievements" of Henry Luce, who owns Life.

Marshall Hunt, the editor of the Olympian of Olympia, Wash., writes that "newspapers, as a whole, are losing their insides." Ralph Julliard of the Harlingen, Tex., Valley Morning Star, a sister publication of the Pampa Daily News, recently wrote of "Timorous hollow shells of former vigorous, hated-but-read, feared and respected newspapers."

Now publishers want people to love them.

Anger and revolt are rising in the South against the great concentration of propaganda-power in the city of New York. Some magazines have treated the Southern States as provinces conquered by the Supreme Court.

But, did you ever hear that Henry Bubblehead Wallace as secretary of Commerce, under Truman, sent tons and tons of American patents to the Soviet embassy—that Russia practically stripped our patent files of everything from the moustache cup to the latest detail of advanced science at 25 cents a copy?

No. But you have no excuse not to know the latest prattle about Presley, Sinatra and sweet Lucille Ball, who registered as a communist voter to please her dear old grandfather!

The Cracker Barrel

I suppose anybody would feel like bragging if he succeeded in slapping a wild bear on the wrist. But he'd only be kidding himself if he thought this had tamed the bear. This goes double for the Russian bear. Sixty big and little countries in the United Nations recently condemned the Soviet Union for its persecutions of Hungary. This is being hailed as a great moral victory. But CAN YOU SCORE A MORAL VICTORY OVER PEOPLE WHO HAVE NO CONCERN FOR MORALITY? Russia's masters are unconcerned by the rebuke and the condition of the Hungarians is as pitiful as it was before. It seems that the U.S. will only become effective when the Communist threat to civilization collapses. And when that happens, there will be no need for the U.S.
