UP Establishes Research, Development Department

NEW YORK (UP) — United Press is establishing a research and development department to assess new methods and trends, President F.H. Bartholomew announced today.

Burning Of Hungarian List Of Witnesses Is Requested

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP)—A United Nations investigating committee recommended Wednesday night that U.N. political officer Povl Bang-Jensen burn the secret list of Hungarian revolt witnesses which he refuses to surrender.

The committee said the Danish official refused to give it the list just as he earlier refused to turn it over to the United Nations. He based his refusal on the contention it might fall into the hands of Communists and lead to reprisals against the witnesses or their families in Hungary.

The investigators said they were convinced the paper have no further use because they "validity has been impaired if not destroyed by his manner of dealing with them."

"Accordingly we recommend that Mr. Bang-Jensen be instructed forthwith to burn these papers in a sealed envelope in the presence of a U.N. security officer," the committee report said.

"Furthermore he should be required to give explicit assurance that no copies of the papers have been made by him and that to the best of his knowledge, no such copies are in existence."

Bang-Jensen was secretary of the five-member committee that last June returned a blistering indictment of Russia after a four-month investigation of the 1956 Hungarian revolution.

The committee questioned 111 witnesses, 81 of whom asked to testify anonymously. Many of the witnesses were interviewed by Bang-Jensen. When the committee's report was completed, he refused to give up a list of the secret witnesses. He said he had given his word that their identity would be known only to him.

Bang-Jensen was suspended from his post for refusing Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld's order to turn over the list to a senior U.N. official.

Mother Of Pampa Minister Dies

Mrs. James Reynolds, mother of the Rev. William E. West of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, died suddenly Tuesday of a heart attack. She and Mr. Reynolds were living in Bell Gardens, suburb of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Reynolds was born June 20, 1897 in Hiawatha, Kan., where she was a telephone operator from 1925 to 1940.

She was married to Earl Eugene West in 1916, who died in the flu epidemic following the first world war. In March, 1937, she married James Reynolds, who survives. Reverend West is an only child.

The Burial Office was read in the Allen Mortuary in Los Angeles on Thursday afternoon by Dr. Enrico Molina, rector of the Episcopal Church in Compton, Calif. The body will be taken to Hiawatha, where services will be held

Senate Is Expected To Act On 'Raise'

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate is expected to act next week on a proposed average 7 1/2 per cent pay boost for 1,500,000 postal and federal Civil Service workers.

The Senate Civil Service Committee, anticipating a presidential request for a pay raise of at least 6 per cent, approved the two measures Wednesday within hours after they were okayed by a subcommittee last Oct. 1.

Subcommittee Chairman Richard L. Neuberger, (D-Ore.) estimated the two bills would cost the government an extra 580 million dollars a year for the next three years, but less after that.

Johnston said he hoped the Senate would consider the pay bill separately from administration proposals for increasing postal rates. His committee is holding hearings on a House-approved bill to boost the cost of mailing an out of town letter from 3 to 4 cents among other things. There were signs the fate of the postal rate bill would hinge on what happens to the postal pay increase.

President Eisenhower has asked for a bigger jump—from 3 to 5 cents—in the letter rate. Senate leaders have said they are against the 5 cent stamp but would go along with the 4 cents if the administration accepted the pay increase.

Underlining the government's need for scientists, the committee included in its Civil Service pay bill a provision to raise from 355 to 512 the number of scientific posts permitted in the Defense Department. The administration requested the action.

Department director will be Bert Masterson, now Central-Division manager in Chicago. Masterson has been with U.P. since 1935, and has participated in several studies of U.P. facilities and operations. He will move to New York later this month.

New transmission systems will be explored, and the use of various types of electronic equipment will be weighed, Bartholomew's announcement said.

Five and 10 year projections of United Press requirements, services, and clientele will be made to anticipate world requirements and prepare for shifts into new areas and develop new processes.

"The U.P.'s success has been based on this kind of thinking," Bartholomew said, "and we expect the new program to cut down the lag time between the time we see a new need or the merit of a new process, and the time we get it into effect. We are too big now to try to deal with these developments on an informal basis."

Studies will be made in the use of tape in newsplature and newsfilm transmission, and in wireless transmission.

Masterson will work closely with Earl J. Johnson, general news manager, and Harry R. Flory, director of communications, in examining transmission developments, and with A.M. Thomason, general business manager, and Leroy Keller, general sales manager, in service development studies.

For several years Masterson has been active in the introduction of new services, expansion of editorial coverage, revision of transmission systems and heightening the efficiency of bureaus and departments.

When United Press entered the television field he worked for most of a year as a specially assigned assistant to Keller. He launched the United Press teletypesetter service in the Midwest, realigned the wire system and decentralized operations. Last summer he elected the transfer to Chicago from New York of the United Press radio news service.

be justified under the criteria specified by law."

The inclusion of lower supports for dairy products was something of a surprise.

Benson recently announced that the dairy rates for the dairy marketing year beginning in April would be at 75 per cent of parity. The announcement caused considerable agitation in Congress and among dairy groups.

Based on Average Quality
Eisenhower asked for authority to increase acreage allotments for cotton, wheat, rice, peanuts, and tobacco. Under the proposal, acreage allotments for these crops could be increased up to 50 per cent above the levels determined by existing formulas.

Any acreage increases, he said, "must be related to price adjustments which will permit the growth of markets necessary to absorb the increased production."

He said that price supports for cotton, the south's major crop, should be based on average quality. They are based now on middle 3/8 inch, and the suggested change would mean lower support prices in lower grades.

Repeal Escalator Clause
Other recommendations:
—A strengthened conservation reserve program of the soil bank, and elimination of the acreage reserve program. The President had called for this in his 1959 budget message. The long-range conservation reserve program envisions retiring marginal acres from crop production by putting them into grass and trees. The acreage reserve program has operated on a costly year-to-year basis.

Los Angeles Comes Up With New Approach To Divorces

(DIVORCE)
By JERRY KEATING
United Press Staff Correspondent
LOS ANGELES, Jan. 16 (UP)—This city has more than its share of divorce, but it has come up with a "reconciliation" approach that has worked in 43 of every 100 cases that come before the special court.

IT'S THE LAW
in Texas
A public service feature of the State Bar of Texas

Insurance Laws Strengthened
The last Regular Session of the Texas Legislature passed a law (Articles 1.02 to 1.09, inclusive, Insurance Code), establishing a 3-man State Board of Insurance with a single Commissioner of Insurance as the administrative head. This regulatory set-up replaced the Board of Insurance Commissioners of Texas.

The old law provided that neither the actuary, examiners, or assistant examiners working under the Board of Insurance Commissioners should continue in office if they accepted directly or indirectly any employment, pay, compensation or gratuity from any insurance company. (Article 1.17, Insurance Code.) Except for the general law against bribery, dismissal from duty was the penalty and such penalty apparently did not apply as against Board Members.

The law establishing the new State Board of Insurance makes it a penitentiary offense for any member of the State Board or the Commissioner of Insurance or any employee or agent to accept anything of value or sell to or buy from any insurance company or its agents anything of value. The insurance company representative is also guilty of a penitentiary offense if he proposes any such forbidden act. (Article 1.09-3, Insurance Code.)

To further strengthen the penal (criminal) laws, provisions were added (Articles 21.47 and 21.48, Insurance Code) that every report or document required to be made or filed under the Insurance Code should be verified by a written declaration that it is made under the penalties of perjury. Any person willfully making such a report or document falsely shall upon conviction be fined the sum of $5,000 and imprisoned for not less than two, nor more than five years.

New powers were also given for regulating life insurance policies. Heretofore the law provided for the filing of life insurance policy forms and required that certain provisions be included and others be prohibited. (Articles 3.43 to 3.45, inclusive, Insurance Code.) When those "do's" and "don'ts" were met, the Board had little or no authority to disapprove other policy provisions.

The new law (Article 3.42, Insurance Code) places the duty upon the Insurance Commissioner to disapprove any life insurance policy and to withdraw any previous approval if "it contains provisions which encourage misrepresentation or are unjust, unfair, inequitable, misleading, deceptive or contrary to law or to the public policy of this State."

Some time ago there was prepared a model law for presentation to the Legislatures of the various States to prohibit unfair competition and deceptive practices in the insurance business. Laws patterned after this uniform or model bill have been passed in a number of States. Texas passed such a law at the last Regular Session, which is quite comprehensive in its regulation of the advertising and sale of insurance. (Article 21.21, Insurance Code.)

The basic step is for couples to sign a behavior contract covering the entire range of family relations.

Suppose the wife's chief complaint is that her husband drinks far too much, and the man complains in turn that his wife's mother is forever visiting them? The husband signs a document promising to halt or limit his drinking severely. The wife signs a proviso that her mother's visits will be held to no more than once a month and then not for more than three days.

Then they go home together and try to keep their promises. But it is more than that because they can be held in contempt of court if they violate the written agreement.

Results Encouraging
President Judge Louis H. Burke of the Los Angeles County Superior Court says the plan has proved "very potent." Of 100 couples who agree to go to the conciliation court each month, 43 per cent result in reconciliation and a year later 75 per cent are still in effect.

"The reconciliation agreement serves several purposes," Burke said. "First, writing down the promises tends to dignify and make the couple aware of them. The agreement allows the court to step in should either party violate the provisions. And

Linkletter Becomes Nation's Number One Matchmaker

By VERNON SCOTT
United Press Hollywood Writer
HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Affable Art Linkletter is the nation's Number One matchmaker, determined to marry a couple on his show at any cost—even if it means supplying a stepladder for an elopement.

When his Univac gimmick for bringing "ideal" couples together on his "People are Funny" show failed to ring the wedding bell, Link was beside himself—no mean feat for a man his size.

In a frantic attempt to lure a couple to the altar, Art imported a hypnotist to mesmerize a couple into tying the knot.

A Little of Barnum
Linkletter has taken to heart the saying "All the world loves a lover" and combined it with Barnum's philosophy about the birth rate of suckers.

"Most people are incurable romantics," he said. "When we started introducing young couples on the show we expected abuse and criticism. But there have been remarkably few letters complaining about 'nothing being sacred.' Millions of lonesome people get a lift from our little TV romances."

The odds are one couple out of ten brought together by Univac will be married, according to Art. He vows that contestants aren't bribed or pressured into off-screen hand-holding.

His eyes light up like a short-circuit in a pinball machine when he talks about a recent pair of Linkletter love birds who became engaged via the program.

Positively in Love
"They are Shirley Saunders and Bob Kardell," he gloated. "Of the 20,000 couples we've teamed up, I'm positive they're really in love. They have been dating five or six nights a week."

"Some of the other couples continued to see one another desultorily, but Bob and Shirley have set the wedding date for some time in May or June. They won't be married on the show. The kids thought it wouldn't be in good taste."

Doesn't that louse up Art's big finale?
"The high point would be if they name their first baby after me," Art grinned, "unless, of course, it's a girl!"

It serves to instruct couples about the normal duties and obligations of married life."

Free Will Reigns
Burke said no coercion was used in attempting to reconcile couples. Rather, they were encouraged to recognize their own shortcomings and sign the contracts of their own free will. The contract begins with a general agreement to forgive and forget. But it also covers such matters as temper, nagging, personal appearance, child discipline, in-laws, drinking, sex, gambling, finances and having a third person in the home.

One month after the reconciliation, the parties receive a congratulatory letter from the judge of the conciliation court, Roger A. Pfaff.

"Habits cannot be changed all at once," the letter reads. "If you find that there are still domestic difficulties, do not hesitate to contact us for additional counseling". If the counselor finds the marriage cannot be saved, both parties are relieved of their agreement and may go to superior court and seek divorce.

Walter Rogers Reports:

Observations And Sidelights On State Of Union Message

Like most speeches, the State of the Union Message, delivered to the Congress at 12:30 p.m. on Thursday, Jan. 9, 1958, by President Eisenhower, contained many platitudes and generalities. Some of these were undoubtedly prompted by wishful thinking on the part of the President and his advisors.

One in particular which I have in mind is his reference to the possibility of further revolts similar to the Hungarian revolt. Contrary to the thinking of John Foster Dulles, I personally do not believe that we can rely to any degree on the possibility of revolts behind the Iron Curtain having any telling effect on the strength of the Soviet Union. We may as well be realistic and keep ourselves well prepared, without depending on effective help coming from a source that is not going to produce it.

The hard core of the speech was concentrated in the 8 items which I have listed below and to which I have added my personal observations.

1. Defense reorganization.—This probably should have been styled rearrangement of the present defense establishment. I do not believe President Eisenhower intended to indicate he was going to do away with the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

2. Accelerated defense effort.—This actually had reference to accelerated efforts in coping with new developments; recognizing the need for dispersal rather than the concentration of many installations; perfecting better warning systems, etc.

3. Mutual aid.—This is another name for "foreign aid." The President's condemnation of those who refer to this program as a giveaway program did not please many of the critics of the foreign aid program.

4. Foreign trade.—This will be highly controversial in many areas of this country. Foreign produced goods materially affect the economy in many sections of our country, because these foreign countries can produce the goods at so much less cost.

5. Scientific cooperation with allies.—This has been controversial in the past but will probably meet with greater approval in view of the scientific and technological advances of the Soviet Union in recent months. The danger of such a program lies in the possibility of some secrets falling into unfriendly hands. The question is "Who are the friends of some of the friendly nations?" The Washington Post carried a story on Friday, January 10, with the headline, "Canada Plans to Sell Wheat to Red China."

6. Education and research.—The controversy as to how federal aid will be administered in the education field will cause fireworks. Expanded research and development can and should be accomplished with the least possible delay.

7. Spending and saving.—This would appear to be a conflict of terms. However, a re-evaluation of some spending practices can result in saving. The re-evaluation should provide searching scrutiny of defense spending. Most tax dollars are absorbed by this department of government.

8. Works of peace.—The end result which we have been seeking for many years and hope and pray it will become a reality during our lifetime.

Sidelights

Many of the sitting Members of the House of Representatives did not get to it during the President's speech. They had to stand behind the rails because so many former Members (who have access to the House Chamber) occupied the seats earlier.

The Supreme Court had a session of its own and did not attend the Joint Session to hear the State of the Union Message. This was somewhat unusual.

The appearance of the President was awaited with mixed emotions. All of us were looking forward to his visit but some appeared to be most anxious to see what he looked like from a health standpoint. Others were awaiting with great anticipation some earth-shaking remarks, or perhaps I should say space-shaking remarks, in the State of the Union Message.

Mrs. Eisenhower, as usual, came in before the President and occupied the President's box in the west gallery. She was greeted with a tremendous ovation justly and properly accorded the First Lady of the Land.

The President was applauded numerous times during his speech. A large amount of this applause was spontaneous. However, some of it appeared to be manufactured. As to the latter, some of the Members seemed so anxious for the President to say something important that they couldn't withhold their applause until he had said it.

I was reminded of the time in Amarillo when Wendell Wilkie was running for President against Roosevelt. He made a speech before a huge crowd at Elwood Park. What appeared to be one of his staunchest supporters was a large red-faced fellow wearing a good looking pair of cowboy boots and a good Stetson ten-gallon hat. He was sitting on the edge of his seat when Wilkie got up to speak. Wilkie said: "Ladies and Gentlemen," Whereupon the red-faced fellow leaped to his feet, buried his hat into the air, gave out with a resounding cowboy yell and then bolted at the top of his voice. "He's a-talkin' right down my alley".

Facts and Conclusion About The President's Health

FACTS: When the President entered the House Chamber to give his State of the Union Message he looked excellent. His complexion was ruddy, he was wearing a broad smile, and there was plenty of brightness in his walk. His entire demeanor during the speech was that of a normal individual with full control of all faculties.

His voice was strong and his pronunciation of words excellent, even though it did appear on the television screens that he might have mispronounced one or two. His voice did become a little hoarse at the end, but this would happen to anyone who had been on his feet talking for 45 minutes.

It happened to me yesterday in a 5 minute radio talk.

When he left the Chamber he was shaking hands, smiling and stepping high.

CONCLUSION: The President will make it to grass.

Survival Is Not Enough

After weeks in an iron lung, Mrs. Jane Atwood, Ann Arbor, Mich., housewife, made a dramatic recovery from polio. Her arms and shoulders are still paralyzed. But with March of Dimes assistance she got 17 months of training at the Ann Arbor Rehabilitation Center, was fitted with a modern brace, does housework, cares for her two children.

New Hope Is Seen For Polio-Disabled

Hope for further recovery from the crippling of paralytic polio is held out to thousands of disabled Americans with announcement by the March of Dimes that this will be the objective of its 1958 fund-raising campaign through the month of January.

Blighting effects of the disease are marring the lives of tens of thousands of children and young people in this country, and the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis estimates that one out of three sufferers could benefit from application of modern techniques of rehabilitation.

If the money can be raised for bringing this new expert knowledge to the polio patient of past years, March of Dimes spokesmen point out, many a human life will be transformed from mere helpless survival to self-reliance, new dignity and usefulness.

Tens of Thousands Need Help
The theme of the 1958 March of Dimes has therefore been announced as "Survival Is Not Enough."

The National Foundation has also announced that all 3,100 of the organization's local chapters will engage in the program of arranging and financing the additional care of thousands of polio victims who need it to make life worth living.

March of Dimes funds will also be used in 1958 to continue and expand important studies in the field of virus research which may lead to preventives of many other virus diseases.

Nationalist China In Political Crisis

FOREIGN NEWS COMMENTARY

By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

The Chinese Nationalist regime is undergoing its first big political crisis since it moved to Formosa in 1949.

The crisis threatens to split the Kuomintang, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's dominant political party.

Premier O. K. Yui has been impeached by the "Control Yuan," one of the five branches of the Nationalist government, for "neglect of duty."

Dispatches from Taipei, capital of the Nationalist island stronghold, say that Yui may be ousted in favor of Vice President Chen Cheng.

The move against Yui is a manifestation of rising discontent with the government and with the present set-up of the Kuomintang.

But involved in the Nationalist political picture also is a quiet struggle between vice president Chen and Chiang's elder son Chiang Ching-Kuo for recognition as the political heir of the generalissimo.

Has Wide Power

The control Yuan is a sort of government watchdog committee, empowered to investigate about everything and everybody in Formosa.

The significance of the Control Yuan's action in impeaching Yui lies in the fact that it is composed of veteran members of the Kuomintang itself, and thus involves a party split.

Generalissimo Chiang himself is not involved in the crisis. He is the unchallenged leader, as he has been for 30 years though he did not assume the presidency until 1948.

But Chiang is 70 years old. Though he is still vigorous, and his health is good, the men around him are looking ahead to the day when he may give up the leadership.

One of the problems which the Kuomintang faces now is a means of electing Chiang for a third term as president.

Under the nationalist constitution, a president is limited to two six-year terms. Chiang has a little more than two years of his second term to serve.

Political leaders are talking about amending the constitution so that Chiang can serve a third term. One difficulty about that is that the National Assembly, the single-chamber parliament, was elected on the mainland in 1948. The National Assembly consists of 3,045 members. Only 1,643 of them are in Formosa — and a legal quorum of two-thirds of the national assembly or 2,030 members is required for a constitutional amendment.

This difficulty might be met by holding a new election. But the constitution requires that the present assembly shall remain in office until the Nationalists return to the mainland so that all districts in China may be represented.

As regards the eventual succession to Chiang, Chen stepped into the No. 2 spot last year when he was made vice president.

But 47-year-old Chiang Ching-Kuo, the generalissimo's son, is a sort of power behind the scenes in the Nationalist set-up.

Dispatches from Formosa predict that Chiang Ching-Kuo will become an increasingly dominant figure in Nationalist politics.

Unfortunately for South he chose the wrong discard. He got rid of the deuce of spades.

Let's see what happened to South from then on. He led a trump and went up with dummy's queen. East took the king and now forced dummy to ruff another diamond lead. South took his ace of trumps and played three rounds of clubs, trumping the third lead.

His next play was the queen of spades which held the trick. He had to play dummy's ace on the next spade lead and East trumped. Now East led a fourth diamond and South could trump in either hand but he had to lose another trick. If he trumped in his own hand one of dummy's two clubs would have to lose one of his two spades.

If South had foreseen the whole play he would have let a club go from dummy at trick two. Then when he got around to playing the spade suit he would not have had to play dummy's ace until the third lead. If East trumped the second spade lead he would be trumping a little one (not the ace) and if he waited for the ace declarer would make his 10 tricks anyway.

British Government Flies Troops To Trouble Spot

NASSAU, Bahamas (UP)—The British government flew in troops from Jamaica Wednesday and apparently prevented an outbreak of violence in this colony tourist resort paralyzed by a general strike.

Three plane loads of men from the Royal Worcester Regiment landed shortly after midnight, and a 4,000-man mass meeting of workers turned into a peaceful meeting instead of the threatened riot. A British warship also took up a position off the island ready to disembark reinforcements if necessary.

All major hotels in Nassau were closed by the strike. Most tourists already had returned to the United States and others were leaving by any available transportation. The SS Caronia, luxury cruise ship of the Cunard Lines, arrived Tuesday with 500 tourists from New York. The ship did not land any passengers but took on more and returned immediately to New York. The strike started, with taxi drivers Sunday and quickly spread to hotel workers, maids, bartenders, musicians and entertainers. The musicians were the last to go and the only remaining night clubs—the Junkanoo and Black

Beard's—closed Tuesday night. Utility workers went out on strike but volunteer businessmen kept the lights going through the night by manning the power station. There was some flickering but the hospitals here did not have to resort to emergency equipment. Government authorities believed the troops would help end the

Cold January Activities Brings Furious Scramble To Warm Kitchen For Food

BEF SKILLET SUPPER — A whole supper's right here in the skillet with only the addition of some crisp relishes and French bread needed to round things out in fine fashion. Plump glistening meat balls, sliced potatoes, onions, and colorful green peas are cooked in tomato juice and seasoned to perfection for a wonderful one dish meal.

January brings with it snow, sleds, ice skates, cold noses and hearty appetites! After an evening or afternoon sledding party, children scramble into the kitchen for something hot to eat.

A big casserole of hot Pork and Beans and frankfurters or wieners will hit the spot on a cold winter's night—yes, for children from six to sixty. Accompany this with hot chocolate, potato chips and their favorite Pickles, Ripe Olives and other relishes.

BEANS AND FRANKS
1 tablespoon onion, minced
2 tablespoons bacon drippings
1 can (1 lb.) Pork and Beans
¼ cup Catsup
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 teaspoon dry mustard
5 frankfurters or wieners

Cook onion in bacon drippings. Add to Pork and Beans in a one and one-half quart baking dish. Stir in Catsup, brown sugar and dry mustard and mix well. Top with frankfurters or wieners. Bake in a 350 degree F. oven for 30 minutes. Makes four to five servings.

SALADETTES COLESLAW
1 can (15 oz.) SALADettes
¼ cup slaw dressing
1 cup shredded cabbage
1 teaspoon onion, grated
¼ teaspoon salt

Paprika to garnish. Chill and drain SALADettes. Toss all ingredients together lightly. Chill salad well and then garnish with a sprinkling of paprika. This will make four to five servings.

PARTY BEANS
¼ lb. ham, cooked (hook, end or leftover pieces)
½ teaspoon dry mustard
¼ cup brown sugar
1 tablespoon onion, finely cut
1 cup Pineapple Chunks and Juice

Lightly grease a one and one-half quart casserole. Put in the ham. Combine all other ingredients in a medium size mixing bowl and mix well. Pour mixture into the casserole on top of ham. Cover casserole and bake for one hour in a 350 degree F. oven. Makes five to six servings.

Stuffed Steak Easy Pleasing To Serve

Stuffed flank steak is easy, economical, and pleasing to serve. The flank steak is spread with ginger-spiced bread stuffing, rolled and tied, and braised in a sweet-sour liquid. The rolled and stuffed flank steak may be sliced before serving, or it may be sliced at the table.

EASY-STUFFED FLANK STEAK
1 flank steak
1 large onion, finely chopped
1½ cup soft bread crumbs
½ cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon ground ginger
2 tablespoons lard or drippings
2 tablespoons brown sugar
½ cup vinegar

Score flank steak. Pound steak with edge of a heavy saucer or a meat pounder. Mix onion, bread crumbs, celery, parsley, salt, pepper, and ground ginger, and spread evenly on one side of the steak, leaving a 1-inch margin all around. Roll steak, beginning at narrow end, and tie with string or fasten with skewers. Brown meat roll in hot fat. Add mixture of brown sugar, vinegar, and water, cover and cook over low heat about 1½ to 2 hours, or until tender. When cooked, remove string or skewers and cut into slices. Serve with cooking liquid as gravy; thickening, if necessary. 4 to 6 servings.

Beef Chop Suey Has Occidental Flavor

Cube some beef stew meat, and cook it with celery, onions, a can of mixed Chinese vegetables, seasonings and soy sauce, and what do you have? Beef chop suey, of course! Serve the Chinese style beef stew over crisp noodles or hot, fluffy rice.

BEEF CHOP SUEY
1½ pounds beef-stew meat, cut in 1-inch cubes
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
1 tablespoon soy sauce
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 cups hot water
3 cups coarsely chopped celery
1½ cups coarsely chopped onions
3 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ cup cold water
1 can (14-16 ounces) mixed Chinese vegetables
2 tablespoons molasses
½ cup toasted almonds (optional)

Coat meat with flour and brown in hot fat. Add sauces, salt, pepper, hot water. Cover and simmer 1½ hours. Add celery and onions and cook 10 minutes longer, or until vegetables are barely tender. Mix cornstarch and cold water; add to cornstarch and cold water; add to mixture; cook, stirring constantly, over low heat. When thickened, add mixed vegetables and molasses. Heat two to three minutes. Add almonds and serve over hot rice. 6 servings.

Sunday Evening Pie Perfect Quick Meal

Wonderful eating in a pie plate — perfect for a quick meal! Rice with pimientos and cheese is packed into a pie plate. There's a layer of deviled ham through the center. Cheese sprinkled over the top becomes gloriously browned in the oven.

- INGREDIENTS:
1 cup uncooked white rice
2 cups water
1 teaspoon salt
Dash of black pepper
2 tablespoons finely chopped pimiento
1 cup grated American cheese
1 egg, beaten
¼ cup milk
A 4½ oz. can deviled ham

METHOD: Put the rice, water and salt in a 2-quart saucepan. Bring to a vigorous boil over a high heat. Turn the heat down low. Cover with a lid and simmer 14 minutes.

Remove the saucepan from the heat but leave the lid on 10 minutes.

After the rice cooks, stir in the pepper, pimiento, ¼ cup of the cheese, egg and milk. Pack half of the rice into a greased 9" glass pie plate. Spread with the deviled ham. Spoon on the rest of the rice mixture. Press in with the spoon. Sprinkle the remaining ¼ cup cheese evenly over the top. At meal time bake in a 325 degree oven 25 minutes or until the cheese is browned. Allow to stand about 5 minutes before cutting into wedges.

If desired, serve with a tomato sauce or a cream of celery soup sauce.

This recipe makes 7 servings.

Meat, Potatoes, And Vegetables Offer An All-In-One Appetizing Skillet Dinner

If your idea of a perfect supper is one that is appetizing and attractive yet doesn't fill the kitchen with a clutter of pots and pans, look no further—beef skillet supper was devised just for you.

Meat, potatoes and vegetables are all present and accounted for in this supper in a skillet. There are succulent meat balls which are made with evaporated milk as a binder and to keep them moist, sliced potatoes, onion rings which have been cooked in butter and green peas all colorfully united with a bright red tomato sauce. And you end up with just the one skillet to wash. Meat balls are browned and temporarily removed, onions are cooked in the butter, then back in go the meat balls with potatoes added and finally the peas for the final few minutes of cooking.

Little effort is needed to round out a meal such as this. Relishes, bread and beverage will complete the main course.

BEF SKILLET SUPPER

3 medium onions

- 1 pound ground beef
1 cup fine dry bread crumbs
Few grains nutmeg
1 teaspoon salt
¼ cup evaporated milk
1½ to 2 tablespoons flour
3 tablespoons butter
5 medium potatoes, peeled and sliced thin (about 5 cups sliced)
1 can tomato juice (about 1 pint)
1 teaspoon salt
Few grains pepper
1 package frozen peas (about 10 oz.)

Peel onions. Chop sufficient onion finely to make about ¼ cup. Slice remaining onions. Place chopped onion, beef, bread crumbs, nutmeg, 1 teaspoon salt and evaporated milk in a medium size mixing bowl. Mix together lightly but thoroughly with a fork. Divide mixture and roll lightly into 12 balls about 2 inches in diameter. Roll each ball in flour to coat and set aside. Met butter in a large fry pan that has a tight-fitting cover. Add sliced onions and cook over low heat until transparent, stirring occasionally. Remove onions and save. Add meat balls and brown on all sides over medium heat. Cover and cook until potatoes are almost tender, about 15 minutes. Add frozen peas from package, cover and cook 20 minutes longer. Makes 6 servings.

Old Fashioned Beef And Kidney Pie Is Fashioned For Economy And Nutrition

Thrifty and nutritional beef kidneys and veal hearts make tasty main courses. Here, beef kidneys and round steak are the main ingredients of beef and kidney pie, and veal heart is quartered and braised with onions for the platter variety meat.

For the meat pie, cook the kidneys and steak cubes with onion and other seasonings, then turn the mixture into a casserole and bake it with a pastry topping. Here is the recipe:

OLD FASHIONED BEEF AND KIDNEY PIE

1 beef kidney
2 pounds round steak

- 2 tablespoons lard or drippings
1 large onion, chopped
1 tablespoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 cup water
3 to 4 tablespoons flour

PASTRY TOPPING:

¼ cup sifted flour
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup lard
1½ tablespoons cold water

Remove outer membrane of kidney; split open; and remove all fat and veins. Cut kidney into sections. Cut round steak into inch cubes. Brown meats in hot fat. Add onion and cook 3 minutes longer. Add salt, pepper, Worcestershire sauce and water. Cover and cook over low heat 1½ hours or until meat is tender. Blend flour with ¼ cup broth from pan. Stir into meat and cook until thickened.

To prepare pastry topping, sift flour and salt and cut in lard with a pastry blender or two knives. Stir in water as for pie crust. Roll into thin pastry on a lightly floured board or pastry cloth.

Transfer meat and gravy to a two-quart casserole and top with pastry. Cut several vents in pastry to allow steam to escape. Bake at 425 degrees F. 20 minutes, or until pastry is browned. 6 to 8 servings.

Flaky Pie Crusts For Cherry Month

Make sure that cherry pie you prepare for family and friends during the cherry pie month — February — has a flavorful, flaky crust. You can be sure the crust will be delicious, if you use lard in the pastry. Here's a recipe:

STANDARD PIE CRUST

(Makes two nine-inch pie shells or one two-crust pie)

- 2 cups sifted enriched flour
1 teaspoon salt
2-3 cup lard
5 to 6 tablespoons ice water

Sift flour and salt into mixing bowl. Add lard and cut into the flour until mixture resembles cornmeal. Add water, sprinkling it over one portion of the dough at a time, and blending in gently with a fork. Shape into a ball; divide into two parts. For a pastry shell, roll one part of the dough on a floured

Fruit Salad "Pals" To Pickled Roast

This pork shoulder butt has been pickled then roasted and is served with lima beans. Accompany the savory roast with a salad of avocado and orange wedges.

PICKLED PORK ROAST

- 6 pounds pork shoulder butt
2 cups white vinegar
2 tablespoons salt
2 tablespoons sugar
8 peppercorns
1 teaspoon celery seed
2 bays leaves
2 cloves garlic, cut in halves
1 onion, sliced
10 cloves

Place pork in deep crock. Mix vinegar, salt and sugar and stir in peppercorns, celery seed, bay leaves, garlic, onion, and cloves; pour over pork. Cover and refrigerate 24 hours, turning several times. Drain meat reserving marinade and place on rack in a shallow baking pan. Insert meat thermometer, and roast at 325 degrees F. until thermometer registers an internal temperature of 185 degrees F., about three to three and one-half hours. Half an hour before meat is cooked, remove it from the oven, score fat and stud with cloves. Pour over the meat ¼ cup of the reserved marinade and return to oven to finish cooking. Baste with more of the marinade at 10 minute intervals during remainder of cooking.

pastry cloth to ¼ inch thickness. Gently place in pie pan; prick closely with tines of fork to prevent puffing during baking. Bake at 425 degrees F. 15 to 18 minutes, or until crust is golden brown. For two-crust pie, prepare dough as for pastry shell and place in pan. Do not prick. Add filling. Roll remainder of dough to ¼ inch thickness, and gash to allow escape of steam. Place on filling, sealing edges by pressing with tines of a fork; trim. Bake according to directions for filling.

'The Golden Door' Discussion Topic For First Baptist WMU Members

(Special To The News) PERRYTON — The Women's Missionary Society of the First Baptist Church met recently in the church parlor for a business meeting and missionary program.

Mrs. Stanley D. Key presided during the business meeting when the secretary's report was read by Mrs. C. C. Rickard.

Reports were given by the following chairmen, Mmes. T. R. Shirley, community missions; Carroll B. Ray, enlistment; C. H. Williams, treasurer; Floyd C. Coffin, GA director; Hubert Sloan, Sunbeams; Ivan Day, education; W. C. Holderman, benevolence; and by the Circle chairmen, Mmes. Carl Carter, John Taylor, Bill Lilly, Clyde Cofer, and J. S. Slaughter.

Mrs. Key announced plans to observe the WMU Focus Week, Jan. 12-18. Tuesday was to have been Visitation Day, a Stewardship film will be shown on Wednesday; on Thursday, the WMU will host a family potluck supper with Miss Mary Lynn, missionary to Paraguay, as the guest speaker.

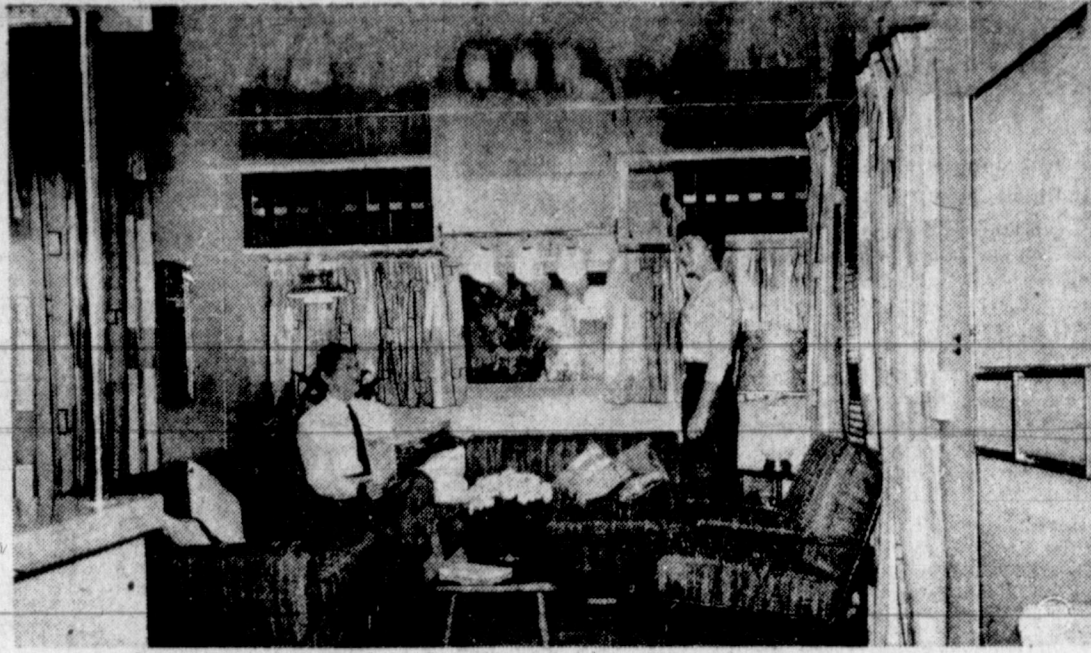

The program, opened with prayer by Mrs. Lilly Palmer, was in charge of Mrs. Marvin Montgomery, who introduced the title, "The Golden Door." Prayer calendar was read by Mrs. Jimmy Johnson, who led in prayer for missionaries. Mrs. Otha Castle gave the devotional, "Liberty Through Jesus." Mrs. Thelma Davis took the audience on an imaginary trip to where missionaries are working.

A special song by Mmes. Floyd Coffin, Hershall Sweeney and Edna Parker accompanied by Mrs. Gerald Johnson, closed the meeting.

Members present, in addition to those mentioned, were Mmes. Harvey Rial, Kenneth Harrison, Kenneth Wilkerson, R. H. Holland, Bob Johnson, C. D. Holt, J. O. Wooten, Ray Clark, Fred Furnish, L. A. Malone, A. M. Horan, and F. M. McGe.

Exercise, essential for a controlled figure and healthy look, also helps the teeth and jaw. However, this exercise is done naturally if you eat such foods as apples, celery, carrots and cabbage, whole wheat bread or toast. It is easy to see why these should be included in the diet aside from their nutritional values.

Ever envy the person with pure white teeth? Well, her teeth really aren't that white. It is the complexion which heightens the contrast between skin and teeth. But no matter the whiteness of your teeth, it is the cleanness that really counts.

'Trailer' Is Not Accurate Description Of Today's Spacious, Mobile Homes

BY KAY SHERWOOD NEA Staff Writer

Rolling smoothly into conversations about what's new in housing are the sumptuous, 1958 mobile homes. They're a far cry from their less-elaborate trailer counterparts.

Today "trailer" usually refers to the travel or vacation vehicle 24 feet or less in length, which is designed to go places behind a car. Mobile homes, on the other hand, are quite likely to be 40 or more feet long, 8 or 10 feet wide, and are apt to be towed by truck to a more or less permanent location.

At a recent Mobile Homes Manufacturers Association show in San Francisco, I caught up with some of the changes that have transformed the little house on wheels into a spacious, convenient home.

Some features that catch the attention are: the large size of living rooms, sliding glass doors and jalousie windows, clean-lined kitchens with the most modern appliances, full-size bathrooms and ingenious storage space design.

The exteriors are still brightly colored in two and three-toned combinations but there is a growing number of natural aluminum exteriors and use of more subdued colors, such as beige and brown or gray and white.

Interior walls, almost without exception, are wood-paneled and finished in a high gloss.

SINCE MOBILE HOMES are usually quite completely furnished, the furniture and appliances chosen by manufacturers can be important to the buyer. The appliances in the model I visited were all nationally known brands. Kitchens featured the "squared up" look and combined colored appliances with natural wood cabinets.

Automatic washers and dryers added still more convenience as did dishwashers, garbage disposal units and improved heating plants.

Some heating units are built for conversion to air conditioning in hot climates.

Living room furniture is largely modern, although I saw a few early American and provincial treatments. Draperies included ranged from tasteful prints to some pretty bold patterns that tended to shrink the room size and dominate the scene.

In the bedrooms, the chests of drawers, vanities and closets are often built-in and so are the single, double, and bunk beds.

LIGHTING FIXTURES are for the most part both handsome and practically arranged for good illumination. Because the fixtures are mounted on wall or ceiling, more space is freed for tables or chests and, within the rectangular limits of a mobile home, space for storage is precious.

Making the best use of space in mobile homes suggests ideas for conventional homes. Storage drawers are tucked under beds. Overhead cabinets are placed in room corners. Chests of drawers are built-in in corridors.

Cabinets have sliding doors or swing-up doors to prevent head-cracking injuries in tight places. Folding doors often replace conventional swing doors.

ALMOST ALL the conveniences of conventional homes contained in an attractive, easily-maintained package at prices generally below that of small homes have spurred sales.

Improvement of trailer parks and their facilities is also credited with encouraging sales. According to recent surveys, most of the mobile home dwellers are craftsmen, construction workers or similar mobile workers; a second large group is made up of members of the military and a third, smaller, but growing group, is composed of retired persons.

Vacationers and special professional users, such as business or professional people, account for a small percentage of mobile home buyers.

Surprising to me is the fact brought out in one survey that many mobile homes are never moved once they've reached their site; others are moved less often than once a year.

Connie Ray Cales Feted On Birthday

Mrs. Ray Cales entertained with a party for her son, Connie Ray, on the occasion of his fifth birthday on Jan. 8.

After opening gifts, pictures were made of the group and games were played.

"Happy Birthday" was sung to the honoree as the cake, ice cream cones and grape punch were served. Horns, balloons and candy were given as guest favors.

Those attending were Sandra and Kevin McQuigg, Cheryl and Chris Brandon, Debra Murphy, Todd Wassell, Dan Patterson, and Kim Beets of Amarillo.

Adults present were Mmes. Bob Brandon, Dorothy Whellock, and the hostess, Mrs. Cales and the honoree's grandmother, Mrs. Ina Cales.

Washing a precious heirloom is unthinkable in some quarters. Most are afraid of ruining the fabric and losing an irreplaceable object. But dirt also damages heirlooms. Museum curators and fashion historians preserve costume collections by washing. The secret is gentle handling in suds and water.

Amaretti Cookies Tea-Time Treat

Among the treasured desserts of Italy, the amaretti or macaroon is considered one of the most typical in the United States. The delicately almond-flavored crunchy goodness of the amaretti is no doubt, well known to you, and probably it's one of your favorite treats.

This version of the Italian specialty which has been developed by Sugar Information, Inc. is rather easy to prepare. The only ingredients you need are almonds, sugar, salt, egg whites and almond extract. The only real effort is chopping the nuts and this can be handled easily if you use an ordinary nut chopper.

They're wonderful to serve with afternoon tea, or as a delectable accompaniment to fruit compote dessert.

These delicious cookies are bound to please everyone, so it would be wise to make up several batches of amaretti—they're sure to go fast.

Here is the recipe:
AMARETTI (Macaroon)
½ pound blanched almonds
1 cup sugar
dash of salt
2 egg whites
½ teaspoon almond extract
Chop blanched almonds until they are reduced to a powder. Add sugar and salt and mix well. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold almonds and sugar into egg whites. Add almond extract and blend.

Drop by teaspoons onto buttered and floured cookie sheet. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar. Allow to stand 2 hours before baking. Bake in slow oven (300 degrees F.) about 25 minutes or until golden brown.

Yield: 32 macaroons

Harrah WSCS Has New Study

Women's Society of Christian Service of Harrah Methodist Church met Thursday evening with Mrs. P. D. Gross, president, in charge. Mrs. Johnnie Pierce gave the opening prayer.

Following a brief business meeting, Mrs. Burt Brown, study leader, led the topic, "Cross and Crisis in Japan." Mrs. D. S. Buckner led the worship program with the theme "Japan Today."

Mrs. Brown introduced the new study with an informative talk concerning the size, population, and geographical structure of the island of Japan. Customs and dress of the Japanese people were described.

Mrs. Brown spoke of the two main religions, Shintoism and Buddhism, and of the difficulties facing the Christian workers today. She spoke of the need for more missionaries and more material help.

Assignments were made for the next session to be held Jan. 16 at 7:30 p.m.

After the closing prayer, the "Woman of the Month" was found to be Mrs. Pierce, who was presented with a gift.

Members present in addition to those already mentioned were Mmes. Bill Gray, V. H. Pigg, Ton Price, G. O. Hall, Dale Gross, A. L. Patrick, O. M. Butler and Leila Reed.

Birthday Occasion For Mrs. Sullivan

Mrs. Ola Isbell entertained with a birthday dinner recently in honor of Mrs. Sannie Sullivan.

The dining table was covered with a lace cloth centered with an arrangement of Dutch Iris, which was later presented to the honoree. A birthday cake decorated in white with pink roses was served following group singing of "Happy Birthday." Pictures were taken of the occasion.

Guests were Mmes. Etta Crisler,

Two Peas In A Pod

Not long ago we heard about a man who was loud in his praise of the communist schools of Soviet Russia. According to his viewpoint the thing that was wrong with American Schools was capitalism.

price and that therein lay the tragic source of ineffectiveness when his conclusion is based upon a complete failure to understand the truth.

The facts of the case are altogether opposite. American schools are operated, and in nearly all instances have been operated from the beginning, on a socialist base.

They have not operated in the free market, but have carefully been protected from the free market. And their shortcomings are directly related to these facts and not to their supposed opposites.

Perhaps our reader should have taken time to inform himself more accurately. Here, for instance, is a conclusion recently expressed by Russian-born Alexander G. Korol of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Professor Korol goes on to explain that only about 33 per cent of Russian students reach the three top high school grades as compared with 75 per cent in the United States. And he estimates that fewer than 200,000 of last spring's 1.4 million secondary school graduates were permitted to take university training, although most wanted to continue their schooling.

The United States, with a smaller total population, graduated about 1.4 million students from its high schools last June and about 727,000 of that number went on to college.

But Mr Korol isn't alone. Julien Bryan, executive director of the International Film Foundation, who has just returned from his tenth trip to the U.S.S.R., says: "This hysteria about Russian schools is unwarranted."

And he goes on to tell us the quality of teaching often is mediocre and professors complain bitterly about their student's pre-college preparation. He points out that many of the maladies suffered under our own collectivized educational system, are precisely the same maladies suffered under a virtually identical collectivized system in Russia.

The truth of the matter seems to be that all of the far-flung propaganda about Russian superiority is now going to be amassaged by the NEA, the National Education Association which prides itself on being the world's largest lobby. This outfit is girding its loins for combat during the coming year in a grand new push for all-out federal aid to education.

They are, we hear, "highly optimistic" over the chances of getting a multi-billion dollar bill put through the congress and signed. They seem to be convinced that if we can only build enough school buildings, that the calibre of our education will rise like a rocket. Yet, if we look at the true picture without blinders, we will see that this NEA program is identical with a corresponding program in Russia which is taking by force the earnings of the workers and pouring it into the hands of the educationists and the school building contractors.

The trouble with American education is that it is not and never has been American. It has been, from the outset, a sad relic of the old world, foisted upon the populace by force of arms, and sustained by political greed and cunning.

The Russian school system and the American school system are as alike as two peas in a pod. Have you ever heard this phrase? "The principle of free and universal education has been adopted as a national policy."

Of course you have. That is the stated policy of the NEA and the Health, Education and Welfare department in this country. That is exactly the stated policy of the Soviet, and both the NEA and HEW admit it.

The Doctor Says

By EDGAR P. JORDAN, M. D.

The condition under discussion by today's first correspondent is extremely troublesome.

Q - Recently my daughter developed a bump at the base of her spine. After examination the physician described this as a pilonidal cyst. Would you please explain what this condition is? - Mrs. L.

A - This is a hair-containing, non-cancerous tumor known as a cyst lying near the outlet of the digestive tract at the base of the spine. It sometimes becomes particularly painful after continued injury and has been called "jEEP disease." It is probably of congenital origin - that is, present at birth - though it may not show symptoms for many years. There is no medical cure for the condition, and if troublesome enough surgery is the only answer. This surgery is extremely difficult, and even when the operation is performed by a highly qualified surgeon a single operation may not be enough.

Q - Please discuss ichthyosis. This has plagued my side of the family for many years. Three of my four children have this condition. Over the years I have been to several specialists but come away feeling I know as much as I do about the condition. - Mr. H.

A - This unusual condition is also known as fish skin disease because the skin appears very much like the scales of a fish. It appears to be sometimes, if not always, an hereditary of family trait, but it is exceptionally unfortunate to have such a family experience as Mr. H. describes. The situation in his family should certainly be carefully studied, both from the standpoint of the hereditary aspects and from the possibilities of treatment. However, so far as I know, there is no single treatment which can be relied on to bring relief.

Q - We have a disagreement in our family with regard to sleeping at night with the windows open. What do you think? - Mrs. H. A - I do not know of any convincing statistical studies which show that those who sleep with their windows closed are a strong, healthy lot, and those who sleep with their windows open are weak and sickly, nor the other way around. I have a strong personal preference for sufficient air at night with open windows.

Q - Is it true that some hormone shots can cause growth of hair on the face? - V.E. A - Yes. Excessive administration or production of male sex hormones can lead to the growth of hair. This is known as hirsutism.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

Questioning Defender Of Union Shop

I can think of nothing that needs clarification more than what causes total wages or wage levels to rise. This thought was brought to mind by reading an article written by George C. Rasler of 3 East 24th St. Marysville, California, citing those people reactionary who believed that men have a right to work without being obliged to pay dues to a labor union.

He undoubtedly sincerely believes, as do many, many people, that high wage levels are the result of labor unions rather than in spite of them. I draw this conclusion from this statement he makes:

"It is unthinkable that the labor movement would advocate any philosophy or economic theory that would destroy its own or any other democratic organization and ultimately our wonderful American way of life."

Certainly it is unthinkable that they would do it intentionally but it is not unthinkable that they do it in error; that they have heard claims that labor unions can benefit all mankind so often that they actually believe it. They believe it in spite of the fact that labor unions never added a nickel's worth of wealth to our country, and in spite of the fact that by strikes, feather-bedding, seniority and wretched labor by organizers, they have prevented billions upon billions of dollars' worth of wealth from being created. But because wages have risen as labor union numbers increase, they conclude that labor unions are the cause of wages rising rather than better tools and a freer division of labor being the cause.

They maintain this fallacy in face of the fact that I have never been able to find a believer in strikes who could answer questions as to how they would divide labor and how they would compensate each laborer without contradicting themselves.

Yes, we'll give this Mr. Rasler credit with believing what he writes. He has heard what he repeats so often that he thinks it is true.

Here is another statement he makes: "To maintain that high production levels create or permit high wages is ridiculous to the point of disbelief."

One seldom sees a more irrational statement. Will Mr. Rasler please tell us where wages come from and how they can be increased if they do not come from production and increase as production increases? If we do not need to produce in order to live well, why should we work at all? Then Mr. Rasler contends "... that the law of supply and demand is the controlling factor in any free economy..." without which there will be no supply, no production, no market no wages and no profits. The demand represents purchasing power in the hands of the consumer, without which there will be no supply, no production, no market no wages, no profits." But will Mr. Rasler tell us where this demand comes from if it is not the production of things that people want? Business is nothing but an exchange of the products of labor and the products of labor are production, provided they are producing what someone wants and is willing to exchange his labor for.

Would Mr. Rasler contend that the public demands that novelist put his ideas into book form without the public knowing what his thoughts were? His product comes before the demand.

Would Mr. Rasler contend that every invention was demanded by the public before they knew what the invention was? It is true that a producer thinks there will be a demand for what he produces, but the supply and demand theory, which is a fallacy, is put his ideas into book form without the public knowing what his thoughts were? His product comes before the demand.

Would Mr. Rasler contend that every invention was demanded by the public before they knew what the invention was? It is true that a producer thinks there will be a demand for what he produces, but the supply and demand theory, which is a fallacy, is put his ideas into book form without the public knowing what his thoughts were? It is true that a producer thinks there will be a demand for what he produces, but the supply and demand theory, which is a fallacy, is put his ideas into book form without the public knowing what his thoughts were? His product comes before the demand.

Just where do wages and profits come from if they do not come from production? And how can production be increased by strikes, by interference with the division of labor? Would Mr. Rasler contend that he could have a high standard of living, and even survive, if he could not specialize and produce what others want and trade it for what he wants? Would he contend that he could produce his own food, get his own water, make his own clothes, get his own transportation, get his own books, newspapers, information and everything that man enjoys by producing it all himself? And the means of labor unions raising wage levels is to interfere with the very thing - division of labor - that makes high wages possible. Yes, there is nothing needed to be understood more than whether labor unions that practice strikes are responsible for unemployment and depressions and keeping wage levels down. (To be continued)

Soviet Union Wants Only US-Russia Conference By CONSTANTINE BROWN

WASHINGTON - Despite the insistence of the Soviet Union on a summit conference of many nations, what the men in the Kremlin really want is a bilateral conference between the United States and Russia only. That fact is evident through all the wordy proposals and counter proposals of Moscow's spokesmen; it has been evident increasingly for a long time.

Comrade Khrushchev himself first suggested it openly when he was interviewed for American television viewers last summer. He said then that the settlement of outstanding differences between the Soviet Union and the United States would, in effect, settle all the world's major problems of power politics. Since then, on several occasions, the wily Khrushchev has repeated the same thought. His aides and assistants have done the same, particularly at the recent session of the United Nations General Assembly.

Most diplomats consider the Soviet intransigence over the disarmament negotiations - they have boycotted them so long as the present composition of the U.N. Disarmament Commission is not changed to their liking - to be a part of the Red strategy for force, ultimately, talks-between the two great antagonists alone. At the U.N. session, it was painfully clear to delegates of all nations that the U.N. wasn't going to do any business so long as the Soviet position remained as it was.

There are some voices in the Eisenhower administration raised quietly to ask why not? Surely, these men say, nothing could be lost in such bilateral talks, and after all the United States and the Soviets are the real foes, whose differences once composed would automatically cease to affect the allies of each. But these voices will get nowhere, because they are wrong, very basically wrong, about the implications of such negotiations.

At the very least, bilateral talks with the Soviet leaders would wreck the Western Alliance. The same would not be the case, of course, on the Soviet side, since Moscow has no real allies, but on the Soviet side, even Red China, potentially powerful, is a puppet on the Kremlin's string. Thus the Soviet conspirators would lose nothing in such talks, while the United States would lose its allies and its international support as exists under the present somewhat confused and shaky Atlantic alliance.

Strangely enough, the strong popular movement in Western Europe urging high-level negotiations now with the Kremlin is tempered considerably by the fear that the United States and the Soviet Union actually might arrive at an area of agreement on world problems that would leave Europe out in the cold. The fear, held not only by the average citizen but particularly by political leaders, is basically that an American-Russian agreement would result in dividing up the whole world between the two giant super-powers. The American Way

By Dr. ALFRED P. HAAKE

PUBLIC ENEMY ONE. Inflation, sometimes called the nation's number one problem or enemy, is undoubtedly one of the most important and difficult of our problems. Its importance rises out of the many directions and ways in which inflation affects our life, its serious consequences on our national well-being. It is an insidious and dangerous enemy. It is difficult because so few of us really understand what it is and how it works. For many people, it is possible actually to advocate inflation under the very guise of fighting against it.

Some think of it as merely "high-prices" and think we need only to control prices in order to control inflation. Others think of it as the issue of paper money by government. Still others see it when the U. S. Treasury Department borrows or prints money to purchase bonds or to purchase goods for government use. Some blame the stock market, speculative rising prices of stocks engendered by easy loans from banks. There is an element of truth in each, as well as in some others, but not the total answer.

In simple terms, inflation is the expansion of money or credit, or both, an increase of money in circulation in greater proportion than increased production of goods and services which can be purchased with the money. Two principal ways are, to raise wages, and consequently prices, without first increasing proportionately the quantity of goods made available for purchase; or for the government to pump money into circulation through borrowing or printing money. Right now, the principal source of inflation is the raising of wages without first increasing production in proportion to the higher wages. And that means higher prices.

It is easier to understand "inflation" if the reader will imagine two huge piles. One is marked "money," the other is marked "goods and services." The total of each pile will exchange for the total of the other pile. That is, all the money exchanges for all the goods and services. We can raise either pile, without inflation or deflation, provided we raise the other in the same proportion. We can lower either, without deflation or inflation, if we lower the other in the same proportion.

An increase in the pile of goods and services, relative to population, spells higher standards of living, provided the pile of money maintains the same proportion. A decrease in the pile of goods and services, relative to population means a lower standard of living, no matter what happens to the money. When we raise the pile of money without raising the pile of goods and services in the same proportion, or when we lower the pile of goods without taking money out of circulation then we have inflation. Prices go up and every dollar buys less. We have then diluted the purchasing power of money just as surely as the milk man can dilute milk by adding water, even though it still looks like milk and tastes almost as good.

Dollars that have been saved through self-denial before the inflation will now buy less than what those dollars cost in effort and sacrifice to get and save them. Life insurance policies, savings accounts, actual money in hand all have lost in purchasing power from the time they were purchased or saved. It is almost as though some huge "Gremlin" had put his hand in your pocket and robbed you of some of the money in that pocket. Those who saved earlier only to lose now are helpless to stop the theft. That is what has been going on and still does, in spite of efforts to hide it. One group can exploit another for a time, but in the end all will suffer. Thus, the auto workers might, for a time, raise their wages without increasing the quantity of output in the same proportion as the wages. Then workers in other industries would do the same thing in their industries, in order to get enough money for their work with which to buy an auto. All prices would go up and all groups would suffer from the inflation.

Inflation can be halted. The answer to it is in more work for more dollars. Higher wages without more work merely make it worse.

Letter From Reader Makes Mac Ashamed By HENRY McEMORE

BARCELONA - Every now and then I get a letter from a reader which makes me ashamed of myself. Such a one came today from Mr. Robert W. Pease of California. Although Mr. Pease is no nearer Spain than 3233 George Circle, Pasadena, and I am on Avenida Jose Antonio in Barcelona, sipping Spanish coffee and looking down on a street thronged with pure Spaniards, his letter indicates he is "closer to Espana" than I am.

"Why not become a 'Cliche Buster' while you are in Spain?" Mr. Pease asks. "As you know, we Americans are suckers for stereotypes, and neatly catalogue foreign peoples by accepted mental pictures that are frequently far from genuine. One of the most sinned against lands is Spain. Mention Spain to most people and their mental TV tunes in a picture of Carmen in a red dress, with a rose in her teeth, stamping her tiny feet and shaking her ample derriere.

"Or a slow-eyed dameel with a black mantilla draped over her high comb, looking wistfully through a barred window at her amorous Pedro who twangs a guitar in the moonlight. Some in a by even see a heavily-laden burro plodding across a hot parched wasteland as his tattered owner walks forlornly behind.

"What do these people eat? Why, frijoles, enchiladas, chili peppers and tortillas, of course. What kind of a land is it? The background they see is barren plains, garbled olive trees, cloudless skies, and waterless rivers.

"Does anyone know that the above mentioned fobds are as unknown in Spain as pressed duck to an Eskimo? Has anyone ever heard that the bagpipe preceded the guitar in Spain, has been a native instrument for years, and is still the accepted form of music in Galicia? How many are aware of Spain's dense forests, rushing streams, cool climate, and superb seafoods of the north and west? The hunting, salmon fishing, and fine hotels of this unclimbed region; the beautiful, healthy children; the frequency of light-haired and blue-eyed women and the excellent beaches with calm, temperate weather for swimming and boating are all there.

"See San Sebastian, Santillana, La Coruna, Santiago de Compostela, and Spain will never again mean just Flamenco dancers, guitars and bullfights." See why I'm ashamed? I didn't know all this about Spain, and I am sure I have lent my typewriter to the guitar and burro picture of this lovely land. But no more. I am going to make a trip and study those blue-eyed women and bagpipe players. I aim to dance a fandango with a honey blonde to the tune of a bagpipe. Then, and not until then, can a man say he has really lived. Thank you, Mr. Pease.

GILBER IS FOREVER SPOUTING ABOUT HIS DEEDS OF DERRING-DO IN THE LATE UNPLEASANTNESS...

By Jimmy Hatlo

TODAY THE LOCAL BLOOD DONOR DRIVE IS ON... WHERE'S BIG, BRAVE GILBERB NOW?

LOADING—A two-engined, high-winged craft that can gobble up a jeep, the Noratlas, military version of the French Nord 2501 transport, bolsters West Germany's defenses. Loaded from the rear in Frankfurt, the plane has two giant cargo doors which open between the twin tail booms, permitting ease in loading, dropping paratroops or supplies.

CHOW TIME—A small lizard is being fed a tasty worm at the animal clinic in Ilford, England. Evan Clarkson had just found the tiny reptile stuck in the hole at the bottom of a flower pot. He lifted it out with care, then offered it this tempting morsel. The gesture seems to be greatly appreciated.

DANCING IN THE SUN—The weather was so ideal along southern France's Riviera that some rehearsals for the new Monte Carlo ballets took place outdoors. A company of dancers is going through a routine under a bright blue Mediterranean sky in the resort city.

PICTURE NEWS

AROUND THE WORLD

IN ACTION—Returning to the theater is actress Dorothy McGuire, shown rehearsing a scene for "Winesburg, Ohio," in New York. With her are Ben Piazza and James Whitmore who play the roles of her son and husband in the adaptation of Sherwood Anderson's famed novel.

TRAVEL BY FOOT—Chinese starlet Yee Kwong finds travel fun when she's driven through the streets of Taipei, Formosa, in a pedicab. The old Chinese rickshaw is being replaced there by the foot-propelled pedicabs which can be hired for as little as 10 cents an hour.

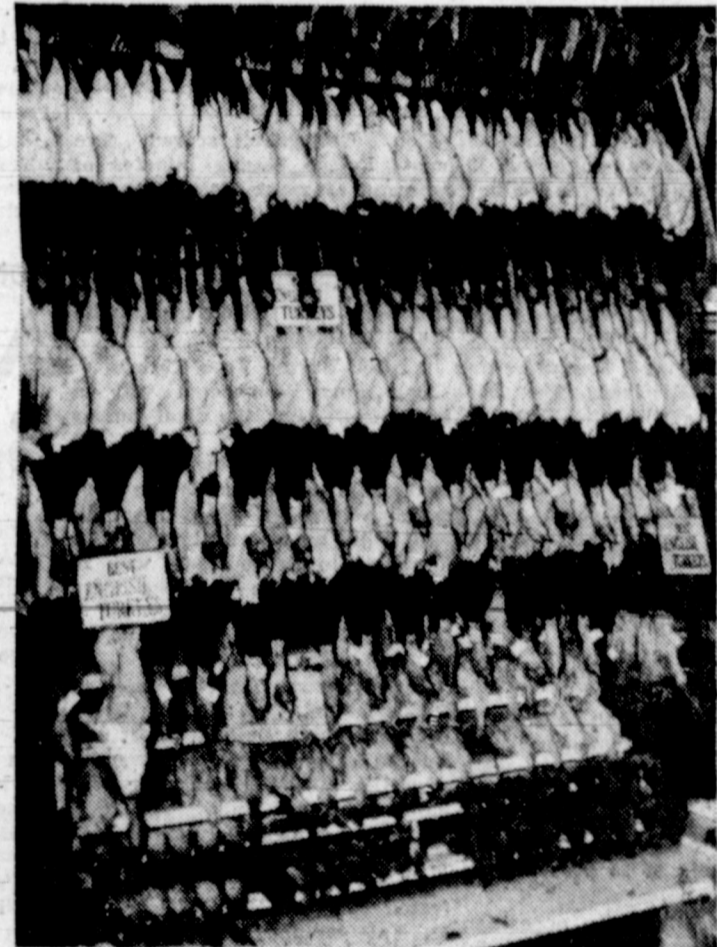

DOING-HER STUFF—Proving once again that women's work is never done, Mary Veremis takes time off from her housework to repair the curb in front of her home in Chicago. She borrowed the trowel and cement from men repairing a building to do this needed spruce-up job on the sidewalk. Mrs. Veremis has lived in the same house for more than 50 years.

DATE CONSCIOUS—Jeannine Neal, 17, takes her pick of dates from the new crop now ripe in the Valley of the Sun district near Phoenix, Ariz. She's the section's new Date Queen. Ten kinds of dates are grown in the Phoenix area, the world's second largest producer of that fruit. Jeannine makes a mighty nice date, all by herself.

TOLL OF THE SEA—A few yards from shore off the westernmost point of Sicily, the steamship Citta De Trapani, left, and a tug, which had come to its rescue, lie stranded. Four crew members of the tug, including the captain, were killed during the rescue operation when the larger ship was tossed against it by wild waves.

HOLIDAY HARVEST—Even though they're almost as much a part of Christmas as Santa Claus, it was no holiday for these turkeys in London. They had really gone all out to make it a merry season, and this was the end of the line for them. They helped decorate many a Christmas table.

A PONY TALE—Pamela Jefferis, 14, has every reason to look sad in Bou'nemouth, England. She's no longer able to keep her three pets, Sindy, Timber and Genevieve, and is looking for a new home for them. The little girl's only worry was that some future owner might mistreat her beloved ponies. The gloomy prospect did not make her Christmas any merrier.

GALLIC DELIGHT—Cuddling with her pet pooch, an Italian greyhound named "Crocodile," is French singer Juliette Greco arriving in New York on the liner America. After filling a singing engagement in Manhattan, Juliette will head for Hollywood and a movie.

PRETTY SHARP—U.S. Army Sgt. James Begnaud, of Breaux Bridge, La., is stationed in Heidelberg, Germany, where he's shown cutting the hair of some youngsters in a home for children. Begnaud learned to cut hair in Korea when no barber was available and now he offers his services to this home where he sets up shop every two weeks.

JUNE IN JANUARY?—No wedding bells are ringing, but there are plenty of brides in evidence in the windows of these shops in Manhattan. Although the street—Grand Street down near the Bowery—is in one of the most run-down sections of New York, almost an entire block is taken up by stores featuring bridal furnishings.

Heavy Income Tax Burden Is Likely To Get Heavier

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—Despite the yammer and anxiety about how much and how fast to spend defense dollars in the newly-arrived age of space, the figure which hits closest home in President Eisenhower's new budget is something else again.

The close home figure is an 11 digit item headed by a dollar sign which alerts the individual income taxpayer to the sum which the government intends to pluck from his collective hide. The item comes to 38 and one half billion dollars.

Most of this huge sum will be plucked, of course, from the so-called little fellows because there are so many millions of them. The little fellows have taxable income up to, say, around $4,500 a year.

In the really high brackets, the tax rates progress toward and just about reach the point of confiscation. In the middle brackets, some individuals surrender annually more than half of their income to the income tax collector. Income taxes are a heavy burden all around and are likely to become more so, rather than less.

Proposed By Taft
You wouldn't believe, however, how lightly the income tax flicked the pocketbook in the first years after William Howard Taft successfully proposed it (1909) and Woodrow Wilson began collecting it (1913).

From 1909 to 1913, Congress submitted and the states ratified the 16th or income tax Amendment to the Constitution, the first amendment in 43 years. President Eisenhower is the eighth in that office to be confronted with the riddle of the income tax. The correct answer is a distribution of the tax burden or of tax cuts satisfactory to all hands. It cannot be done.

Taxpayers screamed long and loudly when the 16th Amendment became operative in 1913. A few lower brackets escaped taxation altogether at the outset. The effective rates on higher incomes were low.

In 1913, a married person with two dependents and a $3,000 net income paid $10. At $8,000 net, the bite was $40, rising to $60 on the $10,000 family; $280 on $25,000;

Most Unwelcome Season Arrives

By EDWARD COWAN
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—America's most unwelcome season of the year arrived today—the income tax season.

From now until mid-April 62 million individuals and corporations will be busy reading the fine print of the tax rules and scribbling with pencils—and erasers.

Most taxpayers have the full three months until April 15 to decide whether they owe the government or vice versa. But quite a few, especially farmers and people in business for themselves, must send forms and checks to the government sooner.

Here is a tax timetable to let you know just where you stand:
Jan. 15—Persons who pay their tax on a quarterly basis—mainly the self-employed and those with salaries above $10,000—may pay the fourth installment of their estimated 1957 tax. Then they can wait until April 15 to file a final return. Or, they may delay their installment until Jan. 31, then file a final return that day and pay their taxes in full.

Jan. 31—Individuals making an early final return, instead of the Jan. 15 payment on estimated tax, file a 1957 report and pay the remaining tax in full. Farmers file annual social security tax return for 1957 on wages paid employees and pay taxes due.
Feb. 17—Farmers who did not send in a declaration by Jan. 15 file a final return for 1957 and pay tax in full.

April 15—Deadline for filing final 1957 return for both wage and salary workers and the self-employed. First quarterly payment on estimated 1958 income also due. Farmers who filed a declaration in January submit a final return and pay any balance due.

The government urges everyone who can, to get his final return in before April 15 deadline. This is especially important to people who expect refunds. The earlier they file the faster they will get that green check with the little holes in it.

If your employer has already given you a W-2 form—a statement of earnings last year—you can send it and your return in today. If he doesn't give it to you by Jan. 31 and it looks as if he isn't going to, the Internal Revenue Service recommends you contact its nearest branch office for assistance.

Television In Review: New Comedy Team Tops

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—NBC-TV decided a special evening hour to "Omnibus" Tuesday night and that show concocted something called "The Suburban Revue" to fill the niche.

The revue starred Bert Lahr, but the hour was largely a triumph for Elaine May and Mike Nichols, certainly the most hilarious comedy team to hit TV this season. Maybe any season.

You may remember Elaine and Mike from a sketch they did on the "Steve Allen Show" a few weeks back in which they rubberbanded one of those inane interviews that frequently take place between disk jockeys and visiting movie stars. It was a knockout.

Elaine and Mike Capers
Tuesday night, Elaine and Mike capered in two sketches, one a spoof of courtship in a parked car, the other a bit that dealt with beautiful precision and it's a little like watching Cecil B. DeMille and Don Hutson working out.

Their laughs flow out of each situation itself and not from individual gags. Each of the three skits I have seen them do had an easy flow and even more important, a quality of building. Faced with an Elaine and Mike sketch, you laugh only mildly in the beginning, but you find yourself caught up in the sweep as the skit progresses and character and situation are established. Midway through each of their sketches Tuesday night, I found myself roaring. A silence, a gesture, a word becomes almost unbearably funny.

Remainder Less Successful
The rest of the "Omnibus" show was less successful. Bert Lahr is a funny man in the large arena of the stage. His comedy is larger than life and he deals in exaggeration. But on the small TV screen, his efforts seem too exaggerated.

As for the main body of the show, its principal flaw was that it never fulfilled its stated purpose: to contrast the suburban life of the 1920's with the suburban life of today. It never really touched at all upon suburbia's social life, its commutation problems, its web of children, its so-called conformity.

No matter, Elaine May and Mike Nichols were on hand and that's enough caviar for any single evening.

WASHINGTON — Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.) is calling for all members of the United Nations to join in this nation's outer space projects.

"If we are to win space as the outpost of peace, all men may—and should—share in that endeavor."

'Met' To Stage First Opera By Native American In 24 Years

By DOC QUIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—The curtain at the hallowed Metropolitan Opera House rises tonight on the first full-length opera by a native American to be staged at the Met in 24 years, and the composer—a West Chester, Pa., boy—says he's not nervous.

He sounds convincing, too. "Nervous? No. No more than normally so. It has been going very well in rehearsal."

Although the world premiere tonight of "Vanessa," a four-act opera, will be Samuel Barber's first staged opera, he is a veteran of musical premieres. For 40 years—he began composing when he was seven—he has been turning out songs, symphonies, ballets and other works.

Barber's Second Opera
This is his second opera. He wrote his first as a boy of nine. It concerned Gypsies in his native Chester County and a Metro-talents, too—a remarkable collection of Irish songs and a habit of naming new dishes she had concocted.

All four acts of "Vanessa" have words a-plenty, written by an old hand at opera words and music, Barber's longtime friend, Gian-Carlo Menotti. Menotti also is its stage manager.

Barber has been commissioned several times before to write an opera but never started on one "because I never could find a subject, a story, that I liked." This time, Menotti had the story idea and offered to write the libretto. The locale of "Vanessa" is a northern European country, around 1905.

"We are going to do 'Vanessa' at the Salzburg Festival next August," Barber said. "It will be the first opera written by an American ever to be given there. There are many American composers who should be having the same experience I am having, of writing an opera."

In Germany there are something like 40 opera houses, all subsidized, and I wish our country could have one in each state, with federal and state support. That's the way to bring opera to the American people."

Some Drugs 'Cure' Cancer In Animals, But Not Humans

By DELOS SMITH
United Press Science Editor
NEW YORK (UP)—Patient research has proved out a possible explanation of why certain drugs "cure" certain experimental cancers in laboratory animals but fall far short of being "cures" of naturally occurring cancers in human beings.

Drs. Daniel M. Shapiro and Ruth A. Fugmann of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Columbia University, began their experiments with the idea that "tumor mass" was somehow connected with the reason why the drugs brought about no "cures" in people.

The drugs have been studied in people who had "large, extensive tumor masses," often with spread of cancer cells away from the original site. But the laboratory "cures" were in animals which had small tumor masses which had been recently implanted in them for experimental purposes.

True for Mice
In a series of tedious experiments, the scientists showed that their idea was true for one type of laboratory cancer in mice and for one anti-cancer drug—6-mercaptopurine. Whether it is also true of human solid tumors and other anti-cancer drugs, only the future will tell.

However, there is one obvious immediate use of their knowledge in people. They suggested it themselves. This is to follow up surgery for the removal of tumor masses, with "courses" of anti-cancer drugs.

"This not only offers hope for cure of the microscopic metastases (spreads) and inadvertent tumor 'seeding' (in surgical wounds) in the so-called operable and potentially curable group of cancer patients, but also offers new hope for those cancer patients hitherto categorized as inoperable," the scientists reported to the National Assn. for Cancer Research.

Cured 57 Per Cent
In mice they showed that 6-mercaptopurine "cured" 57 per cent of the experimental laboratory cancer had been transplanted into them. But if the cancer piece was allowed to grow for eight days before the drug was used, the "cure" rate dropped to 36 per cent. When it was allowed to grow for 15 days (by which time it was a very large tumor mass) there were no "cures" whatever.

"The scientists then experimented in mice in whom tumor transplants had been growing for 15 days. These tumor masses were about the "tidal wave" of students that will hit U.S. colleges a few years from now, and have gotten mistaken idea that it's already here. This "tidal wave" is not a figment of imagination; college enrollment can be expected to double within the next decade.

But the pressure on higher education facilities won't become critical until the early 1960's, when college enrollments begin to reflect the sharp jump in the U.S. birth rate which occurred after World War II.

2. Anxious high school seniors, who share the popular belief that it's already very hard to get into college, have been driving registrars crazy by making applications to as many as 15 or 20 institutions. This growing practice of "multiple application" has misled many schools into thinking that they have far more candidates than they can accommodate.

The student who has been "accepted" by several schools obviously can attend only one of them; at the other, he becomes a "no show" who throws enrollment expectations out of kilter and sometimes leaves a last-minute vacancy in the freshman class. This problem has become so acute that many schools are beginning to get tough with requiring substantial deposits with applications, or fixing early deadlines for a showdown on matriculation.

3. Pride keeps many schools from admitting publicly that they have room for more students. There is a widespread feeling that the "prestige of the institution" requires the dean to boast about how many applications are pouring in, even when he is secretly beating the bushes for freshmen.

Most Colleges Have Put Out Welcome Mat

(COLLEGE VACANCIES)
By LOUIS CASSELL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15 (UP)—High school graduates with good records will have little difficulty getting into college this fall.

While some big-name institutions are swamped with applicants, there are hundreds of respected schools in every section of the country where the welcome mat is out.

These facts—which may surprise worried high school seniors and their parents—emerged from a nationwide United Press survey.

Although college enrollment climbed this year to an all-time high of 3,048,000, the survey showed there are still thousands of empty beds in college dormitories across the land. Many schools are actually suffering a shortage of students, and are scrambling hard for qualified candidates for the next freshman class.

Popularized Term
Agricola, 18th century German "father of mineralogy," popularized the term "fossil" from the Latin "fossils," meaning "dug up."
