'Vanguard' Try Scratched

The Pampa Daily News

VOL. 56 NO. 67 Serving The Top o' Texas 51 Years (10 PAGES TODAY) PAMPA, TEXAS, TUESDAY JUNE 24, 1958

Navy 'Polaris' Forerunner Is Launched

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — The Navy postponed a launching of its Vanguard satellite today after damp weather played havoc with the temperamental rocket, but then sent a Polaris missile forerunner thundering on a zigzag course into the sky.

The test version of the deadly Polaris—the Navy's solid propellant, a submarine-launched "missile of the future" resembled only in appearance the final version of the versatile Polaris, which is not due to be fired for several months.

The projectile - solid rocket streaked up at an angle at first, trailing red flame and a thick column of smoke, then it snapped violently to a vertical course, wobbling a time or two and was lost in the blue cloudless sky in about 25 seconds.

The zigzagging was intentional and designed to simulate corrections the Polaris control system might have to make, blasting into the air from beneath the ocean at an off-angle.

An official announcement said that "technical difficulties" caused the postponement, which was the second frustration in four days for the navy.

It was learned, however, the main reason for the "scrub" was that high winds and heavy rains which pelted the cape Monday afternoon caused moisture to accumulate in the Vanguard "to a point where it was causing short circuiting."

Five-Day Rain Total: 3.86 Inches

Rain fell in Pampa again early this morning and the rain gauge atop the Pampa News Building recorded .05 of an inch of moisture.

This makes five of the last six days that Pampa has received moisture and runs the five day total to 3.86 inches of rain.

The P. O. Texas weather forecast calls for partly cloudy skies with little change in temperatures and scattered afternoon and evening thundershowers.

Weathermen promised rain—but not too much—for soggy Texas today in the wake of tornadoes, windstorms, heavy rains and flash floods which swept the state Monday.

Overall forecast called for scattered thundershowers in North and South Central Texas and scattered thundershowers in the Panhandle, South Plains and from the Pecos Valley eastward.

Witnesses said the twister's tail heisted in the sky, then swooped to the ground where it pushed in the walls of the garage.

Another twister on a high wind struck seven miles southwest of Snyder. The black, swirling storm tore down two houses and unroofed another.

At Snyder itself, 2.45 inches of rain fell in 45 minutes, flooding streets and temporarily halting cars.

Snyder Police Sgt. T. W. Bailey said a number of power lines were knocked down by high winds. He said high water closed a few streets.

Heavy hail and pelting rains damaged streets, stripped vegetation and flooded low-lying houses in Alpine. The city was reneched by cloudbursts of from one to three inches in 30 minutes.

Living Costs Hit New Record High

By EDWARD COWAN United Press International WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government reported today that living costs hit another all-time high in May.

Food prices held steady after a five-month climb, but increases in other prices pushed the average to a new record.

The consumer price index advanced 1.1 per cent to 123.6 per cent of the 1947-49 average. It was the smallest one-month rise since last December, the Labor Department said.

The department's Bureau of Labor Statistics attributed the rise to higher prices for gasoline and used cars, increased physicians' fees, and rise in premiums for group hospitalization plans in four cities.

It was the 19th time in 21 months that the cost of living has set a record. The last time it dropped was in August, 1956.

The report meant that some 850,000 workers whose pay is tied by contract to the cost of living will get wage boosts. In steel, aluminum, and canning an about 750,000 workers will get 4 cents an hour more.

For the remaining 100,000 workers the pay boost will range from 2 cents an hour in some aircraft manufacturing and local transit to 9 cents an hour.

The May price index was 3.3 per cent higher than in May, 1957. A Labor Department official said he expected food prices might be coming down this month. But he declined to predict what the over-all cost of living would do.

Food prices were unchanged on the average from April to May largely because of a seasonal increase in the supply of fresh vegetables, eggs, and milk, whose prices dipped. Prices of meats, poultry, and fresh fruits advanced.

German Embassy Is Hit By Rioters

By WALTER LOGAN United Press International Soviet Russia began repairs today on the West German embassy in Moscow but failed to apologize for the damage done by 1,500 demonstrators who bombarded the building Monday with stones and ink bottles.

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer was so annoyed by the attack—carried out in reprisal for an anti-Soviet demonstration in Bonn last week—that he requested 20 German industrialists to break off a tour of Russia and return home.

The Bonn demonstration was one of a series of worldwide protests by free nations against the Soviet action in executing Hungarian freedom Premier Imre Nagy and other leaders of the October, 1956, anti-Communist revolution.

Since then there have been demonstrations in Moscow against the Danish and West German embassies. Observers said the attack on the Bonn government's embassy was even wilder than demonstrations against France and Britain during the 1956 Suez crisis.

Veteran observers of the Soviet scene expressed the opinion that such outbursts could have been carried out only with the active support of Russian authorities—if not organized by them.

In the past any sign of unbridled behavior by Soviet citizens has drawn immediate and stern crackdowns. The demonstrations continued for hours Monday despite (See GERMAN, Page 2)

Through the new program, the Association will "cooperate with the State Health Department, continue with a part time executive secretary, conduct a 1958 Christmas Seal Sale, cooperate with the medical profession and the schools of Gray County, conduct a followup on all positive TB tests and conduct an intensified education program."

Sam Begert will head the education committee; Mrs. Jordan, Seal Sales; Mrs. Wilson, Publicity; Mrs. Hamilton and Mrs. Venable, Case Finding. H. A. Yoder will represent the TB Association to the Welfare Index.

Mrs. Paul Bowers, president, announced the appointment of amonored Marsh and J. C. Randall to the Board of Directors. All schools are now represented.

Hi, There, Judge!

FORT WORTH (UPI)—A startled district judge got quick reaction Monday when he told Neal Eubanks and Robert Adams he could pass sentence immediately if they waived rights to a 10-day waiting period on pleas of guilty to charges of tampering with pay telephones.

The puzzled Eubanks and Adams looked to defense attorney George Cochran for advice.

"Waive," Cochran said. Both held up their right hands, and began waving at Judge Willis McGregor. He gave each a two-year probation sentence when he regained his composure.

Medical care costs rose 7.1 per cent mainly because of higher charges by physicians, hospitals, and two group hospitalization plans.

Movie admission charges and the cost of television sets and radios eased downward. Apparel prices were unchanged as reduction for some men's clothing were offset by increases for women's cotton and rayon dresses and shoes. The costs of men's shoes declined substantially.

The department said that weekly take-home pay of factory workers increased about 2 cents as the average factory work week expanded from 38.3 hours to 38.5 hours. Part of the increase, however, was offset by price rises.

Government economists meanwhile predicted that unemployment will climb to a 17-year high in June.

If unemployment in June climbs to between 5,400,000 and 5,500,000 it would be more than a half-million increase over a 1949-50 unemployment figure for May. But it was less than the six million labor Secretary James P. Mitchell warned Congress to expect for the month. Exact figures will be released during the first week of July by the Labor and Commerce Departments.

The increase was attributed to the heavy influx of students and graduates into the labor market.

Trujillo Promotes His Son

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (UPI)—The promotion of Rafael Trujillo Jr., 29, to the rank of full general in the Dominican Republic's army and air force was announced Monday by his father, Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo.

The promotion presumably was the result of the appointment by his father of young Trujillo to the newly-created post of chairman of the Dominican joint chiefs of staff.

Young Trujillo's appointment to the staff post was announced on the same day the U.S. Army announced he had flunked out of its general staff and command school at Fort Leavenworth, Kan. The Army announced last Friday that Trujillo Jr. would receive that certificate of attendance because he "did not successfully complete the course."

Trujillo Jr. previously was commander of the Air Force with the rank of lieutenant general. He currently is in Los Angeles, Calif.

While the Senator's away, his wife will campaign.

Sen. Ralph Yarborough's wife, Opal, and son, Richard, initiated a vigorous hand-shaking tour today at Mary Hardin Baylor College in Belton.

Yarborough, seeking re-election to his senate post, was in Washington, but his wife and son planned an exhaustive 12-city campaign today that would take them through Knowltonville, Killen, Coppertown, Lampasas, Lometa, Goldthwaite, Priddy, Comanche, Proctor, Dublin and Stephenville.

Wednesday, the duo plan to back the senator in Hico, Hamilton, Cranfills Gap, Meridian, Clinton, Valley Mills, Crawford and McGregor.

But Yarborough's opponent, William Blakley, a Dallas multimillionaire, wasn't to be idle either.

Blakley carried his campaign to East Texas where he was set to kick off a political rally at Longview with an old-fashioned barbecue.

Senate Hopefuls Work In Earnest

do away with more than 4,000 pounds of barbeque, listen to the songs of Alice Lon, television's champagne lady, and to the music of Jimmy Martin and his Sunny Mountain Boys and watch a huge fireworks display.

Blakley also was set for a statewide 7:30 p.m. radio address on 35 stations. The program will be telecast to Austin, Beaumont, Bryan, Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, Lufkin, Shreveport, Texarkana, Tyler, Waco, and Wichita Falls.

Austin Atty. Creekmore Fath, secretary-treasurer of the "Democrats of Texas," Monday charged Gov. Price Daniel is "desperate" in his race for re-election.

"Daniel doesn't know the meaning of 'fair play' and is trying to rule or ruin the Democratic party in his desperation," Fath charged.

"Let's make Texas Price-less," he said in his prepared statement.

Meanwhile, Daniel announced he will officially open his re-election campaign June 30 with a state-wide radio address and rally in Woodbridge Park, Austin.

Daniel's campaign headquarters said the governor's speech, at 8 p.m., will be aired over about 80 radio stations.

Daniel was at Sugar Land Monday to help dedicate "The Little School of the 400," an institution sponsored by the League of Latin American Citizens (LULAC).

CoC Sends Out TOT Brochures

Brochures and city maps are on their way to service stations and motels around Pampa for the information of the traveling public. The packages went out from the Pampa Chamber of Commerce today.

The "Hang Your Hat on the Top o' Texas" brochure features shots of the TOT Road, large and small industries, Lovett Memorial Library, Central Park, Highland General Hospital, City Hall, Court House and the large office buildings.

Gray Co. TB Group OK's Program

The Gray County TB Association, meeting yesterday, accepted the 1958-59 program and budget approved by the executive board.

At this time, the group named Sam Begert, Lillian Jordan, Doris Wilson, Mrs. R. C. Hamilton and Mrs. W. L. Veale to head essential committees. Dr. Gordon W. Scott will be the new medical advisor.

Rubble From Twister Is Cleaned Up

Clean-up work was in progress this morning at the Gulf Corporation garage and Panhandle Fisher Grainary, where a small tornado struck yesterday.

Sheets of tin that were thrown from the roof of the Gulf garage had already been moved this morning. Power lines, cut down by the flying bits of tin, were restored yesterday afternoon.

The only signs that a tornado had struck can be seen at the garage itself. Three walls of the garage are down and some rubble is still thrown about. The final estimated damage to the building was $2500.

This morning, workmen were busy piling up wood and tin from the building and were then going to tear what was left of it down.

Adams Got No Favors From SEC For Bernard Goldfine

By TOM NELSON United Press International WASHINGTON (UPI)—The head of the Securities & Exchange Commission said today there is "no shred of evidence" that Sherman Adams ever got SEC favors for industrialist Bernard Goldfine.

SEC Chairman Edward N. Gadsby told the House influence-investigating subcommittee that his agency has prosecuted two Goldfine companies for failure to file financial reports.

This prosecution, Gadsby asserted, was carried out "vigorously and effectively, and with something approaching impartiality and detachment."

Gadsby said the record shows that inquiries from the White House and from Congress "had absolutely no effect" upon SEC actions against Goldfine companies.

Senate Debates Alaskan Statehood

By United Press International WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate was called into session an hour earlier than usual today to debate Alaskan statehood.

Supporters of the House-passed statehood bill were hopeful it would be passed without change by the end of the week and sent to President Eisenhower for signature. The probability of night sessions was foreseen.

The President has urged congressional approval of Alaska as the 49th state and was expected to renew his plea at a weekly meeting with congressional leaders today.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.) said in a prepared speech that statehood for Alaska could be thwarted if the Senate makes any

Farmers Get 1,100 Fish

Approximately 1,100 fish were delivered to ten cooperators of the Gray County Soil Conservation District yesterday.

About 500 bass and 600 channel cat were delivered to farmers and ranchers to stock farm ponds. Farmers receiving bass also received bluegill.

These fish came from the Fish and Wildlife Service at 2 a.m. at Roma, N.M. The fish were given to farmers and ranchers free. They are delivered once each year.

Farmers and ranchers may receive the fish by contacting Soil Conservation Service Technicians in the court house or by contacting one of their supervisors.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Lilly M. Darnell of Alanreed and Mrs. Annie P. Matlock of Dallas; four sons, Harry and Adil both of Alanreed, Lawrence of Canyon and Cleve of Austin; one sister, Mrs. Ray Luttrell of Arlington; and 14 grandchildren, 37 great-grandchildren, and four great-great-grandchildren.

Palbearers will be Brooks McGee, Frank Hambright, Dick Hill, Marvin Hall, Roy Sherrod and Cecil Carter.

Interment will be in the Alanreed Cemetery with Richerson-Lamb in charge.

LEBANON

However, President Camille Chamoun told British television viewers Monday night the need for direct Anglo-American intervention had not yet arisen. But in a filmed appearance on the British Broadcasting Company he said a larger UN force to patrol the border was an "absolute necessity."

Hammarskjold was expected to confer during the day with Chamoun and with Prime Minister Sami Es-Soh before flying to New York tonight.

Lebanon was expected to ask a new meeting of the Security Council soon after his return to New York unless his talks with Nasser eased the threat of a major war in the Middle East—Anglo-American "intervention" and the threat of Soviet "volunteers" on the side of the UAR.

Hammarskjold said in Cairo "I hope everything will be settled soon," but Lebanese officials were pessimistic. They said he was not trying to mediate but claimed Hammarskjold was convinced of UAR intervention and visited Cairo to inform Egyptian authorities of the "real situation."

The Middle Eastern situation was so critical that Nuri Es-Said, prime minister of the Iraqi-Jordan Arab Union, flew to London Monday for consultations. The British foreign office was taken by surprise but indicated there would be the closest talks during Said's visit.

Bulgian Gets Job In Caucasus

MOSCOW UPI—Former Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin has been assigned to the regional economic council in Stavropol in the North Caucasus, it was reported today.

If the reports are true it would indicate the white-bearded Bulganin has been considerably downgraded. There have been reports in recent weeks he might be.

Bulgian lost his job as premier at a March meeting of the Central Committee of the Communist Party and the duties were assumed by Nikita Khrushchev, already leader of the Communist Party.

He was assigned then to the presidency of the state bank, a relatively high post. But it was reliably reported he never assumed the job.

The former premier disappeared from the Moscow scene for some time, but when questioned about it at a British Embassy party June 12 Khrushchev told newsmen that Bulganin had been in the hospital for an operation.

James Hoffa Is Acquitted Of Wire-Tapping Charges

NEW YORK UPI—A federal jury Monday night acquitted Teamsters President James R. Hoffa and two other defendants of charges they tapped the telephones of union subordinates in the teamsters' Detroit headquarters.

The jury of eight men and four women deliberated seven hours before clearing Hoffa and his co-defendants, Owen Brennan, president of Detroit Teamsters Local 337; and Bernard Spindel, a professional wiretap expert.

The five-week trial was the second in which Hoffa, Brennan and Spindel had been tried on the same charges. The first trial ended in a hung jury last December when one juror held out for acquittal.

It also marked the second time in less than a year that Hoffa had been acquitted by a federal jury. In the early case, he was acquitted in Washington of charges that he attempted to bribe a Senate Labor Rackets Committee staff investigator into letting him see committee files containing information on its probe of the 1,300,000-member truck union.

Specifically, Hoffa, Brennan and Spindel were charged with conspiring to wiretap the telephones of teamster subordinates because of Hoffa's alleged suspicion they were supplying information to Senate Labor Rackets Committee investigators.

If convicted, each defendant could have received a maximum prison sentence of five years and a fine of $10,000.

The verdict was greeted with cheers from Hoffa admirers who had filled the courtroom. The stocky, 45-year-old teamsters boss then was mobbed in the corridor by well-wishers as he walked toward a telephone to call his wife in Detroit.

Man Fined On Liquor Charge

B. P. Cullins of Mangum, Okla., entered a plea of guilty in Gray County Court yesterday to charges of transporting liquor in a wet area without a permit and was fined $200 and costs.

Cullins was picked up at Lefors by H. H. Hall, an agent of the Texas Liquor Control Board. He had 72 pints of whiskey and one gallon of wine in his car. The value of the liquor was estimated at $200.

CoC Tourist Group Sets Meeting

Plans for the Tourist of the Day promotion will be the main issue at the Tourist Development Committee meeting at 10 a.m. Thursday in the Chamber of Commerce office.

According to Chamber Manager E. O. Wedgworth, the program has been very popular during Rodeo week here.

In the past, tourist couples have been "arrested" each day but instead of getting bread and water have received free lodgings, food, auto service and flowers for their overnight stay in Pampa.

Hosted by two Pampa couples, they attend a performance of the Top o' Texas Rodeo. Pictures and newspaper copy are sent to their hometown newspaper.

The Sheriff and Chief of Police will initiate the stunt with each couple. Last year, one of the couples thus initiated was here from Hawaii.

Commission In Parking Reminder

Pampa City Commissioners, in their meeting this morning, said they would like to remind all Pampa businessmen not to park in the alleys behind their business and to not park on the sidewalks.

The commissioners said they had received many complaints about this and the ordinance affecting it would be strictly enforced by the Pampa city police.

In other action, the commissioners approved engineer's estimate No. 5 on the final reading. This will pay $274.95 to the J. W. Marsh construction company for construction work on the colored swimming pool.

Ordinance 500 was approved on its final reading paying Ray Boswell construction company $11,610.90 for paving work the firm did for the city in 1957.

Veterans' Aid Survey Considered

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The administration, on the basis of a new survey, has suggested that Congress reconsider the extent to which it wants free hospital care provided for veterans.

The survey showed that: —Almost half of all ex-service-men currently under hospital treatment for non-military ailments are getting their care free in veterans administration (VA) hospitals on the claim they can't afford private treatment.

There were increasing indications the Soviet was being nettled by the worldwide indignation including condemnation by Premier Jawaharlal Nehru of India and leaders throughout the free world. The British Communist Party was reported hopelessly split because of the Nagy execution, and there were predictions the Communist parties would lose strength throughout the free world because of the incidents.

Pravda, the official Communist Party organ, said "Western aggressive circles" used the Nagy death to prevent summit talks, to increase East-West tension and "to pass over to open military ventures as soon as this appears possible to them."

DEAR ABBY...

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 19 years old and am going with a boy who is 22 but he knows absolutely nothing about romance, especially how to kiss. He kisses me like he is kissing his grandmother (if you know what I mean.) He just finished his Army hitch and says I am the kind of girl he would like to marry but I don't know if he would make a good husband if he doesn't even know how to kiss a girl. Should I teach him or do you think he would wonder where I learned?

DEAR ABBY: I have a little girl, age seven, who is both beautiful and above average in intelligence. I am mentally sick and cannot give her the love and attention she needs. My mind is filled with thoughts of suicide. My wife runs around with other men and doesn't wake up until the child goes to her room in the morning and says, "Mommie, what dress should I wear?" My wife beats her and screams at her, "Leave me alone! I wish you were never born!" We are both unfit to raise this child. What must I do to save her?

SICK MAN
Dear Sir: Get in touch with your CHILDREN'S PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION at once. In the meantime, since you are obviously sincere in your plea for help, I have taken the liberty of alerting the local authorities in your community. God bless you and good luck!

DEAR ABBY: My sister is always asking me if I think she's getting big in the hips. She is getting pretty broad because she has a job that requires her to sit all day. She always says, "Tell me the truth now, do you think I am getting happy?" I'm afraid if I do, it will hurt her feelings. What should I say when she asks me next time?

LITTLE SISTER
Dear Sir: Tell her the truth—but suggest that she get to the seat of the matter and combine diet with exercise.

DEAR ABBY: My wife had her third child yesterday and I am a nervous wreck. Why should a woman make such a howling fuss over a natural thing like giving birth? Dogs and cats go off and have their young without disturbing anyone. I remember my mother just laying down and another farm woman came in to take care of her while she had hers. Is the modern woman getting weaker or is she trying to get more attention than is her due?

WORN-OUT
Dear Worn: Childbirth today is far easier (and certainly much safer) than it was when your mother "laid down" and had a farm woman attend her. Modern woman (like modern man) is as strong as she has to be.

DEAR ABBY: You advised a gentleman whose wife kept losing his important papers to keep them locked up in a box under his bed? Are you trying to put us bankers out of business? What's the matter with a safe deposit box?

Tommy Joyce Jenkins Repeats Vows With Bennie Vaughn In Church Rites

Miss Tommy Joyce Jenkins and Bennie Vaughn were recently united in marriage with vows exchanged in the Halle Baptist Church in Spring Creek.

Miss Jenkins is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Jenkins, 902 E. Francis. Mr. Vaughn's parents are Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Vaughn, Spring Creek.
Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of satin and lace styled with a fitted bodice and long, tapering sleeves extending to bridal points over the hands.
Her hip-length Veil of Illusion was secured to a crown encrusted with pearls. She carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Miss LaJohna Ellington, maid of honor, wore a street-length dress of lace and satin.
Jake Roden served the bridegroom as best man.
Bridesmaids were Sue Reece and Durlene Withers. Groomsmen were Johnny Reece and Fred Nix.
Lighting the altar candles were Carolyn Richardson and Judy

Jelly-making was demonstrated by Mrs. Lester Reynolds and Mrs. O. E. Smith at the recent meeting of the Worthwhile Home Demonstration Club meeting held in the home of Mrs. Bert Smith, south of the city.
Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Reynolds made plum jelly and allowed the juice to boil until there was just half as much as at first (before adding the sugar. During the demonstration, a test was first made by using two tablespoons of juice, two of sugar and one of Epsom salts. The demonstrators stirred this until it dissolved and set for about five minutes. When the mixture congealed, it determined that the juice contained enough pectin to make good jelly.

Great Beauty Asset Is Flashing Smile

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor
A flashing white smile is a great beauty asset to any girl. In fact, it can very nearly turn a plain girl into a beauty.

Knowing this, a great many girls damage their teeth in an effort to keep them a shining white. An example is the singer who used a bit of emery broad each night to remove nicotine stains. She got rid of the stains—and eventually the enamel on her teeth, too.

The best way to go at keeping your teeth white is to brush them frequently and to have them cleaned twice a year by a dentist.

A real aid to the girl with a career comes in the form of toothpaste in an aerosol push-button container. It can be sorted upright in her desk, removed at noon or at the end of the day, before a date, for quick use. This aerosol dental cream will help a girl to clean up her teeth in a matter of seconds and to produce a pretty smile across the table.

The next meeting for the club will be in the home of Mrs. Dewey Lunsford, 1029 Duncan, on July 18. It was announced that there will be no meeting the first week in July, as this would fall on the Fourth.

The hostess served Angel Food cake and iced tea during the social hour to Meses. J. L. Carlton, J. P. Ferguson, Yvonne Reynolds, Roy Tinsley, W. G. Kinzer, and N. L. Walton, in addition to those already mentioned.

Daily patterned plastic bibs mean little cleaning work for Mother. For dress-up, through, Baby occasionally sports ruffled organdies. These will last as long as Baby needs them with simple care. Wash them in hot suds, iron while damp.

Create Illusion Of Beauty With Daily Good, Grooming, Plenty Of Rest And Play

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

The peeling manure is one that's far worse than no manure at all. Yet, it happens to all of us at some time. For lack of attention, a coat of polish can start looking tacky in the middle of the week.

The truth is that it's impossible to have a manure and then forget it. If you like to wear nail polish (and who doesn't?), you must be prepared to give it attention every evening. It's a process that doesn't take long but it makes all the difference to a glossy manicure.

It involves giving your nails a coat of clear, colorless sealer every single evening. Actually, this is something you can do while you're reading or watching TV. It doesn't take long to dry and it does provide the necessary protection.

This is the time of year to start thinking ahead to the figure you'll cut on the beach this summer. If you're like most women, you have they're smart girls. They know how to play up their assets. They experiment with makeup and they practice at it, too. They're not afraid to try a new hairdo or hair coloring. They take advantage of the new creams and other beauty products. They're careful about diet and strict about exercise. Every last one of them has an open mind about beauty and her own personal looks. They're careful to get enough rest and enough play.

In other words, they are able to create the illusion of beauty.

Unfortunately, a hip problem is not solved by diet. Even women who are otherwise very slender are frequently hippy. Nor is it solved by all-around exercise such as walking. It takes spot exercise, beamed directly to the hips to get rid of those pads of fat.

The best is the one in which you sit on the floor and literally walk on your hips, moving first on one side and then the other.

Next best is lying flat on your back, knees doubled up to your chest and arms linked about them. Roll first to one side and then to the other so that the weight of your body is forced down upon your hips.

Third is standing up to a wall and bumping your hips against it, first right and then left. All of them will get results if they're done faithfully.

Most fashion models are anything but natural beauties. But

On The Business Scene

Machine tool orders declined in May for the second successive month. New bookings in May totaled $21,900,000 or 4 per cent from April, 25 per cent from March and 47 per cent below May, 1957. For the first five months of 1958 incoming business is running nearly 60 per cent behind the year-earlier pace.

Steel magazine said steel production is starting to level off after seven weeks of robust recovery. The magazine said demand will soon slacken, bringing about a corresponding drop in production that may continue until August.

A Look Ahead At Future Headlines

NEWS OUTLOOK
 By United Press International
 United Press International correspondents around the world look ahead at the news that will make headlines.

LABOR BILL
 The labor reform bill passed by the Senate will fall by the wayside. House leaders are for it and will do what they can to push it through. But it's all up to the Labor Committee. And committee members say privately the bill's chances are just about zero.

DEFENSE BILL
 President Eisenhower will make a strong pitch for congressional approval of his defense reorganization bill at his next news conference. He has all set to plug the bill at his last news conference but the Sherman Adams case crowded it off the agenda.

DROUGHT
 Asia is in the midst of a drought that may result in famine and possible food riots next fall and winter. Some areas report the drought is the worst in 30 years. Even such a food-surplus nation as Thailand is worried. Japan is considering restriction on the use of water.

COMMUNIST HANDICAP
 The execution of the Hungarian revolution leaders will backfire on the Reds in Finland first. The Reds had to increase the 43 seats they hold in the 200-seat parliament during general elections next month. The opposition is making good use of the executions as a reason for voting against the Communists. Observers now say the Reds may lose out in their bid although they probably will not sink below the 43 seats they now hold.

CHERYL
 The Lana Turner-Cheryl Crane-Johnny Stompanato case will simmer along for some months. Lana's daughter Cheryl, who stabbed Stompanato to death, will give court testimony this week. Lana, who was Stompanato's girl friend, will do the same. The positions are in connection with a $750,000 suit brought by Stompanato's 10-year-old son. Next September, the matter of 14-year-old Cheryl's custody will come up again.

PLAY BILL
 Walter O'Malley's big target date for the Los Angeles Dodgers is July 5. If three lawsuits aimed at blocking Chavez Ravine as the site of a Dodger ballpark are cleared up quickly, O'Malley figures to have the earthmoving equipment break ground July 5—with a July 5, 1959, target date for opening the park for play. You can expect optimistic notes both from Dodger president O'Malley and Los Angeles Mayor Norris Foulson on the outcome of those lawsuits.

LITTLE LIZ
 One of the main troubles with the world is too many people think loyalty is old-fashioned.

Are Yanks Faltering In AL? Rest Hope So

By FRED DOWN
United Press International
The New York Yankees had better act fast because there's a full-fledged revolt brewing among their downtrodden American League rivals.

What had been regarded as merely some unpleasant skirmishing with the Detroit Tigers took on a much more serious aspect Monday night when the Chicago White Sox followed up with a 2-0 victory that handed the tyrannous Yankees their fourth shutout and fifth defeat in nine games.

★★★ THERE'S GONNA BE SOME CHANGES SEZ CASEY OF BOMBERS

By ED SAINSBURY
United Press International
CHICAGO (UPI)— Casey Stengel, plagued with a slumping ball club which has lost seven times in the last 10 games, said today there'll be some changes made unless the league-leading New York Yankees to a turnaround and start to win.

Moore struck out five of the Yankees and was sharpshooting the corner of the plate with his curve ball to keep the batters upset.

Zorro Applies 'Claw,' Loses

Crime doesn't pay and the Great Zorro learned the hard way you can't mess with the long arm of the law and win.

Moore won his second decision of the year over the Yanks and posted a record of giving them only one earned run in 18 innings. He walked only two batters and issued singles to Hank Bauer, Bill Skowron and Tony Kubek, none of them after the fourth inning.

Here's what happened in their main event match at the Top of Texas Sportsman Club Monday night.

Zorro won a "legitimate" first fall against Tokyo Joe and then the fun started. In a slam-bang flurry of fists and elbows, referee Phelps somehow got knocked from the ring, and while he lies in the aisle moaning with apparent pain, Zorro applied his secret "claw hold" on Tokyo, although an earlier announcement had informed spectators that the "claw hold" had been barred in this country, for the safety of the wrestlers.

The crowd, however, booed and informed Phelps, that Zorro had used the outlawed "claw hold" which brought about Phelps lifting of Tokyo's hand as the winner.

Anderson announced Monday that he had taken over as "full-time president" of the Detroit Football Co. He immediately appointed team publicist Bud Ericson as his assistant general manager, a new position in the club's front office.

Iron Mike DeBaise lowered the boom on the Great Bolo in a first main event match. He rebounded off the ropes after losing the first fall to "floor" Bolo, the latter not being able to make it back to the ring for the third fall.

Anderson was asked by United Press International to comment on reports he took full command of the professional football champs "as a sleeping stone" to succeed Bert Bell as National Football League commissioner.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—It's bad enough, complained the spokesman for the National Sporting Goods Assn. to a Senate subcommittee Monday, that some discount merchants are selling name brand fishing reels for $15 instead of the $37.50 list price.

There is nothing to it, Bell has a 10 year contract and he will probably serve it out. He has done a wonderful job for professional football and I am one of his most ardent supporters.

Kansas City is 7 1/2 games behind the Yankees but the fact is the Yankees haven't been playing well for a month. They're under .500—14-16—since May 26 and they still have their big lead only because none of the contenders has been able to get rolling.

But now both the Tigers and White Sox are making the kind of drives that can cut deeply into that Yankee lead. The Tigers, who beat the Baltimore Orioles, 3-1, Monday, have won nine of their last 12 games while the White Sox have won eight of their last 10. Even the Athletics are hanging on with a modest four-game streak after Monday night's 7-3 victory over the Washington Senators.

Rebels Have Half Dozen Games Book

Deck Wolf, hoping to have at least a dozen games for his Pampa American Legion Rebels, was half way home Tuesday, with his announcement of six games already lined up for the local basebalers.

The Rebels, who open in Berger at 8:30 p.m. Saturday night, play their first home game here Sunday at 2:30 p.m. against the Perryton Legionnaires.

Next Tuesday night the Rebels return to Berger for an 8:15 p.m. tilt, and then travel to Perryton for a return engagement July 4, at 8:15 p.m. Pleasant Valley, an Amarillo Legion crew, invades Harvester Park July 6, and D&D Pharmacy of Amarillo, a YMCA club, comes to town, Sunday, July 13.

games, Moore got all the runs he needed in the first inning when Billy Goodman walked with two out and Sherman Lollar hit his eighth homer of the season. The loss snapped Yankee ace Whitey Ford's seven-game winning streak.

All four shutouts pitched against the Yankees were by right-handers and it may be significant that it was right-hander Lew Burdette who shut 'em out twice in the World Series last year.

George Susco pitched a seven-hitter to win his first game for the Tigers who reached .500 with a 31-31 season record. Gail Harris homered and Al Kalina had a sacrifice fly and a triple to account for Detroit's runs while Gus Triandos homered for Baltimore's run.

Casper Cops Buick Open, And 9 Grand

GRAND BLANC, Mich. (UPI)—Bill Casper Jr. said it didn't make any difference whether he played or not. He played. Three hours and 49,000 later Casper found himself the richest professional golfer of the year.

Casper's pressurized one under par 71 gave him a one stroke victory in the $52,000 Buick Open over Arnold Palmer and Ted Kroll. Casper had a four round total of 70-73-71-71—285 to boost his 1958 winnings to $31,277.

Drenching rain and lightning sent Casper, U.S. Open champion Tommy Bolt and Kroll scurrying for the Warwick Hills clubhouse after they had played only four holes in the already-once delayed tournament.

Bolt had a string of four bogies and Kroll, third round leader, was even with par. Casper had birdied the first hole but bogied the fourth and also was even.

Bolt grumbled—as did many others—about continuing play after nearly two hours delay.

"It didn't make any difference to me whether we played or waited a day," Casper said. He tucked the first prize check into his wallet and packed it away in his tomato-red pants. "But I couldn't be happier that we did."

Palmer was the only player to fire a 69 Monday over the slick, 7,280-yard course—longest on the PGA tour. He had a 67 cancelled by rain Friday. Jack Fleck, who was tied for second at the end of three rounds, faded to a 77 and tied for eighth with Max Evans and Billy Maxwell.

PRE-GAME TRIM — Pitcher Jonny Antonelli cuts the hair of San Francisco Giant hurling teammate, Mike McCormick, in the dressing room. Nothing like being in trim at all times, the two agree. And they've been doing some pretty close-cropped chunking of their own during the past several weeks, which all helps to account for the high National League standing of the SF team. The Giants stood 2 1/2 games behind National League leading Milwaukee after Monday night's games.

Greaves Wants Shot
NEW YORK (UPI)—Blond Willie Greaves, who outpointed Otis Woodard for his sixth straight victory, challenged loudly today for a shot at the British Empire middleweight crown.

Greaves, who already holds the Canadian title, won a unanimous decision over Woodard of New York in their TV 10-rounder at St. Nicholas arena Monday night. He weighed 159 pounds to Woodard's 161.

SPORTS ANTI-TRUST LAWS

House Splits Up For Fight

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The house started choosing up sides today in a battle over how far Congress should go in applying anti-trust laws to professional sports.

The battle was scheduled to reach the debating stage on the house floor today with no final votes expected until Wednesday.

There were three major sides to the fight: a Judiciary Committee bill pushed by Chairman Emanuel Celler D-N.Y.; and a compromise between the two proposed by Rep. Albert W. Gretella R-Conn.

35 Caddies Yet!
DUNEDIN, Fla. (UPI)—Star golfer Lionel Hebert was "beat" by a stunning total of 4,732 men, 528 women, and, just to rub it in, 35 caddies on National Golf Day.

That was the report today from the Professional Golfers Assn. which also disclosed that the annual "day" held this year on June 7 was far more successful financially than any such events in the past and may have drawn more than $100,000 for charity and worthwhile projects.

Celler said he expected "a little trouble" with his own measure but would keep fighting for it. He said Keating's proposal would give organized baseball a "carte blanche" to develop restrictive practices. For example, he said, the Yankees could keep any other team out of New York under Keating's plan.

But Keating, the senior Republican on the Judiciary Committee, predicted a "decisive victory" for his version.

Cretella claimed a "lot of sentiment" for his plan, introduced Monday. He forecast "sympathetic treatment" for at least one part, curbing major league baseball broadcasts and telecasts in minor league territory.

The sports anti-trust measures all are designed to clear up confusion over professional sports status under anti-trust laws. All stem from a Supreme Court decision last year denying pro football the immunity from anti-trust laws enjoyed for years by organized baseball.

The cellar bill would apply anti-trust laws to "commercial activities" of professional baseball, football, basketball and hockey, but would exempt sports activities "reasonable and necessary" to preservation of the game. These could include reserve clauses, draft systems, farm systems and regulation of broadcasting rights.

The Keating bill deletes the words "reasonable and necessary" to give a flat exemption to such practices.

Gibson Leads US Fems In Net Play

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI)—Defending champion Althea Gibson, whose surprise defeat was the key to the recent United States' loss of the Wightman Cup to Britain, leads 12 determined American girls today into opening matches of women's singles in the Wimbledon tennis championships.

Miss Gibson, the reigning queen of world tennis, was heavily favored to defeat Margaret Hellyer of Australia in the match that opened today's program on the historic center court at the All-England Club.

But experts were watching her closely to see if she has improved from her form in the recent Wightman matches. Her defeat by 17-year-old Christine Truman of England, who is seeded second behind her in this tournament, was the big reason why the U.S. girls lost the cup for the first time in 28 years.

The Gibson-Hellyer match was a second-rounder, both having drawn byes in the first round.

After Miss Gibson and Miss Truman, the seedlings in women's singles, in order are: 2. Dorothy Head Knode of Forest Hills, N.Y.; 4. Maria Esther Bueno of Brazil; 5. Shirley Bloomer of Britain; 6. Susy Kormocsi of Hungary; 7. Karol Fageros of Miami, Fla.; and 8. Janet Hopps of Seattle, Wash.

Also on today's schedule were some first-round matches in men's singles left over from Monday and some first-round matches in men's doubles. In one of the most interesting of the latter, U.S. Davis Cup hopeful Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, and southpaw Mervyn Rose of Australia faced the New Zealand team of Lew Gerrard and Peter Nicholls.

MacKay Monday paced 11 of 15 Americans to first-round victories in men's singles.

Gibson's Slugging Paces Humble Win Over Lefors

With Hoot Gibson hitting for the cycle—single, double, triple and homerun—Kempa Humble scored an easy 15-3 Monday night Industrial League victory over Lefors.

Gibson got steady support from teammates. Garland Poole, a 4 Joe Fortin, both also finding the range for homers.

Giles Akers hurried Kempa to its win while Tony Maples was tabbed with the setback for Lefors.

The win pushed Kempa to a 10-3 season record and left them dangling only a half game out of first place.

Webb Is Hopeful
LONDON (UPI)—Spider Webb of Chicago hopes to outbox hard-hitting British Empire middleweight champion Dick Tiger of Nigeria tonight in their 10-round co-featured bout at Empress Hall.

In the other feature, world (d) Bassey of is to win a featherweight champion Hogan favored to win a non-title 10-rounder from Jules Touan of French West Africa.

PANCHO MEETS HOAD

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI)—Big Pancho Gonzales, already assured of the $3,000 top money, meets Lew Hoad of Australia tonight in a wind-up of Jack Kramer's $15,000 round robin pro tennis championship that's a mere formality.

Of more importance to Pancho's purse is the doubles final in which he and Aussie Ken Rosewall hope to split $1500 by defeating Tony Trabert of Cincinnati and Frank Sedgman of Australia.

Pancho ran his record to 5-0 in singles Monday night by dusting off Sedgman, 10-8, 6-2, and then backed into the championship when Rosewall whipped Hoad, 6-2, 9-7. Rosewall finished the tournament with a 8-1 record but even if Hoad licks Pancho in the wind-up to give Gonzales a similar record Rosewall can't claim a title because he lost to Pancho last Sunday.

Ed Sullivan Beats George Hands Down For 'Firsts'

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI) — George Washington may have been first in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen, but Ed Sullivan has him beat hands down.

Sullivan, the face that launched a thousand quips, was the first TV emcee to offer a chorus line, the first to unpackage an ice show, the first to offer trick illusions, the first to utilize a split screen and the first to utilize a split man — Elvis Presley from the waist up.

All sorts of people, animals and for all I know even minerals have made their TV debuts live and on film on Sullivan's CBS-TV show.

TV trot out one wild assortment: Margaret Truman, Alfred Lunt, Harry Belafonte, Johnny Ray, Brigitte Bardot, Albert Schweitzer, Velvel the Dummy and Bill the Navy goat.

Sunday night Ed celebrated his 10th birthday inside the magic box and he celebrated in style. As Sullivan himself put it, the show had everything from A (Fred Astaire) to Z (Darryl Zanuck). And I would add that the hour — made up of clips taken from high moments of his old shows — also had a wonderful amount of mmmm, good.

I suppose it's inevitable that some will criticize Sullivan for shuffling so quickly through his famous faces, but if so, they missed the purpose of the show. If I read Sullivan correctly it was his intention to salt and pepper his way through 10 years — the meat has been presented on his regular shows.

The roster of names Sullivan snapped off was staggering—Bing Crosby, Jack Benny, Phil Silvers, Victor Borge, Gary Cooper, Ed Murray, Grace Kelly, Lucy and Desi, Perry Como, Audrey Hepburn, just to whip off a few. There were some more extended sequences and I think they were chosen wisely — a hilarious comedy hit from 1932 between Jackie Gleason and Art Carney, a knock-le cracking imitation of Sullivan by Will Jordan from 1933, a schmaltzy, but effective recital of "The Last Time I Saw Paris" by Oscar Hammerstein from a 1931 show.

What struck me forcibly about Sunday night's show was Sullivan's tremendous contribution to TV. He has been criticized for turning his show over to dog acts, acrobats and the other ricky-tick debris of show biz, but that sort of criticism fails to see Sullivan whole.

Next week, for example, Sullivan will devote his entire prime time hour to the Moiseyev dance troupe and he'll do it in a season in which NBC-TV's Steve Allen and ABC-TV's "Maverick" have been pressing him hard in the ratings.

It's an indication of Sullivan's willingness to spend big when it counts. More important, it indicates Sullivan's capacity for thinking big. TV could use more men like him, not only on the screen, but back upstairs in the programming departments.

Short shots: Sunday night's debut of the summertime "Chevy Show" on NBC-TV was a mediocre effort. Only Edie Adams came over with a fair measure of charm. CBS-TV's "What's My Line" booked in the operator of a nudist camp as a guest Sunday night in what only can be construed as a deliberate bid to touch off questions that would sound off-color.

Tonight's TV highlights: "Twenty One" (NBC-TV), Elfrida von Nardroff, a lady who may be the nation's highest paid worker, checks in for her 19th week of labor. Thus far, she has amassed $263,500 or $14,083.33 per half-hour, considerably above the minimum wage for this sort of thing. Or any other sort of thing.

"Polka-Go-Round" (ABC-TV), Premiere of one hour summer fill-in for Lawrence Welk's "Top Tunes" show. The opener of this Chicago-based offering features such goodies as "Champagne Polka," "Carousel Polka," "Hey Hey Polka" and "Lichtensteiner Polka" — in short, just about everything but strip polka.

"Studio One" (CBS-TV), "The Man Who Asked For a Funeral" with Terry Moore and Jack Klugman. Young wife plots to murder her kindly, but rather creaky husband.

"Suspicion" (NBC-TV), "Eyes for an Eye" with Ray Milland and MacDonald Carey. Kidnaping and other dirty work at the crossroads.

The Channel Swim: MGM pix now has 22 episodes of its "Northwest Passage" TV series in the can. It stars Keith Larson and Buddy Ebsen and is now tentatively definitely scheduled for a Friday night berth on NBC-TV next fall.

Arthur Murray looks set for a Thursday night show on NBC-TV next fall in the spot now held by "Music Bingo". CBS-TV's "U.S. Steel Hour" will do a drama based on the Scopes trial next Oct. 8 — Burt Lancaster and Burt Ives are being sought for the piece.

David Suskind, executive producer of "Talent Associates," will make one movie a year for four years under terms of a new agreement he has made with Columbia Pictures. Walter Pigeon has the inside track on the role of the papa in the TV series, "Father of the Bride," which won't be seen until the 1959-60 season.

MOTORCYCLE RACE
GILFORD, N.H. (UPI) — Brad Andre of San Diego, Calif., won the 100-mile national championship motorcycle race for the third time Sunday. Andre, averaging 66 miles per hour, covered the course in one hour, 45 minutes and 24.64 seconds, 30 seconds faster than runnerup Dick Mann of El Sobrante, Calif. Tommy Morris of Jacksonville, Fla., was third.

Fred Astaire, the original choice for the father, priced himself out of contention by asking for $7,000 per week.

Press And Secrecy

The ninth annual William Allen White Memorial lecture was delivered last February at the University of Kansas. Speaker on this occasion was Jenkin Lloyd Jones, editor of the Tulsa Tribune. His topic was called: "The Inexact Science of Truth-Telling."

For a very long time we have held the Tulsa Tribune in high esteem. Jenkin's father, Richard Lloyd Jones, was a fighting, two-fisted editor of the old tradition. The vigor of the Tribune and much of the vigor of Tulsa can be traced to this incorruptible and forthright word-man who believed in freedom of the press and in Americanism as he believed in God and truth.

Now we have just finished reading the young Mr. Jones' contribution to posterity by the way of the 1958 William Memorial lecture. And we only wish we could say, "Like father, like son."

The title of the lecture set our teeth on edge, but we were prepared for some profound paradoxes and a few humorous homilies. Here is what we got:

"Many of my colleagues in the newspaper business have leaped to the conclusion that all public affairs, not directly connected with national defense, must be conducted in the open. Once again we hear the ghost of Woodrow Wilson pleading for 'open covenants openly arrived at.'"

"I disagree. I think that much of the important business in a republican form of government will be carried on behind closed doors. I see few dangers in that. I see many advantages. For it is only behind closed doors, as William R. Matthews of the Arizona Star has pointed out, that most politicians—yes, even statesmen—honestly express their views and try to get at the meat of a question. As soon as the doors are open, or as soon as these gentlemen arise in a congress or a legislature, they start speaking for the gallery . . ."

"I don't mean to imply that legislative voting should not be in the open, nor that the public should be denied the right to appear before all committees, nor that any legislator should be excused from explaining why he voted the way he did. But I do mean that in every city hall, every court house, every state capital, the White House and the various Washington departments no sound policy is decided upon without frank exchange of views. And a frank exchange of views is rarely reached with the public and the press looking over the shoulders of the policy makers."

This statement, on so sober an occasion, is to us betrayal of the principles of individual sovereignty and freedom of the press. That it should be at all, is appalling. That it should be made by a member of the working press, and the editor of one of our larger dailies, is perhaps an indication of the distance we have traveled toward a demagoguery rather than a republic. If we were to adopt Mr. Jones' contention that policies must be made in private, it will not be long before we have a government, at all levels, devoted to secrecy and all of the many ills and evils such secrecy inevitably entails.

On the other hand, we could agree with Mr. Jones that secrecy is one of the things that a government does practice. We know of no government, large or small, which does not hide its actions from the public to the degree that it is capable of hiding them. But because this fact is admitted, does not mean that it is to be condoned. On the contrary, it should be the primary task of any newspaper worthy of the name, to struggle valiantly at all hours to pierce that inevitable mask of secrecy so that the people who pay all the bills can come to learn as much as possible about the schemes and stratagems of those who plan the squandering.

Mr. Jones has done this country and the press particularly a grave disservice.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOLES

Creating Better Jobs In the last issue I was quoting from a speech by Robert C. Tyson, chairman of the finance committee of United States Steel Corp., on the subject of "Recession With Inflation."

In the article he explained that after every war there is a pent-up demand that keeps employment at high level for quite a period; that this after-war demand has now gone; that this having the pent-up demands filled leaves an opportunity for leisure. Then he continues:

"The trouble with this long leisure is that in our complicated economy it takes the awful form of involuntary unemployment of a pronounced and prolonged sort. To avoid such an outcome this time is one of the most serious economic problems with which management—and, indeed, the entire citizenry—has ever been confronted. And this brings me to the changes going on in the framework of the economy."

"But first I think the problem can be narrowed down a bit and brought into still sharper focus. Thus I think all of us would agree that if old jobs have to be avoided, then there is only one answer that makes any sense at all, and that is to stimulate, or at least not hamper by law, the natural and normal creation of new self-sustaining productive jobs. If we cannot find within ourselves the wisdom and courage to establish or re-establish a political and economic framework conducive to the creation of new self-sustaining jobs, then we are self-condemned to chronic unemployment akin to that which prevailed throughout the 1930's and from which we only finally escaped when we went to war—a solution that nobody ever wants to repeat. This is a harsh statement. But time is running out too fast to be spent in dodging the unpleasant realities."

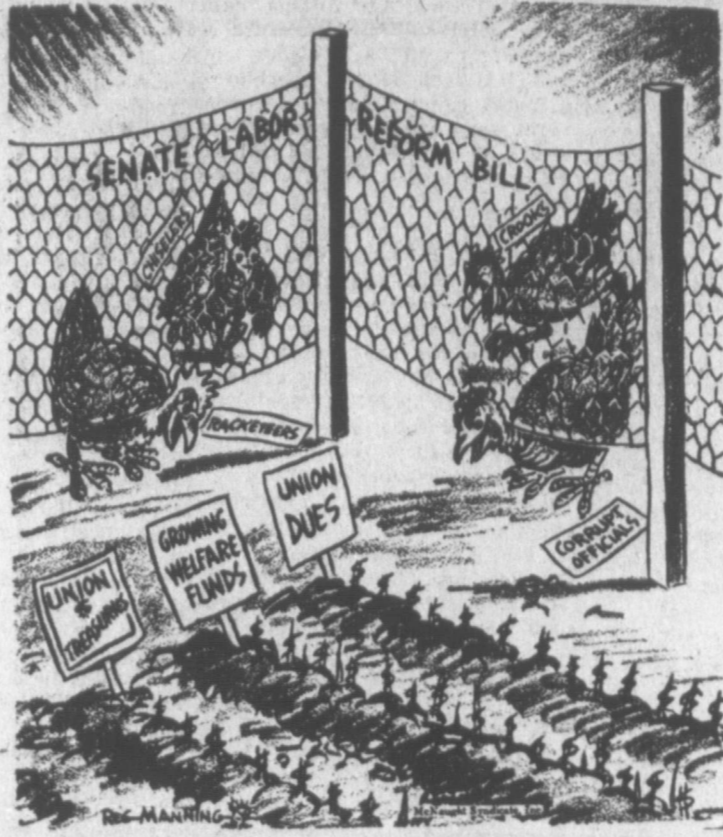

"So let us get a still sharper focus on how new jobs come into existence. Far too few people ever meditate on that fundamental matter and so I am going to issue you a challenge: Think as long and hard as you will, but a new, self-sustaining, productive job comes into existence only when someone somewhere invests savings in tools of production and thereby creates the environment in which men can go to work producing the marketable values and the investor's profit. There is no other way. And here is the central and basic truth through reference to which we may judge the effectiveness of any public or private policy in solving today's problem of recession. Will it create new jobs—or at the very least recreate old jobs as though they were new ones?"

"With these matters in mind let us now look at the trends in that often obscure but awfully important framework factor we know as taxation. I am immediately confronted by realization that most everyone is against taxes on himself, but thinks it is all right for the other fellow to pay them, especially if his income is bigger. After all, he still has enough left to live on—or else the 'he' is one of those big impersonal corporations. It is hard to get impartial consideration of matters so personal to so many, but I am nevertheless going to try to do so."

"First it would seem well to get firmly in mind a broad perspective on what has been happening to taxes over the years. Most people do not realize that in America there are over 100,000 taxing authorities. Back in the 1920's the total taxes levied by them were about $9 billion. That was about 10 per cent of the net national product; but by 1956 the taxes had increased to over $100 billion, or nearly 30 per cent of the net national product. This is an extraordinary and startling growth and it would be surprising indeed if it did not have profound influences on the American civilization. Any tax at all tends to impair people's incentives to produce or to invest savings in production; and the bigger the share of what you produce that is taken from you in taxation, the less your interest is in producing abundantly. But just as serious as the over-all trend towards enormous taxation is the fact that the taxation of income of both individuals and corporations has now come to be heavily concentrated upon the vital creation of savings that flow into job-creating investment."

"Let us look at that trend for a moment. As far as the taxation of individual income is concerned this is the story of steep progressive taxation. Those best able to risk—and often lose—venture capital in the creation of new jobs are naturally those who earn larger incomes. In the absence of fraud or coercion those of larger income receive it only as they and their property equivalently serve the community at its own competitive prices. The skilled machinist gives more and gets more than the unskilled. Since each thus gives to the community the equivalent of what he gets from it there is no moral basis for taxing the more productive at higher rates. But leaving that aside, the consequence to the creation of new jobs can be disastrous because steep progressive taxation systematically eliminates a principal source of venture capital upon which progress depends. Taxing the more skilled and the more productive at ever increasing rates undermines both their incentive and their ability to pro-

Justice Department To Get Probers' Attention

WASHINGTON — Attorney General William Rogers is the latest high Administration official to come under the scrutiny of the House influence investigating committee.

The probers are checking on what the Justice Department is doing about those sensational exposures involving the Federal Communications Commission's granting of TV licenses in Miami and Pittsburgh.

Particularly, the investigators are curious about a grand jury that was quietly convened in the Capital in March, but has done nothing so far.

Also evincing keen interest in the Justice Department's handling of this grand jury is Senator John Williams, Del., ranking republican on the powerful Finance Committee, and long-time crusader for tax reforms. As disclosed in this column last week, the Internal Revenue Service is being brought into the FCC probe.

Certain exceptional information that has reached Senator Williams and the House investigators is the reason they are eying the Justice Department and this grand jury.

Publizable details of what they have been told are as follows: In the 3-1/2 months the grand jury has been sitting, the Justice Department still has not presented the testimony of certain key witnesses. Jurors have indicated surprise at that, but without results.

Similarly, the Justice Department has failed to do anything about two jury witnesses who attempted to influence the testimony of a third witness. This incident occurred in a Washington hotel, and was fully reported to government attorneys. And that's the last heard of it.

All evidence so far submitted to the grand jury has been limited to the Miami Channel 10 and Pittsburgh Channel 4 cases. The jury has heard nothing about other instances of pressuring government agencies which the House probers have exposed.

So far, in the 3-1/2 months' existence of this grand jury, some 40 witnesses have appeared before it; a number of them several times. There has been only one reference to date to Sherman Adams.

This sole mention of The Assistant to the President was in testimony dealing with the turbulent Miami Channel 10 case. Beyond this single episode, the grand jury has heard nothing about Adams' headline activities.

As reported to the House investigators, this jury witness related the following: On March 3, FCC Commissioner Richard Mack resigned as a result of disclosures in the Miami TV case. On the evening of March 23, Adams and Representative Owen Harris (D., Ark.), head of the probers, dined together at the Congressional Country Club. Mack vide the venture capital on which new jobs depend. It self-denies to the nation the enterprise leadership of the very people who have competitively proved their capacity for it. No wonder Karl Marx advocated this kind of taxation! It is also profoundly shortsighted because as the sources of new jobs are dried up government is called upon to support the unemployed and aid many undertakings, such as agriculture, housing, shipping, stockpiling and so on. This in turn provides seeming justification for maintaining or further steepening the taxes; thus energizing a spiral into some sort of statism."

William Buckley Stirred Up The Powell Case

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

William Buckley is a tweedy, elegant study-boy, but the kid has blasted out a conspiracy within the Department of Justice to mob-bail a criminal case against Adam Clayton Powell, the colored Congressman from Harlem, who earned the Eisenhower Administration's gratitude by a sudden switch from Stevenson to Ike in the last election. Powell was in trouble at the time and the sudden repudiation of the Democratic nominee in favor of the party in power was rank politics even for Harlem. Now Buckley has forced the Department of Justice to revive the Powell case and somebody in the Department in New York or Washington could go to prison.

Buckley introduced himself to fame with a political book called "God and Man At Yale." His old man is rich and Bill casually remarked a few years ago when he was organizing his weekly magazine, National Review, that money was no problem. Nevertheless, he snatched the country and picked up a few thousand from rich red-baiters who just possibly might now get a report from the business office not written in red ink. The kid is a hornet in debate, quick and sharp in argument, repartee and the turn of a phrase, and he writes loud, strong words.

The Powell case was a sleeper. Nothing that a Federal Grand Jury had dozed off ignoring trial testimony and other evidence of kick-backs by Powell's Congressional office staff and income tax monkey-business, Buckley made the Department bring the Powell case to life.

Powell is a flannel-mouth preacher with a big church in the center of Harlem which he inherited from his father, a minister of religion with a flair for social leadership. The church, one of the biggest congregations in the country, is now largely a religious front for Powell's politics. Powell has run with the Reds and his no. 2 wife, Hazel Scott, a pianist, told the House Committee on Un-American Activities in September, 1950 that she has entertained at a rally for an avowed Communist candidate but in her own politics opposed Communism. At present, her husband says, she is in Paris whiling time away "to take advantage of the 18 months tax law."

Politically, Powell is almost anything. He hailed Paul Robeson as "a prophet of the day" and saluted the Communist Daily Worker on its 20th anniversary, but these and other manifestations have seemed more hammy and defiant than sincere. Now, thanks almost entirely to Buckley's gadfly persistence, the New York Democrats have thrown him out of their party and other Negro politicians at least are able to ignore him.

As a grand coup, after nagging away at the Powell Grand Jury, Buckley sent each of his members an article from his National Review entitled "The Wheels of Justice Stop For Adam Clayton Powell." Paul Williams, the District Attorney, indignantly hauled Bill before another grand jury under the law that forbids attempt to "influence" a grand jury. But Williams apparently did not know that one of the Powell jurors had sought an interview with Buckley and had asked him to send the editorial to all his colleagues. After Buckley left the other grand jury, having stated his position, he commented publicly that this one

The Doctor Says

By EDGAR P. JORDAN, M. D.

I became quite alarmed each year by certain similar letters from correspondents. They either ask me for a diet for diabetes or state that the writer (or some relative) knows he has the disease and wonders if he should have medical attention for it.

Diabetes, which is a disease characterized principally by an increase above normal of sugar in the blood and in elimination of sugar in the urine, is not a condition to be taken lightly. Probably the most frequent symptoms are thirst and excessive urination, but other symptoms may be present. Indeed, someone may have diabetes with all symptoms absent or unnoted.

It is certainly not safe for a victim of diabetes to go for any length of time without medical supervision. Furthermore, adding and subtracting to the diet without medical control is hazardous.

Advice rendered from a distance would also be extremely dangerous since everyone with diabetes—or any other serious disease for that matter—needs individual and not mail-order treatment.

Untreated diabetes can lead to serious complications. Persons with diabetes are more liable than others to hardening of the arteries and its complications. In the feet and legs, for example, the combination of diabetes and hardening of the arteries may lead to infection and sometimes to death of a tissue.

Persons with diabetes are likewise more susceptible to coronary thrombosis or angina pectoris, both involving the heart, than those who do not have this disease. Serious eye complications are not uncommon in patients with undiagnosed or unsatisfactorily treated diabetes. Neglect of this dis-had a right to "Hand up a presentment against the office of the U.S. Attorney for negligence in the performance of its duties." Although Buckley never had any experience as a reported, he handled this campaign with the ardor, art and emphasis of an old-style crusader. The break came when a member of the Powell grand jury told Buckley he was convinced that "Washington" had interfered and that he was thinking of renting a hotel suite and recommending the grand jury on the motion of its own membership and without consulting Williams.

Hankering

By HENRY McLEMORE

Mac, Sherman Adams Have Something In Common

To look at us, no one would think that Sherman Adams and I had anything in common.

Mr. Adams resembles a chip off Plymouth Rock, and I resemble a hip off the Graf Zeppelin.

He has free access to the White House, (or did when this was written), and I have to show a pass to get into a super-market.

He likes to take brisk, early morning walks in walking shorts, and I like to take late morning sleeps in sleeping shorts.

But there's a bond between us, nevertheless.

The bond is vicuna. It got us both into trouble.

His vicuna was spun into a lovely coat, which kept him as warm in winter as the water he is now, and mine—well, it goes back a few years.

In 1947 I made a trip around South America, and my next to last port of call was Peru. The two best buys in Peru at that time were silver and vicuna. But there was a hitch to the vicuna. The visitor could buy it all right, and buy it for much less than the $100 a yard that was asked at home.

But no one was supposed to take the vicuna out of Peru. There was a law against it, but like most tourists I looked upon smuggling more as an adventure than a crime. So, when my travels took me high into the Andes, where the vicuna frolics with its head in the clouds and its feet in the eternal snows, I started looking about for some.

The first I found was in the shape of unblocked hats. The thought of being the only man in my block with an unblocked vicuna hat caused me to purchase half a dozen or so of them. Make great presents, too, I figured.

More shopping around followed in other villages, and I wound up with six yards of the material and two blankets of the stuff. I bought it dirt cheap, and the worry of getting the vicuna out of Peru was eased by the thought of what a handsome figure I'd make in a vicuna suit, topped with a vicuna hat perched rakishly on the side of my head.

As light as it is, the amount of vicuna I had made quite a sizable bundle. Taking it out of the country in a parcel was out of the question. It was a hot day when I left Lima, but I was wearing all my vicuna. I had the blankets wrapped around me, under my shirt and trousers, and also the three yards and the hats.

The plane was late, and I came close to melting at the airport. Toward the end I was tempted to throw off my coat, bare my chest, walk up to a customs officer and say: "Arrest me! I am a walking vicuna!"

It should be emphasized again that individual management is essential. No two persons with diabetes are exactly alike in their requirements.

CRACKER BARREL

Our government has been GIVING arms to Tito in order to stop Communism. And Tito has been SELLING arms to the pro-Communists, government of Indonesia to use against ANTI-COMMUNISTS. And the American taxpayers are financing the whole process. People used to say that "fools and their money are soon parted." But in today's America we've stopped saying that, because the shoe pinches everybody. JACK MOFFITT

1 Card of Thanks
The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want.
He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: He leadeth me beside the still waters.
He restoreth my soul: He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake.
Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: For Thou art with me, and Thy staff and Thy rod they comfort me.
Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies: Thou hast multiplied my cups above wine.
Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever.

4th Carries Tragic Thing Called Death

The Texas Department of Public Health issued a reminder to Texas motorists today that the July 4th holiday is a tragic thing called highway death. In doing so the DPS predicted 28 motorcades will occur in this forthcoming three-day holiday.
The department's Operation Deathwatch covering all forms of violent deaths will be held from 12:01 a.m. July 4 through 11:59 p.m. July 6. This includes the full July 4th week-end.
In making the announcement, Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., director of the Texas Department of Public Health, said that an intense effort will be made throughout the state by enforcement officers under his command to make our highways safe for Fourth of July drivers.
"We will make every available effort to remove the dangerous driver from our highways. Patrolmen in three of this department's law enforcement services — Highway Patrol, License and Weight and Motor Vehicle Inspection — will use every available enforcement aid to apprehend the accident-prone driver.
"These Patrolmen would appreciate your help during this high accident period. We ask that you drive safely; don't drive too fast or too long, and follow our traffic laws to the letter. Your help in driving correctly and safely will be the best deterrent to traffic accidents."
The prediction to 28 motorcades for the three-day period came from N. K. Woerner, DPS statistician, who originated the idea of estimating the state's holiday death toll in 1950. The veteran statistician, who very closely predicts holiday motorcades, said the 11 time high for a three-day July 4th was in 1954 when 33 persons were killed in 28 fatal accidents. Twenty-eight were killed in a similar three-day period in 1953, and 29 died during the three-day July 4th holiday of 1952.
The Operation Deathwatch to be held by the DPS includes a count of all violent deaths in Texas during the predicted period. No estimate was made of homicides, suicides and accidental non-traffic deaths. The predicted 28 covers only those killed in traffic accidents.
Garrison urged Texans to do their celebrating in a sensible manner. Deaths, he said, caused by drownings, food poisoning and accidental shootings will not occur if precautionary measures are taken in advance of the tragedies.
During the one-day July 4th holiday during 1957 eight accidental deaths occurred, two homicides and suicides were recorded, and 15 persons became traffic fatalities.

Conference Only Cyprus Solution?

Foreign News Commentary
By CHARLES M. MCCANN
UPI Foreign News Analyst

A British-Greek-Turkish conference seems to offer the sole hope of settling the increasingly dangerous dispute over Cyprus.

Great Britain has announced a long-considered plan for the administration of the eastern Mediterranean island for the next seven years.

What would happen after that is left for the future.

Under the plan, the Greek and Turkish islanders would be given a great measure of home rule as separate communities.

The Greek and Turkish governments would be taken into full partnership in carrying out the plan.

The plan as it stands now seemed doomed even before British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan announced it.

Both Greece and Turkey, which had been informed of its provisions, had said it was unsatisfactory.

and between the Greek and Turkish islanders, has been getting more and more angry.

About 15 Greek islanders have been killed in Turkish Cypriot riots.

Renewed Violence

The Greek underground organization, EOKA, has resumed violence, after a long truce, against Greek islanders who are not sufficiently cooperative in the union-with-Greece campaign.

Greece has withdrawn its military mission from the southeastern headquarters of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization at Ismir, Turkey.

There has even been talk of war between Greece and Turkey, for there is every reason to believe that Turkey would go to war rather than let Greece get the island.

Britain has announced it will try to carry out its plan alone if Greece and Turkey refuse to cooperate. How that would be possible, it is hard to figure.

John Wayne Plays Diplomat In 'Barbarian And Geisha'

Written for UPI

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Here and there I seem to have detected a startled lift of the eyebrow of persons learning that in my most recent picture, "The Barbarian and the Geisha," I portray a diplomat.

The role is that of Townsend Harris, U.S. Consul General to Japan almost exactly 100 years ago and the first Western diplomatic representative to an empire which had isolated itself from foreigners for over 200 years.

Moreover, I play this role in knee breeches—part of the time, anyway—and with the diction and manners of diplomacy.

While it is true that the movie audience is used to seeing me perform in terms of action with a six-shooter in my hand or a light machine gun tucked under my arm, my style, is, I hope, subject to some variation. For director Robert Beahm, on the zoo's new Vicuña:

"We bought it from the San Diego, Calif., zoo last February. Our vicuña is healthy, male and very stylish."

NEW YORK—Attorney Henry G. Singer, counsel for Teamsters boss James R. Hoffa, on the government's prosecution of Hoffa's wiretap conspiracy trial:

"The government is relying on the old shell game—let's give him a fair trial before we hang him."

ALBANY, Ga.—Negro educator Crennon King, in vowing to return to Mississippi where he was barred for enrolling in the state's integrated university:

"I would feel like a pretty poor class of American if there is a part of America that I can't return to."

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—Jesse Presley, 62, grandfather of Elvis Presley on his contract to record an album of songs he learned as a Mississippi cotton picker in his youth:

"I don't want to ride in on Elvis, I want to make it on my own."

spite the fact that I normally perform rather physically, I consider my roles principally reactions to situations.

Acts Naturally

I know my style and try to react naturally to whatever predicament the script writer puts me into. I've made no attempt to develop any tricks.

I agreed to do this picture for 20th Century-Fox before there was a script. I knew from reading about Townsend Harris' life that the story would have to be told in terms of Harris' reactions to the people and customs of the forbidden empire of Japan.

I have the feeling that this highly mannered acting which has been so popular recently is on its way out.

When it was new and had only one or two practitioners, it was something different and interesting and, most people thought, good. But now, about every other actor on TV is scratching himself as he tells the girl he loves her and there are also quite a few of them doing it in pictures.

Straight Scenes Are Hardest

The technique no longer is unusual and it tends to standardize the actors' own personalities. I think they're drifting back to the old thing of trying to hold an audience in straight scenes. This is the most difficult thing an actor has to do, anyway.

We have a couple of sequences in "The Barbarian and the Geisha" in which I react violently in what people have come to consider as my style. But in this picture mostly my response is passive while the action is carried by the exotic and rather violent Japanese.

This happens to be true to history. Townsend Harris did not shoot his way into Japan. He was a patient man and a stubborn one, who slowly and passively made his views prevail.

Admiral Rickover On Public Schools

EDITOR'S NOTE: Rear Adm. H. G. Rickover, developer of the atomic submarine and "father of the atomic Navy," is one of the nation's leading nuclear scientists. He is also an articulate critic of the U. S. educational system. In the following interview with UPI reporter Louis Cassels, he tells why he is disturbed about the state of America's schools, and what he thinks should be done to improve them.

By United Press International

Q. Adm. Rickover, you are known as a scientist rather than an educator. What caused you to become concerned about our schools?

A. In my constant search for competent people to work in the nuclear power program, I was driven to the conclusion that something is radically wrong with our educational system.

Q. You mean that our colleges and universities aren't turning out enough qualified scientists and engineers?

A. It's not primarily the fault of the colleges and universities. With some exceptions, the specialized professional education which they offer is pretty good. But they are severely handicapped by the weakness of our public elementary and high schools.

Q. The public schools are sending the colleges students who aren't ready for higher education?

A. Exactly. Time wasted in public schools has to be made up in college. Instead of concentrating on professional studies, many students have to devote much of their college time to remedial courses in English or mathematics, or humanities courses to patch up the gaps in their professional schooling.

Q. Is this a blanket indictment of public schools?

A. No. We have some good school systems. But we have many more poor ones.

Q. What is basically wrong with the poor ones?

The student thus receives neither intellectual training nor the factual knowledge which will help him to understand the world he lives in. He is instead handed a bag of "know-how tricks." He is helped to become a pleasant, nicely-mannered young person, able to get along with whatever groups he joins.

Q. You don't think the public schools should be teaching good manners and social adjustment?

A. No. I think we should turn back to the home what is properly the function of the home, and permit the public schools to concentrate on what is properly their function — the education of young minds.

Q. Should high schools offer different kinds of training to children who are going on to college, and those who will go to work or get married after getting their high school diplomas?

A. Yes, but this doesn't mean that basic academic studies are unimportant for the non-college group. For all children, the educational process must be one of just" to life, rather than to impart knowledge to them. It has had a most pernicious influence on school curricula.

Q. How, specifically?

A. Well, it has led to elimination of many academic subjects on the ground that they would not be "useful" in life, and to substitution of trivial, recreational and vocational subjects alleged to be of more practical value. It has prompted a futile attempt to make learning "fun" and to dispense with studies that can be absorbed only by plain hard work.

A. Yes, but this doesn't mean that basic academic studies are unimportant for the non-college group. For all children, the educational process must be one of collecting factual knowledge to the limit of their absorptive capacity.

Twelve years of public school should provide, for the average and below average student, a sufficiently broad terminal education to fit him into a modern technological society. For the talented student, it must provide a solid underpinning for subsequent professional education. Neither of these two objectives is now being achieved in the majority of American public school systems.

"We've been pushed around long enough. Now we have declared our policy and the important thing is that we should have the guts and the will to go through with it."

There are many points of interest in today's hand as played by Sol Mogol of New York. In the first place, North really bid his head off and Mr. Mogol was sorely tempted to big the grand slam.

Then West got off to the one tough lead: the six of trumps.

Sol won in dummy and promptly played the ace of hearts. He saw the hand was a cinch if hearts broke 4-2 or better. Otherwise, he wanted to get one quick diamond discard from his own hand.

His next play was the three of hearts and when East showed out, Sol saw that he would need a great deal of luck to make the hand against the heart break. However, he had managed to get one diamond discard on the ace of hearts and that discard turned out to be enough.

He cashed the ace and king of clubs and discarded dummy's singleton diamond. West dropped in his own hand. Then Sol ruffed his eight of diamonds with dummy's queen, led dummy's last trump to get back to his own hand, pulled East's last trump and made his last two clubs. He lost the king of diamonds, at the end but did not care.

Plan Rejected

Now Greece has formally rejected it.

Turkey, too, has rejected the plan as it stands. But its rejection was qualified.

Greece is holding out for the island's "self-determination," knowing that the 400,000 Greek Cypriot islanders would vote for union with Greece.

Turkey, which for a long time was contented with British rule over Cyprus, now says it must be partitioned between the Greeks and the 100,000 Turkish Cypriotes.

Britain has long been trying to arrange a formal conference with Greece and Turkey over the island's future.

Turkey, too, would like such a conference. Greece, however, has rejected the idea that Turkey should have any voice in the dispute.

Feeling in Greece and Turkey.
