'Abominable Snowman' Relative? Strange Creature Killed In Nepal

By M. M. GUPTA
United Press International
KATMANDU, Nepal (UPI)—A strange creature with a bear-like face and human feet—believed to be a close relative of the "Abominable Snowman"—was tracked down and killed by hunters in a rugged 14,000-foot altitude mountain pass in northwestern Nepal, it was reported Saturday.

There was speculation that the beast possibly was the fabulous and elusive Yeti—or "Snowman"—itself.

The Raja of Mustang, whose riflemen slew the creature, is sending the skull and hide to Katmandu for examination by scientists, according to the reports.

The man-beast was described as about 4½ feet tall and incredibly strong. It was said to have run nearly a mile on its two hind legs carrying a Yak the size of a full-grown steer in its arms.

The creature was spotted about three months ago when it seized one of the Raja's Yaks and carried it off. The Raja sent a squad of riflemen in pursuit in the area near the border of northwestern Nepal and Tibet.

The Nepalese hunter who led the party said they followed "what looked like a human footprint" into a craggy pass walled in by 50-foot boulders.

"The animal was cornered with its prey," the hunter said. "We tried to crush it by throwing down boulders but we only injured him. He made a strange, whistling sound when hurt. He tried to get away but we finally shot it down."

The hunter said he was shocked when he got his first real close look at the beast.

"It's face was like a bear's. But its feet were human. The creature also was covered with long, fine hair, less coarse than a bear's," he said.

Nepalese mountaineers said they had never seen anything like the beast before. They were definite that while it looked like a bear, it was some other kind of a beast.

Red China Frees Two US Priests

HONG KONG (UP)—Communist China Saturday freed two American Roman Catholic priests who served out five-year terms in Red prisons on spy and sabotage charges.

Released were fathers Joseph P. McCormick, a Maryknoll priest from Ossining, N.Y., and Cyril Wagner, a Franciscan priest from Pittsburgh, Pa.

Both told the United Press International Hong Kong bureau by telephone from Shanghai that they were in good health and "feel great." They said they would leave Shanghai by ship for Hong Kong next Friday.

The release of fathers McCormick and Wagner left four Americans still in Red Chinese prisons. Two are serving life sentences, one a 20-year term and the other a 15-year term. All are civilians.

FATHERS DAY AT THE JONESES'

It's Fathers Day at the Jones house, 1701 S. Banks, and papa Wayne Jones is enjoying it "to the hilt." He is holding the littiest Jones here, two-year-old Pam. Mrs. Jones, meanwhile, is busily preparing the family's meal on the portable barbecue. The scene is a typical one, expected to be duplicated all over the Top o' Texas today after church. Cabot Employee Committees Are Ruled Legal By Court

Cabot Southwestern Division has received a favorable ruling in its dispute with the National Labor Relations Board over employee committees.

The ruling was handed down last week by the United States

Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit, New Orleans, La.

The National Labor Relations Board (NLRB), in April, 1956, charged that Cabot Employee Committees in the Southwestern Division were illegal, in fact company-dominated labor organizations.

After months of hearings, the NLRB ordered Cabot to not recognize the employee committees or the central committee, made up of one representative from the employee committees in each department, and to completely disestablish the committees.

In Area Fields

Combines Needed; Spraying Is Slated

Every combine available is cutting wheat in Gray County at the present time, according to County Agent Ralph Thomas. Some 200 are on the job and area farmers would like to see 200 more, Thomas said.

The County Agent said he expects Top o' Texas wheat fields to yield a million and a half bushels this year.

The wheat harvest in the immediate Pampa vicinity began around Tuesday and Wednesday of last week. Barley was up for harvest the week before.

Although there has been a possibility of some wheat rust in this area, Thomas said, weather conditions have remained favorable and the wheat is now ripening faster than expected.

Meanwhile, over 13,000 acres of ranch and pasture land in Gray County will get a full dose of grasshopper killer when spray planes on a government contract cover the acreage that the County's Grasshopper Control Committee has signed up.

In San Antonio Monday, the Plant Pest Control Division of the U.S. Department of Agriculture will contract for spray planes to work in Gray, Roberts and other Top o' Texas counties.

Farmers signing up with the Grasshopper Control Committee, headed by Charlie Webb, will pay one-third of the estimated 60 cents per acre cost.

The Roberts County Committee has 135,000 acres on the books for spraying.

De Gaulle Meets With Soustelle

By ARTHUR L. HIGBEE
United Press International
PARIS (UPI)—Gen. Charles de Gaulle met for 20 minutes Saturday with Jacques Soustelle, the firebrand political "brains" of the Algerian revolutionary movement which catapulted De Gaulle back into power.

Soustelle appeared very much at ease when he left the official residence of the Premier. He said he had not been given any government post, although he is always available.

It seemed apparent, however, that he also had not received a reprimand, which some political sources said was the purpose of the meeting.

A former governor general of Algeria, Soustelle had drawn more cheers in some instances than De Gaulle himself during the New France's peace mission to the huge northwest African province last week.

Since then, De Gaulle has cracked down on the Algerian committees of public safety for what amounted to a challenge of his authority. De Gaulle sharply rebuked the All-Algeria committee for sending him a virtual ultimatum demanding the dissolution of all French political parties.

Even the extremist elements among the French in Algeria now appeared to be leaning over backwards to avoid any breach with De Gaulle. The insurgent leaders gave full approval to De Gaulle's broadcast Friday night in which he pledged to "pacify" Algeria while keeping it "body and soul with France."

There were indications that the public safety movements were falling in line behind De Gaulle—publicly, at least—and that extremists known to be disillusioned with his announced policies have decided to keep quiet.

Members of the committee, which have from one to three members, who are elected by employees, formerly met with company representatives every 30 days. The central committee, made up of one member of each committee, elected by employees, met with management in the Pampa office once each year.

The committee meetings are no longer held each 30 days but only as called at the individual plants. The yearly central committee meeting is still in effect.

Cabot officials feel the meetings provide an avenue of communication between the employees and itself other than through the line of authority.

In April of 1956, the NLRB, not to be confused with the War Production Board, made its charge that the committees were illegal, leading to Cabot's appeal to the

Gov. Daniel To Inspect Infested Area

AUSTIN (UPI)—Gov. Price Daniel announced Saturday he will fly Monday to the northern Panhandle for a personal inspection of the grasshopper-infested area.

The governor will be accompanied by Lynwood Rhodes of the Civil Defense and Disaster Relief office. They will fly Monday morning to Dumas for conferences with local officials, farmers and ranchers and make an on the scene inspection of damage.

"I am deeply concerned over reports that at least 26 counties in the northwestern part of the state are heavily infested with migratory grasshoppers," Daniel said.

"I am going into the area Monday to personally inspect the damage that has been done thus far and to insure that every possible source of state assistance in this situation is provided," the governor added.

Daniel said he had been advised that serious damage is being done to cotton, barley, wheat and rangeland by an infestation of up to 600 grasshoppers per square yard in the worst-hit counties.

The governor said he has been in contact with state and federal agriculture and Civil Defense officials and the office of Sen. Lynn Johnson concerning relief measures.

'Lovesick Airman' Found At Home

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI)—Lovesick Airman 3-C Donald Keeton, who flew a plane on a "suicide flight" across two states and part of a third with jet fighters, a bomber and a helicopter in hot pursuit, knocked on his mother's door Saturday and said, "Hello, I'm here."

Police, who had shared a general belief that Keeton, 19, actually had killed himself because Doris Lynn Bowling wouldn't marry him, arrested him a few minutes later.

"It was just a ruse," he said. "I never had the slightest intention of killing myself."

Doris Lynn was relieved but not impressed.

"I love him but not enough to marry him," she said. "It's still that way."

"Love covers a wide range. You can love someone and not be in love with him."

The police handed him over to military authorities. They took him to Hensley Field, near Dallas, for questioning and breakfast and later transferred him under guard to Carswell Air Force Base at Fort Worth.

An officer said he will be returned to Keesler Air Force Base at Gulfport, Miss., to explain his prank to his company commander.

Capl. Charles Neff, Keeton's commanding officer, said at Keesler AFB that the only charge against Keeton is being absent without leave (AWOL).

He expected that when Keeton is returned—probably Monday—he will be brought before a summary court martial (one officer). The maximum punishment for being AWOL is 90 days in the stockade and reduction in rank.

It was understood that no civilian charges were pending against him because he legally rented the plane.

Keeton rented a black and yellow Cessna 120 plane at Gulfport Thursday morning, after saying he was going to die anyway for his lost love and "might as well die in a plane."

He managed to elude three F100 jet interceptors, a B25 bomber and a helicopter that chased him across Louisiana and landed, undetected, and almost out of gas on a remote airstrip between Tyler and Longview, Tex., late Thursday.

Keeton said he spent Thursday night and part of Friday in the (See AIRMAN, Page 3)

White House Sticks By Ike's Aide

By RUTHERFORD POATS
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The White House stuck by Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams Saturday, but two Republican senators seeking re-election this fall said he may have become a political liability.

Adams himself evaded news-men, leaving unanswered newspaper reports that he accepted a $2,400 oriental rug and a $700 vicuna wool coat from millionaire New England textile manufacturer Bernard Goldfine.

Democrats added to the political furor. With an eye to this fall's elections, some likened the Adams-Goldfine relationship to the deep freeze-mink coat "mess in Washington" which the Republicans made a major issue in 1952.

Staff members of the congressional subcommittee that stirred up the tempest promised more charges of alleged influence-seeking by Adams' friend when hearings on the case open Monday.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty gave a curt "no comment" to a suggestion by Sen. Charles F. Potter (Mich.), a member of the Senate Republican policy committee, that Adams (See IKE'S, Page 3)

Residence Of The President Attacked

By LARRY COLLINS
United Press International
BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI)—Rebel troops, allegedly organized by the Syrian army, attacked the residences of the Lebanese president and prime minister Saturday with bazookas, mortars and machine-guns.

The rebels also launched a series of other attacks that turned Beirut into a battlefield under the noses of United Nations observers.

There were no reports of casualties in the government mansions but fighting throughout the city was described as bloody.

It was the fiercest fighting of the 26-day-old rebel effort to topple the pro-Western regime of President Camille Chamoun and Prime Minister Sami Es-Solh. Other battles were reported raging in the northern port city of Tripoli and in the central Shouf Mountains. It appeared that scattered rebel outposts were developing into all-out civil war.

Government sources charged Syrian army units had sneaked into Beirut itself and had organized the rebels into a disciplined force. This was no mere rioting.

At least five battles raged in Beirut. The presidential and prime minister's palaces were damaged by automatic weapons and shells while Chamoun and Es-Solh were meeting with the cabinet.

Other rebels attacked and destroyed a Coca Cola plant in the Tereke Jeddih Moslem sector of the city. Still others attacked the Central Prison and were repulsed by army troops in vicious fighting.

Yet another battle raged in the Beirut Moslem quarter where "several hundred" Syrian troops were alleged to be holed up.

The army used only small arms fire against the rebels. It did not use mortar or artillery for fear of causing civilian casualties.

There was one report that the army had been ordered to use artillery on the home of rebel leader Saeb Salem, a heavily sand-bagged and fortified house in Beirut.

The rebels were well-armed and were using standard street fighting tactics. They fired from closed houses or barricades which the army's rifles and other small arms failed to penetrate.

The rebels struck as U.N. observers were being installed in Beirut as a result of Security Council action in New York last Wednesday, and the observers could see the fighting for themselves.

Lebanon has accused Syria and Egypt, now the United Arab Republic, of "massive interference" in Lebanese affairs.

Phillips Strike Is Over

Members of Local 351, International Union of Operating Engineers (AFL-CIO), voted 1177 to 422 in Borger yesterday in favor of a company proposal issued Friday, thus ending the month-old strike against Phillips.

The strikers are expected back at work Monday except for 33 who will be "processed according to law."

This was covered in the secret balloting yesterday that ended at 10 p.m. With the votes counted, the company released the information that their proposal covered "contractual issues" relating to "conditions of employment."

The strike began May 15 when the union voted against an extension of the contract then in effect.

The strike involved around 35 workers in the Pampa area.

Court Rules On Candidate Requirements

AUSTIN (UPI)—The State Supreme Court Saturday ruled that a candidate for a judge of the Court of Criminal Appeals must have been a licensed lawyer for 10 years, automatically barring District Judge Graham Purcell from the Democratic primary ballot.

Water Safety And Recreation Programs To Start Monday

The Red Cross water safety and summer recreation program will go into full swing at 9 a.m. Monday, announces Clifton McNeely, Pampa program coordinator.

Locations for the water safety program will be the City pool and Marcus Sanders Pool. Summer recreation spots will be Baker and Carver Schools. Beginning June 30, however, summer recreation will move from Baker to the Harvester Field House for the remaining four weeks of the program.

The entire program, water safety and recreation, is divided into three two week sessions. McNeely explains that the children who start summer recreation tomorrow will take up water safety instruction in two weeks while those who enter water safety will go into recreation when their two weeks are up.

Although registration has closed for the water safety phase, children can still qualify for summer recreation by appearing at Baker tomorrow with their 11 fee.

The recreation program will feature arts and crafts work and playground activities Monday through Friday from 9 to 11 a.m. and a free swim period from 11 a.m. until noon.

Water safety instructors will hold classes Monday through Friday from 9 to 10 and 10 to 11 a.m.

Pampans will have courses geared to their age and ability to swim. Beginners, adult beginners, intermediates and adult intermediates will have classes in each two week school.

There will be two classes in each category every morning; the first will begin at 9 a.m. At 11 a new group of four classes will begin.

Red Cross Secretary Libby Shotwell advises pupils to bring their admittance cards to the City Pool shortly before 9 a.m. so they may be checked in. Parents need only bring their children to the City Pool and pick them up in an hour.

Mrs. Shotwell recommends Roy Watts will be head man at Marcus Sanders Pool. The entire program in this pool will have a run of two weeks. W. B. Moore will be in charge of boys' and girls' playground groups on the recreation program in Carver School.

In Baker and the field house, Mrs. Truitt Ross will lead arts and crafts work. Mrs. McNeely will (See SAFETY, Page 3)

'I Wanted To See My Girl Friend Very Badly'

Editor's Note—Airman 3-C Donald Keeton, who eluded jet planes, a bomber and a helicopter in a fight across Mississippi, Louisiana and part of Texas to see the girl who refused to marry him, is under military guard. But in this United Press International dispatch he tells how he planned his "suicide flight" and managed to get to Texas.

By Airman 3-C Donald Keeton
As told to the UPI
DALLAS (UPI)—I wanted to see my girl friend, Doris Lynn Bowling, very badly but I knew I could not get leave from my duties at Keesler Air Force Base. I began planning about five days before I took off from Gulfport last Thursday.

The first thing I realized was that I would not be able to make it by automobile, so I planned an air flight. I knew there would be airplanes after me but I didn't think they would take a shot at me—but later on I kind of worried about this.

"I knew about this emergency landing field about 17 miles north of Tyler and realized it would be an ideal place to land without attracting attention.

The day before leaving I spent about two hours making out my flight plans and then left a note behind in the barracks saying as long as I'm going to die I might as well die in an airplane.

The note was the diversionary tactics. I figured it would throw authorities off my trail. The take-off from Gulfport was almost routine except that the control tower gave me a green light while several jet airplanes waited.

Landed at Alexandria
I headed the plane toward Baton Rouge, La., and then turned up toward Alexandria. One of my wing gasoline tanks was exhausted so I landed at the Alexandria airport to try to get more fuel.

I spent about 14 minutes on the ground there while an attendant told me that he had no fuel. It was an abandoned Army field and a gas truck made intermittent stops there.

No one tried to stop me but I knew I had to get toward Tyler before it got too late.

Then the run started. As I left Alexandria, three jets came down and started chasing me. I dropped down to zero altitude and two of them abandoned the chase, apparently out of gas.

However, one of them—he must have been a darn good pilot—stayed on my tail. To elude him, I had to drop down to about one foot over the Red River and then make a sharp bank into some low clouds. I lost him on that maneuver. This was the most exciting part of the whole flight.

Later on as I approached Barksdale Field (at Shreveport, La.) a helicopter got onto my tail. Once again I made a sharp bank and turned into a cloud and I never saw him again.

All this time my radio was receiving intermittently. I got a few weather reports and could hear various airports radiating my position.

Flew Close to Ground
From that point on I had to fly close. From Shreveport to Tyler I flew at zero altitude, jumping over trees and small hills.

Business, Farm Income Prospects Up

By BERNARD BRENNER
United Press International
"Recession? I don't believe this locally even noticed it."
This was J. M. Concannon, a wheat farmer, talking as he leaned against the machine he was using to work the soil of a fallow field near the wheat belt town of Garden City, Kan.
"We don't know what recession is this year," agreed Arend Balster across a cluttered desk in his farm supply store at Scotch Grove, Iowa.
This reporter talked to dozens of men like Concannon and Balster in a nine-day, four-state tour to sample the economic and political climate of the farm belt. The findings may be summarized as follows:
—Business and farm income prospects were generally up in the Kansas wheat and cattle sections and in the Iowa hog and cattle feeding areas, typical of many other high-producing corn belt areas.
—Grumbling about Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson was fading in some of these areas under the impact of a bumper wheat crop and good livestock prices.
—But not all farmers were sharing in the improvement.
Cash grain growers in Iowa were "crying the blues as hard as ever," one merchant reported. Farmers complain about cut prices in the Southeastern Minnesota dairyland were complaining about a recent cut in their price supports.
In the Rio Grande Valley of Texas, despite prospects for an excellent cotton yield, farmers were worried about a Labor Department regulation which they said will raise the cost of harvesting the crop.
The Agriculture Department in Washington reported recently that farmers' receipts from marketing nationwide in the first four months of 1958 were 8 per cent above the same period in 1957. The improvement, department economists said, was due largely to reduced supplies of some major farm products including livestock and vegetables.
To get the picture first-hand, this reporter went to typical farming areas of Western Kansas, Central and Eastern Iowa, and Southeastern Minnesota. He also visited the Rio Grande Valley of Texas, which grows the nation's earliest-maturing cotton.
He talked to farmers in their barnyards and along the fences of their fields and feedlots; to merchants, country bankers and local politicians in the county seat towns.
It was notable that the pickup in some areas had eased farmer resentment against Benson's policies in some Midwest areas where anti-Benson feeling had become an important political factor, politicians reported. But all predictions about the future were hinged on continued strength in farm prices.
Wheat Crop Matures
"People vote their pocketbooks," said Dale E. Saffels, a Garden City, Kan., attorney and Democratic member of the state legislature. Saffels said there is "still a lot of anti-Benson sentiment" in Kansas' wheat-heavy 5th congressional district which elected a Democratic congressman in 1956 after more than 30 Republican years. But the grumbling has been shrinking as a record-breaking breaking wheat crop matures, he agreed, and the size of the anti-administration farm "protest" vote will probably be down this fall.
"When prices are down, farmers and people in our small towns vote for the out," said James Bradley, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, attorney and Democratic chairman for Linn County.
"It's not so much the farmers—we're getting about half of them vote for the out," said James Bradley, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, attorney and Democratic chairman for Linn County.
Clarence Blanchard, Fire Prevention Bureau chief, said his tests proved the lotion to be 75-80 per cent alcohol and "highly flammable."
He said he has ordered three large drug store chains in the city to stop selling Bronzetan, manufactured by Shulton Inc., of Clifton, N.J., and Toronto, Canada, until the product is properly labelled.
Blanchard said the label doesn't indicate the volatile flammability of the product.
At nearby Clarence, Iowa, hog farmer Elmer Meyer climbed off his tractor to observe that the vote in Iowa's recent primary was light in Cedar County.
"That's a good indication that times are good, and it will likely be a good Republican year," Meyer predicted.

Wheatheart Group Will Have Naming Of Miss Perryton

(Special To The News)
PERRYTON — Plans have been made by the Wheatheart committee to select Miss Perryton on Friday, August 15, at a special program at the Perryton swimming pool.
Tentative arrangements call for the Wheatheart of the Nation to be picked a week later, Saturday, August 23 in the school auditorium.
Rules for entering the Miss Perryton contest remain the same as in previous years. The only requirement is that the contestant be single and sponsored by some club or business firm.
Prizes in the contest are tentatively set at $50 for the first place winner, $25 for the second place and $10 for third place.
The young lady selected as Miss Perryton and her runner-up will automatically qualify for the Wheatheart competition.
Arrangements are being made by the committee to select some outstanding talent for the Wheatheart program and a letter, has been written to Radio Corporation of America regarding prices and availability of a number of popular recording stars.
Four cities are currently under consideration to play host to the 1958 Wheatheart, including New York City, Mexico City, Toronto and Winnipeg. Last years winner was guest of the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto.
Holder of the 1957 Miss Perryton title is Miss Maureen Pearson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. D. B. Pearson Jr.; Miss Carol Dixon of Shattuck, Okla., was the winner of the Wheatheart title and the trip to Canada.
Chairman of the contest committee is Mrs. J. B. Whigham, Jr., with Dick Haar in charge of physical arrangements, assisted by Mrs. Clair Brillhart in charge of props, Miss Moira Caldwell is director of publicity and John Farnsworth is responsible for entries.

Stocks Rallied At Last Week's End

By ELMER C. WALZER
UPI Financial Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks rested for a few seasons and then rallied to close the week in a burst of strength that left the list in new high ground for 1958.
Because of the earlier dips, the averages showed only moderate gains and the utility figure showed a decline. Industrials closed at 474.7 in the Dow-Jones average up 5.17 points; rails 19.21 up 1.94; utility 78.70 off 0.8 and 65 stocks 164.15 up 1.53 points.
Industrials were at their best level since last Sept. 19 and rails since Oct. 15. The Standard & Poor 50-stock average set a new high for the year and its gain of 38 cents reflected a rise of $1,800,000 for the market as a whole.
This week's last minute spurt reflected a genuine spurt in industry which carried the Standard & Poor's index of production to a new high since January 11th. All major lines showed gains on the week—steel, car loadings, auto output, electricity output, heavy construction, coal output, and oil output.
Momentum Still Forward
And the Federal Reserve late Friday reported that in the month of May its index of industrial production gained a full point, its first rise after eight months of decline.
Wall Street viewed the setback early in the week as nothing more than a technical adjustment for the market. The experts held that the market's momentum was still forward and that further gains might be expected.
However, not a few warned that a point would be reached in the not-distant future where the market might decline and lack news of sufficient market interest to bring it back.
Some of the market men held that the list could well carry on for some time and thus produce its traditional summer rally true to schedule despite the fact it has been rising for a long time.
Leadership on Friday was considered excellent. The bluebloods like Du Pont, Eastman Kodak and American Can moved ahead. The volume centered on tobacco and special issues with a few pills thrown in.
Sales for the week slipped to a daily average of 2,641,076 shares from the previous week's 2,705,926 shares. The Friday session brought out more than 3,000,000 shares.

Senate Works On Labor Union Bill

By WARREN DUFFEE
 United Press International
 WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate worked on a labor union reform bill on an overtime basis Saturday and held the line against efforts to tack on amendments advocated by the Eisenhower administration.

The legislative tug-of-war got underway at 9 a.m. c.d.t. with the Senate forced to meet in an unusual Saturday session. At the beginning of the day there was a stack of 40 amendments pending. The measure is aimed at correcting labor union abuses.

A pattern of defeat for the administration was set on the first amendment offered. A move by Sen. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.) to deny services of the National Labor Relations Board to unions which fail to comply with the legislation was rejected 83 to 50.

Ten Republicans joined 43 Democrats to rebuff the administration proposal.

Shortly after this, Smith announced he would not seek a showdown on other controversial amendments he had prepared.

This included an administration-backed proposal to regulate picketing in plant unionization disputes.

In general, the measure, co-sponsored by Sens. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) and Irving Hays (R-N.Y.), would require unions to submit a financial accounting to the government and to hold secret ballot elections.

The bill has been described as a "middle-of-the-road" approach and is being supported by a coalition of Democrats and Republicans. However, Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell spelled out 20 amendments he declares are essential.

The Senate spiked two of them in a late Friday night session and continued to discard others Saturday.

The Democratic leadership had summoned the Senate into the early Saturday session in hopes passage of the bill could be achieved during the day. But it took the chamber three hours to reach its first vote.

Ex-Convict Tells Of Plans To Kidnap Mrs. Bing Crosby

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Ex-convict Wilburn Davison admitted Saturday he considered kidnaping Mrs. Bing Crosby, 24, because her millionaire husband is "old, she's young, he's got plenty of money and wouldn't miss $100,000."

Davison, 48, a three-time loser in several states, made the admission at a news conference in Los Angeles County jail. He said he and his "partner" wanted the ransom money to go into a "legitimate business."

"It never got beyond the talking stage," said Davison, a tall, slim man who wears horn-rimmed glasses and is termed "dangerous" by law officers. "The idea was dropped when I read in a magazine that she was pregnant."

"I thought of Crosby because he's old, she's young, he's got plenty of money and wouldn't miss $100,000. I also thought about kidnaping that guy who gave all the furs to those movie gals."

Reporters at the conference agreed the soft-spoken former Oklahoman was referring to Lt. Gen. Raphael Trujillo Jr., the Dominican Republic's giver of expensive presents to stars like Zsa Zsa Gabor and Kim Novak.

Mrs. Crosby Unperturbed

Mrs. Crosby was in Reno, Nev., and seemed unperturbed by disclosure of the plot.

Regarding his "legitimate business" statement, Davison said, "we had talked about a restaurant but hadn't come up with anything tangible yet."

Davison, held here on his admission of 11 robberies in the Los Angeles area, said he and his "partner" planned to kidnap the former Kathy Grant, hold her and

US Sends Emissary To East Germany

By JOSEPH B. FLEMING
 United Press International
 BERLIN (UPI) — The United States Saturday sent an emissary to Communist East Germany for the first time to negotiate for the release of nine "kidnaped" American airmen. But the German Reds flatly refused to deal with him.

The Communists demanded that American negotiators must have formal "authorization" from the State Department. The demand bore out Western belief the Reds were holding the airmen as hostages in an attempt to force U.S. recognition.

The American action broke a decade of precedent. It was forced by the Soviet refusal to live up to four-power agreements and secure the release of the airmen captured when their helicopter strayed across the Iron Curtain last Saturday.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said Tuesday the United States would deal with the East

(Germans as one must with "kidnapers" but that it would not imply recognition of the puppet Communist regime.

The Soviets—for the third time in a week—Saturday disclaimed any responsibility for the release of the airmen. The rejections were made in replies to two notes from the U.S. State Department and a verbal appeal from Gen. M. K. Hodes, American commander in Europe.

The United States and its Allies have refused to recognize the East German puppet government since its formation. But, in view of the Soviet position, it had no other choice but to deal with the Reds.

Hodes sent Col. Robert P. McQuill, of Bluefield, W. Va., to the East German government in East Berlin. McQuill is chief of the U.S. liaison mission to the Soviet armed forces at Potsdam.

Deputy Foreign Minister Otto Winzer received the colonel but refused to discuss the matter.

Ex-Convict Tells Of Plans To Kidnap Mrs. Bing Crosby

then notify Crosby.

"After I thought of it the first thing I did was start looking around for a woman to stay here after we kidnaped her. I asked my 10-year-old niece, Nicky Snow, and she said she'd do it—and then she went right straight home."

Later, Davison said his niece identified her as the one who first disclosed the kidnap plot to Oklahoma authorities, saying she and his partner were the only ones who knew about it.

Davison's niece disclosed the kidnap plan to Seminole county Sheriff Bill Nicholson in Wevoka, Okla. Before she was identified here by Davison, Nicholson had refused to release her name for fear that Davison's partner, still sought, would harm her. The girl is the mother of two children.

Plot Worked out

Nicholson, an ex-FBI agent, said details of her story had held up in retelling and she said the plot had been worked out to plans for chaining Mrs. Crosby in a bathroom in a Los Angeles apartment.

The girl said Davison took her to Las Vegas, Nev., in April, promising to get her a job as a waitress in a cocktail lounge.

She said Gene Thorne Kling, 42, visited them shortly after they reached Las Vegas, April 16. The two men, she said, started talk-

Action, Not Words

It has been said that every wrong action proceeds from an error in philosophy. We would not dispute it. And currently, the philosophy which plagues all of us is that the government can do everything for everybody.

Since the government is a non-producer, but at best only a regulator (at worst a regimenter), it follows that every action taken by the government must be paid for by the producers of the nation.

Right now, the federal government is getting ready to spend another $5,560,000 annually forever. The sum involved is to be employed to hire 435 new $12,800 a year men who are to become administrative assistants to all our Congressmen.

The reason these expensive office holders are to be hired is because the mail of our Congressmen is getting heavier all the time. The reason the mail is getting heavier all the time is because more and more people are writing to their Congressmen. The reason more and more people are writing to their Congressmen is because more and more people want the Congressmen to do something for them. And the reason more and more people want the Congressmen to do something for them is because there has been a wrong philosophy adopted which intimates that Congress can do something for the people.

The truth is that Congress can do very little for the people that the people cannot do for themselves. And it follows that if the people were doing for themselves what they ought to be doing for themselves, they wouldn't be writing to the Congressmen asking the Congressmen to do those things for them. So that if the people were doing what they should be doing, they would be minding their own business. This would mean that they not only wouldn't be interested in writing to Congressmen, but they wouldn't have time to write. They'd be too busy. Also, they wouldn't have anything to write about.

Now every letter that goes to a Congressman is either read by the Congressman, or it is not read by the Congressman. If it is not read by the Congressman, there was no point in sending it to him in the first place. If it is read by the Congressman, there is an implied obligation on the part of the Congressman to answer the letter. If the Congressman takes the time to answer the letter, a secretary must be employed, stationery purchased and the franking privilege used, and probably now, an administrative assistant must be hired who will perform the physical chore of seeing that the letter is written, signed and put in the mail.

Now, according to the best advice we have been able to receive on the subject, the bulk of all the mail going to the Congress is calling for a tax cut. But the mail is getting so heavy that the Congress will have to raise taxes in order to answer the letters which are asking for a tax cut.

And we think this gives a precise illustration of just what is wrong with asking your government to do anything for you—even to ask it to do nothing for you. For whenever you talk to the government, whether by mail, telegram or telephone, the government has to hire someone to handle that conversation. And if you are conservative and want the government to grow smaller, the very fact that you want that and demand it in writing, makes the government grow larger.

The more you learn about government, the more frustration you are apt to experience.

Now, if so many of us didn't write so often, to so many Congressmen, then there would be no need for administrative assistants which will cost us more than $5½ million per year forever. On the contrary, with less and less mail going in, most Congressmen could reduce their present staffs by one or two persons.

If 435 Congressmen reduced their staffs by one each, even if that person to be dropped was only earning $6,000 a year, it would still reduce the cost of government by $2½ million per year.

So if we really want a tax cut we should begin doing the things that will help to bring it about, instead of just talking about it, which helps to increase taxes.

That is the way the government works. And it can't help it.

Bending The Twig

I want to continue to quote from "Congressional Record" as submitted by Hon. Ralph W. Gwinn on the book, "Bending The Twig," by Col. Augustin G. Rudd. In the last issue I reported that the Russians, for a time, adopted progressive education and then saw the fruits of it and abandoned it for discipline.

The "Congressional Record" reports: "They (the Russians) returned this educational failure to America, whence it came, and to our starchy-eyed frontier thinkers who were determined to foist it on the public schools of America—and did so."

Then the article reports what Dorothy Thompson wrote in the "Ladies Home Journal." Among other things, she said:

"...There is, as far as I know, not one high school in America where an ambitious student could get such preparation in science and mathematics. More than half of our high schools offer no physics at all... and in 1950 only 5 per cent of American high school students were studying physics, 7 per cent chemistry, 27 per cent algebra, and 13 per cent geometry. These are far lower percentages than in 1900. A level of education based on average ability and ambition means universal mediocrity..."

"While the realistic Soviet officials saw the evil consequences of the new education and discarded it in time, our educational leadership embraced it with a fanatical zeal. So during the same period that the schools of Russia have improved markedly in imparting the foundation knowledge so essential to the training of engineers, scientists and other skilled leaders in an atomic age, millions of our youths have found themselves seriously handicapped because their schools have failed to educate them properly on these important subjects."

Where We Are Headed "For more than three decades it has been apparent that we were entering rapidly an age featured by great advances in mechanization, electronics, dynamics, chemistry, physics, etc. Marvelous inventions and developments are constantly lifting the burden of production and service from the backs of men and adding to their comforts and welfare. The rate of this progress depends on the trained minds of specialists—engineers, chemists, physicists and various scientists capable of crashing the barriers to further progress of civilization. For years our great corporations have spent large sums through advertising and other means, pleading for youth with basic qualifications to accept splendid opportunities. But their efforts have been largely in vain. They continue to get only a trickle of qualified graduates capable of meeting essential but reasonable standards."

"Why? Because such graduates are coming out of our colleges and universities in constantly decreasing numbers. Despite a huge increase in enrollment the total of these graduates has actually decreased in recent years. Leaders of industry are forced to enter the business of education in order to supply the shortage, despite the billions spent on our educational system."

Off The Track "The main reason, of course, is set forth in this book. The new education has gone completely off the track. In its obsession with social aims and the remaining of society through the educational processes, it has bent all policies to shape curricula to that end. Courses in fundamental knowledge have been shamefully neglected, including mathematics, chemistry, physics and similar objects sorely needed in this modern age. Today over one-half of our high schools have no courses in chemistry and physics. And we have already noted the tragic results from neglect of basic mathematics. Instead, the curriculum has been heavily loaded with social aims, vocational and adjustment courses."

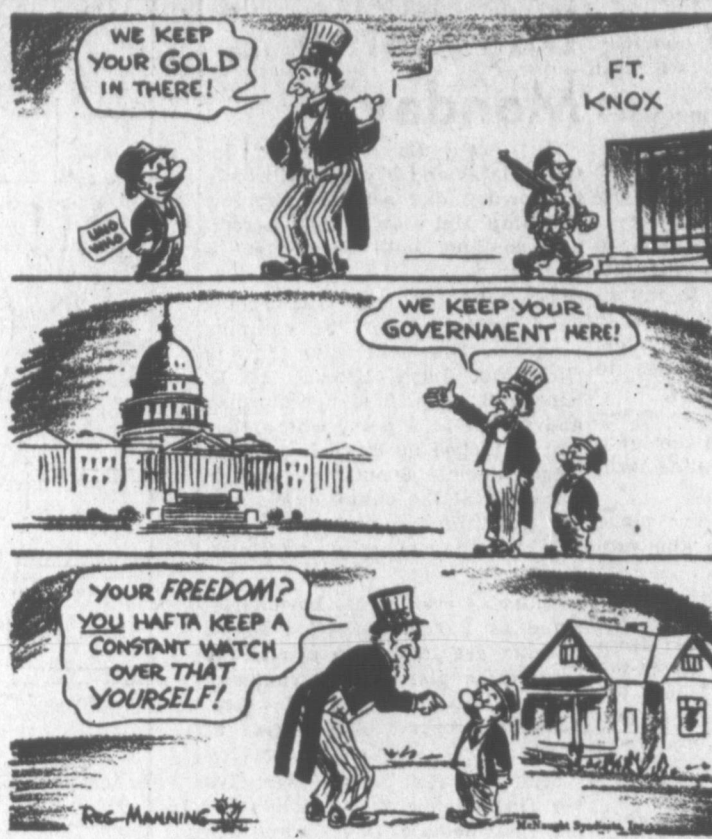

"Subjects which develop scholarly disciplines and ability to reason, like mathematics, the cornerstone of logic, are definitely subordinated to the pattern of the new education. In their clustered towers at Teachers College, Columbia University, and elsewhere, the leadership of American education did not regard this knowledge as necessary. At the very time when it was obvious to all that the world needed more and more of these specialists, the new educationists contrived to change our public school system so that it would produce fewer and fewer. With propagandists instead of real schoolmen at the helm, our schools actually are embarked on an anti-intellectual program."

"Gen. Leslie Groves, wartime atomic administrator, aptly summarized the condition in a single sentence: 'Our educational system has shown itself incapable of meeting the challenge which has arisen to confront it.'"

Bid For A Smile

There were a very young couple, and as a result they had a beautifully furnished house. One day the old woman missed her husband. "Woman—Joseph, where are you (calling)?" "Joseph—I'm resting in the parlor." "Woman (horried)—What, on the sofa?" "No, on the floor." "Woman (in tones of anguish)—Not on that chair?" "Joseph—No; I've rolled it up."

Most Precious Treasures

Robert Allen Reports:

US Forces Are Ready For Action In Lebanon

WASHINGTON — Approximately 4,000 U.S. Marines and powerful air cover are within several hours of Strife-battered Lebanon and ready for immediate dispatch there — "if and when necessary."

The two key requisites for such intervention are: To protect U.S. lives and interests; a formal request by heavily-embattled President Chamoun.

The fateful decision to respond to such an appeal has already been made by President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan. They reached it during their discussions here this week.

The British Government had promised full military and other cooperation. Congressional leaders have been apprized of this far-reaching decision.

They have been told that if armed intervention in Lebanon becomes necessary, it will be done under the authority of the Eisenhower Doctrine, which Congress approved early last year.

The congressional leaders also have been informed that any joint action undertaken by the U.S. and Britain would be pending the arrival of the UN police force.

That was the policy pursued by President Truman in Korea. Immediately following the Communist attack there, Truman, on the strong recommendation of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, ordered U.S. forces to aid the South Koreans. Simultaneously, the Red aggression was placed before the United Nations, which scathingly condemned it and created a military command to resist it.

President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan agreed to follow this precedent in the event of armed intervention in Lebanon.

ALL SET — The ground-work has already been laid for raising this issue in the UN.

Dr. Charles Malik, Foreign Minister of Lebanon, did that in a 90-minute speech last week before the Security Council. In this address, he presented detailed evidence of extensive Egyptian-Syrian aggression in Lebanon.

The evidence included the names of Egyptians and Syrians who had been captured in Lebanon while fighting with the rebels. These captives were armed with weapons bearing Egyptian and Syrian army markings. Malik also cited the names of Egyptian officers who were planning and directing rebel operations.

While submitting this comprehensive documentation, the Lebanese Foreign Minister did not ask the Security Council to act. Malik acted on the advice of Secretary of State Dulles.

This strategy was urged by Dulles for two reasons: To prevent Russia from using its Security Council veto to block UN action in Lebanon; and to place before the UN a detailed record of Egyptian-Syrian intervention in Lebanon so that the U.S. and Britain can come to the aid of the Chamoun government if that becomes necessary.

This plan has been explained to congressional leaders. Also to Turkey, which is gravely concerned by the intensifying Egyptian-Syrian meddling in Lebanon. In addition to being a key member of Baghdad Pact, Turkey's southern border adjoins Syria.

Egyptian-Syrian (United Arab Republic) domination of Lebanon would directly imperil the Baghdad Pact, and greatly increase the military, economic and political tensions on Turkey. Graphically illustrative of the latter are the following ominous possibilities: Domination of Lebanon would give Egyptian dictator Nasser control of the Iraq pipelines which outlets at Tripoli, main Lebanon seaport. Iraq economy is mainly dependent on sale of its oil. And if anything should happen to Iraq,

Mac Has Plenty Time To Think About Others' Cash

Quite a few of my readers, who are planning European vacations this year, have written me about money.

How much to take, what kind to take, where to carry it, and how best to spend it. They couldn't have turned to a better man, for having no money of my own to think about, I have all the time in the world to think of someone else's. In fact, I do that quite a bit. It's sort of a hobby. For instance: What would I do with Khan's money? Or even the roll that Grandma Moses must have tucked away in a corner of her palette?

In answer to the question as to how much money to take, I'd say take all you can lay your hands on! Especially if it's a first trip. On second, third, and fourth trips to Europe it is all right to travel by bicycle, sleep under the trees, and eat jerked pemmican, but on the first one, no. Of course, if your budget allows for nothing more comfortable than a bike, a tree-side bed and jerked pemmican, go anyway! There's enough to see and do and learn to make you forget your saddle sores.

Money has a way of melting away in Europe, especially on a first trip, or when your stay does not allow you time to get in rhythm with the Continent, which simply means refusing to be taken for an American tourist who is here today and gone tomorrow. Most of the prices are cheaper than they are at home, but at the end of a day you find your wallet bleeding.

Most travel authorities advise the buying of foreign currency before you depart, but in most countries this is more bother than it is worth unless you are buying a great deal more than the average tourist. The few dollars saved are not worth the worry of losing it, or the extra bulk. And if you are as I am, you'll find yourself spending half your time counting the foreign stuff to see if you have lost any of it!

There is also the little matter of smuggling in foreign money. Some countries limit the amount of their dough which you can bring with you. This leads to smuggling and false declarations, and this can give you the inside view when the customs men sneak at you. Back in the forties, when Spain was tougher than a boot on currency control, I bought some pesetas in Portugal and aged ten years before I cleared customs. It also didn't do my chances of getting to Heaven any good.

As to how to best spend money in Europe, my advice would be to buy one good thing in each country visited, and resist the temptation to buy a raft of bicycle-brac, or which there is an oversupply. The gimcracks won't last, serve little or no purpose, and, like midway articles at a fair, cost much more than they are worth.

I'll admit I'm a great one to be giving this advice, being as I have bought more ridiculous, useless articles abroad than you could burn on a bonfire in a week. But it's true.

One final bit of advice, even if unasked. After you pack for your trip, and get everything set, take out half the clothes and leave a few them at home. You'll be glad you did. Luggage is the only drawback to travel.

The Doctor Says

By EDGAR P. JORDAN, M. D.

For centuries tuberculosis has constituted one of the great disease menaces to mankind. This disease is still with us and there are many remaining problems before it can be finally conquered.

About 60 years ago something like 200 people in every 100,000 died each year from tuberculosis. Ten or 12 years ago only some 40 but of each 100,000 died of the disease. Now probably fewer than 12 in every 100,000 perish from tuberculosis each year.

The progress which has been made in the control of tuberculosis is principally the result of better methods of prevention and treatment.

However, the drop in the number of deaths from the disease has not been paralleled by corresponding decrease in the number of new cases discovered.

THE DISEASE is caused by a germ, but there are probably many other factors involved in acquiring it.

It is virtually certain, for example, that there are inherited differences in susceptibility to the disease and that temporary depressions in resistance of the body due to poor nutrition and other factors may play a part.

From the standpoint of prevention, the general improvement in diet on the North American Continent and the lessening of extreme poverty have undoubtedly played a part. The generally improved health and lessening of overcrowded living conditions have almost surely been helpful in cutting down the number of new infections.

In the field of treatment, great strides have been made. Improved treatment is largely responsible for the better chances of regaining health when a person is stricken with tuberculosis. The value of bed rest has long been realized.

The collapse of a lung by means of injecting air through a needle (thus giving rest to the diseased lung) has repeatedly proved of value.

M. M. ASKS for some information on the chemical treatment of tuberculosis and says that everything she has read has dealt with treatment before the days of such drugs.

Certainly, chemical treatment has brought virtually revolutionary results. There are several preparations available, including antibiotics and other types of drugs.

Although the exact administration of such substances is highly technical, there is no doubt but that there has brought more rapid conquest of the tuberculosis germ than was usually possible in the past.

Furthermore, work is still going on with hormonal preparations which may well prove particularly valuable in building the body's own resistance to the germ in ever more effective fashion. Several surgical procedures are available depending on the lung condition and the state of the patient.

It looks like Somebody Up There still likes the G.O.P. According to Fate Magazine (May, 1958) Mayor Edward Olson, while addressing a Republican meeting, said he probably was the only Democrat present. Immediately, according to the magazine, a fuse blew, the public address system went dead and the hall was enveloped in total darkness.

Rooney Says He's Always Been Around

Editors Note: Vernon Scott is on vacation. Mickey Rooney bounces to the typewriter to deny that he is making a comeback. Says Mickey, "I've never been away."
By MICKEY ROONEY
Written for UPI
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — I keep hearing and reading about my "amazing and stupendous comeback" and am frankly quite amazed by both the noun and the preceding adjectives.
What amazes me about the whole thing is this comeback business. How, I ask, could I come back when I never went away?
The fact is that while I wasn't away, I might have been. A couple of years ago, I was what show business calls "cold." This, as you might imagine, is the opposite of "hot."
Cold means that nobody wants to put you in a picture because the impression is that you couldn't draw files into the box office on a hot summer day even if you were covered from head to toe with molasses.
Hot, on the other hand, means that everybody wants you because you can do, no question.
The main question for the freeling, out-of-work actor is how to switch from cold to hot.
Assuming he has talent and can play the hell out of a role if he can only get it, the actor has to find some producer with guts enough to take a chance on him or some other producer who has a role to fill which other actors are afraid to touch or some other producer who's been away so long, he doesn't know who's hot or who's cold.
What happened to me, frankly, was that my manager, Red Doff, heard that Martin Manulis, producer of CBS' Playhouse-90, had on his schedule a 1 1/2-hour drama about a despicable television comedian who made his own life and the lives of all those who surrounded him unbearable.
The rumor was out that several of TV's top comics had turned down the role because they didn't want to appear before the public in such a miserable characterization.
We grabbed it so fast we couldn't have caught ourselves with a head start.
"The Comedian" was the beginning of Rooney's new deal. Right around the time of the telecast, I was lucky enough to land an Oscar nomination for "The Bold and the Brave."
"How did 'The Comedian' and the Oscar nomination help the cause? The comments were favorable and producers started to offer me other roles. Before long, I had enough offers to keep busy for the next two years.

Jack Redding Has Written Good Book

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Jack Redding has written a good book called "Inside the Democratic Party" which also could be titled appropriately something like this: "Through the jungle of presidential campaigning without food or water!"
Food and water, in this sense, would be money which was the Democrats' greatest lack 10 years ago when they reluctantly put up slight Harry S. Truman to run against the goliath shadow of Thomas E. Dewey, the Republican candidate, of New York.
Redding was publicity director of the Democratic National Committee during that story book campaign, and by his own account he did a superbly professional job. The book is published today at $4.50 by Bobbs Merrill. If Dewey doesn't have one by sundown, he is unaccountably disinclined in knowing more about what hit him back there in 1948 and why.
Money and the lack of it is the recurrent theme of Redding's book. The theme begins with a half-told account of how committee Chairman J. Howard McGrath was able to all to persuade anyone to become finance chairman for the campaign. It looked like an impossible job from which even Truman cabinet officers flinched.
Louis A. Johnson of West Virginia was in the huddle McGrath summoned to talk finance. Johnson was a former assistant secretary of war under FDR. His greatest ambition had been to be chief of that department.
"McGrath asked each man present at the meeting if he would take on a job of running the financial campaign," Redding wrote. "There were no takers. Finally he (Johnson) asked for the meeting to recess for half an hour while he went to the White House to see the President.
"When he returned, Johnson announced that he would accept the (financial) appointment from McGrath."
Johnson Named Secretary
So that seems to be how Louis A. Johnson of West Virginia realized his greatest ambition by becoming not merely secretary of war but secretary of defense. Johnson took over in March, 1949, succeeding Secretary James Forrestal, a Roosevelt administration holdover who had been conspicuously chill toward Truman's reelection effort.
Forrestal later committed suicide by leaping from a hospital window. Johnson lasted until September, 1950, as defense secretary. He was forced out by clamorous resentment against the administration policies held to have been responsible for bringing on the Korean war and for the unfavorable U.S. military position at that time.
Johnson's campaign fund raising, however, was impressive. Redding pinpoints how and why money spent for advertisements, TV-radio time, literature and poll watchers can and does win elections. He does not much illuminate the abrupt and urgent methods by which money must be raised when the money bags are convinced the candidates will be a loser. Could be that those methods are not pretty.
The campaign money jungle probably is about the same in similar circumstances for either major party. Most public minded citizens who know anything about campaign funds abhor the whole business but nothing much comes of that. Something might come, however, if sometime a party financial chairman would write a book.

Bond Issue Is Forthcoming In Perryton

(Special to The News)
PERRYTON — A bond issue of approximately $1,750,000 will be necessary to take care of Perryton schools projected needs in the next two years.
At a meeting Tuesday, the school board looked over the architect's proposed building plans and made some suggestions. The plans as they now stand are a starting point with final details to be worked out by the architect and the board.
The bond issue, to be called in the near future, will be for acquisition of a building site, construction of a new elementary school and a high school, and equipping of the two schools. The elementary building will be required for the opening of the 1958 school term and the high school will be necessary by the beginning of the following term.
Construction of the two buildings will be started at about the same time, but the high school will require longer to build.
Increasing enrollment in the Perryton system is forcing the new building, with all available space being used during the coming school year. Four extra classrooms will be required by the opening of the 1958 term for the elementary school and conversion of rooms previously used for other purposes will leave the school no alternative but additional building.
Enrollment by the start of the coming year is predicted at 1958, with this figure jumping to 1994 by 1959 and to 1815 by 1960. A 20% enrollment is expected by the beginning of the 1962 school term.
After construction of the new high school building, the present high school will be converted to use by the junior high school.
The school district own a 16-acre tract in the southwest part of Perryton which will be used for the elementary building and a larger tract will be purchased by the high school.

Good And Bad Of The Week's News

FOREIGN NEWS COMMENTARY By CHARLES M. MCCANN UPI Foreign News Analyst The week's good and bad news on the international balance sheet:

Gen. Charles de Gaulle, France's new premier, struck back this week against a challenge to his authority by right-wing extremists. The extremists are members of the so-called Committee of Public Safety in Algeria, where they engineered the army revolt that put De Gaulle in power. They sent De Gaulle a demand that he ban all activities by French political parties and set up in Paris a French Committee of Public Safety—obviously aimed at dictating policy to him. De Gaulle retorted that the committee's demands were "annoying and intemperate." He ordered Gen. Raoul Salan, whom he had named supreme military and civil authority in Algeria, not to meddle in politics.

As regards the helicopter, Russia refused to arrange the release of the nine officers and men who occupied it and who are held in East Germany.

Dulles said if, necessary the United States will deal directly with the East German Reds to free the Army men.

He emphasized that any negotiations would not imply recognition of the East German regime. "When you have people kidnaped," he explained, "you deal with the kidnapers."

GRAY COUNTY Soil Conservation District News

This section of the country frequently has dry spells that make a farm pond a mighty good thing to have. A good pond may have a number of uses such as supply water for live stock, fish production, recreation, waterfowl, and prevent erosion. If irrigation is to be involved from such a pond, a permit will need to be secured from the Texas State Board of Water Engineers at Austin. Farm ponds need to be properly planned and constructed if they are to fill their intended purpose. Your local Soil Conservation Service technicians will be glad to furnish such technical assistance. The first thing to do in planning a pond is to decide about how much water is needed and how big the pond should be. In general for this area, the water should be 12 to 15 feet deep. Investigate the site to see that it is suitable for the purpose intended. The water shed above the pond should be large enough to keep water in the pond during dry periods, yet not so large that it will create flood hazards during heavy storms. The watershed should be covered with grass or erosion control measures may be necessary to prevent silting.

Soil tests are needed to determine if the pond will hold water. Borings should be made along the center line of the proposed dam and also in the pond area. A topographic map of the pond area and possibly the watershed should be made. An emergency spillway will need to be provided to handle the flow expected once in fifty years. A pipe drop might be provided to handle small flows with the top of this pipe set some distance below the emergency spillway. Wherever a good emergency spillway can not be provided without undue expense, a pipe drop should be used. The pipe in this drop should be at least 8" in diameter to prevent clogging. The top of the fill should be a least 8 feet wide with the downstream slope 2:1 and the upstream slope 3:1 or 4:1 depending on the size of the pond.

After the dam and spillway are completed they should be seeded with a good grass mixture and mulched with straw or similar material. The dam and spillway should be fenced to protect them from livestock. All ponds require management and maintenance. Whenever damage occurs it should be repaired as soon as possible.

Twenty-five Texas farmers and ranchers have just been notified of an unusual award that each of them are to receive in recognition of outstanding conservation work done on their farms and ranches. This word has just come from W. C. Howard, President, Association of Texas Soil Conservation Districts which is co-sponsoring this awards program with the Great Southwest Life Insurance Company of Dallas.

These unusual awards will be 18 x 24 inch oil colored, and beautifully framed photographs of the farms and ranches of the twenty-five men named. These awards will be presented to the twenty-five winning farmers and ranchers, after they have been displayed at different fairs and shows in the state, and after being shown at the next January Convention of Texas Soil Conservation District Supervisors at Abilene. Personal presentation of these awards will be made early in 1969 in the home community of each of the twenty-five winners.

This is the second year of this unusual awards program. Selection

Pampans Adopt Young Antelope

By WALLACE TRUESDELL, Pampa News Staff Writer A young antelope lay in a field north of Pampa too hungry to move. Her mother had mysteriously vanished and the baby was badly in need of milk. On his way through the pasture, A. L. Miller, a ranch foreman, saw the orphan and, mindful of his young sons at 641 N. Zimmer, took the unresisting animal up.

Now "Cindy" a very civilized name for her, gets her milk from a soft drink bottle and paws the young Millers until she does. It's a toss up who's happier with the new arrangement, Cindy or the Miller cubs.

Cindy seems to like being civilized and fenced in as long as the boys are in the yard. But there are two things, Mrs. Miller tells us, that the boys and their mascot can't get straight.

A wire loop solves one problem, keeping the gate closed against little antelope hooves. But the other will take more education and can be expressed in "Why can't she stay in the house?"

So Cindy spends her nights on the back porch like the old Collie who is too old to be jealous of new pets.

Cindy has all the habits of new puppies and cries for her new masters when they go out the gate to the road.

In her third week with Danny and Randy, Cindy is a very "going young antelope." The first days were rough. Cindy had little interest in bottles and was a questioned animal die.

But then milk worked its miracle on Cindy and soon she was playing outside.

For the Millers, an antelope is no more a strange pet than a baby fox or a coyote, a pony or a Chihuahua. These are Cindy's predecessors in Danny and Randy's young lives.

"What would you do without a pet, boys?"

"They's get one," their mother replied.

Electronic Device Saves Woman's Life

CHICAGO (UPI)—Doctors credit an electronic device with saving the life of a middle-aged woman whose heart beat stopped "at least 20 times" in a two day period.

The patient, Mrs. Samuel Winsberg, 55, appeared headed for recovery, a Michael Reese Hospital spokesman said.

An examination May 13 showed that her heart had stopped, she was "moribund," had no pulse and could not inhale oxygen.

Her doctor, who declined to identify himself, pressed an electronic stimulator, called a "pacemaker," into service. The machine shot charges through the chest into Mrs. Winsberg's heart each time it stopped beating. For the next four days and nights doctors remained available for any emergency. On the night of May 14 Mrs. Winsberg "experienced many episodes of cardiac standstill" but the "pacemaker" restored her heartbeat each time, the hospital spokesman said. The following day, normal heart action was restored. The "pacemaker," about the size of a portable television set, was placed on a standby basis. The spokesman said Mrs. Winsberg had suffered no brain damage and was recuperating from the ordeal, which was preceded by a coronary thrombosis. "She is alert and happy," he said.

Fifth Can Be Deadly On Fourth

CHICAGO — A fifth can be deadly on the Fourth — and even two cocktails are dangerous if you drive within three hours after drinking them.

Fourth of July celebrants were given that reminder today by the National Safety Council, which points out that the average person needs at least three hours to eliminate the alcohol in two cocktails.

Social drinkers are a greater menace than commonly believed, the Council said. They greatly outnumber the obviously intoxicated driver. And Council studies show that drunk, driver is a big factor in holiday traffic tolls.

Alcohol, even in small quantities impairs the critical judgement needed by drivers, these studies show. And two cocktails may reduce vision as much as wearing dark sun glasses at night. What's more, coffee does not offset the effect. Only time can eliminate alcohol from the blood stream.

The throttle and the bottle are the arch villains in the nation's holiday traffic death toll, the Council said.

An analysis of highway fatalities during both summer and winter holidays showed that about half of the drivers involved in fatal accidents had been drinking. And speed was a factor in more than 7 out of 10 fatal holiday traffic accidents.

Forty-five million motor vehicles are expected to be on the nation's roads over the three-day Fourth of July holiday — so drivers will need to be especially alert and responsive if they are to avoid trouble, the Council said. "If drivers avoid drinking and speeding the highways will be much safer for themselves and others."

ALLIGATOR LIFT—Albert, largest alligator (400 pounds) in the Cleveland (Ohio) Zoo, gets a lift from Mike Turnaukas, the zoo's reptile keeper. Albert and half a dozen other alligators had a "coming out" party. They'll spend the summer in outdoor pools.

Not Much Choice For Farmer But To Pay Property Taxes

On the Farm Front
By GAYLORD P. GODWIN
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Farm property taxes are a fixed cost of agricultural production and there is not much a farmer can do except pay them.

Taxes on farm property have been going up since 1940. In 1957 they rose to a record $1,250,000,000. More than one billion dollars was levied on farm real estate, the rest on such personal property as livestock, machinery, automobiles, and household goods.

The index of farm real estate taxes has risen 72 per cent since 1947-49, more than any other component of the parity index except interest charges. In recent years real estate taxes have gained an average of 5 per cent annually. Personal property taxes also have increased but not quite so rapidly.

The farm owner's tax bill does not vary with output or with the price of farm products. Even if he allows his land to lie idle, his taxes are not affected. He is likely to feel particularly helpless in the face of rising property taxes because, unlike other costs subject to his personal control, taxes are governed largely by the will of the community.

Furthermore, opportunities for shifting the property tax to the consumer are limited. A farmer usually sells his product in a market in which his individual influence is negligible. Hence he cannot pass the tax on in the form of higher prices.

In an Agriculture Department study, Frederick D. Stocker of the Farm Economics Research Division, posed this question: "How high are farm property taxes?" He supplied the answer with comparisons.

This marked West won live spades to the king-queen-jack and Mr. Guertin, therefore, marked East with the ace of diamonds. Hence, he drew trumps, led a diamond and finessed Guertin's ten. East took his jack and Guertin took his ace and led a second diamond. East made his ace of diamonds but eventually declarer's losing spade went on one of dummy's long diamonds and the game was made.

At most other tables declarer started out the same way, but played either the king or queen of diamonds on the first lead of the suit. East was smart enough to duck, wherever declarer came back to his own hand with the ace of clubs and led a second diamond. East would take this and lead another club to knock out dummy's king. Now when the diamonds set up, South would be unable to get back to dummy for the spade discard and would wind up losing another spade trick and his contract.

There were other ways to make the hand, but Mr. Guertin just adopted the best line of play.

The Justice Department filed a multi-million-dollar damage suit charging that the shipping interests of Aristotle Socrates Onassis repudiated an agreement to build three new super-tankers for American ownership. The ships, to cost 50 million dollars were to be built in American shipyards.

The Labor Department reported housing starts last month rose to 105,000 units or 11 per cent above April. Federal programs accounted for about two-thirds of the increase. Totals for the first five months showed that 415,000 units were started this year, against 413,700 in the same 1957 period.

Four directors of Penn-Texas Corp. said they would ask a Federal Court to void ballots cast at the recent annual meeting and authorize a new solicitation of proxies. The annual meeting was held May 5 and adjourned several times for counting of proxies. The proxy contest was waged against present management by an insurgent stockholders' group headed by A. J. Klein, New York attorney.

'58 Weather Is 'Moving Too Fast'

By LYLE SCHWILLING
United Press International
KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—The man charged with keeping you from getting killed by a tornado complained today that the 1958 brand of weather is moving too fast.

Don House, chief of the U.S. Weather Bureau's severe weather center, said "We are averaging only about an hour in getting our warnings out before the danger times. A year ago we averaged about two to three hours."

House's crew doesn't know how many lives have been saved since their department was organized. "We probably saved 50 to 60 lives in Wisconsin last week," he said. "But then we lost a dozen or more at El Dorado, Kan., Tuesday."

He cited the El Dorado storm as typical of the type that plagues the weather warning service.

Tuesday afternoon the radar reports showed only small storms in western Kansas. By 3 p.m., the radar showed moderate to strong storms. "There was nothing to recognize in the form of tornadoes," House said, "but 20 minutes later El Dorado was hit."

At the same time the Kansas storm was building up there was thunderstorm activity in large areas below the Great Lakes keeping House's men on the alert. "It was one of those days," House said. "If we had had 10 men on the job we couldn't have kept up. As it was we had three men—our normal maximum effort."

House blamed the situation on warm, moist air seeping northward from the Gulf of Mexico. This year has been rather mild for tornadoes, he said, but from the standpoint of warnings it has been one of the most dangerous.

So far this year there have been about 200 tornadoes reported across the country. This time last year there were about 600. Through all 1957 there were about 1,000 tornadoes. They killed about 200 people.

This picture could change a few months from now, however, he pointed out, if industry steps up its borrowing again and increases competition for capital.

The local board president said easier terms for mortgages insured by the Federal Housing Administration would be a help.

Realtor Gives Six Reasons Why Home Is Good Buy Now

Six reasons why a home is one of the best buys on the current market were listed today by E. J. Griffin Jr., president of the Pampa Real Estate Board.

Griffin offered the reasons in support of a national "Buy a Home—First!" campaign just launched by the National Association of Real Estate Boards, of which the local board is a member. Pampa Realtors are joining with thousands from coast to coast in a united effort to publicize the values of home ownership and to convince the public that the time to buy one is now.

One of the most favorable factors on the "home-buyer's" side, Griffin said, is the improved mortgage market.

"In a dramatic about-face from the 'tight money' situation of the recent past, mortgage money is once again plentiful. Banks, insurance companies, savings and loan associations all report a adequate money in most areas for good home mortgages," he declared.

This picture could change a few months from now, however, he pointed out, if industry steps up its borrowing again and increases competition for capital.

The local board president said easier terms for mortgages insured by the Federal Housing Administration would be a help.

Another factor which puts Pampa families in a favorable position to buy a home of their own.

"The 1958 Emergency Housing Act makes possible the most favorable terms home buyers have been offered under the FHA programs in some time," he asserted.

The current stable price of homes was also cited by Griffin. Noting that the price of existing homes generally has held steady through the ups and downs of the economy, he declared that a house is one of the few commodities on the market today, which is properly selected, doesn't lose in value.

"A home is a valuable hedge against inflation, too," he pointed out. "Cash in the bank loses value during inflationary times, but real estate rises in worth under the same condition."

The Pampa real estate executive gave as a final reason the many top values he said could be found by the home-seeker now. "Not only do we have a wide selection of excellent buys listed in existing homes at present, but builders are offering more in new homes. Most are striving to give buyers the ultimate advantages of better quality, price, design, and workmanship," he declared.

Let a housebreaker crow-bar his way into the front parlor of the modest one-story white-frame home at 610 North Gray one dark and spooky moonless night, and his tight-fingers might go looney with anticipation.

It'd be like standing in the midst of King Midas' hidden treasure-room, if the intruder's flashlight beam swept across the far reaches of the graciously-furnished room's northwestern corner. For there, just the other side, of the coffee table, lies gold, do you hear gold! Glittering, shiny gold.

"All that glitters ain't gold," some citizen once chirped. And in the case of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Cooper, we're sorry to say, that's the case.

It's not for real, the gold. But shiny stuff, it's there. In the form of multi-sized trophies, it's there.

For the Cooper's are parents to one of the Panhandle's proudest portside punchers. They're mom and pop to Gene Cooper, the raw-boned Lefors kid who in 1944 as a 14-year-old flyweight won a Regional Golden Gloves Boxing Championship at Amarillo.

That was just the beginning for Gene Cooper, a deadly effective southpaw striker. During the following decade, he won 202 of 209 amateur fights to "floor" his folks' living room and hall closets with boxing loot.

"He has junk he's won all over this house," Mrs. Cooper snapped, trying to cover tremendous pride in her son's accomplishments, while all the time rummaging through old clippings and pictures, and keeping an alert eye on the afternoon's meal, baking in the kitchen oven.

Nixes Stateside Offer

"It's not only trophies," Mr. Cooper chimed in, "we've got jackets, sweaters, ash - trays, miniature gloves and a whole mess of his other prizes that he's left behind."

Young Cooper, he's 28, has some of his most - cherished trophies and such, with him over seas. He's presently stationed on one of the southern Japanese isles, at Ashiya Air Force Base.

Cooper's chief concern at the moment, is not boxing, but rather training or coaching other young sluggers. He hung up his mitts some time back, but you couldn't drive the love for the sport from his soul. Not with any amount of money.

And too, there's the globe-trotting aspect of training Air Force boxing squads. Cooper was in the states last month, taking a team to Washington D.C. for the World Wide All-Air Force Matches, which by the way, his team won in a walk.

While in the nation's capital, Cooper was given an opportunity to stay, and pump some adrenalin into sagging service boxing programs in that part of the world.

He turned the big brass down, however, in favor of returning to Japan, to enter his specially trained shock - troops in the 3rd Asian Games, just recently over. He doubled as boxing tournament director of the Asian Games, witnessed by over 75,000 on opening day, May 24.

He turned the big brass down, however, in favor of returning to Japan, to enter his specially trained shock - troops in the 3rd Asian Games, just recently over. He doubled as boxing tournament director of the Asian Games, witnessed by over 75,000 on opening day, May 24.

Next! Mexico City

"He's a career man in the Air Force," Mrs. Cooper stated without any tarnish of remorse in her voice. Gene, first enlisted in 1951, and then re - enlisted in 1956, after finding civilian work less rewarding and shy of excitement. He's a staff-sergeant.

He'll fly his team to Mexico City next August, and then return to the World Wide Matches the latter part of next February. Meanwhile, his team, will fight all over the Pacific, with a return trip to Honolulu, possibly in the cards.

Twice an all - district pick in basketball while at Lefors High School where he was a three-year football letterman, Gene, has a head - full of memories for rainy days. But right now, he's too busy watching the future, to think back on by - gone days of ring glory.

Bowed To Patterson

Cooper began coming into his own during the 1948 Golden Gloves campaign. He copped the Texas Golden Gloves Welterweight title that year and that was just the beginning.

In 1951 he left enough bloody noses and battered mid-sections behind to annex the state's Golden Gloves Middleweight championship. He captured the Middle crown again in 1953.

After grabbing the Middleweight marbles for the state in 1951, Gene, fought his way into the National Golden Gloves finals at Chicago, only to drop a heartbreaking decision to Dickie Guerrero, who Pop Cooper says,

"Gene could have whipped him every day of the week and twice on Sundays."

1952 saw Cooper go to Kansas City to stand toe - to - toe with current Heavyweight king, Floyd Patterson. Gene lost a close decision to Patterson, despite fighting the last two rounds with a cracked jaw - bone. He faced Patterson in tryouts for the Olympics at KC.

Patterson was only 17 then, while Cooper was 22. "He had the fastest hands I ever saw. He was the best amateur I ever fought. The only guy I ever fought who I knew would be a champ someday," Cooper is quoted as having stated.

Confidence Bubbles Over

Theogene, a Grecian puncher back in the gladiator leagues, about 900 B.C., is sometimes regarded as the world's all-time most - confident man. Cooper's successes, back since 1944, have resulted from tremendous courage and confidence, putting him right in the same league with this Theogene citizen.

With deep - rooted faith in himself, Cooper was among those service boxers selected to fight on the teevee "Meet The Champs" nationwide hookup.

Bitterest recollections for Mr. and Mrs. Cooper, who admit, "We never minded Gene's fighting just as long as he wasn't hurt," stem from his two fights with current 3rd ranking Heavyweight, Roy Harris, the "Out-and-Shoot" school-teacher.

Cooper split in two matches with Harris, losing in the 1952 Golden Gloves semi - finals, when Harris "buted" a fight-ending gash over Cooper's eye.

The brawny kid from the Big Thicket down near Livingston, won three of his four fights during that year's state tournament by "butting" his opponents into submission.

The Cooper's have two other boys to exchange letters with, and both fall into Gene's category of "world-traveler."

Oldest boy is Ted, who put 15 years in the service in the Medical Corp. He saw most of the far east during World War II. And not many weeks ago, the youngest Cooper, Billy Ed, was drafted. He only recently completed basic training at Fort Hood, and is expected to be shipped to Germany in the fall.

And hold on to your teen-age daughters, but Billy Ed, is scheduled to be bunked in the same barracks with another pretty fair country prize-puncher, Elvis Presley, world champion getar plunker!

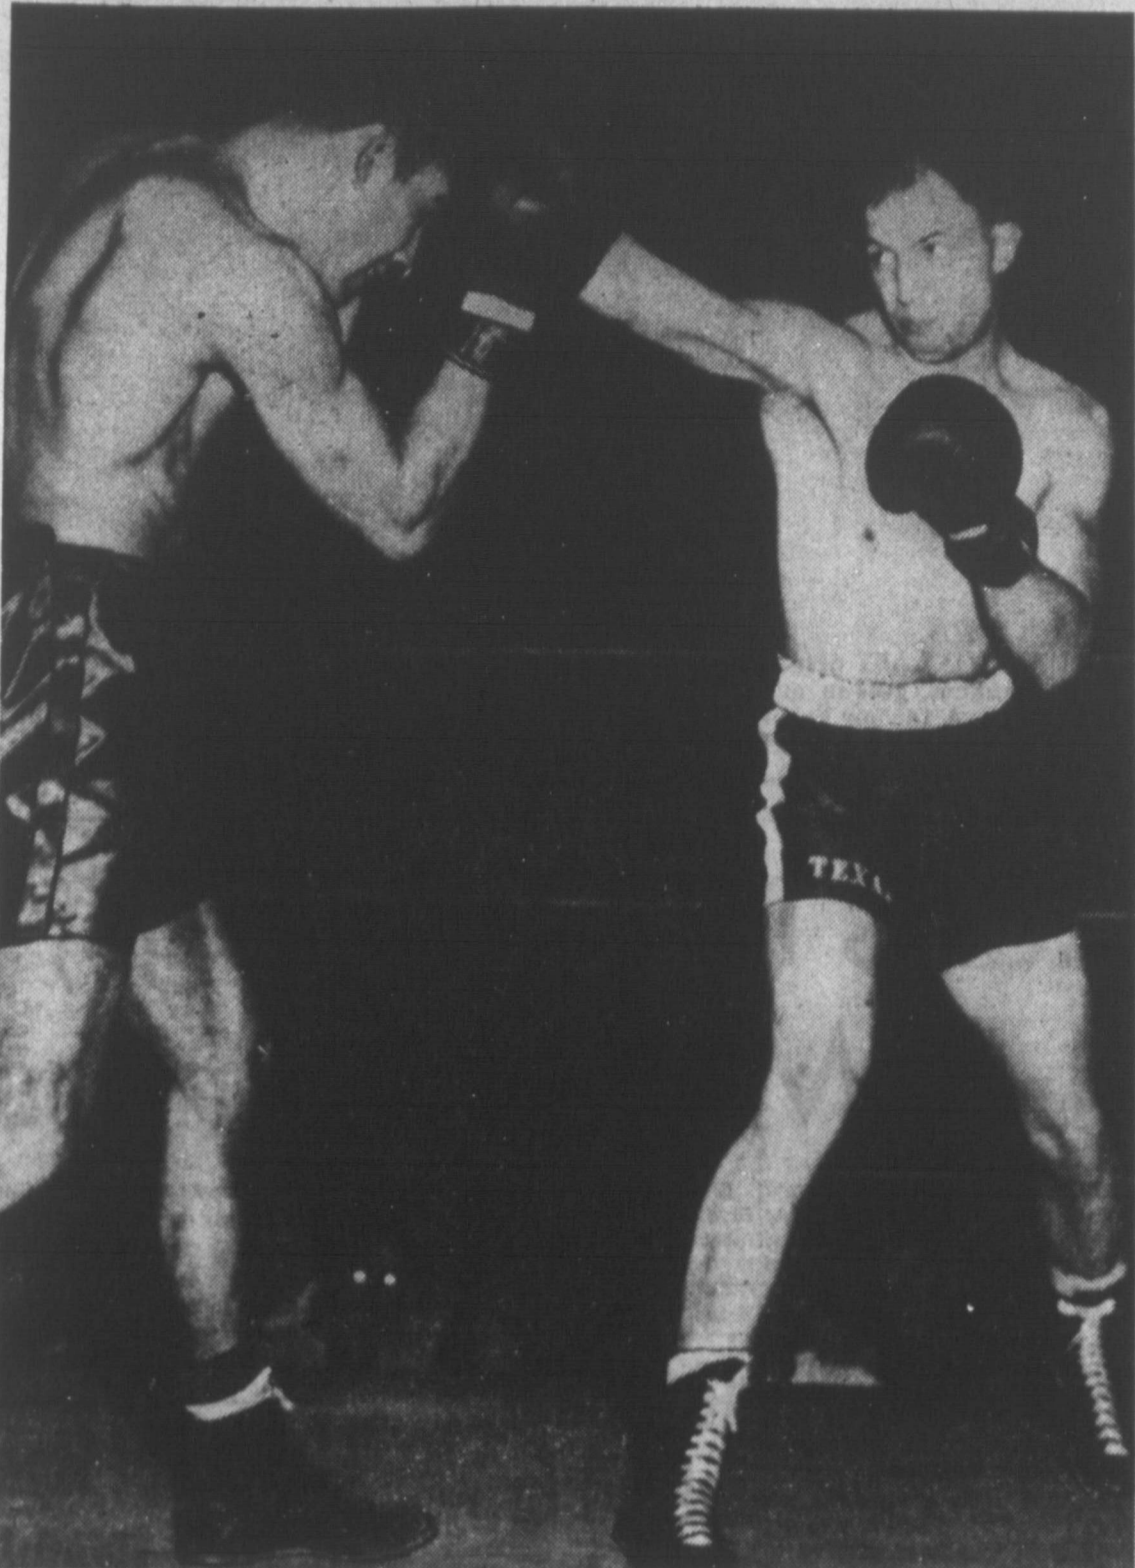

NORMAN'S TIGERS

TRIP YANKS' 5-4

NEW YORK (UPI) — Frank Bolling's two-out single with the bases loaded in the ninth inning enabled the Detroit Tigers to come from behind Saturday for their second straight victory over the league-leading New York Yankees, 5-4.

Trailing 4-3 entering the ninth as a result of Yogi Berra's three-run homer in the eighth, the Tigers started their rally when pinch hitter Bob Haste drew a walk off reliever Bob Grim.

Yankee Manager Casey Stengel then summoned ace fireman Rysne Duren, who promptly retired the next two batters. However, Al Kaline then beat out an infield single for his fourth hit of the game and Charlie Maxwell walked to load the bases. Duren worked the count to 3 and 2 on Bolling before the Tiger second baseman dropped a single in front of Mickey Mantle, enabling pinch runner Reno Bertie and Kaline to score.

COVERING UP—Howard Green, left, tries to cover his head from an onslaught of potent punches being given off by Pampa's Gene Cooper. The two met in the finals of the 1952 World Wide Air Force Matches at San Antonio on May 15, 1952. Cooper won the match and became Middleweight champ of the Air Force. Thunder Bolt Cops US Open, Pockets 8 G's; Player 2nd

By OSCAR FRALEY United Press International

TULSA, Okla. (UPI)—Jut-jawed Tommy Bolt, a one-time thunderous club thrower who got golfing religion, reached the end of the fairway rainbow Saturday when

PAMPANS SEE U. S. OPEN

TULSA — At least 17 known Pampa golf enthusiasts were in the Friday gallery, following on the heels of the top pros in the U.S. Open Golf Tournament at Southern Hills Country Club here.

Two plane loads of Pampa people flew to Tulsa. Flying in D. E. Holt's plane were Pampa Country Club pro, Hart Warren, and Haskell Maguire and Ham Luna. Flying in C. A. Husted's plane were Joe Reid and Ed McGuire, who had a brother playing in the tournament.

Also in Friday's gallery from Pampa, were Marvin Harris, Fred Neslage, Luke McClelland, Dr. Joe Donaldson, W. T. Fain, Jim Triplehorn, R. A. Baker, Ralph McKinley, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kuhn, and Mr. and Mrs. C. F. McGinnis.

he calmly battled par and pressure to win the U.S. Open golf championship.

While more than 40 of the gasping 20,000 people who merely watched him collapsed in the 95 degree heat which blistered the torturous hills and valleys at Southern Hills Country Club, the 39-year-old one - time carpenter hammered together rounds of 69—one under par—and 72 for a winning 72-hole total of 283 which swept him into the golfing history books.

It was the payoff on a new-found self-control for the man known as "Thunder" who just a year ago returned to the tournament trail because his club was a failure. But the handsome Oklahoman got even Saturday before the home folks as he picked up $8,000 first money and captured the greatest prize in American golf.

Bolt All the Way

It was Bolt all the way in the big one. He led at the end of the first round with a 71 tied by Julius Boros and Dick Metz. At the end of the second round, he was in front with another 1 over par 71, good for a one-shot edge on South African Gary Player. Going into the final round he was on top by three shots with a third round 36-33-69.

Making a run at him was young Gene Littler, whose third round 3 under par 35-34-67 was the

Woldt Sets 1st Rebel Workouts

At 5 p.m. today, Deck Woldt begins whipping together a young baseball team, who'll do their hustling and hitting for Pampa's Kerley Crossman American Legion Post 334 this summer.

Initial workout for the Pampa American Legion Rebels will be held at Harvester Park. Assisting Deck with the managerial problems will be Mike Conway, 2nd team all-district catcher off this year's PHS club.

"We're trying to book several games with teams within a 100-mile radius on a home-and-home basis," Woldt commented Saturday. He added that an opening game for Thursday night is being worked on now.

The Thursday opener would have to be played on the road, since Pampa has no official-sized diamond with lights available. Woldt said most of the home games would have to be scheduled for Sundays, with possibilities of double-headers being carded if agreeable to the opposition.

Known clubs nearby include outfits at Borger, two at Amarillo, Nazareth, and possibly Perryton, Sayre, and Mangum.

Woldt said Saturday he expects 19 youngsters to show up for the first practice session this evening. Many of the players were members of his Pampa High baseball team this spring.

Expected to report for this evening's workout are pitchers, Kippy Williams, Keith Yager, Gary Willis, and Buddy Rawls; catchers, Clovis Shipp and Don Hazel; outfielders, DeWayne Glover, Terry Haralson, Bobby Stephens, Billy Wray, and James Walker; infielders John Campbell, Larry Stroud, Gary Hill, Wendell Ridgeway, Ruben Strickland, Roy Don Stephens, Lee Roy Watson and Dickie Willis.

7th Flight Victors

The top bracket boys start playing for keeps here Sunday in Championship and First Flights of the annual Pampa City Wide Golf Tournament.

Play was held to a near standstill since the meet opened last Tuesday, due to the U. S. Open in Tulsa, which lured many of the local golfers onto the closely-manicured fairways of Tulsa's tricky Southern Hills Country Club layout.

Only 15 matches were played since the tournament's launching Tuesday. And at that, not any of the Championship Flight swingers, got onto the links.

Pampa High golf coach, Weldon (Bird Dog) Trice parlayed lusty drives with solid putting to score the only First Flight verdict to date. He slammed to a hefty 4 and 3 win over Perry Richardson, dropping the latter into the consolation bracket of the First Flight.

Pampa County Club pro, Hart Warren, said Saturday night, that, "We look for several of the Championship and First Flight matches to be played Sunday."

He also pointed out that a half dozen late entries have swelled the field to 104, same number as competed here last year.

All first round matches in the 11-flight meet must be completed by next Saturday. Second round matches will have to be finished by next Sunday for the Championship and First Flights, Warren pointed out.

He warned, "Some of the Championship and First Flight golfers will be in a little trouble if they delay until Saturday to play their first round matches. It'll mean they'll have to turn right around and play second rounders again Sunday, to keep up with the schedule."

With a wide grin on his tanned face, Warren laughed, "It must be the heat, but I've never seen so many of the men playing in Bermuda shorts. Why, some of them are playing in old cut - off trouser shorts, too. It's a good idea, if it beats the heat any."

Recent hot and windy weather has dried up the fairways somewhat, but the greens remain in tip-top condition, due to night watering. Warren wouldn't be one to sneer at a Monday shower, either.

Finals in the city tourney will be held June 29, two weeks from today, at least in the top two flights, and possibly some of the lower flights. Several flights, however, will stage their finals during the week days before the June 29 finish.

Yanks Sell Aging Sal Maglie To Hurler-Hurting Cardinals

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Yankees announced the outright sale of 41-year-old Sal Maglie to the St. Louis Cardinals Saturday for "slightly more than the waiver price."

Maglie had appeared in only 23 1/3 innings for the Yankees this season and had a 1-1 record. The veteran right-hander, who was sold to the Yankees by the Brooklyn Dodgers, Sept. 1, 1957, always has been known as a far more effective pitcher in the National League than he was in the American League.

He enjoyed his finest season with the New York Giants in 1951 when he helped them to a pennant with 23 victories against only six losses.

Maglie's sale to the Cardinals leaves the Yankees one man under the 25-man player limit and it was expected that they would make a deal before Sunday night's trading deadline.

Maglie, who has a lifetime record of 117 victories and 66 defeats for 10 seasons in the majors, pitched for the Giants steadily from 1950 to 1955 after returning from the Mexican League where he jumped during the 1945 season.

The Giants sent him to Cleveland on waivers on July 31, 1955 but Maglie failed to win a single game for the Indians.

He was sold to the Dodgers on May 15, 1956 and staged a comeback by winning 13 games that season, including a no - hitter against the Phillies on Sept. 25, 1956.

US LOSES TO ENGLAND

Gibson Upset By Young Britisher At Wightman

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI)—Christine Truman, gangling, 17-year-old English tennis prodigy, scored a stunning 2-6, 6-3, 6-4 upset over Wimbledon champion Althea Gibson Saturday to lead Britain to its first Wightman Cup victory over the United States since 1930.

Ahn Hayden achieved the clincher for England when she defeated Mimi Arnold, Redwood City, Calif., 6-3, 5-7, 6-3, before an overjoyed crowd of 5,000 which watched the matches on the famed center court at Wimbledon.

gave America's chances a momentary boost by defeating Shirley Bloomer, 6-4, 6-2. That result wiped out a 1 to 2 American deficit carried over from Friday's opening matches. And with Miss Gibson scheduled for ensuing matches in both singles and hottest score of the tournament. The California blond strove to end the four years of frustration he has known since finishing one shot back of Ed Furgol in 1954.

Tommy wavered slightly at times on those final nine holes, posting bogeys on the 31st and 33rd. But he pulled himself together to birdie the 33rd and 34th by reaching the edge of the green with two mighty wallops, barely missing an eagle with a 50-foot chip and holing a gimme. That was the ball game as he parred those final two holes for a closing 36-72 and his winning total.

Basement-ridden Kist rose up from the depths to smack-down second-place Cres Drilling Company, 6-2, in Pony League play Saturday afternoon.

Right-hander Mike Stewart went the distance in scattering four Cree hits to post the win. He had eight strikeouts and walked four. Jerry Glover turned in a creditable performance on the hill for Cree, giving up just five hits, fanning eight and passing two. He took the loss.

Rightfielder Robby Robinson unloaded the big bat for Kist, slaming a solo-homer in the second inning to tie the game at 1-1.

The five Kist hits and four Cree bingles were divided among six players. Kist pulled a double-play in the 3rd inning, when Shortstop Butch Crossland speared a hot grounder, tagged second and fired to first.

Pampa News leads the Pony League. Cree is in second place, First National is third and Kist last.

'COUNTRY'S LAST SHAVE—Sal Maglie, sold to St. Louis Saturday by the New York Yankees, gets in one last shave on another "old-timer" Enos Slaughter of the Yanks. A former barber by trade, Maglie, claims he is happy about going back to the National League where he knows the batters' weaknesses better. Wonder how happy he'll be come October and the Yanks start divvying up World Series checks.

Cubs Nip Redlegs, 4-3; Moryn Homers

CHICAGO (UPI)—Walt Moryn's two-run homer, Lee Walls' double and Dale Long's tie-breaking single Saturday gave the Chicago Cubs a 4-3 victory over the Cincinnati Redlegs.

Cincinnati spoiled Johnny Briggs' first major league starting assignment with three runs on two hits in the fifth inning. The chunky Cubs' right-hander loaded the bases with walks to three of the first four batters, struck out George Crowe for the second out, and then saw Don Hoak bounce a two-run single through the infield. Ed Bailey followed with another single to score Frank Robinson before Henry came on to retire the side.

The pitching win went to south-paw Bill Henry, recently recalled from the Cubs' Portland farm, and starter Bob Purkey was tagged with the loss, his second against eight victories.

The Cubs broke a 3-3 tie in the eighth inning when Walls, who got four hits in four trips, singled to short center and moved to second on Ernie Banks' sacrifice. Purkey got Moryn on a long fly to right field, but Long singled off the pitcher's glove to score Walls.

Runs came mighty cheap in Saturday Little Farm League play with 88 runs sparking home plate in three games.

Newsman Stretch Pony Loop Lead

Pampa News raced to an easy 8-2 Pony League victory over First National Bank Friday, to increase its first place advantage.

Robert Woodward was the News' winner and George Simmons took the loss. He was relieved by Mike Clark who was later spelled by Earnest Mather.

Ward ignited Cleveland's second three-run rally with his third homer of the campaign. Vernon's triple and Griggs' wild pitch accounted for another run and after Ralph Lumentl replaced Griggs, Maris forced in a run when he walked with the bases full.

EARLY HURLS 7-HITTER

Chisox Crumble Baltimore, 9-1

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Veteran Early Wynn pitched a seven-hitter and Earl Battey broke a 1-1 tie with a two-run homer in the fourth inning Saturday as the Chicago White Sox defeated the Baltimore Orioles, 9-1.

Landis, hitting safely in his 14th, straight game, followed with a double and scored the third run of the inning on a single by Wynn.

Wynn breezed to his sixth win against five losses and his 16th lifetime win over Baltimore in 18 decisions. The veteran right-hander had 10 strikeouts, walked only one and was never in trouble after Gene Woodling hit a bases empty homer, his third, with two out in the third inning. He permitted only one hit during the last six innings.

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Successive home runs by Ken Boyer and Gene Green in the fourth inning gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 2-1 victory over the Milwaukee Braves Saturday in the teams' second straight rain-shortened game.

The White Sox went right to work on Loes in the first inning when Billy Goodman was hit by a pitch. Nellie Fox walked and Earl Torgerson singled with two out to drive in Goodman.

The homers were Boyer's 12th and Green's fifth. They came after the Braves had taken a 1-0 lead in the top of the fourth inning on Bill Bruton's double, and successive errors by Green and Larry Jackson. Jackson pitched out of danger by forcing Hank Aaron to hit into a double play.

Warren Spahn, who took the defeat, was frequently in trouble. He now has an 8-3 record.

The Braves had the bases loaded in their half of the seventh inning with only one out but the rain became so heavy that the umpires were forced to call time.

Neil Chrissy hit his fifth homer for Washington in the sixth.

Williams and Piersall drove homers along a 35-mile-an-hour wind while Malone had a triple and a single in three trips, the three-bagger being blown over centerfielder Woody Head's head for two runs in the first inning.

Hemus, who now has hit safely in 14 straight games, led off the seventh inning with his third homer of the year to break a 2-2 tie and lift Roman Semproch to his seventh win. It also was the third straight triumph for Philadelphia's rookie right-hander.

Williams' home run carried into the right field stands with two on in the second. It was the big leftfielder's seventh of the season and his first since May 27. Piersall's bases empty ground rule home run glanced off the center field wall in and out of the bleachers.

The Indians sent 10 men to the plate in the sixth. Colavito led off with his ninth homer and three more runs followed on a walk, a double, a wild pitch and a single.

The Giants took a 2-0 lead with single runs in the second and third innings but Stan Lopata, playing his first game since he was benched last Sunday by Larry Jackson of the Cardinals, clubbed a two-run homer in the fourth inning to tie the score.

Panhandle Outdoor Life

By STARKY WHITEHORN Game Warden

Coach Weldon Chapman once used a phrase, "When you have a weak football team, you must emphasize good sportsmanship and how to be a graceful loser." The coach didn't say anything about what to do when you had the material, but it was implied that he made use of it.

For the last few years "good wildlife conservation" should have been and was the main idea with most wildlife managers. And it now appears that the good conservation practices that have been put into effect, will pay off handsomely this fall.

One of the good practices, hunter's not asking ranchers for rights to kill the scarce bobwhite quail, has helped. With barely any seed stock on the ranches, the landowners also refrained from hunting quail, because of their shortage.

Thus, during the past few years, the birds were conserved, and as a result, area hunters are due a whale of a crop to fire at this autumn.

Nature surely must have a cunning way to preserve game in critical years, else there wouldn't be any upland game birds on the ranges at this time. Last year when the birds were scarce, especially in the central part of the Panhandle, the quail were almost as elusive as a ghost. Why were they that way? Nature has an uncut method of providing for its own is my guess.

For an example of the elusiveness of the bobwhite—a friend and I were training dogs and we had only flushed one small covey. Finally, the friend tired of climbing the sand hills and decided to rest for a few moments. I took the dogs on a short distance further, then I heard him yell. Upon joining up with my companion, he said that he had walked up a covey of about 30 birds and that they had "hit right over here."

We carefully worked the area for an hour and only found three quail. I am sure that all 30 birds were in the area of the three flushed birds but the dogs pointed not one. In good bird years dogs can wind (smell) birds, either singles or coveys, for as much as a hundred yards or more, yet these dogs couldn't smell a bird when they practically stepped on one. Not only were the birds "small-proof," they weren't seen unless they were flushed by a person walking or by a bird dog. In other words, there were practically no quail seen from an automobile or from horseback.

Last winter one ranch foreman was asked how many coveys he thought there might be on the ranch and his answer was, "None. I feed every day and ride much of the time and I haven't seen a quail on the ranch." This was a very typical of the comments of the cowboys.

Now the picture has reversed itself. The typical comment is something like this, "I don't know how many I see a few pairs of bobs and still more blues and I hear them whistling all over the ranch."

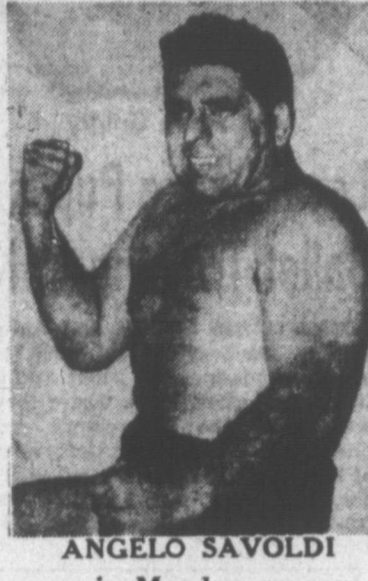

Really we didn't have many birds carried over from last year but we stand a very good chance

AGAINST IRON MIKE Joe Gets Chance To Square Things

This has just got to be Tokyo Joe's week to win, not wait!

Three weeks ago Tokyo was putting the press to Bull Curry at the local wrestling arena, the Top o' Texas Sportsman Club, when the Bull whipped out a pair of brass-nucks and began beating large lumps on the Jap's skull. It wasn't long before Tokyo was out like a light, asleep on dream street.

When he awoke from his slumber, he vowed he would "molder dat Bull" in a return bout the next Monday night here. Tokyo was raring to go the following week, but the Bull was nowhere to be found. He had flown East to the side of his sick wife, and strapping Bob Geigel stepped through the ropes come time for the main event to face the tricky Tokyo.

ANGELO SAVOLDI ... in Monday opener

The Jap never got any of his tricks out of the bag against Geigel who gave him a sound thumping. He was so mad, his anger mounted for last week's match with Bull Curry, but again the latter failed to show, remaining at the side of his wife.

Dory Funk was drafted to see if he could cool down the enlivened Jap, and although he suffered some painful moments, Funk was declared winner by disqualification when semi-finalist Iron Mike De Baise, barged into the ring and began beating on Funk.

Iron Mike's outside interference brought about the disqualification for Tokyo, who upon learning this took out after a fleeing Iron Mike, screaming, "No help wanted," and other such gentle words. Local law officers were forced to restrain Tokyo from wrecking the place, and it was later agreed that the two hard-haters, Tokyo Joe and Iron Mike, should publicly express their dislikes for one another.

Thus was made this week's main event, which will be untimed Monday night. It'll be a best 2 of 3 fall affair with an hour time limit.

Angelo Savoldi, a barrel-chested ring vet, tackles Ricky Romero in the 8:30 opener and the Great Zorro faces Bob Elliott in the night's semi-final match.

Tim Tam To Get Surgery On Tuesday

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Tim Tam, who won two jewels of racing's triple crown before he limped home second to Cavan in the Belmont Stakes, will undergo surgery next Tuesday to correct the bone broken in his right foreleg.

The operation will be at the University of Pennsylvania school of veterinary medicine.

Dr. Jacques Jenny, associate professor of veterinary medicine, will perform the two-hour operation, assisted by a team of veterinary surgeons trained especially for the type of operation needed for the injury.

The hospital operating room will have the same sanitary features as if a human were undergoing surgery.

The thoroughbred will take about two weeks of post-surgical care and treatment during a recovery and rehabilitation progress period, the hospital announced.

Photographers will not be permitted to take pictures of Tim Tam before the operation for fear of exciting the colt and thus causing him to aggravate the injury. Pictures will be permitted after the surgery and during the recuperation period.

September, 1954.

"Then," Mrs. Barnes relates, "this is when my gray hair started. (Ed's note: It isn't gray, at all!) Within two weeks, I had a letter informing me of the patent fee and of the procedure to follow. In December, 1954, the patent was granted. Now, not only do I have the patent papers, but we have a trademark registration, the "Quickit," which came several months after the patent was granted."

Patent fees, attorney fees, trademark registrations can amount to great sums, Mrs. Barnes found, but by working as a dental assistant and with the assistance of a bank loan, but most of all with the love, interest, and cooperation of her family, she was able to realize her dream of a patented fashion "must."

Mrs. Barnes recalls that in the Spring, after her patent came through, she had the pleasure of showing her purses in a Style Show, sponsored by the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, "Springtime In Paris."

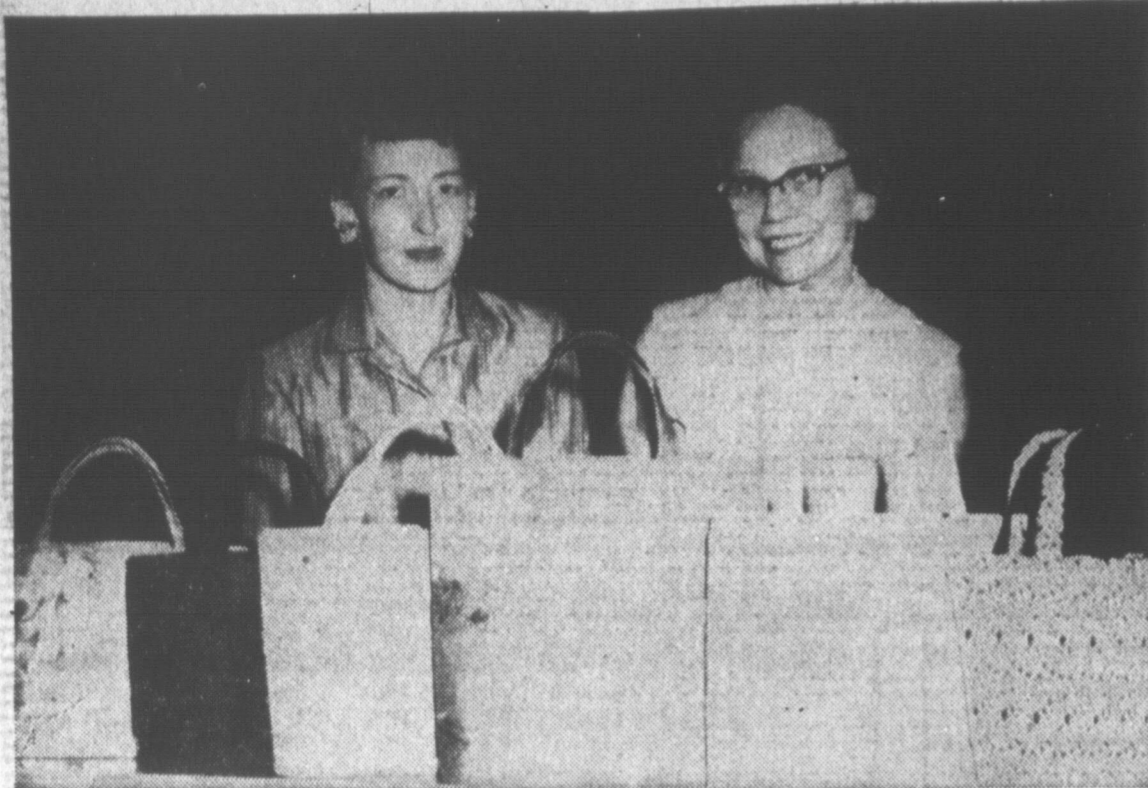

In the fall of 1956, still believing as much as ever in her idea, but realizing the time of "playing" was over, she began to work with it in earnest. She found she needed to know about invoicing and market technique. She sought and found employment in the dry goods department of a local department store.

In January, 1957, she went to Dallas and worked in a fashion showroom selling ten different lines of handbags. She began toying with the idea of leasing her patent to a factory and was introduced to an interested buyer. But the affiliation between the creator and the fashion baby was too strong, she found she could not sell it.

"After deciding not to sell, nothing was done for a period of time, due mostly of lack of funds," Mrs. Barnes relates.

And then the strange finger of fate began to nudge Mrs. Barnes into a new relationship with a life-long acquaintance, Mrs. Tom Rogers. Homer Craig, in searching for a teacher for the First Christian Church Sunday School class of three-year-olds, asked Mrs. Barnes if she would like to teach it. She accepted and found that her assistant was to be Mrs. Rogers, who owns an interior decorating shop in her home. From this association, grew a partnership, which is just now in first bloom.

The journey and adventure of "QUICKIT" — Mrs. Earl Barnes, right, with her partner, Mrs. Tom Rogers, left, are displaying a selection of custom-made handbags, which they have recently completed. Mrs. Barnes, creator of the "Quickit," hopes to be able someday to go into the production of the kits, which will enable milady to make her own purse, as simply as she would cover a button or belt.

Birth Of A New Fashion Idea, "Quickit" Is Brain-Child Of Local Pampa Matron

by DORIS WILSON
Pampa News Women's Editor
Breathes there a woman with fashion sense so dead, who never to herself has said, "Wish I had a purse to match this dress!" Well, if two smart Pampa matrons have their way about it, this wish can easily come true.

Just about as simply as you cover a belt buckle for your dress, one of these days, in the not too far distant future, you will be able to make your own purse at home that will individualize a just-right fashion note for your ensemble. How? Why, with a "Quickit." The "Quickit" is the fashion baby of Mrs. Ed Barnes, who is a native Pampa and resides with her husband and daughter, Betty, just south of the city.

The idea was born one hot day in July, 1952, when Mrs. Barnes was asked to make a purse to go with a dress she had just completed for a friend. "Just out of the blue," Mrs. Barnes recalls, the idea of formulating a simple method for making purses to harmonize or contrast with a certain suit or dress, came to her. Sounds simple, doesn't it? But the birth of the idea was only the beginning.

Somewhere back in Mrs. Barnes' childhood, a bit of philosophy she had heard then, began to stand her in good stead. "If you like an idea, live with it, play with it, and work with it. Then, if you still like it and believe in it, develop it." For two years, Mrs. Barnes did just that.

Thus, began a journey and adventure for her that was to be an education in patent procedure, trademark registration, invoicing, and marketing.

In July, 1954, when Mrs. Barnes found that she still believed in the idea as much as she ever did and even a little more ardently, she sought out the advice of a friend, Dr. Emily Hicks, who advised having the idea patented and offered to take it to a patent attorney when she went to Dallas in

Pink Motif Used In Impressive Service For Installing Eastern Star Officers

The Order of Eastern Star held its annual installation of officers recently in an open ceremony. Impressive services installed. Mrs. Loleat Byars as worthy matron. Her chosen colors of pink and gold were used in the decorations of Masonic Hall.

Installing officers, dressed in pink lace formal, were Mmes. Nell Rankin, installing officer; Maude Andis, installing marshal; Juanita Flewellyn, installing chaplain; and Blanche Morrison, installing secretary. Officers installed were also gowned in pink lace formal.

Following the installation ceremony, a reception was held in the dining room. Pink decorated cake and pink punch were served from a table laid with a pink organdy background. I. Wilkinsons... with his young son, Stephen D... the young mother is the former Vivian Wilkinson... speaking of father's and dads, maybe you have heard a few Pampa fathers babbling around about the Cub-Dad week end at Camp Kiowa near Canadian... it seems about 400 strong pushed off over last week end to assist their cubs in the art of camping out... we hear that Lt. Col. Tom Braly, who is a specialist with tents, took along a mammoth-sized army tent... with accommodations for twelve to house his two cubbers, Tom Jr. and John... Bob Curry and cub, John... and Dr. George Snell and cubber, George A... all the comforts of home, we'd say... Pops and cubbers spent the week end roaming through the woods 'n high grass... over hill and dale... with their young hopefuls... Doctors Falkenstein, Elder, Veale, and Tom Rose with their sons, to name a few... so far no casualties... just a combined taste of sand, camp life, a few minor sunburns, and a loss of that ole vim 'n vigor... also celebrating today in a big way in the wide open spaces will be Dr. Frank Kelley and R. A. Baker and a few of their old golf cronies over Tulsa way for the golf tournament... keep your eyes wide open on the golf course next week cause some of the new ideas will be put into swing... All week long we have been making plans to pamper our Papa Peg today... we have solemnly vowed to let him have his day of golf after reading what Dr. Lawrence E. Moorehouse of California had to say about lack of exercise, which he believes may be killing off Americans ahead of their time... he said that with proper exercise, it is possible to be physically fit at 85... we've also secretly promised not to cast side-long glances at the lawn-mower, hammer, hoe, or paint brush... we've planned a dinner to include all of his favorites and a nice gift wrapped in silver and brown paper tied with a brown satin bow... in a box about the size of a shorts shirt... the whole day, we vow, will be dictated to a "eat and be merry" theme... his slightest wish will be our command... but just wait UNTIL NEXT SUNDAY.

HOW WE WOULD HAVE loved to have been a cricket in the grass on the back lawn of Marian Osborne's home last Monday night when a group of Miami High School graduates in the class of 1935 got together for an evening of reminiscing... conversation flowed forth freely, we hear, until after midnight... exchanging "do you remember?" were Hugh Branch from Cut Bank, Mont... Edwin Southard, Mrs. Clyde Chisum, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Locke, Mrs. Landon Terry... Wilbur Lyons, who was the class president... and Marian... by the way, have you seen June Guill floating around on her own private cloud of happiness these days... well, the very good reason is not only is she to be an August bride but she is going overseas to be married... in Stuttgart, Germany... Jane's fiancé is director of the Seventh Army Symphony and with her talent as a pianist, we hope their marriage will be one long love song... In Germany right now are Mr. and Mrs. Roy Sullivan, who embarked from the New York Harbor on May 29 to visit with their son, Roy Jr., who is stationed in with the army in Weisbaden... one of the happiest "back to the old hometown" visitors we've seen in a long time is Lillian McNutt... who now has her own orthodontist office in Houston after receiving a dental degree from Baylor... we saw her every place greeting old friends and so happy about being back home... they still own their home here, which Lillian refuses to sell, because this is their home... she said they arrived in Pampa about 1 a.m. one morning and just drove up and down streets soaking in old memories... Mrs. Clyde Willis of out North Starkweather way has three of the loveliest grandchildren we hear... Two have been visiting her from Borger and one from Kermit... friends have been so impressed with their thoughtfulness and manners... and guess who is going to Guam? Mrs. Emmett Osborne, of course... she is a wonderful seamstress and has been quite busy assembling a wardrobe to wear when she visits her daughter and family in Guam... she has mentioned something about stopping in Hawaii enroute... our trips to the grocers and ye olde swimming pool these days pale in comparison to these glamorous trips our friends are taking... but we shall not be discouraged... we have a new place to go in the morning... to Girl Scout Little House to board our little Miss Peg on a Girl Scout bus for a weeks' camping fun at Mel Davis.

ON THURSDAY MORNING IT HAPPENED... something to tell our grandchildren about... we saw a stray calf or was it a heifer (our city ways are so uneducated!) running across the hotel site out on North Hobart... in the far distant days when we want to impress our grandchildren with our glamorous past we can say, as we pass the elegant hotel structure, "why, we remember when that was nothing but a cow-pasture"... but, gosh, we did miss a milestone this week, when we missed seeing the Santa Fe take the first train across the new underpass... we have watched the progress of the underpass so carefully... from the time the first scoop of dirt was removed... and then we had to go and miss that train event... the saddest sight we saw this week was a prairie fire nibbling at the edges of a beautiful wheat field just the other side of Panhandle... cars were rushing down the side country road loaded with farmers to the rescue... and they were successful... because upon our return trip, the fire was out... we know that Jane and Nick Kadingo are happy and excited over the purchase of their new home out on Lowry... and isn't that a bee-yootiful graduation present Winton Ed Rowntree is driving around town?

IF YOU ARE HAVING difficulty with the man-of-your-house eating salads, we have borrowed a recipe that is guaranteed to appeal to his he-man tastes... you take three tablespoons of Wesson Oil, one tablespoon of wine-vinegar, one half teaspoon garlic salt, dash of pepper, small package of Bleu Cheese, one tablespoon toasted sesame seed and mix well together... pour this mixture over torn lettuce and sprinkle with shredded Romano Cheese on top... it is guaranteed to make every last lettuce leaf disappear from the salad bowl... now that we have shared one of our favorite recipes with you, we'll call it our good deed for the day, but not before we do just one more good deed and sign off for this week.

Love 'n Kishes on this Father's Day.
Peg.

The home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. N. Abraham, was the scene of the reception following the ceremony. (Special to The News)
LEFORS — Miss Barbara Collins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Collins, and Jimmy Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Roberts, were united in a double-ring ceremony at 7 p.m. in the home of the bridegroom's parents on May 29, with Charlie Tutor, minister of the Lefors Church of Christ, performing the ceremony. "I cook complete broiler meals for my family—thanks to my Electric Range!"

Broiler Recipe...

Here's the recipe Mrs. Wadley used when these pictures were taken. It's a complete, delicious broiler meal — one you'll want to try.

- | | |
|------------------|-----------------|
| Steaks | 2 cans Mexicorn |
| 2 cans asparagus | Tomatoes |
| 1 can pimiento | Grated Cheese |

Drain liquid from cans of vegetables and arrange in bottom of the broiler pan. Place asparagus down center of pan. Place pimiento strips down the center of asparagus. Arrange 1 can of Mexicorn on each side of asparagus. Season vegetables with salt and pepper.

Wipe steaks with damp cloth, score fat around edges to prevent curling. Place on rack of cold broiler pan, season, and place under broiler unit of electric range so the top of the steak is four or five inches from the broiler unit.

Turn oven control to Broil. Leave oven door ajar. Cook on one side until brown (about 12 minutes). Turn and brown other side (about 10 minutes).

Cut tomatoes in halves and put grated cheese on top. Arrange on broiler rack just before steaks are done.

says Mrs. Gary Wadley,

GUYMON, OKLAHOMA

That's the nice thing about an electric range — you can cook complete meals — at one time. There are several ways, too. You may cook complete deep well meals, complete oven meals, complete surface unit meals or, as Mrs. Wadley favors, complete broiler meals. All come out tasty, tempting and nutritious.

World News In Pictures

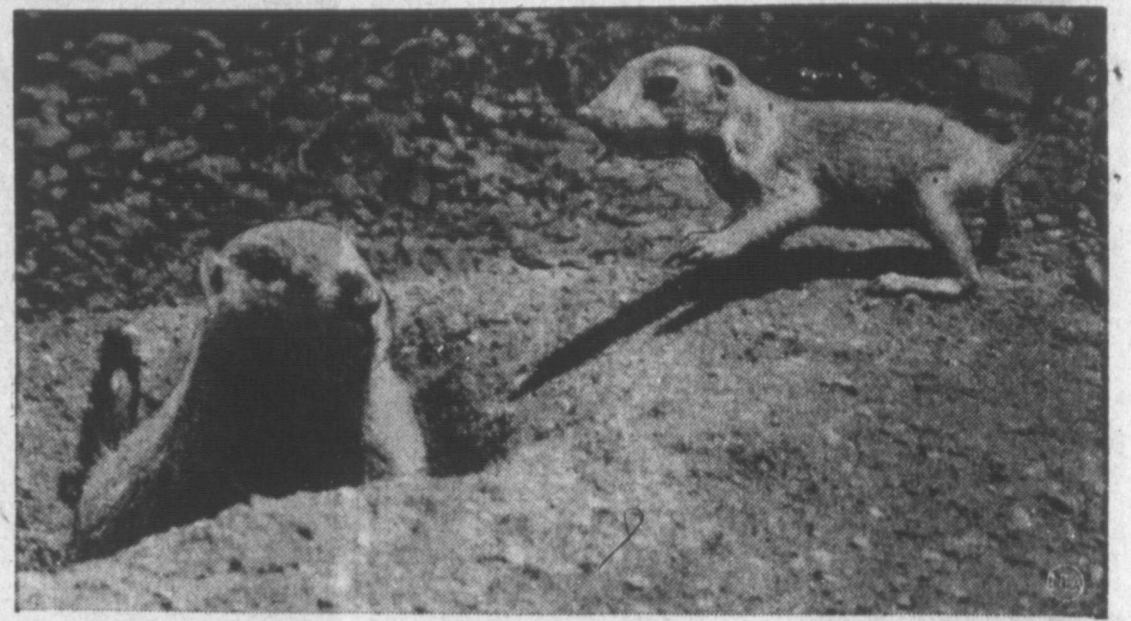

TRAIN WITHOUT TRACKS—Designed for the atom age, this scale model (3/4 inch = 1 foot) of a serpentine land monster is put through its paces near the R. G. LeTourneau, Inc., plant at Longview, Tex. The 450-foot-long vehicle, with all-wheel drive for its 52 wheels, would be suitable to be powered by either atomic reactors or conventional types of engines. The company, world's only builder of "rubber-tired trains," constructed the electrically powered model to prove out the practicability of the machine. Large toy dump truck to right gives some idea of how big the full-sized version would be.

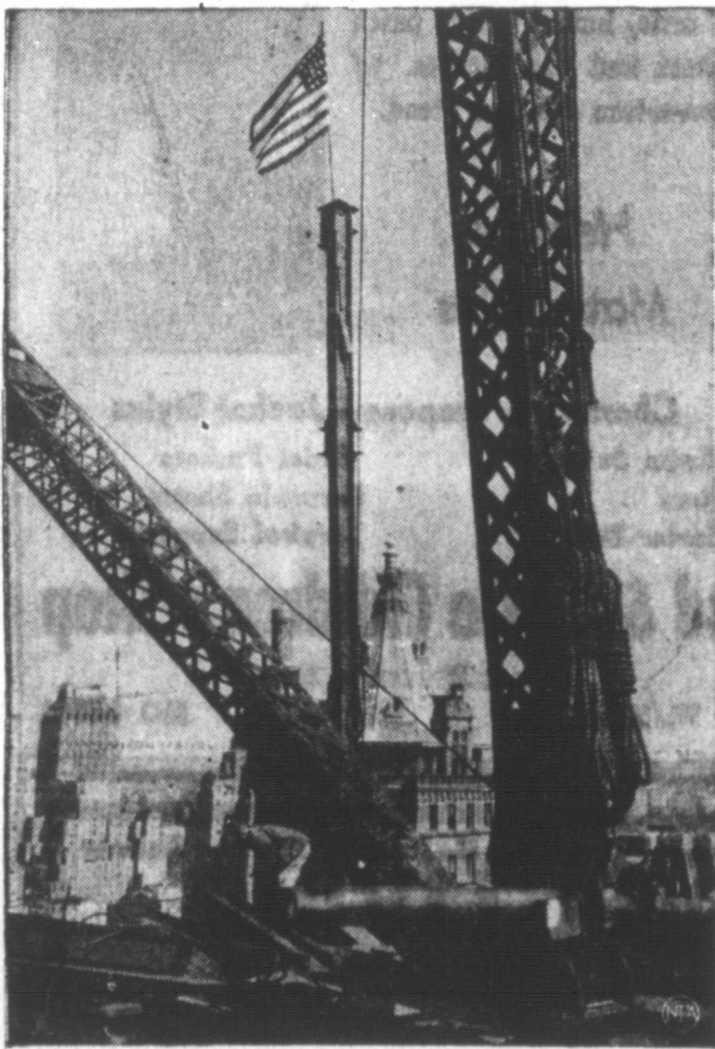

STRAIGHT AND NARROW—The "swim-shift" is headed for the beach in the wake of the new chemise fashions. Created by Rose Marie Reid, the horizontally striped suit is relieved by vertical stripes at hip and edging of the square neckline.

UP IN SMOKE—Cigarette production in 1957 was 442 billions, a record high, reports the Agriculture Department. A 40 per cent increase in filter tips more than offset a 10 per cent decline in nonfilters, but also accounted for a drop in quantity of tobacco utilized—100 million pounds less than 1952. Per capita consumption (number of cigarettes made divided by total population 15 years old and over) was slightly below the 1952 high.

HURRYING HOME—This baby prairie dog is in a hurry to get back to the safety of mother and home. He's a member of the population of the nation's few remaining prairie dog towns located in Mackenzie State Park at Lubbock, Texas. At one time the little rodents thrived by the millions in the Southwest.

SKYSCRAPER FLAG DAY—Raising of an American flag, clamped to a steel girder 28 stories above New York's Fifth Avenue, marks the completion of the framework for the new Corning Glass Works building. The flag-draped girder was the last of more than 10 million pounds of steel used in the building. The entire steel skeleton will be covered with 200,000 square feet of green-tinted, heat-absorbing glass. The building is expected to be ready for occupancy by the end of this year.

STARR AND CAST—Songstress Kay Starr shows the audience her "supporting cast" while performing at the Sahara night club in Las Vegas. It was the first stage appearance for Kay since she fractured her leg in a skiing mishap several months ago. She'll be wearing the cast for another two months. Meanwhile: the show goes on.

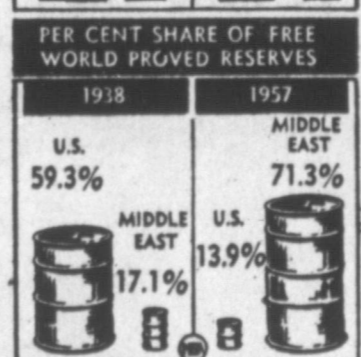

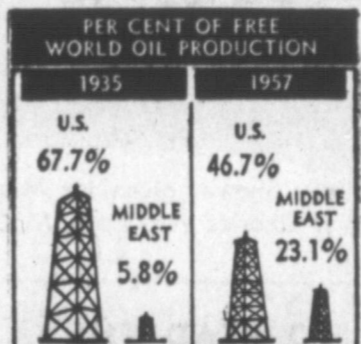

HE BOUGHT IT—Morris Snyder of Canton, Ohio, is out $200 after a friendly joke backfired on him. He and his son Phillip, 8, are shown giving a group of neighborhood children a ride after a burro and cart had been delivered to his home from Indianapolis. A former neighbor called Snyder and told him he had a burro and cart for sale. Snyder said he would buy if his friend could deliver. He did—much to Snyder's surprise. No doubt his passengers are convinced it was a good buy.

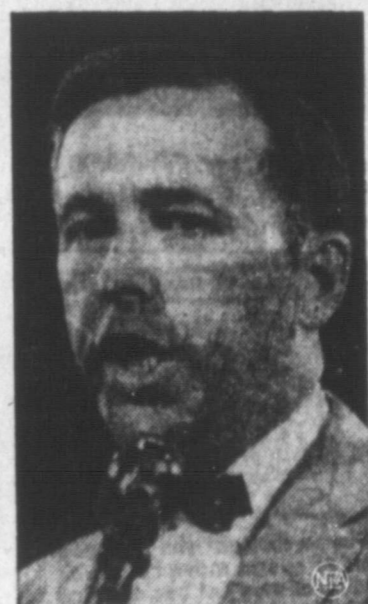

DISASTER DIRECTOR—William E. Crockett, above, is the new director of the Natural Disaster Office, of the Federal Defense Administration. Crockett, former deputy administrator of the CD office in Denton, Tex., succeeds Maj. Gen. Holmes E. Dager (Ret.). Dager has been reassigned as the agency's military liaison officer.

FIELD DAY—Jimmy Hocking, 5, gets a good grip on brother Bruce's neck to keep from getting lost as they walk through a wheat field on their father's farm near Salina, Kansas. Record yields, expected in the 1958 harvest, are being threatened with destruction from hordes of voracious grasshoppers which have invaded Kansas and five other states.

SHIFT IN OIL POWER—A dramatic change in the position of the United States as an oil power is shown in Newschart above. While America still leads in world oil production, U.S. reserves (oil still underground) are estimated today at 33 billion barrels as against 169 billion barrels in the Middle East. No major oil field (100 million barrels or more) has been discovered in the United States since 1958. Data from a recent study by Leonard M. Fanning, editor of World Petroleum Politics.

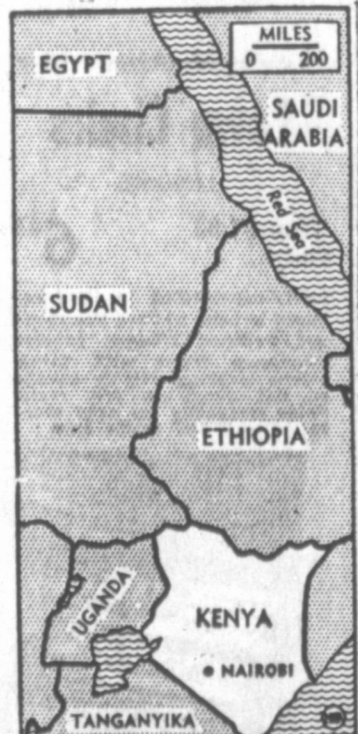

WOULD STOP TESTS—Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.) has proposed that the United States halt its above-ground nuclear tests for six months after it completes the current series in the Pacific. Jackson, a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee and Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee, said the suspension would not hurt the U.S. defense effort and would aid negotiations with the Russians for a future test ban.

LEFTY!—Lovely Jo Elaine Wagner is all set to go with a left hand toss on the beach in Miami, Fla. Just in case she heaves the ball too far, she brought along a spare.

TOO BIG—They're not drafting the diaper set in France as yet, which is just as well for the quartermaster's department. This young fellow found a standard issue helmet a bit large when he was brought to visit aboard a troopship in the harbor at Casablanca, Morocco.

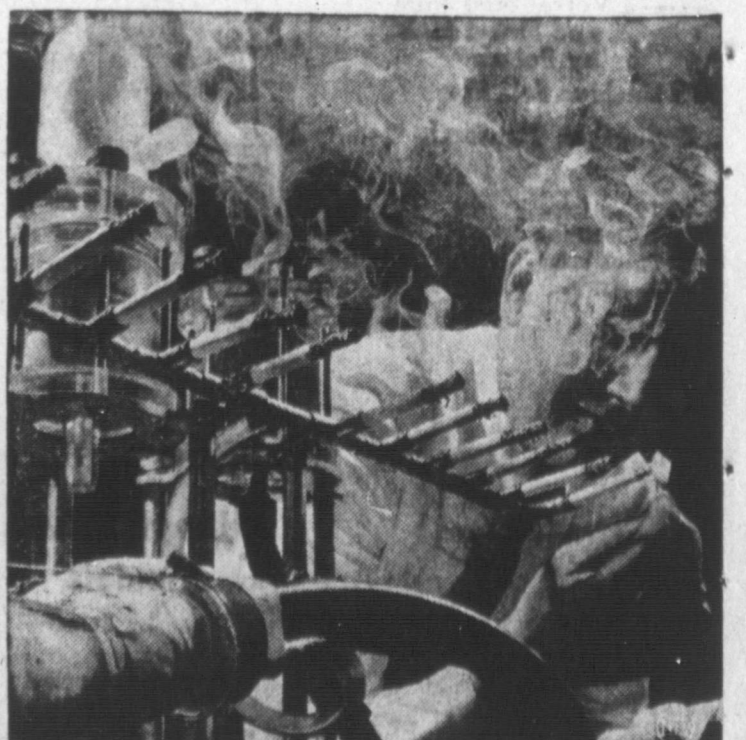

TROOPS TO KENYA—According to a London announcement, Britain will strengthen its strategic reserve in Kenya by moving another 1,600 troops to the Nairobi area (see Newsmap) in June. This movement of troops, it was pointed out, had nothing to do with any current troubles. The movement is part of the plans outlined in the Army Estimates Memorandum in March by Britain's War Minister Christopher Soames.

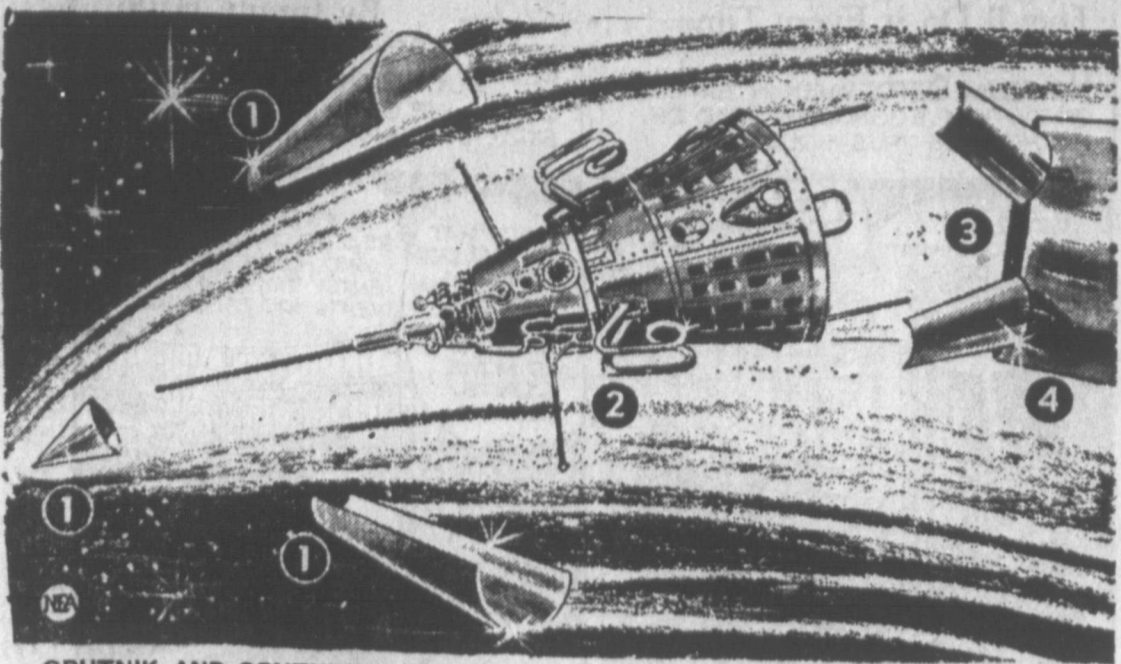

TRAFFIC RIBBON—The new, ribbon-like Morrison Street Bridge in Portland, Oregon, is designed to free travel formerly tied in knots by the old drawbridge over which it towers. It's a $12 million dollar strand for Portland's traffic package.

THIS WAS THE FIRST—Mrs. Esther C. Goddard, widow of the late Dr. Robert H. Goddard, "Father of American Rocketry," accepts a replica of the world's first liquid-propelled rocket launched by her husband in 1926. Mrs. Goddard was guest of honor at the first National Missile Industry Conference held recently in Washington. Presenting the model is Lewis H. Glaser, president of Revell, Inc.

SUPERCHAIN SMOKER—Puffing up a storm, this experimental heart pump consumes cigarettes at superchain-smoking speed in Minneapolis, Minn. Nonsmoker Dave Sutton, a Minneapolis-Honeywell engineer, lights up another for the voracious machine in a sealed room where designs for electronic air-cleaning equipment are tested. It would remove stale tobacco odors from home or office.

SPUTNIK AND SPUTNIKETTES — Russia's huge Sputnik III had four small companions placed in orbit with it on May 15, according to the Soviet newspaper Pravda. Drawing above, based on a diagram published in the official paper, shows: (1) protective nose cone and shields, separated; (2) Sputnik III; (3) separated shields, attached to (4) carrier rocket. Four objects were sighted over this country shortly after the satellite was launched. The rocket and Sputnik III are still being observed and are now traveling about a half hour apart. But the nose cone and shields, being light and more susceptible to atmospheric friction, may already have fallen.

OIL PAGE Oil Firms Starting 'Vindication Fight'

Weekly Oil Column By HARRY WILSON SHARPE United Press International WASHINGTON (UPI) — Twenty nine oil companies indicted in Alexandria, Va., last month on charges of conspiring in 1966-67 to raise and fix crude oil and gasoline prices began their fight for vindication this week. Preliminary legal maneuvering indicated the fight, like the long-pending anti-trust cartel suit in New York, could last for years. Attorneys for the accused quickly won from Federal Judge Albert V. Bryan postponement of formal arraignments until September. They also advised the court they will demand bills of particulars on all the charges, will challenge the legality of the grand jury which voted the indictment; will demand surrender

Gasoline Tax Passes 35th Birthday

DALLAS — The 35th birthday of the Texas gasoline tax was passed Saturday with spinning pump meters rolling up state and federal tax revenues at the rate of $1 million every 32 hours. Charles W. Alcorn, president of Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association pointed out today. Texas motorists began paying the tax at the rate of one cent a gallon on June 14, 1933. The rate has since risen to 5 cents a gallon for the state, plus 3 cents federal tax. Texas highway users are paying some $273.6 million annually in the state federal gasoline levy. The state portion will be about $171.5 million this year. "The 5-cent per gallon tax is equal to about 66 per cent of the basic price which refiners receive for regular grade gasoline, according to recent price quotations," Alcorn said. "Nationally the total 'take' of the federal gasoline tax is now more than $1.5 billion a year, and of all gasoline taxes, more than $4.5 billion a year."

BUY A HOME—FIRST

Whether you're newlyweds or old-marrieds, nothing is quite so satisfying as your own home—in the environment that suits your every wish—neighbors with whom you have common interests. But to be sure you get the value you are paying for, buy through a Realtor, who knows every neighborhood's history and future—and who can save you months of aimless house-hunting.

Remember, not every broker is a Realtor. This Board and the National Association of Real Estate Boards require that every Realtor subscribe to a strict Code of Ethics. Put your confidence in him. For a list of Realtors in this area, call (Local Board phone number).
