Army Inspectors Probe Explosion

LEONARDO, N.J. (UP) — A crack team of Army inspectors opened an investigation Friday into the explosion of eight super-sonic Nike Ajax missiles that killed between seven and 10 persons and injured three others at a "safe as a gas station" Nike base near here.

Investigators from the Army Safety Inspector's Office in Washington rushed to the Chapel Hill Nike Base two miles from here Thursday after it was devastated by an explosion of Nike-Ajax missiles.

The disaster came only three days after Army inspectors had rated the installation "superior" in overall safety.

And the explosion coincided with an Army announcement it was rearming nine New Jersey anti-aircraft bases with deadlier Hercules missiles in place of the Nike-Ajax types. The Hercules can carry a nuclear warhead. The Nike-Ajax cannot.

The disaster set off a wave of bitter indignation among municipal officials in the area, who charged they had been assured by military officials that the missile base posed no threat to the civilian population.

At least seven men were killed in the thunderous explosion, according to Brig. Gen. Charles F. Duff, commander of the 52nd Anti-aircraft Brigade at Fort Wadsworth, N.Y. Three were missing and feared blown to bits. Three men were injured, one seriously.

Army pathologists were called in to try to identify the dead.

All the casualties, including civilians and soldiers, were on the base. Damage to the base, about the size of a baseball field, was estimated unofficially at $150,000.

No one was reported injured off the base, 30 miles south of New York City at the southern edge of New York bay.

The explosions, which came in rapid succession about 1:30 p.m. e.d.t., caused deep resentment among municipal officials of the area.

Mayor Frank F. Blaisdell of Middletown Township said he doubted that the Army would move the missile base despite the explosions.

The Air Force refused immediate comment on a query whether the new orders would affect Strategic Air Command (SAC) bombers.

The Air Force said it was studying the President's order.

Eisenhower late Thursday issued immediate orders putting some military flights under civilian control and tightening flight restrictions on others.

Meeting Scheduled

Lt. Gen. Elwood R. Quesada, chairman of the President's Air Coordinating Committee, scheduled a meeting of the committee Friday to take up the safety orders.

Quesada said a start could be made on putting the new regulations into effect within a few days but that technical problems would prevent them all from being completely carried out for some time.

The Senate Aviation Subcommittee, meantime, continued its probe of the air safety problem, scheduling testimony from a string of witnesses Friday.

Committee Chairman A. S. Mike Monroney (D-Okla.) disclosed that 33 senators have joined him in sponsoring a bill to put all air traffic under one big civilian control agency. An identical bill is under study in the house.

Menaces Still Exist

Aviation experts pointed out the President's orders did not serve as a cure-all to the problem of air collisions. It would do much to avoid the menace of military-scheduled airline collisions, they said, but would not involve private planes.

The President directed that: All military jets flying from flight plans in advance with the one base to another must file CAA in both good and bad weather.

Jet planes making operations flights over civilian airways will be under civilian control and will be required to fly under instrument flight rules.

Jet planes flown by student pilots on civilian airways must be under CAA control and under instrument flight rules rather than visual flight rules.

Jet pilots making proficiency flights must stay off civilian airways.

All jets coming from a higher to a lower altitude must be of civilian airways. When crossing civilian airways, jet pilots will come under civilian control if under 25,000 feet.

Pampan Heads Highway Group

Frank Lard, local motel operator, rose to the presidency of the Texas Branch of U.S. Highway 60 Association at the Branch Meeting in Amarillo Thursday. E. O. Wedgworth, manager of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, came in as secretary and Earl Phillips of Hereford as vice president.

Lard is a director of the U.S. National Highway 60 Association that held its first general session in Amarillo at 10 a.m. today. The National Meeting will conclude Saturday with the after-banquet address of Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

Several local business people are attending the meetings.

Noon Lions Entertained By Three

A young "vaudeville troupe" graced the stage at the Noon Lions Club meeting Thursday in the Dining Hall of the First Methodist Church. The performers were Acrobat Susan Tabor and the pianist team of Mike and Dianne Phillips, all from the Second Grade of Horace Mann.

Ralph Thomas, chairman of the Lions' Agricultural Committee, presented a plaque to W. C. Epperson, the man who, in the opinion of the Port Worth Press, has done the most for soil conservation in the Gray County District.

Susan, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Tabor, 116 S. Falkner, cavorted on the low stage before Mike came on with his guitar and Dianne took to the piano.

"We will do three numbers," said Dianne. "The Little Blue Man, 'Teen Age Queen' and 'He's Got the Whole Wide World in His Hands.'"

Mike and Dianne are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Phillips, 729 N. Nelson. Program chairman for May, Jack Back presented the talent to the group, introducing their parents and Susan's accompanist, Carolyn Whitten.

Earlier this month, Epperson received a $100 prize at a banquet in Littlefield, following the Port Worth Press awards.

Algeria Calls For De Gaulle

Algeria Rebs Establish 'Committee'

ALGIERS, (UP) — Algeria's rebellious generals and French settlers formally established a nationwide "Committee of Public Safety" Friday dedicated to installing Gen. Charles de Gaulle as leader of France.

It was a clear indication that the settlers' revolt which began with the May 13 riots might be getting out of hand, and that the army was committed to an all out struggle against Pflimlin.

Organization of the 12-man committee originally was announced last week, but the final makeup was not decided until early Friday. It is composed of four soldiers, four French settlers and four members of Algeria's Moslem community.

The revolutionary committee called its first meeting for Friday at the summer palace, the usual home of the French minister-resident for Algeria, to name a president.

It was expected that Moslem leader Sid Kara, secretary of state for Algeria under the recent government of former Premier Felix Gaillard, would be appointed president.

The nationwide committee will be coordinators of the three regional committees at Oran, Constantine and Algiers which were set up after the settlers stormed government house 11 days ago.

Thursday night the Algiers committee urged France's politicians to choose "the way of honor and resurrection" by placing de Gaulle in power.

The speaker was Felmer James, 42, an unemployed Army veteran. He was talking with officers about his 10-year-old son, Ray, found dying in the woods after he and the father had been missing for about 28 hours.

Ray was dead on arrival at a hospital Wednesday. Thursday deputies jalled the father on an open charge and sent the boy's internal organs to the State Crime laboratory for examination.

Officers said a search party of relatives found Ray and his father in an isolated, vine-tangled spot near here. They had been missing for about 28 hours.

James told investigators that Ray followed him into the woods, where he had hidden a bottle of moonshine whisky. He said after drinking some of the liquor he fell asleep and that when he awoke the boy was ill.

"We spent the night there in the woods and he got so sick we couldn't go on Wednesday so we just stayed there," James was quoted. "He must have got hold (sic) of some of that mean old liquor."

"I didn't give it to him. I was asleep. It's the only thing I can think of that woulda killed him."

Anyone who knows the whereabouts of the missing men may notify Tracers Company of America, Division A, 515 Madison Ave., New York 22, N.Y.

House Talks Alaskan Statehood

WASHINGTON (UP) — The House resumed debate on Alaskan statehood today with supporters claiming the opposition was about to capitulate.

Rep. Wayne Aspinall (D-Colo.) said "The opponents know that filibustering techniques don't work in the House of Representatives. Now we can get on with an orderly debate and proceed to an early vote on the merits of the bill."

Aspinall spoke after a surprise agreement was reached late Thursday to cut off debate on the bill at 5 p.m. e.d.t. Monday.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee was expected to give its final okay Friday to a foreign aid bill which may carry more money than President Eisenhower had asked for.

The committee Thursday tentatively restored all of the 339 million dollars slashed by the House from Eisenhower's original request. It also approved a House increase of eight million dollars for Point Four technical assistance.

In the House, however, Chairman Otto E. Passman (D-La.) angrily halted hearings by his House Appropriations Subcommittee on actual foreign aid approval. (See HOUSE Page 3)

Law Enforcement Conference Ends

The largest law enforcement conference in the state of Texas this year was held in Pampa yesterday with 229 persons registering. The conference was held in the 4-H Barn at Recreation Park.

Introductions and other announcements were made by Gray County Sheriff Rufe Jordan, host to the officers, and Pampa Chief of Police Jim Conner opened the meeting at 9 a.m.

Special agent in charge of the Dallas District of the FBI, E. L. Boyle, was moderator for the peace officers from most of the counties in the South Plains and Texas Panhandle.

Along with a panel of other officers, Boyle discussed various types of crimes and criminals during both the morning and afternoon sessions.

Panel discussions were held at the conference with Interstate Transportation of Stolen Property the main topic of the discussions. Hot check artists was another of the many topics discussed by the panel.

The following were members of the panel for the Pampa conference: Wiley C. Alexander, Chief of Police, Amarillo, Texas; Paul Gaither, Sheriff, Potter County, Amarillo; Wayne Bagley, District Attorney, Potter County, Amarillo; Rufe Jordan, Sheriff, Gray County, Pampa; Bill W. Waters, District Attorney, Gray County, Pampa; Captain Raymond Waters, Texas Rangers, Lubbock, Texas; Joel Tisdale, Texas Dept. of Public Safety, Austin, Texas; Walter E. Higgins, National Board of Fire Underwriters, Dallas; C. C. Benson, National Automobile Theft Bureau, Dallas; Tristram Coffin Jr., Better Business Bureau of Amarillo, Inc., Amarillo, Texas; Don Blatzheim, Amarillo Credit Assn., Amarillo; Robert Castleberry, Pampa Hotel Assn., Amarillo; Floyd Watson, Vice-Pres., Citizens Bank and Trust Co., Pampa; Jerald Simms, Vice-Pres., First National Bank, Pampa.

Parties participating were the Socialists, Catholic Popular Republicans (MRP), Radical Socialists, Resistance Union (UDSR), and two small African splinter groups.

The Algiers challenge appeared to knock the props out from under Pflimlin's repeatedly proclaimed hopes of a face-saving compromise. But more ominous was the fact that Salan took such an active part in the meeting, he controls France's 400,000 troops in Algeria.

Once again the prospect of riots and disorder was raised in France strengthening De Gaulle's chances of gaining power—and strengthening the chances of a bloody counter-move led by the Communists.

PIKUP 2nd pgh: The insurrection of Gaullist army generals in Algeria was rapidly getting out of control and again the threat of bloodshed was rising in France. Relations with Tunisia reached the crisis stage again and there was trouble with Morocco.

The anti-Paris group in Algeria formed a country-wide committee of public safety Friday dedicated to putting de Gaulle at the French helm and to ousting the Pflimlin government. The Gaullists warned that the only alternative was "collaboration with the Communist plot."

Shultz as installing officer, charged the new men with their responsibilities as leaders of the Evening Lions' Club. Installing Robert R. Hamilton as Boss Lion, Shultz charged immediate Past President D. V. Biggers to be the voice of experience on the Board of Directors and to keep the new president well advised.

Shultz conferred the new offices upon First Vice President Wendell Altmiller, Second VP B. G. Gordon and Third Veep Fred N. Malone.

Handing the toughest job, that of secretary-treasurer, to James F. Snathers, Shultz then recognized Tall Twister, Gordon Crinklaw and concluded with Directors Byron E. Clair and Dr. Philip A. Gates. (See LIONS Page 3)

Interest was keen and inter-team competition high at today's check in meeting of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce Annual Membership Roundup.

The untabulated results are encouraging and show a "go-getting" spirit, said a Chamber spokesman. Under the leadership of the Chamber directors, 20 terms are contending for new memberships and "enjoying every minute of it."

The Campaign will wind up Tuesday with a 10 a.m. check-in in the Chamber of Commerce Conference Room.

Seeks Overthrow Of The 'Fourth Republic'

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent

PARIS (UP)—The Algiers' army rebels called on the French nation today to overthrow the Fourth Republic and sweep Gen. Charles de Gaulle to power.

The challenge from the army generals and their revolutionary "committees of public safety" for all of Algeria was one of the most defiant challenges ever flung at a French government.

It came shortly after defiant generals, Moslems and French colonialists met in a government building in Algiers and publicly proclaimed their all-Algerian committee.

Premier Pierre Pflimlin still was struggling to reach a "peace" settlement with the Algiers insurgents but a rapid series of events made this plainly impossible.

Pledge Continued Fight

The rebels: —Proclaimed the new committee is the "repository of the popular sovereignty."

—Appealed to all Frenchmen in France to set up their own revolutionary public safety committees in defiance of the government.

—Said they would fight until a government headed by De Gaulle is set up in Paris.

Gen. Raoul Salan, the defiant French commander in chief in Algeria, presided today over the opening session of today's fateful meeting in Algiers. It was the most active part he has taken yet in the committees.

Perhaps even more important, the insurgents elected firebrand paratrooper Gen. Jacques Massu as co-president of the Algerian committee—with Moslem leader Sid Kara, Massu has been the most outspoken leader of the rebellion and formed the first anti-government committee.

Postpones Debate On Reform

The government in Paris had no immediate comment on the latest development in Algiers.

But the National Assembly suddenly postponed until next week examination of a sweeping constitutional reform bill designed to give the government vastly increased executive powers.

The Assembly was to have voted on a resolution this afternoon, accepting the idea of constitutional reform in principle, and to have begun debate on the bill itself next Tuesday.

In an apparent counter-move to the Algerian "public safety committees," the middle-class parties announced they had decided to set up their own "Committee for National Action and Defense of the Republic."

Parties participating were the Socialists, Catholic Popular Republicans (MRP), Radical Socialists, Resistance Union (UDSR), and two small African splinter groups.

The Algiers challenge appeared to knock the props out from under Pflimlin's repeatedly proclaimed hopes of a face-saving compromise. But more ominous was the fact that Salan took such an active part in the meeting, he controls France's 400,000 troops in Algeria.

DEAR ABBY...

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: You sure got my goat when you told the mother of a lazy teen-aged daughter to just close the door when her daughter kept it looking like a penguin. I had trouble like that with my teen-aged daughter, but I blistered her back porch so she couldn't sit down for a week, and after that she kept her room spic and span. I say, "Spare the rod and raise a delinquent."

HER MOTHER

DEAR ABBY: We are not rich, but we are respectable people. Our son went to school in Maine and fell in love with a girl up there. We didn't know her folks and they didn't even send us an invitation to our own son's wedding, so naturally we didn't go. We go to Maine every year on vacation but so far we haven't called her people. It has been ten years and we have four grand children, but we are not going to make the first move.

because we were told that it was THEIR place to invite us to the wedding. Please advise us as life is getting so short.

GROWING OLD
Dear Growing: If you WAITED for an invitation to your own son's wedding and then didn't go because you didn't get it, you certainly don't deserve much sympathy. For goodness sake, let bygones be bygones and call her people.

DEAR ABBY: One evening my husband walks in with his father and tells me that his father is moving in with us. I said, "Oh, no he isn't!" So my husband packs and moves out with his Dad. Do you think this was a put-up job so my husband would have a good excuse to leave, or was I to blame?

IN DOUBT
Dear In: This is the first time I've ever heard of a husband and his father in a package deal. Take Papa — or live alone and like it!

DEAR ABBY: I have a next-door neighbor who sits in her window and knows everything that goes on in our house. Every time we have company she tells me who was there and what time they left. She tells me every day what time my husband leaves for work and when he gets home at night. This bothers me very much. I don't want to get on the outs with her but I wish I could put a stop to it. Have you any suggestions?

LOUISE
Dear Louise: There is nothing you can do to stop your neighbor from making a career out of watching your house. People who behave like this need sympathy — not criticism. They must lead very lonely and empty lives.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "THE WINNER": If he flipped a coin over a decision as important as marriage, he must have first flipped his lid. P. S. If you said "yes" you likewise have flipped yours.

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

RUTH MILLETT

"Let the whole house proclaim your individuality," one of the magazines on home decorating urges its readers.

American women can't be told that too often, for a lot of Papa's hard-earned cash today is going into expensive ranch-style houses that somehow end up looking like a series of furniture store display rooms.

And all because Mama is so afraid of being herself. When she starts furnishing a new home she runs around asking for ideas and color schemes, instead of decorating her home around her own and her family's ideas and interests and personal preferences — and the family's heritage from the past.

These timid souls get rid of Papa's easy chair and replace it with one that is neither comfortable nor inviting — just because they are afraid to try to "work in" the used and well-loved things they have with their new pieces. They hide away in built-ins all the things that would make Junior's room distinctly his own, while striving to make it look like a picture of a "boy's" room — as visualized by some magazine or furniture store.

What they forget is that all it takes to make Junior's room look like a boy's room is to let Junior have his proudest possessions out in plain sight.

Mrs. Huey Feted At Infant Shower

Mrs. Bob Huey was recently honored with an Infant Shower in the home of Mrs. Walter Hurst. An orchid and white color scheme was carried out in the floral arrangement of Snapdragons and Daisies on the refreshment table, which was centered with a stork carrying a baby-doll in a diaper. Favors were storks fashioned from safety-pins.

Cake, decorated with orchid baby-boots, punch and mints were served.

Assisting hostesses were Mmes. Alvie French, John Moore, Joe Autry, and Walter Hurst.

Guests were Mmes. Houston Nail, Jerry Parks, Melvin Peeples, W. C. Wallace, Mac Roberts, Vernon Hutsell, Dean Monday, Arvin Calvert, Ray Laycock, and Jack Magie.

ENGAGED

Miss Delores DeBusk

Mr. and Mrs. B. J. DeBusk, Plain Dealing, La., announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Delores to Larry Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Allen of Plain Dealing. Marriage vows will be exchanged on June 12 in the First Baptist Church of that city.

Mrs. Cooper To Present Students In Piano Revue

Mrs. W. M. Cooper will present piano pupils in a class recital on Saturday evening at 7:30 in the Church of the Brethren, 600 N. Frost. The recital is open to the public.

Interested friends are invited to hear Hattie Betsy Goodwyn, Karen Sidwell, Debra Nichols, Mary Beth Johnson, Ellen Young, Kay Gentry, Jan Pendergrass, Jean Price, Garland Goodwyn, Mary Lou Coppeland, Neta Nichols, Carletta Johnson, Judy Robison, Sally Paden, Linda Shelton, Cynthia Morgan, and Gail Champion.

They toss out the old for the new, instead of blending the two together in a way that gives their homes a personal, warm, friendly, "we kept it because we like it" look.

The only jarring note in a great many such homes is the face that the home could belong to ANYBODY.

VFW Auxiliary Plans Observance Of Memorial Day

Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary met Tuesday evening in the VFW Hall with Mrs. Bill Leonard, president, presiding during the business meeting as a report was read of the District Nine convention held May 17-18 in Panhandle. The report stated that Mrs. Helen Mose, Borger, had been elected district president of the Auxiliary and Bennie Lusk, Amarillo, commander for the district VFW Post.

The rehabilitation chairman reported that groceries had been purchased for a disabled veteran's family.

Committees were appointed to be in charge of placing flags in the cemetery on Memorial Day; sprays will be placed on deceased Auxiliary members' graves. Hospital tray favors will be taken to the local hospitals.

Wah-hoo was played during the social hour, followed by refreshments served by hostesses, Mmes. Larry Parsley and O. M. Tigart. Members attending were Mmes. RUTH MILLETT

"How do you measure up against the women your husband meets in the business world? Are you as attractive as your husband's secretary?"

Housewives are forever being asked such silly and downright impertinent questions.

How silly and impertinent they are any man would realize if he ever stopped to wonder how he would like to have magazine writers forever asking him:

"Are you as well-groomed as the salesmen who try to sell your wife everything from a washing machine to a set of encyclopedias?"

"Are you as cheerful as the milkman who greets her every morning?"

"Even though you foot the bills, do you listen to your wife as attentively as the repairman she calls in whenever one of her labor-saving gadgets is on the blink?"

Absurd isn't it? But not one bit more absurd than your wife's being told that she is in endless competition with all the women you meet in the course of your day's work.

What if Mama isn't as good-looking as the secretaries in your office? Chances are she is not as young. Chances are she has a lot less time to spend on grooming and less money for clothes.

Besides, while a secretary has been working in a quiet, orderly office all day, your wife has probably been chauffeuring, scrubbing floors, working in the garden, cooking, settling squabbles between children — and so on and on. Why should they look equally well-groomed at the end of the day?

So don't let those "How do you measure up?" articles aimed at your wife give you any ideas or make you feel smug.

They are silly and presumptuous. Every bit as silly and presumptuous as though you were always being asked to check and see if you are as good-looking, sympathetic, and so forth and so on as all the men your wife meets.

An authoritative source said he was standing on only by overwhelming demand of the French Parliament. It appeared this would not come unless bloodshed erupted in France.

The bill was designed primarily to strengthen the powers of the government and to make it that much more difficult for de Gaulle to win office. De Gaulle himself has demanded such reforms, and the bill was intended to take much of the wind out of his sails.

Daily Papers Will Spend 62 Million

NEW YORK (UP)—A survey of 415 daily newspapers showed they plan to spend $62,911,986 this year for plant expansion and new equipment, the American Newspaper Publishers Assn. said today.

A similar survey in April, 1954, showed 585 dailies spent $40,830,731 for plant expansion in 1953. The number of participating newspapers was given in both surveys, regardless of whether they had any capital outlays for plant expansion in 1953.

"The future strength of newspapers rests on the health of the U.S. economy," Bryan said, "and daily newspaper publishers have demonstrated a realistic approach to their confidence in the future, in spite of constantly increasing costs to produce newspapers."

The spending last year was mainly for new production equipment, new plants and additions and modernization of existing plants, ANPA General Manager Cranston Williams said.

12 Children Die In Fire

WILLIAMS LAKE, B.C. (UP)—Twelve children, including 11 babies were burned to death Thursday night at the Anahim Indian Reserve, about 220 miles northeast of Vancouver.

The blaze, which destroyed the reserve school and hospital, followed two explosions in the remote Indian community. The flames quickly enveloped the frame building and rescue attempts failed when several of the men tried to crash a wall of the hospital to save the infants.

The settlement and the nearest community, Alexis Creek, six miles away, were without the use of a fire department and parents watched helplessly as the blaze raged through both sections of the building.

The school and hospital were operated by Catholic nuns of Christ the King, Sister Mary, on duty in the hospital when the fire broke out, managed to save one child and was badly burned on the face and arms in her vain attempts to save the others. The other sisters were in the residential section of the building at the time.

4-Year-Old Eats For First Time

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UP)—Four-year-old Ronnie Presley ate his first food Thursday. He chose ice cream.

Ronnie was born with an incomplete esophagus. Until Thursday he had been fed through a rubber tube inserted in the abdominal wall.

The boy's parents brought him here from their home in Louisville, Miss., for corrective surgery.

Two teams of doctors, working simultaneously for nearly three hours, isolated 14 inches of the large intestine and connected it with the upper portion of the esophagus. The small intestine then was connected to the large intestine in a new spot to re-establish continuity of the intestinal tract.

Ronnie will go home in a few days.

Youth Urged To Pattern Itself After David

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Evangelist Billy Graham urges young people to pattern themselves after David and slay giants.

He told an audience of 17,000 at the cow palace Thursday night that youth today needs the same faith David had when he chose five smooth stones and slew Goliath.

"Youth faces the giants of jealousy, disobedience, carelessness, sex and the temptation of conformity," he said.

"Just as David learned to fight the giant by first taking on a bear and then a lion, thereby learning the discipline that our youths lack, so too we must win our victories one by one."

He said youth can do this by arming itself with "five stones," as David armed himself with five stones against Goliath.

"Our stones," he said, "are faith, respect, devotion, life, humility and preparedness."

Most of the standing room audience was composed of teenagers. Total attendance in the fourth week of Graham's crusade is 370,200.

You'll have to excuse the Milwaukee Braves if they think San Francisco's "wonder boys" look suspiciously like those same old sixth-place Giants.

The Braves had their first look of the season at the Giants Thursday night and could have been playing the New York Yankees for all the respect they showed a team which had won five straight and 12 of 14 games to open up a 2 1/2-game lead in the National League.

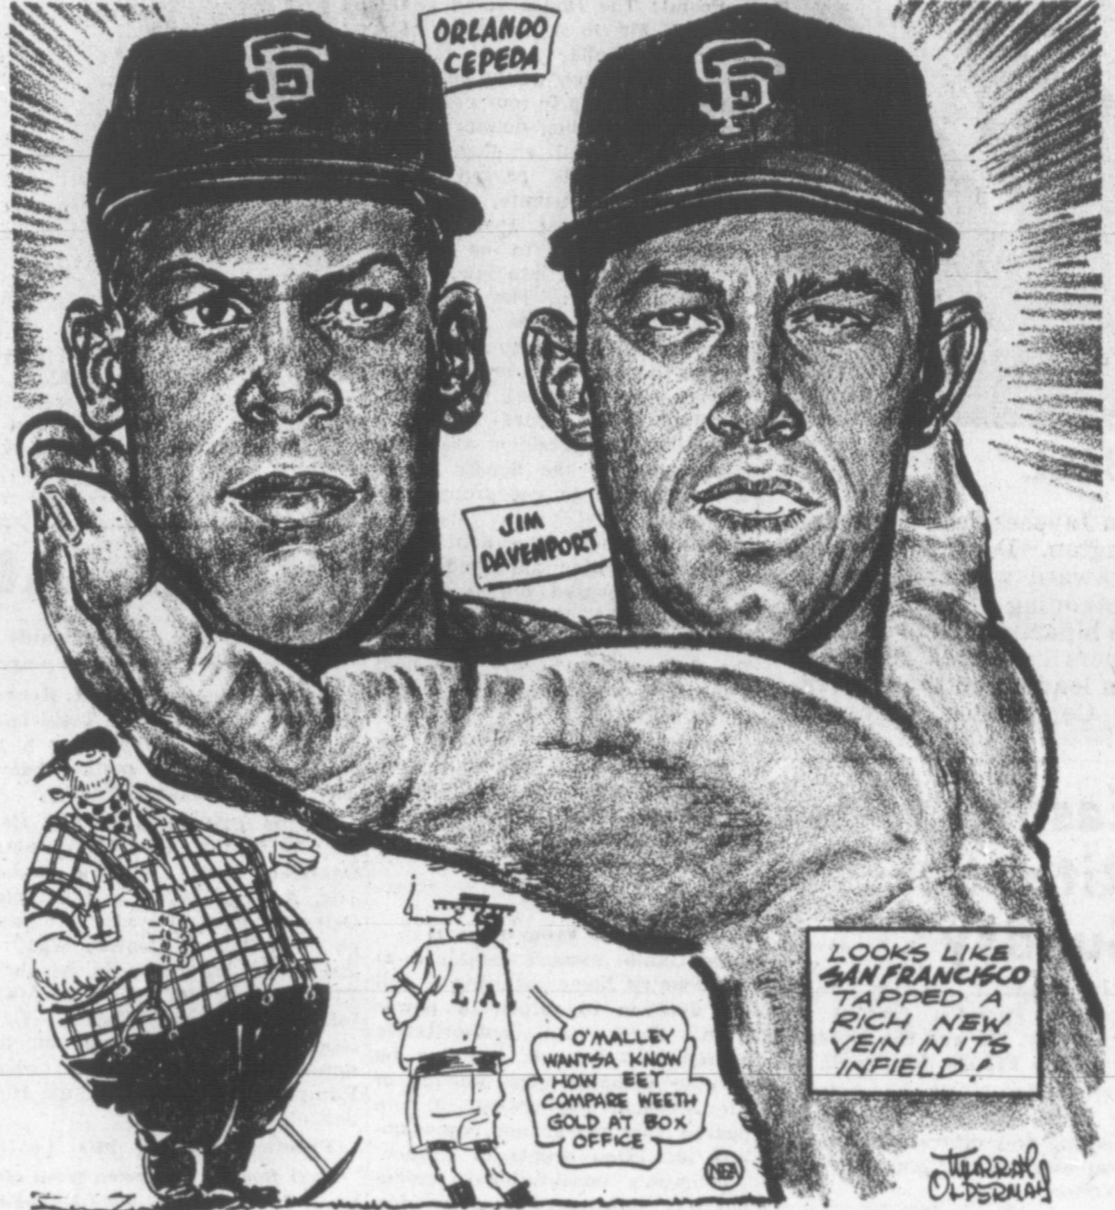

The final score was 9-3 and the chief executioners were Lew Burdette and Frank Torre, a couple of fellows who knew the Giants away back when...

COUPLE OF NUGGETS

Won't Fire For Babe's HR Record

By FRED LINDECKE
United Press Sports Writer

MILWAUKEE (UP) — Willie Mays says it's not the change in cities, but the "change in the players on the field" that's behind the surprising surge of the San Francisco Giants to the top of the National League.

"We've got a bunch of new men playing good ball for us," he said, ticking off the names of four rookies—almost half the lineup—who have taken over regular spots on the Giants.

Mays named first baseman Orlando Cepeda, rightfielder Willie Kirkland, third baseman Jim Davenport, and catcher Bob Schmidt. Asked if he thought the rookies could continue to play well enough to keep the Giants a pennant contender, Willie replied: "They've been playing good ball up to now, and I presume they will continue."

Mays came to Milwaukee Thursday doing much on his own to keep the Giants a pennant contender. He had hit 11 home runs in his last 12 games, and was spraying National League parks with other assorted base hits at a 4.19 clip.

Willie said there's no special reason for his outburst at the plate. "I always hit like that, four or five home runs in a row, and then none at all for a stretch. I don't know any reason for it and don't think about it either."

"You can't get too smart in this game, because then you get into trouble."

Mays quickly spiked a suggestion that he could be on the way toward breaking Babe Ruth's record of 60 home runs in one season. Willie hit 51 homers in 1955 to lead the league.

"I can't do it," he said. "They won't let you do it. They won't let you when you get close to Ruth's mark. They start walking you and throwing you bad balls."

Then in a tone of respect for the Babe's record he said, "I hope it stands."

Giles Would See Bums Leave LA

WALTER O'MALLEY... "no politics please"

LOS ANGELES (UP)—A statement by National League President Warren Giles to the league would take "immediate steps" to move the Dodgers to another city if the Chavez Ravine referendum is defeated.

"If by some chance," he continued, "the voters of Los Angeles should disapprove the contract, the National League will take it as an expression that conditions exist in Los Angeles which indicate a lack of enthusiasm for major league baseball," said Giles.

The National League president said "overwhelming approval of the referendum will be the strongest indication we can have" that major league baseball would succeed here after "the novelty of big league ball has gone."

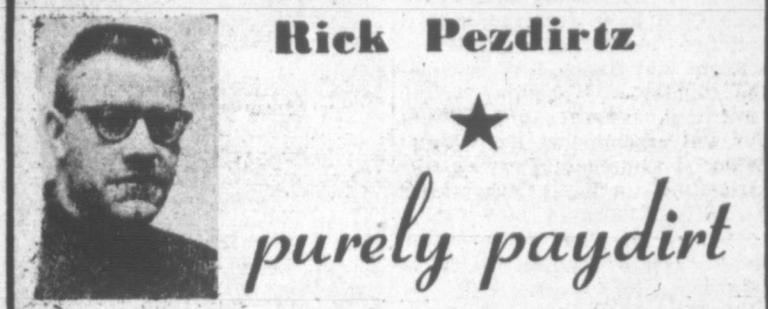

Dodger owner Walter O'Malley, who finally managed to locate the club on a temporary basis in the Coliseum, had little to say when advised of Giles' statement.

The Optimists had only four hits but made them stand-up for their four runs. They were aided by some bad fielding by the Celanese club. Sikes struck out five and McWilliams fanned nine.

A bases-loaded homerun by Utility Oil catcher, Gene Storrs, and a 13 strike out performance by little Terry Holt led the Utility team to a 7-2 victory over C. R. Hoover Oil, in Western League play.

Storrs home run blast came in the bottom of the fifth, with the score tied at 2-2. Terry Holt, making his first pitching performance, was tough in whiffing 13. He pitched the full six innings, being the first Utility pitcher to go the full distance.

Steven Cox was the loser for Hoover, as Utility banged seven hits off his righthanded slants.

November 27 ain't quite Bug's Bunny's birthday and it misses being Arbor Day by a considerable stretch. A lot of citizens will be napping turkey grease from their cans on account of it appears to be the fourth birthday in November. Those who recognize a nose from a duck-billed platypus, take extra care while wrapping yesterday's garbage in the sports page on this day.

It snan't be just another nondescript autumn day in the home of the bulldogs next Thanksgiving Day or the scarlet-clad bulldog will attempt to snap the seat of the pants from Mr. Harvester's trousers in a game of football.

Which automatically takes November 27 out of the ordinary holiday class and casts it in bronze or something. Pampa and Borger High are deadly sports enemies, no denying that, and when the two high plains school heroes gather to match wits and trade blows, eyeballs blink and jaws gape and Time & Tide stands still. Sometimes one or the other opponent does too.

Bark Softly, Bulldogs

Making up something like a quarter of the crowd at last night's Borger High Futures-Exes spring horry-gorry show were four Harvester grid gentlemen and this humble servant of mankind. Despite a homey "eat-til ya explode" styled barbecue the porta it was an empty lonesome feeling you got passing through the steps of Bulldog Stadium.

So little did the upcoming Bulldogs impress Curfman and his watchful aides, Bird Dog Trice, E. W. Ramsey and Dwaine Lyon that most of the conversation ran in the direction of the afternoon's hardy bogey-busting fivesome which toured the front nine of the Phillips Country Club in the brief span of something over two-hours and a half dozen lost balls and forgotten shots.

Prospecting while wondering what ever became of Andy Gump? Uncle Sammy's boys in grey bring in dispatches daily about former Pampa High and city athletes.

To name a few: Jimmy Bond, the kid who hit stardom as a Harvester basketball player, has been named Most Outstanding Player in the cage sport at Pasadena College on the West Coast. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe A. Bond of Center, Colo., and formerly of Pampa, he is a 1954 graduate here and a senior majoring in religion at Pasadena.

From Canyon comes announcement that Larry Ward, frog grider and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Doyle H. Ward, 2223 North Russell, has been awarded a football letter for his stellar end play.

From the same institution of higher learning, Ronald Mills, senior halfback from White Deer, has been announced as a varsity monogram winner for the third year in succession.

WTS Athletic Director, Frank Kimbrough, reminds that Mills was the recipient of the Fighting Heart Award from Dr. James P. Coronett, college president.

From Kemper Military School in Boonville, Mo., comes word that Jim Osborne, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Osborne Jr., and Earl Bogard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl C. Bogard, are coveted athletic awards at KMS. Osborne, elected honorable mention all-school catcher, won a softball letter and Bogard was presented a scroll as the school's intramural golf tournament champ.

Wilkinson also said he hoped that Mike McClellan, the sensational halfback-sprinter whose withdrawal from Baylor and attempt to enter Oklahoma stirred up a tempest, would enroll at Norman next fall. Wilkinson would not give McClellan a scholarship last winter when he visited Norman because, he said, "Baylor might have had reason to say we enticed him away."

Gate Kickback To Bear Being Questioned

AUSTIN (UP)—The legality of former Texas A&M football Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant's contract, calling for 1 per cent of the gross receipts from Aggie football games last year, has been questioned by the state auditor.

A report by state auditor C. H. Cavness Thursday also questioned the legality of payment of $7,214.46 paid to former A&M head basketball Coach Ken Loeffler for the remainder of his contract after he resigned about a year ago.

Cavness' statements were included in an official audit of the Texas A&M College system for the fiscal year ending Aug. 31, 1957, in which he said he noted "a few exceptions" in use of Athletic Council funds.

In December, 1956, Bryant's contract was renewed at $20,000 per year, Cavness noted. "However, as at Jan. 1, 1957, the terms were changed by mutual agreement to provide that the salary of $15,000 would continue and that a supplementary payment of 1 per cent of the gross receipts for football games would be paid to him at the end of the season, it being estimated that this would result in about the same total," Cavness' report continued.

 WASHINGTON (UP)—Maybe the decision which made a shambles of Harold E. Stassen's political career was reached back in 1948, when Minnesota's fair-haired boy walked out on his native state.

However that may be, the Stassen political career which began with four successive terms as governor of Minnesota has been knocked in the head by the Republican voters of Pennsylvania.

Stassen is fresh out of states in which to run for elective office. To a man who has made politics a career, that is a fate almost worse than death. It is, in fact, living death because a politician lives and breathes politics just as a horse player lives and breathes the track.

Back in 1948, Stassen made the decision to shuck his Minnesota voting residence to become president of the University of Pennsylvania and a citizen of that state. This was not necessarily madness because by 1948 Stassen already had sought the Republican presidential nomination once and was ready to try again in that year and thereafter.

A Powerful Springboard
 Pennsylvania was a big and powerful eastern Republican state, better in all respects as a springboard to the presidency than remote Minnesota. But Stassen sprang no further from Pennsylvania than he had been able to spring from Minnesota.

And in this week's gubernatorial primary, the organization Republicans of Pennsylvania cut him down as a carpetbagging outlander who had invaded their precincts.

This year's bid for Pennsylvania's Republican nomination for governor was Stassen's second recent and spectacular try for political identity since the Eisenhower steamroller flattened Stassen's 1952 presidential ambitions in the Republican National Convention.

Stassen undertook in 1956 to bump Vice President Richard M. Nixon off the Republican ticket. His man was Christian A. Herter, then governor of Massachusetts and now undersecretary of state.

Not Even Denies
 The measure of Stassen's failure may be judged by the fact that after his loud one-man campaign to substitute Herter for Nixon, it was Herter who placed Nixon's name in nomination for vice president in 1956 and Stassen, himself, was one of the seconders.

Stassen seemed not to have much political future when he entered this year's Pennsylvania primary so his defeat is no political milestone, as such. But it is important in its relation to 1960.

As governor of Pennsylvania or as leader of the state's Republican Party, Stassen would have held high cards in the game of preventing Nixon's nomination for president in 1960.

There isn't so much as a pair of deuces in his political deck today.

On The Business Scene

By UNITED PRESS
 Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson hinted he is opposed to general tax cuts "in the light of the specifics of our improving economic situation." At the same time he warned that the federal budget, already close to 78 billion dollars, may go still higher.

Leading steel executives indicated steel prices will go up July 1 when automatic industry-wide wage increases take effect. Most industry leaders also confirmed recent reports of improving steel demand and slowly rising output.

New claims for jobless pay turned down last week after a slight increase in the preceding week, a check of 12 industrial states showed. In this connection Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks said the recession has "basically hit bottom" and employment will improve without pump-priming schemes by the government.

Comedian Tries Hypnosis To Correct Weakness, Gambling

By VERNON SCOTT
 United Press Staff Correspondent
 HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Comedian Tommy Noonan, an inveterate gambler and horse player who heads for a 20-week stand in Las Vegas next month, has had himself hypnotized to cure his betting instincts.

Sleepy-eyed Noonan and his partner, Pete Marshall, invaded the home of hypnotist Emile Franchel seeking help.

It was mid-morning and Noonan was in a confessing mood.

"I gamble on everything—cards, pool, dice, horses," he rambled. "Once in a while I win a couple grand at the races, but mostly I lose."

"He has a compassion to lose," Marshall filled in. "He's miserable when he wins because he wishes he'd bet more money. Tommy is never more cheerful than when he blows a couple of hundred bucks."

"Hm-mm-mm," said Franchel studiously. "Gamblers want to lose. Their subconscious mind figures it's a way of punishing themselves."

Against Gambling
 Tommy flinched. "My wife—Pocahontas Crowfoot—is against my gambling, too," he complained. "I'm taking her and my two kids to Vegas with me this trip. Maybe that will keep me from betting."

Marshall put a consoling arm around his partner. At one time they were brothers-in-law. Pete's sister is Joanne Dru. Tommy's time Joanne and John were Mr. and Mrs.

"I'll give you an example of my gambling," Tommy said. "When I came to Hollywood in 1945 I managed to save $5,000 from my early picture work at RKO. I withdrew it from the bank to buy a laundry business in Beverly Hills. Everything was fine when I stopped on my way from the bank for a drink with my brother, John."

"After we'd belted a few we decided to go to Santa Anita to play the bags. Brother John said I wouldn't like the laundry business anyhow."

"The first horse I bet on was a dog named 'Cracks.' He was an even-money favorite, so I bet a thousand on him to win. He broke down right out of the gate and walked around the track. My next horse, another favorite, fell down in the middle of the race and they sent an ambulance out to take care of him. I blew $3,000 on him. I ended up the day broke."

Dubious About Outcome
 With that, Franchel led Tommy away to another room for the hypnosis. The hypnotist was dubious about the experiment. Tommy seemed hopeful.

They were gone an hour. During that time Pete recalled a cross-country saga with Tommy which they began in a new and highly expensive sedan.

"Every time we stopped in a town Tommy would trade our car for a cheaper one—using the money for gambling," Pete said. "By the time we returned to Hollywood we were driving an old wreck. And to top it off, Tommy's wife had divorced him and taken possession of the car, leaving us on foot."

Presently Tommy returned, more drowsy than before. Franchel appeared slightly groggy himself.

"Did it work, Buddy Boy?" Pete asked suspiciously.

"Sure did," Tommy said. "I'll lay you 8 to 5 I'll never make another bet."

Two Killed In Plane Crash

BROWNFIELD, Tex. (UP)—Charles Delbert Gryder Jr., 27 and Jim Youngblood, 19, both of Denver City, Tex., were killed in a private plane crash 10 miles northwest of Brownfield Wednesday.

Gryder, pilot and owner of the plane, was an oilfield worker. Investigators said the plane apparently developed engine trouble before it crashed and burned in open country.

The Budget Bureau forecast that federal spending in the fiscal year starting July 1, 1959, would be at or near 80 billion dollars—the highest since World War II including the Korean War years.

Christians, Jews To Celebrate Holidays

By LOUIS CASSELS
 United Press Staff Correspondent
 Christians and Jews throughout the world will celebrate major religious holidays this week end. The Christian holiday, which falls on Sunday, is called Pentecost or Whitsunday. The Jewish holiday, which begins at sunset Saturday, is called Shavuot.
 Although Pentecost has held an honored place on the Christian calendar for several centuries longer than Christmas, and Shavuot is now a popular occasion for confirmation services, boys and girls who have completed their elementary religious education today there are many Christians who do not know what Pentecost is all about, and many Jews who have only a vague idea of the meaning of Shavuot.
 Actually, Shavuot has religious significance for Christians as well as Jews. It commemorates the giving of the Ten Commandments. According to Jewish tradition, Moses received the Ten Commandments on Mount Sinai seven weeks after the children of Israel began their exodus from captivity in Egypt. Hence the date of Shavuot always falls exactly seven weeks after Passover.
 In some Jewish temples, Shavuot is now a popular occasion for confirmation services. Boys and girls who have completed their elementary religious education will be the subject of the ceremony. The church extends a welcome to the community to come and hear Rev. Norton.
 Rev. Norton is known as a sound Bible preacher, placing emphasis on the Word of God, personal evangelism and prayer and fasting.
 Prior to entering the evangelistic field in 1948, Rev. Norton pastored for 16 years in Oklahoma and Texas. He is a graduate of Bethany Nazarene College, Bethany, Okla.
 Zeb Land will direct the congregational singing and Church talent will give special numbers in song.
 The church extends a welcome to the community to come and hear Rev. Norton.

Rev. Joe Norton of Hamlin began a revival Wednesday at the Church of the Nazarene, 50 0 N. Crest. The revival will continue through Sunday, June 1 with regular meetings at 7:30 p.m., says Pastor Buford Burgner.
 Rev. Norton is known as a sound Bible preacher, placing emphasis on the Word of God, personal evangelism and prayer and fasting.
 Prior to entering the evangelistic field in 1948, Rev. Norton pastored for 16 years in Oklahoma and Texas. He is a graduate of Bethany Nazarene College, Bethany, Okla.

Southern Baptist Officials Urge New Churches, Missions

By DON SMITH
 United Press Staff Correspondent
HOUSTON (UP) — Southern Baptist Convention officials have urged the adding of 30,000 new churches and 80,000 missions to the organization's home missions program which now includes an "outpost" in New York City.
 The 13,000 messengers attending the convention's 101st annual meeting here were to finish their business by noon today.
 The three-day meeting has seen heated discussion of racial subjects and the re-election of U.S. Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark.) as president.
 Court Redford of Atlanta, Ga., told the group Thursday it needed to establish 30,000 new churches and 80,000 new missions in the territory served by the home missions board—which covers 43 states, Alaska, Cuba and the Canal Zone.
Need Missionaries
 Redford, executive secretary of the board, said 1,050 missionaries would be commissioned next year. But, he said, this number was not enough.
 Redford also announced that Paul S. James, former Atlanta pastor, has been appointed director of the newly established Southern Baptist "outpost" in New York City.

The delegates rejected an attempt by a Georgia minister to defeat a resolution calling "for restoration of communication and fellowship with every people of every race and nationality."
 The Rev. Montague Cook of Moultrie, Ga., said the statement was an invitation to integration, a controversial subject among Southern Baptists.
Not Majority Wish
 "I do not bring up the merits of integration and segregation as such," Cook said. "But I do not believe such resolution should go into the records when it is not the wish of the majority."
 Rev. Cook offered an amendment to the resolution to be put to a vote before any decision on the resolution.
 Rep. Hays called for a vote. The first result seemed to be a tie. Then Hays, who was an unofficial mediator between President Eisenhower and Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus last fall in the Little Rock integration crisis, called for a second vote.
 Hays announced the second vote was clearly in favor of retaining the section.
 Then the convention, which has attracted 17,000 persons, passed the resolution as it came from the committee.
 Earlier Hays defended a $15,000 gift to the convention from the Fund for the Republic. The messengers voted overwhelmingly to keep the money.

Hoover Calls For Religious Training

WASHINGTON — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover tonight called for religious training and Bible study among youth as a means of curtailing juvenile crime.
 "America stands in great need of spiritual guidance," Hoover said in an article to appear in the May 26 issue of Christianity Today.
 The article, titled "The Challenge of the Future," was addressed to American Protestant clergymen.
 "Ministers of America are truly on the front lines of the battle for freedom," the FBI chief said. "On their shoulders, in large measure, depends the future of our nation."
 Citing "the evil effect of crime on young people," he pleaded with ministers and parents to offer guidance to the "citizens of tomorrow."
 "If that guidance comes from evil minds," said Hoover, "from men and women interested in exploiting youthful energy for criminal purposes, then that youth's freedom is blighted."
 Hoover added that "What is needed are men and women willing to take the time to work with youth people."
 "These youngsters need religious training," he continued. "They need to know the Bible. Adults simply must take time to work with them. The alternative is an ever-increasing crime rate."

The Weekly Message
Of Inspiration

Rev. John V. Ferguson
Evangelical Methodist Church,

"They Could Not Drink Of The Waters Of Marah, For They Were Bitter."

Exodus 15:23

This devotional is designed to help those who are discouraged and troubled. Like Israel, you are passing through a wilderness. You are lonesome, weary, and disheartened. Have the sweet waters of life turned bitter like the waters of Marah? Israel was in distress and there was no water until they came to a spring, and their hopes soared in the anticipation of the cool water. But when they tasted it, they could not drink it, for it was bitter. It certainly was a terrible disappointment, and we can imagine why Israel mumbled.

Are you, my friend, in such a place today? Then listen: there is a solution. The Lord showed Moses a tree which "when he had cast into the waters, the waters became sweet."

Bitterness turned to sweetness by a tree. Peter tells us of this tree in I Peter 2:24 and Acts 5:30. The cross of CHRIST is called a tree. The bitterness of His suffering was turned into the bliss of resurrection and the "joy set before him." The waters were placed providentially in the very path of the Lord's leading. But the tree grows right beside it. Jesus is there to comfort, sustain, and remind you that it was only by way of Calvary that He could be the Lord of resurrection and life. Believe that this is of the Lord, and He will not allow your burden to become heavier than you can bear. He is only testing you to prepare you to become more like Him "who for the joy that was set before him endured the cross, despising the shame, and is set down at the right hand of the throne of GOD." Heb. 12:2, Remember the tree of the cross led to the victor's crown.

Barzun Strikes Out

We were highly enthusiastic a week or so ago when the Saturday Evening Post announced a series of articles which was called, "Adventures of the Mind." The series began most auspiciously, with a splendid and thought provoking article from the pen of Loren Eiseley, a gifted anthropologist. We were so enthusiastic, in fact, that we could hardly wait for the May 3 issue of the Post. When it came, our enthusiasm dimmed perceptibly.

The subsequent abstraction entitled, "Science vs. The Humanities," is a pallid and uninspired group of words strung together by Jacques Barzun, who happens to be dean of faculties and provost of Columbia University.

Mr. Barzun, with justification, speaks up on behalf of the humanities. We have no objection. As a matter of fact, we were at least half-way in Mr. Barzun's corner before we read his article.

But Mr. Barzun, by carrying the banner for the humanities in the manner he did, rather weaned us away from our prior position. Now we are wondering if they are worth preserving. And we are considering the validity of the argument that science ought to be given considerably more emphasis than it is at present receiving.

The reason of our sudden disaffection for the humanities relates to Mr. Barzun's own evaluation of what they are and what they are all about. To his skilled analysis, the humanities lack purpose, foundation or meaning. They are, as he describes them, "the misbehavioral sciences." But let him explain.

"The claim of the humanities to be a remedy is, in fact, absurd. The humanities will not rout the world's evils and were never meant to cure individual troubles; they are entirely compatible with those evils and troubles. Nor are the humanities a substitute for medicine or psychiatry; they will not heal diseased minds or broken hearts, any more than they will foster political democracy or settle international disputes. All the evidence goes the other way."

Well, that is certainly no argument in favor of the humanities, as we understand the language. As a matter of fact, if we are to believe Professor Barzun, the humanities might well be called the cradle of discontent and destruction.

"The so-called humanities have meaning chiefly because of the inhumanity of life; what they depict and discuss is strike and disaster. The Iliad is not about world peace; King Lear is not about a well-rounded man; Madame Bovary is not about the judicious employment of leisure time."

What then are the subjects which generally fall into the classification of inhumanities, which are dealt with summarily by Dr. Barzun? Why, they are foreign languages as well as the English language, literature, art, history, philosophy and religion. Now that's an imposing array of academic and intellectual matter. Mr. Barzun brushes all of this aside as having neither practical purpose nor intelligent meaning. In essence he hoists a banner over this vast reservoir of learning, lore and logic and calls it garbage. But, to him, the world is a better place not because these things have value in themselves, but simply because they have no value in themselves.

His single cry is that we could get along without the humanities but that if we tried, it would be a rather dull world. The value of the humanities as he sees it, is that these subjects provide a touch of glamour though, of course, they serve no useful purpose whatsoever, beyond protective coloration.

May we timidly suggest that Dr. Barzun has done us all a profound disservice by such a profound lack of understanding respecting the very branch of learning he allegedly supports?

What are the merits of the humanities? They are profound. They are profound because they relate to life as it has been lived in the past and as it is being lived at present. True, they may provide a bit of glamour. This is not a disservice. But, in addition, if the humanities are correctly taught and correctly understood, they can provide a sound moral base or the living of a constructive life.

Certainly, Madame Bovary is not necessarily a constructive illustration. But we can learn, through reading of her misadventures; that the path she chose is one we had best avoid. To the contrary.

The trouble with Barzun is that he himself has failed to find a moral base on which to teach. Consequently, his cataloging of the humanities as just so much realistic tripe is unavoidable.

We hope subsequent "Adventures of the Mind" in the Post gives us both more adventure and more mental stimulation. Barzun goes to the foot of the class.

Unemployment

Is Avoidable

By F. A. Harper

Historical Tests

This theory of how wage changes cause and cure unemployment is not purely ivory tower and untested. Historical events like the present depression have occurred before, and experience may be used to test the Douglas-Pigou figures.

The depression which began in 1929 and reached its depth in 1932-1933 caused unemployment of over one-third of our employable labor force at that time. As best we can judge, this was the consequence of wage rates less than 15 per cent above the free market level. Unemployment continued at a somewhat lesser level from 1933 to 1939, when unemployment was still almost ten million. Wages throughout the entire period had failed to fully adjust to the free market point, 7/

7/Evidence on wage rates in relation to labor output for this period is shown in Why Wages Rise, page 16.

Another interesting test of this concept is the experience of Britain following World War I, as reported in two articles by Sir Josiah Stamp in the London Times of June 11 and 12, 1931. His articles brought up to date the work which had originally been done in 1925 by M. Jacques Rueff, then a brilliant young French economist. By relating wage rates in Britain to the market prices of the things they produced — essentially the same concept here explained — Professor Rueff had been able to determine unemployment in Britain from 1919 to 1925 with some 95 per cent accuracy. Sir Josiah Stamp had the relationship tested again for the years following 1927, and found a continuing high degree of accuracy (89 per cent).

In the unemployed dolers in Britain following World War I, as wages came more and more in line with prices, unemployment continued to decline until 1923. Then unemployment hit a floor of 1,200,000 in 1923, where it persisted thereafter. At first this perplexed the inquirer, until he realized that the sole prevented the completion of the wage adjustment necessary to cure the remaining unemployment.

The sole was set at so high a figure that the least valuable workers and the slothiest were being paid well for refraining from work. Such a person would ask himself why he should take a job, so long as he was being well paid to do nothing. About 1,200,000 persons looked at it that way, and they became the chronic unemployed of Britain in the 1920's. Their support in paid idleness had to be paid for by the others who worked for their living.

The same plight will surely plague us here in the United States if we make the same mistake that Britain made and that we also made to a considerable extent in the 1930's. If a sole is set to chase the wage rate up, so that a "wage for doing nothing" competes with jobs available, we shall permanently saddle ourselves with the costs of supporting untold numbers in idleness and mischief.

To illustrate, unemployment benefits in the amount of $45 a week are now being proposed for New York State. This amounts to doing nothing at a pay rate of $1.22 per hour, at 40 hours per week — if it makes any sense to speak of the length of a work week not worked. Or we can look at it this way: a 40-hour week at even the legal minimum wage of $1.00 per hour would be $5.00 a week less than this sole, proposed for doing nothing.

Suppose you wanted some unemployed person to work for you and were willing to pay him $1.50 an hour for 40 hours, i.e., $60.00 a week. Being able to get $45 a week anyway for not working, your offer gives him a net of only $15 a week for all the pain of working, the expense of getting to and from work, and the like. This amounts to only 37 1/2 cents an hour for the 40 hours of work — a "starvation wage rate" created by the unemployment benefits themselves. The effect of these "benefits" is to reduce your wage offer from the $1.50 per hour it costs you, to a mere 37 1/2 cents net as he sees it. Quite a tax.

And that isn't all. The $45-dole is tax free, whereas if he accepted your offer and took a job, he would be subject to tax on the $60 pay.

So in effect, the higher the dole for not working, the less attractive becomes the wage offered for working as compared with idleness. That is why the British dole never allowed unemployment to be cured during the 1920's, and why it will permanently saddle our economy with the burdens of idleness if we do the same thing here.

The selfish advantages of paid idleness are evidently apparent to labor union leaders even here in town. Witness how the United Auto Workers recently demanded that employers lay off some workers completely rather than to spread the work by a shorter work week. Why? Because they know that unemployment compensation plus supplemental unemployment benefits are greater than the pay for working. The fact that these costs fall unnecessarily on those who continue to work seems to be of no concern to these union leaders.

Robert Allen Reports:

Tito Now Wants More US Economic, Military Aid

WASHINGTON — Marshal Tito now wants more U.S. economic and military aid.

Discreet inquiries regarding that are being made through diplomatic channels to sound out this government's attitude. If it is receptive, then formal overtures will be initiated by Belgrade.

In both the State Department and Pentagon, initial indications point to some new assistance being favored. However, that is still far from settled.

This highly significant back-stage development is a direct outgrowth of the new breach between Yugoslavia and the Soviet bloc. Seeking further aid from the U.S. is one of the first repercussions of this latest clash.

Early last winter, Tito announced he wanted no more military assistance from this country. He objected particularly to "frequent reappraisals" of this program by Congress and the Pentagon. As a result of this declaration, deliveries of military equipment were ended, and the Military Assistance Mission withdrew from Yugoslavia around May 1.

However, economic assistance to that country has continued. The pending foreign aid bill contains two provisions for Yugoslavia; approximately $50,000,000 for "special economic assistance," and another $16,000,000 for technical (Point Four) aid.

Now with the Kremlin truculently threatening to cancel its once-favored aid to Tito, particularly a plant hydroelectric-aluminum project, the Yugoslav Communist ruler is again turning to the U.S. In his informal feelers, he is seeking the following:

$300,000,000 long-term "line of credit," for the purchase of heavy machinery and other industrial equipment in the U.S. and Western Europe.

Authority to buy a "limited amount" of U.S. arms, particularly spare parts for the military aid already provided Yugoslavia.

Since 1951, U.S. assistance to that country has totaled $1,450 billion; of which $900,000,000 is in military supplies, and $650,000,000 in economic aid.

INNER DISAGREEMENT—State Department authorities are split over supporting Tito in his new fracas with the Kremlin.

Frederick W. Jandrey, Deputy Assistant Secretary for European Affairs, vigorously favors that. But other members of Secretary Dulles's staff are strongly opposed. Their dissent is based on two Dulles's staff are strongly opposed. Their dissent is based on two main points: (1) It is still too early to fully assess the break he appears. (2) The huge amount may not be as bitter and deep as between Belgrade and Moscow; it of new economic aid being proposed by Tito is suspiciously large that an independent Yugoslavia is and vague.

Jandrey and his group argue that an independent Yugoslavia is of utmost value to the West. This viewpoint is spelled out in a private Secretary Dulles and congressional memorandum prepared for all leaders. Its highlights are as follows:

"The essential consideration which motivates our policy with respect to Yugoslavia is not whether we agree with that country's political and economic philosophy, but whether we want Yugoslavia to be able to stay independent. Our assistance to Yugoslavia helps greatly in that respect. It is clearly in our interest to provide such assistance.

"As the first European country USSR, Yugoslavia has exercised influence in Eastern Europe out of to assert its independence of the and continues to exercise an in all normal role in world affairs. The refusal to sign the Moscow Declaration last November, on the occasional of the 40th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution, was a striking evidence of Yugoslavia's determination to act independently.

"Another important consideration often overlooked is that Yugoslavia, unlike the USSR and its satellite states, is not engaged in efforts to impose the Communist system on other countries. Indeed, there is evidence that some of the rather liberal reforms which have been introduced in Yugoslavia, for example, the breakup of collective farms, have had definite influence on the thinking in other Communist countries."

FLASHES — Central Intelligence authorities are advising the White House against Dr. Millon E. Eisenhower's going to South America next month. The President's brother, head of Johns Hopkins University, is slated to visit Brazil and other countries, but CIA doesn't think he could do that for the present. All Latin American ambassadors in Washington are giving a dinner in Vice President Nixon's honor in June. Nicaraguan Ambassador Sevilla-Sacasa, dean of the Washington diplomatic corps, will reside. He explains, "Mr. Nixon is a friend of the Latin American people, and this banquet will be a testimonial of our friendship and high esteem for him and the United States."

According to State Department cables from Uruguay, officials there are publicly claiming that President Eisenhower "has expressed approval of the Uruguayan government's seizure of the Swift Company packinghouse." The plant was taken over on the ground it was to be moved to another country, and Uruguay would be left without a meat industry.

Present 'Delinquents' Differ From Those 25 Years Ago

In two important particulars, the brutal criminals called juvenile delinquents differ from the hell-raisers of the same age who troubled the police 25 or more years ago. These vermin can take girls as low as themselves into their gangs and, as though that accommodation were not enough, they rape unprotected females taken unaware in their homes and in public places. In New York nowadays many women will not open their doors to anyone seen through the peepholes whom they do not know and trust. In Manhattan and Brooklyn, women are in danger in the subways at night and take taxis from the stations to their homes where formerly they walked without fear.

If the queasy public should insist on the horrible details of attack on girls by "delinquents," the public might endorse police brutality inflicted with the old reliable discretion of police work 50 years ago. In the old Chicago detective bureau on La Salle Street, a detective sergeant says in his big armchair gently conversing with a thief who had been jacking rolling drunks in the flops on West Madison Street. The suspect smirkingly denied everything although the police knew him for just the thief that he was. So, with a sudden almost acrobatic hitch, the sergeant's foot came off the floor and knocked him twitching in the spillage of an overturned spittoon.

On a hot Saturday night at old Harrison Street, the horse-pistol backed up and a mixed company of street walkers and mailed filed across the walk into the station. One big cop singled out a pickpocket, took him into a little room and knocked him down so many times that the cop himself got winded from picking him up. And Herman Scheuttler, a great tough cop, then an inspector, with one clout of his hand killed an ex-convict who sidled up to him at a bar, and tauntingly invited him to drink. Scheuttler recognized him in the mirror and dropped him dead without even turning to square off. This was familiar police work in big cities. And our mothers and sisters walked home from the movies or the "L" station at night without uneasiness in anyone's heart.

The New York police know horrible details of rapes that never will be told in court, being defended by pleas of guilty to lesser crimes. Thus, Mayor Wagner went undisputed when he made his chamber-of-commerce denial of the frightful truth that not only women but men put themselves in peril in Central Park at night. New York has practically ceded over this dark and bloody ground to terrorists, but Wagner inherited the situation from bad men before him. La Guardia conspired with the traitorous Marcantonio to import hordes of bewildered strangers with many frightened, bewildered children, and dump them in vile slums without skill for anything but scullery work and seasonal pickups in the needle trades.

On the precedent of which many sons of potato-famine Irish and of Italians who helped build our railroad, dams and cities are proud, these unhappy Caribs may hope that their descendants will take pride in telling of the privations and abuses that their immigrant forbears endured in the 1920's. There are many respected, intellectual men and women among us now who parents read ads in

Nixon Visit Revealed Weakness In-Foreign Policy

It was tough on the Nixons, that swing through South America, but it was worthwhile in that it revealed a basic weakness in America's foreign policy.

That weakness is the failure of our policymakers to insist on a set price for popularity before giving away any money. Venezuela is a perfect example of this weakness.

American figured that a billion dollars is a lot of hay, and that in giving that amount to Venezuela, Americans in that country would be guaranteed a pleasant "Good morning," crisp toast with their breakfast coffee, and safe passage through the streets.

But it wasn't. Venezuelans apparently don't have the same respect for a billion dollars that we do. It's a trifling sum to them, it would seem, and ten or fifteen billion would have been more like it.

So, wouldn't it have been wise to have asked them to draw up a price list before sending over the billion? How much would it cost not to have our Vice President's wife spat upon? What would the fee be to abstain from throwing rocks? For withholding curses? If Venezuela had said, say, twenty billion, then we could have sent the twenty billion, for as the world knows, money runs out of kitchen faucets in the United States, and everyone sleeps on mattresses stuffed with the stuff.

Lebanon is another example of how foolish we were not to get the price of popularity down in black and white. Before we gave Lebanon any money we should have asked some questions.

How much do you want to guarantee that our libraries won't be torn down?

What will it cost for our citizens to be safe in your land?

What's the price for keeping hands off our flag when it flies? Then, armed with the figures, we could either have refused to hand over the money, or built libraries in the shape of concrete and steel pillboxes, flown flags built of tear-resistant silk, or quartered all our citizens over there in a converted battleship renamed the Missouri Marine Motel.

We Americans are unpopularity in Syria, Egypt, France, England, and in most way points, and in none of the countries did we demand to get a price before we sent over the money.

From now on we should insist on a price list.

So much for not stoning an Embassy, so much for not writing, "Go Home, Yanks" on the walls and sidewalks, so much for not smashing windows of American property.

Some misguided thinkers will use the abuse of the Nixons to further their claims that America never will be able to buy popularity with money.

They could be right, but speaking for myself, I don't want to be in many foreign countries. I know on the day America decided to quit handing out money.

The rest of the world might never having to take our money, but brother, I hate to think what it would do if deprived of the opportunity to get resentful!

It is to be noted that the world will be a better place if we insist on a price list.

The kids who fought on the West Side of New York around 1910 qualified for abundant representation in Sing Sing. But, on the other hand, many Irish from the same blocks went to college and stuck to Manhattan Island, to pay back the debt they received. And the cops, the old Paris h priests and some of the jail-birds who went away for murder, robbery and other clean crimes, will testify that the females of the neighborhood had unwritten immunity unless a girl herself wanted it otherwise. The same was so in Boston and in Kerry Patch in St. Louis, and that is the difference which puts beyond the pale the ugly terrorist of today's disorders.

If lynching it be when cops crack down on these, that were laudable lynching in a good cause. And after all, who on that side can condemn lynching remembering that lynching has been common practice on the picket lines for 25 years? The old man who died of heart failure after a beating by professional thugs during Reuther's war at Kohler, Wis., was a victim of lynch-law.

LET IT BLOW—These school children in Topeka, Kan., demonstrate how they will stand in a safety area in the event of a tornado. All the schools in the area, which experiences an abnormal number of tornadoes, have been studied to find a "safest area" for the youngsters to wait out a twister.

Indiana Governor Scolds 'Fellows'

By RAYMOND LAHR
United Press Staff Correspondent
MIAMI BEACH (UP)—Gov. Harold W. Handley of Indiana has scolded his fellow governors for reverting to "talk rather than action" in trying to reclaim state powers from the federal government.

His complaint was directed at one resolution adopted by the 50th annual Governors' Conference at its windup session Wednesday. The resolution dealt with the project set up a year ago at President Eisenhower's request. A committee of governors worked with the administration to develop a program for the federal government to turn over some of its functions to the states.

The first recommendations called for increased state responsibility for such programs as disaster relief, slum clearance, vocational education and pollution control. The conference approved of the project but suggested that proposals for vocational education and pollution control be softened. Handley said he was much disappointed and that the conference should have gone along all the way with its committee.

"After one year's consideration and study of this joint commission," he said, "all we have accomplished has been a watered-down resolution, now a statement, that is entirely meaningless. Now once again, we are in the mere area of talk rather than action."

Elsewhere the governors had a wide assortment of ideas on what to do about national problems but they could agree only on one vehemently, United States protest against administration plans for a 10 per cent cut in their national guard units.

On the recession, the governors agreed to urge President Eisenhower and congressional leaders of both parties to join in framing a non-partisan program to meet national economic need. It would cover such issues as unemployment insurance, tax policy and public works.

The conference also elected a nine-member executive committee which elected Gov. Le Roy Collins of Florida, a Democrat, to succeed Republican Gov. William C. Stratton of Illinois as chairman.

Collins' election represented a defeat for a bloc of northern Democrats, who had campaigned to get the job for Democratic Gov. Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey.

Singer Dislikes High Notes In National Anthem

WASHINGTON (UP)—Lucy Monroe, who has sung the Star-Spangled Banner more than 5,000 times, wants Congress to eliminate some of the high notes so more Americans can sing it.

Miss Monroe made the plea Wednesday to a House judiciary subcommittee studying legislation to pick an official version of the anthem.

The soprano sings it at conventions, baseball games and prize fights. She said she always asks her audiences to join her in singing the Star-Spangled Banner but they are reluctant to do so because of the unattainable high notes.

There are 171 copyrighted versions of the national anthem. Even composer Francis Scott Key turned out several versions.

The singer endorsed a version of the anthem sponsored by Rep. Herbert Zelenko (D-N.Y.). It would eliminate some of the high notes.

Music critic Deems Taylor said the subcommittee word he also favored the low-note Zelenko arrangement.

Jacoby On Bridge

West plays low and you finesse dummy's ten. East wins with the king and leads a diamond back.

In rubber bridge you would have no problem. You would play the ace and a small spade from dummy and when the queen failed to drop you would settle for a nice safe four odd and rubber.

Mr. Miles recommends that in duplicate you should come back to your hand with the ace of clubs and try the spade finesse for an overtrick. He says the odds are greatly in favor of the play succeeding.

While I agree with Mr. Miles' thesis that you should gamble for an overtrick in duplicate when rubber bridge play would call for safety, I do not agree in this example. The game contract is too good a one to jeopardize and four bid and made will be a satisfactory result.

Too Much Is Enough!

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UP)—Martha M. Mills, 53, is having her traffic troubles.

As she stopped to make a left turn here, a car driven by John B. Arnett, 34, crashed into the rear of her vehicle.

Police officers asked both drivers to pull to the curb. As the woman drove to the curb, she struck Arnett's car.

There was more damage than in the first collision.

The camel stores water inside his stomach, where there are several pouches holding five to six quarts.

Agricultural Scientist Gets Award

RENNER, Tex. (UP)—An agricultural scientist received the $10,000 Hoblitzelle National Award Wednesday night for his work in transferring to wheat the hereditary leaf-rust resistance of wild grass.

The scientist is Dr. Ernest R. Sears, a research geneticist for the United States Department of Agriculture at Columbia, Mo., where he has conducted genetic studies of wheat for more than 20 years.

The award was established in 1950 by the Hoblitzelle Foundation to stimulate basic scientific research and to encourage scientists to devote their efforts toward solving the nation's major agricultural problems.

Dr. Sears' achievement in the field of cytogenetics will mean tremendous savings to the nation's wheat growers," Dr. C. L. Lundell, director of the Texas Research Foundation, said at the foundation's annual field day and awards dinner.

Dr. Lunell said, "Dr. Sears was selected for the honor of his successful transfer to wheat of the hereditary leaf-rust resistance of a wild grass."

The award is donated by Karl Hoblitzelle, president of Interstate Theaters and chairman of the board of Republic National Bank in Dallas.

Dulles In New Interpretation Of Ike Doctrine In Mideast

Foreign News Commentary
By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent
Secretary of State John Foster Dulles has given a new and important interpretation of the "Eisenhower Doctrine" on the Middle East.

Under this interpretation, the joint congressional resolution authorizing American military aid to a Middle Eastern country against foreign aggression is not limited to action against an aggressor which is "under the control of international communism."

The effect is to put teeth into a declaration which has often been criticized as somewhat meaningless.

Dulles gave his interpretation of the Eisenhower Doctrine, as it is popularly called, at a press conference in Washington in discussing the rebellion in Lebanon. Lebanon has accused the United Arab Republic of fomenting and supporting the rebellion.

U. S. Sends Equipment
The United States has sent a quantity of "police arms"—largely small arms and tear gas equipment—to Lebanon to aid against "rioters." It is sending a number of tanks.

There has been some confusion over the applicability of the Eisenhower Doctrine to Lebanon. The reason for the confusion is the provision authorizing aid against an aggressor under the control of international Communism.

Though Egypt and Syria are receiving arms and other aid from Soviet Russia. The United Arab Republic certainly cannot be held to be under Soviet control.

President Gamal Abdel Nasser has denied aiding the Lebanese rebels. He says the rebellion was planned and is being carried out by pro-United Arab Republic Lebanese.

Agrees With Resolution
Dulles agreed that the congressional resolution specified aid to a country menaced by Communist aggression. But he added, "That doesn't mean, however, that there is nothing that can be done."

"There is the provision of the Middle East resolution which says that the independence of these countries is vital to peace and the national interest of the United States. That is certainly a mandate to do something if we think that our peace and vital interests are endangered in any quarter."

Dulles pointed out that this provision was inserted in the Eisenhower Doctrine by the Senate.

Spectators Gather At Fire

CHICAGO (UP)—Thousands of spectators gathered Wednesday night to watch a $50,000 lumber yard blaze, the city's second 5-alarm fire in as many nights.

There was talk of possible arson in the storage yard fire of the Majestic Wood Carving Co. where firefighters battled on two fronts to keep it from spreading.

A four-story company building and several gas storage tanks in the vicinity were imperiled by the blaze, but firemen were successful in keeping the fire under control.

Chief Fire Marshall Raymond Dailey said an investigation will be held to determine the cause of the blaze. He noted that lumber was burning in two separate areas in the yard, indicating an arsonist may have been responsible.

Meanwhile, packinghouse workers from nine firms, supervised by 40 board of health inspectors, raced against the clock to salvage three million dollars worth of prime meat.

Health officials had warned that all meat not transferred to coolers by midnight Wednesday night faced wholesale condemnation.

Tuesday night's fire in the Fulton market had left seven to 10 million pounds of top-grade meat without refrigeration.

The extra - alarm blaze had brought out one-sixth of Chicago's fire-fighting equipment. Eighteen firemen were overcome by smoke. As of mid-afternoon Wednesday,

Near-Collision Reported By Capital Airlines

WASHINGTON (UP)—A spokesman for Capital Airlines today confirmed reports that an Air Force B47 jet bomber almost collided Wednesday night with a Viscount turboprop airliner. The airliner was on the same route as the Viscount struck down by an Air National Guard jet trainer Tuesday.

The spokesman said the near miss occurred at 9:30 p. m. e.d.t. at 19,000 feet over Findley, Ohio. The four-engine Viscount, with an undetermined number of passengers aboard, continued its Chicago-to-Baltimore flight without interruption.

The Capital spokesman said the pilots of the plane involved will file a complaint through the airline's headquarters here.

The pilot, Jesse Bradford of Baltimore, reported the near-disaster to the Cleveland Air Traffic Control Center moments after it happened. He said the intruding plane was definitely a four-jet B47, which passed in front of the Viscount from left to right while dropping in altitude.

Inspectors had condemned about 250,000 pounds of meat.
