Train collides with truck hauling natural gas condensate today; only minor injuries are reported

By BEAR MILLS Staff Writer

A truck hauling a reported 8,820 gallons of natural gas condensate was hit by an east-bound Santa Fe train at a crossing off Hwy. 60 this morning at 9:48.

The accident occurred approximately one mile west of the Pampa city limits, three-tenths of a mile west of the Price Road and Hwy. 60 intersection.

Upon impact, witnesses said, a giant fireball erupted and started a grass fire. Several train cars were also set ablaze.

The truck, owned by Elleron Oil Co. of Houston, was being driven by Ronnie Childress, 31, whose address was given by Department of Public Safety officials as HCR 2 Box 39 in Pampa.

Childress said he walked away from the collision with only a singe on his hand. He reported seeing the train after it was too late to get the trailer out of the way that serves as a well treating or is refined to make motor and jumped clear of the cab just prior to the collision.

Childress reported shortly after the accident, "I didn't see the train coming and went on across." Paramedics with Rural/Metro-AMT Paramedic Ser-

Cook said the train's engine was slightly damaged by the fire, as were several refrigerated piggy-back trailers. He said that while all were slightly damaged, they were still operational. None of the refrigeration units, which reportedly contained perishable items, were rendered inoperational, he said.

Kevin Foxx, an official with Elleron Oil Co. in Houston, when contacted by telephone this morning, declined to comment on the company or where it transports in the Panhandle.

Employees of Maple Corp. in Kingsmill confirmed that a truck driven by Childress had loaded approximately 30 minutes before the accident. Marvin Slaymaker of Maple Corp. said Elleron purchases the condensate from them, but he did not know where the truck was bound.

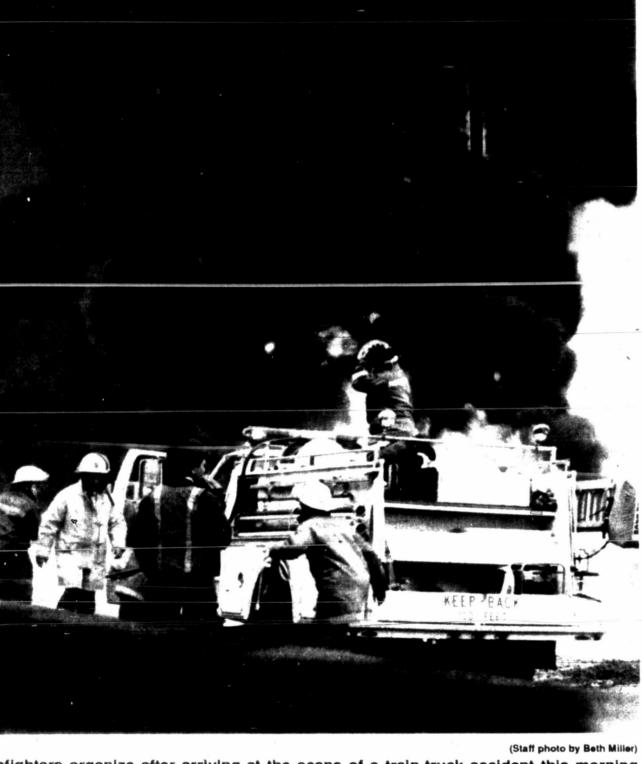

Condensate is a high gravity natural gas by-product fuels, officials said.

Because of the intensity of the explosion, officials at the scene said it did not appear much, if any, of the condensate was allowed to soak into the ground.

Two former Miami bank directors agree to cooperate with investigation into bank

By BETH MILLER

Staff Writer

AMARILLO – Two former directors of the First State Bank of Miami have agreed to cooperate fully in the U.S. government's investigation of the bank and if Assistant U.S. Attorney Sharon R. Kimball. requested to give "truthful and complete testimony" in any related cases.

The two, E. Hobart "Hobie" Fatheree, 59, a former Pampa resident, now of Dallas, and Paul Scott Daugherty, 46, of Miami, pleaded guilty before U.S. District trust. Judge Mary Lou Robinson in U.S. District Court in Amarillo on Tuesday.

Their guilty pleas were in exchange for plea bargains offered by the government. A pre-sentence investigation is expected to take about three weeks and then a sentencing date will be set before Judge Robinson. Both Fatheree and Daugherty each face a maximum 10-year sentence, $500,000 fine, a $100 mandatory assessment and possible restitution. They were both released on personal recognizance on Fatheree pleaded guilty to two counts of an information charging him with misapplication of bank funds and false entry in bank records.

Daugherty pleaded guilty to two counts of an information charging him with misapplication and embezzlement by bank officer or employee.

Both Fatheree and Daugherty, who was vice president of the bank and on its board of directors, have been aware of the charges that were pending against them before the information was filed on April 24, they told the judge. An information is a form of bringing charges against someone without taking the case before a grand jury. Neither Fatheree nor Daugherty could go on trial without an indictment; however, on Tuesday they both waived indictments.

The information charged Fatheree with misapplying and embezzling money from the bank, while he served as a director of the bank on April 18, 1985. Fatheree authorized and procured a $97,000 loan from the bank to Vicki Gilbert, his secretary, because he had exceeded his legal lending limit at the bank. The information charges Fatheree caused all of the loan proceeds to be paid to him without the knowledge of the bank officials.

He also caused Gilbert to sign a security agreement and financing statement in connection with the April 18, 1985, loan, and used the proceeds of that loan to pay his own debt at First National Bank in Wheeler, according to a document read in court Tuesday by

The other charge to which Fatheree pleaded guilty was presenting a deed of trust to the bank to secure a $602,154.87 promissory note on Feb. 10, 1986. Fatheree had forged his wife's signature on the deed of

Part of Fatheree's and Daugherty's plea bargains are that the U.S. government will not press further charges against them regarding the investigation if they cooperate fully, as they have said they will.

Other documents read in court which Fatheree agreed were correct, but for which he will not be charged, state that on Aug. 2, 1985, Fatheree had his secretary sign a second note for $30,000.

"Again, the proceeds of that loan were deposited directly into Fatheree's account and used to cover an outstanding check Fatheree had drawn," Kimball said.

Fatheree did not tell Gilbert or other bank directors, with the exception of Max Ray Faulkner, of his interest in the proceeds of the loans. Faulkner was a director and president of the bank and Kimball said to the court Tuesday that he "participated" in the "improper transactions with Fatheree.'

Faulkner has had no charges brought against him,

"In addition, Fatheree participated in a scheme in which he borrowed over $330,000 from the bank at a time when he was already beyond his legal limit there," Kimball said in court

In December of 1985, he also caused his daughter, Millie Fatheree to borrow about $334,000 from the bank and to turn over an estimated $311,000 to him to get rid of personal debts and a debt of Red Deer Creek

Cattle Co. for which he was liable. He also forged his daughter's name on a signature of a renewal note, Kimball said, and secured the notes with a pledge of certificates of deposits owned by his mother, Laura Fatheree, although he had no authority to make the pledge.

Bank

He also forged his daughter's name on a signature of a renewal note, Kimball said, and secured the notes with a pledge of certificates of deposits owned by his mother, Laura Fatheree, although he had no authority to make the pledge.

In April 1983, Fatheree signed a $500,000 note to the bank on behalf of Two Squared Cattle Feeders. His business partner, Faulkner, helped him deposit the proceeds of that loan directly into a personal account of Fatheree to honor a $500,000 insufficienct funds check he had written, Kimball said.

In January 1986, Fatheree borrowed $339,192, according to Kimball, by using a note executed by his son-in-law. John Jarrett. He had his son-in-law sign the note, but the proceeds were immediately transferred to Fatheree's personal account at the bank. He used the proceeds to pay a debt of Three-way Cattle Feeders.

Other parts of both Daugherty's and Fatheree's plea bargain include polygraph examinations if requested, that the agreements cannot bind any other federal, state or local prosecuting authorities, that there is no agreement regarding sentencing and that matter is left sums of money from the accounts receivable for the 'entirely to the discretion of the Court."

Also in Fatheree's plea bargain agreement is a statement that the United States does not intend to bring federal charges against Fatheree's wife, Ann S. Fatheree, or his children, Millie Fatheree, Timothy H. Fatheree and Matthew Fatheree, or his son-in-law, John Jarrett.

Daugherty pleaded guilty to misapplying a $787.41 check from the bank drawn on the bank's expense account for his personal expenses on May 29, 1987. He also pleaded guilty to placing a $7,378.18 deposit into his personal account at the bank on Jan. 21, 1987, for his use, representing the money was for payment of

However, the government said he knew the funds were from commissions from credit life insurance companies that were bank property and not payable to

Kimball said that the $7,378.18 is only the credit life insurance commissions for 1987, and told the court for many months. He converted the overdrafts to a note that between 1980 and 1986, Daugherty misapplied an from Sub Sea, which he immediately had written off in additional $32,884.72 in credit life insurance commisan attempt to conceal his misdeeds from the examiners, sions that belonged to the bank. However, charges were according to Kimball.

not filed on him for those allegations.

The U.S. attorney also said that while Daugherty was an officer and director of the bank, he borrowed more than $200,000 from the bank through an entity, B&D Logging and Leasing, that he and Ken Brittain owned. Kimball said the two misrepresented the purpose of the loans, the ownership and value of oil and gas working interests that were supposed to be purchased with loan proceeds, and the value of their individual assets and the extent of their liabilities on financial statements given to the bank.

No charges have been filed against Brittain.

The loss to the bank from the loans to B&D Logging is estimated at more than $170,000, Kimball said. Daugherty is also responsible for considerable losses in connection with loans to another company of Brittain's, Sub Sea Formation Evaluation," Kimball said.

An estimated $358,000 was loaned to Sub Sea from June 1981 to September 1984, Kimball said, because Daugherty concealed from other directors that Sub Sea's financial statements showed a decline in the company's net worth from $114,000 to a negative net worth of $300,000.

He allegedly allowed Brittain to divert "substantial" personal benefit of the two.

In 1982 Daugherty caused more than $130,000 of the money borrowed by Sub Sea to be paid to B&D Logging and Leasing.

At least two times in October 1983 and June 1984 Daugherty renewed Sub Sea's existing debt and advanced new funds and knowingly misrepresented the financial condition of the company to the other directors, Kimball said.

In December 1984, he again renewed Sub Sea's principal loan balance, not telling the other directors of the unfavorable financial information on the company. He also capitalized the accrued interest without authorization, and did not record the interest renewal on the bank's books, according to documents filed Tuesday.

In April 1986 when bank examiners arrived to examine the bank, Daugherty had more than $18,000 in overdrafts on Sub Sea's account he had been holding

An article in the Sunday edition of The Pampa News incorrectly reported the student fee for driver's education in the Pampa Independent School District. Superintendent Harry Griffith said the student fee is currently $160 per student. That money goes to the PISD, which pays instructors of the course hourly wages of $16.85-$25.59 an hour, based on the teacher's pay scale.

A headline on the front page of Tuesday's edition of The Pampa News provided incorrect information. The headline stated Sgt. Dave Keiser of the Gray County Sheriff's Office had been reinstated. Keiser has not been reinstated as of press time this morning. However, he has been cleared by an internal investigation of allegations of official misconduct. Keiser's reinstatement is pending the outcome of a report by an outside agency, which will review the internal investigative report, Sheriff Jim Free said.

Instead, he set the new reform deadline.

McCown also issued a complex series of instructions - in case Clements and lawmakers fail for a third time to act - that would guarantee that a new system of school finance is operating by Sept. 1.

Those instructions included: Appointment by the judge of a special master who will begin work this month on a finance plan of his

After McCown's ruling, Clements said he was more confident than ever that budget cuts – not a tax increase - will be used to pay for the final plan written by law-

"I think the legislators have a different view of the situation than they did before, because they know they can't override my veto," Clements said.

But some lawmakers sharply criticized the governor. Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, said Clements was Since the state failed to enact a new school finance passing the buck so he can leave office at the end of the year without approving a tax increase.

"It passes the real buck, the out-of-pocket buck, to the local taxpayer. Because what we don't spend at the state level right now will come out of the hides of the homeowners and small business owners," said Parker, chairman of the Senate Education Committee.

A lawyer for the property-poor school districts that sued the state, Al Kauffman, said he hoped lawmakers understand the need for action.

"I would hope that, after this process, the Legislature and the governor understand better the importance of the issues of this litigation ... Maybe they will then respond and come up with a constitutional plan, making the master's work unnecessary," Kauffman said.

Texas is one of a dozen states where courts have overturned school finance systems deemed unfair to poor districts. The others are Kentucky, New Jersey, Kansas, Wisconsin, California, Connecticut, Washington, West Virginia, Wyoming, Arkansas and Montana.

A coalition of hundreds of stu The 1,200 hours of community service to be performed during the Former HUD official plans testimony about grant request from Bush office

By WILLIAM M. WELCH Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - A former federal housing official, who admits taking bribes, plans to testify that a housing grant was approved at the request of the office of then-Vice President George Bush, con- the project was not in Puerto Rico, gressional investigators say.

DuBois L. Gilliam, an imprisoned former deputy assistant secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, was resuming testimony today about scandals at HUD - an agency he described on Monday as the "domestic political machine" of the Reagan presidency. Gilliam, who is serving an 18month federal prison sentence, was testifying under a court grant of immunity from further prosecution.

Rep. Tom Lantos, D-Calif., chairman of the House panel investigating HUD, said Gilliam planned to describe a request from an as-yet unnamed person in the vice president's office for approval of a HUD grant for a project.

"We will hear testimony from Mr. Gilliam about special projects how a particular project was funded at the request of 'someone' in the office of the vice president, in order to get a Hispanic leader to accompany the then-vice president on a plane trip to Puerto Rico," Lantos said.

Gilliam, who spent part of the day Tuesday meeting with congressional staff investigators, confirmed he was prepared to testify about such a matter but declined to discuss it further. Congressional investigators said but that the request appeared to be the Hispanic leader accompany Bush to Puerto Rico.

Once a trusted assistant to former HUD Secretary Samuel R. Pierce Jr., Gilliam painted a picture of rampant political abuse at the agency during his initial appearance before the House Governmental Operations subcommittee on employment and housing.

His second round of testimony involved so-called HUD "special project" grants, which were made from the secretary's discretionary fund.

The program was established to provide aid in cases of natural disasters and other unexpected needs, without a competitive application process. Subcommittee staff director Stuart Weisberg said before today's hearing that although the money was administered at the secretary's discretion, political use of the fund would constitute an abuse.

"Discretion does not mean political," Weisberg said. "There was no

On Monday, Gilliam disputed Pierce's assertion before the panel last year and in a subsequent magazine interview that he didn't decide who got federal grants and was a hands-off administrator.

Gilliam said Pierce himself rooted in a political desire to have ordered federal grants for particular projects. He said Pierce kept notes of which members of Congress and political friends supported projects, which he used when funding decisions were made.

His testimony was the first by a top HUD insider in more than a year of investigation by the panel into allegations of fraud, influencepeddling and political favoritism at the department.

Gilliam pleaded guilty to felony charges of accepting illegal gratuities while at HUD and conspiring to manipulate a housing grant to benefit friends.

Pierce's attorneys attacked Gilliam's testimony as motivated by a desire for early release from prison. Attorney Paul L. Perito accused Lantos' subcommittee of an "insatiable appetite for publici-

Closing arguments expected today on jail death charges

TYLER (AP) - Closing arguments were expected today in the trial of three former lawmen accused of beating an inmate to death three years ago.

Defense lawyers surprised the prosecution Tuesday afternoon by resting their case without calling the defendants to the stand.

Loyal Garner Jr. died Dec. 27; 1987, two days after he suffered severe head injuries at the jail. Prosecutors say he was beaten to death by former Hemphill Police Chief Thomas' Ladner and former Sabine County sheriff's deputies Billy Ray Horton and James M. Hyden.

The former lawmen say they struck Garner in self defense after he became unruly at the jail.

Assistant District Attorney Wayne Dickey said he expected the defendants to testify.

"Given the state of our evidence, they needed to put Thomas Ladner on the stand because he (Garner) went into their jail and came out comatose," Dickey said.

Garner, a black truck driver from Florien, La., died after undergoing surgery at a Tyler hospital where he was transferred from the Hemphill hospital. He was arrested on Christmas Day 1987.

The three former lawmen, all of whom are white, were acquitted of violating Garner's civil rights in an earlier trial.

Although prosecutors are seeking a murder conviction, which carries a maximum sentence of life in prison, the jury can consider lesser charges such as involuntary manslaughter and negligent homicide.

Sabine County jailer Lawton Crain testified earlier Tuesday that he heard no sounds of a huge struggle during the time he was at work on the night Garner is alleged to have received fatal injuries.

Crain said he spent some of his overnight in the radio room, next to the processing room where the inmate is said to have become

"I'd say if they were falling against those file cabinets, you could hear it, yes sir," he said.

And just how special is Gorbachev, really?

President Bush is treading dangerously close to personalizing foreign policy - pinning American hopes on the fate of Soviet leader Mikhail Görbachev. Our interests would be better served if our president recognized that deeper, more enduring values and interests are at stake

Gorbachev has put the president in a bind with his harsh policy toward the reaffirmation of independence by Lithuania. President Bush has bent over backward to praise the Soviet leader, letting anonymous spokesmen leak the hope to the press that this is the best, maybe the only, way to prevent violence.

In Toronto, Bush claimed that Gorbachev "has a record of encouraging and acquiescing in peaceful evolution and democratic change in Eastern Europe. He has demonstrated that he is committed to peaceful change and the evolution of democracy."

His actions toward Lithuania have demonstrated, if anything, the

In speaking to Baltic-American activists last month, President Bush urged them, according to one (anonymous, of course) U.S. official, to "remember what's at risk here. Poland has a relationship at risk, Czechoslovakia and Hungary have relationships at risk. They have progress at risk that came about because of actions or acquiescence of Gorbachev. Estonia and Latvia have their future at risk because they want independence as well. Does anybody here think you would have these opportunities today if it wasn't for Gorbachev? There are enormous risks of losing Gorbachev for the countries involved, Lithuania among them.'

True, President Gorbachev has been a different sort of Soviet leader and has consciously loosed many reform efforts. But to attribute recent dramatic changes to Gorbachev alone is short-sight ed. Gorbachev has been different, in part, because he assumed power at a moment in history when the failures of communism as a system have become so obvious, and the people of the Soviet Union so restive, that denial was impossible and safety valves essential.

Gorbachev means not to preside over the disintegration of communism, but try to save it. Whether he will be more successful than Winston Churchill, who said he didn't care to preside over the twilight of the British Empire but did so anyway, is another question.

It is possible - and prudent - to interpret President Gorbachev's actions not as a result of conversion to the forces of democracy and light, but as a scramble to save what is really strategic and let go what has become of limited-value, long-term communist interests, e.g., Eastern Europe. We should also note that Gorbachev is less popular at all levels of Soviet society than he is at the top levels of the American administration.

The long-term interest of the United States is precisely the disintegration of communism, whether through Gorbachev or other means. Many steps short of hostility are possible - from canceling the upcoming summit, to canceling a trade agreement that would grant Most Favored Nation trade status (meaning eligibility for subsidies and grants) to the Soviet Union, to announcing that U.S. oil and gas companies will meet no U.S. government opposition if they want to trade with independent Lithuania.

If the "special relationship" between President Bush and Gorbachev would be imperiled by such mild rebukes, then it was never that special in the first place.

And so it is today. March's "New Orleans Declaration" revealingly, pathetically, ludicrously made clear the internal conflicts that have reduced the party, as a presidential party, to something close to

The declaration emerged from the Democratic Leadership Council, a body led by such respected figures as Sens. Sam Nunn and Chuck Robb and Reps. Bill Gray and Dick Gephardt. These are power hitters, united by a desire to field a winning team. They earnestly want the nation to know "Where We Stand."

And where do they profess to stand? Let us consider the professions and recall the record.

"We believe the promise of America is equal opportunity, not equal outcomes." But in the field of civil rights, this is not the Democratic position at all. It is the Democratic Party that has fostered the whole concept of "disparate impact," by which "discrimination" may be statistically proved.

"We believe the Democratic Party's fundamental mission is to expand opportunity, not government." Yet the social and welfare programs fostered by Democrats have enormously expanded not only the federal bureaucracy, but have slopped over into state and local governments as well.

"We believe in the politics of inclusion." This profession will be of particular interest to nonunion workers, who have no rights the Democrats

"We believe the right way to rebuild America's economic security is to invest in the skills and ingenuity of our people, and to expand trade, not restrict it." Ah, sirs, but at the top of the declaration's list of sponsors is the gentleman from Missouri, Mr. Gephardt, who speaks at practically interminable length in support of protectionism. He represents a large segment of the party that believes in restricting trade - though of course his colleagues do not put it in precisely those words.

'We believe that all claims on government are not equal. Our leaders must reject demands that are less worthy, and hold to clear priorities." Perhaps the signatories meant to say that not all claims on government are equal, but let the syntactical objection go. The demonstrable fact is that over and over, leading Democrats have padded appropriations bills with special favors, parochial largesse deem worthy of respect. > Even if he didn't directly authorize any of the actions, it's hard to believe he was unaware of what was going on. How do national security advisers to the president, Poindexter and Robert C. MacFarlane, and a staff member, Lt. Col. Oliver L. North, all get convicted of crimes while working closely with President Reagan without him having any knowledge of their acts?

Like the biblical guides which "strain at a grant and swallow a camel," Reagan's denial of involvement in the Iran-Contra illegality stretches credulity

Even assuming that Reagan knew as little as he claims, a legal case for spiracy, it would be the easiest thing should be held to the same standard.

"It is sufficient that there should be a common understanding of the end to be achieved ..."

A federal prosecutor could comfortably argue that a "common understanding" existed between Reagan, Poindexter, MacFarlane and North

The only reason Reagan is not being charged is the traumatic blow it would deal to this nation's faith in the presidency - coming, as it would, only 14 years after Nixon's resignation in disgrace.

Our tested faith still does not mitigate Reagan's involvement - to use the irreverent phrase of Sen. Alan Simpson, R-Wy. - "up to his keisteh"

Hungarian Parliament begins democratic era

By TEDDIE WEYR Associated Press Writer

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) - The country's first truly democratic, multiparty legislature in 42 years convened today in the stately Parliament

In a gesture symbolic of Hungary's transition from Communism to democracy, 384 deputies chosen in free elections in March and April filed into a chamber newly stripped of the coat of arms of the old "People's Republic."

The insignia of the old Communist republic, renamed simply the "Republic of Hungary" in October, was removed just last week.

Making tamales more than a Christmas tradition

When Corte's arrived in Mexico in 1519, he found native people who ate tamales to celebrate special occasions. Four hundred seventy years later the tradition lives on among families with roots in Mexico. During the Christmas holidays, many of these families gather in their kitchens to spread masa on corn husks, which are folded like carefully wrapped gifts.

Not only Hispanics, but Texans of many ethnic backgrounds identify tamales with Christmas festivities. Hungry guests snap them up at office parties and holidays buffets. Truth is, they are good any time.

Eating store-bought tamales may taste good, but it's not the same as making them," says Nell Veeder, a University of Texas graduate student specializing in culinary anthropology. "Stuffing something inside of something else is a common way of cooking food all over the world," Veeder went on to say. "Human beings seem to delight in it."

The traditional tamale filling is cabeza de puero, ground meat from hogs' head that have been boiled and deboned. Meatier cuts of pork, beef, poultry and game are also used, as are beans, cheese and chiles and, occasionally, a sweet filling of nuts, sugar and spices.

is necessary to bind the commeal, meat stock to make it soft and pliable. "Lard is the typical shortening used in tamales," said Carol Guthrie, Texas Department of Agriculture home economist.

"It adds flavor to the dough, but it's saturated animal fat, which is the kind to avoid if you're concerned about clogged arteries and high cholesterol. You have to use fat in tamales, but it doesn't have to be animal fat.'

The Aztecs whom Corte's met. in fact, probably added less fat to their tamales than is used today. Their meat was mostly wild game, which contains little fat in comparison to domestic meat.

Guthrie recommends any good polyunsaturated margarine as a lard substitute. "Margarine doesn't have the smooth consistency of lard. which makes the masa more difficult to spread. But with a little extra effort it works fine.'

Tamales ordinary take 45 to 60 minutes to steam. Use a large, deep pot or Dutch oven or a roasting pan with a rack. The lid must be tightfitting to prevent steam from escaping. When the masa turns firm and translucent, pulling away easily from the husk, the tamales are done.

To make masa, solid shortening Tamales can be reheated in the steamer or in a covered dish in the oven or microwave.

Mays bow out in first round

By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP Sports Writer

DALLAS — Even without Buck and Duck, the Portland Trail Blazers outclassed the Dallas May-

Joy over a 106-92 victory and a three-game, NBA playoff first-round sweep of the Mavericks on Tuesday night was tempered by the loss of forward Buck Williams and center Kevin Duckworth.

Williams suffered cuts above and below his right eye when he caught a James Donaldson elbow late in the first period. He was taken to Baylor Hospital for a thorough examination by specialist Dr. Norman Slusher.

Williams suffered a corneal abrasion and a crack in his sinus area.

"He should be able to resume activities in the next few days," Portland team officials said.

Duckworth had a collision with Donaldson in the third period and suffered a fractured fourth metacarpal in his right hand. It will be placed in a splint and probably in a cast.

The length of his absence was yet to be deter-

"Well, we're two players down and 10 to go," said coach Rick Adelman. "I really felt good before the game. I just hope we'll have somebody playing in the next round.

Portland won't have to play again until Saturday against the San Antonio Spurs. The Blazers will have the homecourt advantage.

Jerome Kersey scored a career playoff best 29 points, and Clyde Drexler and Terry Porter each had 20 points for the Blazers.

"Our bench came through," Drexler said. "We kind of expect it out of them now. We've been deep all year and this was the greatest time to show

Wayne Cooper had eight rebounds and scored four points off the bench and Mark Bryant scored

'This game really showed what this team is all about," Adelman said. "We had devastating injuries and we really needed our bench," said Cooper. "It was a great feeling to be without two of our best players and still keep our lead."

Portland had a 17 point lead dwindle to two points with 5:57 to play but Drexler, Kersey and Porter took control. Drexler had three steals that took the emotion out of the Dallas rally.

The devastated Mavericks gave all the credit to Portland which held Roy Tarpley to six points on 2 of 12 field goal attempts and 2 of 8 free throws.

All those guys put their egos aside," said guard Derek Harper."They are unselfish and play

Tarpley, who missed a third of the season for violating his aftercare program and was fined for missing practices, blamed a 24-hour virus on his bad night. "You know how that (the virus) is," Tarpley said. "It makes you weak. I even shot airballs on layups in the warmup. I was up most of the night. I was trying mentally to get into it but it just wasn't It was the first time that the Mays have been swept in a playoff series.

'This is not a season I'd say I wish I had experienced," said Dallas owner Donald Carter."I feel empty but I think we can comeback next year."

It was the third playoff sweep for Portland. The others were over Seattle in 1983 and the Los Angeles Lakers in 1977.

'We've got to get back home and get well," Adelman said.

Portland was to fly back home early today. "It's a credit to coach Adelman that when we lost Buck and Duck he made some super moves,'

Harvesters roll over Dumas

DUMAS — The Harvester baseball team kept pace in the District 1-4A playoff race Tuesday with a resounding 11-3 victory over Dumas at Demon Field.

league play, moving into a tie with Lub- first and second, and the Harvesters pulled bock Dunbar (12-2) and staying half a off a double steal. game back of district leader Lubbock Estacado (13-3). Overall, it was the 20th victory of the season against only two losses for the Harvesters, ranked 10th in the state in Class 4A.

Dumas dropped to 7-7 in district, 8-10 on the season to remain a distant fourth place.

The Demons grabbed a 2-0 lead in the scoreless for the first three innings. But three Dumas throwing errors proved costly as Pampa racked up 11 runs in the last four innings to put the game away.

In the fourth frame, Pampa center fielder James Bybee singled with one out, and catcher Tory Peet followed with a hit down the third-base line. Dumas third sacker Jim Do made a backhanded stab to catch the ball, but overthrew the first baseman as Bybee advanced to third and Peet made it to second.

First baseman Mike Cagle singled to send Bybee home with Pampa's first run. Designated hitter Steve Sanders walked and Brian Bullard hit a sacrifice fly to knot the score at two apiece. Shortstop Chris Roden rapped a single to get things going for the Harvesters in the fifth inning. He stole second base and reached third on another single by Brandon Knutson, who in turn stole second base to put both runners in scoring posi-

Tory Peet struck out with two away, but Dumas catcher Dave Venhaus dropped the third strike and overthrew first baseman Scott Venable, allowing Roden and Knutson to score the go-ahead runs.

Dumas pitcher Jess Watkins gave up only three walks on the day, all of them to Pampa dh Steve Sanders, who led off the sixth stanza with his third straight base on Pampa improved its record to 12-2 in balls. Bullard singled to put runners on Tarin Peet, pinch hitting for Pampa pitcher Quincy Williams, struck out, but again Venhaus dropped the third strike and overthrew the first baseman. Breck Beckner drove in runs No. five and six when he singled home Sanders and Bullard, and Chris Roden loaded the bases with another base hit.

Knutson cracked a sacrifice fly to score second inning and held the Harvesters Peet and Beckner scored the inning's fourth run on a wild pitch.

The Harvesters added three insurance runs in the seventh inning on two walks, a hit batsman, a single by Russ Stevens, a wild pitch and a Dumas error. The Demons scratched out their final run in the bottom of the seventh.

Quincy Williams went the distance to collect the mound win, running his record to 6-1 on the year. In seven innings, he gave up three runs (two of them earned) six hits and one walk while striking out

Jess Watkins (6-5) was credited with the loss, despite striking out 12 batters in six innings of work.

All told, the Harvesters pounded out nine hits. The two teams combined for 15 hits on the day, all singles.

The Harvesters have two games remaining in the regular-season schedule. Saturday, they host Levelland at 2 p.m., then Lubbock Dunbar comes to town next Tuesday, May 8, for the finale.

Victories in both games will assure Pampa a playoff berth. The top two teams in the district advance into postseason Melido Perez of the White Sox pitched a two-hitter.

Perez outduels Ryan Texas fireballer suffers 1st loss

By JOE MOOSHIL AP Sports Writer

CHICAGO — This developing duel between Melido Perez of the Chicago White Sox and Nolan Ryan of the Texas Rangers could become something to look forward to in the future.

'This time I get him," Perez said Tuesday night after leading the White Sox to a 5-1 victory over Ryan. Perez, 24, outpitched Ryan, 43, five days after Ryan defeated

Perez and the White Sox 1-0 on a one-hitter while striking out 16. The White Sox, who made it five straight since losing to Ryan, jumped on Ryan for five runs in the first inning on three walks, a run-scoring single by Dan Pasqua, a two-run single by Ron Karkovice and a triple by Scott Fletcher. "For some reason, it took me an inning to get it together," said

Ryan, 4-1. "That was the worst stuff I had all year. I didn't have command of any of my pitches. "In the second inning, I had time to think and I threw fast balls to get ahead of the hitters. But the way Perez was pitching, all he needed was for me to have one bad inning.

Ryan did get it together after that, allowing only one hit and striking out eight before leaving after six innings. "We had the pitching duel eveyone was looking for after the first inning," said Texas manager Bobby Valentine. "But they already had five on the board. Melido was outstanding. He's a good pitcher, really good." Perez, 2-2, was so effective that he didn't allow a hit until Jeff

Huson singled with one out in the sixth. He lost his shutout on a run-scoring double by Huson in the eighth before leaving in favor of Scott Radinsky who picked up his first major league save. Perez walked four and struck out 10. "I felt good and I had my confidence," said Perez. "It makes me happy to pitch and win against a good pitcher like Nolan

Perez said Huson hit a changeup for his single and a fast ball for his run-scoring double in the eighth. White Sox manager Jeff Torborg, who caught the first of Ryan's five no hitters in 1973 when both were with the California Angels, said the key was "not letting Ryan off the hook in the first Torborg said he kidded Perez before the game. "I told him, You threw a three-hitter down there, you know how to handle these guys.' Little did I know he'd throw a two-hitter tonight."

Lefors Baseball

LEFORS - Mickey Nunn hit a grand slam home run in the sixth inning as Lefors downed Hedley, 13-3, Tuesday in a District 3-1A baseball game.

Nunn's homer ended the game on the 10-run rule as Lefors ended the regular season with a 4-1 record and tied for first place.

Hedley, 3-1, has its final game next Tuesday against Kelton.

"If Hedley loses, we win the district. If they win, there would be a playoff between us (Lefors and Hedley) for the district championship within the next two weeks," said Lefc is coach Dale Means.

Dusty Roberson hit a two-homer and Jarrod Slatten belted a solo shot for the Pirates.

Kevin Mayfield went the dis- Optimist Softball tance on the mound for Lefors to boost his record to 4-1. He struck out nine, walked three and yielded eight hits.
