By CHARLES MOLONEY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Americans are cooling off some on the idea of buying new houses. Also automobiles, to a lesser extent.

The number of the market for new houses has dropped 20 percent from a year ago, a Federal Reserve Board survey shows. For autos, the number has dipped one percent.

Nevertheless, there won't be either enough houses or cars built this year to meet the demand of those still planning to buy.

Auto people, who are so buoyant that at least one out of each four families will over-extend its income "heavily."

The survey also showed that veterans are heavier spenders than others, and that people in the $2,000 to $4,000 a year income classes are more buoyant than those in the $4,000 to $5,000 class.

People generally are willing to use past savings or credit to carry out their spending plans, the survey report shows, observing that about 3,000,000 more families or individuals living alone cashed the last of their government savings bonds last year.

Two of 17,000,000 who bought furniture, refrigerators, radios, washing machines and the like last year, 9,000,000 did so on the installment plan—nearly twice as many as used credit the year before.

Yet consumer incomes as a whole rose more than 10 percent last year and the number getting above $5,000 a year increased by 2,500,000 out of a total of 48,400,000 "consumer spending units."

These units consist of families living together and pooling incomes or individuals living alone. The American population tops 144,000,000.

Other findings of the survey: Houses—Despite the 20 percent drop in the number of consumer units planning to buy, the total number signing on to do so runs upwards of 2,600,000 and considerably exceeds expected new house completions.

On the average, consumers expect to pay $7,430 for a house. That is $34 more, says the survey, than the average actually paid last year and $1,120 more than people expected to pay when last year started.

Persons or families with incomes under $2,000 a year appear to have been "priced out" of the housing market.

Auto—Although down one percent from a year ago, the number of consumer units planning to buy new or used cars this year runs upwards of 6,500,000.

On the average, they expect to pay about $1,540 for a car. The average actually paid last year was $1,280, or $260 less than people figured on paying when that year started.

Man Hurt in Fracas Here

Clarence E. Sargent, Pampa, was taken to Worley Hospital shortly after 9 p. m. Saturday in an unconscious condition following a fight in front of the Brown Derby Cafe.

According to police, Sargent had been in a fight with Handell Clark, who got a $100 fine and a 30-day suspension from the city. Sargent was found on the sidewalk by Clegg Ambulance attendants shortly after 9 and was taken to Worley where physicians learned he had suffered at least a concussion. X-ray studies were still being made this morning to determine the full extent of injuries.

City Patrolmen H. H. Gates and Jay Nichols apprehended Clark at Six's Pig Stand around 12:20 a. m. Sunday and held him in City Jail until later in the day when he was transferred to the County Jail.

Formal charges were not made against Clark until Sargent's condition could be fully determined by attending physicians.

Physicians this morning reported Sargent had regained consciousness Sunday and had shown satisfactory improvement by this morning.

Dukes Defeat Oilers 2-1 After Crossing Home Twice in First

Ten Remain in Fort Worth for National Open

FORT WORTH (AP)—Ten of golf's touring stars, including Clayton Heafner, winner of the $15,000 Colonial National Invitation, remained here today to post qualifying scores for the National Open while the others pushed on to Albuquerque, N. M., for a tournament that starts Thursday.

Heafner, the bulky blond from Charlotte, N. C., took down $3,000 first money in the Colonial Meet by shooting his fourth straight subpar round yesterday, finishing with a one-under 69 that gave him a total of 272 for 72 holes—a new record for Colonial Country Club course. He closed in front by six strokes over Big Stewart (Skip) Alexander of Lexington, N. C., and Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., each with 278.

Alexander is among the 10 who will shoot qualifying rounds over River Crest Course tomorrow. They were given permission to qualify. Jimmie Demaret, who registers from Ojai, Calif., and who was ninth in the Colonial Tournament with 287, is included among the Texans. He lives at Houston.

Colonial's Third Annual Tournament appeared to have paid for itself—the first to do so. Max Higginfill, tournament chairman, estimated 20,000 persons turned out during the four days. The meet was put on at a cost of about $45,000. Here all expenses of the players are paid.

Bass Pitches Oilers to Win; Seitz Ousted

Grover Seitz squatted in the grandstand at Tingley Field in the last three innings Saturday night and watched his Pampa Oilers rally to trim the Dukes, 7 to 6, and square the series at one game apiece.

The Pampa manager was banished from the field of play just as his lads started the seventh-inning spurt that brought them up from below. With him went second baseman Redie Oley, whose tiff with Umpire James Welch caused Seitz to hurry forth for a hand in the proceedings.

The Dukes were leading, 5 to 4, when the seventh inning opened with Oley leading off. When the Oilers finally were put down they had gone right around the Dukes for a 7-5 lead and Chick O'Neil was on the mound instead of Lee Zamora.

Zamora set the side down on strikes in the eighth inning and didn't have any trouble until the fourth. After that he had considerable. O'Neil held the guests nicely in hand during his 2-1-3 innings, but the damage was done.

Howard Bass was the winning pitcher. He had three hits in two innings and might have been in for another rough one in the ninth. But a stroke of luck pulled him through after the Dukes had scored one tally.

With two down in the last half of the ninth pitcher Frank Gonyea got an infield single past Bass and Ron Bowen unloaded a fine, loud double against the left field wall. Virgil Butler, running for Gonyea, scored, but Bowen overran second base and was tagged out by Earl Harriman before he could scramble back.

Albuquerque Dukes scored a pair of runs off George Payne in the opening inning Sunday night. Thereafter they had no attack whatever, but the two runs stood up for a 2-1 victory over the Pampa Oilers, Albuquerque's second win in the three game series.

Frank Shone, Albuquerque's big right hander, had a shutout working until after one Pampa man was out in the ninth inning. Then Tony Range singled and Joe Fortin doubled to left center for the guests' only counter. After that Shone got Belford on a fly to right field and fanned Samek to end the game.

Up to the ninth inning the Oilers hadn't got a runner to third base. Joe Fortin doubled in the second, Samek singled in the fifth and Jack Riley singled in the seventh without doing any good at the scoring station. Two sparking double plays by the Dukes infield snuffed out incipient rallies.

The Dukes scored their pair in the first inning with the aid of Harriman's effort on Oley's grounder. Wilbur Dixon's double against the left field wall and Ron Bowen's single to centerfield.

Fans' Admiration Captured By McKinney's Shrewdness

By The Associated Press
Pittsburgh fans, jubilant over the early season success of their favorite, gazed upon Frank E. McKinney, Pirates president, with new admiration today.

From the looks of things after six weeks of the major league season, there breathes a man who finally has gotten at least an even break in a player transaction with Branch Rickey, the acknowledged no. 1 trader in baseball.

Imagine the Pittsburgh fans' joy yesterday when the Pirates not only knocked off the league leading St. Louis Cardinals in a double-header, 9-3 and 7-5, to tighten their grasp on third place in the National League pennant race, but achieved it mainly with players obtained from the Dodgers.

They begin with pitcher Kirby Higbee and Vic Lombardi were credited with the victories. Each once toiled for the Brooks.

The big guns of the attack, along with outfielders Wally Westlake and Ralph Kiner, were ex-Dodgers. Ed Stevens, Stan Rojek and Dixie Walker, Stevens, enjoying one of his best batting days at Pittsburgh, collected five hits in eight times at bat, including a home run and triple, scored a couple of runs and drove in five mates. Rojek collected a pair of hits in each game. Walker got an important hit and scored in front of Kiner's 11th home run in the eighth inning of the 7-5 second game.

The New York Giants moved to within a half game of the Cards by defeating the Philadelphia Phils, 10-4, at the Polo Grounds. Clint Hartung, making his first start of the season, was backed by a 14-hit attack that included home runs by Bobby Thomson and Whitely Lockman.

The Cincinnati Reds vacated the National League cellar and dumped Chicago into that unenviable spot by defeating the Cubs twice, 6-1 and 7-0, in 10 innings of the double-header, 2-1, when rain halted the contest after five innings.

The Indians came from behind with a nine-run eighth inning to win the second game of a twin bill from Chicago 13-8 after losing the first game 4-2. Washington's Rookie First Baseman Ted Kluszewski hammered a three-run homer for the Reds.

It took rain and some good pitching by Vic Raschi to halt the eight-game winning streak. After the A's had nipped the New York Yankees, 7-4, in 10 innings of the second game of the double-header, 2-1, when rain halted the contest after five innings.

Hickson to Meet Knutson In Finals of Eliminations

Billy Hickson, Knoxville, Tenn., and Dr. Gil Knutson, Davenport, Iowa, will be matched in the main event Friday evening at the Sportatorium, and Olan Beynon will meet Jack Westworth, Toronto, Canada, in the semi-finals.

Friday's matches are the fourth, and last, of a series of elimination tournaments to pick the contender for the Southwestern Junior Heavyweight Championship.

The winner of the Hickson-Knutson match will meet Wayne Martin, present champion, in a title match at the Sportatorium June 11.

The date for the title meet, originally set for June 4, was advanced a week to give Hickson an opportunity to enter the contest.

Hickson has been boxing and wrestling professionally for about 12 years, and last year he won the Lightweight Championship of both the West Coast and New Mexico.

Hickson fights about a half dozen prize fights a year, and attributes his speed and ability to get out of tough places on the mat to his boxing training.

He won over Walter Stratton in 40 minutes of their scheduled hour match last week.

Dr. Gil Knutson, the wrestling champion from Davenport, Iowa, won by default over Sammy Kohon of New York City last week when an old injury above Sammy's eyes was reopened, and the Wrestling Commission's doctor refused to permit the bout to continue.

Knutson entered the elimination tournaments the week before, when Ray "Big Train" Clements was prevented by an injury from appearing. Clements was hurt in Lubbock, and, according to the rules of the tournament, was automatically disqualified.

Aggies Make Showing in Track Season

COLLEGE STATION — Five Texas A & M College trackmen have compiled some of the best marks in collegiate ranks this season, a national survey of this season's performance reveals.

William Napier, Aggie dashman, has the fastest 220-yard dash time in the nation. His 20.5 performance against Oklahoma A & M at College Station on May 1 is a tenth of a second faster than the best times made by Mel Patton of Southern California and Paul Elens of Tulane.

Napier was aided by a tailwind that day when he beat out Oklahoma A & M's fine runner, Maurice Fugazy.

In that same meet the Aggie's George Kadera sailed the discus 178 feet, 1 inch for the second best throw in collegiate ranks this season.

Also on May 1 Fortune Gordien of Minnesota set a new American college discus record with a toss of 178 feet, 7.4 inch. The following week Vic Frank of Yale reached 171 feet, 5 inches for the third best throw.

No other college discus thrower eligible for the National Collegiate meet in Minneapolis June 18-19 has passed 162 feet, the summary compiled by Publicity Director Otis Dypwick of the University of Minnesota, shows.

It is in the 440-yard dash, however, where Texas A & M has made the most outstanding showing this season.

Three of the seven best times in the country were turned in by Aggies who have not encountered tough competition this year.

Ray Holbrook's 48.0 in the Quarterback Relay at Corpus Christi ranks third, the 48.1 by Art Harnden in the first Texas A & M-Texas U. meet ranks fourth and the 48.5 by Irvin Bolderback while finishing third in the Quarterback Relay ranks seventh in the nation.

Don Cardon, A & M's fourth member of its national champion mile relay team, twice has been clocked in 48.5 and, only a sophomore, is improving steadily.

A 47.4 by South Carolina's Scooter Rucks and a 47.9 by Washington State's Neb Nebelson are the lowest 440 times in the nation this season.

Indians Defeat Dallas to Move Into Fifth Place

Oklahoma City had passed the Texas League standings today, taking over fifth place on a 4-2 decision yesterday.

Pete Lewis and Fred Marsh helped the Indians romp over Dallas with home runs and Preacher Dorsett squelched a late Rebel rally with effective relief pitching.

Houston opened a series with Shreveport with a 6-3 victory and Beaumont edged San Antonio, 2-1. In a night game, Tulsa blasted Fort Worth, 10-0.

Bob Revels notched his third victory of the year, thanks to the assistance of strong-armed Bill White, who threw two runners out at the plate and doubled in the winning run in the fifth inning.

San Antonio picked up its unearned run in the fifth inning. Herbert Chamlet started his first game for Shreveport and helped his own downfall with two errors that started Houston on scoring spree, in the third and fifth innings.

Ray Flanagan pitched four-hit ball to win his first game of the year for Oklahoma City. It was the Indians' second straight victory in the three-game series with Dallas.

Ray Perkowski took over as the league's no. 1 hurler when he chalked up his ninth victory of the season, limiting the Cats to six hits. Four runs in the first inning was good enough for the Oilers, but they added to the margin just to make sure.

Memorial Day games found the same teams taking the field at the same sites, with the Dallas-Oklahoma City tilt in the afternoon and the other three tonight.

Humble and Skelly Win Softball Games

In two of the closest softball games thus far played this season, Humble blasted Master Cleaners 7-6, and Skelly outlasted Texas Elf 5-4 in an eight inning contest.

Wildie and Lorraine completed the Humble batteries while Horne and Redmond worked on the mound and plate, respectively, for the Cleaners. Henly received credit for the Skelly win with Garrett working behind the plate.

This Skelly win enabled them to keep their record unblemished and advanced their string victories to eight, with no losses.

Thousands Expected for Annual Indianapolis Motor Speedway

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Four hundred acres of people expected to see the fastest of 32 Memorial Day 500-mile races at Indianapolis Motor Speedway today.

Time trials leading up to the race winnowed out the 33 top cars from a record entry list of 80 powerful, high-geared racers. They were the speediest vehicles modern engineers could produce.

Nine of the leading drivers from America's dirt tracks and midwest saucers were ready to burn the bricks along with 24 speedway veterans. The nine freshmen already had proved themselves adept on the two-and-a-half-mile track by earning starting spots in his fastest field ever brought together.

The 33 cars, ten of them brand new and the others rebuilt from proved racers, had averaged 125.16 miles an hour in qualification runs. That was about three miles an hour faster than any previous starting field. Five cars averaged more than 128 miles an hour for another record.

The standard favorites were Rex Fays, Ted Horn, Bill Holland, Mauri Rose and Duke Nalon. Rose, winner last year and co-winner with Floyd Davis in 1941, was the only starter who ever had received the victor's checker flag.

Holland was second last year in his first race after thinking through a mixup in pit signals, that he had beaten his teammate on the Blue Crown Spark Plug Team.

Lee Wallard of Schenectady, N. Y., one of Holland's opponents on the Eastern tracks, earned top ranking among the new comers with the "600." He made a qualification run at 128.42 miles an hour on the Iddings Special, a rebuilt dirt track supposedly incapable of such speed.

British Golf Cup

ST. ANNE'S-ON-SEA, England.—(AP)—Nine of the 10 American bidders for the British Women's Amateur Golf Crown, won last year by Denver's Mrs. Babe Didrikson Zaharias, triumphed in today's first round.

The only casualty was Jean Hopkins of Cleveland, an alternate on the victorious U. S. Curtis Cup team. She was defeated, 3 and 2, by Jean Stewart McIntyre, one of Great Britain's better golfers. Most of Miss Hopkins' trouble was caused by her inability to control her drives.

At least one American contender will be eliminated this afternoon in the second round over the 6,866 yard, par 70 Royal Lytham and St. Anne's course. The pairings pit Peggy Kirk of Findlay, Ohio, against Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page, Jr., of Chapel Hill, N. C.

A hard rain had made the fairways soggy during the night and the downpour resumed as the final matches in the first round approached the last holes.

Hurry Hurries

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—(AP)—Don Jerry, Syracuse University athlete, recently had a busy afternoon. He put the shot in the opening event of a dual track meet at Colgate, hopped in his car and drove 39 miles to Syracuse where he pulled the No. 8 car in the Orange junior varsity eight against M. I. T. and Rutgers.

Sticking Up for Daddy

Having cleaned up in the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, incomparable Citation eyes additional fine fodder in the $100,000 Belmont Stakes at a mile-and-a-half, June 12.

Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
NEW YORK (AP)—Although the event still is nearly four months away, folks in Indiana already are getting steamed up about the Purdue-Notre Dame football game Sept. 25.

The Irish have beaten the Boiler-makers something like 18 times straight (and what's become of the old days when it took an Irishman to wield a sledgehammer on a Boiler?). But observers who saw the spring practice work-ups at both schools say Purdue was a lot further advanced at that stage.

It's no wonder, because Johnny Lujack, George Connor and Zigzag Czarnowski were "old-timers" at Notre Dame instead of the "Varsity." Lujack even made up plays in the huddle as this bunch of old gentlemen—with some others, of course—came through with a 20-14 victory over a team that had been practicing six days a week for six weeks.

PAIN IN THE ARM
Jack Coombs, Duke U. baseball coach, had an epidemic of sore arms on his pitching staff recently.

As a result, Jack was having to change moundmen four or five times a game. When one kid protested that he couldn't work because of his painful flipper, Coombs cracked: "Your arm couldn't be any sorer than mine after having to wave so many pitchers in and out of games."

MONDAY MATINEE
Charley Kimmel, who runs the scoreboards at most big golf tournaments, and his son Allen, who handles the press room boards, form a uniquely-talented combination.

Charley is a cigar-boss fiddle virtuoso and Allen makes you a nifty ring by folding a $10 bill.

Bo McMillin has bought a big house in Birmingham, Mich., so he can live near his Detroit Lions job, and will move in as soon as the kids finish school in Bloomington, Ind.

Backstop With Toe

VILLANOVA, Pa.—(AP)—John Siano, catcher on the Villanova baseball squad, was a tackle on last year's football eleven. His extra-point kicking won three games for the Wildcats.

Breaks 100 on Links

BELFAST, Northern Ireland.—(AP)—At the age of 96, Alexander McCann has been elected president of his local golf club. He still plays twice a week.

Oomph!

Joe Louis catches a medicine ball in the midair at Pompton Lakes, N. J., and it's hard work. Note the lines in the champion's face as he gets down to the more serious end of training for his return match with Jersey Joe Walcott at Yankee Stadium, June 23.

Waco Is Leading Big State League
By The Associated Press
Waco's Pirates are back home tonight for a series with Austin's Pioneers, a trip north in the Big State League not doing the league leaders any good.

Southpaw Johnny Herr held the Pirates to two hits yesterday as the Bears took their third straight decision, 6-1.

In other games, Austin lost its third straight to Paris, this time by a 12-1 margin and Sherman-Denison downed Wichita Falls, 8-6. The Gainesville-Greenville tilt was postponed because of rain after three innings of play.

The victory was the fourth straight for Texarkana.

Frank Gibbs touched Herr for the first Pioneer hit in the seventh, a single through short. Tom Encinas hit another single in the eighth. Waco's lone run came in the third on a walk, in field out and an error.

Tournament Comes to End
Pampa's annual all-city Golf Tournament came to a close yesterday afternoon at the local Country Club with Grover Austin, Jr., annexing the City Championship with a very close 3-2 win over Ed Edridge. This match was the final contest of the Championship Flight.

In the consolation bracket of this same flight, Marvin Harris had to go an extra hole to decision Cecil Branscum, on up.

The consolation prize of the First Flight went to B. T. Adkins when he bested Russell Cartwright 3 and 2 and M. N. Cox defeated Orville Hestell by the same score to win the Consolation Championship in the same flight.

In the Second Flight, D. H. Cobb successfully finished the final round with a 4-3 win over D. M. Dickey. Ed Givens eked out W. B. Weathered 3-2, for the Second Flight Consolation Championship.

H. H. Helskell won over Carl Brown for the Third Flight Championship and Floyd Watson won the Consolation prize when he bested DeLea Wiers, 5-1.

A one-up victory over Jack Nimmo gave John Howell the Fourth Flight Championship with the Consolation winner already being determined as Gene Butler.

In the Championship Flight, the final match was a heads-up contest all the way with Austin shooting a one under par to win his 3-2 margin.

Architect Is Best Protection Against Costly Home Construction Mistakes

The ideal, foolproof way to build a house would be to go back to school, study architecture, become a registered architect, serve an apprenticeship in as many of the building trades as possible, and if you lived long enough, become a master craftsman and then build the house you want.

In that way you would know all the tricks of the trade. Short of that, you ought to have an expert to help you—an expert to serve as your personal representative.

You can't tell by tapping on a brick wall with your knuckles what there is inside of it. You can't know the strength of a piece of lumber by looking at it. You want a house, but you don't want a freak that no one else will want—a house lacking in resale value and loan value.

So you need an architect. But everybody can't afford an architect. In fact, the majority of houses are built without benefit of architectural services.

Architects' fees range from 4 percent to 12 percent of the construction cost of a house, exclusive of land. The range depends upon locality and primarily upon the type of job and amount of service rendered. For the average house, full architectural service including supervision of the job, usually runs around 10 percent.

That sounds like a lot of money. And it is for the man who plans a house costing $10,000 or less. But a good architect can save the owner as much as his fee in averted mistakes, certified quality of construction and assurance that you are getting what you pay for.

The best alternative to full architectural service is the use of plans and specifications prepared by a registered architect. These should be carefully selected to fit your needs and your lot as nearly as possible. Then select an honest

Home Beauty Due to Proper Room Balance

Proper room balance must be achieved in order to have an attractive home. This rule applies to a great variety of things in the room—the furniture, the color scheme and the architectural features.

Balance does not have to mean identical or matching items on each side of the room. You don't have to buy everything in pairs.

This type of physical balance is simple to obtain and inclined to be monotonous in appearance. The repetition of an interesting piece of furniture often reduces the effectiveness of just a single piece.

A more artistic kind of balance—the kind used by professional interior decorators—is called occult balance. Items of entirely different weight and size may be used to achieve the desired effect.

Color alone is often the deciding factor in occult balance. For example, a very small bright red object may be used to balance a much larger dull grey piece. For the most part, the architectural features of a room are well balanced. Therefore the main problem for the homemaker consists of balancing the movable furniture in the room.

The best method of planning a balanced room is to make a scale drawing of the room with all unmovable items such as windows, doors and fireplaces drawn in.

With this drawing before you, the next step is to make cut-outs of the various movable objects. These miniature copies can then be moved about on the drawing with accuracy and no back-breaking work. By this means you move your furniture only once—into a predetermined position.

When planning the location of furniture, make an effort to think of furniture in groups. There are very few pieces of furniture that are used by themselves. A sofa is usually accompanied by a coffee table and tables or both. An easy chair has a lamp and a chair has a necessary combination.

Dividing the floor plan into quarters will aid in obtaining four balanced sections. A fireplace and other decorations such as draperies must be kept in mind when determining balance because these items have an occult balance value which cannot be ignored.

To get down to actual cases of balance, there is a fireplace on one side of the room, some large piece of furniture such as a piano or perhaps a sofa will provide a good balance. A group of two chairs and a table between will balance a sofa on the east side.

A small brightly colored chair will carry the same occult balance as an easy chair of a dull color. Tables, lamps and smaller items of furniture can be added to groups where just a little more weight is needed to achieve perfect balance.

Good design must be adhered to in determining the position of a piece of furniture. A good rule to remember is that almost all major pieces of furniture must be placed parallel to some wall in the room. Many people set all their furniture at various angles to the room because this gives the room an informal appearance. It invariably makes the room look disorganized.

Another rule to remember is that only specially-designed corner furniture should be used in corners. What-nots, corner tables, and L-shaped sofas and examples of this type of furniture.

Don't Overload Electric Circuits

It's dangerous to overload electric circuits. Hot wires can burn a house down.

An electric range calls for a separate circuit with its own lead-in of No. 8, or heavier wire. Kitchens in general should have their own circuits, because of the number of appliances used.

Have a licensed electrician do all electrical work and get an Underwriters' certificate wherever possible. Unapproved electrical work can invalidate a fire insurance policy.

all your family habits, your budget, your style preferences. He'll inspect the job regularly, audit all bills, and check on the quality of construction. He can save considerable in future maintenance costs and advise on the efficiency of equipment.

If you build without an architect be prepared to take on his duties and responsibilities.

Exhibit Shows 'Grown-Up' Modern Style Furniture

furniture, which has taken a lot of kicking around as well as exorbitant praise, comes in for an explanation and attempt at real understanding for the layman at a new exhibit here.

The exhibition, Furniture of Today, opened at the Rhode Island School of Design Museum, includes about 100 pieces of real, honest-to-goodness modern furniture—none of the frequent pieces in traditional style done up to have a modern flavor, and none of the wild attempts at newness without taste or reason.

It marks a sort of coming of age for the moderate style, for all the furniture shown is mass production in ordinary stores. And it proves that there is a grownup modern style even to the most skeptical.

The museum catalog for the exhibit points out that modern furniture, chiefly since the war has gone beyond the experiments stage and now is in production although the stage of maturity has not been reached.

Mr. Tower, who arranged the exhibition, suggested that the basic difference between modern and traditional furniture is that modern has use as its first consideration, while traditional looks first to appearance.

That distinction shows clearly in every section of the display, but perhaps most in the lamps in which the difference between modern and traditional furniture is that modern has use as its first consideration, while traditional looks first to appearance.

They are lamps designed first for lighting and their style is a dramatization of what they are meant to do. Most of them have slender, clean-looking stems from

How to Cut Fire Risk In Homes

An average of 300,000 fires occur in homes and apartments throughout the U. S. every year, resulting at least that many persons homeless for periods ranging from a day to several months.

Fire is no respecter of person. It burns down the humble cottage as well as the millionaire's mansion.

Before buying or building: Consider the location. Does it have fire protection? Is there a fire department available on call? If not, is there an emergency water supply nearby? Are there enough families in the neighborhood to organize a volunteer fire department?

Too often suburban developments sprawl beyond city or village limits, where fire protection is unavailable.

When you build: Find out if your city has adopted a good building code, such as the National Board of Fire Underwriters code. If your city has a code, and its enforcement is good, you will get good construction, and a better value.

If your city has no code, or if you build in unincorporated areas, get an architect, and select a reputable builder or contractor, who will follow good building practices.

Here are other considerations: 1. Spacing: There should be a minimum of 20 feet between your house and the house next door. 2. Roofing: A fire resistant roof is best. It prevents sparks from nearby fires or chimneys from igniting the roof.

3. Firestops: Every frame home should have blocks or boards between the studs at every floor level and eaves level of every partition and outside wall and around chimney breast. If you have bought an old house, you can forsook it with mineral wool insulation.

4. Electrical wiring: In new construction, or in alterations, have all work done by professional electricians guided by the National Electrical Code.

Provide electric lights in all closets, basement, and attic spaces so that the use of candles and open flames will never be necessary. 5. If your home has a basement, provide a heavy flush-type door, 2-4 inches thick, at the top of the basement stairs. This door will hold back a fire for half an hour. The basement ceiling as well as the lower side of the stairway the goose-neck desk lamp of spun aluminum, which clips to a desk and throws a good light onto the work area, to a chrome-finish floor lamp. The floor lamp rises a slim tube, a straight-to-shoulder height, where it curves around a right angle to the seat and shade set at the end of the angle. A simple, sloping shade over a reflector allows for both direct and indirect lighting.

Modern storage units shown emphasize the trend toward straight, flush surfaces, with the beauty of the wood itself as the main decorative touch. A few chests with the typical large, eye-catching drawer pulls are included, but those that have indentations or slopes for pulls seem more to stick to the spirit of good modern furniture.

Storage units that can be assembled in various sizes and shapes, combining drawers and cabinets and shelves, stand out as one of the most important contributions of modern design. For example, the Mengel Module furniture, which has received a good bit of attention, can fill a whole wall or act as a small cabinet, depending on the householder's taste and needs. The various sections, with their corner-less plywood drawers and square cabinets are attached by simple connectors that anyone can manage.

Hardest to swallow for those who are accustomed only to traditional furniture, perhaps, is the stress on slim tapered legs for chairs and tables and chests. While modern construction methods assure that they are strong enough, they still don't look it.

Mr. Tower's suggestion is that the slim legs provide a feeling of vitality for the various pieces—if furniture needs to be vital.

You Can Make It—And Have Fun

Lucky is the householder whose hobby turns out to be making things for the house. The garden, the terrace and every room of a house opens opportunities for the man who leans the relaxation of working with his hands.

No secret skill is required to build arbors, trellises, bird houses, bird baths, sun dials, fences, benches, seats, tables and other garden furnishings. The average American boy turns out some very attractive work along this line.

Indoors you can build your own bookshelves, corner cupboards, closet fittings, and if you're more ambitious you may essay built-in furniture, such as benches, beds, kitchen cabinets, buffets, bars, and your house size is your limit.

When a veteran newspaperman, whose only practical experience with wood has been sharpening pencils, does his own pine paneling and it turns out to be a beautiful job, don't say "no can do."

Almost any public library has books on the Make-It-Yourself subject. Illustrated booklets on the subject can be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C. "You Can Make It" volume I sells for 15 cents and covers practical uses for second hand boxes and odd pieces of lumber. It contains 108 sketches, including a dog house, a brooder coop, a window box, etc.

"You Can Make It for Camp and Cottage," also 15 cents (no stamps) has more plans for bird houses, bookcases, desks and a total of 24 drawings. Cross poles are doweled through legs to impale them tightly. A center bar under the table is notched for the cross poles.

Rigid diagonal braces under the table are splayed. The top surface of the table is made of fitted iog slabs, hewed at the outside edges and secured together with 1-2-inch wood dowels, 4 inches long, glued and clamped.

SPEED UP RADIATORS
Manufacturers of cast iron radiators have reduced the number of stock assemblies from 800 to about 80. This number, they have found, will take care of 90 percent of building requirements. The elimination of the slow-moving combinations of heights, tube and sections, and the concentration of all production facilities on 80 combinations, will result in greater output, lower cost, and faster delivery for the consumer.

BETTER FOR FIRE
Lighter hardwoods make a hotter and shorter-lasting fire than the heavier hardwoods.

leading to second floor should be covered with a half-inch gypsum plaster over metal lath.

6. Fireplaces: No wooden beams or joists should be supported by the chimney. No woodwork should be placed within four inches of the back of a fireplace.

7. The heating plant: Before buying an old house, inspect the chimney for cracks, and the flues for rust and corrosion. All piping should be insulated or insulated.

Make Home a Sports Center

The wise house builder, if budget permits, will include in his plan ample facilities for sports and recreation. Related thoughts of such conveniences can be costly and troublesome.

This does not mean the construction of a Yankee stadium in the back yard or a miniature amusement park in the basement. But it does mean space at comparatively small cost—depending upon the extent of the facilities—every reasonable desire can be fulfilled.

This phase of the building program is particularly important to families with growing children, although, even if loathe to admit it, adults get a tremendous kick out of the simple sports and games which may be enjoyed in the privacy of the home.

If you have boys around the house and the yard space is ample, you can give them plenty of opportunity to spend the restless energy of youth.

A small basketball court, or, if space is too limited, a hoop set up on a pole, or even on the garage, will be the means of whiling away many an hour. A tennis court, volleyball court or badminton layout easily can be provided in the original grounds plan.

All a croquet court needs is a fairly level surface. For families that like the outdoor life, a barbecue pit may be constructed at modest cost. If junior would like to go back to pioneer days be sure he has a second corner of the yard, preferably a little rugged, where he can set up a tent and rough it for a night even if he picks up his blankets about 3 a. m. and heads for the house to escape the ferocious animals circling him in the darkness.

If you really want to get in deep, financially, you might investigate the possibilities of a small swimming pool. That improvement alone would make your children the most popular in the neighborhood.

A basement recreation, or rumpled, room seems to be the most popular from the standpoint of the house proper. Be sure ventilation and lighting are adequate, there is ample heat, and the space is dry.

Most such rooms are constructed with knotty pine paneling, giving a mellow effect. What goes into the room is a matter of individual choice, but if the room is inviting and comfortable it can become the most popular room in the house, with the living room upstairs as seldom used as an old farmhouse parlor.

Naturally the expense of equipping a game room enters into the scope of the project.

If money is no object, such enlightening furnishings as pianos, and billiard tables may be included.

They are not necessary to a room, however. At minimum cost such items as table tennis equipment, dart targets, shuffle board, and perhaps separated from the room proper for safety's sake and convenience, a rifle range.

If Bob's hobby is a camera fiend, you might have a built-in-dark room, and if Papa likes to putter around with tools you might be wise to include a sturdy wood working bench.

A must in many recreation rooms, which incidentally can be in the attic or on any other floor, is a bar. There are scores of unique designs. The complete bar would have its own cooling unit, and, with money no object, it might be arranged as a soda fountain for the teen agers.

Such a room and such a yard, properly equipped, bring sport right to the fireside, and with television making such rapid strides and bringing big sports events right into the home, the kids and parents will be saying: "Let's just stay home tonight. We can have more fun."

MIRROR ON THE WALL
When used in mirrors, polished plate glass reflects a maximum clarity and faithfulness of reflection. As its name implies, this glass is ground and polished on both sides. The careful processing, like that given a fine jewel, assures true reflections and enables you to see yourself as you actually are—without wavy lines and distorting reflective surfaces found in lower quality glass. To give them permanence, these glass mirrors are backed with a material that protects the fine silver coating from air and moisture. If this protective coating becomes checked or cracked due to mishandling or climatic conditions, a mirror can be restored and made to look like new by having it re-silvered. Like an old friend, a good mirror "wears well."

Points to Watch In House Design Practical Guides For Householders

1. Beware of fads in architecture. Styles of clothes and automobiles can change, but a home with lasting value must age well.

2. Avoid fakes in design. You will find fakes in the work of so-called modernists as much as in the styles they are reviving against. Good design reflects its purpose.

3. Don't strive for cuts effects. They detract from any real beauty.

4. Never sacrifice livability for false appearances. Where flies and mosquitoes are prevalent, screened porches are more appropriate than unprotected and imposing brick terraces.

5. Beware of a hodgepodge of finishing materials—brick here, stucco there, fieldstones in another spot, a patch of wood siding, and so on. Simplicity is the key to beauty.

6. Dodge all distortions. A Cape Cod design may lend itself to well proportioned dormers, but a full length false dormer to make it a two-story house destroys good appearance.

Government publications on home building and maintenance are catalogued in a 30-page price list available from the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C.

Ask for Price List 7, "Publications of Interest to Suburbanites and Home Builders." It contains order blanks and instructions on how to remit.

Prices of the various booklets range from 5 cents to around 50 cents.

In addition to subjects mentioned in other articles in this supplement, there are pamphlets on sundials, driveways, screen doors, floors, closets, painting, and several hundred others for both the homemaker and housekeeper.

AVOID PROSTRATION
Danger of summer heat prostration in the home can be minimized if the house is insulated with mineral wool because this makes living quarters as much as 15 degrees cooler.

Meat in Can Stars In Host of Dishes

When you're planning the meat course do you take into consideration all the canned meat choices waiting to simplify your shopping and home cooking jobs? With over 30 kinds of standard canned meats available... making use of all varieties of meats, a host of spices and different processing formulas... you'll find a product for every meat need.

Most homemakers are familiar with one or two canned meat products... probably in a can on leaves or corned beef hash. But there are such delicacies as canned ham, corned beef, chili con carne, Vienna sausage, deviled meats, sliced dried beef, frankfurters, tongue, liver products, braised meats, stews, or meat and spaghetti.

All of these meats passed rugged tests before they came to your grocer's shelves. Every product was first developed in a laboratory to establish the formula, the method of packing and processing and keeping quality. The U. S. Department of Agriculture also had to give its approval to the product. Even when production gets underway, constant supervision and control is given in the plants to maintain high standards of quality. Every can of meat that goes into interstate commerce bears the government stamp of approval. "U. S. Inspected and Passed by the Department of Agriculture."

You'll find canned meats ready to be called on for every meal. They may be served cold in appetizers, in sandwiches, salads or in cold meat platters. They may be served hot with a variety of foods in prepared casseroles or served "as is" baked, fried or broiled. Luncheon loaf is excellent diced and added to scalloped potatoes or macaroni au gratin... or ground and used as a stuffing for green peppers. Tongue may be cut in narrow strips and added to tossed vegetable salads, or served hot with a mushroom sauce. Potted or deviled meats vary the fillings for sandwiches or hot patties. Meat stews take a new look when heated in a casserole and then topped with baking powder biscuit dough and baked in a hot oven.

For a special main dish treat try corned beef hash patties. Here's the recipe:

HASH PATTIES
 2 tablespoons fat
 1-2 cup thinly sliced onion
 2 tablespoons flour
 1 No. 2 can peas
 1-2 cup milk
 1-2 teaspoon salt
 1 can corned beef hash
 Melt 1 tablespoon fat in sauce pan; brown onions lightly. Sprinkle flour over onions and combine thoroughly. Drain liquid from peas; combine with milk. Add salt and milk-pea liquid to onions and flour. Cook, stirring constantly, until sauce has thickened. Add 1 cup peas, stirring gently. Open can of hash at both ends. Push hash out on a board. Slice in four portions. Brown in remaining 1 tablespoon fat in a frying pan. Serve corned beef hash patties with pea sauce. Yield: 4 servings.

"But when you recall that one of the first moves by Lenin, Mussolini, and Hitler was to outlaw individual ownership of gold, you begin to sense that there may be some connection between money, redeemable in gold, and the rare prize known as human liberty."
"Also, when you find that Lenin declared and demonstrated that a sure way to overturn the existing social order and bring about communism in the scheme to win the money, then again you are impressed with the possibility of a relationship between a gold-backed money and human freedom."

Success Secrets
By ELMER WHEELER
Are you a sucker to work hard? A recent poll taken by Fortune magazine asked workers the following question: "Do you feel personally that if you work harder on your job than the others around you it will pay off in promotion or advancement?"

It wouldn't make much difference? Fifty per cent answered they didn't think it would make much difference. In answering the question myself I would like to tell you about William Schmidt, Jr. There are thousands more like him—the men and women who made our country great.

Fifty years ago William Schmidt, Jr. went to work on the night shift for Consolidated Gas, Electric Light & Power Company, in Baltimore.

He worked from 6 p.m. to 7 a.m. He worked seven days a week—365 days per year. Schmidt could have written his Congressman a letter about the unfair hours. He could have got on a soap box and made speeches about the working man not having a chance. He could have demanded his "rights" and asked for lots of money for little work.

But Schmidt did not of these. He was what lots of people today would call a "Sucker." He just kept on working hard—and was dumb enough to think it was an opportunity instead of a curse.

In 1945 Schmidt was made President of the company. What happened to his early companions who told him he was a sucker to work so hard? You guess. (Copyright 1948, General Features Corporation)

MISS HELEN sat forward a little. "Do you know this line well?" she asked.

Paul smiled.

"Very well indeed. I travel up and down it every day."

"We've got a niece who comes up to London three times a week," said Miss Alice. "She always catches this train home."

"Really?" said Paul, with what he hoped was just the right show of polite interest.

"Maybe you've seen her," suggested Miss Alice. "She's small and dark and rather shy looking."

Paul said—quite untruthfully—that he couldn't say he'd noticed her. But then so many people traveled regularly by this train.

"She should have been with us this evening," went on Miss Alice. "In fact, it's because of her we nearly missed the train. You see—"

"I don't suppose, Mr.—Mr.—"

"Taylor, Paul Taylor."

"Thank you. I don't suppose, Alice, Mr. Taylor is interested?"

"Oh, but I am," said Paul easily. "She's really been rather a naughty little girl," said Miss Alice.

"Alice! Please!" said Miss Helen severely.

Miss Alice colored uncomfortably.

"You're not by any chance related to Canon Taylor of Saffron Walden?" asked Miss Helen, changing the subject.

"My uncle," said Paul, wondering how he could get back to it.

"Really, but how interesting!"

"You know him?"

"I've met him once or twice," said Miss Helen. "Such an interesting man."

"He's not a bad old boy."

MISS HELEN blinked. She wasn't quite sure she approved of this jocular way of alluding to the Canon, whom she remembered as an extremely stern and very erudite gentleman. Still maybe this was the modern manner. And it was really most satisfactory to find that this young man was related to him.

"I think perhaps we should introduce ourselves," she said warmly. "Our name is Melville. I'm Miss Helen Melville, and this is my sister, Miss Alice Melville."

"How do you do," said Paul gravely. And then he smiled. "That's a little late in the day." And then, quite disarmingly, "Our name is Melville. I'm Miss Helen Melville, and this is my sister, Miss Alice Melville."

"How do you do," said Paul gravely. And then he smiled. "That's a little late in the day." And then, quite disarmingly, "Our name is Melville. I'm Miss Helen Melville, and this is my sister, Miss Alice Melville."

"I don't know how we'd have got on without you. We'd most certainly never have caught this train."

Paul seized this opening. "You'd have been still waiting for the naughty niece. Tell me—if it isn't impertinent to ask—are you expecting her to travel down with the next train?"

Miss Alice shook her head.

"No. We're afraid she's staying away for the night. We're really very worried about her."

Paul was aware of a sudden, and he supposed, quite unreasonably, anger. Coupled with a very real uneasiness. What the blazes was Patience up to?

"I suppose you know where she is," he said.

"Well, no, we don't. You see, she's been away for the week-end. That's why we're so anxious," said Miss Alice.

Paul started. He remembered Patience in that box at the theater. Patience on the stage at that party, so clearly put out because just for the first time such a thing had happened. Miss Alice felt a secret satisfaction. She was delighted that this very pleasant young man was coming to tea on Saturday. And she felt almost certain Patience would like him.

cord, stop the train, and chase straight away back to London. Only that, of course, would be plumb crazy. Where the blazes would he start looking for her?

"I THINK I'd rather talk of something else, Alice," said Miss Helen firmly.

"Of course," said Miss Alice. "I'm sorry, dear. It's just that I'm a little unhappy about her."

"She'll be back tomorrow all right," said Miss Helen.

"But if she isn't, Helen?" said Miss Alice tremulously.

"Ah, that's a point," said Paul. "Supposing she isn't? I say, I suppose I can't do anything to help?"

"You're very kind," began Miss Alice.

Miss Helen looked at him. She shook her head.

"Oh, no. I assure you that though my sister may sound a little anxious, I'm not really worrying at all. And, as I've just said, I would really much prefer not to discuss the subject any further." Her expression changed, and a rather forced brightness spread across her face: "Tell me, Mr. Taylor, do you live much farther down the line than Oakley? I'm only asking because it occurred to me that possibly you might care to come over to tea with us one afternoon. We would be so happy if you could. I'd be glad too for you to meet Patience."

Paul said he'd be delighted. It was really most kind of them. He'd be free the following Saturday. He could easily slip over by car.

"We'll expect you then about 4:30. Our address is Rose Cottage, High Wycombe."

Paul smiled.

"I'll remember that easily."

"We shall look forward to seeing you," said Miss Alice. She glanced at her sister. Was it possible that something of what she had said was influencing her? If so it was the first time such a thing had happened. Miss Alice felt a secret satisfaction. She was delighted that this very pleasant young man was coming to tea on Saturday. And she felt almost certain Patience would like him.

sons and daughters of veterans living in the public housing project and students at Vanport College centered in the town. The anxiety of most of the adult survivors is for their offspring. Dozens of leaving children in upper floors of the buildings—believed in safety—buildings that later folded like tents when the flood impact struck the apartments. Others said children were torn from their grasp. Their fate is unknown today.

The disaster struck the community in a flanking of flood waters from the swollen Columbia. The backwater and lake it formed had weakened, a railroad embankment on the west edge of the city. The river level had risen to 15 feet above the Vanport table ground level, yesterday morning. The break came (EST). The prearranged siren signal for the townfolk was sounded, but with minutes the gap had spread to 80 feet, then 600 feet and a six-foot wall of water swept into the city.

Hundreds heard the warning signal, but thousands—lulled by earlier reports that they were in no imminent danger—appeared to ignore the danger and scooped as neighbors dashed from the high places surrounding the mile-square area. Today the scene was a placid pool on which the frame apartment buildings floated, shattered walls and roofs and household goods drifted aimlessly.

The tragedy of the disaster was told by men and women who were sheltered last night in schools and churches without knowing whether their children are among the living.

Survivors scattered in shelters throughout nearby Portland told their harrowing escape, of racing away from the wall of water, swimming to higher land or escaping from cars stalled in a mass jam of vehicles on the two roads exiting from the lowlying town.

They said the first 15 minutes was a maddening rush of men, women and children striving to save their lives, frantically uncertain where to turn and run except away from the water.

When the thousands of refugees began streaming from the stricken city, huge interurban buses, trucks and private cars took them to temporary rehabilitation centers. Four truckloads of food donated by private citizens was distributed.

The Red Cross called in a team of radio hamlets to maintain communication with scattered relief centers and actual rescue operations in Vanport.

An airplane pilot, Calbin Hulbert, was over the area when the

Pampa Scouts Go to Camp

Pampa boys from Scout Troops 4 and 22 will be among the 140 Boy Scouts attending Camp K-O-Wah the first week of its opening, which started yesterday.

Troop 14 will send boys during the second week and Troops 16 and 80 will be represented during the later sessions.

The typical camp day will commence at 7:30 a. m. and will come to an end at 9:30 p. m. After the first call, reveille will be sounded at 7:35 a. m. Before breakfast each Scout will air his blankets, wash up and attend assembly.

After breakfast camp clean-up and general inspection will occupy 45 minutes of the day before the Scout starts his archery, rifle or handicrafts.

Scouts may swim, canoe or continue to work on their handicrafts until the noon meal time. Then he is required to take a "siesta" for 45 minutes at which time each Scout must remain quietly in his own camping area.

At 2 p. m. camp projects are tended to, hikes are taken and merit badges passed after which more swimming occupies the afternoon. Games, assembly, campfires and call to quarters take up the remaining part of the camping day, and the Scout readily enough listens to "Taps," puts out the lights and goes to bed.

AUSTIN—(AP)—Texas Supreme Court Chief Justice J. E. Hickman Saturday announced his candidacy to the same position.

Hickman was appointed to the position by Gov. Beauford H. Jester to succeed the late Chief Justice James P. Alexander who died Jan. 1. Hickman had been an associate Justice.

There was no warning trickle, he related. "There was suddenly a six-foot breach in the railroad embankment. Then it was 60 feet, then 600."

"A wall of water 10 feet high slid through the breach, striking down whole apartment buildings like a bulldozer knocks down a sapling.

"The buildings seemed to burst as the water hit them. I saw the whole wall of an apartment pop out like a balloon exploding."
