

'Hitches' Delay Cease-Fire But End Near In French-Algerian War

PARIS (UPI) — Last minute hitches were reported delaying an Algerian cease-fire Saturday night but the end of the war there was so near France began moving troops into key spots in Algeria to cope with an expected uprising by European extremists.

In Paris, armed police stopped motorists on the streets and pedestrians on the streets and subway in search of members of the outlawed Secret Army Organization (OAS) which opposes an independent Algeria.

But France's Algerian Affairs Minister Louis Joxe, who has been locked all week in a final round of tough negotiations with rebel leaders at a secret hideout believed to be in the Jura Mountains near the Swiss border, delayed his return to Paris.

The rebel leaders, who are negotiating with Joxe had been expected to fly soon to Tripoli, in Libya, where their National Council of the Algerian Revolution (CNRA) or parliament was to have met Sunday or Monday to approve the draft agreement.

But at the last moment, Rebel Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda and other top Algerian rebels who will take part in the parliament session postponed their departure from Tunis.

Earlier, officials here said President Charles de Gaulle left Paris for his country home at Colombey-Les-Deux - Eglises. Afterwards, they said this was not so. They said he presumably was remaining on hand for telephoned consultations with Joxe.

Government sources in Paris and rebel sources in Tunis said the last minute holdup was over the problem of guarantees for the 1,100,000 Europeans in Algeria after independence.

The rebels reportedly have balked at a French demand that the Europeans should be allowed dual nationality — Algerian nationality in Algeria and French nationality in France.

Science Beginning To Discover Stuff Our Dreams Are Made Of

DIAMOND "Why do we dream?"

By WARD CANNEL
NEW YORK (NEA) — The telephone bell rang, and rang again. Finally the half-awakened sleeper reached out, picked up the receiver and — eager to get back — reported impatiently:

"I was dreaming. It was a kitchen. No, it was an airport. I was talking to President Kennedy and telling him . . ."

This is a typical experiment in dream research — a science so new that more has been learned in the past 10 years about how and what — and most important, why — we dream than we've discovered in the thousands of years since Joseph interpreted the Pharaoh's dreams.

Scientific research into dreams is so productive and so various, in fact, that a science editor named Edwin Diamond probably knows more about what's going on than most of the scientists. His soon-to-be-published book, "The Science of Dreams," will doubtless shock and surprise not only laymen but also psychologists and physiologists the world over.

For in this brief decade of investigation, Diamond says, experimentation as well as textbook theory about dreams have been pretty well upset.

Nearly conclusive evidence, based on minutely sensitive brain-wave recordings and confirmed in testimony taken from dreamers in lab experiments, reveals:

We live in three states of being — awake, asleep or dreaming.

Everybody dreams — up to as much as 20 per cent of sleep time.

Going without dreams is probably as injurious to mind and body as going without sleep.

In 1952, Dr. Nathaniel Kleitman at the University of Chicago discovered that rapid eye movement in a sleeper indicates a dream in the making. Today dream research has been taken up in university labs from Berkeley, Calif., to Cambridge, Mass.

After a decade of awakened dreamers and transcriptions of their dream accounts alongside records of their metabolism, the immense U.S. dream library can now supply a pretty good account of such stuff as dreams are made of. We know, Diamond's "Science of Dreams" reports:

Our dreams take as long to unfold as they would to act out in waking life. We usually have four or five dreams each night — spaced about 90 minutes apart — beginning with a short 3-minute episode and getting longer until the last, about 28 minutes, ended by the alarm clock.

If you don't recall any of your dreams it's probably because you didn't wake up immediately after them, or because you've got your feelings in an iron grip and may be solving your problems by denying them.

While meanings of dreams still defy classification, a few broad lines can be drawn. The scenes of our dreams are familiar. Usually we're at home, hardly ever at work. The people are generally familiar — people we're emotionally involved with. Likewise, the story line is personal rather than objective. Businessmen seldom dream of the office routine. Housewives seldom dream of kitchen chores.

On the other hand, says Diamond, dreaming is not a very happy activity. Unpleasant dreams far outnumber the pleasant in the dream library. Most often the content of the dream shows fear, defeat, loss, penitence, sadness.

The real misery would come if we were prevented from dreaming. Current lab hypothesis says our minds couldn't withstand the deprivation and our personalities would likely disintegrate. Experiments show:

If our dreams are stopped to night, we'll double our attempts tomorrow night.

Stop our dreams tomorrow night, and we'll build a dream pressure that can eventually demolish our personality with hallucinations, loss of memory and anxieties during the day.

The give us a night to recuperate and we'll make up for lost dream time by having seven or eight dreams instead of the usual four or five.

"That we have a vital need to dream is now beyond doubt," says Diamond. "But why the need — that's the crux."

In broad terms, Diamond points out, there are two theories about why we have to dream.

One theory holds that our minds require stimulation almost constantly, day and night, to keep us from going insane. The evidence: Experiments in solitary confinement — in which subjects are deprived of touch, smell and hearing sense stimulation — have brought on hallucinations and other effects bordering on "gross mental illness." Most subjects have withdrawn from the experiment after 36 hours despite a $200 per day incentive.

W. M. Lane Announces For Commissioner

In announcing for Commissioner of precinct No. 2, which includes all of Pampa and the adjacent rural areas, I will state that I have lived in Gray County for thirty four years and have raised my family here. My conduct in the past should be a fair barometer of what you should expect of me in the future. My moral integrity and my intellectual qualities are not likely to be materially change between now and election time. I have no axes to grind and no special interests to serve. I have a strong conviction that any department of government, from local to national level should be operated under the same basic, conservative principles as are practiced by successful operators of private enterprise; That public officials must be dedicated to the virtues of honesty, honor and dignity, and that the application of these principles must be perpetuated, if our free institutions, our livelihood and individual liberties, shall long survive. I believe that officials should be selected on a basis of judgment and past accomplishments, rather than on a basis of personal sentiment, religious, fraternal or political organization. I feel that I have the qualification, the time and the necessary experience to properly serve your interests and will appreciate your support but will not bother you with continued solicitations. How High Could You Pile Traffic Victims?

Patrolman C. A. Dempsey, safety officer with the Texas Highway Patrol's Lubbock division, was in Pampa Thursday to bring supplies and material for the Traffic School which will open here next Monday for law enforcement officers in the Top O' Texas area.

While in town, Patrolman Dempsey dropped in at the News office with some frightening statistics about the terrible toll taken by traffic accidents in Texas during 1960.

"Somehow," Patrolman Dempsey, "it is hard to bring the true picture of traffic accidents home to the people."

He explained that he had spent a great amount of time compiling his figures on traffic deaths in Texas into a descriptive picture of the real traffic cost.

Here is the report he submitted:

"In 1960 there were 2,254 human lives battered, smashed, torn and strewn upon Texas streets and highways. Another 127,980 were sent to doctors and hospitals, some of these injured or maimed for life. Some 400,000 automobiles were damaged or demolished. Our economic loss came to an astounding figure of $350,022,500. Our liability and collision insurance premiums came to a sum in excess of two hundred and thirty million dollars.

"If the 2,254 dead traffic victims were stacked in a pile, the dimensions would be about 2 1/2 miles in length, 3/4 of a mile in width and 4-10 of a mile in height.

The dimensions for the 127,980 injured would be 139 miles in length, 41 miles in width and 20 miles in height. The dimensions of the some 400,000 damaged or demolished vehicles would be 1,330 miles in length, 500 miles in width and 379 miles in height.

"Now for a descriptive look at the three hundred and fifty million dollars cost of the traffic accidents. The playing area of a football field measures 30 feet by 160 feet, or 48,000 square feet. United States currency measures about 2 1/2 inches by 6 1/4 inches. If a football field was completely covered with one dollar bills, then a layer of five dollar bills, then a layer of ten dollar bills, then a layer of twenty dollar bills, then a layer of fifty dollar bills, then a layer of one hundred dollar bills, then a layer of five hundred dollar bills and on top of these eight layers of paper money, dump 1,595 tons of silver dollars, this would represent the economic loss we suffered in Texas for the year 1960.

"The three hundred and fifty million dollars would have bought 10,000 homes at $20,000 each; 10,000 refrigerators at $400 each; 10,000 cooking ranges at $350 each; 10,000 TV sets at $350 each; 10,000 dishwashers at $300 each; 10,000 automobiles at $3,000 each; 10,000 central air conditioning units at $1,400 each and furnish the head of each of the 10,000 households with a bank account of $9,802."

WHERE THERE'S A WHEEL... A Minneapolis industrial design class assignment: Design a locomotion device to move a rider across 150 yards of ice, cost not to exceed $2.50. Carl Ahlberg came up with this: An old wicker rocking chair mounted on wide, four-foot wheels that revolve by pulling a sash cord. Ahlberg proves it works by taking himself for a trial run on Lake Harriet, Minn.

IRS Reports 4 Common Report Errors Made

Taxpayers in this area are making four "all-too-common" errors in their tax returns, according to District Director Ellis Campbell, Jr., of Internal Revenue Service, Dallas. These are:

"Failure to print or write legibly, forgetting to sign, not reporting all income, and mistakes in arithmetic."

The Director continues, "Three out of ten taxpayers who make major arithmetic errors pay too much tax, or select the wrong tax from the tax table.

"Unreported income often stems from bank-bearing interest; taxpayers with time deposits frequently overlook the bank credits to their account. Also, we find taxpayers forgetting that some of the money received when they cash Series 'E' bonds is interest income, if the bond has reached interest-bearing life."

Dependency errors, especially those involving working wives, are "all-too-common" on 1961 returns. Wives are never the dependents of their husbands. Some working wives earning less than $600 are filing separate returns to get a refund on their withholding tax. In Texas each spouse has one-half of total income earned by both husband and wife. These couples should file joint returns, and when joint returns are filed, income of both parties must be reported and both must sign the return.

Merger Of Four Lutheran Groups Slated This Year

NEW YORK (UPI)—The church of this movement have seen formation of the ULCA by the General Synod, the General Council and the United Synod of the South in 1918. The Augustana Lutherans very nearly joined that merger but chose to remain independent until now.

Nine major Lutheran bodies belong to the National Lutheran Council, formed during World War I as a service organization and now acting as a clearing house for information about Lutherans.

The 1918 merger actually was a "reunion" of segments of Lutheranism organized in America's early days and separated in the late 19th century. This reunion has continued and grown to the 1962 climax, and many Lutherans hope it will continue to grow.

Thus, in two years, the fragmented Lutherans will see seven groups merge into two. These are the Lutheran Church - Missouri Synod, with 2,391,195 members, represent the main force of Lutheranism in America. The 10 remaining Lutheran groups report a total of about 400,000 members.

It is the dream of some Lutheran leaders that all members of the denomination should one day belong to a single body. Leaders

GUILTY OF RAPE
BROWNSVILLE (UPI)—James D. Maxwell, 35, a former sergeant at Harlingen Air Force Base, was found guilty Thursday of raping a 14-year-old girl from Monterrey, Mexico. He was sentenced to 25 years in prison.

FATAL TRAFFIC MISHAP
BATESVILLE, Tex. (UPI)—George Melvin Gary, 27, of Sabinal, Tex., was killed and Bennie Cole Bomer, 19, of Batesville was injured Thursday night in a two-car collision on Farm Road 117 four miles north of Batesville.

Cancer ranks second only to heart disease as a killer in the United States.

"Unreported income often stems from bank-bearing interest; taxpayers with time deposits frequently overlook the bank credits to their account. Also, we find taxpayers forgetting that some of the money received when they cash Series 'E' bonds is interest income, if the bond has reached interest-bearing life."

Dependency errors, especially those involving working wives, are "all-too-common" on 1961 returns. Wives are never the dependents of their husbands. Some working wives earning less than $600 are filing separate returns to get a refund on their withholding tax. In Texas each spouse has one-half of total income earned by both husband and wife. These couples should file joint returns, and when joint returns are filed, income of both parties must be reported and both must sign the return.

Daniel addressed the Conference's Brotherhood Citation Dinner, at which Dallas businessman C. A. Tatum was honored for his work on the Dallas Citizens Council.

COMMON INTERESTS—The nations of Western Europe are becoming more and more interlocked, both politically and economically. Pattern for this trend is being set by the Common Market, formed in 1957 and composed of France, Belgium, Luxembourg, Italy, Netherlands and West Germany. Chart above shows the machinery of Common Market co-operation. The three commissions—Coal and Steel High Authority (ESCS), Economic Community Commission (ECC) and European Atomic Energy Commission (Euratom)—propose agreements relating to all aspects of trade, manufacturing, agriculture, etc. The Councils of Ministers pass on these. If approved, they become binding on all members. The Parliament is mostly investigative; it also passes on applications for membership in the Common Market. The Court of Justice resolves disputes between individuals, companies or governments.

How To Lodge Yourself In The Public Eye

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Everyone knows that the way to succeed in politics is to lodge yourself in the public eye and cling there with the tenacity of a cinder.

Here are some of the ways you accomplish this, particularly if you are trying to make your political mark in the U.S. Congress:

You hold as many news conferences as the traffic will bear. You appear on radio and television programs at every opportunity. You issue statements and press releases, and you make yourself available for comment on any given issue.

You make speeches on the Senate floor and contribute material to the Congressional Record. You accept as many outside speaking engagements as you are fortunate enough to receive.

You make appearances at dinner parties, receptions and other social functions. You associate yourself with congressional hearings and investigations that are in the headlines.

Everyone knows you must do this sort of thing in order to get re-elected — everyone, that is, except Sen. Carl Hayden, an 84-year-old Democrat of Arizona.

Whoever served as Hayden's original political mentor apparently neglected to put him wise to the value of publicity. At any rate, he has gone through life courting obscurity.

What happens to a politician who shuns the limelight will become obvious next Monday. On that date, Hayden will complete his 15th year, as a member of Congress.

This will make him the first lawmaker in American history to serve for half a century. Hayden, you see, got a late start.

Before being eligible to run for Congress, the former Maricopa County sheriff had to wait for Arizona to become a state.

As president pro tempore of the Senate and chairman of the appropriations committee, he is now one of the most respected, beloved and powerful figures in government.

Therefore, it pleases me to report that Hayden is finally catching on to some of the secrets of political success.

On the eve of his semi-centennial celebration, he will break precedent by appearing on a TV discussion program for the first time.

Petro-Chemical Industry Grows Bigger In Texas

By KYLE THOMPSON

HOUSTON (UPI)—The modern housewife may never have heard the word petrochemical. But she could hardly live without it. Neither could the nation.

From it comes everything from lipstick to carpets, aspirin to detergents. It gives plastics, automobile tires, squeeze bottles, clocks, combs, insecticides, clothing and the solvents to dry clean them. It produces under jaw-cracking names ten thousand and one taken - for granted products.

For petrochemicals are oil—and what comes of it in chemists' test tubes. It is one of the world's most rapidly-expanding industries, centered to great extent along the Gulf Coast. The city of Houston is its heart.

Since the days of the Spindletop oil-field and before, man has been trying to find uses for the black gold trapped beneath the earth.

During and after World War II, the infant petrochemical industry boomed. Impetus came in the search for substitutes for such natural products as rubber, cut off by the war.

Petrochemicals grew almost to the realm of phantasy. Chemists now can produce more than 500,000 compounds from the crude petroleum that gushes from wells. They hope to double that figure, some day to spawn from their test tubes the makings of nearly indestructible roads, tunnels, bridges, dams and factories.

The growth of this industry probably would tax the imagination of Jules Verne. Petrochemicals now account for nearly half the United States-produced plastics, over 75 per cent of the synthetic rubber, nearly 80 per cent of synthetic detergents, nearly all the dry cleaning solvents and much of the nitrogen used in fertilizers.

As this new field blossomed, the Houston and Gulf coast area became a natural site for location of the industry. The oil and gas were here—38 per cent of the nation's output. Also ports for shipping.

Available in almost unlimited quantity were other necessary ingredients—oyster shell, salt and sulphur.

Today, the industry has about $4 billion invested in plants along the Gulf Coast. Houston has about 100 plants in its immediate vicinity with an investment of about $3 billion and an annual output of over $8 billion.

More than 650 chemical plants are located in Texas alone, with a great part of them along the coast. They produce 66 per cent of the polyethylene used in this country, 57 per cent of the synthetic rubber, and countless variety of other chemicals.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—Spear & Staff, Inc. says it is taking an increasingly bullish position about the stock market since it believes the economy's basic strength will continue to be reflected in higher stock prices, and that the improved earnings picture has only begun to be fully appreciated.

The firm estimates that earnings of stock in the Dow-Jones industrial average will be about $38 in 1962. From this it estimates over $30 as the maximum, and close to $60 (which was seen last month) as the minimum for the average.

It seems to Martin Gilbert of Van Alstyne, Noel & Co. that both the investor and the trader have stepped to the sidelines pending the build-up of a market base just under the resistance band ranging from 718 to 740 in the industrial average. This base, when completed, will allow prices to go through to new highs, the analyst thinks.

Once again a "wait and see" attitude prevails in the stock market, says R. E. Buchsbaum of W. E. Hutton & Co. investors are willing to nibble at growth stocks on weakness but there is no inclination to chase after them, he finds. Buchsbaum says current interest in "under $300 stocks" stems more from a lack of excitement elsewhere than anything else.

Joseph E. Granville of E. F. Hutton & Co. says the market closely resembles that of 1958 when strength was fanning out into a wide number of groups and many low-priced speculative issues. He says a much higher market is anticipated, and crossing the Dec. 13 highs appears to pose no difficult problem in the months ahead.

Veteran Ex-Solon To Push JFK's Program

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Bespectacled Brooks Hays, veteran ex-lawmaker from Arkansas, is bringing his robust arsenal of talents — including a softly crackling wit — to the task of helping push the 1962 Kennedy program through Congress.

At 63, Hays has been all around the mountain in government. He put in 16 years in Congress before he was unseated in 1958. A "racial moderate" who had tried to mediate in the Little Rock school desegregation controversy of 1957, he was defeated by segregationist Dale Alford.

In the unfolding months of 1962, Hays expects to pitch in hard whenever Lawrence O'Brien, White House chief of congressional liaison, calls upon him. He will also dash about making speeches on liberalized trade, medical care for the aged, and other issues facing rugged tests in the new session.

To this free-wheeling assignment he will bring his legislative know-how, his long string of House friendships, his quiet persuasiveness, and — above all — his engaging humor. He sprinkled a recent talk to the Woman's National Democratic Club with some good samples of that particular weapon.

Introduced as a man who, among other things, has written two books, Hays said someone not long ago asked his father: "Have you read your son's last book?"

His father's quick reply: "I hope so."

Mindful of his 1958 defeat and still on the subject of books, Hays said his young grandson recently popped into his office and spotted a volume entitled "How to Get and Keep the Job You Want." Said the boy: "Granddaddy, he was about three years late getting that one to you, wasn't he?"

After Hays' loss at the polls, the then president Eisenhower named him to the Tennessee Valley Authority board of directors.

"Some time after that, I met a Baptist preacher," the Arkansas relates. "He told me: 'I'm a Democrat, but I'm going to vote for the Republicans this time. They've been so nice to you.'"

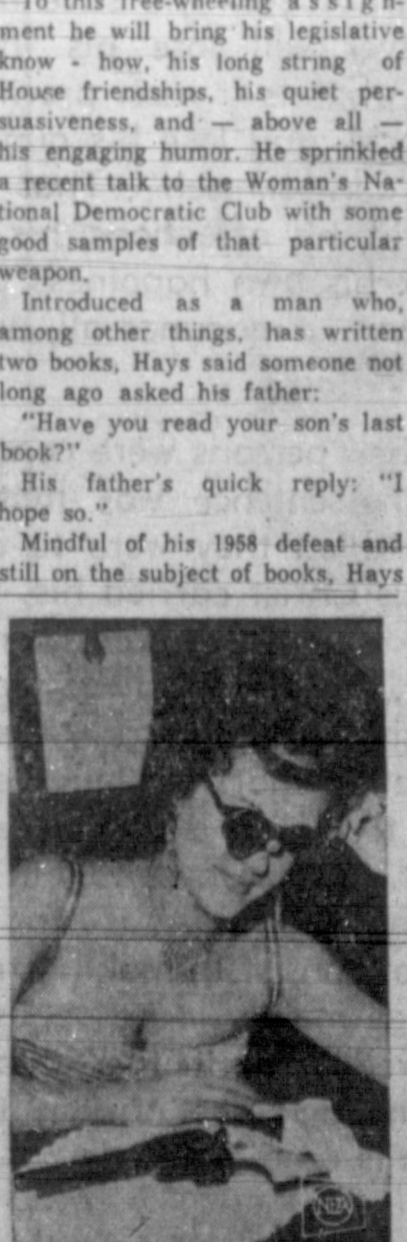

Since first joining the generally youthful Kennedy Administration to do legislative liaison work for the State Department, Hays says he now and then finds himself dubbed the "elderly Mr. Hays."

His comment: "Secretary of Commerce) Luther Hodges and I are going to get the President, to proclaim 'a Be Kind to Old Men on the New Frontier Week.'"

Doing his liaison chores in 1961, Hays visited the Capitol often. Siding up to the House sandwich bar one day, he stood elbow to elbow with an old congressional friend. The latter boomed: "Look! It's our old buddy here, being democratic with us. And no sign of striped pants."

A sympathetic waitress could not restrain herself. She broke in: "Now, Congressman! You know Mr. Hays has never been high-minded."

Whether he is visiting old haunts in the House or swinging around the speaking circuit, Hays casts many a nostalgic glance back at his days on Capitol Hill. He seems to enjoy especially such acid observations of the politician's trade as this one, offered by a cynical citizen: "I never vote. It only encourages 'em!"

U.S. 3rd in Catholics

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States ranks third in the world's Roman Catholic population, the National Catholic Welfare Conference reports.

Brazil, with 62,734,533 of the world's estimated 550 million Catholics, is first. This figure is 93.5 per cent of the country's total population.

Italy is second, with 48,782,513 or 99.5 per cent of the country's total population, the conference said.

The United States has 42,104,000 Roman Catholics. This is 22.9 per cent of the population.

A FOLLOWER

Then said Jesus unto his disciples, If any man will come after me, Let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me. For whosoever will save his life shall lose it: and whosoever will lose his life for my sake shall find it. For what is a man profited, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul? Matt. 16:24-26. "Let him deny himself". That is, let him surrender to God his will, his affections, his body, and his soul. Let him seek his own happiness as the supreme object, but be willing to renounce all, and lay down his life also, if required.

"Take up his Cross." When persons were condemned to be crucified, as part of the sentence was that they should carry the cross on which they were to die to the place of execution. Thus Christ carried his, till he fainted from fatigue and exhaustion. To carry it was burdensome, was disgraceful, was trying to the feelings, was an addition to the punishment. So to carry the cross a figurative expression, denoting that we must endure whatever is burdensome, or trying, or is considered disgraceful, in following Christ. It consists simply in doing our duty, let the people of the world think if it or speak of it as they may. It does not consist in making trouble for ourselves, or doing things merely to be opposed, it is doing just what is required of us in the Scriptures, let it produce whatever shame, disgrace, or pain it may. This every follower of Jesus is required to do.

Reds Lag On Minuteman-Type Missiles

By RAY CROMLEY
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Nikita Khrushchev is having missile troubles.

New evidence on these troubles comes from studies made by a highly respected private British military research group, the Institute for Strategic Studies and from new studies here in the Pentagon.

These studies indicate that the Soviet Union, like the U.S., is swinging away from a plan of dependence on large numbers of large missiles with large warheads.

Instead, both Russia and the United States are swinging toward the Minuteman concept of ICBM, a small missile with a relatively small warhead.

These studies thus would lend credence to reports that the Soviet Union is going to build very few if any of the larger 20-to-100-megaton intercontinental missiles. It may even mean that the Soviets will build few missiles with 10-megaton nuclear warheads.

These new studies tend to confirm other evidence that the Soviet Union today has no more than 50 ICBMs ready to fire, contrasted with the 150 Polaris and Atlas missiles the U.S. has ready to fire.

The British analysis says that the Soviet Union doesn't have the 200 ICBMs it could have had, because the Russians ran into problems.

Khrushchev found that building bases for these huge 8,000-mile missiles was costly and difficult. The bases that were built proved extremely vulnerable to attack. They have been virtually impossible to conceal.

Soviet space and other technical problems have put too great a demand strain on Soviet scientific managers for them to have been able to build and emplace large numbers of the huge missiles.

Khrushchev's advisers apparently decided that smaller, less vulnerable, more accurate, Minuteman-size missiles were the answer.

The British Institute reports that the Soviet Union therefore apparently has stopped its production of ICBMs until its version of a smaller ICBM can be developed and emplaced.

But Khrushchev's engineers are having their problems. The latest word is that the Soviet "Minuteman" will not be developed until the end of this year and the first military units probably will not be set to fire in action until mid-1963. This is six months behind the schedule for the U.S. Minuteman.

There is some evidence that the Russians are still having difficulties with their Minuteman development. The missile is not proving as accurate as they had hoped. The Institute says, however, that it probably will be more accurate than its predecessor. The Institute reports that the new Soviet missile will be propelled by a storable liquid fuel, and will be bulkier than the solid fueled Minuteman.

The Institute reports, however, that the Soviet Union probably has some 200 intermediate-range missiles with ranges from 1,000 to 1,800 miles and a sizable group of medium bombers that could do great damage to Western Europe, Japan and other Soviet neighbors. The Reds are said to be very short of long-range bombers.

As for Soviet Polaris-type submarines which could stand off the American coast and hit the U.S., the Institute says flatly that "Soviet claims to have an equivalent of the Polaris missile, which can be fired from a submerged submarine, are misleading."

The Institute says that "at the moment, Russia has six atomic powered submarines in various stages of construction of which one or two may be at sea." The report gives no indication that any of these are Polaris type.

Instead, the Institute survey says that "there are believed to be two types" of Soviet sea-to-ground missiles. "One has a range of about 100 miles and the other of about 400 miles. The 100-mile range missile is believed to be solid fueled and can be fired either from a surface craft or a surfaced submarine. The 400-mile missile is designed for submarines but can only be fired from the surface."

The Institute says that the Soviet Union has a G-class conventional submarine 310 feet long. "It has a very large conning tower, unknown number of missiles which are fired when on the surface."

The Institute doesn't say how many of these G-class subs the Reds have. U.S. sources suggest there are no more than a dozen.

KENNEDY'S IN SCOUT SWIM—President Kennedy, honorary president of the Boy Scouts of America, received this Scout card certifying his swimming prowess under "safe" conditions, from the Harry G. Fair family of Bartlesville, Okla., scouting's "Family of the Year." It's signed by George H. R. Ross, of Bethesda, Md., member of the crew of the PT boat commanded by Kennedy in World War II. Kennedy swam 3 1/2 miles to shore after his craft was hit by a Japanese ship, in action off the Solomon Islands.

Lilly Dache Says Men Dress In Dull Fashion

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—I am too much a gentleman to argue with a lady, particularly one as renowned as Lilly Dache, the internationally known designer.

But when Miss Dache starts discussing men's clothing, it seems to me that she is talking through one of her famous hats.

I heard Miss Dache expound her views on this subject at the annual male apparel fashion preview staged here this week by the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear.

The American male, she said, dresses in a manner that is "excessively dull." Although he is collectively a world leader in commerce and industry, he always has been behind in fashions.

Why is this? Miss Dache claims it is because American men spend too much money on sports cars, hi-fi equipment, free form swimming pools, and other such extravaganzas.

She suggested that the failure of men to dress properly has had an adverse effect on the younger generation and is somehow partly to blame for "anti-social behavior" among teen-agers.

The implication was that if men would channel more cash into their wardrobes, America would be a better place in which to live.

With all due respect to the sum that Miss Dache commands for touching up a swatch of felt, I don't believe that she came to grips with the basic problem.

It has been my observation that the amount of money spent on clothing has little bearing on sartorial elegance. Let some poor slob make a pile of dough, and what happens? He becomes a rich slob.

I myself have a clothing budget that has made my name a byword in department store basements from here to Culpepper, Va. Yet I went around for years looking as if I had dressed in a dark room.

The fault, I discovered, stemmed from the fact that men's ready-made suits are designed to show up well in store windows and racks, where they can be admired by the customers.

They hang beautifully when we are feeling the goods and inspecting the price tags. But when we try them on, they seem to lose their shape.

I have found a way to overcome this, and I recommend it to other American males. What I do when I put on a suit is leave the coat hanger in the jacket.

It gets a nice uncomfortable fore the day is over, but we want Miss Dache to be proud of us.

Stars Travel World In Film Plugging Work

PARIS (UPI) — One recent afternoon Charlton Heston completed his day's work in a Hollywood movie and drove out to Los Angeles airport to catch a plane.

Something new has been added to the lives of movie stars. It was brought on by the jet age and a global cold war waged by competing film moguls.

The personal appearance of a star at the premiere, moviemakers agree, puts the movie into the limelight and starts it off with a bang.

With a revenue amounting to 60 and 70 per cent of the total take a newly prosperous Western Europe has become the key to Hollywood's survival.

Music Master Of TV Makes Good In Movies, Too

By RICK DU BROW UPI Hollywood Writer HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Henry Mancini looks more like a dry goods salesman than a hipster who revolutionized TV music and is now a hot contender for an Academy Award.

The 37-year-old composer became famous overnight a few years ago when he created the "Peter Gunn" theme for television — and opened the door to a line of imitators of his dramatic jazz form.

Both the "Peter Gunn" and "Moon River" records are big hits. And Mancini, a tall, sharp-nosed man with receding black hair, sees nothing unusual in the wide difference between these compositions.

"I've done everything from Abbott and Costello movies to Cason Welles — and all the bases in between," he said at the Brown Derby restaurant here.

Four Champions Are Back Again

By United Press International
Only a handful of berths remained to be filled by Saturday night playoff games as the far-flung Texas schoolboy basketball field narrowed its championship race from 1,062 original entries to the 178 district champions.

Four of last year's five state champions were among those headed for next Monday or Tuesday's bi-district games which will set up the fields for regional tournaments scheduled for next week end.

From these regional meets will come the eight Class B teams and four each from Classes AAAA, AAA, AA and A making up the state tournament field in Austin March 1-3.

The four returning champions include Houston S.F. Austin in AAAA, South San Antonio in AAA, Buda in AA and James Bowie in A. Class B champion Frankston lost out to Cayuga in its own district this year.

Yarbrough Wins 250-Mile Race

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—Lee Roy Yarbrough, 23-year-old Jacksonville mechanic, made two lightning pit stops Saturday as he led for 140 miles to win the 250-mile national modified sportsmen's auto racing championship with a world record average of 146.723 miles an hour.

The slender, black-haired Yarbrough drove a 1956 Ford to a half-lap victory over Cale Yarbrough, a Timmonsville, Ga., turkey farmer who smashed the record of 141.732 miles per hour set last year by Jimmy Thompson of Monroe, N. C.

The second-place Yarbrough drove the last lap with his car a mass of smoke and fire to nose out Larry Frank of Greenville, S. C., by a matter of 50 yards. Yarbrough's engine blew coming into the stretch and he was taken to the speedway hospital for treatment for smoke inhalation.

The winning Yarbrough took the lead on the 36th lap on the two-and-a-half mile asphalt speedway and held it until the 80th lap when he stopped for gas and Frank took over. But Yarbrough was in the pits only 22 seconds and when Frank had to stop for gas on the 88th lap, Yarbrough sped back into the lead and won easily.

The race had 54 starters and 21 cars finished the grind without any major accidents. Ken Meahl of East Amherst, N. Y., spun out spectacularly into the infield on the 14th lap and Sonny Black of Forest Park, Ga., also finished the final lap with his car burning and smoking and one wheel gone.

The 250-mile championship was the final build-up for Sunday's Daytona 500 for late-model stock cars in which Glenn (Fireball) Roberts of Daytona Beach was rated as the man to beat.

Turley Feeling Like Yank Of Old Hoping For Productive Year In '62

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI)—Bob Turley's dream today is to go back four years and he hopefully finds "all the signs very encouraging."

"Turley is the big righthander who led the American League with 21 victories for the New York Yankees in 1958. It earned him honors as the top professional athlete of the year along with the $10,000 Hickok belt.

Then the roof started to sag and it fell in on him completely last year.

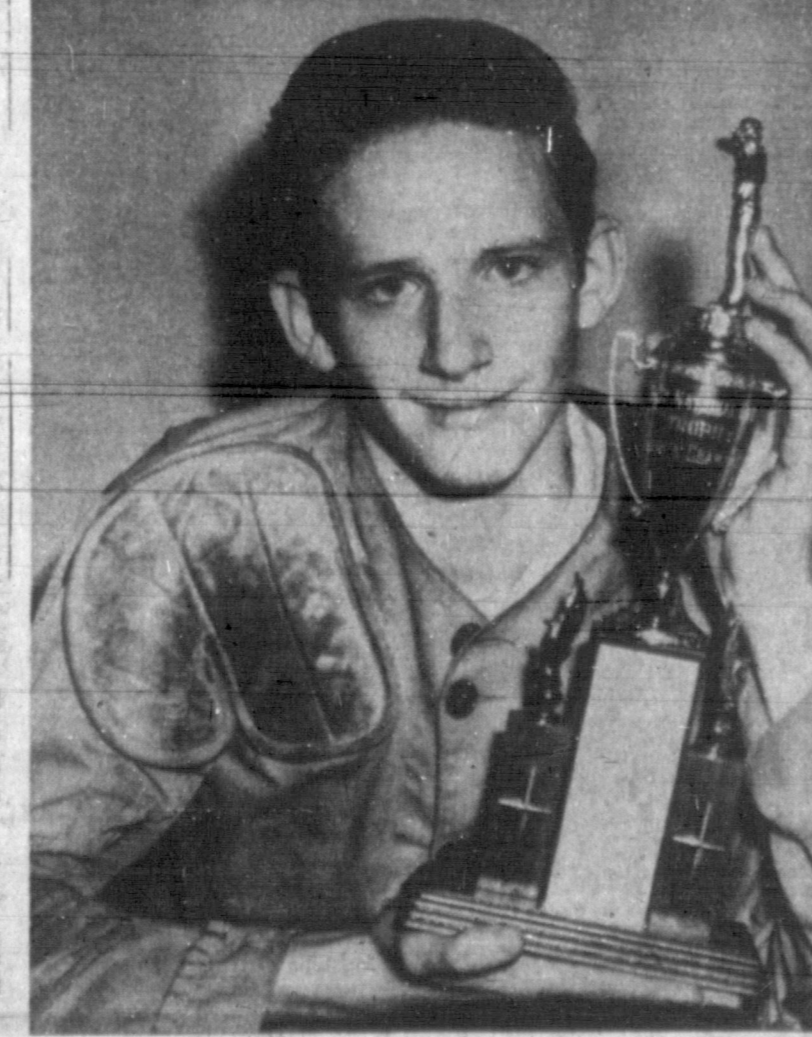

The strapping 31-year-old from East St. Louis, Ill., had two mediocre seasons as his arm started to act up and last year he won only three games and wasn't able to pitch after July.

"I thought it would clear up with rest but last spring I felt it worse than ever," he remembered. "It got worse and worse until finally I had to quit altogether. Worried? I was sick."

But Turley, after desperately trying just one inning of relief in September, finally realized that the knife was the only answer.

"They found quite a mess," he explained as he sat in the dugout after a long workout as one of the early birds of the Yankee training camp. "There were a couple of bone chips rattling around in there, a couple of bone spurs and some inflamed tendons."

The wait for the start of spring training was one of the longest periods of Turley's life. For a

Ward Is Decided In Lone Pampa Fistic Entry At Midway

FORT WORTH—Amarillo suffered its first three losses of the 1962 state Golden Gloves action Saturday night in Fort Worth's Will Rogers Coliseum, but maintained their lead at the mid-way point with two more nights of action scheduled before the finals wrap it up Tuesday night.

The Amarillo team, which had carded seven victories in a row before Saturday night's action, had their unbeaten bubble burst with the three defeats in Saturday night's fistic action.

The lone Pampa entry, Glen Ward lost a decision to Richard Hill of Beaumont in the light-heavyweight division in one of the final bouts of the evening.

Hill, a middleweight, wasn't given much of a chance against the heavier Pampa entry, but came through in fine style to best the popular Ward and derail his chances of advancing in the state tourney.

Gary Welsh was knocked out by Lynn Farr of Texarkana in the third round in their heavy-weight bout. Welsh went into the bout the

Brown Leads PGA Seniors Golf Tourney

DUNEDIN, Fla. (UPI)—Joe Brown of West Des Moines, Iowa, a long-ball hitter with a zeroed-in putter, shot a five-under-par 67 Saturday to take the second-round lead in the $25,000 PGA Seniors Golf Championship.

Brown's 36-hole 138 put him one swing ahead of Jimmy Demaret, Houston, Tex., Harold Sanderson, Summit, N.J., and Charlie Sheppard, Pittsfield, Mass.

Both Brown and Demaret played Saturday in the 50-54 age group, while Sanderson and Sheppard, playing in the 55-and-up division, took a rest.

The field was to the low 135 scores and both age groups merge for Sunday's third round and the final 72 holes on Monday.

Tied for third place were John Barnum, Betmpong, Mich., Dutch Harrison, San Francisco, and Sam Bernardi, Winnetka, Ill., all with 138.

Rogers Vaults Into Lead In Tucson Play

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI)—Stocky Phil Rodgers, 23-year-old ex-Marine from La Jolla, Calif., fired a five-under par 65 Saturday and vaulted into the third-round lead of the $20,000 Tucson Open golf tournament.

Rodgers added his 65 to earlier rounds of 64-68 for a 197 total—13 strokes under par for three rounds.

Hot as he was, young Phil failed to pull away from the field. The veteran Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex., won the 175 for low of the day when he shot a 63 for a 198 score.

Meanwhile, Buddy Sullivan of Yuba City, Calif., who led at the halfway mark, took 69 strokes for a 199 and that tied him with Art Wall of Pocono Manor, Pa., who had 68.

Hudgens' Cage Story; Setbacks To Stardom

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI)—Harold Hudgens, the "big" man in Texas Tech's drive toward its second successive Southwest Conference crown, is a six-foot-ten man with the moves of a 6-3 player, says his coach, Gene Gibson.

These moves, and a high scoring mark of nearly 20 points a game didn't come easy for the former Ballinger, Tex., high school star. Twice during his college career at Tech he has had to battle uphill after setbacks which could have ended his playing days.

The first jolt came two years ago during his sophomore year when he was sidelined because of scholastic ineligibility. He missed most of that year and all of the 1959-60 schedule.

Pek Robison, who resigned as coach at Tech to devote full time to his duties as athletic director, said Hudgens tackled his books after that blow with the same determination he shows in workouts and in games.

It's a lot tougher for a player to re-establish his eligibility than it is to maintain it in the first place," says Robison.

Hudgens returned to the court in December, 1960, and from the start of workouts he fit in perfectly with the other half of Tech's present Mutt-and-Jeff combination, Del Ray Mounds.

But then came the second setback of his Tech basketball career.

Battling for a rebound against Kansas, he came down on the foot of one of his opponents. Thrown off balance, he suffered what was thought to be a sprained ankle. He still managed to take in 17 rebounds, but after the game X-rays showed a hairline fracture of the right ankle.

He missed five games that season. Tech lost four of them and won the other by four points.

Returning to the lineup, Hudgens made his move and so did the Red Raiders, winning the conference championship and qualifying for the National Collegiate Athletic Association playoffs at Lawrence, Kan.

Hudgens was named to the all-tournament team from a field that included Cincinnati, Houston and Kansas State.

"Hudgens shoots well from outside as well as inside," says Gibson. "Like most big men, he has a deadly hook, but he frequently will fake a hook and drive in for a lay-up."

Dark Is Leading Baseball Meet

MIAMI (UPI)—Alvin Dark slipped to a seven-over par 77 Saturday but lost no ground as he maintained his seven-stroke lead in the National Baseball Players Championship golf tournament.

The San Francisco Giants manager bogied seven holes, including the last four, in posting his 37-40-77 which gave him a 54-hole total of 219.

"I played poorly," Dark admitted. Then he added philosophically, "This is how it is with us amateurs. Good one day, bad the next." He had carded a sizzling 68 Friday.

In second place, but well off the pace going into Sunday's final round was Baltimore outfielder Jackie Brandt who changed from an overlap to a baseball grip and shot a fine 73 to bring his three-round total to 226.

Defending champion, Harry (Peanuts) Lowery, a Philadelphia coach, moved up from fifth with a 76 to tie Philadelphia pitcher John Gray for third. Gray had a 78, to match Lowery's 238 total.

In fifth place with a 229 total was Bob Shaw, Milwaukee hurler, who fired a 73, and in sixth place, one stroke back with 230, was Billy Herman who skidded to a 41-40-81.

New York slugger Mickey Mantle, who posted a 36-hole score of 160, had movie commitments to fulfill and did not play Saturday.

Enterprises To Promote Ring Matches

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The California State Athletic Commission Saturday granted the United World Enterprises a license to promote boxing and accepted former world heavyweight champion Joe Louis as their matchmaker after the organization clarified its intended staging regular shows.

The commission refused, however, to follow the action of the New York State athletic body in withdrawing its recognition of Archie Moore as the light heavyweight champion.

In an implied criticism of New York, the California body agreed with its executive officer, Jack Urch, that it was a poor time to take action against Moore while he was under contract to fight Alejandro Lavorante in a heavyweight bout.

The commission felt no formal vote was necessary on the Moore matter because there was no reason to reverse its recognition of veteran boxer as champion.

Hayes Ties 100-Yard Dash In 9.2

MIAMI (UPI)—Robert Hayes of Florida A&M University tied the dash Saturday at the University of Miami track with a 9.2 second mark.

"There's no doubt of the record's validity," said Vin Lally, head of the Florida Athletic Club. "This is an AAU-sanctioned meet. The track meets all specifications and the gauge recorded a 4-mile-an-hour wind against Hayes."

Lally said three timers clocked Hayes at 9.2 seconds and two others clocked 9.1.

The 19-year-old Negro sophomore was running in the Florida Athletic Club's invitation track and field meet. His time equaled the mark set by Villanova's Frank Budd at New York June 24, 1961.

Bridges May Be Spark Yanks Need

United Press International FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI)—Marshall (Sheriff) Bridges still can't quite fathom, like a lot of other people, what happened to the Cincinnati Reds in the 1961 World Series but he does know it's good to be with the winners.

The sheriff had a closer look than most. During the October debacle he pitched batting practice for the Reds and since has been traded to the conquering New York Yankees.

To this tall, husky 30-year-old the vagaries of the baseball fates which brought him into the spring training camp of the Yankees earmarked as a relief pitcher makes for a happy occasion.

"I know this," said the man from Jackson, Miss., "I'm going to work harder than I ever did before. I'm in better shape than I ever have been and I'm really going to put out because this is my big chance."

A chance, he feels, which he never had either when he was with the St. Louis Cardinals or with the Reds.

"If I get the work, I'll be okay," he grunted. "You just can't sit on the bench two full weeks and then, when you're finally called, expect to be at your best."

The Yankees think they have a place for him, if he's got it. The sheriff is a left handed relief pitcher with a good fast ball and a working assortment of curves, slider, screwball and change of pace which could make him the number two fireman behind Luis Arroyo.

Bridges has been a real baseball tourist, serving time at Sioux City, Ganville, Beaumont, Amarillo, Topeka, Sacramento and Jersey City as well as with the Cards and Reds.

"I'm 30 years old and this is it," he admitted. "I make it good or I got to face the facts. But if I get the work, I'll be okay."

The Yanks agree. Despite his promise, the sheriff never did get his share of work. He was 6-2, with the Cardinals in 1959 and 2-2 when he was traded to the Reds in 1960 and finished up 4-0 for them. But last season they sent him to Jersey City after using him in only 19 innings.

"I was messed up," Bridges insists. "They used me once every two weeks, and nobody's gonna pitch with that kind of work. Then, too, I was a short man (used in relief in the late innings) and they tried to make me a long man (used in early relief). I was glad to be traded."

But even though he now is with the conquerors of the Reds in that one-sided World Series of last fall in which Cincinnati apparently rolled over and played dead, Bridges stubbornly insists that the Reds didn't quit or choke up.

"They didn't let down at all," he frowned. "They were fighting all the way and doing the best they could every bit of the way. It was a lot better club than most people thought, particularly those who saw them in the series."

"The Reds weren't hitting and, actually, didn't hit left handers too well, anyhow," he said, adding thoughtfully, "of course this here team (the Yankees) was a better ball club in most places anyhow."

Bridges, a quiet man, who speaks with great deliberation, finds it difficult to believe that after being far from a success with the well-clobbered Reds he now is being counted on as a possibility of making it back to Yankee Stadium as a full-fledged member of the world champions.

"They give me the chance," he nodded, "and I'll give them all I've got."

It just may be the two-way solution to his problem.

Varying Length Of Skis Offer Big Controversy On The Slopes

NEW YORK, N.Y. — With the skiing season in full swing, it is not at all surprising to find the controversy of short skis versus the conventional long skis back on the slopes.

An article in the current issue of Esquire Magazine looks into the question, aided by action shots of the Middlebury College ski team, of Middlebury College, Vermont.

Short skis appeal mainly to beginners, Esquire notes, primarily because their 2 1/2 foot length make them far less cumbersome, rendering such elementary maneuvers as the kick turn a lot easier.

On the other hand, the article states, "in soft pack, if you descend a gradual slope on the diagonal, you're liable to sort of settle in. With the full weight of a full-grown beginner on a pair of short skis, there just isn't enough resistance."

Short skis, too, are of no use in such a maneuver as speed jumping which requires a greater area for control, or for a fast, controlled descent over bumpy terrain. They are also supposed to provide a resistance to the "correct" learning of the classic forms and methods.

"There can be no doubt," says

Canadian Juniors Win Loop Crown

CANADIAN (Sp)—Canadian Junior High cagers wrapped up the Junior District championship here Tuesday night with an undefeated conference record when they beat Miami, 16 to 7.

The Wildkittens led all the way in the low-scoring game. Mike Cullender paced the scoring with 7 points. Ken Gill was high scorer for Miami with 4.

In the girls game, the Miami girls defeated the Canadian junior girls in a runaway, 16 to 3. Canadian girls scored one point in the first quarter and 2 in the third. Susie Owens scoring all three points. Connie Ratliff led the scoring for Miami with 12.

Maison Finishes Second In Loop Scoring For Fighting Harvesters

Well, another cage season has elapsed into the record books and the District 3-AAAA champs are the Monterey Plainmen, who strode through the eight team loop with an impressive 13-1 record.

It was quite a season, with standout stars studding the district from every cage contingent. There was Russ Wilkinson of Monterey; Gail Simpson, Joe Castleberry and Johnny Wilson of Borger; Bruce Francis of Palo Duro; Jim Oldham and Jim Fullerton of Lubbock; Vernon Furlow of Tascosa; Chester Dunavin of Amarillo; and Jackie Swanner and Don Ford of Plainview.

And then, of course, there was the pride of Pampa — Randy Matson, one of the prime choices for all-district honors who finished the season second in loop scoring behind Swanner and the recipient of praises from sports writers throughout the district.

Matson poured 241 points through the nets in 14 loop games while Swanner, the Plainview flash had 289 points. The 6-6 junior, who surpassed his scoring mark for last year had his two finest hours against Palo Duro with 26 points and against the Plainmen with 27 points. Matson also was one of the finest rebounders in the loop and his jumping pivot shot was as deadly as a rattlesnake.

Then there was little Wayne Kries, one of the flashiest and smartest players in the loop who was a real killer with his outside shooting. Kries was up among the top five in scoring earlier in the season but slackened off toward the close of the season in his point totals. However, against the Sandies in the next to last game of the season, the little guard poured in 21 points to garner individual honors against the Amarillo school and ended loop play with 204 points, good enough for seventh in individual scoring. Kries was also one of the most aggressive players in the district as well as one of the most colorful.

The Harvesters also possessed the only brother act in the district in the persons of Lloyd and Gordon Balch, two of the less heralded stars from the local team; Lloyd closed out his cage career at Pampa high school against Plainview Friday night as did four other seniors, but the two brothers were two of the best competitors in the loop from the word go and commanded the respect of opposing cagers.

Then there was Bob Neslage, who also closed out his basketball days for the Harvesters in fine style, wracking up 14 points in the final game of the season and rebounding with the best of them. Neslage hit in the double figures time and again throughout the course of the season and will be sorely missed by the Harvesters when roundball time rolls around again next year.

The reserves also showed their mettle in their part time capacity. Mike Stewart proved to be one of the best ball handlers and one of the hustlingest cagers in the district and Gary Sikes and Keith Swanson rallied with some key points in the clutch to keep the Harvesters alive at crucial moments throughout the hectic campaign.

The Harvesters finished the season with a not too glamorous record in district play, but their overall determination and fighting spirit seemed to outweigh the statistics in the long run. Their course was rough and unsteady, but a few more breaks the other way and Pampa might have had their sights set on a bi-district berth and a real threat to repeat

Scout Development Drive To Modernize Camp Kiowa That Is, If It Is Successful

Camp Kiowa, Boy Scout camp near Canadian, will become a modernized haven for the youth of Pampa and the 15-county Adobe Walls Council area. If the current Scout Development Campaign to raise $139,000 is successful.

The last campaign to build facilities at Camp Kiowa was held 15 years ago — in 1947. Since then the demands on the camp in scout summer attendance have far outgrown these facilities, and there has been great need for camp improvements, especially in the last five or six years.

In many respects the camp has operated on a shoestring as far as the requirements for an adequate boy scout camp is concerned.

The development campaign now going on to raise funds for these needed improvements, according to E. E. Shelhamer, campaign drive chairman, will enable the Adobe Walls Council officials to bring the camp up to date if the drive goes over successfully.

That 1947 campaign for improvement funds enabled the council to build a dining hall at Camp Kiowa. This same dining hall was the place last summer were 25,500 meals were served to more than 1,000 Scouts attending the Camp during the course of the summer. Major improvements in the kitchen, and new tables and chairs for the dining hall will be just one of the projects that will be completed if the Development Campaign reaches its goal.

Some of the other important projects to be built with the money raised in the campaign include a large combination building which will house the camp office, a trading post and a medical center and a storage area for program equipment. This building will be known as the Camp Service Building. It is one of the projects available in the campaign as a memorial gift opportunity, Shelhamer said. Another project to be completed at the camp is a home for a permanent Camp Ranger. When this is completed the Camp will become a year-round camp for all scouts in the 15-county area. The council will employ a ranger to look after the camp and to supervise Scout Troop activities during the winter months.

Numerous smaller projects are planned at the camp and some of these are: a central shower house for all campers, since the camp does not now have showers. There will also be a craft and recreation pavilion which will be a shade area at the camp for Scouts to use during the heat of the summer days.

The Council also hopes to increase the amount of land at the Camp. At the present time only 70 acres are actually owned by the Council.

Repair work will also be done to many things at the Camp including the dam, latrines, rifle range, and the water well.

Plans are being drawn now by architects for the new Council Service Center to be built here in Pampa as the result of the Boy Scout Development Campaign. If the drive is successful, the building will be constructed on property already owned by the Council at the corner of Boyd and Summer streets. The property was donated to the Council by M. K. Brown.

The Service Center will house offices of the 15-county area Council. It will also include a Trading Post operation which will sell and dispense supplies of all kinds to volunteer Scout Leaders in the Council.

The office also will provide working quarters for the seven staff employees of the Council in Pampa. In addition, the Service Center will have a meeting room which will be used by adult leaders for training meetings and other activities necessary to bring Scouting to the Boys of the Adobe Walls Council.

LAKE BROWN AT CAMP KIOWA — This picture was taken on the waterfront at Camp Kiowa, near Canadian, last summer. Scouts are getting instructions from a camp swim counselor. Adobe Walls Scout Council owns the lake, purchased for the scouts by M. K. Brown of Pampa. Here are centered all the water activities at the camp. If the current development fund drive is a success the lake will have a new boat dock, new boats and canoes.

Church Sets Dedication Ceremony

CANADIAN (SpI) — Formal dedication of the new Educational wing of the First Christian Church here is scheduled in a brief ceremony this morning during the opening service of the Bible School.

The Rev. James Mitchell, pastor, will make brief dedicatory remarks to be followed by a dedicatory prayer by Homer Thomas, chairman of the church board.

Gilbert Dockens, Bible School Superintendent, will officially open the new structure for use.

The new wing of the building is just being completed by L. R. Covalt of Pampa. The one-story addition is being constructed at a cost of $17,900 above a concrete basement which was built by church members in 1958. Together the two structures will double the original space of the church building, built in 1914.

The newest addition adds five new classrooms and a modern nursery.

Pampa Community Concert Association

Pampa Community Concert Association launches its 19th annual membership drive this week. The association has just completed its renewal drive and on Monday, workers will begin the 1962-63 drive to offer memberships to newcomers to the city and to residents who have not purchased before. The association points out that all memberships for next season must be purchased during the week's drive and no tickets will be available at the door for individual concert presentations. The number of memberships sold determine the quality of numbers offered during the season. Very often the initial cost of the membership itself is the single admission cost for any one of the attractions presented during the season.

Pampa Community Concert Association is a member of a nationwide organization, Community Concerts Inc., which has similar associations from New York to Washington State. Due to the fine support of Pampa people, the association has had a sold-out house for the past two years. With continued support, Pampa can have the finest artists available throughout the world.

The association is proud to announce that it has already engaged Mantovani, one of the most distinctive personalities in the world of light music today, with his orchestra of 45. Another outstanding artist is under consideration and will be announced at the Membership Drive dinner tomorrow evening.

Among the attractions offered in the past have been Longines Symphonette, Alec Templeton, Boston "Pops" Orchestra, Ballet Russe Concert Company, Whitmore and Lowe, Depaur Infantry Chorus, Vienna Boys' Choir, Frances Yeend, Nadine Conner, Paul Draper, Boston Opera Company, Trapp Family Singers, Paganini String Quartet, Robert Shaw Chorale, the New York Philharmonic Piano Quartet. During the past concert season, the association presented Fred Waring and His Pennsylvanians, Berl Senotsy, violinist, David Bar-Illan, piano virtuoso; and Dick Schary's Percussion "Pops" Ensemble.

Team Captains selected for the current membership drive are Mrs. H. H. Hahn, churches; Mrs. George B. Cree Jr., clubs; Mrs. Joel Middleton, schools; and Mrs. R. F. Nienstiel, neighborhoods.

Out-of-town Association Board members are Mrs. Jack King of Canadian; Mrs. Myles O'Laughlin of Miami; Mrs. R. Fred Surratt of Panhandle; Mrs. Ralph Randal of Panhandle; Mrs. Roy K. Sanford of Perryton; Mrs. Nelda Sheets of Spearman.

Mastering Languages Topic For Beta Delta

The Beta Delta Chapter of the Delta Kappa Gamma Society met Saturday, February 10, in City Club Room for an informative program entitled "Mastering Languages as a Key to Better International Relations" to continue the theme for this year. Opening Doors on Tomorrow's World." After registering with Mrs. Fay Delis Adams, members and guests were served from an attractive tea table decorated in red and white, carrying out a Valentine motif.

In a brief business session Miss Sibyl Turner, president, welcomed the members of Future Teacher Associations from Canadian, White Deer, Panhandle, and Pampa, who were special guests for the program, and Mrs. Hazel Nations.

Mrs. James Jackson announced that the application blanks for the two college scholarships awarded by Beta Delta Chapter to girls who are preparing to be teachers are now available at their schools.

Mrs. G. M. Wall reported that the Book Review committee and the chapter will present Mrs. Bedford Harrison of Shamrock to review the book "The Jersey Lily" on Mar. 12, at 8 p.m. in Robert E. Lee auditorium. Tickets were distributed to members for advance selling. Proceeds from the book review are used in providing the college scholarships.

Preceding the program, Mrs. Roy Sullivan directed the Beta Delta choir, accompanied by Mrs. J. E. Gunn, in singing "No Man

Is an Island" and "A Lei of Friendship."

Miss Mary Dean Dozier and Mrs. Q. C. Rogers, members of the English department of Pampa High School, appeared on a panel with Cathy Papanthassopoulou and Cris Jonsson, American Field Service students attending Pampa High School.

Miss Dozier led the panel in an informal discussion of the necessity as well as the advantages of having bi-lingual, even multi-lingual abilities in our world of 1962. She stated that "although the study of foreign languages in our high schools has greatly increased in the past decade, even more teachers and courses will be needed to meet the demands."

Cathy Papanthassopoulou discussed the study of foreign languages in her native Greece where students are offered courses in languages in earlier grades. Cris Jonsson also discussed the presentation of language study in Sweden, his homeland. Both Cris and Cathy agreed that knowledge of language gained by living in the country that uses that tongue far surpasses years of struggling with textbooks.

Mrs. Rogers pointed out the necessity of bi-lingual ability in diplomatic relationships of the United States with other countries, since there are approximately 2,000,000 American citizens living in fifty-nine countries around the world. "A knowledge of the languages of others promotes our understanding of the cultural, economic, political, religious, and military aspects of those people," she said.

To complete the program Miss

Dozier stated, "We know that music has always been known as the international language." Cris Jonsson, a talented musician, then presented three piano numbers.

Hostesses were Misses Nova Mayo, Ila Pool, Ardelle Briggs and Stella Kiser, Mrs. D. V. Biggers, and Mrs. G. L. Pounds. Mrs. J. M. Key also assisted at the tea table.

Other members and guests attending were: Mary Reeve, Betty Boswell, Helen Laycock, Claudia Everly, Mrs. Sam Irwin, Mrs. L. K. Stout, Mrs. C. V. Wood, June Skidmore, Geraldine Howard, Ruth Zeigler, Mrs. Faye Bean, George E. Simms, Clementine Morgan, Lelia Clifford, Mrs. J. E. Arts And Crafts Program Planned At Youth Center

The Pampa Youth and Community Center with the cooperation of the Pampa Art Club will hold an arts and crafts workshop in the Youth Center Tuesday, February 20, from 10:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. with the public invited to observe.

The workshop is being held to determine the interests and desires of the community for a creative arts and crafts program at the Youth and Community Center. Members of the Art Club will display finished products and will be on hand to demonstrate the various arts and crafts; what materials are necessary, what tools are needed and what goes into these hobbies.

A questionnaire will be passed out to determine what particular arts or crafts are in most demand and classes will be set up accordingly at the Youth Center with members of the Art Club providing the instruction.

Included are: Ceramics, mosaics, sponge painting, oil painting, key rings, jewelry, linoleum block printing, water colors, stain glass painting and glass mosaics.

The arts and crafts program will be especially designed for ladies interested in creative arts and crafts as a hobby. The programs and classes set up will be determined by the demand and needs expressed by the community.

To prevent accidents, label all bottles in medicine chest clearly and correctly. Throw out all old medicines and keep dangerous drugs and poisons on the highest shelf.

Cultural Arts Form Topics For CC Club For

The Civic Culture Club met Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Carl Axelson, 1336 Garland, for a program on Music, Art and Literature presented by Mmes. Irvin Cole, A. D. Hills and George Neef.

In discussing music, Mrs. Cole said, "The piano is the most popular instrument of our time. It has been called the orchestra of the living room. For it, composers have written their finest works and it can sound nearly as imposing as a full orchestra. The piano was created first in 1709 and is the off-spring of the clavichord and the harpsichord."

"The simplest instrument of music is the human voice and the most beautiful of all voices is the operatic soprano."

As a concluding remark, Mrs. Cole said, "The famous cellist, Pablo Casals was asked to define music. He said, 'Music is a divine way to tell beautiful poetic things to the heart.'"

In her discussion of art, Mrs. Hills said "Art developed in America amid conditions such as existed in no European country. Instead of a civilized society inhabiting the same region for centuries, here was a group of colonies drawn from many countries. And for the first century and a half, conditions were unfavorable to the growth of any art."

"Up through the revolution," she continued, "the people were too busy settling the continent and building a nation to have much time and energy for any but utilitarian arts."

"Many native-born artists began as craftsmen and house sign and carriage painters. It was in portraiture that American artists made their first achievements," Mrs. Hills told the group. "It is a tribute to man's innate creativity that in such conditions so many portraits were produced which were also fine art."

"The printed page, consisting of black marks on white paper, belongs to a great and long story," Mrs. Neef said in opening remarks concerning literature. "We think of literature as something printed, because most of the books, ancient and modern that we have seen, are printed. But the story of literature before Gutenberg and the invention of the printing press is at least 10 times as long as the part of the story since the first printing press."

"The various European countries gradually pushed aside the ancient tongue so that every scholar seldom ever think now of writing books in Latin. The art of reading is one of the fine arts and to promote this art, we need to dedicate our lives."

Members attending were Mmes. R. E. Daurer, A. C. Houchins, C. F. Pennington, W. C. Scott, K. A. Sorenson, Louise Sewell, Katie Vincent, Stanley Brandt, H. W. Waters, Willis White and Emmett Gee.

Hostesses' Role Topic For Alpha Omicron Meet

Alpha Omicron Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority met Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. Charles Robison, 1200 Charles, with Mrs. Bob Monzingo as co-hostess.

The third of five programs on "Five Keys To Opportunity" concerning "Table Setting and Decorating" was presented by the hostess. Twelve different categories of table settings were displayed ranging from informal to formal. Usage of holiday seasonal decorations, as well as party themes for centerpieces, were displayed.

To set the theme for the program, Mrs. Robison quoted "In her home there was neatness without fussiness; taste without display; appreciation without fulsome; mirth without satire; high thinking with affection." This was written, Mrs. Robison explained, about Jessie H. Brown of Cleveland, O. by a college student after he had spent a school term in her home. "This ties in with a statement of Emily Post's," Mrs. Robison continued. "Most women would be surprised to learn how easy it is to really gain a reputation as a perfect hostess. Actually, hospitality is merely a matter of following a few simple rules of etiquette, plus a sincere wish to make your guests feel at home. In other words, the perfect hostess is the woman who knows how to set a pleasing, appetizing table and who makes her guests feel welcomed because of the charm and warmth of her own personality. Once you have attained these attributes, everything else will take care of itself automatically."

Mrs. Robison recommended two books as excellent sources of material: "Table Decorations" by Edna S. Tipton and "Table Setting and Flowers" by Julia S. Berrall. In giving a few of the highlights of these books, Mrs. Robison said, "A hostess must possess those faculties, which belong to the successful salesman. She must have or cultivate poise, confidence, enthusiasm and interest in whom she would entertain; she must surprise and please them."

"Even the shy, tongue-tied hostess, whose only claim to brilliancy is her charm, as a good listener, may gain an enviable reputation if she will give forethought to how her table looks, how her food tastes and how it is served."

"The experienced hostess," Mrs. Robison said, "plans her party to the last detail far enough in advance to insure perfection. Thus, she gains that confidence and poise so essential to forgetfulness of self, which gives her the leisure to attend to the wants of others."

Twenty members attended.

Public Relations Supervisor To Speak For ABWA Annual Bosses' Night Dinner

Joe Riordan ABWA Speaker

Joe Riordan of Lubbock, division public relations supervisor for the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, will be the guest speaker at the annual Bosses' Night dinner to be given by American Business Women's Club on Feb. 22 at 7 p.m. in the Pampa Hotel.

Mr. Riordan is a native of St. Louis, Mo. He began his telephone company career in 1954 as a public relations assistant in the company's St. Louis office, and was transferred to Lubbock in 1957. He is a graduate of Northwestern University in Chicago, where he majored in radio writing. Following graduation he worked as a radio actor. A short time later, he was appointed talent scout for the Horace Heidt organization and later became press agent for the group. In 1950 he resigned to enter public relations business in Evansville, Ind., and four years later accepted employment with the telephone company.

An active civic worker, Riordan is president of the Lubbock Advertising Club; past publicity chairman for the United Fund, and presently a member of the fund's public relations committee, and a member of the executive committee of the Sigma Delta Chi honorary journalism society.

For the past three years, he has been co-author and director of Lubbock's Annual Gridiron Show, which is patterned after the famous Washington Press Club Gridiron Show. He is well known as an after dinner speaker throughout West Texas and New Mexico. The topic of his speech will be "Effective Living."

"Land Of Contrasts, Africa" Forms Program For Twentieth Century Club

Twentieth Century Club met in the home of Mrs. Fred Neslage, 1341 N. Russell, on Tuesday afternoon for the second program in the series on "Africa."

During the business meeting conducted by Mrs. R. W. Stowers, president, final plans for the Senior Citizens Party on February 15 were announced by Mrs. Albert Knox, chairman. Mrs. D. W. McArthur from Tulsa was welcomed as a guest.

Mrs. G. F. Branson, program leader, stated that this program was concerned with the problems of modern Africa with emphasis upon the people, their problems, their opportunities, their resources and their achievements. "The great adventure of the day in Africa is the movement of the youth from their villages to the towns. No other element so sharply marks off the old Africa from the new as the existence of the towns, plantations and industrial centers and of the people who live there."

Mrs. Fred Neslage discussed the women of Africa. She stated, "The women of Africa vary just as the topography and politics of their country." She discussed the customs and ceremonial rites of the primitive tribes of the West, the Algerian women, the Pygmy women and the Christian women.

Duplicate Clubs In Master Play

Pampa Duplicate Bridge Club met Saturday night with 85 tables playing the Mitchell Movement in a Master Point game.

Winners in the north-south positions were Mmes. Greeley Warner, Frank Rosch, first; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Nation, second; Judy Self and Edith Crosby, both of Borger, third.

East-west positions winners were Don Forsha and Greeley Warner, first; Mmes. Don Forsha, W. J. Craig, second; Mmes. Fred Richmond, P. V. Rowe, third.

At the Monday night session held in the Coronado Inn with five tables playing the Mitchell Movement winners were:

North-South, Mmes. A. T. Patton, Haskell Maguire, first; Mmes. Frank Roach, Greeley Warner, second; W. B. Murphy, Fred Richmond, third; Mr. and Mrs. Don Forsha, fourth.

East-West, Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson of Borger, first; Mr. and Mrs. Byron Hampton of Borger, second; Mmes. E. J. O'Brien, Hugh Hamilton, third; Mmes. P. V. Rowe, W. B. Murphy, fourth. The club extends a cordial invitation to interested duplicate players to join the Monday and Saturday sessions at 7:30 p.m. in the Coronado Inn.

Mrs. R. H. Sanford, in opening remarks said, "Africa is a land of surprises and contradictions, a weird combination of the primitive and the modern, a country with many problems. For example, in Johannesburg in South Africa, there are many spacious ranch type houses and then a few minutes away you see people living in shacks in the worst of squalor. One moment you can talk to a brilliant Negro who is a graduate of Cambridge and the next you see masses of people who can neither read nor write. In cities you can find women seeking medical aid, but in the Bush of the Congo you can find superstitions, weird ceremonials and witch doctors."

"The countries of Africa are fast being pushed into new patterns," she continued. "The natives are being lifted out of rural poverty, out of their subservience to tribalism. They are being pushed into a modern world. They are having to bridge the gap from savagery to cosmopolitan life in too short a time. There is much to be done to solve their problems—problems that will take education, patience and time."

Members present were Mmes. Bob Andis, G. F. Branson, W. R. Campbell, Jack P. Foster, Paul Harbaugh, L. M. Hicks, V. J. Jamieson, Albert Knox, Loren Lockie, R. E. McKernan, Fred Neslage, Bill Roots, Tom Rose, R. H. Sanford, H. E. Stanfield, Jack Stroup, R. W. Stowers and H. R. Thompson.

Lee Fathers Officiate At Annual PTA Meeting

Colonel Roland M. Lawrence, commander of the First Battle Group 142nd Infantry and training specialist in curricula at the Amarillo Air Force Base, was guest speaker at the Robert E. Lee Junior High PTA meeting held Thursday evening in the school auditorium.

Following an introduction by Dr. Joe Donaldson, the speaker discussed "Military Reserve Units," as a portion of the Fathers' Night program held annually with husbands of officer-wives taking over on PTA duties for the evening.

Preceding the guest speaker, the Lee Junior High Band under the direction of Joe DiCosimo played a selection of numbers, which included "Men of Music," "Tango For Band," "Pastel For Band," and concluding with "La Bande, La Schente."

Dr. Donaldson, as presiding officer, received the reports of John Gentry, acting secretary; Jeff Bearden, acting treasurer. The nominating committee, composed of Jack Nichols, chairman, Mrs. W. T. Fain, Mrs. Russell Holloway, submitted the following slate of officers for the 1962-63 unit year: Mmes. J. T. Cornutt, president for a second term; Don Cain, vice president; Jack Benton, secretary; Robert E. Allen, treasurer; Homer Johnson, parliamentarian; S. M. Goodlett Jr., historian; Foster Elder and Ray Frazer, PTA City Council delegates.

W. A. Martin gave the Thought For the Day.

Preceding the program, Johnny Robison, mayor of Robert E. Lee Junior High extended a welcome to guests. In opening remarks, Mayor Robison said, "It is indeed a pleasure for me to come before you tonight. I feel that the association of your organization is beneficial to the teachers and to our school body."

"As you may know, the main duty of the mayor is to preside over the student council. Our student council is made up of one representative from each home-room. Our main function is to take to the entire student body the activities, or mal-functions that take place in or out of school."

"As presiding officer of the council, I have a request to make: In the near future, we are planning to observe Texas Public School Week. While some of you fathers are here, I want to extend an invitation to all parents to come to the school during the week of Mar. 5-9."

"In September, we invited you to come to our 'back to school night.' Many of you came to school and followed the same schedule, which we follow every day. This time, we are urging you to come during the day and watch us in action."

"Please circle the first full week in March on your calendar. We are expecting all of you to attend at least one period with us at Robert E. Lee Junior High."

Announcement was made of the Pampa Classroom Teacher's Association annual reception for teachers to be held Feb. 26 at 7:30 p.m. in the Lee Junior High School.

Refreshments of coffee and rolls were served in the cafeteria at the close of the program.

Dear Abby....

Mom Should Be Told Of Trouble!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine keeps telling me that her seven-year-old daughter hates school so much she pretends she doesn't get well so she can stay home. The child's mother doesn't know the reason, but I do, because the little girl confided in me. It seems the child has trouble controlling her bladder and her teacher told all the children that those who asked to go to the bathroom too much would have rubber pants put on them. I don't know anything about psychology or teaching, but I have a mother's heart and think something should be done about it. I am not the busybody type, but want to help this child. How?

thing so unsanitary as "dips" ever get so popular? Over the holidays we attended many parties and everywhere they served "dips." It reminded me of a bunch of pigs going to a trough. I can't see how anyone would want to eat something that everyone in the place had stuck his fingers into. Can you explain it?

DEAR NO: I don't know how YOU eat dips, but everyone else uses a potato chip or a cracker.

DEAR ABBY: Will you tell the women who are bored with their husbands and the same old routine every day just to wait?

DEAR FRIEND: Tell the child's mother what you have told me. She, too, has a "mother's heart." I hope, the good sense to go to school and talk to the teacher.

DEAR ABBY: The biggest creep in Junior High went and wrote my name all over both his arms with red and blue ink. All the kids are teasing me about him and I hate him like poison. How can I get him to rub my name off without talking to him? I am thinking about inviting him over to my house some evening. Would it be all right if I called him up on the phone for this purpose?

NO DIPPER

DEAR BUNNY: Make up your mind, Honey. Is he a creep or isn't he? If he's a creep, you surely don't want to call him on the phone and invite him to your house. If he's not a creep, don't protest so much! The moving finger wrote.

HOPE YOU DIDN'T MISS Jacqueline Kennedy's personally conducted tour of the restoration to tradition of the presidential home on Wednesday evening... it was one of the most pleasant hours we have spent in front of the television set in a long time... it was amazing, even though we know she has studied her subject most carefully, how she could recall each period of presidential "time"... interesting personal anecdotes about so many of the presidents and their kin... historical dates... even the names and hometowns of donors of priceless heirlooms... all with a beauty and poise that was remarkable under the strong television lights and knowing that her face and words were being seen and heard in millions of homes... we felt an inner surge of "homeland" pride in her efforts to restore all of the beautiful tradition that has gone before... she said one thing, among many that impressed us... that foreign-born people, thinking us a "young" nation do not realize all of the beautiful heritage that is ours... and she wanted it all represented in the White House for them to see as well as for American guests who visit the White House... somehow we received the feeling from her that this "beautiful heritage" is not so much in the symbols of furniture and furnishings... as in the high ideals that they represent... she mentioned once or twice that Abe Lincoln was cross with his wife for buying so much furniture during their time in office... we are hoping that some of the less-aesthetic taxpayers across the nation are not cross with Jacqueline for her efforts in restoring tradition to the White House... for she did stress that most of it is being backed by generous private donors... all of which reminds us that "the-president-of-our-home's" reclining chair badly needs restoration... it's cracked head-rest and worn upholstery looks a little like some of those chairs that Jacqueline is re-doing.

RX FOR MID-WINTER DOLDRUMS: A Tea Dance... all you need is a large ballroom filled with sparkling conversation... beautifully-dressed women and well-groomed men... a band that can play it "slow and sweet" or "Twisty" and charming hosts like George and Frances Cree... Elmer and Laraine Fite... George and Pauline Quible and the Miles O'Loughlins... all of these antidrum ingredients were put together recently at a Tea Dance given in the Coronado Inn... the entire scene resembled a High Protocol gathering of Capitol Society... and come to think of it, we did see a few campaign cards flashed around... there was a crush of people... no tables, just chairs and crazy conversation nooks placed around the ballroom... still there was only room for elbow-to-elbow conversation with the center of the ballroom filled with dancers cheek-to-cheek... some found room enough for doing an accurate version of the "Hully-Gully" and "The Twist"...

how we envy the grace and dancing technique of John and Edith Rankin and their astute students, who showed a few of us "slow and sweet" ones how these dances are done... Frances Cree was a dancing dream in a red satin frock with a bell-shaped skirt... her sister-in-law, Mrs. Bill Cree of Abilene, who, with her husband, has been a houseguest of the Cree's, caught our eye in her chiffon frock of beige, chocolate brown with bright Persimmon accent... her Persimmon brocade slippers were designed with sparkling toes of rhinestones... Fern Hines escorted by Johnny, gave an illusion of Spring in a white and green floral print with a pretty, frothy-white chiffon hat... the focal point of the room, before it became filled with guests, was one of the refreshment tables, where pink champagne flowed from a tiered, silver urn... the table was appointed with a pink satin cloth with deep, floor-length ruffle... and was centered with a silver pedestal bowl filled with towering red and pink carnations arranged in a fountain-effect... the table was laden with finger sandwiches, cookies and other delectable tid-bits... Bobby Burns orchestra played danceable tunes from four until seven at the other end of the ballroom... having fun chatting and dancing were Perla Mitchell, who was wearing a large gardenia corsage, which, she said, had been sent by "her secret boyfriend"... Eunice Pierson in a lovely blue lace "after Five" frock... and Lulu Casey in a brown ensemble... spied Bill McComas dancing with his Martha (alias "Aunt Abby of Arsenic and Old Lace")... Norman and Grace Henry dropped by for a few minutes but couldn't stay for the whole evening due to baby-sitting problems... Bob and Alleith Curry chatting with Dr. Frank and Mary Ann Sr. Kelley... Glenna Lea and Jack Miller chair-hopping for chats with friends... Betty Reid was stunning in a black and gold brocade Dance Frock complemented, with an equally stunning pair of gold, drop earrings... her costume gave just a suggestion of an oriental air... Art and Dorothy Teed whirling around the dance floor... the Joe Gordons, who have just announced daughter Martha's engagement to Joe Tepera... nearly all of the Sidwells, Ralph and Evelyn, Gene and Polly... Johnny and Bob Syper, forgetting campaign cares for an afternoon and evening of fun... Warren and Frances Fatheree doing like-wise... Paul and Bob Carmichael with Myrtle and Virginia... Mark and Flow Heath... Jack and Adrienne Foster chatting with Clinton and Donna Evans... Donna most attractive in a "Dancing Hair-Do"... the two Braly brothers, Cliff and Tom with their brunette wives, Jean and Eleanor... the list is endless and most of the guests wished the party wasn't... reluctance to leave is a true sign of any party success and a large group did continue on for a late snack in the Pampa Country Club.

ONE OF THE LOVELIEST Valentine Balls... In the tradition of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority... was given Saturday evening in the Starlight Room of the Coronado Inn... members honored the four chapter sweethearts, Mary Edna Tarpley, Alberta Jeffries, Mimi Stone and Rose Marie Gunn in a pretty ceremony... the sweethearts' husbands escorted them to a raised dias at the east end of the ballroom, placed a rhinestone tiara on their heads and a kiss on their lips... the setting was romantic... guests entered the ballroom through a huge heart-shaped entry-way formed with white tulle ruffles... the sweethearts were seated on the dias in white, wrought-iron chairs before a background of white, tiered candelabra holding tall, red tapers... then each sweetheart was presented with a red and white carnation nosegay and a gift by the chapter presidents, Louise Fletcher of Upsilon pretty in pink lace... Etha Jordan of Rho Eta... Lillian Esson of Xi Beta Chi... and Pat Watson of Xi Theta... husbands met their presidents-wives at the foot of the dias stair-way and escorted them across the ballroom... the four sweethearts and their escorts led the first dance into an evening of gaiety... Ruby Hilburn, with her lovely smile, and Byron seemed to be having a wonderful time... Ruby, most attractive, in a black dance flock held over the shoulders by a slender strap of rhinestones... Myrt Pafford looked like a lovely Valentine herself in a red velvet dance dress... and will someone please tell us how Bill and Sue Keller do it?... they "made" both the Valentine Ball and the Tea Dance... noted Dr. Frank (the new foot doctor in town) and his wife, Steena, who is superintendent of nurses at Worley dancing around and around... and we'll bet their feet didn't hurt one bit... As an added footnote to this item: for a few moments Dr. Frank took over the saxophone in the Mello-Aires Band and was transported briefly back in memory to the days when he had his own orchestra in Chicago... it was a fun-filled affair and one that didn't end until Breakfast Time was announced in the Terrace Room of the Inn... ho hum, now back to the dishes in the sink. Love, Peg.

'Days Of Yester Year' Illustrated In Dance

"Back In the Times of Yester Year" was illustrated by students of the Beau Arts Dance Studio at the Friendship Day Tea given by the Varietas Study Club on Tuesday afternoon in the Lovett Memorial Library.

The first three numbers presented took guests and members back to the days of George Washington when Shari Lawley, Debbie Cunningham, Gerry Saum, Diana Goodwin, as ladies; Sheila Blakemore, Sue Jane Sanders, Joyce Fischer and Pam Parker, as gentlemen danced "The Minuet". Dressed in colorful costumes that might have been copied from George Washington's drum corps were Jackie Edwards and Larry Lawley, who performed a fast tap, while tapping on drums. To complete this era of the program, Miss Susie Fillman portrayed in dance "A Sweet Old Fashioned Girl."

Other numbers on the program were "Two Little Valentines in an 18th Century Drawing Room", Debra Parker and Ila Faye Grayson; "A Trip To Toyland," "Honey and Dixie Band"; "Fine and Dandy", a fast tap by Miss Fillman; Tamborine Tap by Dixie Bond, Viola Parsley, Dana Martin, Candy Hinkle and Patti Lowrance; "Sunday", Pam Parker and Karen Hoover; "Toyland Elves", Debra Parker, Debbie Cunningham, Becky Secest, Jeanie Fisher, Debra Roach; "Fashion on Parade"; Honey and Dixie Bond; "The Sugar Plum Fairy", a ballet by Miss Fillman; "I'll Give You A Dance", Joyce Fischer, Diana Goodwin, Karen Hoover, Pam Parker, Sue Jane Sanders, Gerry Saum, Rene Secest and Shari Lawley.

Mrs. H. H. Butler, program chairman, introduced Miss Jeanne Willingham, the students' instructor, who, in turn, introduced each number. The dance numbers were accompanied by Mrs. Jack Edwards at the piano.

Following a welcome by the president, Mrs. Joe Z. Weaver, the following guests were introduced, Mmes. C. M. Carlock, John Haggard, Howard Gilliland, William Groves, John Barnes, Ann Heskey, Marvin Overton, Ralph Sidwell, Gene Sidwell, Cloud Drew, W. S. Exley, H. B. Howse, Ray Wells, W. Members attending were Mmes. Cecil Dalton, Price Dosier, S. C. Evans, H. T. Hampton, Lee Harrah, Dow King, J. E. Kirchner, R. W. Lane, C. L. McKinney, Otis Nace, W. A. Wagoner, and Sherman White.

Ruth Millett
JFK: How About A Smile For Jackie?

Every time I see the President and the First Lady together on television I have the feeling that somebody ought to tell him to pay a little more husbandly attention to his beautiful wife.

Usually when you see them together the President is climbing off a plane without turning to give his wife a helping hand, or he is striding ahead of her while she meekly but smilingly tags along behind, or he is shaking hands with dignitaries, while she is standing just outside the charmed circle.

No doubt the President is, in such moments, in a great hurry, or preoccupied, or maybe he just knows that somebody will look after his wife. But still such husbandly unconcern makes a very poor impression on the feminine public.

If the President doesn't realize just how off-hand his public manner toward his wife appears to be — he ought to look at some newsreels of the two of them together. And then he should look at some newsreels of President and Mrs. Eisenhower when Mrs. E. was the First Lady of the land.

Always, Ike was looking after Mamie — helping her in and out of cars, making sure she was seated before he began an address, leaning over to hear the words she addressed to him, smiling at her as the two chatted.

That kind of husbandly concern really got the women. It gave like a warmth of personality that women loved.

There's some feeling that President Kennedy's public image is a little lacking in warmth. One way for him to change that — at least so far as women are concerned — would be for him to act a bit more like a proud and protective husband in his public appearances with his beautiful and radiant wife.

Illusion Of Beauty Lies In Meticulous Grooming

ALICIA HART
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Most women, no matter what their age, place beauty high on the list of things they want most. Few of us are born beautiful, but we can achieve the illusion of beauty if we try. The secret, of course, lies in meticulous hair care, clever make-up, good taste in clothes, flawless grooming and daily exercise. The artful use of the cosmetics available to you this spring can help bring about the appearance you'd like to achieve. Whether you're 25 or 50, you won't look your best if your hair is drab. And this is particularly true of the woman who has gray hair. To combat this, one company offers an easy-to-apply aerosol spray that can enliven the appearance of your hair, either with dramatic streaking for contrast, or subtle tipping for a hint of glamour. For gray hair, it comes in silver, frosty white or blue. For blondes or brunettes, the spray comes in auburn, brown, black, blonde and gold. And for a touch of the dramatic, there are such shades as pastel green, pink and orange. The spray washes out easily and doesn't smudge or soil clothes, the makers say. Eye make-up has fast become the American woman's most exciting cosmetic. Not only does it focus attention on her most interesting feature but it adds color and chic to her beauty. This spring, a new eye shadow, arranged like an artist's palette, provides five colors in a single compact—gold, silver, blue, lilac and green. The individual shadow pans are refillable in the same shades or completely different ones. The compact itself is slim enough to fit into virtually every purse—size make-up kit. It's shell shaped, in smart silvery-gray. If you've never worn eye shadow before, now is the time to try it. For these tones are soft and lovely—a far cry from the "harsh" look you may have been avoiding. Another item that will prove invaluable to your good grooming is a refillable compact, which contains combined foundation base and powder, especially created for dry skin. The compact is slim and elegant, and the all-in-one make-up comes in nine different skin tones. Together with spring's lighter, more colorful fashions, enjoy the cosmetics that will add to your "new look."

★ Polly's Quiz ★ By Polly Cramer

This is the time to plan for spring decorating, no matter how small the job is to be. Planning ahead will allow you time to shop for the right things and to make a complete change-about if the first idea doesn't continue to sound as good as it did on first thought. Never plan or shop in haste. Being sure and deliberate will save you costly mistakes. Make your plans and put them down on paper. Then put the plans away for a bit and see how they appeal to you when you look at them again. Dear Polly: Your advice certainly got me in a mess. I let it be known that I would like Early American things for Christmas. You should see the horrible lamp a relative gave us. It's a flowered washbowl and pitcher set with a shade that looks like a 1910 garden hat. Now what do I do?—Provoked. Dear Provoked: Sorry, but I'm not responsible for your relative's taste. Or lack of it. But cheer up. Accidents can happen while you're cleaning or the children are playing. Dear Polly: I'd appreciate some ideas for draperies or curtains plus a color suggestion for a chair. I have honey beige walls, a brown couch and two wing chairs in a green print. My furniture is Early American. I want another chair but don't know what color to get. I've been looking at gold and persimmon.—C. W. D. Dear C. W. D.: Sounds like your room could take more color. Green Indian Head or cotton satin curtains trimmed with bands of a gay green, gold, persimmon and brown plaid should help. Have a matching plaid slip cover for that chair. Dear Polly: I am at a loss to know the best colors to use with what I have. Living room furniture is walnut; carpet is gold. One lounge chair is also gold. Two lamps are green with brass trim and white shades. What colors for sofa, drapes and walls?—Mrs. J. H. Dear Mrs. J. H.: A warm brown sofa, white walls, and flowered chintz draperies combining colors of gold, brown, white and green would be very pretty. The same chintz, quilted, would be handsome on another chair. Dear Reader: A heavy volume of mail doesn't permit Mrs. Cramer to answer her letters and post cards individually. But she will comment in her column on decorating problems of general interest. She cannot undertake to return floor plans or fabric swatches which are enclosed with letters. Badly fitted shoes can make your face look tense and unhappy and can also give you bad posture that can result in a backache.

The 'Public Demand'

Men who hold government positions love to buttress their charm by telling you that they are struggling valiantly to provide the new services and improvements the public demands. Some politicians have even gone so far as to suggest that "the public should be educated to demand less in the way of new services."

Upon examination, this proves to be mostly hog-wash and political Listerine. According to the Journal of American Chamber Executives, which checked the concept, the "public" rarely demands anything in the way of new services unless their position has been worsened in some manner. In short, if roads get out of repair, the public may demand better roads; if there is a shortage of water, the public may demand water; if criminals perpetually break out of a given jail, the public may demand that it be repaired.

Of course, there are organized pressure groups such as unions, the National Education Association and other giant lobbies, whose stock-in-trade is your money collected by the government spenders. But these groups of professional extortionists cannot be equated with "the public." These are men and women whose livelihood depends upon the livelihood of one parasite, upon sucking the life blood from their host. These are the ones who, together with the actual office holders themselves, stir up the "public clamor" for more and more so that each of us has less and less.

Now if you really want to know what the public wants, we believe we're in a position to tell you. The public wants to be let alone. It wants taxes reduced. It wants a chance to be free and to make its own way, individually, according to its own wisdom and its own conscience. And if our vaunted democratic system were responsive to public will, this is precisely what would be occurring. Taxes would be coming down with a rush.

But democracy, as we practice it in our political pit of favoritism, patronage and government jobs, is only capable of grand theft and multiple erosion of public and private character.

Power is in the hands of a vigorous and uncontrollable minority and "the public" is both dancing the jig and paying the piper.

When the Congress lowered the retirement age for males to 62 under old age and disability insurance regulations. The Congress indicated in speech after speech that the public demanded it. Key members of both houses have recently been checked on the point. The upshot of the inquiry is... To date, we have not found even one scintilla of evidence to support the popular view that the public demanded... this relaxation of eligibility.

Business & Gov't. Dont Mix

On occasion we have commented here that government "business" operations and private enterprise don't mix. Further evidence of the rightness of this contention is found in a recent Wall Street Journal.

One of the unhappiest "marriages of convenience" between a private business, and a government-operated monopoly, is the current relationship between airlines, which are private businesses, and airports, almost all of which are government boondoggles of great value to any ambitious politician.

Recently, according to the Journal, airports across the country have begun to raise the rates they charge resident airlines. The government as landlord, apparently has no scruples whatever. Why should it, when it operates without competition and is able to pass laws to compel compliance regardless of the wishes of air travelers or airlines alike?

In Washington, D.C., for instance, a fight is shaping up between the airlines and the "authority" of the new Dulles airport. The airlines are contending that $225,000 per unit is too much to pay for 20 mobile lounges to ferry passengers to and from airplanes.

In 1957, airlines paid about $37 million of their gross receipts over to the terminals they use. Last year, they paid more than $80 million. During this same period of time the airlines moved from a position of profit, by $27 million, to one of loss, by $3 million.

Eastern Airlines says its terminal rates were jumped by $3 million last year. United Airlines says its rates have risen in ten

TRUTH-FORUM

With Ed Delaney

The communist dictator of Yugoslavia, Josip Broz Tito, has lent word to Fidel Castro, pledging support in what Tito calls Cuba's sovereignty and freedom to make decisions. That means that Tito is urging Communist Castro to adhere to the tenets of Marxism and the Moscow hierarchy, or perhaps that of the Yugoslav type of communism, rather than cooperate with the non-communist governments of the Western Hemisphere.

This is the same Tito to whom over two billion of our tax dollars were given in the wholly false notion of our State Department and the lunatic fringe in Washington that we were purchasing an ally against the communist bloc of nations that threaten all western Christian civilization. Now, with the support of such as Tito, there is a beachhead of communism only 90 miles off the Florida coast.

Competent authorities are on record as having warned our administrations, from Truman to Kennedy, that it would be the most disastrous kind of folly to strengthen Yugoslavia's economy and military power on the assumption that Tito would lend us his support or at least maintain strict neutrality in any conflict we might have with communist regimes.

It was Britain and the United States who put Tito in power in Yugoslavia, despite the fact that his record of communist activities had been known for years. The wanton slaughter of 140,000 unarmed Croatian prisoners of war, handed over to Tito by Britain in 1945 is one of the most hideous crimes in recorded history. What action has been brought to bring Tito before one of the great international war tribunals as a war criminal? None. That was but one mass liquidation of anti-communists by Tito.

On Dec. 22, 1945, the United States recognized the new regime in Yugoslavia, after shamefully betraying King Paul of Yugoslavia, then an exile in England and delivering Gen. Mihailovich, the leader of the anti-communist and anti-Nazi forces, to be murdered by Tito.

On Jan. 8, 1946, President Truman stated that the recognition of Yugoslavia was only conditional and could be withdrawn if Tito did not live up to the Yalta agreement, which guaranteed freedom to those people. The instructions given our ambassador to Yugoslavia, Richard Patterson Jr., were: "...the establishment of diplomatic relations with the present regime in Yugoslavia should not be interpreted as implying approval of the policies of the regime, its methods of assuming control or its failure to implement the guarantees of personal freedom promised its people."

But did we withdraw recognition from that communist regime because of its violation of all conditions stipulated in the Yalta agreement? We did not. Instead we have given Tito billions in so-called foreign aid and for military purposes. Materials that can and may be used against us. Tito has repeatedly declared his firm adherence to the communist bloc and the break with Moscow was only tactical trickery to deceive the gullible. In this connection Dr. Josef Kalvoda notes in his book "Titoism": "If any lesson could be drawn from the story of American assistance to 'Titoism' would be the conclusion that everything is limited in this world except the unlimited dullness of those to whom God gave an office, but not wits."

If the airlines have their way, there will be new taxes to pay for increased terminal facilities. If the terminal people have their way, the air rates will rise, airlines will move further into the red and a subsidy will next be voted which will have to be paid by the taxpayers in the end.

This same problem, perhaps in even greater degree, is now faced by truck lines. It is a well known fact that truck lines use government roads. But let anyone think this is a free ride for them, the brutal fact is that taxes on trucks and trucking are now coming close to wrecking even this business.

Recently we saw a tag on the back of a large 16 wheeler which indicated that that particular vehicle paid taxes of more than $5,000 annually for its use of the roads and its payments of gasoline taxes.

Nor are the railroads any better off. Here is another major transportation industry, this one providing its own rights of way and its own terminal facilities.

But governments have joined hands in fleecing the railroads to the point where a curtailment of their services is almost inevitable. And right at a time when there is a larger demand for transportation facilities than ever before.

There is simply no GOOD way of dealing with government. You are taxed and regulated and controlled however you try. And, therefore, the only long-range answer to the problem is to get the government out of the transportation business totally. Truck lines should pay for their own roads and keep them in repair, too. And they should NOT be taxed. Airlines should provide their own terminals and manage them economically, and efficiently which they are equipped to do. And certainly the railroads should be shorn of their great burden of taxes and regulations and permitted to operate freely.

U.S., Russia, Both Score Breakthroughs On Salvo Firing of IRBMs; U.S. Nuclear Edge

WASHINGTON — The U.S. and Russia are adding frightening new dimensions to missile warfare.

Developed almost simultaneously, these unannounced advances involve the development of sensational new missile firing techniques that greatly increase the deadly "first strike" capability of both nations.

The foreboding Soviet gain is the successful launching in salvo of 10 intermediate range ballistic missiles. This simultaneous firing of missiles took place over the Siberian testing range. The IRBMs hit target areas after flight of nearly 1,000 miles.

The stunning U.S. breakthrough came when the Ethan Allen became the sixth Polaris-firing submarine to join the Navy's growing nuclear-powered overseas fleet.

In its trials, the highly skilled Ethan Allen crew fired eight of the submarine's 16 Polaris missiles within minutes of each other. All of the IRBMs warheads struck the target area, 1,200 miles down the Atlantic missile range.

These highly successful experiments in rapid-fire missile launchings of IRBMs are the first of their kind in history.

The Soviet missile feat has impressed official Washington as never before that Premier Khrushchev has within his grasp the power to destroy nearly all of Europe and Great Britain within a matter of minutes. In the Kremlin's arsenal are an estimated 1,000 missiles of the 700 to 1,100 mile range.

THE EQUALIZER — But counterbalancing this new Soviet striking power is the U.S. artillery-like capabilities of the long-range POLARIS missiles.

The Ethan Allen test shows that the 96 nuclear-tipped missiles carried by the six operating Polaris submarines can be fired at targets in the Soviet Union on an instant's notice.

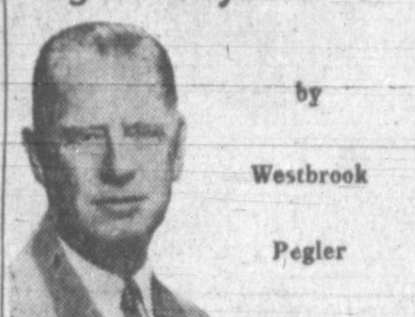

Since these POLARIS submarines are now on battle stations near the Soviet coastline, their nuclear power could burn up nearly 50 Soviet cities in minutes. Also, the range of these missiles will soon be increased from 1,200 to 1,500 nautical miles.

The Soviet's fleet of 12 missile-firing submarines is no match for the Polaris fleet. The Red Submarines carry only three missiles each. They must be fired on the surface and have ranges of less than 500 miles.

In addition, the U.S. is slowly closing the missile gap in the big intercontinental ballistic missiles, with ranges up to 7,000 miles. The U.S. now has slightly more than transportation facilities than ever before.

Business and government don't mix. When government is introduced anywhere, the end result is disaster. The only question relates to the ultimate moment of truth, when it will come.

Pegler Says:

Westbrook Pegler

On June 16, 1953, the New York Times carried a speech by Arthur Hays Sulzberger, president and publisher of the Times, at exercises of John Carroll University, a Jesuit school in Cleveland. His big idea was expressed in the one-column head over the news story, which said:

"AMNESTY BY PUBLIC ASKED FOR EX-REDS. Sulzberger tells John Carroll class he would absolve any who cut ties by '48. Suggests a panel to develop idea to clear the misled. Publisher gets degree."

The Times printed 3 1/2 columns of verbatim quotes. The record of history then showed, and Mr. Sulzberger must have known, that Joseph Stalin, whom he had interviewed as a journalist, had massacred about 10,000,000 Ukrainians and others in an engineered famine waged in cold blood for a political purpose. He had also carried out a slaughter of about 13,000 Polish army officers and intellectual civilians in an atrocity called the Katyn Massacre. The Russians were trying to blame this on the Nazi Germans, but after the tide turned against Hitler, the German army conducted two American officers, prisoners of war captured in North Africa, to the forest in which the victims had been buried in trenches. The Germans adduced proof that Soviet Russia had killed these people.

The two American officers later were fetched back to Washington where, in the Pentagon, they made a sworn record incriminating the Russian army in Katyn. This record later disappeared absolutely out of headquarters of army intelligence, but no American officer ever was even charged in this connection and the mystery just vanished in vapor. Some persons suspected that the Russians and traitorous American agents of Moscow might have done away with this record. However, to have cried out about this would have smacked of McCarthyism, a loathsome term, or John Birchism, both of which are injurious to the reputation of Americans today.

Senator Joe McCarthy had not yet taken wing and the Birch Society was still a fantasy of the future. So the persons who stole the Katyn record and obliterated the facts of this Muscovite misdemeanor have never been identified.

Obviously the Ukraine and Katyn mishaps were impolite acts, but M. Sulzberger nevertheless urged forgiveness for the Communist Party — hell, no. Heavens, no. — Not the Communist Party but, as he delicately put it, "Communist front organizations."

Mr. Sulzberger said that fifteen years earlier relatively few Americans saw any peril from the left. Many, many more American saw danger arising from the right.

Continuing, Mr. Sulzberger said: "A few years later, Russia was an ally" wherein he was grossly mistaken, for Russia never had been a genuine ally of the United States. "I maintain," M. Sulzberger went on, without a syllable of remorse from the Jesuits in charge who must have known that he was misinforming their students — "I maintain that it was only to be expected that a certain number of young people of the day, stimulated often by their elders, joined Communist front organizations, frequently mistaking Communism for communism. Many of them did not have advantages nor the obligations of freedom. Many of them sold their birthright for that old mess of pottage because they were hungry at the moment and couldn't wait to eat."

"Hunger" is imponderable. It cannot be statisticated even by the Department of Labor, but starvation can be shown by old news pictures taken in Germany, where Communists had derailed every brave effort of a beaten nation of superior quality to rise and live again by their own efforts. The Communists scourged Germany with famine. Therefore, if his fake specter of starvation can excuse to Mr. Sulzberger the traitorism of "many" in the United States then he must also excuse those Germans who became National Socialists to feed their children and themselves, and revive their country.

Not until 1948 did it become "entirely clear" to Mr. Sulzberger that Stalin had no intention to join us in building a peaceful world. Taking the summer of 1948 as his date, he would "declare" amnesty for those who had been misled but warn all who had joined any Communist "front"

Hankering

No Muzzle, So Hank Calls Off His Washington Trip

By HENRY McLEMORE

I had planned to go to Washington tomorrow, but I've had to call off the trip. I couldn't find a muzzle to fit me.

I searched high and low, all over New York. I tried sporting goods stores, pet shops, harness makers, but to no avail.

I found the nearest thing to a fit in a pet shop on Third Avenue. It was made for an English bulldog, and didn't look bad on me. It chafed my second chin a bit, though, so I had to pass it up.

The odds are that I could get by all right in Washington without a muzzle, but there is always a chance that I, a big and enthusiastic talker, might get hauled on the carpet by somebody or other and told to shut my big mouth.

No one can deny that there is a lot of muzzling going on down there on the Potomac. I wouldn't be surprised if muzzles became fashionable, and Oleg Cassini had started designing them for morning, afternoon, and evening wear.

Muzzling has become so popular, in fact, that people, prominent ones, are muzzling themselves without outside help.

Defense Secretary McNamara is one. He has put his own muzzle on and won't tell Senators the names of the men who handle the Pentagon censorship of speeches. He says that's his business, and that he is willing to risk all sort of trouble rather than give in.

Is the Defense Secretary in the right? That's not for me to say, or even guess. Offhand, though, I'd thereafter to expect the consequences.

I have read the Times in vain for any proposal of amnesty for Americans whom he here had the gall to identify as a menace on the right. They are unforgiven. Does he mean Colonel Lindbergh? I hope he means me.

And considering his total silence on the ten million Ukrainians and the Poles at Katyn, what consideration possibly reconciles that tolerance with the world-wide clamor about Herr Eichmann? After all, wasn't Khrushchev as guilty as Eichmann?

say he was wrong, and that if John Jones took such-and-such out of a speech by General What's-His-Name, then John Jones ought to show up and say he did it, and tell why he did it. Probably he had a perfect right, so what's the use in being so shy about admitting it?

Either the General was wrong in putting the words in his speech, or John Jones was wrong in slicing them out. Why not get the business out in the fresh air and let all the folks have a look at it?

To handle the matter the way it is being handled is to make a mystery of it, and as long as there is a mystery people will wonder and come to all sorts of conclusions, many of them wild.

Cost is another matter to be considered when muzzling is debated. It will add millions to the cost of running the government.

There will have to be a Muzzle Corps, to begin with. It will need to have a chief, an assistant chief, heads of various departments, cars and parking spaces, and all sorts of things, not to mention ten tons of paper, carbons and secretaries to send out directives.

A building, too. What about a solution like this: Print the Pentagon speeches as written by the man who will deliver them.

They will be printed in advance and sent out to all newspapers. Then the Pentagon censor will edit them and the revised speech will be sent out again.

This will give all Americans a chance to read both versions, and choose the one they like best. It would involve a great deal of work, yes, but nothing like the cost and trouble of a Muzzle Corps.

The fisherman who stands by a river or lake for hours without a strike will find this hard to believe, but there are more living species of fish in the world today than of any other class of vertebrate animals. About 30,000 would not be too high an estimate of the number of varieties.

Speaker Controversy Pops Up In Downtown Kiwanis Club Meeting

Controversy over the subject matter of speakers who have been appearing before the Downtown Kiwanis club this year was brought to light at Friday's meeting of the club in First Methodist Church when President W. L. Adair called for a vote of the membership on what policy the club wished to pursue in the future.

The vote was forestalled when the club voted in favor of a motion that the issue not be taken up at a meeting where guests were present and that the time not be taken away from the day's speaker, Herb Kerner, farm editor of the Tulsa World. The club also had as its guests 50 or 60 farmers and ranchers for a Farm - Ranch Day program.

Dr. Adair had asked for a vote on whether the club was to continue with its 1962 Citizenship Quotient program, set up by Kiwanis International, and on the matter of whether a speaker scheduled for next Friday's meeting should be cancelled.

Dr. Adair said at the meeting Friday he had been asked by spokesmen for a group of past presidents of the club to cancel out the next week's speaker and not to have any speakers in the future with topics that are controversial or political in nature.

The club president stated that since he planned to be out of the city next Friday and the time was short he thought the club members should vote their wishes on the matter.

Kiwanian Ben Ogden then made a motion that the matter not be discussed at the open meeting Friday. He said he thought Dr. Adair was out of order in calling for the vote and that it should be settled at another time. His motion was seconded by Kiwanian Foster Whaley and adopted on a majority standing vote.

Before he called for the vote, Dr. Adair had explained that he had no intentions as president of swaying the club politically and that it was not the design of the program committee to take any part in partisan politics.

The club president said he simply was trying, as club president, to follow Kiwanis International's Citizenship Quotient program by promoting individual responsibility in all areas of citizenship.

The Kiwanis International program calls for its club members to "champion individual rights and the removal of government encroachment on business."

The programs of service as set forth by Kiwanis International for 1962 also call for the "stimulation of a public awareness of the dangers to our freedom; to understand communism and its techniques of infiltration and compare the values of our way of life against the claims of communism and socialism."

"We have simply been trying to carry out the program of Kiwanis International," Dr. Adair said later.

It was reported that those who objected to recent speakers at the Downtown Kiwanis Club meetings had felt that these speakers had been "getting too far to the right" and that the club would be split down the middle if the same type of program was continued.

Downtown Kiwanians Host Farmers

If Russia ever surpasses the United States in farm production there will be no further need of worry about agricultural problems and surpluses, Herb Kerner, farm editor of the Tulsa World told Pampa Kiwanians at their regular Friday noon meeting in First Methodist Church.

"If that happens," the speaker said, "and we do anything further to cripple agriculture it will be simply a case of turning ourselves over to the Communists."

Kerner called agriculture our greatest remaining power and weapon against Russia today. He said 15 years ago the United States led with military might and was the acknowledged financial power in the world.

"Today there is question about our might in the military field," he said, "Fifteen years ago we were alone as a nuclear power. Today there are ten nations that have it."

"Our gold reserves have slipped in that period of time from $24 billion to $17 billion.

"The only thing we have today in which we are supreme is our agriculture.

"With all the tension in the world today we are all trying to figure out how to exist. Looking at the past is always a good yardstick for what is going to happen in the future."

The speaker said we had fallen short in military might and financial stature to the point where we now may be equalled by other nations. He pointed out that it was up to individual citizens to accept responsibility and keep our agriculture where it will remain our greatest weapon against the enemy.

Fifteen years ago, Kerner said, one farmer produced enough food to take care of himself and four other persons. Today one farmer, he added, produces enough food to take care of himself and 26 other persons.

Kerner pointed out that although 40 per cent of our labor force today is employed because of agriculture, the farmer is getting less return on his investment than any other segment of industry.

"Our ability to produce our agricultural ability is our strongest weapon," he said, "and it is an awesome spectacle to our enemy."

Kerner said the people of the United States exist because our lives and our country has been built on Christianity. History he said, proves the downfall of nations not built in this way.

"We exist," he said, "because of the glory of God and advancement of the Christian faith. Our entire body politic needs to be more Christ-like. We as individuals must look to God, work for freedom. We can do it through Christianity. We are against communism, sure — but we must not only have something to fight against we must have something to fight for. We must fight to preserve Christianity. It must be our national purpose along with all the other things we fight for. Unless we realize what our national purpose is, we will lose our fight against communism."

The speaker went on to say that free men must come to the understanding of why they are free and how easy it will be to lose that freedom if they don't accept individual responsibility and come to the realization they must have a purpose in life and that that purpose should be in the path of Christianity.

"Some say, 'it can't happen here.' — well, don't kid yourself." In his concluding remarks the speaker said the United States must remain a strong Christian nation if we are to win in the fight against communism.

Farmer - Rancher Day was observed by the Kiwanis club Friday and some 50 or 60 farmers were guests of the club at the annual affair.

Electrically!

It's just amazing — the many kinds of washable clothing that dry perfectly — ready to wear immediately without any ironing on your part — when they're dried electrically. And, they feel so good, too — soft and fluffy, and so clean-feeling. You'll enjoy the work-saving features of your new electric dryer — like clothes that "iron" themselves, for instance.
