President Asks Revised Welfare Program

Kennedy Calls For Profit Probe On Stockpiling

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Kennedy administration aimed today for a possibly explosive, wide-open investigation of whether "unconscionable profits" were reaped from the government's towering stockpile of strategic materials.

The government since 1939 has been piling up supplies, largely raw materials, that would be needed in event of war. World War II cut the stockpiles down, but the build-up began again after the war.

Since the late 1940s, the government steadily has acquired larger amounts of more than 70 critical materials ranging from aluminum and nickel to duck down and opium.

President Kennedy told his news conference Wednesday he was astonished to find that the total stockpile now includes materials worth $7.7 billion — more than the agricultural surplus held by the government. According to the Chief Executive, this exceeds emergency requirements under the present concept of war by about $3.4 billion.

Kennedy called "this excessive storage of costly materials" a "questionable burden on public funds, and in addition, a potential source of excessive and unconscionable profits."

"The cold facts on this matter must be open to the public," he said in announcing steps to correct the situation without disrupting commodity prices.

If there has been mismanagement, profiteering and skulduggery in the stockpile program, Kennedy made it clear he was aiming not at this, but at previous administrations. While this was implied, it took some Republicans in Congress virtually no time to come to a similar conclusion.

Rep. Walter Riehlman, R-N.Y., member of a House subcommittee that looked into stockpiling earlier, said he thought Kennedy wanted to pin something on the GOP.

Sen. Francis Case, R-S.D., put it another way. He said stockpiling had been going on for a long time and the present size did not necessarily reflect activities of the Eisenhower administration.

The President announced he had talked over the situation with Sen. Stuart W. Symington, D-Mo., chairman of the Senate stockpiling subcommittee. He said Symington had agreed that the stockpile program should be "completely explored and without delay."

The President in turn promised fullest executive branch cooperation with the Senate investigation.

"The cloak of secrecy which has surrounded this program may have been justified originally to conceal our shortages," the President said, "but this is no longer the case, and secrecy now is only an invitation to mismanagement."

Molotov Reported Heart Patient In Moscow Hospital

MOSCOW (UPI) — Reliable sources said today V. M. Molotov has been undergoing treatment for heart trouble in the Kremlin hospital for the past 10 days.

The sources said the 71-year-old Molotov is also suffering from pneumonia.

The press department of the Foreign Ministry said it could not confirm the reports of Molotov's illness.

A press department official said "anything can happen with a human being," when asked about the condition of the former premier and foreign minister who fell out of favor after Josef Stalin's death.

527 City Traffic Mishaps In 1961

A total of 527 accidents within the city limits during 1961 were investigated by the police department, according to a report issued this morning by Jim Conner, chief of police.

During 1961 there were no traffic accidents resulting in death. Some 118 persons were injured in 1961 compared with 116 personal injuries in 1960.

During 1961 a total of 255 charges were filed by officers for violations resulting in the accidents.

The hours of 5 to 6 p.m. led the list during the year with the largest number of accidents reported during that hour.

During the year failure to grant right-of-way, in the opinion of the investigating officers, resulted in a total of 121 of the accidents. Second on the list of violations causing accidents was speeding with 66. Officers listed following too closely as causing 58 accidents.

Chief Conner said the 1961 accident reports show that 600 male drivers were involved in traffic accidents within the city limits and 345 female drivers were involved.

Loan Bill Is Expected To Be Okayed

AUSTIN (UPI)—House and Senate conferees today approved what was described as the strongest, most tightly drawn loan shark bill this legislature has ever seen.

The measure was expected to be approved by both houses before the end of the 30-day special session at midnight.

The bill would permit interest rates of 36 per cent a year on loans up to $100, 30 per cent on the next $100, and 24 per cent on next $100. Lenders could charge the constitutional limit of 10 per cent on loans up to $500, the ceiling the bill places on a small loan operation.

A person would pay $130 interest on an $800 loan for one year. A borrower would not be required to purchase credit insurance, but security could be required on loans of more than $200.

Rep. Criss Cole of Houston, sponsor of the bill originally passed by the House, said the compromise bill is the strongest in the nation with the lowest interest rates.

Another conference committee was set to report a compromise version of a $618,000 supplementary appropriations bill.

The bill also provides that a licensed lender must make one loan in 20 under $50. This is to provide ready money for those persons who need really small loans to meet emergency expenses.

A small loan commissioner would be created to regulate the industry. Lenders would have to purchase $150 annual license.

Sen. Frank Owen of El Paso, chairman of the Senate conferees who worked three days and nights with House conferees on the bill, predicted senators would pass the compromise measure. Cole, chairman of the House conferees, said he was certain the House would accept the bill.

Earlier in the 30-day session, the House passed a bill which would have regulated interest, on a sliding scale, for all loans up to $1,500. Senators rejected that measure and passed one with a 3 per cent per month rate on loans no larger than $200. Beyond that, the Senate wanted the constitutional limit of 10 per cent a year to apply.

Repercussions Awaited On Cuba Ouster At 21-Nation Conference

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (UPI)—Western Hemisphere nations will be watching one another closely in the coming weeks and months to determine the long-range effect of the 21-nation foreign ministers conference that ended here Wednesday.

There will be reaction and pressures in each country—from both left and right—and only time will tell how drastic it will become. In some countries it already has started.

The immediate assessment of the conference here was that it represented a personal triumph for Secretary of State Dean Rusk and a heavy blow against Cuba despite the bare majority vote that sustained its key decisions.

Although the decision to oust Fidel Castro's Cuba from the Organization of American States and other inter-American agencies was supported by only 14 New World nations, the six which abstained made it clear they were objecting only to the method by which this end was to be achieved.

The formal expulsion of the Castroites from the Inter-American Defense Board and an order for increased vigilance against Communist infiltration of the New World won solid support, with only Cuba voting "no."

The results were regarded as a clear-cut victory for U.S. principles over the divide-and-conquer methods of communism.

The Cuban delegation headed by President Osvaldo Dorticos boycotted closing sessions of the conference Wednesday. The Cubans boarded a Havana-bound plane in Montevideo, 65 miles west of here, a half-hour before the final session was called to order.

Although it might be three weeks before any further action is taken against the Castro regime, repercussions from the conference are already being felt.

Angry Argentine generals and admirals were reported demanding the resignation of Foreign Minister Miguel A. Carcano, the man they blamed for the "soft" line his country took at the conference.

The big Buenos Aires newspaper La Prensa denounced Carcano's explanation of Argentina's abstention from the expulsion vote as "weak-kneed, indecisive and innocuous." It said the conference was "one of the most lamentable chapters in Argentine diplomatic history."

Congress Urged To Make Major Relief Changes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy asked Congress today to shed "scorn or suspicion" and enact a new welfare program designed to restore dignity and independence to the needy.

He proposed in a special message a program of "prevention and rehabilitation" that would step up federal assistance, encouraging states to "mount a concerted attack on the problem of dependency."

He warned that his plans "will not come cheaply. They will cost more money when first enacted. But they will restore human dignity, and in the long run they will save money."

White House sources placed a $193 million price tag on Kennedy's program. Kennedy said the money was set aside in his budget request for fiscal 1963.

Kennedy urged Congress to respond to the needs of the 7,250,000 Americans on welfare rolls with more than a "relief check."

He said the "emphasis must be directed increasingly toward prevention and rehabilitation — on reducing not only the long-range cost in budgetary terms, but the long-range cost in human terms as well."

Preservation of the family as a unit must be stressed, he said, and the approach "must contribute to the attack on dependency, juvenile delinquency, family breakdown, illegitimacy, ill health and disability."

The administration sources said Kennedy would send other messages to Congress later spelling out his health and education proposals.

Major provisions of his welfare plan:

- Increasing from 50 per cent to 75 per cent the federal share of state costs to administer and provide adult job rehabilitation, child welfare services and additional welfare workers. It would cost about $40 million.
- Making permanent the temporary aid for needy children of the unemployed, increased federal assistance to the aged, blind and disabled, and temporary provisions for foster care of children removed from their homes. The 1961 bill expires June 3. Extension would cost about $100 million a year.
- An effort to keep families together by increasing the federal share of assistance payments to both needy parents when they both live with the child. It would cost about $35 million a year.
- Aid to states to set up facilities to care for children during the day so their needy mothers can go to work. It would cost $3 million the first year and $10 million a year thereafter.
- Federal aid to help the states maintain community work and training projects for the jobless to help the unemployed "retain their work skills or learn new ones" and give the community manpower on public works.

Senator Wants Speech Censors' Identity Known

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., urged today that President Kennedy intervene—if necessary—to see that senators get the names of individuals who censored specific Pentagon speeches.

Thurmond, prime mover behind the Senate inquiry into alleged "muzzling" of military officers, said Kennedy should override Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara if McNamara continues to withhold the names.

The senator made his statement as the special Senate subcommittee called Arthur Sylvester, assistant defense secretary for public affairs, to testify on speech review policy.

Thurmond said he thought it would be "advisable" for McNamara to withdraw his instructions that speech reviewers must not be identified. McNamara's directive was invoked Wednesday when a Pentagon witness refused to name the reviewer of a specific speech.

If McNamara does not reverse himself, Thurmond said, "the President should direct him to permit witnesses to answer questions propounded by the congressional committee."

Thurmond said the subcommittee had no ulterior motive in its study. He said individual censors must be identified and questioned to determine whether their actions were based on individual judgment or resulted from following policy.

Thurmond contends that deletion of such words as "victory" from Pentagon speeches—six cases were cited Wednesday—reflects a pattern of "defeatist" government policy which long has persisted in the State Department.

Nike Zeus Step Nearer To Active Duty For Defense

WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE (UPI) — The Army's mighty Nike Zeus appeared a long step nearer to active duty today as the free world's only defense against ballistic missiles.

The Nike Zeus went through rigorous paces Wednesday at relatively low altitudes over this southern New Mexico desert area, with an impressive array of military officers obviously impressed with its performance.

The test included firing of the solid-fuel rocket's third stage, carrying the anti-missile missile from one corner of the range to the other, an Army spokesman said.

Commander in Chief Laurence S. Kuter of the North American Air Defense (NORAD) headed the list of military guests. White Sands Commanding Gen. John G. Shinkle was in charge of the military guests.

Senate To Be Test Spot For Urban Affairs Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democratic leaders have decided to make the Senate the first testing ground for President Kennedy's plan to create a Department of Urban Affairs.

The Senate Government Operations Committee, which will study the reorganization plan, scheduled a meeting today and Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., said the plan might be discussed.

The House has announced committee hearings next week on Kennedy's proposal, which would create a 11th cabinet post.

Kennedy said at his news conference Wednesday that he had no political motives in announcing that Housing Administrator Robert C. Weaver, a Negro, would head the new department.

But critics have accused Kennedy of injecting a racial issue into the plan in order to embarrass opponents who want to vote against the urban affairs department plan.

Other congressional news:

Drugs — The Senate anti-trust subcommittee recalled officials of the L. W. Frohlich Inc. advertising agency for more questioning about whether the agency softened warnings to doctors about the effects of certain drugs.

McCone — The Senate Wednesday voted, 72-12, to approve Republican John A. McCone as head of the Central Intelligence Agency. Approval of the wealthy, 60-year-old California businessman rejected charges that he is unqualified and might be influenced by his financial dealings.

Texas Continues To Bask In Sun

By United Press International

The coldest Texas January since 1949 became history today and the state continued to bask in spring-like temperatures. Only a threat of light rain in South Texas marred the weather picture.

Cloudiness was increasing over South Texas as the calendar changed to February, but the rest of the state remained fair with cool nights and warm days.

Overnight lows ranged from 27 degrees at Lubbock—the only official U.S. Weather Bureau station reporting sub-freezing weather—to 58 degrees in downtown Corpus Christie. Wednesday's highs ranged between 64 degrees at El Paso and 79 at Houston.

The long-range weather outlook for February called for above-average temperatures over the southern third of the nation, including Texas.

Two Americans Still Missing

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI)—Chances of survival are slim for two missing passengers of the American light plane that crashed Saturday in the Zagros mountains, observers said today.

Four Americans flying L20 search planes swept the crash area for traces of Lt. Col. Walter Johnson of Brooklyn and Capt. Daniel Knott of Atlanta, hoping they might be located alive. They had earlier been reported found.

Wire Artists Observe Show Biz Tradition

DETROIT (UPI)—The two injured members of the tragedy-stricken Great Wallenda troupe, assisted by a substitute aerialist flown in from New York, performed an abbreviated, "routine" act at the Shrine Circus last night before a "harsh" crowd.

"They were harsh ... more expectant and spontaneously alive," said Gunther Wallenda, 34, describing the audience of about 5,500 persons. "It was almost as if they expected something to happen again. They reacted and applauded spontaneously when we were finished."

Wallenda, his father, Hermann, 60, and Gene Mendez, 26, performed the simple act less than 24 hours after a fall from the 36-foot high wire killed two of the seven-member Wallenda troupe and injured three others, one critically.

Mario Wallenda, 22, injured in Tuesday night's fall, remained in critical condition at Highland Park Hospital, Gunther said "he's holding his own and as long as he does that, his chances are better."

Mario, the adopted son of Karl Wallenda, 56, who was slightly injured in the fall, suffered a skull fracture.

"We were nervous and more on edge, than we would have been usually," Gunther said. "I won't say we were scared because we did what we had to. If we were really scared, we wouldn't have done it."

The act included Mendez, a Puerto Rican, doing his specialty, a walk across the wire without a net. A good part of the afternoon was spent with Mendez getting used to the balancing pole. In his single he did not use one.

Mendez, a former member of the Wallenda troupe, went on his own in 1955 in a solo high wire act.

Gunther rode a bicycle across the 50-foot strand and walked across it twice. His father crossed it once alone.

For the finale, Gunther and Mendez placed a single balancing bar on their shoulders and, with Hermann standing atop it, walked across the wire.

"We don't pay too much attention to the crowd," Gunther said. "We were nervous and on edge, there's no doubt about that. Our routine was completely basic and we had to be extra careful not to be overconfident."

"They say the show must go on and we have often talked and laughed about it. But it is a tradition and well ... we went on."

Killed in the fall Tuesday night were Richard Faughnan, 28, and Dieter Schupp, 23. Schupp's sister, Jane, 17, received head injuries. She and Karl Wallenda remained hospitalized but in

'Think' Machines May Move Into Executive Jobs

NEW YORK (UPI) — Robots may never try to move to the suburbs or join the country club, but the day may come when the "think" machines will take over those $10,000-a-year executive jobs.

A private report predicts that automation — already a serious problem among the ranks of "blue collar" workers — eventually will seep through the American middle class, thus creating a national crisis of massive unemployment, social unrest and economic hardship.

The report, published Sunday by the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, also warned of a time when U. S. democracy could disintegrate into an electronic dictatorship and a small, privileged group that knows how to run them.

Entitled "Cybernation: The Silent Conquest," the report was written by Donald Michael, formerly a member of the Brookings Institution and now director of planning and programs for the Peace Research Institute in Washington.

The center, a non-profit educational research organization, points out in a preface to the report that the author alone is responsible for his views.

The report contended that the rapid expansion of automation in American life is inevitable.

"Not only must many organizations automate to compete, but the same principle holds for competing nations," Michael stated. "We are by no means the only semi-cybernated (automated) society. The U.S.S.R. is making an all-out effort to cybernate as much of its planning-economic-industrial operation as it can."

Noting that the so-called "blue collar" group — unskilled and semiskilled workers — face the greatest danger, Michael cited union claims that manufacturing employees already have been reduced to 1.5 million in the past six years; while production rates continue to rise.

Gradually, he argued, automation will make inroads into service industries, replacing sales people, statisticians and bank tellers.

Then as automation moves into manager ranks — "and this move is already beginning," increasing numbers of "middle managers" will find themselves supplanted.

Michael pointed out that computers already can handle many of the analysis tasks now performed by junior executives, leaving a need only for a handful of top managers in an industry to make the final decisions based on machine-processed information.

In summary, Michael foresees large masses of Americans — many of them highly educated — working no more than a few hours a day or drawing unemployment checks.

U.S. Plans For Exploration Of Mars And Venus

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy told Congress yesterday the United States made significant progress in space activities in 1961, including planning for such projects as manned exploration of the moon, Mars and Venus.

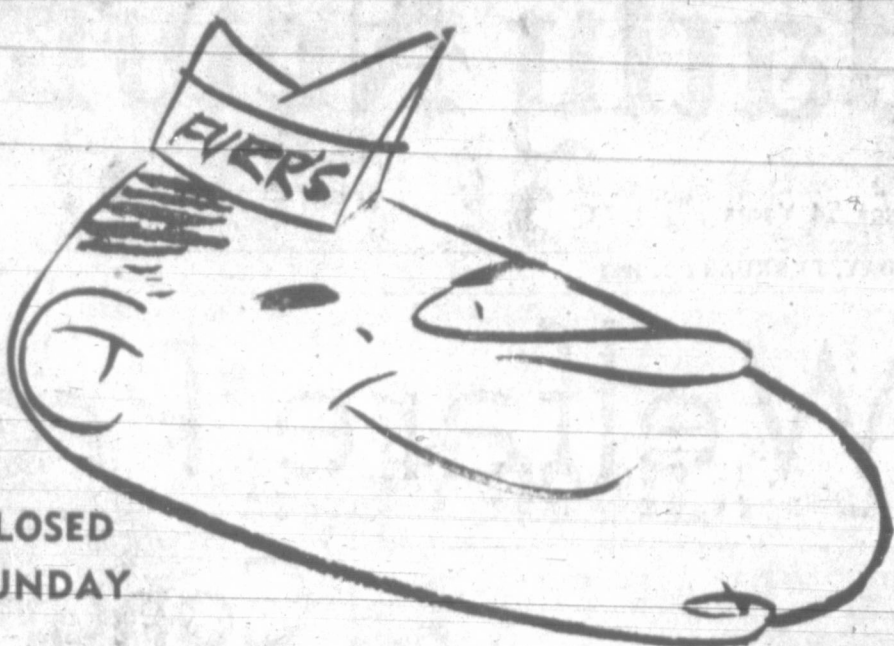

The President's annual report to the House and Senate on the National Aeronautics and Space Administration was devoted largely to a review of previously announced programs.

He forecast even greater strides in the coming fiscal year for which he has asked total space funds amounting to $5.5 billion. This would be an increase of $2.4 billion over fiscal 1962.

The President thought the foremost national decision of 1961 was the accelerated plan to land U.S. explorers on the moon during the 1960s instead of the previously contemplated goal of the mid-1970s.

"Landing U.S. explorers on the moon will be a beginning, not an end," he said. "The expedition will establish a foundation of experience and competence upon which to build further progress in space. Even now, potentialities are being considered for a scientific base on the moon, just as there is at the South Pole. Also, unmanned and manned flights to Mars and Venus are being contemplated."

Kennedy said the first in-flight test series of nuclear rocket engines could be expected in the 1965-67 period.

Motorists Urged To Obtain 1962 Safety Checkup

Less than 30 per cent of the registered vehicles in the Pampa area have been safety inspected for 1962, according to Patrolman Gavin Fowler of the State Motor Vehicle Inspection Service.

With the April 15 deadline for having vehicles checked rapidly approaching, this means there are approximately 14,300 vehicles in Gray County remaining to be inspected by the 18 approved inspection stations available in the county, Fowler said.

"Many motorists are going to find long lines awaiting them as the deadline draws nearer, due to the inspection stations not being able to cope with this large number," Fowler added.

The patrolman urged drivers to have their vehicles inspected as soon as possible to avoid the last minute rush. In addition, he reminded drivers that this time of the year is noted for adverse weather conditions which prevent inspection stations from checking the vehicles.

"Passenger cars are inspected for brakes, lights, reflectors, horn and windshield wipers; while commercial vehicles are inspected for those things, plus additional items required by law," Patrolman Fowler said. "All motorists not displaying a valid 1962 inspection sticker by April 15 will be in violation of state law."

Police Hunting Knife Assailant

Police today were investigating the stabbing case of a Pampa man reported in fair condition in Highland General Hospital.

Police said they received a call from hospital officials at 1:50 p.m. yesterday that Jerry Thaxton, 29, 324 S. Gray, had been admitted with a knife wound in his left side.

Thaxton told authorities he had been stabbed sometime Tuesday night following a fight near the Busy Bee cafe, 410 Maple.

Upon investigation officers said they questioned a 21-year-old suspect who told them he had been in a fist fight with Thaxton but did not stab him.

Youth Admits He Snatched Purse

The purse snatching case was solved when a 15-year-old Pampa youth admitted to police yesterday he had taken the purse just because he saw it lying there.

Officers said they received a report from Peggy Griffin, Pampa, who told them she was attending a dancing school and left her purse in the waiting room. She said she heard a noise and saw a boy grab the purse and run. The purse contained about $13.

The youth was apprehended yesterday and told officers he just saw the purse lying there and wanted some money. Officers later found the purse and other contents in a trash barrel on N. Christy St.

The boy was turned over to juvenile officers who are investigating.

G.O.P. Schedules Rally Tomorrow

Kellis Dibrell of San Antonio, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor of Texas, will be the principal speaker at a Republican rally to be held in Pampa tomorrow night.

Tomorrow night's rally in Pampa will be held at 7:36 p.m. in the Gray County Courthouse.

Immediately following the meeting, a reception for Dibrell will be held in the home of H. O. Darby, 2001 Mary Ellen.

All interested persons are invited to attend both the rally and the reception, according to Dr. S. B. Spert.

C. Of C. History, Activities Topic For Rotary Speech

E. O. Wedgworth, manager of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, yesterday outlined to Pampa Rotarians the history and activities of the chamber.

Pointing out that the chamber was chartered in 1925 and that its joint operation with the tax-supported Board of City Development began in 1927, the speaker said that the organization had been responsible for much of the progress that has come to Pampa in the last 35 years. With a current budget of around $39,000, Wedgworth stated that the cut in Board of City Development funds has necessitated a re-evaluation of the due structure on a "fair share" plan in order to assure an operation comparable to the past.

The chamber's 17 committees all have a full program designed for civic betterment, the speaker stated, and there are several projects being worked on that should be announced soon.

Mrs. Elaine Ledbetter, high school science teacher, invited the club to attend the science fair that will be held in Pampa, Feb. 16 and 17. Thus far, there have been 386 entries in the fair and Mrs. Ledbetter said that the show promises to be one of the best ever attempted in Pampa.

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

In Geneva, chief British delegate Sir Michael Wright sadly surveyed the wreckage of the East-West nuclear test ban talks and remarked:

"The world has lost two great chances of achieving nuclear disarmament since the war."

He was pronouncing the require-ment of efforts undertaken by the United States, Britain and Russia in October 1958 to find some enforceable means of banning nuclear weapons tests. In 353 separate meetings, the conferees had gotten exactly nowhere, and, after a final blast at the West, Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin announced he was going home.

The end came on the issue which had taken the conference to the edge of disaster so many times before—Soviet refusal to permit adequate inspection of suspected nuclear blasts in soviet territory.

The world had had an earlier chance at nuclear weapons control in 1954.

It was the proposal suggested by U. S. elder statesman Bernard M. Baruch, and endorsed by the United Nations, that the United States place its virtual monopoly in nuclear weapons under international control.

That, too, was vetoed by the Soviets.

Events leading to final breakdown of the Geneva negotiations had involved a remarkable double switch by the Russians.

The United States and Britain, finally admitting deadlock, offered to accept a previous Soviet demand that the nuclear talks be switched over to the general disarmament conference scheduled to open next month.

Without explanation, the Soviets vetoed what had been their own idea.

Speculation over the Russian action took two courses.

One was that they wanted no agreement under any conditions because they planned a new series of nuclear tests.

The other linked it to a series of other events within the Kremlin which have puzzled the West.

One was Khrushchev's strange silence on international affairs almost since the November end of the 22nd party congress.

In the ensuing weeks he has travelled extensively through the Soviet Union's agricultural areas and most of his recorded speeches have dealt almost exclusively with farming.

Another has been Moscow's sudden and seeming lack of interest in an early settlement of the Berlin question.

There are suggestions that temporarily, Kremlin foreign policy is on dead-center and that Khrushchev may be involved in some sort of personal crisis involving leadership.

The Communist party central committee meets in Moscow next month. An answer may be forthcoming then.

Savory Rice Stuffing Terrific With Pork

Try this delicious new rice stuffing with pork chops to perk up appetites. Easy to make with packaged pre-cooked rice, it features a medley of flavors so friendly to rice. Pork chops taste especially good with orange rice stuffing.

Rice and Orange Stuffing
 1/2 cup butter or margarine
 1/2 cup chopped onion
 1 1/2 cups packaged pre-cooked rice
 1 cup water
 1/2 cup orange juice
 2 teaspoons grated orange rind
 1 cup diced celery
 1 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/2 teaspoon sugar
 1/2 teaspoon poultry seasoning
 4 double rib pork chops (1 1/2 inches thick)

Melt butter in saucepan. Add onion and saute until tender but not browned. Add rice, water, orange juice and rind, celery, salt, and sugar. Mix just to moisten all rice. Bring quickly to a boil over high heat. Cover, remove from heat, and let stand 5 minutes. Then add poultry seasoning and mix lightly with a fork.

To prepare chops: Cut a pocket in each chop and fill each with 1/2 cup of the stuffing. Fasten edges with a small skewer or toothpick. Heat a tablespoon of fat in skillet, add chops and saute quickly, turning to brown both sides. Remove from heat. Add 1/2 cup boiling water, and cover tightly. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) one to 1 1/2 hours, or until chops are tender. Place the remaining stuffing in a baking dish and heat in oven. Serve with the chops.

Two Recipes To Help Take Advantage Of Abundant And Economical Potatoes

By GAYNOR MADDOX
 Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
 Potatoes are abundant and in the economy food group. Here are two family recipes to help you get eating enjoyment and good nutrition from them:

POTATO AND ONION PIE
 (Yield: 6 servings)

1 1/2 pounds small white onions
 1/2 pound (4 medium) carrots
 1/2-inch boiling water in saucepan
 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
 1 teaspoon butter or margarine
 1 tablespoon flour
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1-16 teaspoon ground black pepper
 1 1/2 cups milk
 1/2 cup carrot and onion stock
 1/2 cup shredded sharp cheddar cheese
 3 cups fluffy mashed potatoes
 Peel onions, leave whole. Peel carrots, quarter and cut into 2-inch pieces. Put both onions and carrots in a saucepan with the 1/2-inch boiling water and salt. Cover. Boil 10 minutes, or until almost tender. Drain vegetables (save water to use in the cream sauce) and put into a 9x9x2-inch baking pan. Melt butter or margarine in a saucepan. Blend in flour. Stir in milk and the carrot and onion stock. Cook until slightly thickened. Add cheese. Pour sauce over the vegetables. Top with fluffy mashed potatoes. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (375 degrees F.) for 30 minutes or until potatoes are brown.

POTATO AND CABBAGE CASSEROLE
 (Yield: 6 to 8 servings)

6 medium (2 pounds) potatoes
 1-inch boiling water in pan
 2 teaspoons salt
 1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper
 5 tablespoons butter or margarine
 1/2 cup finely chopped onion
 3 cups cooked shredded cabbage
 Pare and cook potatoes until tender in 1-inch boiling water and 1 teaspoon of the salt. Drain if necessary. Mash until smooth. Add the remaining salt, black pepper and 3-tablespoons of the butter or margarine. Mix well. Add onion and cabbage. Turn into a buttered 2-quart casserole. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 15 minutes. Remove from oven. Dot with butter or margarine. Return to oven and bake 5 to 10 minutes longer or until potatoes have lightly browned. Serve very hot.

What To Do With Sunday Left-Overs? Present Them In Pretty Patty Shells

What happens to the left-over Sunday roast? The smart homemaker will skip a day or even two and then present it in a completely new form. For example, in the recipe below the meat is combined with vegetables in a savory sauce and, for a really elegant touch, served in patty shells. The patty shells are the frozen variety and are baked quickly in a hot oven to become crisp, tender, puffy shells that lift left-overs out of the nondescript class. For a meal to be remembered serve these tempting meat filled patty shells with a fresh grapefruit and endive salad and a luscious apple spice cake.

MEAL FILLED PATTY SHELLS

1/2 cup butter or margarine
 3 tablespoons flour
 2 cups milk
 1 cup cooked, diced roast beef, lamb, pork or ham
 1 teaspoon Worcestershire
 2 tablespoons chopped celery
 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
 1 teaspoon salt
 1/2 teaspoon pepper
 12 small white onions, cooked
 1 cup cooked peas
 In saucepan, melt butter, stir in flour until thoroughly blended. Gradually stir in milk; cook, stirring, until thickened and smooth. Add remaining ingredients and heat thoroughly. Just before serving spoon into freshly baked patty shells. Serves 6.

HEARTS will be in harmony on Valentine's Day when these biscuits and chicken-vegetable sauce are placed on the table.

Macaroni Munch Makes Much Lunch

Cheese - nut macaroni salad makes a tangy, nourishing lunch dish. Cook 1/2 pound (2 cups) of elbow macaroni according to package directions. Drain. Rinse with cold water. Drain again. Combine with 1 cup (about 1/4 pound) grated cheddar cheese, 1/2 cup of chopped walnuts, 2 tablespoons of capers and 1-3 cup of french dressing. Toss lightly. Chill. Serve on crisp lettuce. Serves 4 to 6.

Hefty Breakfast OK For Dieters

Courageously trying to lose a pound or two? It demands diligence as well as a sound nutritional "backbone." At the base of the backbone is a good breakfast. It's one meal you never should miss, nutrition experts say. For a handy, hearty starter, try oatmeal. It's high in nutritive value and has only 110 calories in each two-thirds cup-serving. One teaspoon of sugar and 4 to 8 ounces of skim milk will keep that hot cereal in the low-calorie class.

Togo President Hits At Ghana

LOME, Togo (UPI) — President Sylvanus Olympio of Togo says African unity should be achieved by gradual stages of cooperation and not by trying to force nations into a single state or federation now.

"Nkrumah has the ambition to swallow up everybody else," Olympio said in an exclusive interview, referring to President Kwame Nkrumah of neighboring Ghana.

But Olympio said he has refused to allow political refugees who have fled from Ghana to establish a government-in-exile here.

He said former Ghana minister K. A. Gbedemah, long number two man in Nkrumah's government before he was fired last October, passed through Togo en route for an undisclosed destination on the day he disappeared from Ghana.

Olympio spoke in faultless English, although the common language here, apart from native languages, is French. For years, the 59-year-old President was an official of the United Africa Company, a Lever Brothers subsidiary, and he attended the London School of Economics.

As we talked, he sat behind a huge black topped desk. His spacious office in the Presidency overlooks the waves breaking on the sandy beach.

Led by Olympio, this country of 1.2 million persons on the underside of Africa's bulge belongs to the "Monrovia" group of powers. They favor step by step cooperation among African states on a practical level in contrast to the "political unity now" approach of Nkrumah and the rival "Casablanca" powers.

"It is too early to think about having one state or federation," Olympio said. "We think we should talk about cooperation in all fields — economic, social, technical and even political. It is only through cooperation that we will know each other better. The first thing to do is to start mapping ways and means to cooperate."

The Monrovia powers are so called because their first meeting was in the capital of Liberia in 1960.

Before World War I, Togo was a German colony. After Germany's defeat, it was split into British and French Togoland with Britain and France administering their respective parts under a League of Nations mandate and later under United Nations trusteeship.

The smaller British Togoland voted in a 1956 U.N. plebiscite to join an independent Ghana rather than remain under trusteeship. French Togoland became the independent Togo in April, 1960.

To counter Nkrumah's pressure for the unification of the whole country with his own Ghana, Togo wants the people of former British Togoland to have a new chance of self-determination. The southern part, for example, voted against being incorporated in Ghana while the northern part voted in favor.

Explaining his stand, Olympio said, "After all, it's all part of Togo."

"For a long time Nkrumah has had the ambition to swallow everybody," he said. "We told him nothing doing. He then thought he could bring economic pressure on us and stopped commerce and trade. We have friends elsewhere with whom we can trade."

Olympio said the most pressing problem is refugees, whom some unconfirmed estimates put at more than 5,000. The majority are from former British Togoland. But there has been an increase in the number of refugees from "Ghana proper."

Army Shortens Overseas Duty

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army has shortened extended overseas duty tours, effective July 1, and nullified extensions scheduled after Jan. 1, 1963.

The three- to six-month extensions had been ordered last Oct. 1 at the height of the Berlin crisis.

The Army gave no precise figures on the number of men affected by today's order. It pointed out, however, that 42 per cent of its million-man strength is overseas, and that an average of 200,000 troops return from overseas duty each year.

Soldiers scheduled to return home in the second half of this year or early 1963 will have their overseas duty shortened from two weeks to more than two months. The shorter cutbacks apply to those who were slated to return home in July and August.

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — Cows are getting the best end of the deal in Wisconsin, the state chamber of commerce believes. The chamber has asked that the state's "America's Dairyland" slogan on auto license plates be alternated with one heralding Wisconsin as "nature's vacationland."

Diagnosis By Expert Reveals Education Arteries Hardened

NEW YORK (UPI) — Why, in the 1960s, should we have schools that have hardened without plan and now has hardening of its contradictory and bureaucratic arteries.

"No society today, however small or isolated, starts from scratch to think out all over again what, if one were quite free to choose, would be planned now as the best way of educating children," said Dr. Mead in an article in the educational journal, Teachers College Record.

The teaching of reading, for instance, was an apprenticeship task, Dr. Mead said, until society decided it was necessary that all citizens be literate, and most parents weren't. Today, most American parents are.

And "what possible grounds are there," asks Dr. Mead again, "for believing that education should begin at six or four or three."

It is wholly possible that the fundamental aptitudes for being able to handle mathematics or to play chess, with the accompanying abilities to plan and anticipate, are learned under two.

54th YEAR THE PAMPA DAILY NEWS THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 1, 1962 7

Dr. Mead proposes no answers, only the questions for consideration.

"And how much school work should be done in groups, where error is steadily compounded and children are exposed to each other's determination not to learn French and not to get the examples right? At what ages and for what subjects is group learning appropriate?"

The noted anthropologist pulls no punches either on the crazy quilt of higher education.

Education is a right, she notes, to a certain point, at which it suddenly becomes a privilege and a questionable one at that.

"For the older adolescents, education is an individual thing, something for which each person should pay, not only in money, but in inferior social status."

The youngster who leaves high school for a job becomes an adult with the right to marry, establish a home, and go on strike. But a student of the same age "is treated like a dependent child," says Dr. Mead.

Sen. Ellender Files Report On World Trip

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Allen J. Ellender recently returned from his seventh trip around the world and, as is his custom, has filed a lengthy report on his journey.

I always look forward to reading these travelogues, for Ellender, an intrepid adventurer, has a way of making them entertaining as well as informative.

As a taxpayer, I cheerfully bear my part of both his travel expenses and the cost of printing the diary of his odyssey. Being able to share his experiences vicariously is the next best thing to going on a junket myself.

Last year, his report, published by the Senate Appropriations Committee, attracted considerable attention because of its emphasis on geographical details.

Some readers felt that he did not need to point out that Japan was a group of islands off the coast of China, or that the canals in Holland were filled with water. To me, however, the little things in Ellender's reports are the essence of their charm. I was pleased to note that he did not stint himself in this regard in the report just published.

For instance, the average senator wouldn't have bothered to let us know that his departure from New York was delayed 30 minutes because one of the airplane doors wouldn't close.

Nor would a less gifted observer, in describing a flight in a Russian airliner, have included the fact that "there was much chatter going on that I could not understand."

Ellender's account of his sojourn in the Soviet Union, one of the eight countries he visited, makes particularly intriguing reading.

"Hogs are raised principally for bacon, meat, and lard," he wrote in telling of a trip to a state farm near Moscow.

As for the Communist way of life, the Louisiana Democrat commented that "even toilet paper is standardized."

"I have been a guest, so far, in four different hotels, and the paper is of similar size, pink and crinkled, much like crepe paper," he confided. "It looks like the kind of paper used for decorations and is rather rough."

Later on, in telling of his stay at another hotel, he noted that "the toilet seat was made of wood, with hinges of steel." Unfortunately, however, he did not explain the significance of this.

In South Viet Nam, the senator reported, his hotel dining room had a good orchestra, including a bearded young pianist who played particularly well.

While in Hong Kong, he recorded that his hostess at a dinner party, Mrs. Fung Ping Fou, was "very popular" and "everyone calls her Ivy."

Without these little personal touches, the report just wouldn't have been the same.

Livestock Men Form Group To Fight Screwworm

The Gray County Animal Health Committee was organized recently at a meeting in McLean with 23 local livestock men as members. John B. Rice, McLean, was elected chairman and Guy Beasley, McLean, as secretary-treasurer.

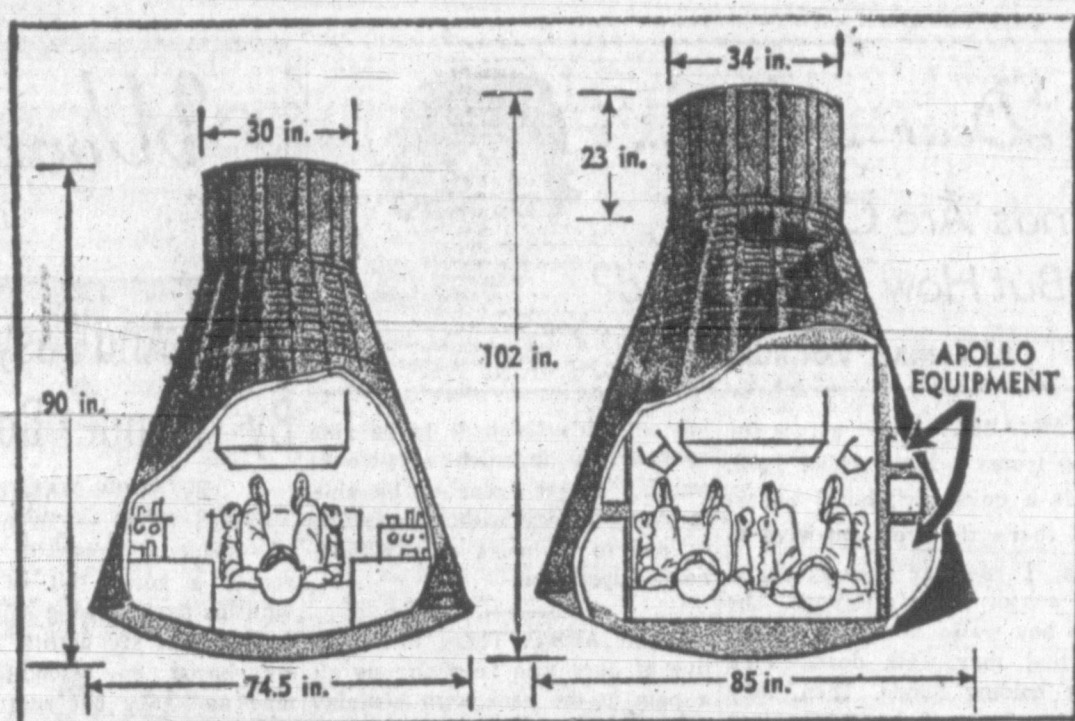

Purpose of the committee is to assist the Southwest Animal Health Research Foundation. The prime target, Chairman Rice said, is to eliminate the screwworm problem in Texas by using the same process as was used in Florida.

Two meetings have been scheduled to explain the program. The first meeting will be in the McLean High School Auditorium starting at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Feb. 5.

The second meeting will be held in the Conference Room of the Pampa Court House Annex (Agriculture Building) on Tuesday night, Feb. 6, starting at 7:30 p.m.

A 30-minute film showing how successful this program was in Florida will be shown. Efforts are being made to get a speaker from the Southwest Animal Health Research Foundation, according to Foster Whaley, Gray County agent.

PROVE THEIR WORTH
ATLANTA (UPI)—Police Chief Herbert T. Jenkins said today he will ask city aldermen to drop regulations prohibiting Negro policemen from arresting white offenders. Jenkins told Mayor Ivan Allen, who endorsed the suggestion, he felt Negro policemen had "proved their worth" during the 35 years the city has employed them.

NEXT AFTER MERCURY—While America's first manned space flight program, Project Mercury, is still in its opening stages, NASA planners are looking ahead to the next step. This will be a capsule similar to Mercury, as shown in drawing above. To be about 14 per cent larger than Mercury, it will carry two men—and thus has been unofficially dubbed Gemini, or "the twins." First of 18 flights is scheduled for 1963. The advanced Mercury is itself a step toward the three-man Apollo spacecraft, which will eventually take men around the moon and back, and will be used to test out Apollo components.

JOURNALS MERGE

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Two of the nation's oldest military service journals are merging, effective with the March 17 issue. The announcement was made Sunday night by the Army-Navy-Air Force Journal, founded in 1863, and the Army-Navy-Air Force Register, established in 1879. The new publication will be known as the Journal Register.

SHORT OF RECRUITS

NEW YORK (UPI) — "New York's Finest," the city police force, will still be New York's, but they might not be New Yorkers.

Police Commissioner Michael J. Murphy announced yesterday the city has gone on a coast-to-coast recruiting campaign to beef up the force.

Saved Show

Vienna's Spanish Riding School, world's foremost equestrian academy, might have disappeared forever in World War II's rubble had it not been for Gen. George S. Patton Jr., who enabled the school's director to round up and reorganize his scattered troupe. The breeding herd was rescued from Czechoslovakia.

City-Bred Cows Face Hard Time In Madrid

MADRID (UPI) — Jaime Pastor doesn't think a cow is any trouble in Madrid.

Pastor is the owner of one of about 150 cow "barns" in downtown Madrid.

"A cow doesn't bother anybody," Pastor says. "It doesn't bite. And it gives milk."

But the authorities don't see it that way. In a recent move to prevent adulteration of milk and to improve sanitary conditions, the city forced the cattlemen of downtown Madrid to stop selling unpasteurized milk.

And now one of the city's newspapers has begun an editorial campaign to get rid of the capital's cow population, which it calls "unsanitary."

Pastor, who owns six cows, is worried. He keeps his cows on the ground floor of an apartment building within three blocks of Madrid's newest skyscraper, the Torre de Madrid. Almost all of Madrid's cows are kept on the ground floor of apartment buildings.

Owners usually take their cows out for a stroll through city streets in the wee hours of the morning. It is the only exercise the cows get.

"The police won't let us walk them in the daytime," Pastor explained.

The city-bred cows don't know what a pasture looks like. They eat mostly hay, winter and summer, with an occasional cartload of green grass.

Health experts claim the quality of the urban cows' milk is poor. To make matters worse, the dilution of milk was so common here until last month's crackdown that Spain's foremost cartoonist, Mingote, pictured the keeper of a city cow barn shining up a water faucet, with the caption: "The milk has to be sanitary."

No official count has been made to determine how many cows dwell among the city's 2 million residents. A recent unofficial census put the number at about 1,000.

"Where do I go with my little cows, if they obligate me to leave Madrid?" Pastor asked.

There is no immediate answer to his question. He and his colleagues keep only from two to a dozen cows each, and they do not have the money to buy farms.

That Dictionary Argument Aint Finalized

By WAR CANNEL
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
NEW YORK (NEA) — Never mind Berlin, Laos, Cuba. First we've got to get this dictionary thing settled.

Ever since last June when a 13½-pound, 450,000-entry unbridged glossary of the American English language was published, a squabble has been building into a national debate that could shake our schools, courts, embassies and the happy harmony of family life.

The issue: Webster's Third New International Dictionary has dropped the traditional distinction of "colloquial" usage, thus throwing our vocabulary into the family room along with the instant coffee, plastic rugs and all the other appointments of modern, informal living.

Defending this move are the editors of the Merriam company standing firm in hand behind the five cannons of linguistics, to wit: language changes constantly; change is normal; spoken language is the language; correctness rests upon usage and all usage is relative.

as finalize, conlab, irregardless, aint, no-show, beatnik. But, say the critics, term them what they are — colloquialisms. And don't give them authority by citing their use by guitarists (Burl Ives), showmen (Billy Rose), outfielders (Ted Williams) and like that.

Dictionary Editor Philip Gove points out that research on usage has been going on since 1933 for this edition. The citations are representative of popular usage, not sudden innovations in meaning.

Fiddlesticks, points out one Pennsylvania newspaper editorial. "How can teachers instruct youngsters in good usage when such an authority says any usage is good? And if every man is allowed his own idiom, how will understanding survive?"

That the argument is real and burning can be seen in New York book shops. On publication of the new Third International edition, the 27-year-old Second dropped in price from $39 to nearly $10. Today, however, prices of the old Second are back up to standard — when you can find a copy.

At the crux of the problem of course, is the dictionary definition of a dictionary definition, a vital problem in a nation where some six dozen dictionaries are published yearly and on sale from supermarket to street corner.

Even before Samuel Johnson's famous dictionary of 1755, lexicographers have been pointing out that usage changes. But they have also been acting long-dead and respected authors as examples of correct definition.

And as most dictionaries are made with scissors and paste pot from other dictionaries, correct usage until now has remained fairly constant for the past several generations.

Then how does a word change its meaning?

Mostly because language is a human concoction and there's always somebody who doesn't get the word — or, more likely, only part of it. For example: This reporter's bride used to keep the house quiet on Sunday mornings by making sure the self-pronouncing dictionary was closed tight on Saturday night.

California Doesn't Exist, Iowa Outdoor Group Claims

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — West of Nevada and Arizona, and south of Oregon, there's a vast emptiness, according to the Iowa Outdoor Advertising Association.

Anyone who thinks that vacuum is occupied by the nation's second most populous state — a place known in mythology as "California" — probably believes in leprechauns, accepts the lost continent of Atlantis, sends money to "Spanish prisoners" and hunts unicorns, the association maintains.

In fact, the whole California legend "is the product of some clever fellow in Wyoming who owns a typewriter and a great sense of humor," the association advised Monday.

To expunge this hoax from the minds of Iowans, the association plans to plaster its state with billboards advising, "There is no California. Stay in Iowa."

The association claims, that Iowans in search of sunshine have been lured each winter into California by broadsides perpetrating the great untruth. Those who leave Iowa vanish into limbo and are never seen again in the Hawkeye State.

"We think the best defense is to deny the whole thing," an association spokesman said.

Brochures touting California are so high in "adjective count," the association said, it "finally realized such a place couldn't be real and that we'd better warn people."

California "should not be taken seriously, and we have our doubts about Florida, too," the association said.

Penney Manager To Attend Meet

R. M. Samples, manager of Penney's, will be in Colorado Springs, Colo., early in February for the company's 60th anniversary convention of store managers in its Mountain Zone.

Also attending the convention at the Broadmoor Hotel will be James Cash Penney, founder of the department store chain which bears his name, and other officers and personnel from the Company's Central Office in New York.

Samples will be one of 308 managers of Penney stores in the Mountain Zone at the convention. The zone includes Colorado, Idaho, Kansas, Montana, Utah, Wyoming and parts of Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, North and South Dakota and Texas.

'Year Of Tiger' Good Omen For Tigers' Airline

NEW YORK (UPI) — Robert W. Prescott, 48, once a fiercer under the late Gen. Claire Chennault, glanced at a Chinese calendar today and spotted what looked like a good omen.

On Feb. 5 begins a Chinese new year. It is identified as the "Year of the Tiger." Prescott heads the Flying Tiger air line, and the American-style new year already has brought him a victory in a campaign which has lasted more than 18 years.

Recently the Civil Aeronautics Board awarded the Flying Tiger line — named after the daredevil American volunteer group which flew for China and against the Japanese before the United States even entered World War II — a permanent certificate, replacing the succession of temporary ones under which the line had operated since its founding in 1945.

Prescott hailed the issuance as showing conclusively that the concept of air cargo flight in all-cargo aircraft by a company organized for that purpose alone now has become a permanent part of the American transportation picture.

In a statement released at the time the certificate was announced, Prescott admitted that it does not solve all the air line's problems. "But with the removal of the temporary limitation imposed upon us, we are fully confident that we can produce a financially successful business in the air transportation of property," he said.

He has pointed to his line's imminent introduction of a new Canadair forty-four swingtail air freighter as a big boost toward a real air cargo boom.

Tiger now operates six of them in charter and contract work for the Military Air Transport Service and will be the first line to put them into domestic air freight service. By the end of 1962 the line will have taken delivery on ten of the CL-44's, giving them a full fleet in operation on the domestic airfreight system.

Kin Of Slain Woman Writes Warning Book

CHICAGO (UPI) — A grandmother who turned detective; trapped the slayer of her sister-in-law and wrote a book about it has a word of advice for the lovers:

"If someone offers you flattery or things you're not entitled to by reason of your age or appearance, be suspicious."

Mrs. Eleanor Dabrohua, whose only daughter and her three children live in North Carolina, said that may explain what happened to her sister-in-law, Mrs. Pearl Putney.

Mrs. Putney, 73, was wooed by Larry Lord Motherwell, then only 41. Mrs. Dabrohua said she feels her sister-in-law was killed when she discovered she was being made the victim of a "con" game.

Mrs. Putney, whose husband was a State Department attaché until his death in 1929, was courted across the country by Motherwell, whom Mrs. Dabrohua described as a "boyish, disarming man with a steady income from females."

Oil Producers Urged To Join Imports Fight

AUSTIN (UPI)—James F. West, president of the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association yesterday called on all independent producers to join in a fight to get oil imports pegged on a percentage of domestic production.

West said TIPRO and the Independent Producers Association of America had agreed to push for such legislation.

He said the program would "first, reduce the current level of crude oil and non-residual products and second, provide that total oil imports in the future would grow only in specific percentage relationship to the growth of domestic production.

Such legislation, he said, would insure that imports do not absorb growth of the petroleum market while domestic production remains static.

Senate Finance Group Rejects Hearing Request

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate Finance Committee yesterday turned down a request that it conduct early hearings on President Kennedy's controversial plan to link medical care for the aged with the social security system.

The committee voted 9 to 7 to reject a motion by Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., that it hold public hearings no later than April 1, regardless of whether the House had acted on the issue by then.

The action, which had been expected, was seen as laying the groundwork for an attempt later to bypass the committee and bring the matter to the Senate floor as a rider to another bill.

Anderson, a committee member, is the chief Senate sponsor of the administration plan to finance medical benefits for the nation's elder citizens under social security.

Adonis Says He Is Not Taking Over Lucky's Job

MILAN, Italy (UPI)—Joe Adonis, a man familiar to U.S. police, denied Wednesday reports that he became the "heir apparent" to Lucky Luciano after the former New York vice czar dropped dead last Friday at Naples airport.

"Do you think that an underworld convention is underway in order to elect a new boss?" Adonis is asked this correspondent.

"Do you think of electoral speeches, a crime platform, corrupted lobbyists and behind-the-scene shoves after Lucky Luciano died?"

"There is no limit to press people's imagination. But as far as I am concerned, I am certainly not involved in anything. I am not Lucky Luciano's successor. I do not think that Lucky can have a successor."
