Episcopalians Vote Million-Dollar Fund For Church Expansion

Delegates to the annual Council meeting of the Episcopal Diocese of Northwest Texas voted yesterday to inaugurate a capital fund campaign for a million dollars in 1964.

The action was taken at the Council's business session following a luncheon in Coronado Inn. Money to be raised in the campaign will be used for loans and grants to help establish new churches and to provide facilities in existing churches in diocese.

The three-day diocesan meeting ends this morning at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, host for the Council's annual sessions, where the Rev. Canon C. Rankin Barnes, S.T.D., of New York City, will speak at a corporate worship service at 9 a.m. He will remain to

Russia May Lift Censorship Ban, Diplomats Think

LONDON (UPI) — Diplomatic sources said Saturday that the Soviet government may soon announce the lifting of censorship restrictions on foreign correspondents in Moscow.

Diplomatic advisers from Moscow said that abolition of such censorship has been under discussion in the Soviet capital for several months and an announcement may be expected shortly.

They said the expected announcement would enable foreign correspondents to transmit news and comment freely from the Soviet Union without having to submit their copy to censors beforehand.

The move would end a 43-year period during which, with only brief exceptions, censorship has been in effect in some form or another in the Soviet Union.

Observers said Soviet authorities apparently have decided that censorship does more harm than good. They said the Russians seem to have realized that censorship has become obsolete in the modern world and that Soviet interests would be better served by an unfettered flow of news from Russia.

Lifting of censorship, diplomatic observers said, would be another in a series of liberalizing reforms introduced by Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev since he came to power and would reflect his regime's growing sense of confidence.

Diplomatic sources believed that abolition of censorship would be followed up by other reforms to further facilitate efforts of foreign correspondents to report the news from Russia.

An end to censorship was expected to stimulate a large flow of news from Moscow and swell considerably the present resident corps of some 50 Western non-Communist news correspondents. Sixteen of the present correspondents are Americans.

Rotary District Meeting Set For Pampa Mar. 26

Plans are nearing completion for the Rotary district conference which will be held here from March 26 to 28, R. E. (Dick) Batson, president of the Rotary club of Pampa, announced today. Approximately 750 Rotarians, representing 43 Rotary clubs in this district, which covers West Texas and the Panhandle, are expected to attend the conference, he said.

Representing the president of Rotary International, J. Edd McLaughlin of Dallas, at the conference will be George Means of Evanston, Ill., executive secretary of Rotary International.

The purpose of the conference, President Batson explained, is to review the service work of the Rotary clubs in the district and to plan ways of increasing the effectiveness of their future activities.

Conference sessions will be held in the Coronado Inn. District Governor Bruce Pember, Slaton insurance agent, will preside.

According to the conference chairman, E. E. Shelhamer, the program also will include a talk by Dr. W. Ballentine Henley, nationally known educator and expert on city government. Mrs. Ed Williams is chairman of women's activities.

L. E. (Pat) Patterson of Midland, has been nominated to serve as governor of Rotary district 573 for the 1961-1962 fiscal year. He will take office on July 1, 1961, as the official representative of Rotary International, the world-wide organization of all Rotary clubs. The new governor will be formally elected, along with more than 200 other district governors representing some 10,700 Rotary clubs in 120 countries, at Rotary International's 1961 convention, which will be held in Tokyo, Japan, in May.

Today's Lenten Message
By MSGR. HERMAN CAZALAS
Our Lady of Sorrows Roman Catholic Church, Birmingham, Ala. (Written for UPI)

Red Blaik, great former Army coach, has authored a book about football. He called it "You Have to Pay the Price." From football to Lent is a long pass, but when the Apostles were arguing among themselves as to who would be the greater, Our Blessed Lord gave them the price that they would have to pay. He asked them: "Which of you can drink of the chalice of which I am about to drink? Which of you is willing to pay the price for greatness?"

Lent is the challenging time for Christians. Lent challenges the Christian and tells him "Now is the time — now is the day of salvation."

I cannot leave saving the world to others — I must save it myself. Here is the price: "If any man will come after Me, let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow Me."

Christ kept the first Lent. He fasted for 40 days and 40 nights. He could have found excuses to stop — He did not — just before He said the terrible price of Good Friday. He spent three hours in Gethsemane. He looked at the path He would take and there poured out of him real blood, sweat and tears. He arose totally dedicated to His Father, even unto death. There is no other way for the Christian, except total dedication.

Sooner State Looms As Top User Of Gas

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — Oklahoma will soon become the leading natural gas consuming state, according to a report by Tulsa's Oil and Gas Journal predicted Saturday.

The trade journal said gigantic new projects to move gas to California from Texas, Canada, Mexico and the Rocky Mountain states would make the state the world's greatest natural gas market.

When proposed gas lines are finished, the state will have delivered daily a total of 3.9 billion cubic feet of gas, worth $1.5 million. Cost of the proposed and existing lines and facilities may top $2.5 billion, the magazine said.

New projects will more than double the out-of-state supply of natural gas which will be moved in through 13,500 miles of lines.

Until a year ago, the single supplier to California was El Paso Natural Gas Co. Transwestern Pipeline Co., recently connected California with Texas gas fields.

This year a $34 million, 1,400-mile system from Canada to California will be completed opening the gate to reserves in central Alberta through Pacific Gas and Electric Co. lines.

Kennedy To Fight Attempt To Give UN Seat To China

WASHINGTON (UPI) — British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan is going to find the Kennedy administration considerably tougher on the issue of admitting Communist China to the United Nations than some pre-inaugural speculation indicated.

Kennedy and his State Department aides, it can be reported, are ready to fight to keep the U.N. from accepting Communist China's terms for membership — ouster of any independent Formosa delegation.

Furthermore, they believe that when the votes are counted next fall the majority will support the United States on this, even if Macmillan cannot be convinced.

Tax 'Show' In Austin May Prove Costly

By FLETCHER ROBERTSON
Daily News Austin Correspondent
AUSTIN — The biggest and by far the best show in town is put on by the Texas House of Representatives. The usual run-in Monday through Friday. It's a scream. However, there is some doubt whether it's worth the price taxpayers of Texas have to pay for the attraction. The figure runs pretty high.

The legislators always are in the big middle of a hassle and don't seem to be able to agree on many things, except maybe that something's got to be done about the situation. The situation, of course, is the tax problem and the big issue is who's going to have to pay and how much.

That was the big problem when the lawmakers assembled for the 57th session of the Legislature Jan. 10 and it still is. They don't seem to be any closer to a solution.

However, there was a notable exception last week when House members did agree on an issue with some degree of unanimity. The occasion was a resolution offered by Rep. Charles Ballman of Borger which called for the legislators to erase the $63 million deficit before tackling the problem of a broad-based tax to meet state expenses for the next biennium. Ballman is chairman of the Revenue and Taxation Committee.

There was a lot of debate for and against the resolution. However, they threw in the towel after they had been assured that a vote for the resolution would not commit them to support any tax measure that might come up on the floor.

Speaker James Turman announced from the chair that he would vote for the resolution "to show the House in complete unanimity."

However, the speaker spoke a little too soon that time. The vote was 148-1 and the unanimity wasn't quite complete. Rep. Tom James of Dallas voted no. His explanation was that the tax problem can't be solved by stop-gap measures. Instead, he argued, the House should take a broad look at the total cost of state government and go from there.

Purpose of the resolution probably was to get an expression of willingness on the part of sales tax supporters to consider "one-shot" measures to pick up the deficit before meeting the sales tax issue head-on.

However, nobody attached much significance to the vote, especially the sales tax group. They said it didn't mean a thing and the whole routine was a waste of time.

Gov. Price Daniel seemed pleased with the bipartisan support given the Ballman resolution. In one of his rare visits to the Capitol press room, the governor expressed the hope that "now may be something can be worked out by both sides of the House."

Cuban Firing Squad Ends Ex-Yank's Life

Kennedy Eliminates 17 Agency Groups

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy issued a "streamlining directive" Saturday eliminating 17 interdepartmental committees in an effort to clarify and pinpoint official responsibilities.

The action, affecting more than one-third of the inter-agency groups with which the White House is directly concerned, takes effect immediately, with work of the committees being assigned to specific cabinet level officials.

Kennedy at the same time directed department heads to end or merge as many of the administrative and technical committees under their respective jurisdictions as they can possibly do without.

"The President's action was taken to clarify and pinpoint executive responsibility and consolidate governmental duties in a number of important areas," the White House said.

The committees ranged from the Presidential Advisory Committee on Water Resources Policy to the Cabinet Committee on Price Stability and Economic Growth.

In other actions Saturday, Kennedy also:

- Named William McCormick Blair Jr., of Chicago, a law partner and close personal associate of Adlai E. Stevenson, as U.S. ambassador to Denmark.
- Announced his intention to appoint Mrs. Marie C. McGuire, of San Antonio, Texas, as public housing commissioner.
- Conferred on undisclosed matters with Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and McGeorge Bundy, the President's special assistant for national security affairs.
- Received a farewell call from Arthur Dean, chief U.S. negotiator at the talks which will resume March 21 at Geneva on a nuclear test ban.
- Had a formal visit from his seven-year-old nephew, Bobby Kennedy Jr., who gave him a gift of a seven-inch salamander named Shadrach.
- White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said the 17 committees were not being abolished for economy reasons but that the move would save the government $301,375. He said this would include $237,000 which had formerly been budgeted, plus $64,375 in estimated salaries for staff assistants.

Soldier Of Fortune, Once Hailed As Hero, Shot As Castro Enemy

HAVANA (UPI) — Major William A. Morgan, 34-year-old soldier of fortune from Toledo, Ohio, was shot by a Cuban firing squad Saturday night.

The former American who forfeited his U.S. citizenship fighting for Prime Minister Fidel Castro during the revolution was executed shortly after 9 p. m. CST.

Major Jesus Carrera, this former military aide, also was executed.

The executions were carried out in grim La Cabaña Fortress prison where Morgan had been held prisoner since his arrest last October on charges of helping Castro's enemies.

Morgan was the fourth American to die before a Castro firing squad since last September.

Whether by whim of Cuban military officials or in response to his request to be shot immediately after his appeal for clemency was rejected, the blonde adventurer got his last request.

He told his jailers that "it would be cruelty" to keep him waiting until dawn to die.

Morgan and Carrera, companions in arms during the revolution, faced the firing squad with the same calm that characterized Morgan's behavior throughout his trial last Thursday and Friday.

They died against the same ancient walls of the Spanish built fortress overlooking the entrance to Havana Harbor where hundreds of other convicted Castro enemies have died since he came to power more than two years ago.

Floodlights illuminated the execution area.

Morgan had asked to talk with Castro before going to his death. But the Cuban leader was a scheduled guest at a reception given by the Chinese Communist embassy here.

He also made requests to be (See CUBAN, page 3)

Negroes March On N.O. Court

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — About 100 song-singing, praying Negroes marched on city hall and the Louisiana Supreme Court building Saturday in protest to racial discrimination.

No incidents marred the demonstration, which followed a four-front picket movement in front of a grocery store and three five and dime stores.

The Negroes, with only a few white colleagues in the group, are members of Congress of Racial Equality and the New Orleans Consumers' League.

It was the largest demonstration the city has seen since several thousand whites tried to storm the New Orleans public school offices last November just after two city schools were desegregated. Fire hoses were used then to break up the demonstrators.

Leaders of the equality movement read a resolution in front of the city hall and court building Saturday. It condemned new state laws which makes picketing illegal for groups other than labor unions.

It said the Consumers' League and CORE petitioned Mayor Chep Morrison, and Gov. Jimmie Davis to refrain from "violating the civil rights of citizens of Louisiana."

Witness Asserts Judge Blurted Out Admission To Murder Role

FORT PIERCE, Fla. (UPI) — A bail bondsman friend of Joseph A. Peel Jr. testified at Peel's murder trial Saturday the former West Palm Beach city judge nervously blurted out an admission he "did the job" on Circuit Judge C. E. Chillingworth.

The handsome, dark-haired Peel, 37, is on trial for his life in St. Lucie County Circuit Court, charged with ordering the 1955 drownings of Judge Chillingworth and his wife, Marjorie.

The bondsman, P. O. Wilber, made the decision known, the Journal said.

"If Mr. Salinger's objective was to capture headlines, he succeeded. He also succeeded in pushing Secretary McNamara completely out of the picture."

The unofficial service publication said Salinger did nothing to safeguard the prestige of Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Gen. Lauris Norstad, commander-in-chief for Europe, "who happened to have been involved in the necessary paper work leading to Pentagon approval of the officers' club project."

White House Ban On Service Club Declared Prestige Blow

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A military service journal aimed barbs at the White House Saturday and asked Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara to stop "what appears to be the start of an open season" on the prestige of military officers.

Citing a recent White House announcement that President Kennedy had disapproved a $200,000 addition to the European Command officers' club near Paris, the Army-Navy-Air Force Journal said this tended to undermine the prestige of the highest ranking of officers at home and abroad.

"There is no question that President Kennedy has complete authority to stop such a project, but there is much room to question the manner in which White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger

Seven-Mile Strip Of Sandy Marsh Is America's Smallest Spaceport

By JOSEPH L. MYLER

WALLOPS ISLAND, Va. (UPI)—This seven-mile strip of salt marsh and sand in the ocean beside Virginia's eastern shore is America's oldest and tiniest spaceport.

In some respects it may also be the most important. If the Mercury astronauts survive their ventures into space unharmed, they will owe much to crucial tests made here of the Mercury capsule and its escape and recovery systems.

The Wallops-Island rocket range is part of the Wallops station of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA). The station was enlarged in 1959 to include the former Chincoteague Naval Air Station on the adjacent mainland. All rocket firing, however, is done from the island.

The nation's other spaceports are Cape Canaveral, Fla., on the Atlantic missile range and the complex of launching sites in California on the Pacific missile range.

Wallops compares with these two giants in size as does a penny firecracker with a couple of Atlas intercontinental ballistic missiles. It has none of their military bearing and general awesomeness. In addition to being the country's smallest rocket station, it is by far the most informal.

On days when a publicized shot is scheduled, oystermen and storekeepers and women with children from the nearby island town of Chincoteague may be among the watchers on Wallops Beach.

Wallops has been a flight test center since 1945 when it was acquired by the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, since incorporated into NASA.

Before that it was a windy strip of desolation admired only by big-city duck hunters. Back in the 17th Century it was the property of a colonial named John Wallop, descendant of an English earl.

Since 1945 the Wallops station has launched more than 4,000 research rockets of one to six stages to get scientific information on flight characteristics of hypersonic airplanes, missiles, and spacecraft.

Wallops research rockets, also have gleaned much information about upper atmospheric winds and air densities and about the ionosphere and close-in space radiations.

Two years ago the station had only a little over 100 employees. Its facilities consisted mainly of a new wind tunnel, a couple of smallish radars, and a control center which looked from a distance like a farm outbuilding.

But Wallops' meager equipment was good and its scientists were talented and dedicated. Research data acquired by the station has played an indispensable role in U.S. aeronautical and missile development.

Even before NASA took over, the island was one of the world's busiest rocket stations. Firings ran 100 to 300 a year. On shot days everybody had to pitch in. The janitor helped to operate tracking equipment.

On non-firing days, scientists with Ph. D. degrees often manned shovels or other tools to get construction or repair jobs finished in time for a shot.

NASA ordered a $24 million expansion. A new highway and a $1.5 million causeway have eliminated a 45-minute ferry ride.

Wallops now has pads and towers for launching the Scout, first all solid fuel rocket, capable of putting a satellite in orbit; the mighty Little Joe, a rocket specially designed to fly tests of the Mercury capsule; and the Aero-bee-Hi high altitude research rocket. The station also possesses an honest-to-goodness blockhouse like those at Cape Canaveral and a giant new radar with a 1,000-mile range.

Wallops has nearly 300 workers. This is about triple the Wallops total of early 1959, but is hardly comparable to the scores of thousands at the Atlantic and Pacific missile ranges.

The first of six Little Joes was launched in 1959. Two Rhesus monkeys, Sam and Miss Sam, have leaped into the sky on top of Little Joes to find out if the Mercury capsule's escape system worked. It did.

The Scout launched Wallops' first satellite, a 15-pound, 12-foot polka dot sphere, on Feb. 16. This four-stage rocket will be NASA's workhorse of the future for putting small scientific satellites in orbit. Engineers hope to get its cost down from about $1 million per launch to $750,000. An Atlas satellite launch at the Cape costs around $4 million.

Wallops is about 130 air miles from Washington, D.C. To get there by automobile you pass such places as Temperanceville, Modest Town, Assawoman-Creek. Just north of Wallops is Assateague where roan wild ponies descended from horses aboard a Spanish galleon which was wrecked off the island in the 16th Century.

On the last Wednesday of July each year some of the ponies are herded across a narrow channel to Chincoteague Island and are auctioned to support the volunteer fire department. At Chincoteague you may feast on what some gourmets consider the finest oysters in the world.

Wallops has gained much as it came up in the space world. But it also has lost something — one of the longest names in the history of flight. It used to be known as: "The Pilotless Aircraft Research Division of the Langley Aeronautics Laboratory of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics."

NEW YORK (UPI) — Photogrammetry is one of the many new words in our growing technical language.

It means mapping from aerial photos, a process being used more every day to speed solutions in determining vital boundaries.

Homeowners know of the hassles that can arise over the location of a line between their lot and a neighbor's.

But emotions wax even hotter when it comes to disputes over boundaries of lands containing valuable mineral deposits.

A real donnybrook was staged by various states and the federal government over the oil-rich submerged lands off the California coast and the shores of the Gulf of Mexico.

This two-decade battle is settled as to ownership, but not as to an exact determination of the normal low water mark along coastal areas; for that is where state ownership begins.

Exact location of this mark once was determined by survey parties which slogged along beaches, mud flats and marshlands to determine where to place markers and obtain information for official maps.

This took years to accomplish, but the same job now can be done more accurately in a matter of months, according to Ford Bartlett, president of the New York engineering firm of Lockwood, Kessler & Bartlett, Inc. All it takes, he said, is an aerial photographic survey and the translation of the photos into maps.

Last June the Supreme Court upheld congressional action giving the states title to submerged lands lying three nautical miles (3.45 land miles) seaward from the low water mark.

It went further in the case of Texas and Florida, ruling they were entitled to the submerged land extending 10.5 land miles seaward because, before admission to the union, they had claimed sovereignty to marginal seas extending that far.

The court made no decisions on location of the lines from which such disputes arise over the lines.

Communism Foe Speaks March 30 At Freedom Rally

Dean Clarence E. Manion, former head of the Notre Dame law school, will be in Amarillo on March 30 to speak at a noon luncheon at the Crossroads Restaurant. That evening, Manion will speak at a patriotic rally at 8 o'clock in the municipal auditorium.

Manion, a conservative Democrat, has been an outspoken opponent of socialism and communism for many years. He has authored several books, the most notable being "The Key To Peace" and his most recent, "Men Of Principle."

The topic of Manion's evening talk is "Freedom Begins With You." The program is being sponsored by the Panhandle Texans for Constitutional Government, a non-partisan voluntary association of those dedicated to Constitutional government.

The resolution branded the laws "unfair and unconstitutional."

The demonstrators prayed and sang such hymns as "Before I'd be a Slave, I'd be Buried in my Grave" and "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

They then marched through the business district by the five and dime stores where CORE members had picketed earlier in the day.

Mr. Cockrell was pronounced dead on arrival in Highland General Hospital at 12:45 yesterday morning.

He was born Jan. 29, 1889 in Jefferson County, Kan. and in 1916 was married to Jessie Shaw in Ebb County, Mo.

The moved from Durham, Okla. to Pampa in 1926. Mr. Cockrell was a retired pipe-fitter and had been employed by Danciger Refining Co. and the Magnolia Petroleum Co.

Survivors are his wife, Jessie of the home; five sons, Floyd and Wayne, both of Pampa, Leonard of Farmington, N.M., Ensel and Derrell, both of Odessa; 14 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren; one sister, Mrs. Warren Selby of Redford, Okla.

Interment will be in Fairview Cemetery.

Cabot Workers Give Blood For Leukemia Victim

Fellow workers of Lynn Myers, employe of the Cabot Corp. fabricating department, donated 15 pints of blood Friday for Myers' three-year-old son, a leukemia victim in Baylor hospital, Dallas.

The group of 15 men went to Amarillo Friday and gave the blood to replace plasma being given to the Pampa boy at the hospital.

The Myers' boy was flown to Dallas several days ago in a Cabot Corp. plane. Cabot employes also have contributed $500 to help cover expenses for the Myers family while in Dallas.

Blood donated by the group Friday was shipped yesterday to the Dallas Blood Bank.

"That man, I'm telling you, I've never seen him so frightened. He was standing like a little boy who had to go," Wilber said.

He said he asked Peel why he "did the job" on Judge Chillingworth.

Peel exploded the retort, Wilber said, that "it was either that or myself."

Churchwomen of Episcopal Diocese Convene For Third Annual Meeting

The third annual meeting of the House of Churchwomen of the Episcopal Diocese of Northwest Texas convened in St. Matthews Episcopal parish house yesterday morning with Mrs. Tom Porter of Sweetwater as the presiding officer.

Mrs. C. R. Howard of Pampa extended a welcome to delegates and guests with response given by Mrs. J. C. Turner of Plainview. During the morning session, Mrs. Ben Brewer of Lubbock gave a talk illustrated with colored slides of the National Cathedral of Washington, D.C.

Included in the morning agenda was the election of the following officers, Mrs. Louis Pittman of Amarillo, vice president; Mrs. Kenneth Henry of Vernon, Christian Education secretary; Mrs. A. T. Barrett of Midland, United Thank Offering secretary; Mrs. William Deaderick of Odessa, parliamentarian.

Named as delegates to the Triennial meeting in Detroit to be held Sept. 17-29 of this year were Mrs. Davis Scarborough of Abilene, Mrs. Sidney Orton of Midland.

To conclude the morning session, Mrs. Lee Soucy of Plainview presented an illustrated talk on the Girls' Friendly Society.

The group reconvened for luncheon in Robert E. Lee Junior High School, where the Rt. Rev. George Quarterman, Bishop of the Diocese of Northwest Texas, addressed the group.

At the afternoon meeting, held in the Parish house, Edward Weber of Amarillo spoke on public relations and promotions.

Approximately 225 women from the Northwest Texas Diocese attended the all-day meeting.

1962 convention in San Angelo, May 4, 5, and 6.

Upon petition, St. Peter's Church in Amarillo was advanced from a mission to a parish church. St. Mark's in Abilene, which had been a parochial mission of the Heavenly Rest was advanced to a diocesan mission.

St. Luke's in Levelland which had been a preaching station, became a diocesan mission.

The Council voted to celebrate the occasion Dec. 3 this year when Bishop Quarterman will observe the 15th anniversary of his consecration. Ed Weber of St. Peter's Church in Amarillo, chairman of the diocese's department of promotion, will be in charge of arrangements.

The Council passed a resolution thanking the Rev. William E. West, rector of Pampa St. Matthews, and members of the parish for outstanding performance in handling preparations for the Council's annual meet.

At the conclusion of the business session yesterday election of diocesan officers and naming of committees included the following:

Rev. Charles Pederman of Vernon, secretary; Rev. James A. Moeck of Amarillo, registrar, and Fancher Upshaw Sr. of Amarillo, treasurer.

Upshaw was honored at last night's banquet for 30 consecutive years as treasurer of the Northwest Texas Diocese. He was presented with a plaque.

Tax Delay No 'Haven'

There appears to be a rather well thought attack leveled at United States business firms which have branch operations in one or more foreign countries. A few columnists and an occasional publication of national scope have plunged into this field of inquiry to castigate various American firms, some by name and sometimes by inference, charging them with being disloyal for operating beyond the confines of the good old U.S.A.

Since Mr. Kennedy has picked up the reins, news has bubbled up out of Washington with the persistence of lava in an active volcano that some kind of "tax crackdown" is in the making to "plug" certain "tax loopholes" which were being enjoyed by these same business firms in their overseas operations.

It is, perhaps, time to point out a few homely facts before the hounds in full scent go baying after their quarry. U.S. News and World Report, which to our dismay has moved rather closely toward the line of the Kennedy camp since his election, came out on February 20th of this year with a grossly misleading article on this subject which must bear the brunt of sharp disagreement.

According to this article there are a number of U.S. concerns which operate through subsidiaries across the water which are able to escape the U.S. income taxes and thus, after paying the comparatively meager taxes of the country they are in, are able to keep something close to 70 or 80 cents out of each dollar of profit.

Would that this were so. We would see nothing wrong with it. Indeed, we would argue that they should be able to keep 100 cents out of every dollar of profit, or at least that they should dispose of 100 cents of every dollar of profit according to their own sound business judgment. But the facts do not bear out this allegation.

The fact is that American firms, sooner or later, are in the process of "repatriating" those funds. And whenever the money earned overseas comes back to the parent company, it is taxed at the full rate, which is usually 52 per cent. This is the maximum rate paid by most corporations.

Additionally, it should be noted that there is a constant pressure from stockholders and investors with these firms to repatriate foreign earnings. Hence, these firms, instead of existing without paying taxes, are indeed paying as many taxes as they would pay were the operations conducted state-side.

Indeed, it would be even more accurate to point out that foreign operations, instead of depriving the Internal Revenue Service of taxes, has tended to increase the amount of taxes thus collected. Foreign earnings in most instances are earnings which would never accrue anywhere but in the land where the earnings are earned.

Hence, the investment of American capital overseas is paying huge dividends to the American treasury department. It is true, of course, that foreign operations may DELAY the payment of taxes. For until the sums earned are repatriated, they remain untaxed. But a delay, especially one which increases earnings, is scarcely in the same category with a "tax loophole" or with a "tax evasion" scheme.

The alleged "tax haven" found by American firms in foreign places is, we suspect, largely a matter of wishful thinking. We wish we knew how to find such a haven and we are convinced others have the same wish. We are of the school which holds that the firm which produces profits should be able to keep its profits or distribute them for new research, new development, and as dividends to stockholders. It is really too bad there aren't some bona fide tax havens in operation. For an American firm actually to find sanctuary for its funds in some other land, it would actually have to stop being American and become alienated. Thus far, this has not happened in any but a sprinkling of instances, and so far as we know, it has never happened with a major concern.

Moves which are being considered to compel repatriation or even funds. And whenever the money will be destructive of another segment of our economy.

Italy Tops Mexico On Those Fiestas

SORRENTO, ITALY — When I lived in Cuernavaca a few years back, I would have bet my bottom sombrero and my last tortilla that Mexico led the world in the number of fiestas per year.

It seemed to me that there were few hours of the day or night when someone wasn't shooting off firecrackers and people weren't traipsing about in outlandish costumes.

Italy's got Mexico beat, though — and by a pretty wide margin, too. It is possible, by picking one's time, to travel for a day in Mexico without passing through a town or city or hamlet where a fiesta is in progress.

Not so in Italy. If one town isn't whooping it up another is, and all town walls are plastered with announcements of celebrations that have just ended or are just around the corner. Italy's celebrations are bigger than Mexico's. In Mexico, part of the population can't be bothered with joining parades, blowing horns, lighting firecrackers, dressing up or marching about. They're either too busy or too tired.

Nothing could keep an Italian from joining in a festival. He'd break chains to be a part of one. They're as much a part of his life as his pasta and vino, and he gets excited over the thought of one as if a festival was a once-a-year treat.

There was one going on in Sorrento when we arrived, naturally. The little square was packed with men, women, and children, all dressed to represent anything you might name.

The carriage horses were be decked, and so were the burros. The streets were hung with banners and lanterns, the statue of St. Antonio could barely be seen for the flowers and wreaths, and a procession was doing its best to wend its way through the narrow, crooked streets. The tiny band was brassing it up and, when the little streamers came in from Naples and Capri, they saluted the festival with their whistles.

Pastry shops did a bustling business, as did the vendors of confetti and streamers, and a seat at a sidewalk table wasn't to be had for love or money.

This was just the scene that had greeted me on my first visit to Sorrento years ago, and the same that met my eye when I was in Sorrento a few weeks ago.

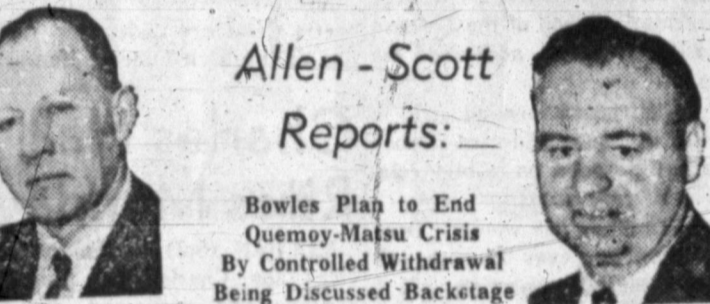

Was it a perpetual festival? Was whooping it up the business of the town? No, there are several days a month when nothing of a festival nature goes on. But right now, with no tourists to cater to, the citizens make merry.

All towns in Italy, right down to those which are barely wide spots in the road, have patron saints, and festivals in their honor go on all the time. To these days must be added the pre-Lenten carnivals, the national holidays, of which there are a passel, the harvest celebrations, and some which I am sure are just made up on the spur of the moment to fill any gaps.

The carnivals, especially in a small town like Sorrento, are great fun. The foreigners are welcome to take a big part. I have just finished marching around the square with the band. This was my daughter Megan's idea. We fell in right behind the bass drummer and made half a dozen turns, throwing confetti as we marched.

Tonight, if she stays awake, we will march in a torchlight procession. It's a tradition, and it's fun. It's a tradition, and it's fun. It's a tradition, and it's fun.

Allen - Scott Reports: Bowles Plan to End Quemoy-Matsu Crisis By Controlled Withdrawal Being Discussed - Backstage

WASHINGTON — The Kennedy Administration is undertaking to solve the long-sputtering Quemoy-Matsu problem that precipitated one of the hottest clashes in last year's presidential race.

Secretary Dean Rusk will lay the proposed solution before the foreign ministers of the Southeast Treaty Organization (SEATO) and Ambassador Averell Harriman has already done that in his series of discussions with leading NATO authorities.

Under this backstage plan, the U.S. and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek would enter into a new agreement calling for the following: —Nationalist forces on Quemoy and Matsu would be slowly withdrawn over a definite period of time, probably two years. At the end of this voluntary "phase-out," the two heavily-fortified Nationalist strongholds, a few miles off the Chinese mainland, would in effect be abandoned to the Communists.

In return for this withdrawal from Quemoy and Matsu, the U.S. would make three new commitments to Chiang: (1) To renew the Eisenhower Administration's pledge to defend Formosa and the nearby Pescadores Islands against Communist attack; (2) To expand military aid to the Nationalists, particularly much-desired latest-model weapons and planes; (3) To actively seek SEATO, NATO and United Nations backing for the security of Formosa and the Pescadores.

Principal author of this far-reaching proposal is Undersecretary of State Chester Bowles, "one-time Ambassador to India. Foremost among those under consideration to submit this matter to Chiang Kai-shek is U. Alexis Johnson, a career diplomat recently appointed Assistant Secretary for Far Eastern Affairs. As Ambassador to Belgrade, he negotiated for more than three years with Red China for the release of U.S. prisoners.

During those protracted negotiations, which are now being continued by Ambassador Jacob Beam in Warsaw, the U.S. urged Red China to "renounce the use of force in the Formosa area." The Communists have consistently refused to agree to that.

THE SAME BUT DIFFERENT — In discussing this Quemoy-Matsu plan with congressional leaders, Secretary Rusk has stressed one key difference from Eisenhower Administration policy. For some five years the latter sought a cease-fire in the Formosa Strait, Red China flatly balked at that. The Kennedy Administration is discarding this demand on the ground it is "meaningless"; that even if the Communists acquiesced, there is no way short of war to enforce it.

Instead, it is now proposed to impose what amounts to a cease-fire by pledging to Formosa the military support of the U.S. and its NATO, SEATO and other allies. Under these circumstances, plus newer and more weapons for the Nationalists, the retention of Quemoy and Matsu as heavily-fortified bastions would no longer be important for the effective defense of Formosa and the Pescadores.

It's Up To You

by HOWARD KERSHNER L. H. D.

How Would YOU Like To Be Treated?

"Therefore all things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them..." Matthew 7:12

What do we want others to do to us? If we can get a clear picture of the way we would like to be treated by our fellows and the action on their part that would be most beneficial and acceptable to us, we shall gain a better understanding of how we should treat them.

First, I think, we would like for other people to be honest, to tell the truth, and to be fair, just and generous. When we make mistakes, we hope they will be merciful to us and give us an opportunity to do better the next time. If we suffer misfortune and are in need, we hope they will be charitable and help us re-establish ourselves.

We hope others will act with dignity and integrity. We hope they will respect us and our families. We would like to feel that our wives and children will be safe when moving about in their communities, that they will be treated with respect and not beaten, robbed or molested.

We would like to feel that our fellows will not take advantage of our mistakes, our weaknesses, or our gullibility to cheat, rob or exploit us. We want to feel that they are truly worthy and entitled to our confidence. We want to relax and enjoy life without danger of being maligned, smeared or too severely and unjustly criticized.

We hope our fellow citizens will take an interest in building churches, schools, libraries, orchestras, operas, art galleries, and other means of spreading culture and high ideals throughout the community.

In addition, to such moral and spiritual qualities, we have many other high hopes for our fellows. We hope they will work hard and produce an abundance of goods so that we may enjoy automobiles, radios, bicycles, refrigerators, beautiful rugs, comfortable beds, safe transportation facilities, and many other things that make life comfortable, convenient and efficient.

We hope some of our fellows will study hard to become scholars, teachers, ministers, scientists, and skilled purveyors of the many kinds of services which add so greatly to satisfactory living.

To make this increased wealth possible, we hope our fellow citizens will save diligently in order that adequate capital may be accumulated to build the railroads, steamships, factories, assembly lines, and other equipment so essential for the creation of needed wealth. We hope many of our fellow citizens will be brave, risk-taking entrepreneurs, who will launch out on venturesome enterprises, and manage them efficiently and well so that the stream of consumption goods may increase in quantity and variety as time goes on.

Obviously, we expect much of our fellows. If we really believe the Golden Rule, we shall strive diligently, faithfully, and continuously to render unto them the same kind of services that we would like to receive from them. We shall strive to uphold the spiritual ideals and to observe the moral principles which we so much appreciate in others. We shall strive to be kind, generous in our behavior toward them and to tell the truth and be courteous and fair at all times. We shall treat others with the respect and consideration which we our selves like to receive. The wives and daughters of other men shall be just as safe and as much respected as we hope our own will be.

Furthermore, we ourselves will save diligently for capital accumulation, and we shall give ourselves earnestly to make the biggest contribution within our power towards supplying better services and more wealth to the members of the community. We shall strive to found businesses and to conduct them successfully so that we may contribute to the stream of goods and services which are so useful to all of us. We shall endeavor, as we hope others will, to earn substantial profits in order that the capital equipment of our country may be increased and so make possible higher standards of living and more opportunity for cultural and spiritual progress.

The free market economy is the highest and most successful form of cooperation that men have ever achieved in their efforts to minister to the welfare of one another. When we add to this the sense of

Pegler Says:

Disney's 'Fantasia' Gave Him First Appreciation

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The best moving pictures ever made were Walt Disney's fairy tales in color, such as "Barnyard Symphony," "The Country Mouse," and "Snow White" in which countless drawings were strung together so smoothly that these graduations seemed to be photographs of actual creatures from out of this world. The music was consistent as in "Barnyard Symphony" where horses whickered and fowl expressed themselves in caekles and clucks of superb absurdity, all of it loyal to an operatic theme.

There came a week, just before Christmas a quarter of a century ago, when someone barely dusted out the new Amsterdam theatre on 42nd street, the scene of the great Ziegfeld Follies, and installed half a dozen spoils of this great American art, a form which no other people on earth has ever approached and no other genius but Disney had the gift and patience to create. I was then slave to a young friend now six feet two and nudging 30 who wanted to see Santa Claus not only at Macy's but at Gimbel's and Wamapacker's and on all the corners thereafter. I did my duty loyally until 4 o'clock when lights were coming on, and reminded him that he had promised, on his part, to sit through my kind of show. He trudged along in slush often lost in a wilderness of hurrying trouser legs and skirts and up the stairs to a second balcony, for the festival had captivated many others who may have had a faint intimation that this might be their last hour of such beauty on this more and more evil earth.

I remember with longing a scene in which the country mouse fell into a champagne glass at a great table after the party and drank his way out, emerging so belligerent that he bled through a challenge to his own dancing image reflected in a tremulous mold of jelly. The masters drew and painted that scene in the drunken vision of a hilarious little giant who squared off to fight through adventures which I will not attempt to relate further lest memory betray me. I want to believe the country mouse licked the resident cat, but the actual, ensuing probably were much more poetic.

Disney was not yet fully appreciated as he came to be, not with "Snow White," his first great full-length production, but later, with an unworthy incoherence from the floor of his cutting room called "Fantasia." Disney then got into the hands of the condescending patrons who had seen the Moscow ballet, and went away.

I sat through the whole program at the new Amsterdam with a twinge for Marilyn Miller, who had sung "Silver Lining" on that stage, and was longing indescribably to see it all again when my young friend reminded me that they were expecting us home up the country. One year I hurt my spine playing softball for a fund for crippled moral responsibility for the welfare of each other and confine our efforts in profit-seeking to the making of such goods and the rendering of such services as are beneficial to our fellows, we have reached the highest plane on which men can operate in the business world. We have reached what we believe may properly be called—"Christian economics."

Neutral Switzerland Now World Center For Cloak And Dagger

By PETER UEBERSAX

ZURICH (UPI) — One of the confusing facts of the modern world is that peaceful little Switzerland should be one of the busiest focal points of Communist espionage.

In the past nine months, Swiss police have announced the cracking of five separate spy rings, all directed from the East.

The government has expelled diplomats from Russia, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia for spying. Court authorities are preparing trials for those not covered by diplomatic immunity. Not known is the number of spies who may have escaped or haven't been caught and are still busy plying their trade.

Switzerland always has been a favored ground for international spies. It was so during two World Wars when it was a safe island in the heart of a flaming Europe, and it has been in peacetime. It is easy for spies to hide in the big flood of diplomats and tourists and use the country as an operating base ideally located in the heart of Western Europe.

But, Swiss officials say, two factors recently have turned the attention of spies to Switzerland itself, and resulted in even greater espionage activity.

—Swiss industry, with a high-precision tradition that goes back to its first watch-makers, recently has made some remarkable and still top-secret advances in a field where it has always been up front in perfecting some of the most highly complicated instruments used in modern warfare.

—With the improvement of NATO's defenses and early warning lines in Western Europe, the Communists have become increasingly interested in the "neutral belt" of Switzerland and Austria that cuts across NATO's lines in the center of Europe.

From the Czech border in the east to the borders of Burgundy in the west stretch 500 miles of neutral air space. They seem an inviting channel for an airborne sneak attack — if the attacker knew the exact strength and location of whatever air warning and defense schemes a potential opponent may have set up.

This is why terse and uninformative government communiques on new arrests have referred to "secrets of rocket and radar systems and air surveillance" which, they said, the spies were after.

One of the top Swiss secrets is the electronic Fledermaus guidance and fire direction system for anti-aircraft gun and rocket batteries. It has been developed and is constantly being perfected — by the Zurich company Contraves A.G., a subsidiary of the famed Buehler-Armaments Works in Oerlikon which produced some of the most efficient anti-aircraft equipment of World War II.

The Fledermaus system has been supplied in considerable quantities to NATO powers. This is why several of the arrested spies face charges of "intelligence activities to the detriment of both Switzerland and foreign powers," as it was phrased in a recent government statement. Peacetime spying in Switzerland is punishable by heavy jail terms, whether directed against Switzerland or a foreign power.

Another top secret is the Contraves-Oerlikon RSD-58 anti-aircraft rocket reported to have hit targets with great accuracy at 65,000 feet above the ground.

The rocket has been tested by NATO on ranges in Sardinia, and if it was supplied in sizable quantities to Swiss forces, it could at least partly plug the hole in NATO's shield.

Another plug for the hole will be a first group of 100 French-designed mach-2 Mirage fighters which the government has proposed be built in Switzerland. On the ground, Switzerland can muster a militia army of more than 500,000 men in wartime.

Officials say that part of increased Red espionage activity also is centered on the mobilization plans of the army and a reform plan aimed at modernizing the whole force at an expense of more than $1 billion dollars over the next four years.

Security officials ridicule reports published in foreign newspapers that Red agents have an easy time of it, spying on Switzerland's secrets because this country is so small and peaceful, its citizen-soldiers talkative and its authorities afraid to violate Swiss neutrality principles by getting tough with foreign spies.

"The contrary is true," a senior official said.

Judging by the pained reactions of Russia and Czechoslovakia (Czechoslovakia, Swiss officials say, is the East bloc country designated under the Warsaw Pact to "take care of Switzerland") to the arrests of their diplomats, and the tough tone employed by the Swiss government in recent protest notes to Moscow and Prague, he appears to be right.

Another impressive argument is the record of spy arrests made by Swiss police in past months:

May 10, 1960 — Soviet diplomats Nicolay Modine and Boris Frolov arrested as they turned up in Zurich allegedly for a rendezvous with an agent who had promised them plans of Swiss radar installations, military organization and rocket bases.

Aug. 20, 1960 — Yugoslav diplomat S. Zlatkovic expelled for spying.

Oct. 7, 1960 — Soviet diplomat Vladimir Kourkourine expelled for allegedly trying to gather information on the Swiss armaments industry while disguised as a representative of an organization booking Russian movies in western theaters.

Jan. 20, 1961 — Arrest of three Czech agents — two of them carrying diplomat passports, which the Swiss government said were issued to them merely to cover up their spy activities — in Zurich in a case that is still shrouded in mystery.

Feb. 7, 1961 — Arrest of two Swiss citizens accused of spying on military production systems and "air surveillance."

U.S. Forces Will Stay In Berlin

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk said yesterday that U.S. forces will remain in Berlin indefinitely and that the world must understand that the American government is determined to protect the city and its inhabitants.

Rusk indicated that U.S. forces might be pulled out when there is a general settlement of the problem of a divided Germany. But he declined to commit himself specifically on this point.

He was unwilling at this point to make any guess whatsoever as to when U.S. and Allied forces in the Red-encircled city, numbering about 11,000, might be reduced or removed.

Former President Eisenhower had proposed a token reduction of Allied forces in the city pending final settlement of the German problem.

HATCHES PLOT
CINCINNATI, Ohio (UPI) — The usually energetic four-year-old sat quietly in a corner, so the babysitter (who prefers to remain anonymous) decided not to press her luck and left him alone. When the boy's mother returned she became suspicious, lifted him up and found two eggs.

"Not time, not time," yelled her son.

THIS WAS THE CIVIL WAR

Washington on the eve of the Civil war was a one-paved street city of 60,000, shot through and entirely surrounded by secessionists. Flanked on the west, north and east by Maryland, which was temporarily dominated by southern sympathizers, and on the brink of secession, Washington was a beleaguered capital.

Perhaps half of the city was secessionist or in sympathy with the South. Its one railroad, connecting it with the North ran through Maryland, with a branch to the west into Ohio and another east to Annapolis from junction north of the city. Southern sympathizers in Maryland could isolate the capital at will by cutting the railroad.

At the start of 1861 the Washington "garrison" consisted of a few War Department officers, 300 Marines, three officers and 32 enlisted men of the Ordnance Department and four understrength militia companies.

Along the one paved street—Pennsylvania Ave.—the blue cockades of secession could be bought at newspaper stands.

The cobblestones of Pennsylvania Ave. were hard to detect under the dust (in the summer) and mud (in the winter). Big chuck-holes yawed for the unwary omnibus driver or day dreaming horseback rider.

Flocks of geese wandered along the avenue or along any other street that suited their fancy. Pigs wallowed around the Capitol and Judiciary Square.

Tiber Creek meandered along the Mall, "floating" (with) dead cats and all kinds of putridity and reeking with pestilential odors. Residents dumped slop in the gutters and their dead animals into the creek. John Hay, one of President Lincoln's secretaries, wrote that the south windows of the White House let in the "ghosts of 20,000 drowned cats."

There was a rudimentary water system but most people depend on wells and springs for drinking water. Two sketchy sewers backed up in basements more often than they drained. The area, along the Potomac river was considered uncommonly unhealthful. A contemporary guide book dismissed this health hazard, saying that while "bilious and intermittent fevers prevail to a considerable extent, the malarial influences do not last long and those who have become acclimated are seldom subjected to these diseases."

Besides omnibuses, the capital had a new horse-drawn street car system, promoted by Jay Cooke, the New York banker, but the citizens generally disdained it, calling it a "Yankee invention." Omnibuses would angle across the street to pick up passengers and that saved boot shines and hoop skirt hem from mud or dust.

A newspaper invited attention to the condition of F St. at 11th. A half dozen coaches were "shipwrecked" there in one day. One belonged to a foreign diplomat.

"The coach settled into the mud up to the axle," the newspaper said. "One of the distinguished occupants was rescued by a huge Negro, who, wading leg deep to the coach, brought the foreign officer in full diplomatic regalia through the sea of mud on his back to terra firma. The other occupant plunged into the muddy chasm, and came out safe but with the mud hanging sadiy on his gay costume."

There were upwards of 60 hotels, nearly all of them boarding houses for government employes and congressmen.

Fanciest was Willard's at 14th and F Sts., the same site but not the same building as the Willard Hotel now. Willard's could, and frequently did, serve meals to 1,500 persons a day. It was the gathering place for officials, politicians and newspapermen, especially for breakfast when the menus featured fried oysters, steak and onions, blanc mange and pate de fois gras. (One restaurant—Harvey's—employed 20 oyster shuckers to keep up with demand.)

The National and the Metropolitan Hotels stood on opposite corners of 6th St. and Pennsylvania Ave. and were favored by southerners. The National had suffered an eclipse at the time of President Buchanan's inaugural. The President and other guests caught an intestinal malady there which became known as "National disease." "Old Buck," nephew died of the disease, which some said was the result of a black Republican plot but more moderate people thought it was caused by defective sewers. By war time the National again was popular.

The standard tourist route covered six spots—the Capitol, the White House (called the Executive Mansion then), the Smithsonian Institution, the Post Office Building, the Patent Office and the new Treasury Building.

Few went to see the unfinished Washington Monument, a "factory chimney with the top cut off." The Senate and House wings of the Capitol were new and attracted the largest crowds with their paintings and marble halls, although only three of the 100 corinthian columns were in place. The dome was being rebuilt and was crowned with a construction crane. Crawford's statue of Armed Liberty lay on the lawn, eventually to top the new dome. Symbolic, some said.

Greenough's great 12-ton statue of George Washington, at the Capitol, with the "Father of his Country" naked to the waist and draped in a Roman toga, drew some comment, mostly ribald, from tourists.

Hay summed up Washington as "this miserable sprawling village which imagines itself a city because it is wicked, as a boy thinks he is a man because he smokes and swears."

This "miserable village" seethed with alarms of threatened uprisings, plots to overthrow the government, conspiracies to kidnap the President and plans for seizing the Treasury. It was a pick-your-own-rumor time.

President Buchanan thought something needed doing about it and called on old Lt. Gen. Winfield Scott. Scott in turn, called in a West Pointer and Mexican War veteran, Charles P. Stone, to reorganize the District of Columbia militia which was heavily infiltrated by southern sympathizers.

Col. Stone went to work with speed and dispatch. Backed by Joseph Holt, secretary of war, and at one critical point by the President, Stone by the March 4 inaugural of Lincoln had purged secessionists from the militia and organized enough new units to furnish most of the inaugural guards.

He ran up against determined southern opposition.

After Ft. Sumter was fired on, 16 companies of Stone's militia were the first to be mustered into federal service.

The Confederacy conferred the rank of general on 425 men in the four years of the Civil War.

Expert Says Modern Horror Film Makes Good Comedy

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Horror movies are truly horrible, says Boris Karloff in reviewing the decline and fall of film monsters.

In the old days brother Boris terrified the nation, transforming great blocks of the populace into insomniacs. Many a youngster (and oldtimer too) couldn't sleep for weeks after seeing "Frankenstein" and "The Mummy."

But these days the so-called horrors movies are funnier than Mickey Rourke playing center for the Boston Celtics.

"There's so much needless violence, horror pictures have become ludicrous," Karloff said in sepulchral tones. "Audiences are amused instead of frightened. Terror is the key, not bloodshed and fights. There was very little violence in 'Frankenstein.' The monster was gentle and a sympathetic character."

"After I made that film I received hundreds of letters expressing compassion for the monster. 'You see, there was an excellent story involved in 'Frankenstein.' There is no compassion for today's monsters because they have no basis in reality. Instead they borrow liberally from the old pictures, but infuse no real story in the bargain."

"They just time the fights to perk things up when the story begins to slow up. They're not what they used to be. Neither is Karloff. Last fall he eschewed his monster make-up for a business suit to play host on NBC-TV's hit show, "Thriller."

To fulfill his obligation he journeys from London to Hollywood four or five times a year to film his introductions to the spine-tling series. This year he has appeared in only one segment.

"Next season I shall appear in three or four of them," he said. "I'm absolutely delighted that the show has been successful."

Will he ever return to playing spooky kooks in pictures? "I'm 73 years old now and disinclined to work that hard again," Karloff said. "It's necessary to spend four hours in make-up and then carry around 50 pounds of monster equipment."

Jack Lemmon Is Bucking 'Jinx' For Film Award

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — If Jack Lemmon wins an academy award this year, and his chances of doing so are very good, the talented actor will overcome a jinx that dogged Oscar competition for 33 years.

Lemmon, who earned supporting actor acclaim in 1955 for his "Mister Roberts" performance, is in this year's best actor competition, having been nominated for the role he played in "The Apartment."

And, therein lies the jinx. Lemmon is the twentieth performer in Oscar history to be nominated for awards in supporting and lead role categories. None have made it in both.

Besides facing this historical hurdle, Lemmon is also up against formidable acting competition. If Jack picks off an Oscar this year, it will be over Spencer Tracy ("Inherit the Wind"), Laurence Olivier ("The Entertainer"), Trevor Howard ("Sons and Lovers"), and Burt Lancaster ("Elmer Gantry").

Lemmon is philosophical about having to evade a pitfall that has gobbled up such stars as Walter Huston, Jose Ferrer, Grace Kelly, Jennifer Jones, Barry Fitzgerald and others.

All tried to get into the charmed circle, heretofore empty, containing performers with Oscars from both departments.

There have been actors who garnered more than two gold statues, but their recognition was in a single category.

"The Miracle," starring Roger Moore and Carrol Baker, comes to the Capri Theatre Thursday and Friday. The production has been given full screen life in a presentation as colorful, as exciting and as provocative as any in motion picture history. Its spectacle dimensions have been broadened, it's international flavor emphasized, and it's touching religious aspects faithfully preserved in the Technicolor and Technirama presentation.

Movie To Depict JFK's P-T Boat Days in War

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — President Kennedy will be the first chief executive in history to be depicted as the hero of a motion picture while still in office.

Warner Bros. Studio announced today it will produce "P-T Boat 108" (the boat captained by the President during World War II) in a biographical story of his accomplishments as a dauntless skipper under fire in the Pacific.

The studio registered the title with the Motion Picture Association of America and will proceed with the script, casting and other production preparations.

A spokesman for Warners said the studio does not have any particular actor in mind to play the President, but that his approval would be sought before the picture is put before the cameras.

"P-T Boat 108" will deal with the 1943 episode in which a Japanese destroyer cut Navy Lt. Kennedy's craft in two.

It is a natural wardrobe in which the hero rescues his crew and finds refuge on a South Sea Island.

The picture is scheduled to be a big-budgeted "A" production with an all-star cast, requiring location shooting in the Pacific area.

The word Nevada is Spanish and means "snow-capped."

TV Menace Turns Over New Leaf, Joins 'Good Guys'

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Neville Brand, who has menaced most of TV's heroes, is turning "good guy" himself in a new weekly series.

Craggy-faced and villainous in appearance, Brand is best known for his portrayals of Al Capone on "The Untouchables." He is the kind of guy even Floyd Patterson would not like to meet in a dark alley.

And with good reason. Brand not only looks tough, he was the fourth most decorated soldier in World War II, receiving three Purple Hearts, the Bronze Star, the Silver Star and many other while fighting in almost all major battles in Europe.

He's had his share of brawls which have left scars on his face, including a broken nose picked up in a barroom free-for-all in Marseilles, France.

Despite his appearance, Neville (a name which fits him like Jackie Gleason's night shirt) will star in "Tramp Ship" for producer Don Feddersen. He will play the free-wheeling skipper of a rusty freighter plying the world's oceans looking for cargo.

"Tramp Ship" is scheduled to hit the airways next fall, but Brand refuses to play a typical television hero.

"There is no such thing as a real hero," he said. "I know. In my role of Morgan Kelly I hope to show the character's weak points as well as his strengths. An audience can lose sympathy for the hero if he hasn't any faults."

Bit Paris: Edith Head, head of Paramount Studios wardrobe department, has been appointed costume consultant for the 33rd annual "Oscar" show April 17.

Steve Allen will star in "Southern Comfort," a new play scheduled for Broadway next fall.

Show Folk Considered Poor Insurance Risks

NEW YORK (UPI) — There's no business like show business, unless you want to insure your life or property.

Actors, professional singers, successful directors and producers, and even some script writers find it difficult to obtain policies because many insurance companies consider them poor risks.

But an energetic young man is carrying on a relentless crusade to change what he believes to be a distorted, out-dated and unrealistic attitude toward show business.

His name is Lee Winkler. He wanted to make script writing his career but he wandered into the insurance field. He soon discovered that names in the news may be the ones insurance underwriters want to forget.

"This is silly," Winkler said in an interview. "You find more alcoholics in advertising and other businesses where the pressure is greater."

Winkler said actors and actresses who want to keep their names on the marquee must maintain physical fitness.

"And why should a writer who wants to provide death protection for his family be subjected to a more rigorous inspection than his neighbor who is a druggist?" Winkler asked.

The reasoning behind this, Winkler believes, may date back to the pre-television days when show people made millions and could keep all of it, when every out-of-town trip they made was jotted down by columnists and fan magazine writers.

Winkler said one of the reasons why companies fear to underwrite their insurance for show people is public knowledge of their whereabouts.

Winkler's firm, Winkler Associates Ltd., sells all types of insurance but specializes in the entertainment field because of the challenge. In six years the firm has served 500 clients, including Rise Stevens, Patricia Munsel, Wally Cox, David Susskind and many other well-known personalities.

Swedish Actress Content Not To Be A Screen Star

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Officials at Metro Goldwyn Mayer studios must be raising their eyebrows over Ingrid Thulin, an actress who's perfectly content not to be a star.

The attractive, blonde Miss Thulin is the latest Swedish import to arrive in Hollywood where she's co-starring with Glenn Ford in "Four Horsemen Of The Apocalypse."

Miss Thulin, pronounced "too-leen," came to filmland for the express purpose of acting in a motion picture, not to parade around in night clubs and parties with the glamour set.

But Hollywood, used to such antics as a starlet coveting her car with fur, sometimes expects actresses to exude it's type of glamour.

Most of the time, the girls fall into line. But it's refreshing to find somebody who prefers to be herself.

"Here I have to act like a star," said Ingrid with a shrug of her shoulders. "But, at home, I can wear old clothes and go around barefoot."

Ingrid and her husband, Swedish businessman and writer Harry Schein, were recently invited to a Hollywood party and she discovered that her wardrobe wasn't adequate.

So Ingrid rushed out and purchased half a dozen dresses, some for as little as $20.

"I've never had a hat on in my life, unless it has been a beach hat," said Miss Thulin, who also revealed that she doesn't even own a mink coat, an actress' trade mark.

Furthermore, she isn't dashing to the neighborhood furrier to buy one, although a mink would probably be hers for the asking.

"I've tried to find out what's expected of me as a star," she said, with a smile that indicated she's not worried too much about it.

"I watch Glenn Ford, who's a star, but I certainly can't act like a man," she added. "For instance, I go running and jumping to the movie set and they say I should walk like a lady. They say I shouldn't do this and shouldn't say that."

"I do what pleases me. If I did what was expected of me, it would be too complicated."

Ingrid talked about Hollywood and motion pictures while lunching in the MGM commissary with her husband.

Some scenes for "Apocalypse" were shot in Paris, and after that, Ingrid was brought to Hollywood for interior filming.

"This picture is taking longer than any of us expected," she said, a remark which caused Schein to say, "Ingrid doesn't know she's getting paid by the week."

Mayor Proclaims Girl Scout Week

With the Girl Scout Association celebrating its 49th anniversary today through May 18, Mayor Ed Myatt has officially proclaimed this time as Girl Scout Week in Pampa.

In a recent proclamation, he stated "Now, therefore, I, Mayor Ed Myatt by virtue of the authority vested in me as Mayor of the City of Pampa, hereby proclaim Mar. 12-18 of this year, 1961 as Girl Scout Week and March 12 as the 49th Anniversary of the founding of Girl Scouting in the United States of America. I, therefore, call upon all citizens to give the Girls Scouts now and in the coming years the fullest cooperation and support so that increasing numbers of girls may benefit from the splendid program of training in citizenship which the Girl Scout organization offers." (signed) Ed Myatt, Mayor.

Double Value
COOPER, Tex. (UPI) — One good thing about training a hog to do tricks, says trainer Tab Evans, is that when he retires he has a ready market value.

Evans, whose hog Pork Chop won national attention through his tricks, was retired recently after he became old and was shipped off to the packing house.

Attorney General Kennedy Calls On Juvenile Gangs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy rolled up his sleeves and walked 40 blocks through New York's East Side the other day to ask the Vice-roys and the Redwings what makes them juvenile delinquents. Kennedy stood on the sidewalk and talked to members of the two teen-age gangs and explored some of the city's toughest neighborhoods while in New York for a television program, sources said today. Kennedy fired questions at the young narcotics addicts and robbery suspects and had questions shot back at him. Kennedy asked what seemed to be their difficulty.

Harvesters Grab Opener, 6 To 4

STROUD SINGLES — Larry Stroud, Harvester first baseman, slams out a single in big fifth inning rally at Harvester Park yesterday afternoon as Pampa defeated Elk City, Okla., 6-4, in baseball opener.

Clark, Glover Spark Pampa Past Elk City

By ARTHUR MAYHEW
Daily News Sports Editor

Pampa's Harvesters, aided by strong pitching, performances by Mike Clark and Jerry Glover and some potent hitting by Glover, staged off a late-inning rally at Harvester Park yesterday afternoon to defeat Elk City, Okla., 6-4, in the season opener for both clubs.

Clark, a poised 6-3, 190-pound junior, got credit for the victory with a three-inning starting performance, although Glover—who pitched the middle three innings—was impressive as he combined a blazing fast ball and a round-house curve to strike out six of the 12 men he faced.

Glover also supplied the bat, heroics as he pounded out a triple and a booming 325-foot homerun to highlight a three-run fifth inning that turned out to be a crucial frame.

John Hancock, a classy left-hander who went the first four innings, was tagged with the loss although he gave up only two runs and two hits in his brief stint.

The Harvesters jumped off to a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the second as Gerrel Owens beat out an infield single, took second on a wild pitch, moved to third on an error and scored when Catcher Mike Stewart banged out a sharp single through the box.

Pampa tacked up its second run in the third when Butch Frazier walked, then came all the way home when an attempted pick-off got past the Elk City first baseman and a peg to third shot past the third sacker.

Meanwhile, the Elks could do nothing with the right-handed offerings of Clark and Glover after Larry Elliott had singled to open the game. Elk City went down in order in the second, third and fifth innings and only four got to the plate in the first and fourth frames.

The Harvesters unlimbered their guns in the fifth inning to score three times and all but put the game on ice—or so it seemed.

Glover led off with a triple to right center that rolled to the fence and—after Frazier had walked—scored when Roy Don Stephens poked a single into left, moving Frazier to second. Larry Stroud singled sharply to right to load the bases.

Butch Crossland waited out a 3-2 count before walking to force in Frazier from third and Keith Gregory plated Stephens a moment later with a sacrifice fly to left that traveled into foul territory.

Elk City drew first blood in the sixth when Elliott—who collected three of the Elks' five safeties—bounced a ground-rule double over the left field fence and scored when James Nelms singled to left.

Angered that its shutout had been ruined, Pampa came back in the home sixth with its last run of the game when Glover connected on a high 3-2 pitch to send the ball zooming over the left-field fence.

Elk City caught fire in the eighth to score three times before Orville Bynum came in to relieve Wright and quell the rally with a strikeout and a rally-killing double play from Gregory to Stroud.

A base-running mixup possibly cost Pampa a run in the eighth as Ab Cullender walked, moved to second on John Arthur's second hit of the day but was caught off third when Stephens singled and Arthur moved to third—where Cullender was already reposed.

Elk City used a walk and an error to put the tying runs on in the ninth inning with two away, but Robert Woodward came on in relief to force Ronny Engle to foul out to Gregory and end the game.

Winborn Put On All-SWC Second Team

WACO (UPI)—Bennie Lenox of Texas A&M, Spencer Carlson of Baylor and Joe Fisher of Texas were unanimous choices for the all-Southwest Conference freshman basketball team announced Saturday by the Waco Tribune-Herald.

In a poll of conference freshmen coaches, Lenox, Carlson and Fisher teamed with Mike Marsh of Southern Methodist and Kendall Rhine of Rice as the first five. Marsh and Rhine lacked only one vote each of being unanimous.

Named to the second team were Craig Winborn and Mike Humphrey of Texas, Hebert Barritt of Baylor, Bobby McKinley of Texas Christian and Larry Phillips of Rice.

Lenox, a 6-2 sharpshooter who led conference scoring for the Aggie Fish, was named the outstanding freshman player.

Bolt Takes Lead

PENSACOLA, Fla. (UPI)—Tommy Bolt, who hasn't misplaced a hole at the Pensacola Country Club since Thursday's opening round, shot his second 68 Saturday to lead at the end of the third round of the sixth annual $20,000 Pensacola PGA Open.

The Crystal River, Fla. pro, whose game has improved along with his disposition in the past two years, carded three birdies on the front-nine and added one more on the back side to move ahead of Dow Finsterwald and Marty Furgol. The 33-year-old Haworth, Okla., native, who lost a sudden death playoff to Dave Hill at Tucson two weeks ago, hasn't bogied a hole since number eleven on the opening round.

"I've just been playing good here," the 1958 U.S.G.A. Open champ said.

Bolt, no longer "Terrible Tommy," has won only $2,990 this year on the circuit, and hasn't won a tournament. Finsterwald, who "didn't play well at all," on the front side even though he stayed at par, set the course afire coming back and carded five birdies for a five-under-67 and a 54-hole total of 209. The Tequesta, Fla. pro, who won the 1958 PGA open, also carded a birdie on the front side to offset a bogie five on the 344-yard No. 5.

Furgol, a Cog Hill, Ill. pro, whose rounds have steadily improved, toured the front side four-under to come off with a 68 and a tie with Finsterwald.

But the top round of the day belonged to Ken Venturi. He blazed around the course with 66 ending the day three strokes off Bolt's hot pace.

"I played the course real well," Venturi of Palo Alto, Calif. said explaining his six birdies. "If I can have another round like that tomorrow, I'll be in pretty good shape." Venturi's putter served him faithfully, dropping in one 30-yarder and two 15-yarders. Defending champion Arnold Palmer, unofficially the top money winner this season, had a bad, for him, par round.

On the 405-yard 9th hole, Arnie was over the green, and on No. 18, the iron man from Ligonier, Pa., landed in a trap with his second shot. However, four birdies kept Palmer's score respectable and kept him in a four-way tie, two strokes off the pace.

Palmer was joined at 210 by Gay Brewer Jr., Tommy Jacobs and George Bayer. Bayer, who plays out of South Pasadena, Calif., carded his third straight two-under-par 70.

Pampa Boxers Enter Finals

WICHITA FALLS — Five Pampa Optimist boxers went hunting for titles here late last night in the annual Red River AAU boxing tournament after two Pampans were eliminated Friday night.

Carrying the Optimist colors last night on the 48-bout card were Johnny Ironmonger, 112; Tommy Woodruff, 119; Charles Moore, 125; Mack Taylor, 132, and Glen Ward, 165.

Friday night, Dickie Wills, 156, of Pampa was a third round TKO victim of Jay Lavender of Wichita Falls.

Lavender, the state Golden Gloves welterweight semifinalist last month in Fort Worth, was behind on points when he decked Wills at 1:53 of the third round.

Another Pampa boxer, Kenny Powell, 129, lost to two-time regional champ, Billy Suddearth of Anadarko, Okla., in another Friday night bout.

Tigers Win Fight, Game

COLUMBIA, Mo. (UPI)—Inspired Missouri outlasted arch-rival Kansas Saturday 79-74 in a nationally televised basketball battle marred by fights and a near riot.

The victory dealt Kansas a serious blow in its bid for a share of the Big Eight Conference championship.

In gaining its first victory over Kansas in nearly five years, Missouri played almost the entire second half without its star center, Charlie Henke. He and Kansas forward Wayne Hightower were ejected from the game for fighting with 14:49 remaining and Missouri leading 48-44.

A near riot broke out after a play by Hightower in which the 6-9 star was fouled.

PHS Musters 19 Points

Abilene Takes Graham Track

GRAHAM — Abilene's fleet-footed Eagles, piling up 80 points highlighted by a record-breaking mile relay performance, ran off with the annual Possum Kingdom Relays title here last night.

Wichita Falls was second with 60 points, while Dumas finished in third with 44 points. Pampa finished down the list with 19 points, 10 of which came on the strong arm of Randy Matson.

Matson placed third in the shot put with a heave of 51 ft. 6 1/2 in. and fourth in the discus with a toss of 146 ft. 6 in.

Billy Cooper tied for second in the pole vault — also tying the PHS school record — with a vault of 11 ft. 6 in. while Steve Dobbin was fifth in the 100-yard dash with a time of 10.1. Dobbin earlier ran a 10 flat 100 twice, in the preliminaries and the semifinals.

Curtis Fletcher was the only other Harvester to place, running a 4:52.4 in the mile for sixth place. Fletcher ran a 4:48.0 in the preliminaries to qualify for the finals.

Abilene rewrote the record books in the mile relay with a time of 3:22.9, eclipsing the old mark of 3:26.5. Lubbock Monterey also established a new record in the 440-Relay with a timing of 32.6, breaking the old record of 43.2.

Bob Cothren of Dumas aided his team to its third place finish with a record 14.4 in the 120-yard high hurdles, chopping two-tenths of a second off the old standard.

The one-day meet drew a record 65 teams and over 700 athletes.

Baylor 'Greens' Win Spring Game

WACO (UPI)—Bobby Ply, a senior quarterback from Mission, Tex., showed mid-season form Saturday in completing 10 of 12 passes for 137 yards and three touchdowns to lead the "Greens" to a 34-7 victory over the "Whites" in Baylor's spring football game.

Ply also scored the No. 1 team's first touchdown on a one-yard plunge and ran for first-down yardage on five vital occasions in the intra-squad clash viewed by 4,000 fans.

Spring Camps Up Tempo

'New' Senators Win

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—The new Washington Senators made a triumphant debut Saturday, even though their opposition was secondgrade, by following the slugging of Marty Keough and Pete Daley to a 7-5 victory over the Kansas City Athletics' "B" team.

Knuckle-baller Tom Sturdivant became the first winning pitcher for the Senators, the new club formed for the nation's capital when the old Senators moved to Minneapolis-St. Paul.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI)—Veteran slugger Ken Boyer slammed a triple, double and single and drove in two runs Saturday as the St. Louis Cardinals opened their grapefruit League exhibition schedule with a 6-1 win over the New York Yankees before 7,084 fans.

Ray Sadecki, Ernie Broglio, Bob Miller and Mel Nelson combined to limit the Yankees to five hits and had a shut-out until one out in the ninth when Tony Kubek pinch-hit a home run.

Miller was forced to leave the game in the ninth when he was hit in the chin by a deflected drive off the bat of Leroy Thomas.

Patterson, Johansson Set For Final Heavyweight Title Showdown

FLOYD PATTERSON
... the champion

MIAMI BEACH, (UPI)—Champion Floyd Patterson and Sweden's Ingemar Johansson meet in their showdown fight for the world heavyweight crown at Convention Hall Monday night at 10:30 p.m. EST, after a knockout piece in their two previous title bouts.

That was a Hall-of-Fame come-back for the lightning left-hooker who had been floored seven times in the third round of their first fight for a technical knockout by Ingemar's right-handed thunderbolts on June 28, 1959.

When Feature Sports, Inc. chose the Miami Beach Convention Hall as the fight site, the FSI officials aimed at a sellout of all 15,852 seats and a gate of $1,100,000 — with tickets ranging from $100 to $20. They were optimistic.

But they can't lose money because Bill MacDonald, a Miami Beach sportsman and auto-trailer tycoon has guaranteed a gross gate of $400,000.

Moreover, Irving B. Kahn, president of Teleprompter Corporation, says this fight will still be the richest in history because of nearly certain receipts of at least $3,700,000 from its "ancillaries" — closed-circuit TV to 100,000 homes on 30 antenna systems, domestic radio, domestic films, foreign films and foreign radio and TV.

He sparred 272 rounds at his new home in Geneva, Switzerland and at the swanky Sea Breeze Motel in Palm Beach, Fla.

Cars Ready In Sebring

SEBRING, Fla. (UPI) — This year's 12-hour Sebring sports car endurance race began to take shape Saturday with release of a provisional entry list naming some of the world's outstanding drivers and fastest cars.

The first eye-catchers were the names of Phil Hill, Olivier Gendebien, Stirling Moss and Bruce McLaren.

They were signed up for Italian Ferraris and Maseratis, which apparently will be in another fight with German Porsches as the major contenders for the second consecutive year in the March 26 race.

The factory Ferrari team from Modena, Italy, entered three cars but listed only four of the required six drivers. Those named were Phil Hill, Santa Monica, Calif., Olivier Gendebien, Belgium, Richie Ginther, Santa Monica, Calif., and Count Wolfgang Von Trips, Germany.

The Maserati factory did not enter a team, but its cars were entered by the Momo Corp. of New York and the Camoradi International Racing Team.

Drivers listed for Camoradi Englishmen Stirling Moss and Graham Hill and Masten Gregory of Kansas City.

Garren Signs With Buffs

CANYON (Sp) — West Texas State's head football coach, Joe Kerbel, today announced the signing of Pampa's outstanding all-district center — Duke Garren — to an athletic contract.

Garren, who made both the coaches' and sports writers' District 3-4A honor teams, is a 6-1, 265-pounder who plans to major in business administration at West Texas.

"I consider this boy to be a great college prospect," remarked high school coach, Babe Curfman. "He has the ability and desire that goes along with being an outstanding football player. The tougher the competition the better this boy will be."

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Roy Garren, 2120 Charles St., Pampa.

KU Coach Speaks At Perryton

PERRYTON — Dick Harp, University of Kansas basketball coach, will be guest speaker at the annual Father-Son banquet sponsored by the Perryton Ministerial Alliance at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in the fellowship hall of the First Baptist Church here.

Ministerial Alliance church pastor have tickets on sale for the banquet.

Rev. Joe Frederick, pastor of the First Christian Church stated, "We wish to extend a special invitation to all University of Kansas alumni to contact someone to purchase tickets. They may make reservations for the banquet by calling the First Methodist Church in Perryton before 5 p.m. Monday."

Dick Harp's four-season record since assuming the head coaching post from Dr. Forrest C. (Phog) Allen in 1956 includes one Big Eight champion team which lost in the NCAA finals by one point in a triple overtime, and a Big Eight co-champion which won a playoff for the conference crown and lost in the regional NCAA finals.

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Celtics fought off a fourth quarter Syracuse surge Saturday to close out their home season with a 126-116 win in a National Basketball Association game at the Garden.

Takes Big 10 Crown

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (UPI) — Ohio State defeated Illinois 95-66 Saturday to gain its 24th consecutive victory of the season and become the first Big Ten basketball team to complete an unbeaten campaign since Minnesota turned the trick in 1919.

Ohio St. Ends Year Unbeaten

The Illini fought back to come within one point at 39-38, but Jerry Lucus opened a hot Buckeye splurge when he sank a pair of free throws and the Big Ten champions raced to a 43-38 bulge at halftime.

Netters Set Two Matches

Pampa's tennis team, defeated in its first match of the year against Dumas last week, will be out to better its record this week when it hits the road for two matches on successive days.

On Monday, the Harvester netters invade Clarendon in a make-up of last Friday's schedule, and then go to Phillips Tuesday afternoon.

Against Dumas last week, only Jerry Thomas and Don Collins, a pair of sophomores, were able to chalk up wins.

Wright Leads Miami Tee By Four Strokes

MIAMI (UPI) — Mickey Wright of Dallas played perfect golf from the fifth to the 17th holes Saturday to take a commanding four-stroke lead with a 144 in the $7,500 Miami Women's Open Golf Tournament.

Miss Wright got off one of her long drives on the 490-yard fifth hole and hit the green with her second shot. Her first putt rolled only six inches away from an eagle-three and left her an easy tap for a birdie.

Aussie Accepts Colonial Invite

FORT WORTH (UPI) — British Open champion Ken Nagle, the former Australian dairy farmer who plays out of Sydney, has become the 40th player to accept a bid to compete in the $40,000 16th annual Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament May 10-14.

Nagle made his first big splash on the U. S. tour here a year ago when he took over the lead after 36 holes, was tied with Gene Littler for the lead after 54 holes and eventually tying with Littler for a second spot one stroke off winner Julius Boros' pace.

Nagle, who joins Gary Player, Roberto de Vicenzo and Stan Leonard in the foreign portion of the 54-player field, said he would be in this country for the Masters April and then join the tour at least through Colonial.

New Press Service Prepares Questions To Be Fired At JFK's News Conferences

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a recent issue of Roll Call, Capitol Hill's weekly newspaper, a journalist named Patrick McMahon announced the opening of a new type of press service here.

Its purpose is to assist members of the Washington press corps in the preparation of "speech-questions" for use at President Kennedy's televised news conferences.

"I firmly guarantee my ability to stretch the simplest, most astute little questions into punchy, speeches, complete with epigrams, redundancies and appropriate gestures," McMahon said in his prospectus.

"My speech-questions are calculated to baffle not only the President, but also the entire press conference. Moreover, my modest fees are scaled according to the number of seconds those lovely TV cameras focus on the beaming faces of my happy clients."

If you have watched any of the President's news conferences on television, you are aware that a number of reporters already are skilled at syntax stretching and have no need of McMahon's service.

I, however, had some doubt about my ability to ask a question in the form of an oration. So, before going to Wednesday's news conference, I went to McMahon for a consultation.

Under his guidance, I was able to enter the conference room armed with a question that read like this:

"Mr. President, a hamster is any one of several old world rodents of the cunicus or allied genera resembling white-footed mice but having large cheek pouches and a short tail."

"The two pet hamsters belonging to your daughter Caroline escaped from their cages recently and ran loose in the White House until they were captured in the solarium."

"I wonder if you could tell us, Sir, what methods were used to track down the hamsters and whether you have any advice that might be useful to other parents who have hamsters at large in their homes?"

"Specifically, is there anything in your experience that might indicate how children can be made to remember to close the door to the hamster cage?"

I figure this question would have kept me on camera so long I would have been eligible for a Hooper rating. Therefore, I do not blame McMahon for what happened. It was not his fault that I never got a chance to ask it. That was the fault of the other reporters who kept leaping up in front of me so that I couldn't catch the President's eye.

Salute To Girl Scouts

A SALUTE TO GIRL SCOUTS on their 49th birthday with a special tribute to Girl Scouts of this community. Congratulations on the work you do, helping your community now and building for the future.

Forty-nine years ago, Juliette Gordon Low organized the Girl Scouts with a troop of 12 girls in Savannah, Ga. Today, 2,650,000 young ladies are working to become happy, more resourceful individuals under the guidance of 770,000 men and women leaders.

The Quivira Girl Scout Council directs the activities of 901 Girl Scouts and Brownies with the assistance of 260 adult workers. Illustrated on this page are four of the program levels conducted by the Girl Scout Ass'n.

GIRL SCOUT-WEEK always begins with religious observances because every Girl Scout has made a promise . . . "On my honor, I will try to do my duty to God and my country." All over town today, Girl Scouts are opening up the Week by attending religious services in the church of their choice. Pictured here are, front row, Misses Patricia Masterson and Pam Ludeman, left to right; second row from the left, Misses Brenda Thompson, Diana Edminster, and Pat Ludeman.

'Honor the Past... Serve the Future'

ARTS AND CRAFTS are an important part of the Girl Scout program because the organization feels that exploration of the arts is an important factor in developing a well-rounded personality. Stuffed toys made during troop meetings, were recently presented to children at the Day Nursery. Making the presentation on behalf of their troops were Diana Nichols and Patty Butler, left to right.

BECAUSE A GIRL SCOUT is a "sister to every other Girl Scout", she has friends all-around the world. She writes to "pen pals" in other countries, learns about their customs, languages and cultures. ABWA To Entertain With Friendship Tea

Governor Price Daniel has designated today as "American Business Women's Hand of Friendship Day in Texas," at which time Texas chapters of this national association will extend their Hand of Friendship invitation to other Texas business women to participate in their activities.

The Pampa Chapter of ABWA is planning its observance of Friendship Day at a tea to be held Mar. 19 in the City Club Room. "Texas chapters are making an effort to enroll 500 new members," according to Mrs. Clemon Herd local president.

Other officers of the local chapter, in addition to Mrs. Herd are Mrs. Harold E. DeVore, vice president; Mrs. Frank Heare, corresponding secretary; Mrs. James M. Quary, presiding secretary; Miss Maxine Nabors, treasurer.

The American Business Women's Association is non-union, non-political and non-sectarian. An educational organization with some 3000 members in forty three Texas chapters, its purpose is to elevate the business standards of women in business by uniting them nationally for training designed to make them more efficient, more considerate, and more co-operative toward their work, their employers, and their employer's customers, thereby increasing their earning ability, success and happiness. Its major aims are devoted to improving employee-employer relationships, to keeping business women up to date on business techniques and to the advancement of women in business through more efficient service to business.

Monthly meetings are held by each chapter at which time an outstanding local speaker is heard. There is also a vocational talk given by a member of the chapter, thereby keeping members up to date on business techniques. Once each year, each chapter honors their employers with a "B.O.S.S.

NIGHT-BANQUET. These dinners do much to show employers that members of ABWA are interested in them, their jobs, and in the company they represent.

At ABWA's inception, chapters have been encouraged to sponsor local scholarships to reputable women business students and to business women aspiring to better educations. So enthusiastic has been the response that scholarships awarded by Texas chapters alone last year amounted to approximately $12,000.00. A national fund, the Stephen F. Bulton Memorial Fund, was established in 1933 enabling chapters to participate in scholarship projects on a national basis. The fund is available to any chapter who wishes to make an application in behalf of a student.

Money isn't everything, but to some people it's a pretty good thing.

Peg O' Pampa

IT SEEMS that the papers are beginning to be full of more and more baseball news, now the sports page (which we skim by) tell the truth, most of the time) are dotted with baseball pictures and spring training news. I guess we women should go into Spring training, also, to eliminate the kinks and the few bulges the winter months have put on us. So we can feel fit and trim for the swimming-suit season! . . . so get down on your carpet and do a few exercises, right now! On second thought read this column first, and then go take your exercises.

NOTHING SEEMS TO be on our mind this morning. . . of course, that is not unusual, but the situation seems to be worse than yesterday. . . we were happy to hear of the honor accorded Fern Dawson's work with the Girl Scouts in Pampa for eleven years she has faithfully labored for the cause. . . we heard that the hotels and motels in town have run out of reservation space for the incoming deluge of women for the District Convention of the Texas Association of Women's Clubs, and members are being asked to open their homes on March 29 for the one night to the overflow. I guess this convention is going to be a rip-snorting affair. If you have an extra room call your President of Mrs. W. R. Campbell.

—First of all a man must see before he can say.
—Henry David Thoreau

IT SEEMS TO BE paint-up, prune-up, water-up week at the city's parks last week. . . crews of hard-working gardeners were watering the roses, and generally preparing for spring and more than once we heard the mournful tones of those complaining that soon the grass would begin to grow and the round of watering to make it grow, and then clipping it to make it quit growing will begin.

A SURPRISE was in store for little (whoops, big boy of nine years) Jimmy Gage last week. . . on Wednesday his mother and Maxine Watson planned a surprise birthday party at the Watson's home. . . invitations were a cute little baseball glove giving the "game time" and the "ball park" address and so on. . . in decorations the theme was carried out with a honey-comb baseball player on the table, and cakes made in the shape of a ball and bat and players hat. . . favors were baseball bat whistles. . . and the ice cream was snaped like a ball. . . some of the guests were Mike Sybert. . . Phillip Gage. . . Edith Waggoner. . . Brian Duncan. . . Linda Chase. . . Terry Curtis. . . Gary Parrish. . . Marsha Stone. . . Bobby Tedrow. . . Johnny Garren. . . Randy Watson. . . Beth Watson. . . Jan Elder. . . Sandra Brown. . . Marcia Stewart. . . balloons and fun for all. . . planning children's birthday parties is a good deal of fun. . . and hard work. . . but the small fry enjoy it so much.

What we see depends mainly on what we look for.

SEVERAL PAMPA women contributed paintings to an art exhibition held last week in Amarillo. . . Betty Bailey. . . Ruth Smalley. . . Charlotte Edmondson. . . Margaret Steele were among local artists. . . you have seen the newest paintings up in the Coronado Inn Lobby. . . you should check once in a while for the latest on display. . . and there is supposed to be an art exhibit in conjunction with the women's club convention, too. . . and the Pampa Art Club is sponsoring the Texas Fine Arts Exhibition March 19-31. . . there will be an open house, the 19th at the Library.

SOUNDS LIKE fun was had by Helene and Ruth Huff who recently returned from a trip to Mexico. . . they went also to Taxco. . . and to Quernavaca. . . and to Acapulco. . . had a marvelous time and saw the sights. . . visiting in town we heard, was Mrs. George Cash, formerly of Pampa, who has been in England for several years. . . Claudine Vail held a luncheon for her last week. . . and speaking of Claudine and Bob. . . Bob is on another trip to South America. . . and we noticed lately how Robin and Judi are growing. . . they received honors in music this year, we hear. . . the Vails are a talented family!

OUR VOTES for some of the many, many charming people around and about town. . . to Catalyn Cundith. . . and to Billie Walsh. . . and to Helen Wells. . . and to Jane Harvey. . . and our vote for the gentlemen this week goes to Tom Beard, a handsome man. . . so much for the orchids now for the onions. . . we were irritated last week by a few stoplights that insisted upon changing to yellow just as we got to them so we had to brake rather suddenly. . . and we were irritated by the sandstorm. . . why can't we legislate more rain this Spring so we won't have to keep digging out all the time. . . oh, well. . . so much for the peevies.

Love never loses sight of loveliness
—Mary Baker Eddy

THIS AND THAT. . . J. E. and "Gus" Murphee are residing temporarily at the Inn while they are in the process of building a new home. . . and Perla Mitchell and her daughter, Ruth Ann are, we hear, a-building also. . . up spring the houses all around. . . we always have thought that Perla's house is so nice. . . but the new one should be even better.

HAVE YOU HEARD. . . this one? If life could be all crises I'd live with zest and glee. . . It's just this steady plugging that gets the best of me!

LAST WEEK. . . was visiting week at the public schools. . . by the sight of all cars at each school, we should judge it successful. . . Cameron Beck. . . Curt Beck's brother, is visiting in Pampa. . . Cameron has been touring Europe for the past several months. . . Julia McKernan and Edwina Boyd were amongst a group of women who went to Amarillo recently to attend a reception for the wife of Congressman Jim Wright. . . Icie Harrah has some pert little crocuses up in the parkstrip in front of her lovely home on Charles. . . those little plants of hers seem to be always the first to come up and smile at the sky in the spring.

HERE is one for the book. . . I want to get my photograph. . . But just as things began: "Do you want a pretty picture or a likeness?" said the man. . . but that is the way some days go here is an important note: this month is Red Cross month, and Pampa Gray Ladies are collecting any excess books you may have around the house. . . they will then see that the books are received by the two local hospitals so that patients may have some fresh reading material to while away the hours. . . call the Red Cross office if you have books, and someone will pick them up. . . here is your chance.

WOULDN'T you know it? . . . we missed an important name amongst the clubs who are hostesses for the Federated Club convention. . . that of the Lefors Art and Civic Club. . . and they have such a pretty president, too. . . Mrs. Carl Hall shame on us. . . we are sorry, but we hope you love us anyway.

We love you,
Peg

Schaffer-Morgan Repeat Vows In Church Ceremony

Mrs. Morris Morgan
Marlene Schaffer

Wedding vows for Miss Marlene Schaffer and Morris Morgan were solemnized on March 5 at three o'clock in the Groom Methodist Church. . . Miss Schaffer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Schaffer of Star Route 3. Mr. Morgan's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Q. V. Morgan, 401 N. Davis.

BRIDE
The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a street-length frock of white chiffon designed with lace bodice featuring a rounded neckline and three-quarter length sleeves. Her shoulder-length veil of tulle draped away from pearl-studded tiara. She carried a bridal bouquet of white carnations.

ATTENDANTS
Miss Carolyn Schaffer attended as maid of honor wearing a light blue sheath complemented with white accessories and a colonial bouquet of blue and white carnations. . . Ronnie Morgan served the bridegroom as best man. Ushers were Leon Schaffer and Jim McDowell. For her daughter's wedding.

Mrs. Schaffer chose a beige sheath with bone-colored accessories. The mother of the bridegroom, Mrs. Morgan, wore a black wool dress with green accessories. Their corsages were fashioned from white carnations.

RECEPTION

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Fellowship Hall of the church. The bride's chosen colors of blue and white were carried out in the table appointments. . . Miss Frances Durham of Groom and Mrs. Charles Kitchens of Amarillo alternated at the punch and cake service. Mrs. Leon Schaffer was guest registrar. . . For a wedding trip to Carlsbad, N. M., the bride traveled in her wedding costume. . . Upon their return, they will make their home at 723 N. Zimmers.

The bride was graduated from Groom High School and attended Draughon's Business College. She is presently employed by Beacon Supply Co.

The bridegroom was graduated from Pampa High School and is employed by the Pampa Daily News.

Among the out-of-town wedding guests were Messrs. and Mmes. H. L. Powers; Charles Kitchens, all of Amarillo; Mrs. Enos Morgan and daughters of Borger; Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Franklin of White Deer; Messrs. and Mmes. W. B. Franklin; Jack Kemmer; and Mrs. C. L. Clayton, all of Pampa; Mr. and Mrs. Ben O. Bernard of Dallas; Mrs. and Mrs. E. A. Tipton and Mrs. Keith Pittman of Clarendon.

Bandages Made For Leper Colony

The Ross Group of First Christian Church met Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Marie Sturgeon. . . The program was presented by Mrs. Wanda Gill, who gave a talk on missionary work in the Philippines illustrated with slide pictures. . . Following the program, members present rolled bandages made from strips of old bed sheets to be sent to a Leper Colony.

City Council PTA Names Delegates To Attend Workshop In Childress

At the City Council PTA meeting held Tuesday morning in Travis School, Mrs. Carlton Nance, current president and Mrs. George B. Cree Jr., incoming council president, were named to attend the district workshop to be held Childress on April 24-25. Officers from all units and other interested persons are urged to attend the workshop, according to Mrs. Nance.

Joe Page, Lamar school principal, announced that the Cancer Crusade starts April 17 and that volunteers are needed to participate. "Those wishing to help are asked to call Mrs. Homer Johnson," he announced. . . The workshop School of Instruction for all new officers and committee chairmen will be held at Lamar School on April 4 from 9 a.m. until 1 a.m. "Each unit president will be responsible for all new officers and committee chairmen of her school to be present at this time," Mrs. Nance said.

Women's Golf Association To Plan Activities

Pampa Women's Golf Association will hold an organization meeting for the purpose of planning the year's program on Thursday in the Pampa Country Club.

Golf, beginning at 9:30, will precede a luncheon planned for the noon hour and will be followed by a business meeting.

A putting contest is planned for beginning golfers and those participating are asked to please bring their own putters; however, putters will be provided for those who need them. Golf balls will be awarded winners of the day.

Anyone interested in golf is invited to come out and join in the days' activities. Ass'n officers wish to emphasize that it is not necessary to be a member of the Pampa Country Club in order to join the Women's Golf Ass'n.

It has been announced that Hart Warren, golf pro, will soon start a series of lessons for beginners.

Further information may be obtained by calling MO 5-3660, MO 4-8360 or MO 5-4276.

Junior Cotillion To Entertain With Spring Ball At End Of Current Term

The Junior Cotillion will entertain with a Spring Ball, as its final session for the current term, on Thursday in St. Matthews Episcopal Parish Hall.

Invitations have been extended to parents of Cotillion students to attend.

The women of St. Matthews Episcopal Church have announced that they will continue with the sponsorship of the Junior Cotillion next year.

Following each ball session on Thursday, time has been set aside for parents to register their children in classes scheduled for next fall. Tentative plans call for classes to be started for ninth and tenth grade students, also.

The purpose of the Junior Cotillion, according to the sponsors, is to foster niceties, develop poise and the art of dancing in young people. Each class period features instruction on the dance floor; in behavior at the refreshment table and toward adult hostesses, who are always present.

The Gene Stockwell School of Dance of Oklahoma City furnishes the dance instructors and classes are held twice a month.

In order to accomplish objectives outlined by the Cotillion, members abide by all rules and regulations regarding dress and behavior. Dress rules are that each girl wears short white gloves and afternoon dresses; junior high boys wear ties with their sport coats, slacks or suits; elementary school boys wear coats and slacks or suits; ties are optional for them.

Parents, who do not have children enrolled and are interested in more details may contact Mrs. J. R. Reeve, or the church office.

Joe and Acton Nasit, both of Pampa, have returned from attending the funeral of their mother, Mrs. Minnie Nash, who lived in Kilgore. Mrs. Nash passed away on March 4. She was the sister-in-law of Mrs. Georgia Barksdale.

Mrs. Mary Puckett visited with M.E. and Mrs. Walter Foster in McLean recently. They tried their luck at fishing, but the wind blew so hard that the fish hid from them. They finally did entice ten of them out of the water, though.

L. R. Ripple, 411 Warren, who moved away from Pampa a few years ago, has returned to make his home here. He paid a visit to Senior Center on Thursday afternoon.

It was nice to see Mrs. Foree Ford, 429 Hill, at Senior Center on Thursday afternoon and we hope she will come back often.

Senior Citizens were entertained on Thursday afternoon by the women of the VFW Auxiliary. Thanks to those ladies for the delicious tea, cream, cake and coffee.

Senior Citizens, too, are grateful to the Red Cross Gray Ladies, who pick them up each Thursday afternoon and take them to the library and then return them to their homes. Lots of us couldn't go, otherwise.

We are still striving for 100 Senior Citizen guests at the Center. All of you "first timers" come back again and bring someone with you!!!

The following "Prayer For Peace" was written by my grandson Howard Richardson, four years ago, when he was a sophomore student in Natches, Miss. His class was asked to write a prayer as an assignment in English. His was selected to be printed in the Natchez News-papper:

Prayer For Peace
"Hear us, oh Lord, as we come to thee asking thy help. We pray to thee for a peace which will be deep within the hearts of all people everywhere. Let us have a peace worthwhile, which will give all people a great peace with each other. Peace in their hearts and most of all peace and faith in thee, our Lord.

"We pray, Heavenly Father, that thou will help us to become worthy of thy blessing and to remember to have faith in thee. We humbly thank thee for past goodness and utter this prayer in the name of Jesus Christ, the Prince of Peace. Amen."

Until next week. Love, Mrs. Norris.

Observance Of Ways To Observe Lenten Season Described At Meet

Woman's Society of Christian Service of St. Paul Methodist Church held its Wednesday meeting in the Fellowship Hall of the church.

The devotional, given by Mrs. Carl King, was entitled "One Solitaire Life." Mrs. George Eyer presented a program on the meaning and purpose of Lent and the Easter Season. "Three things that will help us are to know the history and purpose of the season and to master some procedure by which its purpose can be helped by us," she said.

"Years ago," Mrs. Eyer continued, "people fasted during Lent to get demons and evil spirits from their systems. First it started with one day of fasting. Then it was extended to 40 hours, which was the time Jesus spent in the tomb. It was eventually extended to 40 days; the time Jesus spent fasting in the wilderness."

"The purpose of Lent is to prepare Christians for Easter so they can feel the crucifixion of Christ," Mrs. Eyer suggested that members should have 10 minutes of prayer daily and daily Bible reading during Lent. "We should keep the commandments and say and do things in harmony with Christ."

She concluded her portion of the program with a resume of a sermon given by a Presbyterian minister, Rev. Massey Mote of Georgia.

Business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Bill Sargent, president.

Attending were Mmes. Kit Autry, Bill Sargent, Charlie Norton, Dan Cotten, Dick Wight, Jack Riley, W. F. Gaines, Carl King, L. M. Davis, George Eyer, James Hall, Odin Skinner, Bill Kennedy, and S. T. Holding.

Mrs. Mary Stafford was welcomed as a visitor.

LITTLE LIZ

3-4 Economists want an elastic monetary system. Most of us would be satisfied if it were a little more adhesive.

This spring, texture tells the fashion story... surface interest is added by basketweaves, patterned wools, checks and plaids, and the delightful new polyester fabrics that are so wonderful for summer travel... with many variations on a theme, the classic shirtwaist sets a new pace, finds its forte in blazing colors and hazy pastels... the ensemble, too, is at the fore... the dress and jacket costume comes back this season to compete with the strengthening dress and coat combination.

For after-five? The two-piece dress, of course, showing relaxed lines with pullover tops, saucy sashes, slim skirts... the pleat's in, too, but navy's traditional popularity is relieved by surging colors... when you've selected the colors, textures and style... don't forget your smile!

Hyatt-Henderson Say Vows By Candlelight

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Taylor Henderson
...nee Sherry Dian Hyatt

Miss Sherry Dian Hyatt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hyatt, 812 Bradley Dr. became the bride of Robert Taylor Henderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Henderson of Dumas in a double-ring service performed on Feb. 25 at seven o'clock in the First Assembly of God.

The Rev. J. S. McMullin, pastor, performed the ceremony in a setting of spiral candelabra holding amber-vigil cups with urns of bronze chrysanthemums flanking the prie dieu before a background of Emerald Palms. Pews of honor were marked with aisle candelabra accented with bronze satin bows holding green grape clusters.

BRIDE

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in floor-length white Chantilly lace and tulle over taffeta fashioned with a Chantilly lace bodice designed with a low, scallop sweetheart bustline extending in tulle to a high, rounded neckline; long tapered sleeves, which ended in petal points over the hands. The bouffant, encircled at the waistline with a taffeta-pleated cummerbund, was accented with appliques of Chantilly lace and ended in a chapel train.

Her double-tiered fingertip Veil of imported illusion—draped away from a Bewitching Crown hat trimmed with tulle pleated ruffles sprinkled with iridescent sequins and pearls.

The bride's only jewelry was a rhinestone and pearl pendant, a gift from the bridegroom.

She carried an arm bouquet of white roses.

The bridegroom came to the family pew to get the bride. An ancient Indian custom was also carried out in the ceremony with two red roses, which had been placed in the bride's bouquet and one each given to the mothers as a symbol of the uniting of the two families with peace and love. During the presentation of the roses to the mothers, Larry Brawley sang "True Love."

ATTENDANTS

Miss Ronda Griffin served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Boyd Thurman and Mrs. Kenneth Taylor. The feminine attendants were dressed identically in street-length dresses of Golden Tripoli Rayon fashioned with large, round collars, three-quarter length sleeves and bouffant skirts. A handmade rose of gold with green millinery leaves and gold velvet stems, made by Mrs. O. L. Lester, accented the belts at the waistlines.

The attendants wore picture hats of golden-colored rayon trimmed with a small bow on the brim. Glass-heeled slippers complemented their costumes.

The maid of honor's bouquet was of orchid pompon mums; and the bridesmaids' were of bronze pompons. The bouquets were arranged in a wicker birdcage basket with lemon leaves, a cluster of green grapes and a white dove perched on top of the basket.

Little Miss LaDaina Hyatt, bride's sister, attended as flower girl, wearing a sleeveless dress of purple peau de soie fashioned with a bouffant skirt with an overskirt complemented with a picture hat accented with a bow on the brim. She wore white satin gloves, silver ballerina slippers and carried a white basket lined with white tulle tied with satin ribbon on the handle and containing red rose petals.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Hyatt chose a mauve dress of Cuponi with gray pearlized bag and gloves, gray hat and gloves. She wore a corsage fashioned from pink feathered carnations with pink velvet millinery leaves.

Mrs. Henderson, bridegroom's mother, chose a navy suit with Bone-pearlized bag and slippers, white hat and gloves. Her corsage was fashioned from white feathered carnations with white velvet leaves.

For the benediction, Larry Brawley sang "The Lord's Prayer" by Malotte.

RECEPTION

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the City Club Room of City Hall.

The bride's table was appointed with a green cloth with an overskirt of ecru-lace and the bridesmaids' bouquets forming the centerpiece.

The focal point of the table was the tiered wedding cake decorated with white doves placed in a milk glass compote with clusters of green grapes cascading down the side. White napkins inscribed "Sherry and Robert" complemented the table's crystal and silver appointments.

Other members of the houseparty were Mrs. David Green, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Braly, Mrs. Stanley Harmon, the Rev. and Mrs. J. B. Caldwell, Mrs. Herman Taylor and Charles Rithaler.

Following the reception, the couple left for a wedding trip to Oklahoma City and points of interest in Oklahoma. For travel, the bride wore a black wool suit with a cape collar trimmed with a black-fox fur jabot, red suede bag and slippers and red hose. A black feather hat and black gloves with a corsage of red gardenias complemented her attire.

The rehearsal dinner was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley L. Bruce, 1200 Williston on Friday evening preceding the wedding.

Out-of-town guests attending were Messrs. and Mmes. Alvin Moreman of Allamore; Bill Badley of Oklahoma City; Tom Ruth of Wynnewood, Okla.; W. E. Ely, Buzzy and Larry; Albert Jones; Bobby Jones, all of Dumas; T. E. Henderson of Amarillo; Boyd Thurman and Becky; Kenneth Taylor; Dick Bell, all of Amarillo; R. C. Henderson, Miss June Henderson, Miss Ruth Mangham, all of Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Davis of Monterey, Calif.; Thomas Hamilton of Sunray; Mmes. D. L. Robbins of Stinnett; Roscoe Richards, Velma Russell, both of Borger.

Among the prenuptial courtesies extended the bride were a Lingerie Shower given in the home of Mrs. Boise Griffin, 1715 Aspen with Miss Ronda Griffin and Miss Patricia Caldwell as co-hostesses, shower in the home of Mrs. Parker Mangham, 601 E. 18 with Mmes. John Clark, Bill Lowther, Henry Randolph, All Soukeys as co-hostesses; shower in the home of Mrs. Wesley L. Bruce, 1200 Williston with Mmes. John Kirby, Jess Allison, E. G. Hemhill, B. B. Altman, Delbert Priest and Claude Williams, J. S. McMullin, Ina Webb; Bill Williamson, Charley White, W. L. Walker as co-hostesses; courtesy dinner given by ladies of the Southwestern Public Service Co.; gadget shower in the home of Mrs. Omer Bybee, 2306 Charles.

Rev. Hubbard To Speak At Lee PTA

Robert E. Lee Junior High PTA will meet Thursday at 2:30 p.m. in the school auditorium with Mrs. Dona Cornutt in charge of the program. David Cain, 7th grade student, will give the Thought for the Day.

The Rev. Ronald Hubbard, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church will be the guest speaker on the topic, "Moral Behavior... What is It?"

The seventh grade will participate with a musical program.

Parents of seventh grade students are especially invited to visit their children's classrooms before the PTA meeting.

The nominating committee composed of Jack Nichols, chairman, Mrs. Joe Donaldson and Mrs. J. R. Holloway have compiled a roster of officers, which will be presented to the membership for election on Thursday. The slate includes Mrs. Cornutt, president; Mrs. Homer D. Johnson, vice president; Mrs. W. T. Fain, secretary; Mrs. Jeff Bearden, treasurer; Mrs. Deryl Hogsett, historian; Mrs. J. W. Flynt, Mrs. H. V. Wilks, City Council delegates; Mrs. E. E. Shellamer, parliamentarian.

Other nominations for officers may come from the floor at the Mar. 16 meeting. All members are urged to attend.

Kindergarten Has Open House

More than 110 visiting guests and pupils ignored the Panhandle "duster" on Tuesday afternoon and evening to participate in Lollypop Pre-School's observance of National Education Week. Public school teachers were among the special guests registered.

Particular emphasis was given to the Skills and Crafts Committee's newly-developed program in the kindergarten. This committee, co-ordinated by Mrs. Jack Hood and Lollypop owner, Mrs. L. L. Harkins, is composed of mothers who supervise individual work in various activities such as weaving, braiding, lacing, tying, educational games, during a 45-minute period at least once a week.

A great deal of interest and excitement for the guests centered around an experiment in a straw basket which contained a dozen marked hen eggs, hovered over by a "stepmother" heating pad and destined for a box marked "orphange".

Drawings made by the children, following instructions given in French, were displayed with individual workbooks. Nursery children's number games and clay dishes in cookie carton china cabinets were also displayed. Hostesses for the open house were Mrs. C. C. Fitzgerald, full-time teacher who assists Mrs. Harkins, and Mrs. Wendell Alt Miller, special instructor in speech.

Opti-Mrs. Name Member Of Year

Mrs. Bill Jenkins was named Opti-Mrs. of the Year at the monthly meeting of the club held Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Boys' Club Building. The meeting opened with prayer by Mrs. Norma Schale.

Roll call was answered by giving the number of hours spent in club work during the past month. During the business meeting, Mrs. Schale was appointed to take over secretarial duties for the remainder of the club year.

A report from the Council of Clubs was given by Mrs. Bill Leonard. Mrs. Newt Secret was named representative to the council for the remainder of the club year.

A letter was read from Miss Henrietta DeNardini, recipient of the Opti-Mrs. Scholarship in 1960. Club members voted to send the remainder of the scholarship to Miss DeNardini at this time.

The next meeting will be a dinner meeting to be held at Caldwell's Buffetaria.

Mrs. Bill Henstee was a guest. Members attending were Meses: Bill Sims, Bill Leonard, Bill McDonald, W. A. Gibson, Bill Stephens, Bill Jenkins, Cliff Duhamel, Norma Schale, Homer Hollars, Newt Secret and K. R. Dodd.

Hep Cat Club Names Officers

New officers for the Hep Cat Club were named at a recent meeting of the club.

New officers are Misses Judy Robison, president; Linda Cox, vice president; Mary Lou Redus, secretary; Diana Edminster, treasurer; Suzanne Darling, historian; reporter; Donna Conner, parliamentarian.

These officers will be in charge of pledging new members during the summer months.

Mexico Opens Border Development Action

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—A comprehensive program, with an initial investment of 10 million dollars — and more to come — has been launched by the federal government for development of the country's northern and southern border zones.

Heading the "national border program" is Antonio J. Bermudez, for 12 years director of the government oil monopoly, Petroleros Mexicanos, and formerly a federal senator from the northern border state of Chihuahua.

The first portion of the plan will be applied to the 2,500 kilometer belt across the northern

First Waterflood Project Planned In Oklahoma Area

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (Sp) — The first carbonated waterflood project in Oklahoma's Osage County is being announced by Cities Service Petroleum Company on a 2,000-acre unit in the Domes field, 12 miles west of Bartlesville.

Cities Service production engineers estimate that the carbonated waterflood will produce 6,000,000 barrels of secondary oil.

The oil company is licensed by Oil Recovery Corporation to use the Orco Process in the 19 to 20-foot Bartlesville sand pay that underlies the unit at a depth of 1,800 feet.

Cities Service is the majority interest in the unit and will be the operator. Oil Recovery Corporation also has a joint participation in the project.

The Orco Process utilizes water and carbon dioxide — the gas that puts the fizz in a drug-store soda. The carbon dioxide is mixed with the water at the bottom of each injection well.

Carbon dioxide required for the Domes field unit will be hauled to the unit in special highway transports and unloaded into refrigerated tanks. It will be metered through injection lines to the bottom of input wells.

Initial injection is scheduled some time in May, now that approval has been obtained from the Osage Tribal Council.

201 Oil, 46 Gas Completions In Texas Last Week

AUSTIN (UPI)—The State Railroad Commission said Saturday there were 201 oil and 46 gas well completions in Texas last week.

Total for the year in both categories rose to 1,691 and 516 compared to 1,844 and 319 at the same time in 1980.

The commission received 387 regular drilling applications, and the 1981 total was behind that of last year by 2,988 to 2,847.

Eight oil and two gas discoveries were also reported.

Two oil finds were in the Abilene district and one in each of the San Antonio, Refugio, Houston, Corpus Christi, Kilgore, and Midland districts. The gas discoveries were in the Abilene and Pampa areas.

There was a 121-well increase in the total number of oil wells in Texas to a new number of 198,071 with an average calendar day allowable of 3,008,119.

Panhandle Section ISA Plans Instrument Show

The Panhandle Section of The Instrument Society of America will hold its fourth biennial Instrument Show in the Berger Dome next Wednesday and Thursday.

The show will be open Wednesday from 1 p.m. to 10 p.m. and on Thursday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The show will close with a banquet open to the public at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Berger Hotel. Highlight of the Banquet will be an appearance by Zaney Blaney, "The Ambassador from Texas."

Blaney has appeared on stage and television with Spike Jones, Eva Gabor and many other personalities.

Officers of the Instrument Society include Jack Glen, Vinson Supply Company, president; T. L. Hillburn, Phillips Petroleum Company, vice-president; and Bill Preston, Phillips Petroleum Company, show chairman.

Glen said yesterday there will be no admission charge and all persons interested in industrial instrumentation are invited to attend.

SPEAKER — R. L. Morris, above, will be the speaker at the regular monthly dinner meeting of the Panhandle Section, Society of Petroleum Engineers of A.M.E., in the Berger Hotel at 6:30 p.m. and the dinner at 7:30 p.m. Morris' topic will be "The Cement Bond Log."

FPC To Reject Contracts With 'Indefinite' Prices

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Beginning April 3 the Federal Power Commission will reject all new interstate natural gas rate contracts containing "indefinite" price-escalation clauses.

This sounds the death-knell of three rate-increase devices favored nationwide, some types of price escalation, and price redetermination.

It means that after the cut off date independent producers and pipeline companies must negotiate firm rates to cover the long periods. And it could mean the commission will be deluged with lawsuits it is ready to risk.

"Definite" escalation provisions will still be valid. These include specific rate increases set for specific future dates, plus state tax increases. But the commission issued a blistering indictment of the other clauses.

It said they contributed to price instability and uncertainty; had hurt pipeline expansion; were inherently unreasonable, with no economic or other substantial justification, and finally, but most important, do irreparable damage to the consuming public.

The commission for years has been seeking a way out of rate-making chaos complicated by indefinite escalation. It took its biggest step last September when it divided producing states into

Colosseum Badly Needs Plaster Job

ROME (UPI) — Italy's biggest ruin, the Colosseum, is in danger of falling into ruins — there just isn't enough money to look after it.

That goes for all the other great examples of architecture, villas, palaces, churches and a b b e y s, which form the backbone of Italy's rich cultural heritage.

In 1957 the government allocated 18 billion lire — nearly $3 million — to preserving these ancient splendors. But it was not nearly enough.

Last year emergency repairs were carried out on the Colosseum when part of the outer wall collapsed. But any future preservation work will require a special law for the money to be made available.

The families which have inherited Italy's treasures cannot afford them any more. The Torlonias, the Chigis, the Doria Pamphilis no longer have the capital required to put vast sums into preserving architectural splendors or works of art — capital that would not bring them income.

The solution is for the government to acquire the villas, the palaces, the historic parks. But this would require money that the government cannot spend.

The Spinola Palace in Genoa, the rich de Ciccio collection of ceramics in Naples, the Villa Savina in Rome are now state property, but were bequeathed to the nation and did not cost the government a penny. Yet maintenance alone runs into millions of lire annually.

Meanwhile, the beautiful frescoes that line the walls of private villas and of ancient castles are falling into decay. The buildings themselves are tumbling down.

What money is available is being used for the restoration of rare works of art.

Gas Technology To Be Subject At Tyler Meet

The Eastex-LouArk Section of The Society of Petroleum Engineers of AIME will present a Symposium on Gas Technology in Tyler Thursday and Friday April 20-21.

The program will consist of twelve papers covering various phases of the gas industry. Headquarters for the meeting will be the Blackstone Hotel, where all technical papers will be presented.

Various service companies plan to sponsor exhibits at the Blackstone.

Noon Luncheons will be held both days in the Carlton Hotel in Tyler. Former Governor Allan Shivers, President of Western Pipeline Company will be the guest speaker at Thursday's luncheon and Judge Arthur D. Kline, member of the Federal Power Commission, will be the guest speaker at Friday's luncheon.

A buffet-cocktail party will be held Thursday night in the new quarters of the Tyler Petroleum Club. Music will be furnished.

For the Ladies, a coffee will be held Thursday morning, April 20, 1981 at the lovely home of Mrs. H. L. Long. A Style Show luncheon is planned for Friday.

This promises to be an outstanding program in the field of Gas Technology and all interested persons are invited to attend. For reservations contact M. O. Langham, Housing Chairman, SPE-AIME Gas Symposium, P.O. Box 2025, Tyler, Texas.

Legislature Sets Tax Hearings Next Week

AUSTIN (UPI)—The 57th Texas Legislature entered its third month yesterday and got set for public hearings on a sales tax, next week and floor action on another important tax bill.

Only 23 of the more than 1,000 proposed bills have been signed in law so far by Gov. Price Daniel. And not a single new tax has been approved by the House of Representatives, where such legislation must originate.

But last week Daniel credited the house with "a highly significant step in setting the stage for balancing the state's budget."

He referred to a 149-1 vote in adopting a resolution by Rep. Charles Ballman of Borger calling for immediate passage of deficit retirement bills ahead of the next spending and taxing for the next biennium.

Ballman's own tax bill, dubbed the "loophole bill" because it was originally intended to extend levies to certain items not covered by previous taxes, is expected to come up for floor debate next Thursday.

Floor amendment could convert Ballman's bill into any kind of tax.

The first tax action of the week is set for Wednesday afternoon, with public hearings on bills to levy a general 2 per cent sales tax.

Rep. John Allen of Longview and Rep. Charles Wilson of Trinity are sponsors of the similar bills to be considered by the House Revenue and Taxation Committee.

Other tax bills in line for future consideration include a double-barreled program introduced last week by easy introduction of bills.

From now on, it will take a four-fifths vote to introduce new legislation and this could kill tax bills opposed by as many as 30 representatives.

Income tax bills by Rep. Dan Struve of Campbellton, for 1 per cent and for 5 per cent, and by Rep. Tommy Shannon of Fort

Oil Producers Concerned Over Alliance Terms

WASHINGTON (Sp) — Domestic oil producers have expressed "concern" over terms of a new international alliance which could upset United States programs on oil imports and lead to worldwide "end use" control of fuels.

L. Dan Jones, counsel for the Independent Petroleum Association of America, testified recently before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in connection with proposed U. S. membership in "Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD)."

Jones pointed to "several provisions" of the OECD convention charter under which the U. S. would have "one vote if it participated as a member of the inter-al body, that he said "particularly heconcern" domestic oil producers.

"This concern arises because of the impact these provisions might have upon petroleum, one of the largest factors in world trade, and the resultant adverse effects upon the domestic oil and natural gas producing industry," Jones said.

One provision of the OECD convention, he pointed out, "provides that member countries agree "both individually and jointly" that they will seek to "promote the efficient use of their economic resources."

"The phrase 'efficient use' as used in this provision," he said, "carried with it the connotation when applied to natural resources of (1) international proration of production, (2) international allocation of markets and (3) international conservation programs."

As applied to fuels—such as oil, natural gas and coal, this authority for promotion of "efficient use" could be used "for determining the end use of fuels according to classes of consumers," said the IPAA attorney.

SEB Puts Stop On Advertising Texas Oil Land

AUSTIN (UPI)—The State Securities Board Saturday ordered an Arizona firm to stop advertising with false and misleading statements the sale of possible oil land near Van Horn, Tex., in Presidio County.

"This is the old con game of offering something for nothing designed to make the promoters a great profit," contended commissioner William M. King.

He said the Texas Oil Land Corp. of Tucson advertised in five states to sell securities for oil and gas royalties on 8,624 acres of a 21,000 acre ranch near the Rio Grande.

Parcels of five acres were offered for $199 on monthly terms, with the promise that if oil is found anywhere on the ranch the proceeds will be shared.

"Advertisers make no mention of the pooling agreement which would be needed to have this kind of sharing," King said.

"It is this sharing that makes this scheme an investment contract."

King alleged in his order that prospective buyers are led to believe that the State of Texas has designated the land as containing valuable mineral deposits, which representation is false.

The Arizona firm, a subsidiary of Horizon Land Corp., had advertised in Iowa, Ohio, Florida, New York and California. King said the state of Pennsylvania has already ordered the company to stop advertising there.

"The use of real estate, in this instance, is merely a vehicle by which to sell securities," King said. "It could just as well be used cars, elephants or a lottery ticket."

No Punishment

PINOLE, Calif. (UPI) — Mark Ferreira, 5, is told to stay in bed even though he awakes an hour before his parents. He disobeyed these orders recently when he awoke to find the home was burning.

He called his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Ferreira, who managed to get Mark and two other children, Nancy, 3, and David, 11, to safety. Twenty-three firemen put out the blaze, caused by a smoldering carton near a garage wall.

Short and Long

DUNEDIN, Fla. (UPI) — Paul Runyan played the shortest final match in the history of the PGA championship. He set a record by beating Sam Snead 8 and 7 in 1938 and equalled another by beating Craig Wood 1 up on the 38th hole in 1934.
