City Commission Discusses Bids For Truck, Pipe

The Pampa City Commission this morning spent most of its regular session opening and discussing bids for a dump truck and pipe.

The low bid for the dump truck was submitted by Texas Evans on a GMC unit at $3,785.00. The other bids were Culbertson Chevrolet, $3,857.13, Barrett Ford, $3,988.00 and Parker Motor Co. $4,263.42.

The bids for pipe were not let since it was decided that time was needed for city employees to correlate the bids so that an accurate comparison could be made. Action on this matter is scheduled for next week.

The commission appointed Johnny Watson to serve in a vacancy on a three man appraisal board that would advise the commission of the estimated costs involved in widening and improving South Cuyler and Alcock Streets.

Along this same line, Wayland Merriman, consulting engineer, discussed with the commission plans he had laid out for the widening of South Cuyler between Brown and McCullough Streets. Merriman stated that he had not completed his studies regarding drainage problems but said that the whole proposal would be ready in several days. The essential program for the widening calls for increasing the street proper from a width of about 42 feet to 64 feet, the more gradual curving of Cuyler at Five Points and a sophisticated traffic flow system at Five Points itself.

The commission also discussed the feasibility of a road from the east end of 23rd Street to the city dump grounds, pointing out that this would save city trash trucks considerable time and distance in serving the residential areas north of the high school. It was decided, however, that any action on this should be postponed until some of the other major street improvements were taken care of.

In routine business, the commission approved payment of a bill from the Continental Oil Co. for $950.30.

French Army On Guard Against Paris Violence

PARIS (UPI)—The French government kept its armored reinforcements in Paris today to guard against any violent Secret Army Organization (OAS) reaction to President Charles de Gaulle's tough speech on Algeria.

De Gaulle, in an address to the nation Monday night, said he expected a quick end to the seven-year-old Algerian war, meaning an agreement with the Algeria Moslem rebels.

It was the worst possible news for the European right-wing extremists who have pledged their lives to keep Algeria French.

As De Gaulle spoke, squads of gendarmes and riot police ranged the city's streets to prevent the possible sabotage of his radio-television broadcast.

Tanks and armored cars deployed in the suburbs went on alert against a possible uprising by the extremists.

None occurred, but a spokesman for the national police said the heavy guard would remain as long as there was danger of OAS violence.

De Gaulle did not mention the OAS by name. But he said "the nation despises and unanimously condemns these people, their plotting and their outrages."

The deadline for candidates to file for the primaries was last midnight. There was a late rush of Democrats filing for lieutenant governor and attorney general.

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson announced early as a candidate for governor, and Ben Ramsey has resigned as

Two Cubans Executed In Plot To Destroy Castro

MIAMI (UPI)—Cuban sources here said today a Castro official was assassinated and two foes of the regime were secretly executed in Cuba over the weekend.

Travelers from Cuba said Lt. (j.g.) Agustin Rumbaut, chief judge of the Castro "revolutionary tribunal" in Santiago, Cuba, was murdered on the outskirts of the city Sunday. The precise method of the killing was not reported.

The travelers said the 32-year-old naval officer, who was said to have sentenced four Americans and 17 other persons to death during his term as judge, was buried in Havana Monday. His death was officially labeled an "accident," they said.

At the same time, refugee sources said two Cubans accused of plotting to assassinate Premier Fidel Castro were tried, sentenced to death and executed secretly Friday in Havana's Cabana fortress-prison.

The two men—Octavio Barroso and a dentist whose name could not be determined immediately—were slain by a firing squad in the ancient fortress's dry moat, the sources said.

The two men were convicted of planning to block Castro's car with a jeep outside Havana's "sports city" stadium while tommygunners in another car poured a hail of fire into the premier's car.

One of Barroso's sisters and his wife are living here as refugees.

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Foreign Ministry today branded as "bumbug" rumors that an assassination attempt had been made on Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

"This is fantastic, pure humbug," a spokesman for the ministry said.

"This is a dangerous and foolish story. These rumors have no foundations. They are bogus rumors."

Khrushchev's prolonged absence from Moscow had stirred up a new crop of rumors about his health but all available evidence indicated he is as fit and active as ever.

Burmese diplomatic sources here said the premier received one of their delegations at Kiev Jan. 26 and joked about rumors of his "death" and about Western speculation that "something was going on in the Kremlin."

WASHINGTON (UPI)—U.S. officials said Monday that Fidel Castro may soon have ballistic missiles and Soviet jet bombers—all within easy reach of the United States.

The information was contained in a declassified Defense Department and State Department estimate of Cuba's Soviet-supplied arms build-up.

There have been unconfirmed reports for some time that mountains near Havana, in Pinar Del Rio Province and in Matanzas Province were being secretly excavated to house missile installations.

The estimate, based on intelligence information, said Castro has a $160 million arsenal, the "most formidable military establishment" ever seen in Latin America.

President Asks 5-Year Program At Basic Level

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy sent Congress today an "imperative" request for a $5.7 billion, five-year education program including federal funds for public schools and teacher salaries.

The President, in a 4,000-word special message, drove head-on into powerful congressional opposition by renewing recommendations he made last year which were shelved by the lawmakers.

Early warnings that general aid for public schools and teachers is dead in the House did not deter Kennedy.

"We cannot afford to lose another year in mounting a national effort to eliminate the shortage of classrooms, to make teachers' salaries competitive, and to lift the quality of instruction," the President said.

He urgently asked for the same bill passed by the Senate last year but killed in the House Rules Committee; "legislation providing federal aid for public elementary and secondary classroom construction and teachers' salaries."

Kennedy's five-year program included $2.1 billion for general aid to education; $747 million to improve the quality of education through special teacher scholarship and training programs; $2.1 billion for higher education, including college construction and scholarships for 200,000 students a year; and $600 million for a vast medical and dental school building program plus scholarships for students in these specialty fields.

Most of his requests for appropriations were in the fiscal 1963 budget submitted last month. Much of the legislation sought by Kennedy still is pending in Congress, left over from last year.

Administration officials said only two new bills would be needed, one for the quality improvement plan and the other providing for a five-year, $50.2 million attack on adult illiteracy.

Calling elementary and secondary schools the foundation of the educational system, the President said there was little value in attempting to improve higher education and increase the supply of scientists and technicians "without a greater effort for excellence at this basic level."

"Our crucial needs at this level have intensified" since last year, he said, adding also that "our deficiencies have grown more critical."

"It is imperative that such a proposal carrying out these objectives be enacted this session," Kennedy said.

His general aid proposal last year founded in the House Rules Committee, largely over the issue of whether federal assistance also should be extended to parochial and private schools. In his 1961 education message, the president said there was a "clear prohibition" in the Constitution against allocating federal funds to construct church schools or pay their teachers' salaries.

Other congressional news: Censorship—The Senate subcommittee investigating military censorship scheduled a meeting to discuss Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's refusal to identify Pentagon censors who made specific deletions.

Debt—Congress gave President Kennedy bipartisan support Monday for a quick $2 billion boost in the national debt ceiling. Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon, presenting the administration's case to the House Ways & Means Committee, said Kennedy would put off until spring asking for an additional $10 billion increase. The committee, apparently in agreement on the $2 billion hike, scheduled a formal vote for Wednesday.

Urban Affairs Post Under Heavy Fire Of Republicans

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congressional hearings on President Kennedy's plan to create a new Cabinet-level Department of Urban Affairs erupted into a hot political argument today less than five minutes after they started.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House government operations subcommittee summoned Budget Director David E. Bell today to discuss President Kennedy's plan to set up a Cabinet Department of Urban Affairs.

Bell was the first witness before the subcommittee headed by Rep. William L. Dawson, D-Ill. It is studying Kennedy's reorganization plan, which would create the department unless the House or the Senate rejects the idea within 60 days.

The plan has come under a storm of protests from Republicans.

Dutch-Indonesian Row Finds U.S. In Middle

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States was caught squarely in the middle of an international dispute today, with predictable results. Both contestants were taking it out on Washington.

Ever since President Sukarno of Indonesia began talking earlier this winter of "liberating" Dutch-controlled West New Guinea, the United States has tried to play a neutral and helpful role.

The squabble involved a NATO ally at a time when this country was trying to build new trade relations with Europe, and an important representative of Asian nationalism which, in the cold war struggle with the Russians, the United States also was trying to befriend.

Last week the Dutch-Indonesian quarrel took a sudden turn which was impossible for U.S. diplomacy to evade. The Japanese government denied the Netherlands air stopover rights in Tokyo for planes ferrying Dutch troops relocations to West New Guinea.

On Friday The Netherlands informed Washington that a KLM chartered plane carrying 110 soldiers to New Guinea — out of uniform and without their weapons— was making the trip across the American continent with stopovers at Anchorage, Alaska, and Honolulu.

Under the 1944 Chicago Air Convention, The Netherlands said, no permission was necessary for such a "civilian" flight — only advance notice.

The State Department left the Friday flight go through, while its officials studied aviation treaties and took a quick reading on the diplomatic pressures converging on Washington.

In Jakarta, Indonesia, Monday about 100 youths stoned the U.S. Embassy, injuring a woman secretary.

Lester Jones Enters Race For State Representative

Lester A. Jones, 2017 Christine, filed yesterday for a place on the Democratic ballot as representative to the Texas Legislature from the 87th district.

Jones, a resident of Gray County for 25 years is an oil and gas producer.

In announcing his candidacy, Jones issued the following statement: "I have filed as a candidate for representative because I believe in the democratic principle of government.

"I am opposed to any bureau having as its authority the imposing of a financial cost to the citizens of this district.

"I intend to conduct an active campaign for this office in which these issues and many others will be fully discussed."

Two more Gray County men filed late yesterday for the post of county commissioner in Precinct 2.

John Kelly, 1116 N. Russell announced he will seek election on the May Democratic Primary ballot.

Bill Tidwell, 42, a resident of Gray County for 35 years issued the following statement in announcing his candidacy: "I am seeking this office so I can represent the people for the betterment of our community. If elected I will conduct the office with honesty and fairness to all." Tidwell filed on the Republican ticket.

A. H. Doucette, 300 W. Brownning, also filed yesterday for re-election on the Democratic ticket as Gray County surveyor.

Report Awaited On Year-Long Railroad Study

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Is railroad "featherbedding" fact or fancy? Are the railroads forced to pay for work never performed and saddled with wasteful practices that cost them $600 million a year? Or are union leaders correct when they claim that rail workers have fallen behind their brothers in industrial plants and deserve shorter hours, more overtime and more premium pay? These are typical questions the Presidential Railroad Commission may help answer when it issues recommendations this month following a year-long investigation of wages, hours and working conditions of train operating employees.

The 15-man commission, headed by Federal Judge Simon H. Rifkind, was created by former President Eisenhower to deal with the railroads' demands for an overhaul of the work rules and pay rates of 200,000 engineers, firemen, conductors, brakemen and switchmen.

Failure to reach an agreement could lead eventually to a nationwide railroad strike.

The attack on alleged "featherbedding" was launched three years ago by Daniel P. Loomis, president of the American Association of Railroads (AAR), and pressed at 1959 wage negotiations with five rail brotherhoods.

Unable to reach a settlement at the bargaining table over the rules conflict, both sides agreed to submit the complex dispute to a special presidential panel for recommendations that would not be legally binding on either party.

The most dramatic issue centers on the 35,000 firemen helpers to engineers on diesel locomotives in freight or railroad yard service.

The railroads want the right to remove these men on grounds they "tend no fires and stoke no boilers." Rail unions protest that the firemen's job consists of troubleshooting the diesel engines and acting as safety lookout.

If the firemen could be eliminated except on passenger runs, the carriers say, it would save them about $250 million a year in wages.

The railroad offensive sparked a strong counter-attack from the Railroad Labor Executives Association. Union leaders said rank-and-file workers regard "featherbedding" as a dirty word.

In their reply, the union chiefs said the campaign was an effort to "brainwash" the public and was based on distorted facts and comparisons.

George M. Harrison, head of the railway clerks, said the average railroad worker receives a straight-time hourly wage of $2.65. This, he said, covered work done on nights, Sundays and holidays and did not include expenses for time spent away from home terminals.

The five unions involved asked the commission to modernize the wage structure to reward train crews for an advance in railroad productivity.

The report must be submitted by March 1 at the latest.

Population of the U.S. increased from 151.3 million in 1950 to 179.3 million in 1960.

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Ever since May 1, 1958, when Argentine President Arturo Frondizi took office, the armed services have acted as the jealous guardians of the revolution which toppled the dictatorship of Juan D. Peron.

It was in this role that, over the weekend, the leaders of Argentina's army, navy and air force served upon Frondizi their demands that Argentina depart from its "soft line" toward Cuba and join the majority of American nations in Fidel Castro's ouster from the inter-American system.

After many hours, Frondizi reluctantly agreed. There were reports that he also had agreed to fire his foreign minister and break relations with Cuba.

The degree of his reluctance became apparent the next day. In a speech he sharply defended Argentina's actions at Punta del Este and denounced apostles of democracy who would "put an end to it in their own country."

Nonetheless, the agreement which had pacified the military still stood and it appeared that Frondizi, after a show of defiance, would, as he has been forced to do in the past, bend to the will of the armed forces.

Conflicts between Frondizi and the bitterly anti-Peronist and Anti-Communist military leadership have not been uncommon in the nearly four hectic years of the Frondizi government.

The difficulties under which Frondizi has worked stem from conditions peculiar to Argentina.

In the economic field, he has restored international faith in the Argentine peso, enabling him to receive massive financial aid both from the United States and Europe. Properties seized by Peron have been restored to their rightful owners.

There have been frequent charges by the military that Frondizi has been soft on Peronism and has allowed both Peronists and Communists to infiltrate his government.

The regime's record on communism is clear. The record on Peronism less clear.

In April, 1959, his government outlawed the Communist party and its front organizations. In that same month, the Argentine government ousted a counselor of the Soviet embassy and declared three other Soviet diplomats plus a Romanian unwelcome.

On the other hand, there was the coincidence of a government economic adviser named Rogelio Frigerio who was identified as a Frondizi link to the Peronists. Frigerio lost his job in May 1959 on the charge that his influence made the government too tolerant of Peronist and Communist forces in the unions and government.

But at Punta del Este he popped up again as a behind the scenes adviser on economic and foreign policies. Argentine dispatches have suggested that his was a strong influence in maintaining Argentina's soft policy toward Cuba.

Le Plus Long Paquebot Affronte La Competition

THE SHIP FRANCE: Buoyed up by the hopes of land-based businessmen.

By ROSETTE HARGROVE
PARIS (NEA) — February 3 marked more than the start of the maiden voyage of the world's longest passenger ship. It was the day of the French Line's big commitment to tourist class travel.

Their liner France, built at a cost of $75 million, will regularly steam across the Atlantic with space for 2,044 passengers. Some 1,650 of those berths are in tourist class — traditionally the cheapest way of crossing the ocean, except by freighter.

The 1,035-foot-long France is able to carry more tourist fares than any other liner. The rest of her staterooms will be first class.

The two elements which make the voyage of the France financially risky: Passenger ship travel dropped sharply in 1961, and steamships faced increasingly vigorous competition from the air lines.

The British Cunard Line announced that their transatlantic traffic had fallen to 117,547 fares last year — a drop of 30,000 from 1960. And a spokesman for the French Line estimated that company's traffic was down 5,000 from the 1960 figure of 40,724. But complete figures are not yet available.

The French Line spokesman blamed the drop largely on the unsettled European political climate and competition from the air lines, whose traffic increased in 1961.

Air travel has cut into the steamship business drastically since World War II. Now two in every three persons crossing the Atlantic go by air.

How does the France plan to meet the challenge?

The company plans to corral an increased percentage of the surface traffic by offering speed, service and Gallic luxury — plus what it hopes will be attractive tourist rates. The company official was hopeful that the France could attract would-be air passengers as well.

On its trial run before the maiden crossing the ship cleaved through the waters at a speed in excess of 35 knots. It is making the transatlantic trip in four and a half days — an elongated week-end.

The class will be held at the Youth Center from 7 to 10 p.m. each Wednesday night until the course is completed.

The France represents the world's second largest floating hotel (the Queen Elizabeth carries 150 more passengers). Its dining rooms will daily serve meals to 3,000 passengers and crew.

Some deluxe staterooms include living room, three bedrooms with private baths, pantry and servants' quarters and large patio. Most expensive suites in the first class compartment go for $4,000 for three persons. Tourist class fares run from $270 to $350 depending on the season.

Other touches: 700-seat theater, 8 bars, 5 dance floors, 2 libraries, 2 swimming pools, 2 bowling alleys, a gymnasium, children's "amusement park" and complete air conditioning.

The France's hull has been constructed for possible conversion to atomic propulsion. This conversion is not foreseen for at least 10 years.

Texas Methodist Ministers Plan Education Drive

DALLAS (UPI) — Dr. Charles Allen, pastor of the Houston First Methodist Church, said Monday night that the "most stupendous task man ever faced was education of youth."

Allen, head of the Methodist Church's second largest congregation, spoke at a meeting of 600 Texas Methodist ministers. They pledged $135,000 to a five-year drive to collect $32 million for Texas Methodist-supported universities and colleges.

Allen told the pastors that more and more education will be needed in years to come. He said there are now 900,000 college students in the southern states from Texas to the Atlantic Ocean.

"The same area will have doubled that number, or 1.8 million students, by 1972," he said.

The $7 million, $7 million of which has already been subscribed, will go to finance Southern Methodist University, Texas Wesleyan College in Fort Worth, Southwestern University at Georgetown, Lon Morris Junior College at Jacksonville and about 39 Wesleyan Foundation centers on campuses throughout Texas.

A dinner to get the statewide campaign officially started has been scheduled for March 8 in Dallas.

Ship Bombed In New Algerian Terror Outbreak

ALGIERS, Algeria (UPI)—Terrorists bombed a ship, shot a high French official and raided a leading Algerian newspaper office today in violent defiance of President Charles de Gaulle's threat to wipe out the outlawed Secret Army Organization (OAS).

A bomb planted in an automobile exploded on the steamer Ville de Bordeaux in the port of Bone this afternoon, killing four persons and wounding a number of others. The vessel was carrying a company of riot squad police back to France.

One of the four dead was an officer of the riot police. Another was a woman going back to France to join her husband. The other two were an unidentified man and his 8-year-old son.

The blast came just as the ship was about to sail for Marseilles. Police sources said the bomb was planted in a car loaded in one of the forward holds.

Guns were sprayed the car of Jean Oudinot, director of Algeria of the state-operated French radio and television service, as it was driven through the heart of Algiers this morning. Oudinot was wounded seriously and his Moslem chauffeur killed by the sub-machinegun fire.

The attack from ambush came shortly after an estimated 30 or more armed commandos of the OAS invaded the plant of the Echo d'Oran in the western port city of Oran and forced its employees to print 20,000 copies of a special "OAS edition."

In other terrorism across this trouble-racked North African land before midday two other Moslems and a European were killed. The violence brought the toll since Jan. 1 to 639 dead and 1,113 wounded.

The raid on the newspaper plant was an especially bold action.

Molotov Leaves Kremlin Hospital
MOSCOW (UPI)—Former Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov has been released from the Kremlin hospital where he had spent 12 days recovering from influenza, it was reported today.

Hospital sources told UPI the 72-year-old Bolshevik is in "good" condition. They said he has returned to his apartment in Moscow.

It was not immediately certain whether Molotov would return to the post at the Vienna headquarters of the International Atomic Energy Agency.

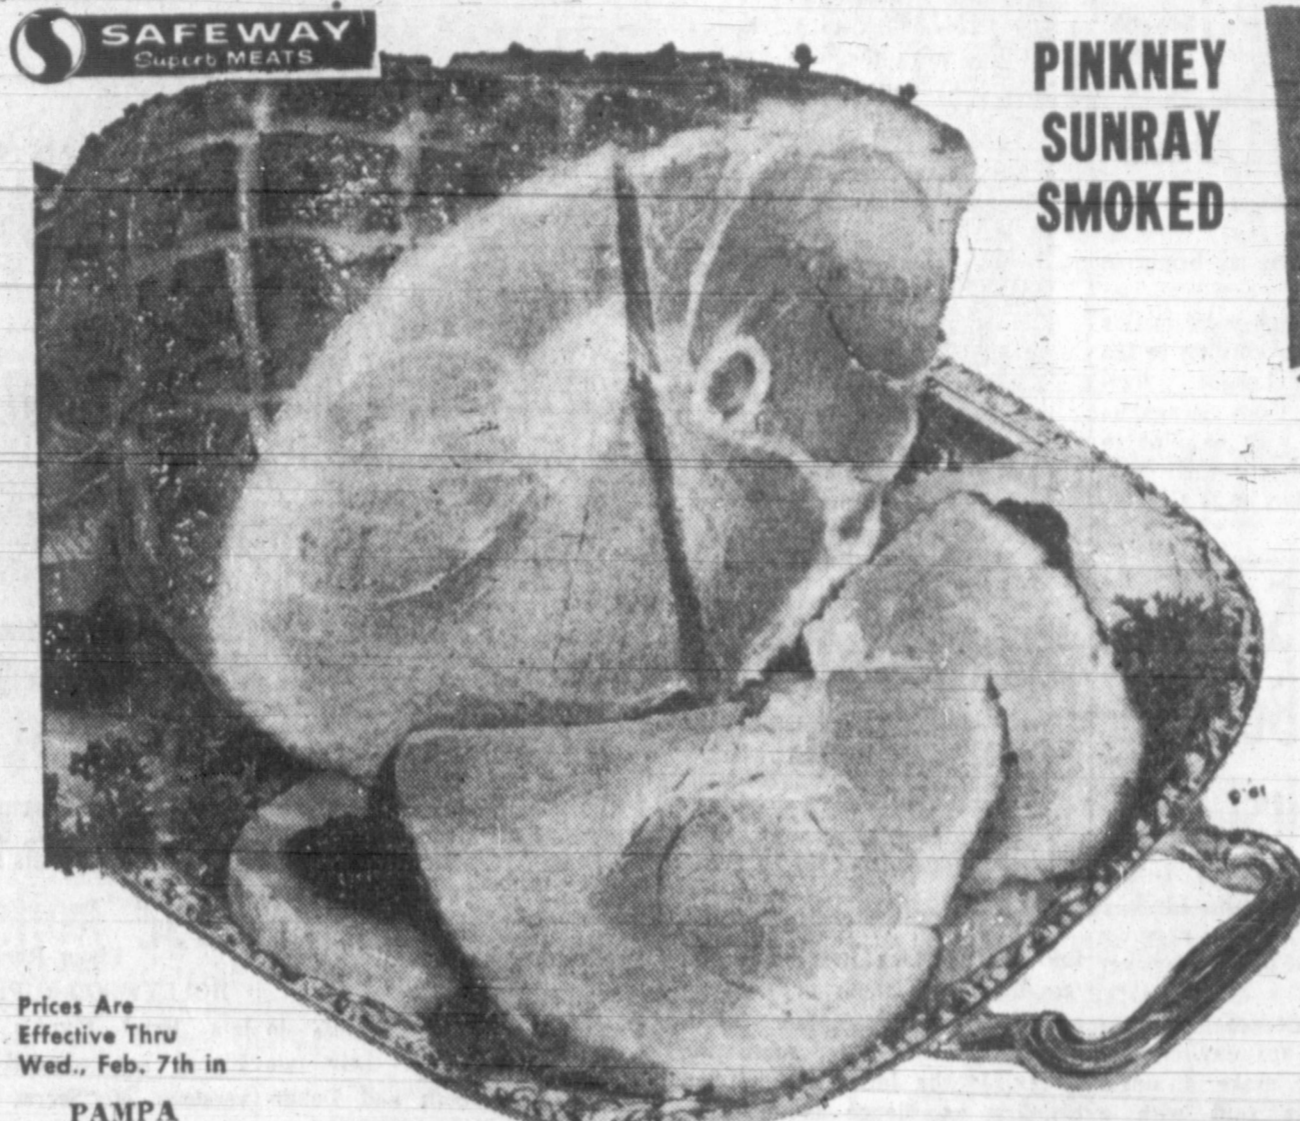

He left Nov. 12 after Premier Nikita Khrushchev renewed his denunciation of the former cabinet member's "anti-party" activities.

The foreign ministry disclaimed any knowledge of Molotov's plans. A spokesman would say only that "anything can happen."

Astronaut Glenn Chats With JFK

Intolerance And Hatred Cropping Up Again In Many World Areas

By FREDERICK M. WINSHIP
United Press International
Anti-Semitism, a century old international agitation which reached its bloody climax in Hitler Germany, has shown signs of a resurgence in Russia, Morocco, Argentina, Germany and the United States.

A survey of Jewish organizations and news dispatches from around the world indicate these countries account for the bulk of publicized incidents involving intolerance, hatred and violence against Jews and Jewish institutions. Many incidents created by hatemongers and bigots are not reported. To complain is to invite further persecution in some countries, and many Jews find it embarrassing to complain.

Anti-Semitism is widespread in the Moslem countries of the Middle East and North Africa with the exception of Tunisia and Algeria where freedom of worship and movement are enjoyed by Jews, according to the latest report of the American Jewish Committee.

Only a handful of Jews remain in the Moslem heartland, but even so, vilification of the Jews on radio, TV and in the newspapers of the area is the worst since Nazi days, the AJC said. Repressions in Morocco have been particularly severe since the death of liberal King Mohammed early last year. Moroccan Jews are no longer allowed to emigrate to Israel.

Occasionally there is an eruption of visual anti-Semitism such as the swastika-smearing of a synagogue in Cologne, Germany, in 1959, setting off an international wave of vandalism. More than 400 swastika daubings were reported in Germany in 1959 and 1960. This has tapered off as the result of a concerted condemnation by government officials, religious, labor and civic leaders and the press and vigorous police action.

The Anti-Defamation League of the B'nai B'rith, which keeps day by day tabs on vandalism and desecration in the United States, received reports of about 180 incidents in 1961, a drop of more than 800 from the record swastika splashing year of 1960. However, the number is still six times as great as the average annual number of incidents for the years 1938 to 1958. The league points out that many more American Jews may be willing to report persecution now that the problem is well publicized in the United States.

New York, Florida and California seem to be favored arenas for furtive bigots, crackpots and youthful vandals who bomb, throw bricks and swab swastikas and obscene anti-Semitic slogans on Jewish homes and institutions by night, the league reports. Florida was a hotbed of anti-Semitism in the early '30s but the situation has been quiescent in the past 12 months except for cases of vandalism in Miramar and Homestead.

Two synagogues in New York City were set afire in January and the Union of Orthodox Rabbis have demanded police protection for all synagogues. A publishing company in Union City, N.J., circulates reams of anti-Semitic literature. Jewish organizations struggle to eradicate one of the last bastions of prejudice against Jews in New York City housing—the expensive East Side cooperative apartments.

But law enforcement officials and Jewish spokesmen admit that the situation is better in New

Mrs. Rockefeller Out Of Seclusion

RENO, Nev. (UPI)—Mrs. Nelson Rockefeller, here to establish residence to obtain a Nevada divorce from the New York governor, came out of seclusion yesterday to ride horseback. She rode around the grounds of the Donner Trail guest ranch for about half an hour and then returned to the main lodge. It was the first time she had left the house since she arrived at the ranch eight miles west of here Thursday night.

York than it has been for several years. The picture is not as bright in California where anti-Semitism reached "a real high point in this country" in 1961, according to the Anti-Defamation League. Incidents ranging from swastikas buried in lawns with gasoline to the desecration of a Jewish cemetery were reported in 25 California communities.

Missile, Space Vehicle Boss 'Blew' First Job

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Hilliard W. Paige quite literally blew his first job by crossing the wires of a 10,000 horsepower generator.

"Some guys just aren't cut out to operate in an environment where you can't make a single false move," he said with a twinkle in his eyes. But the company forgave him. That was 20 years ago and today the 42-year-old engineer is boss of General Electric Co.'s out-of-this-world, or missile and space vehicle, department.

But for his eyesight, he might be working under the sea instead of above the air today. Son of a U.S. Navy engineering officer who was stationed for many years at the Groton, Conn., submarine yards, Paige had hoped to enter the Naval Academy and follow in his father's footsteps.

His eyes didn't meet Navy standards for the class of 1941, so Paige enrolled at Worcester Polytechnic Institute where Dr. Robert Goddard, father of American rocketry, had performed his first experiments and was graduated as a mechanical engineer in 1941. Paige's first job, 20 years ago, was as a trainee with GE. That's where he blew the generator. At the completion of his training program, Paige was back at submarine, working first on a system to locate them underwater, and later on development of a nuclear reactor for submarine power. In the latter job he had his first experience as manager of a technical group.

And from it he went from GE to the American Machine and Foundry where he headed a force that in 18 months solved a highly technical problem that had defied solution for 10 years. He was promoted to chief engineer but at the time of the Korean conflict returned to General Electric for more challenging defense work.

Paige worked on jet engines until the mid-1950s when he moved to the missile and space vehicle department as manager of nose cone systems and projects. He is presently general manager of the department, with more than 10,000 scientists, technicians and workers under him and a new $30 million plant in operation near Valley Forge. He still has underwater interests. Skin diving is a favorite hobby and a tank of bright tropical fish ornament has been moved from his temporary office in a former canned goods warehouse to the new one, overlooking a private heliport. Paige and his wife live in nearby Berwyn with their two daughters, Elizabeth and Deborah.

P. R. Firm Puts In A Pitch For 'Free Ad Ride'

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—It is not that I have anything against press agents. It's just that I have a mean streak which manifests itself in the form of diabolical plots.

Currently, I am plotting to destroy the peace of mind of a New York public relations firm whose clients include a company that manufactures cotton swabs. These swabs are the type that mothers buy to use on babies. As to what they do with them, I haven't the vaguest notion. Anyway, this P. R. outfit hired a clipping service to comb through newspapers from all over the nation and snip out items in which cotton swabs are mentioned.

I happen to know this because about a month ago I mentioned cotton swabs in something I wrote. In due time, I received a bundle of clippings from the P. R. firm. With the clippings came a note hinting that the P. R. firm would not be offended if in the future I mentioned its client's brand name when referring to cotton swabs. Such an occasion doesn't arise very often. Most of the subjects I write about — congressmen, bureaucrats and the like — are pretty far removed from cotton swabs.

But as I was reading the note, something snapped in my brain, letting loose a fiendish idea that must have been submerged somewhere in my subconscious. It would be sadistically good fun, I thought, if newspapermen began arbitrarily to inject a mention of cotton swabs in their copy, regardless of subject matter.

You can immediately see what that would lead to. Chaos at the clipping service, that's what. I have been drawing myself mental pictures of the clipping people rushing out to get more scissors and things like that, but still being swamped with swab stories.

"Look out!" I can hear them shout. "Here comes another swarm of swabs!" This vision includes vice presidents of the clipping service staying awake nights trying to figure out what caused the sudden surge of swabbing in the public print. Eventually, all of the clippings would be baled together and delivered to the P. R. firm. I visualize a fleet of trucks pulling up to a building on Madison Avenue and looking for a place to unload.

Negro In Line For Cabinet Post If New Department Is Approved

By LYLE C. WILSON
WASHINGTON (UPI)—It is a misfortune of great consequence that the racial dispute obscures other matters on which the voters should be informed.

So it is with the administration bill now confronting the House of Representatives to establish a new Cabinet department. This would be the Department of Urban Affairs and Housing.

If Congress approves, the man most likely to join the Kennedy Cabinet as secretary of the new department is Dr. Robert C. Weaver. He presently is administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency. Weaver is a Negro.

Weaver's race has become a factor of considerable importance in congressional consideration of the bill. Attention is thereby diverted from other aspects of the proposal that are enormously more important. This is not an urban affairs project but a grass roots proposition of unlimited scope.

For example: The full title of the bill is for the purpose of "establishing a department of urban affairs and housing, and for other purposes." Urban affairs are city or town affairs.

The sponsors of this legislation were careful to nullify the urban qualifications of their project. Section 3 (D) of the bill offered in the House states that:

"For the purpose of this act, the terms urban affairs and urban communities are intended to include all communities, regardless of size, whether incorporated or unincorporated."

St. Matthew's To Hold Scout Week Services Sunday

Boy Scout Week will be observed at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church Sunday at the 11 a.m. worship service. Boys and their parents from Cub Pack 24 and Troop 24 will worship as a group.

The Rev. William E. West has prepared a special sermon entitled "Don't Wear a Ragamuffin Heart." Scouts will serve as ushers and many of the boys in the troop will assist in the service as acolytes.

Other activities of the church during the week include a continuation of Cottage Meetings at which members of the church meet in the various homes of the members on Sunday night.

The purpose of the meetings is for fellowship, to learn more of the program of the Church and to suggest goals and projects for coming years.

Members of the Men's Club and their families will meet tonight to make final plans for the Annual Shrove Tuesday Pancake Supper to be held in March.

This is an annual event of the church and the money raised is used for projects of evangelism.

HARDLY WORTH IT
MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—Richard R. Horn, a University of Wisconsin student, hiked 80 miles from Madison, Wis., to Milwaukee over the weekend to win a $3 bet.

Of his trip he said Sunday, "I guess this was kind of a stupid idea."

House Committee on Government Operations notes this confusion of terms. This report opposes the legislation. It makes the point that it must be presumed that a couple of houses and a country crossroads could qualify for federal counsel and funds under the terms of the bill.

Establishment of the new department would add to the bureaucratic sprawl of the increasingly centralized federal government. Millions of voters would favor that, or anyway would not object. Other millions would object, however. The race issue now raised is likely to obscure for both groups, pro and con, the facts upon which they should form their judgments.

Another example: The cost of the new department and whether costs would steadily increase. Government spending is another basic issue on which the voters are divided. The majority report from the House Committee, recommending establishing the new department, cited the testimony of David E. Bell, director of the budget.

Bell testified the bill would create 16 new federal jobs and eliminate 14 for a net increased cost of $64,000. He anticipated certain direct economies by reason of consolidation of several agencies into the new department.

Precedent challenges Bell's optimism about costs. Congress created the Department of Health, Education and Welfare in 1953. It absorbed 10 agencies and institutions. HEW employed 36,613 persons in 1953; 63,154 in 1961. Congress appropriated for HEW in 1953, $1.9 billion; in 1961, $3.8 billion.

Perhaps the budget director had forgotten about that.

Air Inspectors Now Must Know Aviation Score

WASHINGTON (UPI)—It was just a couple of years ago that a Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) inspector boarded a Capitol Airlines Viscount and informed the captain:

"I'm here to give you a check ride."

"Fine," said the captain, "I assume you've flown Viscounts?"

"No," the inspector confessed. "Then how in the name of Orville Wright are you supposed to check me out?" the captain demanded.

There wasn't any answer then but there is now. FAA is sending its inspectors to specialized airline schools to receive the same kind of training on the same type of equipment as regular air carrier pilots. It is one of the reforms instituted by FAA Administrator Najeeb E. Halaby, who was impressed by pilot complaints that too many inspectors didn't know much about the aircraft on which they were checking out airline crews.

FAA has just signed a half-million dollar contract with United Airlines to give 34 inspectors specialized pilot training on three types of jet-powered equipment—DC's, Viscounts and Caravelles. FAA already does its own jet training on government-owned Boeing 707's and Convair 440's.

But the United contract was not the first of its kind. Last December, without any fanfare, FAA sent five inspectors to tiny Bonanza Airlines in Las Vegas, Nev., to learn how to fly the jet-powered Fairchild F27 used by a number of local service airlines.

"Frankly," recalled Bonanza chief pilot John Boyle, "they were like a bunch of pea-green cadets. But their attitude was absolutely magnificent. We expected them to be sort of know-it-all and condescending, but they pitched in and worked like dogs."

The five trainees went to ground school for two weeks (about 60 hours of classroom instruction), then had 15 hours of F27 observation flights and 15 additional hours of actual F27 flight experience. Bonanza charged FAA $245 per flight hour, plus $20 for insurance and a flat $100 per man for classroom training.

"By the time they finished," Boyle added, "I think they had acquired a new respect for the caliber of airline pilot training. And we in turn got new respect for the attitude of such men toward their jobs and responsibilities."

The success of the Bonanza program and the start of the larger project add up to a new era of mutual respect between the men who fly the airlines and the men who pass judgment on their performance.

Future Building Contracts Are Up

DALLAS (UPI)—Contracts awarded for future construction in Texas totaled $2,139,976,000 last year, an increase of 6 per cent over 1960, the F. W. Dodge Corporation, construction news and marketing specialists, reported yesterday.

The increase was recorded despite an 8 per cent drop in December figures. Total December future awards were $161,352,000.

For the month, residential awards were up 9 per cent at $71,765,000, heavy engineering awards were down 4 per cent at $30,812,000 and non-residential awards were down 25 per cent at $58,775,000.

New Seamstress Must Learn To Make Darts

Details for making darts.

By MARY BROOKS PICKEN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Learn to make perfect darts—then, no matter how many a pattern calls for, they will not trouble you. Darts are needed to fit the garment to the body's curves. The more snug the fashion, the more darts are necessary.
They are used at the waistlines of both the bodice and skirt, at underarm seams and back of the neck and shoulders.
Mark each dart on the fabric with pins, chalk, or baste the perforations. Bring the marked lines together, and pin the dart together.
For back darts, "A," begin at the cut edge of the fabric, stitch to the point; pivot, turn, and stitch back. "B" shows a long bust dart. "C" a dart from the waistline up. These are made the same way as "A."

"D" shows shallow darts often made in the bodice part of a sheath dress. Note how these are stitched on the curve as well as on the straight of the fabric. Begin at one end of the dart; stitch up, pivot, and stitch back.
"E" shows how a wider dart has the surplus width cut away. The point is pressed flat, as shown.
"K" pictures elbow darts stitched in a sleeve.
Skirt darts are made the same as in "A." Sometimes 2 or 3 darts are used at the side of the front part of a skirt. The darts are small and stitched from the wrong side.

Accurate marking, careful pinning and straight stitching, along with a little patience, are all that are needed to make good darts. Practice them on scrap pieces of material, and you'll soon wonder why you ever thought darts were a problem.
Dear Mrs. Picken: When putting new blanket binding on wool blankets, which is the proper stitch to use—blanket, catch, or feather? They all seem to pull and pucker.—E. M. S.
Dear E. M. S.: I would not use any of the hand stitches in applying blanket binding.
Rather, I would baste one side of the binding to the blanket making sure that it is smooth and flat. Then I would turn the other side, pin it every 2 inches, and then stitch by machine, using the longest possible stitch on the machine. After the first row you can add a second row 1/4 to 3/8-inch above the first.
I think you will find this much better than trying to do it by hand because of the thickness of the blanket and the binding.
If you do not have a machine, then prepare as for stitching, use embroidery floss and sew binding to place with 1/4-inch running stitches.

Dear Abby.... List Of Interests Too Long To Swallow

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I'm a college graduate — my fiancee isn't. I like the theater — she falls asleep at plays. Art interests me it seems ridiculous to her. Certain films move me — she yawns. Literature fascinates me — she wouldn't reach for a book if it was about to fall on her head. Yet, darn it, she's a very human type with sound ideas about raising a family — the kind I'd like. When I get all set to tell her the wedding is off, I take one look and — zowie — I'm hooked again. Could I swallow some of my interests, marry her and be happy?

An Enlightening Letter Re: Fitting Room Lights

By ALICIA HART
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

This is an open letter to department stores. As one who has paid for and lugged home a mountain of merchandise over the years, I'd like to know why these transactions can't be accomplished in a reasonable if not flattering light. So here goes:
Dear Department Stores:
As I understand it, you spend a fair amount on advertising each year to lure women onto your premises. And what happens when we get there?
We are surrounded by piles of lush and tempting merchandise and quite often, stagger out with more than we can afford and a guilty feeling.
But why, oh why, can't you do something about those awful lights in the fitting rooms? Does a woman have to look as if she's just been helped from her coffin just because she wants to buy a coat or a suit or a dress?
Now, the lights you have in your elevators are, for some reason, just dandy. People standing under them look like human beings. Couldn't you switch and put those in the dressing-rooms and put the dressing-room lights in the elevators?
The lights now in most dressing-rooms make a woman look as if she's standing in the Hall of Mirrors in a fun house. Mercilessly, they spotlight all defects of figure, skin and hair. Mean while, they carefully minimize any assets. And they don't do anything for your merchandise, either. Please! Won't you do something?
TIME-AND LOOKS
"But I haven't time to take care of my looks!" some women will when the idea is suggested to them. Usually, these are the very women who sit hunched over TV or telephone, who delight in starchy food and sweets, who spend half an hour putting rollers in their hair but wouldn't devote five minutes (which is all it takes) to brushing it.

Similarly, they wouldn't dream of spending a precious five minutes on stretching exercises each morning.
The habits that count most with regards to good looks don't require great chunks of time each day. They require, rather, small amounts of time (five minutes here, 10 minutes there) throughout the day.
They also require a certain amount of self-discipline. This, of course, is the spot where many women fall down.
It's much more fun to stay inside on a cold, windy day, and talk on the telephone than it is to take a brisk walk for half an hour or so.
Well, none of us can have everything from life. We must decide what counts, each one of us.

Morning Hours Best
Hours For Work

By RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A recent study shows that for most people the most productive hours are those in the first half of the morning.

There's a tip there for housewives. If it is possible to accomplish more in the first half of the morning than at any other period of the day then the early morning hours aren't the time for:

Sitting and sipping a third cup of coffee and reading the paper to rest up from the ordeal of getting the family off to school and work.

Calling friends to chat on the telephone about last night's party or to trade the latest gossip.

Dropping in on a neighbor for a little visit before getting down to work.

Putting around with little bits of busy work to put off facing the hard jobs that have to be done.

Turning on the TV to watch a favorite morning program.

Deciding to run errands that could be done at any time of the day.

All of those little devices for postponing the inevitable time when the hard work has to be done just eat up the best and most productive hours.

And yet that is how many housewives began their day's work — stalling and killing time instead of pitching in and getting as much of it out of the way as possible while they are still fresh and not yet pushed for time.

If you've ever noticed, that isn't the way the good managers, the best housekeepers who know start their days. They work hard and fast during the morning hours and then are through while the morning-wasters are still complaining. "I've got so much to do I don't know how in the world I am ever going to get it all done."

Spring Fashions Bloom In Weightless Fabrics

By GAILE DUGAS
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK (NEA) — A highly important part of this spring's fashion story lies in fabrics. Cut and detail count but there's fashion fun and interest to be found in the bulky, weightless and fuzzy fabrics of the season.

Lacy, airy, frothy, bubbly woollens, the crispness of silk and worsted mixtures, the bold checks and plaids in open weaves all contrive to make this a spring in which a new coat or suit is essential.

These fabrics do a thorough job of backing up the feminine mood of spring clothes. They are soft, light or crisp in keeping with the design. And whatever the weave, spring's fabrics cannot be called ordinary or usual in any way.

A smooth and silky look is achieved in coat fabrics by mixing mohair with wool. The result is a featherweight coating with a brushed surface.

Fuzzy, blurry and loopy surfaces have the look of bulk and bigness but almost no weight. They are lovely to stroke and touch and attractive to the eye. Tight little curls of mohair are used for black and white coatings, usually in strong, bold plaids.

All of this doesn't mean that you're going to amble down the street looking like an amiable teddy bear. Cut and fabric go together like right and left gloves. The fabric itself may be bulky and light but the coat or suit from which it's cut will give a clear impression of supple, lithe lines.

The new size Dodge Dart has the most powerful standard six engine in the business. It develops 145 horsepower from 225 cubic inches. It takes a V8 in other cars priced near Dart to keep up with it. And even then most of them can't.

Dead weight and useless overhang have all but been eliminated in the '62 Dart. What results is an astonishing power-to-weight ratio that makes any Dart-6 act like an eight. A very quick eight.

This is the engine that got better than 23 miles to the gallon in last year's Mobilgas Economy Run. Repeated tests, in the new size Dodge Dart, prove that it will deliver at least five percent better gasoline economy than last year.

Frankly, we don't think anybody but a pro can get such mileage. But it gives you an idea of the engine's potential.

Buckeyes Given Big Ten Boost

United Press International
Ohio State's powerful Buckeyes, who hardly need any outside help, received an assist from lowly Michigan Monday night in their bid for a return engagement in the NCAA basketball playoffs.

While Ohio State was rolling up its seventh straight Big Ten victory and its 17th in a row this season, defeating Iowa, 89-63, Michigan handed Wisconsin its first conference loss, 81-74, at Madison, Wis.

The Wolverine victory thus burst Wisconsin's bubble. The Badgers had won five consecutive Big Ten games to have a shot at Ohio State and had been banking on at least a tie for the conference title, which would have earned them an NCAA tournament berth.

Wisconsin, which barely got by Minnesota last Saturday night, trailed most of the way against Michigan, which had won only three games this season.

The Badgers couldn't get going against the tight Wolverine defense until late in the game when they closed the gap to two points with only three minutes remaining. But John Oosterbaan, playing his first game since his suspension, came off the bench to score a goal and Bob Cantrell hit three free throws to clinch the victory.

Dick Cole with 23 points and Jon Hall with 16 topped the Wolverines while Ken Siebel's 19 points was high for Wisconsin.

Ohio State, in picking up its 22nd straight Big Ten triumph and 31st in a row at home, connected on 56 per cent of its shots from the floor and out-rebounded the Hawkeyes, 41-36.

The fast-breaking Buckeyes rolled up a 52-26 halftime lead on a 63 per cent shooting average. All-America Jerry Lucas, playing one of his most spirited games, led Ohio State with 24 points, 13 rebounds, blocked numerous shots and at times led the fast break.

In the only other Big Ten game Monday night, Illinois rallied for an 89-80 victory over Minnesota to hand the Gophers their sixth straight conference loss. Dave Downey's 28 points and Bill Small's 22 paced the Illinois attack.

Colorado boosted its Big Eight lead over Kansas State with a 54-50 win over Oklahoma after rallying in the second half at Norman, Okla. Oklahoma held a 29-26 halftime edge but failed to score for the first five minutes of the second half when the Buffaloes caught up. It was Colorado's sixth conference victory without a loss.

Nick Werkman, the nation's No. 2 scorer behind Bill McGill of Utah scored 40 points in leading Seton Hall over Upsala, 96-59; and the Feldman twins, Jon and Jeff, helped George Washington snap a five-game losing streak against Virginia, 82-75. Jon had 33 points and Jeff added 12 while setting up his brother with many layups.

Virginia Tech pulled out a 74-72 Southern Conference triumph over Furman; Davidson, with Bill Jarman scoring 19 points, won its 12th straight by defeating Richmond, 55-52; Houston rallied to down Florida State, 84-76, behind Lyle Harger's 27 points; Arizona State dumped Eastern New Mexico, 63-59; Creighton edged Marquette, 79-72, in overtime; Mississippi State toppled Tulane, 70-59; Florida beat Tennessee, 92-81; Louisiana State downed Mississippi, 70-59; Alabama defeated Vanderbilt, 82-78, and Nebraska nipped Oklahoma State, 57-56.

Uelses may have lost pole mark
NEW YORK (UPI) — Marine Corporal John Uelses, the world's first 16-foot pole vaulter, may have catapulted himself right out of championship competition if the International Amateur Athletic Federation finds grounds to ban his famed fiber glass pole.

"We are having these poles tested to see to what extent they are catapults," Abrahams said.

If the federation outlawed the fiber glass pole, Uelses will be like a Marine invading a beachhead without a landing boat. The German-born track star soared 16 feet, one-quarter inch and 16 feet, three-quarter inches on successive nights last weekend—a feat he couldn't come near matching in previous efforts with the standard metal pole.

Meanwhile, those for and against the use of fiber glass poles are rapidly taking sides.

Don Bragg, who had held the world indoor record of 15-9½, called the pliable pole a "gimmick."

"The fiber glass pole has completely changed the science of pole vaulting and should be outlawed or at least listed in a separate category," the 1960 Olympic champion said from his home in nearby Penns Grove, N.J.

Bragg said the United States would lose its traditional world domination of pole vaulting if the new pole received official sanction.

Pincus Sober, former chairman of the National AAU's track and field committee, called Uelses' mastery of the fiber glass pole "progress."

"Sure, the fiber glass pole bends more than the metal pole," Sober said, "but the metal pole bends more than the old bamboo poles. It's unfortunate that Bragg got caught in the changeover in equipment, but that's progress and you can't stop progress."

Cornelius Warmerdam, the world's first 15-foot vaulter, tried to take a neutral stand.

A game campaigner, Connie said, "the best coordinated individuals still will be the best vaulters."

"If they outlaw fiber glass," Warmerdam explained, "better steel and wood probably would be developed and jumpers still will of higher—up to 17-18 feet. We are going to have to change our thinking on what's a good jump because of technical improvements in the poles."

Both he and the women had their hands full in the grind over the par three course, which has holes ranging from 108 to 215 yards but which is swept by tricky ocean breezes and well-studded with water hazards, sandtraps and big, unpredictable greens.

The lady pros and Sam were scheduled for 36 holes today and another 36 Wednesday. Top prize for the women is $1,000.

Snead, whose companions won't let him live down the defeat last year by Miss Suggs, teed off in the morning round today with Mickey Wright and Betsy Rawls, the leading money winners on the LPGA circuit.

This afternoon Marilyn Smith and the formidable Miss Suggs were to be his threesome partners, and Barbara Romack and Marlene Bauer Hage Wednesday morning. In the final round, the LPGA will put the two leaders in the tournament against Snead.

Ward pointing for state gloves title
Glen Ward of Pampa today loomed as the lone hope on the local scene for gaining a state title in the up and coming state championship fights Feb. 16 in Fort Worth.

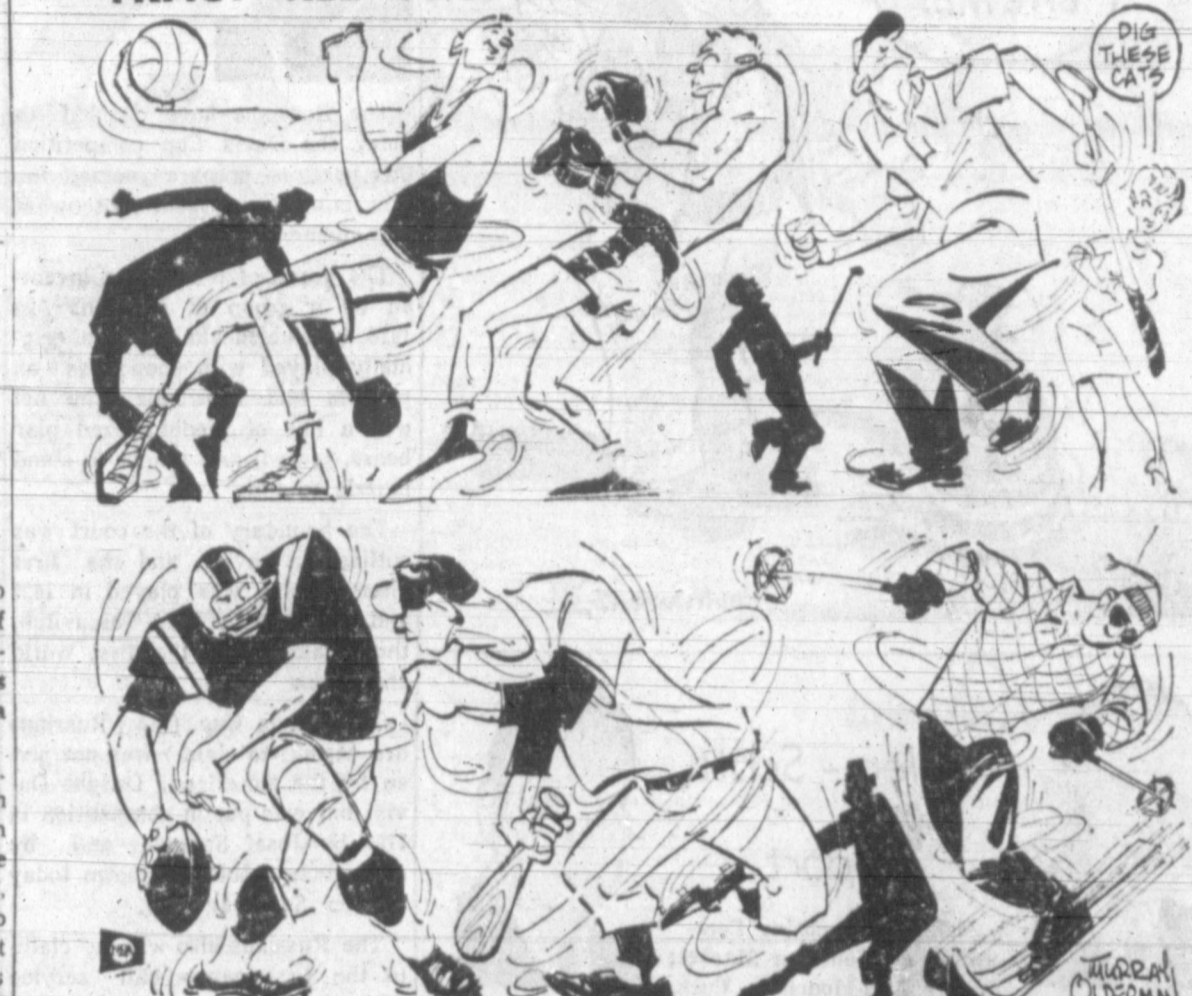

Ward, who wasn't scheduled on the Saturday night fight card in the regional tourney in Amarillo, pulled an iron man feat with a pair of fistic triumphs, the second of which gained him the 175-pound crown in the open division and a trip to the big five-day event in Ft. Worth.

The Pampa slugger defeated Jerry Reid, Levelland in an earlier bout on the card and then came back in the final bout of the evening with a first round TKO over Gilbert Gonzales of Plainview in 1:10. Ward's final victory offset an otherwise disappointing evening for the Pampa Optimist boxers, who were highly touted in several of the championship bouts.

The two victories for Ward, however gave the Pampa crew enough points for a second place finish with 13 points. Plainview copped the open division crown with 22 points.

Wildcats Cop District Title; March Into State Tournament

Carver's Wildcats stormed into the state championship Saturday with a pair of cage victories in the Shamrock tournament. It also clinched the district title for the Wildcats.

Carver, which notched its 19th and 20th victories in a row in the one-day tourney, will journey to Prairie View Feb. 22 to take part in the annual state meet. Last year, the Wildcats lost, out in the semi-finals to a strong Monday team.

Carver posted a 59 - 46 victory over Shamrock in the first game Saturday. Joe Niblett and Mike Morgan shared scoring honors with 14 points each.

Carver then came back to beat Memphis, 49 - 39. Morgan was high point man once more with 19 points.

Carver had a 12 - 8 mark in regular play outside of tournament action. The Wildcats carved out eight wins in five tourneys this year. It was also the second year in a row Carver has copped the district title. They have yet to win the state title, having tried six times in previous years.

Pampa Can Climb Notch With Victory Tonight

Pampa's Harvesters, their pride swelled a bit with their recent victory over Lubbock, attempts to move another notch up the district ladder tonight when they entertain a rugged Berger team at 8 p.m. in the Harvester fieldhouse.

The Harvesters, who climbed out of the depths of the loop cellar with a spine-tingling 57-56 victory over the Westerners in Lubbock last week, can jump from seventh to a tie for sixth place in the standings if they should bounce the Bulldogs.

Pampa goes into the game with a 3-7 mark in loop play while the boys upstairs above the Harvesters, Palo Duro and Plainview, are tied for fifth place with 4-6 marks. The Dons and the Bulldogs do battle tonight with the loser tied with the Harvesters if the local crew can salvage a win against Berger.

Berger needs the victory over the Harvesters in a big way if they are to stay in the running for the title, sporting an 8-2 record in loop play and one game off the pace behind Monterey. Monterey has defeated the Bulldogs both times the two teams have met for the Dogs only two setbacks to date in district play.

Pampa will be trying to avenge an earlier loss to Berger tonight. The Bulldogs won their last encounter with a last-ditch 62-60 victory which the Harvesters haven't forgotten for one moment. Pampa had fought gamely back to take an abbreviated lead in the last three minutes of play only to have Joe Castleberry sink a two pointer with 15 seconds to play to ground the Harvesters hopes for victory.

Randy Matson, who is making a gallant bid for the scoring title in district, will lead the locals from the floor. The all-district aspirant fired in 22 points against the Westerners for his second highest one-game point total in loop play this year. Matson is currently third in loop scoring, trailing only Buce Francis of Palo Duro and Jackie Swanner of Plainview. Matson's torrid shooting against the Westerners inched him past Chester Dunavin of Amarillo, who was third before Friday night's contests.

Rounding out the starting quintet will be Wayne Kreis, who had 15 points Friday night and Gordon Balch at the guard positions and Lloyd Balch and Bob Neelage at the forward slots.

Providing a strong bench crew will be Keith Swanson, Gary Sikes and Mike Stewart.

Leading Berger will be Gail

Simpson, Jim Stephenson and Castleberry.

The Shockers will also be out for revenge against the Bullpups. Coach Roy Kievall's crew has been setting a blistering pace thus far with a 6-4 record in district and a 17-5 record overall.

On the firing line for the Shockers will be Donnie Ayers, Ricky Stewart, Kenny Hebert, Charles Price and Larry Clifton.

Austin Wins Four Games In Pee Wee

Austin won all four of their games last week in 5th and 6th grade cage action in the Pee Wee Basketball league.

Austin bounced Lamar, 28-16 and Travis, 20-17 in fifth grade action and then trounced Lamar, 43-7 and Travis, 31-9 in sixth grade play.

Other results in fifth grade competition last week found Houston downing Wilson, 19-8; Travis trimming Baker, 19-8; Baker smashing Mann, 15-8 and Wilson downing Lamar, 13-8.

Other sixth grade results found Houston belting Wilson, 31-19; Travis walloping Baker, 27-14; Lamar edging Wilson, 13-11 and Mann pulverizing Baker, 40-2.

FORFEITS VICTORY
KENT, Ohio (UPI)—Kent State must forfeit its only winning basketball game since Dec. 16 because sophomore guard Robert Coen of South Bend, Ind., has been declared ineligible. Coen's grades were below standard and only through an error he was permitted to play in 16 Kent State games since Dec. 16. The team lost nine of those contests.

Conspicuous by their absence are Jon Douglas of Santa Monica, Calif., and Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., for whom the draw was delayed from last Friday until Monday night. Entries, however, from the two leading players were not received.

Extremists

It is the current fashion of intellectuals — and intellectuals are nothing if not fashionable — to denounce "extremism" and "extremists." Webster's unabridged — the old Webster's — makes it a point that extreme refers to an opposite; in other words, to have one extreme you must necessarily have the opposite extreme.

This is a nation founded on extremism. Consider the unparalleled extremism of these words: "That all men are created equal..." governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed.

Obviously the work of extremists. And a few years earlier, an Extremist told Moses: "Thou shalt have no other gods before me. Thou shalt not steal."

Clearly the hand of an extremist! And then came another Extremist: "And he that believeth in me though he were dead, yet shall he live. And whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die."

Extremism of the most unqualified sort. Well, now, we might consider how some fine, extremist phrases would have been written by a non-extremist, an Eisenhower-Stevenson-Nixon cabal, deplorers of extremism all.

"We hold these truths to be self-evident: that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness." (Extremist version.)

"We believe that the greater good of the majority would be served if we assumed that the majority of men are normal and average, and that Society recognizes that this majority is the proper adjudicator and guardian of our personal affairs and the public interest." (Anti-extremist version.)

"Thou shalt not steal." (Extremist version.) "For the continuing social development of our people, the majority shall declare the existence of One Leader who shall have Supreme Wisdom as long as the majority shall recognize his presence." (Anti-extremist version.)

"Thou shalt not steal." (Extremist version.) "Stealing, in most instances, can be said to be anti-social." (Anti-extremist version.) "Wouldn't we be in great shape if it hadn't been for the extremists!"

It's Up To You

by HOWARD KERSHNER
L. H. D.

Near the great building on the East River of New York which houses the United Nations there is an organization called the Assembly of Captive European Nations, sometimes called the "Little United Nations," which met recently in annual session. It issued an appeal calling upon the world to remember the nine small nations that have been enslaved by the U.S.S.R. and are now suffering under cruel repression. It asked the peoples of the world to aid them in their fight for freedom.

The nine nations comprising the organization are Albania, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Estonia, Hungary, Latvia, Lithuania, Poland and Rumania. They contain more than eighty million people. Other nations, such as East Germany, North Korea, Laos, North Viet Nam, Tibet and Outer Mongolia should be added. These peoples are the victims of Communist colonialism. While the Western powers are avidly and rapidly freeing their former colonial possessions, China and Russia are extending their sway wherever possible, notably, Asia, Africa and Latin America.

The voices of these oppressed peoples should be heard and ways must be found to call attention to their plight. Let there be no new agreements with Russia and China until old agreements concerning the rights of many of these captive countries to choose, in free elections, the kind of government under which they wish to live are carried into full effect. The Communists know that these countries would choose freedom and reject communism by crushing majorities. It is their right to do so if they wish. The issue will not down and free men must keep emphasizing it, and if need be, fighting for it.

On the 30th of July the Communist Party of the Soviet Union announced that the Communists should consider it "their duty to support the sacred struggle of the oppressed peoples and their just, anti-imperialist wars of liberation." Thus they announced their intention of fomenting and supporting Communist revolutions in all countries.

Why should not the West foment and support anti-Communist revolutions in all Communist countries? Instead, the policy of the West is to avoid giving any aid or assistance — moral or material — to suffering peoples who are struggling to rid themselves of communism. Every such effort should be encouraged.

Not only do we refuse to help most anti-Communist efforts but, far worse, we usually cheer and aid in the overthrowing of anti-Communist governments. For example, Tshombe's Katanga, Trujillo's Dominican Republic, Batista's Cuba and Chiang Kai-shek in China. These regimes had their faults but they were all strongly anti-Communist, solidly aligned with the West and infinitely preferable to communism.

CHESTER'S DONE IT AGAIN (California Feature Service)
It sometimes seems to thinking Americans that Chester Bowles and Soapy Williams are in a no-holds-barred contest to see who will be crowned the New Frontier's top clown. Trouble is, their buffoonery is sadly unfunny.

Consider, for example, Mr. Bowles' profound statement in the Latin American magazine "Combat" that Fidel Castro's land reform program "is indubitably in line with Latin American sentiments." If Chester is right, we have some mighty strange friends in Latin America.

Castro's Agrarian Reform Law of 1959 ostensibly destroyed landlordism and gave farms to the peasants. Actually it only substituted government landlordism for private. As commentator Holmes Alexander recently pointed out, under Castro's law the peasant "was transformed into a serf of the state. He cannot plant what he chooses, or change his employment, or move elsewhere to work or educate his children where he pleases, or make purchases save at the people's stores of the state-operated National Institute of Agrarian Reform. This raw dictatorship is what our State Department's specialist on Latin American affairs is telling our western hemisphere neighbors they really want. President Kennedy should either gag Bowles or command him to keep his foot in his mouth once and for all, so he won't be heard outside his own playpen.

Kefauver Focusing Committee on Common Market; Warns Anti-Monopoly Curbs Essential to U.S.

ROBERT ALLEN      PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Senator Estes Kefauver, D. Tenn., is launching an investigation that could greatly influence the outcome of the coming congressional debate over President Kennedy's request for unprecedented tariff-cutting powers.

The Tennessee Senator has ordered his anti-trust investigating subcommittee to hold hearings next month on the Common Market's anti-trust laws, and the effect European cartels will have on U.S. trade.

In making his plans known to the White House, Senator Kefauver warned that a failure by Common Market nations to immediately enact strong anti-monopoly laws could increase opposition to the President's trade and tariff program in Congress.

He told the President's chief trade advisers that a number of his subcommittee members, who normally would support his request, were concerned that none of the six Common Market nations had enacted monopoly curbs although proposals were pending in their parliaments.

These senators take the position that U.S. trade benefits under the new Common Market agreement could be short-lived if new laws aren't enacted immediately to curb European cartels.

Senator Kefauver said the legislators, including himself, were concerned that U.S. producers, operating under strict U.S. anti-trust laws, would be unable to compete price-wise with the unregulated cartels operating on the continent.

"The establishment of the European Common Market may well be the most significant economic event in recent history," said Kefauver. "However, it is important for Congress to study the anti-trust laws and practices in the Common Market in order to assess their possible effect upon the ability of American corporations to compete in Europe and other areas of the world."

SWITCHING PLANS — Democratic congressional leaders are changing their strategy in an effort to win approval of President Kennedy's proposal to add a Secretary of Urban Affairs to the Cabinet.

Instead of pushing for a show-down vote in the House as originally planned, they are now going to take the controversial proposal up in the Senate first.

This is being done on the recommendation of President Kennedy. He proposed the new strategy at a White House legislative meeting after Speaker John McCormack, D. Mass., told him that his reorganization plan to set up an Urban Affairs Department (which would become law within 60 days unless vetoed by either House) would be defeated if voted on now in the House.

"There will be solid opposition to the plan from both Republicans and Southern Democrats if it is brought up at this time," McCormack told the President. "All of my hopes to pick up votes of Southern Democrats went out the window when the announcement was made that Housing Administrator (Robert C.) Weaver, a Negro, would head the agency."

"What about the Senate?" inquired the President, directing his question at Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D. Mont.

"We have a 50-50 chance of winning," replied Senator Mansfield. "We should be able to pick up a handful of votes of liberal Republicans, and that should give us a slight edge."

"If that's the situation, let's go for a vote in the Senate," recommended the President. "I'd like to win this one. If we are victorious in the Senate, that might influence some of the Republicans in the House, especially those from the big cities, to change their minds."

"That strategy is agreeable to me," replied McCormack. "We will take the lead," answered Senator Mansfield. "We will push for a vote within two weeks."

Hankering

By HENRY McLEMORE

The Russians have decided to enter the Davis Cup competition this year, so prepare yourself for this information from Moscow at any moment.

The game of tennis was invented by a group of Russians in 1626 in Kubishevka. It was originally played with snowshoes as paddles and snowballs. The net was a line of medium-sized plar bears, tamed, and taught to stand muzzle to tail.

The boundary of the court was outlined in caviar, and the first championship was played in 1627 and was won by Ivan Tossavitch, thus making him the first world champion.

The Davis Cup (the Russians are certain to claim) was not given by the American, Dwight Davis, but was put in competition in 1727 by Josef Samovar and, by all rights, should be known today as the Samovar Cup.

The Russians also will lay claim to the first cannon-ball service (Petrof Kikoyan, 1791), the first half-volley, the introduction of ball boys, the high chair for the umpire, and the turning of heads by the spectators as the ball moves back and forth across the net.

The decision of the Russians to play in the Davis Cup competition is to be welcomed, if only for the novelties they most certainly introduce.

For the first time, this year's Cup play will see armed guards stationed along the sides of the court to prevent Russian players from jumping over the backstop, heading for the nearest consulate and defecting.

Also, for the first time, a team will be coached by a political commissar. He will be there full of ideology if not tactics. "Keep to the Leftist line," he will shout when he wants one of his players to attack the backhand of an opponent.

There is a good chance that the Russians will request that all grandstands be "bugged" with microphones so that they will know what is being said by the spectators at all times.

Pegler Says:

KKK Was Just 'Scary,' Not As Powerful As Painted

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

I see more and more frequent mention of the modern Ku Klux Klan of the early 1920's as a force which terrorized many of our people, possibly a majority. This is an exaggeration. The Klan apparently arose in Georgia soon after the First War.

H. J. Mencken, then on the rise in Baltimore and New York, was the best vituperator of the campaign which, on his part, was objective, remote and safe. If any normal mission had required him to go to Columbus, Ga., for instance, he would have gone there as joyously as he went to Boston Common to autograph some publication of his which had offended the statutory verberations imposed by Irish and the Puritan Protestants of the time. But he was not a leg-man and he absorbed his understanding of the Klan through his pores, but with fair accuracy at that.

By his wit and impudence he became the most influential national force against the KKK except the New York World. But other papers of local scope showed bravery and force and were single-handed heroes of a good fight. Herbert Bayard Swope, then editor of the World, sent good, city-side reporters into the South on initiative missions against the Klan. The Memphis Commercial Appeal waged war which was personally dangerous to individuals and got a corporate nosegay from the Pulitzer people. M. E. Foster, of the Houston Press, patrolled a lurid skyline against bigots who wore no less dangerous because they were secretive. And so did little Sidney Whipple, of the Scripps-Howard outfit who was shipped out to run the Denver Express and revelled in trouble. The press as a whole and many individual corporations, editors and reporters took chances on economic and personal reprisal and came through very decently. I do not recall that anyone was lynched or tarred and feathered but anyone might have been.

The Houston Klux were especially ornery, being tough Texans of the braggy tradition which has since brought embarrassment to the superior population of a superior American state. But Meefo, as they called Mr. Foster there, lived up to the frontier ethics. Like Whipple, he came through to face down the enemy in broad day.

The Klux were identified with the Anti-Saloon League and Bishop James Cannon's Methodist political force. They had the common cause of Prohibition. Many Protestant ministers gave aid and comfort to the Klan and obviously some of their religious adherents agreed with them. It was basically a white Protestant movement: Catholics were ineligible as being adherents of an alien pontentate, the Pope of Rome. Catholics in the South never went in fear of the Klan but I have read lately where others take heroism to themselves because they did not hide under the bed.

I find pleasure in my recollection of the conduct of Mike McGigue and Joe Jacobs, both of New York when they went to Columbus, Ga., to lay their title of light-heavyweight champion on the line against Willie Stribling, a handsome local boy about 19 then and a good fighter. They took down their own referee, Harry Ertle, of Jersey City. The night before the fight a Committee of the Klux warned Ertle that they wanted very, very fair play. They took Jacobs to a window and pointed to two trees, one a slim, willow thing, the other rather substantial and invited Joe and Mike to take their pick—now, in case of need next day. Joe generously chose the little tree because Mike said he wouldn't be needing no tree.

The fight went to a decision and there has always been confusion about Mr. Ertle's verdict. The locals said he gave it to Stribling but paused at the ropes on the way out and raised Mike's hand. Commotion ensued and the Northern boys hit the highway in the blackness hauling on their clothing at high speed. When they had crossed some state line, Joe telegraphed the New York sport editors that Mike had won the decision. A return match ensued in Newark and McGigue tied up Stribling for eight rounds and left no doubt. He was one of the greatest boxers of all time but no hitter.

Jacobs' audacity reached a proud climax when he mocked a crowd of Nazis in Hamburg as manager of Max Schmeling. When the band performed the Nazis' anthem, the Horst Wessel song, the crowd stood at attention all except Jacobs, the New York Jew. His picture is still in the files. He wore a chair-leg cigar in his face and a beret with a red pom-pom like a beefsteak tomato.

Dogs No Longer On Banned List At Hostleries

NEW YORK (UPI) — A prominent woman once was refused accommodations at Maine's biggest hotel because she had brought her dog with her.

The woman was Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt. The dog was a scottie named Fala. It happened in 1946, a year after the president died.

Fala had been in the headlines during one of Franklin D. Roosevelt's campaigns, just as a fellow pooch, Richard M. Nixon's Checkers, was destined to become a canine celebrity six years later.

Some of Roosevelt's opponents had made an unfavorable reference to his dog and in one of his speeches the president took note of this by saying his foes had spoken unkindly of "my wife, my sons and even my little dog Fala."

So, on this particular day in Maine, Mrs. Roosevelt walked out of the big hotel and spent the night at another.

Only a few weeks ago, the hotel which had snubbed Fala and other dogs dropped this regulation and permitted a couple from Woonsocket, R.I., to take their pet into their room.

And it is much like this all over the country now. Dogs now are regarded truly as man's best friend and treated with equal kindness in hotels, motels on some airlines and at entertainment centers.

"Many motels and some hotels really go out of their way to pamper pets," John Lacock, president of Quality Courts United, the country's largest nonprofit association of independent motel operators, told UPI.

"In colder climates, guests are permitted to take their pets right into the room," Lacock said. "And of course there is no extra charge."

Lacock said the University Inn in Gainesville, Fla., and the York Valley Inn Motel in York, Pa., furnish kennels with mattresses and running water. In cold weather, portable heaters keep the kennels warm.

In Roanoke Rapids, N.C., the Fairfax Motel beds pets down in a pet hospital nearby.

"You would be surprised how much business it has brought up," the motel owner, Frank Meacham, said.

A motel in Bradenton, Fla., (the Bradenton Cabana Motel) has air-conditioned kennels that can be heated when the weather is chilly.

Lacock said his statistics show that dogs and cats make up about 85 per cent of the traveling pets but many motorists also bring along their parakeets.

When Lacock was asked if motel operators were surprised by unusual pets, he replied:

"Yes, off the top of my head I remember an ocelot which stayed for the night at the Golden Arrow Motel in Lake Placid, N.Y.,

He Just Likes To Clown Around

TYLER, Tex. (UP) — Bespectacled Ses Haynes is a newspaper print shop man who is addicted to clowning.

Invite him to a party, and he comes wearing a red nose, shoes 18 sizes too big, a drooping tie and baggy trousers.

He says he cannot keep himself from donning a clown suit and hamming it up at gatherings.

The 30-year-old newspaper compositor is organizer of the Tyler, Tex., Clown Club, an organization of business men who want to learn the techniques of clowning for life-of-the-party stunts or to appear at children's hospitals and charity shows.

Friends say when Haynes goes to a circus, his wife has him take his son, Mike — not so much to give Mike a good time as to have Mike see that Haynes doesn't run off with the circus.

and two horses that were tied to a tree outside a motel in South Carolina.

At the Miami Seagrass, one of the nation's greatest attractions, airy kennels are available to those who want to park their pets while they watch the porpoises go through their acts.

And National Airlines permits passengers to take their pets along either as freight or excess baggage. The airline permits passengers to bring along their own kennels if they wish. And it, like other airlines, allows seeing-eye dogs to ride at their owners' feet when they are properly leashed.

So nowadays a dog's life isn't as bad as it used to be.

Draft Call Issued In East Germany

BERLIN (UPI) — Communist East Germany today ordered all 19 to 22-year-olds to register for compulsory military service in the next two months.
