Reds Plan Nuclear Test

By DONALD H. MAY
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States has evidence that Communist China is now actively preparing for its second nuclear test, official sources said today.

They said that while the evidence was not conclusive, it indicated the blast could be detonated within a few days or several weeks.

If so, it would come in the midst of the stepped-up confrontation with Asian Communists over recent U.S. bombings in North Viet Nam. Its effect on that confrontation would be hard to gauge.

Red China detonated her first nuclear explosion last Oct. 16, a test device said to have been short of an actually deliverable A-bomb.

Aware Of Preparations
Western intelligence had been aware of preparations for that test well in advance. Secretary of State Dean Rusk made this knowledge public Sept. 29 in a move to soften world psychological impact.

U.S. sources said they now have received "some signs" that the same kind of preparatory "countdown" noted in September is now under way again. There was always the possibility technical difficulties might long delay a planned test. The nature of the U.S. evidence was not disclosed. There have been published reports in the past of various manned and unmanned reconnaissance planes over China, and that U.S. observation satellites are capable of monitoring the test site in Western China.

Give No Support
U.S. officials gave no support to reports that this time Red China may attempt to set off a thermonuclear explosion — an H-bomb. Some sources indicated strong doubts.

United Press International diplomatic correspondent K. C. Thaler reported from London Monday that China plans a second nuclear test "very shortly," and that it might be an H-bomb. The State Department Monday neither confirmed nor denied the report but said "appropriate officers of this government are looking into it."

China coupled the October test with an appeal for a world summit conference to discuss a pact against use of nuclear weapons in war and their eventual abolition. U.S. officials could only speculate what political gambit Peking might attach to a second test.

Soviets Demand U.S. Pull Forces From Viet Nam

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin today demanded that the United States withdraw its forces from South Viet Nam.

The statement was reported by the Soviet news agency Tass in a message sent by Kosygin to a preparatory meeting of the Indochinese peoples conference in Phnom Penh, capital of Cambodia.

"The Soviet Union resolutely demands the withdrawal of U.S. troops and military equipment from South Viet Nam, the cessation of armed provocations against the Democratic Republic of Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia and the rejection of any military interference in the internal affairs of Indochina," Kosygin's message said.

It was the second time in the past three days that the Kremlin had made such a demand. A communique issued Sunday after Kosygin's meeting with North Korean officials during his Asian trip termed the American air attacks on North Viet Nam "inhuman" and called on the United States to pull its troops out of Viet Nam.

The Soviet Union and Great Britain serve as co-chairmen of the 1954 Geneva Conference which carved up Southeast Asia after the French Indochina war.

In a statement earlier today, the Soviets warned the United States that American attacks against Communist North Viet Nam could lead to a world war. A Radio Moscow broadcast said the United States would be responsible for "the dire consequences."

Tass said the Phnom Penh meeting was proposed by Prince Norodom Sihanouk, Cambodia's chief of state. Kosygin's message said the Soviet Union hoped the conference would be "an important step toward rallying the peoples of Indochina to the defense of national independence at the establishment of peace in that part of the world."

"The main obstacle to the normalization of the situation in the Indochina peninsula now is the reactionary policy of American imperialists," Kosygin said.

"The struggle of the peoples for freedom and independence is a just struggle. It invariably has the understanding and support of the peoples and the government of the Soviet Union."

In a related statement, Pravda, the official newspaper of the Soviet Communist party, said the Soviet Union and "the other socialist countries are in the van of the struggle for peace and international security."

(Communist Chinese Foreign Minister Chen Yi, in a Peking statement reported Monday, called for "concrete action" by the Soviet Union and China against "U.S. imperialism.")

Both Soviet statements today were released less than 24 hours after Premier Alexei N. Kosygin returned to the Kremlin from a solidarity mission to the Communist capitals of Asia. He met twice with Communist Chinese leaders during the trip to North Viet Nam and North Korea.

"The flames of war starting in one place could easily spread to neighboring countries, and in the final count, embrace the whole world," it said.

"This is the situation that is developing in South Viet Nam. This is a danger that really exists and responsibility falls wholly on the United States."

"Judging from reports, the U.S.A. is making preparations for new raids on democratic Viet Nam. To this end large contingents of U.S. armed forces are being concentrated off the shores of Indochina, including an extremely powerful striking force from the U.S. 7th Fleet.

"...the situation is becoming increasingly dangerous. The old saying 'peace is indivisible' remains true to this day.

Fort Hits Snag On His Request For Discussion

City Commissioner L. P. Fort today failed in an attempt to get public discussion on some warnings issued by the Texas Municipal League about legislation pending in the Texas Legislature that would affect municipal government operations.

The commissioner was stopped in his tracks by Mayor H. Raeburn Thompson when Fort asked if he could have "three or four minutes to discuss a matter."

"If this is something political," the mayor said, "I don't think now is the time for it."

Commissioner Fort said he did not feel that it was political, but rather a matter that the commission should know about in connection with pending state legislation that affected cities.

"I don't think we should arrive at a decision on state matters as a body," the mayor said. "If we want to reach individual decisions that's different."

The mayor adjourned the commission meeting at this point with the comment that if it was thought there should be special study of the matter it could be put on the agenda for next week.

In a statement issued following the meeting Commissioner Fort said:

"I believe the mayor would have listened had he known just what I wanted to talk about and the time element that was involved in it."

Fort said he had received a weekly Legislative News Bulletin only yesterday afternoon from the Texas Municipal League office in Austin which set forth some matters that he thought needed immediate attention not only of the Pampa City Commission but of city commissioners everywhere in Texas.

Fort quoted from the bulletin as follows:

"Many bills now moving (in the state legislature) would improve local government efficiency. Many more, predominantly in the personnel field, would strike unanimously at the principle of self-government and by large majority would pillage municipal treasuries.

"In both categories, consistent awareness and prompt action will be necessary, but it is in the area of detrimental legislation — pushed hard by well-organized groups — that city officials must react quickly to developments communicated from TML."

Commissioner Fort said that it was this "awareness and prompt action plea" that he was trying to bring up for discussion today.

Giant Wings Slated To Gauge Meteoroids

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — A mighty Saturn-1 super rocket today orbited a bat-like "space duster" satellite with giant wings to measure the hazards tiny meteoroids pose to moonships.

The 188-foot booster, America's most powerful, thundered into the sky at 8:37 a.m. CST in the opener of a two-part nationally televised space spectacular to be followed Wednesday by a Ranger moonshot.

About 11 minutes after the fiery blastoff, space agency spokesmen said Saturn-1 had scored its eighth straight success by propelling the heaviest U.S. scientific satellite into orbit.

The spacecraft, named Pegasus — after the winged-horse of mythology, emerged from the protective cover of a dummy Apollo mooncraft three minutes later.

Its 96 feet wide wings unfolded like an expanding accordion under the watchful eye of a television camera and began its sweep for tiny bits of cosmic debris whizzing about space.

"We consider that we have the Pegasus meteoroid satellite in orbit," the spokesmen said. He said the Saturn's performance was "excellent."

Pegasus, so big it will look like a bright twinkling star at night, weighs 23,000 pounds with the Saturn's second stage attached for stability. Its 10,000 pound Apollo cover was kicked into a separate orbit.

By reporting every hit made by a piece of space dust, Pegasus was expected to tell scientists how much protective shielding large space ships will need — particularly Apollo moon ships.

Besides lofting its first scientific satellite, the Saturn was giving engineers further flight data that will help in the development of the larger Saturn-5 rocket that is to send three men to the moon in 1969.

The launch, eighth for the big rocket, was delayed more than an hour by ground computer trouble.

The 1.5 million pound thrust booster, which Russia may have passed in power with its recent three-man shot, gained momentum slowly as it roared skyward over the Atlantic ahead of a long column of red-yellow flame and smoke.

About a minute later, the Saturn streaked past the speed of sound. A space agency spokesman said:

"All systems look good at this time."

DIDN'T FORGET
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Barratt O'Hara is a man who doesn't forget.

The 82-year-old Illinois Democrat, the only veteran of the Spanish-American War in Congress, made a brief House speech noting that it was the 67th anniversary of the sinking of the battleship Maine in Havana Harbor.

Distemper, Dog Poisoning Becoming Serious in Pampa, Veterinarians Say

Pampa veterinarians issued a warning to all dog owners today that what could be described as a "severe" epidemic of distemper has been reported over the city.

The doctors warned that anyone who has a dog, especially a young one, and has not had it vaccinated against the disease should do so at once.

The doctors said that distemper is a virus in the air and dogs do not have to come in contact with a carrier of the disease to get it. Distemper also has a high death rate and usually, the doctors said, a case in the advance stages is fatal.

Distemper is only contagious among dogs and a few types of mink and other small animals, the vets said. Cats and humans cannot contract the disease.

City Commissioner L. P. Fort re-emphasized the dog problem during today's Pampa City Commission meeting and said there are again large packs of dogs roaming over the city.

The latest case was in the 100 block of Faulkner. The dogs are apparently being killed by someone throwing poisoned meat into the animals back yards.

The danger of this was stressed by Pampa law enforcement agencies as a child might come in contact with the poison.

Study Session Slated On Cable Franchise

Mayor H. R. Thompson told city commissioners at their meeting today that he planned to call a study session on applications for a TV cable franchise in Pampa.

Four or five firms already have filed applications with the city to provide the cable service which is designed to improve the quality of television reception in the city.

The mayor said he was being "pressed" for a commission decision on the matter from firms that have applied.

Original applicants were Worley & Worley of Shamrock and Dale Greenhouse and Calvin Frazer, operators of the Form-O-Uth garment factory, 800 E. Kingsmill.

Two or three applications have been received since then, the mayor said.

Mayor Thompson indicated he would call a study session on the TV Cable applications within the near future.

In other business today: The city commission passed on final reading legislation amending the city's parking meter ordinance.

An invitation was accepted from the Chamber of Commerce Highway Committee to attend a luncheon at the Courthouse Cafe tomorrow noon for discussion of Pampa's overall highway improvement needs.

Authorization was given for payment of $317 moving expenses for City Manager Jim White from Tulsa to Pampa.

Contracts were awarded to International Harvester Co. for the purchase of one 2-ton truck and two half-ton pickups and to Culberson Chevrolet for one half-ton pickup. Lowest bids were accepted in each instance.

City Manager White was officially sworn into office by Mayor Thompson and the commission approved a personal bond for him.

A resolution was adopted permitting the city manager and Tax Collector Aubrey Jones to sign city checks.

Wife Kept True Condition of Singer From Him

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The cancer that killed singer Nat King Cole in the prime of his life and at the height of his fame was spread throughout his body, an autopsy has revealed.

Cole, 45, died in his sleep Monday morning in St. John's Hospital in nearby Santa Monica. His wife, Maria Ellington Cole, who had kept his true condition from him and the world, was at his bedside when he died.

Following the autopsy, the cause of death was listed as "extensive metastatic carcinoma of the lung."

It was reported that autopsy surgeons discovered that the dread killer cancer had spread from his left lung to all major organs and glands in his body.

Justice Snowbound for 9 Hours

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (UPI) — Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas stepped down from a shaggy rescue pony Monday night exhausted and bruised from nine snowbound hours on an icy mountain trail.

But looking back at the 10,000-foot Sandia Mountain peak, he called the experience part of a "beautiful trip" and promised he would tackle it again some day.

Douglas, 67, rode the sure-footed mountain pony out of the mountains where he and three companions were stopped in their day's hiking by the precipitous switchback trail and heavy snowdrifts from an earlier blizzard.

After the hazardous six-mile return trip, the high court's famed outdoorsman admitted "I've never been in such a steep place." But aside from a minor gash on the right hip, he suffered no ill effects from his assault on the Sandia's Mountains western slope.

Panting a bit, Douglas told waiting newsmen in the Juan Tabo base camp that the thin atmosphere in the high altitude of the 10,000-foot mountain was tiring and had slowed him down.

The mountain-climbing expedition was part of his research for a forthcoming book on Southwestern U.S. mountains. "We all took spill after spill," the justice said. On one spill a sharp stick slashed the justice's right hip but the wound was not severe.

The party had to use ropes to cross a 500-foot snowfield, Douglas said, which bordered a sheer drop to the bottom of the mountain range. Accompanying Douglas were:

Fred Kennedy, an old friend of the justice and southwestern regional forester, Irving T. (Pat) Murray, ranger for the New Mexico Cibola National Forest and Robert Nordaus, former student of Douglas' while the justice was with Yale University.

Douglas, dressed in an old army work coat, heavy boots and wool sport shirt, said the trip would not hold up his scheduled appearance at Los Angeles Wednesday.

Free Lance Artist Designs New Stamp

A free lance artist who sent an unsolicited stamp design to Postmaster General John A. Gronouski, then crossed his fingers hopefully, can uncross them today — for his artwork is to appear on the Appomattox commemorative postage stamp, according to O. K. Gaylor, Pampa Postmaster.

Leonard Fellman, 44-year-old commercial artist of Edina, Minnesota, designed the stamp that is to be first issued April 9 with ceremonies at Appomattox, Virginia. The 5-cent stamp is the fifth and final in the Civil War Centennial series.

It is a rarity for unsolicited designs to be accepted for postage stamps.

Fellman's design shows a soldier and stacked rifles silhouetted against a blue and gray background. A phrase from Lincoln's second inaugural address — "with malice toward none" — catches the mood of the event at Appomattox that was to lead to the end of hostilities.

MOBILE PARSONAGE

CHICAGO (UPI) — A 66-year-old woman minister of the United Church of Christ who spent the past decade driving the back roads of America is switching to a new career overseas.

The Rev. Leila W. Anderson leaves here this month for three years' service in the Philippines. She will take along the "parsonage on wheels" she used in touring the United States. Her mobile home has sleeping and office quarters in addition to space for storing the books, projectors, slides, pamphlets and other equipment used in her teaching and counseling.

LEONARD FELLMAN ... designed this stamp

At the top of the stamp appears "Civil War Centennial" in black, and beneath this is "Appomattox" in white. Both are in modified barnum, as are the dates "1865 - 1965," in black, which appear vertical left. "United States Postage," in white sans serif capitals is at the base of the stamp and the denomination "5 cents" is lower right.

Of the five stamps in the Civil War centennial series, this is the sole vertical design. It was modeled at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing by Robert J. Jones. Arthur W. Dintaman engraved the vignette and lettering and numerals are by George A. Payne. One hundred fifteen million will be printed on the Giori presses in shades of black and blue.

Collectors desiring first-day cancellations may send addressed envelopes, with remittance, to the Postmaster, Appomattox, Virginia 24522.

Career Clinic Opens At School Tomorrow

Dr. Walter Kerr, director of the National Youth Foundation, will open the seventh annual Pampa High School Career Clinic tomorrow morning.

Kerr is scheduled to address the student body, along with 76 consultants, at 9 a.m. in the school fieldhouse.

The 76 consultants, representing a cross-section of almost every type of occupation, will meet with students to explain their particular vocation.

Two roundtables are scheduled following Kerr's address. One between 10 and 10:50 a.m. and another between 11 and 1:50 a.m.

Students will attend a chosen roundtable and hear the consultant speak on such things as income, advantages vs. disadvantages, opportunities, preparation, education and abilities required for that type of work.

A parents' workshop is scheduled at 10 a.m. in the school auditorium.

Twenty-six representatives from colleges and universities over the Southwest are to explain college requirements and facts about college life to the parents attending.

Each representative is then slated to answer questions about his college.

School officials have urged parents who will have students entering college within the next few years to attend the workshop.

British Not Upset Over Decline of Their Hotels

By TOM A. CULLEN
European Staff Correspondent
LONDON (NEA) — If it had happened in France, hotel keepers would be jumping out of windows at regular intervals. But the British being who they are, hardly an upper lip has quivered at the news that seven of Britain's top ten provincial hotels have lost their five-star ratings.

After a long survey by motoring organizations, the majority of Britain's luxury hotels outside of London have been told that they are failing to keep pace with international standards and to meet motorists' needs.

The survey was made jointly by the Automobile Association, the Royal Automobile Club and the Royal Scottish Automobile Club.

In the massacre of stars, two de luxe hotels lost their ratings altogether, while five of the swanky hostleries were downgraded from five stars to four.

"The standards of five-star hotels were last reviewed in 1955, when this top classification was reintroduced in Britain after the war," a motoring club spokesman explains.

"Since then international standards are much higher, and the motoring public has grown more exacting. That is why we felt it necessary to make this survey."

It is no secret here that the main reason why seven out of 10 of the top hotels have been demoted is that they don't have enough rooms with private baths.

The motoring organizations now require that at least 75 per cent of a hotel's rooms must have private baths for the hotel to qualify for five stars.

Other requirements for a five-star rating include central heating throughout, 24-hour laundry and dry cleaning service, hairdressing salons for men and women, newsstands, flower shops and theater ticket bureaus.

In addition to high quality meals and service, the five-star hotel should provide lunch until 2:30 p.m. at least and dinner until 10 p.m.

The motoring organizations are being criticized for the secretive manner in which their survey was conducted.

The inspectors move in on a seaside resort like Eastbourne, it is argued and before anyone can say Union Jack, the Grand and Cavendish Hotels have each had a star lopped from their ratings.

The same is true of the Majestic at Harrogate, and of the Royal Bath at Bournemouth, both of which were likewise downgraded. None of these hotels was given sufficient warning of the new requirements expected of them, they claim.

The motoring organizations deny that there is anything secret about their survey. "The inspector, when he arrives at a hotel, is incognito," Gordon Allison, the Touring Manager of the Automobile Association, explains.

"He has a meal, stays the night and breakfasts. Then he discloses his identity and asks to inspect the hotel, which he does from chimneytops to basement."

Inspectors must not only be diplomatic in dealing with hotel managers, but they must know something about hotel management and food, as well.

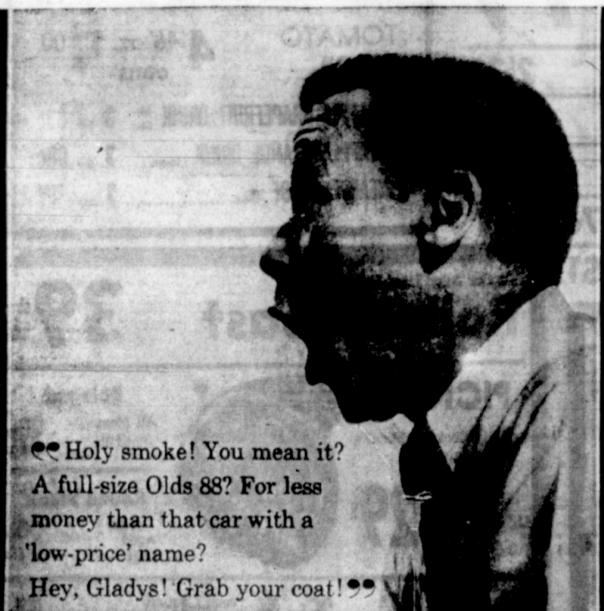

Another blast at British hotel standards has come from the Council of British Sanitary Pottery Manufacturers.

Waving a decorated chamber pot at his audience, Ernest Batchelor, council chairman, told newsmen that there is only one bath for every seven guests in Britain's medium to better-class hotels.

The sanitary potters have just completed a survey of 672 British hotels, and found that 193 of them had no private bathrooms or lavatories.

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM

UPI Foreign News Analyst
The Kremlin finally has gotten around to firing the man whose controversial theories about the development of plant and animal life dominated Soviet agriculture for more than 20 years.

He is Trofim D. Lysenko, a lanky man with the burning eyes of a zealot whose theories long have been ridiculed by Western scientists but who played politics so successfully that he managed the transition from Josef Stalin to remain in power under Nikita Khrushchev. Specifically, he lost his job as director of the Institute of Genetics of the Academy of Sciences, a post he had held since 1940.

In general, Lysenko held that plants and animals could pass on to future generations characteristics acquired in their lifetime through environment.

Ridicules General Belief
He ridiculed the generally accepted belief that genes controlled inherited traits.

It was his claim that Soviet farm output had increased 40 per cent because of his theories, a claim now disputed. Instead, it is said that his theories actually brought about a decline in farm output.

But it was in the field of politics that Lysenko really starred.

Stalin liked him because Lysenko's ideas coincided with his own, that a planned society could produce its own hereditary traits.

He lost favor temporarily under Khrushchev but regained it when he went out among the farmers and talked practical farming with them on the basis of his own background from birth on a Ukrainian farm.

It had an appeal to Khrushchev, himself a son of the soil, and by that time was grasping at any straw to help increase agricultural output.

Critics In Grave

In more than 20 years of political in-fighting Lysenko left the battlefield strewn with bodies of his one-time critics.

Those who opposed his theories were dubbed "Trotskyist." Those who spoke favorably of Western scientists were associated with Hitler's racist theories.

Khrushchev's ouster also marked the beginning of the end of Lysenko's influence.

Articles in the Soviet press accused him of manufacturing evidence to support his claims and to have harmed Soviet agriculture through his opposition to high-producing strains of hybrid corn.

And even as Khrushchev's name is disappearing from Soviet textbooks so the Lysenko theories are being erased in Soviet schools.

An Academy of Sciences announcement said that biological and genetic studies now would return to the mainstream of world research.

One claim Lysenko made for his theories was that they adhered to the dialectic materialism of Marx. If so, his ouster is not Marx.

Private plots for farmers are being increased.
In late January the Soviet news agency Tass disclosed that a new incentive system tying wages to actual production rather than to how worked is to be tested on selected collective and state farms this year.

Mariner-4 to Picture Mars

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The space agency has pinpointed locations on a 4,000-mile long area of Mars that are to be photographed by Mariner 4 next July 14.

The spacecraft's television camera will take pictures — almost simultaneously — of the Martian seasons of fall and spring as it flies past the Red Planet.

This is because the target area is divided between the northern hemisphere — where it will be autumn, and the southern hemisphere — where it will be spring.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) announced Sunday that the exact points at which the spacecraft cameras will be aimed were determined by an analysis of Mariner's flight path by NASA engineers.

NASA asked both amateur and professional astronomers to observe the areas for purposes of comparison of Mariner photographs with those taken by ground-based telescopes.

The areas will be telescopically visible a number of times before and after Mars makes its closest approach to each in early March.

If Mariner is still operating normally on July 14, it will take up to 21 television photographs and make instrumental measurements of the Martian atmosphere which may indicate whether the planet can harbor life.

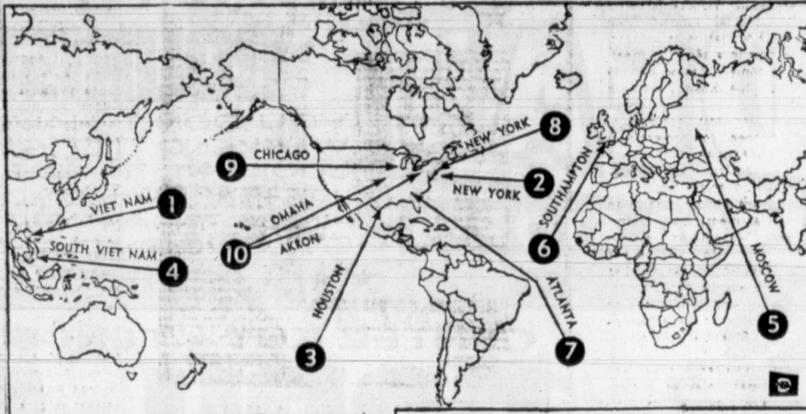

It will take about eight hours and 20 minutes to transmit each television picture to earth. Photographs will be stored on tape and played back to earth when Mariner has passed Mars. Each playback will be repeated at least twice.

House Foreign Affairs Committee Resumes Hearings on Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Foreign Affairs Committee resumes hearings today on President Johnson's $3.38 billion foreign aid bill.

The committee, headed by Rep. Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa., is well into authorization hearings on the proposal, which is a "bare bones" request that is the lowest in history of the aid program.

Last year, Johnson asked for $3.1 billion in another pre-shrunk request. He finally received $3.3 billion, which was a minor cut compared to some in previous years.

After the election gave Johnson a heavy Democratic majority in Congress it appeared that this year's bill would not have as much trouble as in some past sessions.

POWER PROPOSAL

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Interior Department recommended to Congress Monday that $364,310,000 be spent to give the Grand Coulee Dam in Washington state the greatest power capacity of any hydroelectric plant in the world.

The department proposed that the generating capacity of the huge dam be nearly tripled to 5.6 million kilowatts by construction of a dam and reservoir at the east end of the existing dam on the Columbia River.

Dear Abby.... A Barber Is a Barber In Abby's Opinion

DEAR ABBY: So you say that a barber is not permitted or entitled to remove blackheads? Well, please go to the library and read "The Practice and Science of Standard Barbering," and I believe that you will change your mind after reading the chapter entitled, "Diseases of the Skin, Scalp and Hair." I am a student at a barber college in Covington, Kentucky, and I have personally removed two warts from the face of a customer by high frequency treatment. I have also removed countless blackheads from the faces of many others.

A barber is trained and qualified to treat any skin disease of the scalp, skin or hair if the disease is not contagious. Sincerely Yours,
A FUTURE BARBER
DEAR FUTURE BARBER: A barber is not the qualified nor licensed to treat diseases of the skin, whether contagious or otherwise. It is possible that when you removed two "warts" from the face of your customer one of them may have been a cancer, and the high frequency treatment that you used could have spread malignant cells into the bloodstream. It is also possible that your customer may be a diabetic or suffer from hemophilia (a bleeding disease). Highly qualified dermatologists require special laboratory techniques before they know whether a scaling of the scalp is ringworm or ordinary dandruff.

So my advice to you is to perfect your skill as a barber, and do not trust even the best-trained surgeon you know to cut your hair. He might get carried away and scalp you!

DEAR ABBY: If your husband, who had always been very conservative, suddenly and for no apparent reason or occasion, gave you an expensive monogrammed vanity case, would you be suspicious?

BOWN EYES
DEAR BROWN EYES: Not if they were my initials.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been happily married for ten years. We have four lovely children. When I first started dating my husband, I told him I was five years younger than I really was, because he was five years younger than I, and I was afraid he wouldn't continue to date me if he knew it.

When we did get married, I still couldn't bring myself to tell him the truth, so I gave my age as the same as his for the marriage records. To this day he believes we are the same age. This has bothered me, Abby, because I feel that one day he might find out. Should I let him go on thinking I am five years younger than I really am?

AGE PROBLEM
DEAR ABBY: Tell him the truth. Deceiving him in the first place was wrong, of course. But any woman who can knock five years off her age and get away with it deserves a little credit for having preserved herself so well.

I have been married for four years and have one child and another on the way, but I do not wear jewelry of any kind. Not even a wedding ring. The reason being that I simply cannot stand to have anything on my fingers. It makes me nervous.

I know an unmarried girl who has a child. The baby's father can't marry her because he already has a wife and two children, but she wears a wedding and engagement ring. So tell the widow's son that a ring doesn't mean a thing.

NO RINGS ON MY FINGERS
Troubled? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Senior Center Corner By MRS. O. A. WAGNER

Our poetess, Mrs. Alma Bailey, has written a poem for Valentine, which brings back memories, and was read at the Senior Center Thursday. Thought our readers might enjoy it.

Remember the day you were just seventeen?
And the world was all yours, or so it seemed.
The birds held magic in their song
And you danced with glee all day long.
There was a boy in your dreams, when you were just seventeen.
With eyes of heavenly blue
He had wavy blond hair, and was quite debonair.
And you vowed you would always be true.
You said you loved him with all your heart,
But somehow, some way,
you drifted apart.
Now the years have gone by,
but you still like to dream of
That old sweetheart of yours, when you were just seventeen.

A former guest of Mrs. Mollie Hebrook Saturday was a nephew, Ray Bell of Perryton.

D. H. Porter and children, Ruth and Richard of Shamrock, were Tuesday business callers in Pampa and visited the children's grandmother, Mrs. C. G. Miller and son Bill.

L. F. Noe brought some of his lovely woodwork to the Center, consisting of bowls, vases and corner shelves, which he makes with only a small hand saw and sandpaper, varnished and polished to perfection.

There is an old saying, "When the cats away the mice will play." The last three weeks J. M. Forrest has been coming down to the Center alone, while his wife is working, and having a high time!

Mrs. W. R. Ewing, her daughter, Mrs. W. A. (Lucille) Woelfel and W. S. Talbert, made a short visit to the Center Thursday. If you have not seen the display of relics from Southeast Asia by Mrs. Woelfel in the front display window of the Lovett Memorial Library, be sure and see it. Mrs. Woelfel and her late husband were stationed there at the war for 13 years where he was in government service in the rehabilitation of Guam and islands roundabout, which were destroyed during the war. There are tapestries, water bottles, jewelry and countless numbers of rare articles, which we are unable to describe. The one I was most interested in was a carrying container for food at weddings, and is four or five hundred years old. It is ebony inlaid with mother of pearl. A priceless possession. A very large wicker, or woven tray is also unique. Understand Mrs. Woelfel uses it for serving on picnics or large parties.

Hostess group this week was ESA Alpha Omicron Chapter. Serving sandwiches, Valentine cookies and coffee were Mes. W. R. Parish, Ralph F. Ludwig, J. L. Hunter and Eugene Bentley. Little Miss Marcha Bentley was a guest.

Door prizes went to your reporter and Mr. Rippe.

Altruists serving were Mes. Marie Fitzgerald, Jay Flannigan, Louise Sewell and Mabel Hukill.

Gray Ladies serving with transportation were Mes. Mabel Hukill, George Benham, H. H. Butler, Jess Hatcher, Augusta Yaly and Naoma Gill.

Males 'Spank' Sloppy Teens

DOUG McCURE -- He champions the teen-aged girl who picks styles to flatter her, avoids looking ridiculous as one-of-the-crowd.

When asked about bangs, especially of the sheepdog variety, actor Mickey Callan said he likes bangs "on Debbie Reynolds and Ringo Starr."

Also taking some potshots at irritating girlish habits are Edd Byrnes, Nick Adams, Tommy Sands, Bob Conrad, Doug McClure and Peter Brown.

Edd Byrnes, made famous by his attention to his own hair on television, equates shiny, healthy hair with a shiny, healthy personality. "After all," he says, "a fellow notices a girl from top to bottom and her hair is literally her crowning glory."

Scotching the myth that all redheads are hot-tempered, Nick Adams believes that at the right time and place, blondes, brunettes and even bald women can be hot-tempered. He flippantly votes against wigs for teen-agers with a "get a wig if you are bald."

Tommy Sands, meanwhile, comes out for hair coloring. His reasoning, "By coloring her hair, a girl can be imaginative and create different personalities for herself." Unlike the others, Doug McClure hedges a bit on teased hair. He feels it is all right if it adds "to your looks. Don't tease your hair just because someone else does."

Most cryptic comments from the eight taking part in a fan autograph - photograph promotion (sponsored by Helene Curtis) were by Peter Brown and Bob Conrad.

Brown says a girl who combs her hair in front of her date is inconsiderate and exposes her vanity.

"Boys are aware most girls are vain. But don't bring this fact out so vividly right in front of us."

Conrad had the final say about wearing rollers in public with a date. "A girl," he says, "can be seen wearing these when she decides to give up all her social activities."

'Hard-Luck Terry' Loses Flip

Hard-luck Terry Culley "blew it again" as the Pampa basketball coach lost a coin flip for the third straight time, giving the Haltom City Buffaloes the choice of home site for next Monday night's bi-district basketball game.

Officials of the two schools met in Vernon yesterday to name the site of the game, and could not come to an agreement on a neutral court, although the choice of North Texas State and West Texas State Fieldhouses was discussed.

Culley and coach Ronny Stevenson of the district 4-AAAB champs finally flipped, with Culley tossing and Stevenson calling "heads." Heads it was and HC again had the choice. The Buffaloes won the toss in 1963, took their home gym, and won 77-74.

Culley reported however that Haltom City would probably take TCU Fieldhouse if it was available. The Fort Worth Star-Telegram confirmed yesterday that another Fort Worth team was also seeking it for a bi-district game Monday night, but that it had originally been offered to Haltom City first and that it was felt that the Buffs would get it.

WRONG SIDE — Pampa basketball coach Terry Culley and athletic director Birdgo Trice stare mournfully at the betraying coin that came up wrong for them in the flip for bi-district site. Haltom City won the toss and will host the game next Monday.

Haltom City ran up a 27-2 season record and a 15-1 district mark, winning 4-4 by three games. The Buffaloes actually lost three games, dropping two tilts to L.D. Bell, but one of the games was forfeited after it was discovered that Bell had used two ineligible players, knocking them out of the district title.

Culley was philosophical about the flip, saying "I gotta win one sometime," but athletic director Weldon "Birdgo" Trice said "I must be a jinx, I don't think I'll go along the next time we flip."

Culley was still confident of a Harvester victory, despite the so-called "home court jinx."

"Haltom City's gym could make a difference, but I feel that TCU will give an equal chance to both of us. What's more important, this way all our fans will get seated for the game, although they will have to travel a bit."

Culley said that he did not think the Harvesters would play a practice game before the bi-district, although AA winner Phillips had inquired about a meeting Friday night. The Harvesters will take a chartered bus to the contest, leaving Sunday.

Wolverines Maintain Big 10 Lead in Double O'time

By FRED McMANE
UPI Sports Writer
Indiana's basketball team should've learned something

Wilt Sparks 76ers' Win

NEW YORK (UPI) — Wilt Chamberlain, who "would like nothing better than to be on a world championship team," appears willing to sacrifice his prodigious scoring average to attain that goal.

Chamberlain sparked the Philadelphia 76ers to an 115 mark since he joined the team last month but his scoring during this span fell to 26.7 points a game; and his National Basketball Association league-leading average dropped to 35.3 for games through Sunday, according to official statistics released today.

This gives Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson, with a 30.9 mark, a much better chance to catch Chamberlain, who is taking eight less shots a game with the 76ers than he did with the Warriors. Los Angeles' Jerry West was also within range with a 30.6 average.

Baltimore's Walt Bellamy took field goal percentage honors with a .514 mark while Philadelphia's Larry Costello remained on top from the charity stripe with an .895 percentage.

Boston's Bill Russell had a commanding 1425-1259 edge on Chamberlain in the rebounding department and in assists Robertson (652) was far ahead of the Warriors' Guy Rodgers (414) as the NBA season reached the three-quarter mark.

from Princeton last Christmas—never turn your back on Michigan for a minute, not even for 26 seconds.

In last December's Holiday Festival Tournament in New York, Princeton held a 14-point lead over Michigan with less than four minutes remaining in a semifinal game, only to lose at the buzzer after the Wolverines put on a great closing rally.

Monday night, the Wolverines pulled off a similar rally, not once, but twice in the same game to defeat Indiana 96-95 in double overtime and maintain its lead in the Big Ten Conference.

Michigan, which is ranked No. 1 in the nation, trailed Indiana by seven points going into the final minute of play and it appeared as though the Hoosiers had the game tucked safely away.

Fell Apart
Suddenly, however, the Hoosiers fell apart and Michigan's Larry Tregoning succeeded in tying the score at 81-all with two free throws at the final buzzer.

Indiana took command again in the first overtime period and led by four points with only 26 seconds remaining, but once again the Wolverines came roaring back to tie the score in the final seconds on a tip-in by Bill Buntin.

Michigan's Cazzie Russell finally gave the Wolverines the lead to stay with 45 seconds remaining in the second overtime period as he tossed in two free throws. Indiana almost succeeded in tying the game at the final buzzer, but Buntin blocked a last-second shot by Indiana's Steve Redenbaugh.

Russell and Buntin shared scoring honors for Michigan with 23 points each, but game honors went to Indiana's Tom Van Arsdale with 27 points.

Hicks Sparks Win
Substitute forward Rod Hicks came off the bench in the final 30 seconds and scored five points to lead Purdue to a 92-87 victory over Northwestern in another Big Ten clash.

Dave Schellhase, the Big Ten's No. 2 scorer, had 33 points for Purdue while Jim Burns tossed in 31 for Northwestern.

Seventh-ranked Wichita had a close call with Loyola of Chicago, but thanks to a 25-point performance from sophomore Jamie Thompson, the Shockers managed to edge the Ramblers 80-77.

Bob and Ken McIntyre scored 19 points each and sophomore Sonny Dove tallied 18 and grabbed 18 rebounds to lead St. John's (N.Y.) to an 80-61 victory over West Virginia.

Buddy Quertinnont led West Virginia in scoring with 17 points.

In other games, Cornell topped Yale 83-67, Rutgers tripped Gettysburg 79-73, Florida crushed Mississippi—85-53, Alabama downed Louisiana State 90-78, Colorado beat Iowa State 92-71, Missouri bested Nebraska 92-74, Oklahoma State edged Kansas 68-64, and Oklahoma topped Kansas State 80-65.

Aaron, Mantle Sign Contracts

By LEONARD A. GRANATO
UPI Sports Writer

Pitchers toiling in the hot Florida sun of the spring training camps of the Detroit Tigers and Houston Astros have some bad news to mull over while the pounds roll off.

Hank Aaron signed his 1965 contract Monday for the Milwaukee Braves — that's bad news for the Houston hurlers. Mickey Mantle inked his contract with the New York Yankees — ditto for Detroiters.

Each is the big gun in the offensive attack of his team. Aaron missed 19 games in September last season but still hit .328 with 24 home runs and 89 runs batted in. His salary was estimated at just below $75,000 to make him the highest paid Brave now that Warren Spahn is a New York Met.

Mantle signed a $100,000 contract, his third consecutive six-figure pact, making him the second-highest paid player in baseball, behind Willie Mays who draws $105,000 to play centerfield for the San Francisco Giants. Mantle batted .303 last season, smacking 35 home runs and driving in 111 runs.

The Tigers and Astros opened their training camps Monday, the same day as the signings.

Sixty pitchers and catchers reported to Manager Charlie Dressen at Lakeland's Tiger-town, while Luman Harris looked at his first group of Astros at Cocoa, Fla.

Failed To Score
The inability to score key runs in big games kept the Reds from winning the pennant last season, according to Sisler, who took over the managerial duties midway through the 1964 campaign and was named manager after Fred Hutchinson's death.

The Cleveland Indians bought left-hand pitcher Bill Edger-ton from the Kansas City Athletics. He has played in the minor leagues for two years, striking out 314 batters and walking only 114 in that time.

Joe Stanka, the intermediary in the dispute over Masanori Murakami, said in New York Monday that "things are still pretty much as they were." He made the statement after meeting with baseball Commissioner Ford Frick.

Murakami pitched for the Giants last year and the American team thought it would have his services this season. But the Nankai Hawks, for which both Stanka and Murakami play, denied they had released him, saying they only loaned him to the Giants.

Michigan Holds First in Polls

NEW YORK (UPI) — Michigan prevailed for the third straight week over UCLA and St. Joseph's (Pa.) in a three-team battle for first place today in the weekly United Press International major college basketball ratings.

The Tennessee Volunteers entered the top 10 for the first time in the 15-year history of the ratings in 10th place following their victory over Vanderbilt Saturday. Duke and Wichita also made gains.

Michigan picked up four more first place votes to increase its total to 25. Second ranked UCLA lost four votes but remained only 27 points behind the Wolverines. Third-rated St. Joseph's added 52 points and two first-place votes to climb within three points of second.

Providence, No. 4 for the third week in a row, was awarded the other first-place ballot on the panel of 35 coaches on the UPI rating board. The Friars are the only unbeaten major team in the nation.

Duke jumped from seventh to fifth; Davidson held sixth place. Wichita advanced a notch to seventh. Vanderbilt dropped from fifth to eighth.

YCC Basketball

Junior Basketball Tournament Seventh Grade Results

Pampa, Lee, Phillips and Lee 'B' took opening round wins. Pampa won a 42-38 overtime thriller over St. Johns of Borger after the score had been tied 34-31. Cliff Gaze had 19 points for Pampa, Frank Chavez 20 for Borger.

Trailing 20-19 after three quarters, Lee exploded for a 38-27 win over St. Joseph of Amarillo as Louis Brantley scored 17 points. Tom Walters had 10 for Amarillo.

Phillips downed St. Vincent of Pampa, 25-20. Pat Darling had seven points for the losers, Dick Robie nine for the winners.

Lee 'B' came from behind for a 24-22 upset of Perryton as John Jenkins scored seven points. Doc Click had eight for the losers.

Eighth grade action begins Wednesday.

and Indiana maintained its ninth-place standing. The ratings cover only those games played through Saturday, Feb. 13.

Minnesota whipped Illinois and vaulted from 18th to 11th, pushing the Illini from 10th to 14th. San Francisco and New Mexico remained 12th and 13th, respectively. Brigham Young dropped a notch to 15th while Villanova, which tackles both St. Joseph's and Providence in the next seven days, advanced from 17th to 16th.

Oklahoma State and North Carolina State rebounded into 17th and 18th spots, respectively, and Arizona, Kansas and Miami (Fla.) deadlocked for 19th.

NFL Kicks Off Winter Meeting

PALM DESERT, Calif. (UPI) — The annual midwinter convention of the National Football League officially gets underway today with owners and coaches ready to discuss just about anything — except the possibility of a truce in the draft war with the American Football League.

Although the battle with the AFL is causing profits to shrink in both leagues, talk of a truce isn't even on the agenda.

"That doesn't mean it won't be discussed," said a league spokesman, "but the agenda doesn't list any such proposal." Television receipts have kept both leagues in sound financial shape as college graduates reap a harvest in bonus money. The top, of course, was the $40,000 paid to Joe Namath to sign with the New York Jets of the AFL.

But National Leaguers have had to come up with some heavy sugar to lure the collegians, too. And some of the owners have indicated they are a bit tired of dishing out all the profits to kids who haven't even proved they can play pro football.

Monday, the anxious officials jumped the gun and got right down to the business of working out some of the minor features of the 1965 schedule.

HUSTLING HARVESTERS—Coach Terry Culley named all the members of the team as "Hustling Harvesters" this week after their district championship victories. ## Broncos Will Stay In Denver

DENVER (UPI)—Millionaire contractors Gerald and Allen Phipps purchased the controlling interest in the Denver Broncos Monday and immediately promised to keep the American Football League team in the Mile High City.

The $1.5 million deal gave the Phipps brothers 94 per cent of the stock of Empire Sports, Inc., which lists its assets as the Broncos, the baseball Bears of the Pacific Coast League and Bears Stadium, a 34,000 seat baseball football plant.

Even though Empire President Calvin Kunz had said earlier during negotiations that it's a "dollar-and-cents" world, the Phipps offer was one of the lowest.

The Phipps bought a team which had a 2-11-1 record last year and has an 18-49-3 mark in five years of AFL competition. The club has lost $2.2 million dollars since the inception of the AFL in 1960. Last year losses reached $697,000 — the most ever.

Gerald Phipps, chairman of the board at Empire, had earlier turned down a $4 million offer from Cox Broadcasting Co., of Atlanta, Ga., for 100 per cent of the stock. J. Leonard Reinsch came to Denver to personally make the offer.

Another offer to the five-man voting trust, which sold its 52 per cent interest to the Phipps, included a $2 million bid by Nicholas G. Troilo, a Philadelphia toy manufacturer.

Troilo's offer also included immediate payment of $300,000 to pay off the second mortgage Gerald Phipps holds on Bears Stadium.

And Arthur C. Allyn of the Artnell Co. of Chicago, which owns the Chicago White Sox, said he had made an undisclosed offer to the voting trust.

Presidents Of Athletic Feudists Meet

NEW YORK (UPI)—The first real break in the damaging "alphabet" war between the AAU and NCAA for control of amateur athletics in the United States may result when the presidents of the rival organizations meet this week.

Clifford Buck, president of the Amateur Athletic Union, said Monday night that he has agreed to meet with Everett Barnes, president of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, in an attempt to work out an "equitable solution."

Buck said he hoped to talk with Barnes today to set up a first meeting for later this week. "It is very gratifying to us there is an indication we're making a start to solving something in this very important meeting," Buck said. "It is encouraging that we are going to sit down and discuss these things. They are matters of great importance to the welfare of athletics and to amateur sports."

"It is imperative we take every possible step to find an equitable solution that first of all will protect the athletes. They are the most important concern in this matter as they stand to be hurt most by the current situation."

The AAU and NCAA have been squabbling for several years although a temporary truce was declared in January of 1963, under the arbitration of General MacArthur, to remain in effect until the conclusion of the 1964 Olympics.

In effect, the NCAA wants the right of dual sanctioning at open events (those events which include collegians and non-collegians) while the AAU feels that it alone has the power of sanction since it is the only U.S. body recognized on an international level.

Tipton was all over the court offensively and defensively, sparking with his ballhandling and passing and hitting with deadly accuracy on jump shots and drives. The 5-11 all-state candidate racked up 23 points, although never taking a shot at the basket in the fourth quarter.

Tipton hit his first three shots to put Gruver into a big early lead. Duckett brought the Panthers back on close-in shots and rebounds, but Tipton hit for nine points and a 14-12 quarter lead. Choate hit to tie the game at 18-18 in the opening moments of the second frame, but that was as close as Panhandle ever came, as Tipton fed Royce Matthews under the basket while Mack Hoel hit five straight free throws to push Gruver into a 32-20 halftime lead.

Tipton hit his first three shots of the third quarter and five buckets over-all as the Hounds kept the lead despite Matthews, their tallest player fouling out, taking a 48-34 margin into the last quarter.

Mart Hart and Billy Lieb kept fighting for the boards however and Duckett and Choate fouled out midway in the final frame. Larry Cole fought to keep the Panthers in the game with his outside shots, cutting the lead to eight points time and again, but Hoel and Hart picked up free throws to clinch the game.

Cole finished with 19 points, Duckett 14 and Choate 10. Tipton was backed by Hoel with 12 points, 10 of them free throws, Lieb with 10 points.

GERMANS SWEEP SLEDS — DAVOS, Switzerland (UPI)—German bobsledders monopolized the world tobogganing championships Sunday by winning the men's and women's singles and the doubles for a clean sweep.

West Germany's Hans Plenk won the men's singles; East Germany's Ortrun Enderlein copped the women's singles; and the East German toboggan team of Wolfgang Scheidel and Michael Koehler captured the doubles event.

HANDS UP — It appears as if Larry Duckett of Panhandle is the lead man on this rebound grab, fighting off Billy Lieb and Royce Matthews of Gruver, with teammate Johnny Stone (34) also in on the action. Watching are Leon Choate (22) of Panhandle and Sam Tipton (25), of Gruver.

Favorites Win In 2-B Tourney

By BILL NICHOLS
News Sports Correspondent

WHEELER — Wheeler boys and Allison girls won as expected in the opening round of the district 2-B Tournament last night, but Wheeler girls were pushed to the wire before taking a 63-52 win over upstart Kelton. Allison girls downed Lefors in a foul-fest, 59-33 and the Wheeler Horses stampeded Mobeetie boys, 69-38.

Tonight's tilts pit Allison-Lefors boys at 5:30, followed by Miami-Mobeetie girls at 7 and Miami-Kelton boys at 8:30. Wheeler boys will play Briscoe tomorrow night, as will Allison-Briscoe girls, with tonight's boys game winners, meeting, and Wheeler Fillies meeting the winner of tonight's girls game.

Lefors was crippled by the loss of leading scorer Vicki Stone with the flu, and then completely racked up by four fouls on second-leading scorer Kathy Gatlin in the first quarter. Lefors lost the ball the first three times they got their hands on it to Allison's alert guards, and were down 17-3 at the quarter as Margaret Powledge slammed home 10 points.

The whistle blew for a total of 50 fouls in a pushing, shoving game which almost turned into a knockdown-dragout as Allison led 29-10 at the half and 51-24 at the three-quarter mark.

Converted guard Sue Richardson led the Wheeler Fillies in the last quarter to break open a tight ball game. Sue's ball-handling and the shooting of Sherry Barnes sparked Wheeler in the first frame, but Kelton kept it close, 16-13 behind Joyce Walser.

Kelton started the second quarter with a technical foul for delay of game... occasioned as the Kelton girls were tucking in the shirtdolls of Allison's borrowed uniforms. Sherry and Linda Batey hit from outside to give Wheeler a 37-21 halftime bulge.

The Lionesses roared back in the third quarter, stealing the ball as Wheeler was plagued with wild passes and loose ball-handling, and Joyce and LaFerne Bradley cut the edge to one point, with Wheeler holding a slim 45-42 lead going into the last period.

Sue smacked the bucket open to push Wheeler into a 56-49 edge and the Fillies went on from there. Sherry hit a career high of 35 points, Joyce and LaFerne had 23 each.

Wheeler stole Mobeetie blind as they led all the way. Dunk Porter snatched the ball from the Hornet guards and Villard Hunter stole passes but Mobeetie's big boys, Billy Whitten and Joe Fred Mixon kept Mobeetie in the game as they trailed 16-10 at the quarter.

Wheeler broke it open in the second canto as Hunter stole the passes and Mike Gandy grabbed the rebounds, feeding Porter and Richard Wallace on fast breaks and the Herd ran to 31-18.

The third quarter was a duplicate of the second, with the only odd incident happening when Wheeler's Billy Overcast, chasing a loose ball, collided with a stove at the far end of the court, burning his hands. Overcast came back to play in the fourth quarter.

Leading 51-24, the Herd put in the reserves in the final frame, but Mike and Freddie Goad led fast breaks while Frankie Rogers couldn't miss from outside. Wallace finished with 14 points, Porter 12, Rogers 10. Gerald Gudel topped Mobeetie with eight.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper
EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

The Right to Be Wrong

The person who does not believe in liberty is invariably prone to establish standards for himself which he believes to be so good and so wonderful that he wished to compel all other people to accept his standards. Since he assumes that the sun of virtue arises and sets in his own narrow life, he invariably becomes angry with the standards of others when they differ from his. Then he will invoke whatever force he can muster in an effort to change the lives of others. He will do this with complete equanimity, feeling certain that his ways are the "right" ways and that all other ways are "wrong."

One of the basic rules that can be summoned in which to test the real support of liberty anyone has, is to test his willingness to impose force on others. Some will impose force only as a last resort. Others will impose it to compel censorship of what people read, and control over what people eat, drink, smoke, or otherwise do.

Fundamental to the concept of freedom is the idea that a man has a right to establish his own standards, even if some of the standards so established are not what other people might like him to have. Firm in the concept of liberty is the right of a man to make an error.

Nearly all attacks against liberty stem originally from the belief on the part of many that no one has a right to be wrong. Thus, what is right or wrong becomes a matter of control. And the standard bearer sets forth his own concepts, which no one else may avoid except at his own peril.

Obviously, rights cannot be in conflict. And no man has a right to destroy the rights of another. But clearly, what a man does with himself and his own property is not a matter for the control of exterior forces, if one believes in liberty.

Thus, the man who seeks to establish standards for others, and reverts to force of any kind to do so, does not believe in the liberty of the other person to make up his own mind. We can grant, for the sake of discussion, that one man may have far better standards than another. But the establishment of a wise and prudent standard in no way creates a right on the part of that person to compel others to accept his standards, though it be superior.

No man is wise enough to know the pressures on and the background of any other person. When he sets himself up as a kind of earthly deity, assuming that his opinions have the weight of principle, and proceeds to invoke any kind of force upon others in this respect, he is the prime mover against freedom.

Isabel Paterson brings out this point very well in her book, "God of the Machine." She points out in the chapter entitled, "The Humanitarian with the Guillotine," that most of the evil in the world is actually instigated by "good" people, in their frantic effort to compel conformity by all others.

The Spanish inquisition provides a marvelous model. So do various laws which attempt to prescribe what people may read, what they may do in the way of entertainment or religious worship, what they may eat or wear, or how they will comport themselves in their spare time.

The urge to make others over in one's own image is the urge to compel conformity. It is the core of socialism, for the socialist cannot condone individual decisions or individual responsibility.

So, when you run across people who are very intent on remodeling you in their own image, you can put it down that these people, whatever they may say about freedom, really don't believe in it. What they do believe in is their own superiority, their own intrinsic rightness, their own supremacy of judgment.

If you believe in freedom at all, you must believe in the right of a man to be wrong, to make an error. Obviously, such a man must be responsible for whatever error he makes. But implicit here is the fact that the one who appears to be in error may not be. Personal opinions or standards, unless they are principles, have no weight whatever, save the weight force can give them.

We would agree with Isabel Paterson that the evil in the world is principally caused by "good" people who are trying to make others conform to their model.

'Against Everything'

One of the most frequent criticisms lodged against Freedom Newspapers is that we are "against everything."

Alas, we must confess that we sometimes fail, through poor word choice or over-simplification, to make ourselves understood. Furthermore, we cannot start from the beginning each day in explaining fully our philosophy — simple though it is — and this occasionally results in confusion for our readers. To these counts we plead guilty, and we apologize for our shortcomings.

However, the oft-heard expression that we're "against everything" is erroneous.

We are, in fact, against just one single "thing": Initiated force. We oppose initiated force in its many forms and its employment for any purpose.

To put our primary belief positively, we are for liberty, and liberty, we agree with Dr. F. A. Harper, is the absence of coercion against one man by another. Or, as Joseph Galambos states, liberty exists when each individual has 100 per cent control over his property and zero per cent control over any other man's property.

In this age when socialism is popular (under the euphemisms of democracy, majority rule or mixed economy, of course), we find that we must oppose more and more "things" if we are to stick by our basic belief in freedom. Thus the accusation by many that we are "against everything."

Let us list a few things that we oppose and some that we do not.

We oppose compulsory planning. We do not oppose planning.

We simply believe that individuals can handle their affairs better than any coercive force can do it for them; but even if they cannot, they still have a right to try. Indeed individuals have a right to fail.

We oppose compulsory association. We do not oppose cooperative, voluntary efforts. We believe persons should be able to select their own friends, work without being compelled to pay tribute to any organization, buy from and sell to any person or group they wish as long as the transaction is approved by both sides. We believe an individual has a right to close his home or his business to anyone for any reason. We believe in private property.

We do not oppose schools, libraries or trash collection services. We consider these desirable things which can be obtained without coercion, but we do oppose taxes collected by initiated force or the threat of force.

We believe that man's advancement potential can be realized only if he is free. He can only wither if in bondage to another man or a group of men, even a group calling itself government.

We are not against everything. But we shall always be against the forced regimentation of mankind.

National Outlook

By GEORGE HAGEDORN

The Anatomy of Unemployment
In January the seasonally adjusted unemployment rate for the nation as a whole was reported as 4.8 per cent. Although this summary figure conceals as much as it reveals, there is some gratification to be taken in the fact that this is the lowest percentage recorded since October 1957. The rate has shown a gradual and somewhat hesitant, but still discernible, downtrend since about January of 1964, when it stood at 5.5 per cent.

More is to be learned, and incidentally more reassurance is to be gained, from a probing below the surface of the broad-gauge over-all figure. How have the various occupational and industrial groups been faring?

Trend Analyzed

For such an examination in depth it is necessary to turn to annual figures, rather than relying on the data for a single month. For 1964 the general unemployment rate averaged 5.2 per cent, as compared with 5.7 per cent in 1963, and 6.7 per cent in 1961 — the year in which the current period of rising business began. The 1964 rate was however still somewhat above the level which prevailed in the mid-1950's.

The fact that, after four years of business expansion, we still have an unemployment rate higher than in the boom years of 1956 and 1957 has led some observers to conclude that our unemployment reflects deep-seated economic changes and that it has been impossible for our labor-force to adapt themselves to these changes.

Closing the Gap

The usual assumption is that changes in the structure of our economy are creating increasing difficulties for blue-collar workers and increasing advantages, relatively at least, for white-collar workers. It is also usually assumed that the skilled are increasingly gaining an advantage over the unskilled. Yet a comparison in trends of unemployment as among these groups does not bear out any such conclusions.

It is true that white-collar employees always have a lower unemployment rate than blue-collar workers, and the skilled a lower unemployment rate than the unskilled. But the gap has not been widening. In fact the reverse has been occurring.

In 1956 blue-collar workers had an unemployment rate just three times as high as the unemployment rate for white-collar people. In 1964 the ratio was less than two-and-a-half to one.

Unskilled laborers always have a higher rate of unemployment than other groups — as might be expected from the casual nature of their employment in many instances. But, relative to the more skilled blue-collar people, their unemployment record has improved since the late 1950's.

There seems little evidence here that unskilled blue-collar people are doomed to get less than their share of new employment opportunities. If business conditions continue to be favorable, they are likely to do as well as anyone else.

Today is Tuesday, Feb. 16, the 47th day of 1965 with 318 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last phase.

The morning star is Mars.

The evening star is Jupiter.

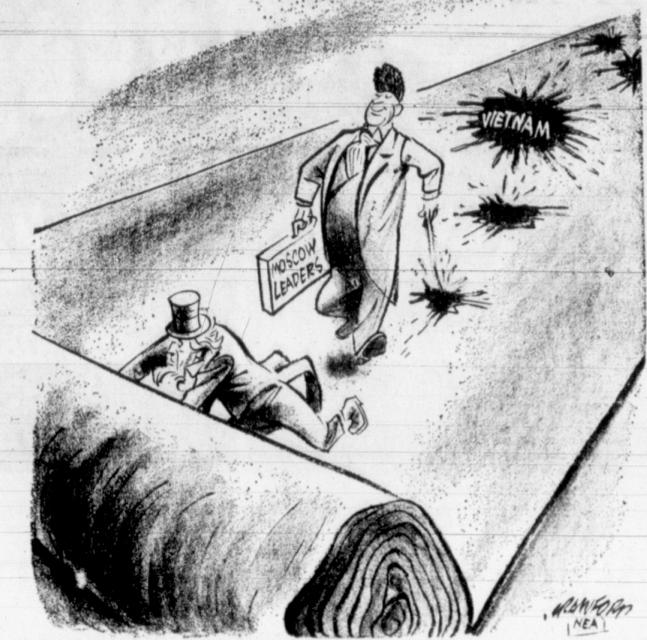

On this day in history:

In 1938, Austrian Chancellor Kurt von Schuschnigg bowed to Nazi pressure and agreed to admit Austrian Nazis into his cabinet.

In 1945, American paratroopers landed on Corregidor in the Philippines and planted the U.S. flag on a half-mile stretch of land.

In 1959, Fidel Castro took the oath of office as premier of Cuba following the collapse of the Batista regime.

A thought for the day—General George Marshall said: "If man does find the solution for world peace it will be the most revolutionary reversal of his record we have ever known."

Regular Soviet Arms Airlift Carries Superior Weapons to Congo, Viet Cong Guerrillas

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The Soviet Union is setting up an airlift of modern arms to support its stepped-up "wars of destruction in the Congo and South Viet Nam.

Russian cargo planes, including giant TU-114 turboprops are flying regularly to Asia and Africa with large stocks of rifles, machineguns, ammunition, mortars, flame-throwers, bazookas and medical supplies.

A new repeating recoilless bazooka that fires a tungsten warhead capable of destroying a medium tank is also being airlifted to the Congolese rebels and Communist Viet Cong.

As described by Army experts who have examined captured weapons, this bazooka is far superior to anything the U. S. now possesses.

Significantly, the United Arab Republic, Algeria and Sudan, three beneficiaries of U. S. surplus food and technical aid, are cooperating fully with the Soviet airlift, together with Mongolia and Communist China.

According to the latest "hard" U. S. intelligence, these Communist or pro-Soviet governments are permitting the Russians to establish security units at strategic local air bases being used by the Kremlin as refueling stops and storage areas.

The principal Soviet air route to the Congo runs from Kiev, in southwestern Russia, to Sofia, Bulgaria, and across the Mediterranean to Cairo, one of the two main Russian staging areas for Africa and the Middle East.

From the U.A.R. capital the weapons are loaded on smaller Soviet jet transports for the flight to Khartoum, capital of Sudan. There the shipments are reloaded onto propeller-driven planes for transport to Juba, near the Sudan-Congo border.

THE ALGERIAN BASE — A second Russian arms route to the Congo originates in Algeria, where President Ben Bella is allowing the Soviet to build a massive arms base with shipments from Black Sea ports.

These weapons are then loaded by Algerians, who received part of their pay in U. S. surplus food, and flown to Khartoum for reshipment to Juba. From this southern Sudan city, the weapons are conveyed in Soviet-made trucks to Aba, the Congolese rebels' principal supply depot.

The main Soviet arms route to North Viet Nam begins at Omsk, in central Russia, and goes via Irkutsk, near Lake Baikal, and Ulan Bator, Mongolia's capital, to Peking, Mon-the Red Chinese capital, the weapons are flown to Nanning, China, and Hanoi, capital of North Viet Nam.

To supervise this massive airlift operation, a secret commission of Presidium members has been set up that includes Alex. Shelepin, former KGB (secret police) chief; Yuri Andropov, boss of all Communist Party operations within the Soviet bloc, who accompanied Premier Kosygin to North Viet Nam, and Boris Ponomarev, head to all Communist Parties outside of the Iron Curtain.

THE FINAL YEAR — Although U. S. intelligence information is circumstantial, these experts believe that young, vigorous Shelepin is chairman of this special "National Liberations" commission.

They base their assumption on Shelepin's activities since the commission was formed. Immediately following the ouster of Premier Khrushchev, Shelepin traveled to the U.A.R., Sudan, Algeria, Mongolia and Communist China, making all the arrangements and setting up the security for the arms airlift.

Shelepin also is the author of a foreboding document on the "National Liberation Movement" that has fallen into the hands of U. S. intelligence authorities.

Prepared for distribution to top KGB officials outside the Soviet Union, the document is dated January 4 and reviews recent Russian advances in using national liberation movements to spread Communism.

It concludes with the alarming statement, "The task of the final liquidation of all colonial regimes this year is now facing all progressive mankind as the major task of the day."

Shelepin forecasts immediate victories in South Viet Nam, the Congo and Colombia, where Castro-trained guerrillas have opened their fight.

BACK OF THE HAND — Defense Secretary McNamara is resorting to a subtle means of penalizing the Reserve Officers Association for opposing his changes abolishing the military reserves.

He is refusing to cooperate with the Association in timing the regular Defense Department-sponsored trip of 25 reserve officers from NATO countries with their mid-winter conference here.

As in previous years, the tour of U. S. installations by these NATO officers was originally scheduled to coincide with the Association's meeting on February 24-25.

However, Assistant Secretary Arthur Sylvester called in Pentagon officers handling the trip and told them that McNamara wanted them to suggest an alternative date, possibly May 10. They got the hint.

In the past the presence of the NATO officers, all members of the Inter-Allies Confederation of Reserve Officers, at the Association's annual meeting, has been one of the highlights.

The Handling of Husbands
NEW YORK (NEA) — Before getting down to business, we would like to offer an apology and correction.

It was not Cupid at all, as we erroneously reported before Valentine's Day. It was actually Henry Wadsworth Longfellow who shot an arrow into the air and found it many years later in the heart of a friend.

But in either case, it comes to the same thing. Ideas have consequences. Especially when they come heart-shaped and signed, "Guess Who?"

And while we cannot abide people who come around the morning after with good advice, our excuse is that we did not write the following. It was set down in a handbook entitled "The Goodman of Paris" which was written 450 years ago — long, long before William Shakespeare came along with all that nonsense about Romeo and Juliet.

The selection, labeled, "The Car of a Husband," follows: Love your husband's person carefully, and keep him in clean linen, for that is your business.

The trouble and care of outside affairs lieth with men. So must husbands take heed a n d go and come, journeying hither and thither in rain and wind, in snow and hail — now sweating, now shivering, ill-fell, ill-lodged, ill-warmed, and ill-bedded.

But naught harmeth him because it is upheld by the hope that he hath of the care which his wife will take of him on his return — and of the ease, the joys and the pleasures which she will do him, or cease to be done to him in her presence, to wit:

To be unshod before a good fire. To have his feet washed and fresh shoes and hose. To be given good food and drink. To be well served and well looked after, well bedded in white sheets and nightcaps, well covered with good furs, assauged with other joys and deserts, loves and secrets whereof I am silent. And the next day, fresh shirts and garments.

In truth, such services make a man love and desire to return to his home and to see his goodwife, and to be distant with others.

Wherefore I counsel you to make such cheer to your husband at all his comings and stayings, and to persevere therein: and also be peaceable with him.

And also remember the rustic proverb which saith that there be three things which drive the Goodman from home, to wit: a leaking roof, a smoky chimney, and a scolding woman.

Wherefore I beseech you to bewitch and bewitch again your husband, but also beware that the house have roof and the fire be smokeless in winter.

And let him rest well and be well covered. And in summer take heed that there be no fleas in your chamber nor in your bed.

And thus shall you preserve and keep your husband. And by doing what I have said, you will cause him ever to miss you and

If Gold Is Worthless, Why Keep You From Owning It?

By SAM CAMPBELL, Business Editor
General Charles de Gaulle is trying to put the world back on the gold standard while at the same time Washington is telling you that gold doesn't amount to much any more.

When you read stories like that in the newspaper, you come away with two conflicting views. Apparently, the French president believes that gold is a very useful monetary tool whereas the people in Washington believe it has almost no merit at all. Which side is right?

Societies Differ
Well, you go back into history and you do find societies in which gold was regarded very lightly and you also find other societies to which gold was the most precious of commodities. Obviously, therefore, there was a difference of opinion among our ancestors. What accounts for that difference?

When you look into the gold societies of times past, you find that they were trading societies. Gold being relatively rare, readily identifiable, attractive, and portable served as a kind of brokering commodity. That is to say, a man who had a camel could trade it for a sack of nuggets, travel some distance to the horse bazaar, and turn the nuggets in for a steed.

Trade U.S. Barter
On the other hand, when you look into the gold-less societies of yore, you find that trade with them amounted to little more than occasional barter. So they had little use for gold and as a consequence gold had little value to them.

We, of course, live in a trading society. Yet we haven't seen much gold since 1933 when a presidential order forbade Americans to own monetary gold. How have we managed to get along?

To understand that, you have to look back in history again. In the old days, people often left their precious possessions with the local goldsmith whose trade required him to maintain secure vaults.

When a customer walked in the door with a handful of earbobs and nose rings, the goldsmith would weigh them and then issue a receipt to the depositor. In case, the depositor wanted to buy another wife or a slave, he had two choices. He could either traipse back to the goldsmith shop — or he could hand over the receipt.

That was the start of paper money. Eventually, of course some smart goldsmith learned that not all customers would call for their gold at the same time. Therefore, the goldsmith figured that he could safely issue more paper receipts than he had gold on deposit. That was the birth of banking.

Now assorted governments step into the act. One of them says we are issuing too many paper receipts, let's cut back more nearly to what gold we have on hand. The other government (ours) says, no, we are operating on paper anyhow. Let's forget about the gold.

Gold Vs. Paper
Well, if gold is a nothing of no effect whatever so far as finances are concerned, just a bunch of yellow dirt in other words, why does your government forbid you to own it?

Yes, if gold means nothing, why are foreigners — who are not forbidden to own gold — cashing their paper chips at Fort Knox? The only reason I can see that foreigners trade paper for gold is that they prefer gold to paper. And as far as you are concerned, if you prefer paper to gold, there would be no need of a law requiring you to take paper instead of gold. Maybe it would be a good thing if Congress could reveal human nature, but until the Almighty amends His Constitution, the lawmakers just don't have that kind of horsepower.

FROM THE GUEST PEN:

Creation of Great Society

By MILDRED PROGAR
Individuals are the creators of societies. Society does not create individuals. The quality of any society depends upon the quality of the individuals contributing to it.

Our American society, with its remaining greatness, was founded upon the principles of individual merit. The atmosphere of freedom was established so that man could be creative, so that each man could be free to create his own circumstances. He was free to live according to his nature, free to acquire the rewards of his efforts. He was free to choose how he would use them and how he would dispose of them. He was free to establish mutually-profitable relations with others. This voluntary interdependence between civilized peoples is what creates a great society.

True Progress
Much social progress was made as a result of man's freedom to create. The minds of free men invented machines that have made his life easier, made scientific discoveries that have extended and prolonged his life, developed educational methods and facilities so that he might continually improve and enjoy life. As a result of man's creativity in the areas of communication and transportation the world was opened to commerce and free trade.

Our government was created by man to protect his precious freedom to live according to the dictates of his nature. After centuries of experience by previous generations, the framers of the American Constitution acted upon the knowledge that freedom was a prerequisite to man's progress toward being the master of himself. The role of government was limited to insuring individual freedom.

Somehow these roles seem to have become reversed. Today we find that government limits individual freedom in every possible way. Our wages, our properties, our education are determined for us by one bureau of government or another. In the name of society individuals are being forced to conform to an automaton-like existence in accordance with the decisions of the policy-makers at the federal level. And yet we are told have his heart with you and your loving service. In so doing, he will shun all other houses, all other women, all other services and house holds.

that this will produce the Utopian "Great Society." This usurpation of our rights to our individual lives is against the very nature of our being. A society has been created that would now attempt to create individuals of impersonal moronically-applauding robots. The creative spirit, the very essence of man's nature is being denied by the very instrument intended to protect and extend his freedom to grow and accomplish with individual motive and purpose.

Requires Freedom
For the emergence of a truly great society in America, the original roles of government and individual men must be re-established. The only great society is that free society to which the individuals contribute their creative talents. These talents will only be found in the minds of individual men and not in a collective society.

To create a great society, men must be free to exchange ideas and services as determined by their own values — without governmental restrictions.

We Americans, of all people in the history of man, still have within our reach the opportunity to fulfill the dream of a great society. We can reclaim from the hands of government the responsibility for our individual lives, fortunes and welfare. In so doing, individual men will be inevitably creating the great American society.

'Soviet Is Mellowing' Note
(N. Y. Daily News)

Two Russian-language productions of "My Fair Lady" are running in Moscow and Leningrad.

If Soviet Russia were a civilized country, royalties would be paid to the U. S. authors of the musical and to the estate of George Bernard Shaw.

Soviet Russia, though, never has joined the international copyright and patent conventions. Therefore, it feels free to steal good literary, scientific, mechanical, etc., works wherever it finds them, and accordingly refuses to pay any royalties on "My Fair Lady."

The incident is recommended to the consideration of those who think that Soviet Russia is mellowing, and that decent people can safely do business with Communist.
