Snowdrifts Keep Traffic Congested

No Relief Seen For Area Travel

By GLENN McCASLAND

Winds, blowing snow from fields onto roadways, presented another serious problem today for embattled Highway Department crews, who are attempting to free the Top O' Texas from the grip of winter's worst snowstorm.

Highway Patrol Sgt. J. W. Wilson said that roads had become clearer in places, but the heavy drifts that a steadily blowing wind was causing, presented a threat to traffic.

Wilson said the drifts were covering highways as quickly as department crews could clear them.

Meanwhile, road crews broke through snow-packed U.S. 66 and State 70 to free some 80 automobiles and buses trapped at Reed's Station near Jericho and move the trapped motorists there to Groen.

However, Tom Reed, one of the operators of the service station-grocery which has taken care of some 400 people since Monday when the storm broke, reported at 9 a.m. that new arrivals were beginning to stop at the station.

The Reeds ran out of bread and milk Wednesday and eggs were running low when the Reeds started serving stew.

Two Los Angeles bound buses became trapped and remained from 4 p.m. Tuesday until rescuers arrived Wednesday afternoon.

At Groen, a number of the 600 or more motorists who were trapped by the snow storm, began moving out slowly as roads to the east were opened.

However, at noon some 400 tourists were still in the Groen County community with a population of 600 persons.

FORECAST

Forecasts calling for winds ranging from 25 miles per hour to 40 mph or better along with more snow came on the tail of reports from outlying areas of blowing snow.

Department of Public Safety radio dispatchers in Amarillo listed Dumas, Dalhart, Grover, Stratford and Spearman as receiving new snowfall at noon.

U.S. Weather Bureau spokesmen said the noon forecast called for "light snow tonight and winds up to 35 mph," with mercury readings in the mid-teens and upper 20s.

The forecasters in Amarillo said the light snow and wind warning included the Pampa area and urged residents to prepare for the blow.

made a quick trip into Groen Wednesday, reported that "things are kind of jammed up, but the folks are doing a tremendous job."

Mrs. Jim Littlefield said customers at the Ranch House Cafe, one of the centers of the traffic jam, were still running in heavy numbers. She said about 70 to 80 persons were in the cafe early this morning and many automobiles still lined the mile-long main street of Groen.

Highway 66 west was blocked from onward as snowplows continued to fight the packed snow and ice in order to free automobiles and trucks.

"As far as we know," Jordan said, "everybody is safe in Groen, still waiting to leave."

Houses and churches were packed again Wednesday night, Jordan said, and little let-up in the extra population could be seen until the roads were passable.

Jordan, who has been up most of the past three days without let-up, headed for Amarillo with an ambulance taking a body for burial services.

However, it appeared the trip might end in failure as reports continued to pile up that roads were closing as quickly as they opened.

The highway between White Deer and Panhandle was blocked, but roads to Clarendon were open at 10 a.m. but not expected to remain clear long.

A train on route to Pampa struck at least eight head of cattle Wednesday, killing them outright or injuring them so they had to be done away with. Sgt. (See TRAFFIC, Page 3)

President To Return To Capital

Population of U.S. Expected to Hit 276 Million in '85

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The population of the United States might go as high as 276 million by 1985, the Census Bureau said Wednesday. At the minimum, the agency said, it will reach 248 million.

The population stood at 180 million when the last national census was taken in 1960.

The different projections for 1985 are based on different estimates of the birth rates, death rates and immigration were assumed to be the same.

The Census Bureau said this all assumed that there would be no disastrous war, major economic depression, epidemic or other catastrophe.

NEW YORK (UPI) — President Johnson returns to Washington tonight concluding a two-day visit here marked by functions that brought to the forefront the social goals of the late President John F. Kennedy.

In an address Wednesday night to a Kennedy foundation dinner, Johnson pledged to continue the efforts of the late President to "conquer mental retardation, and mental illness and poverty and every other foe of the land he loved and the people he served."

Tonight the President will attend a dinner of the Weizmann Institute of Science at the Waldorf-Astoria. The Chief Executive will accept a posthumous award to President Kennedy.

Also on the President's agenda today was an afternoon meeting with about 400 members of the New York chapter of the President's Club. The group is made up of supporters who have contributed $1,000 or more to the Democratic party.

Guest Of Times

Earlier, Johnson will be the guest of the publisher of the New York Times at a private lunch at the Times. Those attending the lunch include Arthur Hays Sulzberger, chairman of the board of the Times and Arthur Ochs Sulzberger, president and publisher of the daily newspaper.

The President flew to New York from Washington Wednesday to attend the dinner given by the Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Foundation for Mental Retardation. The organization was named for the late President's brother who was killed in World War II.

Speaking of John F. Kennedy's work on behalf of the mentally retarded, Johnson said:

"Millions of people at home and around the world will reap the harvest of his pioneering work in this field, a field which has been so greatly misunderstood and neglected so many years."

Will Carry On

"Humbly I will carry on for him here as I intend to carry on in the great efforts he started for lasting peace."

"With his memory and spirit to inspire us, with his words and his works to guide us, we shall live up to his trust."

Those members of the Kennedy family present at the dinner at the Americana Hotel included Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, Mrs. Rose Kennedy and Mrs. Eunice Shriver, the late President's sister and wife of the Peace Corps Director, R. Sargent Shriver. Sen. Ted Kennedy remained in Washington because of pressing Senate business. Mrs. John F. Kennedy was not in the announced list of guests.

City Crews Work Overtime

Pampans Brace for More of Same

Freezing temperatures and early today. Some thawing was increased wind velocity have added to Pampa's problems of breaking the grip of the two-day snowstorm that all but paralyzed the city.

Freezing temperatures last night caused icy slick streets effort to clear snow from as many streets as possible.

R. B. Cook, public works director, said this morning that if luck held out it was believed all city streets would be open by tonight.

Cook also made several requests that he said would help the street clearing crews in their work.

He asked that residents make every effort to get cars parked in front of their homes off the street and into driveways.

Another request was that no cars be parked on streets at night. Cars left standing at curbs, he said, blocks drainage of the water from snow that melted during the day.

Merchants where Dempster-dumpster containers are located are requested to break up boxes and get all trash into small pieces and packages in order to get as much in the containers as possible.

Cook said collections from the dumpsters were running behind, but every effort is being made to empty them. There are some 60 of the containers in various sections of the city. City officials warned residents today that there have been no garbage collections this week and it may be two weeks before trucks are able to get into alleys and resume their twice a week pickups.

As a result householders are urged to wrap garbage carefully so that containers will hold out until collections can be made.

Police Catch Suspect After 4-Day Manhunt

CHICAGO (UPI) — Police today held the accused slayer of two Los Angeles policemen captured after a manhunt that lasted four days ago in a crowded West Coast department store and ended Wednesday night on a quiet Chicago street.

Leaman Russell Smith, 31, a husky ex-convict from West Los Angeles, Calif., was apprehended at gunpoint by a Chicago police officer moments after a companion, Jay Ebsen, 35, Aurora, Colo., was captured in a bowling alley.

Smith had been the target of an extensive search by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents since he allegedly shot to death Los Angeles police Sgt. Charles Monaghan and Robert M. Endler in a Sears, Roebuck department store last Saturday.

Police were summoned to the Los Angeles store when a clerk became suspicious of Smith's attempt to cash a payroll check. Another policeman and a clerk were injured during the shooting.

Traced By FBI — Smith's flight across the country, including a stop at Denver, Colo., where he picked up a rented car, was traced by FBI agents who alerted Chicago police.

Traffic officer Joe Bertucci spotted Smith's rented car making an illegal turn onto a North Side street shortly after 3 p.m. CST. Bertucci stopped Smith and warned him about traffic safety.

Pampa Schools to Be Closed Friday

There will be no school in Pampa Friday.

Superintendent of Schools Jack Edmondson said at noon that key streets and continued dangerous driving conditions had forced officials to keep doors closed for the fourth day in a row since the snowstorm struck.

"We have checked every school in Pampa and found it would be impossible to reach several of them and dangerous at other places," he said.

Edmondson said he hoped to have classes resumed by Monday, barring further bad weather and if it thaws between now and then.

Four Missing For 6 Days Found Safe

GORHAM, N.H. (UPI) — Four college students missing for six days in hurricane winds and bitter cold in the snow-covered White Mountains were found alive today.

An attractive woman pilot who operates an airport with her husband spotted the students on a ridge of the rugged presidential range that has claimed the lives of some 45 hikers in the past century.

The youths who started out Friday on a 17-mile hike are Robert Koppe, 21, of Massapeque Park, N.Y., Peter Cantelli, 18, of Rouses Point, N.Y., Craig Fournier, 18, of Tonawanda, N.Y., and Peter Bradford, 25, of Syracuse, N.Y.

All but Bradford are undergraduates of the State Forestry College at Syracuse. Bradford attends Syracuse University.

A helicopter from Dow Air Force Base in Maine was sent to remove the climbers from the mountain.

Mrs. Shirley Mann, the pilot, spotted three students outside a tiny emergency shelter in her first swing over a pass between Mt. Adams and Mt. Jefferson. She saw all four when she flew back to drop food and instructions to them to remain in where they were until the helicopter arrived.

The site where the students were found is known as Caps Ridge.

Negro Students in Boycotted School OK

NOTASULGA, Ala. (UPI) — Six Negro students returned without incident to a rural high school boycotted by half of its students today while a second school was closed to six others because of a severe water shortage had created a fire hazard.

Mayor James (Kayo) Rea late Wednesday night closed all schools in Notasulga following the turning away Wednesday of six Negroes and a flareup of violence. He cited the fire hazard for his action.

At Shorter, 20 miles away, classes resumed at the combination high and elementary school with six Negro pupils and less than half the white student body present.

Six white students walked into the red brick building this morning picked up their text books and walked out.

Alabama state troopers set up roadblocks around the Shorter school. Newsmen were kept away from the bus that brought the Negro students for their second day of classes.

Rea, who personally blocked the admission of the Negroes to Macon High School, said a fire shortly before midnight had damaged the town's water filtering plant.

"If we had a fire we'd be out of water in 15 minutes," he said.

Bandit Pair Hits Bank In Oklahoma

RED OAK, Okla. (UPI) — Three men wearing plastic masks and wielding sawed-off shotguns robbed the Bank of Red Oak of an estimated $25,000 today in a daring daylight holdup.

Oliver Brewer, vice president and cashier, said the men came in at 7:35 a.m. and said they would kill him unless he opened the safe.

"Don't shoot boys," Brewer said, "I'm insured and will not give you any trouble."

Brewer said they put him in a vault and left.

However Brewer was free in five minutes. As a precaution, members of the bank had removed several screws from the vault door. It took him just a few minutes to loosen the remaining screws.

It was the first time in 40 years there had been an armed robbery at the bank. Red Oak is a town of 500 population in eastern Oklahoma between McAlester and Poteau.

Good News With Bad In Hemphill

CANADIAN — Severe traffic jams and clogged roads posed problems for law enforcement officers in Hemphill County today, but there was some good news.

Sheriff Walter Adams announced that five missing oil rig workers from Perryton were found at the 21-mile corner between Perryton and Spearman late Wednesday.

The men had been missing two days and searchers could not locate them at the rig where they last were seen.

"We got a report of a bad traffic jam on U.S. 83 at the 21-mile corner area and when we got there, sure enough these fellows were in the jam along with everybody else. They were trying to get home," Adams reported.

Adams said drifting snow between Canadian and Miami posed serious problems as highway crews were working quickly to free the roads for traffic.

"I don't know how they do it, but these highway department people are working like beavers and should get the thanks of everybody in the Panhandle and south," Adams said. "We asked for help and they sent everybody from Amarillo south up."

The street-cleaning crews ran into difficulties yesterday afternoon and this morning when a blade broke on one of the motor graders and a worn gear went out on the steering apparatus of another. Repairs on both were completed this forenoon.

Small "walk bridges" were placed at several main sidewalk crossings in the downtown area this forenoon to enable pedestrians to cross streets where water was running six to ten inches deep. Most all stores were open for regular business.

City police, sheriff's department officers and National Guardsmen continued their helping hand early today to get doctors, nurses and other essential workers to their jobs.

Pampa food stores had a shortage of milk and bread yesterday afternoon because of trucks being unable to make deliveries. This situation was relieved today and a supply of milk and bread was reported on hand at practically all markets.

City Manager Harold Schmitzer has been forced to stay in a downtown hotel for two nights because he was unable to get to his home on Chestnut St. Street graders, however, were in the area this morning and Chestnut and other nearby streets were opened to traffic.

Many Pampans have been snowbound out of town since Monday night. Most of them had begun to find their way back home today as highways were cleared for traffic.

Milk and bread deliveries resumed today but suppliers were taking things easy on the highways.

Tiny India Village Holds Seeds of War

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
The village of Chaknot lies just on the Indian side of the cease-fire line which since 1949 has divided Kashmir, so remote that it is accessible to Indian troops only by mule train.

It scarcely seems worthy of the attention of world diplomats, much less to contain the seeds of war.

Yet such was the case this week when for the 110th time the United Nations Security Council met to take up the subject of Kashmir, a source of conflict between India and Pakistan ever since the British divided the Indian sub-continent into Hindu and Moslem states in 1947.

Administered by Pakistan, Chaknot, admittedly on the Indian side of the cease-fire line but inaccessible to India, has been administered by Pakistan.

In November, Pakistan accused India of planning to take the village by force and brought the charges before the U.N. Security Council.

On Dec. 26, a hair revered as a relic of the Prophet Mohammed disappeared from a mosque in Srinagar, capital of Indian-held Kashmir.

Violent outbursts among Kashmir's predominantly Moslem population followed, with an undetermined number of dead and with the Indian government finding it necessary to call upon troops to restore order.

The theft touched off anti-Hindu riots in East Pakistan which then spread to Calcutta, with more burning, killing and looting.

Emotions Run Deep
The disappearance of the sacred relic and the confrontation at the village of Chaknot illustrate as well as any two incidents can the depth of the emotion which has been aroused between the two countries over the Kashmir issue.

Kashmir is bordered by India, Pakistan, Afghanistan, Red China and Tibet and is separated from the Soviet Union by only a few miles of Chinese and Afghan territory.

Although India holds two-thirds of it, its population is 80 per cent Moslem.

Both India and Pakistan have taken unyielding stands, and yet there is general agreement that there can be no friendship between the two until the issue is settled.

In the more than 15 years of the quarrel's existence it has brought about strained relations between India and the United States and more recently between Pakistan and the United States, allies in the SEATO alliance and closely associated in CENTO.

In 1948, both sides agreed to a U.N. recommendation for a cease-fire in the hostilities and to a "free and impartial plebiscite."

Voting Never Held
The voting, which almost certainly would have gone in favor of Pakistan, never has been held and India has received most of the blame.

By religion and geography Kashmir is more closely associated with Pakistan than with India.

Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru claims that Kashmir already is a part of India and therefore no business of the United Nations.

It is unlikely that the U. N. now will be able to enforce a solution any more than it has in the past. Meanwhile, Kashmir remains one of those unhappy, divided areas wherein the seeds of conflict only wait to bloom.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Shearson, Hanimill & Co. says that "some degree of caution appears to be justified so far as the near term outlook for the market is concerned."

"With only minor interruptions, the market has advanced steadily since the Monday after President Kennedy's assassination. This in itself would justify some expectations of a correction. It also is possible that investor sentiment may be affected by the numerous diplomatic difficulties which the United States is experiencing. President Johnson's proposal to increase overtime pay and otherwise amend the Fair Labor Standards Act also has negative implications. In the unlikely event that this proposal is enacted into law, it would increase costs in many industries to some extent."

BORGER, Tex. (UPI) — The Texas 7th Court of Civil Appeals Monday reversed a lower court decision involving $4 million damage suit by 28 former Phillips Petroleum Co. employees against their labor union.

The court ruled that the 84th District Court at Simit, Tex., which awarded the employees $1,197,072, did not have jurisdiction. The high court turned the case over to the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB).

The employees had sued Local 351 of the International Union of Operating Engineers after a 1958 strike, claiming the strike caused them to lose their jobs, resulting in losses totaling $4 million.

The union said it hoped the ruling would end the long dispute, but Albert Smith of Lubbock, chief counsel for the workers, said he would appeal to the Texas Supreme Court.

Belli Blasts Dallas Plans In Ruby Case

NEW YORK (UPI) — Melvin Belli, Jack Ruby's defense lawyer, said Tuesday night that Dallas wants to send Ruby to a "public slaughterhouse" to cleanse itself of any possible blame in President Kennedy's assassination.

"They feel that the best way to prove that it is a law-abiding community would be to give him a fair trial," Belli said, "and then hang him."

Belli said he would go to Dallas Saturday to prepare for Monday's hearing on a change of venue in the case. Belli said he would like the trial held "any place but Dallas."

BLOOM'S HEAD
LONDON (UPI) — John Bloom, a 32-year-old British millionaire, said Sunday a new trading stamp will be available in 12,200 shops around the country selling his washing machines.

His firm has printed 500 million of the new stamps, which carry a picture of Bloom's head.

WORKERS GET RAISE
DALLAS (UPI) — The City Council Salary Committee Monday recommended that 2,000 city employees' work week be cut from 45 to 40 hours. W. J. (Bill) Roberts, chairman, said the workers would receive a 12.5 per cent increase in what they make for each hour's work.

Dear Abby...

Pure Gold Isn't Always Covered With Brass!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I hope you put this in your column because lots of guys have the same problem and you could do a couple of million of us a big favor by answering this one question: Why don't parents want their daughters to have anything to do with a man in uniform unless he is an officer? Enlisted men are just as good as officers and a lot better than most civilians, yet we are treated like dirt. I have come to the point of dressing in civvies and lying to girls' parents so I can take a nice girl out, because if most parents knew I was an enlisted man they'd run me off the place. What do people have against enlisted men?

ENLISTED MAN
DEAR ENLISTED: Most parents don't make any distinction between an enlisted man and an officer. They simply rule out all men in uniform because they are skeptical of a man who is here today and who could be gone tomorrow. The cream of any nation's crop wears the enlisted man's uniform (for a time, at least) and I would remind parents that they could be passing up gold because it doesn't look as good as brass.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married five years and we have four children. (Two are twins.) Well, my mother-in-law complained to her son right in front of me that we were having too many children. I am 26 and he is 28 and I think we are old enough to know what we are doing. Don't you think my husband should have told his mother to mind her own business? Or do you think it was okay for him to have laughed it off as a joke and said, "They are cheaper by the dozen, Mom!"

NOT LAUGHING
DEAR NOT: Sharpen your sense of humor instead of your claws and you'll be a lot happier. Your mother-in-law probably meant no offense.

DEAR ABBY: The item in your column about the mailman who was shocked to find some women on his route in their bathrobes at two in the afternoon floored me.

What is that supposed to prove? If she happens to be changing clothes when the doorbell rings, what is she supposed to answer the door in? Or should she just go to the door in whatever state of undress she's in at that moment?

The mailman's wife said that SHE always got up in the morning and put on a foundation garment, hosiery and a fresh house dress to do her housework. Well, bully for her! I can just see myself putting on my girdle and hose to crawl under the beds to mop, or to scrub my floors. Phooey on him!

Phillips-O'Brian Exchange Promises

PANHANDLE (Spl) — Mr. and Mrs. Montie R. Phillips, former residents of Panhandle, now living in Friona, announce the marriage of their daughter, Paula, to Roy O'Brian, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom O'Brian of Friona.

The double ring ceremony was read recently in the parsonage of the First Methodist Church of Friona, with the Rev. Russell McAnnally, officiating.

The bride wore a winter wool suit with a white fur collar and winter white lizard accessories. Her hat was a ring of white fur with a nose length veil. She carried a white Bible covered with a piece of white lace from her maternal grandmothers', Mrs. J. W. Wilkerson's wedding dress. The Bible was topped with a white orchid tied with white satin lover's knots.

Attending the couple were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Reeves. Mrs. Reeves wore a pale blue shift with white accessories, a blue feather hat and a white carnation corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held. Members of the houseparty were Mrs. Dwight O'Brian and Mrs. Bill Kent.

After a wedding trip to points of interest in New Mexico, Mr. and Mrs. O'Brian are at home in the Lakeview Community, where Mr. O'Brian is engaged in farming. The bride is a former employee of Friona State Bank.

Post nuptial courtesies for the couple included a miscellaneous shower in the Fellowship Hall of the First Methodist Church of Friona.

Use Your Beautiful Brocade

By MARY BROOKS PICKEN
There is no time like the present to make that beautiful brocade dress. Give it an Oriental feeling if you like, or make a feminine, flattering cocktail dress. The design shown here has the simple elegant lines brocade requires, and yet is a favored silhouette. Pattern No. 1472, made in sizes 10 to 20, has a sleeve that you can use or not, or make any length desired.

The Oriental design, very slim and straight, is our No. F-44. Made in sizes 8 to 18. Here again you can make the sleeves long or short; use a narrower collar or none at all, as you like. You can make a slit on each side for easier walking and can make it 6 to 9 inches deep according to your judgment.

Beautiful jeweled frogs are available at the button counter, which you can use on either style dress, or you can make a narrow tube of the fabric and make a frog or bows as you choose.

Both dresses need long underarm zippers.

Darts in brocade should be cut and pressed open, notched deeply, then overcast. The featured dress can have a neck zipper or one shoulder may be left open and fastened with snaps.

Either dress should be lined throughout with china silk. Lining may be caught in at the seams or seamed separately, all seams turned inside and seams of lining and dress caught together with short basting stitches.

No. 1472 in size 12, 32 bust, sleeveless, 4 1/2 yards of 35-inch is available at 50 cents per pattern and No. F-44 in size 10, 31 bust, short sleeves, and is available at $1.00 per pattern.

To order either pattern send to: MARY BROOKS PICKEN Reader Service Pampa News P. O. Box 489, Dept. C New York 19, New York For 1st-class mailing add 10 cents for each pattern. Print name, address with zone, style number and size. In either dress use a 2 1/2-inch hem — finish with seam binding, or stitch the top edge of the turn, using a long stitch. Draw up the bobbin thread, ease the fullness evenly so hem lies perfectly flat.

If you are not fortunate enough to have been sent a lovely length of brocade, go to your best fabric shop or department and see the beautiful fabrics that are available. If you can not afford pure silk, then buy a synthetic or a blend. Just so it is beautiful, so that the fabric will inspire you to give your very best effort in making.

If the length of fabric you have is more than is needed, then make a lovely short jacket — a bolero — or a "cache-cache" which is a shoulder stole about 15 inches wide and 45 inches long. Cache-cache in French, meaning "hide and seek."

Some call it a flirtatious stole, meaning that you can bring it up to cover all but your eyes, and to hide a smile. A cache-cache can be held together with a beautiful pin or button.

If brocade is lovely on the wrong side, you can make a stole without lining and miter corners as shown. Slip stitch the edges of the turned hem all the way around.

With a beautiful brocade, wear little jewelry. The fabric itself should be decorative enough, and you do not want to take from it.

Ageless Beauty is in Reach

By ALICIA HART
Worship of the youthful image overlooks the true beauty that comes with maturity.

Catch a woman in a thoughtful mood and she'll probably say her most beautiful years were eons ago.

Yet, actresses like Marlene Dietrich, Joan Crawford, Loretta Young and Merle Oberon are living proof that a woman remains beautiful as long as she cares about her grooming. Nature also gives the older woman an assist as graying hair forms a soft frame for the face touched with the beauty of living.

With your family grown and away from home, you have more time to fit a grooming ritual into your schedule of social and community activities. You can, and should, treat yourself to a relaxing tub bath at the beginning and end of each day. If you feel you are frivolous and wasting your time in the tub, you can set up a tub tray to facilitate a manicure or hair - setting, or to hold a book.

Another relaxing beauty aid for the mature woman will do much to erase fatigue and pain lines caused by aching feet. Treat yourself to a foot bath. And, again because you are in the land of time-and-motion specialists, do two things at once.

For your foot bath, pour warm soapy water, with lemon juice added for bleaching, into a glamorous basin or bowl. You can address invitations for a charity event or write letters to your children and friends while soothing your feet.

Your hands, too, profit from pampering during your mature years. Give them a brisk scrubbing with a well-lathered brush before your manicure and smooth on your favorite hand cream or lotion.

All this attention may make you feel frivolous since you did not often have time for a daily beauty routine while caring for a young family. Now you can. There is nothing like it to make a woman feel feminine and pampered. And this is half the secret of being beautiful... which in truth is a reflection of a state of well-being.

The Doctor Says

DR. WAYNE BRANDSTADT

Q—Does the tuberculin test show whether the tubercle bacillus is present anywhere in the body?

A—The tuberculin test shows whether or not a person has had enough contact with the tubercle bacillus to build up an immunity to it. If a person's test is positive, it may mean that he has some active tuberculosis, but is in the process of overcoming it. Far more often, it means that the battle has been won and all the soldiers have gone back to their families. In medical school we used to say, "Give us this day our daily tubercle bacillus." Mild exposure, if repeated often, is the best way to keep up the body's resistance to the disease. But even the resistant person can get the disease as a result of an overwhelming exposure. Fortunately we now have effective anti-tuberculosis drugs that greatly facilitate the treatment of this disease.

Q—What would cause me to continue to have a sour stomach even after surgical removal of part of my stomach?

A—Unless you have a peptic ulcer, in which case the acid-forming glands in the stomach would put out too much acid, an overabundance of acid in itself would not cause any symptoms. On the other hand, if you regurgitate sour stomach contents after meals, this would taste sour even if the concentration of the acid were normal.

The cause of such regurgitation may be eating too fast, worry or nervous tension, failure to chew your food thoroughly or an allergy to one of the foods eaten. There are many antacids that you can take for temporary relief. If you have a great deal of trouble, you should have your doctor determine steps to eliminate it.

Q—You recently said that a tumor of the thymus is sometimes the cause of myasthenia gravis. What kind of test is given to determine whether you have a tumor of the thymus?

A—The thymus is a gland of uncertain function. It is now believed to be an important factor in helping the child develop immunity to various infections. It attains its largest size at puberty, after which it dwindles and almost disappears. It is located between the thyroid and the heart. Unless a thymus tumor is very large, it is likely to go unrecognized. When the thymus is enlarged, an X-ray of the chest may reveal displacement of other structures in that region. Even then it is hard to tell whether the gland is larger than normal because the dimensions of this gland are so variable.

Please send your questions and comments to Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Sixth Birthday Marked by Party

Miss Tami Sue Douthit was honored on her sixth birthday with a party held in the Cibola Room of Coronado Inn. Mrs. Doll L. Douthit and Mrs. Robert E. Douthit were hostesses.

The honoree was presented a pink and white corsage of baby roses.

Refreshments of pink and white birthday cake and punch were served from a white covered table centered with an arrangement of pink roses.

Guests attending the event were Melinda Park, Linn Watson, John Agan, Andy Lee, Russell Mitchell and Rene' Douthit.

An old chenille bedspread or bathrobe can be converted into an excellent duster for ceilings, walls, and moldings.

Cut out two rectangles, stitch up three sides, and run a drawingstring around the opening so that it will fit snugly over a broom. After each use, be sure to launder this "slipcover" duster in hot soap or detergent suds and rinses.

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
 UPI Foreign News Analyst
 Before France finally lost Indo-China at the battle of Dien Bien Phu in 1954, she was estimated to have suffered losses of nearly 100,000 men killed or missing and 140,000 wounded. The war had cost her $5 billion, in addition to another $2 billion in aid contributed by the United States.

The blow to French morale was enormous and contributed to the disintegration of the French political scene, the collapse of the French Fourth Republic and the arrival of President Charles de Gaulle's Fifth Republic.

Aside from her war costs, France had invested in Indo-China $2 billion, most of it in Viet Nam, in roads, railroads and canals, health measures reducing infant mortality and important irrigation projects.

Important Interests
 French economic interests in both North and South Viet Nam remain important today.

French assets are valued at more than $230 million, including almost all of South Viet Nam's huge rubber plantations, tea and coffee plantations and important shares of chemical, beer, glass, textile and cement production.

An estimated 30,000 South Vietnamese secondary students attend French schools.

France still is South Viet Nam's largest customer. North Viet Nam maintains a commercial delegation in Paris.

Thus, even a partial summary helps to explain France's continuing interest in an area which embraces North and South Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia. It helps also to explain the irritation among Frenchmen encountered there by this correspondent against the implication that the United States might be able to succeed where France had failed.

Doesn't Explain Action
 But even this fails to explain the present course of President de Gaulle.

How, for example can de Gaulle believe neutrality possible for Viet Nam in the face of blatant Communist violations of the neutrality of Laos and the armistice in Korea?

How can he advocate neutrality for Southeast Asia and oppose it for West Germany?

And how can he deliberately seek out closer contact with Red China while boycotting U.S. and British talks with Soviet Russia?

If, strategically, Indo-China holds the key to potential Communist advance westward to the Bay of Bengal and south to the islands of Indonesia and to Australia, why is it any less important now than before?

De Gaulle himself has failed to provide the grandiose explanation that he simply is recognizing a force in being.

Other French sources have argued that since attempts to quarantine Red China have failed, it now is time to try other methods.

The reasoning is understandable even though it runs counter to the United States' own view, and in the end seems directed toward the sacrifice of Nationalist China.

It may be that de Gaulle's sense of history has betrayed him. Under the protective canopy of offsetting U.S. and Soviet nuclear power, abandoning the broader alliances of NATO and SEATO and the hope of the United Nations, it may be leading him to a nationalism which could defeat itself.

Man Freed In Murder

HOUSTON (UPI)—Jack W. Bonds was acquitted Monday night in the slaying of his step-daughter's teen-age boy friend. The 29-day trial, one of the longest in Texas history, took 90 minutes for the jury to decide.

Bonds, a 42-year-old elevator mechanic, was on trial for the Jan. 18, 1963 pistol slaying of Bill Walden, 15, whom he believed was going out with his step-daughter.

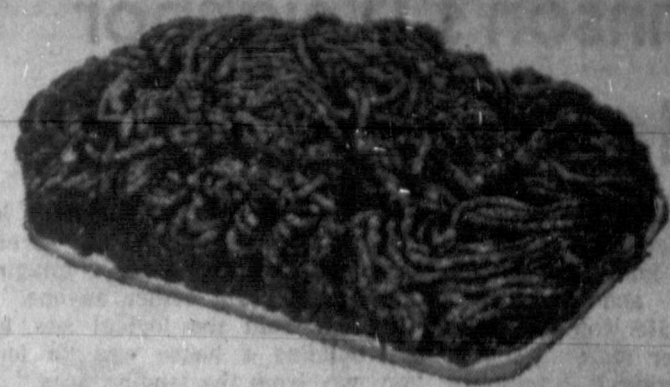

The jury heard the sworn testimony of 59 witnesses and was presented with more than 50 exhibits during the longest murder trial in the history of Harris County.

Judge Sam W. Davis instructed the jury on both accidental shooting and self defense and said they could give Bonds two years to life imprisonment or death for murder with malice.

The judge also told the jury that they could give a five-year suspended sentence in the case.

Johnson's Neighbor Puts Ranch on Block

STONEWALL, Tex. (UPI)—E. H. Reagan has 378 acres of wooded land that abounds in wildlife and swift-flowing brooks. He wants to sell it for a quarter of a million dollars. The price is admittedly "on the premium side" but whoever buys will be the next door neighbor to the President of the United States.

Reagan said he would consider selling the ranch to President Johnson, "but he would have to come to me."

Reagan Tuesday walked into the San Antonio real estate office of Red River Dale McEnery, one of the nation's best-known western and country music singers.

"Hello Red River..."

"Hello, Red River Dave," Reagan said. "I want you to sell my ranch."

"He didn't know me from Adam," McEnery said, "except from hearing me on the radio." McEnery wrote and sang and strummed a guitar more than 20 years. He produced such sometimes controversial songs as "The Ballad of Emmett Till" and "There's a Star-Spangled Banner Waving No. 2," a song about U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers.

Reagan has been Lyndon Johnson's neighbor for "years and years."

"He does not live on the land he wants to sell but rather down the road about two miles."

He said almost 5,000 feet of the land fronts on the landing strip of the LBJ Ranch, 65 miles west of Austin, Tex. The edge of Reagan's is a few hundred yards from the Johnson ranch home.

"There is no house on the land, just a couple of barns and outbuildings," Reagan said.

"Even if there should be a lot of planes land at the president's airfield I can't imagine how it could bother anyone."

He said the logical site for building a house was "a long way from the landing area."

Wants Right Price

Reagan said he owns a lot of land in the area and "won't sell this unless I get my price."

McEnery said the $226,800 or $600 an acre price Reagan wants "is probably on the premium side" compared with typical Central Texas hill country ranchland.

"But I believe a lot of people would like to be able to live next to the President," McEnery said.

"I'll sell it all right," he said.

"But I think I'll give first chance to some of my friends like Gene Autry and Eddie Arnold."

Subpoena May Be Status Mark

DALLAS (UPI)—Judge Joe B. Brown, who will preside at Jack Ruby's change of venue hearing next week, said Tuesday the hearing may have established a new status symbol for the city.

Government, business, professional and social leaders have been called to testify "They say in some circles that you're nobody if you haven't been subpoenaed," Brown chuckled.

HITS ON POOL

LA CORUNA, Spain (UPI)—Newspaper vender Basilio Lopez Mayo, 60, has won $197,000 on the soccer pools, it was announced today.

He said he plans to keep working because he doesn't want to get bored.

THE COMMON conception of welding as a slow, tedious process is behind the times. New fully automated gas-shielded, flux-cored processes, says National Cylinder Gas, Chicago, achieve remarkably rapid metal-deposition rates, consuming as much as 34 1/2 feet of wire electrode a minute on long, continuous welds.

Confederate Widows Receive New Home

AUSTIN (UPI)—Texas' three remaining Confederate widows housed in a special home in Austin will be moved to a new nursing home under plans announced today by Gov. John Connally.

Connally said his staff had worked out the plan with the Board of State Hospitals and Special Schools, which runs the Confederate Home for Women, and the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

The move will provide better care for the widows and at the same time make a substantial savings in costs to the state, Connally said.

In 1933 there were 29 Confederate widows living at the home at an average monthly cost per patient of $175. Now there are only three and the state spends $1,014 per patient each month to keep them.

"It costs the state about $33 per day to keep each of the three widows at the state home," Connally said. "That is substantially more than the cost of having them in first-class nursing facilities."

There are presently 11 employees working three shifts a day at the widows' home.

TV Psychiatrist Hoping To Bring Humor to Show

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Paul Richards, one of television's probing psychiatrists, is on the brink of laughter.

That's not easy for Paul. He's been trying to laugh since last September. But he's been bogged down in the serious business of playing a psychiatrist on ABC-TV's "Breaking Point."

That's a no-nonsense job, patching up a patient's mind when it gets out of kilter.

However, it shouldn't be all work and no play. A psychiatrist has as much right to a sense of humor as anybody else. "Breaking Point" is getting around to realizing this after several months of solemnity.

depressing," he said. "I'm more secure in the role now and I've looked at all the episodes we've done. I think I might have been a little sullen."

He hopes to change all that, riding the show of its gloomy cobwebs.

"We're not poking fun at problems," Paul said. "My character of Mac Thompson is no less dedicated because he's part of life. I think it's better for me and better for the audience if I show a sense of humor."

Richards cited a personal example of a prominent psychiatrist he met at a party. The medic was the center of attention, and not because the other guests wanted free advice.

Psychiatrists Like Show

"I went to a party recently and met him," Paul said. "He was about 70 years old. This man was the center of attraction and he hadn't lost any of his dignity. He also had seen our show and said he liked what we were trying to do. And what we've done is find a much more human relationship."

Paul expects that his more relaxed approach to the role and its psychiatric subject matter will meet with the approval of those medics practicing in that field.

"The subject is not that serious," he said. "And I don't say that from an actor's point of view. We have psychiatrists who read our scripts and watch our show. They like it."

A clincher for the argument for more smiles and less gloom came from Richards' wife, actress Monica Keating, who appears in one of the future "Breaking Point" episodes.

"When she sees me laughing, she says 'Why don't you laugh like that on screen,'" concluded Paul.

IT'S THE LAW in Texas

Earnest Money Contract Should Cover Details of Real Estate Purchase... The signing of a contract of sale is an extremely important step in the purchase of a home.

Sales contracts are often called by other names, such as earnest money contracts, binders, receipts, etc. All of them are for the same purpose and almost without exception involve the deposit of money by the buyer.

Every significant detail of the bargain should be crystallized in unmistakable terms in the contract of sale. Land and fixtures described. A complete description of the property by lot and block, or by metes and bounds, is a must.

The price to be paid must, of course, be specified, along with method and terms of payment. If a certain-sized loan is a prerequisite to the buyer's ability to complete the purchase, this fact should be noted.

The sales contract should also state the quality of the title to be conveyed to the buyer and the type of title evidence to be furnished.

This newsfeature, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform — not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved.

The company has been paying 40 per cent of the cost of stamps in the southwest marketing region, from Texas to California. After it withdraws from the sharing plan, the company said, it will leave stations free to handle the stamps if they wish at their own expense.

Tax Therapy in Medical Costs

By CHARLES W. SCHOENEMAN

Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn. (Third of 10 Articles)

Sixty-five is an important age for income tax payers, for that dividing line for some different rules on allowable medical care deductions. Naturally, you must itemize deductions on Page 2 of your return if you are to gain the benefits of the medical laws.

If neither you nor your wife are 65 before the end of 1963, you may deduct:

Medical care expenses (including health insurance premiums) of yourself, wife (or husband) and other dependents to the extent these expenses exceeded 3 per cent of your adjusted gross income.

All medical expenses of any other, mother, father-in-law or mother-in-law who was 65 or over before the end of 1963 and qualified as your dependent. If either you or your wife (or husband) were 65 or over during 1963, then you deduct all medical care expenses for both you without subtracting 3 per cent of your adjusted gross income.

There is, however, a yearly limit on the total amount you can deduct. Roughly speaking, this is $5,000 multiplied by the number of exemptions you claim — excluding the additional exemptions for old age or blindness.

Persons under 65 are further limited: for example, if you file a joint return you are limited to $20,000 in deductions for medical care.

What is meant by the expenses of medical care? The law says it means amounts paid for the "diagnosis, care, mitigation, treatment or prevention of disease, or for the purpose of affecting any structure or function of the body." It also means any amounts paid for accident or health insurance

Taxpayer and wife both under 65. Their adjusted gross income on line 9 is $7,200. During 1963 they paid doctor's bills of $250, dentist bills of $100, and medical insurance premiums of $150. They also spent $50 for medicine. They may claim medical expense deductions — if they itemize deductions — of $284. How?

Don't forget medical bills.

You can obtain Form 2804 from your IRS office to aid you in making your computation.

Computation of Medical Expenses

Medicine and drugs (total not in excess of 1% of $7,200)	$ 0
Doctors	250
Dentist	100
Medical Insurance	150
Total Medical Expenses	$500
Amount not Deductible	216
Medical Insurance (3% of $7,200)	216

and for any transportation primarily for and essential to medical care. To the extent health insurance compensates for loss of earnings, premiums are not deductible.

Not every expenditure prescribed by a physician is deductible. Not every expense for physical comfort is deductible. Personal, living and family expenses are not deductible. As the Tax Court said in one case: "It is not at all unusual for doctors to recommend to a patient a course of personal conduct and personal activity which, if pursued, will result in health benefits to the patient, but the expenses therefore are generally to be considered ordinary personal expenses."

However, if an individual in a home for the aged because he or she requires medical or nursing care, and the availability of such care is the principal reason for being there, then the entire cost of meals, lodging and medical care would be in the category of deductible medical care.

Medicine and drugs generally qualify as deductible medical expenses, but you can only deduct them to the extent the amounts spent for them exceed one per cent of your adjusted gross income. (Congress is proposing that this one per cent floor be removed for medicines and drugs where either a taxpayer, spouse or dependent is 65 or over. However, for these expenses during 1963, there is no exception for 65 or over persons.)

SHERMAN, Tex. (UPI)—Dr. Cruce Stark, currently president of Kilgore Junior College, has been hired as president of Grayson County Junior College at an annual salary of $12,750.

Now that the school has a president, feeling is strong that it should build a school. The college is still in the planning stage.

Coffee for GOP Candidate Scheduled Tomorrow at Bank

A coffee for Robert Morris, candidate for the Republican nomination for U.S. Senator, will be held at 3 p.m. Friday in the hospitality room of the Citizen's Bank.

Sparse Field Of Hopefuls Square Off

AUSTIN (UPI)—A sparse field of statewide candidates plunged this week into the three-month campaign for party nominations, warily testing the political quicksands that claimed some expected opponents.

Democrats were wondering what happened to the big name opposition that was expected in the May 2, primary against U. S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough. There were strong suggestions that President Johnson blocked U. S. Rep. Joe Kilgore's entry. Kilgore talked about expanding his public service, which could indicate a federal appointment.

O'Donnell Charges Alliance

Peter O'Donnell Jr. of Dallas, the state Republican chairman, charged that President Johnson and Sen. Yarborough "have formed a cynical alliance of convenience which undercuts Texas Conservatives."

Gordon McClendon, 42, a Dallas broadcasting executive, filed for the Democratic senatorial nomination as a "conservative," an open criticism of Rep. Kilgore and former Gov. Allan Shivers for not running.

An informant said conservative Democrats were "just furious" with Shivers "for backing down to Johnson. Shivers has lost his mantle of leadership among conservatives."

Republican Jack Cox of Houston, who leaped into the GOP senatorial race just 30 minutes before the deadline, obviously was shooting for conservative Democratic support that Shivers or Kilgore could have had.

Some Liberal Democrats thought Cox's action would lure some conservative Democrats into the Republican primary, and benefit Don Yarborough's bid for Gov. John Connally's post.

The governor's race in the Democratic party was almost sure to supply the most meaningful fireworks of the spring campaigns. The fuse probably will not be lit before Connally recovers more fully from the sniper's bullet that hit him Nov. 22.

Mrs. Hobart Fatheree, Mrs. E. R. Sidwell, and Mrs. Don Morrison are hostesses for the reception, which is open to the public.

Morris is at present a Dallas civil liberties attorney, writer, and newspaper columnist. He was formerly the president of the University of Dallas.

During World War II, Morris was officer-in-charge of the Advance Section of Psychological Warfare on Guam and Saipan. As counsel for the Senate Foreign Relations and Judiciary committees, he led the investigation of Communist penetration of the Institute of Pacific Relations and its influence over the State Department molders of our China policy. He served for several years on the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee.

Morris is a conservative and was one of the earliest backers of the Draft Goldwater movement. His two books, "No Wonder We Are Losing" and "Disarmament: Weapon of Conquest," set forth his views on foreign policy and political warfare.

The 49-year-old Republican hopeful is married and has five sons and one daughter.

Say Yarborough Benefited

Some Liberal Democrats thought Cox's action would lure some conservative Democrats into the Republican primary, and benefit Don Yarborough's bid for Gov. John Connally's post.

Canadian Near Olympic Medal

By HENRY W. THORNBERRY
UPI Sports Writer
INNSBRUCK, Austria (UPI) — Victor Emery of Montreal put Canada within sight of its first gold medal of the Winter Olympic Games today with a sizzling third heat in the four-man bobsled, while one of the two U. S. sleds dropped out with a broken steering wheel.

Emery, a 30-year-old salesman, piloted his light blue sled with the maple leaf insignia down the damaged Olympic bob run in the excellent time of 1:03.64, giving the Canadian crew a total of 3:10.45 for three runs.

The fourth heat, originally scheduled for today, has been rescheduled for Friday because the bobrun is so thin as a result of recent mild weather that officials feared to stage two runs on it in the same day.

Steering Wheel Broke

The U. S. sled that bowed out was the No. 2 American crew piloted by Larry McKillip, of Saranac Lake, N. Y., and had been in seventh place after two heats. The steering wheel broke while the U. S. team was making a practice run before today's heats.

Emery's led in the four-man event, which took at .89 of a second after two heats, grew to .90 at the end of the third as his nearest rival, Eugenio (Red Top) Monti of Italy, faltered.

Monti, who has won eight world championships but now faces frustration once again in his quest for his first Olympic title, could clock only 1:04.02 on his third run for a total of 3:11.52 and dropped back to third place, 1.07 seconds behind Emery.

Erwin Thaler of Austria piloted his sled into second place behind Emery.

Thaler's sled covered the third heat in 1:03.74 for a 3:11.35 total.

Chances Fade

The only remaining U. S. sled in the competition, steered by Bill Hickey of Keene, N.Y., saw its chances for a medal virtually fade out of sight as it dropped from fifth to sixth place.

Another U. S. medal hope was riding today with Jean Seaubert of Ogden, Utah, in the women's downhill ski race.

The 21-year-old Oregon State honor student was only one of several favorites after final practice sessions on the 2,450 meters (slightly more than 1 1/2 miles) course which has a vertical drop of 625 meters (683.5 yards) as it turns and twists down the side of Hoagl Mountain.

Austrian Autograph Hounds At Olympics

By MILES OTTENHEIMER
United Press International
INNSBRUCK, Austria (UPI) — A small but patient army stands a long, relentless vigil daily at the Olympic Village.

The troop, of different sizes and in varied uniforms, are young autograph seekers and their prey are the many athletes from the 36 nations competing in the ninth Winter Olympics.

Most of them are youngsters from about eight to 14, and one of the energetic workers is slim Othmar Kopp who lives in downtown Innsbruck.

Kopp, 11, dressed in a blue parka with grey pants and a cone shaped dark blue hat with a tuft of white on the top, carries a five by seven inch autograph book with him. It is almost full, too, of signatures scrawled in many varied hands.

"I have most of the famed athletes here, except my favorite, Egon Zimmerman, the skier," Othmar said with a frown. "But I will get him before the games are over."

All of the children, sometimes numbering as many as 20, gather around the entrance to the village because they have 10 days off from school, thanks to the games.

"Most of us come from downtown on the streetcar," Othmar said. "We get here by 10 in the morning and stay until about four in the afternoon. About noon, we take our lunch break, however."

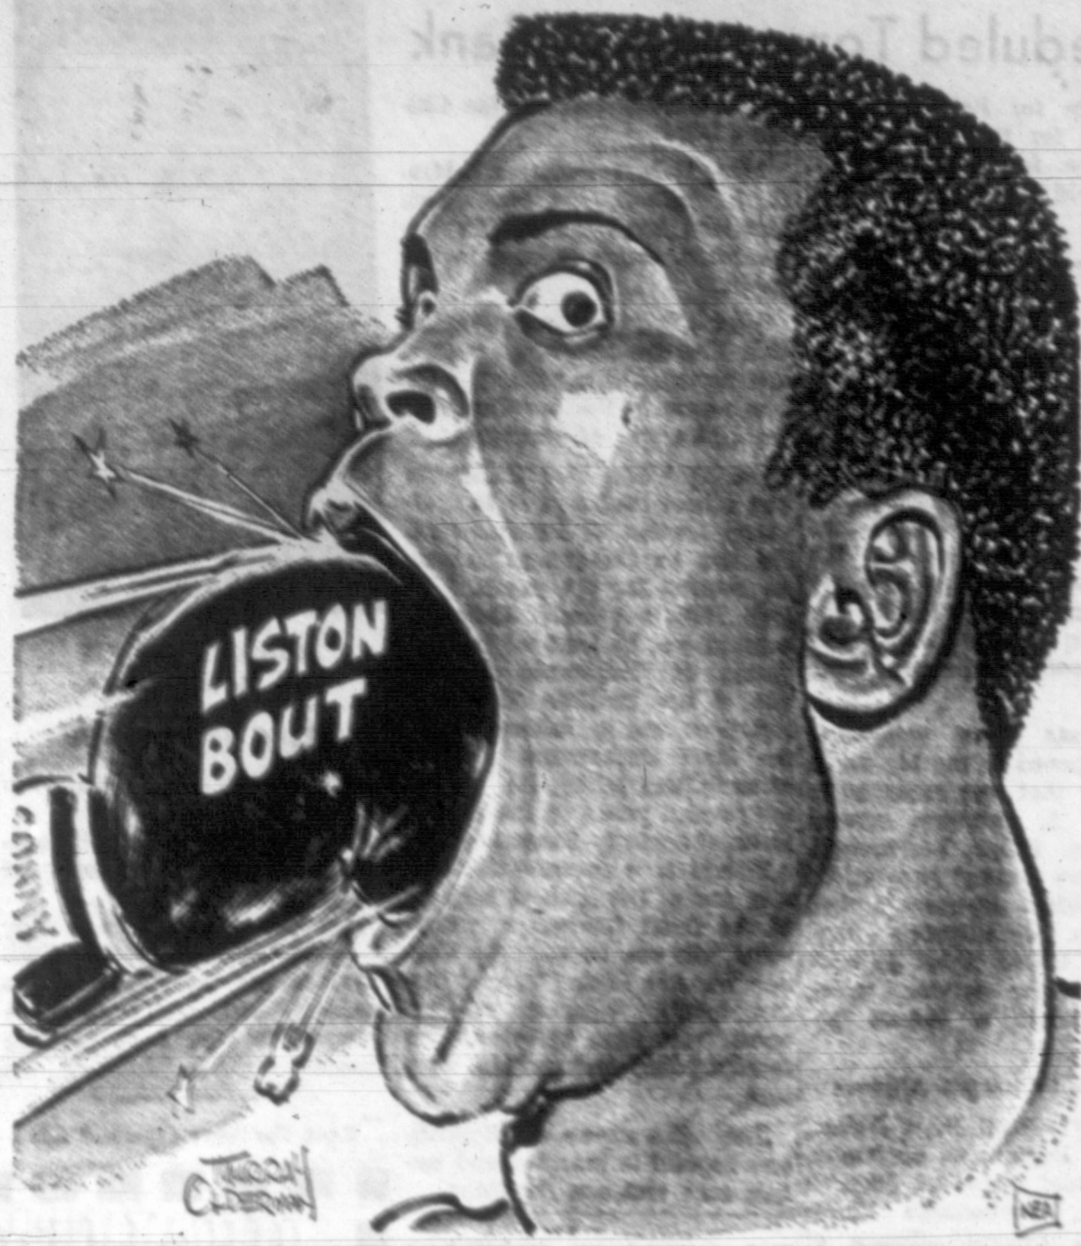

Of course, the Austrian athletes are the most popular with the youngsters. The skiers and skaters are national heroes here.

The children don't trade autographs. If one has managed to get two or three of one athlete, he is just luckier than those who haven't any.

FIRST U.S. WINNER — Jean Saubert, of Oregon State University, competes in the ladies slalom at the Winter Olympics in Innsbruck, Austria. The coed finished third in the event to give the U.S. its first medal in the games.

COWAN TO UH

HOUSTON (UPI) — The University of Houston announced Tuesday that W. A. Cowan, a 6-foot-2, 200-pound fullback from South Houston High School, has signed a letter of intent to attend the school.

U.S.-RUSS MEET

INNSBRUCK (UPI) — A spokesman for the U.S. Olympic Committee has disclosed that American and Russian sportsmen will meet on Friday to "exchange gifts and get to know each other."

He said the meeting, which was suggested by the Russians and which we gladly accepted, "will take place in the recreation hall of the Olympic village.

Sports Parade

By OSCAR FRALEY
UPI Sports Writer

HIALEAH, Fla. (UPI) — The Martins and the Coys were at it again Wednesday in the person of Manuel Ycaza and Bill Hartack.

In case you never heard, the Martins and the Coys were famed mountain feudists. Ycaza and Hartack do their feeding on the flat but at higher speed, being mounted on the back of galloping horses.

And, at the moment, Panamanian Manuel is one up on his fellow jockey from the Pennsylvania coal fields.

That's because they ran a rodeo in the $25,000 added Bahamas Stake at Hialeah Race Course Wednesday. Thirteen bayburners came charging into the stretch faster than the light brigade and when it was all over there were hints that national riding champion Walter Blum had been the victim in a swift bit of double talk.

Ycaza finished first on Roman Brother. Blum was three and one-half lengths back on Mr. Brick. Wayne Chambers was third on Journalist and Hartack was fourth on Bupers. These names may be significant someday or other because they are three year olds about which you'll be reading in "the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness and the Belmont Stakes."

All Three Involved

Anyhow, somebody crowded in on somebody as they battled their way into the stretch, whips flailing and wild yells straining 13 sets of tonsils. Ycaza, Blum and Hartack all were involved in a triple claim of foul and the quiet Blum wound up having his number taken down.

From their remarks in the tack room, Ycaza appeared to have gotten away with grand theft.

"My horse ran straight all the way," said Manuel.

"Roman Brother crossed in front of Hartack's horse," said Blum.

"It isn't the first time and didn't surprise me any," said Hartack.

His reference was to the 1958 Flamingo. In that one, Ycaza, riding his first race in Florida, crossed in front of Hartack on Tim Tam to win with Jewel's Reward. But Ycaza's number was taken down and he blew the $88,000 winner's purse as Hartack was declared the winner because of interference.

Causes No Distress

The fact that these two jockeys are at it again causes no distress, however, in racing circles. As Sammy Remick, a former jockey, once put it: "If there was a contest for 'most unpopular jockey' I don't know which one of them would win it."

Ycaza has been set down more often than a lap dog with fleas. He rides to win, period. "They give me nothing," he explains. "They put me over the fence if they can. Who knows what will happen if I do not protect myself."

One official told him that the judges were on hand to protect him.

"Thank you," said the man who sometimes is called "Kamikaze," adding "but if you don't mind, Manny protects himself, first."

Hartack, of course, will never be regarded around the tracks as the number one personality kid. He is blunt and graceless and, like Ycaza, stirs no deep affection in the tack room.

After the rough riding episode in the Bahamas, one jockey summed up the feeling toward them when he said: "Here in the jockey room their conduct is perfect." The tone said he hoped that sometime in the near future they'd manage to put themselves over the fence simultaneously.

Finley Meets KC Officials

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Charles O. Finley, owner of the Kansas City Athletics, was scheduled to meet with city officials today for the third time since the American League told him to sign a lease on Municipal Stadium here or face expulsion from baseball.

City officials expected Finley to offer a compromise proposal for a three year lease today. But Mayor Irl W. Davis said the city would continue to insist on nothing less than a four-year lease.

The meeting between Finley and city officials was scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. EST.

The league has given Finley until Feb. 15 either to sign a lease with Kansas City or face league action to expel him from baseball and take away his team.

LOSCUTOFF FINED

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jim Loscutoff of the Boston Celtics has been fined $100 by NBA President Walter Kennedy for his unspornsmenlike conduct during the St. Louis - Boston game at New York Tuesday night.

He was fined $50 for using profanity and $50 for entering the referees' dressing room after the game.

The commission said one dark day, Good Friday, March 27, is planned instead of two as previously announced.

Ex-Wolfspack Boss Bubbas Tabs Them 100th Victim

By JOE GERGEN
UPI Sports Writer

Vic Bubbas has a soft spot in his basketball heart for North Carolina State — even though his present affiliations lie with arch-rival Duke.

Bubbas spent 12 years with the Wolfspack — four as a player and eight as an assistant coach — before assuming his first varsity post at Duke in 1959. And Wednesday night State presented him with another fond memory of becoming the unwitting victim of Bubbas' 100th collegiate victory.

Duke's Blue Devils, the nation's seventh — ranked team pulled away from the Wolfspack in the second half to register a 66-48 Atlantic Coast Conference victory and run their season record to 14-3.

The Blue Devils now have won 26 consecutive conference games.

Sixth - ranked Villanova, the only other member of the top 10 teams in the United Press International ratings to see action Wednesday night, recovered from a shaky start to beat St. Bonaventure, 57-52. DePaul bounced back from its only loss of the season to whip Notre Dame, 90-75; and Cincinnati snapped a five - gam losing streak by beating Dayton, 77-63, in other major games.

After NCAA Berth

Duke, whose three losses have been only to other members of the top 10 — Vanderbilt, Michigan, and Kentucky — now stands 9-0 in conference play for the year and seem a sure bet to sweep the ACC post - season tournament and once again earn the right to represent the league in the NCAA championships.

The Blue Devils, held a slim 25-21 lead at halftime, but towering Hank Tison's shooting and rebounding sent Duke to a 23-point lead midway through the second half. Tison led all scorers with 19 points as the Wolfspack sagged to a 6-7 overall mark.

Villanova trailed the Bonnies by as much as 11 points in the first half, but the combination of a hustling zone defense and some timely baskets by Bernie Schaffler and Wally Jones earned the Wildcats their 13th straight win, tying a school record.

Fred Crawford, who had been averaging better than 29 points per game, was limited to 12 by Villanova. Steve Courtin scored 23 points to pace St. Joseph's to a 79-70 victory over Georgetown in the opening game of the Philadelphia Palestra doubleheader.

Second Time Around

Jessie Nash scored 25 points for 13th-ranked De Paul, including 17 in the second half, as the Blue Demons defeated Notre Dame for the second time this year. De Paul, which lost its first game of the year to Louisville on its last outing, now is 14-1 for the season.

A total of 27 personal fouls were charged against Dayton and four Flyers fouled out in the loss to Cincinnati. Ron Braham, who led the Bearcat attack with 27 points, ran his consecutive free throw string to 30 before missing. The loss was the fifth straight for Dayton, the longest in Coach Tom Blackburn's 17 years as head coach.

In other games, Memphis State squeezed past Creighton, 87-86; Syracuse nipped Niagara, 83-81, in overtime; Rhode Island routed Boston U., 92-76; West Virginia vanquished Maryland, 91-67; Toledo trounced Bowling Green, 90-71; Miami (O.) whipped Western Michigan, 78-69; Oklahoma City surprised St. Louis, 80-75; and Texas Western stopped Southwestern, 110-81.

Dallas Signs Landry to 10-Year Pact

DALLAS (UPI) — The Dallas Cowboys Wednesday crushed repeated reports that Tom Landry was on his way out as head coach by signing him to a 10-year contract, longest on record for a coach in the National Football League.

The new contract actually gives Landry an 11-year pact. It becomes effective at the end of his current contract, which has another year to run.

Terms were not revealed, but general manager Tex Schramm said Landry got a pay increase. Landry declined to comment except to say it was a "pretty good salary."

Schramm said the contract "is the longest in professional sports history that we know of." NFL headquarters said it was the longest on its records.

The long-term contract ended repeated reports that Cowboys owners, unhappy with the progress of the team since it was founded and Landry installed as coach in 1960, would fire Landry unless he had a good 1964 season.

It had been rumored that if Landry was fired, Buddy Parker, coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers and a native Texan, would be hired as his replacement.

But Clint Murchison Jr., co-owner of the team, said he and Schramm had been working on Landry "for the past two years to get him to sign a long-term contract."

"It's my philosophy that when you get a good man, you want to keep him," Murchison said.

World's Best Golfers In Phoenix Open Play

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — The Open champions of the United States, England and France; the American PGA and Masters king, plus most of the top money winners of 1964 tee off today in the opening round of the $50,000 Phoenix Open golf tournament.

And that's pretty good for competition that was considered as good as dead a couple of days ago.

With all their troubles patched up, the sponsoring Phoenix Thunderbirds open their 29th annual tournament with this attractive list of names:

—National Open champion Julius Boros.
—British champion Bob Charles of New Zealand.
—French Open champion Bruce Devlin of Australia.
—PGA and Masters champion Jack Nicklaus.
—Gary Player of South Africa, making his first start of the year.
—The king of them all, Arnold Palmer.
—And the beleaguered Hebert Brothers, Jay and Lionel, who have felt the wrath of the sponsors and the fans because of their firm stand on the television clause in PGA contracts. Palmer will be gunning for his fourth consecutive Phoenix Open crown, but he admits his game isn't quite as sharp as usual. Player, who has been staying in South Africa, said he is tired from playing seven tournaments there.

"My putting has been terrific," says the former Masters champion, "but the rest of my game isn't worth bragging about."

Top money player on the tour so far this year is Tommy Jacobs, winner of the Palm Springs Classic last week, with $12,088, most of it unofficial. Close on his heels is Tony Lema with $12,846 to his credit, and hard luck Don January who has won $11,137.

MOBETTIE-MIAMI SLATED TONIGHT

MIAMI (SpI) — Weather permitting, Mobettie and Miami will play a district doubleheader tonight beginning at 7 p.m. against Mobettie. The game was scheduled for Tuesday night, but cancelled due to bad weather. The girls game is a "must" for the Miami Warriors and Wheeler Fillies would be tied for the district lead if Miami wins their final game, and a playoff between the two would have to be arranged before the district tournament, which will be held at Wheeler Feb. 13-15.

Pro Basketball

United Press International
The Los Angeles Lakers, who finally proved they could win basketball game without Jerry West, got the news today at the spectacular scoring might return to the lineup today.

The Lakers, who moved back to second place in the Western Division of the National Basketball Association, smoothed the Detroit Pistons' Wednesday night 111-85 behind Elgin Baylor's 37-point performance. Baylor, playing his best game of the season, rebounded, pumped in point after point and led the Lakers to their first win since losing West on Jan. 26.

In the only other NBA game Wednesday night, the Baltimore Bullets, led by Walt Bellamy's points, knocked the St. Louis Hawks from their second-place berth in the Western Division by upsetting them 113-106.

The Lakers, in downing the Pistons, broke a six-game losing streak — the longest of the season — which began with the one team.

Texas Tech 'Ancient' Stars In Youth Game

By LAWRENCE LEE LUBBOCK (UPI) — "Basketball is a young man's game," contends Texas Tech's Bill (Bones) Murren, whose actions drew out his words.

When Texas Tech tackles Rice here March 3 in what could be by that time a crucial Southwest Conference title-deciding game, Murren will be celebrating his 29th birthday—a bit older than most collegians.

The 6-foot, 1-inch loose-jointed guard pulled a hitch in the Army before going to Decatur Baptist College. After all, when he graduated from Atlantic City, N. J. High School, college scouts were not exactly standing in line to offer him a scholarship.

As a matter of fact, Murren didn't play high school basketball. "I wasn't good enough," admits Murren, who still managed to learn the game on outdoor playground courts and in youth centers.

One person Murren did impress, however, was an Atlantic City buddy. The friend, son of a Baptist minister, played junior college ball at Decatur and persuaded the Decatur coach, Dennis Walling, to give Murren a scholarship.

Why He Came
"You could say I moved to Texas because I had $100—enough money to get back to New Jersey if I didn't make the squad," Murren recalls.

Murren made the squad and won junior college all-America spurs in the process. He moved to Texas Tech in 1962.

Slightly built, the 150-pounder was even more gaunt last season when tonsillitis sidelined him in early season games.

Despite his slow start, Murren wound up sixth among Tech's scorers last season.

He's still sixth, but is averaging 9.3 points a game, two better than last year. In accuracy, he ranks fourth in the conference.

With a variety of shots ranging from layups to tricky hooks, Murren has a 52.5 per cent accuracy figure.

Age Enters Picture
But, that's where his age enters the picture.

"I didn't want to shoot from so far out," Murren explained after one game. "There was a small opening, and most players could have driven on in for a lay-up. Although I had my man beat by a step, the legs just couldn't respond. Just like in baseball, that's where you show your age first—in your legs."

Murren's fans show some sympathy, but they don't believe he's even fooling himself.

They've seen him tie too many opponents in knots with tricky dribbling before flipping a blind pass into a teammate's hands — All the while popping his bubble gum.

Pan Am Win Tops Light Cage Sked

By United Press International
Leaping Lucious Jackson bucketed 24 points Wednesday night to lead Pan American to an 81-68 shaving of Tennessee A&I at Edinburg in a light Texas College basketball schedule.

In other games, Midwestern University bombed Austin College of Sherman 92-52. Lamar Tech outstripped Nicholls State 91-57 and Texas Wesleyan dumped Southwestern University 110-81.

The 6-foot-9, All-America Jackson got his 23 points mostly in the first half because fouls kept him on the bench practically all of the second frame. He shared scoring honors with A&I's Bobby Edmonds.

The victory left the NAIA champion Broncs with an 18-3 record.

In the Midwestern-Austin College tilt, Midwestern's Henry Young netted 34 points, his fifth straight effort of 30 points or more, including an even 30 in a game against Texas Tech in January.

Tonight's schedule has Tulsa at North Texas, St. Mary's at Texas-Lutheran, Western New Mexico at Sul Ross and Murray (Ky.) State at Arkansas State.

Detroit Lion Tackle Buried

NEW YORK (UPI) — Burial services were to be held today in nearby Ardsley, N.Y., for Lucien Reeborg, the Detroit Lions' tackle who died last Friday from a chronic kidney condition.

An estimated 500 persons attended a funeral service for Reeborg Wednesday night at the Caldwell Zion Church in the Bronx.

Lions' General Manager Edwin J. Anderson attended the services along with head Coach George Wilson and his wife, scout Will Robinson and seven teammates.

Last week he entered Detroit Osteopathic Hospital for a routine examination.

It was during his hospital stay that he died from what physicians termed "cardiac arrest" which occurred during the examination and treatment for an acute exacerbation of a chronic kidney condition.

McElreath finished sixth last year and in 1962. Unser crashed early in last year's race, his first here.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities. We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

We Plead Not Guilty

The charge has been made that American journalism has grown fat and lazy and that in 96 per cent of American cities the daily newspapers no longer offer a dissenting voice or have guts enough to champion what may be, at the moment, an unpopular cause.

The accusation is made by Fact Magazine which announces it is coming out with a bi-monthly publication to tell the stories not being told by the daily newspapers, both locally and nationally.

The Pampa News wishes to plead not guilty to the charges. The News, a member of the Freedom Newspaper group, is one of the newspapers in the nation that has fortitude enough to say what it believes and speak out on issues and matters vital to its readers.

The magazine charges that "the expose and the fiery editorial have virtually disappeared."

It further states that "today's newspapers make a mockery of the Jeffersonian concept of American democracy as safeguarded by a watchdog press."

The Pampa News, as is stated in our editorial masthead above, is "A Watchful Newspaper."

Fact Magazine goes on to say, "Never in history has such widespread complacency and corruption of the press prevented the public from reading the facts it must have in order to function."

It further charges that today's newspapers and magazines print only news and articles that please advertisers and preserve revenues.

The Pampa News does not plead guilty on any of these counts. This newspaper believes that its first obligation is to its readers.

That is one of the reasons, for instance, the Pampa News resists editorially the Pampa School Board's policy of secret meetings.

The Pampa News, contrary to Fact's indictment of daily newspapers, is predicated upon a fierce belief in an incessant yearning for the truth, for simple honesty and for the right of the people to know.

This policy will be rigidly and strictly pursued, Fact Magazine notwithstanding.

Mistake

Many a failure occurs because a man makes the mistake of putting first things second.

Presidential Election Law

In the long history of this republic, only a comparative handful of people have voted for the President and Vice President of the United States. All the rest of the electorate has voted for groups of men and women who, for the most part, are totally unknown to them.

This, of course, is due to the electoral college system which, after much debate and compromise, was firmly embodied in Article II of the Constitution. Ever since, scores of proposals have been made to change it, none successful. And this year, no doubt, another effort will be made for the change.

Under the existing system, each state has as many electors as it has senators and representatives combined. This is of obvious advantage to the smaller states, in that they have these two additional votes, represented by their senators, regardless of population. Thus, to some extent, a state's mere size is minimized.

It can also be said of the electoral college system that it has worked. At the same time, it has produced distortion in the appearance of results for the reason that the candidates who carry a state, no matter how tiny their majority, receive 100 per cent of that state's electoral votes. This was exemplified in 1960. The late President Kennedy ran up a substantial electoral college majority. Yet his popular vote margin over Mr. Nixon was next to invisible. Actually, Mr. Kennedy received a fraction less than 30 per cent of the total vote cast, because of the votes which went to the various minor party candidates.

Various methods of reform of the system are always under consideration. Probably the simplest is that President and Vice President shall be elected by direct popular vote. The arguments in favor of this are many, the principal one being, that if the President is to be the man of the people, he ought to be elected directly by the people. Another is that every citizen's vote would count equally. Still another is that political activity would be distributed through all parts of the nation, and the two-party system invigorated.

Opponents of the direct popular vote method argue that it would be unfair to smaller states; lead to national election laws at the expense of the state sovereignty in this area; and encourage the major parties to concentrate their campaigns in the heavily-populated cities, at the expense of the interests of rural areas and small communities. As a practical matter, it is also said that such a constitutional change could never be ratified because of the opposition of small states—some two thirds of them would lose relative political influence.

Another proposed change is the district method, whereby the unit represented by each elector would be switched from the state to a district within a state. And there is support for the proportional method, which would provide that each candidate would receive the proportion of the electoral vote as his share of the state's popular vote. All have their advocates, all their opponents.

In any event, something said by Dr. James Burns, professor of political science at Williams College, seems to cover the problem pretty well: "Reform of the electoral college... is a highly complex subject that needs confrontation by the best minds in the Senate and outside. The electoral college is not just a technical electoral procedure. It is steeped in politics—it affects the balance of parties, the power of interest groups, the strength of ideologies, the fates of politicians."

Reform has proved impossible because politicians have feared that it might upset or threaten political arrangements that they have found congenial, or at least predictable and dependable.

More fundamentally, the problem is less how to elect a President than how to find a candidate who believes in limited and free enterprise.

Lord knows how—even if we find him—he could get elected.

WASHINGTON:

Hatfield and Halleck to Bump Heads

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
WASHINGTON (NEA) — The move by Republican governors to install Oregon's Gov. Mark Hatfield as permanent chairman of the GOP national convention is approaching a probably immovable object—House minority leader Charles Halleck.

Halleck had the job in 1960. Right now he will not comment—even privately—on whether he wants it again. But the odds are heavy that he does, and such a wish is likely to be decisive with a good many influential Republicans.

The veteran leader is proud that the 1960 convention was an orderly affair.

He is extremely conscious, too, that as the prime "congressional candidate" for the chairmanship, he represents 211 Republicans, 178 in the House and 33 in the Senate, who carry a big part of the year-long partisan assault on the majority Democrats.

The party's 16 governors, scattered thinly across the nation, understand this full well. But they nevertheless want greater influence in party affairs than they now have. Putting Hatfield up for the chairmanship reflects this objective.

It indicates something more—a desire to plant a young, trim, handsome, vote-catching figure before the country's television screens during the convention period. Hatfield has the specifications.

As for Halleck, the attitude of some GOP governors was reflected by one who said: "I won't be a party to putting the 'Ev and Charlie Show' on television four days running."

Halleck, of course, makes occasional filmed television appearances with Senate Republican leader Everett Dirksen. They have often been assailed as giving the party a tired, oldish image.

An interesting thing about the chairmanship tussle is that, while it divides along congressional-district lines, it does not appear to be a conservative-liberal fight.

At the governors' Denver Caucus last fall, the vote for Hatfield was as already well-marked, unanimous. The few absentees later added their support. Among the original pro-Hatfield voters were three awarded backers of Sen. Barry Goldwater's presidential candidacy: Governors Paul Fannin of Arizona, Tim Babcock of Montana, Henry Bellmon of Oklahoma.

Another Goldwater man, James Wood, Arizona GOP national committeeman, was skeptical at first. Then he watched Hatfield perform impartially and competently as host at a Eugene, Ore., meeting of western Republicans. Both Goldwater and New York's Gov. Nelson Rockefeller were featured guests. Now Wood is for Hatfield as chairman.

Hatfield has one handicap. Sometimes known as "everybody's candidate for vice president," he might benefit more from the television "showcase" than some party men would care to see.

His own people thought the missionary work done for the governor at a recent party meeting in Washington advanced his cause.

But the wise old party heads are doubtful he'll make it. A fairly sturdy tradition has given the chairmanship to the top House Republican for a good span of time. Halleck has had it only once, but he is not a man to be pushed aside lightly.

THE TOTAL ANSWER TO THE COMMUNIST THREAT
By HARRY BROWNE
Editor, Freedom Magazine
If Americans could understand only one thing—the economic difference between capitalism and communism—they would have the total answer to the communist threat.

For capitalism is a strong, productive system. It appeals to human nature. It rewards those who produce more by giving them more. Thus we have more good things because everyone has the incentive to produce more. And production is automatically geared to the real needs and wants of the people—or else the producer will not be rewarded for his effort.

The Opposite
Communism, however, is the exact opposite of this productive capitalist system. It is based upon the theory of taking from those who produce and giving to those who don't produce. Thus no one has the incentive to produce more; so there is never enough to go around. And economic decisions are made by government planners, so production is not geared to the needs and wants of the people.

The proposed Liberty Amendment will prohibit the government's participation in any economic enterprise not specified in the Constitution. This would automatically put an end to the subsidizing of communism, once and for all.

What else could we possibly need to destroy the communist threat?

people, as it is in a capitalist system.
Communism's End
Communist systems—as in Russia—would die of their own weight if they were left to their own devices. They can only survive through a policy by which the capitalist nations subsidize the communist nations.

We are witnessing such a policy today. America is keeping its own communist enemy alive by subsidizing it. The current wheat sale to Russia—with export subsidies and government-backed credit—is only the latest example of hundreds.

Once this is realized, the solution is obvious.
It is not necessary to determine the "who" or "why" behind the subsidizing; it is only necessary to stop it.

The Solution
The proposed Liberty Amendment will prohibit the government's participation in any economic enterprise not specified in the Constitution. This would automatically put an end to the subsidizing of communism, once and for all.

What else could we possibly need to destroy the communist threat?

Straight Talk

By TOM ANDERSON
TIME TO OPPOSE COMMUNISM FOR A CHANGE
By Tom Anderson
"The Law of the Land," written by Congress, says that communists must register with the government or be subject to fines of $10,000 a day. If the Attorney General had done his job and registered all communists, Lee Harvey Oswald might have been under such close surveillance that he couldn't or wouldn't have committed his dastardly deed. Robert Kennedy has been too busy "registering" Southern Governors to comply with the law of the land.

The Castro-loving Fair Play for Cuba Committee was originally financed in New York City by Cuban delegates to the United Nations. Among Fair Play for Cuba leaders were, W.E.B. DuBois, negro leader who spent a lifetime promoting communism causes and joined the "Party" before he died recently, and Dr. Linus Pauling, much honored scientist and darling of the "Liberals." By April, 1961 the Fair Play for Cuba Committee boasted more than 6,000 members with 27 chapters in the U.S. and student councils on more than 40 university campuses here and in Canada.

Conservative Groups repeatedly urged Robert Kennedy's Justice Department to investigate the Fair Play for Cuba Committee, which the Senate Internal Security Sub-Committee had learned was being financed by Castro. But the Justice Department refused to list the Fair Play for Cuba Committee as subversive.

A UPI dispatch from Washington on March 7, 1962 said: "Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy said yesterday the Communist Party is a 'windmill' virtually powerless to hurt the government. He criticized 'hysteria' about the Party's activities. They can't do anything to us," the President's brother said.

Ironically, President Kennedy was murdered just before he was to make a speech condemning conservatives.

A leading authority on Communism and one of the Kennedys' chief advisors, Victor Reuther, advised Bobby Kennedy that "the radical right poses a far greater danger to... this country... than does the domestic communist movement."

Reuther wrote, "The radical right or extreme right-wing, or however it may be designated, includes an unknown number of millions of Americans of viewpoints bounded on the left by Senator Goldwater and on the right by Robert Welch... What is needed are deliberate Administration policies and programs to contain the radical right from further expansion and in the long run to reduce it to its historic role of the impotent lunatic fringe." Reuther proposed that the "radical right" organizations be placed on the Attorney General's subversive list and that their ranks be infiltrated by the FBI.

Collectivists' Fear
The great fear of the collectivists is that we will have a "rebirth of McCarthyism. They hate McCarthy, the great American patriot, but they don't hate the anti-American, anti-God killer, Khrushchev. They don't hate the unrepentant liar and traitor, Alger Hiss.

Why don't we unite in demanding the arrest, jailing and deportation of all communists and others who advocate the violent overthrow of our constitutional Republic? Why don't we cut off all relations with all communist countries and their satellites until their slaves are freed? Why don't we quit paying the bills for our own destruction in the United Nations, thus killing it, and then join a world organization composed only of nations which believe in and practice the freedom and dignity of the individual?

"Once to every man and nation comes the moment to decide. In the strife of truth with falsehood, for the good or evil side."

Country Editor speaking: A shorter work week would be wonderful, but what we need most is to eliminate Mondays."

The Almanac

By United Press International
Today is Thursday, Feb. 6, the 37th day of 1964 with 329 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase.
The evening stars are Venus and Jupiter.

On this day in history:
In 1788, Massachusetts ratified the United States Constitution.

In 1850, Henry Clay delivered his last great speech on the floor of the Senate, speaking in favor of his compromise bill of 1850.

In 1933, a Nazi decree issued in Berlin forbade criticism of Adolf Hitler.

In 1943, Gen. Dwight Eisenhower was appointed commander-in-chief of the Allied Expeditionary Forces in North Africa.

A thought for the day—American statesman Henry Clay said: "If you wish to avoid foreign collision, you had better abandon the ocean."

Office Cat

Two college girls were having lunch together.
Mary—My dear, why do you always call your mother 'the mater'?

Donna—Because, she managed to find husbands for all my seven sisters.

A dissatisfied owner put this sign on his automobile: "The World's Champion Oil Burner."

Modern refinement consists in a delicacy in words, and delicacy of thoughts and actions.

Between the Bookends

HOW JUDGES CAN BECOME DICTATORS
The American government was created to be one administered by unchanging laws—rather than by the whims of individual men.

Many of the founding fathers feared, however, that those laws would be subject to the interpretation of judges; and that this could be the route by which government could be transformed from a limited tool of the people to a tyrannical dictatorship.

Findings
Alfred M. Scott, a practicing attorney for 40 years, has examined the increasing number of instances in which the U.S. Supreme Court has rendered decisions which were, in effect, legislation. These decisions thus went beyond the court's constitutional function. Mr. Scott's findings are published in "The Supreme Court Versus The Constitution" (Exposition Press, 366 Park Ave. South, New York 16, N.Y.; $3.50).

The author says that perhaps the greatest decision in American judicial history is yet to be rendered—that in the case of the Supreme Court vs. the Constitution. He cites numerous examples of both federal and state judges legislating and amending Constitutions—usurping the powers of 185 million Americans.

Solution
The author advocates a return to the principle of "stare decisis." This means that established law and previously-judged issues must bind present-day decisions, until such time that the people themselves change the precedent by amending the Constitution. Today, many previously-settled questions are reopened and re-decided by sociological concepts of individual precedent.

This means that no citizen can securely plan his own life in accordance with established law; for he can never be sure that the courts will not change that law at whim.

Legal Method
The Constitution is not eternal. The people can change it at any time through the legal amending process. But a judge who decides to change it for himself—and enact his own laws—is usurping authority that belongs to the people.

And when government officials are permitted to make up their own laws and rules, we no longer have a government of law, but rather a government of men, which is merely a polite way of describing a dictatorship.

Pull Up A Chair

By Frank J. Markey

The first automobile service station was opened at Pittsburgh, Pa., 50 years ago. Prior to that gasoline was sold at livery stables and hardware stores. The Pittsburgh innovation offered a free oil check, free air and water, and free installation of tires and tubes bought there. The first day's sales totaled 30 gallons, but the week-end business hit 350 gallons, which shows there were Sunday drivers in those days, too.

Today's smile: We liked the one about the guy who had become a father for the seventh time. One of his office associates, in congratulating him, said: "Where are the cigars?" The new father replied: "When you have your seventh child you don't pass out cigars—you mooch cigarettes."

There's a course in wine appreciation at the University of California and we presume credits toward a degree are given for passing it. Can you picture some proud parent telling a friend about his college offspring studying hard to get good marks in that one, or majoring in the subject? It all comes under the heading of higher education. What next?

It's been suggested that the Post Office Dept. could make up its deficit by selling ad space on stamps, but the idea is not new. Back in 1842 they tried putting ads on the backs of stamps, but the venture was a revenue-raising flap because of antiquated printing methods and failure in color reproduction. However, advertising space is now sold on the edges of stamp sheets in Great Britain, New Zealand, Belgium and Italy.

Thoughts while shaving: "Destry" is one of the most durable and valuable literary properties. Published as a novel in the early 1920's, it has been made into a half-dozen movies, silent and sound, a Broadway musical show, and is now headed for an hour-long TV series. "Destry" will be riding across your screens before next year rolls around... Shakespeare, who probably couldn't care less if he were alive today, will be honored with a British postage stamp on the 400th anniversary of his birth in April. British stamps have always carried the picture of the reigning monarch. If Shakespeare's picture appears with Elizabeth II it will make philatelic history... The New York DAILY NEWS reported: "Spectators were shooed away by police and there were only thin crows." We hope the cops fed the poor things...

One of the most famous quotes of this century: "The lamps are going out all over Europe; we shall not see them lit again in our lifetime." It was said by Sir Edward Grey (Viscount of Fallodon) while standing at a window of the British Foreign Office in London on August 4, 1914, the day Britain declared war on Germany, marking the opening of World War I. Grey's observation was prompted by lamplighters turning off the gas lamps in St. James' Park. His remark was prophetic, as many of us have lived to learn.

WHIZZ OF A WHIRLYBIRD—Helicopters, the ugly ducklings of the air age, have been known for their up-and-down flying abilities rather than for covering distance in level flight. That's changing, as engineers keep pushing up the practical limits of rotorcraft speed. Research center above, a Bell UH-1B, has set an unofficial world's speed record of 210 miles per hour (official record: 158 m.p.h.). The feat was accomplished with the help of auxiliary jets attached to the fuselage. Without the jets, the UH-1B has flown at 175 m.p.h., thanks to streamlining and a redesigned pylon.

Congress Turning To Historic Talks

The attention of Congress is turned now to the historic debates on civil rights and tax cut legislation, but soon decisions will be made in these matters and work will begin on shaping the financial activities of the government to be conducted in the 1965 fiscal year beginning July 1. President Johnson's budget proposals have been submitted to the Congress and the country. Those of us who have stood strong for bringing substantial reductions in the level of government expenditures are encouraged by his efforts to trim the spending bills.

Under President Johnson's budget proposal, the gap between federal receipts and Federal expenditures would be $2.9 million in the next fiscal year, bringing well within range, the possibility that the Fiscal 1965 budget can be balanced. By comparison, the federal budget proposed for the current fiscal year showed a deficit between anticipated receipts and proposed expenditures of $10.3 billion.

President Johnson's budget proposal for fiscal year 1965 (and it is important to remember that the budget remains only a proposal until Congress has acted on separate appropriations) anticipates receipts of $119.7 billion. Of this total, $93 billion would be obtained primarily from tax receipts and $26.9 billion from "trust fund" receipts — money obtained in taxes and contributions earmarked for spending in specific programs such as social security, veterans life insurance, and highway construction. President Johnson's budget proposes expenditures totaling $122.7 billion, including $97.9 in the "administrative" budget, that proposed for the general activities of the Government, and $24.8 billion in the various trust fund financed activities, the largest of which is social security.

Here is a summary of specific spending proposals advanced for the current fiscal year (proposals which were altered by the appropriations actions of

Sen. Harry F. Byrd D-Va., has stated in the fewest possible number of words the federal spending trend of the past several years which President Johnson says he can and will reverse.

Johnson is being acclaimed as a great economist. There are persons, however, who counsel caution. They suggest that acclaim for the new President be withheld until the end of the 1965 fiscal year when his promises may be measured accurately against his performance.

It is ironical, maybe, that the new Johnson administration pledge to carry out the policies of the late President Kennedy was accompanied by a reversal of the Kennedy policy that was basic in JFK's whole program.

That was his spending policy. JFK was a big spender. Harry F. Byrd thumbed it like this:

"If federal taxes are too high — and they are — it is basically because federal expenditures are too high. Reduction in both is long overdue."

Continue To Rise
"Starting at $76.5 billion in the (Eisenhower) fiscal year 1960, federal expenditures rose by $5 billion in (JFK's) 1961. They went up $6.3 billion in 1962. They went up $4.9 billion in the current (1964) fiscal year they are increased by $5.8 billion."

Byrd discussed Kennedy's spending record in a Senate speech opposing the pending tax reduction bill. He said he was against the bill because the effect of it would be to charge tax reduction into the federal debt, to borrow money to reduce taxes.

The senator is among those who are skeptical that President Johnson will be able to keep his date with economy in fiscal 1965. Byrd explained why he is a doubter:

"Contingencies involved in (Johnson's) $97.9 billion expenditure figure include enactment of the tax reduction bill, the Wreck of Umbarger, and Mrs. Milton Sharp of Tulsa.

of new legislation, market conditions for the sale of government-held assets, effect weather conditions on agriculture, reduction in the post deficit and so forth.

And Byrd took a swipe at those chuckleheads who accept the government's deficit spending operations as a necessity of the cold war. Byrd said it was easy to blame war and national defense for the excesses of political spending. But he said that since the Korean War the federal spending total has increased from a fiscal year figure of $67.5 to the $97.9 estimated to be spent in fiscal 1965. The hike of roughly $3 billion represents $7.5 billion for military and related activities and $23 billion for domestic-civilian activities.

Buying Power Drops
The senator remarked that the deficit spending and increasing public debt since 1939 had reduced the purchasing power of the dollar to 45 cents as of today.

"It dropped 23 cents in World War II," Byrd said. "It has dropped nearly 7 cents since the Korean War. It has dropped 2 cents since 1960 (the Kennedy pennies). It dropped more than half a cent last year."

Byrd's Senate speech was a sturdy defense of what the administration's chief economist Walter Heller, scorns as a puritan ethic. Ethic means character or the ideals of character manifested by a race or a people.

The pay-your-bills - on-time and live-within-your-income puritan ethic has gone out of style. It is square. But it worked pretty well for the U.S. government from the beginning until the late spring of 1933.

TO VISIT HOSPITAL
DALLAS (UPI) — Texas Gov. John Connally was scheduled to visit Parkland Hospital today for X-rays of his injured right arm and a new cast.

It was to be the governor's first visit to Parkland since he left there early in December after being treated for gunshot wounds when he was shot down with President Kennedy on a Dallas street Nov. 22.

The Lighter Side

Hangovers Give Off Heavy Shock Waves

By DICK WEST
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — During the past 24 hours, great progress has been made in the so-called "West-McHale Process."

Thanks largely to my efforts as chief coordinator of research, the project has achieved its goal of finding a uniform system for measuring the intensity of hangovers.

Before accepting any laurels, however, I want to give due credit to my distinguished associate, Terry McHale of the Flint, Mich. Journal. It was his brilliant theoretical analysis that made the breakthrough possible.

With the aid of only a pencil and paper, and a couple of aspirin tablets, McHale was able to deduce that hangovers emit shock waves, somewhat in the manner of earthquakes.

My role in the project was to test his theory under laboratory conditions, which was really quite simple. I merely found an ostrich that had a hangover frightened it.

When the ostrich hid its head in the sand, I took a seismograph and recorded the vibrations. The reading showed a distinct tremor.

Although this verified McHale's deduction, the method is impractical for every day use. As a practical system for determining hangover intensity, I recommend the Mercalli Scale.

Ordinarily used to rate the intensity of earthquakes, the Mercalli Scale divides ground tremors into 12 degrees of relative severity, excerpts of which are reproduced below:

1. Not felt except under exceptional conditions.
2. Felt only by a few persons, especially on upper floors of buildings.
3. Felt quite noticeably indoors; vibrations like passing truck.
4. Felt indoors by many. Sensation like heavy truck striking building.
5. Felt by nearly everyone.

BEATLE CUT BANNED

DARWEN, England (UPI) — Haircuts styled after the "Beatles"—Britain's sensational pop musical group — have been banned at Darwen technical school.

"I object to the present slavish imitation of a trend," said headmaster Robert Reeve Tuesday night. "If a boy is not satisfied to look like himself — and prefers to grow his hair like a sheepdog — then I think there is something wrong with him."

- Some dishes, windows broken.
6. Felt by all. A few instances of fallen plaster or damaged chimneys.
  7. Noticed by persons driving motor cars. Some chimneys broken.
  8. Persons driving motor cars disturbed. Heavy furniture overturned.
  9. Ground cracked conspicuously. Underground pipes broken.
  10. Ground badly cracked. Rails bent.
  11. Bridges destroyed. Earth slumps and land slips in soft ground.
  12. Damage total. Waves seen on ground surface. Lines of sight and level destroyed.
- Anyone who has ever experienced a hangover will immediately recognize these conditions.

Probers Eye Testimony of Baker Solons

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate investigators apparently can bring senators and their top aides into the Bobby Baker inquiry — but no stampede appears likely to develop in that direction.

There were no plans to call senators today, and only a couple of them have been mentioned in connection with the wide-ranging outside operations of Baker, the former secretary to Senate Democrats.

A senatorial "gentleman's agreement" reached Tuesday night made it clear that the Rules Committee, which is investigating the outside interests of past and present Senate employees, can include senators and members of their office staffs in its inquiry.

But a prior statement by Rules Committee Chairman B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., that "we're not investigating senators" made it clear, however, that there would be no rush to put senators or their aides on the witness stand.
