Estimated 198 Cong Die In U.S. Air, Ground Action

President Cites 3 Priorities

SAIGON (UPI) — Air and ground action against Communist positions in South Viet Nam killed an estimated 198 guerrillas in a 24-hour period ending at 6 a.m. today, a U.S. military spokesman reported.

In the air war against North Viet Nam, American planes rained 12 tons of bombs today on a Communist power plant at Thanh Hoa, 75 miles south of Hanoi.

U.S. Air Force Navy and Vietnamese air force planes flew 232 sorties against Viet Cong supply and training areas, troop concentrations, encampments and rest bivouacs.

The spokesman estimated that 187 guerrillas were killed more than 470 buildings destroyed or damaged, two sampans sunk and two others damaged. Pilots reported three secondary explosions, indicating that ammunition depots were hit.

Six U.S. Marine Skyhawk jets flew 38 combat sorties against guerrilla strongholds in the Da Nang area, destroying six structures.

At least 11 guerrillas were reported killed in a series of clashes with government troops.

Two U.S. Air Force F102 Delta Dagger jets hurled volleys of 2.75-inch rockets Monday at a Viet Cong concentration in the Mekong River Delta 66 miles south of Saigon.

Although pilots were unable to say if any guerrillas were killed in that attack, officials estimated that other raids in South Viet Nam by American and Vietnamese planes killed 50 Viet Cong.

In the air war against North Viet Nam Monday, American planes flew six strikes. The closest was 70 miles from the Communist capital at Hanoi, apparently a discreet pullback from several days of attacks within 40 miles of the city.

A U.S. Air Force Phantom F4C jet was lost in a raid near Hanoi Saturday and officials said the plane may have been downed by a Soviet ground-to-air missile.

North Viet Nam claimed that two U.S. jets were shot down Monday in Phu Tho Province, an area northwest of Hanoi.

According to an official American military spokesman, all of the attacking planes returned safely.

In Saigon, authorities deliberated the question of whether South Viet Nam or the United States has jurisdiction over the case of Robert Kimball, the American aid mission employee suspected of killing his chief and a pretty Vietnamese woman.

Water Study Committee Finishes Fact Gathering

Pampa's Water Study Committee is finished with its information and fact gathering and hopes to make its recommendations next week.

The group wound up its deliberations at a meeting last night in City Hall and Chairman James B. Massa asked the members to analyze its findings and meet again Thursday, Aug. 5, to make recommendations or name a committee to draft recommendations for submission to the city commission.

What the Water Study Committee will decide is whether Pampa should immediately plan to take Candian River Dam water or continue a few years with the present underground water well system.

If the committee decides to go the surface water route through the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority, it no doubt, among other things, will have to recommend voter approval of a $900,000 bond issue for construction of a filtration plant and have it ready when water from Lake Meredith is available by Jan. 1, 1968.

If the committee decides it would be best to wait and use the present water well system, there probably will be a recommendation for additional water wells at the rate of about one a year beginning in 1966 in order to keep maximum underground water production pace with the increase in consumption of water that will come with a growing city. A water well cost $36,000.

Committee members last night heard City Engineer Harold Foreman explain a report submitted by Forrest & Cotton, Dallas Consulting Engineers, showing a comparison of additional cost for the next 15 years on the Canadian River Water Supply and the Expanding Well Water Supply. The engineering firm's figures placed the Canadian River additional costs about $290,000 under the cost of water well expansion through 1982.

There were many questions from the committee members and the answers came from City Manager Jim White and City Engineer Foreman.

After asking each committee member if there was additional information needed, Chairman Massa requested that all facts and figures be studied during the next ten days and that the committee meet again Aug. 5 for its recommendations.

Shower Leaves Trace Of Needed Moisture

Most of Pampa ended 27 straight days without rain today when the city recorded a trace at weather pump station No. 1 on N. Ward Street.

Rain fell, just a little in every section of the city except the southwest part, and then moved off to the west and north.

Sunday light showers fell in the east and north part of the city but most of Pampa failed to get needed moisture.

Pampa's high Monday was 92 and the overnight low was 71. Mid-morning temperature was 76 degrees.

The weatherman called for warm, partly cloudy weather Wednesday with a chance for late evening showers.

Occasional showers dotted Texas today from the Panhandle to the Gulf Coast but no prolonged relief from searing summer heat was in sight.

Overnight readings ranged from 64 at Alpine to 81 at Palaros and Galveston.

Rainfall amounts for the 24-hour period ended at 6 a.m. included El Paso .06, Del Rio .38, Abilene .09 and Beaumont .04.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said the thundershowers would continue along the coast through Wednesday.

Temperatures today were expected to go to the 100 mark and over in most areas of the state, a repeat of Monday's sizzler. Presidio walked off again with hot spot honors at 104 degrees, Wichita Falls had 102, Laredo 100, and Waco 98.

Showers fell Monday in the Beaumont, Del Rio, Abilene, Midland, San Angelo and Lubbock areas. Del Rio reported the heaviest amount, .38 of an inch.

Mrs. Mossler, Nephew Deny Killing Millionaire, Await Bond

MIAMI (UPI) — Candace Mossler and her accused nephew-lover, Melvin Lane Powers, denied killing millionaire Jacques Mossler Monday during their arraignment and were returned to jail to await the outcome of efforts to free them on bond.

Attorneys for the pair filed writs of habeas corpus following a six-minute arraignment before Circuit Judge George E. Schulz in which they pleaded innocent to first degree murder charges.

It was the first face-to-face meeting in more than a year for Powers, 23, and his 46-year-old Aunt Candace. The meeting caused no apparent reaction from the couple, who the state alleges killed Mossler because he was interfering with their love affair.

Texan Clyde Woody, Mrs. Mossler's attorney, also filed motions to view all the state's evidence in the case and to get a complete list of state witnesses.

Weed Mowing Ordinance Gets Additional Help

Pampa's newly-enacted weed mowing ordinance got some additional enforcement teeth this morning when the city commission approved equipment rental and labor costs to be assessed when property owners fail to cut down their own weeds.

Public Works Director Jiggs Cooke said some 35 or 50 ten-day notices already have been sent to property owners asking them to cut weeds or be prepared to have the city cut them and assess the cost.

The commission authorized the following equipment and labor charges to property owners who fail to comply with the weed mowing notices:

For half-ton pickup, $3.70 per hour; for three-fourth ton pickup, $4 per hour; for 1 1/2-ton truck, $4.30 per hour; for front end loader, $11.75 per hour and for tractor with mower, $5.40 per hour.

Equipment operators will cost $3 an hour and other labor $1.50 an hour.

City Manager Jim White and Public Works Director Cooke said the city will begin mowing weeds within a few days of the expiration of recent ten-day notices. Additional notices will go into the mail, they said.

Mayor Jim Nation said the city would prefer property owners mow their own weeds but the ordinance would be enforced where ten-day notices were ignored.

In other business: The commission authorized establishing a city warehouse store and cost accounting system for an accurate keeping of cost records and inventories.

City Manager White said the city warehouse presently has a large inventory of water and sewer department supplies with no records available.

"We want to set up an inventory of what the city has on hand and of charge-outs on materials used," White said.

The commission authorized employment of the Nienstel and Doggett auditing firm to supervise setting up of the system. All work will be done by city employees. White stated, with the auditing firm directing the job. Cost of the firm's services will run approximately $300, the city manager said.

The commission authorized payment of $11,067.36 to paving contractor Ray Boswell for paving in the 300 and 400 blocks of N. Zimmer St. A resolution was adopted to assess property owners in the two blocks for their share of paving costs.

Passage on second reading was given to an ordinance annexing to the city two blocks in the Jarvis-Sone addition in northwest Pampa.

Pampa in High Market Bracket

NEW YORK (SpI) — Based on its economic progress during the past year, Pampa stands out as a better-than-average market.

In terms of local income, purchasing power, retail sales and business potential, it is ranked higher than most.

The figures bearing this out are contained in the new, copyrighted "Survey of Buying Power," released by Sales Management. It gives comparable data for communities in all parts of the country.

Pampa residents, it shows, earned a record amount of money in 1964. Their net income, after deductions for personal taxes, came to $61,135,000, an increase over the previous year's $57,507,000.

What this income was equivalent to, from the standpoint of the individual family, was determined by dividing the total dollars by the number of local households.

It amounted to $7,548 per household, which was more than was earned in most parts of the United States, where the average per household, after payment of taxes, was $7,542.

The statewide average in Texas was $6,568.

Last year's rise in personal income, for which the tax cut was partly responsible, gave people considerably more buying power than they had enjoyed in 1963.

Nationally, the upsurge amounted to 7 percent. It was the biggest year-to-year gain of the postwar period, reports Sales Management.

Most of this money made its way to the market place, as consumers spent 92.4 percent of their available cash for goods and services.

As a result, business was good for Pampa's storekeepers. Their sales volume for the year reached $39,906,000.

Showdowns Due South in Rights Drive

By United Press International

Two powerful civil rights movements joined for a showdown with city leaders today in Americus, Ga., and in Greensboro, Ala., demonstrators bounced back from a tear gas attack with vows to wage an endless fight for equality.

The Southern Christian Leadership Conference and the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee said they would "explode the false image of racial harmony" in Georgia and chose Americus as one of the starting points.

The organizations gave Americus officials until 5 p.m. CST to release four Negro women from jail and put a biracial committee to work solving civil rights problems. The women were arrested last week while attempting to vote in a segregated polling line.

Higher Park Status for Meredith Talked

A bill, first offered by Congressman Walter Rogers to make a national monument of the Alibates Flint Quarries at Lake Meredith, has brought about the chance that the Meredith site may be made a national recreation area.

The head of the national park systems studies, Chester Brown, said the National Park Service has recommended that the area be elevated to the higher status.

The Bureau of Outdoor Recreation will study the recommendation.

Lake Meredith is administered by the National Park Service but it does not carry the designation of National Recreation Area.

If Lake Meredith is given the higher status this would enable the Department of the Interior to receive an annual appropriation bill approved last year, the government is limited to $1.1 million in spending for recreation at the lake.

The question of making the lake a national recreation area arose as the Senate subcommittee on National Parks opened its hearings on a bill to make a national monument of the Alibates Flint Quarries.

Theodore R. Swem, assistant director of National Parks Service, recommended that the subcommittee approve the bill for the Alibates Flint Quarries and Texas Panhandle Culture National Monument.

Swem said it would cost about $15,000 a year to operate the monument. The developmental cost, which would cover construction of an exhibit building, roads, walks, signs and markers, would be an estimated $360,000.

The Interior Department has said it would re-create the ancient scene at the quarries as closely as possible.

Rep. Rogers filed a written statement with the subcommittee urging the development of the monument.

Russia to Test Fire Giant Rockets

MOSCOW (UPI)—Russia will test fire giant rockets 7,500 miles into the middle of the Pacific Ocean starting Wednesday, it was announced Monday.

The Russians warned ships and planes away from the target area, approximately 1,500 miles southwest of Hawaii between Britain's Christmas Island and the American-owned Baker Islands.

The new tests were expected to produce more claims of Soviet rocket "bullseye" capability. After the last series of firings in January and February, Marshal Nikolai Krylov, chief of Soviet rocket forces, claimed a "high degree of accuracy"—a statement which western military observers interpreted as a clear hint of their military application.

The Tass news agency said in a brief announcement that "new types of carrier rockets for the launching of space vehicles" will be tested in the period from July 28 to Oct. 15.

The test announcement came in the wake of the Soviet launching of a 12.2-ton payload by a "new powerful booster rocket." Western experts said this could be the same type of rocket to be tested in the Pacific.

Marshall Presents ID to Sukarno

JAKARTA (UPI) — U. S. Ambassador Marshall Green presented his credentials to President Sukarno Monday. Troops kept back an anti-American mob of 3,000 Indonesians chanting "go home, Green."

Green, who replaced long-time Ambassador Howard P. Jones, has been under attack since his designation became known here. Last week, officials ordered the removal of signs attacking Green upon the ambassador's arrival.

But the anti-American crowds, made up mostly of students and other young people, were out in force Monday as Green drove to the white presidential palace for the ceremony.

Sukarno told Green that American actions in Viet Nam and U.S. support for Malaysia had caused a deterioration in relations between Jakarta and Washington.

Sukarno said the young nations of Africa and Asia are only demanding "what the American people demanded 200 years ago" when they established their independence.

Green toasted Indonesia as "one of the major leaders among the proud new nations" and expressed the hope that relations would improve.

New Evidence Due for Russian Czar's Daughter

HAMBURG, Germany (UPI) — A court announced today it will hear more evidence Tuesday and Wednesday on a reclus's claim that she is Princess Anastasia of Russia.

The Hamburg state court of appeals said 63-year-old Anna Anderson's lawyer may produce the "new evidence" he says he has.

Miss Anderson, who lives in a Black Forest hideaway, has for decades been waging a court battle in hopes of winning recognition as the daughter of Russia's last czar, Nicholas II.

Spacemen May Gas Up in Space

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Within 15 years or so, astronauts headed outward for the planets Mars or Venus may stop by orbiting "service stations" to gas up for the long trip, a U.S. space engineer suggested today.

L. L. Morgan, staff engineer for Lockheed Missiles and Space Co., Sunnyvale, Calif., said space-going tankers carrying huge quantities of rocket fuel "may be a requirement of future interplanetary missions."

Morgan put his idea before more than 5,000 U.S. scientists and engineers at today's second session of the four-day annual meeting of the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics (AIAA).

Earlier, the group was told that, in the race to shoot heavyweights into earth orbit, the United States can still do better than the Soviet Union—by at least 130 pounds.

Morgan said orbiting tankers, or service stations, filled with propellants such as liquid oxygen, hydrogen and high-grade kerosene "appears to be a feasible method of operation."

Under this arrangement, astronauts could use their initial fuel supply simply to get into orbit. There, they would gas up again for the hop across interplanetary space. The technique is one possible way to sidestep the building of prohibitively costly super-rockets bigger than the U.S. Saturn-5 moonrocket.

U.S. scientists already are studying ways to develop rocket "muscles" that could lift a 1-million-pound satellite into space.

America's charge of its heavy-weight booster brigade into the cosmos was revealed in detail—with some surprises—at Monday's opening session of the four-day annual meeting of the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics (AIAA).

Russia launched the world's heaviest satellite, its 26,840-pound Proton-1, into orbit 11 days ago—but the Soviets held high-level discussions on Viet Nam. He conferred for three hours with Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Henry Cabot Lodge, new ambassador to South Viet Nam, and Arthur J. Goldberg, the new ambassador to the United Nations.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey also sat in on the strategy huddle, his first such appearance since the sessions began.

One subject at Monday's meeting was the downing of a U.S. jet over North Viet Nam which was reported to be a surface-to-air missile. Use of such a weapon would add a new dimension to the war.

As yet there has been no official confirmation that the Navy plane, an F4C Phantom with two men aboard, was actually hit by a missile over a target 40 miles west of Communist North Viet Nam's capital of Hanoi.

LBJ to Meet With Solon Leaders

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson meets with congressional leaders today or Wednesday in what could be the final strategy conference before he makes public his decisions on stepped-up U.S. involvement in the Viet Nam war.

The session with Republican and Democratic lawmakers was viewed in some quarters as signaling the end of the intensive and far-reaching review of the entire American effort in Viet Nam begun by the Chief Executive last Wednesday.

Prior to the congressional meeting, however, Johnson was expected to hold one more session with his top military and diplomatic advisers. He asked the State and Defense departments to supply him with additional information today on the manpower requirements for the broadening struggle.

It was expected that when he has decided on the future U.S. course in Viet Nam Johnson will make a radio-television report to the nation, spelling out American objectives and the measures to be taken to achieve them.

For the sixth consecutive day Wednesday, the President held high-level discussions on Viet Nam. He conferred for three hours with Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Henry Cabot Lodge, new ambassador to South Viet Nam, and Arthur J. Goldberg, the new ambassador to the United Nations.

Quick Service In Auto Theft

"Quick service" is the motto of the Pampa police department, as a grateful McAndrews Motor Company can testify.

The auto dealer called police chief Jim Conner shortly after 9 a.m. today to report a car which had been missing from their lot at 800 W. Kingsmill since yesterday.

As the call was being made, the clerk notified Conner that the missing automobile was being reported that very moment as having apparently been abandoned outside Hom & Gee Grocery, E. Frederick and Barnes.

Show Down

(Continued From Page 1) groups promised to fill the jails with demonstrators. As a prelude, two marches were staged Monday without incidents. The first drew 150 demonstrators. A night march was 700 strong.

Police turned back 400 demonstrators with tear gas in Greensboro Monday. They marched to protest the burning of two churches more than a week ago.

The demonstrators, mostly Negroes, fled choking and sobbing from their route and established a "vigil" outside a Negro church.

The Rev. Arthur Days, whose church and parsonage were also bombarded with tear gas, said the demonstrations will continue.

In Chicago Monday, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. led thousands of demonstrators on a traffic-crippling march to City Hall to seek an end to "racism and exploitation" of Negroes in the nation's second largest city.

Elsewhere in the nation: New Orleans: A Federal judge overruled a defense motion to toss out civil contempt charges against two Bogalusa, La., police officials accused of ignoring a federal order to protect civil rights demonstrators, and approved jury trials on companion criminal contempt charges. The judge saw pictures of harassment in Bogalusa and said the police "stood by and did nothing."

C-C Directors Approve Bus Line

Directors of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, in session this morning gave unanimous approval to the request of the Inland Motor Lines, Inc., of Wichita, Kansas, to provide bus transportation between Wichita, Kansas, and Pampa to tie in with Continental Bus lines here. The new route would serve the following towns in Oklahoma, Enid, Fairview, Selling, Vici and Arnett; and the following towns in Texas: Higgins, Canadian, Miami, with Pampa as the terminal point.

The Chamber's endorsement of their application will be filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Action was taken by the board following recommendation by the Highways and Transportation Committee in session last week.

The board also approved participation of the Chamber of Commerce with "Texas Parade" magazine in saluting Texas State Highway Department and its State Director, D. C. Greer, by purchasing 100 copies of a special publication to be distributed locally.

The Board went on record in opposition to the repeal of the right-to-work law, known as 14 (b), which is now in debate in the House of Representatives and directed wires to be sent to the Congressman of this district.

Tentative dates were set for the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, which will be held during the month of October. The exact has not as yet been decided upon, pending the availability of a speaker.

Boosters From Pampa Plug Slated To Rodeo

Four carloads of Pampans, many of them pretty girls, toured the Texas Panhandle and Western Oklahoma today plugging the Top O' Texas Rodeo, scheduled here Aug. 11-14.

Ladies from the Sub Debs, Las Cresses and Kit Cat clubs distributed advertisements in towns within a 100-mile radius of Pampa.

Storm Kills Six BOMBAY (UPI) — Six persons, including two children were killed Monday when a five-story house collapsed during a torrential rainstorm.

TRACK TROUBLES — Weakened roadbeds and broken track resulting from recent heavy rains and flooding are blamed for Colorado passenger train derailments. Shortly after the "California Zephyr," above derailed 40 miles west of Denver, another crack streamliner, the combined "City of Denver" and "City of Portland," piled up on a soft roadbed near Sterling. There were no serious injuries.

GOP Governors Line Up With Bliss Against FSA

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Republican governors lined up with national GOP Chairman Ray C. Bliss today in a continuing war with splinter groups like Barry M. Goldwater's Free Society Association.

The GOP minority at the National Governors Conference also was trying to do battle with the Democrats with a new plan to make the conference a collective voice of the states.

The Democratic majority was unlikely to buy the plan because it remembered that previous conferences had been converted into embarrassing spectacles by disputes over civil rights resolutions. Hence the entire procedure for adopting resolutions was abolished two years ago.

With a conspicuous exception in the host governor, Karl Rolvaag of Minnesota, the Democrats did not want to revive the procedure. The 17 Republicans were described as unanimous in support of restoring it.

Gov. Tim Babcock of Montana submitted a compromise plan to be considered at today's opening business session of the 57th annual conference. Instead of re-establishing a resolutions committee, Babcock's proposal called for permitting resolutions to be considered if submitted with the approval of a three-fourths vote of the nine-man executive committee of the conference.

Mich. Gov. George Romney and New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, two spokesmen for the GOP liberal wing, voiced disapproval of Goldwater's Free Society Association, a conservative group formed to carry on a "crusade for political education."

Romney said Republican leaders must understand that party goals can be achieved without joining splinter groups. Rockefeller said it was a fair statement to suggest that Goldwater was pulling away from the party instead of pulling with it.

Rape Attempts May Tie-In With Coeds

AUSTIN (UPI) — Police today checked the possibility three local rape attempts during the past two weeks may be connected with the disappearance of two attractive University of Texas sorority sisters.

All three attempted rapes occurred in an area of town close to where the missing girls' car was found. Police said two men were involved in the assaults, all similar.

The latest attack occurred early Monday morning, when two men armed with a knife and a shotgun forced a 16-year-old girl out of a car in which she and her boyfriend were parked. They forced her boyfriend into the trunk of his car, locked it and drove away with the girl.

She told police she cried and they released her after a two-mile ride.

Police said the would-be rapists may be connected with the mysterious vanishing of Susan Rigby and Shirley Ann Stark, July 18. They had driven to Austin from Dallas so Miss Rigby could attend summer school.

They were seen at lunch by Martha Blount of Dallas, who was to share an apartment with Miss Rigby. Then they got gasoline at a service station. That was the last time they were seen.

Other late developments in the case of the missing Chi Omega sorority sisters: —Police and the Department of Public Safety conducted chemical tests on locks of human hair found in Austin.

Canadian Rivard To be Formally Charged in Laredo

HOUSTON (UPI) — Canadian Lucien Rivard will be arraigned formally in Laredo Aug. 2 then stand trial there Sept. 7 on federal charges of trying to smuggle $16 million worth of heroin into the U.S. from Mexico.

Lawyers on both sides of the case conferred Monday on legal procedures with U.S. Dist. Judge Ben C. Connolly.

Four other persons, including one American citizen, were indicted along with Rivard.

Rivard was first arrested in Montreal last year, but while lawyer's fought for his extradition, he escaped jail. Two weeks ago, he was recaptured at a lake cabin outside Montreal and last Thursday was flown under heavy guard to Houston.

When Rivard, 20, an underworld figure, allegedly attempted to bribe his way out of the Montreal jail prior to his escape, it brought a scandal that shook the liberal government.

School Superintendent Jack Edmondson said if the nine students request a transfer to Carver for any reason other than race, creed or color it will be granted. He said students could ask to be transferred from Baker to Carver for convenience, or parents request, so long as the request is not based on race, creed or color.

The plan, if approved by the education commissioners, will become effective Aug. 31.

Asthma Formula Prescribed Most By Doctors—Available Now Without Prescription

Stops Attacks in Minutes... Relief Lasts for Hours!

New York, N.Y. (Special)—The asthma formula prescribed more than any other by doctors for their private patients is now available to asthma sufferers without prescription.

Medical tests proved this formula stops asthma attacks in minutes and gives hours of freedom from recurrence of painful asthma spasms.

This formula is so effective that it is the physicians' leading asthma prescription—so safe when used as directed that now it can be sold without prescription in most states—in tiny tablets called Primatene®.

These Primatene Tablets open bronchial tubes, loosen congestion, relieve taut nervous tension. All without painful injections.

The secret—Primatene combines 3 medicines (in full prescription strength) found most effective in combination for asthma distress.

So look forward to sleep at night and freedom from asthma spasms.

Reading Course Slated at WT August 10-12

The Texas Association for the Improvement of Reading will sponsor a three-day reading clinic Aug. 10, 11 and 12 at West Texas State University in Canyon.

Dr. Henry P. Smith, University of Kansas, speaker, will address the opening day's session on "The Psychology of Learning to Read."

Dr. George Spache of the University of Florida, will address the second day session on "Reasoning in Reading."

Also addressing the clinic will be Marjorie Martin of the Corpus Christi Public School system.

There are nine major proposals on the disarmament conference table and the views of both East and West are well known. The two sides are deadlocked on all nine of the issues, mostly over Western demands for policing any agreement. Russia flatly refuses to allow inspections and the West is equally unwilling simply to accept the Kremlin's word that it will not cheat. Result: Deadlock.

The Geneva conference recessed last September. The members are the United States, Britain, Italy, Canada, Russia, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Romania, Brazil, Mexico, Burma, India, Nigeria, Ethiopia, the United Arab Republic and Sweden.

Employe of U.S. Aid Mission in South Viet Nam Confesses to Slaying

SAIGON (UPI)—An employe of the U.S. aid mission in South Viet Nam has confessed to the slaying of his American chief and a pretty Vietnamese woman, a Vietnamese government spokesman said. The case was described as a crime of passion. The suspect was identified as Robert Kimball, 36, of Salt Lake City, Utah. The victims were Jack Ryan, 44, a senior U.S. aid official, and Mrs. Nguyen Thi Hai, 27, an aid mission employe. Ryan was shot to death on the front lawn of his Saigon home shortly before midnight Friday. Mrs. Hai's body was nearby. Kimball was arrested Sunday. The U.S. Embassy had described him as "the prime suspect" in the double-slaying, reported by Nguyen Ngoc Linh, an official government spokesman. A spokesman for the American Embassy said Kimball "agreed to a psychiatric examination (to be) jointly conducted by U.S. and Vietnamese authorities." The statement indicated that Kimball would enter a plea of temporary insanity if the Vietnamese government elects to charge him with murder.

FFA Offices In Houston, Ft. Worth To Open Soon

AUSTIN (UPI)—New Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) offices in Fort Worth and Houston will begin operation early in September. U.S. John Tower's Texas office announced today.

The junior senator said the Fort Worth office will be housed at the present regional headquarters (on Hastet Rd.). He said offices are being renovated for more than 100 employes to staff the new operation. Regional operations will continue at the same site, Tower said. Houston offices will be located at the Bradley Building (on Telephone Rd.) at the international airport, Tower said. He said the FAA will begin relocating equipment and personnel to the new office next month and will eventually have more than 100 workers in the new offices.

The White House was first wired for electricity in 1892.

Flowing Evening Gowns Shown as New Fashions

By ALINE MOSBY
PARIS (UPI)—Flowing chiffon evening gowns bearing one powdered shoulder... slinky floor-length dresses slit to the knee: such were the touches of new glamour presented today to buyers and the press at the style show of designer Pierre Balmain.

Ever since designer Cristobal Balenciaga tried a bare shoulder gown last year, and Jacqueline Kennedy put one on the front pages, the idea has been catching on.

Balmain, the dresser of queens and film stars, tried the naked shoulder with a short heavy white silk evening dress. Two of his willowy models also paraded by in flowing chiffon long gowns, one in red and the other black. One shoulder was bare and the other decorated with a velvet bow. Those slit skirts that provocatively bared the leg to just above the knee came in clinging high-necked crepes such as one in red, topped by a tailored jacket, that showed every bone and muscle in the model's body. Another floor length gown that had the fashion press applauding had an orange beaded, high-necked top and slim deep olive green skirt slit to the knee, the slit edged with the orange beads.

Still another winner: A floor-length bright orange wool coat, tailored like a boy's jacket, with brown mink collar and cuffs. Underneath was an ivory-colored wool gown also cut to show the leg to the knee. Real Fashion

After Monday's showings of zippy, young fashions set to "yeah yeah" music, Balmain's usually elegant collection had the air of real fashion. It's difficult to report any major trends from a Balmain show because the master changes styles only slightly. His clothes are timeless and bought by the very, very rich.

Even Balmain's mannequins—mostly tall and English—are taught to look rich, with a slight "who cares?" air as they saunter through his ivory salon. One, for example, wearing a cocktail dress of bands of black velvet and chiffon, casually dragged a $10,000 black velvet coat lined with black fox fur on the floor. Get the idea?

Rocky Gives GOP Governor's 'Okay'

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York Monday described fellow governors in Michigan and Pennsylvania as "outstanding exemplars" of the kind of Republicanism which could lead the GOP back to majority status. Having declared himself out of any future race for the presidency, he told a news conference that it was too early to tell who would emerge as the dominant leaders of the party. He made these statements in amplifying his explanation for his own firm disclaimer of presidential ambitions. Told that some governors felt he might change his mind, he said: "Hope or fear? When I said it, I meant it." Rockefeller said debate in the 1964 pre-convention campaign was concentrated on individuals—him and Barry M. Goldwater.

BREW TEA TOO
SEAFORD, England (UPI) — Burglars brewed tea while cutting their way into a jewelry store from a dentist's office above. The used tea bags were found by police.

The mudskipper is a bony fish which can crawl out of the water and bask in the sun on a rock. Often mudskippers are left high and dry for many hours between tides. When out of water they breathe air, using a flap-covered chamber for this purpose. Mudskippers are also believed to absorb oxygen from the water through the tail.

Dear Abby.... 40-Year-Old Mama's Boy Is Too Young to Marry

DEAR ABBY: My boy friend's mother has spent the past 30 years convincing him that she has a serious heart condition. I am sure she is just putting on an act to get attention from Gene. She's been a widow for years, and Gene is her only "child." (A 40-year-old child!) She shovels coal for the furnace, can out-shout anyone in an argument, and runs up and down stairs like a teen-ager. I have dated Gene for three years, but have been invited to his mother's home only once. I tried to make her like me, but when she and her son are together they act like there's nobody else in the room.

I love this guy enough to accept her for a mother-in-law, but first I have to convince Gene that he and his mother don't really need each other. He says when she goes, he'll get everything, which I understand is quite a lot. She's only 61 but will probably live to be 100. From this letter I guess I sound as bad as she is, but believe me, I've made a "hit" with the mothers of every other fellow I've dated. I'm domestic, sincere, intelligent, mature and good-looking. I know Gene loves me, but what about this mother problem?

DEAR ABBY: My wife works in an office. For years, just to keep peace in the family, I have put up with the office Christmas party, to which no husbands or wives are invited.

Now something new has started. The office birthday party! The girls in the office bake cakes for the men. The other day my wife's boss asked her to bake a cake for his office birthday party. Now, Abby, am I wrong to object to my wife baking for another man? I feel if the boss wants someone to bake him a birthday cake he should ask his own wife to bake it for him. Am I wrong?

ANTI-OFFICE PARTIES
DEAR ANTI: Yes. Probably the boss' wife is a poor cook and your wife could be stirring up both a cake — and a raise.

DEAR ABBY: What should you do if you meet a boy somewhere and he says he would like to take you out. And you say you can't because you don't know him. Then he says, "How are you going to get to know me if you don't go out with me?" I am 15 and am stuck for an answer.

STUCK
DEAR STUCK: It all depends on where you meet. If you meet him with mutual friends, inquire about him. A person's reputation is a fairly good clue to his character. If his reputation is good, invite him to your home so you can get to know him better. If you meet him on a street corner and know nothing about him, he may be perfectly all right, but it's not worth the gamble.

CONFIDENTIAL TO AGGRAVATED MOM: It's not worth getting an ulcer over. If she doesn't clean her room, rake it once a week and forget it.

OHIO
DEAR OHIO: You'll never convince Gene that he and his mother don't "need" each other. They do. Let his mother have him and try to find a man who's free. Gene isn't.

DEAR ABBY: My wife works in an office. For years, just to keep peace in the family, I have put up with the office Christmas party, to which no husbands or wives are invited.

Now something new has started. The office birthday party! The girls in the office bake cakes for the men. The other day my wife's boss asked her to bake a cake for his office birthday party. HAVE PARIS FLAVOR — Dresses this fall are both softly pretty and wearable. Marie McCarthy designs the two-piece dress (left) for the Larry Aldrich collection. It is in royal blue wool jersey. Semi-fitted pullover top has bat sleeves, no collar. Skirt is dirndl. Branel uses tree-bark crepe in wood rose for the late day dress (center).

Paris Flavor Seen In Fashion for Fall

By HELEN HENNESSY
Women's Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
NEW YORK (NEA) — This fall's New York fashion collections are especially rewarding. Everything shown is beautiful, feminine and wearable.

The flavor of Paris is apparent in the smocked tops and shirred backs of many of the dresses (a la St. Laurent). And the chemise, still with us in the guise of the smock dress, takes on the narrower shape and long sleeves seen in the spring Paris showings.

Wool, crepe, silk bark and jersey are fabric favorites. Colors are so vibrant you can almost feel them — persimmon, Bristol blue, flame red and magenta, to mention a few.

Midnight blue and gray take a firm stand, too. Black and brown is once more a popular combination and paisleys are strong again in sheer wools.

Skirts stay at or above the knee, but have lots of motion in flares and bias cuts.

The princess line is strong and, once again, the shirt dress is important.

One new silhouette, the "more-midriff" look, drops the waistline and flares the skirt. Another, the medieval monk dress, has long, flared sleeves and easy shaping. This can be worn with or without a belt.

Watch for kimono sleeves; they will be important this fall. As in coats and suits, dress waistslines sometimes wander. But in the main, the waist stays where nature put it.

MATURE PARENT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: A child in our neighborhood had a birthday party several days ago. The first I heard of it was when my little girl came home crying to tell me that the child's mother told her to go home when she tried to get into the party because she had not been invited. She showed me the present she had prepared for this woman's daughter — a toy lamp from her doll house wrapped in facial tissue and tied with a hair ribbon. Did you ever hear of such unkindness to a child in your life?

ANSWER: Yes, I have. I have read "The Tale of Peter Rabbit." Remember how this child rabbit got chased away by Mr. McGregor from the lettuce bed to which he'd not been invited. Like your child, Peter was also shaken by this first encounter with unkindness. His mother, well acquainted with the existence of Mr. McGregors in the world, didn't carry on as though Peter's discovery of them was catastrophe, though she comforted him, she also said to him in effect, "Now you know about the Mr. McGregors who've got it in for little rabbits. And you will stop expecting them to invite you into their lettuce beds."

Getting hurt by other people is as much a part of human living as getting chased by Mr. McGregors is part of rabbit living. If we human parents feel horror at this truth, we communicate our horror to the hurt child, giving him the impression that the world has chosen him to be its special victim of persecution — an impression which can only induce fear and hate of it in him.

So what unsentimental parents in these situations say is, "Crying and feeling hurt is fine. Because hurt happens to every one. It will happen to you again. People will hurt you again just as you will hurt them. I won't if I can help it. And this is one of the nice things in the world — that I love you and daddy does. Who else does? Let's count them. I think aunt Lila loves you. Who else can you think of?"

When we make catastrophe out of a child's experience of hurt, we expose ourselves to the charge of overprotectiveness. The chances are, we were overprotected ourselves. And that our parents' need to be regarded as souls of kindness made us feel so ashamed of our hurt when they treated us unkindly that we lost our ability to feel comfortable with it.

RUTH MILLETT

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
 "When a wife holds down an outside job should her husband share the housework with her—fifty-fifty?" asks a working wife who reads this column.

The answer to that, of course, depends on why a wife is working. If she is working just because she wants to and not from necessity, then she is expecting a lot from her husband if she expects him to pitch in every night to help her do the household chores she could have done during the day if she were a full-time homemaker.

But if a wife is working because she wants to and not from cause she and her husband have agreed that her check is a necessity or important to the couple's living standard and if she works as many hours a week as her husband does — dividing up the housework is only fair.

It doesn't make any sense for a woman to work eight hours in an office (the same eight hours her husband works at his job) and then come home and start in on the housework while her husband settles down in his easy chair to read the evening paper and watch television—or amuses himself by puttering around in his workshop or fooling around with a hobby.

If she settles for that lopsided division of labor she is being shortsighted. For sooner or later she will resent being the overworked and underappreciated member of the family—whether she brings her resentment out into the open or keeps silent in order to keep peace.

So when a husband and wife talk things over and agree that a job for the wife as well as one for the husband is important to the family—that is the time when they should also go on to figure out how the job of housemaking is to be handled. If the husband doesn't bring up the subject of "Who does the housework?" his wife should. A man who expects his wife to earn a pay check has no business taking the attitude that housework is woman's work. It's woman's work if the husband earns the living—but it should be a shared responsibility when the wife is earning a living.

FOR CHILDREN ONLY

The family with two or three small children should have a baby's medicine chest. In this go-medications specifically designed for a child. Include special thermometers, adhesive tape for sensitive skin, small gauze pads. House these in a shoebox, placed out of reach of small hands or in an area of an adult medicine chest set aside for the children.

TAKE A HAT ON TRIP

Even though you may feel it is unnecessary to take along a hat when you go on a vacation trip, you never know when the unexpected occasion may crop up when you would be happier if you had one with you. So why not slip one of the pretty summer collapsible print hat into your suitcase and be prepared?

School and You

By SUSAN LIGHT

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR MRS. LIGHT: Several times in the past I have found myself disagreeing with your solutions to school problems. I would therefore be interested in knowing the extent of your experience in school matters.

ANSWER: I am always glad to receive comments and opinions from readers, regardless of whether they agree or disagree with me. So often the viewpoint depends on the shoes the viewer is in. In giving advice, I try to take a practical, helpful approach, tackling the problem realistically rather than idealistically.

As for the extent of my experience in school matters, I'll have to go back more years than I like to count. My father was a high school principal, and several of my relatives were elementary principals or teachers. I grew up hearing them "talk shop."

After receiving my B. S. and M. A. degrees, I taught junior high school English. During my daughter's early school years, I substituted in all grades and subjects from kindergarten through senior high. When she entered high school, I returned to full-time teaching. Following an assignment in a private girls' academy, I took a position as a first grade teacher in a public suburban school, where I will begin my fourth year this fall.

From a parent's angle, I have been a room mother twice, a member of the PTA Board and a common garden-variety mother in anxiously following my daughter's progress through school. Our next-door neighbor has been a member of the local school board for several years, so I've heard school problems discussed from the varying standpoints of teachers, administrators, board members, students and parents. Which one are you?

DEAR MRS. LIGHT: We have had several requests for the School Health Education Study Summary Report as a result of your recent column.

We are most appreciative for the accurate and perceptive response you gave to the "alarmed mother."

EYE BEAUTY — Mature women need muted eye make-up. Work for a natural shape of eyebrow by brushing the brows upward with a regular eyebrow brush to get the desired arch. Apply a brush-on shade with an applicator (left) designed to follow the brow and taper to a finer point at the outer edge. For mascara (right) select shades that soften black tones and use two applications for lasting power.

PRESERVE YOUR TAN — You can wash your tan away. The cream helps prevent surface flaking and fading of your skin (which comes off when you bathe), apply a dry skin cream after you shower. The cream helps prevent surface dryness and thus checks aging weather lines. Select one that is nongreasy.

The Doctor Says:

by WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT
 Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
 It is sometimes said of a man that he is his own worst enemy. This is never more true than when he has one of the so-called autoimmune diseases.

When antibodies were first discovered they were defined as protective substances produced in the blood to combat a foreign substance which might be a germ (infection) or a protein (allergy.) These antibodies were powerful weapons in the development of immunity and no one thought for a moment that any kind of antibody could harm the person in whom it was produced.

It now appears that many diseases are the result of antibodies built up against our own tissues. These are called autoimmune diseases and we still do not know very much about how most of them develop. To further confuse the issue, it has been shown that a person may have autoantibodies in his blood and still not have any tissue damage as a result.

This makes it hard to give a precise definition of autoimmune diseases but they have been found to be characterized by an increase in the gamma globulin (itself an immunizing substance) in the blood; improvement when the cortisone group of drugs is given; and, in many persons, the appearance of more than one of these disease cases.

Although authorities are in perfect agreement, the following diseases are generally believed to belong in this class: thyroiditis (Hashimoto's disease), pernicious anemia, hemolytic (blood-destroying) anemia especially when caused by certain drugs, ulcerative colitis, myasthenia gravis, certain forms of purpura, lupus erythematosus especially when caused by certain drugs, rheumatoid arthritis and cirrhosis of the liver.

Foreign News Commentary

By JOHN A. CALLCOTT
GENEVA (UPI)—The United States is not talking about just a few nations in warning that it soon may be too late to control the size of the "nuclear club."

Official American estimates place at 12 or more the number of countries which could develop their own atomic arms within one or two years. These countries range from the Near East to Asia, from Europe to South America. Nearly all are in world trouble spots.

American disarmament officials are sure the Soviets share their deep concern over the alarming number of countries which could soon acquire their own nuclear weapons and the threat to the world interest in any such development.

Seek Agreement
For this reason the United States hopes Moscow is now prepared—at the 17 nation disarmament conference now being resumed here—to sign an agreement preventing a further growth in membership in the "nuclear club" that now consists of the United States, Russia, Britain, France and Red China.

Nations with the potential capability of developing their own atomic arms are divided into two categories — those which could do it quickly and those which would need a little more time.

In the first group are Japan, India, Sweden, Italy, Canada, Israel and West Germany.

Those in the second category are Brazil, Switzerland, Spain, Yugoslavia and Egypt.

That makes 12 countries. A possible 13th is Pakistan.

The Soviet Union particularly fears any move by West Germany, West Germany, on the other hand, is worried less it impair its security by staying out of the nuclear club.

The United States at the disarmament conference last year spent a lot of time on the subject of nuclear proliferation. This remains at the very top of American and other Western proposals as the conference resumes.

Change In Attitude?

Officials admit there is no indication from Moscow to date that Russia will drop its condition for a non-proliferation treaty. The Soviets maintained last year, and still do, that a Western, multilateral nuclear force or anything similar would amount to indirect proliferation. Such plans must therefore be abandoned if there's to be any agreement this time.

What the West will look for in these new talks is a change in this Soviet attitude in view of recent Western suggestions.

The West is suggesting a non-proliferation agreement which would block out a nuclear force for the time being. If and when such a force were created, ways could be sought to fit it into the agreement's provisions. Or Russia could use an escape clause to negate the treaty.

It appears questionable whether Russia will accept this although officials feel certain the Soviets will be interested.

Aussies May Return New U.S. Ambassador's Love

Editor's Note: Following is an Australian reporter's view of the new U.S. ambassador designate to Australia, Edward Clark. In an exclusive interview with Clark, United Press International reporter Henry Keys found him to be a surprisingly different man to the one he had read about.

By HENRY KEYS
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that he thought Australians would "love" the new U.S. ambassador, Edward Clark. He was right; they almost certainly will. If so, they will be returning a compliment. Clark loves Australians.

"To use a Texas expression," he says, "they are the kind of people you can afford to 'ride the river with.'"

"They are a strong people, staunch, tried and true. They have great courage. They believe in the same things we do and will play their part as we will play ours."

Clark, like his native Texas and the country he is going to, is a big man by any standard physically 6 feet, 240 pounds financially he counts his dollars in the millions and politically the "closest of friends" with President Johnson for close on 30 years.

Clark celebrated his 59th birthday only last week. At first meeting, he seems to be older, possibly because of his tall man's habit of stooping to give polite attention to smaller mortals.

Clark cut a very different figure to that painted of him when President Johnson first announced his nomination. Then he was described as a man who delighted in the loudest of clothes—brilliant hued shirts and ties, suits and socks to match.

When he appeared before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, he wore a quiet, slightly rumpled, slate-gray business suit and shirt.

Clark said he just couldn't understand the source of the story of his colorful shirts.

Only White Shirts
"Twenty years ago, before World War II, when I was around 40, I used to wear more lively clothes than these," he said. "But, today, I don't have a single shirt other than white shirts, mostly whites, or muted,

Television In Review

By ROBERT MUSEL
United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI) — Bill Unsold lost nine toes in the conquest of Mt. Everest. But the other day he strapped his climbing shoes on for the first time since he nearly froze to death on the roof of the world and took his two children to the top of Mount Hood and down again.

And although his feet were understandably tender after more than two years of resting—except the loyal little toe of his right foot—he took the time to disclose that an American expedition is planning perhaps the most perilous feat in mountaineering history.

It is asking the Nepalese government for permission to try the "impossible" south face of the world's highest mountain—a breath-taking effort that will involve spending at least one night suspended from spikes driven into the sheer 8,000-foot wall of rock below the freezing summit.

"It will make the kind of climbing we have been doing look like kid stuff," Unsold said.

But although he meant it sincerely Dr. Unsold, deputy Peace Corps administrator of Nepal, is being modest as the nation will be able to see for itself when CBS-TV screens "Americans On Everest," an hour-long color special presented by the National Geographic Society on Sept. 10 (7:30-8:30 EDT).

NAMED TO FACULTY

AUSTIN (UPI) — Raymond Vowell has been named vice chancellor for federal and state affairs at the University of Texas. He left the State Board for Hospitals and Special Schools earlier this year to take a legislative liaison post with the school Board of regents chairman W. W. Heath and university chancellor Dr. Harry Ransom announced Vowell's promotion Monday.

One of the largest salt plants in the nation is located at Grand Saline in Van Zandt County, Texas.

KILLED IN ACCIDENT

ARLINGTON (UPI) — A Miss Texas during the early 1920s was killed Monday when a Texas & Pacific passenger train slammed into her car, trapped in a line of other vehicles. The victim was Mrs. O. W. Kellum, 60, of Grand Prairie, the former Miss Sybil Bush. Her 17-year-old granddaughter, Mrs. Brenna Craig got out of the car, just before the crash.

FIRE TRUCK USED

WHITEHOUSE, Tex. (UPI) — City officials at Whitehouse, bothered by a breakdown in the city water pump twice in 72 hours, have pushed one of two new fire trucks into service. The fire truck pump is being used to pump water from a new well into the water system, giving the residents 200,000 gallons per day they need.

INDICT BANK WORKER

TYLER (UPI) — A grand jury has indicted Butler McClung, the only employe of the Winona, Tex., State Bank on nine counts of "false entry" in connection with its failure Feb. 5. Police and federal agents accused McClung of embezzling $380,000.

Twins Up Edge With Oriole Win

By United Press International
 Sam Mele sympathized with Don Mincher's request to be traded last spring and told him so.
 The Minnesota manager also told Mincher "no dice" because he had more sympathy for the Twins' desire to win the American League pennant.
 As the Twins' only legitimate first baseman, it became increasingly embarrassing to the 27-year-old left-handed swinger to continue riding the bench and pinch-hitting. And when Mele moved home run king Harmon Killebrew to first base this spring, Mincher saw the handwriting on the wall.
 He was right. Mele has used him sparingly this season, starting the Alabama native only against certain right-handed pitchers in certain parks, and as a replacement for Killebrew in the second game of doubleheaders.
 Monday night was one of those "certain" nights and Mincher, who is averaging a home run every 11.5 times at bat, cracked his 12th roundtripper with two on base to lead the Twins to an 8-2 triumph over Baltimore and increase their league lead to 4½ games.
 In the only other AL contest, Los Angeles trimmed Boston 6-2.
 Killebrew added his 20th homer to the Twins' attack against Milt Pappas, who gave up all eight runs including four unearned tallies. Jim Grant, with relief from Gary Roggenburk in the seventh, won his 11th game against three losses. Jim Fregosi belted his 12th homer and singled home another run as the Angels tripped the Red Sox on George Brunet's six-hit pitching. Former Red Sox outfielder Lou Clinton tripped and scored the decisive run on a single by Bob Rodgers in the eighth and Vic Power singled home two more in the four-run inning. Dave Morehead (5-11) was the loser.

Milwaukee, Braves Take It to Court

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Milwaukee officials reacted with out apparent alarm to the Milwaukee Braves' surprise federal court suit Monday, aimed at blocking the county's planned antitrust action against the National League baseball club.
 The suit seeks a declaratory judgment that the Braves are legally free to play in Atlanta next season, and asks that county officials and Wisconsin Atty. Gen. Bronson La Follette be enjoined from instituting litigation against the club.
 Milwaukee County has been preparing a federal antitrust suit against the Braves and major league baseball concerning the Braves' league-approved move to Atlanta in 1966. Robert P. Russell, county corporation counsel, said he did not believe the Braves' petition would interfere with the county's planned legal action.
 The county plans to file its action Aug. 5, Russell said, and the court has not issued a temporary restraining order which would block litigation by the county.
 Dale Ihlenfeldt, Milwaukee federal court clerk, said no date has been set for a hearing on the Braves' petition, but that it probably will come before Judge Kenneth P. Grubb. Court sources said an immediate hearing was not necessary, and that the Braves' suit may not be decided before the fall.
 The aim of the county's antitrust action is to either keep the Braves here, or force baseball into immediate major league expansion which would give Milwaukee a new franchise.

LL All-Stars Play Tonight

Northern League managers "Bull" Froge and "Weakeyes" Jones of the pennant-winning Your Laundry team, announced the all-star roster this morning. The team representing the NL will tangle Wednesday with the winner of tonight's game between the Eastern and Western League stars, which will be played at Park II at 8 p.m.
 The all-star tourney will be a double-elimination affair, with the loser of tonight's game meeting the loser of tomorrow night's game Friday night. The winner of that game plays Saturday night against the winner of Wednesday's game. If necessary, there will be a playoff the following week.

CHICAGO (UPI) — Dean Refram of Medinah, Ill., picked up $2,200 Monday in the $10,000 Lincolnshire Open, which sponsors claim is golf's richest one-day tourney.
 Refram and Bill Ogden of Chicago were deadlocked with 138 apiece after 18 holes, six under par. They remained tied until the second extra hole, when Refram had a birdie and Ogden a par 4 to give the latter the $1,000 second money.

NOW FOR THE BIRDS

Football Players In Hassles

By United Press International
 Club officials in both the National and American football leagues are making their first lessons of the season costly ones.
 Veteran players who reported to the various training camps in the last few days hardly had a chance to exchange their swimming trunks for battle helmets before several of them were faced with the prospect of losing money faster than they could ever earn it.
 Cookie Gilchrist, always a fast number on the playing field, once again was leading the pack. The 6-3, 251-pound fullback ran into an awesome block on Monday after he told officials of the Denver Broncos that he would play only with the Oakland Raiders. Gilchrist, one of the highest-priced players in the AFL, has a $35,000 contract with Denver.
 Empire Sports Inc., which operates the Broncos, hit Gilchrist with a $400,000 breach of contract suit and Denver Coach Mac Speedie warned Cookie he wouldn't be traded to Oakland under any circumstances.
Sample Suspended
 Another prominent player to run into early trouble was Johnny Sample, defensive back of the Washington Redskins, who was suspended indefinitely by the National League Club for a series of training camp violations.
 Steve Stonebreaker of the NFL's Baltimore Colts escaped lightly compared to the fate of Gilchrist and Sample. The linebacker ended a one-day self-imposed retirement Monday because he said he couldn't afford the $100 a day fine imposed on him until he settled his contract.
 In other news from the training camps:
 Billy Joe, the big fullback who was traded to the AFL's Buffalo Bills for Gilchrist, put on an impressive performance for his new teammates.
King Traded
 Veteran halfback Phil King was traded from the National League's Pittsburgh Steelers to the Minnesota Vikings in exchange for a future draft choice while the Philadelphia Eagles asked waivers on 10-year defensive specialist Don Burroughs.

Dodgers Add to National Lead

By United Press International
 The Braves have a 21-year-old left-hander dedicated to preserving the 20-victory tradition advanced by Warren Spahn.
 His name is Wade Blasingame, a $100,000 bonus baby who roomed with the 44-year-old Spahn part of last season at Milwaukee. The arrangement was made so that the youngster could absorb as much pitching advice as possible from the most successful southpaw in major league history.
 Whatever knowledge Spahn imparted to Blasingame must have been valuable, because the kid has become the ace left-hander of the Braves staff, a position Spahn held for two decades.
 Blasingame, with an excellent opportunity to become the first 20-game winner on the Milwaukee staff since Spahn turned the trick in 1963, shut out the Houston Astros 6-0 Monday night on five hits for his 12th victory and ninth complete game.
 In other National League games, Los Angeles extended its league lead to two games with a 5-4 victory over Cincinnati and St. Louis defeated San Francisco 7-4 in the only other game scheduled.
 Joe Torre smashed his 19th homer, a triple and a single to drive in four runs and Felipe Alou homered and tripled to make Blasingame's task much easier.

Bragan Suggests Spitter To Pep Up Baseball Games

HOUSTON (UPI) — Milwaukee Braves Manager Bobby Bragan had some suggestions today for pepping up baseball — legalize the spitball, make the umpires work games of both leagues, and make teams finish rainouts the next day.
 "There are 10 or 20 spitballers in the National League alone," Bragan told a news conference Monday. "If you legalize the spitball, it would just eliminate the psychological advantage it gives them over the hitters." He said suspecting a pitcher may throw a spitball gets a hitter more off balance than if the pitch were legal and there were no question.
 As for umpires, "they should combine National League and American League umpires under one commissioner," Bragan said. "It makes better umpires when you don't have to look at them too long. This also would make the strike zone uniform — it wouldn't be here (a gesture to his shoulder) in one league and here (he levels his hand chest high) in the other."
 Bragan said if rainouts were ordered completed the next day, umpires and players alike would be more reticent to have a game called because of rain.
 The wisecracking Braves manager said his team is still within good striking distance of the pennant in "a tough league in which any team can knock you off." He said the Braves could get a good surge if they sweep the series with Houston, because they have to face San Francisco and Los Angeles after that.

Mets Choose Westrum As Interim Boss

NEW YORK (UPI) — Casey Stengel, the young at heart manager of the New York Mets who celebrates his 75th birthday on Friday, faced an operation on his left hip today that was expected to hospitalize him for "at least three weeks" and possibly curtail his colorful baseball career.
 Dr. Peter Lamotte, team physician for the National League club was scheduled to perform a "hip prosthesis" on Stengel at Roosevelt Hospital. The operation involved placing a metal ball at the head of the bone where the socket meets the hip joint.
 "The reason I'll do it this way rather than perform a metal pinplate operation is that it will enable Casey to walk earlier," Lamotte said Monday. "If Stengel were a younger man, I would be inclined to do a pin-type operation."
 The fact that Stengel is not a "younger man" added a serious tone to the surgery. Stengel fractured his hip getting out of an automobile early Sunday morning, the day of a planned premature birthday party for the skipper at Shea Stadium.
 It was the second serious accident of the year for Stengel who earlier in the season fell and broke his right wrist prior to a Mets exhibition game at West Point.
 Stengel was expected to recuperate at his Glendale, Calif., home after his stay in the hospital and there was no indication as to when the colorful manager would return to the club.
 Former catcher Wes Westrum, who had no previous managerial experience, was Stengel's choice as interim manager during his convalescence.

Spurs Sunk Into Sonics

By United Press International
 The Spurs of Dallas - Fort Worth clipped Amarillo's Sonics 4-3 Monday night to pull a full game ahead of Tulsa's Oilers for the lead of the Texas League's eastern division.
 Runner-up Tulsa was bested 5-4 by Western Division leading Albuquerque, despite three errors by the Dodgers.
 In the other game, Austin whipped El Paso 5-3 in a 10-hit attack. Dave Torgerson slugged a bases-empty home run for the Sun Kings in the eighth. It was the only homer of the night in league play.
 Tonight's schedule has Austin at El Paso, Tulsa at Albuquerque and Amarillo at Dallas-Fort Worth.

By JEFF COHANE
 THIS SCRIBE and coach Norman Phillips, due to leaving this area, wish to announce that we relinquish control of the Pampa Track Club with the close of the present summer track season.
 AS PRESIDENT and coach, respectively, we formed the Pampa Track Club in 1963, with William Power as vice-president and Weldon Trice as secretary. We would like to announce that we are relinquishing our offices to coach "Doc" Bates of Skellytown and coach E. J. "Jeep" Webb of Pampa, with the recommendation that the other officers be retained in their present positions.
 THE PAMPA TRACK club was formed solely as a non-profit, amateur track club, to enable any youngsters from Pampa and neighboring communities who wished to, to participate in the summer track and field program without fear of loss of school or amateur eligibility. The PTC is a dues-paying member of the National Track and Field Association, and duly registered with the United States Track and Field Federation, the West Texas branch of the Amateur Athletic Union and the Texas Amateur Athletic Federation. It has also been specifically approved by the Texas University Interscholastic League for high school athletes.
 ALL FUNDS for the PTC have been donated by the officers and members themselves from their personal funds, and from various civic and community organizations and public-minded firms and individuals. The majority of the funds for the PTC have been donated by the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce, to whom we express our sincere gratitude, also by such organizations as the Pampa Lions Club and the Canadian Junior Chamber of Commerce. All funds received have been used solely for the purpose of paying club expenses toward equipping and sending youngsters from Pampa, White Deer, Skellytown, Lefors, Canadian, Wheeler and other Top O' Texas communities to USTFF, AAU and TAAF-sanctioned track meets.
 THE PTC has carefully observed the rules of amateur sport according to the T.I.L., AAU and USTFF, and to the best of our knowledge, has never violated any law or caused any athlete to suffer any penalty due to running in the summer track program.
 WE FEEL that Bates and Webb will continue to run the PTC as such an organization, giving any youngster who wishes to, a chance to compete, and recommend that all youngsters currently registered with the PTC continue to do so.
 IN CASE any youngster wishes to discontinue running for the Pampa Track Club and wishes to run with any other amateur track organization, we herewith give our release from the PTC to any member who wishes it, and our permission to run as an independent or with any other recognized amateur track team.
 AS A FINAL note, we wish to give our sincere thanks to all those who have helped with the program and our best wishes for a very successful future career to all those youngsters who have competed for us in the past three years.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Senior Citizens' Lobbying

Although the administration's medical care bill for the aged appears certain to pass Congress, a pressure group that was formed specifically to work for its passage has no intention of closing up shop and disappearing from the national scene. Instead, the National Council of Senior Citizens plans to remain in existence and push for additional federal aid programs for the elderly. It recently held its fourth annual convention and adopted an ambitious legislative program.

It claims a membership of two million elderly persons in the various local "golden ring" and senior citizens clubs affiliated with it. It sees itself as the major national spokesman for the nations older citizens — the focal point of their efforts to obtain favorable government programs.

The council's immediate goal was completion of action on the omnibus medical care bill for the aged, which also contains a 7 per cent increase in monthly Social Security old-age benefits.

Beyond that, the council's top legislative objectives are provision of an additional 8 per cent boost in monthly Social Security old-age benefits (on top of the 7 per cent being provided in the current bill) and passage of federal legislation to create large-scale new housing and nursing care facilities for the elderly.

The group is also pledged to work for a reduction of the voluntary retirement age under Social Security to 60; a boost in the minimum Social Security benefit for widows to $100 a month and in the minimum benefit for couples to $200 a month; and other Social Security increases.

Other federal legislation it is backing includes the Older American Act, creating a special administration of the aging within the Department of Health, Education and Welfare; the fair packaging and labeling bill sponsored by Sen. Philip A. Hart (D-Mich.); and the regional health center bill passed by the Senate June 28.

The council also strongly favors integration of older persons into anti-poverty programs such as the "domestic Peace Corps." It has complained that some of the anti-poverty programs are too youth-oriented.

The council was first formed in 1961 by ex-leaders of the Senior Citizens for Kennedy organization that had operated during the 1960 Presidential campaign. At the time of its creation, the council had the name "National Council of Senior Citizens for Health Care Through Social Security."

On several recent occasions the council persuaded radio and television stations to give it free time to answer broadcasts against the "medicare" bill made by the American Medical Assn.

Could Cut $5 Billion More

The budget slashers are not doing so good! The House of Representatives, in dealing with appropriation requests amounting to $68.6 billion thus far, reports the Council of State Chambers of Commerce, "has made real cuts of only $900 million, or about one percent." Further more, the Council assures us, the Senate will restore a sizeable wad of these shavings!

Hopefully, however, Eugene F. Rinta, director of research, observes that the $9 billion of budget requests that remain to be considered "are much more susceptible to budget cutting than are the major part of the $68.6 billion on which the House has already acted." This remainder includes the regular annual appropriation bills for foreign aid and military construction, public school aid, the expanded war on poverty and some minor activities in the public works program and HEW that seek only a few hundred millions apiece.

Pull Up A Chair

By Frank Markey

Even British Columbia deer are on a reducing diet these days. At any rate they show a preference for nursery-raised tree seedlings as against the wild growth young trees. Foresters believe the nitrogen fertilizer applied to the nursery seedlings make the conifers' needles protein-rich and tastier. Unfertilized wild seedlings have starchier needles, high in carbohydrates. And starches are fattening, as everyone knows. Browsing deer prefer to feed on the nursery-grown trees, but in a few minutes of nibbling they can set back a tree's growth five years. To protect the forest management program the foresters are thinking of setting out buckets of Mefrecal for the diet-conscious Bambis.

Today's smile: A city slicker vacationing in a small town in Vermont said to the proprietor of the general store: "I understand they have a curfew law here." "No, they did have one, but they abolished it. They used to blow the fire whistle at 9 o'clock and everyone complained because it woke them up."

Maybe we're missing something, but we've never been to a Discotheque, which we understand is the newest version of a night club featuring phonograph music and "live" entertainment. Back in the good old days we had such lively spots in New York as the Silver Slipper, the Club Durant and Jack White's Club 18. Just to mention a few. The names of some of the new spots in Chicago, where the discotheque fad struck recently, outdo anything in the old days and positively intrigue us. Imagine telling your wife on her night out that you're going to take her to such places as the Whiskey A Go-Go or Happy Medium's Downstage Lounge or to The Pussycat?

Thoughts while shaving: All Governors are called "His Excellency," but the President of the United States and the chief executive of Massachusetts are the only ones possessing that title by legislative act. A Pennsylvania reader asks the derivation of the word "electricity." Dr. William Gilbert, physician to the first Queen Elizabeth in 1601, invented the word when he produced static electricity by rubbing a piece of amber with a cloth. He derived the name from "elektron," the Greek word for "amber."

Now that Michelangelo's "Pieta" has made a successful trip from the Vatican in Rome to the New York World's Fair, Britain's Royal Academy of Arts is sending its prize possession, another of the Italian master's works — The Madonna and Child with the Infant St. John — on a world tour. Shipping such masterpieces is a tricky business, but it's the only way most folks would ever get to see them.

A survey revealed applications for college entrance this fall have run 34 per cent ahead of last year and 66 per cent more than two years ago in most of the state universities and land grant colleges. Everyone wants to be educated these days, and after most of them get their degrees they have to attend some other school to learn how to make a living.

Country Editor speaking: "Little boys are growing up when they walk around 'pudles' instead of through them." billion would represent very moderate cutting. But don't expect it. Should it happen, we might gather some hope for fiscal responsibility in Congress. In fact, such a token of maturity should cause dancing in the streets!

More Than 25-Key Informers Have Died Violently, Mysteriously Senate Subcommittee Told in Justice Dept's 4-Year War On Crime

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The federal government is suffering increasing casualties in its war against organized crime.

More than 25 key "informers" have met violent and mysterious deaths since the Justice Department launched its drive four years ago against the nation's top hoodlums.

That's the ominous report Attorney General Nicholas Katzenbach has given the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee probing the illegal use of wiretapping and listening devices by government agencies.

In a major move to stave off congressional action to curb federal law officers' investigative methods, Katzenbach has warned the legislators that the death toll among persons cooperating with U. S. law enforcement officials is the heaviest since the roaring twenties.

"It is difficult for someone who does not regularly see reports of nationwide criminal activity to comprehend fully the toll of violence and death being caused by organized crime," Katzenbach reported. "We have lost more than 25 informants by violent and mysterious accidents in the past four years. We have been unable to bring hundreds of hoodlums to trial because key witnesses would not testify for fear of the same fate."

The government's chief law enforcement officer revealed that Justice Department informers have been "hung from a meat hook in a freezer, tortured and then burned alive."

"In one instance," he pointed out, "the body of an informant, a key witness against organized crime, turned up in a river wearing concrete boots."

FOLLOWING THE LAW — In furnishing these grisly details of gushing underworld terror tactics to the subcommittee, headed by Senator Edward Long, D. Mo., the attorney general assured the legislators that "no matter how brutal organized crime may be, it does not justify the use of improper investigative techniques."

"But I believe its brutality does help explain the intensity of feeling held by the federal agents who deal with it day after day, often risking their own safety to do so," he explained. "It should not be hard to conceive of their frustration when after months or years on a case we find we are forced to dismiss it because a key witness had an 'accident.'"

According to Justice Department aides, Katzenbach gave the subcommittee these heretofore secret figures on casualties among the government's "informers" because of concern that the Senate probers might try to discredit their use by government agencies.

Katzenbach's aides stress that the Attorney General supports the position of FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover that "informers" are vital in the government's war against organized crime.

It's Up To You

By HOWARD KERSHNER

Necessity of Exceptional Men Twenty years ago, I knew a man who was paid what was then considered an enormous salary to take over a business which was already on the verge of bankruptcy. In view of the deplorable conditions of the firm, the critics said it was unthinkable to pay so large a salary. Most of the workers had been laid off, no dividends had been paid for years, the bank was calling its loans, and the bond interest was in arrears.

Nevertheless, the Board of Directors did the extravagant thing of offering an unusually high salary in order to secure the services of an unusually capable man.

The new president took a firm hold on the business. He analyzed the product, improved it, found better ways to advertise and more efficient means of production. In a little while, the public was buying the output. Sales were building up rapidly.

Soon he began to call the idle men back to work. A little later, he was able to service the bank loans and resume the paying of bond interest. In the second year, dividends were resumed.

What was this man worth to that business? Did he earn the salary he received? The bank thought so for their bad loans had become good loans. The idle workers thought so for they were on the payroll again. The public thought so for they were now buying the product.

Exceptional men who can perform such miracles command high salaries. As a rule, they earn them, probably contributing more in proportion to what they receive than ordinary folks like ourselves. Of course, they receive vastly more, but their contributions are vastly more in a real sense, society has been carried forward on the backs of a few exceptionally creative men. Clin their wings, deny them the rewards which they earn, and there will be little reason for them to put forth the extraordinary efforts that often mean the sacrifice of health, pleasure, and comfortable living, and we shall find our progress slowed to a walk if not to a standstill.

To be sure there are a few saints and prophets who are willing to work as hard for the other fellow as most of us are willing to work only for ourselves and our families. It is a good thing to have these kind of people around. We need them, and their contribution toward the well being of society is very great; but in order to support a few saints and prophets of this kind, we have to have many hard working businessmen. Jesus did not object when his disciples broke off the heads of grain to eat as they went along in their missionary work; but a lot of farmers had to stay at home and plant the grain or there would not have been any heads to break off. It takes a lot of these heads of grain and profits from business to finance our schools, colleges, churches, museums, libraries, hospitals, operas, orchestras, and other scientific and cultural manifesta-

CAPITOL EYE:

U.N. Reds Face Wily Opponent in Goldberg

Washington Correspondent By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Justice Arthur Goldberg's publicly voiced reluctance at leaving the Supreme Court for the U. N. ambassadorship cannot hide the abundant evidence that he felt "walled up" in the high court's marble isolation.

Ebullient in spirit, a tireless talker, a prime mover throughout his life, Goldberg never really adjusted to the hushed tones and red velvet that went with the honored post he accepted from President Kennedy in 1962.

Says a labor lawyer who has observed his court tenure closely: "He's done a good, competent job. But he really belongs out with the boys."

Goldberg is an inveterate problem solver. When he has finished solving his own, he likes to plunge — sometimes uninvited — into the handling of other people's difficulties.

If his appointment to the United Nations was a genuine surprise, his leaving the court was not at all stunning to many in labor and law who knew him. Says one such source:

"We felt he could not last in the detached atmosphere of the bench."

Goldberg himself dropped many cues on this score. He heartily disliked the court's long vacations. At the American Bar Association convention in Chicago in 1963, he told assembled lawyers:

"A (labor) secretary's and a labor lawyer's phone never stops ringing. The justice's never does ring. Even his best friends won't call him."

He said he felt his detachment most keenly the week or more of the Cuban crisis in October, 1962. He kept thinking President Kennedy would summon him for help. To the lawyers at Chicago he added:

The Almanac

By United Press International Today is Tuesday, July 27, the 208th day of 1965 with 157 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning stars are Saturn and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Venus and Mars.

Those born today are under the sign of Leo. French dramatist and novelist Alexander Dumas was born on this day in 1824.

On this day in history: In 1919, a serious race riot broke out on the Chicago bathing beach skirting Lake Michigan after a Negro boy was attacked. Thirty-eight persons were killed.

In 1953, the Korean War ended with the signing of an armistice at Panmunjon. The armistice followed the longest truce talks in the history of warfare—two years, 17 days and 575 meetings.

In 1954, Britain and Egypt agreed on terms ending the 72-year English occupation of the Suez Canal Zone.

In 1955, Austria became a neutral and independent nation after 17 years of occupation by foreign troops.

A thought for the day: American statesman Daniel Webster once said, "Whatever makes men good Christians, makes them good citizens."

Wit and Whimsy

If somebody would only discover a cough medicine for radars.

Secretary (to salesgirl at perfume counter) — I'd like something that will bring out the milk in a man without disturbing the wolf.

Advertisement in the Atlanta Journal & Constitution: Nothing is ever really lost until you've advertised in the Atlanta Journal & Constitution.

The efforts of most men are required to produce the wealth necessary to implement the saints, poets, scientists, ministers, and other religious and cultural leaders whose activities mean so much for the benefit of the people. If profits are not available to support these men in their efforts, they will accomplish much less.

"But our phone was silent. And we went about our business of calling the calendar, and judging. . . .

"Right in the midst of it, a messenger arrived with a White House envelope and I thought: 'Well, I'm not entirely out of it. I am sure the President is going to ask my advice now on how we settle the Cuban conflict.'"

"I opened the envelope. . . . and it was a notice from the Office of Emergency Management, giving me my directions as to how I could be evacuated from Washington."

Observers of Goldberg believe President Johnson was fully aware of the justices' discomfort, and may also have known of his hankering to cavort a little on the international stage—among others.

White House sources say the President thought of Goldberg almost immediately as a possible replacement for the late Adlai Stevenson. Johnson's first talk with the justice came a day or so after Stevenson's death in London.

Other announced timetables notwithstanding, it is said the President had largely made up his mind the day before he took Goldberg with him to Stevenson's funeral in Illinois.

The President's contacts with Goldberg over the months have been fairly frequent. Goldberg was on the scene, offering a bit of advice, when Johnson was preparing his convention acceptance speech last August.

As the new U. N. Ambassador, Goldberg will have on a handicap — a rather heavy-handed speaking style. But most who know him think he will nevertheless perform superbly at the United Nations because of his dazzling talents as a negotiator. He is described as a "linker" who gets at the problem of the moment and builds a bridge which often prevents a long-range crisis from ever materializing.

One lawyer says with an admiring laugh: "I almost feel sorry for the Communists. He'll de-trouser them, and they'll stand there smiling, liking him."

This same man thinks Goldberg will have the "brass" to insinuate himself into decision-making more than Stevenson did and won't be hobbled by the 23-mile gap between Washington and New York. He adds: "He'll be the (airline) shuttle's most noted passenger."

BY H. L. HUNT

OBJECTIVE LAW

It is reported that, due to failing health, it may be necessary for Supreme Court Justice John Marshall Harlan to retire. This will give President Johnson his first opportunity to fill a vacancy on the High Court.

The present majority of the Supreme Court is consistent in its unflinching willingness to strike down any provision in law or the Constitution which seems to go contrary to present fashionable theories of "social justice," whatever that may really be. If we are to have checks and balances, the Court must be balanced as soon as possible.

Supreme Court Justices who are not a part of this consistent anti-Constitution majority have not themselves been fully consistent in defense of objective law, which simply means reading the Constitution the way it is written. However, some have occasionally raised their voices against the more flagrant abuse of the High Court's power by the majority of the Court.

Mr. Justice Harlan has sometimes done so, notably in his splendid series of dissents from all the decisions striking down the rights of states to determine the make-up of their own legislatures.

If Mr. Justice Harlan is forced to retire, a new Justice could be appointed in his place to speak consistently for objective law, more consistently than Mr. Justice Harlan has spoken. Those who admire the present Court majority could hardly complain, since their majority will remain intact.

There has not been a consistent advocate of objective law and the constitution on our Supreme Court since 1941. But some such advocates still exist. Appointment of this kind of Justice would be the most statesmanlike choice the President could make.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST

United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The past few days have seen the publication of a couple of interesting surveys about marriage. One survey, by Redbook magazine, disclosed that 9 out of 11 young American husbands might consider having an affair with another woman if the other woman were a beautiful movie star. I didn't find that too surprising. If they already were married to beautiful movie stars, the ratio probably would be 10 out of 11. What did rather surprise me was a survey by pollster Louis Harris dealing with how attentive husbands are to their wives. The wives rated their husbands on such things as remembering anniversaries, helping out with the household chores and handing out compliments. Then the husbands rated themselves.

In many cases, the wives gave higher ratings than the husbands did. Which prompts me to suspect there may have been something wrong with the survey.

I had not previously realized that marital coexistence was such a fertile field for public opinion polls, which are being known for their questionnaires on political subjects. This being an off-season as far as elections are concerned, my own pulse-taking mechanism, the Norey Nellie Public Opinion Polling and Sampling Service, has been in mothballs all year.

But after reading the results of the Redbook and Harris surveys, I decided to reactivate it and join the fun.

Part I (Wives Answer)
1. In which of the following household chores is your husband the most help to you? ( ) Refilling bird-feeder. ( ) Tearing leaves off calendar. ( ) Stamping out forest fires. ( ) Chasing bears away from television set.

2. What is the main source of friction between you and your husband? ( ) Household chores. ( ) Twin Beds ( ) Twin Swimming pools ( ) Affairs with beautiful movie stars.

3. Many wives complain about their husbands being away from home. Is your husband: ( ) Away from home too much? ( ) Not away enough? ( ) Away at the wrong time? ( ) Home at the wrong time?

4. How does your husband rate on remembering anniversaries? ( ) Remembers too late. ( ) Remembers wrong date. ( ) Remembers wrong anniversary. ( ) Remembers wrong wife.

5. When you get dressed up for dinner, do you receive compliments from your husband? ( ) Depends on what I'm wearing. ( ) Depends on what I'm serving.

Part II (Husbands Answer)
1. Which beautiful movie stars did you have in mind? ( )

National Papers Endorsing Heath

LONDON (UPI) — Influential national newspapers today endorsed Edward Heath for new leader of Britain's Conservative party. But a late tender for the job appeared to lessen Heath's chances of winning.

Enoch Powell, prime advocate of uncontrolled private enterprise, Sunday disclosed his candidacy for the post vacated by Sir Alec Douglas - Home's surprise resignation last Thursday.

NEW YORK — Eastman Kodak Co. said earnings in the 12 weeks ended June 13 reached $55,655,068, equivalent to 69 cents a share and up 37 percent from figures for the corresponding period a year earlier. It was a record for any 12-week period, the company noted.

Business Highlights

United Press International
WASHINGTON — Buford Ellinger, director of emergency planning in the federal government, said the nation can handle a Korea-type war in Vietnam without requiring restraint such as rationing or wage controls. In a copyright interview in U.S. News & World Report, a magazine, he said legislation for emergency controls is ready but none sees need for any at this point.

CLEVELAND — The Erie-Lackawanna Railroad reported a net profit for a quarterly period as well as for a six-month period for the first time since their merger in 1960. Net income was $1,952,000 for the second quarter of 1965, against a deficit of $352,000 in the corresponding 1964 period, and net

Other possibilities in the race included shadow Home Secretary, Peter Thorneycroft; former Agricultural Minister Christopher Soames, the late Sir Winston Churchill's son-in-law; and Ian MacLeod, Tory spokesman on the steel industry. MacLeod has said he will not run, but observers suggested he might change his mind.
