Texas Will Join Daylight Saving

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—With a bill to keep Texas on standard time buried by a big vote in the House, the legislative focus switched to the Senate today where a Sunday closing law is up for final passage.

The house voted by a surprise 90-57 margin Tuesday to kill a bill to exempt Texas from daylight saving time when most other states move their clocks up an hour on April 30.

The House vote, following a lively 90-minute debate, settled a growing controversy that had become one of the hottest issues of this legislative session.

The Sunday closing law, which already has passed the House, won tentative approval from a fast gavel by Lt. Gov. Preston Smith two weeks ago. Fillbusters by Sen. A. R. Schwartz of Galveston, the bill's chief opponent, prevented final passage up to this point.

Schwartz promised to resume his talkathon today, and he said he was prepared to talk indefinitely "against this bad, discriminatory legislation."

"All they want to do is close down the discount houses and run them out of business," Schwartz said.

The bill repeals a section of the present Sunday closing law which permits the sale of prohibited items on Sunday providing the purchaser signs an "emergency certificate."

Before turning to the daylight saving time issue Tuesday, the House temporarily rejected Gov. John Connally's bid to give Texas a 4 and other statewide officials four-year terms.

A constitutional amendment to submit the four-year term issue to the voters again in 1968 won approval 94-47, but it needed 100 votes to pass.

Sponsors have one more chance to pick up the other six votes in the House, but a similar bill is still in committee in the Senate.

Rep. Will Smith of Beaumont, chief sponsor of the bill to exempt Texas from the federal Standard Time Act (DST), lamented his defeat in "lobbying" by television networks and other transportation and communications industries.

He charged that the news media confused the issue. To spectators packing the House galleries, he said "this may be the first and only opportunity you have to hear the facts on daylight time."

More Pressure Likely Result of Rejection

Two Outnumbered Platoons Beat Back Red Attack

SAIGON (UPI)—Two outnumbered U.S. Army platoons beat back a Communist assault today in a battle climaxed by an American sergeant hurling a guerrilla satchel charge back into the Viet Cong's faces.

The explosion killed the two guerrillas who had tossed the satchel at the U.S. air cavalrymen. The attacking Communist company fled dragging their dead and wounded into the jungle to end the three-hour fight, American spokesmen said.

The two U.S. platoons, each numbering about 44 men, used only small arms and grenades in fighting off the Communist force of about 150 armed with mortars, automatic weapons and the satchel charge.

The dawn fight in the Central Highlands coastal area about 300 miles north of Saigon capped 24 hours of scattered but bitter ground fighting in South Vietnam and the second greatest American air assault of the year against North Vietnam.

U.S. spokesmen said Air Force, Navy and Marine pilots flew 124 missions against the Communist country Tuesday.

Only once before this year have the Americans flown more missions against North Vietnam, spokesmen said. Bad weather usually limited the attacks.

Tuesday's assault by jet fighter-bombers streaked in despite still "poor" weather, they said.

In the Central Highlands, the two platoons of the U.S. Army 1st Air Cavalry Division came under Communist attack well before dawn at one end of the blood-drenched An Lao Valley, scene of bloody U.S.-Communist jungle clashes for more than a year.

The Communists first lobbed in mortar shells. Then under withering small arms and automatic fire, the guerrillas crawled toward the besieged Americans.

Guerrilla grenades began exploding inside the U.S. defense perimeter. Then two Communists heaved the big satchel charge, a sort of handbag stuffed with explosives.

According to U.S. spokesmen, an American staff sergeant leaped to his feet, grabbed the unexploded charge where it landed and hurled it back. It landed right between the two men who tossed it.

Speck Moved From Cell For Eye Exam

PEORIA, Ill. (UPI)—Richard Speck, handcuffed and under heavy guard, was moved secretly from his jail cell to a doctor's office 2 1/2 blocks away today for an eye examination.

The lanky Texan, accused of the murder of eight nurses, has complained of headaches recently. He was taken at dawn in Sheriff Willard Koepffel's private car to the 10th-floor office of Dr. Clarence V. Ward.

Handcuffed to a plainclothes county policeman, and flanked by several more, Speck was moved from his cell at 5:45 a.m. and was returned at 6:15. Results of the examination were not immediately known.

Speck, who smoked a cigarette, was without a coat in the chilly morning, and wore only a long-sleeve sports shirt and sports slacks. The streets were deserted except for a city bus that stopped to unload some passengers, who stared at Speck and his guards as they left the examination.

Jets Ignite Oil Again

LAND'S END, England (UPI)—Thirty-seven British warplanes hit the shattered wreck of the giant tanker Torrey Canyon today with tons of bombs, napalm and rockets in a bid to put her below the waves and burn her remaining 40,000 tons of crude oil menacing British resort beaches.

A similar assault Tuesday sank the bow of the giant U.S.-built and chartered ship, one of the world's largest. But the stern remained afloat after the barrage of 42 half-ton bombs and 5,000 gallons of volatile aviation fuel.

Today the government ordered in new waves of jet fighters in the fight against what it calls one of Britain's worst peacetime crises.

The Hunter jet fighters started the attack at dawn by splashing fiery napalm over the oil remaining in the Torrey Canyon's hold.

The ship turned into flames once more. Heavy seas had doused fires touched off Tuesday.

Four more waves of jet fighters laden with destruction followed the first assault. First came two more Hunters with rockets, then eight Navy Buccaneer bombers with 32 half-ton bombs, four more Hunters with napalm and finally

Hanoi Bitter Over Thant's UN Proposal

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A continued intensification of U.S. military pressure in Vietnam was viewed as the likely reason today of Hanoi's rejection of U. Thant's proposal for a general cease-fire and peace talks.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk made it clear that the administration saw no other course to follow in the face of North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh's refusal to consider negotiations on any terms short of complete U.S. withdrawal.

The consensus in Washington was that Ho had handed the United States a major propaganda victory by rejecting U.N. three-point peace plan only a few weeks after turning down a direct offer from President Johnson to negotiate.

But Rusk and others emphasized that the exchanges had done nothing to move the fighting from the battlefield to the conference room.

At a news conference Tuesday Rusk expressed bewilderment as to Hanoi's motives in following a course that he contended would further isolate North Vietnam from any international support.

"Surely they must know," the secretary said, "that when they rebuff the United Nations Organization, an organization of 122 members, that this will not bring them support in other parts of the world."

Rusk declared the United States would not give up the search for peace, but in the face of Hanoi's attitude "we shall honor our commitments in South Vietnam. We shall do our duty there."

Mrs. Lee, about 30, and her son, David, 12, were killed when police broke into the house. Russell and Rachel were taken to Parkland Hospital with bullet wounds in their heads.

Russell's condition was serious but undetermined as to extent of brain damage. Rachel was in critical condition.

Mrs. Lee's husband, Maurice E. Lee Jr., works for Lone Star Gas Co. as manager of air conditioning sales. He was not at home when the shooting happened.

Grand Jury Questions Ferrie's Roommate

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Sandra Moffitt, was to tell a judge whether she would fight extradition back to Louisiana as a material witness.

Gordon Novel, 29, was the object of searches in Ohio, Virginia, Illinois, Missouri and possibly other states.

Attorneys for Novel were to ask Criminal District Court Judge Edward A. Haggerty to set aside the warrant for Novel's arrest and quash the bond of $50,000 set to assure his appearance before the grand jury.

In another development Tuesday night, author Mark Lane, whose "Rush to Judgment" is a best seller, said after conferring with Garrison that Garrison would rock the nation when he disclosed his assassination case in court trial.

Lane also said Garrison would show there was more than one gunman in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963, and that Lee Harvey Oswald was not the one who fired the fatal shot.

"Mr. Garrison knows who killed President Kennedy, he knows who organized the plot," he knows what forces are involved. And I know he knows. This information stands up very solidly"

Pampa Family Observes Christmas Celebration in March

By DORIS E. WILSON, News Staff Writer

It was Christmas Eve last night at 1516 N. Faulkner.

There was a silver tree decorated with red baubles and colored lights playing on it. Surrounding the tree were toys of every description that would appeal to a 20-months-old girl and an eight-months-old boy including a little red train engine that chimed "Joy to the World" as it circled a railroad track. Christmas carol recordings played in the background. Dishes of candy were placed on tables within easy reach. In the kitchen there was a date loaf to be sliced.

Who cares if the rest of the world is playing baseball, planting gardens, watering lawns and has just finished observing Easter? When a son and a daughter whom you haven't seen in three years and two grandchildren whom you have never seen come home from a foreign land... that's Christmas... or at least the spirit of it; no matter what the calendar indicates.

That's the way, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Pennington, 1515 Faulkner. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest L. Waters, 1307 Duncan, felt when Staff Sergeant and Mrs. Oscar A. Waters came home from Munich, Germany, bringing with them their children Kristi and Jeff, whom the grandparents had never seen. It was a Christmas that had CHRISTMAS IN MARCH and a recent trip from Munich, Germany, proved almost too much for an "almost" two-year-old girl, but Kristi Waters rallied last night to enjoy a delayed Christmas with her dad and mother, Sergeant and Mrs. Oscar Waters, and eight-month-old brother, Jeff.

Network Talent Goes On Strike

NEW YORK (UPI)—The performing talent of the nation's three major radio-telephony networks went on strike today for the first time in their union's 30-year history.

Highly paid, nationally known personalities answered the first strike call ever by the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists (AFTRA) against the National Broadcasting Company, the American Broadcasting Company and the Columbia Broadcasting System.

The strike affected hundreds of newsmen, disc jockeys, and announcers and other on-air personnel at the network studios and network-owned radio and television stations across the nation. The majority of the striking AFTRA members are employed in New York, Chicago, Washington and Los Angeles. AFTRA represents 18,000 broadcast employees.

In New York, they began walking a picket line in the rain and dark at 4 a.m. CST. The first live television show affected was NBC's "Today."

Bob Hall, CBS all-night disc jockey left his "Music 'Til Dawn" show a half-hour early and was replaced by Dave Moorhead, assistant program director of WCAU, the CBS affiliate in Philadelphia.

Pat Summerall, the former New York Giant football placekicker, did not show up for his 6 a.m. show on CBS.

ABC did not open its radio network programming until 6:55 a.m. At that time the Don Gardner news show was scheduled. But at 6 a.m. Gardner was outside in the rain carrying a picket sign.

Pope Praised For Stand on Poverty

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Messages from around the globe reached the Vatican today praising Pope Paul VI's encyclical for a world "war on misery."

Among the first to praise the document were United Nations Secretary General U. Thant and the Italian government.

The 12,000 word encyclical contained for the first time the Pope's acknowledgment of the rights of governments to promote birth control measures.

But the pontiff added the provision that such birth control measures must conform "with moral law." Observers took this to mean a limitation to the church-approved rhythm method of abstinence.

Thant expressed his "whole hearted" support for the Pope's message. And spokesmen for Italy's ruling Catholic Christian Democratic party called it a "great document" but omitted any reference to the birth control passage.

The Pope spoke against the greed of wealthy nations and warned "the judgment of God and the wrath of the poor" will be called down on rich nations if they do not consider the plight of the poor. He labeled spending money on armaments "an intolerable scandal" and condemned racism and nationalism in both "young nations" as well as in "nations endowed with ancient culture."

In London, The Guardian said, "the Pope's message on world poverty is well directed to a problem that has begun to overshadow even the search for peace." The paper said the message will be widely listened to when "statesmen have lost some of their professional smugness."

Commenting on the birth control section, The Guardian said, "this part of the message seems like an interim statement—a new pronouncement on methods of birth control is expected later this year—and it may well be intended primarily for the non-Catholic countries."

In France, the newspaper "Combat" said, "one finds only reason to applaud" the encyclical. The Catholic newspaper La Croix noted, "while previous encyclicals, from Leo XIII to John XXIII, dealt mainly with situations proper to industrialized countries... this one embraces all peoples."

One note of criticism came from Norway's Dagens Nyheter, which said, "as long as the only allowed family planning is restricted to the so-called rhythm method, it is no great advancement. It looks like a delay of needed action against a global population increase."

Although the families only smiled when it was mentioned... next week, we think they are celebrating New Year's Eve.

Boy Scouts Will Compete In Camporee

About 18 Boy Scout troops from the Santa Fe district of Adobe Walls Council will participate in a district camporee April 21-23 at the new council camp near Mobeetie.

Kenneth Reeves, 2106 N. Russell, is the camporee chairman and district camp and activities chairman.

Scouts from Carson, Gray and Roberts counties will compete in knot tying, tent pitching, first aid, map and compass study, signalling and other scout skills. The boys will earn points for their patrols and attempt to win camporee award ribbons which will be awarded at the camporee.

Scouts will set up their camps April 21, compete in the events April 22 and have a sunrise worship service before breaking camp and returning home April 23.

This will be the first camporee scheduled at the new camp, which includes 480 acres located about 10 miles from Mobeetie off Highway 152.

The United States now leads the Soviet Union in intercontinental missiles by about three to one. Specific figures on the nuclear delivery systems of the two superpowers were disclosed by Defense Secretary Robert McNamara for the first time in testimony to Congress on the new defense budget. In long-range bombers capable of carrying nuclear weapons, the U.S. lead is more than four to one.

Astrological Forecast

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day and evening when most everyone can get very much out of line by saying and doing things that others resent even though no such result is intended. So be sure you double check whatever you start to write or say and make sure it can cause no offense in any way to anyone about you.

ARIES: (Mar. 31 to Apr. 19) — Be careful you do not turn your back on tried and true friends and interests just to follow the new which could be quite worthless. Keep promises to the letter instead. Show that you are a person who can be relied upon.

TAURUS: (Apr. 20 to May 20) — You may resent others because you think they are trying to impose upon you, but be more friendly and all is fine. Intelligent handling of others is the key phrase now. Be more concerned with increasing income.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 21) — Picking on associates could cause enmity between you so think how you can be more helpful, cooperative instead. Be sure you do not make changes in contracts right now. Think over how to improve same.

MOON CHILDREN: (June 22 to July 21) — You have made promises to others that you had better keep, and personal duties should also be handled without fail. Avoid trouble later on. Plan your work early and then carry through on schedule.

LEO: (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Have a smiling exterior and stop trying to pick an argument with others. Male is annoyed, so be comforting instead of antagonistic. Avoid going out for recreation that is altogether too expensive.

VIRGO: (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — The situation at home is quite explosive, so be sure you are of a conciliatory mood and avoid the trouble. Show care in going after your most vital aims. Tread quietly but in a positive fashion.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Much care must be exercised in driving or walking, handling silver glass, etc. or there may be much breakage, loss. Some big project could also have to be postponed. Scheduling too heavily to others could have dire results, also.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Take care you either spend too much to make a false impression on others, or spend too little and give the opposite impression, both of which are bad. Be more stable in monetary matters. Grow.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Stop complaining and carry through with obligations to the best of your ability or others will think you have the wrong intentions. Your health could be bettered. Worrying needs dropping up as well.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Although that work may seem dull and dreary, it must be done some time, so get at it right away. Then you clear the decks for more important matters. Accept what you cannot avoid. Be sensible.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — A blunt pal can certainly get under your skin if you permit, so keep busy and pay little attention — he, or she, is upset about something. Avoid the social for now. People are under disturbing influences right now.

PISCES: (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — Show tact in carrying through with whatever will help you in your chosen career, especially anything that has to do with the public in general. Higher-up is feeling irate. Don't disturb but keep busy at own duties.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY — he, or she, will be a rather blunt young person and you must teach your child to think before speaking, otherwise much trouble can be met throughout his lifetime if this had habit is not curbed. There is a fine, inquisitive mind here, though and good spiritual training given, and a good college fund that will equip your progeny for business or administrative work. The police force is fine, also.

Scout Leaders Seminar Planned

Boy Scout leaders will attend a conservation training seminar in the Boy Scout Service Center, 815 N. Sumner, at 8:30 a.m. Saturday.

Sponsored by the Adobe Walls Council of Boy Scouts, the seminar will end at 4 p.m. Saturday.

About 50 scout masters and senior patrol leaders are expected to attend from the 15-county Panhandle area.

Speakers will be Jack Stallings of Phillips, and Bill Brooks of the Soil Conservation Office in Wheeler.

NURSES TO STRIKE

MIAMI (UPI)—Dade (Miami) County's 168 public health nurses have threatened to resign en masse unless they get immediate pay raises of $65 a month, director of nurses Margaret Pearsons said Tuesday. "They say it won't be just a sick call or temporary walkout. They say it will be a mass resignation," said Miss Pearson.

The present salary for public health nurses is $350 a month.

DEATH BILL

RALEIGH, N. C. (UPI)—The Judiciary Committee of the North Carolina House Tuesday gave an unfavorable report to a bill that would eliminate the death penalty except for killers of policemen and kidnap victims.

Committee Chairman Phil Godwin said he felt the death sentence was a deterrent to crime.

United Press International
There is some evidence that the Supreme Court is becoming aware of a considerable public dissatisfaction with the trend of rulings during recent years. It would be more precise to report that there is some but not much evidence of this awareness.

Chief Justice Warren and his activist court majority are being jostled by the facts of life as they exist in the United States in the second half of the 20th century. One of these facts of modern life is the crime explosion in this country.

The Justice Department reported this month that serious crime increased by 11 per cent in 1966 over 1965. This shocking crime wave is not peculiar to the great ghetto-ridden cities. Crime was up 14 per cent in towns of fewer than 10,000 inhabitants. Crime was up 13 per cent in the suburbs. A shocking increase in serious crime is the trend year after year.

This alarming trend has a background of vigorous Supreme Court action to protect the rights of the individual criminal. Many citizens resent what appears to them to be the court's inattention to the rights, collectively, of the millions of the law-abiding persons among whom the protected hoodlum finds victims.

In a decision last week, the court shifted its anxiety and emphasis from the hoodlums to the public at large. In upholding an Illinois narcotics conviction, the court ruled that the police may act on secret tips without revealing the source of their information; that the police may search the accused without a warrant and that evidence so obtained may be admitted in court. This is a switch from the trend of previous rulings which had handicapped police in acting on reports from under world agents deemed to be reliable sources of information. This ruling came at a time of Senate subcommittee hearings looking toward congressional action to assert the right of the public to protection against criminals, regardless of the court.

Witnesses firmly testified to their belief that Supreme Court rulings handicapping the police were a major cause of the grim crime record in the United States. Unhappy citizens are pressing their congressmen to check the court. Congress unquestionably will be compelled to act unless the court restrains itself, as it seemed to be doing last week in the case of the Illinois dope peddler.

There is a rising public resentment against the court's arbitrary ruling requiring both Houses of state legislatures to be apportioned precisely on the basis of population. The court cannot reverse itself on this one. But 32 of the required 34 states have petitioned Congress to summon a constitutional convention to propose an amendment reversing the court.

Proposals by such a convention would require ratification by three quarters of the states. Perhaps that could not be achieved. But the mere fact of the petitions to Congress is absolute evidence of a resentment against the court running wide and deep among the citizens. Congressional liberals who applauded the court's apportionment rule are uneasy. Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., is seeking to sweep the whole question under the rug. He argues that the petitions are invalid. A year ago former Sen Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., was arguing that the Congress could and should ignore the absolute constitutional injunction that a constitutional convention must be called when two thirds of the states petition Congress for such action. Such performances as these are what lead stumbling politicians into a constitutional crisis.

The first U.S. woman pilot was Harriet Quimby, a magazine writer, who got ticket No. 37 in 1911.

Civil Air Patrol To Take Exams At Meet Tonight

Squadron examinations will be given tonight at a meeting of the Pampa Civil Air Patrol in the city commission room at City Hall.

Donald Andrews, of the Texas Department of Public Safety, will direct an examination on radiological monitoring which will complete a 16-hour course. The test will be given from 7:30 p.m. until 10:30 p.m.

The course being completed included three types of radiation: Alpha, Beta, and the most penetrating Gamma. Also to be covered is the emergency treatment of radiation burned victims.

CAP members who pass the exam will become fallout monitors. Andrews stated, These trained persons in the event of a nuclear attack will be required to furnish information essential for protection of the public.

Ex-Pampa's Death Brings No Charges

Beaver County, Okla., Asst. District Attorney Herb Standeven ruled justifiable homicide in the death of Thomas Lawton Branscum of Perryton, who died early this week after being struck on the head by a tree by his wife.

After a conference with District Attorney Don Woods, Standeven said that Mrs. Betty Branscum, who is in Perryton hospital, would not be charged in the fracas that occurred in Forgan, Okla.

Standeven said that Mrs. Branscum entered a tavern in Forgan, Okla., to try to get her husband to go home. Branscum struck his wife inside the tavern then the couple went outside where Mrs. Branscum was hit several more times according to eyewitnesses.

Firemen Check Five Fire Calls

Pampa firemen put out three grass fires, a fire in a city dumpster truck and made a smoking light check at Highland General Hospital yesterday and today.

The grass fires were located on the Santa Fe Railroad right-of-way near Kingsmill, west of Pampa, at 602 N. Starkweather and on 23rd St. between Charles and Russell Sts.

No damage resulted in the fire at 2 p.m. yesterday near Kingsmill nor the grass fire on 23rd St. at 2:10 a.m. today. A wooden fence was burned in the vacant lot on Starkweather St. in the 2:54 p.m. grass fire yesterday.

The only other run yesterday was at 9:25 p.m. to check on the smoking fluorescent light at the hospital.

North station firemen put out burning trash in the dumpster truck at 10:12 a.m. today on Navajo St. The other north station run was to the 23rd St. grass fire.

Central station made the runs to Starkweather St., the hospital and the railroad right-of-way.

Check List For The Job Hunter

By JAMES M. MURPHEY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
"Fifty percent of the young men who begin their careers this fall will leave their first job within three to five years," says career counselor Joseph Venaglia, president of the College Marketing Institute.
"They are largely the college graduates who never got through to their interviewers. Why? Because the usual student applicant is completely unprepared to take charge of the interview situation," he adds.
Do your plans include three to five years of postgraduate yourself takes systematic thought. A way to go about it is:

—List all the things that you have ever enjoyed doing. List one or a hundred; but don't consider those things you might enjoy.
—Make a tentative choice of the three you most enjoy doing. You are entitled to change your mind.
—Ask yourself why you enjoy doing these three things. List at least 10 reasons for each. Push yourself until you can think of any more reasons. If you can't list at least five "good" reasons, you may have made a bad choice.
—Talk with people actively en-searching for a suitable job? Of course not. What you need is a system, a way of taking the initiative in a job-hunting situation. Venaglia has just the one. The system begins with understanding what the recruiter is really looking for. Remember that when he sends a man up to his boss he has to be reasonably sure the boss will approve. The question the recruiter asks himself is, "Will this recruit be able to protect my image?" He will feel comfortable only if you reduce his uncertainty. The only way for you to do that is to provide him with the greatest amount of relevant information in the least amount of time. Simple? Yes, but bringing it off requires systematic thinking. Your general approach is to put yourself in charge of the situation. Be a salesman selling yourself so that the recruiter can comfortably assume the position of buyer. In most recruiting situations the recruiter is forced to be both buyer and seller, because the student being interviewed doesn't know anything about the company. When that happens, the student applicant has much less opportunity to sell himself. So, you have to know the interviewer's company. Once you show the recruiter that you know his company, he is ready to pay attention to you. Here is where you must know yourself — and show it. Only one out of a hundred applicants walks into an interview situation with a clear idea of who he is and what he wants. The man is such a rarity that the recruiter is usually amazed. The result is that the recruiter can't afford to let this one-in-a-hundred get away. His thinking goes like this: "If this man is capable of doing this kind of analysis on himself, then he's obviously prepared to exhibit the same decision-making qualities within our company." Now, how to do it. Knowing gaged with each of your major interests to find out more about them.

—Find the products and services associated with your three interests. List them.
—Analyze what type of involvement you would prefer to have with the products or services listed. Would you want to manufacture them? Advertise them? Finance them? List three activities for each product or service.
—Name 10 reasons for the choice you made of specific occupations related to major interests. Sources of information are easy to find (professional organizations, professors). Also, contact key men in companies. Although these executives are busy, nine out of 10 will see you if you use this method: Contact the man's secretary and ask if you, as a student, could have 10 minutes of the man's time to ask three questions pertinent to your career choice. Then be sure to have three well-thought-out specific questions for him: (If you're impressive, you may end up spending the afternoon with the man. And may even land a job offer later — but don't angle for it.)
—Decide where you want to work. East or West? Big town, little town? List 10 reasons why.
—Pick a company. What companies relevant to your stated interests are located in the area that you have chosen? Gather all the possible information about them. Go beyond looking at records and stock prices. Learn the terminology of the field. Find out who are the key men in the company. Read their speeches and evaluate them. Evaluate the thinking they represent, as well as what they said. Would you feel comfortable working with these men?
You are now prepared to see the recruiter, present your case and get the job. You know the company, the exact job, and why you want it.

Students to Elect School Officers

Pampa High School students will elect a student body president and vice president at 1 p.m. April 7 during homeroom meetings at the school.
The five candidates are Jim Cornutt, Dwight Rogers, Jennifer Cunningham, Chris Dunn and Tommy Rose.
For the presidential office a candidate must receive the majority of votes. The runner-up will be named vice president.
Current student body president is John Braly, Jim Huelet, government teacher at high school, is student council sponsor.
Moving of the headquarters of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization from France to Belgium, forced by President de Gaulle's withdrawal of France, will cost more than $250 million with most of the burden falling on the United States.

Reds Fire On US Afloat Twice

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Communist ships in Haiphong harbor fired on U.S. aircraft on two occasions last year, Defense Department officials disclosed today.
On July 30, the sources said, pilots of two U.S. Navy F4 Phantom jets reported fire "from a small Communist freighter" in the harbor. Early in August U.S. aircraft in the area "were again fired upon by a small freighter," they said.
"The aircraft were not hit, nor did they return the fire in either instance," an official said.
The nationality of the two ships was not given. The predominant speculation was that they were Communist Chinese.
Air Force Chief of Staff, Gen. J. P. McConnell, told the Senate Armed Services Committee Feb. 2 that U.S. aircraft had received hostile fire from vessels in Haiphong harbor.
He testified that he did not know their nationality. In response to questions about McConnell's testimony, Defense Department officials identified the two cases.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Colby & Co. says recent market action lends strength to the view that the long consolidation phase within the 820-870 area of the Dow Jones industrial average is just about finished. The company sees the possibility of a near-term move to the 910 level but still recommends some caution and suggests purchases should be made during any periods of weakness.

John W. Schulz, analyst of "Trend & Value," says the current recovery from the market's 1966 lows still seems short of completion. The analyst feels the upswing could carry into the 880-920 range in the Dow Jones industrial average and last until late April or early May but the broader price averages may chalk up relatively more limited gains.

The Family Lawyer

Right to "Get Even" Haled into court for beating up a neighbor's son, Hawkins offered the following explanation: "He threw a rock at my little girl, so I went over and taught him a lesson."

But the court rejected Hawkins' excuse and ordered him to pay damages. Pointing out that the girl was no longer in danger at the time her father intervened, the judge said the right to protect did not include the right to punish.

By and large, the law does not give you the right to "get even" for a wrong inflicted upon you or your loved ones.

The reason lies in the "contract" between the individual and society. The individual gives up his right to punish a wrongdoer. In return for society's promise to do it for him.

To be sure, it may be difficult in a particular case to determine whether a person was acting to protect or to punish. Take this case:

A night watchman was rushed by a man wielding a knife. Drawing his gun, the watchman killed his assailant with two fast shots. But in due course, he himself was arrested and brought to trial on a homicide charge.

"His first shot was legitimate self-defense," conceded the prosecutor. "However, his second shot was fired after the man was already wounded. That was no longer self-defense. It was punishment."

But it also appeared that the victim, though wounded, was still armed, close, and dangerous. Dismissing the charge, the court held that the watchman's second shot, too, was within the reasonable scope of self-defense.

On the other hand:

A landlord and tenant got into an angry scuffle, during which the tenant was knocked to the ground. While he was lying there helpless, the landlord gave him a swift kick in the head.

Because of the kick, the landlord was later held liable for assault and battery. The court said that, with danger past, the landlord had clearly acted out of sheer vindictiveness — and must therefore pay damages.

It was the law's way of echoing the warning of the poet La Fontaine:

"Revenge, however sweet, is dearly bought."

Youth Beat

THE NATIONAL REPORT ON WHAT'S HAPPENING

HOW TO BUILD A RECORD RECORD: Sandy ("Born a Woman") Posey made a special visit to YOUTH BEAT's office on her way to sign up for more big-time singing hits before flying on her current, quick-pop-tour to England. So we asked the 5-foot-4, trim, 115-pound, East Memphis postteen (21), with a profile like a fine Greek coin, about her career as a tune warbler. By her experience, here's what to do to get rated "Best Newcomer Girl Singer (for 1966)." At 19 amble into a recording studio across the river in Memphis... have a singer in the background group do a "no show" and be pushed in front of the mike. Flap into bed that night too excited to sleep — because you'd made $45 in two hours (takes her two minutes nowadays). Then do backgrounds for this studio's recordings till a music publisher walks in... listens without much interest to a tape you'd fooled around and made but, over a cup of coffee, senses you have the drive of a tune-smasher champ. What happened next was the publisher came up with an unknown tune and he and the studio producer asked Sandy to try it on for sound. Whammo — they got a hallelujah combination of this unknown girl and tune — now known as "Born a Woman." A first solo and first hit, this rolled up sales of a million, worldwide... six months later a second hit, "Single Girl" (it's edging to close to a million). Sounds like the crazy chances that can make success in the crazy sound-making business. But Sandy — a tiny songbird with an immense, quiet intensity — says, "You've got to want to make the sound — more than you want to do anything else. Because you don't see your gang much. You spend hours in a dark room listening to tapes, learning what messes things up, what's good. You sing any workhorse thing the studio asks, for practice. You know that any day you may have to hit the road. And you're nothing for you to worry about. Pocket-sized, thick (248) pages, slick-printed contents are mostly dryish information in science and academic fields with more than a wee tinge of propaganda (lots on the wonders, little on the troubles of the Soviet Union). Not much bright or light stuff — Winston Churchill is covered fully, but as an enemy of the working classes... and the U.S. book, "The Last Battle" (of Berlin), is labeled pro-Nazi. Tone is that of a teacher talking down (maybe that's the Kremlin's idea of how to talk to you). But if you have Russian studies you might want to ferret-out a copy to give you a peek at the weird and wonderful world of Russia, from your local newsdealer. Anticipate more sputnik than "Sputnik."

WEATHER, WHETHER OR NOT: It may be cold comfort, but studies show that inclement weather is roughest on those over 50, and guys and gals under 25 (YOU) can stand harsh extremes best... easily shrug off sudden weather changes. Brrr!

Annual A&M Muster Set April 21

Officials Say Prices Will Rise Less

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A high administration official said today that prices will probably rise "a little less" this year than had been predicted by President Johnson's Council of Economic Advisers.

Former students of Texas A&M who live in the Northeast Texas Panhandle Area will gather at the Tommy O'Loughlin Ranch, three miles west of Miami on U.S. Hwy. 60, on April 21.

They will observe the 65-year-old tradition of the annual Muster of Texas A&M men.

Festivities will begin on the O'Loughlin Ranch at 7 p.m. and will feature barbecue and the "mustering" ceremony.

The Northeast Texas Panhandle Muster will be one of more than 500 similar ceremonies which will be held all over the world where Texas A&M former students pay homage to their fellow class mates who have passed on, and humble tribute to the state at the Battle of San Jacinto near Houston in 1836.

Bill Tolbert of Miami is this year's muster chairman and Harold Comer is president of the Pampa A&M Club.

Arrests for shoplifting have increased 79 percent in the last five years and nearly 200,000 persons were arrested for store pilferage in 1965. Annual losses to store owners are estimated at from one to three billion dollars.

76ERS NEXT IN LINE

Celtics Hustle By N.Y. Knicks

NEW YORK (UPI) — Wayne Embry said it all for the Boston Celtics today with the comment: "Now we're ready for regular season eastern crown."

The Celtics beat the New York Knickerbockers 118-100 Tuesday night, earning the right to meet the Philadelphia 76ers and Chamberlain in the best-of-seven Eastern Division final playoff series of the National Basketball Association. The series opens Friday night in Philadelphia.

The 76ers easily won the team competition and go on to play the Celtics in the second game of the series. Embry said he can beat them in team-to-team play on the 1948 Illinois football team, which was the Western Division champion.

The west's final playoff game begins Thursday night with the St. Louis Hawks meeting the San Francisco Warriors in San Francisco.

Embry, fellow reserve Don Nelson and Sam Jones were the key men in the Tuesday night victory which enabled the Celtics to win the semi-final series, three games to one. Embry and Nelson filled in capably for player-coach Bill Russell and Tom Sanders, respectively, and Jones led both teams with 51 points.

"Wayne, Don and Jones' 51 points were the difference," said Russell. "We were able to intercept Wayne and Don at the right spots in order to keep the team going."

Embry and Nelson were called on to play major roles when both Russell and Sanders go into foul trouble. Embry scored 15 points. Nelson netted 13 and both pulled down key rebounds late in the game.

Although the Celtics obviously were eager to get at the 76ers, coach Russell played down the rivalry.

"We don't feel any different psychologically going against the 76ers," he said. "We don't plan more than one game ahead."

FORGETTING SOMETHING is Larry Siegfried of the Boston Celtics who displays perfect form—with one exception. He doesn't have the ball.

Dunk Shot, Stall Is Idled by Rules Group

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — The dunk shot, a specialty of basketball's giants, will be banned in college and high school games next season.

The National Basketball Committee of the United States and Canada outlawed the dunk shot at a meeting here Tuesday but rejected proposals for a time limit on shooting.

John Bunn, official spokesman for the committee, said the 20-member group banned dunking "by an overwhelming majority." He said the move would "equalize the defense and offense in play around the basket, because the dunking maneuver does not give the defense an opportunity to block the shot."

A violation will cost the team possession of the ball and any baskets scored via the dunk will be disallowed.

Ducats on Sale For Harvester Banquet
Tickets are still left for the annual Pampa Harvester basketball banquet set for April 6 at 7:30 p.m. in Pampa High School Cafeteria.

Tickets for the banquet, in which Gene Gibson, head basketball coach at Texas Tech will be the featured speaker, may be purchased at the school Co-Op, the school business office in Pampa Junior High, from Weldon Trice or Bill Harris at $2.50 for adults and $1.00 for students.

Pampa Office Supply Co.
"EVERYTHING FOR THE OFFICE"
211 N. Caylor — MO-4-3353

As for placing a time limit on shooting similar to the "24-second rule" of the professional National Basketball Association, Bunn said a number of proposals were discussed but the committee "never really approached" approving such a measure.

"It is the policy of the Rules Committee not to prohibit ingenuity and variety as long as it makes for a good ball game," he said.

Bunn said the committee has vast data to support its decision. He said that in 97 per cent of the 50,000 cases examined, a team either has shot or lost possession of the ball within 7 seconds.

"Only in one and one-half per cent of the cases was the ball ever held longer than 30 seconds," Bunn added.

He conceded that "there are isolated cases where stalling is utilized, but the committee felt it should not legislate for such a few extreme situations."

The committee is made up of representatives from the NCAA, the National Federation of State High School Associations, the National Junior College Athletic Association, the Canadian College Athletic Association, Canadian Amateur Athletic Association, and the Young Men's Christian Association (YMCA).

The registration and tryouts will last through Friday. Youngsters are asked to make at least two of the tryouts, but, if for some reason they can't do so, they are asked to notify Newt Secret at MO 4-4604 or Wayne Jones at MO 4-7111.

Harvesters Nip 'Dogs' for 12th

By RON CROSS Sports Editor

BORGER — Pampa's pitching continued to be superior to Borger's hitting here Tuesday and Sophomore Billy Davis entered the winners circle for the first time this season to send the Harvesters to their 12th straight victory without defeat. In beating Borger for the fourth time in as many meetings the Harvesters slugged out line hits and scored three runs for a 3-1 victory.

Gary Molberg collected three of the nine safeties and Larry Stephens and Davis two each. Stephens has now hit safely in 11 of the 12 games. Molberg has an eight game hitting streak going and leading hitter Ronnie Sanders, who singled his last time up Tuesday, has hit safely in 10 of the 11 games he has played in and walked in the other game in his only at bat.

Davis, in this his first start, pitched shutout ball for three and one-third innings before being touched for a home run. All in all Davis gave up but one run on three hits, struckout two and walked one, collected two hits and scored a run. Before Tuesday Davis had worked only three and two-thirds innings, all in relief and had given up no runs on two double plays to get Davis out of the Pampa made it 1-0 in the first off starter Van Lergen, who worked two innings plus when Stephens led off with a single, single second and after Achord moved him down to third on a ground out scored on Foster's double to center that was played badly.

The final two Pampa runs came across in the third when the Harvesters knocked out Lergen and Steve Connelly came in.

Davis led off with a single, went to second on a single by Stephens and Connelly came in to get Achord to hit into a force out with Stephens being cut down at second and Davis going to third.

Connelly wild pitched Davis home and Achord to third. Foster walked and Molberg doubled to bring home Achord.

Borger made it 3-1 in the last of the fourth when Jim Billington stroked a one-out homer over the left field fence. Following Billington's homer

Shaw singled but the Harvesters pulled off their second double play of the afternoon to kill a threat.

After Plumlee doubled with

But Foster ran into trouble in the sixth when the Bulldogs loaded the bases after two were out on a single and two walks but catcher Larry Stephens caught 9.5 century man Bill Robinson stealing to get out of the inning.

The Bulldogs used four pitchers with Frank Kelley following Connelly to the mound in the fifth and working out of a jam when Foster was called out at the plate on a ground ball. Steve Huffine finished up, pitching the seventh inning.

The Harvesters, picked last in district play, get a chance to prove the experts wrong when they visit Lubbock this weekend for two games.

Pampa plays Lubbock a 4 p.m. game Friday and takes on Monteyne in a 1 p.m. contest Saturday.

Annual Amarillo Relays to Get Underway Friday

Pampa High School golfers, thinclads and netters will get what is probably their stiffest tests of the spring season Friday and Saturday in Amarillo, when they participate in the Amarillo Relays.

Besides AAAA schools from over the state AAA, AA, A and B schools will be represented in the different sports, also.

All district 3-4A teams will be in attendance along with AAAA teams from Odessa, Midland and other points over the state. Pampa varsity and B golfers are in the fold. At present the varsity golfers are in sixth place in district play and the B teamers are in third place in B division.

Varsity golfers will play 18 holes Friday and the top six teams to qualify will play the final 18 holes Saturday with all 36-holes at Amarillo Country Club.

AA, A and B class golfers will play 18 Friday and Saturday at Tascosa Country Club.

Pampa golf coach Don Wieser said Tom Rose, Ricky Roach, Tim New, Frank Kelley and David Kihneman will represent the varsity squad with Steve Grady, Mike Osborne, Charles McKinney, Steve Walls and Greg Gunter making up the B team and Rick McCloskey going as an independent.

Coach Bill Brown's netters will tip off in their first match at 8 a.m. Friday with Jamie Lou Schafer in singles and Brenda Schafer and Carolyn Walker making up the doubles team.

Brown said that three of four boys would be making the trip and that includes, Mike Sublett, Danny Winters, Mike Edminster or George McCarrel.

Coach Don Myers and Ed Lehnick's thinclads, improving every week, will be coming off their best showing of the season, a fifth place finish at Perryton from a field of nine teams.

Shot putter Doc-Cornut is expected to face his toughest competition of the season as is 440-yard dash man, Gary McCarrel.

MATCH SWITCHED
PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla (UPI) — The Professional Golfers Association players committee Tuesday informed the PGA that the Tournament of Champions scheduled for the Desert Inn Country Club at Las Vegas April 13 has been switched to the Sardust course. A spokesman for the PGA said the switch followed reports of the sale of the Desert Inn to Howard Hughes.

Illinois May Name Two New Coaches Today

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (UPI) — The University of Illinois today will reveal its new football and basketball coaches, Jim Valek and Harve Schmidt, hurriedly selected to try to inject new vigor into an athletic program sagging from the effects of the ill-reputed "slush funds."

Both are alumni of Illinois. Valek, 41, was most valuable player on the 1948 Illinois football team, and Schmidt, 32, won the same honor with the 1957 basketball team.

Their discovery and appointment came with almost fantastic speed. They were interviewed Monday by the directors of the Athletic Association, who recommended their appointment to President David D. Henry.

Henry cleared both appointments with the board of trustees late Tuesday.

Appointment of the new coaches in a hurry was almost mandatory since the tenders of aid to prospective football players can be sent out Saturday and the tenders to basketball players only one month later.

Schmidt will have 30 days in which to scan and recruit. Valek will be even harder pressed to find material to rebuild the Illinois football squad.

U.S. Hockey Team in Fifth

VIENNA (UPI) — The United States, its work complete in the world amateur ice hockey championships, counted on neighboring Canada to beat Sweden today and help it clinch fourth place.

The U.S. routed West Germany 8-3 Tuesday night to finish with a 3-1 record in the eight team, round robin tourney which concludes its 11-day run today. That gave the Yanks seven points, the same as Sweden.

However, if the Swedes lose to Canada today, the U.S. will be awarded fourth place since it beat Sweden 4-3 on opening day. The Americans haven't finished that high since placing third at Colorado Springs, Colo., in 1962.

Also at stake today were the silver and bronze medals. Russia already having clinched its fifth consecutive title. Following the Canada-Sweden match, Czechoslovakia will meet Russia in the final game of the tournament.

Canada, currently in second place, will win the silver medal if it beats Sweden. Czechoslovakia can finish second if it wins and Canada loses, and even Sweden has a chance for the silver if it upsets the Canadians and the Czechs lose to Russia.

The U.S. quickly put the game out of reach against West Germany with four goals in the first period and three in the second before the Germans could get on the scoreboard. The only player to score more than one goal was Jerry Melnychuk of Minneapolis, Minn., with two.

EXHIBITION BASEBALL

Juan to Pitch Today

By United Press International
Juan Marichal, the San Francisco Giants' $100,000-a-year high-kicking southpaw, isn't going to waste any time proving he is ready to go despite his 29-day holdout.

Manager Herman Franks tagged Marichal to start today's game against the Chicago Cubs at Scottsdale, Ariz.

Marichal insists he is ready even though he has been in camp only two days. He insisted he was ready last year after holding out for 24 days, and as it turned out he was ready.

The 28-year-old ace of the Giants' staff won his first 10 games of the 1966 season and wound up with a 25-6 record—the fourth consecutive season that he has won 21 games or more.

Marichal believes he can start in where he left off. He worked out regularly at the University of Santo Domingo in his native Dominican Republic before signing his contract.

Giants Take Pennant
Actually, the Giants have been doing very well without him. They whipped the Cubs 4-1 Tuesday to clinch their second consecutive Cactus League pennant.

One of Marichal's colleagues, Mike McCormick, made a strong bid for a starting rotation pitching assignment by giving up just four hits during the seven innings he was on the mound. Willie McCovey drove in three of the Giants' four runs.

In other exhibition games Tuesday, California whipped Cleveland 3-1, the New York Mets beat Philadelphia 9-7, Washington defeated Baltimore 5-2, Houston turned back Pittsburgh 4-2, St. Louis beat Los Angeles 3-1 and Kansas City nudged the Yankees 5-4.

Jay Johnstone punched out a bases-loaded single which gave the Angels a 2-1 lead over the Indians. Johnstone is trying to unseat incumbent centerfielder Jose Cardenal, and Johnstone has impressive credentials—a .486 spring batting average.

Mets' 10th
The Mets scored twice in the 10th inning on two infield hits, a sacrifice fly and a wild pitch to whip the Phillies. One of those infield hits was a double by Ed Broussard.

Doug Camilli, a non-roster player, drove in a run with a single in the sixth to break a 2-2 tie and knocked in two more runs in the eighth with a double to give Washington all the fuel it needed against Baltimore.

Houston's victory over Pittsburgh was the Astros' fifth in the last six games. The loss was particularly acute for the Pirates, who lost their slugging leftfielder Willie Stargell for a week to 10 days. Stargell sprained his right ankle in a collision with second baseman Andre Rodgers while both men were chasing a fly ball in the fourth inning.

Bob Gibson got off to a shaky start but righted himself to allow just one run in seven innings as St. Louis became the sixth straight National League team to whip the defending champion Dodgers this spring.

Jim Gosger's sixth inning home run and a brilliant three-inning relief stint by Jack Aker powered Kansas City's win over the Yankees on Hall of Fame Day at Bill McKechnie Stadium in Brantenton, Ala. Several members of the Hall of Fame appeared in pre-game ceremonies.

ZALIO VERSALLES, Minnesota Twins shortstop, grimaces as the ball takes a bad bounce over his head during infield practice at Orlando, Fla.

Griffith Signs Contract To Meet Italy's Benvenuti

NEW YORK (UPI) — World middleweight champion Emile Griffith Tuesday signed contracts for his third title defense, against Nino Benvenuti of Italy in Madison Square Garden, April 17.

Griffith, who twice dethroned Joey Archer of New York in his two previous title defenses after winning the crown from Dick Tiger April 25, 1966, has been guaranteed $80,000 or 45 per cent of the live gate and auxiliaries. Benvenuti will receive 15 percent of the receipts. Benvenuti, 29, who arrived in New York Monday, has held the European middleweight title since winning it from Luis Follado, Oct. 15, 1965.

Griffith, who has a record of 52 wins and seven losses, will be making his second start of the year while Benvenuti, who will be fighting for the first time in the U.S., has won 69 of 70 fights, including 29 by knockouts.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper
EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license, nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

The Nuttier The Better

Government - subsidized research has multiplied five times in the past 10 years, the Reader's Digest for March pointed out. The spending figure today stands at $16 billion yearly.

What's all the experimenting about? Have some samples:

—Understanding the Fourth-Grade Slump in Creative Thinking was a research project of the Office of Education in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, which spends more than $100 million a year on studying fourth-graders' thinking habits and similar research projects.
—The National Foundation of the Arts and Humanities has awarded $3,789 to the University of California at Santa Barbara for a study of comic strips. The foundation defunded the research with the straightfaced statement that Little Orphan Annie and other comics "have been an important source of political ideas for the young... and those not so young."
Commented Rep Durward G Hall of Missouri: "The biggest belly laugh will not be found in the comic books, but rather in the sheer stupidity of throwing tax dollars away on projects like this."

—The U. S. Department of Commerce wondered why shipping rates are lower on imported goods than on exported goods. So, for $95,000 they got some "experts" to study that situation and tell them that it is "more expensive to load and stow cargo than to unload it."
The Digest quoted Chairman John Rooney of the House Appropriations subcommittee overseeing Commerce as follows: "Did you have to spend $95,000 to find that out? Any hatch boss on the Brooklyn waterfront could have given you the answer without cost."

—The National Institute of Health spent $11,782 researching "A Social History of French Medicine, 1789-1815."
—The NIE paid $10,917 for a project on the subject, "Emergence of Political Leadership: Indians in Fiji," and $28,755 for a study of "Changing Patterns of (Moslem) Family Life."

—The National Science Foundation financed a summer tour of Europe for Stephens Smale, University of California mathematician. Smale, opposed to U.S. policy in Vietnam, had organized demonstrations which tried to halt the troop trains. His tour took him to Paris, where he helped draft an anti-American resolution, and Moscow where he attacked Russia's "repressive intellectual atmosphere," but also "called what his own government was doing in Vietnam much more dangerous and brutal" than the Soviets' massacre of Hungarian freedom fighters... the Digest stated.

—A Minnesota college has been given $5,000 to subsidize an experimental analysis of a violin varnish known to have improved violin tone prior to 1737.

—University of California at Los Angeles has been granted $12,650 to complete a study of "popular" literature, such as dime novels, according to the Republican Congressional Committee Newsletter.

Other projects got caught before they got away. The Pentagon, for instance, "contracted in 1966 for a $69,400 study of public reaction of controlled press releases and the withholding of information. The project was canceled only after Rep. John Moss, crusading chairman of the House Subcommittee on Government Information, denounced the plan as "totally inappropriate to our free society." The Reader's Digest explained.

"Millions of federal taxpayer dollars are going into pseudo-research that not only provides negligible public benefit but corrupts and wastes our valuable scientific manpower," summed up the Digest.

Demand Still Unsatisfied

We know all about tired blood, from watching the television commercials.

But it's getting harder and harder to have tired blood. Or tired muscles, or tired bones, or tired anything except tired bank accounts.

That's because more and more things are being invented to make it easier and easier for us to put out less and less physical effort—and more and more money.

We can now, for example, sit hour after hour in front of the television set without once getting up or without moving anything but our eyes and, occasionally a finger.

We can switch programs, adjust the picture, control the volume, turn the set on and off, even silence the commercial—all by fingering a little gimmick in our hand.

On the highway we can shift gears with minimal exertion by automatic drive. We can stop effortlessly on a devaluated dime by tiptoe - pressure power brakes. We can raise and lower the car windows, the radio antenna, the trunk lid, the convertible top and goodness knows what else by fiddling with little buttons and things here and there.

We can heat the house all winter long without ever doing anything but soaking up the heat—and paying for it.

If we care for our lawns, we can have them mowed in the "bridesmaids' train" were pink. The whole color scheme of the decorations was pink. — New York paper, according to the West Virginia Mountaineer.

can ride a nice comfy power mower.

Haul out garbage? Use the disposer.

Pants are now permapressed, shirts and dresses dry and iron themselves. And the ladies are promised that they soon can have a dishwasher that also scrubs pots and pans and polishes silver, a light beam that disintegrates garbage and waste, an automatic potato, vegetable — yes, an onion-peeler, a home laundry that washes, dries, irons folds and... Wonderful!

But, thus far, no one has come up with a sure-fire means for the taxpayer to protect himself from government, nor has anyone invented a self-supporting politician — both much in demand.

H. L. Hunt Writes

FREEDOM NEEDS YOU

The threat to our freedom is of such magnitude that this Republic can no longer afford in difference among its citizens. The sense of urgency is great, and here are some things you can begin doing now for the preservation of freedom:

Patronize the producers whose shows uphold American principles and decline to discredit immortals of history, past or present. Commend both the producers and theaters pursuing this program. Movies favoring freedom and Americanism are especially important for they reappear on television two or three years after being shown in theaters.

Television is increasingly important in shaping public opinion. Those presenting TV shows and commentaries accurately portraying the blessings of liberty should be vigorously supported. Likewise radio personalities and their sponsors who promote freedom, God and country, should be commended, and the program publicized.

Find what you can do to curtail juvenile delinquency and to inspire a spirit of active patriotism and wholesome way of life among our youth. Work through your school, Sunday School, Church or any constructive youth group. Our youth represent the future of our country. Working with them is fun and will keep you young.

Be vigilant in encouraging young people to avoid filthy reading matter designed to muddy their minds and bias their opinions against the very principles of liberty. Note the reading matter at your school and help circulate wholesome reading matter. Assist in arranging essay and speaking contests along patriotic themes. This creates pride in their heritage among the nation's youth.

The freedom of a great nation rests in the hands of its people. It is a fragile thing. Accord it the careful handling it deserves.

Wit and Whimsy

Frosh — I don't like the way you're running around with other fellows. You'll have to stop it.

Frosh — Uh-huh.

Co-ed — Well, see? You should not be jealous. I just use the other fellows for necking.

Magistrate — I cannot understand you... You admit murdering this poor old woman for a paltry half-a-crown?

Prisoner — Well, Guv'nor, half-a-crown here and half-a-crown there... It soon mounts up, yer know.

Study of 'Illegal and Immoral Conduct in Business Practices' is Explosive Job Waiting for Betty Furness As Consumer Adviser

ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON — When TV star Betty Furness takes over as President Johnson's new adviser on consumer affairs, she will find an economic-political time bomb awaiting her.

Slated for Miss Furness' immediate consideration is a little-noticed recommendation by the Commission on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice for a sweeping inquiry into the extent of "white collar and business crime."

The commission's proposal, buried in its 340-page report on "The Challenge of Crime in a Free Society," calls for extensive studies to determine what is needed to protect consumers from illegal and unethical business practices.

Specifically, the anti-crime panel, headed by Undersecretary of State Nicholas Katzenbach, asked the President to ascertain the following:

—The scope of illegal and immoral conduct in business practices; consider non-criminal sanctions to deal with it.

—Propose methods for strengthening administration agencies; explore the need for higher penalties, including fines and jail sentences for serious violations.

—"Discover whether new substantive law is needed, to deal with harmful activity that is not, or may not now be, illegal."

In urging the compiling of this information, the commission stressed: "The proposed studies are essential to make the public aware of the seriousness of business crime."

"Without such awareness and the resulting demand for action, legislatures, courts and administrative agencies will continue, as is now usually the case, to treat business offenses as relatively minor mistakes," warned the commission. "The laws relating to business activities should be enforced as vigorously as those relating to the more traditional forms of crime."

HANDLING THE BOMB — When the commission's time bomb reached the President, he quickly directed it to Marvin Watson and Joseph Califano, White House assistants chiefly responsible for domestic affairs.

After a round of staff conferences, it was decided that Miss Furness should determine the reaction of business and consumer groups before doing anything about the commission's proposal.

The White House's wariness of the recommendation was indicated by Califano's referring to it at one meeting as "one of the most politically explosive proposals in the crime report." Another White House assistant remarked, "Every business group in the country will be up in arms once they learn that the Crime Commission proposed studies in immoral and anti-social conduct in their fields."

Pull Up A Chair

By FRANK JAY MARKEY

We heard the other day about a nation-wide firm that requires its traveling salesmen to file their expense accounts on a tape recording. They found the average expense account was reduced about 25 per cent since the practice was initiated. Seems it is harder to pad an account when speaking into a microphone than it is when filing a written report. Wonder what kind of genius dreamed up that one?

Today's smile: We liked the story about the drunk who fell from a second story window and picked himself up from the pavement and tried to stagger away. One bystander grabbed his arm and asked: "What happened?" "I dunno," said the drunk, "I just got here."

One of the most sought-after honors among race track jockeys is not to ride a winner in the Kentucky Derby, as you would suppose, but to become eligible for membership in the "3,000 Club." That means the jockey has booted in 3,000 winners. Only five active jockeys belong. They include: Willie Hartack, Steve Brooks, Willie Shoemaker, Avelino Gomez and Bobby Ussery. The all-time big winner was Johnny Longden, who booted home 6,032 winners during his active long-time career.

Thoughts while shaving: Many of the big ski resorts are happier with their non-skiing guests than they are with those who slalom on the slopes. They have found the non-skiers hang around the ski lodge, and spend money, whereas the ski enthusiasts are gone all day and return at night too tired to enjoy the meals and liquor available there. Sounds reasonable.

The power of advertising is tremendous. The U.S. is again becoming bad breath conscious and as a result it is estimated $120 million will be spent in the 50 states this year for mouthwashes. We can recall when one of the big pharmaceutical firms had everyone in the country in a dither with the slogan, "Even your best friends won't tell you," the idea being that you had bad breath and should use their product. And speaker of products, one U.S. manufacturer stamps all of his American-made products "Made in Japan" just so buyers will think they are getting a bargain. . . There's an employment agency in San Francisco that specializes in placing beatniks in paying jobs ranging from babysitters to truck drivers. Their ads ask: "Do you cell. The council expired on June 12, 1966, and the President has named no new members. . . Marvin Watson is largely responsible for the naming of Betty Furness to replace Mrs. Esther Peterson as consumer adviser. The President declined to make this change after Watson showed him a picture of Mrs. Peterson embarrassing a Denver housewife who headed up the recent boycott of chain stores.

Ignoring 'Shoes-Off' Touch Cost Lodge His Viet Post

By RAY CROMLEY
WASHINGTON (NEA) — We are fond of blaming Asian customs for many of our difficulties in Vietnam.

But friends of Henry Cabot Lodge claim it was a old New England tradition, basically, that defeated him as ambassador to Vietnam.

In the best Boston form, in which the "Lodges speak only to Cabots . . ." Lodge's major contacts with the Vietnamese had narrowed basically to the half-dozen or so men at the top.

Lodge did not maintain close contact with the leadership of the assembly or with others outside the ruling military junta. He did not keep close to leaders in the varied sections of Vietnamese life — newspaper editors, professors, politicians, lawyers and other professional men, nor with farm groups, merchants or other segments of the population.

In many countries this would not have mattered. In Vietnam it does.

To make things worse, Lodge had as his political analyst a brilliantly successful statistical analyst extremely weak in understanding people — especially Vietnamese — people and their ways. He was unable to see past his statistics.

In the Vietnam - type political military war, American and Vietnamese leaders on the spot up and down the line must fit together as closely as gloves fit hands.

This must not be a mere formal closeness. It must be the type in which men in both groups, Vietnamese and American, know exactly what the others are thinking and why.

Otherwise, discussions become mere parlor games when you talk about highly delicate things — the corruption of some high officials, the inefficiency of some generals, the pros and cons of military strategies which have strong personal repercussions, how to get men to voluntarily give up power in an election.

Only men who understand each other intimately can talk on such sensitive points in the middle of a war and get any place.

A former prime minister of Vietnam has complained to this reporter about the absence of this informal closeness.

What we need are American officials, he said, who will take off their shoes and talk to us as friends — bluntly and frankly. There's too much formality in our relationship.

The informal, personal approach is important in Vietnam because Vietnamese politics and government is very personal. Men have strong personal loyalties and follow friends or personal leaders more than platforms or slogans. This is the secret of Ho Chi Minh's strength.

Unless Americans get close to this under - the-surface inner play, we won't have the understanding to play our role successfully in the war or in helping to set up a democratically elected government in Vietnam.

Bladder Control Natural Development, Not Forced
I get many letters from mothers whose children are bedwetters. One cause of this condition is too intense an effort to toilet train a child in the first three years of his life. Bladder control usually develops naturally but not until a child has learned to recognize when his bladder is full and has learned to start urinating by a conscious release of the controlling muscle or sphincter. Full control is rarely achieved before age 3, and too much stress at an earlier age with failures, frustrating to both parent and child, defeats the purpose of the training.

Another cause — too small an opening of the urinary outlet — has been treated by a minor operation. The results are said to be excellent in selected cases where this is the chief cause of the trouble but, if other causative factors are present, the operation alone will not produce a cure. Emotional tensions are often cited, especially by psychiatrists, as a cause but more often the tensions are the result of the bedwetting rather than the cause.

In a recent study one group of bedwetters was treated by restricting fluids after 5 p.m. and a similar group by forcing the drinking of fluids and voluntarily refraining from urinating for prolonged periods during the day. In a follow-up period of three to eight months the greatest improvement was observed in the forced-drinking group. This was attributed to an increase in bladder capacity as proved by measurements of urinary output.

When all else fails, an electric warning device can be placed in the bed. It sets off an alarm when a few drops of urine moisten its electrodes. For best results, the parents must make sure the child gets up promptly and empties his bladder when the alarm goes off.

Q — Our 1-year-old daughter has a low blood count and the doctor says she has Mediterranean anemia. Is there any cure for it?

A — In Mediterranean anemia (Cooley's anemia or thalassemia) the red blood cells are fewer and thinner than normal. The disease is hereditary but the details of its transmission from generation to generation have not been worked out. There is a mild form which requires no treatment and a severe form for which the only treatment is repeated transfusions. Removal of the spleen may allow a longer interval between transfusions.

have a job for a needy hippie, beatnik or high school dropout?" They place about 36 applicants per day. . . He believed anyone sporting a beard and long hair would prove unstable and disruptive to his organization. . . The Boston (Mass.) RECORD AMERICAN headlined a story: "Should Have Stood in Bed." A splendid idea.

Editor:

Douglas MacArthur, one of our greatest generals, warned that the US should avoid a ground war in Asia. He had many reasons, but ignoring geography, logistics, etc., simple arithmetic in itself provides a decisive answer. Red China admits at 100 million excess young men that its "humane" leaders must somehow liquidate. An AP release revealed communist fatalities 11-fold greater than US fatalities in 1966 but only 7-fold greater so far this year. Because Red China repeatedly states she will send men to Vietnam any time requested, what better strategy could the figureheads of this branch of the Int'l Communist octopus devise than to make cannon fodder of its hungry millions?

When American fatalities rise into the 100,000's as they certainly must against such odds, and our casualties jump into the millions, will we still fight them in Vietnam and help them everywhere else or will the greatest nation of history just fade away into the peace of a worldwide communist empire under the suppression of the worst and most effectively organized criminals that mankind has ever known?

The Creative Elite in America is worthy of being studied by all who are interested in the well-being and preservation of all that is best in the heredity of the American people...

In this book Mr. Weyl has not only identified the creative elites in America, in their various fields, but in doing so he has helped—without setting out to do so—to bring powerful support to the genetic fact of assortative mating...

The parts of this book which deal with genius in the countries of origin is particularly interesting, not only to Americans but to those in Europe who are concerned with the preservation of the creative elite in their midst...

In the present conditions when there is almost a vested interest in attempting to prove (against all scientific facts, and only by the suppression of vital evidence, supplemented often by distortions and even untruths) that man can build in the future...

PRINCIPLES OF ECONOMICS

Is Inflation Moral

By HANS SENNHOLZ (American Opinion)

In countries that are not yet socialistic the teachings of Lord Keynes usually provide the guideposts for government policies.

Keynesian economics is inflation economics. In order to assure full employment and desirable national growth rates, Keynesians believe, we must attain certain levels of national spending.

But government spending creates more than an offset for other sector deficits. According to Keynesian teaching, it is subject to the multiplier principle.

The fundamental question diligently avoided by all Keynesians, is this: What is the source of money which governments are supposed to spend?

In a recession, when Keynesians want the government to accelerate its spending in order to offset declining spending by businessmen...

Or, the government may borrow the funds needed for contractionary spending. But a cyclical government withdraws capital from the market...

And finally, the inflation that was to alleviate unemployment and recession must lead to another recession after the boom has run its course.

Try, Try Again

(Cincinnati Enquirer)

There is an interesting but grim footnote to the current controversy about the United States-Soviet consular convention now pending before the Senate...

On Nov. 16 of that year, President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Maxim Litvinov, the Soviet foreign commissar, exchanged memoranda setting forth the conditions of the new relationship between the two countries.

Oddly enough, this is one of the objectives of the current consular convention. Had the Soviet Union lived up to its word in 1933, it would scarcely have been necessary to negotiate a consular convention in 1964.

Even since 1964, the Russians have been unwilling to observe its terms. Twenty Americans have been detained by Soviet police since the convention's signing.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST United Press International WASHINGTON (UPI) — Although Great Britain is no longer a colonial power, she still manages by one means or another to extract goodly sums from some of her former colonies.

Especially the United States. I have a theory that each time Britain is faced with a financial crisis, the Chancellor of the Exchequer calls an emergency meeting of the committee on ex-colonial nincompoopery.

The chairman raps his gavel and says, "All right, gentlemen. It's hard cheese time again. Does anyone have any ideas on how we can get out of this one?"

Has a Thought The Liverpool rises and says, "I'm just thinking off the top of my head now, but here's something that might work."

"We get four of our young chaps and have them grow long hair. Then we hand them to America on a concert tour. "It doesn't matter whether they can play or not. The long hair is what will pack them in."

Another Thought "Gentlemen, if we can tap the American fashion market, it will see us over the hump. So here is what we do. We have our designers take some of those hastily dresses that haven't been selling and cut them off about six inches above the knee."

"Then we tell the Americans that this girl is the world's most sought after fashion model. She can go to the United States and clean up. It will help to give her an outlandish name. I recommend calling her either 'the Splinter' or 'Twiggy.'"

Cuban Revolution Leader Reported In Bolivia Region

LA PAZ (UPI) —Bolivian army commander Gen. Jorge Belmonte said Monday night that Cuban revolutionary leader Ernesto "Che" Guevara has organized a guerrilla army in the mountainous southeastern region of Bolivia.

He said he had received reports that Chinese, Cuban and European Communists were included in the army.

Reports circulated here that two platoons of U.S. guerrilla warfare specialists had arrived to aid the Bolivian government. Officials denied this.

Until Monday, the government had refused to acknowledge the existence of guerrillas in Bolivia.

Belmonte said Guevara, an Argentine-born professional revolutionary who was Cuban Premier Fidel Castro's chief henchman, had been to Bolivia on two occasions to organize the guerrillas.

He did not state the source of his information.

Guevara's whereabouts have been a mystery since he dropped out of sight two years ago. Castro has said nothing except that Guevara is alive and will reappear "when least expected." Many considered the bearded Communist dead.

Belmonte said the presence of the guerrillas became known when they attacked an army patrol near Sucre recently, killing an officer, six privates and a civilian.

He said helicopter-borne troops subsequently killed 15 guerrillas and captured four, and that Bolivian air force planes bombed suspected guerrilla hideouts in the Camiri area near Sucre, which is Bolivia's legal capital.

President Rene Barrientos headed an emergency cabinet meeting to discuss the guerrilla problem then decreed a "state of emergency" —meaning virtual martial law—in the affected area.

The dead are helping living victims of burns to recover more quickly, according to surgeons who are using skin taken from cadavers for temporary grafts to speed the healing of burned areas of skin and to lessen the amount of permanent grafting required.

Very Red Situation

"By every readable signal, the situation was very red," Manchester writes, noting that both the President and vice president were out of Washington and six members of the cabinet were airborne over the Pacific on a secret mission involving the Vietnam situation.

Most incredible of all, Manchester says, Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson did not know the cabinet's whereabouts when he became President and had never been informed about procedure to follow in the case of nuclear attack, instructions for which were contained in a football shaped case aboard the presidential jet. If war had materialized "the country's retaliatory arsenal could be spiked" until Johnson was briefed.

"Had Russia attacked across the Dew Line, the greatest of the world might easily have been muscled during the 15 fateful minutes of warning time and perhaps even afterward, when second-strike capacity became a factor," the book asserts.

The author says the most sinister development was the gradual blackout of Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. service in the Washington area, suggesting massive sabotage. Actually it was due to an unprecedented load of calls between 2 p.m. EST when Kennedy was pronounced dead and 4 p.m. when government workers began going home.

Phone Paralyzed

Phones in the Senate and House offices, the various department headquarters, the White House and even the Signal Corps were temporarily paralyzed. Sen. Edward Kennedy roamed the streets of his neighborhood, trying the phones of strangers, until he got through to Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy to learn if his brother was dead.

'Death of a President' To Go On Sale After Long Controversy

By FREDERICK M WINSTIP
United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI) —President Kennedy's assassination precipitated a two-hour telephone blackout in Washington that could have meant the difference between survival and defeat if Russia had been plotting nuclear war, William Manchester's "The Death of a President" discloses.

The book, to be published April 6 after months of controversy, says that the Army Signal Corps still has not been given the go-ahead to link the homes of all vital government officials to an emergency telephone system, even though it has the equipment and expertise. The lesson of Nov 23, 1963 has yet to be learned, Manchester writes.

"A study of that afternoon suggests that in any disaster on a weekday commercial telephones would become highly unreliable," according to Manchester.

The 710-page account of the assassination and its aftermath—published by Harper & Row—will go on sale for $10 a copy just a month after the final installment of a four-part series in Look magazine. The Look series skinned the cream off the highly detailed, minute-by-minute history but slighted Manchester's thesis that the United States was vulnerable to a government coup or an attack by a foreign power during the tragedy in Dallas.

Authorities from the President and the Joint Chiefs of Staff down to lowest echelon secretaries feared a Russian plot and one cabinet member over the Pacific assumed that a nuclear bomb had been dropped on an American city. The joint chiefs ordered every U.S. military base in the world on alert.

The book says Gen. Maxwell Taylor issued a special warning to troops in the Washington area. John McCone, director of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA), ordered his extraordinary "watch committee" to focus its activities on Moscow and Peking.

Reliable Reports

The CIA got an "absolutely reliable" report from agents in Geneva "who had positively verified an elaborate plot to murder General de Gaulle on the stretch of pavement outside the cathedral (St. Matthews) in Washington where De Gaulle was attending Kennedy's funeral," Manchester reveals.

De Gaulle was urged not to walk behind the casket with other heads of state but to take a limousine out of "courtesy to Mrs. Kennedy." The French president replied that his "courtesy to Mrs. Kennedy would be to show disregard for his life," and he walked. FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover made a final appeal to De Gaulle, whose reply was "pfft."

When the story of Lee Harvey Oswald's stay in Russia became known to the experts, the suspicion of a Communist plot deepened and the State Department's principal officers began "a spirited discussion over the possibility of war." Soviet expert Thomas B. Thompson argued that the Russians might kill defectors but did not assassinate chiefs of state.

Mikoyan Wept

Thompson was vindicated by events, and First Deputy Premier Ananás I. Mikoyan of Russia became one of the chief mourners at Kennedy's funeral, weeping openly on a number of occasions, Manchester writes. When Mrs. Kennedy told him and Premier Khrushchev "must carry on my husband's work" for peace, he covered his face with both hands to hide his emotion.

The book backs the "one killer"—Oswald—and the "two shot"—theories of Kennedy's assassination. It draws a sympathetic portrait of Johnson and his close relationship with Mrs. Kennedy, whose dignity of character and sense of purpose dominate the book.

"At a time when we showed the world our seamy, ugly side, she revealed and symbolized our nobler side," Johnson is quoted as saying. "We should always be grateful to her."

One of the first things Johnson did on his return to Washington was to write "Dear John" and "Dear Caroline" letters to the Kennedy children, telling them "always be proud of what he (their father) did for his country."

He wrote these first notes on executive mansion stationery.

The first multi-engine aircraft was built and flown by Igor Ivan Sikorsky while still in his native Russia.

Midway Island was discovered by Capt. N. C. Brooks of the Hawaiian bark Gambia on July 5, 1859.

When Mrs. Kennedy told him and Premier Khrushchev "must carry on my husband's work" for peace, he covered his face with both hands to hide his emotion.

HERE ARE THE CONVICTIONS THAT LED TO

OUR BELIEF IN A UNIVERSAL SINGLE STANDARD OF RIGHT

Open To Challenge

Before stating our belief in a universal standard of right we want to make it clear that we invite questions on this belief. And, if we cannot answer without evasion or contradictions, we are not worthy of your confidence and will admit our error and change our belief.

Want Information

We believe that most of our political trouble comes from putting confidence in persons who continue to advocate government economic planning even though they can neither rationally answer questions about what they advocate, nor find anyone who can.

We know of no better way to learn and develop, and thus be able to be useful, than have our convictions questioned either privately or publicly.

The Pampa Daily News believes in a system of universal natural law.

It is our belief that every fact of existence—if it is a fact—is immutable, irrevocable and eternal.

That is — we believe that moral facts are no less concrete and timeless than physical facts. The law of gravity does not change with seasons; atomic behavior is not subject to the good intentions of man. For physical facts are not capable of change; else they would not be facts.

And so we believe it is with moral facts, which stem from the same source as physical laws.

Let's take two facts, one physical and one moral.

1. Water seeks its level.

It is commonly accepted that the first fact is not subject to amendment. A change in political administration, a vote of the people, a petition of the Society of Learned Mathematicians of the World cannot change it. It exists as a fact.

The second law, we believe, is no more subject to amendment than the first. The majority might wink at it, try to reconcile it with some base or unsound conviction. But that does not affect the law — only the people who must live by it. Jumping out of a five-story building to flout the law of gravity will hardly bring about a suspension of that law. Neither will disregarding moral law bring about its abolition.

Guide To Morality

Now, we have outlined our convictions in fundamental moral law, or fact.

Next, it is incumbent upon us to state a single universal law or fact as we believe it:

Persons, groups and governments ought not threaten to initiate force or use it to attain their ends. This would certainly mean, Thou shalt not steal individually or collectively. If no person or group stole, there would be no murder, no false witness, no adultery.

To express the belief positively, all individuals or groups should get what they get in a manner that would be profitable to all. Then all would respect the private property of others 100%. That would be true liberty, and voluntarism.

That is our interpretation of the Declaration of Independence. This is the universal single standard of right we use as our measuring device of morality — a yardstick of ethics.

Thus we believe:

1. That every man is born with equal unalienable rights to take moral action to make more secure his property which includes first his life, then his liberty and all he produces.

2. That these rights are the endowment of the Creator and not the gift of any government.

Since we believe these facts are expressed in this guide of human conduct, we do not believe any man has the moral right to curtail the rights of his brother. That is, no man has the right to initiate force against his brother. Every man, to be sure, has the right to resist the initiation of force, but should not initiate it.

In all of recorded history, men have banded together for certain reasons — to hunt, to play, to trade, to build. In a voluntary association, such as the one that publishes this newspaper, each man exercises his rights through the group. BUT, simply because each man is the member of a group, he cannot morally assume rights he did not possess as an individual. And, neither does the group possess rights which the individuals in that group do not possess as individuals.

An example—John Doe is a shoe salesman. He does not have a right to sell shoes at gunpoint. Even, if 10,000 John Does in the shoe business form an organization, that organization does not have the right to sell shoes at gunpoint.

Rights and morality are individual matters. These moral laws do not make exceptions for groups. They do not say, "Thou shalt not steal except at the desire of the majority." They say, "Thou shalt not steal" Period. And a man's association with a group does not relieve him of the burden of these laws.

We believe, therefore, in a single standard of conduct. Thomas Jefferson stated the matter. He wrote: "I know of but one code of morality, whether it be for men or for nations."

Immanuel Kant, another great student of morals, in his "Metaphysics of Morals" wrote: "... I ask myself only: Can I will that my maxim become a universal law?"

Single Standard of Conduct

Our belief in a single standard of conduct, and in the existence of individual rights, and in the fact of universal natural law, brings us to oppose all things in which an individual or group seeks to initiate force — that is, curtail the rights of any other individual or group.

We must oppose each brand of socialism, whether it is called Communism, Fascism, Fabian Socialism, New Dealism or New Frontierism.

We oppose socialism in factories, schools, churches and in the market place.

We do not believe there is any such animal as "good political socialism," either on a local, national or international scale. We do not believe in initiating force for any reason, even though the cause is a "good" one.

We believe it is violating the rights of the individual to force him to support a school, church, industry, business or profession if he does not choose to do so.

Two men out of a hundred have no moral right to force the 98 to support a school or church. Neither do the 98 have the moral right to force the remaining two men to support that school or church.

If that belief is contrary to the above standards we want to be convinced. Repeatedly we have offered as much as $1,000 to prominent persons who advocate using collective initiated force to examine publicly the morality of using such force where each person would agree to answer questions as he would before a court. We earnestly seek to be shown any errors in our reasoning.

If six, 26 or 6,000,000 individuals voluntarily get together to establish a church, school, business or club—and if those people do not curtail the rights of anyone inside or outside their own group — we have no argument with them.

The majority cannot write moral law. Neither can the minority. But, neither does the majority enjoy any moral advantages denied the minority, or the individual.

We believe, therefore, in a voluntary supported government. The state, at best, exercises those powers which the individuals in that state voluntarily have turned over to the state for administration. An example: We prefer a private police force because we'd rather support a police force than wear a gun. But if some do not want to support a police force, they should not be forced to do so. Nor should they receive its services. The police force should have no powers denied any individual, and neither should the existence of a police force abridge the right of any citizen to defend himself.

We do not believe the state has any rights simply because it is a state.

Governments should exist only to try to protect the rights of EVERY individual — not to redistribute the property, manipulate the economy or establish the pattern of a society.

These are the basic elements in our belief and of our editorial convictions.

"Regrettably, we do not always follow this principle. We fall into error. Our humility perhaps, is not sufficient to the effort. But it is our belief to the degree a universal single standard of right is followed you will have a deeper understanding of your religion, greater freedom and security and more happiness and a higher standard of living. This belief will also benefit every person in the community, the state, the nation and the world. That is the reason it is our belief."

Tailored for Breakage

Ever wonder why there aren't more casualties at the launching of a new ship, what with flying glass as the traditional bottle of bubbly is broken over the bow? A peek into preparation of the bottle by a Pittsburgh, Pa., shipbuilding firm may explain why. The bottle is first scored, at left, for easier breaking over the ship's hull, and then wrapped in a wire mesh which lets the foam fly, but keeps glass particles inside. The top is also wrapped with tape so the christener won't cut her hands, then wrapped decoratively, as at lower left.

THE ANCIENT RITE of christening ships at launching with a bottle of wine dates back 4,000 years, to the days when ships were launched with human sacrifice as supplication to the sea gods. Generally, in modern times, only ocean-going vessels are christened as they enter the water. Inland-water vessels are christened in the water, then christened on land, entering service.

The rite was performed at right was by Dravo Shipbuilding Co., which manufactures bottles for its ship launching and for public ceremonies.
