Soviet Cosmonaut Killed As Space Capsule Crashes

Entangled Parachute Cause of Accident

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet cosmonaut Vladimir Komarov was killed today when the straps of his spaceship parachute became entangled as it was landing from a space flight and the space capsule crashed to earth.

It was the first time the Russians had ever reported the loss of one of their spacemen and it marked the first fatal accident involving a spaceman.

Komarov, 40, a veteran of a three-man space bus flight in 1964, had taken off Sunday morning in Soyuz 1 (Union-1), the biggest spacecraft ever launched. Something went wrong and he was forced to return to earth.

The brief official description indicated that Komarov's death resulted from a freak accident. It did not say where the fatal crash occurred.

A state funeral was being organized under the direction of Communist Party Politburo member Mikhail Suslov.

The official announcement said Komarov "completely fulfilled the set program" of his flight and had been ordered to return.

Indications of serious trouble had cropped up earlier, however. Well-informed sources said the Soviets had planned to launch another Soyuz spaceship today to dock with Komarov's spaceship for history's first exchange of crews in space.

Three American astronauts were killed in January in a flash fire aboard their spacecraft while it was on a launching pad at Cape Kennedy. No American has been killed in actual flight.

Komarov, 40, who had a heart murmur, overcame doctor's doubts to gain the top place in the cosmonaut team and take Russia's first manned satellite in 23 months into orbit.

He was a reticent, almost laconic flier who once underwent a serious operation, leading doctors to decide to drop him from the program.

"But he did not give up and five months after the operation Komarov caught up fully with his group and regained his position of a senior comrade whose advice was frequently sought by younger colleagues," Tass said.

He was married and had two children.

The Tass announcement said: "Cosmonaut Vladimir Komarov has perished when completing the test flight of the space ship 'Soyuz.' It did not indicate there would be further details.

King Calls For 10,000 Volunteers To End Viet War

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI) — Conceding it would cost him support of some whites, the Rev. Martin Luther King Sunday called for 10,000 volunteers to force an end to the war in Vietnam in a summer campaign patterned after the civil rights movement.

Amidst conflicting reports that he planned to run for the presidency in 1968, King told a news conference here Sunday, "We seek to defeat Lyndon Johnson and his war."

King scheduled a news conference for 11 a.m. today in New York. He told an audience of more than 1,000 persons in Boston's Jordan Hall he would make a "final announcement" concerning his political plans today.

Flanked by pediatrician Dr. Benjamin Spock and Robert Scheer, editor of Ramparts Magazine, King said at Christ Episcopal Church near Harvard University:

"Many people voted for President Johnson because he represented restraint. But now Johnson is acting like Barry Goldwater."

Chester Hartmann, an assistant professor of city planning at Harvard, acting as executive director of the "Vietnam Summer" project, said 10,000 persons would be sought to work in 500 cities mobilizing opposition to the war.

According to Hartmann, the organizers would seek to form anti-drift leagues, buy advertising, boycott companies and influence local political committees to oppose "the war."

"We must build a powerful and well-informed peace bloc to stimulate activity to end the war," King said. "The time has come to meet the escalation of the war in Vietnam with the escalation of opposition to that war."

Five Killed In State Auto Crash Sunday

By United Press International
An East Texas highway accident that killed five and a surge of drownings helped send Texas' weekend violent death toll tragically upward.

A United Press International survey for the period between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday showed at least 35 violent deaths, including 22 highway fatalities.

The worst accident was a two-vehicle smashup near Big Sandy Sunday morning that killed five.

The dead were Kenneth Ray Strickland, 19, and his sister, Ellen Bullard, 22, of Tyler and Billy Gene Walker, 25, and William C. Grissom, 31, both of Springhill, La., and Donald J. Lane, 28, of Shreveport, La.

The Texas Department of Public Safety said the Strickland pickup truck was headed east on U.S. 80 and collided head-on with a car driven by Walker.

Two young brothers drowned Saturday when they fell into a small lake near Hereford. They were Jesse Gonzalez, 8, and his brother, David.

U.S. Jets Bomb MIG Bases for First Time

SAIGON (UPI) — American planes today bombed Communist MIG interceptor bases in North Vietnam for the first time, U.S. spokesmen said. U.S. Air Force jets hit the bases near Hanoi.

American spokesmen said pilots hit two bases and "reported both missions successful." They said pilots in the daring daylight raid used fragmentation bombs which erupt into thousands of chunks of metal.

The U.S. jets hit Hoa Lac field 19 miles west of Hanoi and Kep field 37 miles northeast of the North Vietnamese capital, spokesmen said.

These are two of the five main reported MIG bases in the Communist country.

The action came as U.S. Marines stormed down South Vietnam's northern coast following an air-sea landing designed to rout Communists threatening the bastion cities of Hue and Quang Tri.

U.S. spokesmen also reported the downing of a supersonic MIG21 Sunday by American F4C Phantoms engaged in bombing runs over the vital Thai Nguyen steel fabrication plant 38 miles north of Hanoi.

A communique from U.S. military headquarters here said, "Targets were limited to aircraft service facilities and aircraft parked on the fields."

There was no immediate indication how many of the Russian-designed MIGs were caught in the raids. But U.S. spokesmen said up to nine MIG21s including the supersonic MIG23 have been sighted at Hoa Lac and up to 20 at Kep.

The raids formed the heaviest American blow yet against North Vietnam's growing air arm. At last report the Communist country had 120 to 130 Soviet-supplied fighter-interceptors.

As their numbers grew, so did the MIGs' daring. Last week in one day they fought 17 dogfights with American planes raiding North Vietnam.

The decision to bomb the MIG bases ended a reported long-standing debate in high military circles. Many had opposed such raids, saying it would force North Vietnam to move its warplanes into Communist China for sanctuary. There the planes could not be hit without a giant escalation of the war.

In South Vietnam, U.S. spokesmen announced a massive ground sweep through Communist jungle strongholds on the northern fringes of the "Iron Triangle" about 50 miles north of Saigon.

They said Operation Manhattan sent almost two full U.S. Infantry Divisions plus armored columns and South Vietnamese troops driving through a key link in the Communist underground supply system.

American B52 heavy bombers hit Communist infiltration routes in the southern fringes of North Vietnam only a few meters from the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) today and flew into other raids against Communist concentrations in the northern provinces.

Clear Photos Taken By Surveyor Camera

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — A series of "very clear" pictures of earth and Venus were taken today by America's Surveyor 3 as the moon robot looked across space to its launching point.

The sequence of pictures were taken as the spacecraft endured a temperature drop to "room temperature in the 70s" during the eclipse of the sun. Light was provided by the sun's rays filtering through the earth's atmosphere.

A spokesman at Caltech's Jet Propulsion Laboratory said the first picture taken with a wide angle lens was "rather vague so we opened the shutter and got a very clear picture." A series of photos was taken with a variety of filter changes in which the green filter seemed to work best, the spokesman said.

After an hour's filming of the area generally in the western hemisphere of earth the camera was swung toward Venus and "we found it and got a clear picture. But when we attempted to zoom in with a narrow angle lens we missed and got a big, fat, beautiful star field," the spokesman said.

A total of 118 pictures was taken before Surveyor 3 was ordered to rest during the scorching heat of the day.

The television camera was turned off early Sunday because of the intense heat of the approaching lunar noon. But later in the day scientists reactivated the camera to shoot about 40 pictures of the area in front of the craft, where its beak-like shovel scratched a four- and a half inch furrow in the moon's tephrit.

Scientists said indications from photographs of the digging operations in the moon's Sea of Storms were that the site "looked good" as a landing place for Apollo astronauts.

Girl Scout Leaders Due Honors Here

Johnson Will Confer With Top Europeans

BONN (UPI) — President Johnson today consoled West German leaders over the death of former Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, Johnson, who arrived Sunday night for Tuesday's funeral for Adenauer and expected informal summit talks with French President Charles de Gaulle and British Prime Minister Harold Wilson, paid courtesy calls of 40 minutes on West German President Heinrich Lübke and an unexpectedly long 80 minutes with Chancellor Kurt-Georg Kiesinger.

The former chancellor who fashioned modern West Germany from the ruins of World War II and won for it a firm place in the Atlantic alliance, died last Wednesday. He was 91.

Johnson's jetliner landed at the military section of Wahn Airport, 15 miles from Bonn, and only diplomats and a limited number of newsmen were permitted in the area. Credentials were carefully scrutinized.

Several thousand Germans braved near-freezing weather and occasional rain to gather behind a high wire fence several hundred yards away.

The President, who returns to Washington Wednesday, was paying courtesy calls on West German President Heinrich Lübke and Chancellor Kurt-Georg Kiesinger.

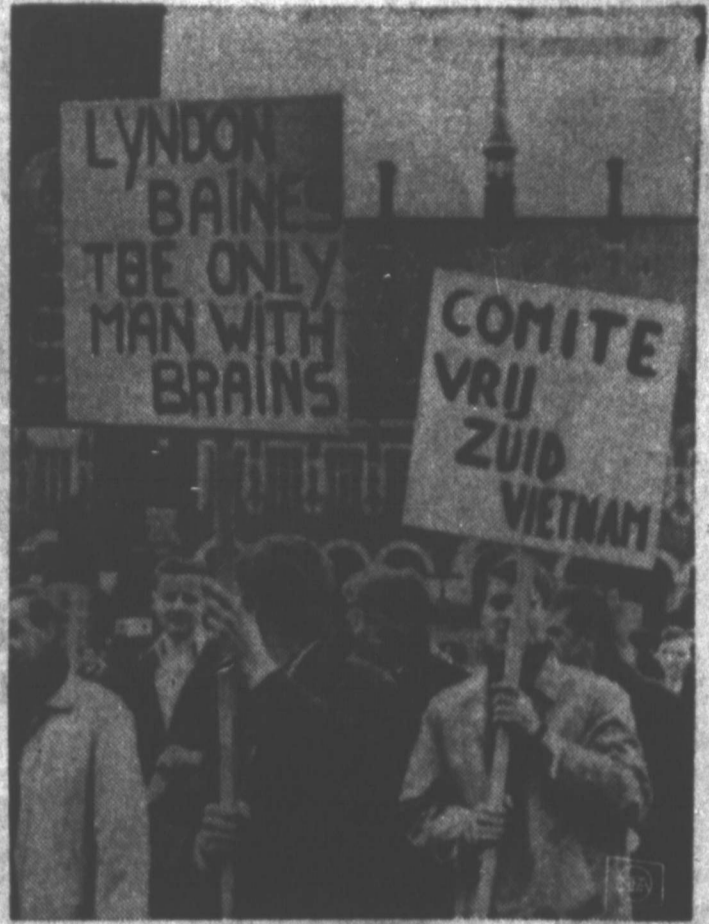

A White House spokesman said they discussed nothing deeply in the meetings, but he said Lübke in passing touched on Vietnam.

The West German chief of state said during a recent three-week tour he found no opposition to American action in Vietnam in South Korea, Malaysia, Thailand, Nepal and Afghanistan.

"These were personal courtesy calls and there were no substantive discussions," the spokesman stressed. "The President wanted them to know that the loss of Adenauer was not only a loss for the German people but to the entire free world."

Both meetings had been expected to be purely diplomatic. Neither was expected to wrestle with the problems that have recently begun to trouble the Washington-Bonn friendship.

SOMETHING DIFFERENT occurred at the Peace Palace in The Hague, Netherlands, when pickets demonstrated in favor of United States policy in Vietnam and President Johnson.

Greeks Jail 500 Reds

ATHENS (UPI) — The Greek army has shipped off to a rocky prison island 500 of the Communists it blames for starting the trouble that ended in the military seizure of the country, informed sources said today.

They said a ship loaded with political prisoners sailed Sunday from the port of Piraeus to the craggy island of Yura in the northern Aegean Sea.

Troops and police under army orders rounded up the Communists before dawn Friday in the first moments of the coup. The officers said they acted to prevent bloodshed that would have resulted from a Salonika demonstration called by former Premier George Papandreu now under arrest. They said the grazed, 78-year-old arch foe of King Constantine planned to call a "people's revolution" at Salonika, Greece's second largest city.

At Madrid, the king's sister, Princess Sophia, arrived after being delayed in Athens by the coup for two days. She told newsmen Sunday night "Greece is calm, as far as I could see, and the royal family is living in perfect conditions."

In Athens, the official Athens news agency quoted new Premier Constantine Kollias, former supreme court chief prosecutor, as saying absolute calm and order prevailed over the country.

Life in Athens appeared returning to normal, Shots, apparently fired to drive loiterers home, popped during the 1 a.m. to 5 a.m. curfew. But schools were reopening today as were the stock market and banks.

Tornado Death Toll Now Stands at 53

CHICAGO (UPI) — The tornadoes which reduced northern Illinois communities to rubble had by today taken 53 lives. Damage to homes and businesses was estimated at more than $25 million.

At least nine persons were missing as volunteers, officials and National Guardsmen waded through inches-deep snow to search the ruins. Governmental agencies set into motion plans to provide financial aid.

Gerhard Hein, police chief at suburban Oak Lawn, said three persons died Sunday, raising the village's death toll to 30. He said about nine persons were missing.

Belvidere Hit Hard
Twenty-one persons were killed at Belvidere, a county seat 55 miles northwest of Chicago. Single fatalities were counted in Stone Park, 14 miles north of Oak Lawn, and in Chicago where a man was electrocuted by a fallen power line.

Large flakes of wet snow began falling Sunday, adding to the miseries of thousands of the homeless and the crews striving to bring order out of chaos.

The curious and the anxious were major problems Sunday. Hein pleaded for sightseers to stay out of Oak Lawn. Belvidere Police Chief Kenneth Richardson said, "If we didn't have any sightseers, we wouldn't have any problems."

Enforce Curfew
Hein said "if necessary" Oak Lawn would remain under a curfew until Wednesday. During the weekend, residents had to have passes to move through the streets. Armed National Guardsmen and local police patrolled to protect against looting.

Thomas Gause, regional director of the Small Business Administration, reported 650 homes in Boone, Lake and Cook counties—all declared disaster areas—were destroyed by Friday's tornadoes. He said another 450 homes suffered major damage and 500 homes suffered minor damage.

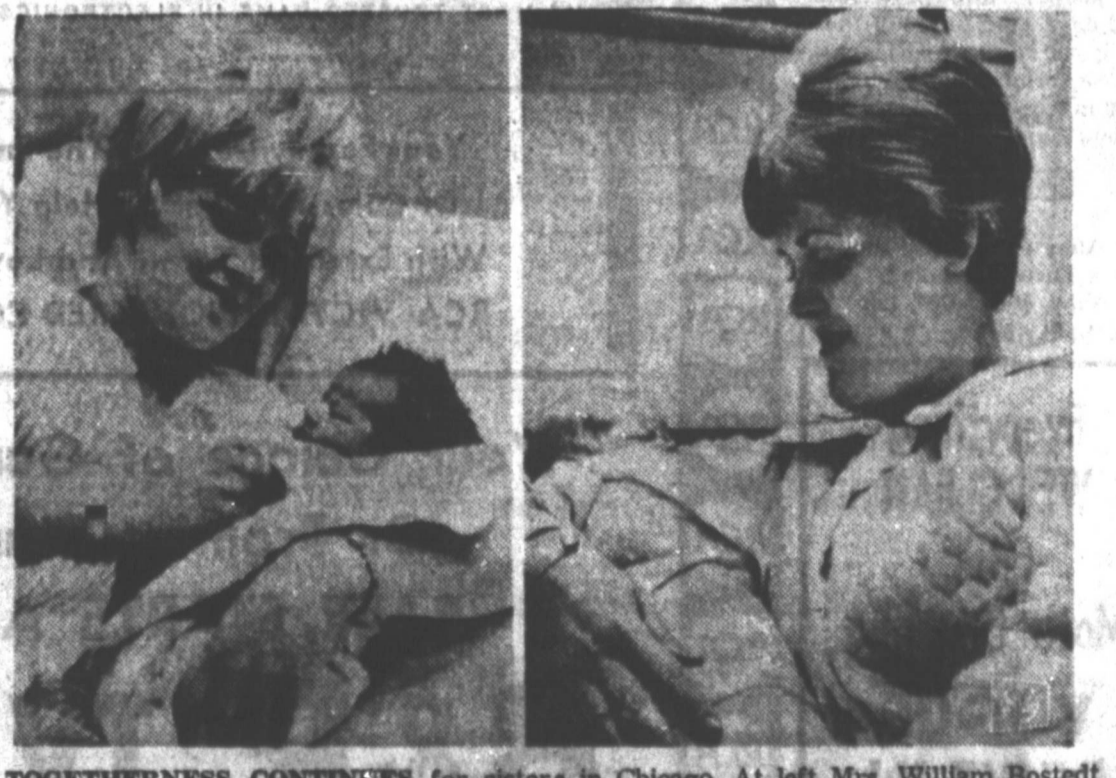

The Insurance Information Institute said the tornadoes and storms which also touched Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin and Michigan, did damage that might reach $25 million.

Pampa Senior Girls To Review Information On Sorority Goals

The tea for graduating senior girls and their mothers, hosted annually by Pampa Panhellenic, will be held Sunday, April 30 at 3 p.m. in the Hospitality Room of Citizens Bank and Trust Co. It is planned to be informative as well as entertaining according to Mrs. Malcolm Douglass, president.

"Every girl who is planning to go to college should avail herself of this opportunity to learn about the various aspects of sorority memberships," Mrs. Douglass said. "The advantages and costs as well as the rules pertaining to 'rush', the method used for chapters to become acquainted with prospective members, will be discussed.

As every active chapter requests that a picture accompany a recommendation, it will be helpful to alums, as well as to the girl, if each will bring eight billfold size pictures, or the number of the sororities on her campus, to be placed in this master file for use of those recommending her, Mrs. Douglass said.

To insure information is available to each sorority, Panhellenic requests a card be filled out for the Master File, before a girl will be recommended from Pampa. These cards will be filled out at the tea.

Area senior girls are also invited to attend; particularly those living in the eastern part of the Panhandle. Others may prefer to attend Amarillo's Forum which is usually held in June.

Mrs. Malcolm Douglass, Zeta Tau Alpha, is president of Pampa's Panhellenic. Mrs. Hugh D. Bartin, Alpha Delta Pi, is general chairman in charge of tea arrangements. Mrs. Bruce Pratt, Mrs. David Holt and Mrs. Ron Groves, Alpha Delta Pi's, are in charge of invitations, nametags and publicity. Tri Delta, with Mrs. George B. Cree Jr. and Mrs. Howard Greenlee, are taking care of decorations with Mrs. Richard Slowers, Delta Gamma, serving refreshments. Mrs. Robert LaFon, vice president, Alpha Chi Omega, has charge of the informational manual, master file and will discuss rush rules. Mrs. J. W. Carver and Mrs. William T. Atkinson, Chi Omega, will plan skits and use of posters.

DEAR ABBY: Even though we've been married 40 years, I still am embarrassed about the language Hal uses. Profanity is his second language. We go out a lot socially, and it is humiliating for me. Every other word is a cuss word. It's as natural for Hal as breathing, and I doubt that he is even aware of it half the time. Fortunately we don't have any children to imitate him. Old friends are used to it, but when we are with new acquaintances for the first time, they look at me as if to ask, "Is that husband of yours a mental case?"

HAL'S WIFE: If you've been humiliated for 40 years and are only now wondering what to do about it, if there's a mental case in your family I'm not so sure it's your husband.

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday a woman called me on the phone and invited me to a farewell party she was giving for her son. I have never met the woman, but her son is a good friend of my son's. She boldly told me to bring enough bologna for 20 people!

Do you think an invited guest should be expected to bring refreshments? She said she wasn't asking relatives to bring anything as she didn't think it would be right. I was also told that "everyone" was pitching in toward a going-away present for her son, so I shouldn't bring him a gift. I wonder if I should go to this party? Is this the way a mother gives her son a farewell party?

FLABBERGASTED DEAR FLABBERGASTED: The mother is not giving a party—she's organizing one. Ask your son if his friendship with the guest of honor is worth all that "baloney."

DEAR ABBY: In response to the "Sawbones" who had problems with bone-crushers who shook hands with him: The queen of England may have the solution: When she has several hundreds of hands to shake, she simply extends her whole hand—thumb folded in. She claims that even the most enthusiastic handshakers are unable to injure her hand that way.

MRS. R.

DEAR ABBY: I read your column in Stars and Stripes and it sure amazes me the way some folks bug you with their penny ante problems. Like the guy whose wife wears brush rollers in her hair when she goes to bed. And that couple who just bought a new air conditioned station wagon with stereo, tinted glass and fancy accessories and planned to on a 7,000-mile vacation trip with it. The neighbors wanted to go along and just put in the gas. The big problem was, shouldn't they pay for more than just the gas? O, brother! I wish we had those problems over here.

We just got through walking for 32 days. And for 28 of those days it rained day and night. Please print this, Abby. It might make your readers realize how small their problems are.

Solid Family Life Counts High In Prevention Of Immorality

By PATRICIA McCORMACK United Press International NEW YORK (UPI)—How would you rate the family life in your mortgaged cottage? "Strong or weak? Steady or uncertain? Real or synthetic? Answering that question the right way can pretty much tell you that your teen-agers won't sprout drinking problems, take tips on LSD or dope, or pop pep pills into the oral cavity.

Milton G. Rector, director of the National Council on Crime and Delinquency, says solid family life is needed to help adolescents.

What else is needed: Good parental example and sound values. On the example, the message is simple. Look in the mirror. If you don't want junior to inherit all your vices shape up.

PTA Is Concerned

Now you might think I'm putting you on, but Rector's report on "drinking and pot parties" appeared in the PTA magazine. You see the PTA movement's concerned with a lot more than Johnny and his reading.

been stressed by everyone studying these problems.

"The old injunction remains valid," he said.

"Provide an environment in which the child feels loved, wanted and understood—or at least loved."

You don't do this by heaping the offspring with the joys of unlimited toys.

"The stream of material goods some better-off parents heap upon their youngsters won't make up for impoverishment in these basics," Rector said.

"Even in desperate slums, where most heroin addicts live, we've found many of the nonusers come from the more cohesive families."

The youth culture, according to many experts, is springing up in good part because parents and other adults are not sure of their values and standards.

Find Some Standards

Among teen-agers other teen-agers find some standards and qualities they value: loyalty, easy communication, understanding, acceptance, reassurance, assertion of masculinity through physical aggression.

Save empty spray bottles for a mixture of liquid starch and water to have handy when ironing or for a solution of ammonia and water usable as a quick clean-up of woodwork fingerprints.

Canned shrimp that have been prechilled tend to hold shape and texture better when added to hot mixtures. Pre-chilling in the can firms the meat, helps shrimp stay curled, plump, pink, and unbroken in the can until ready for use. If you rinse the shrimp before using, always use cool rinse water.

Two Charged With DWI

Pampa police arrested two persons on driving while intoxicated charges, one Saturday and one Sunday.

Freddie W. Betchan, 324 N. Sumner, was arrested about 5:20 p.m. Saturday in the 800 block of W. Foster.

Sunday, Jimmie Lee Davis, 28, 312 W. Thut, was arrested about 5:15 p.m. in the 200 block of W. Thut.

Pampa policeman Charles Lafever made both arrests.

Davis was released yesterday on a $500 bond, set by Justice of the Peace Ed Anderson.

Jurors Dismissed For Gray County

The Gray County jury, called for jury week here, was dismissed today by County Judge S. R. Lenning Jr. because all cases originally set for trial were settled.

Warrants were to be issued today for the arrest of David Gilbert Hurry of Austin and Vernon Lee Rose of Pampa. County Attorney Don Cain planned to move to forfeit Hurry and Rose's bonds today.

Hurry is charged with defrauding an innkeeper. His bond was set at $1,000. He was in Austin jail on a forgery charge, Cain said.

Rosa, charged with driving while intoxicated, made bond of $500.

One case, involving L. D. Boyd of Pampa, charged with wife desertion, was dismissed earlier by Lenning.

Five other convictions were given earlier this month. Two, on J. T. Walkup and Dewey Deward Belmont, were on DWI charges. Both pleaded nolo contendere, were fined $50 and costs, given three days in jail and placed on six months probation.

Three persons, charged with unlawfully carrying a pistol, were Bennett Brown, Mrs. Patricia Ann Roland and Donald Wayne Mason.

Mrs. Roland and Mason were fined $100 each, costs and given six months probation. Brown was fined $100 and costs. All three pleaded guilty.

'Big Brother' Registration

Don't let anybody tell you Big Brother is not with us and reaching out for more power to regiment the lives of all Americans. He is.

For openers, give a listen to the words of anti-poverty director Sargent Shriver before a Senate labor subcommittee which is studying the effects of the draft on the nation's manpower:

Shriver proposed that the Selective Service register all Americans at age 16 to help identify the poor and give girls a better chance for national service.

Registering and testing at age 16, Shriver said, would provide a continuing census which could identify the "lost legion of American youth" who need help in shaking off "their heritage of deprivation and poverty."

Frightening isn't it? Shriver was a little unclear on how his proposed "national assessment" would channel young people in fields of work.

But that would be a simple matter, once they are registered, tested and classified. An official word would do it, say by the Selective Service System or something like it tailored to fit the need. You can bet on that.

Adoption of the Shriver proposal of a national manpower pool would mean a complete statistical rundown on every American boy and girl in the coming generation would go into a computer for classification and designation where each would best serve the national interests.

Talk about a police state. We're heading in that direction and fast. The way things are going, it looks like the days of the individual are numbered unless we kick out the collectivists.

The Cost of Crime

The Government Printing Office, in Washington, D. C., recently announced publication of "A Report by the President's Commission on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice." We bought a copy. What follows is verbatim quote from that 346-page report:

From Page V, Summary: "In this survey, the first of its kind conducted on such a scope, 10,000 representative American households were asked about their experience with crime, whether they reported these experiences to the police, and how those experiences affected their lives.

"An important finding of the survey is that for the Nation as a whole there is far more crime than ever is reported. Burglaries occur about three times more often than are reported; assaults and larcenies over $50 occur twice as often as they are reported. There are 50 percent more robberies than are reported. In some areas, only one-tenth of the total number of certain kinds of crimes are reported to the police. Seventy-four percent of the neighborhood commercial establishments surveyed do not report to police the thefts committed by their employees.

"The findings of the Commission's national survey generally support those of the local surveys. One-third of a representative sample of all Americans say it is unsafe to walk alone at night in their neighborhoods. Slightly more than one-third say they keep firearms in the house for protection against criminals."

From page 91: "Policing a city of more than a million population costs $27.31 per resident per year; policing a city of less than 50,000 costs less than one-third as much, or $8.74."

For our part, we're mighty glad that we live right here in Pampa, where neither crime nor policing figures are so astronomical. Aren't you?

The Grand Hoax

Inflation is a phenomenon that most people have lived with a good share of their lives, and yet few know what causes it or have been interested in learning it. It has undermined every dollar of savings in the country and is responsible for the vicious contest between wages and the cost of living.

An Arizona Farm Bureau Federation news release has something to say about inflation and farms that should be of interest to anyone who has a dollar's pocket:

Inflation can be generated by government. Business labor unions, or consumers, do many objectionable things that are contrary to the interest. But they cannot generate inflation. Only govern-

The Shriver proposal would partially implement the strong, centralized federal government Johnson also took a swipe at said was sure to come. Here's how LBJ phrased it:

"What we are living through together are the birth pangs of a fundamentally new process in American government — federal-state interaction never contemplated by the founding fathers."

states' rights and defended a get us far down the road toward powerful federal government. Such issues as states' rights, he said, make for good stump speeches and good debates in the lecture hall but they don't quadruple. Wow! Government meeting the problems of modern America.

The president outlined his concept of future American government before a meeting of governors in Washington and mentioned in passing that within the next five years federal aid to states probably would be the problems of "modern printing presses will be running 'round-the-clock' to grind out that money."

The Johnson formula for solving the problems of "modern America" is nothing new. Old hat, in fact. Since the advent of the Roosevelt administration in 1933, the federal government has acquired more power and spent more money than all previous administrations. Trouble is, they've solved nothing, but have only compounded the problems.

Now the bureaucrats tell us they need more power to regiment our lives and more money to stay in business. Don't say you haven't been warned what's ahead for our country. Anybody for individualism?

Pull Up A Chair

One of the newer hobbies in this country is exchanging personal messages with selected correspondents in other parts of the nation and the world by means of magnetic tapes. It's a new switch to the old game of "pen pals." Those engaged in the hobby use a small tape recorder and send their recorded messages via third-class mail, costing about the same as an ordinary letter. We know of one average citizen who corresponds regularly with a physician in Brazil, an ex-circus barker, a Madrid housewife, a theater owner in New Zealand, a Chicago policeman, and a Cape Cod antique dealer. He says those engaging in the hobby enjoy making friends and are eager to exchange ideas and opinions. He also adds that anyone wishing to participate in the hobby can get all details without cost from the non-profit Voicependence Club, Noel, Va. This organization has a membership of more than 2,000 throughout the free world, publishes a directory of members giving their occupations and interests, and explains how to become a voicependent. Sounds like a lot of fun.

Today's smile: Two lawyers were arguing in court and one said: "You're a cheat!" The other retorted: "You're a liar!" The judge remarked: "Now that the attorneys have identified each other, let us get on with the case."

There have been about 264 Popes of the Roman Catholic Church and of those 266 were Italians, 15 Frenchmen, 15 Greeks, 7 Syrians, 6 Germans, three Spaniards, two Dalmatians, two Africans, and one each English, Portuguese, Cretan, Thracian, Sardinian and Jew. The latter was St. Peter, founder of the Church.

Thoughts while shaving: You often hear the expression, "Love at first sight," but a noted marriage consultant said recently "at it's just not true. He said it's a figment of the imagination of writers and movie producers. From his long experience as an advisor he says real love requires understanding, respect and continuing affection. He says that comes only with knowledge and knowledge of an attractive man or woman can't be acquired in one brief glance, or even a single evening."

In Colonial America preachers were often paid in tobacco instead of coin. Virginia clergymen were given 16,000 pounds of tobacco a year, which they sold in England for about $400. They were also given 400 pounds of top-grade leaf for conducting a funeral service and half that amount for performing a marriage. The ancient Greeks had a word for everything including the daily masculine chore of shaving. They called it "pognotomy," and although archaeologists have uncovered ancient razors dating back to 600 B.C., there's no record that one shaving soap produced more lather than another, or that a Trojan blade gave a smoother shave than one from Sparta.

The Monroe (Louisiana) MORNING WORLD reported in a story: "Our home is just like the one in 'You Can't Fake It with You.' Must be quite a place."

Trouble Ahead in Congress for Job Corps Program — Too Costly and Ineffective, for Too Few Dropouts

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The highly costly and turbulence-racked Job Corps program is in deep trouble in Congress.

Its fate is very uncertain. There are strong backstage indications that this anti-poverty plan to train school dropouts, which has cost some $685 million in the three years it has been in operation and has produced at most not more than 15,000 so-called "graduates," will be either drastically changed or eliminated entirely.

In the forthcoming House Education and Labor Committee hearings on President Johnson's new $2.06 billion anti-poverty budget, this widely controversial program will be the principal focus of attention. Every aspect will be subjected to bare-knuckled going-over.

Significantly, this caustic critical scrutiny will be bipartisan. Democrats as well as Republicans are irate over the constant scandals, excessive costs, mismanagement, waste, bungling and meager results that have characterized the Job Corps centers.

Graphically illustrative of this exasperation is the sharp disapproval of Representative Edith Green, Ore., second-ranking Democrat on the committee. Mrs. Green sponsored the legislation that established the women's Job Corps centers, but she now views the whole program with blunt misgivings.

"Last year members of the Administration admitted that the average cost per enrollee of the boys' Job Corps was $9,100 per year for just operating expenses, with no capital outlay included," said Mrs. Green. "The average cost for girls was $8,400 per girl, with no capital outlay included. In one Job Corps center, operating cost per year per enrollee was $13,000."

"Outside of the outrageous costs for the Job Corps program, the additional tragedy is we are reaching so very few who need help. Statistics show there are about five million dropouts. I have used the figure of 500,000 girls who are eligible for the girls' Job Corps and 500,000 boys for the boys' Job Corps, both by age and by economic circumstances."

"Just one year ago when we were considering this budget, there were only 1,600 girls and some 18,000 boys in the program. That is an infinitesimal number compared with the problem that faces us if we are really serious about doing something for these youngsters who need help."

WHAT'S WRONG — A long list of complaints and grievances faces anti-poverty director Sargent Shriver and his lieutenants when they testify before the Education and Labor Committee in behalf of the 2.06 billion budget they are seeking. Actually, this is only two-thirds of what Shriver wanted. He proposed a 2.5 billion budget.

et. But the President turned him down, pointing out that last year he sent Congress a $1.75 billion budget which was pared to $1.612 billion. The President expressed willingness to hike his 1966 figure by $300 million, even though privately doubting it would win congressional approval.

On that he is absolutely correct. It's questionable whether Congress will vote even as much as it did last year. An impelling reason is the vigorous bipartisan disapproval of the costly Job Corps program due to its numerous failings and inadequacies. These will be aired in bruising detail in the hearings. Foremost among them are:

—Cost of renovating camps and other installations for Job Corps centers has greatly exceeded estimates. Illustrative is Camp Atterbury, Ind., which had been estimated to cost $500,000 to put in shape for a Job Corps, but the actual outlay was $3 million. Another instance was the $300,000 estimate to establish a women's Job Corps in Huntington, W. Va. The actual expenditure was more than double — over $600,000.

—Most contracts to operate the centers were revised considerably upwards within weeks after they opened. These added costs run into millions of dollars.

—Despite the high cost of the centers and the constant ballyhoo to publicize them, considerable difficulty is being encountered in obtaining enrollees. In recent months, "bonuses" of $15 to $25 have been paid for recruits in a nationwide drive to fill empty billets.

—Wholesale turnovers in operating personnel have occurred in all the camps. Virtually every director and other administrators have been replaced one or several times. There have also been numerous changes in the colleges and companies that run the camps.

—Until recently, the Office of Economic Opportunity, which administers the anti-poverty program, made no attempt to keep records on what happened to enrollees; how many dropped out, the number of "graduates" and what they subsequently did. Finally, in a belated effort to fill this vacuum, OEO hired a national polling organization. OEO also established a Job Corps evaluation unit to ascertain to what extent the centers are training jobless youths and placing them in jobs for which they presumably are trained.

A MORE REALISTIC PLAN — The reinforced Republicans on the Education and Labor Committee (14 to 15 Democrats) have a substitute for the Job Corps program that would cost a lot less and provide meaningful training in private industry.

Cost of the GOP plan is put at $230 million as against $295 million proposed for the Job Corps. Under their program, the Republicans claim 43,250 youths would be trained as against 38,000 in the Job Corps centers — if the latter operated at capacity, which they are not.

Led by Representative Albert Quie, Minn., and Charles Goodell, N.Y., sponsors of the alternative plan, the Republicans will make a determined effort to enact it.

They have a good chance of succeeding, with the support of Democrats fed up with the incessant turmoil over the Job Corps centers.

"The war on poverty is in desperate need of major redirection," Quie and Goodell contend. "It should not be eliminated, it should be revamped and put on a realistic basis. Only a small percentage of the poor have received meaningful assistance as a result of the billions of dollars in the present war on poverty."

"After three years, the poverty war has spent $4 billion of the taxpayers' money and created a poverty bureaucracy of 91,000 administrators. The poor have lost faith in the high promises of those who thought they could solve difficult problems by simply spending billions of dollars through a new agency in Washington.

"The plight of the poor is a growing and major crisis that must be met realistically. The Job Corps will be replaced by Residential Skill Centers administered by vocational educational officials. An industry Youth Corps would be established in which youths 16 to 22 would be offered private production employment and on-the-job training. The federal government would pay 25 per cent of enrollees' wages for one year under conditions that offered promise of long-term employment."

LATEST SCANDAL — The women's Job Corps center at Albuquerque, N.M., is the latest to be rocked by scandal. Miss Jo Culbertson, an instructor, has told Representative Edith Green, D-Ore., that another instructor was a known dope pusher and that classroom schedules were falsified. She also charged "illicit fraternization" between faculty members and students. . . . A big chunk of anti-poverty funds goes for publicity purposes. OEO records show that around $2.4 million is spent by the agency to publicize its operations and to counter widespread criticism. . . . Director Sargent Shriver is the only top anti-poverty official still on the job since the multi-billion dollar program was launched in late 1964.

RETURNING THE FAVOR! — There is a grimly ironic angle to those Soviet inquiries about bidding on the six giant turbines and hydro-electric generators required for expanding the Grand Coulee dam in Washington state.

Russian know-how and experience in heavy hydro equipment originated with an American. In the 1920s, Colonel J. L. Cooper, a noted U.S. electrical engineer, was employed by the Kremlin to direct the construction of the first big power project undertaken by the Communists. It was on the Volga River near Odesa.

Elements of Peril for U.S. In Toothless Space Treaty

By RAY CROMLEY Washington Correspondent WASHINGTON (NEA) —

There are hidden jokers in the space treaty which the United States has signed but which the Senate has not yet ratified.

The treaty bars putting missiles in orbit, on the moon or outer space. But the pact provides for no inspections. It operates strictly on an honor system, the Russians didn't.

The American negotiators gave in — to get a treaty.

Yet it would be easy for the Russians to hide missiles on orbiting platforms. The blast-off putting these platforms in orbit would appear no different from normal scientific space operations. U.S. spy satellites would note no difference. Neither would other U.S.-operated sensors.

Once in orbit, the missiles then could be fired at any time, without notice, by a Russian on the ground in the Soviet Union.

The precise orbits of the missile platforms could be calculated after a few turns in space. The space missiles thus would have much greater accuracy than today's intercontinental ballistic missiles.

Fired at the proper time, these missiles could reach U.S. targets within two to four minutes, faster than U.S. warning systems could operate.

By contrast, intercontinental ballistic missiles fired from Russia would take 25 to 30 minutes to arrive in the United States.

The Cuban missile crisis was a crisis because missiles fired from the island could arrive in the United States in a few minutes.

Angry Father — What's the idea, young man, bringing in my daughter at two o'clock in the morning? Suitor — It started to rain.

Mon-Son, if you don't stop strumming that guitar, I'll go out of my mind. Son-It's too late. I stopped playing an hour ago.

Mother — What did Daddy say when he saw that you had broken his pipe? Junior — Do you want me to leave out the sewer works? Mother — Yes, dear. Junior — Then I guess he didn't say anything.

She — When did you realize you loved me? He — When I began to get mad when people said you were brainless and unattractive.

on this and other jobs, in the course of which he trained a number of young engineers. They are now running the Soviet's huge hydro-electric industry. Engineers trained by Cooper built and installed two 500,000 kw. generators on the Yenisei River near Krasnoyarsk in Siberia.

These are the largest hydro-generators in the world. Eight more are to be installed in this project by next year. The six Grand Coulee generators are to be 600,000 kw. each. The largest hydro-generators now extant in the West are in the 250,000 to 300,000 kilowatt range.

PREDICTIONS — College students can relax. Despite much talk to the contrary, student draft deferment will be continued by Congress. A majority of both the House and Senate Armed Services committees favors continuance and Congress will vote it. . . . The West German government and Red China will exchange consulates sometime this year. Secret negotiations have been going on regarding that in Bern, Switzerland. West Germany has become Communist China's biggest European trader. Business between them tripled in recent years, rising to $1.3 billion in 1966. . . . An additional 50,000 U.S. troops will be sent to Vietnam this year, raising the total to over 500,000. . . . The Shah and Empress of Iran will make a state visit to the U.S. in June. The last time he was here was in 1962, when he was lavishly entertained by President Kennedy. . . . Even though teamster boss James Hoffa is in prison, the Justice Department is continuing its close scrutiny of the 1,700,000-member union. Being watched are underworld links with teamster officials, and similar ties with the 60,000-member International Longshoremen's Association.

Although little noticed, the most important far-reaching change in the last century is proposed in Electoral College Reform. To replace our antiquated method of selecting a President and Vice-President, it is suggested that we do so more in keeping with the action of a Republic by congressional districts rather than an entire state. With the one man one vote Supreme Court ruling, an all-out effort needs to be made to get this nation's highest offices selected on a more meaningful basis. As matters now stand, a one vote plurality can disqualify the losers' votes for an entire state, which in the case of New York means 45 votes out of 263 needed for election. For those sincere advocates of better government, it is only needed that patriotic citizens support this reform, which few indeed can say a word against. To assist in this vital legislation, those interested should contact their State Legislators and friends in the communications field. They can write or ask their gifted friends to write letters to the Editor supporting this reform. In our brief history, there have been eleven men elected to the Presidency who received less votes than one of the opposing candidates.

The five largest states in the United States have elected 21 of their citizens Presidents. These Presidents have served 34 four-year terms for a total of 136 years since the nation was born 191 years ago. Eleven of our 50 states hold enough combined votes in the present Electoral College system to elect a President even if the other 39 states all opposed him.

The Electoral College was established in the Constitution in 1789, and out of more than 200 separate attempts to amend or alter it, only once has it been actually changed by law. In 1804, Congress decreed that the President and Vice President should be elected as a pair, rather than as rivals as originally provided in the Constitution.

utes, Russian missiles in orbiting satellites would be just as much a crisis for this country. Since the risks of Soviet deception are so great, it seems unwise to have accepted the Russians' proposed, no-inspection honor system.

The space treaty is filled with loose definitions, restrictions and provisions which could cause the U.S. serious problems.

The American understanding of some of the treaty provisions, as evidenced by our official statements, is at wide variance with the Russian understanding of these same provisions, as evidenced by their official statements.

The treaty says the use of outer space shall be "in accordance with international law." But it does not define international law. Moscow says that U.S. spy satellites violate international law. The United States asserts they do not.

It is not clear from the text of the treaty whether non-nuclear military defense activities in space are prohibited or not. Moscow apparently holds one view, Washington another.

Since there is no provision for a check on space activity, the Soviet Union could push ahead with a variety of secret military programs in space while publicly attacking the right of the United States to an American military defense program in space.

Since the United States is an open society, any U.S. space defense program would be known. Since the Soviet society is closed, Moscow might well be able to keep its programs secret.

The treaty also says outer space can't be claimed by any nation. But the treaty does not define outer space. This lack of definition opens the door to serious arguments over how low foreign aircraft can fly over the United States without being under U.S. control and regulation.

The loose way in which this space treaty was written was due in part to the administration's eagerness to get a treaty in hand. But that looseness could lead the United States into a trap.

Built-To-Go

MOTORCYCLES FOR EVERYONE

(Daily News Staff Photo)

BUILT TO GO is the mainstay of Bultaco Motorcycle's, sold and serviced by Meers Oil Co., 1300 Alcock, on the Berger Highway. Drive by and look over their complete display of latest models and take one for a test ride.

Meers Oil Company Is Now Bultaco Motorcycle Dealer

Love the outdoors? A ride in the country? Wholesome family fun? Then you'll love BULTACO, the motorcycle built to go!

For the past few years, Bultaco sales have zoomed. Why? Because people have discovered the thrill of handling a smooth operating machine that will give them the experience of their lives. They have fallen in love with the durability, the ruggedness that matches the wild outdoors. Not just men alone, but women find the Bultaco the answer to their dreams and their widest expectations.

Take the Lobito model for a test ride. The Lobito gets going in a big hurry when you feed it some gas. Street or trail—it doesn't matter. We've spoiled the Lobito; it thinks it's a big bike. And it almost is.

The Lobito is good transportation to and from work during the week but when you want to test your skill against the rough country on weekends, that's when the Lobito will really shine.

For the competition minded individual, there's the Matador. It wins where the going is toughest, in enduros and trails. It also happens to be the perfect machine for the rider who takes to the street during the week and heads for the country

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RICHTER

FOR TUESDAY, APRIL 25
GENERAL: TUESDAY: A wonderful day and evening for you to find the right answer if you listen quietly for a little while and learn what others expect of you in the way of financial and material success. Get busy investigating whatever you do not understand.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19)—There is every opportunity now for you to handle that vexatious business or civic problem in a most intelligent and astute way. Do not impress others around you with your devotion to make.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20)—Cooperating with associates and finding out exactly what they think will lead to far better cooperation in the days ahead. Be more explicit in stating what you desire from contacts in outside world. Then you get right results.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—Handling all job affairs and personal matters efficiently gets you the admiration of all and approval of coworkers. Be grateful for any assistance given you. Be a warmer, more friendly person.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21)—You can be infinitely happier if you handle your affairs in every field of endeavor in a more intelligent fashion. Show that you are thoughtful. Be more stable, steady and that others know you can rely on you.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)—Doing whatever will gain you the devotion of him is wise, since you may not have a little too busy and almost thoughtless of late. Be more ambitious where society is concerned. Assist others to rise as well.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21)—Plan to have a more ideal existence by more intelligent use of your own talents and operation from associates. Be sure to study advertisements so that you know what to buy. Be more modern in your approach.

LIBRA (Sept. 22 to Oct. 21)—Be practical in going after a greater abundance instead of dreaming so much, or stepping blindly into shady deals. Stop catering to that capricious habit which either you or your mate may have. Be sensible.

SCORPIO (Oct. 22 to Nov. 21)—Contact highways you admire and who have interest in you and get the support you need with relative ease. Then out to groups where you can start ball rolling to right action. Meet people you want to join with you in projects.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—Get out of those conditions that keep you from progressing and discuss with authorities how you can become more successful. Be complimentary with loved ones. He or she needs to have ego fed, or be complimented.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—Being with congenials and those who truly give you pleasure is wise instead of catering to others who nearly always leave you cold. A little flattery will go a long way, also. Go ahead instead of being stymied.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—Do not let your plans both close ties and your most powerful allies, contacts, and get your excellent results. Do some enterprising at home or at some fine restaurant, hotel. Be generous, but sensible.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)—You need not feel dull and bored when there are so many new interests that you can look into with thoroughness. Have a moral philosophy of life. Make your life fascinating.

IF YOUR BIRTHDAY IS BORN TODAY... he, or she, will be one of those fascinating people who is very magnetic and yet have a most practical approach to everything that concerns him, or her. He is sure to give the type of education that will fill your progeny for work with banking firms, government, the theater—whatever is his or her love, and determination is in this nature.
