Mideast Cease-Fire Shattered With New Fighting Between Israel, Egypt

Price Wants U.S. To Keep Control Of Panama Canal

A resolution for continued United States maintenance and jurisdiction over the Panama Canal was introduced in the House by Rep. Bob Price of Pampa.

The resolution was in response to a proposed treaty between the U.S. and Panama which, Price said, would greatly impair if not eliminate the sovereign rights of the United States in the canal.

Calling attention to the presently closed Suez Canal and the fact that 70 per cent of Panama Canal Zone traffic originates or terminates in the United States, the resolution emphasized the "vital strategic importance" of the canal to the hemisphere's defense and security of the United States.

Price said the U.S. has paid the Republic of Panama $50 million in the form of grants and has invested almost $5 billion in the canal which could never be recovered in the event of Panamanian seizure or United States abandonment.

Under treaties now in force, the Republic of Panama granted the U.S. perpetuity of use, occupation, control, maintenance and operation of the canal. The resolution concluded (See PRICE, Page 3)

Planes Blast Fuel Dumps

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. warplanes, dive bombing at dawn, slashed through with a razing groundfire to turn two fuel oil dumps in the outskirts of Haiphong into blazing infernos, an American military spokesman reported Saturday.

It was the second consecutive day the American raiders hammered military targets in the fringes of the vital North Vietnamese port city. The attack came just a few hours after Moscow charged U.S. fighter bombers damaged a second Soviet freighter in a month, and the Defense Department admitted this could be true.

The American pilots paid a high price in the two strikes. Two of the Navy's $2.5 million A-1H Skyhawks were shot down by the more than 2,000 anti-aircraft guns ringing the city. Both pilots were listed as missing and presumed to be either dead or captured.

The North Vietnamese Foreign Ministry, in a broadcast from Hanoi, charged the United States was deliberately bombing heavily populated areas in Haiphong and Nam

Dinh, the second and third largest cities in the Communist country.

The North Vietnamese news agency (VNA) said that two more American warplanes were shot down by ground fire Saturday. VNA reported Friday the downings of the Skyhawks, confirmed Saturday by the U.S. spokesman.

In South Vietnam, U.S. Marines fought a day-long battle with North Vietnamese regulars just below the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) where the Communists are rebuilding two badly mauled divisions.

The Leathernecks were part of a patrol moving through the jungles near the Khe Sanh outpost. A spokesman said they killed eight and lost four dead and 12 wounded.

Johnson Travels To Conference of Demo Governors

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)—Vice President Johnson flew to join them, 17 Democratic governors Saturday issued a "state of accord" pouring lavish praise on Johnsonian policies at home and abroad.

The resolution of the one-day conference of Democratic governors came just six months after some of these same governors had been blaming administration policies for 1966 Democratic election setbacks.

The resolution was announced shortly after Missouri Gov. Warren E. Hearnes told the governors that the President was flying directly from his Texas ranch to address them late Saturday.

The governors' 600-word resolution pledged "continued cooperation to President Johnson in his effective efforts to meet the responsibilities of our nation as a leader of the free world."

Johnson had been invited to attend the governors' meeting. The White House said he waited until the business session ended before accepting so his presence would not interfere with free discussion among the governors. His plane landed at St. Louis Lambert Field at 4:45 p.m. CDT.

The governors had assembled to set up a formal organization to provide themselves with a new and, they hoped, more effective role in the national political party.

Nearly all of the governors said Johnson's popularity was rising and that he should win re-election next year.

"No political leader in the world is giving more inspired meaning to the words 'freedom for all people' than is President Lyndon B. Johnson," their resolution said.

It said it expressed strong support for Johnson in his efforts at home and abroad to achieve freedom from poverty, hunger, disease, and ignorance.

Both Sides Charge Other Broke Truce

JERUSALEM (UPI)—Fighting between Israel and Egyptian troops backed up with armor erupted on the Sinai Peninsula Saturday shattering the fragile Middle East cease-fire.

Both sides accused the other of breaking the three-week-old truce.

An Israeli military spokesman said that at least a company of Egyptian troops backed up by half-tracks drove across to the western bank of the Suez canal 10 miles south of Port Said near Ras El Ayash.

He said Israeli troops moving into the area to counter the thrust were hammered with Egyptian mortars, and fighting and said they were watching the situation closely.

There was no immediate indication that the drive across the canal into the Sinai was a major Egyptian invasion despite threats from U.A.R. President Gamal Abdel Nasser and other Egyptian leaders to resume the fighting.

Several had warned that even though 5,000 Egyptian soldiers had been killed in the recent six-day Mideast war, it would be better to resume fighting than negotiate with Israel.

There was a report that the Egyptians also floated tanks across the canal on barges in addition to the dozen half-tracks. But this could not be officially reported until the fight continued.

The Israeli military spokesman said that it was not clear what the Egyptians hoped to gain by the attack, other than present an "accomplished fact."

Informed sources said this could be interpreted as meaning the Israeli command believes the Egyptians were seeking to secure a foothold on the eastern shore of the canal.

In Algiers, the Algerian news agency said in a dispatch from Cairo that Israel broke the ceasefire.

The government controlled news agency said a communique from the United Arab Republic armed forces said "the enemy attempted to push from Kantara east of the Suez canal towards Port Fuad."

It said that Egyptian "forces stationed at Ras El Ayash at the east of the canal went into battle against the enemy and fighting is going on."

In Washington, U.S. officials were hesitant to comment on the new outbreak of fighting. They said they had not received any independent reports on the situation from the American embassy at Tel Aviv by late Saturday afternoon. But they established a small bridgehead on the eastern shore in the hope of being able to hold on to it, and when a new ceasefire is ordered.

It was not immediately learned whether the Egyptians reinforced the company that launched the attack. A company would be about 150 to 200 men.

The Israeli spokesman said the attack occurred at a spot which is patrolled, rather than occupied, by Israeli forces.

The Israeli government spokesman said that the "purpose" of the Egyptian attack was not immediately clear.

191 YEARS INDEPENDENCE

Pampa Prepares To Celebrate July 4

Tuesday is Independence Day, July 4, the day Pampans and others in the nation will celebrate 191 years of American independence.

In preparation for the annual nation-wide holiday, some county employees worked a half-day Saturday to be off Monday and Tuesday. Other county and state officials will double up on personnel to prepare for the onslaught of motorists expected to go on holiday trips.

Sgt. J. W. Wilson of the Texas Department of Public Safety, Highway Patrol division, said officers in this area started the annual Operation Motorcade at 6 p.m. Friday and it will continue until midnight Tuesday.

In addition to the four highway patrolmen regularly on duty, Vernon Cawthon, Douglas Wright, Stanley Schneider and Paul Geiser, two others in the License and Weight Services and Motor Vehicle Inspections will be on duty.

Gray County Sheriff's Department officers, city policemen and firemen will be on duty as usual during the holiday.

County employees worked Saturday until noon and will be off Monday and Tuesday, but city hall personnel will maintain their regular schedule, being off Saturday, working Monday and off Tuesday.

Pampa banks will close Tuesday, but will be open for service Monday, as will most downtown businesses and stores.

Since July 4 is a federal holiday, the post office will close Tuesday, but will provide special delivery service, process incoming mail and make regular dispatches of outgoing mail.

Traffic Toll For Holiday Rises Quickly

By United Press International

Nearly 100 million motorists bucked traffic-choked streets and highways Saturday en route to Fourth of July fun which hundreds of them would never live to experience.

The nation's traffic toll mounted sharply with the flow of intently travelers swelled in many areas by local residents seeking heat wave relief. In California's High Sierras, motorists cruised about, seeking campsites out of the snow.

A United Press International count at 9 p.m. CDT showed at least 148 persons dead in traffic accidents since the holiday period began.

The breakdown:

Traffic	148
Drownings	22
Planes	18
Miscellaneous	3
Total	191

New York led the nation with 17 traffic deaths. California had 14, Texas and Ohio each had 13, Indiana had 9.

Americans were dying on the highway at the rate of nearly five an hour.

A spokesman for the National Safety Council, comparing the current toll with that of the same hour the most recent four-day Independence holiday said, "It's really too early to make a projection. However, if the death toll continues at the present rate, I don't know where it will go. The graph is almost perpendicular."

Peace Prospects Dim in Vietnam

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk said Saturday that the prospect for the Vietnam war to go on with the Communist foe continuing to turn a deaf ear to peace negotiations.

"We see no sign that Hanoi is willing to move to an honorable settlement, and we do not believe that the prospects for such a settlement are enhanced by proposals which ask us to stop half the war while the other side continues unabated its half of the war," he said in an interview with a Swedish newspaper.

"The United States is confident that the efforts by South Vietnam and its allies will continue to bring improvement although there may be ups and downs," he added.

Rusk made the statement in answer to questions submitted by Daniel Viklund of the Stockholm newspaper, Dagens Nyheter.

It was understood that the interview which was to be published in Stockholm on Sunday was prepared about two weeks ago.

Rusk, for the most part, reiterated the American position on various issues concerning the Vietnam conflict and saw no hopeful signs for an early end to the fighting.

Kosygin Talks With DeGaulle

PARIS (UPI)—Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin conferred privately with President Charles de Gaulle Saturday and then declared it was up to the Vietnamese themselves to stop the war in Vietnam. Kosygin also brushed aside the possibility of a four-power summit conference.

Speaking to newsmen at the end of three hours of talks during which he briefed De Gaulle on his Glassboro talks with President Johnson, Kosygin said a four-power summit meeting involving Moscow, Washington, Paris and London is "not envisaged at this time."

De Gaulle had called for such a four-power summit meeting just before the Middle East crisis erupted into war, but the Kremlin did not respond to the French proposal at the time.

While Kosygin was in the United States De Gaulle branded the Israelis as aggressors in the war with the Arabs.

The Soviet premier stopped over briefly in Paris en route home from his talks in Cuba and the United States for his second meeting in 15 days with De Gaulle. He then flew on to Moscow aboard his special Ilyushin-18 turboprop airliner.

Kosygin's plane landed at Moscow's Vnukovo Airport Saturday night, the official Soviet Tass news agency reported. Soviet Communist party leader Leonid Brezhnev and other party and government leaders were at the airport to meet Kosygin.

He met privately with De Gaulle for an hour in the latter's Elysee presidential palace. They then called in their top aides for a round table discussion of Kosygin's trip to the United States and Cuba and rounded out the program with an intimate luncheon at the palace.

At an impromptu news conference afterward, Kosygin was asked whether his Glassboro, N.J., meeting with President Johnson would help settle the war in Vietnam.

"I cannot tell you," Kosygin replied. "This depends on the Vietnamese people and government, they have to solve their problems of peace or war and not us, right here. Only our Vietnamese comrades can solve the problems. They are the ones who are doing the fighting."

Kosygin did not elaborate on his Vietnam statement, which was spoken in Russian and then translated into French by one of his aides.

Building Permits Jump 16 Per Cent

AUSTIN (UPI)—Texas building permits jumped 16 per cent on the value index in May, third highest level in history, the Bureau of Business Research reported Saturday.

The University of Texas-sponsored bureau said the seasonally adjusted index reached 163.9, trailing only December 1965, which recorded 167.5 and August 1965.

The bureau called the upsurge "very encouraging" since the construction industry had been lagging considerably due primarily to high interest rates.

Interest rates are still high, but the bureau reports that the level has been dropping in recent months and many economists feel it will drift still lower.

The Texas outlook for construction activity should continue to be encouraging since employment is at an all-time high and new and expanded manufacturing is creating demands for new housing. Personal income is also at an all-time high, the bureau reported, and retail sales are up.

Titan Rocket Orbits Six U.S. Satellites

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—A six hours later its versatile Titan 3C Workhorse rocket orbited six satellites Saturday to speed Pentagon orders to stringing its six satellites one by one in slow-moving orbits radio link and beam back about 20,750 miles high.

Perfect Job

"It's about as perfect as you can get," an Air Force spokesman reported. The Titan launch control center erupted into applause and cheers when word was received that all satellites were kicked into orbit as planned.

It was the fourth straight successful multiple-payload launch for the powerful rocket that is becoming the nation's military space workhorse. In the past four firings, Titan 3Cs have orbited 23 satellites.

Defense Communications Agency (DCA) officials said the Titan added the four new moonlets to 15 orbited during the past year by two other Titans to fill in any gaps that might develop in the network and give Washington an almost constant tie with overseas forces.

The system now is being used primarily to relay priority messages to two ground stations in Vietnam—at Ba Queo and Nha Trang—but is also available for global use and was used during the recent Israeli-Arab crisis to flash government communications to and from the Mideast.

Perryton Man Is Winner of Texas Top Merit Award

PERRYTON (Sp) — Robert E. Conner was honored Thursday night as Texas' outstanding medical technologist.

Announcement of Conner's award of merit was made by Corning-Glass Works at the American Society of Medical Technology (ASMT) convention which ended in Miami Beach, Fla., Friday.

Conner was one of 16 nominees for the Corning Award presented annually to the nation's outstanding medical technologist as selected by the ASMT. This year's national winner was Miss Catherine A. Reaves of High Point, N.C. All 16 nominees were selected for the honor on the basis of contributions to their community, profession and the ASMT.

Chief medical technologist at the Sanford - Johnson Clinic since 1952, Conner earned his B. S. degree in biology from Kansas State University. He is a two time president of the Panhandle District Society of Medical Technology, serving in 1954 and again in 1957-58, and was president of the state unit in 1965-66. Conner is a ruling elder in the Presbyterian Church, president of the Perryton Coin Club and was co-chairman of the Red Cross Drive from 1964-66.

County Employees to Receive Letters on Retirement Plan

Gray County Commissioners authorized County Judge S. R. Lenning Jr. Saturday to send letters to county employees this week asking if they are interested in participating in a state retirement plan put into law by House Bill 85.

Commissioners met yesterday for a regular session, paid bills and salaries and discussed the state-wide retirement plan. "This week we will try to find out what it would cost the county and county employees to get into this plan and see what it offers in benefits. After we get our information, I'll send out the letters," Lenning said.

Commissioners will meet July 12 for another regular session. Lenning is planning to meet in Austin July 17 and 18 with other county and state officials to discuss the retirement plan.

Commissioners also previously authorized White House Lumber Co. which is doing the courthouse annex remodeling, to paint the rest of the annex not included in the original estimate.

This estimate change will include painting six offices, two restrooms and a kitchen for at a cost of $545. Painting is expected to be finished by the end of this week.

All annex remodeling, which includes $9,752.48 for plumbing, heating, air conditioning, electrical work and painting in the unit east of city, started in May and is expected to be finished by July 15.

In the meeting yesterday, commissioners also paid Bob Baker, 31st Judicial District Court reporter, for typing transcripts of testimony for two defendants, Zane Leonard Evans and Henry Burton. The two men were convicted of robbery and sentenced to 99 years in the state penitentiary in Huntsville.

Horse Show Judge Names Ten Winners

Rip Barrett of Pampa judged 10 Gray County youths winners in the county 4-H Horse Show eliminations Friday at Recreation Park east of Pampa.

Janet Smith, high point individual, received a horse feeder, presented by Don Jackson of Pampa area.

Other winners who received ribbons were Joe Richardson, Janet Smith, Willis Price, Janice Price, Ted Reeves, Janelle Johnson, Brenda Winters, Nancy Elsheimer, Debbie Roach and Patsy Kelley.

Miss Smith and the others will compete in the District One 4-H Horse Show July 14 at Recreation Park.

All contestants were required to show in halter and two performance classes, Ben Johnson, assistant Gray County agent, said.

Plaintiff Wins Summary Ruling

Gray County Judge S. R. Lenning Jr. ruled for the plaintiff, Amarillo Tractor Parts Inc., Friday in making a summary judgement against George Cowan and J. D. White, both of Pampa.

Judgement entered for the plaintiff stated defendants would pay $423.50 plus 10 per cent interest from June 30 until the judgement amount is paid, Lenning explained.

In a suit to collect on a note, plaintiff was allowed summary judgement if the defendant did not present disputable facts and a valid defense to the item, he said.

Lenning said a summary judgement would come under the Justice of the Peace court if the amount in question is under $200. If it is between $200 and $500, it would come under his jurisdiction, in County Court.

If it was between $500 and $1,000 it would be under concurrent jurisdiction of the district and county judges and could be filed in either court. Over $1,000, it has to be filed in district court, he said.

The Amarillo Tractor Parts Inc. vs. Cowan and White suit was filed with the Gray County clerk in January.

Airman Apprentice Donald L. Armstrong, USN, son of Mr. Donald L. Armstrong of Pampa, has completed the Aviation Mechanical Fundamentals School at the Naval Air Technical Training Center in Memphis, Tenn.

The four-week course introduces students to mathematics, physics and the principles of electricity. Subjects stressed include a omic theory, static and theory and the construction of aircraft batteries.

This month-long course prepares Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard personnel for entrance into more advanced courses at the center.

DIVERTICULOSIS IS VERY COMMON
Very briefly, Diverticulosis is a condition where outpouchings, similar to the blisters caused by "stone bruises" on automobile tires, swell out along the intestines. Often they cause no bother. Many people have them with no problem.
Sometimes one or more of them becomes irritated and inflamed. An infection results which requires prompt medical attention. This is called Diverticulitis. Constant pain, often accompanied by nausea, vomiting, chills and fever are among symptoms. For any intestinal discomfort not promptly relieved a physician should be consulted. We can fill his prescriptions.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine. Pick up your prescription if shopping nearby or we will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound yours?

Computerized Driving

Automatic Highways Ahead?

Some researchers are predicting the fully automated highway, in which the driver turns over control of his car to a computer, will be in use by the year 2000. They foresee a motorist driving to a superhighway where he steers into a specified lane and feeds his destination into an ultra-compact computer, which then does the driving. On approach to the desired spot, he takes over again. Scale models, such as the one at right, are being built in the auto industry and full-sized autos have already steered themselves over test stretches, as shown below. Ahead lie years of research in highway design and reliable automatic control systems.

Automatic highway concept illustrated below operates this way: At (1) a vehicle traveling in normal traffic is steered (2) into a transitional lane and driver signals system that he wants to enter automatic lane. At (3) car is automatically guided into first available spot in platoon of closely spaced vehicles in automated lane. To exit, driver signals (4) to move to transition lane (5) and normal lane (6).

Highway Vacationers Should Observe Driving Safety Tips

EDITOR'S NOTE: July traditionally marks the start of America's summertime vacation driving. Millions of Americans will be taking to the highways this weekend and for the next 10 weeks. If you are among them, memorize the suggestions in this dispatch. They will help you return home safely.

By DAVID W. CHUTE

DETROIT (UPI)—This is the time of year when the restless stir of the wonderlust rises like a lump in the throat, and the call of the open road beckons.

It's vacation time and No. 1 on the hit parade is a road map.

But knowing where you're going isn't enough—if you want to enjoy the trip and make it home safely at the end.

Taking a trip by car requires some advance preparations, and some precautions. It's a big, wide country, and your car can be your transport to virtually any spot in it.

You can get just about anywhere—with thought and planning.

After you decide where you want to go and mark your route on the road maps, give some thought to the machine that gets you there, your car. Make sure it's properly serviced before the trip, with a change of oil and new oil filter and air cleaner on the carburetor.

Check Fan Belt
Check your fan belt. There's nothing worse than being stranded far from a city or service station with a broken fan belt that should have been replaced before you started.

So, everything is ready, you're leaving home and the gas is turned off, the paper delivery stopped and the milkman notified.

Fasten your seat belts. Now, remember, before you're an hour from home you'll be traveling on unfamiliar roads and will be for the rest of the trip. So be extra cautious when approaching intersections and slow down when approaching populated areas from rural districts.

If you're traveling a superhighway, keep in mind that your driving habits have changed. You've been used to urban travel for most of the year. Now you're traveling at higher speeds.

After an hour of driving at 65 miles an-hour, the legal limit on many superhighways, it can seem like 40. Learn to re-gauge your approach to a car up ahead so you're sure just how fast you are overtaking.

Cause Of Accidents
Differences in speeds of cars traveling in the same direction, rather than actual speed, are the cause of many accidents.

Make it standard procedure to take a break at least every two hours. Stop the car, get out and stretch your legs, walk around a bit, and, if at a rest area, get a cup of coffee or some other soft beverage. It is important to refresh yourself periodically.

Plan your trip so that you do not drive more than 400 miles a day. Fatigue can set in if you drive farther. Ten hours on the road counting coffee breaks and a stay for lunch, equals at least eight hours of driving. That's full day's work.

When traveling in a line of traffic on a long, straight road, avoid auto hypnosis. This is a most common danger when you're following another car. You fix your eyes and drive according to the car ahead.

People afflicted with auto hypnosis have been known to follow the car ahead right into a ditch, or onto an unwanted turnoff—just because they were following automatically.

Breaks Hypnosis Aided

To overcome this, let your eyes wander a bit while driving. Deliberately take your eyes off the car ahead and look out either side, or glance at the rear mirror for brief seconds every so often. It not only breaks the hypnosis effect, but keeps you informed on what's behind, always a good thing to know anyway.

Traveling at high speed, always when on superhighways allow a good distance between you and the car ahead. Experts figure you should allow a separation of not less than one car length for every 10 miles per hour of speed.

Never reduce the pressure of air in your tires when it seems high after some distance of high speed travel on hot roads. Tire pressures for cars are rated at cold temperature, that is, at normal temperature when the car has been standing for hours. Pressures are bound to increase with the increase in temperature from travel over the roads.

Children traveling with you?

FOR AQUANAUTS

The General Services Administration is trying to sell 10 acres of land which it admits is under water.

The property offered for sale Friday is a submerged island, outside the Stamford harbor entrance. The successful bidder also gets an 88-year-old Coast Guard lighthouse, tower standing on the island.

Endless List

The list of things to find can be endless, and it will be a longer interval between the "Daddy, are we almost there yet?" questions. Also the youngsters will be less likely to interfere with your driving.

Finally, those last 25 miles to destination sometimes can be a chore if you've had a hard day of driving and are becoming weary. If you feel like dozing and have to fight to keep your head clear, best thing to do is change drivers if somebody else in the car can drive.

If there's only one driver here are a couple of tips that will help. Keep your eyes moving. Look short and long distances to keep your eyes refocusing. Switch glances from side to side. And every so often swing your head at the neck in an oval pattern. It's surprising what this exercise can do to rekindle a sagging nervous system.

Happy motoring.

Methodist Church Reports VBS, Sets Dedication Date

LEFORS — Lefors Methodist Church's vacation church school started recently with several enrolled. The Rev. D. C. Read conducts opening sessions each morning and oversees the school which offers classes for nursery through the ninth grade.

Mrs. Boyd Smith, superintendent, has not directed the school because she was hospitalized in Oklahoma City for tests.

The church's new Christian flag has been placed in sanctuary. Mr. and Mrs. John Hollenshead gave the flag in memory for their son George, who was killed in action in Vietnam in March. Bishop Eugene Slater will conduct the dedication of the Methodist Church parsonage July 9.

LATE SUMMER YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK, Calif. (UPI)

Fourth of July vacationers are advised that they can't camp in the high Sierra this weekend.

The Forest Service says the snow is still too deep.

BAD MANNERED'
LONDON (UPI)—The staff of a British European Airways (BEA) jet Comet all pitched in today to find a stowaway hidden on board on a flight all the way from Budapest.

The culprit, an official explained, was a mouse. It has been refused entry into England because other mice "have been known to abuse airline hospitality by chewing electrical cables and frightening female passengers."

CLASSIFIED ADS GETS RESULTS

RIGHT SPICIT
FACKWELL HEATH, England (UPI)—Christmas comes but once a year goes the maxim. Why, asked pubkeeper Fred Holdstock.

Apparently no convincing answer was forthcoming, so Fred and some of the regulars today prepared to celebrate a Christmas-in-July party with all the traditional trimmings—carols, a tree, turkey dinner—and a visit from Santa Clads. "The Christmas spirit is so marvelous and everyone is happy at that time of year—so why not have it twice a year?" he said.

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

The French government, in the grand manner of Charles de Gaulle, the man who heads it, has written off the Johnson-Kosygin talks as a failure.

Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville returned from the United Nations where he faithfully reiterated the De Gaulle position of dubious neutrality in the Middle East and reported:

"In spite of their cordiality, the Johnson-Kosygin talks at Glassboro have led to no settlement whatsoever and they pointed up a certain number of disagreements."

It was exactly what De Gaulle wanted to hear, for the De Gaulle ego has had to take something of a beating lately in areas where he has worked hard to reassert French influence.

The Russians administered one blow when they blandly ignored De Gaulle's call for a four-power conference to deal with the Mideast crisis before the fighting broke out.

Viewed Meeting Dimly

Whether he tried to prevent the Johnson-Kosygin meetings when he saw the Russian premier briefly during the latter's Paris stopover enroute to the United Nations is a matter for speculation, but certainly he could not have viewed it with favor.

Agreement between the United States and the Soviet Union does not fit in with his own plan for bridges to the East.

And even though it was announced last December after Kosygin's visit to Paris that henceforth the two would coordinate their policies in the United Nations, it is an unhappy fact known to French diplomats that the Russians talked with France simply because they could not talk to the United States.

The Russians like to deal where the power lies.

Clearly they were saying De Gaulle didn't have it although they welcomed his anti-U.S. refusal to permit West Germany either possession of nuclear weapons or a voice in their control.

When De Gaulle declared that Israel started the war and blamed the United States for most of the world's ills another blow fell from an unexpected source.

Delivers Blow

It was from Red China with whom the French resumption of diplomatic relation had marked one of De Gaulle's first moves away from NATO and his attempt to undermine U.S. influence in Europe and elsewhere around the world.

RETIREES — After 44 years of service with Phillips Petroleum Co., Paul Endacott, vice chairman of the board, retired as employee and resigned as a director July 1, his normal retirement date as stipulated by the company's retirement policy.

USO Letters Keep GIs In Vietnam Cheered Up

SAIGON (UPI)—"Hi there," writes a young lady from Harper Woods, Mich., in a neat round hand on a sheet of looseleaf notebook paper: "My name's Marie. What's yours?"

About 1,000 letters from Americans who want to cheer the soldiers arrive in Vietnam USO's every week and more are welcome.

As might be expected, the most desired are from young ladies who enclose snapshots. But letters from all sorts of Americans are read eagerly. Some GIs say they are lonely that even collection letters from the finance agency are read and re-read.

Available to all letters sent to the 11 USO installations in Vietnam are placed in mail call buckets and soldiers are encouraged to pull a handful and pick the ones they want to respond to. The correspondences that result sometimes continue for years.

The Saigon USO, here four years receives plenty of letters but mail is still scarce at the new and more remote USO clubs, particularly the Freedom Hill Da Nang. New Postage Stamp Due Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien made public yesterday the design of a 5-cent postage stamp that commemorates the 50th anniversary of independence for the Republic of Finland and a tradition of friendship between the United States and Finland, according to Postmaster Carl English.

The stamp will be issued October 6, with ceremonies at Finland, Minnesota. The Foreign Minister of Finland, Ahti Karjalainen, and the Finnish Ambassador to the United States, Ilavi Munkki, have accepted invitations to participate. Deputy Postmaster General Frederick C. Belen will represent the Post Office Department.

Finland is a small community in northeastern Minnesota, an area where many Finnish-Americans live.

Every day at lunch time, Mrs. Patricia Krause, a USO official, pulls a few of the more interesting letters and reads them over the armed forces radio network.

She says the troops want to get columns clipped from newspaper sports pages and snapshots.

Perfect Letter

She cites as a "perfect" letter one written by a housewife in Mundelein, Ill.

"This morning as I look out my kitchen window the absolute tranquility of the scene reminds me that it is not such in all corners of the world. Oaks standing tall stretch their bare limbs toward a very bright blue sky. The birds are rounding up for that one last good meal before the trip south, flying in flocks, high and low, circling a bare field. The last bloom of the garden has given up and the warm late fall sun shines down, giving the appearance that all has been brushed with gold."

The Mundelein, Ill., housewife, who corresponds with scores of American men here, wrote to Mrs. Krause of her reaction to the letters she was receiving in reply.

ARKANSAS RIVER LOCKS are taking shape in the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers project aimed at permitting barge transportation along more than 400 miles of inland waterways, besides providing flood control and hydroelectric power. This aerial view shows the lock and dam just below Little Rock, Ark., one of 17 such locks and dams to be built between Desha County, Ark., and Catoosa, Okla., at a cost of $1.2 billion. This particular job, typical of the others to be done, should be finished late in 1968. The construction is by Dravo Corporation of Pittsburgh, Pa.

APPROVE REGULATION WASHINGTON (UPI)—A federal court has upheld the Federal Communications Commission's authority to regulate community antenna television systems in the absence of specific authorization by Congress.

The U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, in a case brought by Buckeye Cablevision, Inc., of Toledo, Ohio, said Friday the growth of CATV "is so rapid that, if it is allowed to proceed unabated, harm to the regulatory scheme can occur before the FCC can act."

NEW YORK (UPI)—W.E. Hutton & Co. sees a current reversal of the favorable economic environment which accompanied this year's early bull market. Noting that the market is doing comparatively well despite a downward revision of corporate earnings forecasts, the possibility of a tax hike and rising money rates, the analyst says that a bearish policy at this time may be "dangerous."

Thomson & McKinnon feels that in view of the market's current weakness, a period of backing and filling would be helpful at this juncture in order to fortify the list "for further gains in the weeks ahead."

Bache & Co. feels that shifting economic factors will continue to plague the market over the short term but while a second half rebound is still in sight, the analyst suggests that investors maintain a cautiously constructive market stance.

MEET BILL HITE

Our New Pharmacist

Bill Hite has recently been employed as a full-time pharmacist at Heard & Jones Rexall Drug, 114 N. Cuyler, according to Lynn Gaston, manager.

A 1960 graduate of Borger High School, Hite attended Texas Technological College, Lubbock, where he studied biology and chemistry and received a Bachelor of Science degree in pharmacy from Southwestern State College, Weatherford, Okla., last month.

While at Weatherford, Bill was vice president of the student body, and was selected for "Who's Who among Students in American Colleges and Universities."

Hite has worked for Heard & Jones since April, 1965, completing his internship.

Hite is a member of the American Pharmaceutical Association and the Texas Pharmaceutical Association.

Cubs Close to League Lead

Reds Lose 6-3 As Mets Dump Cards

CHICAGO (UPI) — Rookie pitcher Rich Nye doubled and scored the winning run on Glenn Beckert's single in the seventh inning and pitched a five-hitter for 7 2-3 innings Saturday in leading the red-hot Chicago Cubs to a 6-3 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

The triumph, before 31,833 the largest crowd in two years at Wrigley Field, boosted the Cubs within a 1-2 game of first place and was their fifth in row, tenth in the last eleven games, and 16 in their last 18.

Houston 4, LA 2

HOUSTON (UPI) — Houston catcher Ron Bland singled home a tie-breaking run in the eighth inning and then worked a double steal with Ron Davis for an insurance run to give the Houston Astros a 4-2 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers Saturday night.

Mets 6, Cards 4

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two successive errors by shortstop Dal Maxvill enabled the New York Mets to score twice in the seventh inning Saturday and hand the league-leading St. Louis Cardinals their fourth loss in five games with a 6-4 triumph.

Tribe, Birds Split

BALTIMORE (UPI) — John O'Donoghue's seven innings of one-hit relief pitching enabled the Cleveland Indians to score a 6-0 victory Saturday after the Baltimore Orioles completed an 8-1 win in a game that was suspended Friday night.

SF 3, Phils 2

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Jim Hart's two-run double in the eighth inning enabled the San Francisco Giants to defeat the Philadelphia Phillies 3-2 Saturday night behind the eight hit pitching of Mike McCormick and Frank Linzy.

Hart's game winning hit followed an error by third baseman Richie Allen and a single by Willie Mays and gave McCormick his ninth victory of the season against three losses.

Chisox 6, Tigers 5

DETROIT (UPI) — Veteran Hoyt Wilhelm stopped a rally in the seventh inning to preserve Joe Horien's 10th victory of the season and give the league-leading Chicago White Sox a 6-5 victory over the Detroit Tigers Saturday night.

Koch Highlights Tennis Upsets

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — Thomas Koch, a Brazilian southpaw, climaxed the most remarkable run of upsets on a single day in the history of the Wimbledon tennis championships Saturday by beating highly favored Charley Pasarell of Puerto Rico 6-4, 4-6, 3-6, 6-4, 6-6.

Koch eliminated Pasarell, the last American in the men's singles, in a long duel of serves and placements in which the Puerto Rican never was able to produce the game that gave him an opening day victory over top-seeded Manuel Santana of Spain.

Pasarell's departure, a sensation on any other day, was just another shock in a run of upsets as the old order changed so violently that younger players, staking their claims for the quarter-finals, knocked five seeds out of the singles.

The most spectacular of the victories went to little Rosemary Casals of San Francisco who scored what she described as the greatest win of her career in beating second-seeded Maria Bueno of Brazil 2-6, 6-2, 6-2. Once the first set was out of the way the 18-year-old American never relaxed the pressure and the three-time Wimbledon champion hurried herself into many errors.

Twins 4, Sens 0

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Harmon Killebrew's two-run, bases-loaded single highlighted a four-run eighth inning Saturday and led the Minnesota Twins to a 4-0 victory over the Washington Senators.

Braves 4, Bucs 2

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Mack Jones doubled home Felipe Alou from first base in the ninth inning Saturday to lead the Atlanta Braves to a 4-2 victory that handed the Pittsburgh Pirates their sixth loss in seven games.

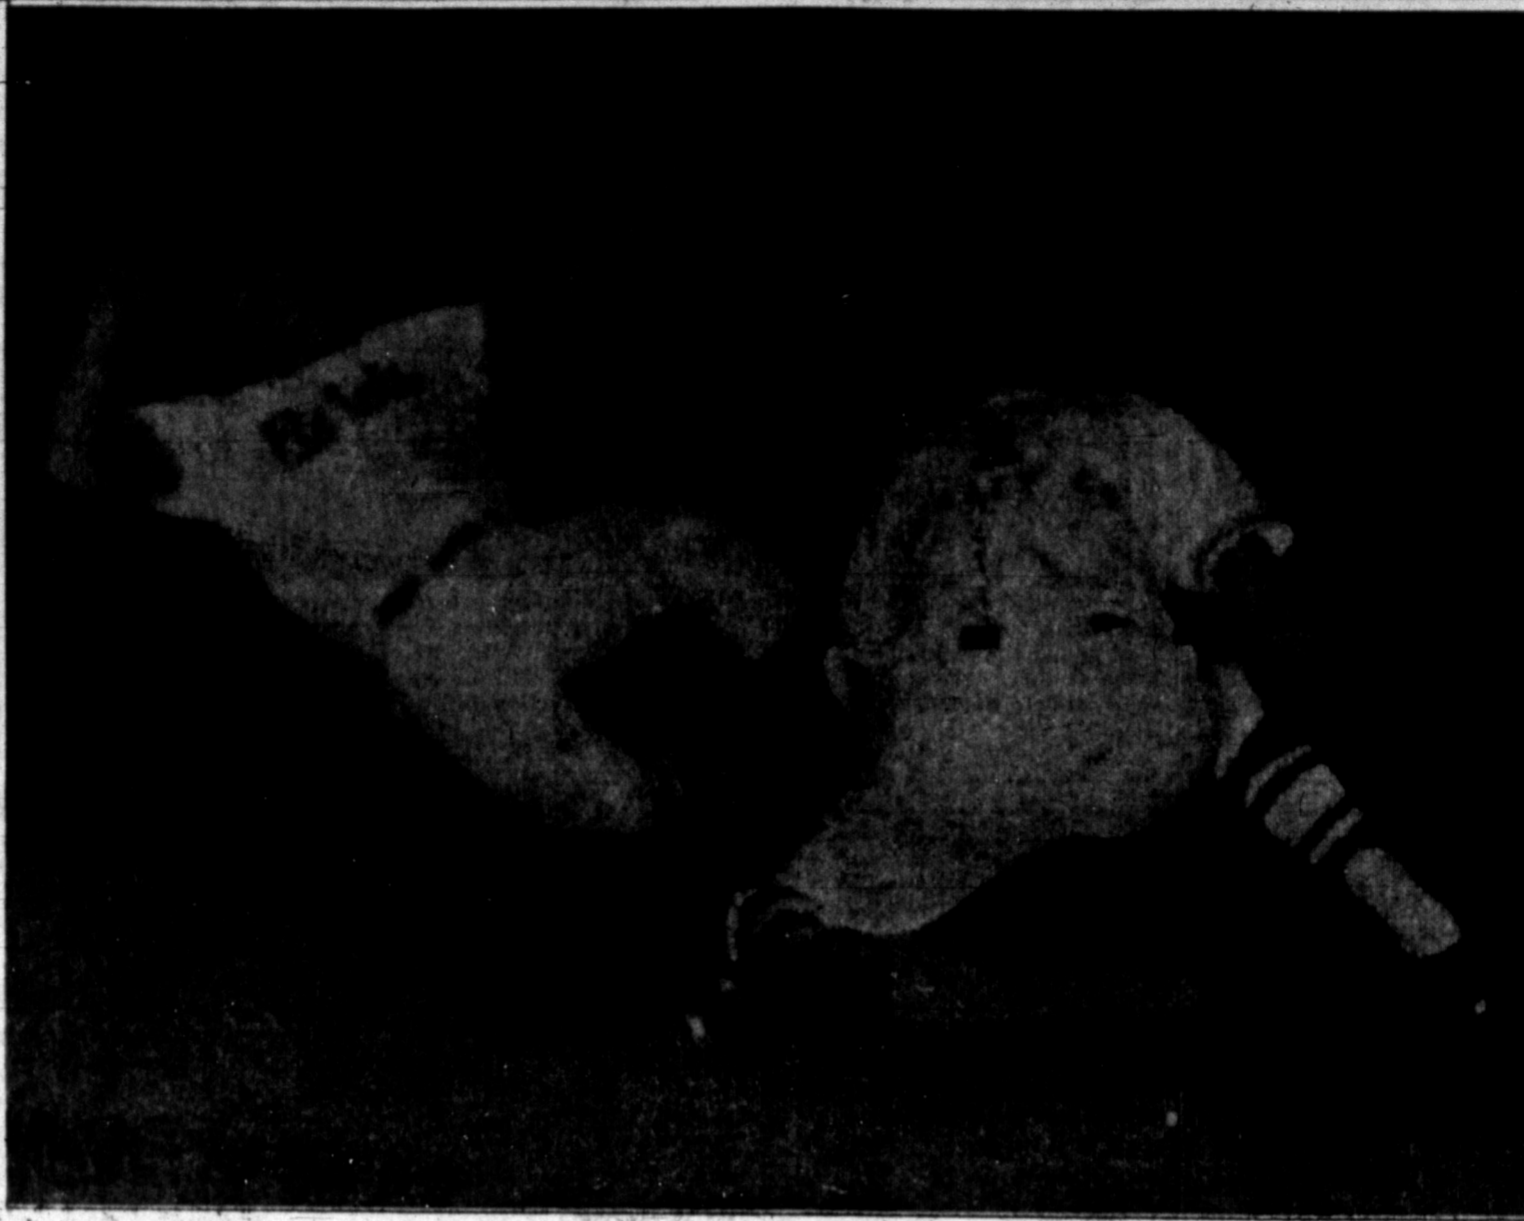

Sports Briefs

FRENCH CHAMPION
PARIS (UPI) — Phaeton, owned by Madame Jean Sten, won the 99th running of the $280,000 Grand Prix de Paris for three-year-olds Sunday, the top event of the French horse racing season. Phaeton won by two-lengths over 12 rivals, including the favored Astec, winner of the recently run French Derby.

DENEHY OPTIONED
NEW YORK (UPI) — Right-hander Bill Denehy was optioned by the New York Mets to their Jacksonville farm team in the International League. Denehy, 21, won a starting berth in spring training when he posted the lowest earned run average on the team. He had a 4.61 average and a 1-7 record in 15 games with New York this season.

CONTENDER ARRIVES
NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — Australia's entry in this year's America's Cup races—the 12-meter yacht Dame Pattie—arrived in Port Newark where it was unloaded and towed to Mamaroneck, N.Y. The races begin Sept. 12.

SIGN PITCHER
CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Cubs announced the acquisition of Don Larsen, the only pitcher ever to hurl a perfect World Series game, from their Dallas-Fort Worth club in the Texas League. Larsen, whose major league record is 81-91, joined the minor league team May 23, posting a 2.3 mark and compiling a 1.57 earned run average.

OUT AT THIRD during the Pampa Rebels victory over Perryton Saturday night is the Rebels Dickie Henley. Dickie was credited with a double but was out trying to stretch his hit into a triple.

REID, SIFFORD TRAIL

Wall Holds 2 Shot Lead

MONTREAL (UPI) — Art Wall Jr., playing unspectacular but steady golf, fired a one-under-par 70 Saturday to remain two shots in front of the field with a 54-hole score of 207 in the $200,000 Canadian Open Golf championship.

The 43-year-old Podone Manor, Pa., pro started the day two strokes in front and finished that way, but it took a combination of skill, luck and adversity to keep himself there. With three holes to play, Wall had dropped back to second place two shots behind playing partner Dale Douglass who was sailing along six under par for the tournament and three under for the round.

Then disaster struck the 31-year-old Oklahoman. Douglass, trioled-bogeyed the bogey par 3 17th while Wall noted a 25-foot putt for a double. Douglass, still visibly upset over his misfortune, also bogeyed the par-3 18th when he overshot the green and three-putted. In the space of three holes, Wall moved from two shots back of the current leader to two strokes ahead of everyone.

With rounds of 67-70-70, Wall now is two shots in front of Steve Reid, a 30-year-old little-known pro who fired a 69 Saturday for a 209. Three shots back of the leader were Charlie Sifford, who has made a habit of scoring well in the Canadian Open, lanky Al Geiberger and Billy Casper. Sifford shot a four-under 67 Saturday while Geiberger and Casper, an even par 71. Four shots back was Gene Luter, the 1965 Canadian winner who had the best round of the day, a five-under par 65 that matched first round leader Laurie Hammer's opener. Hammer, who slipped to a 74 Friday, skied to a 77 in the third round and was bunched with nine other at 217.

Tied with Litter at 211 were Jack Nicklaus, the U.S. Open champion who had one-under 70 after rounds of 69 and 72; Don January and hard-luck Douglass. Despite his nightmare on the final two holes, Douglass finished with a one-over 72.

With the biggest portion of the estimated record Canadian Open crowd of 30,000 cheering him on, Arnie Palmer could fashion nothing better than a one-under 70. Arnie, who won event 12 years ago, would like to celebrate his 50th tournament triumph with a repeat in the rich Canadian first prize $30,000.

Tied with Palmer at 212 are Allan Henning, who had a 67, Tommy Aaron, England's Tony Jacklin and Julius Boros, who had a 69.

The Sonics committed four errors in the triumph but banged out a dozen hits off four El Paso pitchers. In other action, Austin beat Dallas-Fort Worth 8-4 and Albuquerque whitewashed Arkansas 4-0.

The Spurs got busy with two out in the ninth inning but it was too late. They got five hits and four runs at that late hour after getting only three safeties previously. The Dodgers got five hits in beating the Travelers with Mike Kekich giving up three safeties to Arkansas. Tonight's schedule remains the same.

LPGA Lead To Amateur

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (UPI) — Catherine Lacoste, the Paris youngster, stumbled on the front nine during the third round of the U.S. Women's Open Golf Tournament Saturday but poured it on in the homestretch to maintain her five-stroke lead.

She had a three-over-par 74 for a 215 total — two-over-par for the 34 holes — to retain her lead going into the final round Sunday. Miss LaCoste, 22, would be the first amateur to win the U.S. Women's Open since it began in 1946. The pros will share $25,000 in prize money.

Miss LaCoste's closest competitor was Margie Masters who held on to second place with a 74 for a 220 total. Susie Maxwell, tied for second Friday, slipped to a three-way tie for third with a 76 for 222. Beth Stone and Murle Lindstrom also had 222s.

They got five hits and four runs at that late hour after getting only three safeties previously. The Dodgers got five hits in beating the Travelers with Mike Kekich giving up three safeties to Arkansas. Tonight's schedule remains the same.

WOODARD HURLS BLANKS

Rebels Topple Perryton 3-0

Alan Woodard notched his sixth victory in seven outings and hurled his fourth shutout as the Pampa Rebels kept their hold on first place in the American Legion standings by downing Perryton 3-0 in Optimist Club Park Saturday night.

Woodard, in going the distance for the sixth time, allowed only two hits, both singles and fanned 14 batters to run his season total to 105 in 56 innings.

The southpaw was a bit wild, allowing four walks for a total of 12 this season. The Rebels ran their season mark to 11-2 to go a full game ahead of Borger in the North division standings.

Pampa tagged Perryton starter Terrel Rorobaugh for only seven hits, but had three doubles in the attack. The Rebels leading hitter, Larry Stephens, with a .419 average, stroked two safeties and drove in a run and Gary Molberg drove in the other.

Dickie Henley had two hits for Pampa including a double. Pampa scored twice in the first inning to ice the game when Alvin Achord opened with a single, stole second and third and came home on Stephens' single. Stephens stole second and advanced to third on Molberg's long fly to left. The Pampa second-baseman scored on a passed ball. The final Pampa tally came in the eighth when Stephens singled with one out and scored all the way from first on Molberg's hit, a double. The third baseman was out trying to stretch his hit into a triple.

Woodard went through all sorts of trouble, much to his own making. Perryton, now 5-5, got their first hit in the fourth with two out and loaded the bases in the sixth.

In the sixth, Rorobaugh led off with a single, went to second when Roberts walked, Beck fanned but Barnes walked to load the bases. But Rorobaugh was thrown out firstbase to catcher on Hargrove's ground ball and Woodard got Beck to ground out to end the inning.

AL Players Did Right

By RON CORSS
Things we've learned from watching television this week... NBC isn't prejudiced and Joe Pepitone looks like Goiner Pyle.

Mr. and Mrs. Mickey Mantle, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Pepitone, Mrs. Whitey Ford and Mrs. Mel Stottlemyer were guests last week on the NBC game show, "Match Game." It was nice of CBS, who if you don't know, owns the Yankees, to loan these people out. Now if NBC would loan the Yankee Sandy Koufax us Yankee fans might be in business.

They're both having a bad year and the players picked the best, the guys with the hottest bats. But Mantle and Mays will both be playing before its over.

They're picking the players for this year's All-Star game, not last year or the year before. You have to pick the players who are having a good year this year. I'm sure Mays and Mantle will both be picked before its over.

Are the players who make the selections and who are much closer to the scope than we are, trying to tell us something?

We asked three former ball players why the big league would allow something like this to happen. Lloyd Summers, former Pampa Oiler and now coach of Pampa's American Legion baseball team:

Two Power Restrictions Rock Auto Racing Clan

By MIKE GERALD
 Ford Motor Company... ending its inter-national racing program? The success of the turbine car at Indianapolis... merely a drop in the bucket? No, there's not an affirmative answer to these questions yet, but there will be soon, due to two weighty restrictions slapped on the auto-racing industry this past week.

Tuesday, in the U.S., the Indy board of directors decided to muzzle all race cars, turbine or otherwise, entering the brickyard, to 450 horsepower. A more far-reaching decision was made earlier in the week by the F.I.A. to cut engine capacity limits in international racing to a maximum of three liters (183 and one-half cubic inches).
 Either or both of these decisions, although reached solely by worthy intentions, may produce unpredictable and drastic effects on the entire mecca involved in the auto race game.
 The Indy hobble came less than a month after Parnelli Jones, driving the STP (whoosh-poo-sh-sh) turbine, literally dismantled the pack and enjoyed an unchallenged Memorial Day drive up until seven laps from the checkered flag, when with the turbine still purring smoothly, the gearbox gave out. Immediately after the race, and A. J. Foyt's victory, dyed-in-the-wool followers of the inter-national combustion engine issued tear-jerking whines that the "dangerous" turbines must be banned from the track. Who wouldn't cry after sinking $50,000 on a bright and shiny "va-room" racer and then watching a revolution of the century whiz doubtful the scaling-down of the "silent streak" by 90 h.p. would hurt its chances of staying with the conventional - powered machines that much. Moreover, the horsepower rating itself continues to have an unstable base as far as measurement goes. It can be measured fairly accurately on a dynamometer, but still often varies a different points of torque. Who's to know officials the world over second thoughts on frantic horsepower-cubic inch speed buildup over the last few years. Cylinders were quickly reaching the size where the mechanic could stick his head in them to inspect for wear! The Fords were clocked at 214 m.p.h. on the straights at this year's LeMans while the rival Ferraris were close behind, turning 195 m.p.h. Ford, during the past two years, had capitalized on its colossal seven liter, 427 cu. in. mill to bring in victories at Le-

Mans and Sebring. To say that the rule brings the end of an era is an understatement! Ferrari, Ford's top foe, won't be hurt as much by the muzzle. The marque has always been known for squeezing gobs of horsepower out of fairly small engines, and, only recently (since Ford went all out internationally) began to really scoop out their engines. Their LeMans entries were 4 1/2 liter models: only 1 1/2 liters over new limit. There has been no official word yet from the Ford camp as to what they will do in their dilemma. It should be interesting to watch the effects that both of these new rules have on all concerned during the next few months.

MIKE GERALD

A Few Holds Barred

by and leave it dusty and tarnished? But indeed, in the interests of safety, something should be done. Even the gasping combustion engines were cranking off speeds on the oval close to 170 m.p.h., and upping the pace each year!
 But alas, fair turbine, all hope has not faded. The Pratt & Whitney turbine in Jones' car was rated at 540 h.p. It is it if the engine h.p. slightly fudges the new limit. That's probably what the "combustion clan" is counting on!

 The F.I.A. decision was also made in the interest of safety, although Ford probably feels that they got the rawest deal of anyone. The deaths of three prominent international drivers in the past two months, the best known of which was Italy's Lorenzo Bandini, has given racing

Mantle Named To AL All Stars

BOSTON (UPI)—It's not surprising but a familiar name at an unfamiliar position is listed on the American League All-Star squad.

Mickey Mantle, the veteran New York Yankees' slugger who's made the successful transition from centerfield to first base, was named to the squad by former teammate Hank Bauer, who doubles as Baltimore manager and skipper of the 1967 American League All-stars.
 Mantle, who hasn't played in the All-star game since 1964 and hasn't been selected to the squad since 1965, was picked even though he finished third in the balloting at first base behind Harmon Killebrew and Don Mincher and is batting just .240.

"He's the player the fans want to see—regardless of what he's hitting," chorused the players earlier this week when sports writers asked about Mantle's chances of making another All-star team, his 17th.
 League President Joe Cronin announced Bauer's selections Friday, including Mantle and eight other reserves for the 38th All-star game July 11 in Anaheim, Calif. Bauer still has to name his pitchers for the contest.

Other reserves named besides Mantle included Mincher and Jim Fregosi of the Angels, Dick McAuliffe of Detroit, Cleveland's Max Alvis, Paul Casanova of Washington, Boston's Tony Conigliaro, Tommie Agee of front-running Chicago and Andy Etchebarren of Bauer's own Orioles. The starting team, minus a pitcher, was selected by the league's players and announced Tuesday.

NEW HOPE for the United States in the prestigious Wimbledon tennis tournament came in the person of Chuck Pasarell. The 23-year-old Puerto Rican, playing under the American banner, was unseeded but eliminated defending champion Manuel Santana of Spain in the opening round.

Walker Given Hope by GM Brown

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—The sixth-place standing, trouble with the Pittsburgh Pirates, says Joe L. Brown, is the Pittsburgh Pirates, not their manager.
 General Manager Brown met them, "it's not because you with the club for about 15 minutes Friday night before a game with the Atlanta Braves. He told the players HARRY win."
 He blamed the players for the

By MARTIN REEVES- The fourth of July is just a round thecorner and with it comes the annual mixed scotch foursome event. This little get-together allows the male competitors to see how the lady golfers navigate the course. Some of the contestants will have some mild surprises - others, hair-raising nightmares. Everybody is welcome to play - bring your wife, girlfriend, or whatever - and join the fun. The entry fee is $2 per team, green fee players must also pay the green fee. Remember this all takes place July 4th at 3 p.m. on the Pampa Country Club Golf course. We set a record ladies day - the fewest women to show up to play since it started this year. An even dozen ladies participated, which is far below the average. Short Notes - Dr. George Snell fired a fine round of 81 Wednesday. Wynn Veale, one of the newer golfers, took a trip around the course in just 89 shots. This is a very fine showing, congratulations Mr. Veale. Jim Triplehorn threw in a 71 the other day, a super score for a man who uses only a few clubs and puts cross-handed. Nice round, Mr. Triplehorn. Haskell Maguire shot a 72, not bad for an old gray-haired fellow. Tommy Adkins 75, R. A. Baker, 79, Dr. Frank (Doug Sanders) Kelly 77. I'd like to welcome Bruce Scott and family back from vacation in Wisconsin. Golfing must be nice up north as it is here, he's swinging smoother than ever. Sherwin Cox shot a blazing 39-42-81, pretty good for a working boy. Hart Warren took low pro, tied for low in the pro-pro and pro am teams at Hubert Golf club in Borger Pro-Am Thursday. Hart is just like good whiskey, he gets better with age. A little reminder - we will be open Monday July 3rd. Holiday rates will be in effect. See you the 4th.

Podres Boosts Tigers Morale With 4-1 Win

By United Press International The uniform was different and the elbow had a few less bone chips in it-but it was really all the same for Johnny Podres Friday night. There was an important game to be decided and he went to work to get it. "He's a real pro," beamed manager Mayo Smith after Podres went 7 1-3 innings in pitching the Detroit Tigers to a 4-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox in the opener of their key three-game series. The victory enabled the crippled Tigers to move within 4 1-2 games of the league-leading White Sox-in contrast to the 6 1-2 games back they would have been if they'd lost it. Podres, who spent his entire 12-year career with the Dodgers winning the important games until he was sold to the Tigers last year, was making only his third start of the season. Not Regular Reliever Podres has been used mainly as a reliever by the Tigers but he claims he's just not a relief pitcher. "There's no way I'm a relief pitcher," he said, "I'm not the kind of guy who can throw every day. I'm starting to get my arm in shape again. I'll be okay."

Podres has been a question mark ever since June of 1964 when he had an operation on his elbow for the removal of bone chips. He pitched just three innings that season and was 7-6 in 1965-The Dodgers pitched him in just two innings last year before selling him to the Tigers in May. He posted a 4-5 record with Detroit. The Tigers bombed Chicago starter Tommy John for three runs in the first inning to decide the game. Dick McAuliffe tripped and scored on a pass ball and Norm Cash later doubled in two runs. Elsewhere in the American League, Boston edged Kansas City 5-3, California turned back New York 6-2 and Cleveland beat Baltimore 6-5 in the first game of a two-night doubleheader and the second game was suspended by curfew with Baltimore leading 1-0 after five innings. It will be finished today. The Washington-Minnesota game was rained out. Tony Conigliaro's towering three-run homer in the sixth inning paced Boston to the triumph over Kansas City.

Mavericks Claim Chance of Signing Chamberlain

HOUSTON (UPI)-The Houston Mavericks of the American Basketball Association have an "even chance" of signing Will Chamberlain away from the Philadelphia 76ers, Houston Coach Slater Tartin said Friday. "I talked to him about a week ago," Martin said. "Will says he isn't interested in a bidding war and has only one figure in mind."

Chamberlain asked to be released from a three-year, $375,000 76er contract last fall. It was substituted by a one-year option clause.

deal that expired at the end of the pro basketball season. Chamberlain said there was no option clause.

NATIONAL LEAGUE ROUNDUP

Hurlers Shine at Bat

By United Press International By FRED McMANE UPI Sports Writer The No. 9 spot in the batting order isn't as reliable as it used to be.

There was a time when managers could practically count on the pitcher's spot in the lineup to be an automatic out, and even if a pinch-hitter was sent up in that position, you at least got the rival hurler out of the game.

But times have changed. The new breed of pitchers go up with the idea of just meeting the ball and not only have many become successful hitters but they're getting better at it all the time. Four National League pitchers demonstrated their hitting ability in clutch situations Friday as they drove home key runs to help preserve their own victories.

Osteen Homers

Claude Osteen cracked a ninth inning homer to give Los Angeles a 5-4 victory over Houston. Steve Blass delivered a two-run single in the eighth to help Pittsburgh beat Atlanta 3-1. Bill Hands singled home two runs in the sixth as Chicago edged Cincinnati 7-5 and Chris Short doubled home three runs in Philadelphia's 10-3 victory over San Francisco in the first game of a two-night double header.

The Giants came back to take the nightcap 12-3, and St. Louis defeated New York 4-1 in the other NL contests.

Osteen's homer, his second game-winning blast of the season, enabled the Dodger southpaw to record his 11th victory of the season against seven losses. Wes Parker had a three-run inside-the-park homer for the Dodgers.

Blass connected on an 0-2 pitch off Clay Carroll for his game-winning hit after the Pirates had loaded the bases. Blass, who completed only one of 25 starts last season, went the distance for the second time in four starts and boosted his record to 3-2.

Continue Winning Streak

Hands singled off relief pitcher Bob Lee following a double by Randy Hundley and a walk to Ted Savage to chase home the two runs that put the Cubs ahead to stay en route to their 11th victory in their last 12 games. The young righthander also pitched no-hit ball for six and one-third innings.

Billy Williams and Ron Santo each cracked his 14th homer of the season for the Cubs. Short, making his first appearance since May 21, climaxed the Phillies' scoring with his bases-clearing double in the seventh and stopped the Giants on seven hits while striking out eight. Dick Bietz had a three-run homer for the Giants while Johnny Callison hit three doubles for the Phillies.

Juan Marichal evened things up for the Giants in the nightcap as he gained his 11th victory of the season. Marichal was aided by a 19-hit attack that included four runs batted in each for Jim Hart and Ollie Brown.

Julian Javier drove in three runs with a bases-loaded single and a sacrifice fly in helping the league-leading Cardinals maintain their slim game and a half lead over the Cubs.

Southpaw Larry Jaster went all the way for the Cardinals to record his fifth victory in eight decisions.

Panhandle Water Conservation News

By FELIX W. RYALS

The people in West Texas, Eastern New Mexico and Western Oklahoma who worked so hard to form WATER, Inc. fully realize the task of bringing outside water to the area was going to be a big one over a long period of years.

There are so many preliminary things to get out of the way it staggers the mind to comprehend them all.

The board of directors of WATER, Inc. met in Amarillo Tuesday to outline work accomplished by the executive committee since the organization was formed May 24. During the Tuesday meeting directors discussed membership dues, district boundaries and the hiring of an executive manager.

J. W. Buchanan, of Dumas, who has been manager of North Plains Water Conservation District since its formation, was selected on a temporary basis as director of organization and information. To assume his new duties, he will be on a partial leave from his current job.

John Kendrick, president of WATER, Inc., stated the executive committee had set up a program of action that would require approximately a $200,000 annual budget. He also revealed the city of Lubbock had pledged a $10,000 membership. He welcomed pledges from all other cities within the boundaries of the West Texas area of WATER, Inc. and outside areas also.

Kendrick reminded directors the project WATER, Inc. is pushing would require large sums of money, but the benefits to every West Texas resident would be almost beyond the limits of imagination.

Plans have been set up to conduct studies and work with other organization and governing bodies to secure an adequate and assured supply of imported water for West Texas, Eastern New Mexico and the Oklahoma Panhandle.

Directors approved boundary lines for new districts in Texas not previously delineated. These new districts are as follows: Abilene; Midland-Odessa; San Angelo, El Paso-Pecos, Fort Worth, Wichita Falls and Waco. New advisory directors named were Judge Otho Dent of the Texas Water Rights Commission; Dr. Gerald Thomas, Texas Tech Dean of Agriculture; Palmer Norton of Hereford; Eldean Rae of Tulla and Frank Pharris of Amarillo.

Director Hoyt Pattison of Clovis, N. M., recommended WATER, Inc. send a representative to the Southern Water Resources Conference at Biloxi, Miss., July 11-14. The directors approved his recommendation and designated John Kendrick, president of the organization as official representative.

When the Panhandle Ground Water Conservation District No. 3, south of the Canadian River was formed in 1956 and adopted rules and regulations there were property line restrictions set up for spacing of wells and certain required distances from property lines unless waivers (easements) were obtained from adjoining property owners.

When waivers are obtained wells were drilled near property lines prior to the formation of the district. These wells were accepted into the district on an as-is basis.

Rule 10 - reworking or replacing of wells, governs these wells and also wells drilled since the formation of the district. Some questions have arisen during the past two weeks concerning status of existing wells (re-district and district). In order to clarify these questions we are listing Rule 10 as follows:

Status of Wells
No person shall rework, re-drill, or re-quip a well in a manner that would increase the water production rate from that well beyond any previous normal rate of production of such well without first having made an application to the board, and having been granted a permit by the board to do so.

Nor shall any person replace a well without a permit from the board. A replacement well, in order to be considered as such, must be drilled within 150 feet of the old well and not elsewhere.

It must not be located toward any other well or authorized well site unless the new location complies with the minimum spacing requirements set out in Rule 7 (a) which states "otherwise the replacement well shall be considered a new well for which application must be made under Rule 7."

Immediately upon completion of a replacement well, the old well shall be: filled and abandoned; or properly equipped so that it cannot produce more than 100,000 gallons of water a day; or closed in accordance with Article 1721, Texas Penal Code, being Acts 51st Legislature (1949) p. 509, ch. 281. Violation of such article is punishable by a fine of not less than $100, nor more than $500.

Peoples, a division of Northern Natural Gas Co., also will provide natural gas to five homes, according to Gariand Ruthart, Peoples sales representative. Ruthart was instrumental in putting the Umbarger project together, and other farmers interested in tying into the Peoples line can contact him in Canyon or through the Amarillo-based firm.

Peoples laid two miles of three inch plastic line and seven miles of two inch plastic line to provide well-side natural gas to the irrigation wells.

Well-side gas, a new term to Panhandle farmers, means that Peoples will build, own and operate the transmission and distribution lines to the well site without investment by the farmer. Peoples will sand the maintenance and leakage costs in providing natural gas to farmers' wells.

As director of the Texas office of the National Live Stock and Meat Board, he has participated in activities of the livestock industry and spearheaded the meat board's research, education and promotion efforts in the Southwest.

Following graduation, he farmed for a time and was employed as a USDA research worker at the Fort Robinson Beef Cattle

County SCD News

By JOHN JACKSON
(Engineer, Soil Conservation Service)

Conservation Irrigation, the use of soils and irrigation water to insure high production without the waste of either, is becoming more important every year.

Irrigation, whether it is the sprinkler or surface method, rarely is as efficient as it should be. Low efficiencies frequently are caused by inadequate designs that do not provide for the application of water in accordance with soil conditions and crop needs.

Sprinkler systems are especially desirable on sandy soils of the county and in areas where wells produce small quantities of water. It is much easier to apply the desired amount of water without unnecessary waste that often occurs with furrow irrigation.

A properly designed sprinkler system will apply water no faster than the soil can absorb it so that there is no puddling or runoff and no erosion. Pipe sizes, lengths and nozzles should be chosen which will give desired results and avoid excessive friction and pumping costs.

With a properly designed system, the irrigator knows the inches per hour that he is applying. It's then easy to determine the time of set required to apply the exact amount of moisture needed.

Grain Sorghum Needs Adequate Ground Moisture

For maximum yields of grain sorghum, adequate soil moisture should be available during the critical growth stages of boot, bloom and soft dough. Best yields are realized when soil moisture is kept at or above 45 per cent of field capacity during these stages, Foster Whaley, county agricultural agent said.

Grain sorghum uses less than one-tenth of an inch of water per day up to about the seven-leaf stage, but thereafter the water use rate increases rapidly.

"The peak water use of more than three-tenths of an inch per day comes between the boot and bloom stage. Two to three well-timed summer irrigations will generally give good yields or probably near maximum net return, he said.

"One irrigation should be applied at pre-boot and the other at late bloom stage. If sufficient water is available for a third irrigation, it should be applied during the soft dough stage."

However, points out Whaley, one irrigation on grain sorghum gives the most efficient water use. If rainfall is short, the boot stage is the approximate time to apply this single irrigation.

Research has shown irrigation during the pre-boot stage will often speed up maturity slightly. This may be important in view of the large acreage in late-planted grain sorghum. Moisture stress between the seven-leaf and boot stage could delay maturity enough to increase losses from the sorghum midge, explained Whaley.

A good supply of moisture should be continued through grain development to reduce charcoal rot. Adequate moisture preceding the boot stage often results in rapid stalk elongation. This, followed by a moisture stress during grain development, may contribute to a higher incidence of charcoal rot and an increase in stalk lodging, said Whaley.

Swine Breeders To Attend Class At Texas College

The 15th annual swine short course is slated at Texas Technological College July 6 and 7, sponsored by the Texas Swine Breeders Association and the Animal Husbandry Department of Texas Tech.

The first day program will include a market hog show and judging contest, forecast of hog business future, management of sow herd, feeding market pigs, and discussions on why produce the meat type hog.

The second session will be continuation of management of sows and pigs, report of swine research at Texas Tech, a swine production panel and carcass evaluation demonstration and announcement of winners of the evaluation contest.

Short Course chairman is Sam E. Curi of Texas Tech School of Agriculture.

Southwest Feed Lots Produce Hereford, Black Angus Cattle

By United Press International

Hundreds of thousands of Hereford and Black Angus cattle graze the grasslands and munch ensilage in the feedlots of the Southwest but the number of them ready for market has dropped. It means the housewife will pay more for that chuck roast.

The price of pork is "already going out of sight," some meat dealers report.

Cattle raisers in some areas are deliberately holding the stock off the market to bring a price increase.

"A lot of producers see the handwriting on the wall," said Pete Reece of the Fleming Co. in Topeka, Kan.

"They want to hold the cost of production down and reduce the herds."

Fleming services independent meat retailers and wholesalers in Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Missouri and parts of Arkansas and Colorado.

"With a surplus of cattle, you can't get the price you want," Reece said. "The feeders are thinking."

Kansas, which slaughtered 1.6 million head of cattle last year, is the nation's fourth largest beef producer.

Pork Up, Too
"Beef as well as pork should go up for the next month or so," said Larry Clark, a Midland, Tex. wholesale dealer. "In fact, it's already going up."

"Pork loin has gone up 14 cents a pound in the last two weeks."

Beef prices are not expected to go up as much as pork but the reason for the rise is the same—fewer animals on the hoof.

"For instance, there were 3,000 fewer hogs in the Chicago stockyards last week than the week before."

"Pork is going out of sight right now," said Troy Powell, manager of the Beverly Meat Shop in Wichita Falls, Tex.

"It will probably level off, but retail stores are getting 89 cents for a pound, where they were getting only 65 cents for it 30 to 45 days ago."

Good Raines
Les Maxfield, a sale ring operator at Torrington, Wyo., said he thought ranchers would hold their cattle off the markets be-

June Leaves Scattered Texas Rains

Soil moisture was described Thursday by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service as adequate in Northeast Texas, good in all except for North Central counties, adequate in half of the Rolling Plains district, adequate except in spots on the South Plains, adequate to short in the Panhandle, and needed to badly in all other sections of the state.

Good rains were noted this week in far West Texas west of the Pecos River and heavy rains and some hail continued to plague farmers in spots on the High Plains, the service said.

Very low yields from dryland grain sorghum were being reported from South Texas where 70 per cent of the crop in the Rio Grande Valley and 50 per cent in the Coastal Bend have been harvested.

Cotton, corn and grain sorghum crops in the upper Gulf Coast district all need rain, the service said.

Crops on the High Plains were listed as generally good except in the spots where excessive rain and hail damage occurred. Irrigated crops in far West Texas are making good progress and alfalfa is being cut for the third time in the El Paso valley, the service said.

Wheat harvest in the Panhandle has been delayed by rains but is complete on the South Plains. Yields in both areas are below average due to the dry weather during the growing season, insects and the late freezes in May.

Ranges and pastures are expected to make rapid recovery where rains have recently fallen and are good in the favored areas where moisture continued adequate. Feeding is increasing far West, West Central and in southern areas. The range and pasture situation was described as becoming critical in South Central Texas.

cause of exceptionally good range conditions.

Henry Stanko of Rocky Mountain Packing Co. of Casper, Wyo., said lamb prices were the highest in 30 years.

Dean Prosser of Cheyenne executive secretary of the Wyoming Stock Growers Association, said the fat cattle market had been seriously depressed and that meat prices would rise this summer.

Drought Blamed

The worst drought in at least 10 years in New Mexico has affected livestock as it has tourism and business in general.

Cattlemen and dealers say meat prices are expected to go up presently because ranchers are selling earlier due to the drought and labor agreements with meat packers for higher wages.

Robert Tabott, executive director of the New Mexico Cattlemen's Association, said prices are already up a little and estimated a rancher might break even by summer if the price increases continue.

Other Factors

Jack Copeland of the Ranchers and Farmers Livestock Auction Co. at Clovis, N. M. said ranchers are putting stocker cattle into feed lots instead of keeping them on grass due to the drought, which could bring a reduction in cattle ready for market by fall.

"No matter what happens," Copeland said, "Prices are going up."

"In our opinion, the price of beef is way too low for the general economy of the nation," said Harley Custer manager of the Oklahoma Livestock Marketing Association.

"There is a big demand for what cattle are available. I feel that sometime during the summer, prices will go up some."

Pork prices jumped 20 per cent in recent weeks, a Tulsa supermarket manager said.

"The only surprise is that the price rise has started a little earlier than normal," he said.

In Sapulpa, Okla., Melvin Pilibury, sales manager of Wickham Packing Co., said some feeders are losing as much as $20 a head on cattle.

"A couple of fellows told me they had been paying the highest feed prices they had ever paid and they were quitting cattle for a while," Pilibury said.

Agriculturally Speaking

By FOSTER WHALEY

Wheat harvest topped suddenly last week with the added moisture. A number of producers still have not harvested their irrigated wheat. Irrigated wheat has been most disappointing. Some irrigated farmers are having yields in low teens.

What is even more disappointing is the price. Local elevators are quoting wheat prices at $1.47. This is 56 per cent of parity. Parity price is $2.60. To put it another way, if wheat prices had kept pace with prices of automobiles, refrigerators, and thousands of other items we buy today, wheat would be selling for $2.60 per bushel.

It is our opinion an irrigation farmer should seriously consider two sources of income from wheat . . . one from livestock grazing, the other from grain. Your chances from a pasture standpoint look better to me than for grain production alone.

Weed Spraying
We have had numerous calls on various weed spraying problems. Some weeds have become so much of a problem in mature wheat, owners are swathing their irrigated wheat. After weeds dry farmers will use a pickup attachment. This gets to be an expensive and troublesome method.

Weed control in sorghum is the main problem farmers are calling about now. Most farmers are being careful in applying 2-4-D to sorghum where cotton fields are nearby. One producer cancelled his plans to use an airplane after learning he had neighbors who had cotton.

If you use Amine 2-4-D to reduce drift, I would apply at least three-quarters pound of the chemical per acre. Use at least five gallons of water per acre. . . 10 is better. The Milo should be from 8 to 12 inches in height. Spraying early morning is much better than at midday.

We have many producers who are using pre-emergent sprays on both sorghums and cotton successfully. In my opinion this is an excellent way to handle your weed problems under irrigated conditions.

Follow the Label

One lady called last week and said she had sprayed her entire garden with Chlordane. She wanted to know how long she should wait to harvest any vegetables. I can't think of an insecticide that has a longer residual effect than Chlordane.

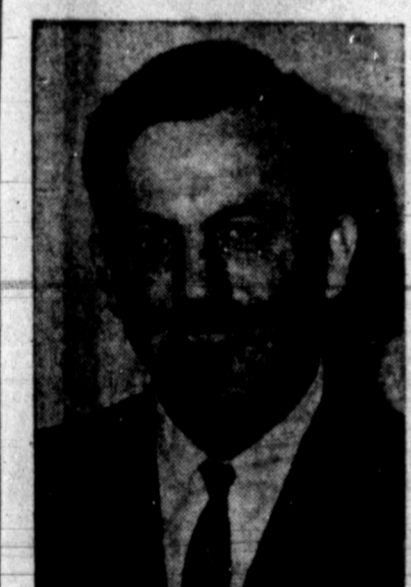

Malathion is an excellent garden or household insecticide. It is wicked on insects and isn't very toxic to warm-blooded animals. It has a short residue problem. Every insecticide should be treated as a poison. Food and Drug regulations require specific instructions on the label. Don't take anyone's word about a given insecticide. . . Read the label!

DUDLEY CAMPBELL, for feeders

Cattlemen Name Texan As Director

Dudley Campbell, 36, of San Antonio has been named director of Cattle Feeders Services for the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association.

Grady Shepard, chairman of TSCRA Feeders committee, said Campbell started his new duties at the Fort Worth headquarters yesterday.

Campbell was secretary of the American National Cattlemen's Association in Denver, Colo., from 1960 to 1965. He has been director of the Texas Office of the National Live Stock and Meat Board since then.

A native Texan, Campbell attended Texas A&I College, receiving a bachelor of science degree in animal husbandry in 1957. He received the Kleberg Scholarship, was a member of the Alpha Chi, honorary scholastic society, and Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, and served as Aggie Club president and student council vice president.

Following graduation, he farmed for a time and was employed as a USDA research worker at the Fort Robinson Beef Cattle

Hix Completes Navy Training

Seaman Recruit Glen W. Hix,
USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph
L. Hix, Pampa, is undergoing nine weeks of basic training at the Naval Training Center in San Diego, Calif.

He is receiving instructions in Naval customs, courtesies and organization, ordnance and gunnery, seamanship, damage control, first aid, swimming and survival, shipboard drill and senior duty.

A program of physical fitness, military drill and inspections keeps the recruits mentally and physically alert during their training.
His Navy Classification tests will determine whether he will be assigned to a school, shore station or ship after his graduation.

AN EXPERIMENT in stamp-making will be made in printing a five-cent showing "The Bigben Brothers Racing," Thomas Eakins' painting depicting two professional boat racers sculling near Philadelphia sometime in the 1870s. It will be the first U.S. stamp printed by the gravure method of reproduction, rather than the usual line engraving process, and it will be produced commercially. The gravure method is considered superior when a delicate gradation of tone or vivid colors is required.

THE FASHION NATIVES are growing restless and there is rumor of revolt brewing in the chic chick camps. The "last straw" was the arrival this spring of Twiggy to the USA fashion shores from England arriving with her 12-12-12 dimensions since then the revolutionary mutterings have grown louder and louder especially among those of us who can more easily identify with a gnarled and knobby California Redwood than we can with Twiggy the usually "in" slick chick on the pale side of 30, 40 or 50 has been "out" in the fashion cold for so long partially-bared knees are permanently goose-pimpled there's revolutionary talk of becoming tired of being shunted to the fashion background ignored tired of trying to mask obvious envy of those cute young things in miniskirts in short, (oops there's that ugly word), there's weariness of being needed by knees especially the pretty ones.

WHAT IS EVEN more frustrating, there seems to be no help coming this fall fashion forecasts reveal more will be revealed knees knees and way above the knees.

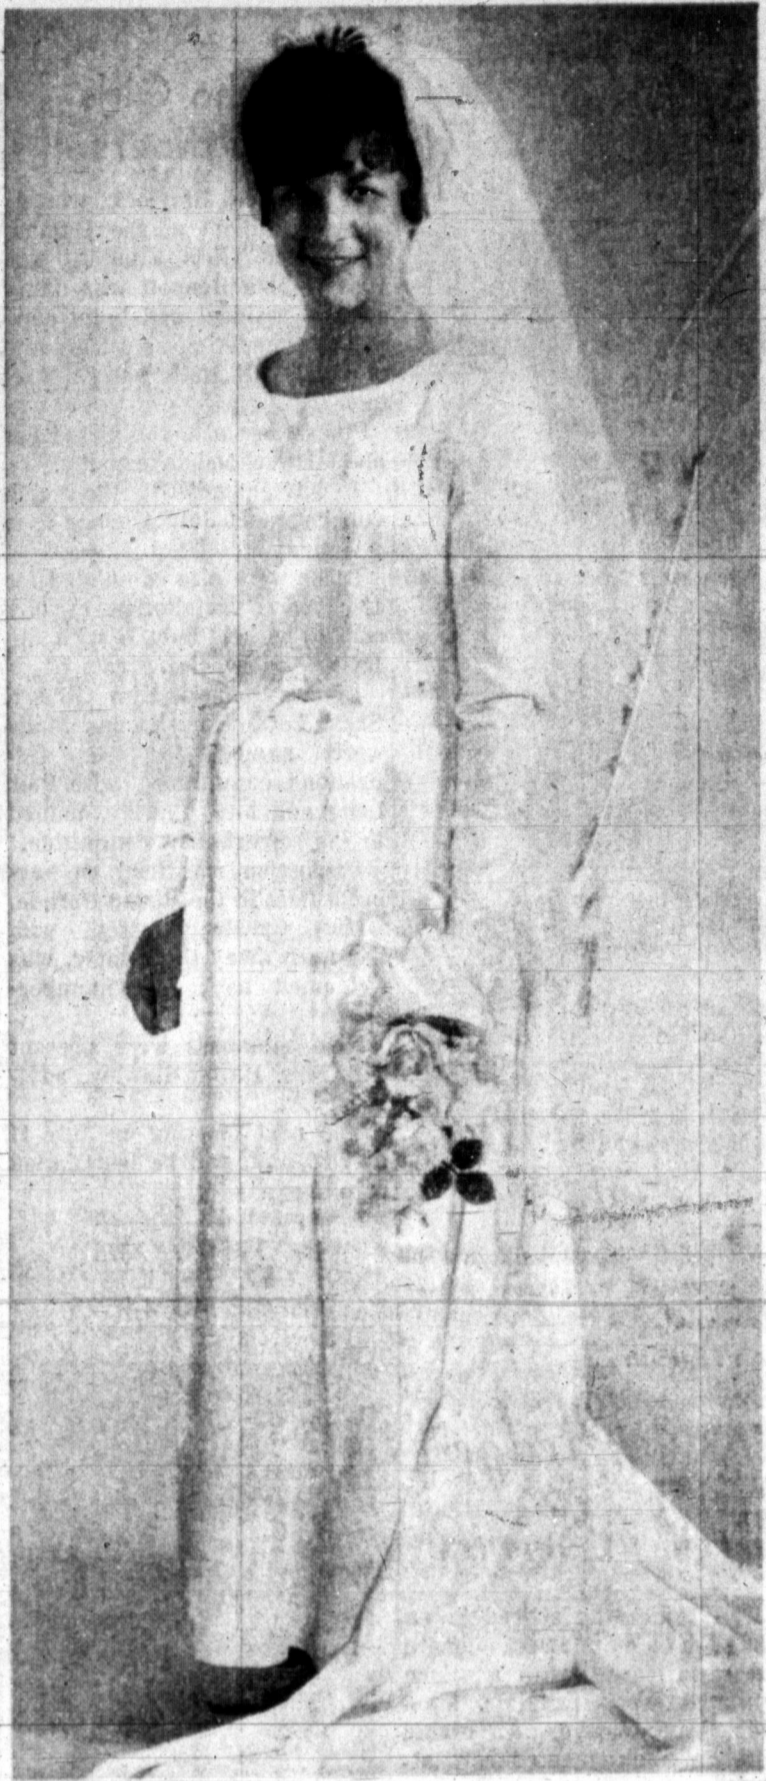

FRUSTRATED FEMMES are taking up the battle cry of Psychedelic Prints as a weapon to be used against being lost in the fashion shuffle again at last, the meek and un-mini-ed have found an answer they can join in the Psychedelic Print Parade, where if they can't be noticed for their knees at least they can be heard in loud and splashy colors while the connotation of the word psychedelic is a bit daring the revolt calls for daring the base root of the word "psyche" means "soul removed from the body" while "delic" comes from an obsolete word "delice" meaning delight, pleasurable, voluptuous a modern-day translation of the word coined for "a state of mind when you are taking LSD" but fashionably-speaking, it means wild, far-out gemetric designs with no rhyme or reason but with plenty of bold, brash color psychedelic can be translated also as meaning taking a flight free of the bonds that tie you down namely, unflattering knee-caps a perfect complement to the psychedelic pilgrimage are those wildly colorful Swinger enrring that are a must to emphasize the mood and manner of the print psychedelic hemlines are all mid-knee of course!!!

WHILE WE'RE perched on our soapbox, we might as well throw in a journalism red flag that occurred to us last Sunday while reading "Grist" in which a dozen red flags were suggested by our executive editor something that makes us see red is a statement we hear so often "news-papers never print anything but bad things about teenagers" this is a fallacy that can be disproved by taking this newspaper and going through it, day by day, week by week, month by month, readers will find that seldom does a day go by and never a week that there aren't news items pertaining to youths' accomplishments in the fields of art, speech, drama, journalism, athletics music academic honors, scouting, civic participation the list of their constructive accomplishments are endless you will find the pat-on-the-back articles for out-number the kick-in-the-pants items about the minority delinquents but because exceptions make the news, newspapers print the "exceptions" and it is the exceptions that are remembered the most easily by readers which puts the responsibility squarely on the shoulders of the readers and not the newspapers it prints both kinds of news, good and bad and more good than bad but the readers remember and repeat the bad the imaginary crackling heard in the background is the soapbox disintegrating.

THE OTHER SIDE of the journalism picture is getting a "scoop" this is the most soothing balm to any Red Flag burn and we have a scoop this week from Homer Johnson, president of the Pampa Fine Arts Association who penned a brief note telling us of the appearance in Pampa of the Don Cossack Chorus and Dancers it will be a pre-Thanksgiving Theater Treat on November 16 at eight o'clock in the Pampa Junior High School auditorium and a Red Letter Evening to circle on your fall social calendar The PFAA obtained the approval of the Pampa Community Concert Association before engaging the group of 25 male dancers and singers because the association supports the concert group and is not in any way competing with it, according to the Fine Arts president admission to the world-renowned Cossacks will be, of course, open first to the Fine Arts patrons with left over seats available to "first come first served."

HEARD THAT was the prettiest Announcement Tea Ann and Roy Kay gave for their daughter, Mary Iva, last Sunday afternoon in the church parlors of First Methodist announcing her August 1 marriage to Ronnie Atkinson there was a profusion of lovely flowers everywhere carrying out a golden yellow and Moss Green color scheme in pompoms, carnations, roses and gladioli the serving table was elegantly simple with Moss Green ribbon, simulating a cloth the focal point was a towering wedding bell outlined with yellow pompoms atop a yellow pompom topiary tree an arrangement of yellow roses centered the wedding bell, which was topped with a Moss Green tulle tuft with tulle streamers draping to the table, inscribed in gold with names of the Betrothed topiary trees with yellow carnations accenting their greenery were used as stationery sentries marking guests way to the entertaining parlor in the receiving line were the bride-elect and her mother with the prospective bridegroom's mother, Mrs. W. A. Tyler assisting with the houseparty were Joan and Lois Young Bobby McLennan Alleith Curry Mrs. John Phelps Mrs. Bill Farnsworth Mrs. B. Wilson Mrs. John Schmidt of Plainview Mrs. Kenneth Elsheimer Linda Johnson and Trina Frost each wore a corsage of Calla Lillies arranged with Moss Green ribbons.

MORE SCOOP-DE-DO that was a glittering, gala GOP oathering last Saturday evening in the Inn for Congressman Bob Price expressing appreciation for a job "well-done" in his first session in Congress, to friends who detected a slight limp or a favoring of the left leg, Bob explained he had "banged up" his knee while playing football with his two sons, Carl and Grant those four handsome young men, seated at the GOP dinner with Fanny and George Cree, (who is chairman of the Gray County Republican Exec Committee,) were their three sons, George III, twins Ricky and Hal and a Cree nephew, James Mobley of San Antonio, a junior at Tulane Medical School in New Orleans, who is spending the summer here while working in the oil fields with the Cree sons The Felix Ryals got away this week in their "Merry-You-Know-What" for a two week vacation that will include a visit to their daughter and new son-in-law in Austin had you heard Mildred Pierce and her dad, Palmer Kratzer, have been asked to participate as assistant Grand Warden and Assistant Grand Sentinel at the Grand Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, in Dallas the last of September that's a nice honor for a father-daughter-masonic team he also served as her worthy patron during her term of office as worthy matron Business and Professional Women's Club gals have a busy week ahead of them contacting local businessmen and merchants to ask if they will decorate with red, white and blue beunting for the upcoming July rodeo.

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. DEAR MRS. LIGHT: I read your column regularly and want to help with the college admittance problem.

I recommend that discouraged students try Parsons College in Iowa. They will find this to be a very nice school. I know several students who are now attending Parsons after being dismissed from other colleges.

I am enclosing two pages from the college catalogue. —GUIDANCE COUNSELOR

ANSWER: Thank you for helping, G. C. I've mentioned Parsons before, but the pages you sent shed some interesting light on its admittance policies. Quoting from the catalogue, "One-third of the applicants are chosen from graduates who rank high on the College Examination Board tests; one-third from those in the middle grouping; and one third from those in the lower third on the tests, or who have not been able to do successful work in other colleges or universities."

Further, the catalogue states that one-third are chosen respectively from wealthy families, the middle class and those who must earn their own way. Parsons aims to take "each student from the place he stands on entering to a point as far as he can go." A worthy objective, in my opinion.

PWP Have New Officers

The Rev. J. R. Manning, associate pastor of First Baptist Church, was guest speaker at the installation banquet given by Parents Without Partners Saturday evening in Jim's Steak House. He spoke on the subject "Living One Day At A Time." Mack Hiatt offered invocation. Master of ceremonies was Bruce Farmer of Amarillo.

Charles Elliott, president of the Amarillo PWP Club, conducted the installation ceremonies for Floye Crites, president; Bob Rose, vice president; Mrs. Jo Murray, secretary; and Mrs. Bonnie Gardner, treasurer.

Table decorations carried out a Fourth of July theme with firecrackers, candles and miniature American flags. Special guests were PWP advisory board members, Rev. Manning, Corporation Judge John Warner; Sergeant J. W. Wilson of the Texas Highway Patrol; and Mack Hiatt, vice president of the Citizens Bank and Trust Co. Approximately 40 members attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Club Make Garden Tour

Mr. and Mrs. Garden Club met in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Morgan, 1901 Duncan, on Tuesday evening for a brief business meeting conducted by Roy Hopkins in the absence of Mrs. Waldon Moore, president.

Following the business meeting, the club toured the garden of the H. H. Boyntons, 1035 S. Hobart.

Plans were made to check the planters at the courthouse. Aubrey Ruff gave the Club Collect.

It was reported Robert Coley was a patient in Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo and Mrs. Moore was in Highland General Hospital.

Refreshments were served during the social hour by the hosts.

The next meeting will be Aug. 1 at 7 p.m. in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Hall, 637 N. Nelson.

B&PW To Solicit For Rodeo Decorations

At a social meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club, members completed plans for contacting Pampa business firms with regard to decorating for the Top o' Texas Rodeo slated for the latter part of July.

The covered-dish supper was held Tuesday evening in the City Club Room with Mmes. Nell Tinnin, May Etta Powers and Marguerite Nash as hostesses.

Seven members reported on the district planning meeting that they recently attended in Amarillo.

Guests were Flossie Weatherford, Erjane Davis, Veda Anderson, Hazel Nardean, Doris E. Wilson, Gay Lynn McDonald and LeAnn Green.

Mrs. Powers, incoming president, announced the executive board will have a planning session at 6 p.m. July 6 in Lewis Buffeteria.

Johnson-Watkins Pledge Vows In Chapel Service

Miss Doris Ann Johnson of Skellytown became the bride of Ted Foster Watkins of Pampa on Friday, June 9 at six o'clock in the evening. The Rev. Dan Cameron, pastor of the First Baptist Church, performed the double-ring ceremony in the Kelly Chapel of First Presbyterian Church.

The bride was attired in an aqua-blue street-length dress fashioned with a lace-trimmed scoop neckline and long, sheer sleeves. An orchid corsage complemented her attire.

Honor attendants were the bride's sister, Miss Betty Johnson and the bridegroom's brother, Jay Lynn Watkins.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loss Johnson of Skellytown. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Watkins, 1321 Terrace.

The bride attended White Deer High School and is employed by Marie Foundations. The bridegroom attended Pampa High School; Oklahoma State Tech at Okmulgee, Okla. He is employed by Fish Construction.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Bud Cassey of Perryton and their daughter-in-law from Germany.

Following a wedding trip to Oklahoma, the couple is at home at 612½ Lowry.

ditional public school system is bound to be hurt.

And why should standards drop when a school is forced to integrate?

Think in terms of your own local school. By experience, background and mode of teaching, your teachers are probably well-equipped to serve the educational needs of the children in your neighborhood or community.

They may not be trained, however, to handle youngsters of widely divergent cultural backgrounds, learning abilities, social strata, ethnic traditions and moral training. If quantities of such children were suddenly dumped into their midst, the result would be chaos and plummeting standards.

School and You

By SUSAN LIGHT

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR MRS. LIGHT: How do you feel about desegregation in our public schools? You are pretty frank in stating your views, and I'd like to see you tackle this one.

INTERESTED READER ANSWER: Desegregation is such a hot issue I'm tempted not to touch it. But at the risk of inflaming readers who may misinterpret my statements, I will try to put down some honest reactions based on my experience as a teacher.

I believe in unlimited opportunities for all, regardless of race, color, creed, sex or age. I'm not convinced, however, that racially balanced schools will provide optimum opportunity in education for either white or Negro children.

As you've probably read, a federal court of appeals has made a decision extinguishing the last legal embers of school segregation. And the U. S. Commission on Civil Rights is pressuring President Johnson and Congress to end de facto racial imbalance by creating education parks that draw children from far-flung areas, transporting children between school districts to change race patterns or any other plan that effectively puts an end to all Negro schools.

Yet when long-distance hauling of students was proposed at a predominantly Negro Florida high school recently, Negro parents complained loud and long. And justifiably, in my opinion: This, they said, would force their children to give up athletics and other after-school activities and would deprive them of the "cultural center" of their community.

As to white parents, alarming numbers are sending their children to private schools, presumably to escape falling standards in the public schools. Falling standards have been attributed in part to integration. If the private schools continue to siphon off top students, our tra-

Miss Joyce Blaylock was elected president of the Pampa Theta Rho Girls Club-18 and Miss Debbie Bennett was named vice president and team captain at a meeting held Tuesday in the IOOF Hall, 800 E. Foster.

Plans were also completed for annual weekend lake party. It was announced the club will not meet July 4, since it is a holiday.

Plans were also completed for the formal installation of officers to be held July 11 with Rebekahs as special guests.

Denise Bennett, Kim Gilbert, Shari Lawley and Donna Mathew named to the decoration committee with Pam Long and Mrs. Lawley named to the refreshment committee.

Discussion was held on having a float in the Rodeo Parade. Miss Carolyn Russell, who has been away this winter, was welcomed back into membership.

Nine members were present with Mrs. Harold Lawley, advisor. The next meeting on July 11 at 7:30 p.m. will be installation of officers.

CFW Groups Conclude Year's Study At Meetings In Homes of Members

The June meetings of the Christian Women's Fellowship concluded the church year's programs and study. The month of July will begin with new officers in many of the groups and another phase of missionary study and projects.

The SAUCEDO's met with Mrs. Jack Chism, 620 Bradley St. with six members and two visitors present. Group leader Mrs. Jean Martindale presided. Mrs. Bill Atkinson presented the devotional. A recipe file was presented to bride-elect Miss Nancy Nidiffer and members contributed their favorite recipes.

The INMAN group met with Mrs. Robert Sailor, west of city. Mrs. H. Groninger gave the lesson on affluence and poverty and Mrs. Jim Cunningham gave the devotional.

BONHAM group met in the home of Mrs. Lloyd Kuntz, 1207 E. Frances with Mrs. I. S. Martin and Mrs. C. A. Pollock serving as co-hosts. Ten members and two guests were in attendance. Mrs. Isaac Doom, leader, presided during the business session. Mrs. Glen Maxey presented the lesson.

FELKEL group met in the home of Mrs. Stanley Hill, 1612 N. Faulkner with eight members and one visitor present. Mrs. Kinzer, leader, opened the meeting with prayer and conducted the business session. Mrs. Stella Bastin gave the lesson and Mrs. W. F. Taylor the devotional.

The TILLER'S met in the home of Mrs. Verdeman Smith, 2216 Chestnut. Mrs. Smith also presided at the meeting where six members and one visitor

Storey-Herd Repeat Double-Ring Vows

Mrs. J. D. Herd ... nee Sandra Storey

SKELLYTOWN—In a double-ring ceremony read at 2 p.m. June 3 in the First Methodist church, Borger, Miss Sandra Carol Storey and Jerome David Herd, Perryton, exchanged vows of marriage.

The Rev. Noel George, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Manitou, Okla., and uncle of the bride, officiated at the ceremony.

Reports of the past years activities were given by each of the eight groups and members of the executive board. Reports were finalized by the president when she gave hers in poetic form.

Mrs. Robert LaFon (Hermalyn) concluded the meeting with the CWF Benediction.

bridegroom, read the service for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Lee Storey, 105 Mary St. and the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Herd of Skellytown.

Tall white tapers flanked the altar arrangement of red and white carnations, to form the nuptial setting.

Miss Mary Helen Ray, pianist, played traditional nuptial marches and "O Perfect Love".

BRIDE

Mr. Storey gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a street length dress of white shantung crepe, styled with a scoop neckline, fitted bodice and straight skirt. Her jewelry was a string of pearls with matching earrings.

Her shoulder-length veil of nylon illusion was attached to a tiara of rhinestones. She carried an arrangement of peppermint carnations with white ribbons and net.

ATTENDANTS

Miss Rhonda Arthur served the bride as maid of honor. She wore a street length dress of red satin with a carnation corsage arranged with red ribbon and net.

James Lawrence Young of Stanley, N.M., was best man. Ushers were Louis S. Gregg Jr. and Terry Don Bidwell, McLean.

Mrs. Storey, mother of the bride, wore a blue shantung crepe dress with white accessories. Mrs. Herd, the bridegroom's mother, chose a two-piece dress of pink bonded lace with white accessories. Both mothers wore white carnations trimmed with red ribbons and net.

RECEPTION

Mrs. Garrett Keeth was guest registrar at the reception in the Garden Room. Miss Regina Walsler presided at the punch.

The Mature Parent

Be Honest With Child Assure Him A Tomorrow

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: To get my 4 1/2-year-old son to bed at night, I have to sit beside him, sometimes for nearly two hours. My husband gets angry at this, but the child screams so much if I leave him that this just makes more trouble with my husband. The problem is the boy's jealousy of his baby sister. As I can't give him all the daytime attention I used to give him, he makes me give it to him at bedtime. But my husband won't understand this.

ANSWER: You've been bonding up on the child guidance book's haven't you?

Could we forget them for a minute? Could we forget them long enough to ask ourselves this question: "Am I brave enough to tell this child that I dislike sitting beside him for hours at bedtime?"

Because that dislike, that resentment of this night - after night bedtime vigil is the truth, isn't it? And it's when we are afraid to tell this truth to little children that they develop bedtime panic.

Nor can we blame them for developing it one bit. They've got every right to scream when we try to leave them. For we are emotional liars. We are pretending to amiable feelings toward them when the truth is we bowl. Miss Joy George, Manitou, Okla., cut the bride's white cake with its red rose bud decorations and the bridegroom's chocolate cake which was decorated in white and inscribed with the couple's names.

The serving table was laid with a white hand-crocheted lace cloth over red linen centered with a miniature bridal couple on a pedestal covered with red satin.

FOR SUNDAY, JULY 2
GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good Sunday to think out how you can increase the benefits you would like to have in your life and to let all about business affairs that you are the one who is endowed with practical imagination and vision of a very practical nature. You can have a very happy time emotionally, too, after handling your abundance.

ARIES: (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — Visualize all of your affairs in a larger scope that will help you. In become more precise by being very practical and value use high-level ideas. Don't permit others to get you off the proverbial track.

Taurus: (Apr. 20 to May 20) — In chasing elusive pleasure, be sure it is not the type that will get you into a great deal of hot water. Get certain social affairs and relationships better organized. Spend your time wisely.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 21) — Work those angles that will give you the data you need, but show that you can be sensitive. Then be quietly romantic. Avoid those persons who arouse your emotions to fever pitch. Be calm.

MOON CHILDREN: (June 22 to July 21) — Be sure you first attend services of your choice and then out to places where interesting persons congregate. Add to your group of acquaintances. These can prove fine favors in the days ahead.

LEO: (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Be sure you handle those outside affairs without further delay, particularly where higher-ups are concerned. Find right way of becoming like highly respected. Much value can be gained by today's activities.

VIRGO: (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) — In order to present activities, problems, communications with those out of town and you get excellent results in the very near future.

LIBRA: (Sept. 22 to Oct. 21) — It pays for you to listen carefully to what others are saying as well as to follow your own hunches. A good day for negotiations with others who mean a good deal to you. Be the one to take the initiative.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 22 to Nov. 21) — A different approach with associates can spell far greater success now for all concerned. Plan fun for weeks ahead.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Get busy and complete work ahead of you. Improve your health in some intelligent way. Plan fun for weeks ahead.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Important you try to clear up any misunderstandings at home with relatives. Try to be more understanding. Handling correspondence can start an upward to work success you had not thought possible before this.

PISCES: (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — Marketing should be done today so that you have more free time tomorrow, and if you have reports to get out, take care of them now. Taking time for research is also good, especially if you are attending college.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY...
 he, or she, will be one of those fascinatingly intelligent and understanding early the value of money and how to earn it, and especially the importance of saving it, so that there can be a goodly surplus for needs. Be certain to teach to be more generous, though otherwise your progeny will become a miser, though earning much.

FOR MONDAY, JULY 3
GENERAL TENDENCIES: Many days can occur in whatever has to do with your business or financial problems so don't be upset if they are put off but use the extra time advised you to get everything in more perfect working order and condition. You find one upon whom you have relied has so much to do, that he can't help you now.

ARIES: (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — Study your accounts and see what needs to be paid, and then add value to property, and without loss of value. Don't rely on it and use clear judgment.

Taurus: (Apr. 20 to May 20) — Take real pride in your finest features and then do whatever will accentuate them. Avoid the social for the time being, since trouble could start. Avail a better day, time. Keep at important matters.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 21) — Ideal morning for making interesting plans for whatever is uppermost in your mind, doing some secret, and being loyal and faithfulness to kin, higher-ups, regardless of tensions others pose for you. These you get right results.

MOON CHILDREN: (June 22 to July 21) — It is right to ask help of good friends, but don't be too demanding. Be more patient with pals who have problems and that you are willing ear.

LEO: (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Be sure to handle whatever is in your mind, but be more patient with pals who have problems and that you are willing ear. Be as helpful as only you can be.

VIRGO: (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) — Be sure to handle whatever is in your mind, but be more patient with pals who have problems and that you are willing ear. Be as helpful as only you can be.

LIBRA: (Sept. 22 to Oct. 21) — Find the right manner in which to gain the favor of those who are very much attracted to you. Stop being self-conscious. Follow your intuition and you stay out of trouble.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 22 to Nov. 21) — Partners are apt to be in a strange mood so do not criticize, and be more patient. Follow your intuition and you stay out of trouble.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — You have excellent skills that should find expression in right manner. Gain prestige you deserve. Learn to work more harmoniously with co-workers. Don't be dictatorial.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Be sure to handle whatever is in your mind, but be more patient with pals who have problems and that you are willing ear. Be as helpful as only you can be.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Associates can give fine ideas just how to make benefits far more satisfying, impressive, successful, and fundamental affairs improved. You need to feel more secure and can take right steps toward such goals.

PISCES: (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — Impress dignities with the precision and accuracy with which you perform your duties. You command a higher income. The sure that every figure is correct, that you understand the details.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY...
 he, or she, will be a possessor of great ingenuity and will carry in life interest in money, business persons who can assist in their career, making money, and how to become skilled in whatever the time may be here. Be sure that ethics are studied early for best results with his most fertile, almost convincing mind.

DEAR ABBY: I am 26 years old and have never had a real boyfriend. O. I've had lots of dates, but they never developed into anything. My mother started a sterling silver set for me when I was 14, and it's complete now. She also has two hope chests filled with towels and linen. When I graduated from high school she made me a beautiful white wedding gown.

Whenever a boy comes over she shows him my hope chests and talks to him about religion and how I am going to raise my children. Then I never see him again.

My friends tell me I am pretty and have a nice personality, and I have had the same job (bookkeeper in a wholesale business) for seven years, so what is wrong with me?

GETTING DESPERATE
DEAR GETTING: Your mother. It's hard to believe she is unaware that she's frightening all the men away. But just in case, tell her to confine her conversation with them to the weather. And if she can't, or will not, I see little hope of your ever using the contents of your hope chest until you leave your mother's bed and board.

DEAR ABBY: My husband came in this morning at 5:15, while the sun was peeking over the hill.

He said, "I fell asleep in the car after running out of gas." I found lipstick on the cigarette butts in his car — his wedding ring in the pocket of his suit coat, alongside a membership card to an after hours club downtown.

My mother says, "Give him the benefit-of-the-doubt." What do you say, Abby?

POLLY'S POINTERS
 "Bottles" Newspaper For Easier Mailing
 By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY: We wanted to mail our local paper's centennial edition to friends and relatives in distant states. How to get this bulky extra-large edition wrapped presented a problem. We finally hit on the idea of using those ever-useful plastic bleach bottles. Cut the neck ends off two quart bottles, roll the papers tightly and insert from in one bottle end, then cover the opposite end of the paper roll with the other cut-off bottle. Wrap in heavy paper and mail. For a larger paper, use larger plastic bottles.

DEAR POLLY: With skirt-lengths going up and up we knitters are at a loss as to what length to knit dresses. I hate to think of spending all that time knitting a full dress (starting at the bottom) that might be out of style in a season or two. I decided to knit the length I like, then loosely hem — by hand to the length that is "in."

I added a smart touch of trim or fringe at the hem. The fact that it is turned up is hidden. The trim is repeated elsewhere on the garment to carry through the idea. This looks very "mod." When the hems descend, as they must since there is nowhere else to go, I will take off the trim and hem, steam out the line and have a dress of decent length in about 15 minutes.

DEAR POLLY: Please print this for any girl who was ever tempted to accept a date with a married man. Four years ago, I started seeing a married man. He had the oldest but one of the most effective lines in the world, "My wife is cold to me."

At first it was a lunch date, then cocktails and dinner, but we'd always end up in a cheap hotel room for an hour or so. He didn't care that I had to walk down dark streets to get to my car. He was always in a hurry to get home.

Pretty soon I came to my senses and realized I wasn't getting anywhere and that he was only using me. I would like to see this published for other women before they become —

We had a senator in town for a speech and I called to see if I could get an interview. I was pleased as punch when he said: "Why don't you come along to the big picnic afterwards and we can talk then?"

Well, I did and we did. "Senator," I asked, "what do you think about the crisis in the Middle East?"

He considered this for a long moment. "I think I can see this is big trouble." He pointed at a fried chicken wing at me. "You are a right pert little thing — your hubby with you?"

"He's the blond man over there — the one in the brown suit."

"That big guy with the crew cut?"

"Yes."

"Next question." "From reading your speeches, I have had some difficulty figuring out if you are a hawk or a dove," I said. "Would you like to make a statement on Vietnam?"

"Yes. You can quote me as saying I always believe where there's a will there's a way."

Checking In At Lovett Memorial Library

By BARBARA COCKRELL, Librarian

Things are humming and buzzing at the library these days. So far, 375 children have registered for the "Busy Bee Reading Program," and are putting their elders to shame as they devour hundreds of books each day. And they are keeping the library staff hopping, for these children know what they want. Some like biography, some want football stories, some prefer to read about plants, space travel, animals or dinosaurs, and the old favorites are always in demand. —The fairy stories, "Peter Pan," and the adventures of familiar characters, do not lose their appeal over the years. The children remind us of a story about a lady who went to the book shop for a gift and complained to the manager, "But these books aren't new." "I know, Lady," answered the owner, "The stories aren't new, but the children are."

Fault is, though, that many new children's books have just arrived. Right now they are stacked in the cataloging room, and are in the process of being readied for the shelves. The staff are working at top speed to make these beautiful, shiny, new books available, but the "processing" of the books takes time. Each book must be carefully examined to be sure it has no flaws. (Both publisher and bindery do make mistakes.) Next, invoices and order slips are checked and filed. The next step is the cataloging. All books go through the hands of the librarian who decides where the book shall go — Whether it is fiction or non-fiction, science, literature, history, or whatever it may be. The numbers assigned to the book designate its subject or category. Then the books are ready for the person who has the lengthy and exacting task of typing all of the catalog cards that correspond with each book. Finally, the books go through the last step — that of being lettered, pasted and covered. A last check for possible errors, and the books are then ready for the shelves and circulation. All of this may take up to two or three weeks, depending on how many books must be processed.

And, as might be expected, things don't always run smoothly at the library. As in any business, things have a way of breaking down, orders of books and supplies don't arrive when they are most needed, and always everything seems to happen the same day! This week, first, it was the air-conditioner. Patrons fanned and complained as the temperature soared. Next, the charging machine — the machine that automatically stamps and dates the book cards at the desk — refused to function, and perspiring people stood in line while staff members fished out the cards by hand. Some five hundred children's books, ordered long ago for the reading program, failed to arrive. After frantic calls to and from the book dealer, it was found they had been shipped to the wrong library! But the books have finally arrived, the air-conditioner is functioning, and a new charging machine is on the way. All is running smoothly once again.

Recently, more people are becoming aware, and are availing themselves of the inter-library loan service that Lovett Library offers. They are finding it a great convenience to be able to borrow needed books from other and larger libraries through their local library. A special Amarillo Public Library is shelved separately just across from the desk in your library, and may be borrowed in accordance with the regular procedure so ask for them when you next visit the library.

It is most gratifying to note that it takes more than a delay in checking their books, or the hot and humid weather, to discourage the people who love books and want to read. Tuesday of this week, Pampan checked out 907 books, thus setting a new record. This represents the highest number of books to be circulated in any

Miss Georgann Britten Married To William B. Hinson in Phoenix Rites

GROOM—Miss Georgann Britten, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo M. Britten of Groom, and William Bryant Hinson III were united in marriage on June 10 at 2 p.m., in St. Gregory's Catholic Church in Phoenix, Ariz., with the Rev. Father Thomas O'Brien officiating for the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street-length sleeveless dress of white Italian silk couponi pesante, topped with a walking coat of white Italian lace.

Her veil of shoulder-length French tulle was gathered in a crown set off by a silk velvet bow. The bride also wore a diamond lavalier which had belonged to her maternal grandmother.

She carried a heart-shaped pillow bouquet of white Caledonia rosebuds topped with a white orchid showered with satin streamers.

Attending the bride, as maid of honor, was her sister, Mariellen Britten. She wore a Hyacinth Blue Italian silk linen A-line dress. Her matching hat was fashioned of silk organza roses over net. She wore a corsage of white Saratoga rosebuds.

William Grubbs of Phoenix served as best man.

The couple is at home at 3312 N. 61st Ave., Phoenix. They plan to visit relatives and friends here the early part of August.

Auxiliary President Makes Official Visits To IOOF Auxiliaries In State

Mrs. John Killian, 522 N. Starkweather, president of the Department Association of Ladies Auxiliaries Patriarchs Militant I.O.O.F. of Texas, accompanied by Mrs. Robert Hollis, 804 E. Francis, a member of the Department Honor Guard, spent a week visiting neighbors and auxiliaries in East Texas and the Houston Area.

The first meeting was in Corsicana, the Home of the IOOF Children, where an evening meal was served by ladies of the Corsicana Auxiliary. After the meal, Mrs. Killian talked to the members about the work the Department of Texas; the works of Odd Fellowship in general; of the meaning of Odd Fellowship and its purpose.

The ladies visited Galveston, Beaumont and several other cities on or near the coast line. On Wednesday night seven Auxiliaries and Cantons from Houston area met in League City for a dinner and meeting and again Mrs. Killian brought a message on Odd Fellowship.

An Area Meeting was held in Tyler on Saturday afternoon and night, members from every part of the state attending. About two hundred members of the two militant Branches registered. A banquet was served at 6:00 o'clock after which new members were mustered into the Order and an instructional hour followed with questions and answers.

Mr. John Killian joined the ladies in Tyler for the meeting and return trip home.

The Department Association gives a trophy each year to the winning team on Degree work at the Theta Rho Girls Assembly. This year the Assembly was in Fort Worth, Mrs. Killian presented this trophy to the Pampa Theta Rho Club. As president of the Department Mrs. Killian gave a trophy to the second place winner which she provided from her personal funds.

College diplomas are called "sheepskins" because that's what they were once made from. Papyrus was used in the most ancient paper, and special documents were often printed on vellum, from calf skin, or parchment, from sheep skin.

SUNDAY MORNING GRIST

From the Editorial Mill

IT HAS been apparent for some time that millions of Americans still retain doubt about the findings of the Warren Commission's investigation of the Kennedy assassination. . . This probably is because there are so many unanswered questions. . . So many conflicting stories from eye witnesses, ballistic experts, public officials, etc. . . We watched with interest the television series last Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights as CBS concluded the Warren Commission, although it came up short on certain aspects of the case, was correct in its findings. . . The public clamor for answers had become so great that something had to be done. . . The CBS series was a masterful attempt to put down the nationwide public doubt. . . Whether it succeeded remains to be determined. . . There is great possibility the series was a giant attempt to stop the rolling snowball of public suspicion. . . It was obvious from the very first night what the overall conclusion would be on the fourth night of the documentary round-up. . . A big point was made over the resignation of New Orleans Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison's chief investigator who appeared on the third night to say he quit because he did not approve of methods being used by the district attorney's office. . . The question arises: why did the investigator wait so long to withdraw from the probe? . . . Garrison explained it as part of the Washington influence being brought to discredit his efforts to bring into light the district attorney's charges that "beyond a reasonable doubt" there was a conspiracy to murder the President. . . He still says he will prove it. . . Of course, it also remains to be determined if Garrison is right. . . There are those who write him off as a nut. . . And, there are those who believe he couldn't possibly be foolhardy enough to start something so profoundly important if it had no foundation in fact. . . On the final night of the CBS series, Eric Sevareid, the network's commentator, swept the whole thing under the rug by indirectly endorsing the Warren Report findings and stated that "to think otherwise is idiotic". . . So, one must now conclude there are millions of idiots on the loose in the U.S. . . Walter Kronkite, chief narrator for the series, wound up by saying the tragic result of Lee Oswald's act in Dallas was the fact it has caused the American people to lose confidence in their government. . . We would like to add that this is only one of many things which have caused that loss of confidence. . . All of the blame cannot be attributed solely to the presidential assassin.

MOST PERSONS who stayed with the CBS series all four nights still are unable to rationalize or logicize all the happenings before and after that tragic Friday noonday in Dallas on November 22, 1963. . . So, putting on a TV reviewer's hat for a moment — the final assessment is that the CBS series contributed very little in the way of removing all doubt in the minds of millions of Americans.

THAT POLICE department probe still is going on, according to the latest information gleaned by the City Hall Cat in his nightly rounds. . . Fellow students at the sales clinic and how-to-make-friends forum during the past week said Pampa's police chief and three or four other city employees were among graduating class members. . . Anything you can learn about how to influence people is always good, one of our early day mentors insisted. . . Like, man, what's good for the gobbler is good for the gobbler, as the old saying goes.

A CITIZEN who became disturbed last Tuesday when that huge black cloud rolled across Pampa at high speed, wants to know why a city of this size has no warning system of any kind to alert people of danger. . . We haven't been able to get an answer, unless it would be because the Amarillo Weather Bureau doesn't have close enough tabs on surrounding towns and Pampa does not have a local weather bureau. . . He suggested some sort of arrangement should be made between the Weather Bureau at Amarillo and Pampa police to sound warnings when necessary. . . This, he figured, could be done with a certain type of warning blasts by fire station sirens. . . Trouble is, Central Fire Station downtown is the only one with a siren. . . There is a siren on the Hughes Bldg. downtown which is test blown at 10 a.m. every Monday, but you hear it only a few blocks away. . . Anybody got any ideas for an alert in case of an approaching tornado or nuclear attack? —DFD Responsibility: What Is It?

By MILDRED PROGAR
A man is born alone and when the time comes, he must die alone — no one can do it for him. It's the natural order of things. . . the original "do-it-yourself" plan . . . for which he normally can claim no responsibility. It is nature's design for individuality in life.
It's in between those events that man's responsibilities crop up as he seeks an identity and self-expression. Knowingly or unknowingly he is responsible for whatever experiences he encounters. It takes a lot of living and learning to assume the responsibility for that!
We respond as individuals from the time of birth and it behooves us to know the quality of our response if we are to maintain that individuality. Through the continuing process of self-awareness, analysis and honesty with one's self we can recognize ourselves as individuals who must determine and pursue our own goals. To know why we do what we do and to realize what we want to gain thereby brings one's self into focus.
Just as we want the liberty to be ourselves we must recognize the price to be paid for it. We must assume responsibility for ourselves if we are to remain free individuals.

Responsibility . . . the ability to answer for one's thoughts and actions . . . is a mature quality of mind. It is the core of individuality.
Responsible individuals know that there are no free lunches. Everything in life . . . tangible and intangible . . . has a price tag on it. The cost of things tangible is represented by dollars and cents. The price paid for the intangibles in life can best be described as the manifest results of the impersonal law of cause and effect. Our circumstances are the natural consequences of the quality of thought or action involved to date.
Responsible people know this and expect a "price tag" to accompany the goals they want to achieve, or the things they want to acquire. They are usually the people who get the "best bargains" in life because they are realistic. They are the best workers, make the best employees, and are among the most

New Hint of Possible Moves for Vietnam Negotiations in State Dept. Paper on Glassboro Summits

WASHINGTON — North Vietnam may be preparing a dramatic shift to a "fight and negotiate" strategy in Vietnam. This change by Hanoi was hinted by Soviet Premier Kosygin during his summit talks with President Johnson but not revealed by either leader in their public pronouncements. According to a confidential State Department briefing paper covering their discussions on the Vietnam impasse, the Soviet leader made a major point that many conflicts, including the Korean war, had ended "by negotiations while the fighting continued."

If the U. S. would stop its bombing of North Vietnam, Kosygin is quoted as saying, Hanoi would then agree, to the holding of talks to discuss a further end to the fighting. While neither accepting or rejecting the Kosygin proposal, the paper points out, the President suggested that the North Vietnamese should first agree in secret to a time and place for the truce talks. Once details for a conference are worked out, the President indicated the Soviet proposal would be acceptable. Otherwise, there could be no unilateral announcement by the U. S. because of the failure of North Vietnam to respond to past bombing pauses.

After Kosygin agreed to relay the President's views to Hanoi, the paper states, it was jointly decided that the matter would be left for further talks between Secretary of State Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko. During the Vietnam discussions, President Johnson is pictured as going to great lengths to try to convince Kosygin that the U. S. had no intentions of invading North Vietnam or toppling that regime. As if confined to one rebuttal argument by Moscow, Kosygin kept repeating that the only way the U. S. could convince his government of this would be to halt all attacks against North Vietnam.

Kosygin's unannounced proposal is the second hint that the U. S. has received in recent weeks that Hanoi may be shifting its strategy in Vietnam. Documents taken from captured North Vietnamese officers contained instructions for the successful business people. They are truly successful individuals. Why? What do they do that makes their lives so much more successful? It's simply that they have learned to assume responsibility. Responsibility to themselves and for themselves. Thus with respect for their own individuality — and that of others — effective and profitable interaction is possible. Neither assuming a responsibility that does not belong to them or shirking one that does, these individuals are at liberty to create circumstances for which they choose to pay the price.

CHANGING THE RULES — A new national policy, which could be politically explosive for the Johnson administration, goes into effect on July 1. The Department of Housing and Urban Development will require for the first time that all new urban renewal projects must meet certain national goals before federal funds can be provided. The goals are defined by HUD authorities, in a letter being distributed to city planners across the country, as follows: "Conservation and expansion of the housing supply for low and moderate-income families. "Development of new employment opportunities. "Renewal of areas with critical and urgent needs." MANY CITIES INVOLVED —

China Really Has Missile Know-How

By RAY CROMLEY WASHINGTON Correspondent

WASHINGTON —(NEA) Dr. Ch'ien Hsueh-shen is understood to be heading Mao Tse-tung's missile program.

Ch'ien is considered something of a genius. He has a master's degree from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, a Ph. D. from the California Institute of Technology.

He was a professor of aeronautics at M.I.T. for several years. Just following World War II the U.S. Navy sent him to Germany to investigate rocket development.

Ch'ien began work as head of the Red Chinese missile program in 1955. That was 12 years ago. But he didn't start from scratch. He began with a basic understanding of German and U.S. missile technology. In 1955 he was already one of the world's top experts in the field.

He has lectured in the Soviet Union to Moscow's experts on missile technology. Ch'ien is known to have told fellow scientists that for a number of years he was able to secure from the Soviet Union a great deal of information and technical assistance on the production of resistant materials needed for long-range missiles. The Chinese also got much information on Soviet work in semi-conductors, computers and theoretical mechanics.

Ch'ien is known to be a bug on the gathering of technical information worldwide. He insisted on the large-scale translation of American, European, Russian, Japanese and other technical documents related to missile technology. He has been insistent on the necessity of studying foreign languages to keep abreast of what's being done in both the West and East.

Ch'ien seemed to have proved his loyalty to the regime in the severe struggles that swept Red China in 1957. At any rate, he was "awarded" party membership that year because of his stand in the "antiright" campaigns. Ch'ien's first deputy, Kuo Yung-huai, is also a Cal Tech man. He received his Ph.D. from the California institution and is a noted aeronautical engineer. Ch'ien's other principal deputy, Shen Yuan, has a doctorate from the University of London. The caliber of his leadership indicates the Chinese Communist

One of these days dotting parents will be able to take a picture of their offspring with a Polaroid camera, then dial a number and when Grandma answers the phone the picture will pop out of her telephone. Of course sending pictures by wire is common these days, but the fabulous Xerox corporation has developed a new facsimile transmission device that operates over conventional telephone lines with speed of sound. The possibilities of this machine are endless.

Today's smile: A youngster at a summer camp was having the miseries and counselor asked: "Are you homesick?" The ailing youngster replied: "No, I'm here sick."

The current popularity of James Bond recalls that fictional sleuth and undercover agents have always been popular with the general public. Of course, Bond has earned millions for the Ian Fleming estate, but we wonder if his popularity will last as long as that of Sherlock Holmes. It has been reported that Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's estate is the richest of them all and most of it derives from the undying popularity of Holmes. To date there have been 106 Sherlock Holmes films, many of which are still being shown on American and British TV.

There was, also the successful musical play "Baker Street." And old-timers will recall that for more than 25 years the stage actor William Gillette toured this country playing the role of Sherlock Holmes, making millions for himself and Doyle.

Thoughts while shaving: Another literary estate that has prospered handsomely since the author's death is that of Mark Twain. Recent publication of a new book by the famed humorist recalled that since Twain's death in 1910 his publishers have paid royalties of more than $50,000 each year to his heirs. Twain left a prodigious amount of unpublished writings and through the years various editors have worked to bring it out. One wag in the publishing business said recently: "The family must have kept every thing Mark ever scribbled, including the grocery list."

Despite the frequent cartoon gags about the male members of the household always whacking his thumb with a hammer, it's the mother who usually suffers the accidents when she tries to do those do-it-yourself chores. . . Sometime a fellow's name can cause him to lose the big prize. When Alf Landon was nominated by the Republicans in 1936 to oppose President Roosevelt the top contender for the No. 2 spot as his running mate was Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire. But the party bigwigs nixed him for vice-president when someone thought the Democrats would come out with the slogan, "Landon Bridges falling down."

Now that summer is here it is safe to predict that just about half the population is susceptible to ivy poisoning. And the other lucky half doesn't have to be careful outdoors. . . A doctor friend tells us the best way to get in shape and stay that way is to hike at least two miles each day. He says it helps reduce the cholesterol level in the blood and at the same time takes care of flabby muscles. Besides, he insists, it is the most invigorating of all forms of exercise. The Springfield (Ohio) NEWS SUN headlined a story, "Communists Reek Havoc in India." The Communists just reek — everywhere.

Country Editor Speaking: "Uncle Sam's revelation that there's $220 in cash in circulation for every man, woman and child in the nation gives us the idea that we might borrow from our grandchildren."

Benjamin Franklin flew his famous kite on June 15, 1752. . . .

nists should be able to push ahead rapidly in developing medium and long-range missiles able to carry hydrogen warheads. Reports on the recent Red Chinese H-bomb explosion indicate that it may not take Peking long to make its H-bomb small enough to fit into missiles. The United States must be prepared diplomatically and militarily for that day.

The Doctor Says:

By DR. WAYNE BRANDSTADT Use of Breast Pump Will Keep Milk Flowing

Q—My doctor was able to force blood from both of my breasts. There are no lumps in them. What could cause this?

A—Since the bloody discharge had to be forced out, it is most likely not due to cancer in the milk ducts. A small tissue specimen (biopsy) should be taken for microscopic study, but removal of the breast should not be considered unless a malignant tumor is found.

Q—Three months after the birth of my baby I still have milk in my breast. I am milking it out with a breast pump. How long will it take for my breast to dry up?

A—Using a breast pump will keep the milk flowing, so store the pump in the attic. Apply a tight breast binder and place ice bags on the breasts for 20 to 30 minutes three or four times a day. Your doctor may want to give you an injection of testosterone enanthate (Dilate) or some combination of long-acting male and female hormones.

Q—My doctor says I have cystic mastitis but no lumps in the breast. What is the treatment? Could it turn into cancer?

A—This disease is not malignant but a breast cancer can develop in any breast, cystic or normal. A woman with cystic mastitis should have regular checkups to make sure the nature of the disease has not changed. There is no specific treatment for cystic mastitis but wearing an uplift bra both day and night may give some relief. Hot wet packs are also recommended. In victims with severe unrelieved pain, removal of the breast may be necessary.

Q—I have three small cysts in my breast. They are very sore all the time. My doctor says to leave them alone. What do you think?

A—Follow your doctor's advice. Q—Is pernicious anemia hereditary? Why would it appear in an adult who previously showed no sign of anemia? Does heavy drinking aggravate pernicious anemia or affect the treatment of this disease?

A—In some victims of this disease there is a hereditary factor. Many hereditary diseases do not become manifest until adulthood. The reason for this is not known. Although I can find no evidence that heavy drinking would affect pernicious anemia, it should be discouraged in anyone. Heavy drinking could have an indirect effect on the treatment of this disease in that it leads to nutritional deficiency and good nutrition, especially as regards iron and vitamin B-12, is essential in the treatment of pernicious anemia.

Michael Caine In Still a Nice Guy

BY JOAN CROSBY

PALMA DE MALLORCA — (NEA)—Michael Caine had removed his Mississippi River gambler's frock coat and lowered his suspender straps until they were elbow-high. He was relaxing in the courtyard of a 600-year-old farmhouse, high in the hills overlooking Palma.

Technicians were lighting a large portion of the farmhouse, which serves as the scene for a costume ball for 20th Century-Fox's production of "Deadfall," a romantic suspense drama about thieves, written and directed by Bryan Forbes.

About 50 extras, natives of Mallorca and vacationers recruited for the job, were lounging about, dressed as señoritas, pirates, East Indian princesses and potentates, peacocks, American Indians, Victorian belles and beaux, Hawaiians and everything else that lends itself to a colorful costume. Costumes were designed by pretty Julie Harris (not the actress) who won an Academy Award for her "Darling" designs.

Caine, who stars in the film with Giovanna Ralli, Eric Portman and Nanette Newman, was talking about awards. Filming was scheduled to go on all night and it was now about 2 very Cockney, and he kept pronouncing the word "awaugh."

"I'd like an Academy Award," he said. "I saw an award the other day that I wouldn't mind having. It would fit the decor of my new flat."

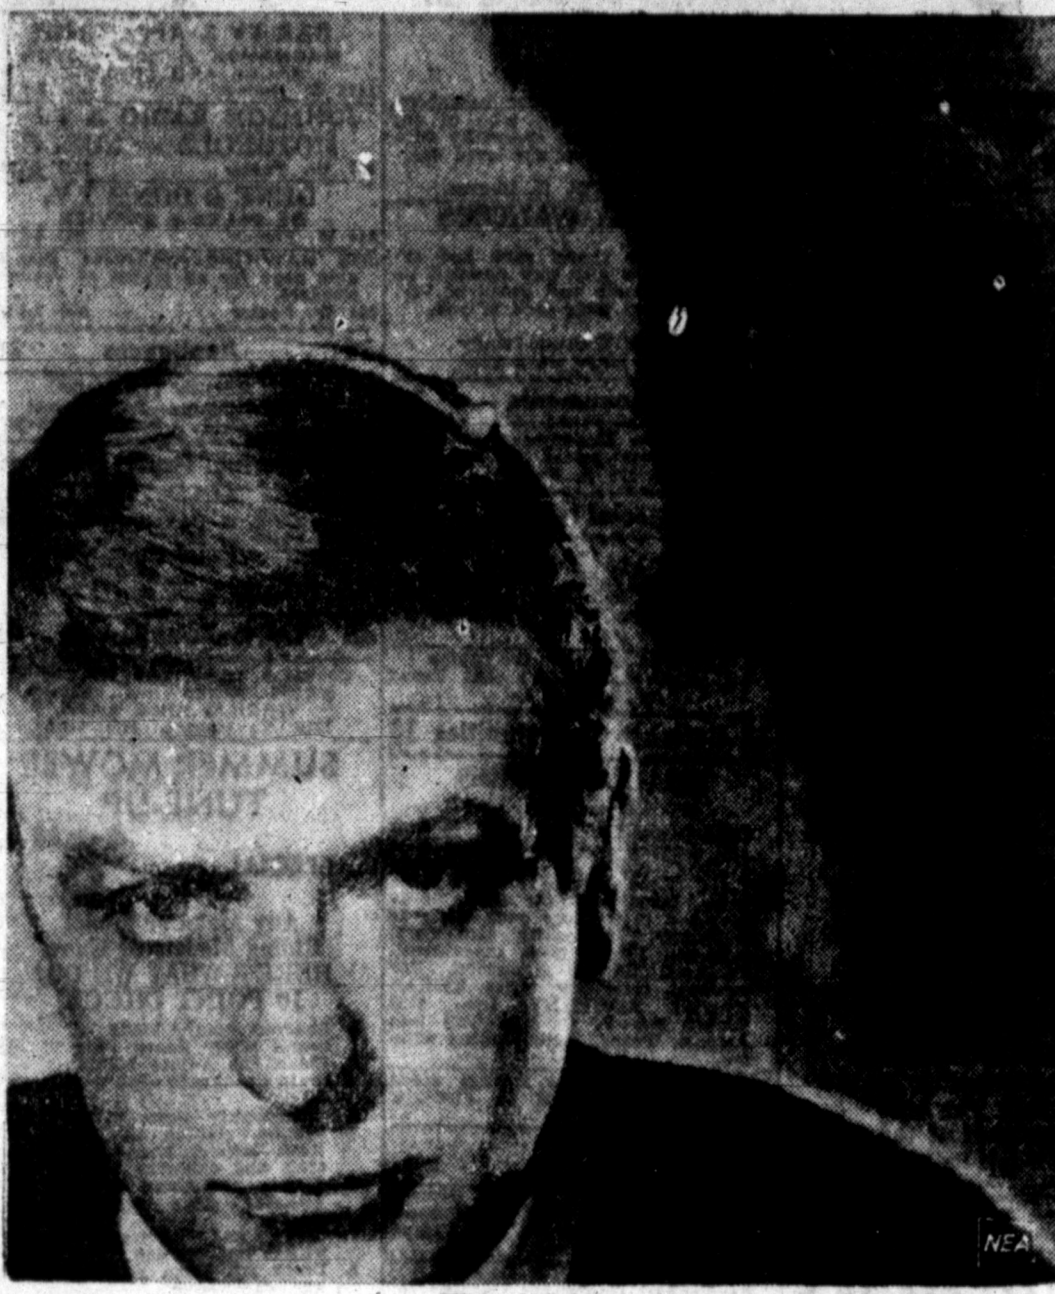

Caine's agent interrupted to say, "An Academy Award goes with everything."

When the laughter subsided, Michael said, "I was once in a picture that got the Tidbits Award of the Week. (Tidbits is a British weekly magazine.) Can you imagine? The studio decided to display it, and they spent more on the frame than the award cost. By the time they got it back from Fortnum & Mason, the week was over and another picture had the award."

Two days later, sunning himself by the swimming pool of the Nixie Palace Hotel, Michael said his conversation had been "just fooling."

"But I wouldn't mind an award," he said, his Cockney accent now vanished. "Yes, I do want an Academy Award. I want artistic achievement. I have got financial rewards and status, and I suppose some artistic awards, if you count reviews. Now I am searching for more financial security. I'm not a young man. I'm 34. I'm at the time where I must look at myself. It's no good goofing around from one French flat to another."

Michael has a lot of friends. One of them, Doug Heywood, like Caine a Cockney who overcame the Establishment to become a very successful London tailor, says, "Success, I find, makes nice people get nicer and nasty ones get nastier. Michael has gotten nicer, but otherwise he hasn't changed."

Heywood also tells of Michael's affection for his mother.

"He buys her gifts, and she is a typical Cockney mother. Except for a watch he gave her, she puts things away. She feels that if everything changes for him, she will be able to take all those lovely gifts and say, 'See, Michael, I saved all these things and now we can turn them into cash.' Each Sunday she cooks a great Cockney meal for him. It's the kind of meal after which you can do only one thing — sleep."

Michael agrees he is close to his mother, but adds, "One worries about talking too much about his mother, because one sounds like a faggy guy hanging on to her apron strings. In fact, if I ever showed signs of becoming a mama's boy, she'd smack me around the ears."

"I can tell you, though, that if you ever have insomnia, come around on a Sunday for one of her meals. I guarantee she will knock you out peacefully."

"There is one way I have changed. I like to think of myself as one of nature's gentlemen. I am never intentionally rude. But if someone takes advantage of me, then I become barbarically rude. I have a very vicious tongue and when I unloose it, the result is startling to behold."

He's a man with a great sense of humor who has handled his success very well. Since the release of "The Impress File" nearly three years ago, he has become the symbol of box office success and respect. An actor can ask for little more.

ROMEO AND JULIET take on a youthful look with Olivia Hussey, 15, and Leonard Whiting, 16, playing the star-crossed lovers in a forthcoming film. If it's authentically director Franco Zeffirelli was seeking in casting the two, he's still a year late on Miss Hussey. Shakespeare's play, in describing Juliet, says "... she hath not seen the change of 14 years."

Separate Togetherness For Steve and Eydie

NEW YORK (UPI)—Steve Lawrence and Eydie Gorme, an early edition and we had a husband-wife singing team, late edition... but unlike the current newspaper trend, we manage to retain separate identities despite the fact that most people think of them as "StevenEydie."

A recent appearance at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel's Empire Room is an able illustration of their separate togetherness. Steve performed solo for the first half of the act; Eydie was more interested in "play-partion, and they closed the performance together."

Steve and Eydie, who were married in 1957 and have two young sons, compare themselves to the newspaper business.

DRIVER OF THIS WACKY VEHICLE could be none other than comedienne Phyllis Diller. She is pictured here on the set of "Did You Hear the One about the Travelling Saleslady?" which she is presently filming.

In 1953 Eydie was signed to that she began doing musical appear as the regular "girl duets with the program's "boy singer" on the old "Tonight Show," a young man from Show," headed by Steve Allen. Brooklyn named Steve Lawrence. It was on the "Tonight Show," Brooklyn.

AUCTIONEER'S NOTE
This farm lays in a very good water district with unlimited water for irrigation. The soil is Pullman Clay Loam with 0 to 1 percent slope. It is well suited to both irrigated and dry land crops, and the main crops grown in this area are small grains, sorghum and alfalfa. Cities Service has a gas line running through the farm which can be connected to for irrigation purposes. Pampa, Texas, a city of approximately 25,000 is 6 miles to the west of this farm. Pampa, not only a very good farming and ranching area is also a very good industrial city as well with such companies as Cabot Corp., Celanese and several of the major oil companies located in the area. Pampa has many fine churches and schools and a well rounded trade center. If you are looking for farm land I sincerely recommend your inspection of this farm before July 21, 1967.
