SAIGON (UPI) — In the greatest assault of the war, U.S. Marines invaded the demilitarized zone (DMZ) dividing South from North Vietnam in land, sea and air strikes aimed at wiping out 5,000 Communists using the neutral area for a war base, American spokesmen said today.

Arab, Israeli Forces Mobilizing for War

U.N. Troops Prepare To Pull Out Soon

CAIRO (UPI) — Arab and Israeli forces today mobilized for war and signs grew that U.N. peace-keeping troops were bowing to United Arab Republic demands and pulling out from between the foes, reports from throughout the Mideast said.

Egypt, Syria, Iraq, Jordan and tiny but rich Kuwait already have announced they are preparing for action and Cairo voiced threat of an Arab "holy war" to drive the Jews from Israel once and for all.

(In Jerusalem, reliable sources said Israel had begun a "partial mobilization" of its forces. At the same time Israeli reports from its Egyptian frontier indicated the 3,400-man U.N. force was preparing to pull out in a day or two.)

The long tension between Israel and the Arab neighbors reached its worst point since the 1956 Suez crisis. One misstep could plunge the bustling region into war.

World powers were reported working virtually round-the-clock behind scenes to keep Israel's 275,000-man forces and Arab armies twice that size from rolling. But the cry of war was in the air.

Egypt's new commander along the 117-mile frontier with Israel said Thursday night his troops are ready for the "holy war" they had awaited for years. "Now is the time to fulfill their dream," Gen. Abdel Moneim Morsy told newsmen.

U.A.R. Vice President Abdel Hakim Amer said Egypt rolled tanks and troops to the frontier because of fears Israel would attack its defense partner, Syria. He vowed Egypt's troops are ready to "hit hard."

(At Jerusalem, Israel, where the tourist business still boomed and coffee shops remained crowded, an Israeli army spokesman said, "Our forces have taken measures to meet the situation.")

The 3,400-man, seven-nation U.N. Emergency Force (UNEF) set up after the 1956 fighting was prepared to move out from the frontier and the Demilitarized Gaza Strip. In New York, U.N. Secretary General Thant was expected today to announce the end of the UNEF mission, following Egyptian requests the world body troops leave.

The departure would leave only a ditch separating Israelis from Egyptians.

Other's Prepare Much of the war talk and much of the military activity came from Cairo. But other Arab states and Israel also prepared for action.

DBA To Ask City For 4-Month Test Of Free Parking

A request to "blindfold" parking meters on a four-month trial basis in Pampa's downtown business district will be made at Tuesday's meeting of the city commission.

Ray Duncan, president of the Downtown Business Association, said today results of a poll among merchants had brought 100 per cent agreement so far to request that the free parking system be tried out.

The DBA board of directors and members of its parking committee agreed last Monday on a three-point program during the test period.

Duncan said the proposal will be made here on the basis of the abandonment of parking meters in several other area cities and towns.

The trial plan for which the DBA will seek city commission approval would permit two-hour free parking with strict city control by marking tires or by recording license plate numbers. Violators would be assessed a fine to be set by the city.

The three-point program would formulate and support a plan to encourage all people who work downtown and park their cars in the downtown area to voluntarily park cars on off-street parking lots and present un-metered street parking space so the shopping public (See DBA, Page 3)

Viet Objectives Same, LBJ Says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson, cautioning that frustration and heartache lie ahead, says America's objectives in Vietnam are still limited and its determination unwavering.

At an impromptu news conference in his White House office Thursday, Johnson was asked whether he sensed that things may be getting out of control in the war.

"I believe that our objectives are the same and our determination is just as strong as it has ever been," Johnson replied.

"I don't see any great fluctuation in activity, opinion, or judgment. I have said that it is a very difficult thing that we are going through. It tests the patience and the understanding of each of us."

Asked specifically if there had been any change in the oft-stressed administration policy that U.S. goals are limited in Vietnam, Johnson answered with an unqualified no.

The President indicated he sensed some improvement in the nation's attitude on supporting the war, but he declined to comment directly on the statement of 16 Senators Wednesday warning Hanoi the United States would not withdraw short of an honorable

Senate Leaders May Give Dodd Time Extension

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate leaders today appeared headed for some compromise to give Sen. Thomas J. Dodd more time to prepare his defense on centure charges and avoid a claim that the Senate is "lynching" the Connecticut Democrat.

Sen. Russell B. Long, Dodd's self-appointed advocate, Thursday forced Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield and his GOP counterpart, Everett M. Dirksen, to reconsider their decision to call up the centure resolution Monday. The two party leaders planned to confer on the matter today.

Long demanded a six-week extension, and charged today that "if the Senate declines to allow a proper defense, they will have to go ahead with their lynching mob proposal and lynch the man."

The Senate Ethics Committee has recommended Dodd be censured for conduct which tends "to bring the Senate into dishonor and disrepute."

It charged him with diverting political contributions to his personal use and double-billing both private sponsors and the government on travel expenses to speaking engagements.

One compromise mentioned would let the Senate Ethics Committee present its case Monday, then put the resolution on the shelf for a specified number of weeks so Dodd can offer his defense.

Although Long started the fireworks with his announcement that he wanted the extension, it was Dodd's personal appeal which apparently put the leadership on the spot.

The 60-year-old Senator, at Long's urging, pleaded for "a little more time."

"This is a grave matter for me," Dodd said in a voice which was barely audible at times. "I don't know what's going to be hurt by giving me a little more time."

The emotional appeal immediately prompted Sens. John O. Pastore, D-R. I., and Albert Gore, D-Tenn., to add their voices to the request.

"I say this more seriously than anything I've said on the floor," Pastore said. "It must not be said that he was denied a chance to prepare."

House, Senate Resume Work On Compromise 1968 State Budget

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — House and Senate conferees today resumed work on a compromise 1968 state budget with the goal of getting it back to both houses for a final vote by Tuesday.

The 10-man conference committee started work on the $2.4 billion spending bill Thursday afternoon and almost immediately ran into a pair of stumping blocks.

Sen. A. M. Alkin Jr. of Paris, lead of the Senate conferees, objected to a rider in the House version preventing state funds from being spent on investigating air pollution caused by cotton gins.

Rep. W. S. Healy of Paducah and his house conferees wanted the rider left in. Alkin said he would take it up with Speaker Ben Barnes because "I thought we had an understanding that we would not legislate in the appropriations bill," pointing out that Barnes has repeatedly objected publicly to such legislation.

Also passed up was a final decision on a difference of $2 million in building funds for mental health and retardation. The House bill has $9 million in this fund while the Senate bill has only $7 million.

After working for nearly three hours Thursday at the initial meeting, the conference adjourned until today. Alkin noted that "we need to work hard over the weekend" so the bill could be finished in time for a final vote.

IN KENNEDY ASSASSINATION

LEXINGTON, Mass. (UPI) — An amateur motion picture of President Kennedy's assassination showing what bears a resemblance to a second gunman aiming a rifle has been found by one of the nation's top photographic laboratories to be an illusion.

An analysis released by the Itex Corporation disproved one widely circulated theory that the Warren Commission erred in finding that Lee Harvey Oswald acted alone in the slaying of the President in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963.

Itex made the months long study as a public service.

Several second gunman theories have been advanced by proponents of a conspiracy in public lectures and in publications. One had been based in part on an 8 mm color motion picture shot that day by Orville Nix, one of the spectators in Dealey Plaza.

Photographic Laboratory Disproves Second Gunman Theory

It shows the President being hit by the fatal bullet and Mrs. Kennedy climbing onto the back of the convertible. In the background is a grassy knoll and atop it a wooden picket fence and a white concrete pavilion with a low wall. The knoll is below and to the left of the Texas School Depository Building from which Oswald fired.

Enlargement of certain frames of the Nix film brings out what to the naked eye resembles a man with one elbow resting on the roof of a station wagon behind the wall and squinting down a gun barrel at Elm Street where Kennedy was shot.

Several persons in Dallas who were eyewitnesses to the assassination have reported seeing smoke or flashes from the knoll area and even more thought they heard shots from that direction.

Nix first turned his film over to the FBI and it was used, among other things, to determine for the Warren report the position of the President's car at the moment the fatal bullet struck his head.

The Nix film subsequently became the property of United Press International Newsfilm (UPI). Last February, the Itex Corporation agreed at the request of UPI to make an exhaustive scientific study of the 31 feet of film.

Itex is one of the major manufacturers of highly sophisticated aerial reconnaissance cameras and its equipment was used in development of closeup color pictures of the moon made by the Surveyor spacecraft.

Itex photographic scientists improved the quality of the film content by utilizing advanced image enhancement methods. Itex photogrammetrists and photointerpreters made precise measurements of a number of significant objects in the photographs to insure proper identification of the objects and to determine the feasibility of the fatal shot being fired from certain points.

IN NLRB ELECTION

Cabot Shop Workers Again Reject Union

Employees of Cabot Corp. Machinery Division again turned down efforts to unionize the plant in a National Labor Relations Board election conducted yesterday at the request of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union of the AFL-CIO.

The vote was 137 for the union and 164 against having a labor organization represent workers in bargaining with the company.

The union lost an election last Nov. 9 by a 169 to 155 vote, but it was challenged by union representatives and appealed to the NLRB which ordered the new election held yesterday.

The November vote was challenged by the union on grounds that the company had not furnished a list of names and addresses of all employees participating in the election.

Cabot officials said the list was supplied for yesterday's election.

Billy M. Gibson and William Snow of the NLRB regional office at Fort Worth conducted the election in which 301 employees voted.

Both union and company selected employees to check eligibility of workers as they voted between 6:30 and 7:15 a.m. and from 1 to 5 p.m.

Results of yesterday's election at the Cabot shops marked the second time in a little more than six months that the union failed to gain recognition. It was the fourth time Machinery Division employees had rejected the union since 1960.

Chinese Continuing To Hound Governor

HONG KONG (UPI) — Howling Chinese today surrounded the residence of British governor Sir David Trench for the second straight day and demanded he come out and meet them.

But Trench, vowing to "help Hong Kong return to its normal peaceful ways," remained aloof and showed no sign of bowing to demands originating in Peking, including the release with apologies of more than 400 persons arrested in the past week of wild Communist-led rioting.

The Chinese outside his home chanted insults, Communist slogans and quotations by Peking leader Mao Tse-tung.

They slapped up fresh wall posters protesting police action in quelling the rioting in this British crown colony.

In Kowloon—the part of Hong Kong attached to the China mainland where the rioting has been focused—about 100 Chinese youths gathered in a courthouse where suspected rioters were being tried.

The youths, mainly girls, wore baggy blue "Red Guard" type uniforms with Maoist armbands.

Like a high school choir they were led by a hand-waving director through "The East is Red" and other favorites in the oriental Communist songbook.

Oil, Water Show To Allow Exhibits Of Allied Groups

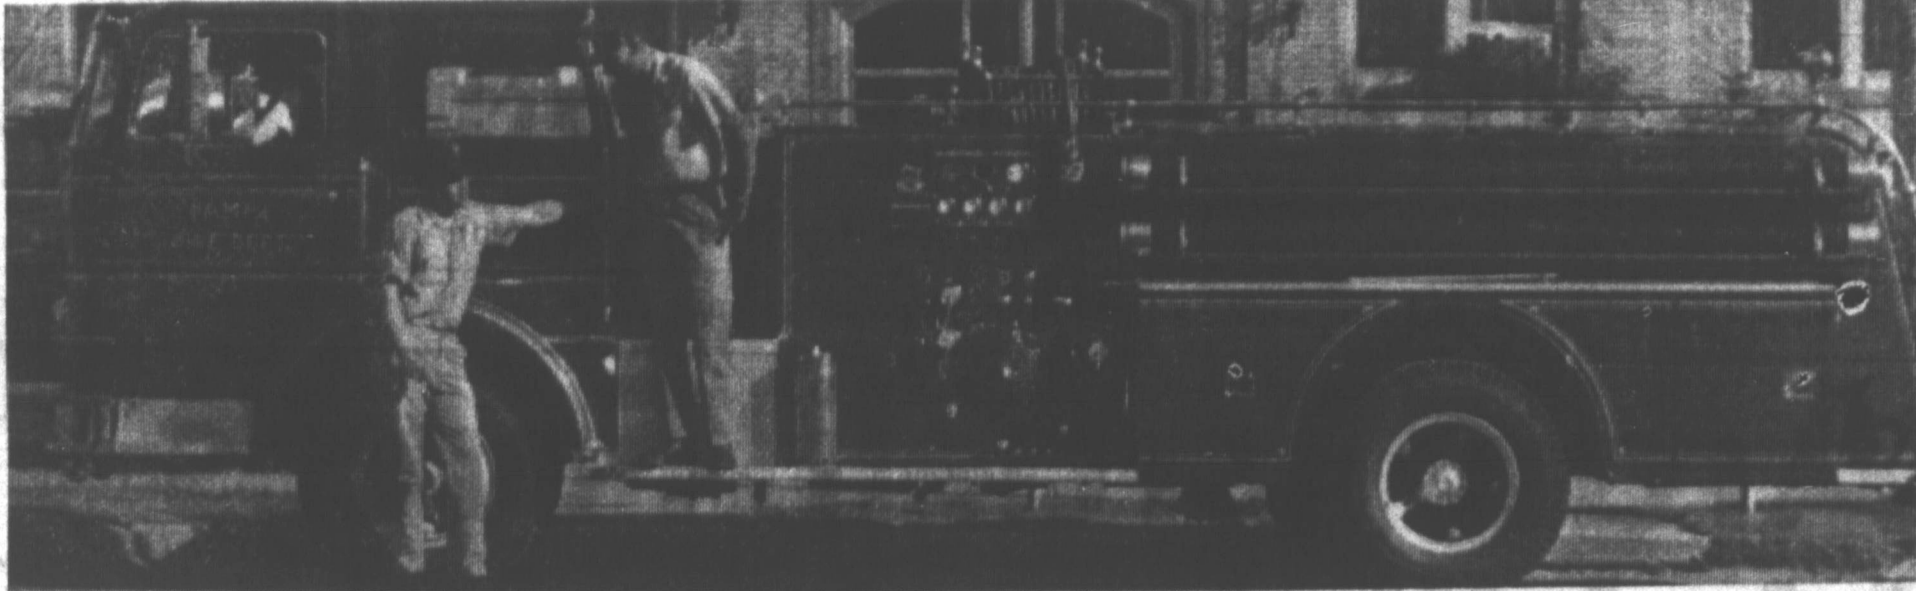

BORGER (SpI) — Jerry Walsh, chairman of the Magic Plains Oil Exposition and Water Production, announces that the board has agreed to allow more leeway in the Oil Exposition and Water Production show this year by inviting exhibitors who are allied with the oil and water industry.

Walsh stated that prior to this time the emphasis had been on the oil and water production industry, but it is the consensus of the Board that the show should be expanded to allow suppliers and manufacturers who are directly or indirectly connected with the two industries to exhibit.

Dates of the show this year are Sept. 7, 8, and 9. Exhibit space is limited, both inside and outside, as spaces are being contracted at a rapid pace, Walsh said.

Ford Says Safety Devices to Cause Price Increases

DETROIT (UPI) — Henry Ford II warned today that Ford Motor Co. "shall have to look to substantial price increases" for 1968 model cars to cover the costs of government safety and exhaust control standards.

Ford, chairman of the nation's second largest auto making company, also accused the federal government of bowing to "intense political pressure" in drawing up some of the 20 safety standards required for cars produced after next Jan. 1.

In remarks prepared for presentation to the firm's stockholders at the Ford annual meeting, Ford also warned the United Auto Workers Union size gains by the UAW "in UAW that there is no justification whatever for out-contract negotiations with the 'big three' auto makers this summer."

Businessmen Concede W. Texas To Be Affected by Slash in Tariff

By United Press International West Texas businessmen, farmers and economists generally concede that the area will be affected considerably by an agreement reached this week to lower the tariff on world trade, but they differ sharply on its merit.

Those who have large volumes of imported items are lavish in their praise, and their competitors are unhappy.

Cause of the raised eyebrows was an announcement from Geneva shortly before midnight Monday. Some 53 participating nations in the Kennedy Round negotiations reported they had agreed on a proposal to cut the tariff by an estimated 33 to 35 per cent over a five-year span in 70 per cent of the free world's annual trade.

'Private' Library Is Checked Out

SHEFFIELD, England (UPI) — All of Ronald Cawthorne's friends were impressed with his private library of nearly 10,000 books. All except an employe of the Sheffield library.

The employe came to Cawthorne's home to find out why he had not returned a book borrowed from the public library. "There were books everywhere," woman detective Iris Huntington said.

Miss Huntington found the missing library book and a little more sleuthing by police discovered that practically all the rest had been taken from various public and private libraries and book stores.

Cawthorne, who lives on unemployment benefits of about $11 per week, was charged only with taking the one book Miss Huntington came after, a 35 cent library book. Five trucks and three police vans carted the rest away to return to their rightful owners.

DEPARTMENT STORES

WOMEN'S DAY PROGRAM — Three Women's Day program steering committee members, left to right, Mrs. Irene Sanders, Mrs. Louise Beck and Mrs. Charity O'Neal, plan the Sunday event with Mrs. James R. Howard, speaker, and the Rev. Monroe Woods Jr., pastor of the church sponsoring the program at 3 p.m. Sunday. The program is planned by members of the St. Mark Christian Methodist Episcopal Church of Pampa.

FIRST IN PAMPA

Latin Americans Organize Spanish Speaking Church

The first Spanish speaking church in Pampa has been organized and will start services Sunday. The church is intended to serve Spanish speaking people of Pampa and vicinity.

The Rev. Steve Coronado, who is Presbyter of Latin American Assemblies of God churches in the Texas Panhandle, met with interested families April 11.

At this meeting, the three families of Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Hernandez, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Pinon, and Mr. and Mrs. David Aguilar, decided to form a Latin American Assembly of God Church here.

After the meeting, the families decided to name the new church Iglesia Betel de las Asambleas de Dios (Bethel Church of the Assemblies of God).

C. M. Pinon of 204 S. Nelson was elected secretary-treasurer of the newly organized church.

Church members here have rented the old Church of God building on the corner of Campbell and Reid Streets, and have the option to buy after their one-year lease expires.

The church auditorium is on one floor, and an adjoining annex, a two-story structure, includes a kitchen, restrooms, and eight classrooms.

A regular weekly schedule of services is planned. Sunday school starts at 9:45 a.m.; evangelistic services, 7:30 p.m., Sundays and midweek services, 7:30 p.m. Wednesdays. All services will be conducted in Spanish.

"Arrangements for a pastor are not final yet, but they have contacted the Latin American Bible Institute at El Paso and requested one of their graduates to come as pastor. After graduation exercises May 26, the new pastor will come to Pampa," the Rev. William F. Blackley, pastor of Bethel Assembly of God Church, said.

Until the new pastor arrives, ministers from West Texas area Latin American Assemblies of God Churches will preach for the new church, he said.

The Bethel Assembly of God Church, located on Hamilton and Worrell Streets, is helping organize the Latin American church, which is expected to have about 30 Pampans attending with eight charter members.

To be a member, one must be 15 years old and be accepted by the church.

Crusade Prayer Nights Set

The first area-wide prayer meetings for the Greater Pampa Crusade for Christ with Bill Glass as evangelist will start at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at Highland Baptist Church and the First Assembly of God Church.

The two meetings will be held at the same time. The speaker for Highland Baptist Church will be Elsie Teague of Pampa, and at First Assembly of God is Capt. Robert J. Tritton of the Salvation Army.

The Rev. Monroe Woods, pastor of St. Mark C. M. E. (Christian Methodist Episcopal Church) is prayer committee chairman.

Delbert Woolfe, member of Highland Baptist Church, will direct the prayer service for his church, and W. M. Griffin, member of St. Mark C.M.E. Church, will direct services at First Assembly of God Church.

CME Church Plans Events For Women

St. Mark C. M. E. Church will conduct its first Women's Day program Sunday with the theme "Christian Unity is Woman's Achievement."

A steering committee consisting of Mrs. Charity O'Neal, Mrs. Eddie Morgan, Mrs. Louise Beck, Mrs. Irene Sanders and Mrs. Valerie Henry organized the program.

Mrs. Ruby Morgan is mistress of ceremony for the 3 p.m. service. Mrs. Beck is program chairman.

The afternoon service will have Mrs. James N. Howard of Pampa as speaker. Mrs. Howard is a native of McCaskill, Ark. and attended schools at Blevins, Ark. and Hot Springs, Ark.

She attended business school at Texarkana, and later Phillipsander Smith College, Little Rock, Ark. where she received the B.A. degree in elementary education. She is a housewife and mother of four children.

Women from other churches are invited to attend the 3 p.m. service.

The church's pastor, the Rev. Monroe Woods, will be speaker for morning services.

Training Program Planned at Church

"The Hazards of Brotherhood" will be the Rev. Frederick H. Dawson's sermon topic at First Presbyterian Church at 8:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. Sunday. His text will be taken from Malachi.

The Rev. James Mahon of Amarillo, chairman of the Christian Education Committee of the Synod of Texas, will direct a "Training in Discipleship Program" at 7 p.m. in the church auditorium Sunday.

The church's Christian Education Committee is sponsoring the Rev. Mr. Mahon's discussion of "Church Education, or Christian Education."

In the 11 a.m. service, the Chancel Choir will sing the offertory anthem, "Let Us Bless the God of Heaven."

Junior High choir members will practice at 4:30 p.m. and after practice will meet at Ray Duncan's home, 2110 Charles St., for a supper.

Senior high group will meet in the church's youth lounge at 6 p.m. for fellowship.

First Baptist Pastor Plans Two Topics

The Rev. Dan B. Cameron, First Baptist Church pastor, will preach both services for his church Sunday. For the 11 a.m. service he has chosen "Loneliness" for his sermon topic.

Sam Allen, minister of music, will direct the Chancel Choir in singing the anthem, "From All That Dwell Below the Skies" by Young and present Mrs. Floyd Hatcher who will sing a solo, "I Walked Today Where Jesus Walked" by O'Hara.

Miss Eloise Lane, organist will play meditation on "Meditation" by Wolf for the offertory.

"Don't Let God Go" is the subject the pastor will use for his 7 p.m. sermon subject. The Chancel Choir will sing "Saved, Saved" arranged by Ferrin, and Allen will present Bob Allford Jr. of Oilton, as guest soloist. Allford is the son of Bob Allford, Sr. and has been music director here.

The mid-week service begins at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday. The pastor will continue teaching the book of Revelation.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Manning and family and Mr. and Mrs. Allen and their children will attend the Southern Baptist convention in Miami, Fla. May 29-June 3.

Christian Scientists Slate Lesson-Sermon

Christian Science Church members will hear a lesson-sermon on "Soul and Body" in the 11 a.m. service Sunday.

Verses from the Bible and correlated selections from the Christian Scientist text will be used in the lesson.

Revival Continues In Pampa Church

Lamar Full Gospel Assembly church is continuing its revival with the Rev. Dick Newman of Denver, Colo. as evangelist.

Services are held at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. daily, with no services Saturdays.

Pastor of Faith Temple in Denver four years, the Rev. Mr. Newman has been an evangelist 13 years, and has conducted youth camps, camp meetings and crusades in the United States, Mexico and Canada.

An interdenominational evangelist, he attended a Bible college in Los Angeles, Calif., a year before he started full time evangelistic work.

Eight years ago, he worked in two evangelistic crusades in the interior of Mexico from Mexico City south nearly to the Guatemala border.

"In the interior of Mexico, one city we visited had 365 Catholic cathedrals and not one Protestant church," the Rev. Mr. Newman said.

This fall he is planning a crusade to South America, to Brazil, Jamaica, Venezuela and Trinidad, to preach in villages and to jungle tribes.

Sermons Set By Ministers Here Sunday

First Christian Church members will hear a sermon from the Rev. J. W. Duke, pastor, at 11 a.m. Sunday on "With Cheerfulness, Intelligence, and Freedom," and have planned other weekly events.

In the Sunday morning service, Miss Rosemary Lawlor will direct the choir, accompanied by Mrs. John Gill.

Other Sunday events are the snack supper at 5:30 p.m.; youth groups, 6 p.m. and evening service, 7 p.m., with the Rev. C. M. Grow, the church's assistant pastor, preaching on "Return to the Grace of God."

The Rev. Mr. Duke's scripture will be from Isaiah 30:15.

The pastor's cabinet, which includes each committee chairman, will meet at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

Mrs. John Zuerker will direct annual vacation church school, which will start June 4 with enrollment and June 5 with school events.

All children between the age of three years and the sixth grade are asked to enroll for the school in their Sunday school classes.

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

REV. W. E. POLLET
Lamar Full Gospel Assembly

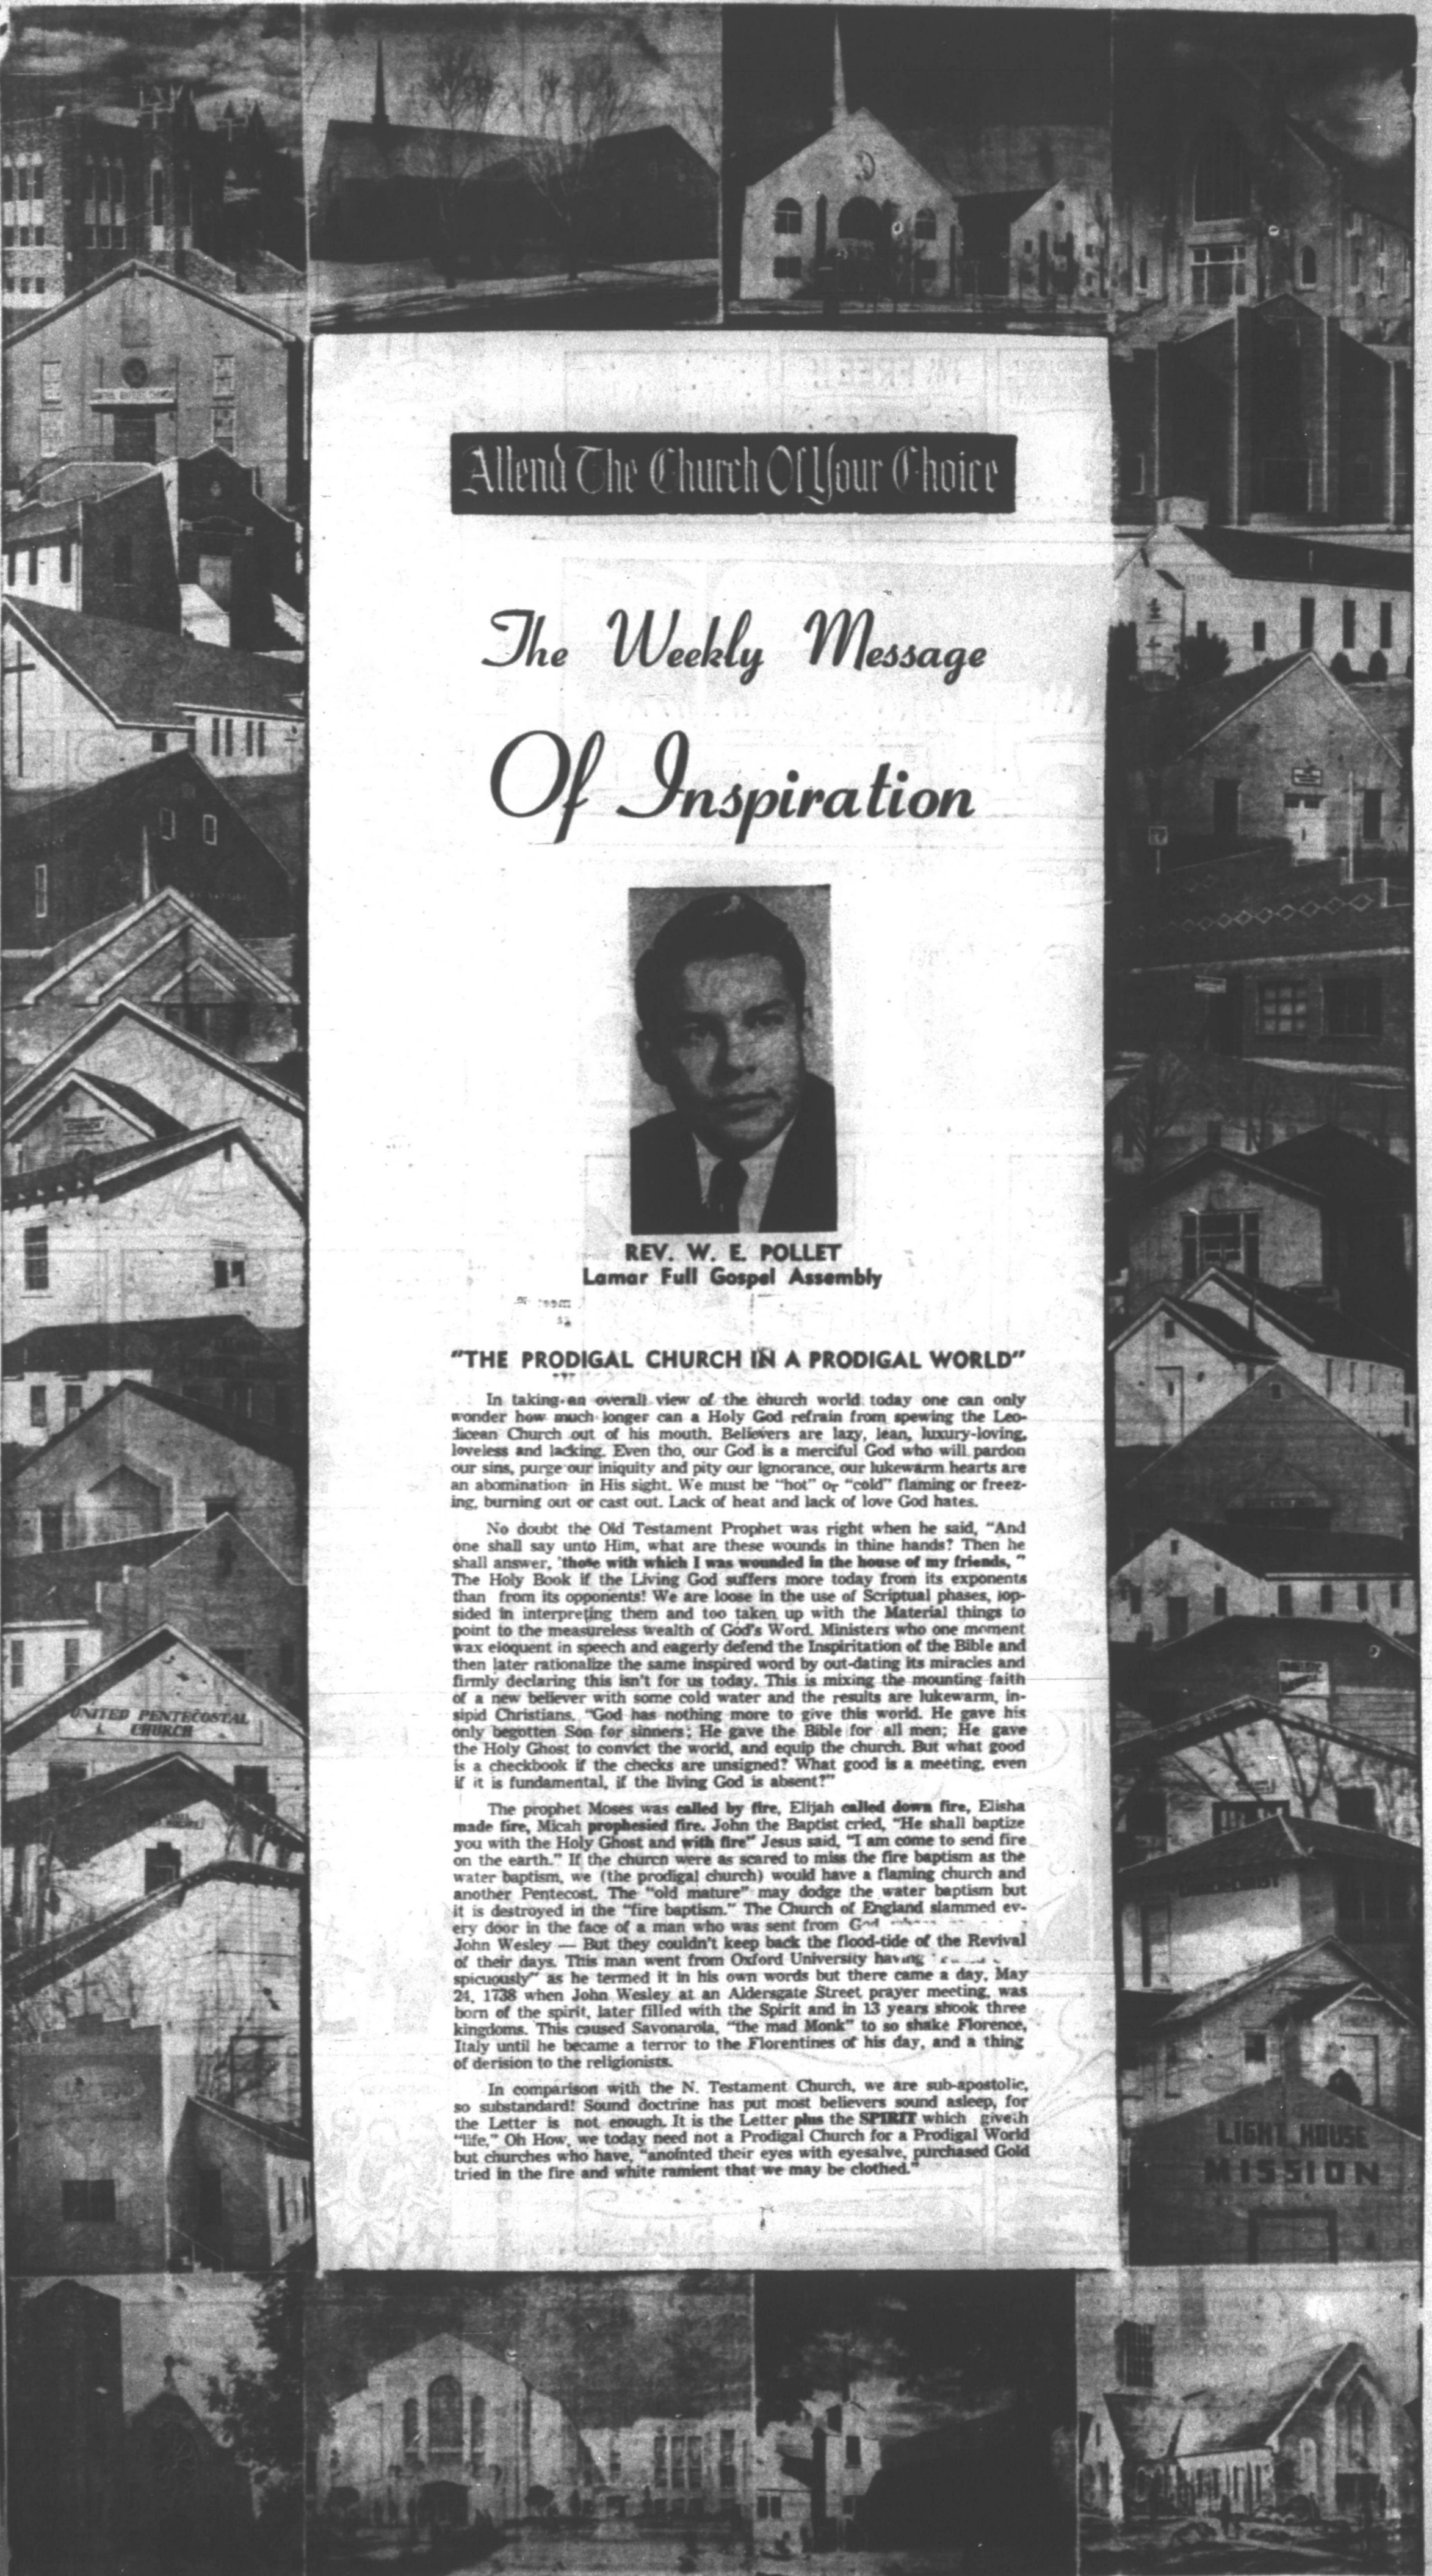

"THE PRODIGAL CHURCH IN A PRODIGAL WORLD"

In taking an overall view of the church world today one can only wonder how much longer can a Holy God refrain from spewing the Leodicean Church out of his mouth. Believers are lazy, lean, luxury-loving, loveless and lacking. Even tho, our God is a merciful God who will pardon our sins, purge our iniquity and pity our ignorance, our lukewarm hearts are an abomination in His sight. We must be "hot" or "cold" flaming or freezing, burning out or cast out. Lack of heat and lack of love God hates.

No doubt the Old Testament Prophet was right when he said, "And one shall say unto Him, what are these wounds in thine hands? Then he shall answer, those with which I was wounded in the house of my friends," The Holy Book if the Living God suffers more today from its exponents than from its opponents! We are loose in the use of Scriptural phrases, lopsided in interpreting them and too taken up with the Material things to point to the measureless wealth of God's Word. Ministers who one moment wax eloquent in speech and eagerly defend the Inspiration of the Bible and then later rationalize the same inspired word by out-dating its miracles and firmly declaring this isn't for us today. This is mixing the mounting faith of a new believer with some cold water and the results are lukewarm, insipid Christians. "God has nothing more to give this world. He gave his only begotten Son for sinners; He gave the Bible for all men; He gave the Holy Ghost to convict the world, and equip the church. But what good is a checkbook if the checks are unsigned? What good is a meeting, even if it is fundamental, if the living God is absent?"

The prophet Moses was called by fire, Elijah called down fire, Elisha made fire, Micah prophesied fire. John the Baptist cried, "He shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost and with fire" Jesus said, "I am come to send fire on the earth." If the church were as scared to miss the fire baptism as the water baptism, we (the prodigal church) would have a flaming church and another Pentecost. The "old mature" may dodge the water baptism but it is destroyed in the "fire baptism." The Church of England slammed every door in the face of a man who was sent from God by John Wesley — But they couldn't keep back the flood-tide of the Revival of their days. This man went from Oxford University having "spicuously" as he termed it in his own words but there came a day, May 24, 1738 when John Wesley at an Aldersgate Street prayer meeting, was born of the spirit, later filled with the Spirit and in 13 years shook three kingdoms. This caused Savonarola, "the mad Monk" to so shake Florence, Italy until he became a terror to the Florentines of his day, and a thing of derision to the religionists.

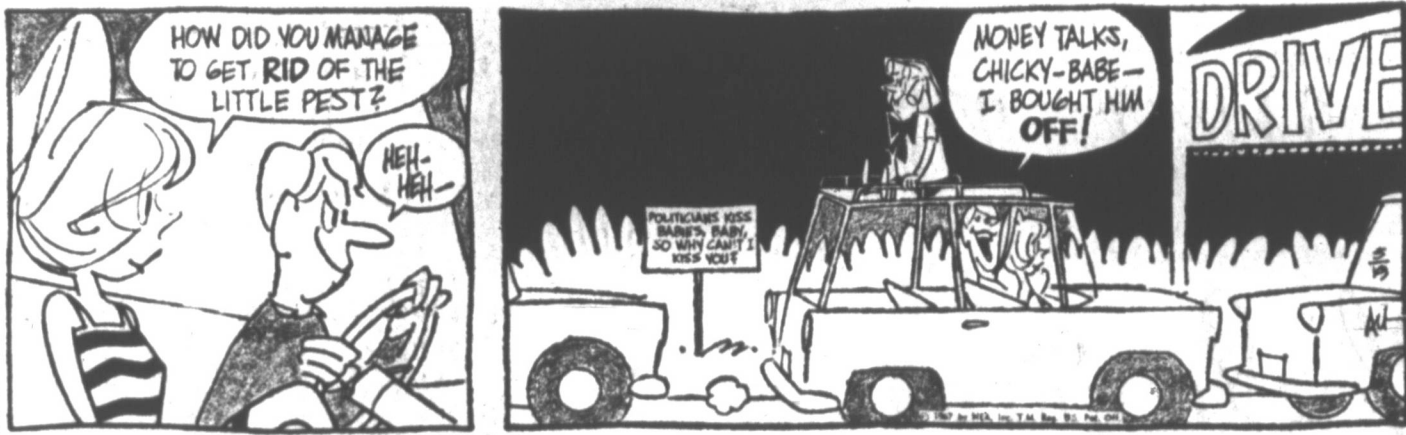

In comparison with the N. Testament Church, we are sub-apostolic, so substandard! Sound doctrine has put most believers sound asleep, for the Letter is not enough. It is the Letter plus the SPIRIT which gives "Life." Oh How, we today need not a Prodigal Church for a Prodigal World but churches who have, "anointed their eyes with eyesalve, purchased Gold tried in the fire and white raiment that we may be clothed."

May Musicale To Feature Pupils of Tracy D. Cary

The annual May Musicale of the Tracy D. Cary Studio of Musical Arts will be presented at 8 p.m. Saturday in the City Club Room, third floor of Pampa City Hall.

Featured will be piano students, who have been admitted to the National Fraternity of Student Musicians for 1967 sponsored by the American College of Musicians. The admission is a result of successful performances before the judge of the National Piano Guild auditions. Dr. Doreen Grimes of Eastern New Mexico State University, Portales.

Receiving the International Certificate and the Guild's High School Diploma, representing two full high school credits in applied piano will be Susan Patrick, who for the third year, has received a grade of superior plus (Critic's Circle Rating), which is the Guild's highest rating reserved for top performance achievement.

Miss Patrick performed a total of 158 pages from memory and will also be awarded the gold international pin from the Guild for having been a national winner for five years. She has been a student of Mr. Cary for seven years.

Miss Patrick is a graduating senior in Pampa High School, where she is a member of the National Honor Society and has been accompanist for the A Capella Choir throughout her high school days. In 1964 and 1965, she was a gold medal sweepstakes winner with a rating of double superior in the annual Piano Competition at West Texas State University; the judges being Peter Klaisle of New Mexico Highland University; Ron Rathbun of San Angelo College and Celia Mae Bryant of the University of Oklahoma.

She has been her school choir accompanist each year since the sixth grade and has served as president of the Mozart Junior Federated Music Club and the A Capella Choir. Miss Patrick is organist for Harrah Memorial Methodist Church; pianist for the Pampa Lions' Club and is recipient of the 1967 A Capella

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I recently moved into a new apartment. There, we shortly began hearing all sorts of weird noises which neither of us could identify. It sounded like a buzzing or a "beeping." It went off and on. Sometimes we didn't hear it for hours. Then it went on half the night. The noise seemed to be in the wall, but it didn't always come from the same direction. We tried to describe it to the manager, and he thought we were crazy.

My husband was out of town and I heard this noise again, so I called the manager and asked him to come up here and listen with me. He came, and we were just sitting on my bed listening when his wife suddenly barged in! (She has a pass key.)

Now, I wouldn't have her husband on a silver platter, much less a bed, but she confronted me as though I should apologize. Did she have a right to barge into my apartment like that? I assure you we were only listening.

MRS. C. DEAR MRS. C: She did not. But now that you know what she thinks of her husband, the next time you invite him up to your apartment to "listen," invite her up to "look."

DEAR ABBY: A week ago my 10-year-old son found an American Express credit card. I telephoned the person whose name was on the card, and a lady answered the phone. She said it belonged to her son who goes to a nearby college.

Instead of offering me a small reward, she asked me to MAIL worth, Kim Jones, Brenda McDaniel and Mark Delacroce. Vocalist for the program will be Mrs. Betty Giamanco Garcia of White Deer, coloratura soprano. Miss Garcia is a member of the Amarillo Symphony Choir and was a featured soloist for the 1967 production of "The Messiah." The public is invited.

the card back to her. These people could easily stop by here and pick up the card as they live only a short distance from us. In fact, I asked her to do so but she insisted I mail it back to her. I refused.

Abby, isn't a reward due my son? If so, how much? Am I wrong to refuse to mail the credit card back to her? She has my name and address.

HONEST DEAR HONEST: It would seem that a reward was in order, but since none was offered in advance, you can't "demand" one. Mail the card back to the owner. Honesty is its own reward.

DEAR ABBY: Many of our friends enjoy dinner out and a striptease show. My husband thinks there is something wrong with me because I refuse to go to places like that.

I just can't bring myself to sit with my husband and other people while some nude does a striptease dance. I don't care if other people enjoy it — that's their business, but if my husband wants to see that sort of thing he can go without me.

I am not ugly and I have a pretty good figure for a woman of my age, so I don't think I am jealous.

Please say you understand my feelings so I won't feel so alone.

SHY DEAR SHY: I understand — and you are NOT alone.

CONFIDENTIAL TO C. C. H. IN ASHVILLE: There are exceptions, of course, but the general condition of a woman's health is a fairly good index to her husband's character.

DAR Chapter Installs Officers At Luncheon

The Rev. Bill Gladstone, pastor of the Church of Christ in Groom, conducted the installation service for the officers of Las Pampas Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution at a luncheon meeting recently in Jackson's Cafeteria.

Mrs. Henry Merrick of Groom was installed as regent; Mrs. W. S. Dixon, vice regent; Mrs. Katie Vincent, chaplain; Mrs. Doyle Osborne, recording secretary; Mrs. John Skelly, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Turner Kirby, treasurer; Miss Ruth Huff, registrar and Miss Norma Lantz of Lefors, librarian.

Mrs. John McKnerney, historian, will be installed at a later date.

During the business meeting, it was decided to join with the Llano Estacado and Ester McCrory Chapters of Amarillo for the annual luncheon and Flag Day observance on June 12 at 12:30 p.m. in the Amarillo Country Club.

Mrs. Buck Wynne Wooley, regent of the Texas Society, DAR, will be guest speaker. All members are urged to send reservations to Mrs. A. D. Hills, 1911 N. Russell, before June 10.

It was announced an application had been made for the chapter's charter.

Mrs. Dixon gave the defense committee report. Quoting from an article in the National Defender, she said, "The National Council of Churches has urged two New York Financial institutions; the Chase Manhattan Bank and the First National Bank, to discontinue credit to South Africa because of that nation's apartheid policy." This puts that organization in the position of trying to influence international monetary transactions.

Guests present were Rev. and Mrs. Bill Gladstone; Misses

Jane Hudson, Carolyn Stephenson and Gretchen Skelly. Members present, other than those mentioned, were Mmes. John Lantz, George Friauf, Lelton Hudson; Miss Lou Ella Patterson and Mrs. A. D. Hills. The next meeting will be the second Saturday in September.

Blue Lustre Rug Shampoo
Finest of All

A gallon of Blue Lustre cleans six 8x12 rugs for about 1¢ per sq. ft.—in any good shampooer or with brush.

It cleans wall-to-wall or removes traffic paths and spots. Raises beaten-down nap at doorways. Pile becomes open and fluffy. Colors sparkle again (in upholstery, too!).

Contains no soap. So it leaves no residue to cause re-soiling. Dries to an invisible powder containing the soil, removed by vacuuming.

New Cancer Theory Given

LONDON (UPI)—Many types of cancer and other diseases may be caused by a virus-like bacteria which infects most people early in life, a group of British scientists said Thursday. The new theory could help explain the cause of several cancer forms, including leukemia, and of other diseases like kidney failure.

The theory was presented by Dr. Phyllis Pease of the Birmingham Medical School. She said it was "supported by experimental evidence" and is based on the belief that most persons, perhaps everybody, are infected early in life with a virus-like type of bacteria known as listeria.

Dr. Pease led an all-woman team of five scientists working on the theory. She said because the infection is acquired in earliest infancy or even before birth, body defenses are not fully stimulated and remain in a balanced condition called "immune tolerance."

She said disease seems to occur when this tolerance is upset—by shock or by "carcinogens" such as tobacco smoke—or by other infections.

So far as is known, Alaska has only one true deer, the Sitka black-tailed deer.

The peanut is a legume, not a nut.

Youth Beat

THE NATIONAL REPORT ON WHAT'S HAPPENING

GO FOR BROKE AT 'SWEET SIXTEEN':

At this ripe age grandma was supposed to be "sweet 16 and never been kissed." (Mom? — You'd better ask her.) But today's girls find the occasion a swell excuse for a big birthday jamboree — and, this summer, there will be more Sweet Sixteen parties than ever. But, do not rush to change your birth date — you can hold 'em any time of the year. Shy birds rig them so they're for all girls. . .

however, they're likely to have a lot more pizzazz with plenty of boys on hand. Sweet Sixteen is an any-kind-of-a-party. You decide what kind. In cold weather use the snow (there are still patches around in ski areas) for a skiing, sledding party. In summer a poolside (or beach) party's hip and pop. In spring an outdoors — indoors (since weather's unpredictable) party is smart. Picnics are fine most any time of the year. . . free and imaginative. Pitch your party for any hour: from breakfast on that suits your style. Dress? — Elect any mode from dungarees to formal. Games are great . . . dancing is greater. Food is greatest. . . so, fuel up your guests. A gastronomic medley of dishes reported dished out at recent news-making Sweet Sixteen frolics includes: hamburgers, franks, pizzas, sandwiches, steak, ice cream and way-out sundaes. . . and plenty of soft drinks. Food trend can be exotic — Italian, Mexican, Chinese, Polynesian. . . Your Sweet Sixteen party is good training for dear old dad. . . for launching you later on a bigger directions and maybe you can sweet-talk him into running it for you and your friends with all the trimmings. . . swinging Sweet Sixteen parties are coming in big in restaurants, motels, clubs, and hotels. . . are now big business. During the last year, these report batches of the parties, filling their premises with hundreds of happy howlers. . . and not all of them 16. Watch it, or those older-agers will think it is such fun they'll crash in. But, never mind — you'll never be sweet 16, again!

MORE NOVEL DOPE ABOUT SOAP:
Soap remains as useful as ever for good old washing. . . But dope just turned over to us by cleanliness experts indicates you're missing bets if you are not up on these other fancy soap hints: 1) to pick up beads scattered from a string, run a moistened soap bar over the floor — they'll stick to it (works, too, for tiny particles of broken glass, sharp little tacks, etc.); 2) when bottle caps stick — if it's a nonfood container, coat inside threads of cap with slippery soap (ditto screws and saw teeth in carpentry, needles in heavy sewing); 3) gotta make a catch-y something slide? — soap underside of drawers, soap window ropes, thread ends (to thread a needle) and zippers; 4) to stop eyeglasses and bathroom mirrors from steaming up, soap them and polish clear; 5) and a novel tip (we guess, for girls only?) — to hold up droopy ankle and knee socks, draw a moistened soap "garter" around your leg. . . sock should "grip" on it. . .

OK, flushed? Then there is nothing else to do but grab a nice new bar and jump into a hot tub!

TALK ABOUT TEENS EXCELLING IN SPORTS! A minnow of a new girl swimmer who has only got her bare foot on the bottom rung of the teen ladder is now threatening to paralyze natural competition for the next several Olympics. Marie-Jose Kersaudy has recently scooped up eight international gold medals (four free-style, one backstroke, one butterfly, one free-style relay and one mixed relay)—and she's only just 13. Looks like Mlle. Kersaudy (she is from French New Caledonia in the South Pacific) may be skimming right on the surface of the water by the time she's full-blown 19.

THEIR FUTURE IS IN YOUR HANDS — SAY NEW MUSIC MOGULS:
The new tape cartridge industry with its new music machines that play the tune tapes (at home, walking around, anywhere) is aiming this ammunition at you. Expects to sell two-thirds of the cartridge music output to teens (and immediate post-teens). . . But you're puzzling them. Frinstance, you're not buying cartridge tapes of a hits thl. kerplink, they fall off the top hot 100 and are off the air. Will you switch from records, transistor radios to these new tune tapes? You've got these music moguls tizzy, waiting to find out!

WINS PRIMARY
DETROIT (UPI)—James P. Hoffa, son of imprisoned teamsters' union leader James R. Hoffa, will not be able to vote Tuesday when he runs for a seat in the Michigan legislature.
Young Hoffa, a 25-year-old law school graduate, won the Democratic primary in the special election. A check of voting records showed, however, that Hoffa was still registered at his old address, outside the district, and it is too late to re-register.

The U. S. Department of Justice was created Sept. 24, 1789. The whale shark is the largest of all living fish.

Region Manager For West Texas TMA Announced

MIDLAND (SpI) — Former Midland County Commissioner, F. N. Gideon, has joined the Texas Manufacturers Association as regional manager for the West Texas area. He will be headquartered at TMA's West Texas regional office in Midland.

Gideon, a long-time resident of West Texas, served two terms as County Commissioner in Midland County from 1957-1964. He has been located in West Texas since 1938 and was formerly field sales engineer with American Basic Chemicals, Inc. of Midland, before joining TMA.

Gideon took over his new responsibilities May 12, and will be servicing TMA's Region III members from the Midland office, Suite 330, Commercial Bank Tower Building. The West Texas office will service an area west of Abilene.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower planned to leave the hospital where he has been stomach ailment.

The general was scheduled to leave the hospital at 10 a.m. The 76-year-old general was taken by ambulance to Walter Reed after an attack of stomach cramps and vomiting. His illness was later diagnosed as gastroenteritis, or inflammation of the digestive tract.

First Abortion Okayed by New Law

DENVER (UPI) — David L. Cowen, Denver Director of Health and Hospitals, Wednesday announced that a 12-year-old rape victim would have an abortion "within the next several days."

It will be the first such operation under Colorado's new therapeutic abortion law. Cowen said the abortion was approved under the section of the state's new law that provides the operation could be performed if the pregnancy is likely to result in the serious, permanent impairment of the mother's mental health.

Cowen said he had received confirmation in writing from both Boulder and Denver County district attorneys that the girl had been raped. But, he said, neither district attorney knew "whether the rape leading to the pregnancy occurred within his respective jurisdiction."

The confusion of the district attorneys, Rex Scott and Bert M. Keating, led Denver General Hospital doctors to consider approving the abortion on the other grounds.

"It is manifestly evident that this new therapeutic abortion statute was intended to apply in the type of situation," Cowen said.

Cowen said the hospital's special board of three doctors approved the request of the girl and her mother after receiving a written statement by a psychiatrist, as required by the law.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bache & Co. feels the 910 level of the Dow Jones seems to be an important target and the 880 market is apparently a good support zone if there is any decline. The company believes the market could fluctuate within this area on the near term until it consolidates the 70 point advance made since mid-April.

It feels, however, that rotation of market leadership will probably stay very much in effect, thus creating a situation where certain groups will probably outperform the market on the whole. It therefore feels that a selective policy could be advantageous despite backing and filling by the popular averages.

Newton D. Zinder of E. F.

Hutton & Co. says the market suggests that their recent climb to new recovery highs was no "fluke." The analyst says the airlines are also showing that their recent sluggish movement was only a temporary pause in their long-term uptrend. He believes, with these two sectors strong, any near term market decline should not be too extensive.

John W. Schulz of Wolfe & Co., in his "Trend & Value" report, says the current market advance seems to have "only limited scope for further gains, but major uptrends have a way of outunning rational expectations." He believes the Dow Jones industrial average could climb to the 940 mark before running into serious resistance, but says one cannot be certain

Pigeons Fly 500-Mile Race

The Top O' Texas Racing Pigeon Club held its first 500 mile race from Laramie, Wyo., recently.

The pigeons were released a day later than scheduled due to snow and extremely cold weather, according to Jim Cantrell, club member. The birds left in cloudy weather and encountered north winds on the homeward journey, he said.

Only seven pigeons reached their respective lifts on the day of release. These pigeons flew approximately 55 mph to reach Pampa in 8 hours, 50 min.

The race marked the first occasion the club has received birds from the 500-mile station in a day in the past two years. The birds that finished in respective order belonged to: Ed Pennington, Phillips, first; Cantrell, Pampa, second and third; Walter Thomas, White Deer, fourth.

Good News Mom, Help's on the Way

By RON CROSS

If you've been wondering if Pampa would see the likes of backfield men like L. O. Rowden, Ted Heiskell, Gary McCarrell, Gary Hyatt and Larry Stephens and linemen the likes of Glen Lewis, Doc Cornutt, Jack Williamson, Billy Scribner, James Matney, Terry Troxel and Larry Keyser, you can quit wondering.

These same type caliber boys will be sophomores when school starts in September 1967.

Shocker coaches Ed Lehnick and Don Wieser gave fans a sampling Thursday night of what is coming up in the football ranks with a Shocker Green and Gold game.

The underdog Gold team put the heat on by scoring the first four times they got the ball and then held off a Green challenge for an exciting 36-28 victory.

Each team got the ball for a 12-minute period and started at their own 30 yard line. Each time a fumble occurred or a pass was intercepted the ball was brought back to the 30 and the team started over again.

The Gold didn't worry about this the first 12 minutes they had the ball as they were too busy running over the Green defense.

The Gold used 21 plays to run their first three scores, seven on each series and three on the fourth one.

The Gold ran 51 plays and the Green 50. The rest of the statistics were as close. The Gold picked up 18 first downs to the Green's 17, but the Green picked up 381 ground yards to 319 for the Gold. The Gold gained 110 yards in the air to 80 for the Green, 70 of it a touchdown pass.

The Gold hit five of eight aerial attempts and the Green two of six. Each team had a pass intercepted while the Gold lost two fumbles and the Green one.

Denny Johnson and Roddy Porter did the quarterbacking for the Gold while Ross Holman was the Green's field general.

The squads were evenly split up although Holman, who looked like a veteran, didn't have his pet receiver, John Jenkins, to work with.

Jenkins was on the Gold's side and caught three passes for 37 yards and had another where pass interference was called.

After the first 12 minutes, Jenkins was put on defense where he broke up several of Holman's pass tries.

John D. Young, Johnson and halfback Randy Cantrell put the Gold in their commanding lead.

Young scampered 12 yards with 9:55 left for the first TD of the game. Johnson went in with 5:46 on the clock and Scotty King ran over the two-pointer for a 14-0 lead.

On the first TD series, Johnson opened with a 26-yard fling to Jenkins.

The third touchdown came when Cantrell scampered in from 20-yards out with 2:18 left. Young ran over the conversion to make it 22-0.

that the Green defense had caught up with the Gold offense and couldn't score in 20 plays.

The Green took the ball again, and took the ball again in the 12-minute period with Heiskell taking in his second touchdown of the game with 4:59 left. Kotara ran the conversion to make it 28-22.

The Gold got the ball for six minutes more and Young ran 61 yards to the three, then went over on the next play with five seconds left. Young then ran in the conversion for a 36-22 lead.

But the Green wasn't through yet. They got the ball for six more minutes also, and Heiskell got his third touchdown of the evening with 1:49 left when he and Holman combined for a 70-yard pass play.

An attempted pass for the conversion was no good and the Gold won it at 36-28.

Heiskell, Kotara and Holman were the big ground gainers for the Green while Johnson, Cantrell and King shared the honors for the Gold.

The Green has only seven let terms on their 26 player squad but have an experienced man in most every position.

For the Green offense lettermen Larry Elledge and Wayne Caswell will start at end with Ted Knight and John Stokes at tackles, lettermen Donnie Snapp and Mike Tyler at guards and end turned center Steve Heath at fullback.

Dwight Rogers and Dan Craig will share duties at quarterback with Ted Williams and Gary Parrish at left half, Phil Long and Jack Newsome at right half and David Schaub and Caswell at fullback.

Gary Jenkins and Frank McCampbell will be backup men at ends with Scott Osborne and Freddie Balay at tackle, Joe Roth and Dennis Neal at guards and Gene Kincaid will spell lead.

But Holman, working slow and picking his spots guided the Green to the Gold 40, then broke around right end, when he found he couldn't pass and took the ball to the end zone. Larry Kotara ran across the two-pointed to make 28-8.

With 4:03 left steady Mike Heiskell went in from 29 yards out and the conversion for the conversion was no good and it was 28-14.

When the Greens 12-minute ran out, they had fumbled the ball to the Gold on the three-yard line.

The Gold took over and found

10 Horses In Preakness Race

BALTIMORE (UPI) —Trainer Loyd (Boo) Gentry issued last minute telephone instructions from a New York hospital bed today on Kentucky Derby winner Proud Clarion's preparations for Saturday's $194,000 Preakness Stakes at Pimlico.

Gentry, under treatment for hepatitis that will force him to miss the race, has been giving daily briefings to assistant trainer Jim Mahoney who worked Proud Clarion into top shape for the Preakness.

Proud Clarion, a white blaze running from his mane down to his nose, was one of 10 three-year-olds entered Thursday for the second leg of the Triple Crown racing classics. He was listed at 3-1, a far cry from the 30-1 odds he carried at Churchill Downs two weeks ago when he won the 1 1/4 mile race by a length and paid $2.20.

Green Gets Nod In Varsity Game Here

Pampa High School football's annual Green and Gold game, the varsity type, will kickoff at Harvester Field, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

The Gold team will go into the game a slight underdog with only six lettermen sprinkled among the 23 players, with most of the inexperience in the line.

The Green has only seven let terms on their 26 player squad but have an experienced man in most every position.

A SIZEABLE GAIN — The Greens' Mike Heiskell (22) picks up a sizeable gain Thursday night during the Shockers Green-Gold football game. The Gold's Larry Kotara (39) makes the tackle. Heiskell ran three touchdowns for the Green but the Gold won, 36-28.

Unheralded Stockton Leads Field in Colonial Open

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Dave Stockton, an unheralded 25-year-old Californian, carried a two-stroke lead into the second round of the Colonial National Invitation golf tournament today, but he doesn't know whether to laugh or cry about it.

Men in Blue Have Busy Night With Managers

By United Press International
 Dave Bristol of the Cincinnati Reds and Billy Hitchcock of the Atlanta Braves learned the art of umpire baiting from some pretty good teachers, but Herman Franks of the San Francisco Giants studied under a master.

Bristol, who is cut from the same mold as the Reds' late manager Fred Hutchinson; Hitchcock, who once coached under the fiery Bobby Bragan; and Franks, who once coached under the volatile Leo Durocher, were all ejected from their respective games Thursday night while their teams were being defeated in key National League games.

Tossed Out
 The 33-year-old Bristol was tossed out in the sixth inning along with catcher John Edwards as the Reds bowed to the Philadelphia Phillies 7-1. Hitchcock departed in the eighth inning along with Joe Torre as the Braves lost to the Pittsburgh Pirates 5-3 and Franks was ejected after the first inning along with reserve outfielder Ollie Brown almost before the Giants had a chance to lose to the Houston Astros 6-2.

In the only American League game, the Washington Senators blanked the Baltimore Orioles 2-0 with both managers sticking out the proceedings.

Of the night's three heated arguments, the most violent was in the Astrodome where Franks, showing real Durocher form, engaged in a pushing and shoving match with umpire Shag Crawford.

"I got Brown, and Herman told me I got the wrong man. I'm certain I didn't," was Crawford's explanation for the incident. "I argued with him a little bit and I told him he was going, too. He said he didn't give a damn and that's when the bumping started."

Nose to Nose
 "I didn't bump him that hard," Franks said. "We just rubbed chests. All I know is that you can't talk to him unless he gets real close, and I can't stand to talk to anyone that close. He has to give you that nose to nose stuff."

At any rate when play resumed, the Giant players found they had trouble hitting the pitches of Larry Dierker, who went the distance to notch his fourth victory against two losses. Wynn, whose homer touched off the controversy, drove in three runs in the game.

Bristol's banishment came after the Reds' manager disputed a call at third base on Johnny Callison during a four-run Phils' rally in the sixth. Bristol insisted Callison was caught off third base during an attempted suicide squeeze play, but umpire Lee Weyer said no. Bristol then kicked dirt and threw his hat in the air, which meant an automatic ejection.

Edwards continued the argument moments later and was tossed out by plate umpire Harry Wendelstadt. Jim Coker look over behind the plate but was not given time to warmup and the Reds announced they would play the game under protest.

As it was, the Reds managed only three hits off righthander Jim Bunning, who picked up his third victory in seven decisions. Cookie Rojas provided most of the Phils' offensive attack with two hits and three runs batted in. Bunning didn't allow a hit after the first inning.

Well, Gee, We Beat 'em 6 Times

By RON CROSS

An open letter to Putt Powell: "Dear Putt,

I'm sure that most everyone who knows him would agree that Caprock baseball coach Gerald Nipp is a fine man and fine coach.

But, turn in the outstanding coaching job in the district? High school baseball coach of the year in Texas?

Come on now Putt, who ya trying to fool.

Is he the best just because the Longhorns tied Tascosa for the Amarillo City championship with 4-2 records, is he the best because he beat Tascosa twice, is he the best because he beat Borger for the first time?

Is he the best because district

4-3 choice and the Lubbock paper had Magel the winner by a landslide. They took a poll of the coaches also.

When I polled the coaches on May 10th, all but two voted for Pampa's Rick Foster as the all-district second baseman.

In conference play Foster hit .331 with 17 hits in 51 trips, scored 14 runs, hit four home runs, drove in 14 runs. For the season he hit .351 with 30 hits in 86 at bat, scored 26 runs, hit six home runs and drove in 24.

How does Rusten compare with this?

Foster also appeared in five games, had a 2-0 district record in 15 innings pitched, giving up four earned runs. For the season he had a 3-0 record, pitched picked dead last, hey? We split with Caprock, winning here, 14-0 and losing over there the next day, 3-1. We, like Caprock, lost both times to Monterey, the last time when the winning run scored on an error in the seventh.

We split with Tascosa but beat Amarillo and Palo Duro twice, so figure us in the 'City Championship' race too.

Now Putt, don't come on with that "You had better material to work with them..." This isn't Tascosa you know.

I still think polls aren't worth a hoot unless there done by the sportswriters, who know the batting averages and have seen the fellows in more than two games, which is all the coaches get to see them.

The coaches base their votes on what the particular player did against his club, which is all he has to base his vote on.

My vote for coach of the year, though, Putt, goes to you." Sincerely, Ron Cross P.S. "We beat Borger six times!"

Rambling With Red

winner Monterey only beat Caprock, 7-4 and 2-1. Is he the best because the Longhorns had their first winning season ever? You say also that the Horns had their first All-District player in Rick Rusten at second base.

What are the all-district polls worth, Putt, really? You're own paper in a poll of coaches had Monterey's Moegal and Pampa's Stephens tied for coach of the year honors.

Our paper, in a poll of the same coaches had Stephens a 21 and two-third innings and gave up only four earned runs. As far as good coaching goes, Pampa's Bobby Stephens is in his second year.

His team was picked dead last. He had one returning starter back for the 1967 season. Last year Pampa baseball suffered its worse season ever.

But this year, after being picked last Stephens rallied his boys and finished third in the district with a 12-6 mark and finished the season at 24-6.

Not bad for a bunch of boys

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper
EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license, nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Disturbance By Minority

That only a small minority of troublemakers are responsible for most of the strife which goes on in the nation is fairly general recognition. Riots, north and south, east and west, are stirred up by vocal minorities, and large groups of people who are not in sympathy with them suffer criticism. This is particularly recognized. Riots and disturbances, which are not controlled, reflect on the entire institution. One serious student recently asked if the college of today is not providing an "apprenticeship for anarchy."

Some of this is brought home by a letter from Thomas L. Avery, a freshman student at Dartmouth College, who wrote his family a first-hand report on the demonstration against the appearance of former Gov. Wallace of Alabama at Dartmouth. The letter follows:

"I suppose by now you have read and seen on TV accounts of the riots here over ex-Gov. Wallace. I can say only that I am really ashamed that it happened at Dartmouth. I heard him speak — that is, when the Afro-Americans and their contingent groups would let him. He remained entirely calm throughout profanities and uncalled for commotion and demonstrations (including one sign which read "Wallace killed my brother"). No doubt this is an effective part of his strategy, but it hardly justifies the conditions. Even after continued shouts from the audience that we listened to Carmichael (when he visited campus last fall), you listen now, these groups refused to let Wallace say more than a few phrases at a time. I think every one was generally pleased when they walked out.

"Their later reentry and charge of the rostrum was about the breaking point. Fortunately they were blocked by the press, but Wallace did retreat from the stage momentarily. The charge was beautifully timed however, just as Wallace had finished saying that it was in the liberal centers such as Berkeley where he found it hardest to obtain freedom of speech. The remainder of his talk was quiet and I'm sure it was enjoyed strictly on the basis of its own merit by those who remained. At this point the audience was about split in opinion, but continued orderly (including several Negroes apparently dissociated from the Afro-American group.)

"The rocking and banging of his car afterwards was about as disgusting a demonstration as I have ever seen. People were jumping on his car and making it impossible for it to move. I didn't see Wallace, but I can understand how he literally feared for life and limb. Fortunately, he had efficient body guards. The local police are all old, and hardly prepared for such situations. At least one elderly policeman was knocked to the ground. I was relieved, although thoroughly disgusted at the happenings, when his car finally was able to pull away.

"Wallace did tailor his speech carefully so as to offend no one, and center his attention of legitimate problems in such a way as to make himself come off extremely well. I must admit much applause he received was sincere, although he received much more in general sympathy. His speech was fairly polished and hard to attack.

"Nonetheless, I am really shocked that such organized, brutal hatred can go wild unchecked (as I'm sure it also does in the South in opposite directions). And this group has made it terrifically tough on those Negroes who are in effect forced to disassociate themselves from their own kind because of refusal to participate in these activities. Although Black Power is based on what I consider several fair and logical tenets, I feel the interpretation of them is such as it lends itself to purely emotional behavior.

"So I can only say, if anyone asks you, to tell them how so few, perhaps 50-60 at most, were able to abuse rights and create conditions which are totally disapproved of by several thousand others in the Hanover community. This is Dartmouth's first taste and just about everyone hopes its last. But in talking to Afro-Americans afterwards, they don't seem sorry, and would do it again."

The One-Way Stretch

How high is up? The comic question is turning out to be more truth than joke.

One of our readers has some comments about that "permanent" limit on the admitted national debt which has been all but forgotten. He says:

"This country has a permanent national debt limit of $285 billion which cannot be raised (if it could, it wouldn't be permanent, would it?); but to keep from being caught with our national debts down, we have a temporary national debt ceiling of $336 billion which is about to be raised for the second time this year.

"As the federal authorities have ignored suggestion that we lower the floor instead, a need for a brake on the ceiling control is indicated. Perhaps a permanent limit to the number of times the temporary national debt ceiling can be raised in any one fiscal year. With provisions, of course, for a temporary limit during national emergencies. And to prevent abuse of the temporary limit, Congress could specify a permanent number of times the temporary limit could be abused.

"If it is argued that it would be more sensible just to establish a permanent national debt limit, like I said, we already have that—$285 billion."

His Father's Son?

There's hardly a baseball fan around, even a casual one, for whom the name Bob Feller doesn't ring harmonious with the best in the annals of major league pitching.

So interest was attracted, naturally, by a sports page item out of Providence, R.I., noting that Bob's son, Marty, had pitched in his first collegiate game for Brown University.

The like-father image ended abruptly, however, when Amherst scored four runs off the Hall-of-Famer's pride and joy in less than two innings.

Somebody forgot to follow the script.

The American Way

By HARRY BROWNE
One of the blessings of the free enterprise system is the incentive to acquire wealth. Every man — even if born in poverty — can hope to be a millionaire.

Yet, today, we have somehow discredited wealth — and made it appear to be the product of evil-doing. In truth, the acquisition of wealth should be a badge of merit. Here's why:

In a free enterprise economy, people buy products and services because they want to — not because the government has forced them to. Everyone has the right to dispose of his property in the way that he desires.

This means that in order to make money, you must offer a product or service people really want. The more you satisfy the real desires of the people, the more money you'll make.

Your ability to acquire wealth depends upon your satisfying the wants of others. In other words, wealth is a measure of the service you give. The more service, the more wealth.

Why do people resent the wealth of others? A man like Henry Ford should be honored for providing low-cost automobiles for America — instead of being despised for acquiring a billion dollars.

Why be afraid that people will make money at something? We should be hoping they do — because of the service they will have to give the world to achieve it.

And once wealth is acquired, the same concept of service remains. To be enjoyed, wealth must be distributed.

If you make a million dollars, you have to do something with it. Bury it in the back yard and it'll be worthless to you. But if you go out and spend it, you'll be distributing it to others in exchange for the things you want.

Even if you put it in the bank — or in any form of investment — it will help to create jobs, produce products that people want, and raise the standard of living. In fact, your wealth will earn interest in direct ratio to the amount of service it provides your fellow man.

If your money is to be of value to you, it must be employed in a way that will serve others. There's no way to avoid that ironclad rule.

So why be afraid of wealth? We should avidly seek it — and should understand the process by which others have acquired it.

But we must remember that these rules apply only in a free economy. Wherever government enters the picture — as it has in hundreds of areas today — the concept of service is discarded and we are forced to spend money on items we wouldn't voluntarily support.

Do you want wealth? Then find the best way to be of service to your fellow man. This applies whether you are employer, employee, professional man, stockholder — anyone in any position.

And to help us all benefit, we should get the government out of our economic affairs — so the concept of service will be absolute.

At a recent scientific symposium, those attending were told that techniques are being developed whereby men will be able to communicate through mental telepathy. That, of course, does not mean the end of the telephone, radio or TV, but it does mean a breakthrough on a subject that has intrigued persons through the ages. When Sir Hubert Wilkins made his historic trip under the North Pole in a submarine some years ago, he made a pact with a New York friend that they would try to communicate through mental telepathy at a certain time every night. They kept diaries of their thoughts and when Wilkins returned both were surprised to find how their respective diaries coincided.

One of the most intricate surgical operations we have ever heard about was performed by Capt. Harry Dinsmore, a Navy doctor, who removed a live mortar shell from the chest of a Vietnamese soldier. The fuse of the shell was partly activated and could have detonated at any time during the operation blowing the patient and the surgical team to smithereens. Dinsmore's only reward was winning the Navy Cross, which to an old salt is the best recognition of all.

Administration's Power To Extend Enlistments Due for Drastic Curb under Proposed Legislation

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The House Armed Services Committee is preparing legislation to drastically curb the Johnson administration's authority to extend enlistments of members of the armed forces.

Under a proposal being pushed by Representative Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., chairman, with the backing of a majority of the committee, the administration's power to involuntarily extend terms of military duty would be limited to time of war or when Congress is not in session.

In the latter instance the President would be required to make a determination that the extensions were in the national interest. Also, the servicemen could be kept on active duty for only six additional months or up to 30 days after Congress reconvenes.

Present enlistment extension authority now rests within the Defense Department and varies considerably among the military services.

The Secretary of the Navy now has the widest discretion. He can extend enlistments "in time of war or in time of national emergency declared by the President for such periods as he considers necessary in the public interest."

Under present law authority of Army and Air Force Secretaries is far more limited. Only enlistments in effect at the outbreak of a war or entered into during it can be involuntarily extended. And these for only the duration and six months.

Neither Army or Air Force Secretaries now have power to extend enlistments in time of national emergency, as does the Navy Secretary.

BEHIND THE CURBS —

Acces developed which some people thought meant saying and preservation. Roosevelt meant that, but he also meant that renewable natural resources could be put to good use. Even today there is considerable misunderstanding about the objectives of the conservationists. . . . One of Alexander Hamilton's fondest dreams was that the Post Office Department would operate at a profit and thus help defray the other costs of government. Well, it didn't and today even Postmaster General Lawrence O'Brien is ready to throw in the sponge and admit private business can do a better job. When you think of the precision service of the telephone company and the radio-TV networks it would appear that O'Brien might be right. . . . The Los Angeles (Calif.) HERALD-EXAMINER reported in a sports story: "We've got the hitter and the fielders, but I don't know where we're going to get the pictures from," said Bill Rigney. "Why not get them from a good photographer?"

Country Editor speaking: "Teenage crime records show that many who were spared the red as children have now grown up and are carrying them."

According to Representative Rivers it was the Navy's use of its "national emergency" powers without prior notification to Congress that led to his plan to curb the administration.

The Navy Secretary involuntarily extended enlistments for the Korean war emergency four months in connection with the Vietnam build-up under powers which are still in effect. This action brought a flood of protests to the committee and members of Congress from sailors and Marines held in service and from their families.

In an exchange of letters with Secretary McNamara Representative Rivers pointed out these inequities and called for an administration plan to make the law uniform.

After a long review Secretary McNamara proposed to the committee that the three services be given authority to extend enlistments indefinitely, without action by or prior notification to Congress.

It was at this point that Representative Rivers, with the backing of a majority of his committee, drafted legislation drastically curbing the administration's authority.

As soon as hearings on the draft are completed, the House Armed Services Committee will act on the Rivers proposal. The McNamara plan already has been returned to the Pentagon as unacceptable by the committee.

Administration insiders report that Defense Secretary McNamara is now sounding out members of the Senate Armed Services Committee on his plan, but so far has received a cool reception.

In the House Representative Rivers has received assurances from Democratic and Republican leaders that they will support the committee's curb on the administration.

A POWELL BILL — of the three hundred-odd private immigration bills introduced in the 89th Congress by former Representative Adam Clayton Powell, one stayed the deportation for months of a Sicilian wanted on charges of multi-murder in Italy.

According to an unpublished transcript of the House Judiciary Subcommittee on Immigration, the Sicilian, Antonino Mangiameli, entered the U. S. on a visitor's visa from Switzerland in 1964, although at the time there was a European-wide dragnet out for his arrest. After disappearing in this country for two years, Mangiameli was picked up in New York in March 1966 by immigration authorities, and ordered deported for "overstaying" his visa.

However, before U.S. officials could deport Mangiameli, Powell introduced a private bill staying the order. When immigration authorities complained to the House subcommittee that the international

Use Extreme Caution Handling Insecticides

The time to right the insect hordes is at hand. These hordes must be fought because (1) they destroy crops and flower gardens, (2) they spread disease to man and animals and, of less importance but closer to the everyday lives of most of us, (3) cause irritating bites and stings.

Although the most commonly used weapon is the modern insecticide it is not the only weapon. Chemicals have been found which, when ingested by male insects, renders them sterile. Other chemicals, known as attractants, lure insects into traps. Natural enemies, including bacteria and viruses, have also been enlisted in the fight.

There is, however, no indication that insecticides will be completely replaced by other control methods in the foreseeable future. Because many of them are also poisonous to man they must be used with caution. They may cause mild to fatal poisoning through being swallowed, inhaled or spilled on the skin. Some of those found to be most dangerous have been taken off the market. Practically all cases of insecticide poisoning now being reported are due to gross carelessness.

Such accidents can be prevented by studying the directions on the insecticide package or container. Never transfer any part of the contents to another container. Don't remove the label from the original package. Store the chemical and equipment in a locked cupboard or room and keep them away from pets and children. When the container is empty, either destroy it or wash it out thoroughly — many children have been poisoned by playing with a discarded container. Never stand in the path of an insecticide spray — if the wind changes get out of the way fast. Don't walk through areas that have been freshly dusted or sprayed.

Don't smoke while dusting because some insecticide dusts are inflammable. Wash thoroughly and at once any skin area on which the chemical has been spilled. Cover or remove bird baths, fish pools and pets' food dishes in or near an area to be sprayed. If an accident occurs follow the instructions on the original package and, when in doubt, call your doctor.

No one can seriously advocate abandoning the use of modern insecticides but they must be handled with respect.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

Question No. 1076: Since a person's judgment and actions are no better than his beliefs, what should one do to test his beliefs to be sure they are correct and true so he may more nearly live in harmony with the laws of the universe and thus fulfill his destiny by continuing to develop mentally and spiritually as God or nature intended him to do?

ANSWER: That is quite a question to answer. Our suggestion would be first that he make his beliefs known not only to his friends and acquaintances, but to anyone who wants to know them.

One way would be to have them published in a letter to the local newspaper. That is an especially good way if the local newspaper will permit comment from all readers on the letters it publishes, pointing out fallacies or giving endorsement.

If one selects his opponents, he can always be right. The advantage of having one's beliefs published is that they are open to all, not just to those who are in agreement. Of course, it would be just as well to publish in a book, but so few people read books there wouldn't be as much chance of having a discussion on them in a book as there would be in a watchful, independent newspaper.

Since all men are fallible, it's always the best policy to get the opinions of those who believe in respecting private property and the Declaration of Independence which says that governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed.

But publication and discussion is the best way we know of having your errors in your beliefs corrected.

Very few people want to harm another, and it is usually because their beliefs are erroneous that they do harm to others, so the more they are made public and analyzed, the more nearly will they come into harmony with the laws of the universe.

al police organization, planned to publicize the Mangiameli case, the legislators voted to kill Powell's bill.

This cleared the way for Mangiameli to be deported to Rome, where Italian officials were waiting to take him in custody. At the time Powell was asked to appear and explain or withdraw his private bill, but he never showed.

Subcommittee records show that all of Powell's other immigration bills died with the 89th Congress. No action was taken on the other measures by the subcommittee.

TRENDS — The National Governors' Conference is being given a needed financial boost. The Ford Foundation is granting $102,000 for the governors to study urban affairs, ways to obtain more revenue, constitutional reform and labor relations. . . . Secretary of State Rusk is urging foreign diplomats to conduct their governments' relations with the U. S. through regular channels. He began stressing this after learning that several foreign governments had used U.S. businessmen to send memorandums to President Johnson. One came from Japan and another from Indonesia.

Friends of Senator Edward Brooke, R-Mass., are urging him to use his position on the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission to build himself up as a potential GOP vice presidential candidate. The commission is charged with planning and coordinating the celebration of the nation's 200th anniversary and is headed by Carlisle H. Humelsine, president of colonial Williamsburg in Virginia. It's being proposed to Senator Brooke that he take the lead in encouraging nationally organizations to present their ideas to the commission in order to identify himself with these groups.

Your Dental Health

By DR. WM. LAWRENCE
If You Wear A Lower Partial Denture . . .

Metal bars of lower partial dentures have a nasty way of settling into the soft tissues behind lower front teeth. Settling or sinking occurs slowly, sometimes taking years before the bar really digs into the gums.

Pressure so produced may be intense enough to cut the gums, "break down" bony support of front teeth and, in some cases, loosen these teeth and push them forward. This does not occur without pain, but many patients keep putting off the inevitable dental visit, hoping it won't be necessary.

But it's not one of those conditions that will disappear if you don't look. Something must be done about it. While a new denture may turn out to be the only satisfactory solution, here are simpler remedies that can be tried first.

What are these remedies?

1. Grinding away that part of the bar that digs into the gums. Sometimes enough can be ground away to give complete relief. But it must be done without so weakening the bar that it might break or become flexible. Thin bars create pressure (torque) on natural teeth that support dentures. Important: Whenever a denture is adjusted for relief of "sore spot" or any other reason, that area must be repolished. Rough dentures can cause chronic irritation.

2. Back sections of the denture can be built up by rebasing. This tends to raise the bar, also. Rebasings can be done with quick-setting plastic and this technique has the advantage of allowing all the work to be done in one visit.

3. Rebasings by more conventional means requires new impressions and laboratory procedures that take at least 24 hours and add to the expense. Important: After rebasing, the "bite" must be adjusted to allow for added height.

4. A new denture, with new metal casting, is often the best remedy, even though the most expensive one.

On The International Monetary Problem

By LUDWIG VON MISES
(The American Opinion)

"The dollar is going out the ceiling."

—Ludwig von Mises

This statement was made to The Register after he had said that it would have been better to let the banks go broke one at a time and the stockholders suffer than to have the government step in and try to save the banks. The Register brought Von Mises to Santa Ana to give a free lecture on the causes of war.

Ludwig von Mises is internationally acclaimed as the world's greatest living free-market economist. Volumes by Dr. Mises include The Theory of Money and Credit, Omnipotent Government, Bureaucracy, Human Action, Socialism, Planning for Freedom, Treatise on Economics, The Anti-Capitalist Mentality, Theory and History, The Ultimate Foundation of Economic Science.

Two Kinds of Policy

What is nowadays called governmental monetary management encompasses two kinds of policy. It is on the one hand deficit spending, i.e., undisguised inflation to enable the government to spend beyond the amount of funds collected by taxation or borrowed from the public. It is on the other hand a policy of easy money, i.e., of attempts to lower the market rate of interest by credit expansion.

The governments as well as their henchmen are fully convinced that this expansionist policy is highly beneficial to the immense majority of all decent people. They emphatically deny that increasing the quantity of money in circulation is what economists, politicians, and all sane people used to call and still call inflation. As they see it, inflation has nothing to do with the quantity of money in circulation; it is rather a reprehensible procedure of greedy businessmen that ought to be prevented by government control of prices. Interest is in the eyes of the official doctrine, essentially a factor hindering the development of "really productive" business. Such a doctrine views interest as a tribute that the industrious members of society are compelled to pay to a race of lazy moneylenders.

Only a few outsiders have the courage to deviate from the government-decreed methods of dealing with the expansionist policy. Very seldom does one meet in the public discussion of the problem of rising prices and wage rates any reference to the government-made inflation. It is not that the authors of books, articles, and speeches about the problems involved knowingly avoid dealing with the genuine cause of the phenomena investigated. They are honest in their argumentation. Their "new economics" has told them that nothing but evil can emerge from the "anarchy" of the market. Their panacea is the "plan," i.e., the government's unlimited dictatorship in all economic and political affairs.

Not Satisfying

In monetary matters mankind has already for many years enjoyed the benefits of a world-embracing planning office. But it seems that the results do not satisfy anybody. There is irritating talk about an international or world problem of the nations' mutual monetary relations. There are national and international committees and conferences for the study of the matter. Many books and innumerable pamphlets and articles deal with the subject. There is general agreement that the present state is unsatisfactory and that a change is unavoidable. With this in mind, let us examine the international monetary problem.

I

When the servants of a government search for the cause of some unsatisfactory condition, they always discover that the authorities have done all that could be done for a perfectly satisfactory solution of the matter in question, but that the beneficial effects of their action have failed to appear because the people have frustrated the wise plan of their rulers. The best-known doctrine of this type was once the balance of payments theory.

After all, it made some sense when in the Nineteenth Century some people still referred to this long-since entirely related doctrine as a justification for some restrictions on the importation of foreign merchandise and on other payments to foreigners. It gave the government an—of course, vicious—excuse to maintain that people by indulging in foreign luxuries are sabotaging their ruler's wise monetary policy. When domestic money is shipped to foreign countries as payment for imported "superfluous luxuries," proclaimed the officials, it becomes superabundant abroad and therefore its place in terms of foreign money falls. An "unfavorable balance of payments" causes the unwelcome rise of the price of foreign exchange in terms of the domestic money. This doctrine thus explained the depreciation of the domestic money as caused by the "unpatriotic" consumption habits of the consumers. It is the sacred duty of good government to prevent such bad citizens from damaging the interests of the nation.

But in the last decades declarations of the American authorities referring to the "balance of payments" bogey could not even seemingly exonerate the government and make the people responsible. The Government of the United States in this period not only spent scores of billions of dollars for the conduct of foreign wars and for garrisoning armed forces in far distant parts of the world. It distributed alms of many dozens of billions under the new-fangled title of "foreign aid." It was ridiculous demagoguery to mention in connection with the "balance of payments" issue the expenses of American tourists visiting the Acropolis and of American students attending the University of Paris, and to pass over in silence the subsidies that enabled various "Führers" of semi-barbarous countries to establish and to preserve their despotic regimes.

Discredited

Only ignorance on the part of the representatives of the "new economics" can explain their attempts to revive the long since entirely discredited "balance of payments" interpretation of the mutual exchange ratios between various currencies. The theory maintained by the economists, the so-called purchasing-power-parity theory, says: the exchange-ratio tends toward a point at which it does not make any difference which one is employed in selling or buying. The parity is characterized by the fact that no gains can be made by buying against units of A and selling against units of B or vice versa. Any deviation from this parity will be—"automatically," as a frequently misinterpreted term says—corrected by the actions of people who want to profit by such buying and selling. This insight was already implied in the reasoning of Gresham's law. When domestic inflation makes prices in the country of the A currency the previous exchange inflation and therefore no general upward movement of prices in the country of the B currency the previous exchange ratio between the two currencies A and B must change.

II

If all over the world there prevailed the strict and pure gold standard, there would not exist any other monetary problems than technological ones, e.g., that of properly minting the coins. No government interference with the technical production of coins would be necessary. The same would be the case if there could be established a world monetary center (not a bank) operated by angels removed from any earthly concerns and interests.

In our actual world every government claims national sovereignty in all monetary matters. Even this state of affairs could result, at least for a majority of civilized nations, in rather satisfactory conditions, i.e., a state of affairs characterized by the absence of any monetary problems and crises. In order to achieve and to preserve such a state of affairs every nation belonging to this group of civilized nations would have to abstain from any kind of "monetary warfare" and to strictly avoid any policy that would interfere with the—once and for all—established exchange ratio between its domestic currency and the currencies of all the other nations that proceed in the same way and thereby belong to this group of civilized nations.

The actual state of affairs is entirely different. Most of the civilized nations are officially committed to a policy of a stable exchange ratio either between their national currency and gold or, what ought to be the same, between their national currency and the currencies of countries that themselves aim officially at a stable exchange ratio between their own currency and those of other nations that are committed to the same principle. But there are, maintain the government economists, conditions that make it extremely difficult or even quite impossible for the monetary authorities of a nation to preserve this officially-decreed exchange ratio. There are unpatriotic citizens whose business transactions impair the nation's balance of payments and, still worse, there are speculators who directly aim at making the price of foreign exchange rise above the parity fixed by the authorities. To frustrate these "attacks" upon the stability of the foreign exchange rates is believed to be one of the foremost duties of good government.

Rising Demand

What the military jargon employed by the monetary authorities qualifies as "attacks" is, in the terminology of economics, a rising demand for foreign exchange. The government wants, notwithstanding its policy of increasing the quantity of money and of lowering interest rates, to maintain a definite exchange ratio between the domestic (national) currency on the one side and gold and foreign exchange of other countries committed to the same policy on the other side. As the demand for gold or foreign exchange, the government wants sees the amount of its "reserves" dwindle. This is the situation in which the governments and public opinion declare that "something must be done." There is no need to expatiate about this fact and its consequences. The question to be raised and answered is: What is it that increases the demand for foreign exchange and moves people to offer higher prices (in domestic currency) for it?

III

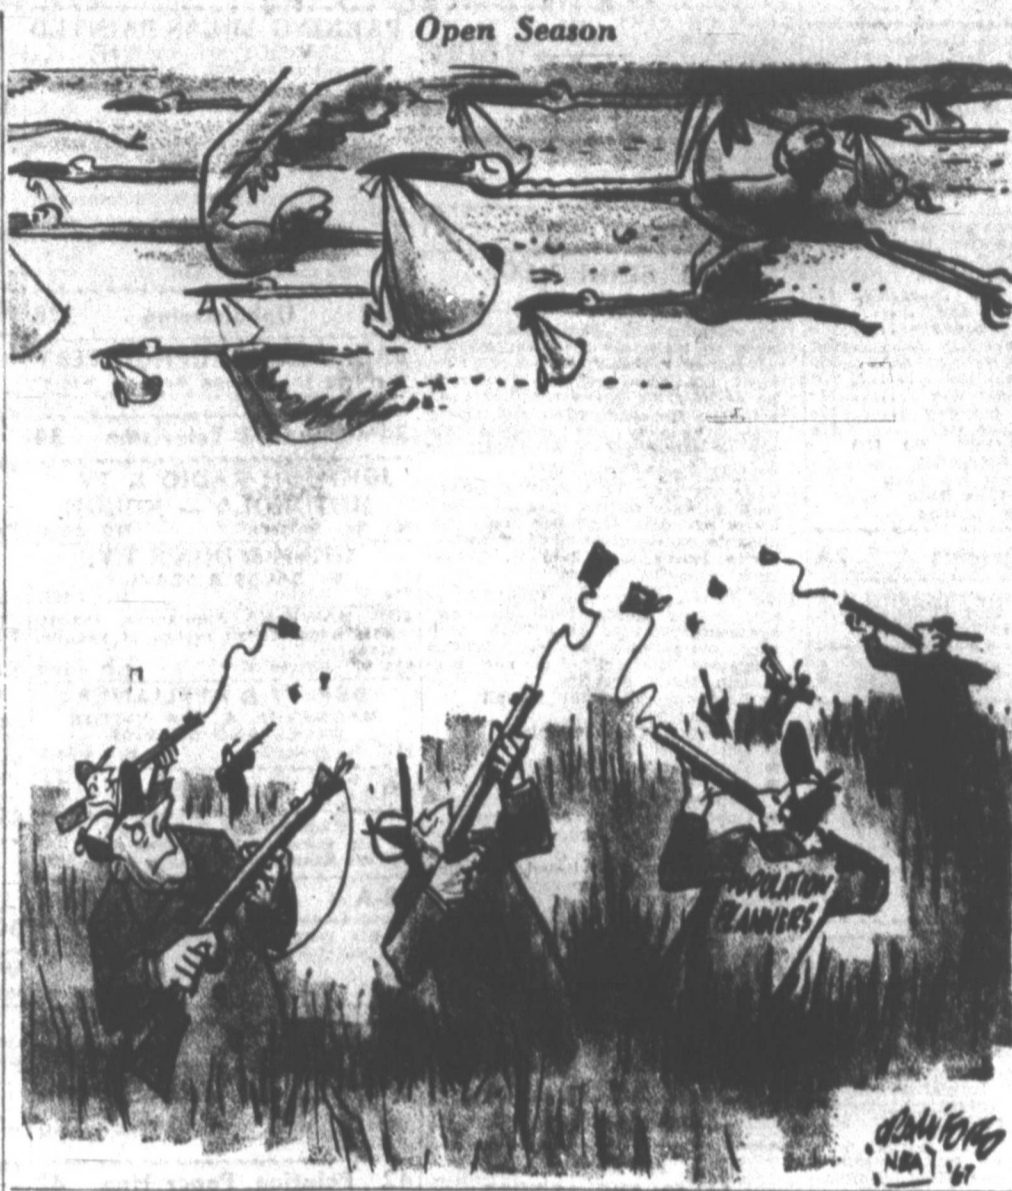

Practically all governments consider it today as the two foremost goals of monetary policy: first, to inflate their nation's currency system in order to be able to spend more than the amounts collected by taxation or borrowed from the public; and secondly, to bring about credit expansion in order to lower the rates of interest below the height they would attain on a free money market. It is these policies that necessarily and inevitably produce all those phenomena which the monetary authorities ascribe to the alleged unfavorable state of the balance of payments and to the machinations of speculators.

Increase in Money

Let us begin with inflation and inflationism. Inflation is an increase in the quantity of money in circulation that surpasses the increase in the demand for money for cash holding. Inflationism is a government policy of increasing the quantity of money in order to enable the government to spend more than the funds provided by taxation and borrowing. Such "deficit spending" is, as everybody knows, nowadays the characteristic signature of the American Government's financial policies. It is highly praised under the label of "the new economics."

Of course, these advocates of boundless inflation have adopted a terminology that attaches to the words a different meaning. They call inflation what is merely the unavoidable effect of inflation, namely the general tendency of prices and wages toward higher points, and they ascribe this tendency to the greed and avarice of the businessmen. They pretend that the government is sincerely and honestly committed to a policy of price stability.

Let us see. The government plans an additional expenditure; it wants, let us assume, to raise the salaries of a group of public servants. It collects the funds required by raising the taxes to be paid by certain people. Then the rise in purchases (in terms of the national money) on the part of those benefited by higher salaries corresponds to the drop in purchases on the part of those who were forced to pay higher taxes. By and large, no change in the purchasing power of the monetary unit results.

But if the government simply provides the funds required for the higher salaries by issuing an additional quantity of legal tender money, things are different. Those benefited by the new additional money compete on the market with all those whose demand had been instrumental already in the determination of the previous prices. An increased quantity of money wants to buy a not increased quantity of goods. The outcome is higher prices of vendible merchandise, or, what is the same, a drop in the purchasing power of the country's monetary unit.

Exchange Ratio

The exchange ratio between the Ruritanian rurs and the Maritanian mar was 1 to 2. Now the Ruritanian government inflates and consequently prices expressed in rurs are rising while no changes occur in Maritania. It is obvious that such a state of affairs must necessarily bring about a corresponding alteration in the price of rurs expressed in mars or, what is the same, in the price of mars expressed in rurs. For now one rurs buys only a smaller quantity of merchandise than 2 mars. One can gain by buying against mars, selling against rurs, and then exchanging these rurs at the rate of 1:2 against mars. Such transactions are bound to transform inevitably the previous exchange rate and finally to establish again a purchasing-power-parity rate adequate to the altered purchasing power of the rurs.

The regular course of events under present conditions is this: Ruritania inflates and consequently Ruritanian prices are rising. But the Ruritanian government is anxious to preserve the previous exchange rate against foreign currencies. It tries to maintain this rate in its own exchange rate against foreign currencies. It tries to maintain this rate in its own exchange operations. As it is profitable to buy mars at the official rate, the demand for them increases and the monetary authorities of Ruritania see their "reserves" of foreign exchange drop. This is the emergency that is called "illiquidity" and makes the official circles clamor for more "reserves."

Then there is a second kind of government policy that likewise results in an increased demand for foreign exchange. The government wants to lower the market rate of interest. They resort to various measures for the attainment of this end. As far as these measures bring about credit expansion, they produce the same effects which the simple inflation of deficit spending brings about. But besides they disarrange the equilibrium of the market for short-term loans. Funds are withdrawn from the country's market for short-term loans (usually called money market) precisely because the authorities have temporarily succeeded in lowering domestic interest rates. This movement too results in a rising demand for foreign exchange.

We see now: This intensified demand for foreign exchange these "attacks" upon the "reserves" in the hand of the monetary authorities (central bank or its equivalent), are neither acts of God nor the outcome of machinations on the part of anti-patriotic selfish citizens or of foreign enemies. They are the inevitable reaction of the market upon the monetary interventionism of the government, its misguided and misplaced monetary welfareism.

Inflationism is not a variety of economic policies. It is an instrument of destruction; if not stopped very soon, it destroys the market entirely. There is no need to refer to historical experience, e.g., to that of the German Weimar-Republic of the years of 1920-1923. It is a shame that in the discussions concerning present-day monetary problems some of the nonsense is revived that was brought forward in earlier periods of inflation.

IV

Any variety of inflationism and any attempt of institutionally lowering the rate of interest are incompatible with plans for the establishment of something that could be called an international system or order of monetary affairs. As long as the governments of many important nations are committed to such policies, talk about an efficient international organization of monetary matters is idle.

Nothing characterizes the state of present-day "official" economic doctrine better than the fact that in the great flood of books and articles published about the international monetary problems there is hardly any reference to the issues of inflation and of anti-interest measures. In the light of this literature and of the pronouncements of the "monetary authorities" there prevails some mysterious evil, mostly called lack of liquidity, that thwarts the allegedly well-designed endeavors of the governments and the central banks to render international monetary conditions perfectly satisfactory. There is not enough "liquidity"; the "reserves" of the central banks (or of the institutions to which the functions of a central bank have been entrusted) are not large enough. The remedy is obvious: one needs more reserves. How can this be achieved? Of course, by "creating" more legal tender, of those nations for whose notes and deposits the demand is most urgent.

Lower Rates' Result

Ruritania has succeeded in lowering its domestic loan market's interest rates. The result is a withdrawal of short term funds from Ruritania, a rising demand for mars. The Ruritanian central bank sees its reserve in mars and in other foreign currencies dwindle. There is, say the experts a solution for this problem: let the Maritanian central bank or other central banks lend to their Ruritanian sister the required mars or other foreign money. That means: let the foreign banks inflate up to a point at which their own currencies are no longer better than that of Ruritania.

The insufficiency of this suggestion moved some authors to elaborate plans for a "reserve currency." This currency should merely serve as an increase in the "reserve" of central banks. But the withdrawals of funds from Ruritania are made not only by other nations' central banks, but first of all by spend the funds withdrawn. For these people a "reserve currency" is useless. They want to get "real" money, not a "reserve" money.

Whatever people may say about a policy of increasing the quantity of fiat money, there is one aspect of it that even the most obstinate of its advocates cannot deny: inflationism cannot last; if not radically stopped in time, it must inexorably lead to a complete breakdown. It is an expedient of people who do not care a whit for the future of their nation and its civilization. It is Madame de Pompadour's policy: Après nous le déluge.

Today we are still able to stop the progress of inflation and to return to sound principles of financing government expenditure. But will we have the same opportunity tomorrow?

Appendix

To prevent a misinterpretation of the preceding statements concerning the height of the rate of interest and the height of profits some additional remarks are appropriate.

When, in dealing with the problems of an inflationary upward movement of prices, one refers to the gross rate or market rate of interest, one has to realize that the expectation of such a change in the height of prices must affect the size of the gross interest rate. People who expect a rise in definite prices are prepared to borrow at higher gross rates of interest than they would be ready to allow if they were to expect a less momentous rise in prices or no rise at all. On the other hand the lender under such conditions grants loans only if the gross rate agreed upon is higher than it would be in the absence of such expectations. The expectation of rising prices thus has the tendency to make the market rate, the gross rate of interest, rise. There appears in this market rate a component—called "price premium" by the economist—that owes its existence to the cognition and anticipation of the inflationary movement of prices.

There is need to stress this point to show the futility of the usual methods of distinguishing between what people call low and high rates of interest. When the market rate rises above the height they consider as "normal," people believe that all has been done to keep "speculation" under control. From this point of view they gauge the monetary authorities' raising the rate of discount by one or a few percent as a "check" upon "inflationary speculation."

Another fact to be noted concerns the height of profits. All customary methods of accounting are necessarily based upon the units of the nation's currency system. They do not pay heed to changes in this unit's purchasing power. One result of this neglect is that with the progress of inflation the habitual depreciation quotas are substantially shrinking and that profits calculated without taking this fact into consideration are illusory. A second source of overvaluation of an enterprise's profits is due to the drop in the money's purchasing power occurring in the period between the acquisition and the sale of merchandise. And then come the tax authorities and the labor unions and claim their share of these "excessive" profits that in fact, i.e., when calculated in gold or a not inflated foreign currency, may be not at all

Income Rises At Slowest Rate In Eighteen Months

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Personal income of Americans rose at its slowest rate in 18 months during April — another sign of sluggishness in the economy. The Commerce Department reported today that income rose at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of only $1.4 billion, reflecting layoffs as well as shorter hours in manufacturing and trade.

The bearish figures followed reports that other key economic indicators — industrial production and retail sales — declined in April. Housing starts remained essentially level for the third straight month. April's $1.4 billion gain in personal income compared with a $1.4 billion increase in March. During the 12 months prior to April, personal income advanced an average of $3.6 billion a month.

April's advance, although the smallest since October, 1965, carried personal income to a record seasonally adjusted annual rate of $614.1 billion.

The sluggish April indicators are sure to cast further doubt on President Johnson's proposal for a tax increase later this year. The administration already has conceded that indicators are too weak to justify a tax hike by July 1, the date originally set.

Save time and money by dialing your own Long Distance calls

IT'S AS EASY AS A-B-C

- A Dial "1" to connect with the Long Distance equipment
- B Dial the area code of the city you want
- C Dial the telephone number

It's the fast, easy way to call Long Distance—and you get three calls for the price of two. That's because calls go through at low station-to-station rates when you dial direct. Costs about one-third less than person-to-person calls. Check the front pages of your telephone directory for a handy list of area codes and full information on Direct Distance Dialing. It's one of many services that help make your telephone a bigger bargain than ever before. If you reach a wrong number when you dial a Long Distance call direct—don't worry. Just hang up. Dial "Operator" and tell her. She'll see that you don't get charged.

Quotes in the News

By United Press International SAIGON — A high ranking Marine, explaining the practical purpose of the U.S. and South Vietnamese sortie into the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) separating North and South Vietnam:

"They've been using it for a sanctuary. They've violated the damn thing—so we're sick of it. We're going to clean them out."

Soil Moisture Adequate Only in East, Service Says

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) — The Texas Agricultural Extension Service said Thursday only the eastern third of the state and spots in other sections have adequate soil moisture so far. The Extension Service said at Texas A&M University irrigated crops in all sections of the state generally made normal progress. Planting of dry land crops in western and northwestern areas continued to wait on needed rainfall. "Wheat prospects continue best in North Central Texas," the service said. "The early May freeze on the high plains, did extensive damage; the full extent is not yet known."

The service said the oat crop will be short statewide primarily because of moisture shortages. In north Texas considerable cotton will have to be replanted because of heavy rains.
