Castro Coming To US To Stir Up Revolution

By ROBERT ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Fidel Castro is going to personally carry his campaign of "violence, hate, and terror" against the U. S. to our shores.

The Cuban Communist dictator will launch his new anti-U.S. offensive with a major speech in New York during the coming September meeting of the United Nations General Assembly.

U.S. and Latin American revolutionaries meeting in Havana last week were told of Castro's unannounced travel plans by members of the Cuban delegation attending the sessions of the Latin American Solidarity Organization (LASO).

In addition to his U.N. trip, the Cuban delegates reported, Castro will travel to Canada for a visit at EXPO '67, and then fly to Moscow for the Communists' October celebration of the 50th Anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

While in New York City, Castro also plans several meetings with Black Power militants, including Stokely Carmichael, now his guest at the LASO convention aimed at fomenting revolution in the Western Hemisphere.

One report given U.S. intelligence authorities by a diplomat of a friendly foreign government stationed in Havana quotes the Cuban delegates as saying:

"Castro plans to use the U.N. forum to encourage Negroes to

Commissioners Report County Tax Cut in 1968

Next year's tax rate per $100 assessed valuation will have a reduction of three cents from this year's rate for Gray County. The decision was reached at yesterday's Gray County commissioners meeting.

The tax rate, as determined by the proposed county budget, will be $1.25 per $100 assessed valuation, County Judge S. R. Lenning Jr. said.

The breakdown in the proposed budget for each $1.25 is two cents for jury; 15 cents for road and bridge; 55 cents for general fund; 23 cents for permanent improvement fund; and 30 cents for farm, market and lateral roads.

There may be some adjustment in the breakdown figures, Judge Lenning said, but the $1.25 total will remain the same.

Assessed property valuation will be about $57,501,194, approximately the same as this year's assessments, Judge Lenning said. There will be a $244,630 loss on industrial valuation, but the commissioners are anticipating this to be made up by the valuation of local property.

In other business, the commissioners agreed to pay $1,200 to Odessa Stedum for right-of-way for improvements on Highway 152. The land is section 126, block 3, I-GN of the rail-

Search For Men In Downed Plane

ODESSA (UPI) — Officials searched today in West Texas and eastern New Mexico for a plane carrying three men on a cattle buying trip who disappeared last Friday.

The men aboard the missing plane were pilot James W. Castineau of Tulsa, Okla.; Billy Patton of Cherokee, Okla.; and Duke Damaranville of Sioux City, Iowa.

Civil Air Patrol planes from Kirtland Air Force Base were used in the search. CAP officials said Monday they were not certain of where the plane last stopped since Castineau did not file a flight plan.

2-MAN CREW MISSING U.S. Plane Is Downed Near Red China Rim

SAIGON (UPI)—The Communists shot down an American photo plane in North Vietnam just below the Red Chinese border, U.S. spokesmen said today. The two-man jet was photographing damage done by

Critics Examine Johnson Decision To Hit Targets

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson's decision to authorize air attacks on North Vietnamese targets closer to the Chinese border apparently was based on a combination of considerations, political, military and psychological.

Administration officials themselves were not certain today, however, just how effective the attacks in the previously off-limits areas might be in achieving the presidential objectives.

Nevertheless, they contend that the assaults Johnson approved last week do not increase the possibility of Chinese Communist intervention in the war.

Some congressional critics expressed strong views to the contrary. Sens. Mike Mansfield and J. William Fulbright denounced the raids as dangerous, and warned that they increased the possibility of war with Red China by miscalculation.

But Johnson won support for the new strategy from former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, who told newsmen "if it is a NEGRO CANDIDATES for mayor in major cities in the United States include these three contenders. At left, Carl Stokes, Cleveland attorney, is seeking the top post again in that city after losing to the current mayor by only 2,143 votes two years ago. Richard Hatcher, center, has shown impressive political muscle in winning the Democratic primary for the Gary, Ind., mayoral race. A. W. Willis, state representative in Tennessee, has announced his candidacy for mayor of Memphis, facing five white opponents.

Negro Mayor Quits Over Housing Vote

FLINT, Mich. (UPI)—Negro mayor Floyd J. McCree, declaring he didn't "want to live a lie any longer," resigned Monday night after the City Commission voted down an open housing ordinance.

"I've wanted to be the mayor of all the people," he said. "I've tried to be the mayor of all the people. But I cannot pretend that that is the way it is. You will have my written resignation in time for next Monday's meeting," McCree told the commission. He said he would give commissioners until then to find a replacement for him.

McCree later told reporters he meant that statement as an oral resignation. McCree, 44, had long been an advocate of open housing for Michigan's second largest city which has a population of 210,000, 25 per cent of which is Negro. Flint is the largest city in the nation to have a Negro mayor.

McCree urged the commission to adopt the open housing ordinance on several occasions. But when the proposal was voted down 5-3, Monday night, he immediately resigned as mayor and his seat on the commission.

BULLET-RIDDLED car was used by three escapees from an Indiana prison who shot it out with police in Lincoln, Neb., killing one officer. One convict was wounded and two others captured after a five-hour search.

Rangers Hunting For Glacier Killer Bears

GLACIER NATIONAL PARK (UPI)—Rangers armed with high-powered rifles resumed the search today for killer grizzlies who mauled and devoured two 19-year-old girls. Biologists apparently found no trace of human flesh in the stomachs of two bears shot to death Monday.

The grizzlies savagely attacked and killed Julie Hegleson of Albert Lea, Minn., and Michelle Koons of San Diego, Calif., both summer employees of the park, in separate incidents Saturday night. It was the first time since the park was opened 57 years ago that the roaming but usually placid grizzlies had attacked and killed anyone.

Paul Dunn, one of Miss Koons' four camping companions, sobbed out a tale of horror as he recounted the gruesome sight of a huge, enraged grizzly devouring the girl. "I heard Michelle scream 'He is ripping off my arm,'" Dunn said. "I told her to get out of the (sleeping) bag, but she said the bear had the zipper."

German Chancellor Confers With LBJ

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson and West German Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger open a two-day round of general discussions on world problems here today.

Officials of both governments said the leaders would not be seeking specific solutions to causes of friction in the Western community, but would explore each other's views in an effort to establish a better working relationship.

Communist Push Drive On Laos

VIENTIANE (UPI)—Communist guerrillas supported by North Vietnamese troops are stepping up pressure on government strongholds throughout neutral Laos, a highly placed military source said today.

The reinforced units were reported "ready to launch major attacks on government positions" once the rainy season sets in and cuts the visibility of counterattacking government warplanes, the source said.

Premier Souvanna Phouma reportedly told his cabinet last week that the military situation in this landlocked kingdom bordering North and South Vietnam was grave. He said to have warned that an increase in sabotage and terrorist campaigns was imminent.

The military source said the threat of attack from Communist forces is most serious in the rice-rich Mekong River valley of Nam Bac, 44 miles northeast of the royal capital of Luang Prabang.

Two North Vietnamese battalions recently joined guerrillas of the Communist-led Pathet Lao in the valley, the source said.

Government troops reported a sharp increase in the number of skirmishes in the valley since the arrival of the North Vietnamese units.

New Move May Start Big Scale Civil War

HONG KONG (UPI) — Chinese Communist party leader Mao Tse-tung for the first time is arming civilians to battle his foes in the nation's wracking power struggle, a Japanese newsmen in Peking reported today.

The Tokyo Sankei Shimbun reporter said orders went out Thursday for the arming of pro-Mao civilians in south central Kiangsi province to smash rebellious forces and "restore order." Mao's regime at the same time fired the militant commander in the province, Wu Juishan, for siding with anti-Mao forces.

The Japanese report said the year-old power fight may indicate the makings of a full scale civil war in Communist China.

Across Kiangsi runs the main transport and communication lines from Peking to Canton where, according to Hong Kong newspapers, foes of Mao have freed 100,000 political prison camp inmates. The newspapers said the ex-prisoners are raping, burning and robbing in Canton.

Quoting travelers from South China's largest city the newspapers said the former labor camp inmates have pledged a citywide bloodbath if attempts are made to halt their wave of terror.

Arrivals from the city, 70 miles from here, said Canton's municipal authority has vanished in days and nights of violence with the ex-prisoners, army troops and fanatic pro-Mao Red Guards battling in the streets.

Canton was reported a major center of the power struggle being waged by Mao against established leaders in the party, government and army. Mao's chief press organ today accused his arch foe, president Liu Shao-chi, of seeking "friendly relations with America" even during the current Vietnam war.

The attack on Liu in Red Flag Magazine, theoretical journal of the Communist party Central Committee, marked a new peak in Mao's campaign to humiliate, disgrace and purge the old comrade who has come to symbolize national opposition to him and his regime.

Liu earlier had been accused of being "soft" on America but not during the Vietnam war. Red Flag revived a long list of accusations, saying Liu helped Nationalist Chinese president Chiang Kai-shek, sabotage Communist economic plans, cooperated with Russian "revisionists" and tried to install a capitalist regime in Peking with himself at the top.

Belgian Influence Waning In Riot-Torn Congo State

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Eighty years of Belgian influence in the Congo neared an end today following the sacking of the Belgian embassy in Kinshasa by Congolese rioters who also attacked two Americans and stoned the U.S. embassy.

A phaseout of Belgium's $90 million annual aid to its former colony would leave the United States, currently contributing $50 million a year, as the mainstay of the tottering Congolese economy.

In Washington, the State Department said the rioters threw rocks through the windows of the Belgian embassy but stressed the outburst appeared directed mostly against the Belgians.

State Department spokesmen said two Americans who lived next door to the Belgian embassy, U.S. Air Force M. Sgt. Homer L. Paulhus and his wife, were beaten by rampaging Congolese who invaded their apartment. Neither was reported seriously hurt. "After today we have no illusions about our role in the Congo," a high Belgian government official in Brussels said after the estimated 2,000 rioters had set fire to the embassy's furniture and files and toppled a statue of Belgium's King Albert, the nation's hero of World War I.

The statue outside the Congolese Parliament had survived seven years of often-violent independence turmoil during which more than 400 Belgians have been murdered. The rioters quickly covered the fallen monument with black cloth.

The 2,000 youthful Congolese were members of president Joseph Mobutu's popular revolutionary movement, the Congo's only legal political party, and were protesting the capture of the Congo town of Bukavu last week by white mercenary-led Katangese rebels.

Secret Service officials, whose job is to protect the President and his family, began studying Carmichael's statements after several members of Congress called them to their attention.

One of the first legislators to do this was Representative Roman Pucinski, D-Ill., who urged Secret Service Director James J. Rowley to have Carmichael picked up and detained for a mental examination...

Another member of Congress wrote Rowley that Carmichael's threats, coupled with his activities in Washington, where he has a headquarters within 10 blocks of the White House...

Tapes of remarks Carmichael made about the President in several London speeches and lectures are being examined by the Secret Service after being obtained and flown here by U.S. embassy officials.

Statements about President and Mrs. Johnson by H. R. P. Brown, head of the Student Non-Violence Committee, are also being examined by the Secret Service.

Brown, now free on bond after being charged by that state with inciting a riot at Cambridge, Maryland, constantly calls the President "a mad, wild dog that must be stopped at all costs."

School Board Will Talk Budget, Taxes

Approval of a budget and tax rate will be discussed at the regular meeting of the board of trustees of Pamupa Independent School District at 9:30 a.m. Thursday.

Also on the agenda is the approval of due bills and invoices and opening of milk bids. The board will decide on a called meeting to discuss the proposed building program with Herbert Brasher, architect.

Current employment, reassignment and designation of personnel will be considered.

ed by some Negro leaders for the nation's capital in late September, Speaker John McCormack, D-Mass., has obtained a pledge from President Johnson that federal troops will be in Washington within 30 minutes after trouble breaks out.

In recent weeks McCormack also has ordered a quiet "beefing up" of the Capitol police force assigned to protect Congress and all Senate and House facilities.

To provide the Capitol force with personnel trained in handling riots, a number of retired Vietnam Army combat veterans have been hired, including a number of Negroes.

In his personal directive to Capitol Police Chief James Powell, McCormack reported: "You are expected to use all force necessary to break up all demonstrations or riots on the Capitol grounds. All rioters and demonstrators should be arrested promptly."

"I have informed the Attorney General that Congress expects the Justice Department to prosecute to the full extent of the law all rioters or demonstrators arrested on the Capitol grounds."

Work Program Is Planned For Vets

WASHINGTON (U P I) - President Johnson Monday ordered a special program of help for about 100,000 armed forces veterans who have had difficulty finding jobs since returning to civilian life.

The President in a special statement said that in the past year about 600,000 veterans - many from Vietnam - re-entered civilian life and a majority found work without trouble.

"But almost 100,000 of these fine Americans had difficulty obtaining employment," the President said. "They were without work for an average of nine weeks and received some $30 million in unemployment compensation."

Johnson directed Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz to cooperate with Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara to institute a nationwide personalized service to find jobs for the unemployed veterans.

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., the committee's influential chairman, took strong exception Monday to the administration thesis that proposed surcharge on income taxes would be a temporary war tax that would end when the Vietnam war did.

The veteran Arkansas Democrat said he had heard that line before, notably during the Korean conflict. Some of those taxes are still in effect, he said.

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
WORKING VACATION:
Traditionally, Russian leaders do not disclose specific vacation sites. But in Moscow it is believed that Premier Alexei Kosygin is spending at least part of his vacation on the shore of the Baltic where he is conferring with East German leaders on the posture to be taken in view of the trend among East European Communists to improve their relations with the West Germans.

AID TO THE ARABS:
The trend toward the Bonn government has been led by the independently minded Romanians who also disagreed with Moscow on the issues of the Arab-Israeli conflict. The Romanians, therefore, are expected to be absent from a meeting which Moscow observers hear is to be held next month in Belgrade to work out a blueprint for economic aid to the Arab countries.

CHANGE OF HEART:
In Paris, sources close to the government say President Charles de Gaulle may lift his crippling embargo on arms shipments to Israel if the Soviet Union's arms deliveries to the Arabs threaten to upset the present precarious cease-fire and tip the military balance in favor of the Arab bloc.

DE GAULLE'S WAY:
Paris sources also say that De Gaulle, in pursuit of his independent way, also soon will issue orders to expand the program calling for construction of three 7,500-ton nuclear submarines. These sources say it is virtually certain that De Gaulle now wants five nuclear subs to be operational by 1975.

THE CASE OF TSHOMBE:
Western experts in Algiers do not expect Algerian authorities to be overly hasty in extraditing kidnaped Congolese ex-Premier Moïse Tshombe to the Congo where he faces execution. One reason that makes President Houari Boumediene hesitant to set a precedent and deliver the refugee politician to his political foes at home is the discreet intervention of President Charles de Gaulle. De Gaulle is said to believe that Tshombe's extradition and execution would increase the political instability of Africa.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Graham Loving and Co. says the current bull market apparently is in its second phase, normally depicted by a resurgence in the economy and market leadership by the cyclical and blue chip issues.

The company believes a late summer decline is a normal occurrence for a market of this sort. It does not feel such a decline will be severe and says it probably will only represent around a 3 per cent drop in the restraint."

Bache and Co. says the summer rally still is in effect and negotiations in the auto industry remain the chief uncertainty in the market's future. It says beyond the auto industry, "the major uncertainty centers on just how accurate is the administration's assessment of the ability of business to withstand the proposed fiscal strait."

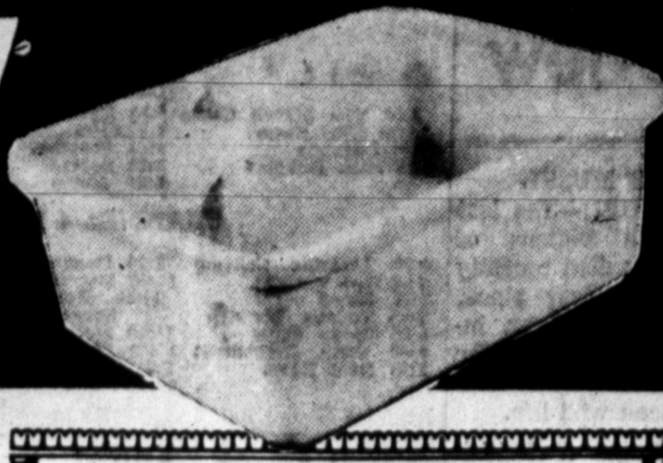

Newton D. Zinder of E. F. Hutton and Co. says the market is once again showing its ability to live with unfavorable news. He says the advance seems increasingly selective but that higher prices on the near term still are a strong possibility.

Purcell, Graham & Co. feels the bull market is intact with little evident vulnerability. It says the recent rise of cyclical stocks rather than growth issues has appeared orderly and these issues do not seem overbought. The company believes, in fact, that strength in these issues probably will broaden and along with some conservative growth stocks, provide market leadership during the next phase of the bull market.

Bache & Co. says the market is likely to move in a narrow, base-building trading range until the gains of last week have been fully consolidated. The company recommends using the "backing-filling" period as an opportunity to accumulate better quality issues.

Television In Review

By ROBERT MUSEL
NEW YORK (UPI)—The last survivor of the billions of passenger pigeons died recently in an Ohio zoo. Ever since, conservationists have been increasingly concerned with the threat to the continued existence of American wild life.

Some time ago a British group urged Queen Elizabeth and Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy to stop wearing their leopard coats because that beautiful species became a victim of high fashion. NBC-TV doesn't plan anything that personal in the new season but it has two documentaries under way to remind us that we are supposed to preserve for the future the animal heritage handed down from the past.

But will we? The title of producer Chet Hagen's "Our Endangered Wild Life" is ominous and it is intended to be. A bit more hopeful is producer Gerry Greene's "Forgotten Peninsula" about lower California where isolation and some intelligent intervention by the "Mexican" government may have saved the bird sanctuary, the island of Rosa, from the fishermen who were stealing its eggs.

Hagen started out originally to work on the Department of Interior's list of 78 threatened species of animals and fish and found himself tangled in even more serious problems. For the fate of U.S. wild life which is the classic conservation story—the joint operation by America and Canada, that saved the bird from extinction. And from Isle Royale in Michigan we've got film of a herd of moose which grew to 4,000 because of the absence of natural predators, ate everything in sight and starved almost overnight to 200. Then wolves came over the ice from Canada in 1948 and now there is a healthy natural balance of 800 moose and 28 wolves—wolves kill only the old, the sick and the weak.

"We will also," he said, "tell the story of the whooping crane

Psychologists Say People Become Bored With Leisure

By HARRY FERGUSON
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The annual vacation, like heaven, home, mother and the American flag, has long been above reproach and beyond criticism. But some psychologists are beginning to wonder whether it is an unmixing blessing.

Nobody so far has proposed to abolish the vacation, but there is strong feeling that Americans must be trained to enjoy themselves just as they are trained to work. How much leisure time can a person absorb before he becomes bored?

This question is not academic because there is a relentless trend toward more leisure. At the beginning of the century the standard work week was 60 hours.

Expanding Leisure
 Now, according to the AFL-CIO contracts are being negotiated for 32-hour weeks, 30-hour weeks and even a 25-hour week. Leo Perlis of the AFL-CIO guesses that within this generation there will be a 28-hour work week—seven hours a day, four days a week.

How many Americans really have fun on their vacations? There are no statistics available, of course, and there probably never will be because when it comes to vacations people are consummate liars. It takes a strong man to deny that he was bored after he had laid out $600 for a family vacation.

Perlis suggests there is a strange streak in Americans which causes them to be allergic to too much leisure and too many vacations. It is the puritan concept that man should work as long and hard as he

Effects of Proposed Surtax on Business

By ROGER BABSON STAFF

Early this month, President Johnson made his bid to come to grips with what could be a huge deficit in the federal government's budget for the current fiscal year. Rising military expenditures and the high cost of Great society programs mean that the inflow of revenues simply will not be enough to produce a balanced budget, or even a "manageable" budget deficit. Moreover, because of the hesitation in business, tax receipts are falling below expectations.

Facing the problem in a realistic manner, most people would agree that a sacrifice in the form of a tax increase is preferable to a scourging inflation. It is easier to cut the tax rate later, than to bridle inflation once it has taken hold. Inflation tends to become built into the economy.

But with the economy still languishing, the proposed tax hike is not without danger. This is why the President asked that the surtax be delayed for consumers. The idea is that, hopefully, the private sector of the economy may be stronger by fall and consumers might then be in a position to absorb the added tax without curtailing their spending. This timetable, however, could be upset by strikes in the auto industry.

The surtax itself is not an inordinately heavy burden on consumers since it is levied on the normal tax liability. But it does reduce the discretionary buying power of consumers. Moreover the rising trend of living costs is simultaneously eroding buying power.

The bulk of the burden of the surtax falls upon corporations; and this poses a real threat to business. It puts yet another pinch on profit margins and aggravates the squeeze on bus-

Excess Drink Is Traffic Problem

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Excessive drinking is involved in nearly half of the 53,000 highway deaths each year, according to a government survey.

The National Highway Safety Agency is putting the finishing touches on a study of the relationship of drinking and accidents.

Dr. William Haddon Jr., director of the agency, told UPI "The evidence is very clear that as far as most fatal accidents are concerned, the most common factor is excessive drinking."

Haddon said about 8,000 pedestrians are killed annually in traffic accidents, but "for the remainder, across-the-board, about half the fatal crashes involve alcohol in excessive amounts."

Income Tax Questions, Answers

EDITOR'S NOTE — This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the Pampa office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published by the Pampa News as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked.

Q — I got a letter asking for my Social Security Number. Where should I send it?

A — Send the information to the office requesting it. Most of these inquiries originate from the service center and the information should be sent there.

Q — I was reimbursed for travel and hotel expenses by a company which wanted to hire me. I didn't take the job, however. Will I have to declare this expense money as income?

A — The reimbursement will not have to be declared as income unless it exceeds your actual expenses. In that case, the excess should be reported as income when you file your 1967 return. If your expenses exceed the reimbursement they are not deductible.

Dear Abby

by Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I've read a-bout a lot of strange characters in your column, but I think my husband takes the prize.

He gets a lot of pleasure out of going around looking like a hobo. Why? Because of all the sympathy he gets from his friends who think the poor man's wife is neglecting him. I know all his tricks.

Abby, my husband is a millionaire! You heard me. He paid taxes on an income of $175,000 last year. He wears his suits for 2 months without cleaning or pressing them. He will wear a white shirt for 3 and 4 days. He buys the cheapest socks, underwear, shoes and clothing because they get to looking shabby faster. If I don't patch and mend he goes around with holes! Now, what would you do with a problem like mine?

Don't misunderstand me, he did not make any out-of-the-way advances to me, he just told me about his early life, which I found fascinating. I am 29, unmarried, and he is over 65, with an invalid wife. My problem: He invites me to lunch frequently now. But he leaves envelopes with $50 and $100 bills enclosed for "extras."

Now, I know it's no financial strain on him as he is very wealthy, but I am adequately paid for my work I do at the office, and I feel quite accepting this money. Am I taking advantage of an elderly man by accepting his gifts and giving him nothing but a smile and a pleasant lunch hour by just listening?

WONDERING AS long as he asks nothing, and you promise nothing, you have no reason to feel guilty. (P.S. But don't accept any more money, just in case.)

DEAR WIFE: I'd throw a butterfly net over him. And fast. Next thing you know he might think it would be nice if people felt sorry for him because he "lost" his wife. And then he might think up ways to "lose" her.

HIS WIFE

DEAR ABBY: Our son wanted to enlist in the navy, so he went down for his physical and he didn't pass it. He felt so ashamed and hurt because all his buddies made it, and he didn't. He is not going to college, so he feels sort of all alone and blue.

Problems? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, California. For a personal reply, inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

YOUTH ALSO USES Installment Credit

COLLEGE STATION - Who uses installment credit? A popular reply is, "Who doesn't!" But Wanda Meyer, Extension home management specialist with Texas A&M University, reports figures indicating that some people are using it more than others.

Installment credit increased $8 billion in 1965, according to the Survey Research Center at the University of Michigan. Mrs. Meyer explains that the major reason for this increase is a change in behavior on the part of people who can best afford to pay their debts.

DEAR ABBY: I am employed as a secretary in a large office. One of the senior partners is semi-retired and comes in only a few days a week for 2 or 3 hours.

Early in 1965, only 32 percent of families with $15,000 or more annual income owed installment debt, and only 11 percent owed in excess of $2,000. Early this year, 47 percent of this income group owed installment debt and 19 percent owed in excess of $2,000. Of those receiving $3,000 income or less, proportion owing installment debt dropped from 28 percent in early 1965 to 23 percent in early 1966.

Use of installment credit is most frequent among young families and is infrequent among older units. A significant finding in 1966 was that only 50 percent of the families whose head was 18 to 24 years old owed installment debt, in contrast to 69 percent of those families in 1965. This drop in credit usage can be attributed mainly to the increase in the proportion of this group who were under 21 in 1966 and, therefore, not generally eligible for credit.

Skellytown WMS Circle Meetings

SKELLYTOWN (Sp) - The Women's Missionary Circles of Skellytown First Baptist Church, the "Kessia May Seagriff" and "Elizabeth Cash Circles," met jointly Wednesday morning in the home of Mrs. Irvin Brown for Bible Study.

Among other findings of the Michigan survey of consumer finances was that the median amount of consumer installment debt rose from $780 in early 1965 to $850 in early 1966. They also learned that the ratio of aggregate debt repayments to disposable personal income moved up only slightly from 1964 to 1965.

Headgear for Summer Wearing

By HELEN HENNESSY Women's Editor

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. NEW YORK (NEA) - Summer is the time to let fringe benefits go to your head.

Pompons, tassels, cords and braids, borrowed from their usual uses in home decorating now are making delightful additions to summer hats and hairdos.

Spice up an old beach hat or custom-design a new one with a brimful of Pom-Decor, bright cotton pompons strung together on a glass fiber core. Add to the fun by cutting a small slit in the hat brim, bringing the trim through the slit and making a braid with two lengths of white cotton cord.

Other trims make great disguises for fresh-from-the-pool hairdos. Twin a length of cotton cord in with your own damp locks, add a tassel or two and your coiffure is charming.

For sheer glamor on a summer night, hairstylist, Monsieur Roland of the Enrico Caruso Salon in New York braided a length of black pompos into white boucle tresses. A piece of fine wire threaded invisibly through the braid added enough backbone to keep it prettily curled at the end.

Another glamorous treatment by the hairstylist begins with a braid made from white cotton cord and glittering gold rope and ends with two pairs of gold chair tassels. Little velvet bows were attached here and there.

Such pretty hairpieces attach easily by looping over your own pony tail or catching onto a small comb.

BRIMMING OVER with appeal, floppy felt hat (at top) is rimmed with Pom-Decor, fluffy cotton pompons all strung together. The trim runs through a slit in the brim and is braided into white cotton cord for a single pigtail. Gold tassels add glitter to "hairpiece" braid (at bottom) made of white cotton cord and gold cord worn around model's own hair. Braid is sprinkled with little velvet bows.

FOR WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 15 - GENERAL TENDENCIES: The morning is not good to work any sort of device angles on them and it's a time to try to avoid all kinds of accidents. The P.M. becomes much better and you can have a happy time at the recreation you enjoy the most as well as an extravaganza in AM, or show jealousy with everyone. Then you start a great holiday - socially by being gracious. Make a good impression on buyers. Be money-thrifty - charming.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Avoid getting into any altercation between an associate and a close personal tie, or you lose out in both directions. Be nice, pleasant to one you met recently. This can lead to something very worthwhile.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) Steer clear of that acquaintance who wants you to spend your hard-earned money on him, or her, and maintain present security. Don't alienate some one that you have more harmony at home and in outside world. Listen to what a business expert has to suggest. This is a good day to contact him.

School will soon be in session, and thought this little quip might be appropriate. Little boy: "What does P.T.A. mean? Mom talks about it." Second little boy: "I think it means Poor Tired Adults." Here is another cute one. Small boy, just home from school. "I learned something new from the school psychologist today. It's called spanking."

My chief cook and bottle washer, my daughter, left for home in Ventura, Calif., Friday on that non-stop fast plane at 8:15 and was to arrive at LA at 8:30 the same evening. Of course she will gain two hours going west. When she told me I thought she must be mistaken, but seems it is a new schedule. I never was that lucky. Am doing fine, and on my own two feet, and she needed to be home, getting ready for school as she is a teacher and her daughter is in college.

This cooler weather is most welcome. J. C. Adair was released Wednesday from the hospital, following surgery. W. L. Sutton and W. E. Towe are reported to still remain in the Highland General Hospital. We hope they will soon be able to return home.

Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor and daughter, Maurita, had the pleasure of enjoying breakfast at the Coronado Inn recently with Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Bratton of Corpus Christi. Mr. Bratton was mayor of Pampa from 1932 to 1938. The Brattons and Taylors were next-door neighbors in 1926 in Texoma Okla. where Mr. Bratton was manager of Galbraith-Foxworth Lumber Co. He is now retired.

Mrs. Jessie VanHuss was present Thursday, having been absent for several meetings. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Vincent of Van Nuys, Calif. and Mrs. Roger Vincent of El Paso visited Mrs. Katie Vincent over the weekend of the 5th. Mrs. B. Crawford of Los Angeles, California also visited Mrs. Vincent and the Dudley Steeles last week.

Mrs. Alice Howard, who is now living at the Pampa rest home was back at the Center this week, after a long absence. We hope she will be able to come regular now.

Mrs. Bessie P. Sowell, who is now living at the Westbrook Hotel in Fort Worth, is visiting her sister-in-law Mrs. Phil H. Gates and was a visitor at the Center Thursday. When Mrs. Sowell lived in Pampa several years ago she was a regular attendant.

Mrs. Nettie Corneilus was reported as not making any improvement and is with her daughter, Mrs. Phyllis Trimble.

Pampa Jaycee-Ettes served as hostess group. Mmes. Nelda Lancaster, Carol Williamson, Glenn Condit and Gail Houk served cake and coffee during the refreshment hour. Door prizes, home made cakes, went to Mrs. P. H. Gates and Frank Carter.

Doctors quit smoking

CHICAGO - According to a recent survey, 52% of American doctors do not smoke. Many quit recently due, according to the Anti-Tobacco Center of America, to the conclusive evidence linking cigarettes and lung cancer.

Many doctors gave up smoking without straining their willpower thanks to a new tablet which helps to progressively eliminate the need for nicotine and, as a result, the desire to smoke. Less than 2% of the 150,000 people who tried this tablet reported they still smoke!

Smokers interested in receiving information (free) about this new tablet are invited to contact directly the Anti-Tobacco Center of America, Dept. 1021-K-2, 366 Fifth Avenue, New York 1 New York.

Wightman Cup Goes To U.S.

CLEVELAND (UPI)—For the seventh time in as many years, the Wightman Cup is a possession of the United States. Miss Nancy Richey of San Angelo, Tex., clinched the cup for the U.S. Monday when she downed England's Virginia representative 6-1, 6-2.

Mrs. Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., took a subsequent singles match from Ann Haydon Jones with little trouble. Mrs. King thumped the British representative 6-1, 6p2.

Carol Graebner and Mary Ann Eisel of St. Louis, teamed up to finish the Wightman series by downing Winnie Shaw and Joyce Williams 8-6 and 12-10 in final doubles competition.

The U.S. retained possession of the coveted tennis trophy with a 6-1 point total. Britain's only point came Sunday when Christine Truman defeated Rosemary Casals 3-6, 7-5 and 6-1.

Miss Richey and Mrs. King grabbed singles victories for the U.S. Saturday.

Worster Quits Oil Bowl Squad

WICHITA FALLS (UPI)—Two Texas all-state high school football players announced Monday they would not participate in the 22nd annual Oil Bowl against Oklahoma high school all-stars Friday.

Steve Worster, a tailback from Bridge City who played in the Texas coaches all-star game and the Big 33 game, said he was tired of playing football and would rest before entering the University of Texas this fall.

Randy Stout, San Angelo tackle, will not play because he injured his knee Saturday night in Hershey, Pa., when the Texas team beat an all-star Pennsylvania team in the Big 33 game. The injury will require surgery.

The two were replaced by Andy Browder of Dallas Hillcrest and Bob Mooney of San Marcos.

The Texas team previously lost halfback Charles Speyrer of Fort Arthur Jefferson when he was injured in the Big 33 game.

In preparation for Friday night's game in Midwestern Stadium, the coaches of both squads said they will not put their teams through any contact drills.

Some members of both teams have come from recent games — Texas from the Big 33 Saturday and Oklahoma from a coaches school all-star game in Oklahoma City last Thursday.

New Gas House Gang Best

United Press International
 The new gas house gang is burying the guy who named the old one.

Sitting in a Chicago hotel lobby in 1934, shortstop Leo Durocher said the wild, daredevil play of Joe Medwick, Dizzy Dean, and Pepper Martin made the St. Louis Cardinals look like a gang from a gas house.

But on Monday night, 33 years later, manager Leo Durocher could only say, "No, No, No," as he sat dismally reflecting on the daring, flashy speed of Curt Flood.

His speed gave St. Louis a ninth-inning come-from-behind 6-5 victory over the Cubs and a heady nine and a 1/2 game lead in the National League.

"You've got to come from behind to win pennants," said Flood. Moments before his teammates had mobbed him while he sat on home plate after scoring the run that gave the Cardinals their 16th victory in 20 games.

With one out in the ninth, Lou Brock was on third and Flood on first, Roger Maris singled and scored Brock easily.

slashing his right leg off the ninth and then the roof fell in.

But Flood kept coming, too. He hit Catcher Randy Hundley slashing his right leg on Hundley's shin guard and then dove for the plate.

Durocher, whose team has now fallen to third place, 10 games behind, was so enraged after the loss that he said there was, "no reason" for his removal of Bob Shaw in the ninth. Shaw had pitched five innings of four-hit shutout relief, but Durocher yanked him when he walked Bobby Toian to lead

Mike McCormick, who recorded his 16th victory, said he was unimpressed with his pitching and Willie McCovey said he wasn't very impressed with the fact he had hit the longest ball ever out of Atlanta Stadium, after the pair had sparked the Giants to victory over the Braves.

McCormick hurled a four-hit shutout until the Braves touched him for a pair of runs in the ninth and McCovey drove in four runs, three of them with the 437-foot drive deep over the centerfield wall in the fourth, to snap a five-game Atlanta winning streak.

Ed Kranepool drove in two runs with three hits and Jack Pineda coasted eight hits as the Mets beat Larry Jackson, who had won all 18 of his decisions against New York.

Bob Veale and Roy Face combined to stop the Reds on three hits as the Pirates came from behind for three runs in the eighth. Veale won his 13th in 18 decisions as Pittsburgh scored in the eighth on four singles and a rundown that backfired on the Reds.

'Good' Error Helps Twins Up League Lead

United Press International
 Jim Fregosi overthrew first base Monday night and kept the Minnesota Twins in first place.

George Brunet was working on a shutout over Minnesota that would have knocked the Twins back into a tie with the Chicago White Sox for the top spot in the tight American League pennant race. In fact, a loss would have left the Twins one percentage point behind the Sox.

But Fregosi throwing error opened the gates for a pair of unearned runs in the eighth inning that handed the Twins a 2-1 victory over the California Angels and enabled them to move one game in front of the second place and idle White Sox.

"I can still see that ball when he (Fregosi) came up with it, it looked like he had a handful of baseball, I thought he had him all the way," manager Bill Rigney said after the game.

Brunet was protecting a 1-0 lead with two out in the eighth inning when Twins' catcher Hank Izkierdo hit a grounder at Fregosi, one of the league's best shortstops.

Jackie Hernandez and a double by Ted Uhlaender that chased Hernandez home with the winning run.

"This is the first time in a long time that I remember us ending up beating ourselves," Rigney said. "It's just like the World Series out there." The Angels had won four straight games by one run before suffering this loss.

In the only other game in the American League Monday night, New York edged Baltimore 5-4.

way Brunet was pitching. He allowed just one hit in the first six innings and even though the Twins loaded the bases in the seventh on successive singles by Jerry Zimmerman, Uhlaender and Dave Boswell, Brunet got out of it by retiring Zoilo Versalles and Cesar Tovar on shallow flies and Tony Oliva on a liner to center.

After Fregosi's error enabled the Twins to take the lead, the Angels knocked out starter and winner Boswell with singles by Repoz and Bob Rodgers. With Tom Satriano up, Twins' manager Cal Ermer called on lefty Jim Kaat and the Angels countered with righthander Butba Morton as a pinch-hitter. But Kaat got Morton to fly out and Al Worthington came on to strike out Larry Stubing to end the game.

Ermer defended the use of his starter Kaat in relief, noting that "it was only the second time I've used him in relief and he was due to do some throwing, today anyway. He'll start again Friday." Last week the White Sox used Gary Peters in relief on Thursday night and the Twins then knocked him out as a starter Saturday.

The victory boosted Boswell's record to 10-8 while the hard-luck Brunet has an 11-14 mark. Steve Barber went 6-23 in innings to get his first victory over his former teammates as the Yanks beat the Orioles. Barber is not 8-13 this season and 4-4 as a Yankee. Joe Pepitone tripled in a pair of runs in the seventh inning and that proved to be the margin of victory when the Orioles tagged Barber's reliever, Bill Moubouquette, for a pair of runs in the ninth.

Jenkins Good Cub Prospect

CHICAGO (UPI)—Ferguson Jenkins came to the Chicago Cubs as a "prospect" who might help the perennial tailenders climb out of the cellar.

In one season, the 23-year-old Canadian has turned into a "stop" pitcher who beats the best, and a player for whom the Cubs could trade even up for almost any National League star.

Tuesday, Jenkins pitched the 13th complete game in his 26 starts this year, racked up his 14th victory and hurled the Cubs to a 3-2 win over the first-place St. Louis Cardinals, lasting the final two innings on courage.

"We had to change his style a little bit," Cubs pitching coach Joe Becker said. "For one thing, he wasn't hiding his delivery. We just made him keep the ball covered with his glove until he came around to release it. Then we kept him throwing straight overhead, and not getting down sideways. Now it'd take a real star to get him, even up."

"He was getting hit hard in the first few innings," Manager Leo Durocher said. "He's just got to warm up better, pitch more."

So far his last three starts, Jenkins has warmed up for 20 minutes, and he hasn't been hit hard. "For the three games before that," he said, "I got bombed in the first inning. The last three, I haven't given up a run in the first."

Jenkins, 6-5 and 205 pounds, threw more than 100 warmup pitches for his last two starts, alternately.

and Becker conceded it made the difference.

"We just had to kind of take him by the hand and lead him out there," Becker said.

Rather Face Cepeda Jenkins held the Cardinals to only two hits for seven innings. After the Cardinals had scored twice, there were two out when Roger Maris came to bat.

Jenkins gave him four pitches outside, a walk to fill the bases, because he said, "I'd rather pitch to (Orlando) Cepeda," one of the league's leading hitters. He got Cepeda on an outfield fly and the Cubs were out of the inning.

Twice Durocher had to go to the mound to inquire about Jenkins. "He told me he felt real good," Durocher said. "I just wanted to make sure he did."

"I didn't want him to take me out," Jenkins said. "I felt good, strong, and I could finish. I did."

Lion Rookies Please Schmidt

By United Press International
 Joe Schmidt had a big grin across his face as he walked about the Detroit Lion dressing room Monday night. When he came to the lockers of rookies Mel Farr and Nick Eddy it was something a little different.

"I can't say enough about these two boys," he said. Farr and Eddy scored first quarter touchdowns to spark the Lions to a 19-17 victory over the American Football League's Buffalo Bills.

"It was so tight out there," said Farr, the Lions' No. 1 draft choice. "It was the first time returned a punt for a touchdown since my high school days," said Eddy, the Lions' No. 2 draft choice in 1966. "Once I got by the first man, I knew I had a chance for a touchdown. They're never easy, especially those last 20 yards. I felt like I was pulling a tractor."

BEAT CHAMP LEZOUTE, Belgium (UPI)—

Australian Tony Roche routed countrymen John Newcombe, the Wimbledon champion, 6-1, 6-2, in Sunday's final of the Lezoute International Tennis Tournament.

COURT DECISIONS don't seem to bother basketball star Rick Barry and his son Rick Jr. A Superior Court judge in San Francisco has ruled that Barry must play for the Warriors next year. Rick had jumped to the Oakland team of the new American Basketball Association. Barry was the leading scorer in the NBA last season.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license, nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself. No more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Busybody Talk

It is an unfortunate fact of life that safety is not newsworthy. Danger and tragedy are. But even tragedy and safety must be looked at in relative terms. And it is in these terms that the rash of publicity about government concern with natural gas pipeline safety perplexes us. The Congress is considering legislation which would put the federal government in the business of regulating gas pipeline safety. Speculative "scare" stories have appeared. Some of them read like science fiction.

The fact is that in a period of almost 16 years, there have been only 29 fatalities to the public from transmission pipeline accidents—and those are the Federal Power Commission's own figures. More than a third of these accidents were caused by punctures of pipelines by bulldozers and road graders, by floods, landslides, even by an airplane pilot hitting a bridge. It's difficult to conceive how Federal safety regulations would preclude such incidents in the future.

Something like 38 million homes, factories, and business establishments use natural gas.

Games People Play

Almost everybody we know is playing games these days — games that must be pumping millions into the nation's economy. Stop for a tank of gas or a quart of oil and the attendant slips you a fancy form that might possibly perhaps be worth hundreds of dollars to you. As you leave the supermarket the lady at the checkout counter stuffs a ticket in with the pickles and pumpernickel that might be worth even more than the bag of groceries you just purchased.

And if you don't go anywhere you have all sorts of things offered to you by mail. Tremendous things. "You may already have won $250,000," one flyer informs you. "You may already have won your own private jetliner complete with pilot and hostess," another proclaims. To get a crack at these prizes all you do is fill out the enclosed slip and mail it in. There's nothing to buy. However, if you'd care to subscribe to magazine or order some hackwad blades your order will be gratefully accepted.

Somebody must win all these goodies that are being handed out so freely, but all we ever hear about are the people who win the consolation prizes. Nobody we know has won the Taj Mahal, the Hope Diamond, or

Collision Course

While most of our young people are spending the summer months trying to earn some extra money, swimming and playing, the Vietnams and campus protestors are busily thinking up new plans for the coming year. Recently, the Students for a Democratic Society, the largest of the so-called "New Left" organizations, held a convention at the University of Michigan.

This convention openly embarked the SDS on a collision course with the United States government. One of the resolutions passed at the convention called upon all SDS chapters to aid servicemen who wish to desert from the service and to go underground. A former vice-president of SDS told how this would be implemented: "First, hide the guy out a few weeks until his GI haircut grows in. Then give him your draft card to write to the draft board for another copy telling them you lost yours. After that, supplied with civilian clothes, he leaves for another city and gets a job."

The sponsor of the resolution said, "I intended it to be an illegal resolution. We should stand for disruption in the armed forces and for soldiers going underground."

Every major city in the United States is served. There are approximately 200,000 miles of large-diameter high pressure gas pipeline in use. Yet the industry has imposed upon itself such strict safety measures that, in the last sixteen years of its operations, loss of public life as a result of pipeline failures was held to an average of less than two per year. And the industry has supported the adoption of this safety code by state governments — successfully in the case of 45 states.

In other words — the industry knows that safety is good business. This self-interest is a powerful force. In the most recent year of record, the gas pipeline industry spent $66 million solely on the safety aspects of its pipelines.

According to the National Safety Council, the odds on being killed by lightning are 60 times greater than the chances of being a fatal statistic in a gas pipeline accident.

Yet the Federal government thinks that it can do better and "regulate" improved safety in the gas pipeline industry. It sounds like busybody talk to us.

The Rolls Royce compete with genuine British chauffeur. So, our curiosity whetted with a touch of envy, we wonder who does win the super jackpot. And, we wonder about something else. Do all these giveaways really build business for the donors, or do they have the same net effect as this nation's handouts to such countries as India, Yugoslavia and the United Arab Republic?

An answer of sorts was given recently by a petroleum trade journal which studied the games people play around the gas pumps. Sales did indeed go up while the company was pumping out money along with the high-octane. But business dropped off quickly after the money stopped flowing.

It somehow reminds us of the old joke that everyone has heard with the tagline everybody knows: "But, what have you done for me lately?"

It reminds us, also, that we've been paying our share of all that prize money. It is the very nature of the game that prices have to be adjusted to cover not only the cost of merchandise but the prize money as well. Would it be impertinent to call this a form of gambling, with the odds nor the amount he is wagering?

In another resolution delegates voted their support for five members of the Student Non-violent coordination committee charged with murdering a Texas policeman at Texas Southern University. The SDS convention also voted support for the 16 arrested members of the Revolutionary Action Movement (RAM) who planned to assassinate various moderate Negro leaders. Finally the convention voted that the SDS National office "take whatever steps are necessary" to support any leftist group under government attack.

One proposal that will be decided later by the SDS organization deals with the possibility of undertaking a student strike next spring. The strike, if carried out, would call for immediate withdrawal of American troops from Vietnam. It would also attempt to undercut any other campus groups and would seek to make SDS the controlling influence in left-wing campus politics.

We hope the vacationing college students get a lot of relaxation this summer. Once they get back on the campus and are faced with the revolutionary tactics of the SDS types there isn't going to be much time for re-

Common Sense on Slums

In proposing a domestic Marshall Plan to rid the nation of slums and slum problems including guerrilla war in the streets of America, Vice President Hubert Humphrey ignores human and economic realities. Disasters such as the terrible riot in Detroit cannot be stopped by vastly increasing public spending. Slums cannot be stopped by vastly increasing public spending. Slums cannot be eliminated by federal expenditures, for buildings don't make slums; people make slums.

Indeed one of the lessons of the Detroit tragedy is that anti-poverty programs don't constitute insurance for American cities against the ravages of rioters, looters and arsonists. Detroit had kingsize anti-poverty programs in operation when the rioting broke out. Street revolutionaries, who destroyed approximately half a billion dollars worth of property, were not inhibited in their terrorism by government handouts.

Unfortunately, the liberals still rely on public spending as a cure-all. Like the Bourbon kings of old, they learn nothing and forget nothing. After the initial shock of the rioting, they are back at the old stand, calling for more public spending to prevent further outbreaks. The New York Times, for example, speaks of "the urban poor condemned to the slums." It sees huge outlays of cash as the avenue to municipal peace.

These are fallacies. In the first place, no American is "condemned" to a slum. He may live in one, but he can escape by hard work. No country in the world offers such economic opportunity or social mobility for people on the bottom sill of life. The history of America is the history of hard-working people who get ahead. Generations of Americans have started with nothing, and made a comfortable place for themselves in their communities.

Why is it that one group of Americans in today's cities seem to be stalled? It is not a lack of opportunity. Never before has there been so much free education. Jobs are abundant. But education and job opportunities are useless if there is no will to learn and no desire to work. If government teaches one group that it is entitled to an endless variety of handouts and special privileges. This is what Big Government has been preaching in recent years. This is the philosophy of the liberals.

It is surprising, therefore, that one group now apparently believes that it has no obligation to pull itself up by its own bootstraps, that this is a duty of government or social assistance agencies. And as government, in the last analysis, really is unable to uplift a people to the level of self-reliant citizens, the handout-happy people become resentful and bitter. They feed on the emotional diet dished out by communists and fellow-travelers.

The liberal doctrine of social "revolution" in a few years has been translated into an imagined right to riot and loot. Those who have been taught that they are poor because Society let them down are now rapidly gaining the idea that they don't have to pay for goods — that all they need do is throw a brick through a plateglass window and reach in and grab a color TV set.

The classical definition of this situation is Anarchy. Civilized societies have to arm themselves against this situation — literally as well as in terms of political understanding. Thus the first step for restoration of decency in America's cities is a massive strengthening of the law enforcement agencies and the laws under which they operate.

Before the blight of slums can be removed, slum-dwellers must acquire a new outlook. They must regain the respect for law that has been eroded in recent years. The best way to rebuild respect is by full and prompt prosecution of promoters of insurrection such as Stokely Carmichael, former head of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee. Carmichael showed his true colors when he surfaced in Havana, threatened vengeance against the President of the United States, and described Chinese Communist Dictator Mao Tse-tung as his "Idol."

The Rat & Fly Patrol

Save our cities! Save them from the Fatcats who own them in absentia, for the politicians who control them, for the pimps and the pigeons and the pygmies and the welfare cretins. Save 'em for Stokely!

Save our cities! Save 'em for the Russians. It's so much easier to control cities than the countryside. And they're ever so much easier to destroy by bombing. Save our cities so we can have more riots, bigger and better welfare programs, Moscow garage-style housing projects, busing of whites to black and blacks to whites in an urban checker game.

Seven out of every ten Americans are already crowded in to just one percent of the nation's land. And it is predicted that in the next twenty-five years 100 million more Americans will seek togetherness with the 140 million people already occupying the nation's cities and suburbs. So what does the government do? It becomes the City Saviour. It plans for fantastic subsidies to encourage additional millions to pile into the cities, when just the opposite should be done. But of course, "that would be common sense—and out of place in government," as Mark Twain observed.

Twenty-five years ago, when President Roosevelt was planning us into Pearl Harbor, the federal government should have subsidized the cost-plus war industries only on the basis that they would disperse their facilities into rural areas. From the standpoint of defense, crime, the national economy, transportation, and health that was the only sensible thing to do. But the Left controlled the cities—and when common sense and control are in conflict, politicians favor control every time.

Even the federal farm program has been designed to force small farmers off the farm and into the asphalt warrens of the Left. And now the minimum wage for farm laborers will drive hundreds of thousands more farm workers into the urban rat and fly traps.

The same "moderate" news magazines which have griped relentlessly through the years about farm subsidies (while lobbying relentlessly to hold their own mail subsidies) are now excited about "saving our cities." The total government subsidy of the farm program has been about $60 billion. Our collectivists are now talking about sub-

Lawlessness Must Yield to Vigorous Enforcement, Demands Hartke; Urges Jobs to Prevent 'Root Causes'

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Rioting, shooting, burning and pillaging by mobs of rampaging Negroes are crimes that cannot and must not be tolerated.

There can be no justification for lawlessness regardless of any alleged cause for which it may be invoked. Crime is crime whether it's in the name of civil rights or anything else. . . . The time has come to put an end to the violent and destructive outbreaks and depredations that have scarred and mutilated large and small communities across the country this summer. They must be dealt with exactly for what they are — defiant and rebellious attacks against law and order.

"We must stop letting political considerations shape our law enforcement," says Hartke "and take a positive stand against the violence and lawlessness that are closing down entire cities. We have got to put our own house in order, and if this means a militant stand for law and order, then it is high time we met that issue head on.

"I cannot understand why our nation's chief law enforcement officers cannot read the riot act to rioters and those who incite riots and insurrection. This is the day of the new 'three R's.' If self-designated leaders of minority groups are ready to assert their rights, they must also assume the other two R's of responsibility and respectability."

HOW TO DEAL WITH IT — It is Senator Hartke's contention that the "root causes" of riots and violence is "joblessness in a land of plenty."

Putting large numbers of unemployed to work would accomplish two vital objectives in one stroke: Give the lagging national economy a much-needed shot in the arm; and instill a sense of dignity and self-respect in untold numbers of men who desperately need that.

Having a job would give them a sense of belonging, of being a member of the community, and offer hope of becoming a self-supporting citizen.

"Let's put all able American jobless to work," declares Hartke. "There is plenty of work to be done. We need a massive program to rebuild our central cities, to clear out the slums, to build housing, schools and highways. We need a massive back-to-work program that, among other things, would put an end to the continuing pollution that threatens our water supplies and the air we breathe.

Regardless of what causes are invoked by rioters, their burning, looting, shooting and other outrages are crimes against our society, and must be regarded as crimes and dealt with as crimes. The American people, both Negro and white, are thoroughly fed up with the devastating transgressions perpetrated against our homes and our cities.

While mentioning no names nor citing any instances, Hartke makes it clear he feels there has been too much politics in dealing with rioters. Far more prompt, vigorous and decisive law enforcement than has been displayed is urgently called for.

"We must stop letting political considerations shape our law enforcement," says Hartke "and take a positive stand against the violence and lawlessness that are closing down entire cities. We have got to put our own house in order, and if this means a militant stand for law and order, then it is high time we met that issue head on.

"I cannot understand why our nation's chief law enforcement officers cannot read the riot act to rioters and those who incite riots and insurrection. This is the day of the new 'three R's.' Our most pressing challenge today is to deal with this unfinished business — our glutted cities, our crime, our poverty, our water and air pollution, our housing needs, and

Between the Bookends

UTOPIA REVISITED

The eternal quest for a perfect society has preoccupied many writers. From Plato to Edward Bellamy, authors have sought to construct (Fictionally or otherwise) a picture of a system by which every citizen can have both prosperity and freedom.

Inevitably, the author excites a few converts and suffers the criticisms of those who see the flaws in his dream.

Aldous Huxley's "Brave New World" described the totalitarian conclusion of the so-called "perfect society" in which everyone would be made to be happy and be satisfied. Test-tube babies were given the exact ingredients to provide them with the talents that society "needed" from them plus the desire to be no more nor less than the station in life assigned them by the scientists.

Such is the logical conclusion of power—and it is not very inviting. Disturbed by power, Huxley has created a second society—one in which individuals are to be prevented from securing and consolidating power. In his book "Island" (available in paperback from Bantam, Des Plaines, Illinois; 75 cents) he describes Pala, the island of paradise where all citizens are free.

But what is "freedom?" Obviously, it is what the author (or the society's rulers) define it to be. In the author's view, everyone is free as long as the society operates as he would like it to.

On Pala, each youngster is subject of specific training that is designed to make him a mature, free, non-dictatorial individual. Drugs, philosophies, no less important our loss of morality and public conscience.

"A rebuild America" program would go a long way to alleviate these desperate problems and restore our moral strength. The cost is cheap at any price if we are to survive as a united nation secure in the human values which have made us great."

UNHERALDED GRAVITY-TRAIN — Tucked away in the $3.1 billion foreign aid authorization bill approved by the House Foreign Affairs Committee is a juicy little plum which, if voted by Congress, will provide a number of "free loaders" throughout the country with government-paid junkets to Latin America.

This unnoticed rider is a $714,000 amendment written into the measure by Representative William Broomfield, R-Mich., in behalf of a little-known group he was largely instrumental in organizing — Partners of the Alliance.

The Alliance is the once-much-touted Alliance for Progress launched by President Kennedy to promote the welfare of "underdeveloped" South American countries. In its six-year existence, it has cost U.S. taxpayers several billions of dollars.

Partner organizations now exist in 31 states, with five others in process of being formed. It is estimated 629 Partners will partake of the $714,000 hoped-for "free loading" junkets to Latin America.

Broomfield says frankly all this money will be spent for traveling expenses.

Although the accomplishments of the Partners are unknown to the public, Broomfield enthusiastically characterizes them as extraordinary, as follows:

"The Partners program has probably done more with less money than any other American program overseas. . . . In the three years since its inception, this program has produced benefits to Latin America totaling $7,312,706. (He does not explain just how this total was reached.)

Wit and Whimsy

I'm sure you've heard of the guy from Houston who was visiting Paris for the first time. Pointing to the Eiffel Tower, he said to his wife, John — Mary, how many barrels a day you reckon they get out of the rig?

Father, you know what my religion is? It's the Golden Rule. That's all I need to know about religion.

Priest — You know what my astronomy is? It's Twinkle, twinkle, little star. That's all I need to know about astronomy.

Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, New Jersey, North Carolina, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Wisconsin, Wyoming and the District of Columbia.

Last week this column disclosed that AID, the foreign aid agency, had set up a $65,000 project to make a report on the Partners.

Put in charge of this undertaking is former Representative Roy McVicker, D-Colo., elected in 1964 and defeated in the 1966 Republican sweep. Title of the project is the Bi-National Development Feasibility Study.

Lame-duck McVicker is being paid as a $100-a-day consultant.

Representative Vernon Thomson, R-Wis., member of the foreign Affairs Committee is trying to get an official explanation of this apparent boondoggle. In a letter to William Gaud, AID head, Thomson characterized it as having all the appearances of "determining the feasibility of what you are already doing."

PREDICTIONS — The Suez Canal will be reopened within a few months despite Nasser's demand that Israel withdraw from the waterway. Powerfully influencing the Egyptian ruler's backdown is the big boom in super-tankers. West Germany has orders for seven 200,000-ton tankers, Japanese shipbuilders are bidding on ten others of the same size, and additional orders are in the offing. All these huge tankers mean a less business for the canal. . . .

Stokely Carmichael, loud-talking leftist Black Power yammerer, won't be returning to the U.S. for some time. From Cuba, where he has been attending a Communist party, the former SNCC head will go to Russia and most likely Egypt and other Arab countries. . . .

As a result of President Johnson's decision to send another 50,000 troops to Vietnam, there will be a large increase in draft call-ups the latter part of this year. Starting in October, they will jump to 35,000 and upwards. . . .

Elected by the enthusiastic reception he got at a big fundraising dinner in San Francisco last weekend, Senator Robert Kennedy has agreed to attend another in Los Angeles in the fall. He went to San Francisco at the behest of California Assembly Speaker Jesse Unruh, who has strong gubernatorial ambitions.

How Our Religious Liberties Are Being Threatened

By HON. SAM J. ERVIN, JR.
United States Senator From North Carolina
(These Times)

Despite 180 years of continual remonstrances against an official relationship between the state and the church, our centralized government is endeavoring to relieve the church membership of the right and responsibility for its own support.

Congressional actions that appeared as an occasional intrusion on our liberties a generation ago have attained today the proportion of a massive assault. An indication of this development and its portent is evinced by a statement made in December, 1965, by the director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, Mr. Sargent Shriver. He said, "Three or four years ago it was practically impossible for a federal agency to give a direct grant to a religious group. Today we have given hundreds without violating the principle of separation of church and state."

It is appropriate that we examine the principles upon which the Founding Fathers designed the master plan for our government. For the most heartrending story of history is that of man's struggle against civil and ecclesiastical tyranny for the simple right to bow his own knees before his own God in his own way.

As one of America's wisest jurists of all time, the late Chief Justice Walter P. Stacy, of the Supreme Court of North Carolina, declared, "Men contend more furiously over the road to heaven, which they cannot see, than over their visible walks on earth." And history records the tragic fact "that men have gone to war and cut each other's throats because they could not agree as to what was to become of them after their throats were cut."

America's Greatest Contribution
To the self-examined American, religious liberty is the greatest contribution this nation has made both in the realm of politics and of religion. We can be proud that the United States became the first place in the world where complete religious liberty was actually tried in a political state; and up to now at least, religious liberty has flourished.

By the time the new state and federal constitutions were being drafted, religious liberty was to a large degree already in practical operation. A failure to recognize this liberty in these new constitutions and to breathe life into this ambition would have meant a retreat from attitudes prevalent among the colonists. Today, religious liberty is enjoyed in America to an extent unparalleled anywhere else in the world. Unfortunately, the complacency that besets many Americans about problems less understood is also prevalent in the realm of religion. We too often take for granted a right which may be in jeopardy this very day.

Lessons of History
It is fitting, therefore, that we recall the conditions under which this national treasure was conceived; and we would do well to remember that a nation which ignores the lessons history teaches is doomed to repeat the tragic mistakes of the past.

What is the meaning of separation of church and state? What did our Founding Fathers intend to do when they embodied in the First Amendment these words: "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof"?

The answer to either of these questions cannot be determined by a narrow analysis of any one event but must be viewed as an evolutionary process. The trend was unmistakable, the stages identifiable. One might think that religious liberty in the United States was a natural consequence of the emergence of a new nation. This was, however, not the case. Those coming to colonize found that in a majority of the colonies the predominant religious groups had established official churches. Accordingly, all members of the colony were compelled to pay taxes for the support of churches. Moreover, they were required to frequent the services of such religious institutions even though they might disagree with their doctrines. During the pre-Revolutionary period, at least eight colonies provided for the selective use of taxes for the support of an established church. The Anglican and Congregational Churches were favored in these colonies; and in some, they were established by law.

Dissenters to this principle of single establishments began their efforts to achieve complete separation of seeking special concessions and granting privileges of free worship. They said, and I think rightfully so, that it was tyrannical for a government to attempt to regulate the relationship of worship between the individual and his God and that such regulation was also sinful.

Reasons For Change
Their demand for the disestablishment of churches was comprised of two objectives: first, an end to the financial connection between state and church; and second, a recognition of the right of each person to exercise freely his own mode of worship.

Opposed to this, the established churches, in order to ward off attacks for total disestablishment, persuaded the state legislatures to open up the state privileges to the dissenting groups and to gradually admit more churches to the establishment.

It is the resulting compromise between the liberal groups, believing in religious freedom and the established churches, that once again threatens what we know and enjoy as the principle of separation of church and state.

This compromise existed in a number of states for a relatively long time. Any cooperation between the state and any or all churches was considered establishment. It was against this background and this expanded meaning of multiple establishment that the First Amendment was planned.

It disturbs me to observe the actions of those in a position to affect the affairs of mankind who feel themselves not only capable, but duty-bound to ignore the thinking of the drafters of our First Amendment. But as Mr. Justice Black has said, "Government should not be allowed, under cover of the soft euphemism of 'cooperation,' to steal into the sacred area of religious choice."

Those seeking to pervert the principle of separation by affording financial assistance to denominational institutions have apparently forgotten this meaning of multiple establishment.

They have conveniently misunderstood significant events in our history in urging that cooperation between church and state is advisable so long as the state treats all religious groups equally and fairly.

The present policy of making Federal aid available to all non-secular institutions is in reality a reappearance of an earlier threat to our religious freedom—the principle of multiple establishment so wisely discarded years ago.

They have fled away in the halls of bureaucracy the great truths discovered by those early men that the right of free expression of conscience is natural and inalienable and cannot be fully enjoyed as long as it is dependent upon a grant privilege by the state.

They have overlooked an event in history which presented a clear opportunity for decision on the issue of establishment. This decision laid the foundation of religious liberty in America.

Recognized All
This event, or series of events, occurred in the Virginia legislature immediately preceding the writing of the First Amendment. There Patrick Henry, in 1784, introduced "A Bill Establishing a Provision for Teachers of the Christian Religion." It undertook to give official recognition to virtually all Christian churches and to provide taxes for their support. In the same legislature James Madison introduced Thomas Jefferson's "Bill for Establishing Religious Freedom" which has come to be known as "The Virginia Statute of Religious Freedom." Written in 1779, it is one of the great documents which preceded the writing of the Constitution and laid down two propositions: First, that there should be no religious qualifications as a test for holding office; and second, that it is sinful and tyrannical to tax a man for the propagation of religious doctrine which he disbelieves.

Meaning Of Establishment
The Virginia legislature was presented with a clear-cut choice. To assist these legislators in their decision, James Madison issued one of the greatest appeals for religious freedom ever made. It was called "The Memorial and Remonstrance Against Religious Assessments." In his remonstrance James Madison used the word "establishment" at least five times in contexts which showed that in his mind "an establishment of religion" meant an official relationship between the state and one church or many or all churches.

In reference to Patrick Henry's bill Madison said, "It is proper to take alarm at the first experiment on our liberties. . . . The freemen of America did not wait until usurped power had strengthened itself by exercise, and entangled the question in precedents." He had feared the entanglements that could occur in the then brief history of our nation. Can we not apply his observation even more justifiably to the present "experiments on our liberties"?

The legislature enacted into law, by a large majority, Jefferson's bill for religious freedom rather than Patrick Henry's establishment bill.

I cannot overmagnify the importance of this bill which sets the example and mood for the First Amendment to our Constitution. The demands of Madison and Jefferson and thousands of other Americans produced that amendment so as to ensure a total disestablishment of religion.

Influence On Supreme Court
The influence of the Virginia Statute in the Supreme Court's interpretation of the religious clauses of the First Amendment was recognized by Mr. Justice Black in Everson v. Board of Education (330 U.S. 1, 13 (1947)). He said:

"This Court has previously recognized that the provisions of the First Amendment, in the drafting and adoption of which Madison and Jefferson played such leading roles, had the same objective and were intended to provide the same protection against governmental intrusion on religious liberty as the Virginia Statute."

Time and time again the Supreme Court has said that neither a state nor the federal government can pass laws which aid one religion, aid all religions, or prefer one religion over another.

Jefferson's use of the phrase "wall of separation" in his 1802 letter to the Danbury (Connecticut) Baptist Association has been the byword in all judicial opinions on this subject.

Inclusively, it has been construed to mean that the state may not employ its facilities or funds in such a way as to give any or all churches greater strength in our society than it would have by relying on its members alone.

In further defining establishment, Mr. Justice Douglas has said, "An institution is strengthened in proselytizing when it is strengthened in any department by contributions from other than its own members."

Despite 180 years of continual remonstrances against establishment our centralized government is endeavoring to relieve the church membership of the right and responsibility for its own support.

"Best For State, Best For Religion"

I agree with Mr. Justice Frankfurter that Ellihu Root's phrase bears repetition. He said, "(We have staked the very existence of our country on the faith that complete separation between the State and religion is best for the State and best for religion." It is my firm conviction that this course is not a tantamount to a decision against God, as some suggest, but rather a decision supporting the faith and intelligence of all free men.

With due deference to all other men of all generations I confess my belief that the world has never known any other group as well qualified as the Founding Fathers to write organic law for a people dedicated to the freedom of the individual.

We, as they, know that a nation which ignores the lessons taught by such history is doomed to repeat the mistakes of the past.

One hundred and eighty years ago Americans paid dearly to secure our basic constitutional freedoms. Today we are allowing these freedoms to be dissipated for temporary purposes.

James Madison said he would not tolerate threepence for religious establishment. Yet today, the federal government administers over sixty programs costing almost five billion dollars in which nonsecular schools and colleges may participate.

The Founding Fathers foresaw that troublesome times would arise when government would seek by sharp and decisive measures to accomplish ends deemed just and proper. And in so doing the government would put the freedom of the individual in peril unless such freedom were established by irrevocable law.

To forestall this calamity in such times they devised the Constitution to define and limit the powers of the federal government and to protect the freedom of the individual from destruction at its hands. With this Constitution they gave us a land with the knowledge and understanding that God grants religious freedom as well as all other freedoms only to those who love it and in the words of Daniel Webster, to those who are always ready to guard and defend it.

Trade vs. Protectionism

(The Free Trader, London, England)

The charge is sometimes made against Free Traders that they are in favour of economic disarmament.

They are put in the same category as those who between the wars neglected the defenses of the nation. The charge is quite unjustified.

There is no doubt that the protectionist measures taken in the interests of sections of industry and agriculture in the inter-war years contributed to international tensions creating misery abroad and sowing the seeds of war.

The mutual interests created by trading were broken and peoples who might well have been friendly to us in war time found no advantage in assisting a people who put up barriers against their productions.

Though Free Traders do not talk in terms of war but in terms of peace it might be claimed with justification that a policy of Free Trade is one of economic armament and that of protection one of economic disarmament.

The policy of protection is one of featherbedding sections of industry. It allows such industries to persist in unsound policies which make for weakness in the industries concerned. It also places burdens on those industries which can survive and improve their positions against foreign competition in world markets. It is those burdens on the exporting industries which amount to economic disarmament.

The policy of protection creates for a time an atmosphere of hot house prosperity. During that time resources accumulated over the centuries are used up in maintaining what is called a healthy home market. But it is not healthy. It is a condition in which the seed corn available for future development is used up. That is what has happened on a large scale in our country now over many years.

Indeed, we are now selling up overseas investments which substantially helped our annual income and ability to obtain supplies from abroad in order to pay off debts incurred by government and which should never have been accumulated.

Not it is not Free Trade which is economic disarmament. Free Trade is the policy which puts the nation in fighting trim so that it can earn its keep in the world's markets.

SOMETHING IS STILL THRIVING

The Last Candle

JACK SCHREIBER
(The Freeman)

How much is it worth? How much is your personal freedom worth to you? How much would you be willing to sacrifice today, just to keep your freedom to worship God as you see fit? What price would you pay just to maintain your right to work at the business or profession of your choice; or your right to speak freely without fear of imprisonment? Have you ever stopped to think that men haven't always been this free? Since the beginning of time, most men through the centuries have been slaves or serfs. Personal freedom was granted as a gift by kings, or tyrants, only to a chosen few. Occasionally, history records, there were brief periods of personal freedom, but it finally took America for the world to realize the dream of all men — the inherent right of a man to be free.

We aren't free to do what we want to do, but rather, Jefferson said, we are free to do what we ought to do. In other words, the price of freedom is individual responsibility. So freedom isn't all free, you see, nor is it perpetual. Part of the American dream is that to each generation there falls a new responsibility to preserve that freedom which was established here by those early patriots. But it took more than just a philosophy of government. Those early Americans, wise beyond their years, also realized that government had to flourish in an economic system of free enterprise with competition as the catalyst. So they established a structure of limited central government, permitting this newly won freedom to have unlimited possibilities.

One could assume, then, that we have it made. Never have any people, at any time, anywhere had it so good. But in our present abundance and luxury something is wrong. People aren't happy. They don't walk down the streets of our cities smiling, or whistling a happy tune. There is discontent, and one can sense fear of the unknown. Overabundant Americans are jittery. There seems to be a tarnish on our golden Mecca. Our welfare lists are growing. We've created a new breed of men who won't work. And instead of the slogan, "God bless America," we now hear, "What have you done for me lately?" The signs aren't too hard to read. They are the signs of internal decay — the dry rot of apathy and indifference. The symptoms of our disease of welfareism began some years ago when we began to penalize success by taxation. By using our tax dollars, government has relieved us of many of our own personal responsibilities, in exchange for our personal freedom. We have come to think of our early history and the men who made it as a kind of fairy tale instead of the greatest success story of all time. We have been flirting with a dangerous and clever seductive mistress called socialism. And for a time, since the depression days of the thirties, we have been toying with ideas which have proven a failure in most of those countries where they've been tried. It seems to me we are in the mess we're in for several reasons.

The Freedom to Barbarism

The first is the natural evolution of civilization. Lord Byron in tracing the rise and fall of great nations, said that "people go from freedom to glory, from glory to wealth, from wealth to vice, from vice to corruption and from corruption to barbarism."

The second reason for the beginning of the welfare state is temptation. We are being tempted as we have never been tempted before — tempted to let the government do it. From all sides of the Great Society comes the siren song. The government should provide free housing; the government should pay for college education; the government should take care of the aged; the government should provide beauty and culture; the government should guarantee jobs; and so it goes. It's not an easy thing being a free American, when all around us the misguided and the misinformed tell us the government owes us all these things which up to now we have been providing for ourselves.

There is a third reason why we are losing our freedom. Most of us accept the beginning of the welfare state, not because of our weakness, but rather because of one of our finest virtues — human compassion. Through our misguided love for humanity we have bought the idea that the mere spending of enormous sums of our own money, plus the creation of vast new bureaucracy to process a and administer the complexities of the new social laws will, in themselves, solve the ills of the people. By passing the buck and surrendering our personal responsibilities into the hands of government we solve our guilty consciences as a nation and as individuals.

And finally, we have begun our journey into the welfare state for another reason. For too long now, too many of us have been too willing to let someone else call the shots. We have been busy with things, which in the end don't count for much, and in our madness for materialism we have forgotten how to lead. We have been letting "George do it," and "George" has messed it up. For one shining, glorious moment of history we had the key and the open door and the way was there before us. Men threw it away along that way with such hope and such brilliance that for a little while we were the light and the inspiration of the world. Now the key has been thrown carelessly aside — the door is closing — we are losing the way.

In summary then, we Americans have inherited the greatest nation in the world, but we're finding out it's not easy being a free American. We need to remind ourselves of the magic formula of free enterprise, operating in an environment of competition with limited central government. We must constantly remind ourselves, and each other, that our freedom is threatened by those who promise us security instead of opportunity. We do not have to go down the drain of the welfare state just because of a silly historic cycle. We can pass on the heritage of personal freedom to our children with the three keys of leadership, personal involvement in public affairs, and a recrudescence of the home and church. This we can do if enough of us will care enough to do enough.

Freedom, Self-Control,

Human Dignity,

And Limited Government

Once upon a time there was a young nation struggling in the community of nations to find her place in the sun. For this young country of brave people discovered that freedom is a God-given right. So impressed were they with this belief that they lit a candle to symbolize their freedom. But in their wisdom they knew that the flame could not burn alone, so they lit a second candle to symbolize man's right to govern himself. The third candle was lit to signify that the rights of the individual were more important than the rights of the state. And finally they lit a fourth candle to show that government should not do for the people those things which people should do for themselves.

As the four candles of freedom burned brightly, the young nation prospered; and as they prospered, they grew fat; and as they grew fat, they got lazy. When they got lazy, they asked the government to do things for them which they had been doing for themselves, and one of the candles went out. As government became bigger, the people became littler and the government became all important and the rights of the individual were sacrificed to the all important rights of the state. Then the second candle went out. In their apathy and indifference they asked someone else to govern them, and someone else did, and the third candle went out.

In the end, more than they wanted freedom, they wanted security, a comfortable life, and they lost all, comfort and security and freedom. For you see when the freedom they wanted most was freedom from responsibility — the Athens ceased to be free, and the Athenians of nearly two thousand years ago were never free again. The last candle was extinguished.

They Paused To Remark

(American Opinion)

It is shocking to the entire world, that so many gallant lives are being sacrificed in Vietnam, in a war that forbids victory. Why is General Westmoreland prevented from duplicating General MacArthur's maneuver in Korea?

We have tried to rule for everybody, but as the years go on we have to prepare the nation to work things out and live by itself. I can do no more than wear out my life in your service; but it is for Spaniards to defend themselves through their own national effort. Laws can establish frameworks and open new paths forward; but the fulfillment of everything must lie with the people.

Trohan On State Departments

(Chicago Tribune)

Few men are better qualified to judge the work of the state department than the chief of our Washington bureau, Walter Trohan. For a third of a century, Mr. Trohan has observed its decline, and in his "Washington Report" Saturday evening on W-G-N he called for an "agonizing reappraisal" (to borrow the late John Foster Dulles' words) of its form and function.

We cannot improve on Mr. Trohan's words in summing up the evidence in favor of change.

"The troubles of the state department," he began, "have grown even faster than its mushrooming payroll. Before World War II the state department numbered about 6,000 employees. Today it numbers almost 44,000 and is growing."

"Before the war we traded with every country on earth and were liked or respected by all. Today we don't trade with some countries, limit our trade to others, and find our balance of trade is nowhere near what it was, percentage-wise, in better days. We also find that many nations hate us, others dislike us, some are neutral against us, and almost no one likes or respects us."

Today, Mr. Trohan said, the state of the world "seems to make it quite clear to one and all that there is something wrong at the state department. We rescued Russia from Hitler in World War II. We also saved France. Russia is helping kill American boys in Vietnam. . . ."

The French have thrown NATO out of France. They insist American troops leave their soil."

Under prodding of the state department, Mr. Trohan said, we have given away between 120 and 200 billion dollars in foreign aid, including interest charges on the money borrowed for the purpose. "No other people on the face of the earth have ever been so generous. Yet we have reaped more insults and injuries from our generosity than gratitude."

Americans themselves have taken to demonstrating against state department policy, Mr. Trohan said, and to burning the flag and draft cards. "To my knowledge no flag burner has been brought to trial for desecrating what we were taught to revere. Yet a Chicagoan who burned the French flag in front of the French consulate by way of protest against desecration of our flag in France was fined $100 for disorderly conduct."

Mr. Trohan said that our foreign policy "seems to have been designed to favor England, France, Russia or any country concerned. . . . instead of to advance America and the American way in such a manner as to benefit the country concerned. . . . The state department is peopled by many bright young and old people who frequently forget they are Americans in their concern for countries or areas to which they are assigned."

If any department of a private business concern were to show as dismal a record of performance as the state department, it would have been "reappraised" and probably reorganized years ago and given a clear definition of its mission. But in "Foggy Bottom" the visibility is so bad that the department is unable to discern its own failure. We hope Mr. Trohan's suggestion bears fruit.
