

House Set to Pass New Hike On Social Security Benefits

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House was ready today to approve a massive bill that would increase Social Security benefits across-the-board and impose tight new restrictions on federal child welfare payments.

Democrats and Republicans vied to voice their support of the 12.5 per cent increase in pension benefits for the 23 million older Americans on Social Security.

But the 207-page bill contained a snapper in its welfare section, one that drew the fire of Secretary John W. Gardner of the Health, Education and Welfare Department (HEW). He said the proposed child welfare restrictions would force poor children "to pay for the real or supposed sins of their parents."

The bill the Ways & Means Committee reported to the House was quite a bit different from the measure President Johnson proposed earlier this year. He had asked for a 15 per cent minimum increase in Social Security benefits and far milder welfare changes than the committee approved.

The committee's goal was to get the mothers of some 5 million children off welfare and into jobs. To do this, it wrote provisions into the bill that would force states to set up work-training, education, birth control, foster care, and other programs with federal aid.

But the panel also proposed that a "freeze" be imposed on the number of illegitimate children to be covered under the aid to dependent children program which currently costs the government about $1.5 billion a year. It estimated that this would save $700 million in annual welfare costs by 1972.

It was this provision that jarred Gardner, who said he would seek to have the Senate delete it from the final bill. The bill actually arrived before the House Wednesday night under a procedural rule that barred amendments, thus insuring its passage late today exactly as it emerged from committee.

Under the measure, the increased benefits would begin two months after President Johnson signs it into law. This could mean increased pension checks by Christmas.

The bill called for a minimum benefit of $50 a month to a Social Security pensioner compared to the current $44. The present range of payments from $44 to a maximum of $142 a month for a pensioner now on Social Security.

The House measure would increase this for people now getting Social Security to a maximum of $159.80. For retirees in the future, the range would go from a minimum $50 to $212 a month.

The maximum $290.40 in annual payroll taxes a worker pays a year would go up over a period of years to reach $448.40 by 1987.

In addition to higher benefits—and higher taxes—and welfare restrictions, the bill includes a big, new $1.5 billion program of child health care over the next five years.

NFO Strike Is Favored On All Farm Produce

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI)—The National Farmers organization, a veteran of strike-racked price raising efforts, began mapping strategy today for its biggest effort ever, a nationwide market strike on all farm commodities.

An estimated 220,000 to 350,000 sweltering farmers from 28 states shouted unanimous approval of the market strike Wednesday at the end of a tumultuous five-hour meeting in Veteran's Auditorium here.

The members, jammed uncomfortably into every available spot in the hot auditorium, approved the plan after it was presented to them by NFO President Oren Lee Staley. Staley took some 45 minutes to present the plan to them in a speech somewhat similar to an old-time evangelist.

"The only problem in American agriculture is low farm prices," he said. "We 30 NFO directors are ready to lead the battle for the American farmer. But we have to know if you'll follow us."

He said the objective of the action would be to raise the price of corn to $1.50 a bushel, wheat to $2 a bushel and soybeans to $3 a bushel. At the Chicago Board of Trade, top grade corn closed at about $1.22 a bushel on the cash grain market Wednesday, wheat at about $1.55 a bushel and soybeans at $2.80 a bushel.

The approved plan recommends that NFO members hold "at least 50 per cent" of their crop off the market this fall. Participating farmers would obtain loans from either the federal government or local banks on the portion of the crop they were withholding.

They also would sign an agreement giving the NFO authority to decide when the crops withheld would be placed on the market. The crops would not be sold until the grain reached the target prices.

Staley and earlier speakers were interrupted again and again by applause from the enthusiastic throng as they issued a "call to arms" to the members.

Fairbanks Flood Misery On Rise

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (UPI)—With 15,000 persons evacuated, nearly every home and business damaged by flood waters and damage estimated at $150 million, Fairbanks was a picture of devastation today. Three persons were dead in the floods.

More rain was possible to add to the misery of this Alaskan interior city of 30,000 that was inundated Monday by the flooding Chena River, which snakes through its center.

But Alaskans met the third day of their flood emergency with the rugged, pioneer spirit that built the 49th State and sustains them through bitter winters when temperatures hit 60 below.

"I'm rich—I don't have a home anymore, but I still have my family, a car and a pickup truck," said a woman employee of the Federal aviation agency. "Food, supplies and words of cheer were pouring in from every corner of the state. Hit by a big earthquake in 1964, Alaskans know what it means to be a good neighbor."

But time is of the essence for Fairbanks' 30,000 residents to begin the job of rebuilding. "Winter comes early in this country," said Mayor H.A. Boucher. "We have only about six weeks before freeze to clean up and repair."

After heavy rain, the water began spilling over the Chena's banks on Monday. The crest was 18 feet at its worst.

The Weather Bureau at Anchorage forecast occasional rain today, but the crest was expected to drop to 13 feet.

Alaska Gov. Walter Hickel said Wednesday, "Fairbanks is a goner" unless the federal government provides massive aid at once. President Johnson was expected to declare the city a disaster area today.

The downtown business district was awash in up to five feet of murky water. Debris and water-soaked merchandise from broken store fronts bobbed freely along the streets. Broken power lines hissed and sparked as they splashed into the water.

Some 600 persons were flown to Anchorage where they were put up in private homes. An estimated 700 residents took refuge in their cars in high ground.

The university of Alaska was turned into a refugee camp where 4,000 persons were lodged. Others remained in their water soaked homes or emergency shelters.

Facilities were set up in Anchorage and Camp Carroll, a National Guard training area on Ft. Richardson, for evacuees. About 50 women and children were taken to Camp Carroll Wednesday night and they reported that their homes were ruined along with their possessions.

Those who remained in the city were struggling for their very existence. Many were seen cooking on charcoal broilers on the rooftops of several buildings. When National Guardsmen and volunteer rescuers rode past in amphibious vehicles, the residents smiled, waved and held up their hands in victory signs.

Nearly every home and business building in the city was damaged by the flooding. The city's water supply was gone and rail lines were impassable. Air travel from the stricken city was on a priority basis.

Bodies Recovered From Mountain

MARFA, Tex. (UPI)—Members of the Brewster County rescue patrol climbed up and down Mt. Livermore for six hours Wednesday to recover three bodies from the wreckage of a plane which crashed there last Friday.

The wreckage was found on the side of Texas' fourth highest mountain Tuesday when a Border Patrol plane spotted it after a four day search.

A member of the rescue team said parts of the airplane were strewn for hundreds of yards along the mountainside and the bodies were badly mangled.

Killed in the wreck were Oklahoman cattle buyer James W. Gastineau of Tulsa, and two passengers, Bill Patton of Cherokee, Okla., and Duke Damaranville of Sioux City, Iowa.

The rescue patrol drove to within a mile of the wreckage site Wednesday, and then had to climb the rest of the way up the 8,382 foot mountain.

The plane took off from Marfa last Friday for a trip to Oklahoma City, but crashed a short time after takeoff.

Mao Asks Ouster Arch Rival Liu In Power Drive

HONG KONG (UPI)—Peking Radio today openly broadcast Mao's demands for the dismissal of Chinese Communist President Liu-Scho-chi. Veteran observers here said the broadcast is part of a growing drive that may be the opening gun of an attempt to purge formally the arch force Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung.

The broadcast was one of the few times—if not the first time—Mao's propaganda machine has called openly for Liu's ouster.

In other developments in Communist China's "Cultural Revolution" power struggle, Hong Kong newspapers quoted travelers as saying an anti-Mao Red Chinese army unit has mutinied at the city of Canton.

The independent newspaper Ming Pao said troops of the 43rd Army at the city already have confronted soldiers of the 47th Army sent to Canton to put down mass power struggle fighting in the streets.

Other Hong Kong newspapers quoted travelers as saying residents fleeing from the city which was reported filled with the stench of corpses left from street fighting between anti and pro-Mao forces. They said residents feared the 43rd and 47th Armies might open full scale civil war.

The Peking correspondent of the Japanese newspaper Ashai Shimbun reported more trouble in the powerful Red Chinese army. He quoted wall posters in the capital as charging top ranking commanders with siding with Liu against Mao in the power struggle.

The accused included Hsiao Hua, chief of the army's powerful political department, and Hsu Hsiang-chien, a one-time marshal who formerly directed Mao's "cultural revolution" in the military.

The army was a vital, perhaps the most vital factor in Mao's struggle to gain supreme power and purge party, government and army leaders. Mao's press and radio organs repeatedly have called for army support and acknowledged "dangerous" opposition in the military.

Mounties Continue Search For Clues to Mass Murder

SHELL LAKE, Sask. (UPI)—Canadian Mounties today worked with a hazy clue to the identity of the killer of nine members of a farm family—the story of a stranger in the house as told by the only survivor.

Four-year-old Phyllis Peterson told her uncle and authorities she saw a man she did not recognize looking in her dresser drawer on the night of terror. The Royal Canadian Mounted police appeared confident even though conceding there were no suspects, no known motive and that no murder weapon had been found in the slayings of James Peterson, 47, his wife and seven of their children.

"We will keep expanding the search with Shell Lake as a focal point until we get the break. I'm sure we will get," said RCMP S. Sgt. R. E.

Nine Persons Hurt, Heavy Fire Damage

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI)—Negro bands smashed windows, looted stores and set fires Wednesday night and early today. One group chanted "Burn, Baby, Burn" across the street from a dry cleaning establishment as it blazed out of control. An estimated 300 Negroes, moving in small groups, were involved in the disorder which subsided before dawn today.

Police Quickly Restore Order In Houston Outbreak

HOUSTON (UPI)—Authorities today blamed a spreading rumor that a Negro had been killed by a white man for a "spontaneous" outbreak of gunfire and the burning of two buildings in a predominantly Negro neighborhood.

Police moved into the area in force and quickly restored order Wednesday night. The middle class section remained sealed off today but no further incidents were reported.

Police said the Negro, Leon Perry Jr., 27, was wounded in the right leg by a white service station attendant when he tried to rob the station. Perry was charged with robbery by assault.

The incident aroused residents in a nearby apartment unit, and a few shots were fired, police said. Rocks were thrown at the service station and it was set on fire.

The fire gutted the station as well as a nearby grocery. Police and firemen rushed to the scene where they were greeted by volleys of bricks and stones.

About 125 policemen remained overnight at the scene. Mayor Louis Welch praised the community's "loyalty" and the "restraint" exhibited by the police department.

"We received excellent cooperation from OEO (Office of Economic Opportunity) officials who toured the area dispelling rumors and easing the situation," he said.

Three persons, including Perry, were arrested. One of them was a white man who was apprehended carrying a shotgun.

Blair Justice, an aide to Mayor Welch, was forced to withdraw behind the police roadblock because of flying bricks during the initial disorder.

The incident occurred in the southeast section of Houston, about five miles from Texas Southern University. TSU was the scene of Negro rioting last May when one policeman was killed and hundreds of students arrested.

Sondegaard late Wednesday night. "We don't have a motive or a weapon," RCMP inspector Brian Sawyer said.

Saw Mother Run Shelmer Helgton, Phyllis' uncle, said the girl told him she not only saw a stranger in the house but also heard shots and saw her mother running out of the house, and her father lying on the kitchen floor.

The ever-widening search for the killer or killers of the Petersons is centered in flat farm country broken by occasional rolling hills and groves of trees. The farm where James Peterson and his family were grain and tended a dairy herd is only miles from unsettled bush country.

Phyllis was found huddled in a bed between the bodies of two of her dead sisters.

Nine persons, including three policemen, were slightly injured. At least 28, both Negroes and whites, were arrested, most of them for unlawful assembly and disorderly conduct. Two persons, one an antiporter worker, were charged with inciting to riot. A thrown bottle cracked the helmet of patrolman Patrick Ahern but he was not hurt seriously.

Police stood guard today outside the stores whose windows were smashed in the disorder to prevent looting and cleanup work was begun.

The state police began an investigation into the cause and extent of the trouble in order to be prepared in the event they are called upon to help city police in any further outbreak.

Two thirds of this city's 390-man police force and 110 members of the Onondaga County Sheriff's department were called out to combat the disturbances which spread through a predominantly Negro business district near the sprawling campus of Syracuse University.

A young Negro told United Press International he believed the violence was triggered by a report that a Negro had been beaten by police Tuesday night near the University. Police reported arresting Willie Reese Jr. in the area Tuesday and charged him with disorderly conduct and resisting arrest.

Police said he showed up in court Wednesday with bruises on his face but told the judge the incident had been his fault and apologized.

Four fires were reported. At the dry cleaning store, 15 Negroes smashed the window then tossed in lighted pieces of gasoline soaked papers that ignited clothing and wrappers. The store was gutted. Before the store was set ablaze, the gang smashed a car window and burned out the interior.

Authorities said the disturbances began when 10 Negro youths smashed a liquor store window and looted it. As police cars converged on the scene, a crowd of 100 or more formed. The Negroes began stoning the police cars and smashing other store windows. Hit and run violence then began.

The violence seemed to be mostly in a six-square block area near the university. Negroes in cars, trucks and on foot tried to break into the nurses residence of Memorial Hospital on Irving Avenue in the heart of the trouble area but a police unit chased them away. A police guard was set up at the residence.

At least two of the stores looted had been named Tuesday. (See Negro, Page 3)

Police Promotions May Come Friday

Announcement of the results of last Thursday's examination for promotion of two patrolmen to sergeants in the Pampa police department may come tomorrow.

City Manager Jim White said today he and Police Chief Jim Conner was interviewing the five men who took the exams Friday morning.

Examination papers already have been graded by the police chief. Final promotions will be based on the grades plus information obtained in the interviews, White stated.

The city manager returned to his office today after a brief three-day vacation.

Sudan Says CIA Trying to Topple Pro-Red Premier

By United Press International The Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) was accused today of trying to topple the Moscow-leaning Sudanese government. Arab economic ministers were at loggerheads over how to bring their strongest economic weapons to bear against the United States and other nations accused of aiding "Israeli aggression."

The Cairo newspaper Al Gomhuria, official organ of Egypt's ruling Arab Socialist Union, said the Sudanese government uncovered the alleged CIA plot last week.

Al Gomhuria said the CIA sought to undermine the government of Premier Mohamed Ahmed Mahgoub by "buying off" members of the parliamentary majority whose confidence in Mahgoub is essential.

Mahgoub was to be replaced by a pro-American administration, the newspaper claimed. It said the alleged effort by CIA agents "who operate in the Sudan under the cover of diplomatic and technical posts" failed when some pro-government parliamentarians reported the "CIA activity" to Mahgoub.

Reports from the Arab economic ministers' conference in Baghdad indicated Saudi Arabia, Tunisia, Libya, Morocco and Lebanon were only lukewarm toward an Iraqi plan to stop all Arab oil shipments worldwide for three months in a bid to exhaust Western supplies.

The five nations urged an in-depth study of the plan based on statistics and the scientific analysis of Arab economies and their dependence on oil for budgetary income.

In Jerusalem, Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban claimed Jordan was bent on encouraging prospective Arab returns to the Israeli-held west bank of the Jordan River to disrupt civil order and Israeli security.

Eban told Nils Goran Gussing, U.N. Secretary General Thant's personal envoy on the Mideast crisis, that Jordan's continued incitement of west bank Arabs and prospective Jordanian returnees violated the humanitarian spirit of the Israeli-Jordanian agreement. The pact was to let Arabs who fled east in panic during the June 5-10 Middle East war return to their west bank homes.

The first returnees were expected to start crossing the Allenby Bridge early Friday morning. About 30,000 Arabs have asked to return.

Three Die In Cisco Crash

CISCO, Tex. (UPI)—A collision of two cars and a butane truck that threw the truck into a ditch and caused fear of possible explosion killed three elderly residents of Vera, Tex., and injured two other persons Wednesday.

Killed in the wreck were Mr. and Mrs. John T. Bowdoin, both in their early 70s, and Mrs. Mary B. Russell, 70. They were all riding in the same car.

Injured were Mrs. Betty Clark, 20, the driver of the second car and R. E. Blalock, driver of the truck. Mrs. Clark and Blalock are both from Cisco.

The highway was closed off for a short time by the Department of Public Safety for fear the truck might explode. Members of the Cisco Fire Department were dispatched to pour water on the truck.

Leathernecks Take Hill On Main Supply Route

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. Marines today stormed and captured a Communist fortress hill that threatened the Leathernecks' main supply line. They killed at least 67 guerrillas and sent hundreds more fleeing for their lives, spokesmen said.

American officials also reported that U.S. forces last week suffered the least number of casualties in seven months. They said 82 Americans were killed, 748 wounded and nine reported missing last week.

The Marines fought four battles in two days around and on the 1,700-foot-high hill near coastal Highway 1, which is 350 miles northeast of Saigon. At last report the Leathernecks still were battling the fleeing Communists.

The Marine action was barely two miles west of the area where troops of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division said Wednesday they had trapped a regiment of 1,200 to 1,500 Communists. There were no new reports today of this action in which the paratroopers said they killed 80 Communists. U.S. officials said the Marine conquest apparently smashed a Communist plan to use the hill as a bastion for striking the supply convoys pushing up and down the vital highway.

Marine casualties in the fighting Wednesday and today were listed at five dead and 23 wounded. But spokesmen said the fight was not over.

Pinned artillery barrages and U.S. divebombing attacks broke the back of the Communist defenders, spokesmen said. The Marines then crushed in successive battles the guerrilla force, they said.

In other action, U.S. fighter bombers flew 111 missions against North Vietnam Wednesday. Spokesmen said had we held down the number of raids. But the jet pilots hit the southern panhandle supply lines and reported destroying seven bridges, smashing 13 trucks triggering 64 secondary explosions and setting off 122 fires and sinking 44 cargo craft. U.S. spokesmen said the casualties suffered last week were the second lowest of any week of 1967. The only lower report came in the first week of the year when 67 Americans were killed and 546 wounded.

American officials also said the Communists last week suffered 1,043 men slain. It was the least number of Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops killed since the week ending April 22 when 980 were reported slain.

South Vietnamese forces suffered 283 combat deaths last week and other allied units suffered 18 men slain during the same period, spokesmen said.

The battle of the 1,700-foot hill, 10 miles east of Tan Ky, opened Wednesday when a leatherneck company—about 205 men—came under heavy machine gun fire. The Marines were sweeping the rolling countryside below the hill in Operation Cochise, aiming at smashing the guerrillas harrassing their supply lines.

Bravo 'Lettuce' Cigarette Firm Leaving Hereford
HEREFORD, Tex. (UPI) — The main offices of Bravo Smokes, Inc., and all packaging for the company's products — nicotine-free, "lettuce" cigarettes — will be moved to Dallas in early September, the company president said yesterday.

Puzant C. Torigian said the move was prompted by the unwillingness of potential marketing, technical and financial personnel to move to a small town. The 1960 census listed Hereford's population at 6,752.

A decision has been reached, he said, on the location of a new curing plant in the Texas Lower Rio Grande Valley, but he declined to specify the location "until we make firm contractual agreements."

He said officials of the city where the new plant will open, probably in November, have offered his firm the use of facilities to house the plant. About 40 to 50 workers will be hired from the Valley to work in the plant, he said, with an approximate weekly payroll of $5,000.

No Effort Being Made to Return Old Alamo Flag

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — The United States has not been making any effort to get the flag captured by Mexican forces at the Alamo returned to Texas, well informed sources said.

The Texas Legislature passed a bill calling for return of the flag some time ago, and Gov. John Connally passed it on to the State Department. The flag is that of a New Orleans volunteer group, captured by Mexican troops under Gen. Santa Anna who overran the San Antonio fortress.

It is now in the Mexico City Museum of History. Its tattered remnants were patched together by Mexican technicians when Texas began talking about requesting its return.

The flag may eventually be returned during a wholesale swap of old war trophies, the sources said, but no action is in the works at the present time.

Delaware Indian Black Beaver, Army scout and pathfinder, is credited with leading troops from Ft. Cobb, Indian Territory, to Ft. PHS Students Enroll August 28

Pampa High School students will enroll over a two-day period and in alphabetical order according to grade. Mrs. Donna Cornutt, high school registrar, announced today.

Seniors will register from noon to 5 p.m. on Monday, Aug. 28 according to an alphabetical schedule which will be announced early next week.

Juniors are scheduled to enroll from 7 until 11 a.m. on Tuesday, Aug. 29, with sophomores enrolling that afternoon from 1 until 4.

High school students who are new to the Pampa Independent School District will enroll Tuesday, Aug. 28, from 4 until 5 p.m.

New students and incoming sophomores are invited to tour the high school campus before enrolling and visit with Mrs. Gene Fathener, the high school counselor, Mrs. Cornutt said.

Obituaries

Walter Glee Jones, 74, of 1917 N. Dwight, resident of Pampa, and the Laketon Community since 1905 died at 6 p.m. yesterday in Highland General Hospital following a four-year illness.

Born Dec. 23, 1893, in Oakland, Ill., Mr. Jones resided on a farm in the Laketon Community from 1905 until moving to Pampa four years ago. He married Miss Vivian Kidd on Jan. 17, 1931, in Marietta, Okla. Mr. Jones was a retired stockman and farmer.

Pair Indicted On Murder Charges

WHEELER — The Wheeler County grand jury indicted Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Simpson of Shamrock yesterday on charges of murder with malice aforethought in connection with the shooting death of Jake Sutton of Shamrock.

Sutton was shot to death July 1 in the front yard of his residence at 310 N. Wall in Shamrock, District Attorney Bill Waters of Pampa said.

The grand jury met Tuesday in 31st Judicial District Court here and also returned another indictment against Simpson on accessory to murder. Simpson was Sutton's nephew, Waters said.

Mr. and Mrs. Simpson were given $10,000 bonds each and were being held in Wheeler County Jail late Wednesday. Simpson was also given an additional $1,000 bond on the second indictment of accessory to murder.

The two are expected to be arraigned here before Judge Grainger McIlhenny, Aug. 24. Their attorney is Paul Spillman of Wellington.

The grand jury also returned three other indictments Tuesday on David Garza, 23, of Shamrock for burglary; D. W. Everhart, 24, of Las Vegas, Nev. for forgery and possession of a forged instrument and Malcolm Wolfe, 40, of Wichita Falls, theft.

Garza was indicted in connection with burglary of Lee Hardware Store here Aug. 4, when guns, watches, transistor radios shells, and a record-player were

CoC to Name 7 Directors In September

A nominating committee has selected 14 candidates for the CoC board of directors' slate. Seven new directors will be elected by ballot Sept. 12.

Committee members met yesterday at a luncheon to name the 14. From their suggestions, CoC members will vote for seven to serve three year term each.

New directors will be installed in October in a dinner meeting before the annual banquet Oct. 24.

Committee members are Norman Henry, chairman; Aubrey Steele, Floyd Watson, Gordon Lyons and E. L. Green Jr., all past CoC presidents.

taken, Waters said.

Everhart was charged in connection with attempting to pass a forged check July 7 for $658.82 at a Ford dealer in Wheeler. The check was written on W. D. Eberling, according to Waters.

Wolfe was indicted in connection with theft of a coin collection and tools from Larry Montgomery July 28. Wolfe was being held under a $3,500 bond Garza and Everhart were being held late Wednesday under $1,500 bonds cash in Wheeler County Jail.

Garza, Wolfe and Everhart are scheduled to appear before Judge McIlhenny here Aug. 24.

Jack Newman

Funeral services for Jack Newman, 72, of Lefors, who was dead on arrival at Highland General Hospital yesterday morning will be at 2 p.m. Saturday in Lefors First Baptist Church. Rev. Ed Spivey of Lefors and Rev. W. R. Lawrence, pastor of Clarendon First Baptist Church will officiate.

Burial will be in Lefors Cemetery under direction of Duenk Funeral Home.

Pallbearers will be M. F. Tibbets, Jim Haley, W. T. Tillman, Alvin Martin, Pete Roberts and George Burkett.

Survivors include his wife Mrs. James Elmore Newman of the home; two sons, Jackie Dean Newman, stationed at Cheyenne Wyo., with the U.S. Air Force, and Larry Ray Newman, serving with the U.S. Air Force at Roswell, N.M., and five daughters, Mrs. Sharon Kay McGee of Plentyville, Mont., Mrs. Harry Davis of Denver, Colo., and Mrs. Ralph Ingram and Mrs. Billy Campbell, both of Fort Worth.

Weekend Outing Is Planned By Parent Group

The newly-organized Parents Without Partners Club will participate in a week-end outing with their children at Lake Skipout near Reydon, Okla., Saturday and Sunday.

Plans include swimming, boating, water-skiing Saturday. Mack Hiatt, PWP class teacher at First Baptist Church here, will teach a special Sunday school class Sunday morning on the lake beach. Classes are also planned for children.

For trip information, PWP members may contact Mrs. Floy Crites, PWP president, MO 4-7818 after 5 p.m.

Bill Maxwell, cousin of Mrs. Lou Deane Geerdes of 1052 Varon Drive, will sing during the song service around the campfire. He is visiting Mrs. Geerdes for an indefinite period.

Maxwell, a professional singer from Hollywood, Calif., sings in eight languages and has performed in night clubs, musicals and also sang at Ronald Reagan's political rally during Reagan's campaign for California governorship.

"Seven years ago, Maxwell signed a contract to perform in a musical in New York City. The day before he was to fly to New York to begin rehearsals, he was involved in a car accident. He was seriously injured, and almost blinded. For five years he has undergone plastic surgery, but plans to resume his musical career," Mrs. Geerdes said.

Before becoming a professional singer, Maxwell was national Collegiate Wrestling champion from Michigan state. He also played professional tennis while living in Tulsa, Okla.

He will sing here at the Sunday night services of Central Baptist Church.

Harvester Annual Editor Is Cited

LAWRENCE, Kan. — Vickie Elsheimer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. L. Elsheimer, 506 N. Price, was one of several students cited for outstanding work in the recently completed summer journalism camp at the University of Kansas.

Miss Elsheimer received a certificate of merit for her performance from the William Allen White School of Journalism, which sponsors the program.

Miss Elsheimer is now editor of the Harvester annual at Pampa High School.

The camp attracted 137 youths from 28 states. A division of the University's Midwestern Music and Art Camp, it provided students with instruction in reporting, editing, advertising, radio-television, yearbooks and editorial writing.

Apple Slump, New England Favorite

APPLE SLUMP — Light and airy sugar dumplings crowned with sliced apples in this traditional New England dessert called Apple Slump.

How fond of a dessert can you be? Louisa May Alcott, author of "Little Women" liked her favorite dessert so much that she named her house after it. The dessert was Apple Slump, brought up-to-date with convenient canned pie-sliced apples to eliminate the tiresome "peel, core, and slice" steps which made its preparation in New England kitchens as much labor as it was loved.

In this version the apple slices are spiced and simmered, then crowned with a raisin-a-cent dumpling mixture, which is simmered, canned pie-sliced apples and their liquid with 3/4-cup sugar, cinnamon and nutmeg in 9-inch skillet. Cook over medium heat until mixture boils. Cream together butter and 1/4-cup sugar. Sift together flour, baking powder, and salt. Add to creamed mixture and blend well. Add milk gradually and mix until well blended. Stir in raisins. Spoon on top of simmering apple mixture. Cover and simmer for 15-20 minutes or until dumplings are done. Makes 6 servings.

Apple Slump
1 pound, 4 oz. can pie-sliced apples
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
2 tablespoons butter, softened
1 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup milk

Pineapple Salad Is Hawaiian Treat

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Mona Lei Sen of the University of Hawaii isn't mixed up, but her recipe for fruit salad certainly is. In fact it is called Pulpule Pineapple Salad, because "pulpule" means "mixed up" in Hawaiian.

This recipe was one of Mona Lei's entries in the recent National College Queen contest.

PULPULE PINEAPPLE SALAD

2 whole pineapples, split
1 apple
2 bananas
Lemon juice
4 cups shredded cabbage
1/2 cup real mayonnaise
1/2 cup creamy peanut butter
1 teaspoon sugar
Red food coloring (optional)
1 small carrot, shredded...

Cut pineapples in half lengthwise, including tops. Carve out inner portion from each pineapple half; discard cores and cut fruit into chunks. Cut apple and bananas into bite-sized pieces. Sprinkle with lemon juice. Mix fruit with cabbage and divide salad among the 4 pineapple halves.

Prepare dressing by blending mayonnaise, peanut butter and sugar. Add a drop of food coloring to give dressing reddish tinge, if desired. Sprinkle carrots over each filled pineapple

Your Freezer, A Friend and Slave

Friend and Servant
Swamped as you are with committee meetings, sports tournaments, family outings and a few less stimulating chores, your freezer can be a lifesaver when the never-quiet "Time to Eat!" bell sounds in your home.

Freeze with the season. Freeze with bargains. Freeze with the upcoming weekend in mind. Here are just a few of the handy jobs your freezer will do for you:

- Freeze drifts of whipped cream and store in a plastic bag for later use.
- Freeze tart or pie shells baked or unbaked. To save space, stack when frozen and wrapped.
- Overwrap and freeze butter for emergency use.
- Press saran food wrap over ice cream in partially used cartons to preserve flavor and prevent the formation of ice crystals.
- Freeze sandwiches, cupcakes or slices of cake for lunch boxes, picnics or snacks.
- Freeze fancy sandwiches, shell. Ladle dressing on top of each salad and garnish with pineapple chunk. Chill before serving. Four servings.

Food Buying Guide

The following guide to the nation's food buys for the weekend was prepared by the Departments of Agriculture and Interior for United Press International.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Variety is this weekend's key word as to the array of plentiful foods available in your grocery market.

Look for attractive prices on these colorful, vitamin-packed vegetables now in good supply: Cabbage, tomatoes, potatoes, lettuce, corn, onions, and in some areas cucumbers, green beans and peppers.

Fruits in abundance include cantaloups, watermelons, and in some areas, lemons, limes and grapes.

You'll find a protein bonus in your meat department where several meats are in ample supply. Among these are beef roasts and steaks, bacon, ham, broiler-fryers and turkeys. Also plentiful are eggs. Watch for good buys in both medium-sized and large ones.

Nationally on the fish scene, canned tuna, fish sticks and portions are in best-supply.

miniature pizzas, or dips a few days before a party.

- Freeze leftover bits of meat, poultry or vegetables for use in casseroles, soups or sauce.
- Freeze cookies, cakes and then combine to suit yourself compotes and dessert.
- Freeze fruits separately, for an endless variety of salads, holiday breads for gifts.

For those on a salt- or sugar-free diet, special foods may be prepared using sugar and salt substitutes recommended by the attending physician.

COOK'S TOUR

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Food Editor

NEW YORK — Freedom from fear is teacher Joy Gilpin's most important contribution to her students' cooking skills.

All of her students are blind and more than 60 per cent of them are over 65 years old — more than a generation older than she — and set in their ways. None of this appears to faze their teacher, who has been totally blind herself for the past 21 years and who had only partial sight for five years before that.

Miss Gilpin is home teacher of the blind for the Brooklyn Bureau of Social Service and Children's Aid Society. She said in an interview here that she carries an active case load of 60 to 65 women, whom she teaches both in their homes and in regular classes at bureau headquarters.

On a typical day, she visits three or four women to teach them general orientation in the home — not just cooking skills and kitchen safety, but how to dial a phone, thread a needle, use an electric sewing machine — "anything to get the person functioning again."

"Many have been cooking all their lives," she said. "People in their fifties and sixties are used to cooking the long way (instead of using convenience foods) and you can't change them."

"If a woman was a good cook before she became blind, I show her how to control the heat on her stove, how not to be afraid. On my first visit, I remove the stove dials so the gas company can mark them in Braille and check the stove before the student uses it."

Miss Gilpin also teaches blind women to read and write in Braille, so they can make plastic labels in that raised dot transcribing system for herbs, spices, canned and packaged foods. Many of her safety tips for blind cooks are just as valuable to sighted ones. They include:

- Keep pot handles turned toward the side of the stove so you won't hit them accidentally.
- Use back burners first to avoid reaching over flames or electric burners to stir or turn food.
- When you slice food, cut straight down on a wooden surface to keep the knife from slipping.
- Wrap meat loaf in a wide strip of heavy aluminum foil with a hole in the bottom for fat drainage and cook it on a rack in a pan. When the loaf is done, the foil can be used as handles to remove the meat safely to a serving dish. Miss Gilpin said she learned this trick from one of her students.

She prefers push-button control electric ranges to gas ranges because of the safety factor, but teaches gas range owners to use a simmer ring on top burners, which lessens the danger of burns and fires. A simmer ring is a metal device that covers a burner and helps prevent boilovers and keeps puddings and other creamy foods from burning when cooked on direct heat.

She insists her students confine frying to foods such as bacon and eggs that do not require deep fat: that they use an electric skillet rather than a grease-filled regular skillet on a stove.

The Aspici Touch For Ham, Eggs

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The August appetite needs a bit of coaxing. Something delicate and different yet substantial. We found two such dishes when we dined at Luchow's in New York recently on a very hot and humid night.

The internationally known German restaurant has its lighter side. Here is edible evidence. So enjoy yourself and forget the heat.

We're giving you the recipes just as the chef gave them to us.

LUCHOW'S POACHED EGGS IN ASPIC

2 eggs
1 slice cooked ham
Cooked vegetables
1 pint strong consommé
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1 cup dry white wine (or water)...

In individual serving dish, place slice of ham, poach eggs. Drain and cool. Place eggs on top of ham. Add assorted vegetables: peas, celery carrots, asparagus. Cover with aspic. Chill for several hours until firm. (One serving).

ASPIC: Bring consommé to boil. Moisten gelatin, then add. Continue boiling for 5 minutes. Remove from heat. Stir in wine (or water, flavored with drops of lemon juice).

Served glazed ham garnished with spiced peaches filled with cranberry - orange relish, baked sweet potato puffs, and green beans almondine. High light your dinner, with honey butterflake rolls made with re-

Spareribs Get Apple Juice Marinade

SPARERIBS in apple juice marinade.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
For the Labor Day cookout, or for anytime you want to grill something different, try this recipe for pork spareribs with an apple juice, brown sugar, garlic and spice marinade.

SPICY SPARERIBS
3 to 4 pounds spareribs
1 teaspoon brown sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 cup apple juice
1-3 cup oil
1 clove garlic, minced
6 whole cloves...

To cook in oven: Place spareribs, bone side down, on a rack in an open roasting pan. Bake in a slow oven (325 degrees) 1 hour. Brush with marinade and bake 30 minutes. Turn ribs and brush with marinade. Bake 15 minutes, brush and continue baking 15 minutes. (Four to six servings).

To cook on grill: Place spareribs on grill 5 inches from heat. Cook slowly, about 2 hours or until meat is done. Brush ribs with marinade during last half hour.

PROVIDING FUN for children at a circus is a job for clowns, but it is also a job to makeup for each performance. George Perkins, known as "Perky," spends 20 minutes putting on makeup before the Shrine Circus performances. Far left, he checks to make sure he is "clean-shaven." Next he applies a powder base to his face, very white around the eyes and lips. Center, he adds a red nose, and a dark powder to his jaws, after having drawn "new" eye-brows and dots underneath his eyes. Next, he dons a brown wig, made in Germany of real human hair. Far right, he's all dressed up "to clown around." "Perky" has been a clown since 1928 and has been in show business since 1918.

United States Will Cut Troops If West Germany Reduces Force

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson has put West Germany on notice that a substantial reduction in its armed forces could force the United States to reduce further its own troops there.

The warning was delivered Tuesday as Johnson and Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger met for two hours in a general discussion of world problems. The two leaders were winding up the talks today.

Sources said Johnson made it clear he was not advocating any further U.S. military withdrawal from Europe. But they added substantial cuts in German armed strength would have a severe "political and psychological" impact on the U.S. Congress and public opinion in the United States.

The administration might then find it difficult to withstand the resulting pressures for reducing the American commitment in Germany, the President was reported to have said.

Indications that the Bonn government wants to reduce substantially its defense spending apparently was the main topic of discussion in the first White House talks between the two leaders.

Johnson and Kiesinger met briefly with newsmen after their first get-together. The President said he and the chancellor were agreed that the Atlantic Alliance should not be impaired by any abrupt military reductions.

"We are very anxious to maintain that strength," Johnson said.

Polar Icebreakers In Historic Effort

NEW YORK (UPI)—Two powerful U.S. Coast Guard polar icebreakers have been ploughing through the Arctic seas for a month in a historic attempt to make the first circumnavigation of the Arctic, it was disclosed today.

The Coast Guard announced that the voyage of discovery, began near Trondheim, Norway, Aug. 1, was proceeding successfully and was expected to be completed in late September. The icebreakers, Edisto and Eastwind, expect to encounter extremely heavy ice conditions along the route, however, a spokesman said.

The exploration, undertaken during the warmest months in the frozen polar areas, has a dual purpose, according to the Coast Guard. It will collect oceanographic information which will be made available throughout the world through data centers in Washington and Moscow, and it will help to determine future icebreaker design.

The voyage is expected to shed important light on the scientific mystery surrounding the exchange of waters between the Pacific, Atlantic and Arctic oceans, which has a vital bearing on climatic changes in the northern hemisphere.

President's Foreign Aid Proposal Being Whittled

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson's $2.7 billion foreign aid proposal, already weakened by a curb on arms sales to underdeveloped nations, faced another Senate test today over narrowing the bill's economic provisions.

Four Senate votes were required to dispose of the arms issue Tuesday in a day of rapid-fire parliamentary maneuvering.

The Johnson administration lost out by just one vote in the key roll call, a 46 to 45 tally by which the Senate upheld its Foreign Relations Committee and voted to limit the Pentagon's arms deals.

The actual vote was on an amendment that would have removed the arms curb from the committee's bill. Its rejection left in the measure a provision to abolish a Defense Department revolving fund used in the past to guarantee Export-Import bank loans for arms purchases by underdeveloped nations.

Called up for action today was a proposal by Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., to override another action of the Foreign Relations Committee.

San Antonio Gets Minimum Wage

SAN ANTONIO (UPI)—San Antonio's $1.25-an-hour minimum wage law took effect today and it covers nearly everybody whose minimum wages are not set by national law.

The most notable exceptions are baby sitting and yard work.

The law took effect 30 days after an official canvass of votes in an referendum. Voters approved a minimum wage law by a margin of nearly 2-1.

City manager Jack Shelly said he either will name a director of minimum wages, which will be a new post, or hand the enforcement job to the present head of a city department.

Shelly said he has not made up his mind yet which he will do but will make a recommendation Thursday in the City Council.

A district judge upheld the minimum wage law last week in its first legal test.

Mathis is the only other Texas city that has a minimum wage law.

DALLAS (UPI)—Lone Star Gas Co. said Thursday it is not in merger talks with any other company and to its knowledge nobody is making a tender offer to its shareholders. The report was prompted by brisk trading recently in Lone Star common stock and a substantial rise in its price.

Miss Phyllis Conners Is Quivira GS Council Executive Director

MISS PHYLLIS CONNERS Girl Scout executive

Miss Phyllis Conners, 23, of Waterbury, Conn., has been named as the new Quivira Girl Scout Council executive director, and will direct Girl Scout activities in a 10-county area. According to Mrs. John Porter of Shamrock, council president, the council has been without a director since January. Miss Conners, a graduate of Anna Maria College in Paxton, Mass., with a B.A. in history, also attended Southern Connecticut State College for education under a state grant and did graduate study in art history at Yale University.

While in college, she directed a junior Girl Scout troop and was unit leader of a primitive camping unit in Otis, Mass., in the Berkshires Mountains of New England.

"Last year I taught fifth grade in Waterbury and worked with an experimental program in science and social studies. It was a project in discovery methods, creative experiences for children. Most of the children were from disadvantaged homes," she said.

Miss Conners also worked during the summers with children in the Cerebral Palsy Institute in Waterbury, was a volunteer at Waterbury Hospital and Waterbury Girls Club, where she taught swimming and arts and crafts.

In college she worked in student government, was financial manager of the college newspaper, assistant to social chairman and had the lead in two Drama Club plays.

She has been in Brownies and later Girl Scouts since the age of eight and has received 63 Merit Badges and the Curved Bar rank, which is equivalent to Eagle rank of Boy Scouts. She has also been president of her eighth grade Girl Scout troop.

Her new supervisory area includes Gray, Armstrong, Donley, Collingsworth, Hall, Wheeler, Carson, Lipscomb, Hutchinson and Roberts counties.

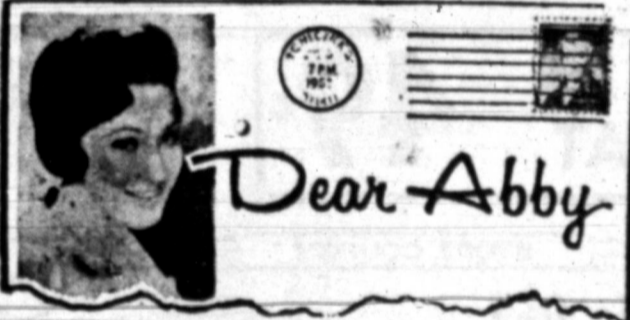

MATURE PARENT

By MURIEL LAWRENCE Newspaper Enterprise Assn. DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: Last term in his junior year our son was class treasurer, a member of the track team and trumpet in the school band. As a result of all these extra responsibilities, his marks fell off. Now he's gotten himself appointed business manager for the school paper next term. Because he is risking his college eligibility by neglecting his studies, his father wants to forbid all extra activities next term. But the boy gets so irritable if his marks are mentioned. ANSWER: Irritable, is he? Good! Then his father can shut up. The boy's own irritability is taking care of his discipline. For irritability is anxiety — and anxiety is what a psychoanalyst friend of mine calls the "vestibule of birth." And what is coming to birth in this irritable son of yours is his own decision to relinquish the grandeur of his greedy, adolescent ambitions. He will soon settle for himself as one of us, another limited human being.

So my counsel is to let him be while at the same time conveying your affection and concern. If at 16, this child can realize how idiotic are his superman ambitions, he'll have so much going for him, he can afford to fail in his poor subjects this term. Indeed, he can afford to postpone college for a year if he has to. For the discovery of the grandiosity of his demands on himself has to be made sooner or later. If it's delayed until he gets to college, he'll end up a nervous wreck the college psychiatrist will have to try to put together again. Glorification or their capacities is the besetting problem of the adolescent. So when doubt of these superman capacities begins to create irritable anxiety in our high school youngster, we are very fortunate parents. All we have to do is wait until his realistic doubt defeats his superman delusions. Then we've got his own experience of defeat by craziness to back us up when we say: "O.K., then. Now you've learned that nobody can try to do all the things you've been trying to do — and do all of them well."

by Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 58. My husband is 71 and retired. We have been married for 26 years. He has always been a kind and generous man, but Abby, I know that what I feel in my heart for him is pity, gratitude, and habit — not true love.

We have very little in common. I am a college graduate and former school teacher while he never went beyond fifth grade in grammar school. His only interests are home cooked meals, sports, and shoot-em-up westerns on television. He is so childish and dull.

Living with him underfoot all day is getting to be more than I can tolerate. We have no children who survived beyond infancy. I am lonely, bored and frustrated.

Would you advise divorce late in life? He has money, and I know I could get a good settlement. No name or city, please. I'm sure he doesn't know what's in my mind.

"MRS. X" DEAR MRS. X: After 26 years of marriage to this "kind and generous man" I think he is deserving of more loyalty and consideration than you exhibit. And what makes you, at 58, think all you have to do is divorce him and your life would be transformed into an exciting, gay, and fulfilling one? You supply the answer's but be honest with yourself. Then act accordingly. DEAR ABBY: I would like your views on girls and women (over 40) who come to work in an office in mini and micro-mini skirts. Isn't there some booklet that describes appropriate dress for the office? Sign me, Horrified.

DEAR HORRIFIED: In the absence of house rules, common sense should prevail. Unfortunately common sense seems to be less and less common these days. In which case the office manager, boss or whoever is responsible for the morale efficiency, and output of the establishment should post some clear cut "thou shalt's" and "thou shalt not's" with re-run a wire in a container and stick a shade or globe on and insist such a unit is utilitarian and decorative.

Why the current concern for better lighting in a home? Because poor or inadequate lighting takes a psychological toll of those who must live with it daily. Inadequate lighting causes dull shadows, it casts a gloom on handsome furniture, fabrics and the family. Too much contrast between light and dark areas in a room can cause eye fatigue.

Lighting expert David Weisberg of Progress Lighting shows his understanding of women when he admits, "It is difficult to cast a critical eye on your favorite things. In this case, a chandelier, wall sconce or table lamp.

"A homemaker, though, puts her own personality into an interior. This individuality often is lost with dull, shadowy lighting."

There is a swing to replacing fixtures in existing homes and upon request getting the lighting needed in a new home.

When selecting new lighting, Weisberg ticks off points to consider. Uppermost is what the light will be needed for—reading, sewing, painting, dining. Light shaded so it does not shine directly into the eyes is important. He also says that general over-all lighting is necessary to avoid sharp contrast between the light and dark areas of a room. Most do not use a combo of lamps and general lighting at all or at least not effectively, he feels.

If the color scheme in a room is dark you will need more wattage because dark colors tend to absorb light. And while you are at it investigate the lighting to accent a pattern, change the mood of a room, focus attention on a floral arrangement. For help turn to the local utility company. Often it has a lighting expert on the staff or there is one on call in your region who will give advice on lighting problems.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROL R. RIGTER

FOR FRIDAY, AUG. 18 GENERAL TENDENCIES: Until sundown you are under good aspects to add some modern and attractive touch to your possessions and to get others to see your friendly qualities but the evening finds an argumentative condition arising that can be very explosive and cause quite a bit of discord and unhappiness. So use self-control.

ARIES: (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — Agood contrast assists you in gaining some vital personal aim during day, but do not pick an argument with your mate in p.m. Social affairs are best handled during the day. Also, avoid the extravagant tonight.

Taurus: (Apr. 20 to May 20) — You can easily get in touch with things today and get backing for your biggest plans, but avoid the public eye tonight. A.M. is best time for civic participation. Take it easy tonight.

Gemini: (May 21 to June 21) — You can start a new upswing if you get an early start and persevere, so that tonight you can count your blessings. Plan any trips you want to take early. Get into backing if work as well.

MOON CHILDREN: (June 22 to July 21) — You find an easier way to handle responsibilities now as well as how to come to better understanding with loved one. Do your work well, but do not get ready in p.m. Be modest, calm.

Leo: (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Do everything you can to assist a good partner who appreciates your abilities. Do a bit of confidence in others during the evening. Ideal day to show your finest talents where you can commercialize on them.

Virgo: (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) — A more modern system is necessary if you are to get your work done efficiently and you also become more respected by coworkers. Fix wardrobe tonight. You have good luck during day, but don't try to push it too far tonight.

Libra: (Sept. 22 to Oct. 21) — You are very willing to do it, and you will still have time to enjoy that hobby in p.m. have an opportunity to help an ally, so find out what others are planning. But do so secretly.

Scorpio: (Oct. 22 to Nov. 21) — Doing whatever will increase harmony at home is wise now and avoid a hot battle now and tonight. Go after whatever special aim is yours and you have every chance of being successful in it. Take it easy in p.m.

Sagittarius: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Don't be afraid to state your ideas energetically with partners and they will sleep on them in p.m. Day hours fine for much constructive activity. However, it is best to rest in the evening.

Capricorn: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Be most enthusiastic about financial affairs during day and add to abundance, but be sure to be economical in fun tonight. One who is an expert in business gives excellent ideas. Be more modern in your approach.

Aquarius: (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — You have a fine opportunity to state your aims very clearly to others and also be charming in a social way. Do not leave important decisions for the evening. You could get into difficulty with bigwigs.

Pisces: (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — During day you can accomplish almost anything you desire, so get busy early and then take it easy in p.m. An experienced person gives you the data you want. Study it well during spare time tonight.

OLD WORLD is wrapped up in a roomsetting with an outdoor garden look. Done by interior designer Rebecca Petrin for Progress Lighting, it shows a bell-shaped chandelier in wrought iron. Wall sconce adapted from Spanish wall touch has cracked glass cylinder. All key the terra cotta flooring and earth-tone color ties in with the rough plaster walls. Woven wicker settee and chair, plus pillows in hot reds and yellow complete the setting.

By AILEEN SNOODY Newspaper Enterprise Assn. NEW YORK (NEA) —Before and after pictures of a lighted room might help cast a revealing light on a major home decorating problem. It is the dismal lack of proper lighting.

Although many homes have their quota of fixtures and lamps the tell-tale "photograph would point up their almost candlelight existence. It is strange, too, since the lighting industry itself woke up about a decade ago. The result is better design in fixtures and bulbs for quality home lighting. There is a rub. Many manufacturers still

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were invited to the home of a friend for a small dinner party. When I received the invitation my hostess asked me expressly NOT to tell her sister-in-law that she was having a party because she hadn't invited her.

Well, the morning after the party, this uninvited sister-in-law phoned me and asked, "What did you do last night?" What could I say?

TRAPPED DEAR TRAPPED: You could have said, "It's a military secret — and blows your friendship to smithereens. Or you could have told her where you had been.

When asked not to "tell" something don't accept the burden of bearing the secret. Reply instead, "I'll not volunteer the information. Neither will I lie if asked."

Picnic 'Eats' To Be Featured At Boys Ranch Rodeo

Giant-sized barbecue beef sandwiches, prepared and served by the boys, will be one of the special attractions of the 23rd annual Cal Farley's Boys Ranch Rodeo.

The barbecue beef sandwiches, which will be sold for $1 with potato chips, iced tea, and all the trimmings, will serve two purposes. They will allow visitors to come early to the rodeo and picnic, and they will provide Boys Ranchers who are studying meat-cutting and cooking to show the skills they have learned and, at the same time, a chance to build their Ranch home through concession sales.

All the meat served will be Boys Ranch beef, prepared by boys who have received their training by cooking meals for the 348 Ranchers in the Ranch's dining hall.

Performances of the Boys Ranch rodeo will begin at 2:30 p.m. on both Sunday and Monday, Sept. 3 and 4, and will be the biggest Labor Day event in the Texas Panhandle. Advance tickets for the two performances are available from the Boys Ranch office, Box 1890, Amarillo. Box seats are $2.50, general admission tickets are $1.50, and children and servicemen in uniform will be admitted for $75 cents.

Now They Are Counterfeiting Pennies, Nickels and Dimes

DALLAS (UPI)—A federal investigator warned coin collectors and dealers today to beware of certain pennies, nickels and dimes offered to them for sale—they may be counterfeit.

Asst. U. S. Atty. Tim Timmins said investigators are trying to find out how extensive a counterfeit operation is involved in the discovery in Dallas that scores of bogus "rare" coins have turned up. There could be "substantial quantities of these coins in circulation," he said.

A government witness told a federal hearing Tuesday the bad coins were being made in foreign countries and brought to the United States to sell to coin collectors.

Collector Testifies

Nathan Shay, a Dallas coin collector, testified in a hearing before U. S. Commissioner W.E. Smith in the case against Harvey Ray Hatcher of Dallas. Hatcher is accused, under Title 18 of the U. S. Code, of selling and delivering counterfeit coins and of bringing them into the country.

The counts against him covered some allegedly counterfeit pennies and an allegedly counterfeit 1916 dime with the "D" mint mark, meaning the Denver mint.

"It is almost impossible to say the number of collectors who may have been victimized," Timmins said.

Testimony at the hearing indicated counterfeit coins circulated among Dallas dealers or collectors included some 1939 - D nickels worth $800 to $1,000 per roll of 40, some 1916 - D dimes worth some $500 each, and some 1931-S pennies worth perhaps $50 each.

Could Build Rapidly

"At those prices, you could build up the amount pretty quickly," Timmins said.

The coins are extremely well made, he said. Some required microscopic or spectroscopic examination to find any flaw, he said.

It appears the coins were brought to the United States from Mexico and Germany. Federal authorities were checking ports of entry to make sure more counterfeit coins do not enter the country.

The game animal population of Wyoming is estimated at nearly 300,000, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Federal aid to ease the growing strain on state and local government financial resources will reach an estimated $17.4 billion in the fiscal 1968 budget, up 255 per cent since 1958. Federal funds now account for about 15 per cent of total state and local revenue.

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

When West German Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger speaks of his country he does so in modest terms.

He says he knows and the West German people know that they no longer are a world power.

Nonetheless, he also knows that West Germany is the economic giant of Western Europe and because of its central location, no problem concerning Europe can be settled without German participation.

It is within this framework that he and his foreign minister, Will Brandt, have been conferring this week with President Johnson in Washington.

In its nearly nine months in office the Kiesinger Coalition government of Christian Democrats and Socialists has made some sharp departures from the lines of West German foreign policy as originally laid down by the late former Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and modified by others.

Change in Policy

The old Adenauer hard-line policies against the Communist countries to the east, which underwent modification under former Chancellor Ludwig Erhard, have switched sharply as Kiesinger and Brandt have sought their own openings to the east.

Kiesinger is closer to French President Charles de Gaulle than was Erhard, his predecessor, but not as close as was Adenauer.

He has sought continued close ties with the United States but has made it clear these ties must serve common interests.

Kiesinger came into office on the waves of a growing economic crisis in which West Germany, the richest nation of Western Europe, suddenly found itself in the midst of a budget crisis which would leave it $2 billion in the red.

To meet the crisis, the decision in Bonn was to cut defense spending by $2.3 billion from a budget running from 1968 to 1971.

The result of this was another crisis, this time within Kiesinger's own cabinet, and a confrontation with Washington which was annoyed that it had not been consulted in advance and feared a reduction in West Germany's 465,000-man army in the defense structure of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

The Other View

On his side of the argument, Kiesinger also had a bone to pick.

This was over the U.S.-Soviet agreement on a treaty to prevent spread of nuclear weapons.

There is not much difference between the development of the nuclear weapon and development of the atom's power for peaceful purposes. Germany already had disavowed the nuclear weapon but saw in the U.S.-Soviet agreement an attempt to develop an atomic monopoly. In this she was not alone. Among others, Brazil had similar objections.

The Germans held that in this case, they should have been consulted in advance.

Kiesinger agrees with De Gaulle in a Europe stretching from the Baltics to the Urals. But he disagreed with him on methods. He also is coming to agree with De Gaulle on a fear of U.S. economic domination.

It all depends on where you sit. The Austrians fear the same thing of the Germans.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Graham Loving & Co. advises investors to continue shifting emphasis from the high multiple growth stocks to "relatively unexploited" issues.

The company believes the market rally which began in June is running out of steam but that the Dow Jones industrial average may climb to a new high before a substantial reaction takes place. It further recommends that aggressive investors accumulate some cash reserves for better buying opportunities, probably in September.

Furcell, Graham & Co. believes the divergent trend of the stock market should continue for some time. It feels the aggressive growth stocks, not counting periodic rallies, should remain under pressure and says full investment in cyclical and conservative growth stocks seems to be the best policy at the present time.

Leslie M. Pollack of Reynolds & Co. feels the primary trend of the current market is upward but advises caution and suggests a retracing to at least the 910 area of the Dow Jones industrial average. The analyst feels such a pull back would call for a more aggressively bullish attitude.

Anderson, Packers Ready for Chicago Bears

By GARY KALE UPI Sports Writer

The jolly green giants from Green Bay, minus the (Jim) Taylor-made power which carried them to the world championship of pro football last season, clash with Chicago's Monsters of the Midway Friday night and the thud you hear could be one of the worst falls taken by the Bears under the George Halas' regime. Taylor now is doing his marching for the New Orleans

Saints. His absence wasn't even noticed last Saturday when the Packers put down the Pittsburgh Steelers 31-20. Donny Anderson, a half-million dollar bonus beauty, signalled he was ready for full-time action as he scored on a 50-yard run and threw a 63-yard touchdown pass. The Bears are on the front-end of an ironman stint, two games in five days. Chicago takes on the Kansas City Chiefs of the American Football League next Wednesday. Meanwhile, Pappa Halas' Bears continue a desperate search to find an offensive partner for Gale Sayers. Jack Concannon, the former Boston College signal-caller who spent three years as a back-up man in the Philadelphia Eagles' lineup, was acquired by Chicago in the hope he can be the quarterback to improve upon the 5-7-2 record in 1966. During Halas' 39 seasons as a head coach, only six of his teams have lost more games than they have won. Unless he can come up with an improved offense, the 1967 club will go down as No. 7. The Denver Broncos go after their second victory over an NFL team when they host the Minnesota Vikings in the only other exhibition game scheduled Friday night. Denver has taken on a new life with new head coach Lou Saban, who was used to winning during a previous tenure in the AFL as Buffalo Bills' mentor. The Broncos have been perennial doormats, sporting only 12 triumphs during the last four seasons. They rocked the boat this year, however, by knocking off the Detroit Lions to become the first AFL team to beat an NFL club. Saban has instilled a championship spirit in Denver. He has a power rusher in Cookie Gilchrist, a fleet back in rookie Floyd Little of Syracuse and the breakaway speed of Charlie Mitchell. Two other perfect record NFL clubs seek to protect their records when Los Angeles (2-0) entertains Cleveland (0-2) and Washington (1-0) plays New York (0-0-1) at Raleigh, N.C., Saturday night. Other games on tap that evening pit New Orleans against Pittsburgh at Baton Rouge, La., and inter-league games between Atlanta and Miami in the Orange Bowl and Philadelphia vs. New York at Cincinnati.

San Diego is home to Detroit Sunday in the fourth inter-league meeting of the weekend. Dallas is at San Francisco in a Sunday NFL game and Baltimore visits St. Louis Monday night. In the AFL, Kansas City, the defending league champion, goes after its third straight pre-season victory against Oakland, (2-0) at Portland, Ore. Saturday night and Boston, (0-2) plays Buffalo (0-2) at Rochester, N.Y., Sunday.

Injury Stops No-Hit Contest

By United Press International Jim Maloney, already only a 500-pitcher in no-hitters, now is one of the few hurlers ever to knock himself out of the box. The Cincinnati Reds' fireballer played with no-hit fame for the third time in his career Wednesday night and for the second time wound up with an unusual footnote in his record. Maloney pitched a 10-inning no-hitter against the New York Mets, June 14, 1965, but lost the game 1-0 when he allowed two hits in the 11th inning. He pitched a 10-inning, no-hitter against the Chicago Cubs, August 19, 1965, winning 1-0 and squaring his record at 1-1. The 27-year-old right-hander pitched a perfect game for six innings Wednesday night—retiring the first 18 Pittsburgh Pirates in order—and seemed enroute to the first no-hitter in the 58-year history of Forbes Field. But he wrenched his right ankle running out a triple in the top of the seventh and was relieved by Bill McCool after Matty Alou walked with one out to become the Pirates' first base-runner. "I twisted my ankle as I rounded second base," said Maloney. "And it didn't help any when I had to put on the brakes at third. "It really hurt when I was throwing to Alou," continued Maloney, who retired Maury

Wills to start the seventh. "I just couldn't put any weight on the ankle and there was no sense in going on pitching." The unusual end to the no-hit bid gave Maloney the unusual distinction of having pitched a total of 26 1-3 hitless innings in three separate games with only one credited no-hitter and a 2-1 won-lost record to show for it. The Reds took a 2-0 lead in the third inning when Lee May walked and Tony Perez hit his 23rd homer of the season. They added two more in the sixth on Pete Rose's single, May's double and an error by Bill Mazeroski to wind up with a 4-0 victory. The St. Louis Cardinals maintained their 10 1/2-game National League lead with a 4-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs, the Atlanta Braves beat the San Francisco Giants 6-3, the New York Mets defeated the Philadelphia Phillies 5-3 and the Los Angeles Dodgers topped the Houston Astros 7-1 in other Wednesday night games. The Cardinals won their sixth straight game when Alex Johnson's bases-filled two-out single in the ninth broke a 3-3 tie. The Cardinals had tied the score when Bill Hands walked pinch-hitter Phil Gagliano after singles by Orlando Cepeda and Tim McCarver and Ernie Banks' error filled the bases. McCarver homered for the Cardinals and Glenn Beckert connected for the Cubs. Hank Aaron's three-run, third-inning homer gave the Braves a 4-1 lead and paved the way for Ken Johnson to win his 13th decision with the relief aid of Cecil Upshaw. Tito Fuentes homered for the Giants. Ron Swoboda, who has had 17 hits in his most recent 34 at bats, drove in four runs with a pair of two-run singles to lead the Mets' attack and give Cal Koonce his fourth win of the year. Dick Selma finished up for the Mets after Koonce was tagged for two runs in the seventh on singles by Cookie Rojas, Johnny Briggs, Richie Allen and an infield out. Jim Lefebvre scored three runs and drove in two more with three hits backing the fourth hit pitching of Bill Singer and leading the Dodgers to their easy victory. Lefebvre broke open a scoreless game in the third inning when he ripped a two-run double to left center and scored the third run of the inning on Eddie Mathews' error-

CHECK OUT TIME came Wednesday for the Pampa Harvesters to get football shoes. Coach Don Weiser helps Dwight Rodgers, John Stokes and Chris Kenny with their gear.

IN GERMAN TRACK

Randy, Ryun Go Today

DUSSELDORF, Germany (UPI)—Tall, slim Jim Ryun and burly Randy Matson seek to put the finishing victory touches for the United States today in the windup of their two-day dual track meet with West Germany. Ryun, the world's best miler and Matson, who holds similar shotputting laurels, will be adding points for the U.S., which holds a slim 56-49 lead after 10 events in Wednesday's opening competition at Dusseldorf's Rhine Stadium.

Ryun, the Kansas University standout who holds the world mile record of 3:51.1, will switch to the 1,500 meters and face West Germany's Bodo Tummerler. Matson is a strong favorite to add another gold medal to his long list of 16-pound iron ball tosses. The U.S. won seven of the 10 events Wednesday but the Germans kept the meet close after 10 events in Wednesday's opening competition at Dusseldorf's Rhine Stadium.

"We feel we'll be fighting for our lives," said U.S. coach Bob Giegengack, the Yale University track coach for the past 20 years. "I think the German team was outstanding in the first day's competition. "We had a few bad accidents but you can't take anything away from the Germans' outstanding performances with alibis. They will be favored in several events today which we are weak in and frankly, I'm scared to death." Bill Toomey of Laguna Beach, Calif., held the lead over Germany's Hans-Joachim Walde after five decathlon events Wednesday. Toomey, who had 4,171 points, built his edge with victories in the long jump and 400-meter run. Walde had 4,059 points. One of Wednesday's biggest disappointments was Bob Segren's failure to win the pole vault. The 20-year-old Los Angeles vaulter, who has consistently bettered 17 feet, had to settle for a third place with a leap of 16 feet, 1 inch. The U.S. won the event as Dick Railsback of Pasadena, Calif., soared 16 feet, 5 inches. Ralph Boston, the world long jump record-holder, won his specialty with a leap of 25 feet, 10 inches with only one jump. The ex-Tennessee State star injured his leg when he landed heavily after the running jump. The most exciting U.S. success was by Vincent Matthews of Queens Village, N.Y., who hit the tape in the 400-meter run at 45.3 seconds, a split second ahead of his favored teammate Lee Evans of San Jose, Calif. The other U.S. victories were in the 100-meter dash by Willis Turner of Yakima, Wash., in 10.2 seconds; Ed Burke of Newport Beach, Calif., with a hammer throw of 222 feet, 10

Winning Brings Tears to Eyes Of Fighter Ortiz

NEW YORK (UPI)—Carlos Ortiz is a lightweight champion who doesn't have any new contenders to conquer. The 30-year-old Puerto Rican laughed and hooked his way to a unanimous 15-round decision over jitterbugging Ismael Laguna Wednesday night at Shea Stadium. Then, after it was over he sat down and cried. "I was laughing during the fight because everybody picked him," said Ortiz, "and I knew I was all over because I was filled up inside." Welterweight Shot The next step, for Ortiz might be a welterweight title fight down." "Lah-Goo-Nah" Laguna, a speedy, 24-year-old, had entered the ring at even money and nearly 3,000 of his countrymen followed him here to cheer him to victory with the cry "Lah-Goo-Nah, Lah-Goo-Nah." The Panamanian had defeated Ortiz at Panama City in April, 1965 to win the title but lost it back seven months later at a San Juan, Puerto Rico. Many felt that Laguna had increased his skills during that interval while Ortiz was being slowed down by age.

Big Names Not In Eastern Golf

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI)—The $100,000 Greater Hartford Open began today without the glamor of golf's biggest names, but with a field of 49 pros who threatened to make it a rough four days for the 71-stroke par at the Wethersfield Country Club. In Wednesday's Pro-Am, Bob Goalby's 64 led a pack of 27 who finished under par. Ten others came in at even par. Dry, sunny weather was forecast for the opening round. The 6,858-yard course is being played from preferred lies because of fairways scarred by the installation of a new drainage system. Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Billy Casper elected to sit this one out. Don January and Gay Brewer were also missing. There was speculation that the $20,000 top prize might be taken by a little-known pro who might begin his rise to stardom here. It wouldn't be the first time. Arnold Palmer had never won an American Tournament until he won the Insurance City Open, as it was then called, here in 1965. He won it again in 1966. Among other former winners entered are Art Wall, Gene Littler, Billy Maxwell, Goalby, Ken Venturi and Gary Player. Player, an infrequent GHO contestant, just returned from a visit to his home in South Africa and complained of being rusty. A local favorite is Julius Boros, who hails from Fairfield, Conn. He ranks second among money-winners on the tour this

Lineup Is Announced For Texas Oil Squad

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (UPI)—Coaches for the Texas high school all-star team which will meet a similar team from Oklahoma in Friday night's annual Oil Bowl announced the Lone Star State's starting lineup Wednesday. Texas, which went through two no-contact drills with a full squad for the first time Wednesday, geared its offense toward a passing attack. Oklahoma is also expected to go to the air. Karl Douglas, a Houston Worthing quarterback, had good targets to throw to in split end Raynard Manning, split end Bill Zapalac of Austin, McCallum, and wingback Reginold Robinson of Wichita Falls, Wash. One of Texas' best pass receivers, Dwight Harrison of Beaumont South Park, will start on defense at halfback to try to counteract Oklahoma's end Danny Hardaway of Lawton. But the Texas coaches said Harrison would be used on offense in pass situations. The Texas starting lineup is: Offense: Ennis, Manning and Zapalac; Tackles: Jim Brown, Van Vleck, and Bob Mooney, San Marcos; Guards: Gilbert inches; Willie Davenport, Warren, Ohio, with a 13.6 clocking in the 110-meter hurdles and the 400-meter relay team of John Carlos of New York, Jerry Bright of Oakland, Calif., Ron Copeland of Los Angeles and Turner. They were clocked in 39.3 seconds. A crowd of more than 30,000 braved rainy weather to attend the meet.

Beall, Seymore, and Jay Lawson, Vernon; Center: Jerry Thompson, Texas City; Quarterback: Douglas; Halfback: Andrew Hopkins, Crockett; Running Back: Fullback-Bill Kemp, Nederland; Wingback: Robinson. Defense: Ends-Manning and John Nichols, Wichita Falls; High: Tackles-Ken Davis, Plano, and Thompson; Guards-Andy Erowder, Dallas Hillcrest, and Ronnie Westmoreland, Magnolia; Linebackers - Roger Rietch, La Grange, and Greg Ploetz, Sherman; Backs-Harrison, John Whitecotton, Texarkana, and Terry English, San Antonio Randolph. KENYA MILER BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—Kipchoge Keino of Kenya snapped the Irish all comers' mark in the mile Wednesday with a clocking of 3:57.2. It was the 13th sub-four-minute mile for the 27-year-old police inspector who bolted past Britain's Derek Graham in the final lap of a race run during a heavy downpour. NEW YORK (UPI)—World Welter weight Champion Curtis Cokes of Dallas, will meet Argentina's welterweight champ Ramon LaCruz in a 10-round non-title bout Sept. 2, in Buenos Aires, it was announced Wednesday. Boxing agent Dewey Fragetta said Tito Lecture will promote the bout at Luna Park.

'Punchless' Sox Win

United Press International
A Word to the Wise: The Chicago White Sox may yet become the hit of the American League season, if they keep their Ward, Pete Ward, at bat. The punchless White Sox, who rank last in the AL in runs scored this season but still are second in the standings, stepped out of character Wednesday night to stage a spectacular 17-hit offensive display that knocked the Kansas City Athletics dead 14-1.

The star of the show was Pete Ward, who had been reduced to the role of spear carrier for most of the season as the Chicago pitchers hogged the spotlight. Ward, who had collected only four hits in the previous two weeks, went 4-for-4, including a pair of homers and drove in four runs.

The homers were only the 11th and 12th for Ward, a power hitter whom injuries have reduced to a shadow of his former self over the past three years. Ward, who entered the game with a .230 batting average, had collected only one hit in his previous 14 at bats and was 4-31 dating back to Aug. 2 when he led off the second with a solo homer.

Ward's inning
Ward hit his second homer

with a mate aboard in the eighth, added two singles and was hit by a pitch.

The 14 runs equalled the Sox highest single game output of the season and enabled them to remain 1½ games behind the front-running Minnesota Twins in the torrid AL race. Minnesota ran its winning streak to seven with a 5-1 victory over California. Boston edged into third place by battering Detroit 8-2. Cleveland blanked Washington 1-0 and Baltimore nudged New York 5-4.

Wal Williams collected three hits for the White Sox and Gerry McNertney also homered as A's manager Alvin Dark rushed six pitchers into the game in an attempt to stop the onslaught. The White Sox, leading 4-0, broke the game open with a five-run fourth, featuring Ken Boyer's pinch single off the left field wall which drove in three runs.

Gary Peters collected his 13th triumph in his fifth attempt, yielding only four hits and striking out eight. He drove in two runs in the three run second with a single and became the first Sox pitcher in 16 games to go the distance.

Zoilo Versailles socked a lead-off triple for the Twins and they went on to score five runs in the first inning, allowing Dean Chance to coast to his 16th victory. Ted Uhlaender's two-run double climaxed the outburst and routed Jim McGlothlin, who suffered his fifth loss in 15 decisions. Chance yielded nine hits and struck out 10 in completing Minnesota's sweep of the three-game series.

For the second time in two nights, George Scott hit a two-run homer and Reggie Smith stroked a solo blast in the first inning as the Red Sox jumped off to a 3-0 lead. A two-run homer by Norm Cash and an unearned run enabled the Tiger to tie the score 3-3 but Scott unloaded his second two-run homer in the third. Darrell Brandon, who relieved starter Lee Stange in the third, pitched three-hit ball over the final seven innings for his fifth victory.

Outduels Pascual
Steve Hargan outduelled Capli Pascual and notched his sixth shutout of the campaign for the Indians when Tony Horton doubled home pinch runner Chuck Hinton from first with two out in the ninth. Hargan permitted only three Senator hits and struck out 10 while Pascual set down the Indians on two hits in absorbing his ninth loss against 11 wins.

Frank Robinson drove in four runs with a double and his 23rd home run—but the Orioles needed a strong relief job by Stu Miller in the ninth to preserve their victory over the Yanks. Miller retired the last three batters in order, including Mickey Mantle on strikes, with two runners on in then inth.

Tom Phoebus, who pitched the first seven stanzas, gained his 11th triumph as Baltimore moved back into eighth place ahead of New York.

WHY IS THE PRINTED WORD SO IMPORTANT IN ADVERTISING?

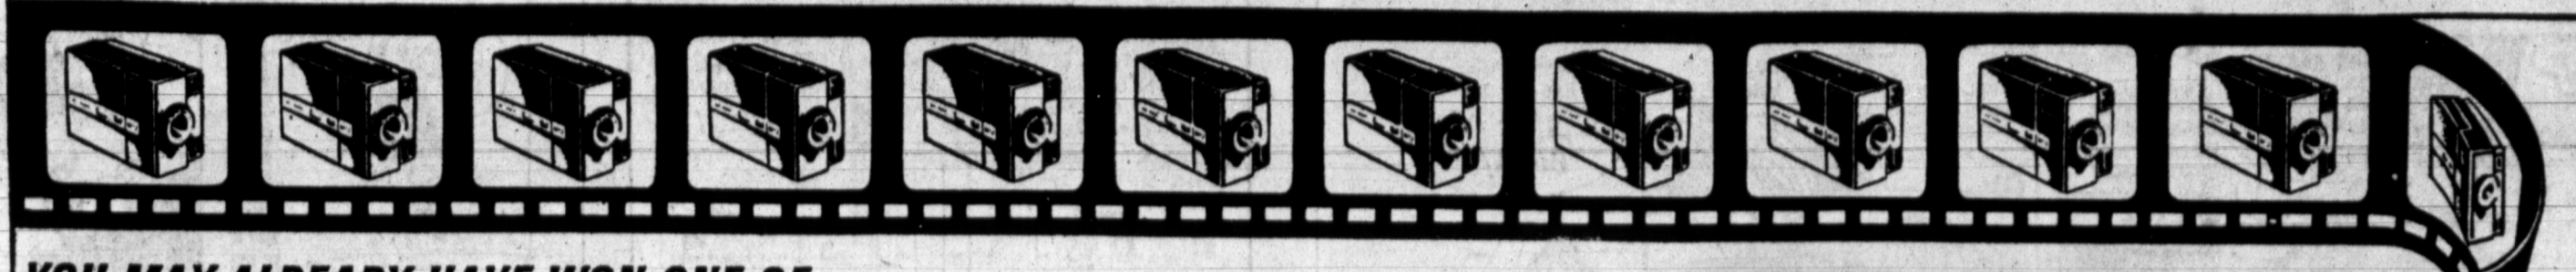

- IT'S CLEAR
- IT'S PERMANENT
- IT'S BELIEVABLE

The newspaper is the greatest advertising medium for many reasons. One of them is that it carries the power of the printed word. People believe in a message that is permanent—One that is written. They understand it better. Also, the newspaper because of its permanence lets the reader choose his own time for absorbing the message. And once put down it can always be picked up again. The message that lives is the one that is written in the newspaper.

Speaking in terms of population control does not tell the whole story of the conflict in South Vietnam. Though the government controls the cities, where large numbers of people are congregated, total Viet Cong control in rural areas involves nearly six times the population of those rural areas controlled by the government. A strategic part of South Vietnamese society is the small hamlet, and of the total of 12,537 hamlets in the South, 6,662 are either totally in Viet Cong control, partially under Cong control, or contested by both sides and leaning to the Viet Cong.

Texas University Expects 28,108 Students in Fall

AUSTIN (Sp1) — The University of Texas at Austin is expecting a fall semester enrollment of 28,108.

Registrar and Director of Admissions Byron Shipp made the estimate which, if realized, would represent a gain of 763 students over last fall's enrollment of 27,345.

The number of students transferring from other colleges is expected to increase while freshman enrollment will dip slightly.

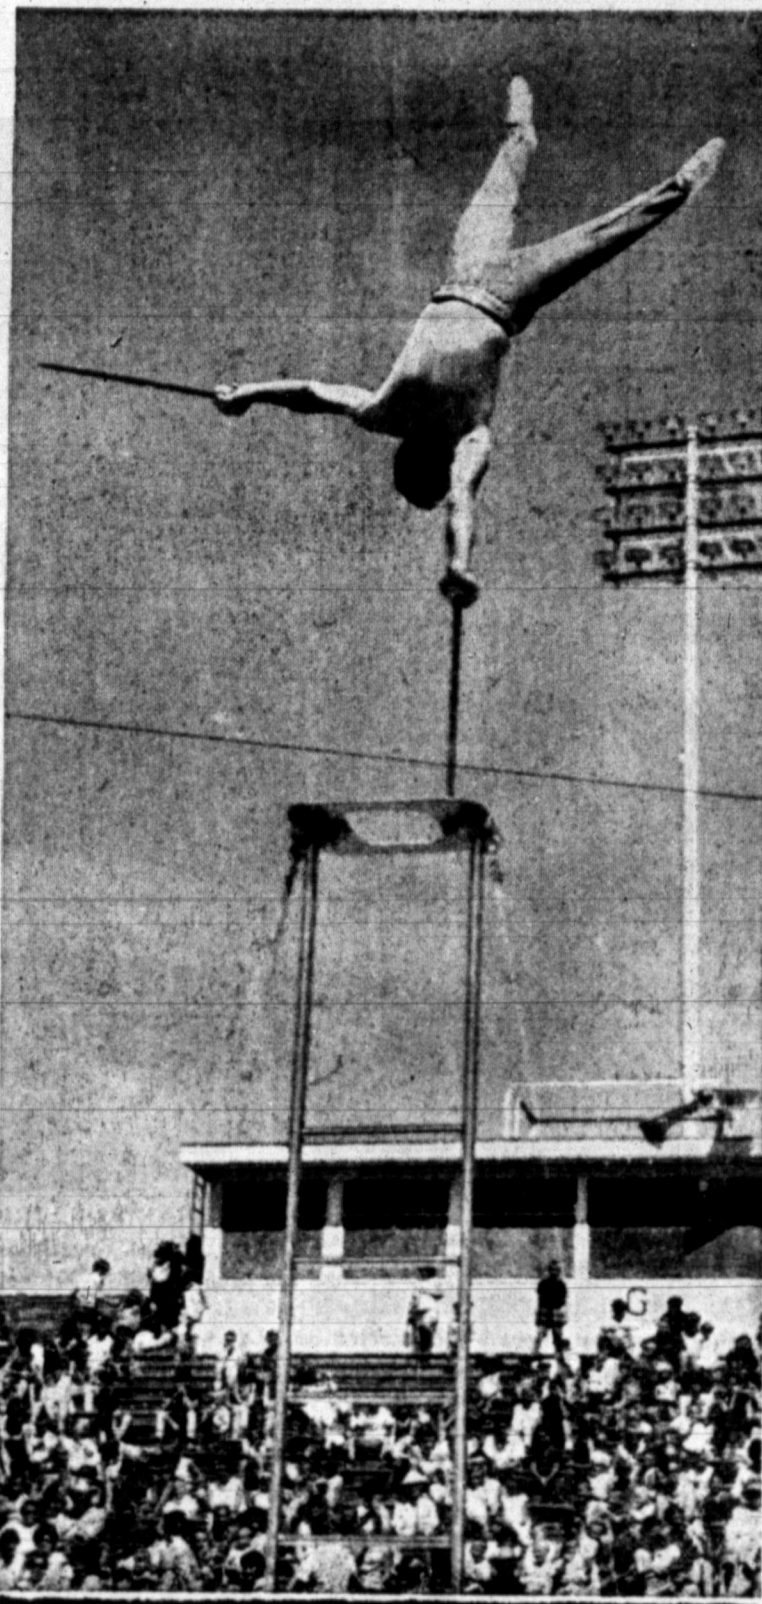

Shipp's predictions foresee a transfer enrollment of 4,357, up 332 from the 1966 figure. The estimate for freshman registration is 3,066, a decrease of 68 students.

The UT registrar said the fall enrollment projection represents "no dramatic changes."

"The opening of new junior colleges in Texas has an effect on our enrollment," Shipp noted. "In addition, there are not as many students coming out of the high schools today as there were two years ago when we enrolled 4,277 freshmen."

He pointed to an "overall increase in costs" in attending college as another factor affecting enrollment. The University currently estimates that it will cost a Texas student more than $1,500 in fees, room and board, books and personal expenses for a nine-month long session — "and that is on the conservative side," Shipp said. Similar expenses in 1961 were estimated to be slightly over $1,200 for nine months.

Registration for the fall semester will be held Sept. 18-22. Classes will begin Sept. 25. Various orientation programs for new students are scheduled during the week of registration.

Central Church Committee Studies Christianity State

HERAKLION, Crete (UPI) — The annual meeting of the 100-member Central Committee of the World Council of Churches (WCC) opened here this week to deliberate the state of the world and Christianity.

The meeting brings together high-ranking church representatives from more than 80 countries.

The 11-day conference opened formally with a service of worship in the historic St. Titus Church. The dignitaries assembled in St. Mark's Hall for their first business session.

King Constantine of Greece personally extended greetings on behalf of the host country.

A wide range of urgent issues confront policy makers of the council, which unites 223 different groups in ecumenical fellowship and action.

Broadly the issues included: the past churches can play in helping to wipe out causes of international disputes and conflicts, the role of churches in bringing about social justice and the challenge to the church everywhere of rising tides of secularism and disbelief.

Considerable interest focused on Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, who addressed the church leaders for the first time as general secretary. Blake became executive head of the WCC last December after serving for a number of years as head of the United Presbyterian Church in the United States.

Another distinguished American churchman, the Rev. Dr. Franklin Clay Fry, presided as chairman of the Central Committee. Fry, a New Yorker, is the president of the Lutheran Church in America.

Church spokesmen here made clear there is no unanimity among the many church traditions represented in the council on the nature of the church's mission in today's troubled world. Conservatives tended to emphasize the importance of traditional work in evangelism and personal salvation. Liberals laid heavy stress on social action for renewal of both man and his world.

The crowded agenda of the Central Committee reflected this conflict to some extent.

Theme of the meeting was evangelism. The major address delivered Wednesday by WCC evangelist Philip Potter, centered entirely on this key topic.

COLLECTION DAY, TODAY

You, Your Child and School

By DAVID NYDICK

Each year at this time many parents are faced with decisions concerning nursery school. Is attendance important? If so, which school is best suited for their child?

There are many good reasons for the existence of nursery schools. A child is placed in an organized group where he will have many opportunities to play individually and with others. He is under the direction of a teacher who is trained to meet his needs at this stage of development.

You may find several hours of freedom quite valuable. For a working parent, the time is essential. Knowing that your child is properly cared for, in a good situation, should be most relaxing. When he returns home, you will be in a better frame of mind to cope with his demands. He will have many ways to occupy himself.

not be forced. Will he benefit from a group situation? He should be able to partially care for himself since he will not get complete individual attention. The final decision should rest on a discussion with the specific school. Possibly, a short trial in the classroom will supply the answer.

When a favorable decision has been made, carefully survey the available schools. There are an increasing number of programs for four year olds especially in disadvantaged areas. Find out what is available through the public schools and other governmental agencies. In making your choice, the kind of program which your child needs is a major area of concern as are safety, facilities, and staff.

If you choose a program sponsored by a public agency, your choice will be limited. If you choose a private school, you should investigate carefully for various items.

Good Security

The building should be fire proof. Adequate protective fences along with alternate exits should be available. In a two story building, there should be fire escapes and fireproof staircases. Ask to see certificates of safety and health inspections.

The most important part of a good nursery school is the staff. One teacher and assistant are a

Chicago Dentist Contest Winner, Guest of Texas

AUSTON (UPI) — A Chicago dentist and his family will get a 1-day tour of the Lone Star state due to a "Win Texas" contest conducted by the Texas Tourist Development Agency.

The agency announced today that Dr. and Mrs. George Raymond won the expense paid sweepstakes tour in a drawing over 4,000 other entries.

The tourist agency, a state department, sponsored the contest in a National magazine placing coupons in issues in several states.

The Raymonds, who are expected to take the trip next spring, will be flown to Texas and given a tour of the state ranging from Padre Island at Corpus Christi to Juarez, Mexico across from El Paso.

Lurleen Will Take More Treatments

Gov. Lurleen B. Wallace will return to Houston, Tex. in mid-September for precautionary cancer treatment, a routine procedure following surgery.

Mrs. Wallace, who underwent major abdominal surgery for recurring cancer last month, is expected to miss the Southern Governor's Conference when she returns to Houston.

No definite date has been set for the trip.

Sweet News

Bee-keepers in Texas, on July 1, had an estimated 234,000 colonies of bees, 2 per cent less than a year ago. These colonies, said the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, will produce the 1967 honey crop and the number ranks Texas third in the nation.

Urban 4-H

Among the projects especially suitable for city and suburban 4-H'ers are automotive, safety, health, home economics, dog care and training, community beautification and photography.

Forage Testing

A forage test is a valuable tool in developing economical livestock feeding programs. It also lets the livestock producer know the quality of the forage he is feeding and can serve as an aid in evaluating forage production practices and methods of fertilization, says Neal Pratt, extension agronomist.

Texas' 1967 wool shorn and to be shorn is now estimated at 39,023,000 pounds grease basis. This is one per cent above last year. Texas accounted for 21 per cent of the U. S. wool production, reports the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service. Nationally, wool production is down by three per cent.

She's A Star Now, But Still Looking

By DICK KLEINER
 Hollywood Correspondent

 HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — "I call it The Purple Palace," said Nancy Sinatra, leading the way into her dressing room at MGM where she is shooting "Speedy" with Elvis Presley. It was a good name; the little room had vivid purple carpet, lavender wallpaper and all the trimmings were in various shades of purple.

Nancy wanted to play some cuts of her latest Reprise album, "Country My Way," and it's a good one. Lee Hazelwood, her private Svengali, listened, too, his bushy mustache going up and down in time to the beat.

"She's the first pop singer," Hazelwood said, "who dared to do a straight country album — all the others had a big orchestral backing, but Nancy had nothing but steel guitars and electric violins."

Hazelwood deserves a lot of credit. He took a girl who had made a lot of records over a five-year period without making much of a ripple. (Nancy gets angry when people say the only reason she made it is because she's Frank's daughter, pointing out logically that the relationship didn't help her before.) And he turned her into a smash hit, simply by getting her to project sexy toughness in her singing.

It took some doing, because that isn't Nancy Sinatra at all. She's basically a gentle girl, polite and friendly, and as much like the girl who says "These Boots Are Made For Walking" as Jack Benny is like his miserly image.

But it worked, and now Nancy Sinatra is a big star. The success of her records has helped her in other fields, too, and her current lead opposite Elvis the Great is her biggest so far.

Professionally, she's happy with the way her life is going. But privately it's another matter.

"What I really want from life," she says, "is to marry and have a bunch of kids. I'll always work some, of course — that's why I'm working so hard now, so I'll be established and be able to pick and choose.

"Life is hard for a girl. She has to ask herself the question, 'What do you really want out of life?' I had to face that — myself. I tried a lot of things — I sold clothes in a department store one summer, I tried college, I went to secretarial school. I was trying to find something."

She didn't find it. So she went into show business. She had been around it all her life, of course, and it came naturally. And she had a natural talent, although it took awhile for her to find her proper channel, with Hazelwood's help.

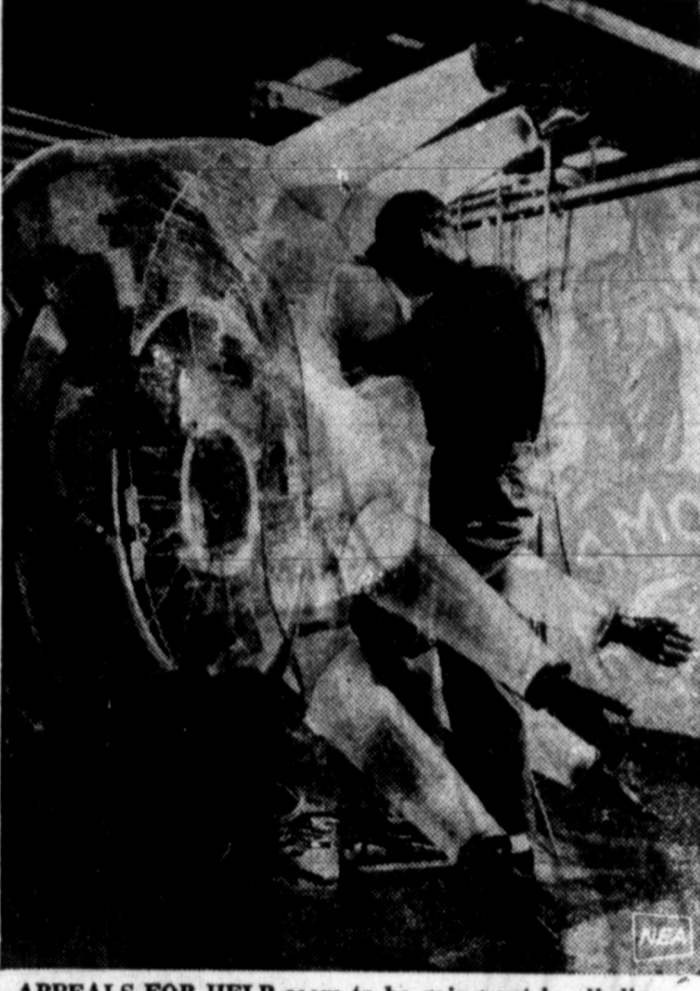

But she still hasn't found that extra curricular thing, the right man.

Bill Would Ease Citizenship Rule

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., filed a bill Tuesday easing requirements for citizenship for older persons who have resided in the U.S. at least 20 years.

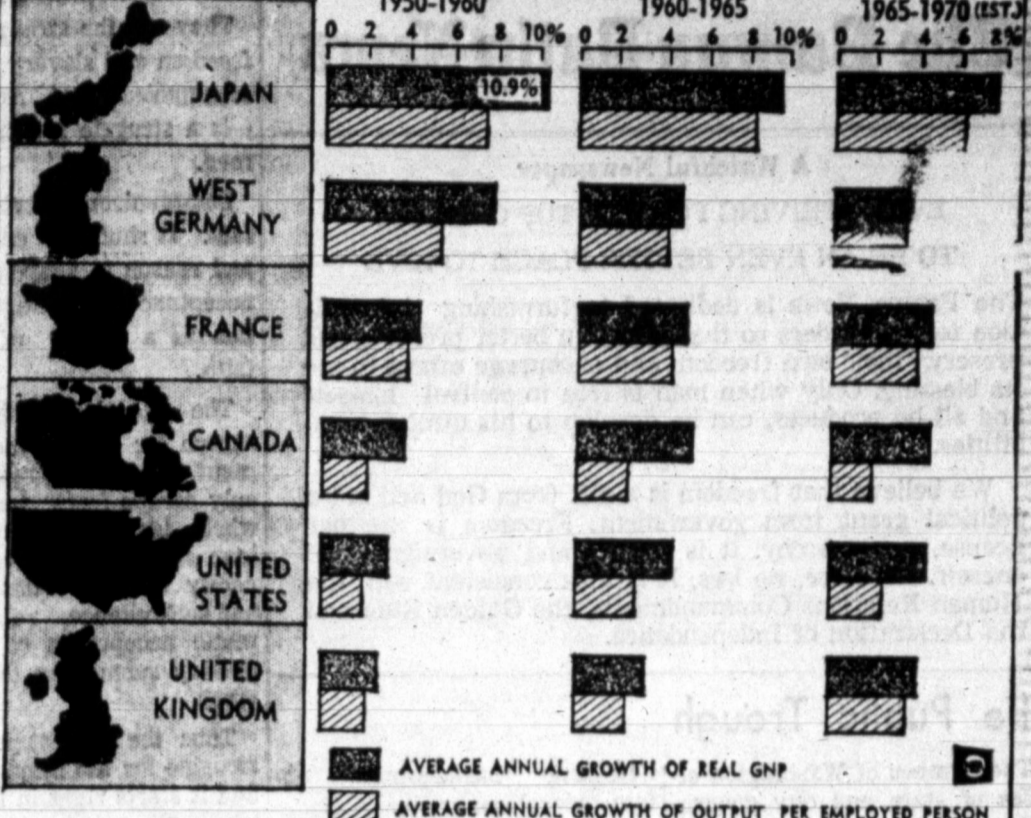

The bill would exempt such persons 50 and older from the English language requirement, if they met all other qualifications. He called the English requirements "an unnecessary barrier" to many older persons who want to become citizens.

Yarborough estimated in a statement accompanying his bill the legislation would affect about 19,000 older immigrants, most of whom were Mexican nationals.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license, nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself. No more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

The Public Trough

The number of Washington offices of state and city governments established to lobby the federal government has increased rapidly in recent years as the amount of federal aid going to those governments has increased.

Ten states and eight of the 20 largest U.S. cities have Washington offices or representatives stationed in Washington.

Most of the offices were set up in the last few years.

The increase in offices shows no signs of abating. The Florida Development Commission has decided to open a Washington office in the near future and members of the Georgia legislature have been investigating the possibility of opening one.

The 10 states are: California, Illinois, Indiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Texas, and West Virginia.

The eight largest cities with Washington offices representing the city government or local chamber of commerce are: New York, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Boston, Dallas, New Orleans, San Diego, and Seattle.

Various lobbyists are there for the purposes of:

Providing information on complicated federal programs.

Lobbying for new federal expenditures and installations.

Helping "businessmen" obtain federal contracts.

Assisting Members of Congress from the state in working to advance the "interest" of the locality or state.

The reasons for the recent trend to establish Washington offices are quite clear.

Federal spending has grown enormously in the past 20 years and is expected to continue at a high level.

The amount of federal largess that goes to a city of state can produce many "jobs" and sometimes means the difference between what vote seeking politicians like to refer to as "economic growth" or "stagnation."

For instance federal grants to state and local governments increased from $4 billion in 1966 to $12.8 billion in 1967. Further expansion to more than $17 billion was expected by the end of 1968.

Moreover, the federal government spends billions of dollars each year through purchases of goods and services, particularly in defense, and through the operation of federal installations.

The establishment of Washington offices by cities and states is basically an organized effort to get as large a slice of the tax pie as possible.

Meanwhile, the noose around the neck of the taxpayer in Backhome, Everywhere, U.S.A., grows ever tighter.

Conservation Knowledge Gap

There may be some dispute about the benefits of hard liquor, but to one medical expert, there is no question that hard water is the thing to drink.

"To drink hard water is good. To drink soft water is bad," says Dr. Arthur G. Schock of the Southwestern Medical Foundation in Dallas.

According to studies done in Sweden, Great Britain and the United States, he says ailments of age like heart disease and bone softening are "significantly more prevalent" where the drinking water is soft than in areas where it is hard.

The trouble is, our water supplies are geared to industry, whose use of water is tremendous while the amount of water we drink is infinitesimal in comparison.

Municipal authorities often "purify" water by softening it, thus removing essential minerals, charges the doctor. The reason is that soft water requires less soap (saving money for commercial laundries) and that boiler pipes do not form scale (saving money for other industries).

To bolster his case for natural water, he cites records of Hernando de Soto's 1541 explorations of the New World. The Spanish explorer "found Indians of many tribes, at peace, sharing the recuperative waters" at what later was called Mountain Valley, Ark.

Short of everyone finding the fountain of youth by going out and buying bottled spring water, Schock contends that water companies could supply dual service just as power and light companies do — one source for human consumption, another for washing and grass growing, etc.

Stamping Out Bad Image

It seems a lot of his admirers feel that George Washington hasn't been done right by our five-cent stamp.

The Post Office has been getting numerous complaints that the Father of His Country is being pictured — or, more precisely, stamped — as a fellow who needs a shave, has warts, looks a little seedy and shoddy and has a stern and disagreeable visage — a hero, in fact, who certainly isn't putting his best face forward.

So the Post Office, ever responsive to the mail attitude, has announced it is issuing a new stamp in November with another picture of Washington on it — and that this time he's going to be spruced up and looking good, as a country's father should.

Thus another crisis is met. But it seems only fair to remind admirers, critics and postal authorities alike that any picture on a postage stamp is bound to take a licking.

Eat and Run in Space

A rocket manufacturing company reports it has successfully test-fired a 250-pound-thrust rocket using a new fuel called MONEX W.

Which is a rather exotic name for a rather unappetizing compound, the principal ingredients of which are human wastes and garbage.

Produced on board during a long interplanetary voyage, the new fuel would not only contribute to a more sanitary spacecraft, says the company, but could be used as a backup in case other propulsion systems fail.

Combine this idea with another one that was suggested a while back to construct interior spacecraft-bulkheads of edible material and you've got space travel down to about as economical a level as you can get it.

First Things First

Regardless of anyone's evaluation of Illinois Gen. Charles H. Percy as a potential candidate for president, he has made a statement most Americans will applaud.

"If we continue," he said, "to spend $66 million a day to 'save' the 16 million people of South Vietnam while leaving the plight of 30 million urban poor in our own country unresolved, then I think we have our priorities terribly confused."

Any arguments? Serious crime in the United States jumped 20 per cent in the first three months of 1967, according to an FBI report.

The American Way

By WILLIS E. STONE
They say the struggle between freedom and slavery — between communism and Americanism — is a struggle for the minds of men.

Communism distorts truth and fact. It shuts the door on logic and reason to achieve dogmatic acceptance of political domination as a matter of essential faith.

The American ideal is the search for truth, the development of logic and reason as the only escape from terror. The whole idea of education American style, is to develop a capacity for self-determination and self-reliance, rejecting dogmatic acceptance of any compulsory submission to force or error.

Thus the contest is truly a struggle for the minds of men — and it starts right in the schools where the mind and the capability for judgement are being developed. That is why the question of textbooks is of paramount importance.

Have you looked at the material your youngsters are required to study these days? You should, and when you do, you are apt to be shaken and shocked.

Recently a new textbook was offered in California and elsewhere titled "Land of the Free." The title sounds fine, but the text is something else again. It has been described as "an interpretive history of the United States designed to indoctrinate eighth graders with the religious dogma of the Welfare State."

Directed away from historic fact, the book is directed into promotion of governmental bureaucracy as the giver of all things. With little or no difficulty, an appropriation of $1,080,397 California tax dollars was obtained for the purchase of this textbook.

Opposition developed, however, and the funds were held up for what was called "further discussion." The California Assembly Ways and Means Committee approved the expenditure by a 7 to 5 vote so this un-historical instrument for indoctrinating young minds goes on the "best seller" list at taxpayers' expense.

So we get "glaring omissions" the "best seller" list at taxpayers' expense.

The Chairman of that Assembly Committee which approved the expenditure admitted the book contained what he called "glaring omissions," and the members of the Curriculum Committee which approved the book admitted they were aware of what they called "its slant and bias."

So we get "glaring omissions" and "slant and bias" instead of history for our eighth graders — in California as in every other State — where facts are secondary to the desire for federal subsidies provided by the Health, Education and Welfare Department.

That which the federal agencies subsidize, they also control. The Supreme Court said so long ago. That may explain the drive to subsidize everything with our tax dollars. It may also explain how you and your fellow citizens lost control of the education of your own children.

The battle to prevent pushing such "slant and bias" down unsuspecting eighth grade throats goes on. Can $1,080,397 tax dollars buy more error than the moralizing of irate parents can prevent? We must find a way by which we can get back to the simple principles of equity that once worked so well. The LIBERTY AMENDMENT has been advanced as a means to that end.

Pull Up A Chair

By FRANK JAY MARKEY

How would you like to invite 90 million people to a birthday observance and hope everyone would show up? Well, that is what DeWitt and Lila Acheson Wallace, founders and publishers of READER'S DIGEST, did this month to mark the 45th anniversary of the world's most popular magazine. The invitations were included in the 28 million copies of the August issue, printed in 14 languages. Of course, only a small fraction of the estimated 90 million readers throughout the world will accept the invitation, but those who can will find it is a rewarding experience, on a par with reading the magazine. Only a short distance from Manhattan the home of READER'S DIGEST looks like a small country college spread over 150 acres of green hills in Westchester county. The opulent furnishings and decor of the Georgian brick building that houses the editorial and business offices reflects the class and character of the product turned out there monthly. They also bespeak the good taste and high ideals of the kindly genius and his equally talented wife who made a dream come true and made the world richer for it. Can you imagine 90 million persons singing "Happy Birthday to You"? Well, the Wallaces would love it.

Today's smile: A deep-sea diver was examining the wreck of a ship when he got an urgent call from his attendants on the surface: "Come up quick. Our boat is sinking."

Thoughts while shaving: Air transport has reduced the world in size, but aeronautical engineers predict that flying in the foreseeable future will further reduce it to village-to-village travel proportions. They say rocket-propelled aircraft is now on the drawing boards that can carry as many as 1,200 passengers from New York to London in less than one-half hour or to Hong Kong in an hour. The complex of super-highways that now dot the 50 states were first shown to the public at the 1939 New York World's Fair at the General Motors "Futurama" exhibit, designed by Norman Bel Geddes. Of course, some folks scoffed, but many have lived to see what Bel Geddes envisioned has become reality. . . . One of the handiest fire extinguishers we have seen for the home is an asbestos blanket that comes packaged in a tube that can be hung on a wall or placed on a shelf. Anyone planning to write a biography of Henry Ford, founder of the Ford Motor Company, can find a wealth of first-hand material at the Ford Museum in Dearborn, Mich. 'New Economics' Political Plan to Manipulate People

By OSCAR H. COOLEY

Assoc. Prof. of Economics, Ohio Northern Univ.
The "New Economics," of which we hear so much, is neither new nor economics. It is politics, and it is as old as Hammurabi, who also thought he could improve upon the laws of demand and supply.

The idea of the New Economics is to manipulate people, by taxes, by control of banks, by playing with the national debt, etc., etc.; that is, by action of government.

The theory is that a society in which persons are moved about like pawns by master chess players will be more productive than a society of free persons. John Maynard Keynes, patron saint of the New Economics, said the free market economy, described by Adam Smith and J. B. Say, did not work. Man left to his own salvation went to hell (depression), or at least to purgatory (recession). So Keynes devised a system which denied man the freedom to go to hell. It subjected him to a government which, in Keynes' belief, would usher him into heaven.

The Keynesians deny that this is politics. They call it "macroeconomics," or the economics of the whole society, as distinguished from "microeconomics," the economics of the individual and the firm.

The macroeconomists want to see the income of the mass of the people grow; they are not interested in the income of you and me. As far as they are concerned, the individual does not exist. And so they compile a figure which they call the "national income."

(Why not the "world income?" I don't know; maybe because they can't. To arrive at the national income is hard enough; it takes a large force of employees of the U.S. Department of Commerce, and they have to admit their arithmetic is not exact. However, this is "one world," so logically the New Economics should be based on worldwide figures. Maybe in due time they'll get to that.)

This "national income accounting" is supposed to measure the growth of the U.S. economy and tell whether we are going up, or down, and how fast. The reason they want to know this is so that the government can inject a little adrenaline, if the patient appears to be fainting, or a narcotic, or at least a tranquilizer, if he seems to be over-heating.

One of the potent medicines prescribed by Dr. Keynes was taxes. The government's power to tax is the power to shift money around, taking from some and parceling out to others.

The all-important quality money should have, according to Keynes, is velocity. We must new depositors by issuing a season schedule of the Minnesota Twins baseball games to blind persons in Braille. The Crosbyton (Texas) REVIEW headlined a story: "No Law Against Drowning. But It's Unhealthy." It certainly is!

Country Editor speaking: "Some guys believe in dreams until they marry 'em."

keep the money a - moving. As soon as one gets a dollar, he must pass it on as quickly as possible. Like a game in which people stand in a ring and pass around a hot potato.

Because people do not always play the game but, for reasons known only to themselves, sometimes hold the potato, the government has to use its taxing power to take it out of their hands and pass it on, Keynes said. The money must be made to circulate, no matter what.

Or, the government can cook up some new potatoes and start them going around the ring. This is done by Treasury "borrowing," which spurs the banks to create checkbook money. But the Treasury's ability to borrow rests on its credit, which in turn depends on its power to tax. So taxation is the key.

Whether the government quickens the movement of the old money, or squirts a lot of new money into the stream to speed its flow, circulation is the thing.

Keynes lauded a money quack named Silvio Gesell, who proposed that the government require people to buy stamps and stick them on all their paper money once a month to escape this cost, presumably you and I would get rid of our currency fast. The resulting fever of spending, Gesell thought, would make us all prosperous and rich, now and forever.

Can't you just see 200,000,000 Americans standing in a ring hectically handing around hot potatoes and getting rich by the minute?

With everybody busy "spending" potatoes, who would plant and grow them? Keynes seldom mentions production; presumably that will take care of itself. "Spending" is his mania.

Mere spending of money, said the free-market economists, does not produce wealth. But, said Keynes, spending stimulates people to produce more goods.

No, said his opponents, not if they are already producing to capacity. It just makes them sell their goods at higher prices. Result: inflation.

True, said Keynes, but ARE they producing to capacity? Then the debate centered on the question: Is there, or is there not, "full employment?" In 1936, when Keynes wrote, unemployment was on every body's mind, so his book was a sell-out and the New Economics school of thought grew like a weed.

But economics is based on the fact that full employment is normal. Goods are scarce, relatively. If they were not, there would be no need to work, produce, and economize. Since goods are scarce, there is always work. All labor is salable, at some price.

If Joe Worker is not at present selling his labor, it is because he is holding it for a higher price. Society does not need to worry about him. Certainly Washington should not create and send more money just to cause inflation which will give Joe his higher money wage and so persuade him to go to work.

Oh yes, say the New Econo-

Editor:

Your editorial 8-14-67 recommends the book 'Road to Revolution' with "it tells how the violence (in our riot-torn cities) is planned and who is doing the planning." This agrees with the statement by Mayor Whelan of Jersey City, N. J., in USN&WR: "There are people in our community who deliberately want to precipitate a riot. We have, through our normal channels, been able to sense this activity."

And it agrees with the testimony of Cincinnati Police-Chief, J. W. Schott, before the Senate Judiciary Committee: "I don't think we would have had trouble if these outside agitators had not come in and got people stirred up."

However, the Pampa Daily News previously had published a report for human consumption that said these uprisings "are NOT a passing phenomenon, stirred by outside agitators, and NOT a mere outburst of hooliganism by a small minority of lawless people."

Your editorial agrees just fine with Mr. George S. Schuyler, Negro editor and author: "The Communist Party long ago painted a picture of American society—of greed, brutality, racism—that has been adopted wholeheartedly by many of the Negro leaders, who, literally, are 'calling the shots' in Detroit, Newark, Rochester and where next?"

But, on 8-9-67 the Pampa Daily News paid for and published Louis Cassels of UPI: "Professional trouble-makers did not create the revolutionary situation and so far they are not calling the shots."

Therefore, it would appear this canned stuff by UPI is in line for one of your "claptrap" labels, along with the politicians, as painful as that may be for you.

Frederick M. Dunn
124 E. 27th Street.

EDITOR'S NOTE— This letter (and we defend the writer's privilege and prerogative to point up the inconsistency between the newspaper's editorial and Mr. Cassels' expressed opinion) is confirmation of The News' policy to publish opinions other than its own. Suffice it to say, editorially, The News does not agree with Mr. Cassels in this instance. He should be one of the first to read Mr. Luce's "Road to Revolution." We, too, believe "the shots are being called."

The Doctor Says:

By DR. WAYNE BRANDSTADT
Salts and Castor Oil Just Extend Gaseous Condition

Q — I am a housewife, 67. When my elimination slows down I fill up with gas. Please don't advise me to take salts or castor oil because they make me sick.

A — I would not advise these or any other laxatives because they would increase your gas production rather than relieve it. That is because they sweep the food from your small intestine into your colon before the sugars and starches have had time to be completely digested and absorbed into your blood. In the colon they are met by fermentative bacteria. Gas is a product of fermentation. Worry about slow elimination, which is not harmful in itself, is probably the chief cause of your trouble.

Q — I am taking Mylicon for gas. What does this drug contain? Can it be taken indefinitely.

A — Mylicon is the trade name for simethicone. It is a defoaming agent used to relieve habitual air swallowers and persons with irritable colon or other conditions in which gaseous distention is a problem. There are no known side effects so, if it helps you, you can take it indefinitely.

Q — What causes my stomach to gurgle when I am in bed at night?

A — The gurgling is in your intestines rather than your stomach. It may occur any time when a mixture of liquid and gas is swept along by the peristaltic waves in your intestines. Gas production can be greatly reduced by taking only enough vegetable and fruit each day to keep your stools as thick as the width of two fingers and firm. If your problem is colitis you will need expert management by a gastroenterologist.

Q — What is meant by funnel vision? Can it be corrected by an operation? What would cause it to occur in a child of 12? Could it be due to a concussion or to a hereditary defect?

A — I assume you are referring to tunnel or tubular vision in which one can see only what is directly in front of one and nothing out of the corner of the eye. It may be associated with advanced glaucoma, retinitis pigmentosa (both serious diseases) or a conversion reaction (sometimes called hysteria). For the first two there is no treatment and the treatment would not be by operation in any case.

In a child of 12 glaucoma is most unlikely. Retinitis pigmentosa is a hereditary disease that has its onset in childhood. A concussion in a person of any age may cause a conversion reaction. Treatment of this cause by a psychiatrist (not psychoanalyst) may be helpful but the results cannot be guaranteed.

We must get Joe back to his lathe even if we have to pay him more dollars. Joe agrees, of course. So the votes of Joe and his fellows keep the N.E. party in power. And inflation becomes endemic.

Keynes supposedly was an economist, but his solution was political. Central tenet of the New Economics is government control. Is that economic?

H. L. Hunt Writes

PREMIUM FOR FRAUD

Destruction of the electoral college system by the direct vote plan of electing the U. S. President would greatly increase the premium for fraud in elections. On the other hand, naming of presidential electors by popular vote within congressional districts and states would give every American a fair voice in the selection of the President, regardless of whether he lives in a city, suburb, town or rural area.

In times past Kansas City and recently Chicago have come in for notoriety for their questionable tallying of votes which decided the election of officials in the states of Missouri and Illinois. Greater harm would come from this practice being extended to the election of the President through a direct vote.

When suspicious arise about poll watchers or the vote count in a close national election, a direct vote election would give less assurance of fairness and less chance of correction of fraudulent returns than there would be in the election of two presidential electors from each state. There would be far greater assurance of the integrity of an election for a presidential elector in a congressional district, for the voters would be choosing from among candidates known to him or his neighbor.

With a direct nationwide vote, a question could arise — as sometimes it has in past state elections — regarding any ballot box in any county in the nation. Validity of total election returns have at times been questioned because of the voters for presidential electors in one or two states. In a direct vote this suspicion could arise regarding any or all of the 50 states.

Wit and Whimsy

In the wilds of Africa, native tribes still beat the ground with clubs and scream bloodcurdling yells. Anthropologists diagnose the ritual as "primitive self-expression." In the U.S. it's known as golf.

A woman got angry with her maid when she returned home and found a two-world notation on her telephone pad. "Next time anyone phones," she said, "Please write down more than 'Lady phoned.'"

Next day on the pad was written: "Lady phoned. Left message."

Sign in Minneapolis nursery: "In line with President Johnson's campaign against poverty, we have raised prices."

Waiter—May I help you with your soup, sir?

Diner—What do you mean help me—I don't need any help. Waiter—I'm sorry, sir. From the sound, I thought you might wish to be drained ashore.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City has the largest collection of art in the Western Hemisphere, says The World Almanac. It has over 365,000 works of art, a reference and research collection of more than 155,000 books and a periodical section with some 1,000 titles.
