

LBJ Bristles at Unfairness to Daughters

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson, in one of his most personally revealing interviews, disclosed Saturday he has "bristled and choked" over some of the cruel things that have happened to his daughters because of his high position.

"I haven't written any letters yet, but I have bristled and choked," he said in a radio-television interview, along with Mrs. Johnson, taped on the eve of Lynda's wedding to Marine Capt. Charles Robb and released Saturday.

He recalled former President Harry S. Truman's angry letter to a music critic who had panned the singing of his daughter, Margaret.

"How does it affect a commander in chief to know that his new son-in-law is going out to war?" Johnson was asked.

"I guess you are glad that you have a son-in-law who has had the training, several years in an elite group like the Marines who have prepared and equipped him to look after his country's interests," he said.

"It is pretty hard to appreciate a man enough who is willing to give his life for your liberty."

The President and Mrs. Johnson had similar assessments of their daughters. They agreed that Luci, described by Mrs. Johnson as "sort of the eternal Eve," is the more feminine one, while Lynda has "a questing, intelligent mind."

"I see in Lynda her mother every time she writes a check," her father said. "I see in Luci her grandmother (his mother) every time she can't find her check book and doesn't know what the balance is."

Mrs. Johnson said the marriages of their two daughters "doesn't make for loneliness. There were just four of us and I thought how poor. Now we are seven."

Johnson said he was much more sensitive about treatment of his children than of himself.

"I think that is true of all parents. Something that is unjust and hurts their children hurts them even more."

When your children "are pulled in unjustly, charged with this or that, and it is untrue, it hurts me very much," he confided. "You just think what could happen to Luci if she had a paper cup of beer. You can think what could happen if Lynda went through an orange light and her brake didn't hold. It is front page."

The President also got in his licks on the press.

He referred to some of the boys his daughters had known and dated through the years— "Some of the boys that had suffered unjustly, I think, because their name became associated with one or other of them at times."

"The kids started hurrahing them and they got into columns," Johnson said, referring to the press. "That speculation started and that exaggeration came."

"Humanitarianism consists in never sacrificing a human being for a purpose. The great conflict of our times is personality versus collectivism."

Lynda Bird, Robb Exchange Vows

Congrats Caught In Crossfire Of U.S. Troops

SAIGON (UPI) — American troops Saturday drove a North Vietnamese force gathering rice 37.5 miles northeast of Saigon into the blazing guns of U.S. Air Cavalrymen aboard helicopters.

Report from the open paddy field said the U.S. assault killed 99 Communists and left the Americans practically unscathed with only four men wounded.

New and more bitter fighting was reported in the swamps of the Mekong River delta 100 miles southwest of Saigon where a force of about 1,000 South Vietnamese infantrymen and rangers with American advisers reported killing 365 Viet Cong Friday in what was described by the U.S. Command as "a smashing victory."

Ambush Vessel

A guerrilla team operating in the delta a few miles from the focus of the big battle ambushed a U.S. rivercraft Saturday, killing three Americans and two South Vietnamese on a supply mission through the treacherous terrain. The slain Americans were two Army men and a Navy officer.

Saigon communiques Saturday afternoon said the rice field victory, the delta combat and fighting on the Bong Son Plain along the coast of the South China Sea had killed almost 800 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong since last Wednesday.

Couple Married In White House

By HELEN THOMAS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lynda Bird Johnson and her Marine captain headed for the Vietnam war were married Saturday in a brief, simple White House wedding that glowed with happiness, history and holiday warmth.

A proud President Johnson gave his 23-year-old daughter's hand to Capt. Charles S. Robb, 28, of Milwaukee, Wis., at an improvised altar in the East Room surrounded by fir branches and boughs of red and green holly.

Lynda thus became the seventh daughter of a president to be married in the White House and the first since President Woodrow Wilson's daughter, Eleanor, was wed in the same room 53 years ago.

Lynda chose to stand in the exact spot where three other presidential daughters exchanged vows—Eleanor Wilson, Nellie Grant and Alice Roosevelt Longworth.

Theodore Roosevelt's daughter, whose marriage to Rep. Nicholas Longworth of Ohio in 1906 was the most lavish of the White House weddings, was on Lynda's guest list Saturday. She is 83 years old.

Robb gave Lynda's wedding a military flair. He and his best Mama Don't Allow No Dogs in Here!

One of the post-wedding side-lights came when LBJ's wife, Lady Bird, became vehement when the President's favorite dog, Yuki, ran up to him from out of nowhere.

"That dog cannot come in here," Mrs. Johnson said.

"Oh, let him stay," the president said.

"Absolutely not," she insisted. "get him out of here."

She won. Yuki was given the bum's rush.

Connally Stands Firm to Not Back Candidates

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — In the month since Gov. John Connally announced he would not seek reelection, no "Connally Candidate" has emerged and it now appears that none will.

Connally says "I may go through the entire campaign without endorsing anyone." His indifference to the race so far makes that statement believable.

House Speaker Ben Barnes, who is as close to Connally as any politician, believes already is too late for Connally to put anyone forward as "his" candidate.

Barnes thinks Connally could have transferred his support en masse to someone who was ready to announce as soon as Connally decided to retire.

Now, Barnes said, "too many of Connally's supporters already have committed themselves. A strong candidate could still get a lot of that support, but he would have to do most of it on his own."

Lt. Gov. Preston Smith, the only announced candidate, and Secretary of State John L. Hill, who plans to announce next month, now are dividing up the support that Connally might have kept together. Neither has Connally's blessing.

"I'm not going to try to sell anybody on the race," Connally said. "If a man is going to run, he should want to run, and be sure of it himself."

Prospective candidates who go to Connally seeking his support get a dispassionate analysis of their strengths and weaknesses, but no commitments.

"I can't explain the Governor's lack of interest," Barnes said.

When asked, Connally says the standard nice things about his friends—Hill, former Congressman Joe Kilgore, former State Democratic Chairman Eugene Locks, oil lobbyist Frank Ikard.

He says very little about Smith or Sen. Ralph Yarborough, even when asked.

He did make it clear last week that he doesn't see Smith in the same light that Smith sees himself — as "back-up quarterback (who) knows the plays and has seen lots of action."

"We're not playing football," Connally remarked. If Smith should begin calling signals Connally's way, "It would be news, I'll say that," Connally said.

Heart Patient Showing First Signs of Weakness

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (UPI) — Louis Washkansky showed faint signs Saturday of rejecting the alien tissue of a dead woman's heart that beats as his own. But his doctor expressed confidence the problem would be overcome.

So confident, in fact, was Dr. Christian Barnard, that he put another medical staff on standby for a second such operation—on a 56-year-old dentist.

Dr. Barnard performed a week ago medical history's first successful human heart transplant on Washkansky, a 55-year-old grocer.

Dr. Barnard said the manifestations of rejection of the new heart were "a normal condition."

"I am confident we are overcoming it," Barnard said. Barnard admitted he was "a bit concerned" Friday night at electro-cardiograph readings of Washkansky's heart. But he said Saturday the patient's condition was again normal.

Barnard said he was so satisfied with Washkansky's condition that he spent the afternoon at home.

Washkansky is alert, cheerful and getting bored staying in bed, the surgeon said. He said he has asked for a radio to break the monotony.

The rejection manifested itself in the form of a slight rise in his white blood corpuscles. Doctors said they considered the reaction normal.

"We have been using cobalt bomb treatment to counteract this natural reaction, and to minimize it," a hospital spokesman said.

Dr. Christian Barnard, whose surgical skill was credited with the operation last week, put another medical staff on standby for another transplant.

The new-patient was to be Dr. Phillip Blaherg, 58, a dentist from the Cape Town suburb of Rondebosch.

All they were waiting for was a donor whose heart is sound enough at death that it can be transplanted.

Doctors at Groote Schuur Hospital said the rejection reaction of the 55-year-old grocer was "inevitable" but it was far milder and much later than they expected.

GMC, UAW Still In Disagreement

DETROIT (UPI) — Negotiators for General Motors Corp. and the United Auto Workers Union worked into the weekend Saturday to try to agree on a three-year national contract by a Thursday deadline.

Bargainers for 406,000 production workers and for the No. 1 automaker huddled in subcommittees under a jointly imposed "news blackout" in an effort to resolve economic disputes.

While the negotiations continued in the General Motors Building, UAW pickets shut down the Chevrolet V8 plant for engines at Flint, Mich. The plant had been scheduled to work Saturday but the union took the action to stop the overtime work.

None of the assembly plants closed by walkouts Friday was scheduled to operate Saturday. Walkouts Friday shut down plants near Cincinnati, Ohio; near Atlanta, Ga.; at St. Louis, Mo.; at Arlington, Tex.; and near Van Nuys, Calif.

Girls' Deaths Indicate Possible Connection With Underworld

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (UPI) — The concrete-weighted bodies of two pretty young women possibly show girls since they were clad in frilly bathing suits and jewelry, were found in the Whiskey Creek Canal and police speculated Saturday they might be victims of the underworld.

Officers were unable to immediately identify the girls, one with shoulder length auburn hair and dressed in a frilly-trimmed black bikini. The other girl had short, dark curls and wore a one-piece, black lace bathing suit.

There was speculation the victims may have been the "talkative" girlfriends of members of south Florida's underworld. There have been a half-dozen gangland slayings on the Gold Coast in the past few months.

"There is no real way of knowing if this is an underworld job until we get the girls identified," said Hollywood Police Lt. Fred Rohloff.

But, Rohloff was not the motive, nor does it appear the girls were sexually attacked, he said.

Both girls were wearing valuable jewelry that any robber almost certainly would have taken.

The bikini-clad girl appeared to be in her late teens and her companion in her early 20s, Rohloff said. The older girl must have been nervous because her fingernails were "bitten down to the quick."

Concrete blocks had been tied around each of their necks with white electrical cord before their bodies were dumped in the water.

Police said the girls apparently were slain on a boat and thrown overboard about midday Friday. The bodies were found about 10 p.m. by five fishermen whose names were not released for their own protection.

Soviets Sending Egypt More Aid

LONDON (UPI)—The Soviet Union is escalating its aid to Egypt in return for wider controls and base facilities, diplomatic reports said today.

In doing so, the Soviets have decided to back President Gamal, Abdel Nasser as the leader of the United Arab Republic and of the Arab world beyond.

Communist diplomats disclosed that Moscow, after initial hesitation following the Arab defeat at the hands of Israel in June, has decided to put its money once more on Nasser as the only choice and to back him sufficiently so that he can "last," despite some Arab rumblings of dissatisfaction.

Having opted for Nasser, Moscow now is pushing all out for the penetration of Egypt in the political, economic and military spheres.

Replace Military Equipment

The Soviet Union, which boasts of replacing some 80 per cent of Egypt's destroyed military equipment, now is also sending a refinery to make up, at least partly, for the one destroyed recently in a reprisal attack by Israel.

Moscow also has pledged to send badly needed wheat and foodstuffs as well as various economic supplies.

All this is done on credit, but the supplies are being ticked off against the mortgaged Egyptian cotton harvest and base facilities.

Egypt has denied that she is granting "bases" to anyone but no matter how these facilities are labelled, they amount to the same. The Soviet Union now has full fledged naval facilities in Alexandria and Port Said, in addition to those in Latakia, Syria. There is also persistent talk of base facilities to be extended to the Soviet Union by Yemen.

Advisers Brought In

The Kremlin was reported to have poured several thousand experts and "advisers" into Egypt and Syria, seemingly to train the reorganized Egyptian army in the use of sophisticated weapons.

have reserved the right to control the use of the new equipment. The Soviets retain a finger on the trigger, presumably to avert the danger of being involved against their will in any confrontation with the United States by any hasty or adventurous Nasser move.

An expert report of the West European Union recently said that the Soviet Union was the real victor in the June Mideast war and that Egypt now is so heavily dependent on Soviet armaments and military equipment that "the last shreds of Egyptian political independence have disappeared."

Montagnards Die in Slaughter

DAK SON, Vietnam (UPI)—Hundreds of the mountain people, men, women and children, huddled in holes under their huts and heard the Viet Cong shouting, "Come with us or die!"

Most of the Montagnards of this village near the Cambodian border do not speak Vietnamese. They did not understand Communist flamethrowers swooshed. The flames engulfed the huts, and flashed into the hideout holes below.

Saturday, four days after the raid, the survivors are not sure how many died. The lowest estimate is 100. The official guesses run to more than 300. I asked the opinion of Col. William F. West of Portland, Ore., who is trying to bring order out of chaos.

He gestured up the hill toward the big ba tree under which swarms of flies whirled and from where the worst odor of war came with an unwelcome breeze.

"You can go out and count the bodies yourself if you want to. But I don't advise you to. There are large numbers of very dead people out there," West said.

Vietnamese troops with handkerchiefs over their faces made large graves. They were burying families. They laid a mother and her six children together in one hole.

Montagnards wound up the hill, chanting dirges in their own tongue, still not understanding.

"Why? Why these people? These Montagnards wouldn't hurt anyone. They're such a gentle people," said an Army doctor, Henry K. Wirts of York, Pa. He was one of three American physicians who have been working, stripped to the waist, in a makeshift hospital they put together since help came to Dak Son Tuesday morning.

"These people don't understand Vietnamese. They told us they thought their attackers were speaking Chinese. They couldn't even understand they were told 'Come with us or die!'" said Dr. Larry Nix of Fresno, Calif.

Search For Peace

The Montagnards had come to Dak Son to find peace. That started their trouble. They were among 20,000 mountain folk who came to government-protected hamlets to escape Viet Cong terrorism. That angered the Communists.

At midnight Monday night the Communists swarmed out of the jungle, up the hill and through the outnumbered government defenders.

"They came throwing fire," villager Dieu Rot recounted. "There were about 500 of them," he said in broken French. "They threw fire into houses. They threw fire into bunkers under the houses. They threw grenades and rockets."

"They burned my people alive."

Officials said the guerrillas kidnaped 60 survivors. They marched them off into the jungle and shot them there, he said.

In Wirts' hospital, some of the burned Montagnards rose from their cots and walked away. "They are terribly burned and we don't know if they live or die," Wirts said. His hospital was still filled.

The province chief said the survivors were staying, rebuilding their huts after burying their dead. "They could not go to Saigon. This is their land. Those were their homes. Their ancestors, their people are buried here," he said.

Four Important Reasons To See A Physician

The American Medical Association does not advise you to see a physician for unimportant medical problems. But, what problems are important?

1. If the patient's complaints or symptoms are too painful to be endured — get a doctor. Immediate relief is needed.
2. When an apparently minor symptom or symptoms persist for more than a few days or weeks and does not appear to be due to some easily identified cause — get a doctor.
3. When symptoms returned repeatedly for no recognizable cause, such as in headaches, digestive distress, etc. — get a doctor.
4. When in doubt about any ailment — call a doctor.

Joe Cree Honored in Dallas As Million-Dollar Salesman

Joe Cree, Pampa agent for Southland Life Insurance Co., basked in the million-dollar limelight in Dallas during the weekend as he was honored for placing first in life insurance sales volume during October in 46 states represented by his company across the nation.

Cree was among 11 leading agents on an All-Star Team honored for their accomplishments in Southland Life's October 1967 Leaders' Campaign. Awards were presented to Cree and the ten other agents by Dan C. Williams, Southland president, at a coffee and reception held for the All-Stars yesterday.

According to Henry J. Smith, Amarillo district agency manager, Southland Life has more than 1,800 agents in 46 states, with 52 branch offices. It was pointed out that only one per cent of all life insurance agents in the United States write $1 million or more worth of insurance in one year.

However, Smith stated, Cree sold in excess of $1 million in the one month of October. Cree has qualified for the last five years as a member of the Million Dollar Round Table, an international organization composed of agents of all companies who qualify for membership annually by selling in excess of $1 million worth of life insurance during the year.

The Pampa man has qualified for membership in the Texas Leaders' Round Table for the past eight years and has received the National Sales Ac-

Cree, currently president of the Top O' Texas Life Underwriters Association, has just completed four of the five parts of annual examinations to qualify for the life insurance man's coveted professional designation of Certified Life Underwriter.

Cree and the other ten agents on the exclusive All-Star team will be in Dallas through Monday attending seminars with chief executive officers of Southland Life to discuss company operations for the coming year.

Officer Gets Bite for Trouble

A brawl shortly before Friday midnight at the A-OK Lounge, 219 W. Tynge, resulted in the arrest of two men, a warrant for the arrest of two more, and arrest of one man for assaulting an officer.

Officer S. B. Patterson was the first man on the scene. He broke up a fight between Claude Willis and James Wells inside the lounge, then noticed a fight going on outside, according to a Pampa police report.

He radioed for additional help and Officers R. F. McCracken, Lt. E. D. Seawright, and Sgt. J. B. Goad arrived to help.

By then, the two men outside, L. D. Boyd and James Truitt Ledbetter, had left, a police report said. A warrant was issued for their arrest.

Meanwhile, another man attempted to intervene in the arrest of the two men inside. Police say Charles Ratliff, 32, of 320 N. Sumner, repeatedly told officers that Willis hadn't done anything. When officer McCracken replied that he was already under arrest and asked Ratliff to get back, Ratliff reportedly said "Are you gonna arrest me?"

"You're working on it," Officer McCracken replied.

The police report says that Ratliff then cursed and shouted at McCracken and tried to gouge out his right eye. After hitting the officer and biting him on the nose, Ratliff was subdued by the officers present and arrested.

Project Gas Buggy Set for 'Go' Today

GASBUGGY SITE, N.M. (UPI) — Project Gasbuggy, the twice delayed test of a hydrogen bomb deep underground in a northwestern New Mexico gas field, was ready for detonation on schedule this morning.

All systems were "go" for the first nuclear explosion for private industry. The $4.7 million project by the Atomic Energy Commission and El Paso Natural Gas Co. was designed to find out if nuclear fracturing can increase production profitably in the nation's petroleum field.

The younger victim also had been shot in the chest and the bullet tore into her lung near her heart. There were also numerous minor stab wounds on both bodies, Haugen said.

Blood still trickled from the wounds when the bodies were pulled into a police launch Friday night. The bodies were found floating feet-up in the waters of a mangrove lined drainage canal, known as

Underwriters To Hear Estate Talk By Amarillo Man

"Estate Planning for People" will be the subject of a talk to be given by Sam Clements of Amarillo at the district luncheon meeting Tuesday of the Top O' Texas Life Underwriters Association at Coronado Inn.

Joe Cree, association president, said Saturday director's meeting is scheduled for 11 a.m. preceding the luncheon session.

Clements is head of Sam Clements and Associates in Amarillo, representing Sun Life Insurance Co. of Montreal, Canada.

Association members from Pampa, Borger, Perryton, Gruver, Spearman and Guymon, Okla., are expected to attend the monthly luncheon.

Pampans Attend Realtors' Meet

H. W. Waters, president of the Pampa Board of Realtors and president of nine other area boards, attended a planning session of Panhandle realtors in Amarillo last Thursday.

Also attending from Pampa were O. K. Gaylor, vice president, and Oma Drew, secretary-treasurer of the local organization.

At an afternoon session, Quentin Williams of Pampa discussed the future of farm and land brokerage in the Panhandle area. Williams just recently was elected president of the National Institute of Farm and Land Brokers, a division of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Bond, Cunningham Are PHS Favorites

Beau Bond and Jennifer Cunningham were elected Pampa High School favorites in elections held Friday.

Miss Cunningham was also named best-looking girl, and Dwight Rogers was named best-looking boy.

All are seniors. Miss Cunningham also serves as Future Farmers' sweetheart, and head cheerleader. Bond is president of his class and a starter on the varsity basketball team, and Rogers is president of the student body and was captain of the football team.

Only Trace of Snow Falls in Pampa Area

Light snow fell in Pampa shortly before noon Saturday and a few flakes flitted about in the afternoon.

The weatherman says there's no chance for any more snow through Sunday night. The mercury was expected to drop into the high teens by early today but today, he said, will be fair with a high around 40.

Far West Texas got the brunt of a snowstorm Saturday with up to one inch in the west to from four inches in the Guadalupe and Davis mountains.

Routine Matters Facing Council

Final reading of an ordinance aimed at the removal of dilapidated buildings in Pampa is scheduled at Tuesday's meeting of the city commission.

Other business will include renewal of fire fighting contracts with Gray, Roberts and Carson counties and the City of LeFors.

Tax service contracts also are expected to be renewed with Gray County and the Pampa Independent School District.

Up for first reading will be an ordinance accepting street improvements completed so far, deleting certain units and releasing certain properties where owners paid cash in advance for street paving. In this connection a called meeting is expected to be set for Wednesday to give the ordinance second and final reading.

Getting Out on Bail
"He's in prison now, being punished," said the Queen to Alice in "Through the Looking Glass," "and the trial doesn't even begin till next Wednesday."

It is to prevent such punishment, before guilt has been established, that our system of bail is designed. The accused is given his temporary freedom, after putting up a certain sum of money to guarantee his appearance in court.

Is every accused person entitled to get out on bail?

Almost. Traditionally, the main exception has been in the case of capital crime when there is strong evidence of guilt. The theory is that anyone facing a possible death penalty would be sorely tempted to jump bail and go into hiding.

But the vast majority of defendants do in fact go free, on bail. Those who remain in prison usually do so not because they are not entitled to this privilege but because they cannot afford it.

How high should bail be set? The Constitution requires that it shall not be "excessive." Various factors may determine, in a particular case, how much bail is excessive. For example:

Bail, even though high, was held not excessive in one case, because the accused had already jumped bail three times. Obviously, he could logically be expected to do it again.

But high bail was held excessive in another case, because the accused was charged with just a simple misdemeanor.

What if the man is indigent? Even low bail may be beyond his reach, forcing him to languish in jail solely because of his poverty.

To meet this common problem, reforms have been undertaken in many communities. Generally they eliminate bail all together for the indigent defendant who, on individual appraisal, seems a good bet to show up in court when he is supposed to.

Does the man have a job? Does he have close family ties? Is he a long-time local resident? With such roots in the community, he is less likely to run away.

If the accused can indeed be turned loose with reasonable safety, society is thereby relieved of the cost of keeping him. More important, society is also relieved of the necessity of confining a person, even temporarily, while he is still entitled to the presumption of innocence.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman took television and the press to task this week for playing up the wrong kind of news.

He said there was too much emphasis on protest, criticism, disension and the like, and not enough on cherry ridings.

Well, gee, I suppose I am guilty of this as anyone but there is a reason for it.

The unfortunate fact is that bad news generally is more interesting than good news. Particularly when it happens to somebody else.

Nevertheless, I can sympathize with the secretary and I would like to do something to buck up his spirits a bit.

Good News Department
Toward that end, I call your attention to some of the recent upbeat happenings in his own department that may have been crowded off the front page by assorted nasty developments.

—Cows with cool heads give more milk than hot-headed cows.

The agricultural research service made this discovery by testing cows in a barn where the temperature was 83 degrees. Those whose heads were kept in enclosures cooled to 60 degrees gave 15 to 20 per cent more milk.

So if you happen to have a cow, try putting an ice pack on her forehead at milking time.

—Department engineers have discovered a new source of water. It is called "rain."

They say that if you catch rainfall as it comes down from the sky, you can keep it in a container until the next time you get thirsty or need a bath or something.

New Discovery
In these days of water shortages, this is a valuable piece of information. Too bad somebody didn't think of it sooner.

—Department entomologists have discovered a chemical that attracts Japanese beetles.

Unfortunately, they also captured several thousand bumble bees.

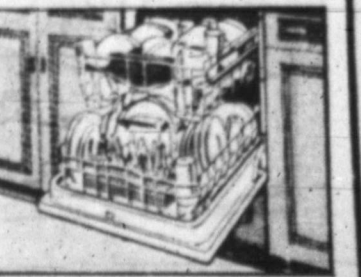

So they changed the color of the traps to green, and also changed the chemical. This helped keep the bees away.

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
The Mideast war and the narrowly averted clash between Greece and Turkey is causing anxious thoughts about NATO's military position in the Mediterranean.

In Paris, the seven-nation West European Union (WEU) composed of Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg received a report from its military committee that the position had deteriorated dramatically.

back from positions, as both ends of the Suez Canal—the Russians, set back only briefly by the Arab defeat last June, have moved with propaganda, weapons and money to fill the gap.

By moving promptly to replace Arab losses suffered to the Israelis in the Mideast war, the Soviets have recovered most of the prestige they lost when they failed to intervene on to Arabs' side.

It blamed the change on France's withdrawal from the North Atlantic Treaty's integrated defense command and on stepped-up Soviet naval operations in the Mediterranean.

Although the French withdrew their Mediterranean naval forces from the NATO command in early 1959, the immediate concern was the French decision to evacuate the naval base at Mers-el-Kebir, Algeria, next year.

Special Fear
A special fear of the committee was that, with the departure of the French, the Soviet Union might take over the base.

The French replied that they would not relinquish sovereignty over the site until 1975.

Assurances against establishment of a Russian base on Egyptian soil also came from Cairo.

A government spokesman declared that "we are against giving bases to the Soviet Union or the United States or any country."

Nonetheless there were good reasons for allied fears.

Under the pressure of newly independent governments or the necessity to reduce military expenditures, former allied footholds in Morocco, Libya and Malta have been abandoned or reduced.

Future in Question
The future of the British base on Cyprus is at best a question mark.

The burden of NATO defenses falls upon the U.S. Sixth Fleet. And as the allies have fallen

In this weekly column, Citizens Bank & Trust Co. will seek to provide answers to questions frequently asked of us about banking practices and bank services. If YOU have a question which has been puzzling you, write us a letter, and we'll get the answer for you!

Q. As part of extra-credit work for my Economics class, I am writing a paper on money. Will you please give me the bank's definition of a "check" and also, a "checking account."

A. A Check is a written instruction to pay to the order of a particular person or organization a specified amount of the signer's money on deposit in that bank. A checking account is a formal arrangement between the bank and a customer. It provides for the bank to hold funds deposited by or in behalf of the customer. The customer may write checks for goods and services against the deposited funds. When properly presented for payment, such checks will be paid by the bank and charged against the customer's deposit account.

Mexican Border Being Watched For Contraband

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—An additional 240 federal police were rushed to the U. S.-Mexican border today to join in the war against Christmas contraband which has already netted more than three tons of goods seized.

Customs officials said most of the seized articles brought into the country illegally from the United States were clothing, toys, watches and liquor.

The Mexican Justice Department announced that flying squads of judiciary police will patrol the entire length of roads leading to the border.

Inspections were intensified at the Mexico City airport and the National Railways announced they would allow customs inspectors to board trains to check passengers' luggage.

Year-Old Slaying Still Mystery

TAHOCA, Tex. (UPI)—The shotgun slaying of prominent civic and church leader Maurice Bray is still unsolved, although it happened a year ago today. A $2,000 reward remains unclaimed.

Bray, 57, was considered Tahoka's most prominent citizen, and he was known by many throughout Texas and the rest of the nation because of his outstanding football prowess, as a guard in the 1920s with Southern Methodist University and the Pittsburgh Steelers.

He had served on the school board, Methodist Church board, city council and other local organizations, and was Lynn County probation officer.

A single shot killed him about 1 a.m. Dec. 8, 1966, as he worked. Just across the street was the police department headquarters for the town of 3,507, located 29 miles south of Lubbock.

Police issued a statement within 24 hours of the slaying that the arrest of two young men in connection with the crime was imminent. Two teenaged boys were picked up and questioned, but they were freed by lie detector tests.

Since then, officers say, there has not been a major lead in the case. The investigation is at a standstill, and police admit they are no closer to solving the case than they were on the day it happened.

It looked like attempted burglary — that Bray heard a noise in the parts department of his dealership, surprised the burglars and was shot in the chest. There were signs of forced entry. An outside window was smashed just above the latch and an interior door was pried precisely at the point where it was bolted.

Some automobile radios had been stacked near a door. Other merchandise was in disarray in an aisle.

Other theories are that it was someone closer to Bray who killed him, and then went to considerable trouble to make burglary appear the motive.

The shotgun was found near the body. An unspent shell lay nearby. There were no fingerprints or serial number on the rusty weapon, and police have been unable to trace the weapon or locate anyone who had seen it before.

Linowitz May Succeed Goldberg

WASHINGTON, N. (UPI)—Sol M. Linowitz, U.S. ambassador to the Organization of American States, is being mentioned as a possible successor to Arthur J. Goldberg as ambassador to the United Nations.

Moreover, they said, there are several parallels between Goldberg and Linowitz.

—Both are Jewish. Replacement of Goldberg with another Jew would be a politically popular move in heavily Jewish New York city, seat of the world body.

—Both are lawyers. Linowitz served as an attorney with the Office of Price Administration during World War II and later was in private practice before becoming chairman of the giant Xerox Corp. in 1958.

—Both are gregarious. Linowitz is an outgoing man of great charm who has gained many friends for himself and the United States during his year as OAS ambassador.

For some time Goldberg's associates have known he was becoming restive in the U.N. job, where he did not find the latitude he had expected for his negotiating skills.

Although the White House has not formally confirmed or denied reports of Goldberg's wish to leave, officials made no secret of the fact he had expressed such a desire.

TO RETURN CHILDREN

NAILA, Germany (UPI)—West German authorities said Thursday they will return to their parents four teen-aged boys who fled across the border from Communist East Germany. Three of the youths said they crossed the Communist border "death strip" because they received bad report cards. The fourth said he came along "for the fun of it."

We have received word that the chest that the Pampa High School youth packed last May has been shipped to Vietnam for the refugees in that country. According to the American Red Cross teams, our school chests represent very valuable assistance for refugee children. One hundred-fifty chests were shipped to Vietnam from the Red Cross warehouse for this work of which one of them was the Pampa High School chest.

Our Red Cross chapter has sent a check for $25 to the VA Hospital in Amarillo for the veteran patients Christmas. The American Red Cross in Amarillo plan a party for the patients at the VA Hospital the 8th and we know they will receive many gifts and the veterans will enjoy this evening of fun and entertainment.

Our Red Cross chapter is packing 25 stockings for the Amarillo Air Force Base Hospital Christmas. Other chapters will send stockings and we know they will be glad of the attention given the servicemen. Robert E. Lee students from the art department are making bedside favors for each patient in the hospital and Woodrow Wilson Elementary school will make tray favors and mats for the patients Christmas morning. Everyone enters into the Christmas season helping others have a glad and happy day for Christmas.

Mrs. Irvin Cole has given our chapter an oxygen unit for our sick room supplies and we are grateful for the gift. We have wheelchairs, one hospital bed and urethals, bed pans and many other useful items for our community to use on a loan basis. All we ask is that the person will return the articles after the need for them no longer exists in the family. Thanks for this valuable sick room item. Most of these have been loaned by friends.

Would our First Aid or Safety Departments look among your supplies and see if you have the Red Cross leg splint among them? We cannot locate the one we had and we feel sure that it has been borrowed and then forgotten to be brought back. Call our chapter if you can help us locate it.

Mr. Ray Fisher had a class for the Boy Troop from the First Christian Church at the Fire Station No. 2 last week. He showed the film on Part one and two to the 20 boys present and stressed some measures of safety for the boys. All of them are working on their Safety badge. This is a fine thing for our FAI to do.

DAM OFFICIAL ARRESTED

JAKARTA (UPI)—Indonesian authorities said Thursday a top official in the central Java Dam Authority had been arrested for "criminal negligence" in the collapse of a dam under construction which killed 116 persons last month. At least 500 homes were destroyed and $300,000 in damage incurred when the dam collapsed.

Britain Hit Hard by New Blizzard

LONDON (UPI)—A blizzard whipped snow into drifts throughout Britain Friday, paralyzing transportation and leaving a dozen towns isolated. Thousands of traffic accidents, only a handful of them serious, were reported to police, already overburdened by handling chaotic traffic conditions.

Dozens of mainline trains in England, Wales and Scotland were cancelled by blocked lines. Scores of airports, including those handling transatlantic flights, were closed while emergency crews de-iced runways.

MRS. DONALD LAYNE WILLIAMS nee Reva Gayle Barnett

Vows Unite Miss Reva Barnett, Donald L. Williams

Miss Reva Gayle Barnett and Donald Layne Williams were united in marriage in a double-ring candlelight ceremony in First Baptist Church in Skellytown Nov. 25. Rev. Murie Rogers, pastor, officiated for the evening ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walton Barnett of Skellytown. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace A. Williams of White Deer.

BRIDE

The bride wore a full-length, white brocaded satin gown with a rounded neckline and wrist-length, fitted sleeves. The train was gathered at the v-point waistline of her dress. The waist-length veil of white illusion was fastened to a white crown. She carried a bouquet of white roses and ribbon.

ATTENDANTS

Matron of honor was Mrs. Patsy Carter, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Lynette Russell, sister of the bridegroom, Karen Abbott and Wilma Tyler, cousins of the bride.

Best man was Frank Williams, brother of the bridegroom. Groomsmen were Carroll Russell, brother-in-law of the bridegroom; Jack Dunivan and Kenneth Carter, brother-in-law of the bride.

Ringbearers were Westley Marlin and Paula Davis, cousins of the bridegroom. Candlelighters, Billy Bob Terry and Sherry Koetting, were cousins of the bridegroom. The bride's cousins, Sheila Kubiak and Sherry Kubiak, were flower girls.

Bridesmaids wore red velvet street-length blue dresses. The candlelighter, ringbearer and flower girls wore red velvet dresses.

Billy Gann, vocalist, sang "Because," "The Twelfth of Never," and "The Lord's Prayer." Ida Mae Powers, organist, accompanied Gann. Mrs. Carolyn Marlar registered guests. Mrs. Frank Williams and Mrs. Marlar served at the reception.

Those seating wedding guests were Mike Tyler, Pampa; LeRoy Haiduk, White Deer; Kenneth Carter, Abilene and Carroll Russell, Skellytown.

The bride's mother was dressed in a light blue two-piece suit. The bridegroom's mother wore a navy blue dress. Both selected white accessories. The couple's home is at 4008 S. Kentucky. The bridegroom is a student at West Texas State University.

TO WED

Miss Karen Ann White

Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. White, 1120 E. Browning, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Karen Ann White, to Donald Wayne Blackard, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Blackard of Levelland. Vows will be exchanged Feb. 3, 1968, in the First Assembly of God Church in Pampa.

Miss Jolly, Maj. Ackfeld Exchange Vows in Chapel

Miss Ginger Lew Jolly exchanged wedding vows with Maj. Virgil Ackfeld in a double-ring ceremony Nov. 30 in the United States Air Force Base Chapel, Amarillo. Capt. Robert E. Cheesman, USAF chaplain, officiated for the evening ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Jolly, 810 N. Somerville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ackfeld, Freeburg, Mo.

The bride wore a white two-piece silk suit and carried a bouquet of white starlight rose buds on a small white Bible. Her headpiece, a small white pillbox hat, was adorned with a shadow of a white veil.

Miss Nancy Moore, Amarillo, maid of honor, wore a shell pink, sheer wool street-length dress designed in the empire style. Her corsage was of pink sensation roses.

Jess Motzenbacher, Amarillo, was best man. The couple took a honeymoon to Santa Fe, N.M. After Jan. 1, 1968, they will live in Wichita Falls, where the bridegroom is to be stationed at Sheppard Air Force Base.

Twentieth Century Culture Club Hears Review by Mrs. Donaldson

Mrs. E. L. Henderson was hostess and Mrs. L. H. Hart co-hostess for the Twentieth Century Culture Club in Mrs. Henderson's home recently. Mrs. Weldon Carter presided over the business meeting as a new member. Mrs. Paul Mitchell joined the club.

The program, introduced by Mrs. G. L. Craddock, was Mrs. J. R. Donaldson's review of "Make a Joyful Sound" by Helen Elmira Waite, who depicted the life of Mabel Hubbard Bell.

"When Mabel Hubbard was four years old she suffered an attack of scarlet fever which left her deaf," said Mrs. Donaldson.

"Unlike those born deaf, she already knew how to speak. Her father was a wealthy lawyer in Cambridge, Mass. He took her to specialists who told him his daughter would soon be unable to speak because she could not hear. Sign language, he was told, was the only hope," she said.

In the course of his search, Mr. Hubbard heard in Germany the deaf were being taught to read the lips of others and thus to speak. Dr. Howe, head of the Perkins Institution, for the Blind in Boston, was the only person in the United States who encouraged Mr. Hubbard.

He said to talk, talk, talk to Mabel and always make sure she was watching their lips. He said she could be taught by vibration and insisted they make her talk instead of using signs. Mrs. Donaldson said.

"When Mabel was 12 they took her to Germany to put her in one of the advanced schools for the deaf, but discovered she was already so advanced the school could do no more for her. She was then put in a school for normal children. Within a few months she was speaking, reading and writing German. She came back to the United States when she was 15 because of a young teacher who had demonstrated a new system of teaching the deaf to speak and improve their voices.

"The young teacher's name was Alexander Graham Bell. Mr. Bell was also trying to find a way of sending multiple messages over a single wire simultaneously. He finally succeeded in perfecting the telephone. He and Mabel were married and had two daughters who seemed unaware they had a famous father, or that there was anything unusual about their mother," said Mrs. Donaldson.

Mrs. L. J. Zachry gave a talk on "Eppie and Popo," the story of twins, Esther Pauline (Eppie) and Pauline Esther (Popo) Freidman.

"They were two of the smartest, prettiest, and most popular girls in town," said Mrs. Zachry. "After graduating with honors from high school, they both majored in journalism and psychology. Eppie and Popo together wrote gossip columns for their high school and college papers. Two days before their 21st birthday the twins were married in a double wedding ceremony. Eppie was married to Jules Lederer, and Popo was married to Morton Phillips.

"When Mr. and Mrs. Lederer moved to Chicago," continued Mrs. Zachry, "Eppie learned that the 'Sun-Times' needed a columnist and she applied. She learned she was in whom her phone rang one morning and an executive said, 'Good morning, Ann Landers!'"

The Ann Landers column had been running in the Sun-Times for a number of years as the pen name for Ruth Crowley, who had just passed away. Eppie's first column appeared Oct. 16, 1955, in 26 newspapers. Since the number of newspapers subscribing to her column has increased, she has emerged as one of the most widely read women of this era. Miss Landers is a small woman with black hair and blue eyes.

"After her sister was hired to write the Ann Landers series," said Mrs. Zachry, "Mrs. Phillips, or Popo, began her own journalistic career. [Editorial note: See Women's Page 11.]

ly selecting the San Francisco Chronicle Mrs. Phillips submitted sample articles.

"The editors approved her answers so much they dropped their advice columnist and turned the job over to Mrs. Phillips. Under the by-line of Abigail Van Buren, a name of her own invention, she began her deftly written "Dear Abby" column.

"A few weeks after her column started, she was 'bought' by a syndicate. Abigail Van Buren is small, has black hair, greenish blue eyes, and a heart-shaped face with dimples. She is clothes conscious, favoring Paris fashions. She has two teenage children and subscribes to the belief husbands and children come first. She has had two books published: 'Dear Abby' in 1953, and 'Dear Teen-Ager' in 1959. They were both best sellers.

"The two columns are as alike as Abigail Van Buren and Ann Landers," said Mrs. Zachry. "Both women believe a shock and a laugh are better than a soft shoulder to cry on. Their rivalry has been a factor in their success," Mrs. Zachry said.

Other members attending were: Mmes. J. L. Chase, Warren Hasso, V. L. Hobbs, Jack R. Hood, Irene Osborne and E. E. Shelhamer.

Women Observe

'Week of Prayer'

The Central Baptist Church observed a "Week of Prayer" for Foreign Missions this week. The Women's Missionary Union met each morning in a prayer and study group directed by Mrs. Richard James, Mrs. R. C. Brown, WMU president, said.

The Baptist Men's Association emphasized the foreign mission theme in their last meeting by inviting the women to attend their special missions program. Rex Edgar Jones, minister of the First Baptist Church, Perryton, spoke and showed slides of his participation in the

Mrs. Becky Walsh, Edward Henderson Say Vows

Miss Becky Jan Walsh became the bride of Edward Eugene Henderson in a double-ring wedding ceremony Dec. 2 in the First Baptist Church.

Rev. Dan Cameron, pastor, performed the evening ceremony before a myriad of candles in arched candleabra.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Walsh, 1229 Dimean. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Henderson, Elk City, Okla.

BRIDE

Given in marriage by her father, the bride walked to the altar in a slim-line empire dress of white peau de soie. The floor-length gown was designed with a rounded neckline and long, petal point sleeves. Re-embroidered chantilly lace appliques accented the skirt and train, which hung from the waist by a large bow of peau de soie.

Tiny buttons fastened the back of her gown. Her shoulder-length veil of illusion was fastened to a coil of white satin roses on velvet leaves. She carried a bouquet of white orchids and feathered mums placed on a white Bible.

ATTENDANTS

Bridal attendants, Mrs. Pat Gilbreath, matron of honor; Mrs. Bobby Stephens, bridesmatron, and Miss Debbie Walsh, bridesmaid, wore identically designed gowns.

Their dresses were of baby blue chiffon semi-cage over taf feta, designed with wrist-length, sheer sleeves. Their accessories were matching shoes and pillbox hats. They carried bouquets of blue carnations on white tulle with satin streamers of blue and white.

Flower girls, Christy Stephens, and Karen Gilbreath were dressed identically to other bridal attendants and wore wristlets of white carnations. They carried white lace baskets with satin streamers.

The bridegroom's attendants were his father, Jimmy Henderson Sr., as best man with Jimmy Henderson Jr., Tulsa, Okla., and Pat Gilbreath, Elk City, Okla., as groomsmen.

Candlelighters were Ted Reeves and Willis Price III, both of Pampa. Leon White and Jeff Stallsmith, both of Elk City, Jimmy Reeves and Leonard Taylor, both of Pampa, seated wedding guests.

Other decorations in the church besides candles were all white urns filled with gladiolas.

Donnie Jones, Pampa, organist, played traditional wedding music as Miss Mary Price, vocalist, sang "Whither Thou Goest," and "I Love You Truly."

The bride's mother wore a sheer rose wool dress with black accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a yellow-tinted silk dress with black accessories. Both wore white carnation corsages.

RECEPTION

For the reception in the First Baptist Church Fellowship Hall, the serving table was covered with a baby blue net over white taffeta with scattered satin roses decorating the cloth. The table was appointed with crystal punch-bowl and candleabra, and a centerpiece of white gladiolas and blue pom-pom mums.

Miss Kathy Taylor assisted at the punch bowl as Mrs. Ken Bergman served the four-tiered wedding cake which was decorated with white roses. Miss Lanie Price registered guests. Donnie Jones provided reception music. Others assisting with the reception were Mrs. W. D. Price Jr., Mrs. James A. Reeves, Mrs. H. B. Taylor Jr., Mrs. Irvn Thompson and Mrs. Dwalne Blakemore.

For the honeymoon to Oklahoma City, the bride traveled in a navy blue wool dress trimmed in white and wore navy accessories and the white orchid from her bridal bouquet.

The couple plan to live in Elk City, Okla.

A graduate of Pampa High School and Oklahoma School of Banking in Oklahoma City, the bride was employed at Cabot Park before her marriage. The bridegroom is a graduate of Oklahoma City High School and is an assistant manager at T. G. Lybrand's shoe store in Elk City.

PRE-WEDDING EVENTS

Pre-nuptial events included a wedding shower in the First Baptist Church parlor Nov. 28.

Students Perform Musical Program

Students of Mrs. Fidelia Yoder performed in two pre-Christmas studio-recitals in her home, 1215 Williston this week. Hostesses for the first group were Mrs. Ewert Duncan and Mrs. J. H. Gallman who served Christmas cookies and punch at the end of the musical program.

In this group, a duo-piano arrangement of "The First Noel" was played by Suzanne Bond and Kathleen Patterson. To end the recital "Christmas Echoes," a medley of familiar Christmas carols in duet arrangement, was played by Gail-Duncan and Kathy Gallman.

Solos were also played by these students and also by John Daniels, Judy Johnson, Miriam Carroll, Melinda Laycock, Melinda Diggs, Eabs Davis, Tina White, Sally Keeton, Mary Beth Karr and Debbie Bray.

Fine Feminine Fashions

THIS IS THE SEASON TO SHINE, to glitter, to glow. Colors dazzle everywhere and black comes into the spotlight. Black wool knit (left) is polished to perfection and touched with sparkling gold and topaz beads at the neck and hem. Pearls flicker like moonbeams on the white wool knit evening suit (right). They outline the jacket and touch the sleeveless shell in a diagonal pattern. These are from the glowing knit collection by Banff.

Beta Sigma Phi Members Attend Regular Meeting

The Eta chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met recently in Citizens Bank and Trust Co., with President Mrs. Warren Chisum presiding. The meeting was opened by members repeating the opening ritual.

Reports were given on the Thanksgiving Basket which was taken to a needy family here. Proceeds from ticket sales to a half beef will be given to Girls town USA. Tickets for members to sell were distributed.

Announcements were made concerning the pledge training meeting this week in the home of Mrs. James Lee. The annual Christmas party will be held Dec. 13, with members and pledges exchanging gifts.

The program, awareness of blessing, was given by Mmes. Ronald Beard and June Manley, who showed a film. Hostesses were Mmes. Betty Stout and Robert Benyshek. The table was accented with a large candle, and small red sachet pillows.

Refreshments were served to members and pledges.

Attending were: Mmes. Ronald Beard, Warren Chisum, Randy Giesler, Buddy Lamberston, James Lee, June Manley, Charles Snider, Benny Stout, Howard Reed, Robert Benyshek, Carlos Nurez, Jim Hopkins, Lynn Love, Henry Harpley and Bill Morehead.

Christmas Lights Brighten Outdoors

CHICAGO, Ill. (Sp) — Outdoor lighting is "in" for Christmas, 1967, that is.

That's the official word from the man who should know. Albert V. Sadacca, currently noting his 50th year in the Christmas tree light business, and considered by his contemporaries as the undisputed dean of the industry. He and his brothers produced the first electric tree light set back in 1917. Sadacca is the only one of the family still plying the unique and specialized trade.

According to Sadacca, it was the mass move to the suburbs within the last decade which brought about the popularity of outdoor lighting. Prior to the movement, only the well-to-do followed the practice of adorning trees with electric lights, simply because of the economics involved. The lighted trees were always the status symbols along with the then-rare patios and patio tables.

Now, however, notes Sadacca with the multitude of the affluent in both suburbs and cities, adorning trees and bushes with Christmas lights has become part of the "good life."

More than just the current Yuletide status symbol, it is also a reflection of the home's personality. The choice of lighting, colors and decorative objects indicate the individual's personal traits.

Sadacca says that it is easy to determine the personality of the home owner — by studying the types of lights used and the design pattern. The more lights and colors, the more outgoing the individual. On the other hand, a cautious use of string lights in a single color denotes a conservative home which most likely contains a conservative decor throughout the interior of the residence.

"One thing you can count on this year, however, in the way of size," he reports is that mini-lights will dominate both the interior and exterior scenes. Consumer interest in the big bulbs is seemingly diminishing."

Gas range and oven filters can't do a good job of catching grease and dirt unless they are cleaned regularly.

Dear Abby

by Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am so upset. I hardly know how to start this letter. While straightening up my teenaged daughter's room, I came across a letter from a friend of hers in another state. I read it, partly out of curiosity, and partly to determine if it was something which could be discarded.

I was horrified at the filthy language, and also at the girl's delight in having found a theater which shows only dirty movies!

This letter also described family possessions and "vacations," but Abby, I know the girl's parents and correspond with them, and this girl was writing lies.

What should I do? Now I suspect my daughter must be responding to these letters in equally filthy language and since this girl is my daughter's friend, I must assume that my daughter's tastes run toward dirty movies, too.

Don't these kids know that filling their minds and mouths with garbage will do them—no good?

Should I write to this girl's mother and tell her to talk with her daughter? Should I talk with my daughter and tell her what I've learned? Or by age 15, are we too late to shape our children's morals?

A FAILURE
DEAR "FAILURE": If you have done your best to shape your daughter's morals, you need not consider yourself a "failure." Some teen-agers feel "big" and grown-up using gutter language, exaggerating, and even lying a little for effect, but that doesn't mean they are "no good." If they have been properly brought up (and even the best reared children have gone through this stage) they will outgrow it.

At the appropriate time, subtly warn your daughter that mucking around in the lower registers of speech and entertainment can be habit forming. In the meantime, keep the avenues of communication open between you and your daughter, and don't shake her confidence in you by letting her know that you were snooping. You were, you know.

DEAR ABBY: This isn't my problem, it's my sorority sister's. She really is a swell kid, and she's not dumb or anything like that, but she doesn't come over very strong. She's not bad looking, but this poor kid can't seem to get any dates on her own. We've fixed her up with several real sharp guys, but they never ask her out again because she's so quiet. They all say it's like pulling teeth to get a word out of her. Any suggestions?

A. E. PHI
DEAR A. E. PHI: Yes. Get her a date with a dental student.

DEAR ABBY: We have a real problem in our neighborhood. Every morning at 3 our neighbor woman wakes up the entire neighborhood. She is a nurse and has to be at work at 4, so she leaves her house at 3. When she backs out of her garage she honks her horn. Then her husband, who is a doctor, waves to her from the window, she honks again, waves back to him and drives off.

This is terribly annoying to the neighbors, Abby, but they are such lovely people we hate to mention it. If you print this, perhaps they will take the hint. I know they read your column.

WIDE AWAKE AT 3 A.M.
DEAR WIDE: All right. I've done my part. If you get any more honking from Florence Nightingale, call her husband and ask him to give you something for your nerves.

Couple Present Area Assembly In High School

SKELLYTOWN (Sp1) — An assembly entitled "In the Pilot's Seat", which approximately 1,200,000 students are expected to see during the 1967-68 school year, was presented at the White Deer Skellytown High School recently by Mr. and Mrs. Al Otto.

This husband and wife team showed and narrated a modern colored film on the operation of aircraft, career opportunities and position of air transportation in the social and economic world.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto have been licensed pilots for 12 years. Mr. Otto served in the Air Force as a mechanic and crew chief.

Mr. Otto also explained the meaning of general aviation including civil flying and airline planes. He stated there are more than 50 times as many aircraft being operated today in general aviation as by all the scheduled airlines combined.

The assembly is one of three sponsored by the Utility Airplane Council of Aerospace Industry Association. Joseph T. Buetting Jr., manager of the UAC in Washington, D.C., gave these reasons for sponsoring the assembly: "Aviation is such an important part of the lives of young people that they should understand its full potential so they will be prepared for it." Concerning educators of aviation today, he said "As an industry we recognize the responsibility to aid these educators by sharing our knowledge of a specific field."

For Camera Yule Date, Make Up for Beauty

SPECIAL CHRISTMAS GIFT: A new portrait photograph makes a memorable present to family and close friends. Keep your ensemble and your make-up simple so that the photograph won't look dated in a year or two. The final touch in make-up (inset) can be made at the studio to insure a fresh look for the sitting.

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK (NEA) If your most recent portrait stands on the piano and shows you in all the glory of yesteryear rather than the way you look today, it is probably because you're a bit insecure about how you might look by comparison.

Professional photographers report that women between the ages of 25 and 55 are the ones most guilty of this fear. It is foolish fear, really. Because, with the proper preparation, no woman in that age group has to look old today.

Christmas is the perfect time to give a new portrait to your family. It's a meaningful gift they will cherish.

Here's a rundown of what to wear and how to do your make-up so that the photograph will be the success you hope for.

First, allow at least six weeks from the date of your portrait appointment until delivery of the finished prints. Photographers are rushed during the pre-Christmas season. Ask the photographer's advice on colors of lipstick and wardrobe, especially if you are having your photograph taken in color.

Wear something classic and uncluttered, not fussy. You might bring along a choice of outfits and let the photographer pick the best style and color.

The neckline of your dress is important. Be sure it fits correctly and is flattering. Avoid stripes, plaids and loud prints that will detract from your face.

Keep your jewelry to a minimum. A single or double strand of pearls is always good. Today's chunky pins and huge dangling earrings are certainly attractive. But remember that any faddish style in clothes or jewelry will date your picture in years to come.

As to make-up, use a liquid foundation. Pancake or matte-finish foundation will give you a caky appearance.

Use a lighter-than-normal tone foundation to highlight your best features and to cover dark circles under your eyes. A darker tone will minimize a double chin or too round face.

Be sure to blend in the foundations with the rest of your make-up.

For the eyes, a very thin line above the lashes and a little eye shadow are fine, if you use a light hand. Avoid fake eyelashes unless you use them all the time. And if you wear glasses, don't remove them for the camera. The photographer can avoid glare.

This is not the time to experiment with a new hairdo. Wear your accustomed style.

Allow enough time to get to the studio without rushing. Dress leisurely and put the finishing touches on your make-up after you have arrived.

You and your family will be proud of your new portrait — and you won't have to listen to young Jane tell friends, "That was mom in 1967."

POLLY'S POINTERS

Remove Needle Marks
On Silk With Caution

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — I am answering Mrs. W. B. F., who wants to remove needle marks from pure silk. If the silk can be moistened with no danger of spotting, lay the part with the holes on a doubled bath towel. Moisten the area quite generously, let it stand a few minutes and then lift with a hand on each side of the holes and zigzag gently to let the weave move in to its original position. Do not try this if there is any danger of the fabric spotting or of a ring being left on it.

—ANN
DEAR POLLY — I use an old toothbrush to gently brush the threads back to position when needle holes are left in fabric.

—MRS. M. MC

DEAR POLLY — My information is for the invalid who sews and has trouble with needle marks being left in silk. I lay the material on a flat surface, such as the ironing board. Smooth it flat and gently scratch the needle holes with a fingernail, back and forth and across. This usually helps to close the holes neatly. Gently pull the cloth on the bias with both hands and then press.

—ELOISE

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — Do you or any of the readers know of an easy way to remove the wires from an electric blanket? I do not want to use the blanket as an electric one, so I want to remove all the wires, including the plug-in attachment.

—REGINA

DEAR POLLY — My three-year-old brother had a hard time telling the right sandal from the left one. I use a magic marker to make a small red dot on each sandal over the big toe. This really helps him get the right sandal on the right foot.

—A 12-YEAR-OLD BABY SITTER.

DEAR POLLY — Mrs. A. M. wanted to know what to use to clean her windows so they would not look streaked when the sun shines on them. A little hair shampoo added to the water does a marvelous job. I first used this on my car windows, especially the windshield, and it worked so well that I now use it on all my windows and mirrors.

NEW YORK (NEA) — Who ever spread the ugly rumor that sparkle and glitter in high fashion has had it certainly hasn't been doing high fashion homework or reading the latest gilded words that report the collections.

Metallics, glitter and reflections — with a medieval influence — are what's au courant and what's making the scene at AUX Pucees, one of New York's most important-to-be-seen-at spots.

This year's gold digger is the woman who's achieving the gay, sparkling look in a combination of cloth and make-up. She's also digging bronze and knows the romantic value of the current silver standard. The look is definitely 18K elegance.

A turned-on cosmetic house has created the exciting metallic rage for lips and lids to be worn with the newest glitter rags.

The other gloss. For more color with 17,000 rhinestones, costly apply the color side first and buckets of dollars, you can then the silver gloss. For less carry off the rich, rich look color, apply the gloss first and when you co-ordinate shadow and highlight for the eyes as well as the lips.

Metallic-lipstick tones may be worn alone or, when used as mixers over another lipstick, they add a glittery glimmer and gently change the hue. When used under lipstick, they act as a base and help set the color. Three new colors you can mix with the metallics are pink with silver, orange with bronze or flame with gold.

Whether your creation is a copper or bronze tone metallic knit or a satin job embroidered

WITH A COMBINATION of the very new metallic rage lipstick and matching eye shadow, women can achieve an effect that will compete with a costly gown encrusted with 17,000 rhinestones (right) or a copper knit dress (left) that looks like a million but isn't. The metallic matchmakers in lipsticks and eyeshadows come in metal tones of bronze, silver and gold.

Upsilon Chapter Has Music Quiz

Upsilon Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met recently in the Hospitality Room of the Citizen's Bank and Trust Co. with the president, Mrs. Charles Potter, presiding.

During the business meeting a progress report on Miss Letha Moore, whom Upsilon sponsors at the Girlstown Extension in Borger, was heard.

Mrs. Kenneth Freeman reported on the basket Upsilon Chapter prepared and delivered to a family for Thanksgiving.

Mrs. B. L. Stephens presented a program entitled "Music Into Drama and the Dance". As a part of the program, members played a musical quiz. Mrs. Stephens presented prizes to the winner, Mrs. Scott Nisbet and the runner-up, Mrs. Robert Brogdon.

Hostesses were Mrs. Jack Stafford and Mrs. E. C. Jenkins.

The serving table was covered with a sequined cloth. The centerpiece was a large green candle with multi-colored Christmas balls cascading from it down the center of the table.

Mmes. Brogdon, Weldon Carter, Freeman, Glen Gold, D. L. Hinkle, Nisbet, James Ownsby, Potter, Price Smith, Stafford, Stephens, Kenneth Hefflin, Jack Eubanks, Ronald Fox, Jenkins, Edward Orsak and George Wood.

Mary and a Little Lamb

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor
NEW YORK (NEA) — The lambs that lead the top designers to use fur as though it were purest silk are very often South American beauties.

Lammoire, broadtail-processed lamb of fine quality, responds to the magic fingers of a couturier by following every imaginative suggestion. Not only is jewel-like black back in fashion as a reaction to the past rainbow seasons, but also in chocolate brown, fawn tone, palido (a pale beige), champagne and navy.

The curly lambs are important once more on the fashion scene. One reason, of course is the increased use of all fur in every area — from dresses to sportswear to coats and jackets. Another is the flat texture and easy drapability of lamb. These qualities make it ideal for the close-to-the-body silhouettes so much in favor this season.

When trimmed with mink or sable, lamb can have the Russian look, another fashion embraced by designers this time around.

Among the designers who have chosen to work with Lammoire are Pauline Trigrere who has done a theater dress in this fur, trimmed with a satin bow-tied belt.

Alixandre created a dress and jacket in cafe color with white Lammoire contrast at the hem and neckline. And Samuel Raphael combined onyx-black broadtail-processed Argentine

Plan Movie Party For Younger Set

A MOVIE party at home is always a hit with the younger set. The toddlers and preschoolers enjoy Lassie films or cartoons; older youngsters are delighted with the Disney shows and the early Laurel and Hardy films. Films of all kinds are available through film distributors in all major cities.

Movie parties are welcome to mother, with no games or decorations, no supervised activities, no turn-up house. The youngsters sit entranced devouring simple refreshments such as heaping bowls of warm buttered popcorn and lots of tall cool glasses of cola. As an added flavor treat for the kids, toss in some grated American or Parmesan cheese with the popcorn and watch their faces light up with delight.

High on the teen-age girl's "wish list" this year is sterling silver flatware, according to a recent poll of teen-agers.

It was found that 60 per cent of the group hoped to start — or add to — their own sterling sets Dec. 25th. The girls knew what they wanted, too — 93 per cent specified the brand of sterling they'd already chosen as their favorite.

Sterling's not only one of the most exciting gifts a teen-ager can receive, but it has the kind of practicality that appeals to parents and other adult gift-givers, too. For solid silver, despite its new-minted gleam and lovely look of delicacy, is extremely durable. There's nothing to break, to wear out or to depreciate.

If the teen-age girl hasn't picked her pattern, ask the local jeweler to put one each of the pattern folders made available by sterling companies into a gift box. Add a gift enclosure telling her that once she's made her choice, she will receive your gift of sterling.

It's wise to make sure that she visits the store to get the "feel" of the sterling before she's made her final choice; only in this way can she fully appreciate the subtle differences in weight and balance among sterling patterns.

Idaho Housewife Takes Championships Naturally

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — Championships seem to come naturally to Mrs. Lee Mathews, a housewife of Euhl (Route Four), Idaho.

Her braided rugs have taken a number of prizes at regional fairs. And her custard angel food cakes have won first prize in baking contests at the Twin Falls, Idaho, county fair for the last 13 years.

"I've been sewing since I was 11 or 12," Mrs. Mathews said. "The only professional training I had was in high school home Ec and I once took a course in tailoring."

"Most of my sewing has been for the family." The other children are Jill Marie, 20, and Donald, 17.

How about the latest championship? Rosemary Mathews, who learned to sew "mostly by gosh and by golly," took this year's national award in a contest sponsored by the American Printed Fabrics Council. The contest is open to families in the National Grange, the farm fraternity, and there were 50,000 entrants.

Her prize winner was a wedding anniversary present for her elder daughter, Mrs. Lyle Lierman, 22. It's a shocking pink coat, worn over a pink paisley printed sheath dress, the coat lined in the same print, and a cloche-like hat also of the print. Total cost — about $20.

Part of Mrs. Mathews' prize was an expenses-paid trip to New York for her and her husband, a shipyard worker in his native Washington state until he inherited the farm. The trip involved their first plane flight, their first visit to New York City.

During an interview, Mrs. Mathews told about those other contests. She placed first in the state awards and was runner-up last year in the nationals of the grange competition. She won a regional contest in a wool sewing contest.

AT HOME for the holidays in velour slack set makes entertaining a glamorous event. Flared butcher top and button treatment gives a shirtwaist look. Slacks are tapered. This is a Pin-dyck design.

Mother 'Wastes' Time

My eldest looked up from reading the newspaper and said, "It says here an English-woman, Mrs. Hazel Francis, got a master of arts degree with a thesis entitled 'Learning to Talk. She followed her little boy around and wrote down what he said all day. Why didn't you think of that?'"

I should have told him the truth, that I was busy trying to find a way to make mine learn to be quiet, but I was too engrossed in a personal problem.

"When all her children are in school a woman must turn to outside interests," is something I have heard innumerable times, you see, and I have been wasting my time.

I tried a yoga class, having been told this philosophy of physical culture would stretch my mind as well as my spine, but I gave it up when I caught a glimpse of myself in the mirror while doing the lion. Since that class I have joined nothing.

There was a group not long ago trying to get clothes on all the animals in the United States, but this organization is now defunct.

Then I was told there is a push on to see that Bach is never again performed on a piano. Apparently, the harpsichord is THE instrument.

And, I was intrigued to learn, while in Missouri, that a manufacturer in that state has erected the largest purple martin apartment house in the country. I learned that residents of the Midwest are trying to get purple martin to come back in force and eat all the mosquitoes. An old friend, Cliff Robinson, a reporter on the Louisville Courier Journal, confirmed this. He suggested I come and see for myself.

the Drama of DRUGS

by Tom Beard

A recent study by Temple University Medical School in Philadelphia showed that prescription of tranquilizers to school children having trouble keeping up with their fellow students caused marked improvement.

The study was made with sixty boys, aged from four to thirteen, divided into four groups for purposes of cross-checking and comparison.

One group received dummy medication—the second, dummy medication and ten weeks special-reading lessons.

The third group received tranquilizer alone — and the fourth, a tranquilizer and ten weeks of reading instructions.

The fourth group made far more improvement in its reading ability than did any of the other three. Evidently, the tranquilizer relieved the boys' anxiety, or the urge to resist or avoid learning a subject distasteful to them.

1967 'Year of the Goat'

By WILLIAM THEIS
WASHINGTON (UPI)—For the Chinese, 1967 is the "Year of the Goat." Many Americans, looking at this year's performance by Congress, may well say: "It sure was—our year again."

For this first session of the 90th Congress has been marked, in many minds, by a disdain of legislative responsibility and absence of self-discipline that is gagging some of its more concerned members.

The picture is of a Congress: Still struggling with final appropriations in December, midway in the new fiscal year, for a result that spells inefficiency and damaged morale in affected agencies. —Not even apologetic that its dilatory tactics put some federal employees temporarily on half-pay and dealt harshly with workers in the anti-poverty program.

Vietnam Blame
—Blaming the Vietnam war

for its own impotence and disinclination to come to grips with other problems unrelated to war costs, such as legislative ethics.

—Falling down even on the rudimentary chore of improving its own machinery after a House-Senate committee spent two years laboring on minimal recommendations for reform. (Approved by the Senate, the first reorganization bill in 20 years is frozen in the House Rules Committee.

—Lacking the drive or the nerve to shore up its leadership, always a delicate problem.

The leadership situation is much talked about in the House where it is particularly critical because of Speaker John W. McCormack's age (he'll be 76 on Dec. 21) and the health of the Democratic floor leader, Carl Albert. But no one has yet dared to move beyond the talking stage. Only a minority party finds the courage to force such changes, it has been said.

Most of the internal complaints on Capitol Hill this year have been about the "erosion" of congressional power by the executive. There isn't much doubt about the erosion. But few lawmakers have noted the fact that historically, weak Congresses always lose control of events to strong presidents.

Foreign Policy Criticism
Much of the "erosion" criticism has been in the field of foreign policy, and an outgrowth of the American military commitment in Vietnam.

Even though larded with 20-20 hindsight, this part of the criticism is producing what many impartial observers see as a healthy, long-range caution against too-casual military commitments in future years.

Next time there's a Tonkin Gulf type resolution putting the prestige and word of Congress on the line, there may be fewer postoperative complaints that some who voted missed its meaning.

But the immediate worry among those with thoughtful concern about preserving this country's uniquely balanced system comes down to this:

If Congress can be so casual about things this year, how will it measure up in the political storm and urban strife that probably lies ahead in the presidential election year of 1968?

Sanchez Takes Office Oath.

AUSTIN (UPI)—The only victorious Democrat in four special legislative elections this fall has been sworn in.

He is Henry Sanchez Jr. of Brownsville.

Sanchez took the oath of office from Speaker Ben Barnes before more than 100 friends and supporters from the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

He defeated Republican Manuel Sanchez for the legislative seat vacated by Maurice Pipkin, also of Brownsville.

Pipkin resigned to become head of the State Judicial Qualifications Commission.

Pipkin, and Reps. Menton Murry of Harlingen and Bill Rapp of Raymondville and several other legislators were present for the ceremony.

Barnes told Sanchez "The man whose place you are taking has written a very enviable record in this House."

"I know you are capable of doing an outstanding job but I challenge you by saying that you are replacing one of the most outstanding men who ever served in this House," Barnes said.

Heart Surgeon May Come to US

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (UPI)—Dr. Christian Barnard, who performed the world's first successful human heart transplant, said Friday, he may spend Christmas in the United States. He said Louis Washkansky, 55, who received the heart of a dead woman, may get home for Christmas.

Barnard said he would make the 9,000-mile trip to the U.S. only if Washkansky was still doing well.

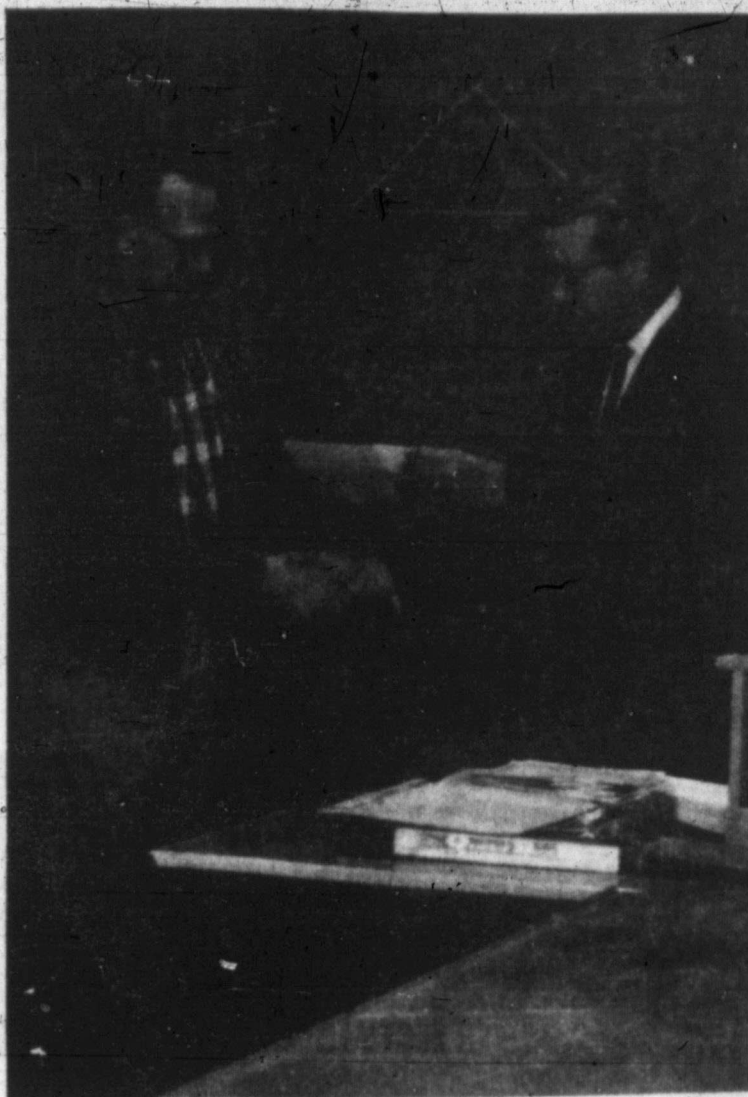

Barnard said he hoped to fly to New York Dec. 22 for a week as guest of a television network, (CBS "Face The Nation"), including a Christmas Eve program.

EXPENSIVE CEREMONY

SWANSEA, Wales (UPI)—It will cost the British government $1.2 million for ceremonies in July making Prince Charles officially the Prince of Wales, officials announced Thursday.

CLAIM INTERFERENCE

NEW DELHI (UPI)—An official investigation was reported underway today into newspaper charges that the Soviet Union spent $2 million in an effort to influence Indian elections last February.

Psychiatrist Compares Slayings

LUBBOCK (UPI)—The slaying of a custodian at Texas Tech Monday, the sniper slayings in Austin and the mass murder of nurses in Chicago were compared Thursday by a psychiatrist.

Dr. Murray R. Kovnar said all three "were unjustifiable but still deliberate."

Whoever slashed Mrs. Sarah Morgan's throat and head had all the appearances of "homicidal suicide" tendencies, said Kovnar, a professor and practicing psychiatrist.

"He is someone who wants to die but hasn't the courage to pull the trigger or do it himself. So he kills someone else in order to have society kill him."

"If properly provoked, I think way."

Body of Spellman Committed to Rest

NEW YORK (UPI)—The body of Francis Cardinal Spellman was committed recently to its final resting place, the white marble archbishop's crypt beneath the high altar of St. Patrick's Cathedral.

While millions watched the services on television, thousands more, led by President Johnson, crowded into the high vaulted neo-gothic cathedral on Fifth Avenue to pay homage to the prince of the church who died last Saturday.

Principal celebrant of the Solemn High Pontifical Requiem Mass was Archbishop Luigi Raimondi, apostolic delegate to the United States and personal representative of Pope Paul VI. Concelebrants were six cardinals from the United States and three from foreign nations; eight other archbishops and bishops, and Spellman's nephew, the Rev. John J. Pegnam, a Navy chaplain.

CLOSE PARTY BRANCH
KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia
 (UPI)—The government Friday closed a branch of the opposition leftist Labor party in branches of the Labor party and the Peoples party were crackdown on organizations suspected of supporting recent race riots.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—House and Senate negotiators have agreed on details of a bill to raise postal rates and the pay of government workers, putting the measure in shape for enactment next week. The two chambers are expected to concur in a final version early in the week, giving President Johnson a chance to sign the bill in time for 2 million federal employees to get fattened checks before Christmas. Postal rates would not go up until Jan. 7. The conference committee also has been working on a companion pay raise bill for servicemen, but only the postal increase-civilian pay measure was wrapped up Thursday. As agreed on by the negotiators, the bill would give some two million government white collar and postal employees pay raises totaling $2.8 billion over three years. Postal workers would get a 5 percent raise.

FISHERMEN RESCUED
KOBE, Japan (UPI)—A passing freighter Friday rescued nine crewmen who had been adrift for eight days in a lifeboat after their 30-ton tuna boat sank 170 miles off the coast of southern Japan.

Center Wrap-Up

George Smith, Director Pampa Youth and Community Center

MEMBERSHIPS: Participation for the most part at the Center is through a membership plan. There are two types of memberships available—individual and family. The individual plan is for those single persons who are at least 8 years of age including adults. This plan costs $5 for six months and $8 per year. The family plan is for families with more than two in them. By purchasing the membership you can include all members of the immediate family and the cost is only $12 for six months or $20 per year. When you purchase any type of membership you're guaranteed the full use of the membership for the time specified. Memberships allow you to use all facilities at open hours. Center hours are 4-10 p.m. Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday; 1-5 p.m. on Saturday and 2-5 p.m. on Sundays.

SWIM LESSONS: One of the privileges of a Center member is to receive free swim lessons. Swim lessons are scheduled at the Center the year around from 4-6 p.m. The program consists of polywogs, beginners, adv. beginners, intermediates and swimmers. Periodically Jr. and Sr. Lifesaving is offered as well as a Water Safety Instructors Course.

All swim lessons consist of a 10 lesson program. Unless notified different all classes start at Mondays and last for 10 meeting dates in a 2 1/2 week period. Each class meets for one hour on Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Fridays. All classes are taught by a qualified Water Safety Instructor.

TEEN DANCES: The Center is now in the process of booking bands for the 1968 year. If you know of a good band, drop me a note and include the address of the band leader so we may contact them. A new list of bands from Lubbock was received this week and we are in the process of selecting the best ones. During the Christmas holidays we will have some extra dances for the young people. On Dec. 20 from 8-11 p.m. the Mojos have been invited to play; Dec. 22 everyone's favorite, ites, the Tiaras; Dec. 26 The popular Cords and Dec. 29 The Texas Tech Jekyl and the Hydes with their Vox Echo Chamber.

FENCING: A note on a relatively new sport being held on Thursday nights is fencing. Classes are being taught by Joe Pafford and anyone interested come out and see what is taking place. Classes start at 6:30 p.m. and last until 8:30 p.m.

WOMEN'S SWIM TIME: The Center is still sponsoring the women's swim time on Monday and Fridays from 10-11:30 a.m. This is a time set aside for the women only to swim and enjoy themselves with no spectators watching. Some of the women have started an exercise period in the gym prior to the swim time at 9:30 a.m. If interested, you need be or become a Center member to participate.

BASKETBALL LEAGUE STARTS: The 1967-68 basketball season kicked off this past week with four games. Scores and high point scorers were: First Nat'l. Bank 48-41 over Richard Drug. Teddy Bird 23 pts. Bob Neslage 13 points. Curtis Well Service 57-43 over Gibson's Discount Center. Bob Branscum 17 pts. Rick Foster 21 pts. Celanese 54-36 over Me-co Const. Bill Cornman 11 pt John Perry 17 pts. Coco-Cola over First Baptist Church 51-41. Buddy Newton 20 pts. Jim Kaiser 21 pts.

Lynda Giving up Glamor Girl Life

By HELEN THOMAS
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lynda Eird Johnson gladly is abandoning a glamor girl life to become a military wife.

— Anyone who's been near the President's 23-year-old daughter in recent weeks can plainly see she's happy and excited about her future as Mrs. Charles S. Robb.

Although heralded by some as bride of the year, she obviously looks forward simply to being the wife of a handsome Marine captain serving in Vietnam.

Lynda spent a couple of headline-making years in the jet set under the tutelage of movie star George Hamilton.

That phase of her life summed things up in a nation that puts a premium on popularity. White House daughters suffer doubly. They are under the gun to make it big.

Immense Rivalry

While Lynda was bringing home all-A report cards during her growing up years, her younger sister Luci was bringing home the boys. The rivalry between the two girls was immense.

But Lynda followed her star as a bookworm, an honor student and a history buff, contemptuous of the fuss and frills that spell femininity.

Only in later years was she able to verbalize the trauma. She did it in print — often in McCall's magazine where she devoted most of her space as a part time writer to reliving some of the painful moments of childhood.

Recently she wrote that when she was 16 and her sister was 13, she received a beautiful nightgown and commented to her father, "Sharp with a keen mind." is the admiring way her future father-in-law, James S. Robb of Milwaukee, describes her.

Previously Engaged
She was engaged to Annapolis graduate Bernard Rosenbach of Luci that she thought she would tuck it in her hope chest. Then it will rot before you wear it," she recalls Luci as saying.

Understood Differences
The parents loved them and understood their differences. To this day however, the President regrets that he once said that Lynda would "always be able to take care of herself" and Luci would "always have someone to take care of her." He knows now it was a mistake to put it that way. He meant it as praise but it hurt Lynda.

Extremely devoted to her father, Lynda openly displays her affection for her father and always has sought his approval. She has kept her feet on the ground and therefore seems more mature than she really is. She is shy, serious and has protected herself through the years with a quick mind and a sarcastic tongue. "Sharp with a keen mind." is the admiring way her future father-in-law, James S. Robb of Milwaukee, describes her.

Previously Engaged
She was engaged to Annapolis graduate Bernard Rosenbach of Comfort, Tex., when she moved into the White House, but broke off after a few months. In the years that followed she dated other White House aides but no one too seriously until Hamilton came into her life.

From then on she underwent a Pygmalion transformation from an awkward schoolgirl into an auring young woman. Lynda and George were a happening that hit the front pages. Holidays at Acapulco and other swank spas, dancing at go go spots and mingling with the international set added a new dimension to Lynda's life. It also landed her on the cover of movie magazines and gave her confidence a needed boost.

Hamilton influenced her to slim down, change her mode of dress, let her hair grow and to walk with grace. She became a dazzling woman with sparkling brown eyes, long brown hair, flawless white skin and a fashionably slim figure. She flashes her dimples when she smiles and applies her make-up with the artistry of a model.

Romance Broke Up
Their romance busted up late last July when Hamilton began devoting more and more time to his career and less and less time to Lynda.

Waiting in the wings was Robb, the White House aide she had dated for several months as an attractive escort, but no more than that.

They both were bridge devotees and found they had a lot of other interests in common. By early August they decided they were in love and, as Robb put it, "wanted to become man and wife."

The Johnsons were delighted. They saw the stars in Lynda's eyes. Robb fit their bill—the ideal man to marry the boss' daughter.

Anticrime Bill Appears Doomed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson's anticrime bill appeared to be doomed for this session of Congress because of a deep liberal-conservative split in the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Key members of the committee conceded that the anticrime bill, and the President's gun control legislation, must wait for action until next year. Each committee faction blamed the other for blocking the anticrime bill.

Sen John L. McClellan, D-Ark., headed a judiciary subcommittee that approved a bill much broader than the administration proposal.

The President's bill would authorize expenditure of $50 million to help local law enforcement through federal grants for improved training of policemen and development of new crime fighting techniques.

McClellan took this measure and began building. He added $15 million for riot control; $15 million to fight organized crime, a section that would have the effect of overturning the Supreme Court's ruling on confessions, and an amendment permitting supervised wiretapping in the investigation of major crimes. Wiretapping is now allowed only in cases involving national security.

The liberals want the anticrime measure returned to the administration proposal. The gun control bill, for which Johnson made a special mid-session appeal, is in even worse shape. The administration measure would ban interstate mail order sales of firearms. Even a concession, allowing states to exempt themselves on coverage of rifle and shotgun sales, has failed to sway the committee.

Week In Review

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Lynda Johnson is the seventh daughter of a U.S. President to be married in the White House. Her father is the seventh President to play the role of father of the bride, a pleasant task he has performed twice in the past year and a half. The first—White House wedding was on Sunday morning, March 29, 1812 when Mrs. Lucy Washington, widowed sister of Dolly Madison, married Thomas Todd, a Supreme Court judge and a widower. The most recent marriage in the mansion was a ceremony during World War II when President Roosevelt's top adviser, Harry Hopkins, married Louise Gill Macy. The nuptials took place in FDR's study on July 30, 1942. Bridgroom Hopkins, involved with the war, quipped: "I'll get a haircut and I'm ready."

Of the presidential daughters, Maria Hester Monroe, daughter of President James Monroe, became No. 1 bride when she married Samuel Lawrence Gouverneur on March 9, 1820. Other White House weddings include Elizabeth Tyler, beautiful daughter of President James Tyler, in 1842; Nellie Grant, daughter of President Ulysses S. Grant, in 1874; Alice Lee Roosevelt, daughter of President Theodore Roosevelt, in 1906; and President Wilson's daughters, Jessie in 1913 and Eleanor in 1914. Johnson and Wilson are the only presidents having two daughters married during their term of office. Lucie Johnson, now Mrs. Patrick J. Nugent, was married at the Shrine of the Immaculate Conception, and held her reception at the White House in 1966.

Survey Being Made for SMU Students

DALLAS (UPI) — Preparations are being made to distribute to men students at Southern Methodist University a survey asking if they favor allowing coeds to visit them in their dormitory rooms. The survey is backed by the Policy Committee of University Men. It asks if they favor allowing women into dormitory and fraternity house—rooms during specified hours and under rules for supervision. It does not say what the rules should be. Bill Fox, SMU dean of men, said students have every right to survey their opinions, and the university will not ignore results of the survey. The survey will be submitted to him when it is completed, Fox said. Some floors have approved visitation privileges, while other floors have indicated they don't want women in their dormitory, Fox said. One student indicated coed visits would mean sacrifice in areas of dress and decorum.

TWO INJURED

ELECTED AND INSTALLED — New officers were elected and installed last night at the annual American Petroleum Institute Panhandle Chapter's banquet in Borger. From left, Leonard White, secretary-treasurer; Bill Singley, third vice-president; Jack Byrd, second

Christmas Sales Up in State This Year

By KYLE THOMPSON
AUSTIN (UPI) — Cash registers are ringing merrily in Texas this pre-Christmas season because of a record labor force which is making higher wages than ever before, a survey showed today.

"I would say we likely will have a record Christmas in sales in Texas this year," said John Stockton, director of the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

"Incomes are high and unemployment is low," Stockton said. "People have a lot of money and savings have been higher than usual all year. I see no reason why this shouldn't be a very good Christmas season."

A survey of the 20 job reporting regions of the Texas Employment Commission confirmed Stockton's report.

The TEC reported at the end of November there were more people working for higher wages than ever before in history. And most workers are getting in longer work-weeks and getting paid more per-hour while unemployment is at a very low mark.

"Total retail sales in Texas in December 1966 were $1.63 billion, with non-durable goods accounting for $1.12 billion of this

Stockton said sales in Texas through October are running about 3 per cent above last year, and added, "I see no reason why this increase should not hold up through the end of the year."

The TEC records showed healthy increases in total persons working in Austin, Corpus Christi, Dallas, El Paso, Fort Worth, Houston, San Antonio and Texas. And most of these areas showed good hikes in hourly wages and total weekly salaries.

Smaller increases in the total labor force were found in Abilene, Galveston-Texas City, Laredo, San Angelo, Tyler, Waco, and Wichita Falls.

By MERRIMAN SMITH
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Backstairs at the White House: An interesting legal situation arises from conviction of a 19-year-old New York high school boy for threatening the life of President Johnson.

The boy, Robert Watts, recently was sentenced in U.S. district court here to four years

Young Texans For Smith Organized

WACO (UPI) — Plans for a statewide organization of "Young Texans for Preston Smith" were revealed Thursday night at an organizational meeting on the Baylor University campus.

Li. Gov. Smith is the only announced candidate for governor of Texas.

Beau Boulter, a former administrative assistant to Smith and an organizer of the Baylor chapter, said groups are being formed at Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Texas Christian University in Fort Worth, the University of Houston and the University of Texas at Arlington.

Boulter said the Baylor meeting was the first in a series planned throughout the state.

He said the organization is fi-probation. What brought him before the court on the threat charge was this:

—In August, 1966, the young man was speaking on the Washington Monument grounds to a gathering sponsored by the W.E.B.-Duboise Club. The court was told that Watts in the course of his remarks said: "If I ever make me carry a rifle, the first man I want to get into the sights of the barrel is LBJ."

Given Probation Term
In the view of U.S. district Judge Burnita S. Matthews, this was enough to warrant a sentence of four years on probation. Probation means that if the young man repeats his conditional statement about aiming a rifle at the President, he would face a prison term.

The defendant told the court he was sorry for what he said; that he "didn't mean anything."

His lawyer, Joseph Forer who plans to appeal the case, says of his client's choice of words, "It is a case of a high school student who made a stupid remark."

Forer's planned appeal will be based on what he regards as the rhetorical nature of the boy's statement.

Dictionary give several meanings for rhetorical—effective skill in use of the language, or "insincere or grandiloquent language."

Private citizens may assume the New York youth was speaking without literal meaning, but there is a serious question whether the same assumption may be made by courts or the U.S. Secret Service, whose agents are charged by law with responsibility for protecting the Chief Executive's life.

Prior to the assassination of President John F. Kennedy in 1963, assumptions in cases similar to that of Robert Watts could be more charitable than in today's troubled national mood.

The Warren Commission was quite critical of not only the Secret Service, but the Federal Bureau of Investigation for not keeping in more effective touch with potential assassins and those identified with vocal or written threats. The special Dillon Committee on implementation of Warren Commission recommendations took the same critical tack.

Background Meaningful
And thus it sees yesterday's rhetoric becomes today's threat, when viewed against the background of Dallas, the Warren Commission, the Dillon Committee and implementation of their reports.

Meantime, what happens to others like Robert Watts?—the recent witness before a congressional committee who spoke of arming himself against his enemies, President and Mrs. Johnson, or peace demonstrators with now-familiar signs, "Where are you Les Harvey Oswald now that we need you?"

The answer would seem to have a lot to do with the caught and the uncaught. In any case, appeal of the Watts sentence should be interesting.

LETHAL SOUP
NAKATOSA, Japan (UPI) — Fugu stew, made from non-lethal parts of the poisonous blowfish, was the special at Yamasaki's Restaurant. Some poisonous parts of the fish were inadvertently included in the gourmet dish and Atsuo Kadoyoshi and Kiyoshi Ikesawa ate it and died.

USEFUL TOOL
MILAN, Italy (UPI) — Mario Grugni had a simple request: he wanted to work on his invention while serving his jail sentence for forging a driver's license. Authorities today declined to let him work on his pet project, a key that could open any lock.

nanced out of the Preston Smith campaign fund.

Thomson Gets Ok to Buy Papers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Department announced today it has dropped objections to the purchase by newspaper magnate Roy Thomson of 13 daily and eight Sunday newspapers in five states.

Terms of an agreement between the government and Thomson, who has extensive newspaper holdings in Canada and Britain, calls for sale by him of the Alliance (Ohio) Review, which he now owns, in return for the government's dropping an antitrust suit designed to block his acquisition of the Brush-Moore newspaper group.

Brush-Moore owns the Canton (Ohio) Repository, largest paper in Stark County, Ohio. The government, in its antitrust proceeding, charged that by owning two of the three dailies in Stark County Thomson would stifle competition.

SEEKS "RIGHT" JOB

LONDON (UPI) — The classified ad in the Times of London told of a lady who wanted a job over Christmas. "Can type, drive, milk cows, drive tractors, school horses, good cook, good with children and animals." A check showed the lady was Pamela Gude, the tall, blonde daughter of a Norwegian diplomat. "What I had in mind," said Pamela, who has an income of $192 a week without the job, "was that I'd meet Mr. Right."

FILED CHARGES

TOKYO (UPI) — The prosecutor's office today filed an embezzlement charge against Shingo Yamamoto, 37, a former Foreign Office official accused of handling over hundreds of documents to a Communist North Korea agent. The charge was deemed best fitted to the crime because Japan has no espionage law and embezzlement carries a 10-year prison term upon conviction, while violation of the national public service law carries only a one-year term.

Road is typical All-American Boy

By MARGARET A. KILGORE
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chuck Robb is the All-American boy type: tall, dark, handsome, athletic, good student, good soldier.

And he can earn a good living for his bride, daughter of the President of the United States. "I think the President will be delighted with Charlie as a son-in-law," says the 28-year-old Marine captain's father, James S. Robb of Milwaukee. "Charlie never broke the rules. We love him and are very proud of him."

The oldest of four children, "Chuck" or "Charlie" — he is called by both nicknames — at one time helped his father run an unsuccessful dude ranch in Arizona, sold newspapers to help pay for his mother's cataract operation, won a college scholarship and joined the Marine Corps through Naval Reserve Officers Training (NROTC).

Well Liked

He is generally respected and liked by everyone with whom he comes in contact. He is considered a "regular guy."

Robb is 6-foot-11½ and weighs 180 pounds. Lynda is 5-foot-9½. If he has any faults — and Lynda says he doesn't — it is that he has a reputation among his friends of being tight with his money, and he reads few books because it takes too much time.

In describing her feelings about her fiancé, Lynda told reporters: "As a girl, you dream of finding the perfect man and you specify what attributes he should have. Then, when you find the right man you fit him to those specifications."

She said Chuck fits all of her specifications.

Robb said he was attracted to Lynda by her physical beauty and became more enamored because of her keen mind and sense of humor.

Meet-Ovvr Bridge

The couple became acquainted over the bridge table when they were paired in a game in the course of his duties as a White House military aide. Robb had known Lynda about a year before they fell in love. He began making a pitch for her hand after she broke up with actor George Hamilton last July.

It was considered typical of him that, in discussing his forthcoming Vietnam duty early next year, he said, "I would like naturally to go over there and be treated precisely the same way had I gone over there under any other circumstances."

He views marriage as "a partnership" requiring mutual love, respect and understanding.

Both he and Lynda want children, "but the time or number we may leave up to a little higher authority."

Sihanouk to Hit Communist V.C.

LONDON (UPI) — Prince Norodom Sihanouk's neutral Cambodia is getting ready to crack down on Communist Viet Cong guerrillas who have been using Cambodia as a sanctuary, diplomatic sources said Friday.

The Viet Cong have presented a growing worry to American troops in South Vietnam in violation of Cambodia's neutrality.

How such a crackdown would be accomplished was not immediately clear but the Cambodian government was said to be anxious to prevent itself from becoming a sanctuary for the Communists.

Americans have already complained about an increasing North Vietnamese buildup in the Cambodian jungles adjacent to the South Vietnamese province of Pleiku. Other indications pointed to a further Communist sanctuary farther south in the Cambodian jungles, along the same border.

EQUALITY POSTPONED

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's eight million working women will have to wait until the nation's economy improves before they can expect legislation to require they be paid as much as men, the labor ministry announced Thursday.

AIRBORNE PETITION

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — A plane showered the Vatican Saturday with leaflets calling for enactment of a divorce law in Italy. The leaflets, entitled "Divorce So as Not to Die," said a magazine has collected signatures of 120,000 Italians who favor a divorce law.

Success and Oklahoma Coach Go Together

By RON CROSS

If Pampa's Junior and Sophomore football players listened to what Oklahoma University football coach Chuck Fairbanks had to say at the Harvester grid banquet Saturday night, if they will retain his message and live by it, the football picture in this town might glow brighter.

"The situation wasn't the best because I had been named to take over for a man who was loved by his state, his players and his school." But Jim Mackenzie had died of a heart attack. Fairbanks was given the job of replacing him. He did and did it well. "That first day of practice our players made my job smoother. They started that day giving 200 percent. We never had a bad practice all year long," the coach said. "We practiced just like we played and any coach can tell you how important this is." "We played every game in the right frame of mind and with the right attitude. "I won't kid you. I didn't think at the start of the season we would finish 9-1. I knew it was possible. Our boys made it possible because they had the right frame of mind. "You juniors and sophomores probably don't realize the opportunity you have facing you. Pampa has never won a state championship in football." "It isn't impossible even though you may think so. If you think you're beaten, you are. Think big and your deeds will grow." "We have a boy on our squad from Pampa and he was very intermental in our success this year. He doesn't have a lot of natural ability but he is one of the main reasons our team led the nation in defense. "Ricky Goodwin has great heart and there are more great plays made from the heart than anything else." Before the banquet Fairbanks held a question and answer session with sports writers and broadcasters. "What can his Sooners, who finished regular season play with a 9-1 record, won the Big 8 title and a shot at the Orange Bowl championship, hope to do for an encore in 1968? "We, of course, hope to have another good club. I think we will. We lost three boys off our offensive team and six from our defensive squad," the coach answered. "What did he know about the rumors he would be offered a five-year contract and a substantial pay raise? "I don't know too much about them. Of course, I've heard them too and I'm pretty sure I'll be offered a new contract, or at least I hope so," the coach laughed. "What does it take to make a successful college football program? "You have to have the backing of your administration, you must have a fine University, such as we have at Oklahoma, you've got to have the backing of your alumni and you've got to be able to sell your university. If you are going to play with the big boys then you must have all the things they have. You must be able to compete with the people you play." "At the banquet Fairbanks left a message that our Junior High players and junior and seniors and we fans as well should remember. If we retain the words he spoke and speak as well, we might be able to help our college program and players. Fairbanks' words came from the heart.

Rogers Wins 'Heart' Award

A Pampa High School senior who displayed as much, if not more, heart, on the gridiron, in the classroom and in his social life, than any previous winner, was awarded the Fighting Heart award by his teammates and coaches Saturday night at the annual Pampa Harvester football banquet. Only three persons received startling ovations from the overflow crowd that filled the high school cafeteria, one of them was the winner of that cherished award, quarterback Dwight Rogers. The other two were guest speaker, Oklahoma University coach, Chuck Fairbanks and Harvester head coach Eural Ramsey, who by the ovation from the crowd was told they appreciated the work he and his staff have done the past two years. Rogers, in tears when he accepted the award, gave all the credit to his teammates and coaches. He departed with the words, "Get 'em all next year guys." A beautiful senior was crowned the 1967 Harvester football queen in the person of Gail Craddock. Her attendants were Sharon Cambern and Sharon Frazier. Master of Ceremonies was Roy McCoy, Sports Director of KPDA television in Amarillo and First Baptist Church minister, Dan Cameron gave the invocation. Coach Ramsey introduced the members of the Shockers and Harvester football team and junior high and high school coaches. Fairbanks left a message with the sophomores, juniors and seniors that they will well remember. "You juniors and sophomores have unlimited opportunities awaiting you next year," Fairbanks said, adding: "Winning or losing is a state of mind. If you think you are beaten you are. Think big and your deeds will grow. Now is the time to get in the right frame of mind for your football season next year. You would be surprised what you can do with the right attitude."

Rams Win on Blocked Kick

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Roman Gabriel passed five yards to Bernie Casey for a touchdown with 34 seconds remaining Saturday to pull out a 27-24 Los Angeles victory over the Green Bay Packers and keep the Rams' hopes for a National Football League Coastal Division championship alive. The winning touchdown came after the crowd of 76,637 at the Memorial Coliseum had been treated to a 104-yard kickoff return by Green Bay's Travis Williams in the third period that kept the Packers in the game. After Green Bay had gone ahead 24-20 late in the fourth period, the Rams' blocked Dorcy Anderson's punt and turned that defensive play into the game-winning touchdown. Tony Gullyory was credited with blocking the punt and Claude Crabo ran it back 20 yards after recovering the ball on the Green Bay five. On first down, Gabriel threw the five-yard pass to Casey in the end zone for the deciding T.D. Williams' return of the kick 104 yards was the fourth time he had run a kickoff back for a touchdown this season, for NFL record.

The win gave Los Angeles a 10-1-2 record and kept it in the running with Baltimore, which has a 10-0-2 mark in the Coastal Division. The Colts play New Orleans Sunday and meet the Rams next week. Gabriel's winning TD throw was his third scoring pass of the game. The tall Rams' quarterback threw two touchdown passes to Jack

Snow. He now has 22 TD aerials for the season, a LA club record. Norm Van Brocklin held the old mark of 20 set in 1957. With Green Bay leading 10-7 at halftime, the Rams went ahead for the first time in the third period when they marched the opening kickoff 57 yards to score with Gabriel passing it to

Los Angeles then increased its lead to 17-10 on Bruce Gossett's first of two field goals. But then Williams put on his electrifying 104-yard kickoff return. He was hit on the 10-yard line by Willie Ellison, spun out of his arms and then ran down the sideline to two touchdowns.

BOND AND COMPANY — Pampa's Beau Bond has two Palo Duro players trying to wrestle the ball away from him. All Ralph Jones (15) and Denny McClain (23) got out of it was a tie ball. Bond scored 11 points in Pampa's 76-54 romp past the Dons. (See story, other pictures, page 27.)

Mildren Sparks Cooper to 42-6 Victory

DALLAS (UPI)—Quarterback Jack Mildren threw four touchdown passes, three of them going to flanker Jon Harrison, and sparked top-ranked Abilene Cooper to a 42-6 thrashing of Richardson Saturday to move the Cougars into the Class AAAA final. Cooper, which has won 13 games this season without a loss, will meet Austin Reagan next weekend for the crown. Mildren took advantage of a strong northerly wind at his back in the first period to pile up a quick 21-0 lead and the Cougars coasted in from there. The Cooper quarterback finished the day with 12 completions out of 24 attempts for 168 yards and the four scores. He hit Harrison with touchdown aerials of 37, 5, and 8 yards and also favored speedy running back Randy Allen with a scoring toss of 21 yards. The other Cooper touchdowns came on a 5-yard run by Keny Stephens and on a 2-yard sneal by Mildren. Richardson's only score came on a 1-yard carry by Mack Rogers late in the second period. All of the scoring came in the first half as Cooper put its ground game into action in the final two periods to run out the clock. The key to the running attack was Stephens, who carried 19 times for 100 yards, most of that in the third and fourth quarters. Harrison, was Mildren's favorite target all day. He wound up catching seven passes for 124 yards and his three touchdowns. Mildren, who also plays in the Cougar defensive secondary, intercepted two Richardson passes from the arm of Bob Dudney. The loss finished Richardson's season at 11-3. Read The News' Classified Ads

Cowboys Host Eagles Today

DALLAS (UPI)—The Dallas Cowboys, a Capitol Division title safely tucked away but sorely needing a victory that would give them momentum for their Christmas Eve play-off game against the Century Division champs, host the Philadelphia Eagles Sunday. The Cowboys also will be shooting for a new season attendance record in their final home game of the regular schedule, but early ticket sales indicated Saturday they would fall a few thousand short of the 68,750 fans needed for a record. The Cowboys drew 473,373 fans last year and through the first six home games this season have had a turnstile count of 404,642. While the Cowboys, now 8-4 for the season, will not have any championship goals at stake, the Eagles, with a 5-6-1 record to Washington's 4-5-3, will be shooting for the runner-up spot in the division race. Too, the Eagles would like to say that they beat the "champs" both games. The Cowboys lost a 21-14 contest to the Eagles in Philadelphia. The Cowboys wind up their regular schedule, next Saturday at San Francisco and Coach Tom Landry has said there will be very little experimenting with reserve players in the final contests. "Everytime you lose, it takes something away from you," Landry said. "I'm hoping that pride will be a factor in our performance." Dallas will play without speedy Bob Hayes, who injured a hamstring muscle in last week's 23-17 loss to Baltimore. The injury is painful, but Hayes could play. Landry doesn't want to run the risk of aggravating the injury. Pete Gent, a flanker last year but a benchwarmer most of this season after Lance Rentzel joined the club to win the flanker post, will take Hayes' starting role. Oakland, Houston To Tangle Today HOUSTON (UPI)—The Oakland Raiders, who have met and conquered the two top contenders in the Western Division, prepared to do the same thing to the two top teams in the Eastern Division when they meet the Houston Oilers in Rice Stadium Sunday. The Raiders, 7½-point favorites, have defeated Kansas City and San Diego the last two weeks to take a 1½-game lead in the Western Division of the American Football League. They can clinch the title with a victory if Miami upsets San Diego. The Raiders will be testing the best in the Eastern Division the next two weeks, the Oilers and New York Jets, who are tied for the lead with 7-3-1 records. Oakland plays host to the Jets next Sunday. The Raider-Oiler game, even though it is the first time in more than five years the two division leaders have met in Houston, is expected to attract only 40,000 to the 70,000-seat stadium. Even so, it will be the largest regular-season crowd of the season, surpassing the former high of 30,000.

Interceptions Pave Way For 20-13 Miami Victory

MIAMI, Fla. (UPI)—Lumbering linebacker Ken Corbin ran back intercepted passes 80 and 45 yards for touchdowns Saturday to shatter a Florida offense led by hometown hero Larry Rentz and give the Miami Hurricanes a 20-13 season-end victory over the Gators. Corbin, playing the last regular season game of his college career before an Orange Bowl crowd of 53,229 and a nationwide television audience, besides picking off the two Rentz passes for scores stopped a Rentz sneak on the Miami 22-yard line and ended a Gator threat at end of another drive at the Miami seven. He also recovered another Florida fumble. The mighty Miami defense made good its pledge to "get to" the slithery Rentz by forcing him to pass for interceptions five times in all. It was the first time Rentz ever lost a game in the Orange Bowl, where he won 17 games as a star at nearby Coral Gables High and as a Florida freshman. Miami safetyman Jimmy Dye ran back a third-period punt 79 yards to the Florida six yard line to set up the Hurricanes third touchdown. Vince Opalsky got the score on a two-yard over eight tackle. Harmon Wages took over at quarterback for Florida near the end of the third period and in the final period passed to Guy McTheny for 37 yards and the first Gator score. Wayne Barfield, who holds the national collegiate record for points after, missed the conversion. But he hit after Florida scored again on a one-yard plunge by Larry Smith that followed a fumble recovery on the Miami 46 and a Wages-directed march. Ray Harris kicked the extra points after both of Corbin's scoring runs, but missed after Opalsky's touchdown.

Buffalo Rout Favored Boston Pats, 44 to 16

BOSTON (UPI)—The Buffalo Bills converted six pass interceptions into 27 points Saturday and took charge of third place in the American Football League's Eastern Division in a 44-16 rout of the favored Boston Patriots. Buffalo defenders Tom Janik and Marty Schottenheimer set the interception pace as both Don Trull and Babe Parrilli were picked off three times each. Janik ran one of his interceptions back 39 yards for a touchdown and Schottenheimer traveled 45 yards for another score as the pair, with the help of kicker Mike Mercer, accounted for 14 points. The other interceptions, including one by 290-pound Dud Meredith set up another Bill touchdown and two field goals. Jack Kemp passed seven yards to halfback Keith Giffin for one touchdown and boot legged the ball three yards for another score. Wray Carlton ran five yards for a touchdown and Mercer accounted for 14 points with five conversions and field goals of 12, 11 and 23 yards. The Patriots were limited to two touchdowns in the second and fourth quarters. Trull ran seven yards for the second-quarter score and fired a 25-yard pass to rookie flanker Bobby Leo with five seconds remaining for the other touchdown. Leo, a former Harvard star, was playing in his first pro game and was outstanding both on offense and returning kicks. Kemp, Lincoln and Carlton all were injured and knocked out of the game early. Kemp hurt his leg, Carlton his ribs and Lincoln suffered a broken nose and a cut under the eye after being outstanding through the first half. Meredith teamed with fellow defender Paul Guidry for the strangest interception of the day. Guidry hit Parrilli as he attempted to pass late in the third period and the ball went straight up in the air. Meredith rumbled under it and trotted 17 yards to the Patriots eight-yard line to set up Mercer's second field goal.

Cleveland-Cards Duel In Contest for Title

By FRED MAMANE
UPI Sports Writer
It's bigger than Lynda Bird, and that's saying a lot. There won't be too many times a professional football game will preempt the marriage of the daughter of the President of the United States on television, but today's game between the Green Bay Packers and the Los Angeles Rams has that honor. This crucial game between the Packers and the Rams is nationally televised by CBS-TV Saturday during the same time that Linda Bird was exchanging marital vows with Marine captain Charles Robb on the other major TV networks. In Texas, Too Even her daddy's television station in her hometown of Austin, Tex., (KTBC-TV) had to carry the game instead of the wedding since it is an affiliate of CBS. The Colts, who lead the National Football League's Coastal Division with a 10-0-2 record, meet lowly New Orleans on Sunday in what should be an easy victory for them. The Rams (9-1-2) are faced with the supreme task of winning today to keep their division hopes alive.

Could Clinch Title

By beating Green Bay the Rams would be assured of being no worse than one game behind Baltimore going into their Dec. 17 showdown. If they lose then the Colts could clinch the division title by beating the Saints Sunday.

The remainder of the week's NFL activity will be played on Sunday. Baltimore is at New Orleans, Minnesota at Chicago, Cleveland at St. Louis, Philadelphia at Dallas, Washington at Pittsburgh, Detroit at New York and San Francisco at Atlanta. Other than the Baltimore-New Orleans game the most important Sunday contest is the Cleveland-St. Louis clash. A victory by the Cardinals would cut the Browns' lead to one-half game and make for an exciting finish on the final week. This one is rated a tossup.

Baltimore is a 19-point choice to defeat New Orleans and tie a league record for the longest unbeaten string in a season; Chicago is an eight-point choice over Minnesota; Dallas is a nine-point choice over Philadelphia; Washington is a three-point pick over Pittsburgh; New York is a seven-point pick over Detroit and San Francisco is a five-point choice over Atlanta.

ANOTHER FIGHT CHICAGO (UPI)—Promoter Irv Schoenwald said Friday that Mexican heavyweight champion Manuel Ramos has agreed to fight Floyd Patterson in Chicago in late January or early February. Piston's Dave Bing 'Quick-Draw' Artist

NEW YORK (NEA)—There is a legion of sports fans in America that would rather watch endless parades of elephants in "Aida" than see endless scoring in National Basketball Association games. To them, pro basketball is even more soporific than an opera. Others, though, view pro ball as a contest which combines the best and most demanding aspects of physical prowess. It is a game of endurance, power, intricate skill, speed, timing and split-second decisions. Dave Bing of the Detroit Pistons, the newest superstar in the NBA, exemplifies the grace and artistry that captures the imagination of the latter group. For the most of the early part of this season, Bing has topped the league with a near 30-point per game average. He is also close to the top in assists. Last season when he won NBA Rookie of the Year honors, he averaged 20 points a game and had 330 assists, leading his club in both categories. But these statistics are also sleep-inducing. To see Bing in action, though, is an awakening. The gaunt guard with large sad eyes employs the ledger-main of Mandrake, picking off passes, intercepting an opponent's dribble and shoulder-faking his guard into the front row seats. However, his teammates are often befuddled, too; which is one of his problems. In a recent game against the New York Knicks, Bing stole a ball, went the length of the court with a man on him, went up for the shot, then passed behind his back to teammate John Tresvant, who trailed. The ball bounced off Tresvant's chest. "He sometimes passes off when he shouldn't," said Piston Dave DeBusschere. "When a big man runs all the way on a fast break," said Bing. "I think he deserves the shot." At the beginning of the year, coach Donnis Butcher told Dave to shoot more, that he wanted 25-30 points per game from him. Dave is shooting more but, it seems, still not enough. Bing has the rare ability, on drives and jump shots, to stay in the air for hours, like a puppet on strings from the rafters. Or like Elgin Baylor, from whom he picked up pointers in Washington, D.C., sandlots. "He has created more interest in the game of basketball in Detroit than any single personality," said Butcher. In Detroit, even opera buff sing of Bing.

Flyers Have Star In Rookie Ravell

By United Press International
Doug Ravell, who spent two distinguished seasons in minor league hockey, is making a name for himself this year with the Philadelphia Flyers of the National Hockey League. Ravell recorded his second shutout of the season Friday night as the Flyers regained first place in the Western Division with a 3-0 victory over the second-place Los Angeles Kings. Philadelphia now has a 12-8-4 record for 28 points while Los Angeles is one point behind with a 12-9-3 mark.

Claude La Forge was credited with a goal in the first period and an assist to lead the Philadelphia attack against Kings goalie Wayne Rutledge, who was filling in for injured Terry Sawchuk. Pat Hannigan and Gary Dornhoefer added goals in an 89-second span in the second for Philadelphia.

Only one penalty was called despite hard checking by both teams.

JOHN HADL is having his best year ever at San Diego, and as a result the Chargers are challenging Oakland and Kansas City for the AFL's Western Division championship. The former Kansas All-American is the league's second leading passer.

Jets in Showdown With Chiefs

By United Press International
The New York Jets may have to start their showdown against the murder's row without the benefit of their best weapon—quarterback Joe Namath and halfback Bill Mathis. "Namath, the heart of the Jets' offense, and Mathis, New York's No. 1 halfback, both came down with 100-degree temperatures Friday and might not be in the lineup against the Kansas City Chiefs on Sunday. Namath also has been nursing the thumb of his passing hand that was bruised last week against Denver.

The Jets and the Houston Oilers have identical 7-3-1 records to lead the Eastern Division of the American Football League, but Houston has a slight edge in the opponents that remain on its schedule. After meeting the Chiefs, the Jets still must face the Oakland Raiders and the San Diego Chargers, who are running one-two in the Western Division. The Oilers meet Oakland on Sunday and San Diego the following week, but then they get off lightly by facing the Miami dolphins in the final game.

Big Games

"All of our remaining games are big ones," said Jet coach Weeb Ewbank, "but I feel our players know what they have to do. Our defense has been good all season. It played well against Denver. We gave up only 18 yards passing and 124 on the ground. Our pass protection was good, and our receivers were open. We just couldn't get untracked." Although the Chiefs haven't shown the stuff they had last year when they romped to the AFL title, they still have enough to throw fear into any AFL Eastern Division team. Len Dawson passed for two touchdowns and Mike Garrett rushed for 102 yards as the Chiefs whipped New York 42-18 earlier in the season. The Raiders could clinch the Western Division title on Sunday if they beat Houston and San Diego suffers a high-ly unlikely setback to Miami. Oakland is 10-1 and San Diego is 8-2-1 with three games left for each club. Oakland quarterback Darye Laonica, acquired from Buffalo before the season, turned in his finest performance last week as he completed 21 of 34 passes for 325 yards and four touchdowns in a 41-21 victory over San Diego.

Hewritt Dixon leads the Oakland rushing attack, and Larry Todd and Pete Banaszak have had to fill in for injured halfback Clem Daniels. Flanker Lance Alworth will be out of action when the San Diego Chargers try to keep their Western title hopes alive against Miami. With Alworth out, quarterback John Hadl is expected to concentrate more on passing to ends Willie Frazier and Gary Garrison.

The Dolphins (3-3) can only look forward to next season with their young attack consisting of rookie quarterback Bob Griese, halfback Jack Harper, fullback Stan Mitchell, flanker Howard Twilley, and split end Jack Clancy.

Harvesters Gun Down Dons, 76-54

By RON CROSS
Pesky Palo Duro made pests of themselves for two full quarters Friday night but Pampa got out the bug-killer in the second half and opened the 1967-68 District 3-4A cage season on a winning note.

George Bailey missed his first six shots from the field and Bo Lang, the Harvester's No. 2 scorer behind Bailey, missed his first four, but both had hot second halves to push Pampa to their seventh straight victory, 76-54.

The Dons were so cold in the third quarter they turned white with Pampa outscoring them 13-2 in the first six minutes of play and wound up with a 20-6 scoring bulge for the quarter.

Had it not been for this and Beau Bond's hot hand in the first quarter, the Harvesters might very well have been 0-1 in district play instead of 1-0.

The Harvesters led 16-11 when the third quarter came to a close. The Harvesters didn't come close to their 69 per cent field goal average. They hit but 29 of 66 and had their worst night of the season at the free throw line hitting just 18 of 31.

But again the Harvester defense was at its best in the clutch, holding the Dons to a 25 of 77 field goal shooting average. Leonard Majors of the Dons transfer staff from Carver led both clubs in scoring with 25 points while two of his teammates, Les Cunningham and Fred Jones had 10 and 11 points respectively.

Haynes paced Pampa scorers with 22 while Lang added 18, Beau Bond, 11 and guard Johnny Carlos continued to improve and pumped in 10 big ones.

The victory put Pampa's record at 8-1 while the Dons dropped to 5-2 and 0-1 in league play. Palo Duro led twice in the game, both times in the first quarter and Pampa led three times, going in front to stay at 31-28 on a goal by Lang just 3:31 from halftime.

Palo Duro had managed to knot the score at 28-28 in the second period but the cold spell began moving in and the Dons were never in the game again.

UCLA Has Easy Time With Shocks

By United Press International
It took only one game to remove the doubts about the UCLA basketball team.

The powerful Bruins, billed in pre-season reports as the greatest college basketball team ever assembled, almost wrecked their image for good in their opener with Purdue a week ago when they just barely squeaked out a 73-71 victory in the final second of play.

But coach John Wooden's squad found a return to their home court most invigorating Friday night as they played like the nation's top-ranked team should by crushing Wichita State 120-86. It was the Bruins' 36th straight victory.

Wooden didn't even need his regulars for much of the contest as the Bruins raced to a 56-31 halftime lead by connecting on 60.5 per cent of their field goals. Big Lew Alcindor, who finished with 28 points, tallied 18 in the first half and the reserves took over for most of the second half.

Purdue, on the other hand, found a trip to the West Coast most frustrating as the Boiler-makers were upset by Washington 96-87.

Other Games
In other games involving the top teams, seventh-ranked Princeton stretched its record to 3-0 with a 71-43 triumph over Colgate while sixth-ranked Dayton was upset by Eastern Kentucky 76-75.

Joe Heiser and John Harlow paced the Princeton victory as the Tigers handed the Red Raiders their third loss in a row. Heiser and Harlow each scored 15 points in the game, which took only one hour and 15 minutes to play.

HOOK SHOT — Pampa's Alvin Achord tries a hook shot that missed, but the Pampa senior was fouled by Palo Duro's Leonard Majors and sank both free throws to help lead Pampa to a 76-54 victory.

Charity Line is Charity for Costello

By United Press International
Larry Costello, the last of the twohanded set shooters and the oldest player in the National Basketball Association at 36, can do something Wilt Chamberlain can't—hit from the foul line.

The 6-foot-1 former Niagara star hit only one field goal but made eight of 10 free throws, including four straight, to help the Philadelphia 76ers trip the New York Knickerbockers 117-109 Saturday night. After he hit four in a row in the last minute to give the 76ers a 114-105 lead, he then passed off the Chamberlain, who made good on his specialty—a dunker—after New York's Cazzie Russell converted two fouls.

Chamberlain finished with 26 points and Eddy Cunningham 25 while Dick Barnett scored 26 and Russell 24 for New York. Philadelphia remained one-half game behind Boston as the Celtics defeated the Baltimore Bullets 123-108.

In other NBA games, St. Louis is downed Cincinnati 101-85; Los Angeles ripped Detroit 115-103; San Diego upset San Francisco for the second straight game, 137-107 and Chicago edged Seattle 115-114.

CLEARED FOR PLAY
NEW YORK (UPI) — Art Heyman, recently traded by New Jersey to the Pittsburgh Steelers, has received court clearance to continue playing in the American Basketball Association. A request made by the Hartford Capitols of the Eastern League, for whom Heyman played last year, that he and the Americans be enjoined was turned down by Judge Walter R. Mansfield of the United States District Court, seventh district of New York.

Seguin Falls In Playoffs

By United Press International
El Campo, Clifton and Tidehaven earned their way into the finals of Texas' high school football playoffs Friday night, and will be joined today by five more championship hopefuls.

El Campo came from behind to win its Class AAA semifinal game 21-14 over Seguin. Clifton and Tidehaven advanced into the Class A finals and will play each other next weekend for crown.

Clifton upset Seagraves 20-0 and Tidehaven edged Rogers 6-0. El Campo won its 13th game without a loss in coming back to beat Seguin.

Seguin led 14-7 with less than five minutes to play when a fumble on its own 19-yard line turned the game around. El Campo scored quickly with Billy Humphrey going the final two yards.

That tied the game 14-14 and all but clinched El Campo's advancement into the finals since the Ricebirds already led in both penetration and first downs.

Seguin was forced to go for broke on fourth down and failed with El Campo taking over deep in Seguin territory. Billy Joe Polasek scored almost immediately from 23 yards away for the victory.

Jerry Anz was the key factor in Clifton's upset of Seagraves, which had gone undefeated in 13 games until Friday night. Anz picked up 84 yards on 19 carries and scored two fourth quarter touchdowns which clinched the win.

Seagraves trailed by only seven points going into the final period, but had seen drives halted by three pass interceptions and one lost fumble.

The Tidehaven-Rogers contest was mostly a defensive struggle, but senior end Bill Dannels booted well and 27-yard field goals to provide the winning points for Tidehaven, which is now undefeated in 13 outings.

"What did advertising ever do for me?"

Saved your life, perhaps. The National Safety Council says 600,000 people didn't die, thanks to an advertising campaign on safe driving.

Helped save your forests and parks from fire and destruction, too. 10 billion dollars' worth. Thanks to "Smokey the Bear."

Wherever there is human need and despair, whenever help must be rallied, advertising is there to light the way.

This has been the contribution of advertisers, advertising agencies, newspapers and other media to the public good. It has been inspired and directed for 25 years by The Advertising Council. You may not care about advertising, but advertising cares about you.

'Thank You' -- Let's Say It

So Thanksgiving Day is long past. Are we still thankful? Do we say so?

A strong case can be made that the two warmest words in our vocabulary are "thank you."

Spoken sincerely and accompanied by a sincere smile, "Thank you" can be a powerful ambassador of good will. The key word, of course, is "sincere."

A newspaper carrier in a midsouth city never failed to smile and utter an obviously sincere "thank you" when he called to collect for the paper or when he had a chance to deliver the paper in person to the subscriber.

When this boy's father died shortly before the youngster finished high school, his subscribers vied to help him get a job. Today he is well on his way to a successful career, despite lack of a college education.

A motorist almost wrecked his car to avoid striking a small dog which ran into the street. A boy of 10 stood frozen with fright as he watched. Then his face lighted up and he called out joyfully to the driver: "Thank you, mister! Thank you for saving my dog!"

He made a friend of the driver for life.

Every day can be Thanksgiving Day if we choose to make it so. And saying "thank you" — sincerely — is a handy, inexpensive way of making people feel good — including the one who says it.

Seems a shame we ever miss a chance to do it, doesn't it?

Project Build-'em-Up

With all the money we're spending to feed the hungry all over the world, you'd think we could do something to fatten up our own skinny, underfed girls who have to model clothes for a living.

You know, the ones whose pictures are in the Christmas catalogues, we're getting from the big department stores. Did you ever see one of these girls who was fat? Or even on the plumpish side? You bet you didn't.

Models have thin, bony faces and thin, bony bodies. Their cheek bones stick out. Their eyes are sunken and hollow. And you can tell they're worried and unhappy because they hardly ever smile, even when they're having their picture taken.

Notice how often they have to prop themselves up to pose on a fence rail or a tree stump? Why, they're just plain tucked-out from lack of nourishment!

Charity, they say, begins at home. Let's begin it with these underfed girls with the hollow cheeks and pinched faces.

There's Enough Gas-If

If you are a consumer of natural gas, big or little, and you've had any qualms at all about whether our nation's supply will run out, relax. There's plenty at least until 1990, when some of us won't care.

That's the word of the president of the Colorado School of Mines, Orlo E. Childs. Releasing a report by a group of industry experts called the Potential Gas Committee, Childs pointed out that the estimated undiscovered supply is 690 trillion cubic feet. Proved recoverable reserves, according to the American Gas Association, are estimated at 286 trillion. This 976 trillion cubic feet total easily covers the cumulative U. S. needs of 690 trillion estimated for the 1966-1990 period.

There is one IF. The potential, undiscovered supply will suffice if it's discovered. And the key to that discovery is pure economics — if there is adequate incentive. Exploration for oil and gas is a super-risky, costly venture. Tax incentives based on that risk and on the fact that natural fuels are irreplaceable capital is one way of encouraging exploration and a continuous supply.

Ideological and political opposition to such incentives is blind gambling with the nation's economic future.

More Noise Than Substance

Everybody always knows about it. But you could go to church every Sunday of your life, take home stray kittens and help-old ladies across the street forever and never find yourself a celebrity. The younger generation and most particularly the older teen-age section of it are in this position. The lunatic fringe, the so-called "hippies," the LSD trippers and the troublemakers get all the publicity. Every adult should remember that this minority of the younger generation is not indicative of the ambition, intelligence or solid accomplishment of the vast majority of young people.

As a publisher, Mr. Don Robinson of The American Press observes, it might help if publications, "... would tell more about some of the outstanding achievements of young people and stop encouraging the mentally unbalanced by giving them all the limelight."

H. L. Hunt Writes

LET'S NOT DEFEAT OURSELVES

Lt. Gen. Lewis W. Walt, former Marine commandant in Vietnam, said recently, "If we lose the war, it's not going to be out there—it's going to be here at home." General Walt was speaking of the strategy the communists expect will defeat America. Let the overripe fruit fester and fall.

This plan has never been secret. It was announced 30 years ago by Mao, and has been repeated again and again. Under this plan, the communists are less concerned about winning a shooting war than in merely making sure it keeps going. By dragging out the war, they expect to win on the political front in the country of the enemy.

The main objectives of the plan were set forth by Mao years ago: to undermine the morale of the enemy's forces; to mobilize world opinion in favor of the "underdog" communists; to picture the enemy as imperialist aggressors; to use the discontent and war-weariness of the enemy's people to bring about a collapse of his home front.

The question must be considered as to whether this plan is working with respect to the war in Vietnam. Demonstrators on college campuses and at the Pentagon in Washington, D. C., have been hailed by Prummer Pham Van-Dong of North Vietnam as "comrades in arms." Young men entering the armed forces have had obscenities hurled at them by adherents of the New Left. Government officials have been reviled and threatened with violence when they tried to explain why the U. S. is in Vietnam. The public is indebted to General Walt for sounding this timely warning, and it should be heeded.

It's Up To You

Reviewing Our Blunders

Ever since the closing decade of the last century when the United States returned to China our share of the so-called Boxer Indemnity, cordial and friendly relations were maintained between the two countries.

It was a tragedy of gigantic proportions when President Roosevelt allowed himself to be misled by the Lauchlin Curries, the Owen Lattimore, the John K. Fairbanks and many more into turning his back upon our great Asian ally, Chiang Kai-shek, and allowing him to fall before Communist advance.

According to administration insiders, the President revealed his decision to bring at least two Republicans into his Cabinet during a recent White House political discussion.

Taking part in the session were members of the White House staff, two long-time political friends of the President, and a member of Congress with whom the President consults regularly.

UNIFYING THE COUNTRY

After listening to the political views of those present, the President expressed deep concern about the growing division of the country over the Vietnam war and the immediate urgency of doing something about it.

"A new effort in bi-partisanship is needed to unify the country behind our Vietnam policy and programs to defend the dollar," the President stated. "I want your help in finding and bringing Republicans, who support our programs, into the Cabinet posts dealing with these problems."

When one of the participants asked the President what Cabinet positions he specifically had in mind, he replied: "Defense and Treasury."

The President then singled out Scranton, Lodge, and Anderson and referred to the trip as "Republicans under consideration for the Cabinet."

Since the White House meeting, at least one GOP congressional leader has been sounded out by the President, or a possible Republican replacement for Secretary McNamara.

Senate Minority Leader Everett Dirksen, R-Ill., was asked self-government, peace and prosperity. The only hope is that we will learn, and try again.

President Seeking Right Two Republicans To Replace McNamara, Later Fowler, in 'Unity' Cabinet

ROBERT ALLEN PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — President Johnson plans to name at least two Republicans to his Cabinet before the 1968 presidential campaign gets underway.

The first Republican will be appointed in January as Defense Secretary Robert McNamara's replacement. The second will be named to head the Treasury Department later in the year.

Republicans being considered by the President for these important Cabinet posts include: Former Governor William Scranton of Pennsylvania; New York Investment Banker John J. McCloy; Roving Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, the GOP vice presidential candidate in 1960, and Texan Robert Anderson, secretary of the treasury under Eisenhower and a trusted Johnson adviser.

Scranton, Lodge, and McCloy head the President's list of possible successors to McNamara. Anderson is the number one choice to replace Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler when he departs next spring.

According to administration insiders, the President revealed his decision to bring at least two Republicans into his Cabinet during a recent White House political discussion.

Taking part in the session were members of the White House staff, two long-time political friends of the President, and a member of Congress with whom the President consults regularly.

NEW CHINESE ARRIVALS

Congress's liberalization of the nation's immigration laws in 1965 designed mainly to unite families of European immigrants, has unexpectedly led to a flood of Chinese refugees entering the U. S.

According to a preliminary investigation by Representative Michael Feighan, D-O., chairman of a House Immigration subcommittee, more than 17,000 Chinese entered the U. S. during the first year, more immigrants than came from any other country. In previous years the number of Chinese immigrants has averaged less than 500.

In an effort to determine the reason for this influx and learn if it should be stopped, Feighan plans to hold hearings and ask State and Justice Department officials to testify.

Neither department forecast this tremendous increase in Chinese immigrants two years ago when they urged Congress to adopt the more liberalized immigration policy.

In 1947, John L. Lewis withdrew his United Mine Workers from the American Federation of Labor for the second time.

Question Box

QUESTION: A. Are the "central banks" (the federal government "borrows" from the Federal Reserve Banks? B. What are the individual states' sources of credit besides bonds and taxes? C. How safe are federally insured savings accounts?

ANSWERS: A. The Federal Reserve System is somewhat comparable to central banks of other nations. It is a quasi-private, quasi-government organization set up by law which was designed to give the nation an "elastic" currency. When the Federal Reserve purchases government bonds, it is lending the government money. Unless the bonds are sold to individuals, the money that is issued for the bonds adds to the supply of currency in circulation and contributes to the inflationary spiral.

B. We do not know of any other source of credit for individual states other than ability to sell bonds and ability to collect taxes.

C. Federally insured savings accounts rely on the power of the federal government to collect taxes to turn over to the banks and savings institutions in event they are unable to pay the depositors.

Swayed By Passion

(The Freeman)
When a state has weathered many great perils and subsequently attains to supremacy and unchallenged sovereignty, it is evident that under the influence of long established prosperity, life will become more extravagant and the citizens more fierce in their rivalry regarding office and other objects than they ought to be.

As these defects go on increasing, the beginning of the change for the worse will be due to love of office and the disgrace entailed by obscurity, as well as to extravagance and purse-proud display; and for this change the populace will be responsible when on the one hand, they are puffed up by the flattery of others who aspire to office. For now, stirred to fury and swayed by passion in all their counsels, they will no longer consent to obey or even to be the equals of the ruling caste, but will demand the lion's share for themselves.

When this happens, the state will change its name to the finest sounding of all, freedom and democracy, but will change its nature to the worst thing of all, mob-rule.

In 1898, Spain signed the Treaty of Paris officially ending the Spanish-American war and giving Guam, Puerto Rico and the Philippines to the United States.

A thought for the day—Scottish poet Robert Gilfillan once said, "There's a hope for every woe, and a balm for every pain, but the first joys in our heart, come back never again."

to be for peace, but he complains that in all the morass of negotiations or would-be negotiations, he can't find a way. Well, the way is mere child's play: The way to get out of Vietnam is to get out. Period. Leave. Withdraw. Scram. And if the American people were to make this demand crystal clear, I'm sure that Johnson and the Pentagon would quickly find the knowledge of how to get our troops onto troopships and bring them home. The war crowd has been trumpeting the slogan, "Support Our Boys in Vietnam." Well, it seems clear to me that if we are really concerned with the welfare of our boys in Vietnam, the best we can do for them—as well as for the Vietnamese—is to get them out of that death trap and ship them home, and into civilian life.

Then everyone would be happy: Americans and Vietnamese—all except the fanatics who'd be happy to destroy the world rather than allow some Communist somewhere to stay alive. And maybe then we'd get used to a world, which existed not so long ago, where America would not decide the fate of every people and territory on the face of the globe.

Niven Recalls Leaner Years

By DICK KLEINER
NEA Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — A Christmas fable, told by David Niven and related to me by Chad Everett. The two are shooting "The Impossible Years" at MGM and Niven, a marvelous raconteur, told Chad about his early days when he was exceedingly broke.

A generous family befriended him, took him in and gave him a home. Came Christmas and Niven wanted to give them a present to show his appreciation. But all he could afford was a set of gingham napkins. "I gave them the napkins," Niven says, "and they gave me a Studebaker."

But the struggling young actor couldn't afford any more for his new car. It stood in the street for two weeks — "with the red ribbons still around it." Times are considerably better for Niven these days. One of our best actors and nicest people, his talent and niceness have been rewarded financially. After he finishes "The Impossible Years," he's off on his annual vacation.

"I ski for three months every year," he says. "No one can reach me, not even my agent."

He likes "The Impossible Years," a story of a father with a teen-age daughter problem. It is, he says, a good script and there aren't many of them.

"It's a good script, too," he says. "But the editing took everything good out of it and now it makes absolutely no sense."

Chad Everett and young Cristina Ferrare play the juvenile leads in the film. For Chad, this is his last picture under his MGM contract, which doesn't displease him.

Chad is learning chess during the filming, from an expert-director Michael Gordon. Mike says that Chad is a good pupil, "but he's too aggressive, like all youth."

Cristina Ferrare, at 17, is under contract to 20th Century Fox, who loaned her to MGM for this film. She's a tall, beautiful thing who is scared to death.

"I'm scared by all the press and photographers when I go to a premiere," she says. "They keep taking my picture, yet I haven't been in a picture that's released yet. I don't deserve any attention at this point."

But all the people around MGM are sure she'll deserve a lot of attention after "The Impossible Years" comes out.

DAVID NIVEN, shown here with Cristina Ferrare in a scene from "The Impossible Years," can still recall leaner years.

Hollywood Now Uses Girls--Not Canvas

By DICK KLEINER
HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Hollywood's art colony held a paint-in and, apparently because of a shortage of canvas, they used girls.

There were 11 artists and 11 hunkers of bikini-clad girls on the premises—the premises was a local discotheque called The Wheel) and they were all competing for prizes. The paint-in was a preliminary to the Artists and Models' Ball, one of Hollywood's wildest affairs.

Painting a girl in a bikini presents certain technical problems. For one thing, she's ticklish. A delicate brush stroke appears to trigger the tickle mechanism and the next thing the artist knows, his painting is giggling. It's hard to do any close work on a giggling painting.

Another disadvantage to a female canvas is the terrain. An ordinary canvas is flat. A girl isn't. Right away, the artist has problems.

Marvin Miller, of the old Millionaire series, is obviously still haunted by that work, he is still going through his commercial period. He drew a little blonde named Wendy Hollister and put "$1,000,000" across her shoulders, a large and intricate dollar sign on her tummy, and other financial symbols on other sections.

There were many others. Paul Condylis, a local television character, had a model with long blonde hair. It kept getting in the way of his brush. Lennie Weinrib did his girl up like a clown; but she looked sad instead of happy and you really can't blame her.

When it was all over, Marvin

Knife & Fork Club Will Hear Belgian Tuesday

Members of the Knife & Fork club will have the opportunity to hear the winner of the outstanding speaker of the year" at their meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Coronado Inn. Their guest will be Belgian born, Jean-Pierre Hallet, who was twice decorated by the King of Belgium for his meritorious efforts in saving a Congo pygmy race from extinction.

Back in 1943 at 21 and at a lean 240 pounds, 6'5" Hallet was an impressive one-man Peace Corps well aware of the pull of Africa. He had lived part of his childhood there where his father was "the painter of the Congo." After his studies at the University of Brussels and the Sorbonne, he was officially assigned to the Congo as an agronomist and sociologist.

Hallet soon realized that in order to help the natives get their co-operation he first had to be "accepted". Being accepted was no easy chore. These peoples only respect bravery and courage—attributes they found woefully lacking in the white man. To prove to the legendary Masai that he was as brave as their foremost warriors he battled a wild 450-pound lion with merely a crude native spear. Even among the top Masai only one out of three survive this "moment of truth."

His astonishing feat gained him immediate blood-brotherhood with the tall Masai.

Hallet now makes his home in Los Angeles where he frequently is called upon by Studios for consultation on motion pictures that deal with Africa. He is the author of Congo Kitabu, a best seller, and has traveled most of the United States as a professional lecturer.

His subject here will be "Witchcraft, Voodoo and Cannibalism," which includes many of his personal experiences and wherein he tells of the similarities of life among the pygmies and that of "civilization." "Sometimes," he comments rather surprisingly, "I wonder which of us is civilized."

Panhandle Water District News

By FELIX W. RYALS

A thesis in agricultural economics was submitted to the graduate faculty of Texas Technological College by Don Lee Parks in August of 1967. The title of his thesis was "Benefits and Costs of Playa Lake Modification in the Texas High Plains." We are listing some items from the thesis:

(1) Playa lakes in 1965 were the source of 75 per cent of Texas High Plains mosquitoes. (2) A 75 per cent decrease in mosquito numbers would result in a 75 per cent decrease in the number of encephalitis cases. (3) An average of one brain-damaged encephalitis patient from the study area was admitted to a mental hospital every two years. (4) The average medical cost of the severely brain-damaged encephalitis patient from the initial effects of the disease was $2,000.

By July of 1967 most farmers in the Panhandle Water Conservation District had learned that run-off water or playa lake water was very beneficial to thirsty crops. Several squabbles also had arisen over the water from playa lakes that set astride section lines.

Carson County has had three known cases of encephalitis since 1956. Does anyone know how many have occurred in Gray County during the same period?

WATER, Inc.

WATER, Inc. officials met on Wednesday of the past week in Plainview to review the work accomplished by the association to date. Fred Vanderburg, Director of District 5 of WATER, Inc., attended the meeting. District 5 of WATER, Inc. includes Carson, Gray, Roberts, Donley and Wheeler Counties. Vanderburg reported that 14 persons or firms from District 5 had become members. WATER, Inc. released data showing that a total of $98,471 had been collected by the association that was formed to promote the importation of water to West Texas, Eastern New Mexico and Western Oklahoma. John Kendrick, president of WATER, Inc. announced that the association now has a total of 1,114 members.

Washington Bound

Unofficial reports coming out of Austin indicates that Joe Moore Jr., the executive director of the Texas Board of Water Development, will be going to Washington in the near future. He has done a remarkable job in getting the Texas Water Plan closer to the drawing board.

News coming out of Dallas and Fort Worth indicates that a water association covering East Texas was formed during the past week to look after the interests of East Texas water. The Texas Board of Water Development will meet in Texarkana on Dec. 11, according to information released by Marvin Shurbet, a member of the Board. In a report to the Water Development Board made by Dick Stanford, its administrative assistant, the current problem concerning the Cooper Reservoir is near a solution.

Stanford reported that the Dec. 2 meeting in Washington between top level officials from the Water Development Board, Federal Water Pollution Control Administration and U. S. Corps of Engineers made great progress in working out a compromise on the pollution problem. Congressman Wright of Texas arranged the meeting between the groups after International Paper Company halted some preliminary work on construction of its $90 million pulp and paper plant because of the uncertainty of an adequate future water supply.

As a direct result of the meeting the U. S. Corps of Engineers is writing a new draft of the dam and reservoir contract to present to the Texas Water Development Board. This leaves the Water Development Board very optimistic that differences on dilution requirements for pollution control will be resolved. Another tangible result of the meeting was the opening of lines of communication for future negotiations between the concerned groups.

Cotton Allotment Transfer Deadline Is Jan. 2, ASCS Says

Applications for the transfer of cotton allotments for the 1968 crop should be filed no later than Jan. 2, 1968, Gray County farmers were reminded Friday by Evelyn Mason, office manager of the Gray County Agriculture Stabilization Conservation Service.

Notices of the cotton allotment and the projected yield for individual farms have already been mailed to county farmers, so farm operators now are in a position to make their production plans for next season, Mrs. Mason said.

The Jan. 2, 1968 deadline applies to all transfers of 1968 cotton allotments for Gray County farms—whether by sale, lease or by owner.

Locally, transfers may be made only between farms within the county, Mrs. Mason said, since a referendum earlier this year failed to approve transfer of acreage allotments outside the county.

Dam had come to a complete halt several months ago when the Corps of Engineers had requested that a commitment of $3,700 acre feet be set aside each year by the Water Development Board until the year 2080 to insure quality control downstream on the Red River. Federal and State agencies working on pollution problems have assured the groups that improved technology for pollution control is being developed that will take care of the situation.

Cotton Prospects For Future Look Good, Speaker Says

LUBBOCK (Sp1) — Prospects for market expansion, more acres, and greater profits for farmers appear bright in the years ahead, a speaker told the Plains Agricultural Forum here Friday.

Clifton Kirkpatrick, Memphis, Tenn., director of field service, National Cotton Council, noted that the market for fiber is expanding at the rate of a million bales a year in the U.S. and slightly more than that overseas.

The greatly expanded research and promotion effort, spearheaded by the Cotton Producers Institute through the National Cotton Council, is working in cotton's favor in bidding for this growing market, he declared.

He cited West Texas cotton industry leadership for its key role in making this program possible. It figured prominently, he noted, in CPI's organization in 1961 and in the campaign to effect the Cotton Research and Promotion Order.

West Texans, he continued, are active in the administration of the program with Roy B. Davis of Lubbock secretary of the Cotton Board and Howard Alford, Lubbock, vice president of CPI. Serving as CPI trustees are Roy Forkner and Joe B. Pate of Lubbock, J. D. Smith of Littlefield, L. C. Ufford of Tahoka, and Aubrey L. Lockett, Vernon.

Progressive Farmer Names Man of Year For Agriculture

Harris H. Barnes Jr. has been selected by The Progressive Farmer magazine as 1967 Man of the Year in Service to Southern Agriculture. The award was made in recognition of his outstanding work in the field of soybean marketing.

Barnes is general farm manager of Oakhurst Company, a plantation of several thousand acres in Coahoma County, Miss. He is also the newly elected president of the American Soybean Association.

He is a graduate of Mississippi State University, a colonel in the Marine Corps Reserve, and elder in his church and a recipient of the Boy Scout's Silver Beaver Award.

PROMOTION TOUR

Sorghum Producer Back From Europe

AMARILLO (Sp1) — Elbert Harp, Abernathy farmer and president of the Grain Sorghum Producers Association returned home last weekend after a three-week market promotion campaign in Europe as part of a team appointed by Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman to see that everything possible is being done in Europe by USDA to expand the sales of U.S. feed grains.

Harp pointed out that the conclusions of the team were that sales of U.S. feed grains to Europe will continue to be strong in the long run, but will be slow for the next few months due to a 14 percent increase in barley production throughout Europe this year, because of exceptionally good weather conditions.

—The bumper wheat crop, much of which will find its way into livestock feeds.

—Increased production and competition from other countries such as South Africa, Argentina, etc.

—Substitution of other products such as tapioca roots, Russian peabeans, potatoes which are either produced locally or

Agriculturally Speaking

By FOSTER WHALEY

All area farmers from Gray and surrounding counties are invited to the special Irrigation Clinic scheduled for next Thursday, Dec. 14, at the Agricultural Building.

We have some of the best talent on the program to discuss such topics as: (1) "The Present Water Situation" by Felix Ryals; (2) "Developing and Equipping an Irrigation Well" by Wayne Keese, irrigation specialist, Extension Service, College Station, Texas; (3) "Irrigation Methods and Systems" by John Jackson, area engineer, Soil Conservation Service; (4) "Irrigation Water Management" by Arlan Schneider, agricultural engineer, Bushland Experiment Station.

Refreshments will be served.

Cotton Harvest

Henry Lowrance, manager, McLean Gin, advises me that 685 bales of cotton have been ginned to date at the McClean gin. He expects to get 15 more. Cotton prices are somewhat better than in past years. Lowrance says the value of the cotton would be around $90 per bale. This would mean that approximately $63,000 has been brought into the area in new money. Because of the high operating expense, much of this amount has been expended to local business concerns. The farmer retains a smaller profit each year.

Wheat Pasture Condition

Probably fewer acres of wheat are being grazed in Gray County this year than in many years. Most people that are grazing dry wheat are hoping it will last until mid January. Much of it will be gone by January 1.

Wheat Grazing

We hear more and more irrigation farmers talking about grazing their wheat out next spring. We think it is an excellent idea. Some farmers plan to graze the wheat until mid May. There will be plenty of time to prepare the land and get milo planted back on the grazed out wheat land. Jim and Paul Eakin made over 7,000 pounds of milo per acre this fall on land they grazed out last Spring. They got over $30 per acre for their wheat pasture last Spring. This is an excellent way to switch your milo acreage to new ground and get around all the wild plants that are invading your milo fields. We have a large number of producers that exports depends upon the European's policies toward high grain prices and their continued economic growth which will permit more people to eat meat, and high protein diets. Another factor will be their ability to increase domestic feed grain production.

67TH YEAR

Installed irrigation wells three or four years ago. Because of the difficulty involved in rotating acres, many of these farmers have been growing milo on the same ground for three or four years. In addition to grasses invading the milo field, a worse problem is the wild volunteer sorghum plants of all heights.

Another Method

Some producers in the Dumas area are planting early maturing wheats, harvesting early and then burning their stubble. They then prepare their land and plant back to milo. I would not advise this because I believe you would be way ahead economically to go the graze-out route. In the first place most producers that grazed out last year felt they made much more money off grazing than they did trying to harvest the $1.38 per bushel of wheat. We knew of one producer that harvested 200 acres and grazed 200 acres out. He says he was several dollars per acre better off to graze. This year he plans to graze it all out and not harvest one acre of irrigated wheat.
